Fire Destroys Houses Under Construction

Longwood firefighters (right photo) packed up their hoses this morning before the charred ruins of two partially complete houses in Longwood. Arson has not been ruled out in the blaze that virtually destroyed the buildings under construction on Dunhill Lane, fire officials said. Damage from the fire, reported at 12:34 a.m., is estimated at $40,000. Those houses were being built by Florida Residential Communities in the company's Coventry subdivision off E. E. Williamson Road. The roof had just been put on the two story house (left photo) Wednesday. The houses were half completed according to FRC spokesmen. Longwood and Seminole County fire investigators were called to the scene today to investigate.

Blood Bank Shuns Hearing

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Central Florida Blood Bank officials have declined an invitation to participate in a public hearing on blood donation policy called by state Rep. Art Grindle for 10 a.m., Friday, at Altamonte Springs City Hall.

Grindle has said he may sponsor legislation giving people in Florida the right to donate blood designated specifically for the use of a family member or friend.

At the same time, U.S. Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Melbourne, has said that the national blood bank policy will be debated in congressional hearings this fall.

Grindle's hearing Friday is to feature a panel of persons favoring and opposing the blood bank policy that denied Richard Studer of St. Cloud the right to give blood specifically for his seriously ill 11 month old son last week.

Studer said he was concerned that blood from strangers could subject his son to the risk of contracting AIDS or other diseases.

Edward Carr, executive director of the Central Florida Blood Bank, said at the time that policy of the blood bank in Orlando as well as blood banks nationally is to refuse directed donation of blood because it could ultimately endanger the voluntary blood donor program.

While Carr was invited to participate in the panel discussion on the issue, Tedford V. Eidson, chairman of the board of directors of the blood bank, refused, saying the hearing will be "counter-productive."

"We regret that you have set a public hearing on policies of the National Blood Banking Service Communities and more specifically the Central Florida Blood Bank without first consulting with us," Eidson told Grindle, an Altamonte Republican, in a letter.

"The issue of directed donations in which a patient could select his own blood donors and the joint policy of the American Red Cross, the American Association of Blood Banks and the Council of Community Blood Centers discouraging this practice is the central issue of the planned confrontation in the meeting you have called," Eidson said.

"We feel that such a public hearing will be counter-productive in that no solutions can be generated and public perception of the mission of a non-profit, wholly volunteer donor supported community blood bank can only be further confused in the minds of the general public."

Eidson said, "In a spirit of 'come let us reason together', we recognize that the national boards of directors are not the font of all wisdom, nor is the board of trustees of any community blood bank. To this end, we are asking that the American Association of Blood Banks reconvene its task force to explore any suggestions and alternative programs that might be submitted. It is expected that this committee could be convened in the month of September."

Eidson said while the blood bank directors understand the concern that no system is fail-safe, the blood banking community "is not geared to stand by to accommodate all the constraints that would be imposed if directed donation became the norm in providing blood when needed."

"The potential tragedy of the crisis accident victim a long distance from his home who carries a card saying 'I will only accept a directed donation from a member of my family' is very real," Eidson said.

"It must be understood that the obligation of all concerned people is to reinforce fact as it exists in this very grave matter and not contribute a public perception that a volunteer blood supply is not safe. If there is a way to accommodate the person to whom fear is very real, every effort should be made within the existing system of gathering and delivering precious blood. Fear for a few, however, should not be allowed to destroy the volunteer blood banking system that serves us so well," Eidson concluded.

New Keeth Elementary School...getting finishing touches

Allan Keeth...humble

Keeth Keeps Brick From 'His' School

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Former Seminole County School Board member Allan Keeth has a brick as a keepsake of the new elementary school near Winter Springs which bears his name.

A brick may seem like an unusual souvenir but it fits right in line with a Keeth family tradition. He also has a brick from a hotel built by his great grandfather in Spencerville, Ohio a century ago.

Such are the things that appeal to Allan Keeth. For 16 years he served on the school board, something of a modern day record, his former colleagues say. And during that 16 years he helped oversee school district operations in Florida's fastest growing county.

Keeth is a private person, and about the honor of having a school named after him he says, "You feel kind of humble."

His eyes were wide Wednesday afternoon as he toured the school along with School Board members Pat Telson, Nancy Warren and Jean Bryant and Superintendent Robert Hughes, who gave the facility its final inspection. Though the school had no students and many finishing touches were still being added, Board members appeared pleased with the school which will have at least 550 students from redistricting when it opens Aug. 29. It will have an additional 27 students, many former private school pupils, who have registered to attend said Keeth Principal David Sawyer, who was working at the school and met the board members on tour.

"There will definitely be some learning going on here," said Mrs. Telson.

Keeth said he believes his namesake school will be a showcase, much like Lake Mary High School was when it was built three years ago. As a board member he participated in planning for the school.

"We started with everything we've deemed good for elementary schools over the last 15 years," he said. "It has a kitchen, dining area, assembly hall and handicapped facilities. It's the first one in a long time to have all those built in."

The school also has a covered outdoor physical education area with its own indoor storage space, enough ground for soccer and soccer fields and a new lightweight roof system. Its classrooms are designed for 24 students in each class.

During the 1970s the school district coped with growth by closing off school kitchens, lunch rooms and assembly halls for conversion into classrooms. In the past three years, the district has changed direction, looking to build additional schools and to re-open all the facilities earlier closed.

Keeth was defeated for reelection last year by Jean Bryant, a School Board member from 1966 to 1974. An engineer, Keeth says he's "three quarters" retired. His wife, Geraldine, retired as a teacher at Geneva Elementary School this year. Since her retirement, he said the couple has been doing a lot of reading and traveling.

If he had been re-elected, Keeth says he "would have objected" to naming it after himself or anyone else.

"It had not been the policy in recent years to name schools after people," he said. Only Teague and Milwee middle schools, Lawton Elementary School and Crooms High School have been named after people. Lawton was named after the district's first school superintendent T.W. Lawton. Former Assistant Superintendent Walter Teague, who lives in Oviedo, and Superintendent R.T. Milwee, who lives in Longwood are the only other living people who have been so honored. Crooms was named after black educator J.W. Crooms.

"I would have named it after an area," Keeth said. "I'm a traditionalist. It was a pretty good system. It eliminated a lot of controversy. I think the board opened themselves up for a lot of grief."

Since the naming of Keeth, the board has also named a new Sanford elementary school after William and Aleatha Hamilton, retired Seminole County educators with 85 years of experience between them. And the board already has a list of 28 names ready for the next school that is constructed.

Keeth suggests that the board might have done well to name the new Winter Springs school after one of them.

"If they're going to name schools after people, there are many more deserving people."

The new Sanford city park at W. 25th Street and Marshall Avenue will be formally named the Clifford W. McKibbin Jr. Memorial Park and dedicated to McKibbin at a 10 a.m. ceremony Friday at the park.

Work On New Marina At Port To Begin Next Month

There will be a marina at the Port of Sanford after all. Last month, it appeared unlikely that the Seminole County Port Authority would OK a proposal to locate a 196-slip marina at the industrial park. Board members cited a number of questions, including security and a conflict with the original intent of the Port Authority.

But on Wednesday afternoon, the port's board of directors voted 5-1 to permit Sanford businessman Bill McVay to proceed with his plan to construct a $750,000 marina.

Board member David Lanier cast the dissenting vote, maintaining his opposition from last month's meeting. Lanier said he doesn't think the port was ever intended to attract recreational users. He said the marina could prevent a "more compatible" industrial concern from locating at the port.

But the other five board members were convinced by McVay, owner of Strictly Sail in Sanford and general partner in the marina project, that the facility will be an asset to the complex.

Port Authority Executive Director Dennis Dolgner also supported the marina plan. He said the marina will not interfere with barge traffic at the port, will not be a security risk, and is welcomed by all but one of the port's present clients. Benchmark Contracts whose representatives said a recreational facility has no place in an industrial park.

Additionally, Dolgner said, the marina could help attract new clients to the port. The plan approved by the directors Wednesday calls for construction of the marina to begin within six months with the first phase (100 slips) to be completed within a year.

McVay said groundbreaking will begin about Sept. 15 on the first phase which will include, in addition to the docks, dry storage for 30 boats, a lift to put boats in and take them out of the water, and a grocery/nautical store. In the second phase of the project, which is scheduled to be completed by May 1, another 90 to 100 slips, dry storage for 70 more boats, a clubhouse, pool and showers will be built.

The port will receive 10 percent of slip rentals from the marina and five percent of all other marina sales, excluding boats. The port will also receive 12 cents per square foot annually from a lease of 2,700 square feet at the marina, McVay said.

According to Dolgner, the port should receive about $13,000 in 1984, $27,000 in 1985 and $34,000 in 1986.

The lease is for 25 years with an option for an additional 25 years.

McVay said he believes there is a tremendous demand for marina space in the area. He said four local marinas have a waiting list of more than 150 and claims there are many people in the Orlando area who currently keep their boats on trailers in their yards because they can't find docks.

The proposal was originally opposed by Chuck Vogt, owner of Monroe Harbour Marina in Sanford, and Archie Smith, who operates Sanford Boat Works at the Douglas Stenstrom Bridge on State Route 415. Vogt was silent at Wednesday's meeting and Smith was not present.

In other business, Dolgner told directors that site preparation has begun for a new building at the port complex. He said county officials have issued an arbor permit to allow the site to be cleared but no building permit has been issued.

Construction of the building has been delayed for several months because of a dispute between the port and Lake Monroe Utilities about the location of water meters. LMU officials want the port to put all its meters at the roadside and lay new water lines to each of four buildings there. But the directors want meters at each building.

The directors have appealed to the state Public Service Commission to force LMU to allow the port to leave its meters at the buildings. No response has been received from the PSC to the appeal, filed last month by Dolgner. In the meantime, construction is delayed. Dolgner has developed a site plan for the new building which would use a septic tank for sewage and a well for water but the Health Department won't allow construction until the utility says whether it will provide service to the building. By law, the port cannot use a septic tank for its building unless LMU says it cannot provide the service.

Chemical Site Owner: No Need For Alarm

Ordered by the state Department of Environmental Regulation to clean up the ground water of high concentrations of nitrates at a defunct Sanford fertilizer and chemical plant, Spencer Douglass today tried to assure concerned persons that the nitrates pose no real threat to life and health.

Douglass, owner of Douglass Fertilizer and Chemical Co. Inc. of Lake Mary, said "nitrates are what people are eating and breathing everyday."

Insisting that the general public is being alarmed by stories concerning chemicals which are not detailed enough, Douglass said nitrogen condensed and concentrated becomes nitrates and is used on lawns, cabbage fields and golf courses in the same concentration as found in the ground water at the closed plant at 2300 Country Club Road in Sanford.

"People are putting their hands into nitrates to spread it on their lawns, are walking on nitrates at about the same levels as found in the groundwater that we will be pumping out and treating," Douglass said.

DER has ordered Douglass to pump out of the ground water contaminated with nitrates at the rate of 2,000 parts per million, some 200 times the level of 10 parts per million considered normal in state law setting drinking water standards.

Bob Patton, chief chemist for DER in Tallahassee said that a chemical reaction could take place in the water with the presence of carcinogens.

