

Schmeling Wins In Great Style From Risco Proving His Claim To Greatness

Cleveland Baker Is Floored Four Times In Fight But Comes Back And Gamely Attacks His Opponent

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—It takes a great man to beat a very good man, and that is what Max Schmeling was last night when he took the measure of Johnny Risco.

The Cleveland baker was called out on his feet after a minute and five seconds of the ninth round by a humane referee. Yes, John was good. Very good, but Schmeling was so much better that he actually knocked Risco out. He was silly, leaving referee Arthur Donovan nothing to do but award the Dempsey of the Deutchlands what is said to be the first legitimate knockout ever scored at Risko's expense.

Four times he had Risko on the ground and not another man in the ring today would have taken him from the ground. Schmeling was a perfect bullfighter. But Risko has the chin of an china and he got up and fought back heroically. He still was striking out blindly at his tormentor with the fighting instinct of the true fighting man, although barely able to keep his feet, when the referee wisely decided that too much was a great pity. He saved this amazingly brave man from an actual knockout since it was inevitable that over this glove swapper never was destined to see the tenth and final round.

The fight was nothing less than a rifle mauling, a display of glorious courage that filled the eyes and gladdened the heart. Risko furnished much of this with his last game stand against the inevitable. He was all over in the end, but it was the great fighter and not the very good one who turned in the performance that sent the witnesses gibbering out into the street.

He did things in this fight that left not the slightest doubt of his greatness. No other kind of a fighter could have taken the mauling Schmeling gave him through the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds and then, with a single punch in the seventh, practically ruin a man like John for the remainder of the evening.

No other kind of a fighter, not even the old Dempsey, could have taken a man like Schmeling to a man that Schmeling did in the ninth and last round. This was really workmanship, no less, the witness rushed, the "ringside" when it was all over to talk in a coherent, almost "the most champion of the world" and finally there was nothing that could be said.

The man who has a chin of iron, or he would have been knocked out by a chump like Gyp Daniels. And before he got out of hand it might be well to say that Schmeling's punch is not the thing which is the Schmeling's claim to a third round fight but when you get a fighter who can box and hit with two hands like Schmeling, you undoubtedly have something to brag about.

Incidentally, the young man knows something about the potato potato, as Risko, who covered the fight, says, "I saw Schmeling's chin close a third round fight but when you get a fighter who can box and hit with two hands like Schmeling, you undoubtedly have something to brag about."

GAMBLING ACTION WILL NOT AFFECT BATTLE IN MIAMI

Dempsey Says Talk of Dropping Stribling-Sharkey Got Bank

MIAMI, Feb. 2.—The talk of dropping the Stribling-Sharkey fight would be called off.

"But there's no legal objection to the fight," said Dempsey. "No but if the tracks were closed it would hurt," said one of the track men. "I'd be glad to do anything I could to help the track," said Dempsey. "The Rickard estate is interested in the Miami Beach Kennel Club."

Out of that one of the racing men made the statement that Dempsey had threatened to call off the Sharkey-Stribling fight if Governor Doyle E. Carlton carried out his order banning race track gambling.

"It's the bank," said Dempsey recently, when he heard of several hours later. "The fight will go on as scheduled. Race track or no race track, the fight will be held. I spent most of the day allocating ringside tickets. The arena is under way. Stribling has started training with his first workout. Every man is fixed with set orders. This fight is not dependent on race tracks or any other diversion. It will be held as scheduled."

The offer of the California city of a quarter million dollars for the fight was just a laugh to Dempsey. "But the fight will be held in Miami Beach to Tex Rickard and originally planned. Any other story is the bunk."

Governor Carlton took action against the gambling in a referendum to Sheriff M. P. Lottinow of Duval County in which he ordered the sheriff to "make an immediate investigation and take necessary steps to see that the laws are enforced."

