Eaton becomes chief judge

SANFORD — Judge O.H. Eaton Jr. was elected Monday as the first Seminole County judge since 1983 to serve as chief justice of the 18th Judicial District, comprising Seminole and Brevard counties.

Judge Eaton, who was first elected a circuit court judge in 1986, has served as administrative judge for the criminal and appeals divisions since then. He was elected chief judge Monday night by the circuit and county judges in the district, and will assume those duties Nov. 1. He will succeed Judge Charles Harris of Brevard County, who will take a seat on the 5th District Court of Appeals.

Eaton, 46, is a 1968 graduate of the University of Florida law school. From 1971 to 1973 he worked in the state attorney's office, and was in private practice for 13 years.

Eaton is the first Seminole County judge to serve as chief judge since Judge S. Joseph Davis served in that position from 1982 to 1983.

Tavern owner shot in ambush

SANFORD — LeRoy Williams, 60, owner of Tingo Tavern, is recovering from small-caliber gunshot wounds he received early today during an ambush as he tried to enter the back door of his house.

Williams, 1306 W. Third St., Sanford, was shot in the arm and chest, police said. He returned fire from his own .38-caliber pistol, but police said they don't know if he hit his assailant. Police said the gunman got away. The attack occurred at about 12:01 a.m. today and Williams is currently in Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford.

Resident pleas ignored

County approves controversial park

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners voted 3-2 Tuesday to approve the controversial, nearly 500-acre DEI Properties commercial park near Winter Springs.

The approval followed five hours of sometimes heated testimony — largely objections from Tuskawilla residents opposed to the high-intensity development adjacent to their exclusive community.

DEI Properties had agreed to not allow any access to their development from Winter Springs Boulevard, the main entrance to Tuskawilla, but residents still objected to the noise, light and possible pollution from the development.

The DEI Properties development is located mostly northwest of the future intersection of Red Bug Lake Road and the Seminole County Expressway. When completed in the early 2000s, the project will include more than 150 acres of offices and warehouses, more than 30 acres of commercial development, a hotel and multi-family homes.

Commissioners Pat Warren and Jennifer Kelley opposed the development and needed land use change, but joined their three fellow commissioners in approving the rezoning for the project.

Warren opposed a agreement with DEI Properties. See Park, Page 2A

County may buy 4,000 acres from lawyer's family

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners yesterday agreed to negotiate with the family of a Sanford attorney to purchase more than 4,000 acres of land between the county's Osceola Landfill and the St. Johns River for about $6 million.

If a sale agreement is reached, Deputy County Manager Jim Bible said most of the purchase price could be paid through water and sewer fees.

"This will be an excellent opportunity." See Acres, Page 2A

State buys Wekiva land to save it from developers

TALLAHASSEE — State officials agreed Tuesday to buy nearly a mile of waterfront property along central Florida's Wekiva River to save the marshland and forest from development.

Gov. Bob Martinez and his cabinet voted 6-0 to purchase the 3,335-acre tract for just more than $12.5 million. The land is along the west side of the Wekiva, near the fast-growing cities of Longwood, Maitland and Altamonte Springs.

Abortion restriction bills are shot down

By KRY BAUMAN
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Anti-abortion forces, snubbed in the first day of the Legislature's special session yesterday, suffered another setback this morning when a key Senate committee killed the first of four abortion-related bills on its agenda.

Only 30 minutes into their meeting, members of the Senate Health Care Committee voted 5-2 against a bill that would have placed a constitutional amendment on the 1990 ballot to ban abortion outright in Florida. The bill also would have permitted local governments to raise taxes in order to pay for care and treatment of unwanted babies.

The bill was not part of Gov. Bob Martinez's package of proposed restrictions on abortion, but the vote underscored the earlier prediction of the committee's chairman, Sen. Jeanne Malchon, who said it is "highly unlikely" that the panel would pass any of the bills on its agenda.

None of these bills, as they are written right now, are acceptable," said Malchon. "Martinez and the anti-abortion forces are looking to the committee for help in salvaging their campaign for tighter restrictions on abortions. Specifically, they were waiting for the committee's vote on two bills that would give the state greater regulatory authority over abortion clinics."

"Obviously, we're disappointed, but there's more to come," said Jon Peck, press aide to Gov. Bob Martinez, commenting late Tuesday on the results of the first day of the session. The Republican governor, a staunch foe of abortion, called the special session in response to a U.S. Supreme Court decision handing the issue over to individual states.

The Senate Health and Rehabilitative Services Committee rebuffed Martinez Tuesday by overwhelmingly rejecting four proposals to make it harder to get an abortion.

One of the four bills, rejected 9-3 by the committee, would have required viability testing of fetuses at 20 weeks — instead of 26 weeks. See Abortion, Page 5A

NASA wins court battle; launch delayed anyway

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — NASA won a court battle with environmentalists Tuesday but lost its bid to keep the shuttle Atlantis on track for blastoff tomorrow, delaying the flight at least several days to replace a balky engine computer.

The decision was announced shortly after a federal judge in Washington cleared Atlantis for launch at 1:29 p.m. EDT Thursday, denying a request by anti-nuclear activists to ground the mission because of concern about the safety of atomic power packs bolted to the $1.4 billion Galileo Jupiter probe.

Throughout the day, engineers at the Kennedy Space Center were working to figure out why a computer mounted to one of Atlantis's three main engines generated faulty data during routine pre-launch tests.

Efforts to duplicate the malfunction apparently failed, and late Tuesday launch director Robert Streek issued a brief statement delaying the sixth post-Challenger launch until the engine controller See NASA, Page 3A

Sanford airport adds new name to list of changes

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Sanford's airport has seen several changes over the past year: a make-over for its terminal, an entire landscaping scheme, a new director, and even a new letterhead.

Now the Sanford Airport Authority is ready for a new name. The seven-member board voted yesterday to change the name from Sanford Regional Airport to Central Florida Regional Airport.

The airport has been known as Sanford Regional Airport since the U.S. Navy turned over the 2,000-acre facility to the city in 1969.

But, Aviation Director Mack LaZenby said at a Sept. 28 special meeting of the authority, "It's hard to sell just Sanford Regional Airport. We're just trying to broaden our scope."

LaZenby's comments came after authority members reviewed drafts of promotional materials marketing the airport as Central Florida Regional Airport. See Airport, Page 2A

Lynette Dennis
...Former Longwood city commissioner

Former official guilty, may face more charges

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The state attorney's office is considering filing perjury charges against former Longwood city commissioner Lynette Dennis who was convicted yesterday of misdemeanor sunshine law violations.

A Seminole County Circuit Court jury reached a verdict about noon yesterday after one hour of deliberation.

The jury found that Dennis, 48, broke the law that requires meetings among elected officials must be held in public, with notice given and minutes taken. According to testimony, none of those standards were met when Dennis met privately with then-City Administrator Gepe DeMarie, then-Mayor David Gunter and Commissioner Rick Bullington.

During her testimony, Dennis never admitted discussing purchase of Sanlando Utilities during the September 1988, meeting held in her ex-brother-in-law's Casselberry office at Regency Square Plaza. She told the jury that she had arranged the meeting to discuss her campaign strategy. She was running for re-election that year.

However, both Gunter and DeMarie testified that the major topic of discussion was Sanlando Utilities, an issue which later came before the commission and was ultimately defeated. Gunter said that less than 10 percent of the time was spent discussing See Guilty, Page 2A

Consumer confidence level declines

GAINESVILLE — The Florida Consumer Confidence Index has plunged to its lowest point in 18 months largely because of deepening pessimism in the national economy, University of Florida economists reported Tuesday.

"Fewer consumers expressed optimism about the national economy in the coming year and for the next five years than at any time since the presidential elections last November," said Dave Denalow, interim director of UF's Bureau of Economic and Business Research.

The index, which had risen to 100.7 in June, fell to 91.7 in September. That is the lowest level since March of 1988, when the index hit a four-year low of 91.

In September, only 46.1 percent of those surveyed felt good about the national economy in the coming year. Floridians were even gloomier about the long-term national outlook: Favorable views fell from 49 percent in June to 37 percent in September.

Eighteen missing from fishing boat

PENSACOLA — Coast Guard and civilian vessels and two Navy helicopters searched a large area of the Gulf of Mexico Wednesday for 18 people who reportedly abandoned a sinking fishing vessel, authorities said.

"The search goes on, but there's nothing so far," Petty Officer Fred Kephart, a spokesman for the Coast Guard in New Orleans, said early Wednesday.

Coast Guard Lt. Bob Carson said a distress call was made about 6:30 p.m. CDT Tuesday but there were no reports of any boats overdue. He said a hoax was possible, but the search was being conducted as if it were authentic.

The man who made the distress call identified himself as the master of the 64-foot vessel and said there were 18 people aboard the ship, which was taking on water and sinking fast some 23 miles south of Pensacola, Carson said.

Bullington also did not admit to having discussed Saniando and testified that he said he told the others he wasn't there to discuss it.

Assistant State Attorney Bob Fisher said during an interview after the trial that he believed the jury accepted the testimony of DeMarie and Gunter. However, he said, "She (Dennis) was not candid with the jury."

He said he would discuss with State Attorney Norm Wolfinger about filing perjury charges against Bullington and Dennis. Perjury is a third-degree felony which carries a maximum five-year jail sentence and a $5,000 fine, Fisher said.

Dennis said in an interview that her testimony was truthful. "I would not have come this far if I were not telling the truth," she said after the trial.

Dennis stood silently as Judge Tom Waddell Jr. sentenced her to a maximum $500 fine, 60 days of county-supervised probation and 25 hours of community service. Bullington, 34, has also been charged with the same violation. His trial is expected to begin tomorrow morning in Seminole Circuit Court.

After the trial, Dennis said that she was "personally disappointed in the verdict" but that it was fair and she was relieved it was over.

"What can I say, but I was judged by my peers. I put my faith in their hands," she commented outside the courthouse.

"We don't plan on appealing it," Kenneth R. Lester Jr., Dennis' attorney, said this morning.

Assistant State Attorney Fisher said that this is first time an individual has been prosecuted for a sunshine law violation in 10 years that he has been a lawyer in the Seminole-Brevard circuit.

"It's like I said, the truth is going to be known," Gunter said this morning. Gunter is the person who brought the violation to light when he alerted the Brevard-Seminole state attorney's office this spring about the clandestine meeting, causing himself to be prosecuted and fined $500. He said he did it because the commission, who he said was guilty itself of charter violations, ousted former Commissioner Carol Odum for an alleged violation of the city charter.

"I feel bad for Lynette, but like I said, the truth came out. I never knew they would prosecute Lynette first."

Lester, in his closing argument, told the jury "the unspoken motive is revenge. You cannot deny it." Some had testified that Gunter was trying to "get back" at Mayor Hank Hardy.

Earlier this summer, Seminole County developer E. Everett Huskey called for the name change in a commentary published in the Sanford Herald. "In the future, we need to use a name more identifiable with the tremendous growth of the Greater Orlando area," he wrote.

The airport has budgeted $100,000 this year for marketing the facility to airlines, travel agencies, pilots and prospective tenants of the airport industrial park. The allowance includes salaries for two Orlando marketing consultants hired this summer to promote the airport.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Grandfather charged in shooting

Man arrested under new gun law after youth shoots herself in hand

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — A Tallahassee grandfather has become the first person in Florida to be charged with a violation of the state's new law designed to keep guns out of the hands of children.

Willie W. Green, 60, was arrested and charged Sunday with a third-degree felony after his 8-year-old granddaughter accidentally shot herself in the hand while playing with a loaded gun she found in his closet.

The girl was not seriously hurt and was released from a hospital Sunday after treatment. But a spokesman for the Leon County Sheriff's Department said it's amazing that other children or adults nearby were not hit by the ricocheting bullet.

The single shot from the .32-caliber automatic grazed the girl's thumb, went through a bedroom door and a bookcase before falling spent on the floor of the living room.

Four or five other children were playing nearby, and at least five adults were in the living room, said spokesman Dick Simpson.

"It could have killed her or the others," said Simpson.

Meanwhile, in Putnam County, authorities were considering identical charges against the parents of a 9-year-old boy who accidentally shot and killed a 12-year-old playmate on Sunday. The two boys were playing with a rifle that was kept in the 8-year-old's room.

Investigators said they were not sure if the rifle had been secured prior to the accidental shooting. Legislation approved in a special session earlier this year allows criminal prosecution of adults who do not take specified precautions to protect children from unattended loaded weapons.

A felony conviction under the law, which took effect Oct. 1, is punishable by up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine. The law also allows for misdemeanor charges — punishable by up to 60 days in jail and a $500 fine — if a minor threatens someone with a gun or displays it in public.