While DER ordered the chemical treating of the groundwater, the state agency could not advise Douglass exactly what the treatment should be, saying it is Douglass' responsibility to find out how to clean up the water.

Douglass said he has been making telephone calls and writing letters around the nation trying to determine how other firms have solved similar problems. "We are looking at the best way to do this," he said, noting that many companies have similar problems.

"Nitrogen is a material that comes out of the air. All materials we use are natural elements."

NATION IN BRIEF

Recovery Pushes Factory Use Capacity To 75.8%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Helped by the economic recovery, the nation's industries operated at 75.8 percent of their capacity in July, the highest rate since November 1981.

The overall rate for manufacturing, mining and utilities benefitted the most by a surge in auto plants that took their operating rate, 77.3 percent, to its highest in four years. That was an increase of almost 7 percentage points.

The heat wave's burden on air conditioning systems helped boost the nation's utility companies to 82 percent of their capacity to produce, the highest since May of last year.

The overall capacity utilization rate seldom approaches the theoretical 100 percent level except in times of war. But the demand generated by the economic recovery is pushing the rate steadily higher.

VFW Backs Rebels

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars has decided to give more than lip service to forces battling the Sandinista government in Nicaragua, voting to solicit money to back rebel forces.

A spokesman said it was the first time in its history the VFW had voted to support foreign "freedom fighters." The measure won unanimous approval this week from the convention's 17,000 delegates.

The resolution passed by the veterans condemned Nicaragua's Sandinista government for failing to live up to pledges made when they deposed dictator Anastasio Somoza and took power July 19, 1979.

The resolution mandates that an advertisement be placed in the VFW national magazine asking for contributions to supply the fighters with food, clothing and medical supplies.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Destructive flashfloods in the West killed three people, the long hot summer drove the mercury toward 100-degrees again today in the Plains and Midwest and hurricane Alicia stranded 50,000 residents of an island city off the Texas coast. Early-morning thunderstorms rumbled through the Midwest, where forecasters said temperatures headed toward the high 90s and possibly 100. Chicago's 98 degrees was only one of 100 Midwest records shattered in the sweltering heat. Torrential rains hit Utah again today, flooding hundreds of basements in the Salt Lake area and blocking Interstate 15. Floodwaters from lightning-laced thunderstorms drenched California, Arizona and Nevada, invading homes and gambling resorts, collapsing roofs and inundating highways. Swirling rainoffs spun motorists into swollen channels, claiming at least three lives. One man died after he veered off a Southern California desert highway in a driving rain, and a Las Vegas, Nev. man was rescued from his sinking car by a policeman, whose patrol car was swept away. San Bernardino got up to four inches of rain in two hours. Mary Rose Martin, 24, was reported missing after her car was swept into a flood-control channel Wednesday night. Two San Bernardino women whose car was swept into the same wash were rescued today. Utah's highway patrol reported rock and mud slides forced the closing of both lanes of I-15 in the Virgin River Gorge, just across the Utah-Arizona state line. Falling rocks hit at least two buses and trapped a third in the deep canyon on a highway between St. George and Las Vegas. A mud slide on in northwestern Utah County swept at least four cars off the highway. There was no report of injuries. Officials in the St. Louis area, where 51 people have died from the heat this summer, Wednesday issued their fourth heat wave warning in six weeks as forecasters predicted continuing 100-degree highs.

Fugitive Lawyer, Convicted Killer Captured

ORLANDO (UPI) — Authorities say someone was sending money to a muscular Tennessee fugitive — convicted in absentia of two prison killings — and the woman lawyer police claim fell in love with him and engineered his escape.

William Timothy Kirk, 36, and attorney Mary Evans, 27, arrested in Daytona Beach Wednesday, were to appear today before U.S. Magistrate Paul Deltrich.

Six FBI agents closed in on the couple as they walked out of a Western Union office two blocks from the Atlantic beaches at Daytona.

"They seemed quite surprised, but they offered no resistance," said agent Jack Martin of the FBI's Daytona Beach office.

"We had information they were going (to the Western Union office) to pick up money," said an agent who asked not to be identified. Although authorities said the tip came from Knoxville, Tenn., they would not discuss who was sending money to the fugitives.

It was the first word of the couple since March 31 when, police charge, Miss Evans, "cool as ice," held a pistol on three prison guards and a psychologist at Oak Ridge, Tenn. while Kirk bound them with packaging tape she had brought with her.

Kirk led a gang of seven white inmates who walked down a corridor at Brushy Mountain State Prison in Tennessee on Feb. 8, 1982, methodically firing into the locked cells of black prisoners. Two were killed and two were wounded.

Kirk, who had been serving 65 years for armed robbery, was convicted in absentia April 29 of manslaughter and sentenced to life in prison. It was the first time in the United States a person was tried for a capital crime while he was still on the run.

Miss Evans met Kirk when she was appointed to defend him in the killings. A week before he was to go on trial, she had him brought from Brushy Mountain to the office of Dr. Gary Salk, an Oak Ridge psychiatrist, for mental tests.

She showed up with a pistol, Salk said. They left the psychologist and the guards bound with tape, took their guns and Salk's billfold, and fled in Miss Evans' car, which they abandoned 15 miles away.

"What I think happened is she fell in love with him," Salk said at the time. "I think you have to consider the male-female aspect of the situation. It's hard for a man in prison to brainwash his lawyer."

Some of Miss Evans' associates disagreed with that, saying they felt she had been coerced to help Kirk escape. Miss Evans' parents have insisted since the time of the escape that they feared for her safety.

"They have been using various aliases and had more than likely been residing in the state since about March or so when the escape occurred," said Dave Stark, a spokesman for the FBI in Jacksonville.

Authorities said the pair was in a two-door, 1977 Ford registered to Lisa Joann Richard, of Sarasota. The phone company said no one named Richard was listed at the Sarasota address on the car registration.

"It's a possibility that that was an alias, but I really don't know," said FBI special agent in charge Lawrence Lawler.

Kirk and Miss Evans both face identical indictments charging escape, four counts of kidnapping, and robbery for stealing money from the psychologist's billfold.

The two were brought to the Orange County Jail at Orlando. Both Kirk and Miss Evans, dressed casually but neatly, were handcuffed and both refused to respond to reporters' questions.

Suspect Sought In Rape Of Casselberry Woman

Authorities today said an arrest is "imminent" in the case of a 20-year-old Casselberry woman who claimed a Sanford-area man raped her Wednesday night.

The woman said the man beat her and sexually assaulted her after taking her to his house. She said the man threatened to kill her and her family if she told anyone what had happened.

"The arrest of a suspect is imminent in this case," Seminole County sheriff's department spokesman John Spolski said today.

Spolski and a deputy's report gave this account of the incident:

The woman told deputies that she was at the Why-Not lounge on Wymore Road in Altamonte Springs at about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday when another man invited her and her boss to a party at another location.

Spolski said the woman had a "slight acquaintance" with the man who is a musician. He declined to release the suspect's name or address.

The woman said she left the lounge with the man to drive to the party in his white sports car. Her boss planned to drive to the party in his car.

The man stopped his car at his house in the Park Ridge subdivision near U.S. Highway 17-92 and Lake Mary Boulevard, saying he needed to pick up some things for the party.

The pair entered the house and the man said he would get what he wanted or he would get his gun and kill the woman.

The man hit her in the mouth several times with his hand and assaulted her and struck her again in the mouth during the assault and told her to "shut up," she said. He threatened to kill her and her family if she told anyone.

After the assault, he turned the water on in the bathroom and told her to wash up.

The two left the house but when the victim noticed he was not driving in the direction of the party she feared he would kill her.

Lake Mary Still Searching For A New City Manager

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

After weeks of going without a permanent city manager, the city of Lake Mary still doesn't have anyone for the job, but commissioners are expected to take one more step toward filling the post tonight when they set up a timetable for interviewing prospective candidates for the position.

The list of 41 applicants has been narrowed to nine. They are: Ronald Allen, Ypsilanti, Mich.; G. Wayne Allgire, Longboat Key; Theodore J. Kaiser III, Lake Mary; Robert L. LePage, Longwood; Mike Liado, Tallahassee; Larry Myers, Orange Park; Kathy Rice, Orlando; J. Michael Szunyog, Port St. Lucie, and Howard Tupper, Gainesville.

Names may be added or deleted from the list at the 8 p.m. meeting which will be held at city hall, 158 N. Country Club Road. The commission will meet in workshop session at 7:30 p.m.

Before the list is narrowed further, commissioners must first figure out what criteria to use to whittle the number down to three or five so they can make the final selections.

The city's first manager, Phil Kulbes, resigned June 30 for personal reasons. Salary range for the position is set at $18,000 to $22,000 annually.

Connie Major has been performing the dual role of city clerk and acting city manager since Kulbes' resignation. City Commissioner Burt Perinichief has predicted it will be sometime in October before a new manager is ultimately named.

In other business tonight, the commission is slated to open bids for waterline improvements on E. Lake Mary Boulevard. Smaller lines will be replaced with larger ones and the line extended.

The commission is also slated to consider an ordinance changing the zoning on Margaret Cammack's six acres of property off Rinehart Road and Anderson Lane from lakefront and single-family residential to apartment zoning.

The commission, under pressure from nearby property owners who wanted the Cammack tract to remain undeveloped, withdrew its initial approval for office commercial zoning and decided on apartment zoning.

Mrs. Cammack agreed to the switch, but warned that office commercial zoning would mean that persons would be using the tract about 40 hours weekly while apartment zoning will mean use of the property 24 hours a day. She said it is impossible to sell the land for single-family homes because of industrial development on Rinehart Road.

An easement and re-entry agreement for a parcel south of Sanford Avenue, abandoned by the city two weeks ago, is also scheduled to be considered by the commission.

jumped out of the man's moving car and was found by Sanford police officers a short time later on Lake Mary Boulevard near the entrance to the Park Ridge subdivision.

The woman was treated in the emergency room of Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford and released.

BURGLAR SCARED OFF
A Sanford woman scared off a burglar early Wednesday when she called out to him as he was attempting to climb through her window.

Jeanette S. Moneypenny, 29, of 1831-A Landing Drive, told police she was awakened at 4:10 a.m. by someone removing a screen from her bedroom window. She said she asked who was there and the man fled into a wooded area.

HERE'S EGG ON YOUR HOUSE
Greg L. Ebbert, 39, of 208 Lyndhurst Court, Longwood, said someone threw eggs against his home between 8 and 10 p.m. Monday. He gave no damage estimate.

HUBCAPS STOLEN
Two chrome hubcaps with a total value of $125 were removed from an Orlando man's 1968 Chevrolet while it was parked in the parking lot of Entenman's Thrift shop on State Road 436 in Casselberry between 9:30 and 9:45 p.m. Saturday.

The victim was Michael Johnson, 23, of 4822 Edmee Circle.

MOTORCYCLE STOLEN
A 1981 silver Honda motorcycle was stolen from the front porch of a Sanford man's home between 11:30 p.m. Sunday and 8:30 a.m. Monday.
Gary S. Hudgins Jr., 19, of 1803 S. Summerlin Ave., said the motorcycle was valued at $1,500.

