Governor appoints replacement

SANFORD — Pat Harden, long-time defender of the Wekiva River, was appointed to the St. Johns River Water Management District Thursday by Gov. Lawton Chiles. She replaces Alice Weinberg of Lake Mary who filled one of the district governing board's at-large seats. She lives west of Sanford on Wekiva Park Drive.

Harden is a director of the Friends of the Wekiva River Inc. and is past president of the organization. She is manager of environmental affairs for Walt Disney World, a member of the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council and is active in a number of local environmental organizations.

Tee time for Legal Aid Society

LAKE MARY — The Seminole County Bar Association will hold its sixth annual golf tournament Monday at Heathrow Country Club. Over 60 area golfers are expected to participate in the event.

The tournament is designed to raise funds for the bar's Legal Aid Society, a non-profit organization, which provides free legal service to low income people in Seminole County, who qualify to receive the assistance.

Pat McConnell, administrative assistant at the Legal Aid Society said last year, the society received 12,696 telephone calls from people needing help or advice. "We are also a referral agency," she said. "Most of the calls come from people who actually need help in areas other than in legal services, but we are able to give them the names of people to call." She added that as far as the free legal services are concerned, her organization was able to provide help for 333 people during 1990.

The Legal Aid Society's offering of free legal work is confined to civil cases such as divorces, child custody cases, guardianships, and landlord-tenant disputes.

Other finances come from the Seminole County United Way. The Florida Bar Foundation, the Seminole County Commission and through private individual donations made throughout the year.

"One of the special items we have this year," McConnell said, "is a tennis racket autographed by tennis great Chris Evert, which will be auctioned off at the tournament."

Growth splits Lake Mary

Homes OK'd over planner objections; residents concerned

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — A proposed 83-home development won preliminary approval from the Lake Mary City Commission last night after residents of two neighboring subdivisions packed city hall to voice their concerns about traffic.

Preliminary plans for the Woldunn subdivision, proposed for property located between Seminole Community College and Cardinal Oaks subdivision, was approved by a 5-0 commission vote. In spite of staff recommendations to deny the plan based on traffic issues.

City Planner Matt West recommended denial of the plan because it did not call for improvement of Main Road, which has been closed between First Road and Webster Place since last summer. City code requires a developer to make improvements to any inadequate right-of-way abutting a proposed development.

City attorney Ned Julian said developer Mary Dunn Wolf of Lake Mary will still be required to make improvements to Main Road, although it is not specified in preliminary plans, because city See Festival, Page 3A

County growth plan means new tax

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners have established their vision for the next five years and chartered the course the county will take into the 21st Century.

Thursday night, they gave final approval to their $175.6 million comprehensive growth and development plan that includes an ambitious $100 million road-building program for the next five years. The plan also includes a nearly $160 million deficit, that commissioners propose to eliminate through a new sales tax, new fees and property tax increases.

The plan must be approved by the state. Commissioners will consider making any final adjustments sought by the state Aug. 13.

Commissioners, in a significant shift towards matching home construction with classroom capacity also included a commitment to consider school availability when approving new developments once the schools approve a construction financing plan. It was the strongest assurance to date that the county seeks to limit its impact on overcrowded schools.

The approximately 78 residents attending the hearing Thursday night were largely opposed to the plan which they said would raise the cost of living in Seminole County to unbearable levels and still allow unchecked growth.

"People think the plan will not stop growth but control it," said Glenda Eversole, an official of the Seminole League of Homeowners' Associations Inc. "But it won't. We are like a runaway horse, we have lost direction. We do need to feel this is government for the people."

Responding to newspaper articles and editorials suggesting a main reason for the deficit is commissioners' failure during the last 10 years to adjust taxes and fees to pay for improvements needed by growth, former county attorney Tom Freeman said he didn't mind paying now for good

Tests confirm underage teenagers have little trouble purchasing beer

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — When youths below the legal drinking age were sent to 100 liquor and grocery stores here to buy a six-pack of beer, they succeeded 97 times, the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety says.

When the same experiment was conducted in New York City last year, underage men succeeded in 84 out of 113 attempts to buy beer, the insurance industry organization said.

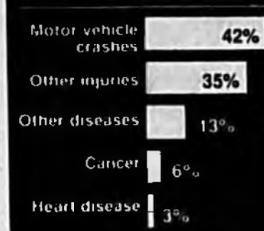

The beer buyers, all aged 19 and 20, had few problems — their ID cards were rarely requested — even though the legal alcohol purchasing age is now 21 in all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

Institute President Brian O'Neill said the research on the availability of beer to underage people was conducted out of concern that, after years of decline, the involvement of alcohol in auto accidents that killed young people is again on the rise.

"Raising the legal minimum purchasing age for alcohol to 21 years old nationwide in the early 1980s was clearly a big success," O'Neill said Wednesday. "We immediately saw a decline in alcohol involvement in fatal crashes involving young people."

In 1980, before the alcohol purchase laws were made uniform, 53 percent of all fatally injured drivers younger than 21 had blood alcohol concentrations of 0.10 percent or higher, O'Neill said. The 0.10 percent level is the legal definition of intoxication in most states.