State softens controversial new boating speed limits

United Press International

CRYSTAL RIVER — State officials have softened some of their controversial proposals to lower speed limits on Florida's inland waterways to improve boating safety and protect manatees.

The changes, which will be presented to the governor and Cabinet for consideration Oct. 24, are the result of vehement opposition from boating and business interests, said representatives of the state Department of Natural Resources and the Florida Marine Patrol.

The proposed changes include: —An increase in the proposed speed limit on marked waterway channels from 30 mph to 40 mph during daylight hours.

The limit would become 30 mph after sundown.

—Elimination of a proposal that would have set a 20 mph speed limit outside marked channels in 12 manatee zones. A DNR official said the department is considering other proposals and would have a recommendation in three or four days.

—Elimination of a wake-restriction proposal that many people had complained would be impossible to enforce.

The changes were announced Monday at a public hearing and brought complaints from several speakers who said they had not been alerted about the proposed changes.

tunity for the county," Commissioner Bob Sturm said.

Sanford lawyer William Colbert contacted the county in April saying approximately 4,000 acres of land owned by his family was for sale. A total of 3,200 acres with four miles of St. Johns River frontage is owned by the estate of Colbert's late cousin, Shirley C. Thrasher and her two children, Shirley Partin of Geneva and Susanne Novotny of Maryland.

Another 820 acres south of the site and north of Ocoola Road is owned by Colbert, his mother Lillian Colbert, his brother Eddie Colbert and his wife E.J. Cameron Jr.

Colbert said the property has been for sale for several months. Most of the site is vacant grazing land, with a 23-acre borrow pit in one portion, Colbert said. He said the land was originally owned by his great-grandfather Joe Cameron who farmed much of the Geneva and Lake Jesup areas in the early 1900s. The land was divided between family members during the 1980s, he said.

Colbert said the family prefers the land remain in public ownership so it can be used by the public. Portions of the site nearest the Ocoola Landfill could be used for landfill expansion sometime during the next century, Bible said.

Bible said the site could be used for a park and to prevent further development in Geneva close to the landfill. Bible said the St. Johns River Water Management District has purchased land near the site that would help the entire area to be used for a wildlife corridor. Commissioner Jennifer Kelley suggested the site could also be used for horse trails.

Colbert said the county's negotiating price of $6 million was fair and he would recommend the price to his family.

DLI Properties to share the costs of design and widening of Red Bug Lake Road needed as a result of the development, saying DLI Properties should pay a greater share.

Red Bug Lake Road will be widened to four lanes and rerouted from its current terminus at State Road 436 through the commerce park to connect to Mitchell Hammock Road to accommodate the development. DLI Properties agreed to share the costs of widening Red Bug

Lake Road from Tusawilla Road through the development to SR 426.

DLI Properties' development is inexorably tied to the expressway. The county has required that the commerce park cannot be occupied until the expressway is completed to State Road 434 and interchanges are built at Red Bug Lake Road and SR 434. DLI Properties officials have said uncertainties over financing for the road will delay development of the office park.

Torrential rains turn east coast cities into quagmire

United Press International

MELBOURNE — Torrential rains from a stalled weather front caused flash floods Tuesday in some eastern areas of Florida, prompting several evacuations and road closings. No injuries directly attributable to the storm were reported, officials said.

Rainfall ranging from 6 inches to more than a foot fell in some spots of St. Johns County and the nation's oldest city, St. Augustine, south of Jacksonville.

Frank McElroy with the St. Augustine Department of Public Safety said just over 16 inches fell at his office during a 14 1/2-hour period that ended at 4:40 p.m. EDT.

"Most of the roads are starting to improve, and we're seeing a lot of clearing," McElroy said. "Mostly it's just the side streets that are flooded or, in some cases, washed out by all the water."

Water 2 to 3 feet deep was reported along parts of U.S. Route 1. High tide early Tuesday also blocked some drainage, aggravating the flooding problem, officials said.

Rain forced the temporary closing of several roads in downtown St. Augustine, but most were reopened in just a few hours.

The Bridge of Lions, which links downtown St. Augustine to the beaches to the east, also was closed by up to 3 feet of water but the bridge reopened early in the afternoon.

"What caught us by surprise is we never expected this kind of intense rain," said Fred Crounce, a spokesman for the Brevard County Emergency Management office. He said 11.1 inches fell on the Space Coast.

Wekiva

"If we did not purchase this land and several other nearby sites, we would have forever lost the Wekiva," said Estus Whitfield, chief environmental adviser to Martinez. "That whole area is going to be wall-to-wall suburban pretty soon."

Herbert Kale, vice president of the Florida Audubon Society, said he was pleased. "When you preserve land, you preserve a system," he said. "The Wekiva is a symbol of the lost and forgotten Florida. Canoeing on it, you think you've stepped back a century. It's a historic investment."

The tract the state bought runs nearly a mile along the river, then nearly a mile west of the river. Its preservation will help ensure the habitat for the black bear, golper tortoise and Sand Hill crane, all rare species that live in the area.

The land will be added to the Rock Springs Run Reserve and will either be left as is or used as parkland, Whitfield said.

"The only evidence of civilization you see on the river is the waste people leave behind," Kale said. "Cans, bottles, machinery, stove grates. If we clean that up, the river will stay just as it was a hundred years ago."

LONGWOOD — The arrest of a burglary suspect Tuesday morning by Longwood police led to the arrests of three other men after one allegedly accepted goods stolen in the burglary as payment for crack cocaine.

Police said Michael Craig Brown, 25, of Orlando, was charged with dealing in stolen property and grand theft in connection with burglaries Monday and Tuesday at Best Concrete, 716 Savage Court, Longwood. Brown allegedly told police he traded the stolen goods for crack cocaine at a house just outside Oviedo.

Brown and a City County Investigative Bureau (CCIB) agent, working with Longwood police, went to that Oviedo house at 6370 Weston St., Oviedo, Tuesday night and allegedly bought $20 worth of cocaine from Anthony Brooks. At about 9 p.m.

police and CCIB agents with a search warrant returned and arrested Brooks and two other men.

Brooks and the two other men, Willie D. Brooks, 63, and Carl S. Brooks, 35, of the same address, are charged with grand theft and possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana found in the house, police said. Anthony Brooks is also charged with trafficking in stolen property and sale of cocaine.

Pen Paints closes Sanford plant after 30 years

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN

SANFORD — Pen Paints, founded in Sanford 30 years ago, will close its manufacturing plant here this week.

Duane Wiesner, Pen sales manager, said the company will close its nine-employee plant at 5401 Pen Ave. in Sanford, near the intersection of County Road 427 and U.S. 17-92. The plant will be closed by Sunday, he said.

Pen Paints is moving its operation to Largo, where it will share a newly-completed manufacturing plant with sister company Sun Coatings. Pen will remain a separate corporation, but the companies will combine employee pools for a total of 30 employees, Wiesner said.

"This really is a positive move," Wiesner said. "We have had a very long life here, but the technology has changed. All things have a season."

The new plant will increase Pen's productivity eight times, Wiesner said. The company's three shifts will be able to manufacture about seven million gallons of paint annually in Largo, he said.

The company, which manufactures paints and coatings for independent dealers, was founded as 1959. Pen's facility has grown to exceed $1 million annually. Peninsular Paints and Plastics in 35,000 square feet, and sales Wiesner said.

can be replaced.

"After careful evaluation of testing data, we have decided to change out the controller on main engine No. 2," Bieck said. "That work is beginning immediately."

"We estimate that it will take about two days to assess the time required to complete the work. Therefore we would expect to have a new launch date within the next couple of days."

Astronaut Robert Crippen, a top shuttle manager, said earlier Tuesday work to replace the controller on main engine No. 2 would take up to a week. But NASA has a history of beating such preliminary schedules, and it is possible Atlantis could be ready to take off as early as Monday, Bieck made no estimate.

In any case, the delay was a frustrating blow to Galileo project scientists and engineers. The project already is running seven years behind schedule and $1 billion over budget because of repeated delays since its inception in 1977.

Atlantis's five-member crew — commander Donald Williams, 47, co-pilot Michael McCulley, 46, flight engineer Franklin Chang-Diaz, 39, Shannon Lucid, 46, and Ellen Baker, 36 — planned to fly back to the Johnson Space Center in Houston early Wednesday.

At issue was the possibility that the controller, which monitors engine performance 30 times a second during ascent, could fail during launch, unnecessarily shutting down the engine.

"The worst scenario you could get into is you could shut down an engine when you didn't want to shut down an engine, which would put you in an abort condition," Crippen said.

To replace the breadbox-sized computer, technicians will have to remove heat shields at the base of the shuttle, reposition main engine No. 2, replace the suspect controller and conduct a series of tests to clear the new unit for flight.

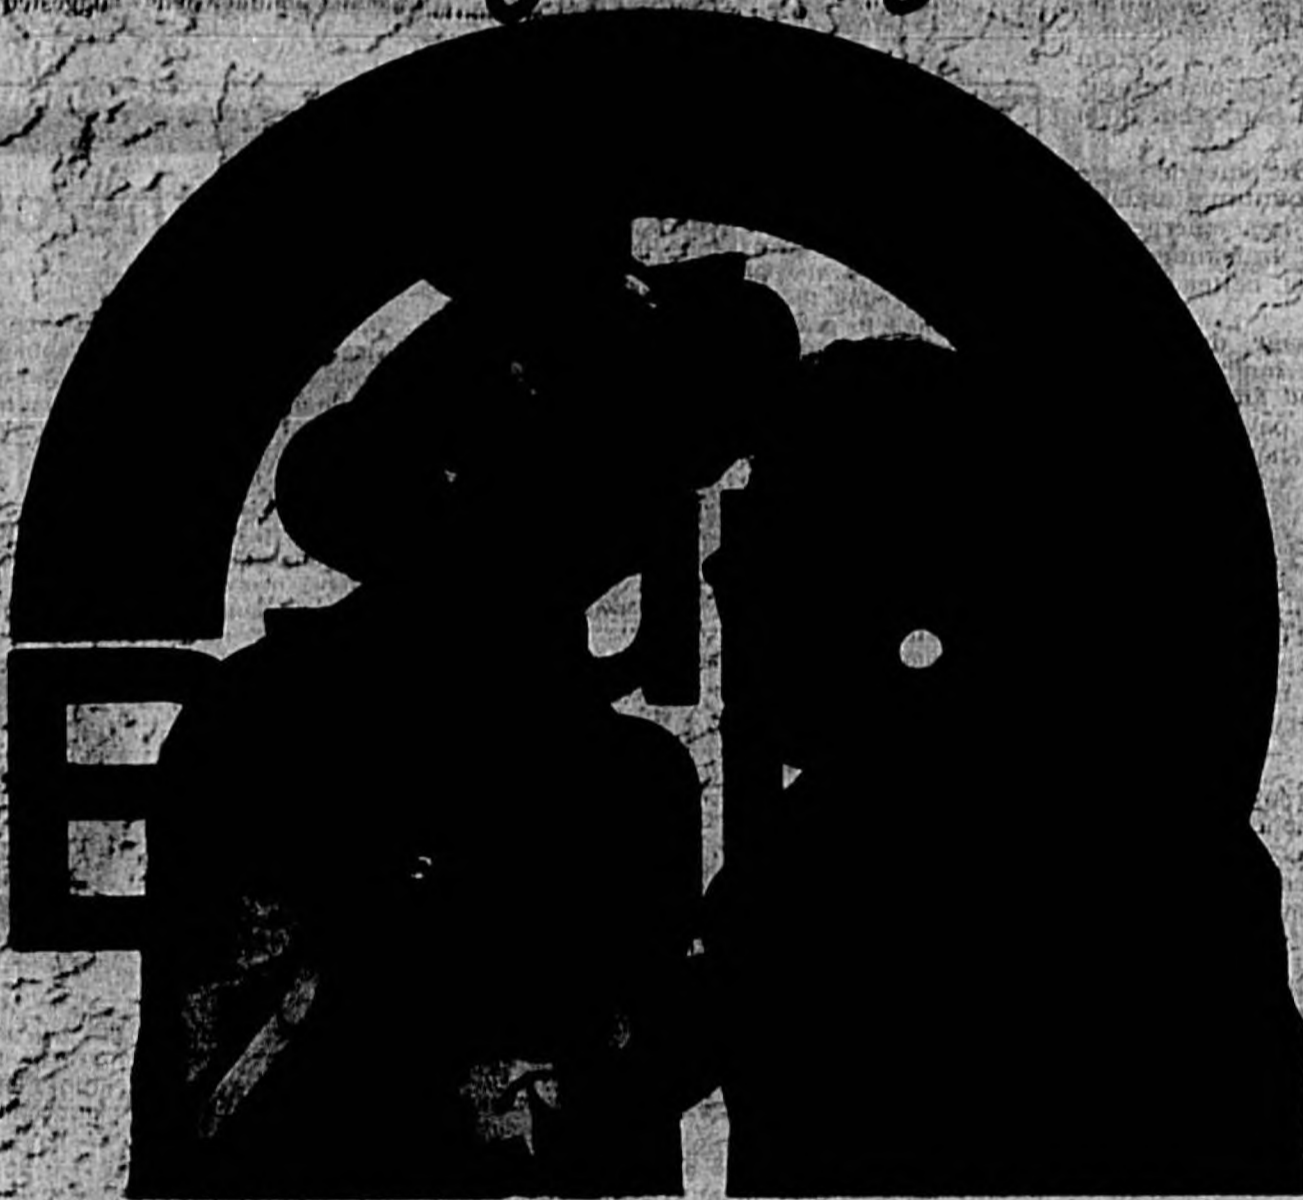

Earlier Tuesday, U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch in Washington denied a request for a temporary restraining order blocking the launch that was filed by activists who argued that Galileo's atomic power packs could leak toxic plutonium into the environment in the event of a launch catastrophe.