DISPUTE OVER GAS
A gas station attendant in Oviedo told police that a woman motorist refused to pay for $12 worth of gas he pumped into her car.

The attendant at the Tiger gas station, 887 W. Broadway, said the woman drove up to the pumps at 4:33 p.m. Monday and asked for $20 worth of gas. He said that after he had put $12 worth of gas into her gas tank, she said she had asked for only $1 worth.

The attendant said the woman refused to pay for the gas and he called police. Ann Ray Robinson, 30, of P.O. Box 655, Oviedo, was arrested and charged with retail theft. She was released from the Seminole County jail after paying $100 bond.

BIKE ACCIDENT
A 20-year-old Sanford man received minor injuries when he fell off a dirt bike he was riding at about 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Daryell Linn Armond, of 135 Country Club Circle, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies he was riding his 1979 Honda dirt bike at a high rate of speed in a wooded area west of Country Club Road when he lost control of the vehicle and fell off.

Armond was treated for multiple cuts at the emergency room of Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, and released.

BIKE TAKEN
A Sanford man told police someone removed a blue 20-inch BMX bicycle after he parked it in front of the Poplar Street Grocery store at 9:45 p.m. Monday.

Jeffrey Jones, 30, of 28 Lake Monroe Terrace, said the bike was worth $50.

Don't buy into "The Energy Loser Blues"

Finding a home with the right number of bedrooms and baths is fairly easy. But finding one with the right energy-saving features can be more difficult. And if you're not careful, you'll buy right into "The Energy Loser Blues."

So how do you make sure your new home, condo or manufactured home is an energy winner? The easiest way is to make certain it qualifies for our Energy Saver Award.

To win the Award, a home must top state code standards for energy-efficient heating, cooling and water heating. This means you start saving energy and money from the day you move in.

So don't settle for less. Insist that your new home be an Energy Saver Award winner. And those "Energy Loser Blues" won't come following you.

Ask your builder if your new home will qualify for Florida Power's Energy Saver Award.

Poland's Jaruzelski Wants U.S. Trade Sanctions Lifted

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Four American congressmen said today after a meeting with Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski that his regime must earn the lifting of U.S. trade sanctions against Poland by showing its human rights abuses are over.

The congressmen said they came away from an unprecedented 2½-hour meeting with Jaruzelski with "some sympathy," but they complained they were denied access to Solidarity leader Lech Walesa.

Rep. Clarence Long, D-Md., leader of the four-man delegation, said the Polish Communist Party leader and premier insisted the U.S. sanctions should be withdrawn now that martial law has been officially lifted.

Poland contends the sanctions cost its economy $13.3 billion last year and an estimated $7.5 billion in 1983.

The U.S. sanctions — a credit freeze, revocation of Poland's most-favored-nation trade status and suspension of subsidized sales of agricultural commodities, among other steps — were imposed after Jaruzelski declared martial law on Dec. 13, 1981.

Japan Weathers Typhoon

TOKYO (UPI) — Heavy rains from Typhoon Abby lashed Japan's mid-section for the third straight day today, paralyzing traffic, flooding thousands of homes and leaving two people dead and 27 others injured, police said.

Police said a 72-year-old farmer was found buried in a landslide near his home at Yamanashi prefecture, bringing the official death toll to two.

Another man was reported missing and 27 others were injured in floods and mudslides triggered by the second storm to hit Japan this week.

The meteorological agency said the typhoon lost some of its strength after slamming Atsumi Peninsula, about 200 miles west of Tokyo at about 7 a.m. Wednesday.

Property damage was reported in 15 of the nation's 47 prefectures, leaving at least 2,710 people homeless. Twenty-four houses were destroyed or damaged and about 3,400 houses were inundated, the National Police Agency said.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Legislative Overtime Cost Taxpayers $405,460

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Legislature's overtime work this summer cost only half as much as expected, but the taxpayers still had to shell out $405,460.

A Joint Legislative Management Committee study obtained by the Tallahassee Democrat reveals that the overtime work cost about $20,000 a day, instead of $40,000 a day, the original estimate.

Legislators managed to cut costs by sending most of their district staff home once the 60-day regular session had ended, according to management committee director Tom Wade.

The Legislature failed to finish work on time June 3, marking the seventh straight year of overtime. The regular session was extended 10 days, then legislators worked through three special sessions totaling another 11 days.

The June overtime work cost $405,460. The costs for a one-day special session in July haven't been tallied yet.

Askew Forsees Victory

By United Press International

The unions are fighting against him and for Walter Mondale, but former Gov. Reubin Askew still expects to win the straw ballot at this fall's Florida Democratic Party Convention.

"We are leading among the elected delegates and we feel we'll do better among the appointed and automatic delegates," Askew spokesman Jim Bacchus said Wednesday.

Crime Rate Down Nearly 10%

Graham: State Winning The Fight Against Crime

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham says a 10 percent drop in crime shows legislators acted wisely in raising the sales tax last year to generate more money for law enforcement.

"Florida is fighting back against crime and Florida is winning," Graham said.

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement said Wednesday reported crime in the state dropped nearly 10 percent during the first half of 1983 over the same period a year ago.

FDLE Commissioner Robert Dempsey reported that murders were down 18 percent, armed robberies were down 23 percent and rapes were off 14 percent.

Legislators were criticized when they passed a penny sales tax increase last spring, but the money went to law enforcement and it is now producing good results, the governor said.

There was a 4.4 percent decrease during the first six-months of last year when compared to the same period for 1981.

Reported crime for all of 1982 dropped 4.8 percent compared to all of 1981.

FDLE did not compare crime figures for the last half of 1982 with the first half of this year. It contends that such a comparison would not be valid because of seasonal influences on crime, including the rash of shoplifting and other property crimes usually taking place around Christmas.

Dempsey said 354,627 cases of murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, breaking and entering, burglary, larceny and motor vehicle theft were reported during January-through-June of this year, down from 392,116 for the first six-months of 1982.

Violent crimes were down 10 percent, with murders showing the greatest decrease, 18.4 percent. There were 618 murders during the period.

The overall decrease in reported crime continues a trend that began in early 1982 and followed a decade of crime growth, including dramatic increases at times.

"The dedication and hard work of law enforcement officials and the active participation of citizens in communities throughout Florida continued to be a vital factor in the reduction of crime," Dempsey said.

Graham reacted similarly. "This outstanding record is a tribute to every man and woman who carries a badge and to the fierce determination of Floridians not to accept the role of crime victim."

While crime was down, so was the number of arrests. Dempsey reported a 7.6 percent decrease in arrests, including a 15 percent decline in juvenile arrests.

The value of property stolen during the first six-months of this year was $318.1 million, a 9 percent increase.

Aggravated assault was down 7 percent; breaking and entering and burglary, down 14 percent; larceny-theft, down 7 percent; motor vehicle theft, down 7 percent.

Crime in metropolitan areas was down 10 percent. Suburban crime was down 9 percent. Rural crime was down 33 percent.

Pay Up Or Else

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal employees who have not paid back student loans may get clipped by 15 percent per paycheck until the Department of Education gets its money back.

About 41,000 government workers are being given a chance to pay their debts, which total $65 million.

Representatives of various federal agencies stepped onto a stage in a federal building auditorium Wednesday and received envelopes with lists of their workers identified by a computer as being in default on student loan payments.

There was no envelope for the White House.

Stressing administration interest in the operation, Dr. Edward Elmendorf, assistant Education secretary for post-secondary education, told the agency representatives President Reagan and the Cabinet secretaries are "very serious about this."

Elmendorf said that under a law passed recently by Congress up to 15 percent of the pay or pensions of federal employees in default on student loans may be withheld starting later this year.

Elmendorf said the hit list was made by comparing the records of 10.3 million federal employees with names of student loan defaulters.

"This is not a one shot effort," he said. "It is an ongoing effort."

Magnetic Images In Medicine Proving A Boon In Diagnosis

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A device combining a doughnut-shaped supermagnet and a computer produces unusually clear images of the body's organs without X-rays and can revolutionize the way some serious disorders are diagnosed, a scientist says.

The $1.5 million Nuclear Magnetic Resonance imager, built by Diasonics Inc., is the best diagnostic tool available for diseases of the brain, spinal cord, bones and of various organs in the pelvic region. Dr. Alexander Margulis, chairman of the radiology department at the University of California, San Francisco, said.

"Nuclear Magnetic Resonance imaging has created excitement and anticipation in the medical world for its promise as the first totally non-invasive imaging technique," he told a Society of Magnetic Resonance in Medicine meeting attended by more than 1,500 researchers from around the world.

The technique, he said, "is superior to any other modality in the examination of the brain, spinal cord and cancellous bone," or the part of the bone that has a spongy structure, such as bone marrow.

"Magnetic resonance is superior in examining the brain, whether the problem is degenerative disease, ischemic disease (caused by lack of blood supply to an organ or tissue), trauma or neoplasm (abnormal growth of tissue, as in a tumor)."

The NMR imager, which can produce 15 cross-sectional views of tissue in any direction or plane of the body, also is useful in pelvic examinations, he said, and particularly in the study of diseases of the prostate, urinary bladder, uterus, ovary and vagina.

"It is equally promising to the study of disease processes involving the liver, spleen, pancreas, adrenals and kidneys," Margulis said.

Interpretation of NMR images is time consuming, he said, and in the future, better methods for studying different organs may be developed.

In the NMR imaging process, a patient lies inside a six-foot tunnel surrounded by a superconducting coil of cooled metals that create a magnetic field. As the field spins the hydrogen nuclei in the body's fat and water molecules, the spinning nuclei are exposed to radio waves.

When they stop spinning, the nuclei become a type of "mirror," Margulis said. They return part of the radio signal as an echo, which is picked up by an antenna and fed into a computer, which translates the signal into images.

Don't Reward Repression

Now that Poland's communist government has gone through the charade of a paper lifting of martial law, it wants Western banks and governments to reward this supposed political concession by rescheduling the massive Polish debt. Indeed, Deputy Prime Minister Janusz Obodowski is actually asking for $3 billion in new credits, plus an eight-year moratorium on all repayments of existing principal, plus debt rescheduling extending into the 21st century.

If Poland's creditors — including the U.S. government's Commodity Credit Corp. — grant anything close to these incredible terms, they will be sending good money after bad and rewarding repression in the bargain.

No one is saying so publicly, but the truth is that most of Poland's creditors have concluded that the bulk of the Polish debt will never be repaid. Poland's economy was a basket case even before the authorities decided to crush Solidarity and impose martial law. When Solidarity died, so did any real prospect for the economic reforms that might have boosted Polish productivity and resuscitated the economy.

As it is, only the forbearance of Western banks and governments has kept Poland from outright bankruptcy. Had the Poles been compelled to stick to the original repayment schedules for their $24.5 billion in foreign debt, the Polish government would have gone into default no later than 1981.

There might have been some justification for this leniency so long as Solidarity had even a dim hope of surviving. Now it has none. But Western banks are still inclined to reschedule because it puts off the day they must formally write off the Polish loans. And several Western governments, notably those of France and West Germany, are under intense pressure from their domestic banks to go along.