By 1987, after the passage of uniform-age laws, such involvement had fallen to 27 percent, O'Neill said. But by 1989, the percentage had risen to 32 percent for the under-21 population, the only age group showing an increase.

One reason for the increase, O'Neill said, "is that it's becoming easy for younger age people to buy alcohol; this is what the research points to."

O'Neill said that the Institute believes it is easy for young people to buy alcohol nationwide, not just in Washington or New York.

"Underage people seem to be able to buy alcohol easily, and what we need to address the problem is tighter enforcement of minimum alcohol-purchasing-age laws," he said.

Seminole High rolls out a 'Rolls' treatment

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — Some parents at Seminole High School really know how to give the Rolls Royce treatment to those who help out the school.

One of auction items at this year's Springfest '91 fundraiser, which will take place tomorrow, will be a chauffeur-driven Rolls Royce ride to the home of Roger and Gail Stewart where the honored guest and up to three friends will be wined and dined in style.

"Unless of course they're under 21, in which case there won't be any wine," Hobby Lundquist, an assistant principal at Seminole High School said.

A videographer from the school will record the whole evening on videotape for posterity.

The Stewarts, who have a ninth grader and an eleventh grader currently enrolled at the school will be assisted by Jack and Beth Bridges who will help serve the meal.

The Bridges do not have a youngster currently enrolled at the school.

"They're just doing this to help us out," Lundquist said.

Teens indicted for killing Key deer

KEY WEST — Three teen-agers have been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges they beat an endangered Key deer to death with a baseball bat.

The youths allegedly killed a female Key deer, about the size of a big dog, on No Name Key in the Lower Keys Aug. 12. A carload of tourists from Palm Beach County witnessed the beating, officials at the National Key Deer Refuge said last summer.

An estimated 250 to 300 of the tiny deer remain. The misdemeanor charge of killing an endangered animal carries a penalty of up to one year in prison and a $100,000 fine.

Kevin Goodwin, 19, Tim Daniels, 18, and William Norris, 18, were indicted Wednesday by a federal grand jury in Key West.

Dead puppies found, owner charged

PENSACOLA — Seven dead puppies and 15 starving animals were found in a feces-strewn mobile home and their owner was arrested, authorities say.

Michael John Miller, 43, was arrested Wednesday and charged with 22 felony counts of cruelty to animals and 22 misdemeanor counts of confinement of animals without food, water or exercise, said Kent Vancil, a law enforcement specialist with the Escambia County Sheriff's Department.

Miller was being held Thursday at the Escambia County Jail on $10,000 bond.

planning.

"The county commission has been criticized for not planning for growth," said Freeman. "I keep reading you didn't do right because you didn't raise my taxes. I, for one, don't mind that you didn't raise my taxes. What you are doing here is planning for growth and I'm all for that. I am willing to pay to maintain the quality of life here in Seminole County."

Commissioners voted 4-1 for the plan, with commissioner Larry Furlong opposing. Furlong, who campaigned last year on a controlled, fiscally-responsible development plan, said he approved of the growth plan but found it lacking.

"While I support what we have done here, I cannot support a plan that does not include a law enforcement element, an urban service boundary, a school element," Furlong said at the end of the six-hour hearing. "My only regret is that we didn't discuss some of these things several months ago."

But commission chairman Fred Streetman was pleased with the commissioner's decision.

"I just know some day when one of us is running for office, we're going to say 'I voted for planning for our future for the next 20 years,'" he said. "It's going to be a proud thing for someone to say that they voted for this."

Commissioners responded to dozens of letters and telephone calls by residents saying they would not or could not bear the cost to "up front" the cost of road widening and other improvements for future residents. They delayed the scheduled widening of County Road 427 south of Sanford between U.S. Highway 17-92 and Hester Avenue and two south-county roads, Dodd and Chapman Roads.

By delaying the three roads by up to two years, commissioners were able to whittle $6.1 million from the shortfall. The widening projects must be completed or the county will have to repay developers' impact fees, said county engineering director Jerry McCollum.

Commissioner Pat Warren challenged commissioners to find roads in their districts to delay. She offered Tuskawilla Road between East Lake Drive and Winter Springs Boulevard to save another $5 million, but McCollum argued the road would be too congested before the widening could begin in 1996. Only commissioner Bob Sturm offered CR-427.

"I have to consider people who lost their jobs due to the recession," Warren said. "I'm not sure we can afford to have the ideal."

When McCollum said the state may not accept the plan that allows crowded roads, Warren said "Let's take some chances on offending the state."

Last week, Warren suggested raising the sales tax by two cents to help pay for the deficit. The county can only raise the sales tax by one cent with voter approval.

Commissioners will ask voters to approve a one-cent sales tax increase in July to help pay a large share of the deficit. They are also considering imposing a library impact fee on new homes to help keep at least one book for each resident on library shelves. They are also considering a $25 to $50 a year "stormwater utility fee" to pay for drainage improvements.

They are also considering placing a 10 percent tax on telephone, electric and other utility bills paid by unincorporated residents.

Even with the new fees and taxes, commissioners may have to raise the countywide property tax by about 69 cents per $1,000 of taxable property and the unincorporated property tax by about 16 cents per $1,000.