The Governor said that many complaints had been lodged with the attorney general in relation to race tracks in and about Miami.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THE INTEGRITY OF GOD—The Lord liveth, in truth, in judgment, and in righteousness; and the nations shall bless themselves in him, and in him shall they glory.—Jeremiah 4:2.

AIN'T IT NINE TODAY

Sure, this word is full of trouble I ain't said it ain't. Lord! I've had enough and I ain't Lord for complaint. Rain and storm have come to me, Skies were often gray; Thorns and brambles have beset me. On the road—but say, Ain't it fine today!

What's the use of always weepin' Makin' trouble last? What's the use of always keepin' Thinkin' of the past? Each must have his tribulation, Water with his wine. Life it ain't no celebration, Trouble? I've had mine— But today is fine.

It's today that I am livin', Not a month ago, Havin' Josie, Takin' Gysin', As fine will it so, Yesterday a cloud of sorrow, Fall across the way; It may rain again tomorrow, It may rain—but say, Ain't it fine today! Douglas Mallory.

Did you hear that fellow in the crowd remark the other day when President Coolidge's train stopped here for a few minutes, "Why I thought a Republican leader had come."

It would not seem to be an unusual thing for some 100,000 persons attending the South Florida Fair during the first five days, and the Tampa Tribune says that in 1924 there were 200,000 more than in 1927.

Charles Lindbergh's "sopped-off" sleeping on Miami for Tampa, Florida, half over the state for the first time. The few more small planes will be leaving for the St. Vincent, Cape Canaveral, St. Petersburg, Sanford and other points in the state.

The Tourist Season

That Florida is in the midst of its most successful tourist season there can be little doubt. There are many evidences at hand to substantiate the assertion. Reports emanating from Jacksonville are to the effect that passenger train arrivals far exceed those of other years while an unprecedented migration of northern motorists is noted in bridge toll figures. Advances from Miami, Palm Beach, St. Petersburg and other resort centers show that hotel accommodations are already at a premium with thousands of new visitors arriving daily.

Floridians are not alone in recognizing the success of this winter season. Other states have been quick to see it, some of them admitting it perhaps grudgingly others proclaiming the fact with praises and felicitations. The growing list of notables, which Florida entertains annually, has been commented upon favorably. The presence, simultaneously of President Coolidge, President-elect Herbert Hoover and President-reject Alfred E. Smith has increased the state's prestige and has been observed as an indication of the growing popularity of the Sunshine State. One of the most wholehearted expressions of praise recently appeared in the Columbus, Ga. Enquirer-Sun, which editorialized under the heading, "Florida's Red Letter Day." Said the Georgia paper:

"Another storm has hit Florida—a veritable tornado of distinguished visitors. President Coolidge heads the list of this trio of notables which includes also the President-elect and the defeated but undaunted candidate who made the recent national campaign a real event.

"It is doubtful if ever before the President, the President-elect and the defeated candidate for the Presidency were in the same state at the same time. Small wonder then if California and New England cast envious eyes in the direction of the South where sunny Florida is entertaining the three notables. And this unusual incident may be the happy omen of the returning prosperity of our sister State which has experienced such harrowing years so recently.

"Prostrated by an over-inflated boom and ravaged by storms, Florida has faced the future with courage and determination. If land values were driven too high by adventurous speculators, it is also true that the natural advantages of Florida are still the same—her tropical climate and sunshine and her almost endless fringe of ocean and gulf.

"The rest of the country is looking to the South not only for industrial and agricultural opportunities but as a place where zero winters are unknown and frost is infrequent. Florida is sure to share again in the prosperity which is headed toward Dixie, and Georgia is glad that this is true."

Longer Skirts And Costly Jewelry

While American women, perhaps, have not been waiting with their tongues hanging out for the influx of Spring and Summer fashions from the Parisian style center, they have no doubt been quietly wondering just what would happen next to the garment once used as a covering. It seems only fair to believe that they may have been worried least the skirt, if it got much shorter, would disappear altogether.