"NASA has complied satisfactorily" with government regulations covering the launch of nuclear materials into space, Gasch ruled seven hours after a hearing, removing a legal roadblock to launch.

Take it to heart

If more evidence were needed that President George Bush is lagging behind Americans' strong support for stricter clean-air rules, a House subcommittee has provided it. By a vote of 23 to 0, the panel agreed to extend California's tough auto emissions standards to the rest of the nation by 1996.

This breakthrough in the decade-long struggle to strengthen the Clean Air Act was aided by a compromise between two principal protagonists in the anti-pollution debate, Rep. Henry A. Waxman, a Democrat from smoggy Los Angeles, and Rep. John D. Dingell, a Democrat from Detroit.

The fact that Mr. Dingell was able to reconcile his differences with his long-standing adversary over auto emissions is an indication of broad public backing for tougher clean-air measures than those proposed by President Bush.

Mr. Dingell, a formidable campaigner for the automobile industry, negotiated the best deal he could for Detroit's car manufacturers. But he had to reckon with an American public more firmly committed than ever to reducing pollution from car exhausts, which is responsible for 50 percent of the nation's smog.

Under the measure approved by the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on health and environment, new cars would carry equipment sharply reducing pollution by carbon monoxide, hydrocarbons and nitrogen oxide. Smog-control equipment also would have to be built to last for 10 years or 100,000 miles, as already required in California. At present, the Clean Air Act imposes national standards of only 50,000 miles.

Not unexpectedly, the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers' Association maintains that such proposals are more expensive than the air pollution problem dictates. The association forecasts higher automobile costs, loss of fuel economy, shortages of certain models and more-numerous recalls. There is a certain amount of truth in this barrage of rhetoric, but California has, after all, survived all of these problems with ease.

The House should regard the amended auto emissions measure as a minimum standard. Bipartisan support already has emerged in the Senate for even tougher anti-smog rules. The Senate version is, in fact, better than its counterpart in the House.

The final legislative package, due on the president's desk by Jan. 1, ought to reflect Americans' growing demand for cleaner air and their willingness to pay reasonably higher costs to achieve it. That's a message President Bush needs to take to heart.

Deng's regime fizzles

Explosions rang out again over Tiananmen Square on Oct. 1. This time, it wasn't gunfire, but fireworks set off to mark the 40th anniversary of the country's communist regime.

This was supposed to be a joyful event, but if anything, it served as a sober reminder of what happened there in June — a reminder of joyful students who marched for democracy only to have a brutal military assault silence their voices.

The national celebration thus turned into a sorry exercise in self-congratulation of a group of aging leaders. Only Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping and his political allies and supporters attended the festivities.

As a protest, foreign dignitaries refused to attend; the people of Beijing weren't allowed to.

The cordon of armed soldiers encircling Tiananmen Square during the festivities, protecting China's leaders from their own people, perhaps best symbolized the failing of China's communist regime.

Leaders can crush dissent with tanks, weapons and martial law, but they cannot command respect or approval of bankrupt government policies. They cannot erase the atrocities of Tiananmen Square from history books, no matter how much they lie and cover up.

Deng was deluding himself when he told the North Korean vice president this week that "China's social order has returned to normal." It may be quieter, but a regime that fears its own people so much that they are barred from a national celebration is not ruling under normal conditions.

Deng and his henchmen no longer can make a moral claim to preside over the People's Republic of China. Under their leadership, the country has become a Few People's Republic of China.

Cuomo urges party to confront Bush

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, the potential front-runner for his party's presidential nomination in 1992, is angry at many of his fellow Democrats — especially those in Congress — for working too harmoniously with George Bush.

In a blunt speech delivered recently to California Democrats, Cuomo said it's time for the honeymoon with Bush to end, and for Democrats to begin formulating and implementing their own agenda. The New York governor delivered this message at a packed $500-a-plate fund-raiser that netted a record $600,000 for the California state party.

Contending that many Democrats "have acquiesced" to what he called Bush's "budgetary gimmickry," Cuomo exhorted his fellow Democrats to shed their "political timidity."

"If we choose to be silent because we believe what the Republicans believe, then we should stop throwing these expensive fund-raisers and trade in our donkeys for elephants," Cuomo said. "If we don't believe what they believe, we should say so and begin working aggressively and boldly to improve this nation right now, instead of waiting for the president to stumble."

He acknowledged George Bush's popularity and the difficulties Democrats are having in formulating a policy. But he said Democrats should be heartened by Bush's rejection of many of Ronald Reagan's views and programs. Therein, he said, lies the basis for Democratic action.

"He (Bush) has dramatically advanced the cause of all Democrats and progressives by candidly rejecting his predecessor's narrow view of life in America," Cuomo said. "He's said that we are right, and for that we should be grateful to him. Now he can follow through with substantial government programs that give significant resources to these problems, and we will cheer him. Or he can redefine the old standard of presidential boldness by continuing to speak softly and carry a big tennis racket."

Cuomo said that Democrats, especially those on Capitol Hill, should now push the president to commit much more money to combating drug abuse, child care, homelessness and AIDS or else Bush "will be revealed as an unconverted, conservative Republican."

Even while delivering this rabble-rousing speech, Cuomo downplayed his presidential ambitions as well as his place in the Democratic Party's hierarchy. "I'm not even thinking about it," was his answer to the predictable question about his presidential ambitions that opened a press conference. After the speech he ducked all further questions on the subject with a wave of his hand, adding, "I'm not even a leader of the Democratic Party."

Later, in other interviews, Cuomo insisted that he was not calling for a tougher Democratic approach to Bush in order to lay the groundwork for his own potential bid to unseat the president in three years.

"People are going to write about the presidency," Cuomo said. "I can't stop that. I wish I could. The important thing here is not the messenger. What's relevant is not the messenger. What's relevant is not Mario Cuomo. I'm not talking about myself. I'm talking about ideas."

But it was clear from Cuomo's reception at the fund-raiser that many in the audience do see him as the party's standard-bearer in 1992.

Cuomo downplayed his presidential ambitions.

ELLEN GOODMAN

Al Neuharth ahead of the curve

BOSTON — Al Neuharth, the man who gave us USA Today, thus proving that no trend was too small to grasp and no story too big to condense into 500 words, has not been idle in his retirement. Out of his private jet and into his private life, the man who led Gannett into a mammoth newspaper chain has written a brazen autobiography entitled proudly "Confessions of an S.O.B."

What distinguishes this from books by other moguls about "How I Made Good" is not just the tough-guy title. Neuharth, a journalist to the end, has given room in his autobiography to "the other side" of the story, even though it is the story of his life.

He has allotted two chapters worth of space to his two ex-wives. Thus another new genre is born. One that makes USA Today seem risk-free in comparison.

This may, dear readers, be the first time that anyone, without a court order, has invited an ex-spouse onto this platform to say a few words about him. And speak they do.

Wife Number One, now 17 years post-divorce, writes benignly but frankly about the husband who dumped her: "The status quo is something Al Neuharth simply cannot stand... In the end I, too, represented the status quo, so I had to go."

Wife Number Two puts it somewhat less tolerantly. "Al Neuharth is a snake." His good points? "Give Al this: He doesn't hate. That would require too much emotion and wasted effort." Aaargh.

Though each shows a more (wife number one) or less (wife number two) grudging respect for the author and ex, they don't paint a very appealing portrait of what it's like to be married to a demanding self-proclaimed S.O.B. Nor do his adult kids, also given chapters of their own, make their driven dad sound like Bill Cosby.

What prompted the autobiographer to put out the welcome mat to the ex-wives? A reporter's passion for pursuit of objectivity? An editor's search for a second source on every subject? Is it an illustration of sublime, unshakable self-confidence or impermeable inextinguishability? Or perhaps just the desire to do something wholly unpredictable.

Whatever the motives, I have a sneaky feeling that Al is onto something. We are talking trends. Call this new genre a polygraphy or autobiography with detectors: the creator of USA Today is again ahead of the curve.

The Eighties have seen the literature of egotism divided into two parts. On the one hand, we have the culture of capitalism. One best-seller after another telling us how to Trump this and lacocca that. The best-selling of success has been legendary.

On the other hand, we have the literature of revelations and revenge. Cabinet members, presidential offspring, wives and lovers of the rich, famous, abusive and unfaithful have all set down their tales of woe in front of the word-processor videocamera.

The personal downside of life at the public top has been a staple for the magazines from People magazine to Barbara Walters' specials. We have heard from Ronald Reagan's henchmen and Nancy Reagan's children, from Wade Boggs' traveling companion and Leona Helmsley's chambermaids.

What more natural segue into the Nineties than a literature that combines the best of success with the best of lies and tell or hit and run in one handy volume. The possibilities are endless.

Entrepreneur! The Man Who Climbed to the Top of the Ladder and Those Who Were Crushed on the Lower Rungs.
Superwoman! The Woman Who Has It All and the Housekeeper Who Does Most of It.

Dealmaker! The Fellow Who Made Megamillions and The Secretaries He Paid Minimum Wage.
Big Timer! The Guy Who Started With Nothing and The Parents He Left With It.

If all goes well, we might eventually even see a book about the autobiographers, with chapters allotted to their ghostwriters. But surely the staple of this genre will be the one established by Neuharth, ex-wives and kids.

This genre leads us to a motto for the Nineties: Remember this on your way to the top. You can fire your secretary, divorce your spouse, abandon your children. But they remain your co-authors forever.

I have a sneaky feeling that Al is onto something.

Republicans coercing Democrats to retire

WASHINGTON — Key Republicans in Congress are privately plotting to sweeten the retirement pot for Democrats. There is a reason for this cross-party generosity. It fits into a Republican scheme to convince veteran Democratic representatives to get out of politics before the 1992 election. Republicans would be glad to see strong Democratic incumbents put themselves out to pasture in any election year, but 1992 is special. It will be the first election using new House districts based on the 1990 census. That reapportionment is expected to shift as many as 20 House seats from the North where population is declining to the South where it is booming. The shift is good for the Republicans because Southerners tend to vote conservative. But it is also bad for the Republicans because it means more Democratic incumbents with name recognition will be competing for a fewer number of seats from the Northern states. Republican newcomers won't stand much of a chance.

The solution is to sell some of those incumbent Democrats on the joys of retirement. Sources told our associate Jim Lynch that a group of firebrand House Republicans are quietly plotting to help members of Congress retire in comfort if their district is eliminated by the reapportionment.

The Republicans propose two measures that would make it easier to take the money and run.

First, the Republicans would agree to let all retiring members of Congress take with them their unused campaign funds. The practice of keeping unspent campaign donations is under intense criticism and is expected to be abolished eventually. But the Republican plan would be to protect the practice until 1993, thus allowing those who retire in 1992 to keep their money. It is a tempting incentive. In some cases, members of Congress have amassed war chests of about $1 million.

Second, representatives retiring in 1992 would get a one-year exception to the House pension policy. Currently, a retired member of Congress gets a pension based on an average of the three highest years of his or her salary. The Republicans are considering supporting a measure to allow the 1992 retirees to base their pension on the highest salary they collected while in office. That idea fits neatly in the lawmakers' plans to give themselves a raise from $89,500 to something near $125,000 before the 1992 election.

If the plan works, it would be the topper on what Republicans already expect to be a banner election year. By 1992, they expect to be riding George Bush's coattails into a second term.