The Reagan administration would anger some European allies and lots of Western bankers by refusing to collaborate. Still, there are compelling reasons for ending American participation in what now is a program of de facto subsidies for the Polish economy.

Denying new credits and refusing to reschedule payment of the $1.7 billion Poland owes the Commodity Credit Corp. would be an appropriate sanction for a regime that is hardly less repressive today than it was during martial law. The same case could be made for refusing to restore Poland's most-favored-nation trading status with the United States.

Bankers foolish enough to lend more money to Poland should do so at their own risk, and without the backstop of government loan guarantees that so encouraged the flow of Western credits to the Soviet bloc during the 1970s.

Taiwan Tilt

Taiwan's friends in the American Congress have long argued that the United States could maintain a two-China policy: Selling the nationalist government the arms it needs to defend the island even as Washington sustains a cooperative relationship with Peking as a hedge against Soviet expansion in Asia. State Department types tended to doubt the feasibility of this arrangement, favoring instead an accelerating tilt toward Peking.

The Reagan administration, after 18 months of indecision, seemed to opt for the latter view last summer. The State Department then announced agreement with Peking calling for a gradual reduction and eventual halt to arms sales to Taiwan. Now, the administration seems to be tilting back toward Taiwan. And the milder-than-expected protests from Peking suggest that Taiwan's allies in Congress were right all along.

The Pentagon has announced the sale of $530 million in military equipment to Taiwan, the largest annual sale since 1979 and the third largest ever to Taiwan. The equipment, all defensive in nature, includes anti-aircraft and anti-ship missiles, spare parts for Taiwan's U.S.-made fighter planes, and modernization kits for Taiwan's obsolescent tanks.

The sale will be good news on Taiwan, where nationalist officials and citizens alike have feared they were being sacrificed in the interests of a cozier American relationship with Peking. Likewise, conservatives on Capitol Hill should be encouraged at this tangible sign that the administration is honoring both a moral commitment to the 18 million Chinese on Taiwan plus the explicit provisos of the 1980 Taiwan relations Act.

"I'm really not too sure what to make of the Vicki Morgan tape situation."

By Diane Petryk

Anchorwoman Christine Craft, 38, made headlines charging in a lawsuit that she was demoted from her newscaster's job because she was "too old, too unattractive and not deferential enough to men." A jury decided her employer fraudulently told her she was being hired for her journalistic ability and would not have to change her appearance. She was awarded $500,000.

But what about the woman who's case fails to attract national publicity?

She has job rights, too, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

To make women aware of these rights, the department has a booklet, recently updated, entitled A Working Woman's Guide To Her Job Rights.

Here's an example of information the publication provides:

Nora Satty was required to take a leave of absence from her job due to her pregnancy. When she returned to work she was given a temporary position and was denied her accumulated seniority, with the result that she was unable to compete successfully for a permanent position within the company.

Under company policy, seniority was retained during leaves of absence for any disease or disability other than pregnancy. Nora protested the policy and ultimately the Supreme Court held that the firm violated Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 because it imposed a burden on women that was not imposed on men.

According to the Department of Labor, whether you're looking for a job, employed or retired, the working woman's guide has information you will find useful.

When you're looking for a job, several federal laws protect you by prohibiting discrimination in recruitment, testing, referrals and hiring. With a few exceptions, guidelines from the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission say it's a violation to label jobs as "men's jobs" or women's jobs" or to refuse to hire an individual based on the preferences of co-workers or customers. It is also illegal to refuse to hire a woman because she has young children.

When you're actually in a job, a variety of laws protect you from discrimination regarding wages and hours. The Equal Pay Act prohibits unequal pay for women and men who work in the same establishment and whose jobs require equal skill, effort and responsibility. Pay differences can be based on seniority and merit.

Federal laws also protect your retirement benefits. Divorced spouses of eligible workers are now entitled to social security benefits if the marriage lasted 10 years.

More than a dozen federal agencies, as well as state offices, enforce a variety of employment law and practices. A listing of which agency to contact if you feel your rights have been violated, as well as more specifics on how these laws protect you, are included in A Working Woman's Guide To Her Job Rights.

The 54-page booklet also contains numerous case studies to help you better understand what your rights are and know when to seek help. To obtain a copy, send $4.50 to: Consumer Information Center, Dept. 130L, Pueblo, Colorado 81009. You'll also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog, published quarterly by the center, the free catalog lists 200 free and moderately priced consumer booklets.

Reagan Says He's Misread

By Helen Thomas
United Press International
White House Reporter

President Reagan believes that public support for his Central American policy is lacking because of misconceptions and distortions of U.S. goals in the region.

He fails to understand that while the goals are clear — to prevent a leftist takeover of El Salvador and to destabilize, if possible, the Sandinista government in Nicaragua — the methods may be unacceptable and the price worrisome.

In his radio address last Saturday, Reagan said the polls indicate "many Americans are confused about what they are supporting in Central America."

"Unfortunately," he said, "there have been such distortions about U.S. policies in Central America that the great majority of Americans don't know which side we are on."

In remarks to the Veterans of Foreign Wars on Monday, the president blamed the "hype and hoopla" by the media and the "disinformation and demagoguery ... coming from people who put politics ahead of national interests."

His frustration in selling his foreign policy is understandable, as his predecessors could have warned him, but the ambiguities of administration moves and fear that he may deepen U.S. involvement in Central America might keep people from rallying around the flag.

He revealed in his broadcast that his mail is heavily anti-administration on the question of Central America.

He said his staff put together a composite letter of the complaints which added up to:

"Dear Mr. President: The United States has not learned any lessons from history. Refuse to answer the root causes of violence and revolution. El Salvador proves that we continue to support ruthless dictators who oppose change and abuse human freedom. And by refusing to deal decently with the Sandinista government in Nicaragua, we have forced it into the arms of Cuba and the Soviet Union."

Explaining his policy, Reagan said the United States supports peaceful change in Central America but opposes Soviet and Cuban intervention because "they can exploit the problems" of poverty and injustice "to install communist dictatorships such as we see in Cuba."

He insisted the United States does not support dictatorships of either the "far right or the far left." At the same time, the administration had little to say about dictatorships of the far right, including the recent military coup in Guatemala or the beleaguered Pinochet government in Chile.

"We support the elected government of El Salvador against communist-backed guerrillas who would take over the country by force," he said, adding, "The United States opposes the unelected government of Nicaragua."

Motorists In Dark On Transmissions

WASHINGTON — A made-in-Detroit lemon might be defined as an automobile on its way to the repair shop. Sometimes the defects are built in and don't appear for thousands of miles.

Some of Detroit's finest four-wheelers come out of the General Motors plants. But in 1980, the Federal Trade Commission suspected a massive problem at General Motors. The agency filed suit, charging that GM knew of defects in two key components involving millions of its cars, yet did not make the problem public.

One defective area was the THM 200 automatic transmission system, which GM introduced in its rear-wheel-drive models in 1976. Up to 1979, GM had installed 3.3 million of the transmissions in mid-size to full-size models ranging from Chevrolets to Cadillacs.

"We don't feel that the THM 200 family has been subject to systematic defects," a GM spokesman told my associate Tony Capaccio. "It's a good

Gender Gap Irks Some

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The first week in August may be the point at which the "gender gap" became a chasm for the Reagan administration.

As that week began, frantic White House aides were trying to explain away the president's reference to women as "tokens." In a press conference, President Reagan had been asked why no women were appointed to the new Kissinger Commission on Latin America. He responded, in effect, that his administration had done so much for women that there was no need to. But even as they thought they'd defused the "token" backlash, buses transporting more than 1,000 delegates to the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs convention were turned away from the White House gates. The federation's tour, which was scheduled months in advance had been canceled — but no one had told the women's group.

The aides responded quickly: Emissaries were sent to the convention hotel to offer profound apologies, and the delegates were told that Reagan himself wanted to apologize. Could he address the group at the hotel the next morning?

The women were delighted by the gesture and greeted the president warmly — but that warmth turned quickly to shocked silence when, early in his carefully prepared speech, Reagan ad-libbed a remark about "women's place."

The president left after a round of applause that was polite, at best. Polly Madenwald — the group's president and a lifelong and well-known Oregon Republican — told reporters "My indication from what he said was he felt the reason women are here is to create families, and not necessarily to do anything other than that." The speech, she added, was a rather strange one to make before a gathering of businesswomen.

The administration was far from finished with women's issues that week.

Justice Department lawyers were completing a brief to be filed with the Supreme Court before week's end. In it, the administration took a stand on one of the most controversial of women's issues — and that stand, say most experts, would turn the women's-rights clock back a decade.

Title IX of the Civil Rights Act of 1972 forbids sex-based discrimination. For more than a decade, Title IX has been interpreted as meaning that in higher education, schools cannot discriminate by sex in funding, student aid, housing, course offerings or athletics. More important, several administrations said that if discrimination was proven in any of these areas, all federal aid to that institution should be cut off.

Grove City College, a small school in Pennsylvania, has refused to sign a statement saying that it is in compliance with Title IX. No one has accused the school of practicing sex discrimination; however, the Department of Health and Human Services says that it can and will cut off all federal aid to the institution — including federal student loans — if the school refuses to sign a compliance agreement.

The college sued to prevent this, and both the trial court and the Court of Appeals sided with HHS. Now the matter is before the Supreme Court.

In its brief, the Justice Department has sided with the college, saying that it need not sign the statement. However, the Justice Department has extended its position much further: It argues that even if discrimination is proven in one program, it should not lead to a cutoff of federal funds to the entire institution. Rather, says the brief, federal funds should only be denied to the program in which discrimination has been shown to exist.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Robots No Job Threat

A great fear in the country is that automation of factories will produce wider unemployment. It is an understandable fear. It is comforting, therefore, to learn that there are businessmen and economists who believe automation will save jobs, not take them away.

The effect of robots and other automatic manufacturing equipment was the subject of a recent conference sponsored by the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Happily, the consensus of the conferees was that automation isn't a dire threat to employment in the United States.

Robert J. Eaton, vice president for advanced product engineering at General Motors, said automation is "the way to have the greatest work force possible — it will maximize the work force, not minimize it."

Dr. Frank P. Stafford, chairman of the economics department at the University of Michigan, said that automation would offset job losses by lowering the prices of goods so that people will buy more, causing production to rise overall. His comments should be of special interest to the hard-hit industrial Great Lakes region, for he predicted that the region is "on the verge of exceptionally rapid technological change as a new generation of industrial capital is put in place."

Prof. Stafford's most interesting comment was that automation may help the heavy industries and make them more competitive, whereas the electronic industries may have a competitive disadvantage against foreign producers who can go where labor is cheap. He cited the example of Atari, which recently decided to move to Hong Kong.

It is cheering to hear these comments from students of automation and employment. Many people fear social turmoil in the United States as industries are automated to a new degree in the computer era. They fear permanent displacement of hundreds of thousands, if not millions, of industrial workers.

If things turn out as the conferees suggest, American society will be very fortunate. It is unlikely, however, that the change-over will be accomplished without pain. Even if a displaced worker finds a new job, he may have to uproot his family from a community where it has been settled. He may have to undergo difficult retraining, and the change of jobs may mean loss of income. No great technological change has ever been accomplished without difficulty and social stress. Wagon-makers had a rough time when Henry Ford introduced his revolutionary Model T. Nevertheless, change was absorbed in the American social system.