So they breathe more easily as they read today reports contained in the Universal News Service that "the big guns of the Paris fashion army opened fire this week with an impressive roar which will swell in crescendo to a middle of the month climax with all weapons participating in a thunderous drumfire on the feminine world," and that the decree is that skirts will be slightly longer.

Positive tendencies in mid-lady's apparel are in addition to dresses which actually reach the knee, the following: "Evening gowns with draperies almost or quite trailing the floor.

"All clothes extremely close fitting at the hips, thus continuing to emphasize the slender hip.

"Yokes on both waists and skirts.

"Use of lingerie for collars and cuffs.

"Even more costly jewelry than ever before." This latter tendency will be as painful for young husbands to contemplate as longer skirts will be pleasing. The struggling stratum of society which has strained a point to purchase the madame a two dollar and fifty cent string of beads for a Christmas present, will gasp as it thinks of future jewelry store bills. And yet, one cannot have his cake and eat it to, Ladies to attract must be attractive. If they cannot show the dimples in their knees, they must have diamonds on their necks.

Perhaps short skirts are not so bad after all.

VANDERBILT PAYS UP

Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr., is too much of a synthetic newspaper man, the product of both houses forcing and parental millions, to arouse any great admiration from others of his craft. His progress in journalism came originally through the willingness of certain newspapers to buy articles signed with the name "Cornelius Vanderbilt" and then in the smallest type, consistent with the rest, "Jr."

By young Vanderbilt, it is alleged, his father's name was used to peddle the family scandals which were being blown along, supposed that his career was equally miraculous and meteoric. Not satisfied with working for the tabloids, he started a chain of his own.

The result was a wreck of the fortune of Cornelius Jr., and when Cornelius Sr. refused to put up any more money there was a nervous breakdown.

SIDNEY LANIER

Sidney Lanier, American, lover of the beautiful everywhere, will be remembered in the plans for the unveiling of a marble bust to Sidney Lanier in Mason on next Sunday, February 3. Funds for the bust, which is the work of Augustus H. Suptor, were raised by the Sidney Lanier Memorial Association. It will be especially fitting recognition of the great singer of the South, by his own people, for he was born, and died, in the South. He was born in North Carolina in 1851 at the age of 23. It was while his body was racked with disease and he was in a hospital in a

The various trials of circumstances which bring on great war as a result more in evidence than in the present controversy over the tariff building program of the country. Surely every body believes that competitive armament aggravates war psychology towards an eventual sure breaking point. The United States sincerely desires to induce the world into a competitive armament, but the power of this country's voice to persuade depends, it seems, on our having enough ships of war to command the attention and respect of other nations. In other words we were obliged to go in for competitive armament in order to take the lead against competitive armament. The only counter-measure which our statesmanship has been able thus far to break

In the proposed consolidation of the Presbyterian and Methodist denominations in America, difficulty is going to be in the naming of the new order. Doyle Carlton keeps his own counsel on the tax reform measure, he will recommend to the legislature this spring. Meanwhile he is very sensibly striking at the heart of the whole trouble by cutting down expenses without regard at all to the tender emotions of political parasites.

wrote the beautiful poem which will live on and on through the centuries. Lanier, like Paul Hamilton Hayne, suffered the lack of money and during the time he was both ill and attempting to write, it was incumbent upon him to earn his livelihood, of course, by other means than his pen, in the remuneration of the poet is small at best. It seems to be the lot of geniuses, in many cases, to starve immolated when they are departed. Happily, Lanier was made a professor of English literature at Johns Hopkins university and during the last two or three years of his life was engaged in a congenial atmosphere and occupation, while he indulged his tastes for music and poetry.

The most famous of Lanier's poems, "The Song of the Chattahoochee" and "The Hills of Habersham and the Valleys of Hall," while his "Marches of Glynn," a poem describing the great march country along the Georgia coast, was equally famous.

