Olympic Games Ready For Reform?

Restoration of the Olympic Games to their initial purpose of emphasis on the athletes, with moves to bring their status into line with modern thinking, is the grave and momentous challenge which must be met before the torch of the 1976 Olympics is lit in Montreal.

The tragic, unhappy and divisive 72 affairs which bestrode on the host city Munich a blame which it should not have to bear, could become the graveyard of all Olympic hopes.

We trust it will not. But an encouragement which the new rules, that will emerge when the new International Olympic Committee meets to start the huge task of reform, could bestow must be avoided.

Injection of the national political interests of the many nations and the major powers into such games has been an infection that has in charge have either refused to recognize or have decided that firm steps would make a bearable situation unbearable.

The 72 games with the tragic massacre of Israeli participants, Arab terrorists and a West German policeman have shown how wrong this premise was and the need for a complete review. If "terrorists" were the only factor, the changing and global character of this threat would give the disaster a definition that would be difficult enough to solve.

But the way in which some of the judging was conducted and some of the events were run off and some of the arrangements were carried out presents a complex of IOC problems which need Olympic handling, first at the national level and then at the top.

To dismiss the recently concluded games as a total loss would be not only unfair but, in fact dishonest. For there were many times when the hearts of men were emboldened as the athletes completed with rare skills, consummate grace, and unbelievable endurance.

To each one, in his or her own right, should go the thanks of all sport lovers. Because these are games, not political contests, and the true spirit of the Olympics can brook no invasion into their rightful territory.

Avery Brundage, the retiring IOC president and the one who most embodies the classic definition of an "amateur" calls the games the most trying he had ever presided over but the octogenarian continued his championship of them with "... the Olympic spirit is too strong to die — or be killed by anybody."

That it will survive and do so with grace is indicated by the attitude which the new IOC president Lord Killanin has adopted. After conferring with athletic leaders from six nations, discussing Olympic eligibility rules, Lord Killanin made it clear that he opposed an open professional Olympics, he did not rule out other possibilities.

This new president is, quite in character and quite properly, recognizing that the national Olympic committees must meet, must come to their own conclusions and then the international committee can do its major responsibility of decision.

To most it is essential that the games be handed back to the athletes and that they be allowed to prepare themselves and present themselves as dedicated participants who are excelling for sport's sake.

We have not commented on the financial side of the games as this is one area where the present all-out support of its athletes by some governments and the lack of support by others, creates a base upon which equal contests by equal contestants is just not possible.

Impossibilities have always been a sort of hallmark of the Olympic games, however. One such took place in the closing days. This was (as Frank Shorter, a Munich-born Florida-dwelling Yale graduate, won America's first gold medal in the Olympic Marathon since 1908, ending 16 years of Ethiopian domination.)

This is an earnest of the Olympic hope for '76. May it be realized then again and again and by nation after nation!

Things Done, 830 More To Do

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Many people complain, "I've got a thousand and one things to do." Me! I can't make that complaint anymore. I've only got about 830 things to do.

The 830 things are the number of columns I still have to write before I retire at 65, and the Great Pocketbook in Washington, D.C., turns around and starts dribbling back free money my way.

There was a time, however, when I had 8,206 things to do but didn't know it—else I'd have gone into a coma to escape such a doom.

That was when I first started writing this column just 29 years ago this month. It was a battlefield baby, born on the beach at Salerno during our invasion landing in Italy in 1943.

The chance at it I owe to my friend of a lifetime, Ernie Pyle. The great success of Ernie's wartime humor interest column about soldier life led a number of Associated Press editors to ask if there wasn't room in American journalism for a similar type of column to be carried by The AP. It turned out there was.

Ernie's column led him to a lasting fame and a premature death at 44. Mine has led me through two more wars and 67 countries and the minds and hearts and souls of hundreds of people. I have met and written about—to well, to here.

The more people you meet, the more they confuse you. They are almost as unknowable as God. Ultimately, every man is a stranger to himself as he is to others.

Another thing wrong with people, a columnist finds, is their stubborn refusal to take my advice. I've told them for years to stay married and stay out of wars, and what happened? Today we jump into wars and jump out of matrimony. And our wars now last longer than our marriages.

The supposed occupational ailments of columnists are smugness and vainglory. I think, however, that most of them suffer more from a condescended humility arising from their secret realization of how impossible it is for them to achieve even one lasting moral of their dreams.

But here I am, heading into the home stretch with only 830 days at the typewriter left in which to save mankind and make a better world. I feel like a 90-pound anemic version of Hercules thrust into the vast Augean stables, handed a small toothbrush, and told, "Clean it up, kid."

Munich Tragedy Taint Among Us

By BRUCE BOSSAT

Reacting to the brutal murder in Munich of members of the Israeli Olympic Team, a man in this capital asked: "Were any Americans there, the answer is of course 'no.' But in a broader sense, the response has to be 'yes,' not only for all Americans but for everybody in the world."

What the Arab "Black September" fanatics did was a victory for terrorism, even though they failed in their attempt to win release of 200 other terrorists imprisoned in Israel. They did kill 11 innocent Israeli athletes, and they did briefly disrupt great games intended to symbolize international brotherhood.

Yet the real lesson in this horror will be missed if the world does not go beyond mourning the dead and decrying the terrorism. What most needs to be deplored is that this was another victory for irreconcilability in a world where, these days, it is too often cruelly enshrined as a virtue.

That irreconcilability and separatism should be sought and even hailed anywhere today is incredible, given a globe shrunken in time and distance. Separatism is a primitive human condition, excusable only in the tribal isolation of long forgotten centuries.

Only people who have lost their way, or have never found it, could mistake this dead-end for a path to rewarding life. Still, that's the route being taken by extremists in the Middle East, in shattered Northern Ireland, in parts of Asia, Latin America.

Most Americans perhaps would like to believe that they are free of this separatist madness. But the fact is that their political and social life is increasingly tainted by it. Explicit and inherent in the very nature of effective democracy is the idea that men of diverging characteristics and viewpoints can accommodate to each other. Reconciliation and compromise are at the core of government rooted in the popular will.

Today, however, compromise is scorned in some quarters as a departure from purity, as a spineless yielding to expediency. The "innocence" of the 1960s is perceived by some as a mark of steadfast courage, when in truth its spirit is autocratic and antimocratic.

Black Americans, properly disturbed by the stubborn lingering of discrimination and disadvantage, have seen their extremists' separatism as a path to dignity and well-being in a nation still nine-tenths white.

Many young people, heartened by force of numbers, have sought by violence to separate themselves from American society. Those who "live" in the streets are the most visible sign of this chosen isolation.

The present-day "politics of demonstration," taken to its extremes in the use of force and disruption, bears real kinship to the terror of Munich. The weapons, whether lightly applied in vandalism and human harassment, or wielded by machine gun, are extortion and blackmail. Again, the spirit and the act itself are deliberately antimocratic.

Ex-Convict Tells Of Life In Prison

By MARILYN GORDON

Ed. Note - A Herald Exclusive, this seventh of eight part series deals with story of a former prisoner now turned minister and gives a revealing look behind prison bars. Told in his own words, name is changed to protect identity.

My name is Jack S. I have been invited to speak to this class (Dr. W.D. Allen's class in "Sociology and Deviant Behavior" at FTU) to give you some idea of the other side of those metal bars. The penal system was developed to provide three functions, custodial, coercive, and corrective. My imprisonment was in the most backward state in this country, South Carolina. Rehabilitation was a joke. You were really a criminal when you were released by the State of South Carolina.

"I was the product of a broken home at 13. A doctor we knew gave my friend and I some prescriptions for barbiturates and we had them filled, but the police caught up with us and the Judge gave me probation. They took my car away and I thought that so unfair that I grabbed from the compound and drove it away. For that I got three months.

"I was arrested over 100 times for things relating to alcohol. I spent a year in a county jail, sometimes on a chain gang. County jails are always poorer in every way than state prisons. The building was in the hole and had been condemned for 30 years and they still used it. I spent 48 days in solitary confinement in a 7x7x7 steel cubicle. Our three meals a day were breakfast at 4 a.m., lunch at 8 or 9 a.m., and dinner around 11 a.m. Around 1964 they were still using chains and the hole. Once I spent 30 days in the hole and had only four meals the entire 30 days. You would see men that were healthy go in and come out like walking skeletons. They were chained to the wall and got two biscuits a day. A boy I knew working in the kitchen got 30 days in the hole because he tried to sneak a friend a cigarette in a biscuit.