If the fees and other financing schemes fail, the countywide tax would have to be raised by $3 per $1,000 — about a 65 percent increase.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Student governments revamped

Universities reel over alleged corruption

FORT LAUDERDALE — Student governments at Florida's public universities are reeling from recent charges of bribery, deal-cutting and apathy among their leaders.

University presidents have abolished two student governments and their constitutions — one of which was at Florida International University last month — and ordered new senate elections at a third campus.

Student government leaders wield much power and play politics with real money: more than $18.7 million in student fees this year.

"Corruption in student government means using your position to get football game tickets for friends, preferential parking, or money funneled into a friend's organization," said W. H. Oxendine Jr., publisher of Florida Leader Magazine, which targets college students.

"It happens a lot in student government," Oxendine told the Sun-Sentinel in Fort Lauderdale for today's editions.

Last month, FIU President Mitch Maidique disbanded the Dade County-based university's student government and threw out its constitution after he was approached by students angry that the government had fallen into the hands of a powerful few.

"There were numerous allegations of dishonesty, manipulation, stacking the deck and even corruption," said Richard Correnti, vice president of student affairs. "There was a lack of participation and high turnover."

He said there was no evidence of illegal use of student money.

At the University of Central Florida in Orlando, new senate elections were ordered last November because polling booths were not properly staffed or open during the scheduled student government election.

In the fall of 1989, University of South Florida President Frank Borkowski changed the locks on the student government offices and tossed out the members at the Tampa campus.

Other incidents have ranged from student senators being paid for meetings they did not attend to ethics code violations, critical financial audits and even charges of campaign stealing.

"We had student leaders using their positions for everything and anything," said David Schmidt, a member of the new student government at USF. "We had to start from the bottom and rework everything."

Everyday drugs could be taxed

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Senate President Gwen Margolis' search for options to a higher fee on hospitals has led her to propose ending the sales tax exemption for everyday drugs like aspirin, cough syrup and antacids.

Margolis, D-North Miami, said Thursday that removal of the exemption could raise up to $50 million a year for poor people's health care, a fund where a deficit of $61 million is projected for next year.

Gov. Lawton Chiles proposed increasing the assessment on net hospital revenue to help address the shortfall, and Thursday a House committee approved a bill (CSHB 1169) to raise the fee from 1.5 percent now to a maximum of 3.5 percent.

The amount could be reduced if hospitals step up their treatment of people who can't pay their bills.

But Margolis told key senators she is looking for other ways to pay the hospital bills of the poor. Hospital lobbyists have begun mounting a strong effort to derail the measure, calling it a "sick tax" that will raise everyone's medical costs.

Doug Cook, Chiles' budget director said the change in assessments better distributes the costs of charity care among the state's hospitals. Now, Jackson Memorial in Miami accounts for a quarter of the charity care provided in the entire state; another nine hospitals account for half the care.

Hispanic commission shuffled

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Lawton Chiles is playing politics with the interests of Hispanics by trying to replace the members of a commission with his own appointees, House Cuban-American members charged Thursday.

But a spokeswoman for Chiles said the governor simply wants to improve the 15-member Commission on Hispanic Affairs.

"We're doing this because we want to strengthen the commission," said Press Secretary Julie Anbender.

Rep. Carlos Valdes, R-Miami, and the other six members of the House Cuban-American Caucus, called a news conference to express their displeasure with Chiles' request that all 15 members resign.

"We think that the commission, as much as possible, should be independent of politics. It should not be a Republican commission or a Democratic commission," Valdes said. "It is intended to span the terms of various governors."

The commission, however, serves at the pleasure of the governor, according to state law.

Liberal groups oppose appeals court nominee

By CATHERINE WILSON
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — Battle lines have been drawn by liberal groups opposing President Bush's first judicial nomination of the year.

Fifty-three Florida groups representing blacks, Jews, Hispanics, women, union workers, the elderly and consumers lined up Thursday to oppose the appeals court nomination of Miami federal Judge Kenneth Ryskamp.

"We are seeing really the first test of the Bush presidency's leaning toward a more conservative judiciary."

-Frank Jackalone

They claim Ryskamp has shown hostility to civil rights claims and insensitivity by his membership in Coral Gables' Riviera Country Club, which once excluded minorities but says it no longer does.

"We are seeing really the first test of the Bush presidency's leaning toward a more conservative judiciary," said Frank Jackalone, Florida coordinator of the Alliance for Justice civil liberties group.

He compared the anti-Ryskamp campaign to the so-called judges war during the Reagan administration against the Supreme Court nomination of Robert Bork in 1987, the appeals court appointment of Daniel Manion the year before and others.

Ryskamp was named to the U.S. District Court bench in 1986 after 25 years in civil practice. The judge has consistently declined comment on moves for and against his elevation to the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta and did not respond to messages left at his office Thursday.

Traffic violation brings drug charge

Andrew L. Dupree, 21, of 613 E. Second St. in Sanford was arrested on Wednesday. Dupree was charged with possession of cocaine, driving with a suspended driver's license and failure to maintain a single lane while driving. According to the Sanford Police Department arrest report, Dupree was stopped by officers when he failed to maintain a single lane while driving. A check of his driver's license showed that it had been suspended. Dupree gave officers permission to search his car, according to police. That search allegedly revealed several pieces of crack cocaine. He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $2,000 bond.