With enough thought and public concern, the next phase in the industrial revolution should be accomplished without imposing terrible agony on the nation.

abnormal frequency."

You might think from this observation that GM was dealing with a transmission that just dropped from Mars and that the company knew nothing about. In fact, GM knew perfectly well what the failure rate of the THM 200 was — but this, the spokesman said, constitutes "proprietary information."

Evidence gleaned from the FTC documents, the Center for Auto Safety and interviews with industry experts familiar with the case shows that the THM 200 had a failure rate almost twice as great as the transmission GM had been using for the previous 20 years. GM engineers, for example, found a failure rate of 25 percent to 30 percent for the 1976 THM 200 transmission at the end of 27 months compared with a 13 percent to 15 percent rate for GM's predecessor transmission.

The tendency of the THM 200 is to fail between 10,000 and 50,000 miles — in other words, usually after the warranty has run out. The average repair cost is $400. Using a conservative 20 percent failure rate, the overall cost to consumers comes to at least $265 million.

An FTC document noted that the agency had received 11,000 complaints about the GM transmission — a number that "surpasses that received in all but one of our product defect cases."

Clearly, GM knew there was something wrong with its new transmission: It identified and corrected about 25 design problems between 1976 and 1980. Yet, as an FTC memo noted in 1979, the company didn't tell car owners of precautions they could take. "In particular," the memo pointed out, "consumers have never been notified of the possibility that special additives might save the transmission from an untimely demise."

States another FTC analysis: "Certainly by late 1977 and early 1978, there was fairly widespread knowledge about these problems within GM."

Thursday's games

2 p.m. Northridge vs. Seaford
5 p.m. Altamonte vs. Manati, Puerto Rico

Herald Sports Editor

TAYLOR, Mich. — Altamonte's Junior League All-Stars have made a habit of the big inning in most of their tournament victories this summer. Wednesday, against Seaford, Del., that habit had to wait until the seventh inning before getting a four-run "fix" to subdue Seaford, 4-1, in the second round of the Little League Junior World Series at Sam Pizzo Field.

"It was like being in a wrestling match," said Altamonte coach Terry Hagen. "It was one, two, ... and the hand was coming down."

But the hand never reached the canvas as Eric Martinez and Chris Brock each supplied RBI singles to move Altamonte ahead and Randy Green boomed a long, two-run homer to nail down the victory.

Altamonte, 2-0, advances to the winner's bracket final today at 5 p.m. against Manati, Puerto Rico, 1-0. In Wednesday's other game, Northridge, Calif. used three home runs by Scott Scibilia to eliminate West Madison, Wis., 19-3. Northridge takes on Seaford today at 2 p.m.

The Juniors, meanwhile, received an outstanding mound effort from lefty Greg Ebbert, who silenced Seaford on three hits and one run over six innings. Ebbert also ripped three hits and it was a ground single by the 13-year old lefthander which ignited the four run outburst in the top of the seventh.

Seaford had taken a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the sixth when errors by Scott Stiles and Ebbert put runners at first and second. Ebbert struck out Tom Wallace but then walked Ed Savage to load the bases. George May then dropped a bunt and third baseman Ernest Martinez forced the runner at home. With two outs, Mike Covey topped a dribbler down the third base line and beat Martinez' throw by a step to score Steve Hodges for a 1-0 lead. Ebbert then induced Erin Kubancke to pop out to second for the final out.

With its backs to the wall, Altamonte came alive in the top of the seventh. Ebbert, who struck out two and walked three while picking up his sixth tournament win in seven decisions, grounded a ball just out of the shortstop's reach to lead off the inning. Hagen then sent Jim Waring in to run for Ebbert.

Lead off hitter, Matt Lange, dropped a bunt down the third base line and was nipped on a close play as Waring took second. Eric Martinez, hitless in his first three at bats, then smashed a single to center field and Waring flew around third and scored the tying run.

"I was just thinking about putting the ball in play," said the lefthanded hitting Martinez. "I said to myself, if I get a fastball, I'm going to try and go back up the middle with it."

On the throw to the plate, Martinez alertly took second, which set the stage for center fielder Chris Brock. Brock jumped on an inside fastball and rifled a single to left field.

Martinez was off with the crack, rounded third, and just beat the tag which was cut off by the pitcher and relayed to the catcher as Brock took second on the throw. "I knew I had to go all the way," said Martinez. "It was hard hit and I knew it was going to be very close."

At that point, Seaford manager Bob Neill brought in shortstop Hodges to pitch to Ernest Martinez. Martinez hit the first pitch up the middle, but the shortstop gloved the ball and threw him out as Brock went to third.

With two outs, Green, who belted two homers in Tuesday's win, dribbled a roller down the first base line while trying to get out of the way of an inside pitch. Seaford first baseman, J.C. Leverage, however, let the ball roll foul, giving new life to Green.

On the next pitch, Green planted a fastball way over the left field fence for a two-run round tripper which gave Altamonte a 4-1 advantage which just three outs to get.

In the seventh, manager Frank Messina, went with lefty Zac Maddox to cement the victory. Maddox got two outs, but was troubled by control problems as he walked two hitters and then went to three balls and no strikes on Wallace. Messina then summoned Waring, who had remained in the game at second base.

"After Zac got in trouble, I knew I'd be next," said Waring. "I thought I might walk him when it was 3-0, but after I threw that first strike, I knew I could get him."

Which he did on the next pitch as Wallace lifted a fly ball to medium deep center field which Brock hauled in to insure the victory.

"Jimmy (Waring) is cool, it doesn't bother him that the game is on the line," said manager Messina. "He was the perfect man for the occasion."

Offensively, Altamonte reached loser Neill and reliever Hodges for 12 hits, but couldn't crack the scoring column. The biggest threat came in the sixth, when Green and Anthony Laszak singled but Green was picked off second when he strayed too far while Matt Messina was trying to bunt.

Defensively, Altamonte used two strong plays to hamper a Seaford rally in the fifth. With one out, Neill hit a scorcher back to the mound which Ebbert grabbed and was knocked down by the force of the blow. The next hitter, Vernon Cephas, rapped a hard ground ball up the middle on which second baseman Stiles made a

Lundquist Keys U.S. Gold Sweep

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Steve Lundquist churned a 1:02.28 to break his own world record time in the 100-backstroke Wednesday, paving the way for a four gold-medal United States sweep on the opening day of the swimming competition at the Pan American Games.

Lundquist, who had qualified only fourth while teammate John Moffet set a Pan Am Games record of

Pan Am Games

1:02.97 in qualifying, went right to the lead and held Moffet off in the final 20 meters to improve on his record of 1:02.34 set earlier this year.

University of Florida standout, Tracy Caulkins, won the women's 400-meter individual medley while Carrie Steinboer won the women's 100-meter freestyle and Bruce Hayes set a new Pan Am Games record in winning the men's 200-meter freestyle.

While United States swimmers swept the first four gold medal events at the Pan American Games Wednesday night, the diving team made a big splash by capturing a gold and silver medal in the women's 3-meter springboard event.

Kelly McCormick of Columbus, Ohio, survived a poor seventh dive and took advantage of a critical error on the next-to-last dive by Argentina's Veronica Ribot to win the gold medal over teammate Wendy Wyland of Mission Viejo, Calif. Sylvie Bernier of Canada won the bronze medal.

"I'm real pleased because I came back and that's one thing I've been trying to learn is how to come back after you've missed one," said McCormick.

The U.S. also earned a gold medal in synchronized swimming as Tracie Ruiz of Bothell, Wash., won the solo event with 190.499 points. Sharon Hambrook of Canada won the silver medal and Ana Amicarella took the bronze.

Earlier Wednesday, U.S. sharpshooters continued to add to their gold medal totals by winning the women's individual and team small bore rifle and pistol events. Cathy Graham, a policewoman from Huntington, Mass., established a Pan American record in winning the women's air pistol event and Wanda Jewell of Wahiawa, Hawaii, took the gold medal in the rifle competition with a Pan American Games record of 572 points.

It was also a successful day the baseball, men's softball and water polo teams. The baseball team rallied from behind to defeat Nicaragua, 9-5; the men's softball team crushed Cuba, 12-0, and the water polo team walloped Colombia 19-3.

CHRIS KESSINGER

BRETT THAYER

Kessinger, Hazen, McLeod Power District 14 Over N.Y.

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — The District 14 (Central Florida) All-Stars put on an awesome display of power Wednesday as Chris Kessinger, Dwane McLeod and Brent Hazen all clubbed home runs to back the solid pitching efforts of Randy Lee (6 1/3 innings) and Dave Meunch (1 2/3 innings) as District 14 rolled to a 6-2 victory over Spring Valley, N.Y. in loser's bracket action in the Big League World Series.

"The sticks are starting to come alive for us," District 14 manager Howard Mable said. "The more we play, the better we become. Right now we will finish fifth in the world if we get eliminated, that's not bad, but we have a good chance of finishing higher."

District 14 will try to stay alive today in a 5 p.m. game against Venezuela. In a winner's bracket game at 7:30, Taiwan goes up against host Broward County. There are just five teams left in the tourney. Mable said he will go with either Darrin Reichle or Meunch on the mound today.

"Venezuela has a very good team," Mable said. "The have a good defense, some pretty big sticks and adequate pitching."

After a scoreless first inning, District 14 broke on top with one run in the top of the second. Kessinger, who kept District 14 alive with a three-run, game-winning homer on Monday, led off with a single but was out when Dean Hazen hit into a force play. Hazen was out when Rob Isner hit into a force play for the second out but Ovedo's Brett Thayer followed with a clutch double to right center on a perfectly executed hit and run play to chase home Isner with a 1-0 District 14 lead.

District 14 came back with one more run in the third to take a 2-0 lead. McLeod hit into a force play and Kessinger then repeated Thayer's footsteps as he cracked a run-scoring double, on a hit and run, down the right field line.

Meanwhile, Lee was breezing through the Spring Valley lineup and he kept the Eastern champions scoreless while District 14 added single runs in the fifth and sixth to take a 4-0 lead.

In the fifth, Brent Hazen smacked a 350-foot solo homer to give District 14 a 3-0 lead and Kessinger gave Lee a four-run cushion when he led off the seventh with a 358-foot homer, his second in two games.

Spring Valley came back to shave the lead to two runs, 4-2, in the bottom of the sixth and threatened to add to it. But, Mable then lifted Lee and brought Meunch on in relief. Meunch put out the fire as District 14 kept its 4-2 lead going into the seventh.

The third homer of the night for District 14 gave Meunch a couple of insurance runs. With one out, Brent Hazen singled and McLeod followed by blasting a two-run homer over the left center field barrier for a 6-2 lead and Meunch closed the door on Spring Valley in the bottom of the seventh to preserve the victory.

San Fran, Dallas Look For Playoff Slot

By Murray Olderman
NEA Sports Editor

Complacency's sure no excuse. San Fran's Bill Walsh and troops descended from euphoria of Super Bowl XVI.