The Democrats have enjoyed control of the House since 1955, but the reapportionment stands to eliminate some traditionally Democratic districts, including three in New York and two each in Illinois and Ohio. The Republicans hope they can dominate many of the new districts, including six expected to be created in California, four each in Florida and Texas, and two each in Georgia and Arizona.

If the reapportionment is in the bag for Republicans, why go to the trouble and expense of helping Democrats retire? Maybe the Republicans know their forte is strategy, not math. A veteran Census Bureau official told us that the Republican Party tends not to go through when it comes to estimating the count of poor and urban Americans, the people who vote Democratic.

What are the Democrats doing to minimize the expected damage? They're breathing down the neck of the Census Bureau.

They expect to be riding George Bush's coattails into a second term.

SCC College Night tonight

SANFORD — College-bound juniors and seniors can find out more about colleges and universities at College Night at Seminole Community College in Sanford tonight, Oct. 11 at 7:30 p.m.

There will be representatives from more than 150 colleges, universities, academies, prep schools and the armed forces on hand to answer questions from students or their parents. They will be able to provide information on admissions procedures and financial aid or whatever one might want to know about the institution.

There is no cost to attend the fair.

There will be a similar college night at Valencia Community College in Orlando tomorrow evening at 7 p.m.

School board to discuss new agenda

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board was to decide today exactly how they want to lobby legislators and what issues they will emphasize.

At 1 p.m. in the district boardroom, the school board was to decide on the issues the board feels are most important to the district, then form them into a legislative lobbying program.

Board chairman Ann Neiswender does not think this year's program will differ substantially from last year's. "Nothing much has changed, unfortunately," Neiswender said. She said the district's number one priority will continue to be money.

Abortion

as currently required — before an abortion could be performed. The requirement was the centerpiece of a package of proposals offered by Martinez.

"We'll continue to plug away," Peck said. "We certainly recognize that because one committee kills all bills doesn't mean other committees will do the same."

Anti-abortion activists hoped their fortunes would change at a meeting of the Senate Health Care Committee. The panel convened at 9 a.m. for hearings on four bills, two of which would impose new restrictions on abortion clinics. Lawmakers on both sides of the issue said clinic regulation may be the only one of the governor's suggestions that has a chance of passing.

The demise of the abortion-restricting bills on the first day of the special session was hailed by abortion rights advocates as an important turning point in the nationwide battle over the controversial issue.

A group of about 30 abortion rights demonstrators outside the Capitol Tuesday reacted to the news of the committee's action with cheers. They waved at passing cars and chanted slogans.

Ken Conner, president of Florida Right to Life, called the committee's votes "a sad day for unborn babies," but added that "it ain't over 'til it's over."

The special session, the first in the nation since a U.S. Supreme Court decision in July gave more power to states to limit abortion, has made Florida the focus of the emotionally divisive issue.

Key lawmakers have predicted for weeks that the $40,000-per-day session would be a waste of taxpayers' money and would produce no changes in the state's abortion laws, saying there is no consensus for change among lawmakers on the abortion issue.

Aides to Martinez began trying Tuesday morning for a compromise with key senators that would allow a Senate vote on the clinic regulations bill.

"I certainly would not want to try to play games on the floor and end up going home without doing anything to protect people in this state," said Sen. John Grant, R-Tampa, who sponsored the ill-fated viability bill.

If a clinic-regulation bill makes it to the House or Senate floor, it could become the vehicle for amendments imposing the other proposed restrictions.

It's a long-shot chance, though, because few legislators are enthusiastic about seeing any abortion bills reach the floor of either body. Senate President Bob Crawford and House

Speaker Tom Gustafson, both Democrats, said Tuesday they expect the Legislature may adjourn Wednesday afternoon of Thursday, although the two House committees that are holding hearings on abortion restrictions have yet to vote.

Meanwhile, authorities said they were pleased at the behavior of the estimated 20,000 pro- and anti-abortion demonstrators.

The largest rallies — one Tuesday morning that attracted about 10,000 abortion-rights advocates.

IN BRIEF

BASKETBALL

Celtics going with versatility

BOSTON — The Boston Celtics, whose 1980s success was due largely to their five starters, will feature a more versatile lineup in the 1990s. For years, Boston's starting and finishing lineup was the same: Larry Bird, Robert Parish, Kevin McHale, Dennis Johnson and Danny Ainge. This year's team will go with small lineups, big lineups and combinations.

"With this group of people, we should be able to cover most of the bases," Coach Jimmy Rodgers said Tuesday. "We have some versatility and some interchangeable parts. We were looking for that last year when we went to camp and thought we had it to a certain extent, but obviously by what we did during the course of the season, we didn't have that."

Last year, much of Boston's lineup flexibility disappeared with the loss of Bird, who had surgery to remove bone spurs from both heels. The 6-foot-9 star has played both forward positions as well as the backcourt.

Dallas looking to deal Walker

GRAPEVINE, Texas — Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones and Minnesota Vikings Executive Vice President Mike Lynn conducted a late night meeting Tuesday to discuss the possibility of a trade involving Pro Bowl running back Herschel Walker.

The two executives were joined by Cowboys Coach Jimmy Johnson and Walker's agents, Ralph Cindrich and Peter Johnson, in hopes of reviving a deal which had been made last week.

That trade would have sent Walker to Minnesota in exchange for a package of draft choices, but Walker said he would not go unless his contract was renegotiated.

"We don't have a deal," Lynn said before meeting with Jones. "And until such time as we have a deal, there is nothing to say."

When asked whether he and Jones were going to discuss a trade, Lynn said, "Well, I'm not going to bed yet."

Miami prepared for San Jose

MIAMI — Miami Hurricane Coach Dennis Erickson knows the way to San Jose, and he says he knows what he'll find whenever he goes back there.

"A good football team. I know because I've been there," Erickson said Monday. "They've got great skill. People can look at me and say he's crazy, but I'm tellin' ya, they've got some receivers and they've got some people in the secondary and they can flat run."

Erickson and his second-ranked Hurricanes won't have to find their way to California Saturday because the Spartans (2-2) are coming to the Orange Bowl for the first game ever between the two schools.

Erickson was offensive coordinator under head coach Jack Elway at San Jose State from 1979 until 1981. San Jose's current head man, Claude Gilbert, was defensive coordinator for the Spartans during Erickson's last year there.

Howe wants to comeback

DETROIT — Former Detroit Red Wings star Gordie Howe is planning a brief comeback at age 61.

It could come as early as January with the Hartford Whalers, his current employer and the team he retired from in 1980.

Howe told the Detroit Free Press he wants to play a game with the Whalers to achieve his goal of being the only player in the NHL to have played in six decades.

That's a record he defies anyone, including his friend Wayne Gretzky, to take away from him. Gretzky is currently closing in on Howe's NHL scoring record.

"The only record I'm going to make sure about is that I'm going to come out of retirement after the new year to play one more game in the '90s so that I've played in six decades," he said after watching Gretzky's Los Angeles Kings whip Detroit, 5-0, Sunday night.

"Then I challenge the little guy (Gretzky) to do that."

Oviedo controls SAC

Lion girls unbeaten in conference play

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

LAKE MARY — Oviedo's girls used a strong serving game to down Lake Mary 15-9, 15-12 Tuesday night in a big Seminole Athletic Conference girls' volleyball battle at Lake Mary High School.

The Lions, who improved to 16-2 overall and 8-0 in the conference, will return to action tonight at Spruce Creek. The Rams, now 15-8 overall and 6-2 in the SAC, will return to action tonight at Kissimmee-Osceola.

"It was a real good game," Oviedo coach Anita Carlson said. "Both teams played real well. Each team played good defense and set up some strong attacks."

Both games were seesaw battles with Oviedo taking control at 7-7 in the first game. Heidi Steiner put the Lions up 9-7 with a pair of serves before Lake Mary came up with a sideout on a Tammy Scott kill.

Lori Leckie pulled the Rams even with a pair of serves. The Rams nearly took the lead but Betsy Hughes fed Shannon Wilcoxson a perfect set and Wilcoxson hammered the ball to the floor.

Mimi Tran then served the game out for the Lions, picking up a pair of aces along the way. Lake Mary had trouble handling Tran's serve's in the opening match, allowing her to manage eight service points.

Michelle Wynn, Kerry McCloud and Wilcoxson all came up with strong games at the net for Oviedo. Wilcoxson led the way with five kills and three blocks. McCloud added five kills and a block as Wynn put down three kills, a dink and had a block.

"Shannon Wilcoxson played an outstanding game," Carlson said. "She probably had her best game ever."

Carlson was happy with the performance and knows the win puts her in command to win the SAC title. Lake Mary was the only team capable of tying with Oviedo for the conference title as it came in with one conference loss, which was to Oviedo earlier in the season.

"Lake Mary was ready to play," Carlson said. "I'm glad to be in a match like this. It helps us to play good tough games. These matches take a toll on my nerves, but we need them."

Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry was happy with Lake Mary's performance, but feels her team needs to work a little on its attacking game.

"I'm happy with our defense, our offense is what needs work," Henry said. "We're still without Tara Calvin, and that hurt tonight. But we played well. We just need to go after the ball a little harder and be a bit more aggressive."

Michelle Wynn (No. 13) helped guide the Oviedo offense with some outstanding sets and contributed three kills, a dink and a block as well in the Lions' win over Lake Mary on Tuesday night.

Coaches still looking for consistency

From staff reports

It seems all any of the Seminole County high school girls' volleyball coaches want is a little consistency.

On Tuesday night, even the winners in Seminole Athletic Conference action had trouble sustaining anything. Lake Howell struggled a bit while beating Seminole 15-4, 15-13 while Lake Brantley needed three games to beat Deland 15-8, 13-15, 15-2.

"We're still working at it," said Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano, whose team improved to 10-10 overall and 4-5 in the SAC. "I told the girls we have to be working on getting up off this plateau where we're playing just OK. We have to put a little more effort and a little more work into improving."

In the first game, Lake Howell jumped out in front of Seminole early on the serving of Heather Brann and Tanya Lewis, then cruised to the win. In the second game, Diann Lowe served the match-winning point to hold off a furious Seminole comeback attempt.

"We jumped out to a nice 12-4 lead in the second game, but Seminole came back," said Luciano. "Seminole served well against us. Then we made a few miscues. But we were able to come back. Wendi Van Horn got the ball back for us with a hit at 14-13. Then Lowe served the 15th point."

Rams rally to tame Oviedo

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary's boys volleyball team used a spirited comeback to down Oviedo 8-15, 15-10, 16-14 Tuesday night in a key Seminole Athletic Conference confrontation at Lake Mary High School.

The Rams improved to 15-2 overall, 8-1 in the conference, and will return to action tonight against Bishop Moore. Oviedo fell to 12-3 overall, 6-3 in the SAC, and will return to action Thursday at Lake Brantley.

Lake Mary and Lake Brantley are currently tied for the SAC lead with identical 8-1 records. The Rams are now pulling for Oviedo to upend the Patriots to allow them to take sole possession of first place in the conference race.

"It was an incredible match," Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen said. "It could have gone either way. We just got to a couple balls late and put them just out of Oviedo's reach."

The Lions opened the match with a flurry, led by the serving of Eddie Pizzano and the hitting of Bill Barto. Pizzano used a jump serve to reel off six straight points and Barto came up with three kills in that span.

Barto finished the game with a match-high nine kills, but wasn't as effective for Oviedo in the second and third games, after Lake Mary made some adjustments to stop him.

"He (Barto) was hitting to the middle and down the line," Whalen said. "Then we moved some players around, gave up the corner and forced him to hit wide. That seemed to help us."

Lake Mary came back to cut the lead to 6-5. See Boys, Page 8B

Lake Mary got a strong game at the net from Matt McDonald on Tuesday night as the Rams rallied past Oviedo in three games.

Lake Mary nets swimming sweep

From staff reports

LONGWOOD — In high school sports, you take your wins any way you can.

On Tuesday afternoon, Lake Mary took a pair of wins from Lyman in a high school swimming dual meet at the Lyman pool, the Ram girls winning by a 92-75 margin while the boys took an 88-83 decision.

But Lyman coach Don Clark said afterward that his team was pleased that the scores were as close as they were.

"In the boys, we got beat by five points," said Clark. "I'm not making any excuses, but two of our top boys couldn't swim. But I still felt that we could beat them. We just got beat. We're not worrying about it. It was just one of those things. We'll just get it on down the line."

"We also had two girls who couldn't swim today. We ran out of people at the end of the meet. And Lake Mary's girls are stronger than I thought. But we're not disheartened one iota. We know what we can do. Actually, we're pretty happy we kept it as close as we did, considering the circumstances. That's just the way it goes."