DUI and other charges

Bruce Lester James, 37, of 1809-D Landings Dr. in Sanford was arrested on Wednesday. He was charged with failure to maintain a single lane, driving under the influence and resisting arrest with violence. James was allegedly observed leaving the Circle K store at 1805 First St. in Sanford. The store clerks allegedly alerted police to an individual who appeared intoxicated who was leaving in his car. Police reported following James as he left the store parking lot and stopped him when he failed to drive in only one lane. When the officer attempted to question him, James allegedly tried to drive away with the officer partway in his car. The officer was, however, able to bring the car to a stop. He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $2,000 bond.

Death sentence fails to ease family pain

Associated Press

BARTOW — More than two years after a neighbor killed his wife with poisoned bottles of Coca-Cola, Parearlyn Carr still has trouble understanding why his wife was targeted in such a horrible crime. "She was a very sweet, loving, concerned, beautiful and talented lady," Carr said of his wife Peggy Carr. "She had a personality that very few people have." Carr and several family members were in court Wednesday when George Trepal, a 42-year-old computer programmer was sentenced to the electric chair for first-degree murder.

In an interview with the Ledger in Lakeland, Carr suggested Trepal be put to death the same way as his wife. "I think he should be given a Coca-Cola a day and let him wonder which one it's going to be in," Peggy Carr, a slightly built, 41-year-old waitress, became ill in October 1988, after sipping from an eight-pack of Coca-Cola Classic that showed up in her home. Within days, she became weak and complained that the pain in her feet and legs was unbearable. Her hair began to fall out. She slipped into a coma and died three months later when life-support systems were disconnected. Four other members of Mrs. Carr's family drank from the poisoned bottles, but survived. Son Duane Dubberly, 19, and stepson, Travis Carr, 18, underwent extensive physical therapy and recovered. Parearlyn Carr and a 2-year-old girl were not hospitalized.

Authorities maintained it was Trepal who spiked the soft-drinks with deadly thallium nitrate and somehow sneaked them into the home next door — all because he was fed up his neighbors' loud music, noisy off-road bikes and other aggravations.

Agent testifies against Warlord biker 'brothers'

ORLANDO — The president of the Warlocks Motorcycle Club urged an undercover agent to do whatever he could to kill members of the rival Outlaws motorcycle gang, the officer has testified. Steve Martin, an agent for the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms who infiltrated the Warlocks, said club President John "Spike" Ingrao wanted to eliminate Outlaws because they were claiming the state as their turf. Martin and three bearded TAF undercover agents faced Ingrao and six other bikers in a federal courtroom Wednesday. The seven Warlocks are charged with weapons and explosives violations. Martin, sporting a bushy bear and pony tail, testified for 90 minutes about how he became a member of the group and later, founder of the club's Fort Lauderdale chapter. The agent said he bought pipe bombs, firebombs and explosive booby traps and machine guns from Ingrao and his club members. Ingrao suggested that he use some of the bombs to blow up clubhouses of the Outlaws in Orlando and Fort Lauderdale, Martin testified. Martin posed as a military surplus dealer who dabbled in drug-dealing. The agent said Ingrao asked him to obtain 525 pounds of marijuana that was to be swapped with club members in South Carolina for methamphetamine, an illegal stimulant known as "speed." Ingrao's attorney, Robert Butcher, suggested that the agent entrapped his client.

code dictates those improvements.

The plan also included two cul-de-sacs that exceeded the 800-foot maximum length for such roadways allowed by city code. A cul-de-sac accessed by Main Road was proposed by developers to be 850 feet while a cul-de-sac accessed by First Road would be 1,250 feet.

The commission approved the subdivision on the condition that the cul-de-sacs be redesigned to meet the city's regulations. Commissioners also asked the developer to redesign the plans to include access off Broadmoor, instead of First Road.

More than 115 residents went to Lake Mary City Hall last night to hear the discussion of the subdivision and its impact on Broadmoor and Main Road traffic. Several residents were forced to listen to the meeting through speakers outside the building while peering through windows in the rear of the commission chambers because the room was filled to capacity.

Discussion of the traffic situation dominated the meeting, lasting more than five hours. The discussion was punctuated with loud applause and outbursts from angry residents.

Broadmoor Road residents, who have hired an Orlando attorney to represent them, complained that Main Road should be opened to SCC traffic to split the burden evenly between the two roads. More than 30 Broadmoor residents, many of them identified by the new Concerned Citizens for Lake Mary's signature color red, attended the meeting.

Residents of other Lake Mary streets, such as Clermont Road, said Broadmoor's traffic problems are spilling over onto their roads.

"I am part of the problem," said Dawn Louise Veitch, an SCC student. "I drive down Broadmoor every night, when I would have used Main."

Main Road and Bush Hill Court residents argued that opening Main Road to college traffic would, instead of solving Broadmoor's problems, create a worse traffic scenario.

Steven Coover, attorney for developer Mary Dunn Wolff, discusses the project with Wolff's son, Charlie.