OFFENSE

Even with distractions of fame, broken-down protection and nagging injuries, Joe Montana had productive campaign. He should be reaching peak as pro quarterback. For first time in Walsh regime, 49ers have back with top credentials. That's Wendell Tyler, ex-Ram, who should give them his usual 1,000 yards.

DEFENSE

Injury specter affected pass rush. Dwaine Board went down in opener, missed season; Fred Dean played nicked and wasn't pass-rushing terror. Linebacking badly needs revitalization. Inside force Jack Reynolds may have reached end of line, and Willie Harper on outside isn't far behind. Secondary, fearsome unit of '81 disintegrated. Ideally, Ronnie Lott, All-Pro as rookie, should be playing safety, but they can't spare him at corner.

OUTLOOK

This team's success rides again on genius of Walsh, who's firmly in control now as club president. Prediction — First in NFC West with record of 11-5.

Coach Tom Landry, disappointed by failures in last two years, says his club has sufficient talent to go to the Super Bowl. "But that doesn't mean you'll get there," he admits.

OFFENSE

Forget all the backery about young Gary Hogeboom taking QB Danny White's starting role. Same set of receivers with Preston Pearson, Tony Hill starting in wide spots. Butch Johnson making clutch grabs. Dorsett led NFC in rushing, as slippery and quick as ever.

Blocking, there'll be interesting tussle at left guard, where Herb Scott, All-Pro type, is being pushed by Howard Richards. Rest of the front remains the same.

DEFENSE

The old guys in Landry's 4-3 flex aren't ready to bow out yet. That refers to 32-year old Harvey Martin and Ed "Too Tall" Jones on the banks. Linebacking should be area of biggest change on club. Guy Brown had to retire for physical reasons, letting Anthony Dickerson move up.

Secondary, strictly on experience. Everson Walls and Dennis Thurman remain the corners. Michael Downs and Benny Barnes stay at safety.

Cowboys are starting to run out of excuses for playoff failures.

Robertson Serious After Crash; Indians Deal Trillo To Montreal

NEW YORK (UPI) — Andre Robertson, shortstop for the New York Yankees, and his woman companion were seriously injured today when their car overturned.

Robertson and his companion, who was not immediately identified, were thrown from the car in the crash, police said.

Both suffered "multiple trauma," when their car overturned at 5:40 a.m. EDT on the West Side Highway at 72nd Street, an Emergency Medical Service spokesman said.

They were rushed to Roosevelt Hospital where Robertson's condition was serious to critical and the woman's condition was very critical, a hospital spokesman said.

The Yankees played the White Sox Wednesday night at Yankee Stadium, losing the game 7-5 in the 13th inning.

Robertson, 25, the Yankees regular shortstop, was hitting .248 with 23 RBI and one home run. A solid defensive player, Robertson was playing his first full season in the majors after being called up from the Yankees' AAA affiliate in Columbus Aug. 20, 1982.

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Indians traded Manny Trillo, who is playing out his option, to the Montreal Expos Wednesday for a minor leaguer and an undisclosed amount of cash.

In 88 games with the Indians this season, Trillo, 32, batted .272 with 29 RBI, one home run and one stolen base.

The Indians gave Trillo and his large contract up for Don Carter, 21, an outfielder who is batting .304 with the Memphis Chicks of the Southern league, Carter was assigned to the Buffalo Bisons, the Indians' Double-A affiliate.

A.L./N.L. Baseball

Trillo came to the Indians last winter in a five-for-one deal with the Philadelphia Phillies.

"I don't want to talk about it," Trillo said of the trade as he cleaned out his locker prior to Wednesday night's game against Toronto.

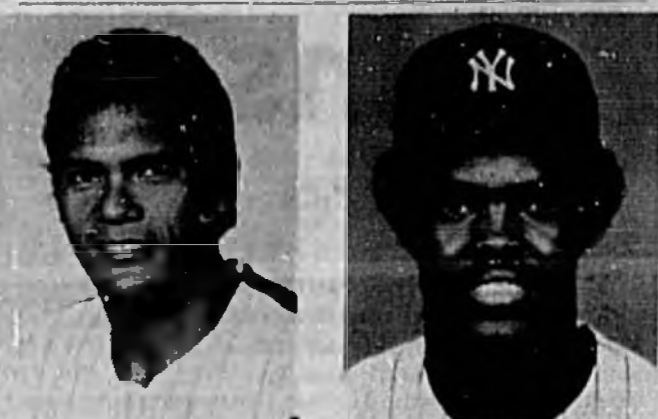

He was expected to join the Expos in San Francisco Thursday.

Mike Squires cracked a run-scoring double in the 13th inning Wednesday night to snap a 5-5 tie and lead the Chicago White Sox to a 7-5 victory over the New York Yankees as the White Sox gained a six and a half game lead over the Kansas City Royals in the American League's West Division.

Salome Barojas (2-2), the fifth Chicago pitcher, worked 3 1/2 innings of scoreless relief for the win. Dale Murray (2-4) took the loss for the Yankees.

Greg Walker opened the 13th by singling off Murray and came in on Squires' double, a one-hopper to the wall in right center. Vance Law singled in Squires with an insurance run.

Tigers 10, Royals 4
At Kansas City, Enos Cabell and Lance Parrish rapped consecutive RBI doubles in the eighth inning to lift Dan Petry and Detroit over Kansas City.

MANNY TRILLO ANDRE ROBERTSON

Petry scattered 11 hits, walked three and struck out four to improve his record to 13-7 with his sixth complete game. Detroit snapped a three-game losing streak.

Orioles 4, Red Sox 3
At Arlington, Texas, Dan Ford doubled with one out in the 10th inning to score Joe Nolan with the go-ahead run, igniting Baltimore to a victory over Texas. Mike Flanagan (7-2) gave up 10 hits in nine innings, struck out six and walked one.

Brewers 4, Red Sox 3
At Milwaukee, Ted Simmons hit a line drive off the leg of pitcher Bob Ojeda in the 10th inning, scoring Paul Molitor and lifting Milwaukee over Boston in the first game of a doubleheader.

Blue Jays 6, Indians 5
At Cleveland, Lloyd Moseby tripled home Dave Collins with the go-ahead run in the 10th inning and scored on Willie Upshaw's single to lead Toronto past Cleveland.

Aliens They're Here In Florida Now

By J. Paul Wyatt
United Press International

Exotic and sometimes dangerous aliens are crawling, flying, swimming and gnawing their way through Florida's tropical swamps, vast citrus groves and posh suburbs, changing the ecological face of the "Sunshine State."

They come from Africa, South America, the Caribbean and the Orient as stowaways on ships and planes, as the illegal cargo of smugglers and in little boys' pockets. Some have escaped from pet shops and research labs.

By the time scientists discover the critters have established themselves, it's often too late — "sort of like locking the barn door after the horse is stolen," said a Florida State Museum ichthyologist.

There are Formosan termites that eat six times more wood than native varieties and "Apopka bugs" that eat the roots of citrus trees.

The four-inch long Cuban Death's Head roach, the largest roach in North America, inhabits the Keys. The poisonous marine toad (bufo marinus) and the Tokay gecko, a lizard, both grow to a foot in length.

Florida has more "love bugs" in the spring than any other state, especially along its highways, where their larvae thrive in decaying grass clippings.

The Mediterranean and Mexican fruit flies sometimes slip by an army of entomologists and fly traps, sending a shudder through citrus growers.

Walking catfish wiggle across Florida highways and African blue tilapia crowd out the state's much-heralded bass and bluegill populations.

Until a $700,000 eradication program wiped them out in 1975, giant African snails ate crops, lawns, flowers and even the paint off North Miami homes. They were brought to south Florida from Hawaii in 1969 by a youngster.

Another short-lived visitor was the voracious West Indian mongoose. Two of the ferret-like mammals showed up at the Port of Miami a few years ago. Game wardens captured one and the other was hit by a truck.

Dave Peterson of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service recalled the scare caused some years ago by the appearance in south Dade County of the red-whiskered bulbul, a fruit and seed-eating songbird from India.

"They had some at a roadside zoo in the Kendall area and the owner let them escape," Peterson said. "They nested in the shrubbery and quickly multiplied. We thought we had a duplicate of the English sparrow or starling on our hands."

Nesting Colony

But later studies showed the bulbul was not a threat to Florida fruit.

In 1972, a University of Miami zoologist said accidentally-imported South American parakeets and Amazon parrots were breeding so fast they posed a threat to the area's mango crops and other vegetation.

Dr. Oscar Owe said the birds traveled in groups of 50 "and make a lot of noise." A nesting colony of about 200 squawking parakeets established themselves in the trees of a well-to-do Coral Gables neighborhood in 1971.

In the mid-1970s, the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission eradicated some flesh-eating South American in a south Miami canal, but reports of piranha sightings in other Miami canals continue. The introduction of the South American marine toad is typical.

"Some kid brought the toads through the Miami International Airport in his pockets and they got away," Peterson said.

"They have glands on the side of their heads that are quite poisonous and when a dog grabs one, it can kill it."

The ugly toad has spread throughout the Miami area and has been known to give a sleepy homeowner quite a start on a lazy summer night.

There are chameleons, Cuban tree frogs, chartreuse Cuban iguanas, green roaches and sugarcane leaf hoppers dwelling in Florida's rich foliage. Indian Mynah birds and South American orioles populate the trees.

In July of 1980, the Formosan termites, dubbed "super-termites" because of their voracious appetite, were found in a Hallandale condominium. The termites arrived in infested packing crates on a freighter docked at Port Everglades.

Dr. Phillip Koehler, a University of Florida entomologist, said the termite is resistant to most pesticides and has been known to gnaw through plaster, mortar and even roof shingles to get to wood.

Early this year, millions of swarming super-termites showed up in an old apartment building in downtown Orlando and forced the tenants to evacuate.

Florida agriculture officials have "eradicated" the so-called Medfly five times in this century, but they still show up. The last one was caught in a trap at Miami Springs near the Miami airport about four months ago.

One Mexican fruit fly was trapped in Sarasota about 10 years ago, according to Harold Denmark, the Florida Division of Plant Industry's chief entomologist.

Instead of attacking the fruit, the Apopka bug (Diaprepes abbreviatus), which built up a resistance to EPA-approved pesticides, gnawed at the citrus tree's roots. It has invaded 200,000 of the state's 850,000 acres of citrus.

Literally hundreds of alien nematodes, mites, insects, slugs and snails have their way to Florida. Some are vectors of harmful plant scales or other diseases. Others are harmless.

Still others are beneficial. State entomologist Bob Woodruff said about 50 species of beetles have been introduced deliberately into Florida — three of them to control water hyacinth and alligator weed — and scientists are considering importing a Pakistani wasp to fight the citrus whitefly.

Albino Strain

According to Carter Gilbert of the Florida State Museum, the albino strain of walking catfish, a native of Southeast Asia, established itself in Florida about 10 years ago.

It uses its pectoral fins as braces and undulates when out of water. An air sac located behind its gills enables it to breathe, said Joseph Boccardy, a fisheries biologist with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The walking catfish has acclimated itself to the cooler temperatures of central Florida, but experts believe cold snaps farther north will prevent it from moving into north Florida.