"I had a group of friends in prison with a code of ethics developed by the warden in the male prison. In sexual activity it is the wolf who is performing the act on the dog or punk. That is, the wolf is active and the dog is passive. Many inmates see the wolf as having no real part in homosexuality. He is seen as one who seeks out a partner to be used for the mechanical act of achieving an orgasm. He is considered as just masturbating with another person."

Lewis Unseats Yarborough

By RICH OPPELL Associated Press Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Victorious Gerald Lewis today vowed to work toward making the Public Service Commission a consumer-oriented agency after ousting Jess Yarborough in a bitter Democratic primary in which he tagged the incumbent as "a rubber stamp of the utility companies."

Lewis, however, moved swiftly to heal wounds with Yarborough and seek the support of the other two PSC members for his general election battle against Republican nominee Paul Hawkins on Nov. 7.

But the silver-haired, 65-year-old Yarborough said in conceding defeat that he might sit out the Lewis-Hawkins battle. "If (Lewis) does what he's talking about, he'll wreck the state," Yarborough said in an interview.

With 2,728 of 2,978 precincts, or 92 per cent, reporting, Lewis had 344,889 votes to Yarborough's 277,809. This gave Lewis a 55-45 per cent margin in his victory over the incumbent.

Meanwhile, State Supreme Court Justice David McCall predicted he would win reelection in the Oct. 3 runoff after plugging in a solid 43 per cent plurality in the only other statewide race.

It headed the list of judicial races in Florida's first non-partisan balloting for judgeships.

"I'm sorry we didn't go over the top," said the 41-year-old McCall, appointed to the Supreme Court in 1970 by ex-Gov. Claude Kirk. "But we'll do that on Oct. 3."

With 2,753 precincts, or 92 per cent reporting, McCall has 276,002, leading Rivers Buford Jr., 45, former State Board of Education general counsel, into the runoff.

Fifteen candidates sought five seats on various district courts of appeal — which fall between the circuit benches and the Supreme Court in Florida's judicial system. Results produced three clear winners and two runoffs.

Judge Gerald Mager, former legal aide to Gov. Claude Kirk, won election over John V. Russell of Boca Raton in the Group 9 seat of the 4th District Court at West Palm Beach.

Larry O'Brien: An Old Pro At Work

By RAY McHUGH Copy News Service

WASHINGTON—Lawrence F. O'Brien is the kind of red-head Irishman you like to have on your side in a fight.

Just ask Sen. McGovern. Twice the Democratic presidential nominee has spanked his eager, young staff and moved O'Brien, the old pro, back into a commanding position in his 1972 bid for the White House.

Even the 55-year-old O'Brien, son of a Springfield, Mass., bartender and political protégé of the late President John F. Kennedy, admits that McGovern faces an uphill battle. But without organization, O'Brien has warned McGovern, "There ain't no chance."

Officially, O'Brien is campaign chairman for McGovern. There are as many unofficial definitions of that role as you want.

When the dust settled after the Miami Beach Democratic convention, O'Brien was chairman of the Democratic National Committee. He had held the post through two difficult, debt-scarred years. He had maintained some semblance of unity. He had done a masterful job of chairing a convention that often seemed on the brink of chaos. He had made key rules interpretations at the convention that eased McGovern's path.

It was commonly assumed that O'Brien would be reappointed chairman by the nominee. It was reported—never confirmed—that McGovern did ask O'Brien to continue, then relented under pressure from his suspicious junior aides and suggested that the red-head share the chair with Mrs. Jean Westwood of Utah, O'Brien refused, so the story goes, and Mrs. Westwood became "chairman" or "chairwoman" or "chairperson." O'Brien appeared out.

In less than a week, confronted by the confused vice presidential picture, McGovern turned back to O'Brien and recruited him as "campaign chairman."

In the turmoil of replacing Sen. Tom Eagleton with R. Sargent Shriver, revamping the $1,000 tax dividend plan, redrawing tax reform and welfare proposals and wooing independent-minded Democrats in Congress—plus the attention-grabbing Republican National Convention—O'Brien slipped from view during August. He bounced back suddenly in early September with a public "ultimatum" to McGovern. It amounted to a demand that McGovern give O'Brien a free hand to pull together a disjointed campaign effort or face overwhelming defeat.

"If you see me around here next week, you'll know some things have been worked out my way," O'Brien told newsmen.

O'Brien is still the McGovern chairman and Gary Hart, the senator's young, abrasive campaign manager, is admitting that O'Brien is now "No. 1."

Whether O'Brien can pull the battered McGovern machine back into the race in nine weeks is questionable. Public opinion polls indicate he faces an almost insurmountable task, but O'Brien's friends in both parties agree "if anybody can do it, Larry can."

Religious Notebook Another Kind Of Learning

By REV. DAVID POLING

We soon will be told by the people in charge the number of young people returning this fall to school. We have the statistics for Head Start, the enrollment for those in grade school, as well as the figures for those studying overseas. It is an educational culture, a school system in which we live and it is a force that touches every citizen. Yet education does not guarantee intelligence and advanced learning will not necessarily provide improved morality. Bright students are not always better people or even nice to live with.

For the back-to-school crowd, the following thought of the late Dr. James A. Francis is worth clipping. It has been around, but school has not worn its wisdom:

One Solitary Life Here is a man who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another obscure village. He worked in a carpenter shop until he was 30, and then for three years he was an itinerant preacher. He never owned a home. He never had a family. He never went to college. He never set his foot inside a big city. He never traveled 200 miles from the place where he was born.

He never did one of the things that usually accompany greatness. He had no credentials but himself. He had nothing to do with this world except the naked power of his divine manhood.

While still a young man, the tide of popular opinion turned against him. His friends ran away. One of them denied him. He was turned over to his enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between two thieves. His executioners gambled for the only piece of property he had on earth, while he was dying—and that was his coat.

When he was dead, he was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen wide centuries have come and gone and today he is the centerpiece of the human race and the leader of the column of progress.

I am for within the mark when I say that all the armies that ever marched, and all the navies that ever sailed, and all the parliaments that ever sat, and all the kings that ever reigned, put together have not affected the life of man upon this earth as powerfully as has that One Solitary Life.

Friday night, the Oviedo Lions play the Sanford Seminoles in a game which could go a long way in determining the final Lions' season record. It is the opening game for both teams and their first action since the jamboree games nearly two weeks ago.

The Lions have a soccer style play kicker by the name of Alan Daniels. He is a 5-6, 120 pounder, he is unquestionably the smallest player on the team. Something else which has made the Coaches at Oviedo feel a little better this year is the fact that only a few players will be required to play both offense and defense.

Tigers Reverse Pattern, Tighten AL's East Race

By HAL HUCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

One game separates four teams in the American League East today as Boston, Baltimore, New York and Detroit head for the homestretch in the best race the AL has had since 1967.

The Red Sox are in front with the Yankees and Orioles one-half game behind and the Tigers one game off the pace. And that is tight.