"In reality, the traffic problem in one neighborhood will only become the traffic problem in two neighborhoods" if Main Road is opened to college traffic, said Bob Moore, 370 Bush Hill Court.

The commission agreed to close Main Road last year because residents in that neighborhood complained that through traffic on the one-lane, dirt section of the road was setting up residents for burglary and endangered small children.

Opening Main Road is not the solution to traffic problems generated by SCC, Commissioner David Meador said. Instead, the solution would be extending Hospital Road from Lake Mary Boulevard south to the campus.

"That's the only way we are going to resolve the situation on Broadmoor," Meador said.

A committee formed to study Lake Mary traffic, made up of representatives from Lake Mary, SCC, Sanford and Seminole County, designed a route for the Hospital Road extension. Although that committee became inactive more than one year ago, Mayor Randy Morris said, "this commission is now willing to be the driving force to make something happen."

Mayor Randy Morris and Commissioner Paul Tramel listen to residents' concerns about the housing development.

A boost to biotech

White House Council on Competitiveness proposed recently that federal agencies streamline the approval process for genetically engineered crop, animal and medical products. Such a shift would go a long way toward helping pioneer biotechnology firms market their discoveries. American companies now lead the world in many biotech fields.

The White House panel recommended that the Food and Drug Administration, the Department of Agriculture and the Environmental Protection Agency apply the same standards of evaluation to biotech products as those applied to other manufactured products.

This would mean, for instance, that milk and beef derived from cows treated with bovine somatotropin (BST), a genetically engineered growth hormone, would be subject only to the safety requirements of non-treated milk and beef. At present, the FDA has withheld final approval of the general sale of BST-treated milk and beef, even though it determined in 1985 that such products are safe for human consumption.

The council, chaired by Vice President Quayle, also recommended that the Orphan Drug Act be preserved. In addition, it called for better government protections for biotech patents, a shift in federal financing of basic biotech research, and resistance to congressional efforts to overregulate the booming biotech industry.

Industry experts are most concerned about the Orphan Drug Act and patent protection. Under the orphan drug law, a company wins exclusive marketing rights for any drug it develops to treat a patient population of fewer than 200,000. Several companies have been accused of reaping windfall profits from this arrangement. But, because of it, nearly 40 new orphan drugs have been brought to market that otherwise would not have been.

Biotech firms also are interested in extending their intellectual property rights. As it is now, a company can patent a genetically engineered product in the United States, only to have a foreign firm replicate it by making very minor changes and export it back into this country. The White House calls for closing this trade loophole.

Drug awareness reminder

In regard to an article in one of the many newspapers that have lately published a calling for an increased awareness of certain dangers regarding prescription drugs, I would add these thoughts and facts.

The article of which I speak focused on the dangers of prescription medicine to those individuals, primarily senior citizens, who are not aware of the long-term consequences or the side effects of the use of these medicines. Having ignored for many years the slow ruin of a loved one, unable to see for so long that "the cure was worse than the ailment," and in my case, (wife) was asking for medication for other reasons, not related to a physical problem as she stated to her doctor, but gave a physical problem to the doctor, and he accepted it. As there would be no physical means or a check-up that would prove different, medication was given out as needed.

I know there are medical rules and state or federal laws that may and are entered in cases such as stated here, but who is to know if the patient does not or will not say anything about their medication. Then and only then someone close by, a husband or other, makes notice to all concerned in that matter! So, I ask that others stop and carefully inform themselves as to the potential known harm and also alternatives regarding the drugs that they now take on the advice of their doctor. Most of all, however, it is the physicians themselves that must re-evaluate their own practice of authorizing what may amount to the ruin of a patient's life (and his or her own family) by not informing themselves and also inquiring of them if they are getting or using other medications.

Highly concerned by the problems going on in their bodies and minds, patients are most of the time told by doctors to take a particular medicine for an unspecified term or as long as "relief comes." We all understand, of course, that these patients are only seeking help to arrest the pain whatever it may be, and eliminate their problem. Aren't we, at this point, called upon to place our faith in the sound judgment of our doctor's recommendations.

Can we trust that a doctor who for years dispenses prescriptions (during consultations that last all of five to 10 minutes)? Can he know the traumatic disruption of a ruined marriage or life and see that, although "comforted" by the drug, the effect to the patient is otherwise devastating? I know now that we cannot. Americans, all, must be aware to this other serious drug problem. Doctors especially must take a closer look and recommend alternatives to aches and pains and psychological distress that doesn't reduce their patients to a state of comfortable addiction.

War coverage: news was the news

"A scientific study of Persian Gulf crisis press coverage reveals that the war news was the news so much as the news was the news, according to a Washington think tank."

That's the first paragraph of a press release I am writing for the Spear Foundation, an underfunded but plucky little think tank with which I am associated. I thought I'd treat my readers to a scoop before the general public gets the word.

We at the SF studied the coverage of the coverage and determined that more ink and airtime were devoted to media performance than to the military's performance. During one 24-hour period in mid-February, we counted 4,408 mentions of CNN Baghdad correspondent Peter Arnett alone.