According to Lake Mary coach Sandy Brown, the Rams came from behind in both the boys and girls. Lake Mary swept the top three spots in the boys' and girls' 100 breaststroke to overtake Lyman, then had enough depth to field a pair of teams in the 400 freestyle relay and earn enough points to ice the wins.

"I'm happy," said Brown. "Both teams came from behind to win. They did an excellent job. We had just a little more depth in the girls. It was the same thing in the boys. After the breaststroke, all we had to do was place second and third in the 400 relays. We had enough kids. See Swimming, Page 8B

Sanford, J & J Electric keep pace with easy wins

By SEAN SMITH
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — The two leaders in the Sanford Women's Slowpitch Softball Fall League had an easy time of it as Sanford Electric won 10-0 and J & J Electric won 18-8 at Chase Park Tuesday night.

Sanford stayed undefeated at 5-0 with its victory over Seko Air Freight. Any thought of an upset by Seko was squashed immediately when Electric scored seven runs in the bottom of the first inning and cruised to the victory.

Electric collected 16 hits on offense but the biggest story was the defense as Electric committed no errors and allowed only five runners to reach first. No Seko player got further than first the whole game.

The winning pitcher was Rhonda Miller, who tossed a two-hitter and walked three. Contributing to the offensive output of Electric were Joy Weaver (two singles, two runs scored, two RBI), Sherry McClain (two singles, two runs scored, RBI), Miller (two singles) and Tina Kimball (double, two RBI).

Others who added to the offense were Lisa Schoke (single, two RBI), Connie Thomas and Paula Richey (each with a single, one run scored and one RBI), Sally Carter, Holly Londers, Theresa Walberger and Tony Hardy (a single and a run scored each) and Brenda Scipio and Pam Murray (each with a single).

For Seko, which fell to 0-5, Sandy Reid and Lori Gatans had one single each.

In the second game, CFF scored a run in the top of the first but J & J came back with an eight spot on nine hits in the bottom of the inning. The big hits in the inning were by Lisa Jones and Dana Leonard, who each singled in a pair of runs, and Jackie Suggs, who doubled in one run.

CFF scored a pair of runs in the top of the second to cut the lead to 8-3 but J & J put the game away with four runs in the third and six runs in the fourth. CFF made the score respectable by scoring five runs in the fifth.

J & J, which advanced to 4-1 with the victory, pounded out 23 hits. Leading the attack was Suggs (double, two singles, three runs scored, five RBI), Beth Sparks (double, two singles, three runs scored, two RBI) and Michelle Widener (three singles, three runs scored, two RBI).

Other contributors were Sue Soyka and Kim Eltonhead (each with three singles and a run scored), Jones (double, single, one run scored, five RBI), Julie Ellenberg (two singles, three runs scored, one RBI), Leonard (two singles, run scored, two RBI), Anita Smith (single, run scored, one RBI) and Rhonda Ralston (single, one run scored).

For CFF, which fell to 1-4, Patricia Black had two singles, one run scored, and two RBI, Marie Byrd and Rosa Williams each added two singles, one run scored and one RBI each while Tracey Davison had two singles and one RBI.

Edith Chester singled twice and had one RBI. Denise Byrd and Jo Sanders each had a single, one run scored and one RBI. Tammy Whitley singled and scored a run. Mildred Bailey had an RBI and Tammy Bailey scored one run.

A's have pitching edge in Series

United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO — Even with five days to rest weary arms and devise his best rotation, San Francisco Manager Roger Craig gives the pitching edge to the Oakland Athletics in the Bay Area World Series.

"It should be a good series," Craig said. "They've got power, we've got power. They've got good defense, we play good defense. Their pitching might be a little better than ours right now, though."

Game 1 of the best-of-seven championship is scheduled for Saturday at Oakland — the second straight all-California World Series.

Oakland plans to use the same pitching rotation it did in beating Toronto in the American League playoffs in five games — Dave Stewart, Mike Moore, Storm Davis and Bob Welch. The rest will benefit third baseman Carney Lansford's slight hamstring pull.

San Francisco, which beat Chicago in five games to win the National League pennant, will need the rest to get its tattered staff in shape to face Rickey Henderson and his powerful teammates. The Giants were running out of starters against the Cubs.

But Mike LaCoss now will have at least a week to tend his knee, which he hurt fielding a bunt. And Scott Garrela and aging Rick Reuschel will benefit from time off.

Craig likely will open with those three pitchers. Craig Lefferts must stay in the bullpen because he and Altek Hammaker are the only left-handers. Jeff Brantley and Kelly Downs were effective as relievers and Craig initially may want to keep them there because long relief might be critical against the Athletics.

But the focus on pitching may well give way to the matchup of playoff MVPs — Oakland's Henderson vs. San Francisco's Will Clark.

Henderson led Oakland with a .400 average (6 for 15), walked seven times, stole eight bases, hit two home runs and drove in five runs. His slugging percentage was 1.000 (15 total bases in 15 at-bats).

Good as those numbers were, Clark's were better. He hit .650 (13 for 20) with two home runs and 8 RBI. He walked three times and had a 1.200 slugging percentage.

"Will Clark has just improved all season," Chicago first baseman Mark Grace said. "He's the best player in baseball. I don't even think that's arguable. I hope he leads them to a win in the World Series."

Oakland Manager Tony La Russa planned a Tuesday afternoon workout at the Coliseum. Oakland had a long layoff last year after sweeping Boston in the playoffs. Their opponent, the Los Angeles Dodgers, beat the New York Mets in seven games then took four of five from Oakland in the World Series.

Baseball may see strike in 1990

United Press International

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. — Baseball fans should savor the World Series between San Francisco and Oakland because a Purdue University professor says it could be the last major league game for some time.

A strike or lockout at the beginning of the 1990 season is likely, said Professor James Dworkin, associate dean of Purdue's Krannert School of Management. Dworkin has done extensive research on unionism in professional sports, and he wrote a book in 1981 called "Owners Versus Players: Baseball and Collective Bargaining."

"There are a number of reasons why I'm not optimistic we'll have major league baseball next spring," Dworkin said. "First of all, the contract between the players and the owners expires Dec. 31 of this year, and there has been no earnest bargaining to date."

"That presents a real problem, because the main three issues — salary arbitration, free agency and drug testing — are very problematic, and they don't involve easy solutions. It will take some hard work at the bargaining table to hammer out any solutions."

Baseball owners are concerned with the escalating costs of player salaries, brought on largely by the advent of free agency and salary arbitration.

Free agency has allowed players to market their services rather than being bound to one team. Dworkin said the average salary of a major league player has gone from $29,000 in 1970 to $513,730 — pushing the average team payroll over $12.3 million annually.

A player becomes eligible for salary arbitration when he has played in the league for three years. If the player is unhappy with his team's offer, he can enter arbitration, in which team and player submit a figure to an arbitrator. The arbitrator must then choose one figure; a compromise is not allowed.

Dworkin said even when a player loses at arbitration, he comes out ahead.

"Very few cases actually go to the arbitrator, but the threat is enough to make the owners open their wallets," Dworkin said. "For instance, 135 players filed for arbitration in 1988, and only 12 cases went before arbitrators. Yet the players who filed were able to use arbitration as leverage, and their salaries increased an average of 71 percent, from $387,907 to $661,807."

Dworkin said the owners would like to do away with arbitration and restrict free agency. And money — as has been the case in baseball strikes in 1981 and 1985 — is the big stumbling block.

"If they could iron those two issues out — and that's a big if — I think they could come to an agreement on a drug-testing policy," he said.

If there is a strike or lockout, Dworkin expects it to be a long one. He said players have a $70 million strike fund built from licensing revenues, while the owners reportedly have a $100 million strike fund.

"The strike fund is important to the players because many of them have multi-year contracts with clauses," Dworkin said.

After another heartbreak, Cubs' future looks bright

United Press International

CHICAGO — After a dreamlike season that ended with a slap in the face by the San Francisco Giants, the Chicago Cubs look toward next year.

"This year's over with," said reliever Mitch Williams, who gave up the winning hit Monday in Game 5 of the National League playoffs. "We just finished five games longer than anyone expected us to play this year."

"So I'm happy with the year. I'm not content with it. I think that we can be in a World Series, and hopefully next year we can come out and get a little further than we did this year."

Veteran right fielder Andre Dawson will undergo knee surgery in the offseason. But he will be back with the Cubs having picked up the final year of his contract.

The Cubs also found another diamond in their infield in first baseman Mark Grace, who battled Giants first baseman Will Clark nearly hit for hit during the playoffs. Grace shined along with second baseman Ryne Sandberg and shortstop Shawn Dunston, who put together his finest season. Third baseman Vance Law may move on because of the late-season acquisition of Luis Salazar from San Diego.

The Cubs have three strong catchers. Rookies Joe Girardi and Rick Wrona contributed after Dawson Berryhill was lost with shoulder problems.

General Manager Jim Frey may spend the winter searching for pitching help because Manager Don Zimmer was forced to rely on three main starters much of the season.

Greg Maddux, 23, had his finest season with 19 wins while leading the club in innings pitched, journeyman Mike Bielecki had a career-high 18 wins and veteran Rick Sutcliffe won 16 despite arm problems late in the year.

Frey, however, said he did not want to rationalize losing.

"I'm not inclined to do that," he said. "We'll try it again."

And, again, it will not be easy. The Cubs have not reached a World Series since 1945 and won one since 1908. No team has repeated as champ of the NL East since the Phillies won three straight from 1976-78.

Instead of preparations for Game 6 at Wrigley Field Tuesday, groundskeepers ripped up grass in foul territory. Players arrived at the clubhouse one by one, packed their belongings and said goodbye.

"The 1989 season lasted longer for the Cubs than anyone thought, although it ended abruptly and in traditional heartbreak fashion when the Giants swept three games at Candlestick Park to move on to the World Series against Oakland."

Still, Cub fans can look toward the young players that were so important this season. Chief among them were center fielder Jerome Walton and left fielder Dwight Smith, both candidates for NL Rookie of the Year honors.

"We got a lot of experience this year with the success we had, and success always brings confidence," Smith said. "And I think that's going to carry on to next year."

Girls

For Seminole coach Beth Corso, Tuesday night's loss was more of the same for her young team.

"We were very inconsistent," said Corso, whose team is now 3-10 overall, 2-6 in the SAC. "Lake Howell was very consistent in the first game. They took it away from us pretty quick. We didn't start playing until we were down in the second game."

"We had a real tough time getting a good game out of the team. We just made too many errors. I would have really liked to go three games tonight. Maybe we would have won the match, but we couldn't get it to three games."

Lake Howell returns to action this evening with a home match against Orlando-Colonial. Seminole plays again on Thursday at home against DeLand.

DeLAND at LAKE BRANTLEY

"We're on kind of a rollercoaster," said Lake Brantley coach Dana Gebhart after her team improved to 8-4 overall, 6-3 in the SAC with its win over DeLand. "With kids at this age, momentum carries us through."

"We were playing fine and then one hit killed us and the momentum changed. DeLand had us 14-7 in the second game and we came back. But they won game on an error in the middle."

The loss in the second game appeared to get the attention of the Patriots, who blew DeLand out of the gym in the third and deciding game.

"They weren't talking to each other in the second game," said Gebhart. "Our consistency is OK. We'll go good for a little while. It's kind of like a rollercoaster. But we're getting better. We do have our moments. We're just sporadic at this point. The girls aren't getting the way they have to."

Tonight, Lake Brantley plays at Orlando-Oak Ridge.

LAKE HOWLAND at ORANGWOOD CHRISTIAN MATTLAND — After winning the opening game 15-13, Orangewood Christian dropped the next two games to Lake Highland Prep 15-12, 15-7 and lost the match Tuesday night at the Orangewood Christian School gym.

Orangewood Christian, which fell to 10-7, will return to action next Monday at home against Master's Academy in a 6:30 p.m. match. Lake Highland Prep improved to 8-2.

"As a group, we all played well," said Orangewood Christian coach Lori Schneider. "Where we broke down in the third game was passing. We couldn't get any offense going."

Liver cancer prognosis depends on the type

DEAR DR. GOTT: A very good friend has just been diagnosed with cancer of the liver. What is the prognosis for a complete recovery?

DEAR READER: This is a bad one. Liver cancer is difficult to treat because it is usually an aggressive malignancy that affects a vital organ. Chemotherapy, with or without radiation, may help control pain and slow the growth of the tumor but, I'm afraid, the outlook is far from encouraging.

I might add that I based my answer on the supposition that your friend has primary liver cancer. The liver is often the site of metastases (spread of malignancy) from cancers elsewhere in the body. This is called secondary liver cancer; the outlook varies, depending on the type of cancer and the extent of the metastases.