Gilbert said the fish, which sometimes moves in schools across south Florida highways, has been known to create "a driving hazard."

"If the walking catfish hit some smaller ponds, the population explodes to the point that they're the only fish in there," Boccardy said, adding that they are displacing native catfish species.

Other exotic fish making their move on native species include the blue tilapia as well as the Mozambique and Blackchin tilapias, which have been found in the saltwater Intracoastal Waterway between Tampa and Sarasota on the west coast and near Port St. Lucie on the east.

The blue tilapia grows to a density of 2,000 pounds per acre, and at that point crowds out other fish. The GFWFC introduced the blue tilapia in Florida in 1961.

"It was supposed to be great as a game fish, a food fish and a weed-controlling fish," said Paul Shafland, director of the GFWFC Non-Native Fish Research Lab in Boca Raton.

"But it has turned out only to be a good food fish," said Shafland, adding it will not bite a fisherman's hook or control aquatic weeds.

Other species, introduced mostly by aquarium dealers, include the red Oscar, the Jack Dempsey (a cichlid from Central America), the kissing Gourami, armored catfish, the Chinese white amur, or grass carp; guppies, swordtails and platys.

By the time scientists discover the critters have established themselves it's often too late.

Boccardy said half of the 84 known exotic fish in the United States have been found in Florida, and 20 of them are considered permanently established.

The white amur was imported by the state Department of Natural Resources as an experiment to help solve the aquatic vegetation problem in certain lakes.

But Gilbert said it does not look like the big minnow-like fish can breed naturally in Florida. They need more flowing water, he said.

Other creatures from far-off places have maintained a low profile. These include the nutria, an aquatic South American cross between a muskrat and a beaver introduced for its fur in the late 1940s. It never did live up to expectations and today is found in scattered parts of the state.

The white-winged dove was brought to the Homestead area from South America in the 1960s. It was turned loose, thrived and began nesting as far north as Pompano Beach, GFWFC wildlife biologist Jim Brady said.

Some 30 years ago, the cattle egret, a long-legged white bird, was swept by a hurricane from its native Africa to Brazil, thence to Florida. Sitting on cows' necks and plucking parasites from their hides, it is particularly common around Lake Okechobee.

About three years ago, pet stores from Tallahassee to Tampa began hawking geckos to people who want to get rid of their roaches and were willing to have small lizards free in the house. They now exist in the wild.

The introduction of foreign insects, birds, fish and mammals will continue unabated despite stringent inspections and controls at the ports of entry.

"With all the tourists and commerce, and the marijuana boats sneaking into south Florida, there is bound to be more," said Frank Mead, a state entomologist.

Republicans To Hear Of Stress Management

"Stress Management in Political Environments" is the topic of a presentation to be given by Dr. Robert Bollett and James Rini at the 8 p.m. meeting today of the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee.

The meeting will be held at the county agriculture center auditorium at Five Points, Sanford.

Both men work at the Seminole County Mental Health Clinic and Dr. Bollett is a professor at the University of Central Florida while Rini is an adjunct.

To be discussed at the meeting is the voter registration drive being undertaken by the state party and a major fundraising activity scheduled for Oct. 15 at the Orlando Civic Center.

The Halls Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Hall were honored with a luncheon and reception to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at the Sanford Church of God of Prophecy social hall. The memorable event was hosted by family, friends and members of the church Sunday School Department.

The couple were married June 28, 1933 at the old Seminole County Courthouse. Judge R.W. Ware performed the ceremony. Mrs. Hall is the former Ruby Davis of Sanford. The couple made their home in Sanford until they moved to Winter Park about eight years ago.

A highlight of the couple's 50th wedding anniversary was the reaffirmation of their wedding vows by Bishop Eldon Lewis during the morning worship service at the church.

Attending the Halls were their children: Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hall, Winter Park, son and daughter-in-law; and Mr. and Mrs. William T. Witherow, Sanford, daughter and son-in-law.

Other family members participating in the ceremony were: Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jones, sister and brother-in-law; Mrs. Ola Cain, sister; and Tommy Swaggerty, brother-in-law.

Flower girl was Wendy Gail Witherow, granddaughter of the couple. Granddaughters Kaylynn and Jill Witherow furnished the music and singing for the occasion.

The tables were decorated in gold. A gold cupid candelabrum centered the cake and punch table. The wedding cake was a gift of Mrs. Betty Kinard and the anniversary cake was a gift of Mrs. Yvonne Lewis. Mrs. Eleanor Hall kept the guest registry.

Cynthia Galley told the romantic story of the couple's courtship and how they borrowed Mayor Brady's seven-passenger

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Hall

About 110 friends and family attended the celebration. The couple received many gifts and a congratulatory message from President and Mrs. Reagan.

They also received congratulations from Bishop and Mrs. M. A. Tomlinson, general overseer of the Church of God of Prophecy where Mrs. Hall is a charter member. Her family was instrumental in organizing the Sanford Church of God of Prophecy in June 1929.

Mr. Hall is a retired railroad engineer who was employed at Atlantic Coastline Railroad for 38 years.

Signs Of Child Abuse Make Mom 'Just Sick'

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I found some evidence that my husband has sexually assaulted our 21-month-old daughter. To say the least, I am just sick! He's been a wonderful husband and father and comes from a good family. I just don't understand what happened.

I have thought about talking to him about it, but if I'm mistaken, he will never forgive me for even thinking of such a thing. Please tell me what to do. I am afraid to even mention it to my best friend.

Dear Abby

Are there any signs to look for in my daughter or my husband? I need to know for sure. Please help.

CAN'T SIGN THIS
DEAR CAN'T: First have your daughter examined by a pediatrician immediately. If the doctor confirms your suspicions, confront your husband with the evidence and insist that he get treatment for his sick and criminal behavior. If he denies his guilt or refuses treatment, turn him over to the authorities.

DEAR ABBY: Now I've seen everything. A Chicago couple baby-sat their three grandchildren while their son (Bob) and daughter-in-law (Mary) went on a three-week vacation. When they returned, Mary asked the "sitters" to pay for the food they had eaten. They were shocked, but Grandpa wrote a check and handed it to Mary, who asked them not to tell Bob. The grandparents asked you, "Should we tell our son?"

You said "Yes," but you should have added: "Although you agreed to baby-sit for love, since Mary viewed it as a business deal, you should have presented her with a $1,176 bill for professional services. Based on the cheapest rate ($1 an hour, $1.50 from 12 a.m. to 8 a.m.), each sitter earned $588."

LAURIANNE
DEAR LAURIANNE: Good idea. Now why didn't I think of that?

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to a really terrific guy for 10 months. We get along great, but every morning there's a big fight because he just can't seem to wake up. He lies in bed while I stand there screaming for him to get up. After 20 or 30 minutes of me yelling at him and shaking him, he finally drags himself out of bed.

This has made both of us late many times and has put me in a bad mood for hours.

While he was in boot camp his sergeant had no trouble waking him at 5 a.m. after a long hard day of exercising, running, working, etc. Why then do I have such a terrible time getting him up? We can't afford counseling. Please suggest something.

MORNINGS ARE MURDER

DEAR MORNINGS: Your husband's subconscious "knows" that he can cop anywhere from 20 to 30 minutes more sack time while you scream.

When he was in boot camp, his subconscious told him he had to get up at the first sound of reveille. (It was a matter of survival.)

If he is to be "retrained," you must make him responsible for getting himself up in the morning. He may oversleep once, twice, or even 10 times, but if he's forced to face the consequences of oversleeping, he'll get up. (It will be a matter of survival.)

Do not "rescue him" again, or you'll be back to mornings that are murder. Take my advice and let me hear from you in six months.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY AUGUST 19, 1983
Utilize your creativity this coming year. It could open up an additional source of income for you. What you begin as a hobby could possibly be turned into something lucrative.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A willingness to be helpful may have surprise twists today. Persons you aid will feel a compulsion to do much more for you in return. Leo predictions for the year ahead are now ready. Romance, career, luck, earnings, travel and much more are discussed. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're quite competent today, but the tasks you'll perform best will be those which require imagination or an artistic touch.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The pieces are beginning to fit together pertaining to something you've been hoping will work out. You should see some positive evidence today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Objectives you set for yourself can be attained today. You'll know how to get what you want, even though your methods may mystify others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Sticky situations can be turned around today by using wisdom and kindness. Meeting, force, with force will prove to be counterproductive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A series of peculiar developments could place you in the middle of an advantageous situation today, and make it possible to profit from two sources.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Acclaim will not be that important to you today. You're likely to let others take bows for successful happenings which you engineer.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't permit yourself to think that what you desire is beyond your reach today. If your hopes are strong enough they can be realized.

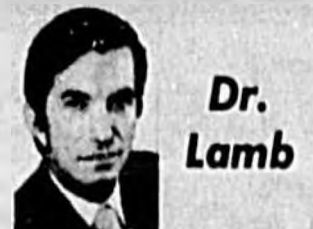

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your actions earn you respect today, because others see you as a person of integrity. Stand by your standards and morals.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Act upon your instincts today if you feel something which affects others as well as yourself can now be changed for the better.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Partnership situations should work out well today, especially if you are allied with persons who share your ideals and sense of fair play.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Financial situations can be adjusted advantageously today because you're blessed with a bit of the Midas touch. Think "accumulation."

Milk Intolerance: Substitutes Help

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about the person who had a spastic colon that was caused by drinking milk. I too had gas, cramps, sometimes mild diarrhea, but most of all those terrible pains from bloating. After reading about her problem I decided that perhaps my spastic colon was really milk intolerance so I quit all milk and stopped eating anything made with milk.

In a week's time I was a different person. No more pain, distention and feeling uncomfortable just to bend over. It is wonderful. It annoys me that I suffered all those years when the solution was so simple.

Now the problem is how I can get my calcium. I suppose I could take pills but I would like to have some milk. I have heard that people who cannot tolerate cow's milk can use goat's milk. Will that be all right? How about dried milk powder?

DEAR READER — I wish the solution were that easy. Milk is produced by lactation and contains a sugar called lactose. You won't be able to get any milk that doesn't contain lactose unless it has been treated. In other words, goat's milk and dried milk powder do contain lactose and will cause your old symptoms again.

You may be able to use a reasonable amount of milk by using LactAid. It is an enzyme that you can add to the milk and it will split the lactose double sugar before you drink the milk. That makes up for your own digestive system not providing the enzyme to do the same job. You can get it from SugarLo Co., P.O. Box 1100, Pleasantville, NJ 08232.

I have discussed the lactose problem in more detail in The Health Letter 7-2. Milk Products: Good and Bad, which I am sending you.

And you may be able to use one of the soybean milk substitutes usually provided for infants. Look on the label, though, and be sure that lactose or milk powder is not included in the ingredients.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I hope you will be able to advise me about my nightly leg cramps. The pain may occur within two hours after I am in bed but it is sure to occur by 4 a.m. The cramps are in the leg muscles and go down into the feet. I have to get up and walk to relax the muscles. I have taken many different medicines including quinine, which was the best. But it increased the ringing in my head.

I am 82 and this has been going on for 10 years now.