But the SF is doing more than merely reporting on the coverage of the coverage. We assigned our enforcement arm, the Special Tribunal for the Obliteration of Media Perfidy, to investigate each allegation of media malfeasance and dispatch STOMP teams to punish transgressors. Some sample results:

An Oklahoma group called Pull the Iraqi Propaganda Plug urged Americans to fax complaints about Peter Arnett directly to CNN owner Ted Turner. Right-wing columnist William Rusher pointed out that Arnett's agent was probably "sifting through a mile-high pile of speaking invitations, book-offers, TV proposals, etc. that guarantee to make Arnett a millionaire."

And the erudite William F. Buckley Jr. noted that Arnett's dispatches were "tenable in pure epistemological theory ... but in the real world a pretty good argument can be made against expediting the telling of untruths."

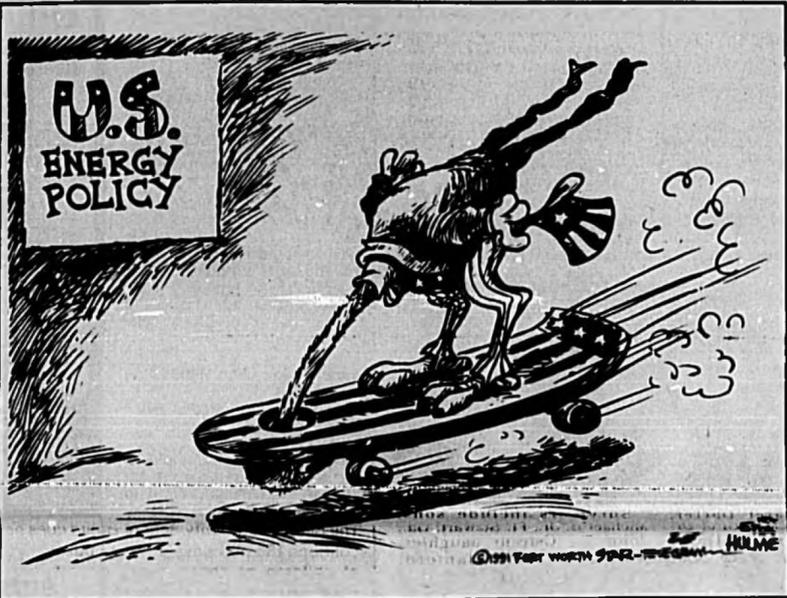

We at the SF could not agree more, and we address these comments directly to Turner and Arnett: For your promotion of a demented dictator's propaganda, for your crude exploitation of the war for monetary gain, for your ignorant underestimation of the American people's ability to see through your greedy motives, and for your tenacious, tendentious and dissonant contributions to epistemological postulation, you are hereby awarded a heretofore unprecedented five — count 'em — five stomps: STOMP STOMP STOMP STOMP STOMP. In your ear, dudes.

Complaints about NBC correspondent Arthur "Scud Stud" Kent are too numerous to list. Thousands of women fell for his "classic all-American good looks," as one female columnist put it. Admittedly, most of the grousing came from middle-age men who associate studliness with amile lines and love handles. Although we at the SF fit this age profile (broadly defined), we took an objective look at this matter and concluded that Kent's appearance erodes the general integrity of the profession. Two stomps for being too cute to be credible: STOMP STOMP.

Robert Brown, editor of Soldier of Fortune magazine, covered some military briefings and remarked, "I thought I'd be riding the lead tank into Baghdad by now. Instead I'm stuck in a briefing room with the biggest bunch of boobs and dorks I've ever met." Exceedingly well put, from: a person in a position to know. According to the rule book, dorkiness is an automatic three big ones: STOMP STOMP STOMP.

Honk if you hate tube boobs.

TOM TIEDE

Old pros led U.S. to victory

WASHINGTON — Ever since Congress decided to stop military conscription, in 1973, Pentagon strategists have wondered about the timing. The draft has been done away with at a demographic moment when the national population increase has slowed, and there are not so many youngsters anymore to coax into the armed forces.

This means the services have had to fill the ranks with somewhat older men and women. And there has been a natural concern as to whether the aging defense service has what it takes. The country traditionally has done its fighting with 18-to-22-year-old draftees, and no one knew if mature volunteers could do the job.

Now it seems obvious they can. That is, they can according to the results of the Persian Gulf war. The average age of U.S. soldiers in that confrontation was about 30, counting reservists, and, with the help of the allied coalition, they won 'he most decisive triumph over a major enemy since World War II.

They did it with ripe wisdom rather than youthful enthusiasm. The Pentagon says GIs in the Gulf were the best trained and most experienced in American combat history. They were almost nine years older than the men in Vietnam, per person, and manpower officers say they showed it in brains, discipline and motivation.

One manpower officer calls the desert troops "mature and macho," which he says is far better than just macho. "I was in Vietnam," he goes on, "and there's no comparison with now. We had kids in Vietnam, we have adults today. There's a lot to be said for kids in war, don't get me wrong, but, really, the adults are better."

One of the things that is said for the younger soldiers is that they are easier to condition. This is another way of saying they may accept risk more readily. Teen-age combatants are not normally married, they have few personal responsibilities, and this is supposed to translate into a greater tolerance for battle action.

What's more, young GIs have a physical primacy. They are as a rule more energetic and supple than their elders, and it's no mean benefit in combat. The troops in Vietnam averaged 21 years of age, and whereas they had some collateral problems they remained remarkably vigorous during the demands of jungle warfare.