For example, liver metastases from a colon cancer will shrink and even disappear during chemotherapy for the primary tumor. Therefore, although the chance for a cure is slim, the prognosis depends on the type of cancer, its extent and how well your friend tolerates therapy. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Viruses and Cancer." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had a bone-spur operation and have since developed a lot of scar tissue under my right heel. I've had shots, PT, ultrasound and medication, but the foot has not reacted. My doctor now wants to do surgery to remove the abundance of tissue. What are the chances of correcting this problem, without creating another one?

DEAR READER: I cannot answer your question without knowing the extent of the scar tissue, the amount of your discomfort and the skill of the surgeon. As a general rule, an operation to remove painful scar tissue on the heel should give you relief. No one can say whether new scars will form or give you future problems. On the basis of other cases like yours, I'd recommend having the surgery.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Up came the queen from West — obviously a singleton. At this point declarer could not really afford to draw what surely must be three more rounds of trumps, since a trick might have to be given up in diamonds, and then the defender winning a diamond trick could cash some spades. We really must sympathize with South for winning the king of hearts in dummy and then playing a diamond back to the queen. But then the roof fell in. West won the king and played a club. East ruffed and returned a diamond, which West ruffed. Of course no one knows what would have happened if West had played the eight of hearts rather than the queen. Perhaps declarer would have put in the jack; perhaps not. But high marks to Lynn Deas for a brave deceptive play that worked.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 12, 1989

Usually it's rather impossible to profit from things we truly enjoy doing. The year ahead, however, might be different for you, because it looks like you may be able to make money and have fun in the process.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is a chance something may be lost in communication today in discussions between you and your listeners. What appears to be clever to you might not play too well with your audience. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) Rather than try to rectify a misunderstanding you might have with someone today, you are more likely to remain silent and brood about the alleged injustice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If for some strange reason you feel you have to buy favor from friends today, dismiss this thought immediately from your mind. Purchasing popularity is a bad investment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be mindful of your comments today so that you don't say anything that could offend the boss. To you it might be just a harmless little remark, but to your superior it may be extremely offensive.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may have a very tough time keeping secrets today. Be careful of this weakness, because if you betray a confidence you might not be trusted again.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Giving unsolicited advice to others today is an unrewarding endeavor at best. If your suggestions are tried and they fail, you may later have to deal with an angry individual.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Usually your preconceived ideas pertaining to how you want things done are rather firm. Today, however, you might change your mind so much, it will confuse others as well as yourself.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Even in operations where you usually follow procedures to the letter you might be tempted to make changes today in order to expedite matters. Unfortunately, they may not work.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Avoid risky financial ventures today, especially if the control is in the hands of others rather than yours. If you're dubious or uncertain, back off quickly.

Cancer (June 21-July 21) There is a possibility both you and your mate will be more touchy than usual today over domestic issues, especially where children are involved. Try to pull together instead of tugging apart.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 23) Your inclinations will be constructive today, but your methods and procedures could be so erratic and ineffective you won't accomplish what you set out to do.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 23) Usually you're a reasonably good manager of your resources, but today you might not handle financial matters too well owing to your extravagant impulses. Don't squander your money.

Go for Italian as the weather cools Cooks

Cooler weather calls for heartier meals. I tend to want to prepare something Italian.

A main dish, a crisp green salad, bread sticks, fresh fruit or a traditional dessert and you have a meal for family or entertaining. Some Italian favorites that can be prepared with the help of the microwave oven are manicotti, lasagna, spaghetti and meatballs, and chicken parmigiana. For the small family, some of these recipes can be divided in half, frozen, and brought from the freezer on a busy day.

If you're watching cholesterol, this interesting, low-fat vegetable combination will be a good one to add to your collection.

EGGPLANT MANICOTTI

- 1 large eggplant, peeled
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/2 cup chopped mushrooms
- 1/2 tablespoon margarine
- 1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
- 1 cup ricotta or low-fat cottage cheese
- 1/4 cup Parmesan cheese
- 1/4 teaspoon basil leaves
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves
- 1 teaspoon dried parsley
- 1 egg white
- 1 can (18 ounces) tomato sauce

Slice eggplant lengthwise into 1/4-inch-thick slices. Place in 12-by-8-inch baking dish. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave on 100 percent power 10-12 minutes or until tender. Set aside. Combine onion, garlic, mushrooms and margarine in 4-cup glass measure. Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 3-4 minutes or until just about tender. Stir in cheeses, basil, thyme, oregano, parsley and egg white; mix well.

Spoon about 2 rounded tablespoons of mixture on one end of each eggplant slice. Roll up with filling inside. Place seam-side down in baking dish. Pour tomato sauce over rolls. Sprinkle with a little more Parmesan cheese. Cover with plastic wrap (vented). Microwave on 100 percent power 12-15 minutes or until eggplant is tender.

MICROWAVE MAGIC

Makes about 6 servings of 140 calories each.

This recipe for one can be easily made to serve two by doubling the ingredients and increasing the cooking time to 4 minutes in the final cooking stage.

CHICKEN PARMAGIANA

- 1 tablespoon margarine
- 1 boneless chicken breast
- 3 tablespoons chicken coating mix
- 1/4 cup spaghetti sauce
- 1 tablespoon shredded mozzarella cheese
- Microwave (100 percent) margarine in 9-inch glass pie plate 30 to 45 seconds or until melted. Dip chicken in margarine and the coating mix, coating both sides evenly. Place in pie plate. Cover with paper towel.
- Microwave on 100 percent power 2 minutes; uncover. Top with spaghetti sauce and cheese. Microwave on 100 percent power, uncovered, 1 1/2 minutes or until heated through.

Hint: You can buy a coating mix or you can prepare the following easy one to have on hand for chicken, pork or fish.

Coating Mix:
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs
1/2 cup Parmesan cheese

1/2 teaspoon paprika
Dash of pepper
Combine all ingredients in air-tight container. Use as needed.

This lasagna will become a favorite. Its excellent robust flavor and ease of preparation make it special.

MICROWAVE LASAGNA

- 1 cup water
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 clove garlic, peeled and crushed
- 2 tablespoons parsley flakes
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
- 1/2 teaspoon dried sweet basil leaves
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 1 12-ounce can tomato paste
- 1 15-ounce can tomato sauce
- 1 1/2 cups ricotta (or small-curd cottage cheese)
- 1 egg, lightly beaten
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 6-8 uncooked lasagna noodles
- 1 pound mozzarella cheese, grated
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Optional: Heat oil in a 2-quart casserole dish for 45 seconds to 1 minute.

Crumble beef in a 2-quart casserole dish and microwave on 100 percent power for 5-6 minutes or until no longer pink, stirring occasionally; drain fat. Stir in garlic, 1 tablespoon parsley flakes, 1/4 teaspoon salt, oregano, basil, sugar, tomato paste, tomato sauce, and water. Microwave on 100 percent power 4-6 minutes, or until sauce is bubbly.

Combine ricotta, 1 tablespoon parsley flakes, egg, and remaining salt and pepper in small bowl. Mix well. Four enough of the meat sauce into a 13-by-9-inch baking dish to just cover the bottom. Add layers of 1/4 of the noodles, 1/4 of the cottage cheese, 1/4 grated mozzarella cheese, and 1/4 remaining meat sauce. Repeat. Top with remaining mozzarella and Parmesan cheeses.

Cover with plastic wrap (shield corners) and microwave on 100 percent power 26 minutes, or until noodles are almost cooked. Let stand, covered, for 26 minutes to allow noodles to finish cooking.

Yield: 6 servings. Approximate time: 29-37 minutes

Use lean ground beef and drain off the excess fat to make recipes using ground beef, such as the following, "heart happy."

MICROWAVE ITALIAN MEATBALLS AND SAUCE

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup green pepper
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 can (16 ounces) tomato sauce
- 1 teaspoon parsley flakes
- 1/4 teaspoon basil
- 1/4 teaspoon oregano
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder

Mix meatball ingredients together. Shape into 20 meatballs. Place in a 2-quart casserole dish. Microwave on 100 percent power 5-7 minutes, or until meatballs are set. Rearrange meatballs once or twice during cooking. Drain off excess fat liquids.

Combine sauce ingredients; pour over meatballs. Microwave on 100 percent power 6-9 minutes, or until heated through. Stir once during cooking. Serve over spaghetti.

The alarm sounds suddenly, and a scramble ensues as manpower is mobilized to respond to a trauma/head injury, and a gas leak. Faint, cajun-spicy smells are all that remain of a memorable meal, as Central Fire Station serenely waits for its residents to return.

RICHARD LAZAR'S CAJUN FRIED TURKEY

- 1 10-12 pound turkey, thawed
- 4 1/2 gallons vegetable oil
- Tony Chachere's Famous Creole Seasoning

Cover entire turkey with creole seasoning 24 hours before you plan to cook it. Sit turkey in the refrigerator to marinate. Four to five hours before cooking time, remove turkey and let stand at room temperature. Split breast and cut 1/2 inch deep continuously between wings and thighs around the circumference of the bird to allow hot oil close to the bone.

Outside, heat oil on outdoor fish cooker to 360°F. Use candy thermometer to monitor temperature.

Place turkey in wire basket or skewer it with a coat hanger. Lower into hot oil and cook for 35 minutes, keeping temperature around 360°F.

Oil can be saved and reused if you do not allow the temperature to rise above 360°F.

THE VERY BEST MASHED POTATOES

- 1 small to medium Idaho potato per serving
- 1/2 tablespoon butter per serving
- 1 splash of hot milk or cream per serving (1/4 cup per 4 potatoes)
- 1/4 teaspoon of salt per serving

Wash and peel potatoes. Cover with cold water and boil until tender, when a fork easily penetrates but doesn't disintegrate potato—about 20-40 minutes. Mash with fork or electric mixer, and add remaining ingredients. Beat until creamy, and serve immediately.

RICHARD LAZAR'S BROWNED STEW

- 3 pounds ground chicken
- 3 pounds ground pork
- 3 pounds ground beef
- 66 ounces canned whole kernel corn
- 66 ounces canned tomatoes
- 2 pounds onions
- 1/2 pound butter or margarine
- 1 cup vinegar
- 1 32-ounce bottle ketchup

16 ounces Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper to taste

Combine meats and onions in a very large pot, with 1 cup of water added to prevent sticking. Stir meat and cook until done over medium heat. Reserve 1/2 gallon of the juices. Add tomatoes and corn, stirring constantly for 5 minutes over medium low heat. Mixture should come to a low boil up the center. Keep stirring; it likes to stick.

Add all other ingredients. Keep adding reserved stock as mixture stews down. Cook 4-5 hours (the longer it cooks, the better it gets). Leftovers can be frozen for future meals.

TOM MARTIN'S SPAGHETTI SAUCE

- 1/2 cup olive oil, saute:
- 1/4 cup diced onion
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 cup sliced mushrooms

Add:
1/2 cup tomato paste
2 cups diced, fresh, juicy tomatoes
1 clove garlic or Lawry's garlic salt to taste

1 tablespoon brown sugar
Worcestershire sauce to taste
Oregano, salt and pepper to taste

1/2 cup beef stock
Simmer about 1 hour, uncovered. Makes about 1 quart.

Meatballs:

- 1 pound ground chuck
- 1 egg
- Bread crumbs from 1 slice of bread

Mix above ingredients and add:
1 finely chopped small onion
1/4 teaspoon oregano
Salt and pepper to taste.

Brown meatballs in 2 tablespoons of butter in an iron skillet over medium/low heat. Drain on paper towels and add to sauce.

TERRY HENRY'S BEST BUTTERMILK BISCUITS

- 1 1/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1/4 cup lard or 5 tablespoons butter
- 1/4 to 1/2 cup buttermilk

Preheat oven to 360°F. In a large bowl, mix flour, salt, baking powder, sugar and soda. Cut in lard or butter in a steady stream, add buttermilk. Mix lightly and turn out onto a floured surface. Knead lightly for 1/4 minute. Pat the dough into 1/4-inch thickness, and cut with a biscuit cutter. Bake 10-12 minutes. Makes about 24 biscuits.

Dispute over mom's grave divides sisters

DEAR ABBY: My dad recently died. He was 97. Mother, who is a few years younger, buried Dad according to his wishes in his family's plot near his parents, who also lived to a ripe old age.

Now for the problem: Mother says that when her time comes, she wants to be buried near her mother in a different cemetery in a nearby town. I promised her that her wishes would be carried out, but I am having problems with my sister. (We are both in our 70s.)

Sister says, "When Mother's time comes, if she isn't buried near Dad, it will be a slap in Dad's face. Also, Mom will never know the difference."

Mother and Dad had been married nearly 75 years, and theirs was a less than loving marriage. If you get my drift. What should be done?