Southern Cal's Rae AP's Back Of Week

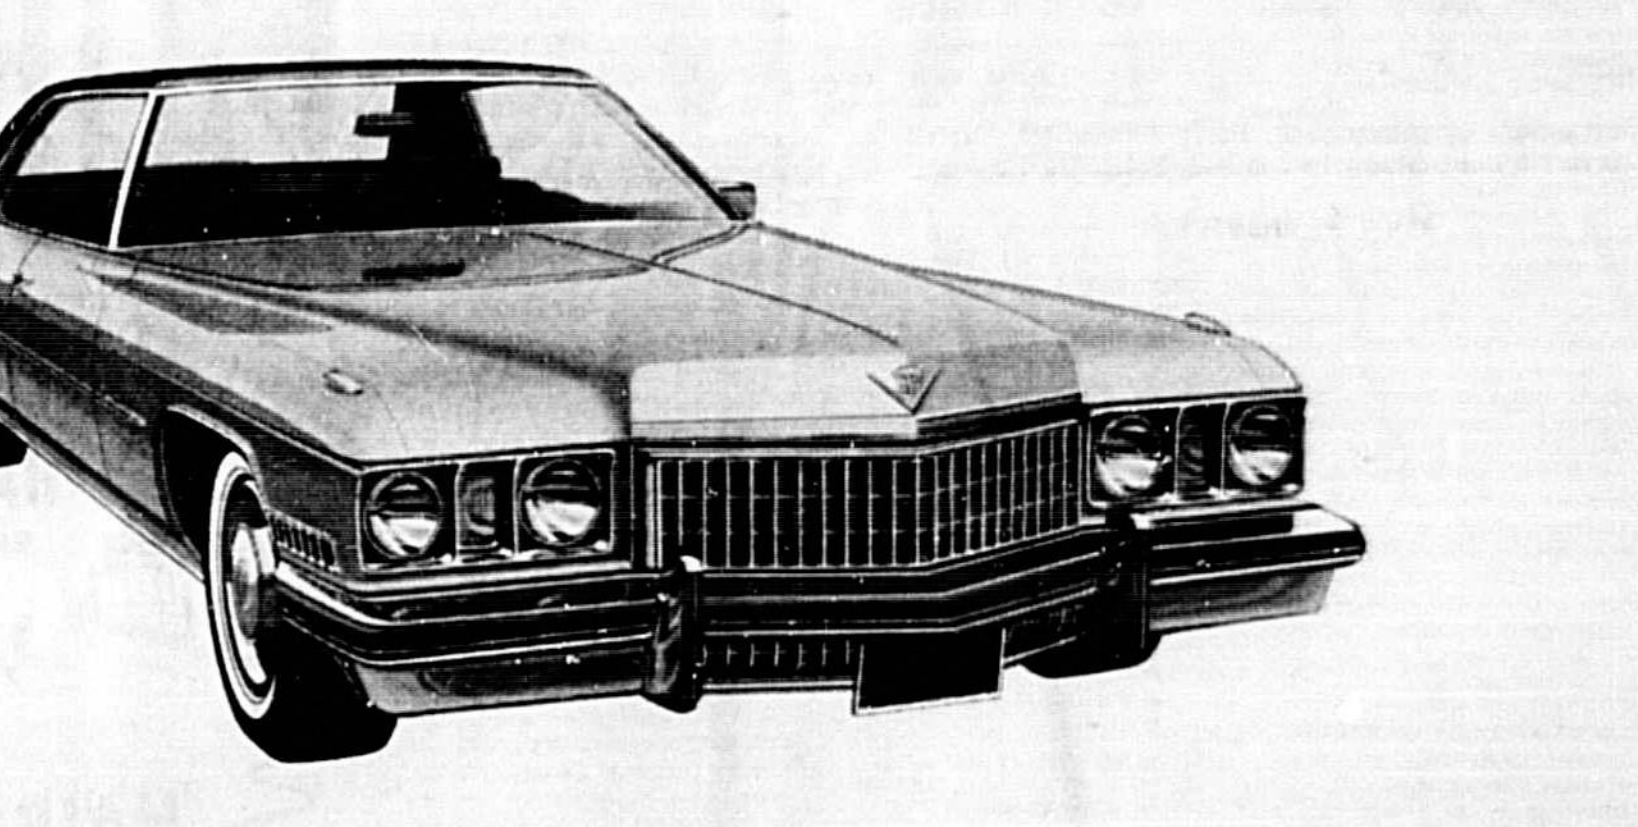

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

For two years and 22 games Mike Rae waited for his chance. Last Saturday was worth waiting for.

Rae's passing—18 of 24 for 261 yards—set up two touchdowns, and he scored once in a five-yard run as eighth-ranked Southern California walloped fourth-ranked Arkansas 31-10.