By the way, the manpower officer says those collateral problems might be said to constitute the flip side of the youth advantage. He says, "Kids can very clearly be a pain in the butt." He says young soldiers may lack discipline, focus, values, "and, without condemning anyone in any way, they are by nature unpredictable."

So this officer believes the end of the draft was a blessing. And the decline in the teen population pool has not hurt either. The number of 18- and 19-year-olds has slipped 10 percent in the last decade alone, yet the military has easily made up for the draft and the shortages by taking more twenty-something recruits.

Today, the 2 million U.S. air, land and sea personnel average 27 years of age. That's the highest (by at least a year) in this century. Defense Department statistics indicate the number of 18-to-24-year-old troops has declined 23 percent since 1970; and the number of 25- to 40-year-olds has increased by almost 22 percent.

The average age in the Gulf crisis has been further inflated by the reserve deployment. The National Guard and the four service reserves have historically been composed of older soldiers. The members of one Guard unit in Saudi Arabia average 43 years of age; and some reservists who were sent there are in their 60s.

The manpower officer mentioned earlier says the generals in command in the desert have been of orthodox age. Norman Schwarzkopf is about as chronologically seasoned as was William Westmoreland in Vietnam. "But we had some 35-year-olds in the tanks against Iraq," he notes, "and we had men in the mid-40s in the planes."

The military officer says his information is not for attribution. He does not want to be identified because he is giving personal views. But, speaking for himself, he says it's plain that the older people in the Gulf added stability to the human side of the undertaking, "and that's a useful influence on the battlefield."

The officer says this kind of stability can be measured in many ways. Mostly, it has to do with commitment. Older soldiers are thought to be more likely to be career oriented, and thus are mindful of such military duties as leadership and self-control; there's been almost no drug abuse in Saudi Arabia, for example.

Of course, there's been almost no drugs in Saudi Arabia. And it must be pointed out that the Middle East conflict has not been a total test of the maturing military.

The average age of the was about 30.

Pregnancy ticket home from war

WITH U.S. FORCES, Saudi Arabia — The way doctors tell it here, there was a whole lotta' lovin' going' on for some women soldiers before they were shipped to the Persian Gulf.

Some doctors here told us that their most frequent visitors before the war began on Jan. 16 were women, newly deployed to the Gulf and constantly asking for pregnancy tests, because a positive result would be a ticket home.

The women said they and their husbands had made heroic efforts at a pre-war baby boom once they learned the women had been ordered to the combat zone. They would rather carry a baby than fight.

And an untold number succeeded and were sent home.

"It was like an epidemic at Ft. Riley (Kansas)," said Staff Sgt. Liane Overstreet of the 82nd Airborne Division. "We knew in August we would probably go, but we didn't leave until the end of October. When these women saw the deployment start, they said, 'Come on, honey, let's go to bed and get working on this baby. I'm not going over there.'"

Overstreet knew of one female sergeant who "came up with so many medical problems all of a sudden, she went from one doctor to another until she was medically retired by the time the rest of us came over here."

The attempt at a baby boom annoys women soldiers like Overstreet, who take their military careers seriously, in war time and peace time. "I've spent years trying to prove to men that I can be a valuable asset to a unit and keep up my end of the bargain, and those women make it harder," Overstreet said.

Women are barred from combat roles, but they were within artillery and missile range during the six-week war. Three died and one is missing, presumed to be a prisoner of the Iraqis.

The baby boomers aside, 2nd Lt. Anne Esposito of the 82nd Airborne said women had proved their worth in the Persian Gulf War. "We proved we can survive six months of hell. We don't have to take a shower every day. Now I know I can survive indefinitely without those little comforts."

But in spite of the women's stellar performance, the Pentagon still must tackle the problem of mothers at war, and married couples deployed when they have children at home. The Pentagon reckons that there are nearly 1,231 couples in the Gulf force with children at home. The Pentagon also estimates that there are 16,337 single parents in the Gulf.

Molly Yard, president of the National Organization for Women, thinks it is nuts to send a child's only parent or both parents to war.

Even more ludicrous is that pregnant women are exempt from being sent to combat zones, but new mothers aren't. Spec. 4 Faith Stewart went into labor on Jan. 22, the same day she got orders to report to the Gulf. The Army and Air Force give a mother six weeks of grace after childbirth. The Navy gives four months.

Was it wrong for Spec. 4 Melinda Davis to choose arrest by the military police in Massachusetts rather than abandoning her 16-month-old daughter because she could find no one to care for her?

Was her decision better or worse than the single father from Tennessee who left his children, ages 10, 12 and 13, alone with a note telling them how to use his automatic bank teller card, or the couple who left their children in the care of a woman charged with murdering her husband?

Some would rather carry a baby than a rifle.

"The Stewarts thought this might be a whole lot of fun," said Lundquist who said he would not be bidding for the package himself.
There will be hundreds of other items on the auction block on Saturday donated by local businesses and members of the community.
"We'll have a variety of things

Troops returning in joyous flood

By LAURA KING
Associated Press Writer

Iraq's leader today threw his support behind the rebels fighting Saddam Hussein, calling for the overthrow of the Iraqi leader and his party. Baghdad said it would free 40 foreign journalists and two more U.S. soldiers.