DEAR READER — Try something simple first. Learn to sleep in such a way that your toes don't drop down. When your toes are turned down it contracts your calf muscles and this is conducive to leg muscle cramps. Lie on your side or put a board on edge at the bottom of your bed to hold the covers off your feet. You can put your feet against the board to hold your toes up.

Also stretch your calf muscles each night before going to bed. Lean forward against the wall until you feel the pull on your Achilles' tendon and hold it for 30 seconds, repeat several times. Good stretching exercises before going to bed often help.

Then wear warm socks up to the knees to keep your legs warm.

If all this fails, you might try vitamin E.

fully 10 seconds before letting it ride around to dummy.

That thought was all he needed. He led dummy's deuce of clubs, fished his queen, cashed his ace, entered dummy with the ace of trumps and led the jack of clubs.

East covered with the king and the Prof discarded his 10 of hearts. Now he was able to ruff the heart return, knock out the king of trumps and get ready for the next rubber.

The whole play is worthy of study. Not that anything unusual for top-flight play had taken place. The Prof had decided that East was planning to put his partner in with the second heart; and then ruff a diamond for the setting trick. The Prof had fished this plan by a loser-on-loser avoidance play in clubs.

What would have happened if West had held the club king? The Prof would have had egg all over his face, but the Prof had used R of ARCH to Review the bidding and had decided that East held both the black kings for his opening bid.

Did Nuclear Weapons Test Kill Lt. Whipkey?

By Tom Tiede
 WASHINGTON (NEA) — Lt. Paul Whipkey did not seem to be the kind of soldier who would do anything foolhardy. He was a clean-cut, college-educated, well-trained Army aviator who, over the second part of the 1950s, had compiled a spotless military record for personal reliability.
 But then something suddenly went wrong. In the summer of 1957, Lt. Whipkey told friends at Fort Ord, Calif. that he was leaving the base to have a drink. He never returned. His automobile was found abandoned in a remote corner of Death Valley; there hasn't been a trace of him since.
 At the time, the Army said Lt. Whipkey probably deserted his unit on purpose. There was some indication that he'd been under emotional strain, and the conclusion was that he'd gone Absent Without Leave. The Army said he must have driven into the desert and wandered away to his death.
 But why would a good soldier with a fine record go sour and vanish from the face of the earth?

 The question was haunting then. And it remains so today. It has been asked for the last 25 years by Lt. Whipkey's brother Carl. The latter is a Pennsylvania communications technician, and he has never believed the original Army conclusion regarding his brother's odd disappearance.
 Indeed, Carl Whipkey believes his brother may have been a victim of sinister government activities. He says the lieutenant was involved with the military's nuclear weapons experiments, and he suspects that he may well have been killed as a direct or an indirect consequence.
 The charge is frightening in its implications. But the surviving Whipkey says that over the years, he has collected volumes of what he insists is substantiating evidence. He says he can prove the Army lied about Lt. Whipkey's disappearance in 1957, and that it continues to lie about it today.
 Whipkey says the proof dates back a year before his brother vanished. The lieutenant then was a 25-year-old civil engineering graduate from the University of Pennsylvania. Whipkey says the officer was physically and emotionally stable, and "he was really dedicated to Army aviation."

 Then he was selected to be an observation pilot at the above-ground nuclear testing facility near Las Vegas. Whipkey says his brother flew during five of the explosions, for a total of 13 hours. The biggest blast he saw was 44 kilotons; by contrast, the bomb dropped on Hiroshima was about 20 kilotons.
 The lieutenant remained at the nuclear site for three months. Then when he returned to his regular duty at Fort Ord his health began to mysteriously fail. He developed numerous moles and warts, he had nagging coughs, he lost weight; also, the young man had to have all his teeth extracted.
 Finally, Lt. Whipkey began having mental difficulties. His brother says he had trouble delegating authority, and he cut off communications with his family. When he disappeared, the Army suggested he may have cracked and, in effect, killed himself in the desert.

 But Carl Whipkey never believed it. He says he was suspicious from the start. "One reason is that the Army packed my brother's belongings on the first day he disappeared. They must have known he wasn't coming back."
 Besides, Whipkey adds that the talk of desertion just doesn't ring true. "They said he ran away into Death Valley, then they hinted that he killed himself. I can't buy that. Why would he go AWOL in a hellhole like Death Valley, and there are easier ways to kill oneself than dehydration."
 So Whipkey instituted what has turned into a 25-year personal investigation. And he says it's been a period of stonewalling and contradictions. He's enlisted congress-sional help, and he's brought about one Pentagon investigation, but he says the Army still won't tell the truth.

 And what is the truth? The surviving Whipkey insists his brother was done in by the atomic testing. "One possibility is that he got too much radiation, and his death was kept secret."
 Or the government may have lied to protect itself. Whipkey says the lieutenant may have seen something amiss during the atomic explosions, such as the "use of human guinea pigs at ground zero." If so, "he might have threatened to tell the newspapers, and was killed to keep him quiet."
 Army spokesmen say the charges are nonsense. The military has, however, reversed itself on one aspect of the case. It now says Lt. Whipkey "died in the line of duty," rather than while AWOL. Carl Whipkey says that's the only honest thing he's gotten from the service in a quarter of a century.

Five Sick Days A Year Average For American Workers, School Kids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Working Americans and school children miss an average of five days a year due to illness and injury, a new government report says.
 The document also said Americans reported an estimated 4.2 billion days of restricted activity in 1980, an average of 19.1 days per person — one day more than in 1975 and 3.1 days more than in 1971.
 The report, "Disability Days: United States, 1980," was published by the National Center for Health Statistics based on interviews with 39,000 households comprised of 103,000 people.
 Americans spent 1.5 billion days in bed in 1980 due to illness or injury, lost 472.1 million days of work and missed 204 million school days, the report said.
 That works out to an average of seven days in bed per person, five days of work lost per jobholder and 5.3 days off school per child, the researchers said. Days in bed include hospital stays.
 The three categories — days in bed, missed school days and missed work days — sometimes overlap, the researchers said. Furthermore, some Americans reported a restricted activity day even when they did not take to bed or miss school or work.
 The researchers said income, sex, race, age and where a person lives apparently have a bearing on the number of sick days taken.
 Among their conclusions:
 —More than half the population — 52.1 percent — reported spending no days in bed due to illness or injury. But about 2.7 percent said they had spent 31 or more days in bed.
 —Women, who generally report more illness in part because of child-bearing, had more disability days than men.
 —Blacks had higher rates of restricted activity, bed disability and lost work time than whites. But white children lost more time from school than blacks — 5.4 days a year compared to 4.1 days for blacks.
 —Urban dwellers had higher rates of restricted activity and days spent in bed than those living outside the city.
 —People with incomes of less than $5,000 a year had the highest disability rates, those with incomes of more than $25,000 had the lowest disability rates.
 —The over-75 age group had the highest rate of restricted days; the lowest rate was in the 5-to-14-year age group. Unemployed people have higher disability rates than the employed but researchers said that was mainly because of the number of people over 65 who are not working.

Alicia Hits Land; Galveston Cut Off

GALVESTON, Texas (UPI) — Hurricane Alicia blasted into Texas early today with 130-mph winds, damaging beachfront hotels, spinning off tornadoes and bringing monsoon-like rains and tides that cut off the only escape route for 50,000 people in Galveston.

At least one person died as a result of the storm, which struck land at 1:40 a.m. CDT, crossed the western tip of Galveston Island and then barreled onto the mainland toward Houston.

Three hours after Alicia touched land, the NWS said the storm was "losing its identity."

"However, it may hold together for a while as it moves north," the NWS said. "This is a very wet storm. People in the area, especially Houston, should prepare for possible severe flooding today and Friday."

Twisters caused damage in several parts of the nation's fifth largest city and a 71-year-old woman died when she was struck by a tree that fell through the roof of her home. Winds were in excess of 60 mph in Houston at the time.

"We've just got them everywhere and we've got some damage," a police spokesman said of the tornadoes.

Shortly before dawn, the ill-defined center of Alicia was located at latitude 29.3 north, longitude 95.3 west. That placed the core of the storm south of Houston and the NWS said Alicia was expected to take a path through east Texas during the day. Tides were up to 12 feet above normal.

The area of chief concern was Galveston, where 6,000 people died 83 years ago in a hurricane. In the first moments after Alicia's landfall, a portion of a wall crumbled at the landmark Galvez Hotel.

"It is grim," said Bill Blum, chief meteorologist of the National Weather Service in Galveston as the storm roared through.

"With what this storm has turned into, we've got major flooding in Galveston. We've got structural damage to many buildings. We've got problems with power, we've got people trapped in areas where they want to get out, but can't."

More than 50,000 people faced the full fury of the storm in Galveston, their route to safety cut off by the rising tides.

Galveston was hit by a peak wind of 102 mph but the NWS said winds had high as 130 mph were reported around the 12-mile wide eye of the storm.

"The weather is extremely rugged," said Irvin Power, a public affairs officer at John Sealy Hospital. "We can feel the wind buffeting the building."

Part of the causeway that leads out of Galveston was inundated by high seas, preventing residents from evacuating.

Alicia, its 12-mile wide eye striking land west of Galveston and carrying winds of 130 mph, spewed torrents of rain on the upper Texas coast. The core of its fury was centered along a 40-mile stretch of beachfront from Freeport to Galveston.

The Coast Guard lost and then regained radio contact with an oilwell supply ship with 35 aboard in the Gulf of Mexico but was still trying to re-establish communications with two other vessels carrying a total of seven persons.

The principle escape route from Galveston to the mainland, a causeway which runs across Galveston Bay, was inundated late Wednesday.

Tornadoes, sometimes being reported as often as one a minute but none causing any major damage, skittered around metropolitan Houston — the nation's fifth largest city located 50 miles inland and only partially protected from the full wrath of the storm.

More than 50,000 people along the Texas and Louisiana coasts sought shelter from the winds and rain but hundreds of thousands more stayed behind.

Galveston appeared to be in danger of large-scale

Scenes like this, and worse, were common in through the coastal city of Galveston and inland toward Houston.

flooding. Before the eye of the storm reached land, streets were already curb deep with water brought on by hours of rain.

As much as 15 inches of rain was expected in and around the Galveston area.

In September 1900 Galveston was hit by the worst hurricane in history. A surge of water engulfed the island and 6,000 died. Following that tragedy, a seawall 20 feet high and 10 miles long was built to protect the island.

Lyricist Ira Gershwin Dead At 86

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Ira Gershwin, whose elegant lyrics were woven into music composed by his celebrated brother, George, to produce American classics, is dead at the age of 86.

Gershwin who had been in fragile health for more than a decade, died in his sleep of natural causes

Wednesday morning.

He was the first song lyricist to win a Pulitzer Prize, given for "Of Thee I Sing," one of the memorable Broadway productions and 10 films his literate rhymes graced.

During 20 years of collaboration in the 1920s and 1930s, the Gershwins wrote the words and music of 28 musicals including "A Star Is Born," "Lady Be Good," "Of Thee I Sing" and "Porgy and Bess," which scored a critically acclaimed New York revival last spring.

Other Broadway hits were "Tip Toes," "Funny Face," "Rosalia," "Strike Up the Band," "Show Girl."