THE OLDER SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Since you gave your word to your mother, you are honor-bound to keep it. (If she isn't buried near your dad, it will hardly be a slap in his face, because he won't know the difference either.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a comment concerning the school-teacher who caught two girls "cheating." One girl (a good student) was caught giving another girl (a poor student) the answers during a final exam.

The teacher gave both girls an F on the test as a punishment. The good student complained because it brought her grade-point average down from an A to a C.

I am not defending the student who "helped" the other student, but I think the punishment was inappropriate. Grades should reflect the student's knowledge—not behavior. The teacher was well-aware of which student earned the A anyway, and he had no right to deprive her of the A. However, the other student would probably have earned an F anyway. Hence, she suffered no bad consequences. Grades should never be used for punishment or reward for behavior. There are other methods.

A TEACHER IN LARAMIE, WYO.

DEAR TEACHER: Right on, teacher. You could teach teach-

DEAR ABBY: I was a common-law wife 40 years ago. John and I couldn't marry because his wife wouldn't give him a divorce. We had two beautiful daughters. John died when the girls were 5 and 7. Now they are grown and want to join the Mayflower Society. They need some vital records in order to do so, and I've put them off as long as possible.

Can I get a back-dated marriage certificate? I have John's death certificate and my daughters' birth certificates, showing John as their father; now all I need is a back-dated marriage certificate.

After John died, I married again and had a third child, but my only concern at this time is getting a back-dated marriage certificate so my daughters can qualify for the Mayflower Society. Thank you for any help you can give me. Please hurry.

WAITING IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR WAITING: Your common-law marriage would not have been valid under any circumstances, since John was already married. Even if you had been married by someone authorized to perform a marriage ceremony, your marriage would have been bigamous and, therefore, invalid.

You cannot get a "back-dated" marriage certificate" because the marriage you describe as "common-law" was clearly invalid. Sorry, but your daughters are out of luck so far as joining the Mayflower Society—if their eligibility depends upon their parental ancestry and the legitimacy of your relationship with their father.

SEMINOLE SCENES

Fascinated by spiders
Nathaniel Lyman, 3, of Oviedo, looks at the spiders at the Flea World Zoo. Nathaniel was visiting the zoo with his grandfather, Melvin Scott.

Missed shot
The way "green" fouled Kelly Cartey-Campbell's shot at the miniature golf course.

Aid for Hugo victims
Jennifer Rainey, an employee at Sun Bank in Sanford, adds to the donations for Hurricane Hugo victims being collected at the bank while Joann Turnbull, a loan officer at the bank, looks on.

Collecting refuse
Ed Kerr of GBX, Clearwater, looks at paint cans that Ralph Hockenberry of Longwood dropped off during the Florida Amnesty Days for hazardous waste disposal.

When on assignment, the pictures shot by Herald photographers vary in angle, pose and content, and not all of them are published immediately. From time to time, the newspaper takes a second look at those news and features scenes from around Seminole County.

SANFORD HERALD ADVERTISING WORKS!!
SEMINOLE SPORTING GOODS
2494 S. SANFORD AVE., SANFORD

This letter is to express our pleasure with the advertising efforts by the Sanford Herald for Seminole Sporting Goods. The insert for our first truckload sale was a huge success! The response from the insert was everything we had hoped for, and more.

Every step of the advertising from the planning, artwork, and the selection of area to cover was handled with extreme professionalism by Michael Flynn, and it was a pleasure to work with him. On more than one occasion Michael went above and beyond the call of duty to see everything ran smoothly.

It will be our pleasure to continue working with the Sanford Herald for a long time to come.

Thank - You!

120,000 expected for this year's festival

HEATHROW — L & L Acres Ranch across from the Heathrow community could be another Yeagur's farm when about 120,000 people trek out the weekend of Oct. 14 and 15 for the Third Annual Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

One organizer has compared it to the Barnum & Bailey Circus coming to town.

This year, 122 artists, mostly from Florida, will exhibit fine arts, photography and crafts. Cash awards totaling $15,000 will go to exhibitors.

The festival is called an "outstanding show incorporating the best of the visual and performing arts" because it is a combination of fine arts exhibits and live entertainment rather than rows of booths with crafts. While art lovers roam the ranch to discover unique artistic displays, they will continually be serenaded by international strolling bands which will perform throughout the festival grounds in authentic costumes. Some of the bands are Mariachi

Some new attractions this year will be helicopter rides and an aerobics and skydiving demonstration sponsored by Cesar Prado Golden Triangle Ford and First National Bank of Central Florida.

Also, a romantic evening under the stars will be provided by Florida Symphony League in its "Jeans and Classics" outdoor concert at 8 p.m., Saturday. The concert will feature light classical and pops selections performed by the Florida Symphony Orchestra and musical hits from the 50s by The Diamonds. This is the only ticketed event of the festival. Proceeds benefit the Florida Symphony Orchestra.

Festival-goers will experience continual visual attractions with artistic exhibits under 22 different tents and children will have a chance to discover the artist in themselves by participating in workshops by Crealce School of Art. Six workshops every day will give children the opportunity to create wearable art pins and sun visors as

Local artist Nancy Raborn

Longwood artist designs festival's official poster

The beautiful poster that adorns the cover of this section is the official poster of this year's Lake Mary Heathrow Arts Festival. It was designed and created by Nancy Raborn, a native Floridian and a Longwood resident.

She approaches painting in a traditional manner, "seeking to evoke an emotional response from the viewer to the beauty and vitality of life" she sees in the subjects she paints.

The versatility of Nancy's talent can be seen throughout her varied subject matter, which may be as diversified as grand Victorian homes bathed in sunlight gloriously creating intricate shadows, to a deeply moving interpretive religious painting that compels the viewer to respond emotionally, to a group "portrait" of children invited to "say cheese" with all the dignity and abandon of self-consciousness only a group of children at the business of enjoying life can reveal.

Samuel Butler once said "A man's work whether in music, painting, or literature, is always a portrait of himself." Nancy's paintings, regardless of the subject matter, consistently reflect the peace and joyful attitude she has toward life.

Nancy earned a B.A. in Art Education from the University of Central Florida, but quickly found herself immersed in the "doing" instead of the "teaching" of art. She has served as art director to a large international magazine, as illustrator for an advertising agency, and as a pastel portrait artist at Walt Disney World.

Her paintings can be seen in a growing number of private, corporate, and public

Manjura the spark plug that makes the show go

By SANDRA BOUGHANNE
 Herald staff writer

HEATHROW — As executive director of The Centerra Group, a small non-profit corporation situated in the Heathrow International Business Center, Bonnie D. Manjura is in the business of promoting business.

Manjura wears two caps, so to speak. She is also chairman of the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts. Her second-floor office is fashionably done in emerald and salmon tones, which conforms to the tasteful Heathrow standards.

A gold-framed, matted poster, the artwork done especially for the second annual festival, lights up the dark wall behind her. The festival's first annual poster hangs on the opposite wall. In the center, the meticulous Manjura sits behind a dark wooden desk.

This office is where she and her assistant can be found, sometimes into the wee hours of the morning. When not occupied by her regular work, Manjura is managing the affairs of the festival.

She points to a sofa against the wall. "That's where I spend a lot of my nights," she jokingly says.

A picture-perfect professional, Manjura has an acute sense of organization, almost to a fault. But, chairing a festival of this size is no easy chore. It is expected to attract about 120,000 people this year with 122 artist exhibitors. Although Manjura tends to shy away from publicity, it is she who is responsible for the detail that goes into preparing the festival, down to invitations to a cocktail party or making sure thank-you notes go out promptly.

"We run it very much like a Fortune 500 business. It is very much controlled," she says.

The 30 festival committees range from children's art activities, to security and parking. The committees and the board of directors meet once a month to discuss the status of the festival.

If Manjura is modest about the magnitude of the festival, she says she is a little surprised by it all.

In March of 1987, it was two Lake Mary commissioners (Richard Morris and John Perry) who approached Manjura with the idea for a Lake Mary-Heathrow festival. As she describes it, it was a "non-scheduled visit" and the commissioners were interested in "some type of festival" on behalf of the city and the Chamber of Commerce.

Manjura spreads her arms in a circle, imitating what she had done that day when she said, "Well, we can have it right here."

Obviously, Manjura said the magic words. Together, she and the commissioners "hammered out an outline," she says. There were no expectations, not even any plans to make the event an annual one. After that, they didn't talk until June.

By October 1987, the First Annual Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts was born with Manjura as the administrator.

"I've never done an event of this magnitude in four months. The first festival debuted with an audience of more than 70,000. What was supposed to have been a small, quality arts festival turned out to be the "largest in the history of Seminole County," a title it still holds.

"It was kind of a fluke. Lake Mary is an area that appreciates the arts and landscape. We had no idea our first year out is where we thought we would be in five years," Manjura says.

Because of the unexpected magnanimity of the event, it wasn't without problems that first year. Manjura says they weren't prepared to handle the transportation or the parking. There weren't even enough refreshments at the concession stands.

"We were prepared, but not to that extent," she says.

Now, the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival board of directors, committees and community and business sponsors are making the Third Annual Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts possible.

Under Manjura's chairmanship, things fall into place like the pieces in a puzzle up until the day of the event. Everything is taken into consideration in the planning stage, as far as keeping an exhibitor out of the sun if their skin is sensitive. Everyone who has contributed in some way to the festival is accounted for on a computerized "vendor donor list".

"I know the name of every clown, every product. We list everything. We really created a computer model," Manjura says.

Manjura attributes the festival's success to the board's policy of donating the money earned from concession stands and parking to a scholarship charity. This year the money will benefit students who want to pursue arts in area colleges.

"We're one of the only festivals that give the money away," Manjura says.

Besides a close call with inadequate power because of power companies lending staff, equipment and supplies to hurricane-ravaged South Carolina, Manjura has only one other fear — weather, because it is uncontrollable. But even that has been investigated by a check on climatological data for Central Florida. It points to a beautiful weekend for the festival.

Event has brief but impressive history

The Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts is an outstanding show incorporating the best of the visual and performing arts. The concept was the first of its kind in Seminole County. In 1987, the festival's first year, it was recognized as the largest event ever held in the history of Seminole County as it debuted with an audience of more than 70,000. Judging from public attendance, the festival's concept was an instantaneous success from its inception.

The 1989 event is hosted by the Heathrow community at the L&L Acres Ranch and area businesses: Lake Mary Centre; Scott & Martin Construction Co.; Publix Markets; Oylor Construction Co., Inc.; L & L Acres Ranch; Heathrow Graphic Enterprises Inc.; Florida Potting Soils; Roche Inc.; Shannon-Whittle Construction; First Union Bank; Robert W. Florida Symphony Orchestra to perform Saturday

The Florida Symphony League will present "Jeans and Classics," a new outdoor concert to raise funds for the Florida Symphony Orchestra, at 8 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 14, at the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

Sponsored by Coca-Cola Foods-Makers of Minute Maid, the concert will feature light classical and pops selections performed by the Florida Symphony Orchestra and musical hits from the '50s performed by The Diamonds. Resident Conductor Michael Krajewski will conduct. Program highlights include "Overture to Captain Blood," the "Blue Danube Waltz," "Theme from Superman," "Neil Diamond in Concert," the "Poet and Peasant Overture" and "Eleanor Rigby."

As with the popular Spring Concert in Longwood and Windermere, concert-goers are encouraged to arrive early with their blankets, flashlights, candles and picnic dinners for a romantic evening of music under the stars.

Tickets are $12 in advance and $15 at the gate. A 50-percent discount is available for students and active military personnel with valid identification. Tickets are available at the FSO Ticket Office at 1900 N. Mills Ave., Suite 3, Publix at Heathrow, Brown & Company at Longwood Village. TicketMaster locations or by calling 894-2011 and charging to MasterCard, VISA or American Express.

Gates open at 6:30 p.m. The rain date for the concert is Sunday, Oct. 15 at 8 p.m.

THE CONDUCTOR

Since joining the Florida Symphony Orchestra as resident conductor in 1988, Michael Krajewski has won the hearts of Central Florida. His podium wit and friendly demeanor have made him a favorite with audiences of all ages.

Whether conducting classical, pops or contemporary music, Krajewski has a way of sharing his love for his music. Critics have described his enthusiasms as "contagious."

The Kansas City Times said, "He was able to communicate his enthusiasm for the music not only to those on stage, but to the listeners as well."

Noted for his light-hearted commentary at pops concerts, Krajewski also conducts concerts in the Masterworks and Chamber Series; the annual Nutcracker, Holiday and Spring concert; as well as educational and outreach concerts.

In addition to his conducting engagements, Krajewski oversees and directs an extensive educational program that brings the symphony to elementary, junior and high school students throughout Orange, Osceola, Seminole, and Lake counties. Last season, his orchestra performed 89 concerts for more than 61,900 Central Florida school children.