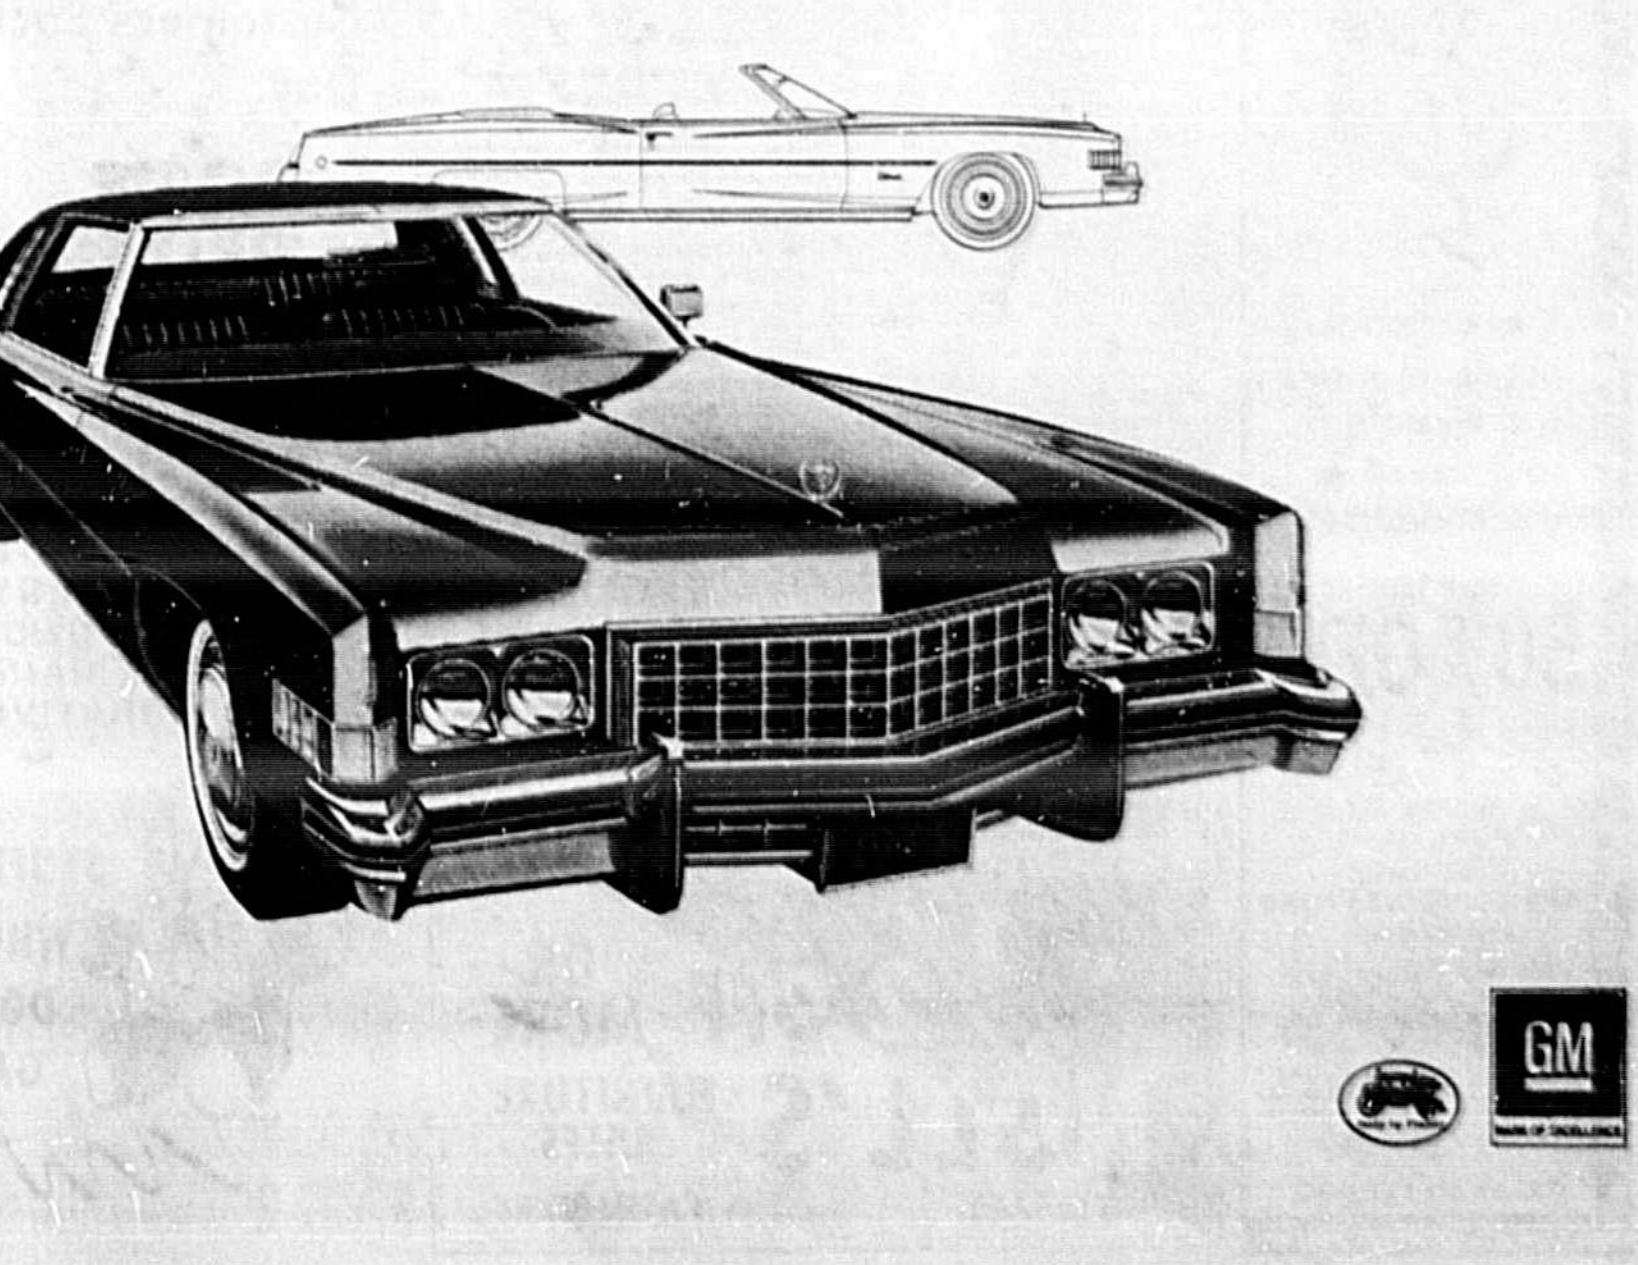

Oakland maintained its two-game edge over the White Sox in the West, but not before Manager Dick Williams' turn-over. If we do well, the team will get a chance to face Joe Ferguson, who's a leading candidate for Heisman Trophy honors.

Team recognition came when the Trojans were selected as the top team in this week's Associated Press college football poll. Rae explained.

Bowling 'em Over

By HERKY CUSH

While all the "big boys" have been having their day in area bowling circles we can not forget the youngsters who, without them, the sport could never continue to enjoy the great success it has in recent years.

One of the largest groups of youngsters in one league in Seminole County is the Bantam's League which is sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans post here in Sanford.

The group recently held its summer league banquet and the following youngsters were honored for their achievements.

The Oxballs captured first place and this team was made up of David Jones, Paul Hart and Mike Clark. The Guess Who took second and members of that team were Larry Jones, Vonda Skierick and Gene Bukur.

Among those who were responsible for the Bantam's having a successful "summer run" were Don Lee, Kathy Burkur, Jim Dickinson, Rosalie Burkart, Jackie Kibberfer, Jewell Kaufman, Earline Lawrence, Tracy Cashe, Louise Hoford, Gene Platt, Agnes Butcher, Gladys Doyle, Pete Duggan, John Spolski, Kathy Van Meter and Jim Carver.

Shooting Stars

Kathy Cooper had the top set in the opening night of the Shooting Stars winter season, firing a 17, 174 — 518 to lead the State Farm Insurance to three wins over Sobak's. Another top effort for State Farm was Dottie Hogan's 189.

Bonnie Link fired a nifty 192, 173 — 516 to lead the Link Construction outfit to four wins over Kennedy Tractor. In the other match Carroll Furniture won three from Bob Edcott with a whopping nine strikes.

Ball And Chain

Win and losses in this circuit will not be known until the final handicap of each bowler is determined by the league secretary. But here are the top scorers in last week's opening night.

Greg Bullock had 182, 190 — 527, Chris Huff 171, 170, Gus Section 182, Ann Almond 164, Harry Almond 180, Harrell Ferris 179, Jim Maloney 196 and Andy Bolton 198, 172 — 531.

In the GOOD SHEPARD league it was Roy Setala 181, Bonnie Taconet 175 and Jim Johnson 184 — 500.

Generation Gap

Carolyn Street, who carried a 132 average this past summer, opened the Generation Gap bowling league with a booming 203 game and a 526 series in leading Monroe Harbour to two and a half wins over Able-Rent-All. It was the first 200 game for Carolyn in league competition for that matter.

Mackey, Lawyers Discuss 'Retiring'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The status of both Duane Thomas and John Mackey was uncertain today, with the start of the National Football League season just four days away, but Mackey was talking about his situation, and, of course, Thomas couldn't be found.

Separate Sewage Plants Approved

By MARION BETHA
ALTAMONTE SPRINGS—All that secret negotiations was for nothing between me and Longwood, Mayor Lawrence Swofford quipped at yesterday's meeting of City Council when City Engineer William Palm reported the concept of two separate plants for proposed sewage treatment plants for this city and Longwood had been "unconditionally" approved by the Environment Protection Agency.

So I think it's a good sign. I kind of have the feeling that we're turning the corner in the last few days and are on the way up.

Pamela Whitney, James W. Dodson Exchange Vows

Miss Pamela Joan Whitney and James W. Dodson were united in Holy Matrimony, Aug. 25, 1972, at St. John's Wesleyan Catholic Church, Orlando.

Rev. Father John P. Caulfield and Rev. Father Michael Flynn were officiating at the 7 p.m. double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Whitney, Wintermere, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William E. Dodson, 117 W. 15th St., Sanford. Mrs. Brian Show, organist, presented appropriate nuptial selections.

Accented the altar area were two standing basket arrangements of white glads and pom poms interspersed with fern.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her sash a formal white gown of satin organza fashioned with a full circular skirt. The bill train was highlighted with tiny tucks, edged in appliques woven with white velvet ribbons. The same tuck effects and looped buttons were repeated on the wide cuffs of the long full sleeves.

Her veil of silk illusion was caught by an all-beaded cap and flowed into a graceful Cathedral train, edged in appliqued motifs. She carried a cascade of baby white roses and peach-tinted baby's breath, showered with greenery.

Miss Lynne Ann Whitney attended her sister as maid of honor. She was gowned in a floor-length creation of pastel peach voile, designed with a high neckline and long sleeves featuring wide cuffs adorned with white cotton antique lace. She wore a white tulle hat with white and pink streamers and carried a white basket arranged with pastel flowers and peach-tinted baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Janet M. Zaffran, Altamonte Springs, Deborah L. Bishop, Tallahassee, and Mrs. Diane W. Smith, Tallahassee. They wore white, long-sleeved, button-down dresses with white and pink accents.

The bridegroom's father served his son as best man. Usher-groomsmen were Thomas J. Whitney, William C. Whitney II, Stephen Dodson, Capt. William E. Dodson Jr. and Thomas Hemphill. Ring bearer was Scott A. Whitney, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Whitney chose a floor-length gown with white ribbed bodice and long sleeves. Navy and white panels accented the full skirt and she wore a white orchid corsage.

Dear Abby

Even a klutz can learn to be poised

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am the world's biggest klutz. This is fairly unusual because I am a 19-year-old girl, and I should have passed thru this stage when I was 13 or 14, but I didn't.

I trip over my own feet, drop things, bang my head getting in and out of cars, hit my arm going thru a door, and I've even broken a couple of toes running past the coffee table.

The worst part is my mother. She is always yelling at me because I'm so clumsy. Abby, I'm not this way on purpose. How can I make my mother understand this? Please print this for her to see. Also, if there are others who are going thru the same thing it might help them to know they are not alone.

WORLD'S KLUTZIEST GIRL. DEAR GIRL: Don't accept your awkwardness with such grace. Quit rushing around and try to develop some poise. "Poise" is simply being aware of what you are doing. Think of yourself as a beautiful, graceful young woman, and you'll move like one. Try it. You'll like it. And so will your mother.