It is well that we pay tribute to the sweet singers of the South who have done so much for our cultural life, says the Augusta Chronicle. In this day of things arid and commercial we need to be lifted from our environment and transported to the higher spheres, to dwell for a short time at least, with those who had thoughts of things eternal and spiritual and who saw their life as a preparation for a

FOR THE SECOND TIME

STOCK EXCHANGE MEMBERSHIP

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

If recommendations of its board of governors are accepted, the New York Stock Exchange will permit take steps to expand its membership for the first time in half a century.

Proposed consolidation in 1922 with the Government Bond Department and the Open Board of Brokers, the Stock Exchange had a membership of 533. That small number brought in 527 new members, bringing the combined association up to 1,060. Ten years later, in 1932, the size of the additional seats was authorized, making the total 1,100, at which figure, despite various proposals looking toward expansion, it has remained to this time. The present plan contemplates a 25 per cent increase, which would bring the membership up to 1,375. It is expected to meet with favor among the members themselves because it permits seat-holders to sell their equity rights directly, each present membership being granted a quarter of a "right" in new seats sold.

The expansion of membership by the Exchange is a logical step in the far-reaching program of that institution to bring its facilities up to a point where they can successfully meet the demands placed on them not only currently but for some time to come. Of these needs that have long been apparent for the purpose of bringing the physical facilities of the Exchange abreast of volume of trading activity, two have concerned the execution of orders and the third the reporting of executions. These needs have been, respectively, more floor space, larger membership and increased speed on the part of the ticker.

As far back as 1921 the first of these problems was formally attacked with the addition to the old building of the "tower wing" and the enlargement of the trading floor. This move proved insufficient, however, and during the last year the Exchange has advanced for the purchase of two additional buildings, one of which will give it the entire trading area of the old building, and the other will be used for the new trading area. This is further emphasized by the fact that 100,000 copies of the day's news from the ticker symbols and mechanical refinements in the ticker itself, with that instrument in its present form geared to its maximum capacity the Exchange's engineering experts have long concluded that it has been rendered obsolete by the amazing increase in stock trading in the last year or two. Accordingly, they have developed, and are now putting through its final tests, a new instrument which, they assert, will have from two to three times the capacity of the present ticker. This, it is expected, will be ready for general installation within the current year.

If the members of the Exchange accept the present proposal of the board of governors to increase the membership the third of the pressing problems of that institution will have been solved. Moreover, a tradition will have been discarded which for some time has militated against the flexibility of the Stock Exchange in its efforts to keep abreast of the times.

FREE PUBLICITY

BARTOW RECORD

Perhaps there has never been a time in the history of newspapers of Florida when they were called upon to give so much free publicity to various enterprises without any possible chance of receiving in return that which is so necessary for the successful publication of a newspaper—advertising.

Nearly every mail brings enough propaganda to fill an average size newspaper, and in most instances the stuff is purely advertising matter and should not be published, unless as advertising matter.

It seems that practically every man or firm who is trying to promote something is attempting to work the newspapers for free space and many of the papers are falling.

There is, however, an even worse sort of attempt to get free publicity, than that which comes through the mails. The local newspapers are often called upon to boost some local enterprise and does it freely, and then the said enterprise or individual gets ready for some printing and repays the newspaper by giving the printing to competitive job printing office or else send it out of the city and county entirely. If a newspaper boosts your proposition in its columns, the least you can do for it would be to see that all commercial printing is given to its job printing department.

Reading Habits Of Newspaper Readers

ORLANDO SENTINEL

Upon our desk is an interesting brochure on "Reading Habits of Newspaper Readers." It is published by the University of Florida under the auspices of the General Extension Division. Its author is Elmer J. Baig, head of the Department of Journalism. The work is stimulating in suggestiveness. The bulk of this editorial furnished more than a brief description of the author's "Reader-Interest Questionnaire."