Krajewski often serves as a spokesperson for the symphony, and last season his likeness appeared on the poster used to promote the popular Spring Concerts presented by the Florida Symphony League.

Krajewski also serves as a member of the board of directors of the Florida Symphony Youth Orchestra and WUCF-AM radio station.

This season, Krajewski assumes the role of music director of the Modesto Symphony Orchestra in Modesto, Calif., a post he will hold concurrently with his FSO position.

Before joining the FSO, Krajewski was assistant conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra for four years. For three years, Krajewski also held the post of music director of the Detroit

Symphony Civic Orchestra, a pre-professional training orchestra of young musicians. Under his leadership, the orchestra twice received awards from the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) for adventurous programming of contemporary music.

In addition, Krajewski served as music director of the St. Clair Shores Symphony Orchestra for three years and as artistic director of the Dearborn Summer Music Festival for five years. He has appeared as a guest conductor with orchestras across the country. Recent appearances have included the San Francisco Symphony, the Denver Symphony and the New Hampshire Music Festival Orchestra.

A native of Dearborn, Mich., Krajewski attended the University of Michigan, Wayne State University and the University of Cincinnati

College-Conservatory of Music. As part of his professional training, he was one of five participants in the Buffalo Philharmonic Young Conductors' workshop under the direction of Michael Tilson Thomas, a student of the Pierre Monteaux Domaine School for Conductors, artist in residence with the Michigan Opera Theatre and Dorati Fellowship conductor of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra.

THE HISTORY

Founded in 1960, the Florida Symphony Orchestra is Central Florida's leading cultural institution. Based in Orlando, the 70-member, professional orchestra presents a 39-week season that extends from September to June. The FSO performs approximately 150 concerts per year, with approximately 100 rehearsals preceding these appearances.

The FSO is classified by the American Symphony Orchestra League as a Group II Orchestra and is recognized by the State of Florida Arts Council as one of 18 major institutions.

During the season, the FSO presents a wide variety of programs, including a Master works, Pops, Chamber, and Coffee Concert Series, a family Holiday Concert, an annual production of The Nutcracker, and community concerts in schools, hospitals and parks throughout Central Florida. In addition, the FSO provides orchestral support for the Orlando Opera Company, the Bach Festival and Southern Ballet Theatre. The FSO reaches more than 180,000 listeners annually.

The FSO was organized following World War II in response to a recognized need for an active symphony orchestra. An orchestra had been active in Orlando during the 1930s, but it had ceased operations because of the lack of personnel caused by war.

Under the leadership of such civic-minded citizens as John Tiedtke, Rollins College treasurer; Robert S. Carr, former Orlando mayor; and business-woman Helen E. Ryan, the Central Florida Symphony Society was organized in 1960. An orchestra was assembled, and Yves Chardon was engaged as conductor. A group of 40 musicians performed a six-concert series on an operating budget of $30,000. In 1962, the orchestra achieved full professional status with all musicians paid and under contract.

The first music director was succeeded by Frank Miller in 1964, followed by Henry Maser in 1969, Herman Hertz in 1967, Pavle Despalj in 1970, Sidney Rothstein in 1982 and Kenneth Jean in 1986. In 1978, Alfred Savia joined the orchestra as assistant conductor and was named associate conductor in 1979. Michael Krajewski followed Savia as resident conductor in 1986.

Music Director Kenneth Jean has sparked new enthusiasm for the FSO. A dynamic, young conductor, known for his energetic and spell-binding performances, Jean also holds the positions of associate conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and principal guest conductor of the Hong Kong Philharmonic Orchestra. Jean conducts concerts in the Masterworks and Chamber series and directs the artistic development of the FSO.

Resident Conductor Michael Krajewski is initiated a warm and enthusiastic response from audiences of all ages since joining the FSO. In addition to his more visible role conducting concerts in FSO concert series, Krajewski also oversees and directs the FSO's educational program.

Presently, the FSO operates with an annual budget of $3.9 million. Fifty-four percent of the FSO's revenues comes from earned revenues such as ticket sales and fees for orchestra services while the remaining 46 percent must come from contributions. The FSO is supported by the Associate Board of the Florida Symphony Orchestra and the Florida Symphony League through various fund-raising activities.

In 1988, Benjamin Greene joined the FSO as executive vice president, bringing with him an extensive background in orchestra management. David S. Albertson, president of Albertson International, is president of the FSO board of directors for the 1989/90 fiscal year.

The mission of the Florida Symphony Orchestra is to maintain a nationally recognized symphony orchestra to be known as the Florida Symphony Orchestra; to perform concerts; to enrich the cultural life of Florida communities; to promote the enjoyment of music and related arts; to encourage the art and profession of music by establishing high standards in performance of orchestral and symphonic concerts and to assist in the education of young musicians.

A premier art jury has selected more than 150 artists from around the United States to exhibit in this event. The artists will display their works outdoors, surrounded by the scenery and natural landscape of the L & L Acres Ranch, located across from Heathrow. Cash awards total $15,000 and purchase awards will be made additionally.

Concurrently, there will be performing arts programs with performances ranging from formal symphonic music to modern jazz. On the evening of Saturday, Oct. 14, the Florida Symphony Orchestra and The Diamonds will hold a ticketed concert entitled "Jazz and Classics." As part of the weekend festivities, this event will help raise funds for the Florida Symphony Orchestra.

Proceeds from the festival go toward the sponsorship of ships for Seminole County students, in addition to an ongoing endowment for the continuation of festivals, which enhances the area's quality of life.

Scholarship monies increased more than 50 percent from 1987 to 1988. This year, the festival board has announced two scholarship for Seminole Community College; the Dr. Burt Perinichief Scholarship and the Grady Kinsey Scholarship.

The Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts provides a unique combination of fine and performing art, offering the visitor a full palette of visual and audio stimuli which makes this event more than the typical crowded line of arts and crafts booths and vendors.

More than 19 volunteer committees, 20 businesses and 300 civic volunteers contribute their expertise, goods and services to assist the coordination of this event.

The festival is governed and managed by an elected board of directors, which is made up of key volunteers who have nurtured its suc-

Centerra a growth regulator for Lake Mary area

Centerra was formed as a non-profit corporation in April of 1985 and brings together the common interest of developers, major employers and citizens in protecting and enhancing property values and the quality of commercial, residential, recreational and cultural life in the Lake Mary-I-4 corridor. In doing so, the members of Centerra engage in activities encompassing managed growth, environmental planning, transportation, real estate development, marketing, special events and activities of privatization.

The organization's focus includes the already funded Lake Mary-I-4 interchange, a localized people mover system, a grant from the Urban Mass Transit Administration - focusing on a Seminole County and Centerra people mover system, the interchange demonstration project for I-4 and SR 48A, the Lake Mary Boulevard Study Committee, and the Orange and Seminole County Beltway segments.

In the past, Centerra participated in negotiating proposed development amendments for the St. Johns River Water Management District, as well as the one-cent local option tax for roads to assist the Seminole County Beltway project, the MTA Referendum, the Florida Congressional Partnership, etc.

Centerra's underlying mission is to bring together the synergy of businesses and individuals who are working for a quality, planned regional development area.

The membership is comprised of major employers, land owners, developers, businesses, individuals and other interested parties - they are highly diverse, accomplished and motivated.

well as wire and wood sculptures.

Stage performances will be given by local talents like Miriam and Valerie's School of Dance Arts, singers and musicians from area high schools and Cheyenne Stampede from the Cheyenne Saloon at Church Street Station.

Besides the visual and social amenities the festival provides, food by a local caterer will satisfy the more carnal needs.

"There's something for everybody," said Bonnie

Manjura, festival chairman.

"We're not here as an ego fulfillment. We look to fulfill what the people want. We each year address those needs. We're going to keep it new and exciting and let the general public tell us what to do," she said.

More than 19 volunteer committees, 20 businesses and 300 civic volunteers contribute to the festival.

Proceeds made at the concession stands and from parking are not kept for the festival but go toward the sponsorship of scholarships for Seminole County students and to an ongoing endowment for the continuation of festivals. Information on scholarship recipients is publicized after the festival.

FSO music director tops in his field

One of America's most talented and dynamic young conductors, Music Director Kenneth Jean is now in his fourth season with the Florida Symphony Orchestra.

Concurrent with his service as music director, Jean also holds the position of associate conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and principal guest conductor of the Hong Kong Philharmonic Orchestra.

When Sir Georg Solti became ill, Jean took over his performances with the world-renowned Chicago Symphony Orchestra. The Chicago Tribune said of his debut subscription performance, "Jean proved he was ready and able to fill so important an assignment, and to fill it in a most professional manner." The San Antonio Express-News described him as "utterly impressive — a master not only of the orchestra, but of the music — with almost shocking attention to detail... Jean's reading of the second movement of the Rachmaninoff Third Symphony), was like that of a grand impressionistic tone poem. It was simply delicious."

Jean is making his mark in the music world in the United States as well as abroad. This season, Jean will conduct the Orlando Opera Company's production of La Boheme in February. He has conducted numerous orchestras as a guest conductor, including the Denver Symphony Orchestra, the Honolulu Symphony Orchestra, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, the Minnesota Orchestra, Seattle Symphony Orchestra, Scottish Chamber Orchestra, Orchestra of the Swiss Radio, Park Theater Orchestra of Stockholm, the Belgrade Strings and the South West German Radio Orchestra of Baden-Baden at Donaueschingen Festival of Contemporary Music. In addition, he has conducted a number of Canadian orchestras, including the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra, the Calgary Philharmonic and the Vancouver Symphony.

A prolific recording artist, Jean has made several recordings as principal guest conductor of the Hong Kong Philharmonic, including "Colorful Clouds, the Hong Kong Philharmonic Plays Chinese Classics," which earned two platinum records, the complete Brahms Hungarian Dances, a record of the works of the leading Chinese composer Dulcifying-Ming-Xin and a record featuring orchestral works by Massenet. Other recordings include the complete orchestral works of Ravel and "Spanish Festival" recorded in Czechoslovakia and the orchestral works of Berlioz recorded in Poland.

Born in New York City, Jean grew up in Hong Kong. In 1967 Jean's family moved back to the United States to live in San Francisco. Jean later enrolled at San Francisco University as a violin major, but after two years he decided to pursue conducting studies. At the age of 19, he entered the Juilliard School and was accepted into the conduction class of Jean Morel. During the following year, he made his Carnegie Hall debut with the Youth Symphony Orchestra of New York and was immediately engaged as the orchestra's music director. He also served on the staff of the Aspen Music Festival and Blossom Festival School and was a principal conductor for the White Mountains Art and Music Festival. Jean served as resident conductor for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra from 1979 to 1985 and was conducting assistant of the Cleveland Orchestra for two seasons.

As music director of the FSO, Jean conducts performances throughout the season and is responsible for the artistic development of the orchestra. During his tenure, Jean has inspired the FSO to achieve higher levels of artistic excellence while attracting new audiences through its creative and adventuresome programming.

HEATHROW WOODS

Heathrow Woods features luxurious custom built executive homes on one acre homesites. Four, five and six bedroom homes built by Heathrow-approved quality builders.

Ask a sales representative about this special neighborhood starting from $350,000.

Racquet & Swim Club

ARVIDA ANNOUNCES THE PREMIERE OF NEW NEIGHBORHOODS AT HEATHROW FROM $164,000 TO OVER $1 MILLION.

Heathrow is a luxurious planned community with over three thousand acres of rolling countryside and clear blue lakes. And, you will find all of the amenities you expect at Heathrow - a Country Club with a championship golf course and dining prepared by an award-winning chef. Also there is the Racquet & Swim Club - a spectacular multimillion-dollar complex with nine lighted Har-Tru tennis courts, plus an oversized swimming pool and clubhouse with lunch and evening dining.

When you live at Heathrow, you are close to everything Greater Orlando has to offer.

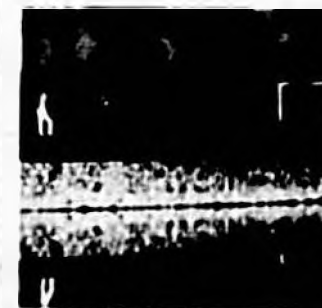

Be sure to visit our all-new Sales Center today for an introduction to the exciting world of Heathrow.

The Sales Center is located just west of the I-4 exit on Lake Mary Blvd. at 1275 Lake Heathrow Lane (2nd Heathrow entrance). Heathrow, Florida/Telephone (407) 333-1400. Open daily 10 am to 6 pm or by appointment. Broker cooperation warmly welcomed.