DEAR ABBY: My son is marrying a girl who was married before. I don't hold that against her, but she had a big church wedding and reception the first time, and big church wedding and reception the second time. She wants to invite all the people she had to her first wedding to her second wedding. I say that is not right because all those people have given her an expensive gift and she shouldn't expect them to give her another one.

DEAR MOTHER: It's three against one. You, your son, and I against the bride. I.P.S. Make that FOUR against one. I just consulted the High Priestess of Etiquette, and my votes are with us.

DEAR ABBY: Danny and I have been married for nearly a year. He travels, and I go with him. We went together for a year before we got married, and during that time he used to tell me about this girl and that girl with whom he was having a heavy romance, or a one-night stand. Anyway, he got around plenty before he married me. What bothers me, Abby, is that Danny keeps wanting to introduce me to these old girl friends of his. I met two of them and was very uncomfortable with them, knowing what the past had been. [One is married now, and even in the presence of her husband she flirted openly with mine.]

I met two of them and was very uncomfortable with them, knowing what the past had been. [One is married now, and even in the presence of her husband she flirted openly with mine.]

DEAR MOTHER: It's three against one. You, your son, and I against the bride. I.P.S. Make that FOUR against one. I just consulted the High Priestess of Etiquette, and my votes are with us.

DEAR ABBY: Danny and I have been married for nearly a year. He travels, and I go with him. We went together for a year before we got married, and during that time he used to tell me about this girl and that girl with whom he was having a heavy romance, or a one-night stand. DEAR POLLY:—Lorraine can lengthen her slacks that shrank by adding a colorful trim to the bottom of each leg. If necessary, more than one row could be added. Also cover the waist band or trim the pockets with the same trim so it looks planned rather than added. Be sure to wash the trim before sewing it on to prevent another shrinkage problem.—MARIANNE

DEAR POLLY:—A few inches could be cut off each leg and then a band of a contrasting color fabric, or even two colors, could be set in between the two pieces for a "made that way" look.—POLLY

Dear POLLY:—My Pet Peeve (if a mere man can be allowed to enter the sacred halls) is that I and television are confronted with two ginks who pass the sacred rod back and forth, laugh at each other's jokes, discuss the sex life of the grasshopper and J. Caesar's foreign policy. I am interested in watching the game and not care less about the corny jokes and hogwash of the two kick-off might be missed. Yours for the sport itself without the dialogue.—HENRY

Oh, come on Henry—laugh with (or at) him but don't let him know it. You may make them feel they are sports, too.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY:—When a light bulb breaks in a lighting fixture and you cannot easily remove it, take a spring type clothespin, grasp the filament with it and turn. It will come out very easily. Of course, you will first turn off the electricity.—MRS. A. A.

There is a very good rule of bidding which is that you don't double a forcing bid unless you are sure of two things. The first is that you can defeat that contract, the second that the information given by your double will help your partner, not your opponents.

West, a player in our rubber bridge game, really thought that his opponents were in trouble and it never occurred to him that South was going to make his two-heart contract.

Thus, when everyone passed his double he opened the king of diamonds and sat back to watch South try to wriggle out of the job of wriggle. He took the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs, took a short look at the ceiling, came to the conclusion that West held either 5-3-3 or 5-4-2 distribution and proceeded to give West the full treatment. He led the jack of diamonds. West took his queen and led a spade. South reached a no-trump game and diamonds to get rid of two clubs. Then he ruffed dummy's last spade and led his last club.

West had to trump his partner's trick and lead away from his queen of hearts to let South make two overtricks.

What would have happened if West hadn't doubled? North would have bid something. If North and South reached a no-trump game they would make it but they would probably wind up playing some sort of part score.

BETTY CANARY Too Late! But No. It's Early Again!

By BETTY CANARY

That soft, soothing sound isn't the wind in the trees. It's a collective sign of relief from housekeepers everywhere. Because it's now too late to worry about those things we didn't get done during the summer.

Too late to plant trailing vines and tuberous begonias in the window boxes.

Too late to fix the drain in the portable swimming pool.

Too late to really follow through on that summertime edict: Absolutely no more soft drinks on that front porch or the ants will carry us away!

Too late to fix the hole in the dining room window screen—the one you've been promising to patch every

The Sanford Herald Wednesday, Sept. 13, 1972—3B

Saturday since April. The reading schedule you made out in March. Oh dear! Too late to start that—especially the three-volume "Life of Charles Dickens." For heaven's sake, football weekends are upon us, so Dickens can wait until next year.

Too late for our every-year plans for a hiking tour of New England. Better wait until next summer for that.

Next summer will serve just as well for painting the trim of the house, for posting a regular schedule for grass cutting and weeding instead of having regular quarrels.

Too late for collecting files for not hanging

Week's News In Review: Massacre Shocks World

Copley News Service

This was a week that shook the world, a week that brought first utter disbelief, then shock and finally anger around the globe in the wake of a bloodbath that took the lives of 17 persons and cast a grim shadow over the XX Olympiad at Munich.

During a day and night of terror, 11 men from the Israeli Olympic team were slain by Arab guerrillas apparently bent on a crazy scheme to force the release of 200 Arab prisoners held in Israel's jails.

Five Palestinian terrorists also were killed and one policeman died in the wild melee of death that halted temporarily the Olympic Games which West Germany had planned so carefully to help regain its respect among nations.

Three Arabs were captured, two were wounded and Munich police sought others of the so-called Black September gang which engineered the kidnap-blackmail plot.

The Olympic Games were resumed after a period of mourning and a memorial service attended by some 80,000 in the Olympic stadium. There were some who believed the games should have been canceled out of respect for the Israeli dead, and some athletes went home. But most Olympic officials and contestants believed resumption of the classical games would do more to discourage further acts of atrocity by terrorist groups.

The bodies of the Israeli athletes were flown home to Tel Aviv in a near-hysterical greeting by sobbing relatives who clutched at the flag and flower-draped caskets.

As cabinet minister, diplomats, and church leaders joined the scene of grief, Israeli troops punched into southern Lebanon in search of Arab guerrillas who had killed an Israeli soldier inside Israel's border.

The Israeli government expressed "wrath and revulsion" at the slaying of the 11 Olympic team members, as did most capitals of the world. The government vowed to hold responsible any nation aiding Arab terrorists.

However, Foreign Minister Abba Eban praised the West German effort to save the lives of nine Israeli hostages, even though the attempt ended in an airport gun battle and grenade blast that took the lives of all nine. Two others were killed earlier by terrorists soon after they leaped a fence before dawn and slipped into the Olympic Village housing the athletes.

Only a day after the tragic events of Munich, eight Americans were shot to death at St. Croix's plush Fountain Valley Golf Course in the Virgin Islands.

In Geneva, the 25-nation disarmament conference concluded its 1972 session with the United States and the Soviet Union still deadlocked over the major issue of banning all nuclear tests. The conference will report to the United Nations General Assembly and the United States and Russia, as co-chairmen, will set a date for resumption of the talks next year.

Wave Of Future Or Soggy Fad?

Did you hear the one about the fellow who bought a water bed and had to bring it back to the store the following day?

He got seasick.

The water bed, besides being the bane of hundreds of funny — and often risqué — jokes, is one of the hottest items to come along since the Hula-Hoop.

But unlike the Hula-Hoop, which faded from the scene in a few short years, there are strong indications that the water bed is here to stay.

Basically, a water bed is a water-filled plastic bag that fits into a plastic or wooden frame. You can purchase a water bed for as little as $30 or spend as much as $2,500.

What you get for $30, however, is merely a plastic bag filled with water.

For $2,500, you can have a seamless, heavy-gauge vinyl "mattress" that fits into a handcrafted plastic king-size frame, complete with a heating element to keep the mattress warm in winter.

Science Harnesses Lightning Bolts

By C.G. McDANIEL

AP Science Writer BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Scientists are giving a jolt to bolts out of the blue.

They say they have been successful in field experiments in suppressing the destructive force of lightning.

The second phase of experiments to control this fearsome phenomenon recently was concluded in Colorado and produced encouraging results, they added.

Ultimately, the ability to suppress lightning would help reduce forest fires, 80 per cent of which are caused by lightning.

Dr. Heinz Kasemir, project leader, said in a telephone interview Monday.

Kasemir and five colleagues from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration seeded thunderstorms with metallized nylon fibers — chaff — and succeeded in neutralizing storm electrical fields which produce lightning.

The chaff is gossamer fine, about 4 inches long. It cannot be used in areas where there is airplane traffic because it interferes with radar.

For this reason, it is impractical as a suppressant over urban areas, Kasemir said.

Commencing July 15, the scientists conducted experiments for six weeks in a 200-square mile farmland area in north-eastern Colorado.

An earlier study was conducted near Flagstaff, Ariz., in 1966-67, and further study is planned.

While no comparative statistics are available from lightning activity in past summers, Kasemir said, on every occasion during the experiment storm electrical fields were dissipated.

It is thought that 500,000 volts per meter are necessary to produce lightning.

Ordinarily, air is a poor conductor of electricity and the electrical charges of storms are not dissipated until the field builds up enough strength to penetrate the insulation barrier of the air. Then a lightning bolt occurs.

Kasemir and his colleagues suppressed lightning by increasing the conductivity of the atmosphere with the chaff, thus making it impossible for storm electric fields to develop lightning potential.

The scientists in Colorado use a propeller-driven B26 plane to sow the chaff into the clouds of a storm.

Enchiladas Casserole Makes Delicious, Zesty Eating

By Cecily Brownstone
 Associated Press Food Editor
 Texans have their own excellent adaptations of Mexican recipes. So here's an Enchiladas Casserole that makes delicious zesty eating. It was inspired by a cook from San Antonio.

One hint: this casserole has loads of tomato sauce, so it's a good idea to have extra heated tortillas on hand to offer with it.

ENCHILADAS CASSEROLE:
 1 package (9 ounces) frozen corn tortillas or 12 fresh corn tortillas
 1 1/4 pounds ground round beef
 2 envelopes (each 1 3/4 ounces) seasoning mix for chili
 2 cups water
 1 can (1 pound and 12 ounces) tomato puree
 1/2 cup salad oil
 8 ounces cheddar cheese, grated medium fine
 1 1/2 cups coarsely chopped onion (2 to 3 medium onions)
 If using frozen tortillas, thaw in refrigerator overnight.

In a 10-inch skillet over medium heat, cook beef crumbling with a fork, until red color disappears. Sprinkle meat with 1 envelope of the seasoning mix for chili; stir to blend. Add 1 cup water and cook, stirring several times, until water is absorbed - about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and set aside.

In a large saucepan mix together the tomato puree, remaining 1 cup water and remaining envelope of the seasoning mix for chili. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover and cook 5 minutes; remove from heat.

In an 8-inch skillet heat the oil until very hot. Using tongs, add tortillas, one at a time, and cook no longer than 15 seconds, turning once, count to 10, turn, then count to 5. If tortillas are overcooked, they become crisp and are impossible to shape. Stack tortillas on a plate as they are removed from oil.

To assemble the Enchiladas Casserole, work with 1 tortilla at a time. Dip the tortilla in tomato sauce; place on a plate. Spoon 2 heaping tablespoons meat mixture in a row across center of tortillas. Add a tablespoon of grated cheese, then a tablespoon of onion. Fold sides of tortilla over filling and place, folded side down, in a 3-quart oblong glass baking dish (13 1/2 by 8 3/4 by 1 3/4 inches) or similar utensil.

Pour remaining sauce over corned beef, cheese.

 Golf widows who decide to join 'em may not beat 'em but at least they can score after the game with a quick snack. Open-faced sandwiches of corned beef and cheese with a waffle base help restore spirits after nine or 18 holes of golf. Four-some Favorites bake quickly in the oven since the base is a frozen waffle. Serve with a refreshing drink and some fruit.

FOUR-SOME FAVORITES
 2 3-ounce packages cream cheese
 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
 1/4 pound Cheddar cheese, grated
 1/4 pound corned beef, finely chopped
 1 3-ounce package frozen waffles

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Beat together cream cheese, mustard and Cheddar cheese until well blended. Stir in corned beef. Place waffles on cookie sheet. Heat about 7 minutes or until crisp and hot. Spread each waffle section with cheese mixture. Return to 400-degree oven a 6 to 8 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Makes 6 servings.

LENTIL SOUP
 The hambone and stock may be freezer-stored before the soup is made.
 1 1/2 cup lentils
 1 medium onion, cut in thin strips
 1 large ribs celery, cut in 1-inch lengths
 6 cups stock (left after cooking a smoked boneless pork shoulder butt)
 1 hambone

Wash and drain lentils; turn into a large saucepot with the remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil; cover and boil gently until lentils are tender - 30 to 35 minutes. Remove hambone. Makes 6 servings.

tortillas. Sprinkle with remaining cheese and onion. Cover baking dish with foil.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 20 minutes. Remove foil and continue baking until bubbly hot and cheese is melted - 15 minutes.

Makes 6 servings - 2 enchiladas per portion.

To Prepare Ahead: Prepare enchiladas and place them all in the baking dish, but do not pour remaining sauce over top or add remaining cheese and onion.

Cover with foil and refrigerate. Refrigerate cheese and onion separately in two tightly covered containers. Remove baking dish and cheese and onion from refrigerator about 30 minutes before baking. Just before baking, pour sauce over top and sprinkle with cheese and onion. Recover with foil and bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 40 minutes; remove foil and continue baking until bubbly hot and cheese is melted - about 15 minutes.

Note: This recipe makes four 1 1/2 inch enchiladas. For a middle dish, reduce seasoning mix for chili to 1 envelope, using 1/2 cup meat and 1/2 cup sauce.

Summer time should allow the cook to "vacation" with easy to prepare polysaturated recipes. Chicken and fish play an important role in a heart helping diet. Why not try these recipes before summer is over?

Salad: School Lunch

By ALLEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

It's back-to-school time again and this means a re-scheduling of time for all members of the family. Always welcome are quick and nutritious recipes that the youngsters will eat. Fitting into this category are Quick Pickle Ham Salad and Exotic Pickle Fruit Salad. Both salads are best when chilled and marinated for an hour or so before serving. This means they are good salads to make the night before.

QUICK PICKLE HAM SALAD

- 1/2 cup salad oil
 - 1/2 cup sweet pickle liquid
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 teaspoon dry mustard
 - 2 cups sweet mixed pickles
 - 2 cup finely chopped onion
 - 1 cup chopped celery
 - 2 cans (1 1/2 ounces each) baby lima beans (or other beans)
 - 2 pounds cooked smoked ham, cut in 1/2-inch cubes
- Blend oil, pickle liquid and seasonings in large bowl; add all remaining ingredients. Toss lightly. Cover and chill several hours. Serve on a bed of lettuce, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 main dish servings. (Canned ham may be used in this recipe.)

EXOTIC PICKLE FRUIT SALAD

- 2 cans (1 1/2 ounces each) pineapple tidbits
- 2 tablespoons sweet pickle liquid
- 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
- Dash salt
- 1 cup drained sweet mixed pickles
- 2 lb. 1/2 red tart apples, cut in chunks
- 2 ripe bananas, sliced
- Salad greens
- 1/2 cup chopped pecans

Drain pineapple well, reserving syrup. In large bowl, blend 2 tablespoons pineapple syrup, pickle liquid, ginger and salt; add pineapple, pickles, apples and bananas. Toss lightly. Chill about 1 1/2 hours.

At serving time, line a chilled salad bowl with salad greens. Fill with salad and sprinkle with pecans. Makes 6 servings. (Use leftover pineapple syrup in fruit drinks and dessert.)

Peanut butter and jelly sandwich aficionados may stop and rant around the room at the suggestion that there are different ways in which to make their favorite. This is understandable for such a food passion usually is acquired at mother's knee. However, bend a little and try a Grilled Peanut Butter and Jelly Sandwich done French-toast style. It is rich in protein and the cost of two of these sandwiches using strawberry jam is approximately 26 cents. With grape jelly, it is 25 cents, based upon store-brand ingredients. The trick is to apply margarine to both sides of the bread slices before dipping into an egg mixture. This keeps the sandwich from sticking and also makes it firmer.

GRILLED PEANUT BUTTER AND JELLY SANDWICH

- 4 slices white bread .47
 - 1/2 cup peanut butter .87
 - 2 tablespoons jam
 - or jelly
 - strawberry jam .03 or
 - grape jelly .02
 - 1 egg, beaten .45
 - 1/4 cup milk .02
 - 2 tablespoons margarine .02
- For each sandwich, spread one slice of bread with 2 tablespoons peanut butter. Top with second slice that is spread with 1 tablespoon jam or jelly. Spread top and bottom of sandwich with 1 tablespoon softened margarine. Dip in mixture of egg beaten with milk. Grill on both sides until lightly browned. Makes 2 sandwiches.

Crunchy Early Snack

By ALLEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Skipping breakfast is a favorite pastime of the unrealistic dieter and those who claim they are always too rushed to eat in the morning. Breakfast is important as a refueler in starting the day. Children and teenage girls, especially, need a morning meal high in protein and iron. Recently it was discovered that many who can't be bothered with eating a traditional breakfast will enjoy a sandwich at this time. Try a Crunchy Breakfast Sandwich to whet morning appetites. Serve with juice or whole fruit and milk.

CRUNCHY BREAKFAST SANDWICHES

- 4 cups oven-toasted rice cereal
- Peanut butter
- Crunch or other jelly
- 4 slices day-old bread
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted

Crush cereal to measure 2 cups. Spread 4 slices of bread with a layer of peanut butter, then with a layer of jelly. Top with remaining bread slices and press firmly together. Cut sandwiches diagonally into halves. Combine eggs, milk and salt in shallow dish or pan. Dip sandwiches in egg mixture, turning once and allowing time for both sides to absorb liquid. Coat evenly with crushed cereal. Place flat side down in single layer on a well-greased baking sheet. Drizzle with melted butter. Bake in a 450-degree oven about 10 minutes or until crisp and lightly browned. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings; 2 halves each.

Wheat Germ Donuts

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Homemade donuts are more than just dessert incidentals. Those made with wheat germ and instant mashed potatoes make a nutritional snack and yet please those with a sweet tooth.

- SPICY WHEAT GERM DONUTS
- 3/4 cups unsifted flour
 - 4 teaspoons baking powder
 - 2 teaspoons nutmeg
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup wheat germ
 - 3 eggs
 - 1 1/2 cups sugar
 - 1 1/4 cups cold, cooked, sieved instant mashed potatoes (cooked as label directs)
 - 3 tablespoons melted shortening
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
 - 1/4 cup milk
 - Oil for frying
 - Confectionery or cinnamon sugar

Sift first 4 ingredients into bowl. Stir in wheat germ and reserve. Cream butter, eggs, sugar, potatoes, shortening and vanilla in beater bowl. Beat until smooth and a light lemon color. Add 1/2 of the dry ingredients and 1/2 of the milk; mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. Repeat process using remaining dry ingredients and milk. Cover bowl and refrigerate 2 hours or overnight. Roll 1/4 of dough at a time on a lightly floured board to 1/2 inch thickness. Cut donuts using a well-floured sharp donut cutter. Fry a few donuts and donut holes (centers) at a time in hot oil (360-degrees) until done and a golden brown. Turn donuts as soon as they rise to the top of the oil. Brown on underside. Turn and brown on second side. Remove from heat with slotted spoon. Drain and place on paper towel covered tray to drain and cool. When donuts are slightly warm coat with confectionery sugar or a mixture of cinnamon and sugar by shaking a few donuts at a time in a bag with 1/2 to 1/3 cup sugar. Arrange sugared donuts on tray to finish cooling. Makes about 2 dozen donuts and donut holes (centers).

(When no deep-fat thermometer is available drop a 1/2 inch bread cube into hot oil. If oil is right temperature the bread will turn a golden brown in 1 minute.)

Chinese Steak Recipe

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: I am interested in a recipe for Green Pepper Steak. Do you have one on hand that you would use in your column? — GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL: I'm so surprised that you want a recipe for Green Pepper Steak because Chinese-style dishes seem to interest a good many cooks these days. When you order Green Pepper Steak in a Chinese restaurant you usually get a lot of sauce, a lot of green pepper and a sparse amount of steak. The following recipe for Stir-fried Steak and Green Peppers is a little different. The sauce is just enough to flavor the other main ingredients — a goodly amount of soft green pepper and meat. Peanut oil is added for the stir-frying because that's the oil that many Chinese chefs use. C. B.

STIR-FRIED STEAK AND GREEN PEPPERS

- 1 pound flank steak
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon medium sherry
- 1/4 cup peanut oil
- 1 large green pepper, seeded and cut into 1/2-inch strips
- Hot cooked rice

Place flank steak in freezer until partially frozen — about 45 minutes. Trim off and discard any excess surface fat on meat. Slice steak on an angle into very thin crosswise slices. In a medium mixing bowl stir together the cornstarch, ginger, sugar, soy sauce and sherry until smooth. Mix in meat. Let stand 30 minutes. Mix in a large skillet heat the oil over high heat. Add green pepper. Stir-fry 1 minute. Mix in meat. Cook and stir until meat loses its red color — about 4 minutes. Serve with rice. Makes 4 servings.

AROUND THE CLOCK

By John A. Spolski

Just like the two cartoon fellows displayed in today's 6-column headlines... I'm more than mildly confused by the action of the Zoning and Planning Commission last evening.

And judging by the number of indignant and disbelieving incoming calls... I'm not alone.

First of all, having served as a member of this same county Zoning and Planning Board for almost two years previously, I can appreciate the many problems confronting them.

Unfortunately, I'm having difficulty in comprehending the 3-2 vote — against the project.

And after you accuse me of it... "Ah, the only reason he's for it is because Paulucci is connected with it," or, "Spolski's beholden to the man."

I really shouldn't even dignify the previous thought... but, by the same token I'm certain that many have passed thru more than a few of your minds already.

There is no way that anyone can "buy" my opinion.

There just has to be a further explanation than that which I've been able to glean — "Seminole County isn't ready for a development like this, etc."

Rubbish!

What does bother me is... where did all of these people come from? Because it affected them you say?

Well then, why only a few weeks earlier when the East Florida Regional Planning Council called for their important meeting (which obviously superseded the limited Seminole planning... why then were there only 14 people in attendance... AND 12 OF THEM EITHER GOVERNMENTAL EMPLOYEES OR MEMBERS OF THE BOARD?)

For the record, Abbott Herring is the victor in that State's Attorney race... winning by 545 votes over challenger Jerry Brass.

Look for Chester Boyd—defeated Republican candidate for the office of Sheriff to offer his support... NOT to victorious Fred Kelley, but rather to incumbent Sheriff John Polk, a Democrat.

Boyd says he'll be leaving town—going out of state, as a matter of fact, and going into some other line of endeavor.

County Waits For Facts

By JANE CASSELLBERRY

When questioned concerning the County Planning and Zoning Board decision Wednesday night to deny request for $200 million Heathrow project near Lake Mary, County Commission Chairman Greg Drummond said, "I have no reason at this point to disagree with the initial recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission as the board has not yet been presented the facts."

"After I and my fellow board members receive the facts we might require we will make the decision. It would be premature for any commissioner to take a position without the facts," he added.

As far as he personally is concerned, he stated, based on limited facts, "most of the facts received from the department heads (concerning the project) create great reservations in my mind."

Snake Bite Fatal To School Teacher

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Susan Marie Gaboury, a 34-year-old Jacksonville school teacher, died Wednesday after police said she was bitten by a diamondback rattlesnake.

Orange County sheriff's Sgt. Gene Blankenship said an autopsy was being performed at Orange Memorial hospital.

A hitchhiker whom Miss Gaboury had picked up in the early hours told authorities the woman was feeling depressed and was out driving around when she agreed to take him to Orlando.

En route, she stopped in a wooded area to relieve herself. Blankenship, who investigated the case, said he immediately recognized the puncture wound as a snake bite and sought verification from reptile expert Ross Allen.

"The fang marks were about one and one quarter inches apart," Blankenship said. "Allen said a snake with marks like that would be a diamondback rattler about 4-feet-2 inches long."

"We are saying she died of a snake bite," the deputy said.

Month's Lease Fee Airport Tenants Taxed

By BILL SCOTT

Sanford Airport manager J. S. (Red) Cleveland today advised Sanford Airport Authority that airport tenants subject to leaseholder interest taxes effected by the county tax assessor will find themselves assessed approximately the amount of one month's lease fee each year.

He said the city tax would be about a half month's lease fee, but expressed the opinion that Sanford would either return the tax money or work out an agreement, whereby the city would pay back the property tax by doing work for the airport in the amount of the tax charges.

Terry Goemle, county tax official, later advised what the city does with its share of taxes in his business, but it would be left strictly up to the city to return tax money to the airport authority.

Henry Heinzer, chairman of the newly organized Airport Tenants Association, attended this morning's authority session and advised the airport tenants were "scared into organizing" because of the taxing situation.

Seminole County tax assessor has levied on several airport tenants for leaseholder taxes. Previously, the airport tenants paid no property taxes, since they resided on city-owned property, which is tax exempt.

In other business, the authority is letting paving bids to G&L Paving Company for an access road to Page Airways terminal for low $11,427 and awarded bid to Whitaker Paving for parking area paving at $10,713.

Also leased was building 148 to Auto Electric Service at $2,800 a year fee; building 118 to Authorized Service Company for $864 a year.

Visiting Nurse Program Ended

By JANE CASSELLBERRY (Part 1 of two part series)

Aid-At-Home for Sick, Elderly Patients Terminated in Seminole County Due to The Lack Of Finances

What will happen to the sick and elderly patients confined to their homes now that the Visiting Nurses program is terminating due to insufficient funds? This is the question that is concerning the visiting nurses, and the doctors and patients who use their services.

A United Fund agency which depended on Medicare, Medicaid, and self-pay patients for the remainder of its support, Visiting Nurses program has been consistently losing money due to the number of free patients for which they also provided home visits.

"Because the Medicare program was grossly abused by many in the beginning, they are now getting stricter and rejecting many claims," Mrs. Martha Malby, secretary of the Visiting Nurses, revealed.

Most of the patients depending on Visiting Nurses for home care are the elderly, who have worked hard and been responsible citizens all their lives and suddenly with Medicare getting "stickier," are in the same position as one with an insurance policy that does not pay off, she added.

Because of this the agency (the only small independent visiting nurses agency left in the state) was forced to terminate its Medicare contracts as of Sept. 1 in hopes of recertifying under the auspices of the Seminole County health department. This depended, however, on funding from the Health Department, but when the Health Department submitted its amended budget it was turned down by the County Commission. The funds for the Visiting Nurse program were not listed as a separate item, and some commissioners have indicated that they were not turning down the budget request.

Visiting Nurses will try to continue to see the old patients through December, but cannot accept any new patients unless further funding is made available.

$200 Million Project Given 'Death Blow' By Zoning Board

By MARION BETHA

"Heathrow," a $200 million planned open-space community located on 1,283 acres at the northwest quadrant of Lake Mary Boulevard and 14, being planned by Paulucci Enterprises, is "kaput."

That is, as far as the county Planning and Zoning Commission is concerned. This board turned "thumbs down" on the proposition last night following vehement opposition by adjacent property owners.

The petitioners have further recourse with the County Commission but Commissioner Al Davis was a member of the audience and obvious to the sentiments expressed by the overflow crowd which spilled over into the hallways and down the stairs of the courthouse. Paulucci Enterprises requested a zoning change from A-1 agriculture to PUD (planned unit development) for the development.

Gordon Wylie, executive vice president, real estate development, gave an impressive presentation of the concept of Heathrow, noting it is the culmination of a year's planning. The community, he stated, will be developed in stages during the next 15-20 years, and residential units will be in the $40,000 range.

Stanley Bell, representing the planning firm, outlined the proposal of single family homes, townhouses, three school sites, a water retention area, condominiums, equestrian center and championship 18-hole golf course.

Townhouses, Bell said, would be seven to the acre, with single stages during the next 15-20 years, and residential units will be in the $40,000 range.

'Greenbelt' Seeking Reason

By FRED VAN PELT

Developers of the $100 million "Greenbelt" community in Goldenrod, is scheduled to meet with the same request on Oct. 11 before the commission.

Hughes Becker, spokesman for Wilco, said that "it is too early to make any comment today. We must confer with the county planner, zoning director and others to determine just what did happen... and what we should do."

The vote last night by the Planning and Zoning Commission in refusing the Paulucci request for rezoning was: Wendell Agne, absent; Eugene Shirley, no; Richard Hanks, yes; Robert Daehn, chairman, absent; William Kirchhoff, no; and George Deshambeau, (PUD), Wilco Construction Company, Goldenrod, is scheduled to meet with the same request on Oct. 11 before the commission.

These Gals Have To Be Kidding

By JURATE KAZICKAS Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—And now there's a new topic of debate about women's liberation that's bound to make at least half of the population a bit uneasy—man-hating.

While more than 200 women cheered, several speakers gave their personal views Wednesday night on why hating men was an essential subject related to women's equality. The conference, closed to men, was organized by the Feminists of New York, who had a similar speakout on rape several months ago.

"We have a moral cause for hating men for they have taken away all our power," said Barbara Mirroff of the Feminists, by way of introduction. "Men have imposed their minds and bodies on women and our nation."

"The women in the audience, mostly young, dressed in jeans and T-shirts, knitting or taking notes, had paid up to $2 to hear speakers like Robin Morgan, editor of an anthology of feminist writings, "Sisterhood Is Powerful."

"I want a woman's revolution like a lover. I lust for it. How I wish that my tears... were bullets... to kill what terrorizes in men," Pat Mainardi, married, the author of "The Politics of Housework," and the editor of the Feminist Art Journal, said. "Man-hating marks a turning point in the movement. We have been defensive long enough."

"People often ask me how married women can be a man-hater," she added. "And I wonder, how can we be anything else." The women cheered.

"We sleep with the enemy to find out his secrets and we pass them onto our allies," she said, but the audience hissed.

"The only way to win liberation is to make men miserable so they will have no peace until women are free. Married women invented man-hating," she declared.

Snake Bite Fatal To School Teacher

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Susan Marie Gaboury, a 34-year-old Jacksonville school teacher, died Wednesday after police said she was bitten by a diamondback rattlesnake.

Orange County sheriff's Sgt. Gene Blankenship said an autopsy was being performed at Orange Memorial hospital.

A hitchhiker whom Miss Gaboury had picked up in the early hours told authorities the woman was feeling depressed and was out driving around when she agreed to take him to Orlando.

En route, she stopped in a wooded area to relieve herself. Blankenship, who investigated the case, said he immediately recognized the puncture wound as a snake bite and sought verification from reptile expert Ross Allen.

"The fang marks were about one and one quarter inches apart," Blankenship said. "Allen said a snake with marks like that would be a diamondback rattler about 4-feet-2 inches long."

"We are saying she died of a snake bite," the deputy said.

Month's Lease Fee Airport Tenants Taxed

By BILL SCOTT

Sanford Airport manager J. S. (Red) Cleveland today advised Sanford Airport Authority that airport tenants subject to leaseholder interest taxes effected by the county tax assessor will find themselves assessed approximately the amount of one month's lease fee each year.

He said the city tax would be about a half month's lease fee, but expressed the opinion that Sanford would either return the tax money or work out an agreement, whereby the city would pay back the property tax by doing work for the airport in the amount of the tax charges.

Terry Goemle, county tax official, later advised what the city does with its share of taxes in his business, but it would be left strictly up to the city to return tax money to the airport authority.

Henry Heinzer, chairman of the newly organized Airport Tenants Association, attended this morning's authority session and advised the airport tenants were "scared into organizing" because of the taxing situation.

Seminole County tax assessor has levied on several airport tenants for leaseholder taxes. Previously, the airport tenants paid no property taxes, since they resided on city-owned property, which is tax exempt.

In other business, the authority is letting paving bids to G&L Paving Company for an access road to Page Airways terminal for low $11,427 and awarded bid to Whitaker Paving for parking area paving at $10,713.

Also leased was building 148 to Auto Electric Service at $2,800 a year fee; building 118 to Authorized Service Company for $864 a year.