The U.S. military, for its part, announced plans today to repatriate more than 60,000 Iraqi POWs.

The trickle of American troops arriving home, meanwhile, swelled to a joyous flood.

In Savannah, Ga., one arriving American soldier bent to kiss the ground after a C-141 transport plane carrying 105 troops touched down early today at Hunter Army Airfield. A waiting crowd cheered wildly, and a huge banner read, "Welcome Home Heroes."

Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of Operation Desert Storm, said farewell today to some of his homeward-bound front-line troops. Speaking at a ceremony in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, he told the 1,700 members from the Army's VII Corps, "It's a great day to be a soldier."

A grimmer homecoming awaited the Iraqi

POWs, whose repatriation is to begin Monday.

The uprising against Saddam was said to have spread to his capital, and the government said anyone involved is a "traitor" who will pay dearly.

The U.S. military command said today an agreement reached by allied and Iraqi officials on Thursday calls for several hundred Iraqis per day to be sent home by bus and truck from holding camps in northern Saudi Arabia.

The president of Iran, which proclaimed neutrality in the war, today declared his sympathy for the attempts to overthrow Saddam. Hashem Rafsanjani said Iran would cooperate with Iraq only if Saddam and his Arab Baath Socialist Party surrender "to the will of the people."

Rafsanjani lambasted Saddam for trying to put down the rebellion. "Saddam is making a mistake while suppressing the people," Rafsanjani said. "This is the worst mistake."

The Iranian leader was addressing worshippers gathered at Tehran University for prayers. His comments, carried by Teheran Radio, were monitored in Cyprus.

Baghdad Radio today quoted an unidentified government spokesman as saying it would turn over the 40 foreign reporters and the two American soldiers to Red Cross officials in Baghdad. It said they disappeared "during illegal presence in Basra."

The Baghdad government had refused to say it was holding any missing journalists, who were trying to cover the rebellion in southern Iraq.

Earlier today, two journalists — CBS technician Timothy Dickey and cameraman Chris Everson — surfaced near the Iraq-Kuwait border. Iraqi gunmen had stolen their four-wheel drive vehicle and equipment earlier in the week, and U.S. Army units came across them in the desert.

The Iraqis are also promising to release Kuwaitis abducted during the nearly seven-month Iraqi occupation of the emirate.

Saddam's big threat said close to home

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The primary threat to the rule of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein comes not from rebelling Kurds and Shiite Muslims, but from his own political and military inner circle, according to U.S. intelligence assessments.

Members of the Republican Guard military corps close to Saddam and officials of the ruling Baath party stand a better chance of toppling the Iraqi leader than the separatist movements staging open revolts, officials said.

In fact, they said, the Shiite and Kurdish rebellions may prolong Saddam's tenure rather than shorten it, because it will force those in the best position to oust him to unite behind Saddam to avoid splintering the country.

"I think he still has enough forces to maintain some control over the population," Rep. Dave McCurdy, D-Okla., chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, said Thursday.

"He will be brutal. The question is whether that continued brutality leads to his eventual downfall," McCurdy said in an interview. "I think it will."

Of more concern to the Iraqi president, he said, are those around him in Baghdad.

"It's OK to have the Republican Guard encircle you," said McCurdy. "But you want to know whether the guns are pointing in or pointing out."

Baker's diplomacy underway

By BARRY SCHWEID
AP Diplomatic Writer

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia — On the first leg of a 10-day trip, Secretary of State James A. Baker III is sounding out Saudi Arabia on how it stands on prospects for peace between the Arabs and Israel.

Baker is also taking up with King Fahd and the foreign minister, Prince Saud, an eight-nation Arab plan for a permanent security force in the Persian Gulf.

The outline is set, but not the operational details. The idea is to guard against the kind of threat to Western oil interests posed by Iraq's conquest of Kuwait last August.

Baker's trip to the Middle East is based on the assumption that the allies' victory over Iraq can be a springboard to settling the Arab-Israeli dispute.

The Saudis' influence, based on their oil wealth and control of major Muslim holy sites, could be pivotal.

A senior U.S. official said that after helping to eject Iraqi forces from Kuwait, the Saudis may be ready to consider an accommodation with Israel and take an active role in defending the gulf.

"In the aftermath of this crisis they are positioned to play a greater role," the official said. "It would be my hope that what they will conclude that they want to do. I hope that they will conclude that."

This week in Damascus the Saudis and seven other Arab nations agreed that Egyptian and Syrian troops should form the core of a permanent security force in the gulf.

President Bush said Wednesday night that U.S. air and ground forces would hold joint exercises in the area and that the Arab force would be backed by "a capable U.S. naval presence."

Flying here from Washington, Baker said Thursday "we are pleased" with the decisions taken in Damascus.

Kuwait rebuilding 'awful mess'

By NEIL MacFARQUHAR
Associated Press Writer

KUWAIT CITY — The daunting task of cleaning up after a seven-month occupation that devastated Kuwait City is deflating the initial liberation euphoria. Kuwaitis have said.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has begun a $45 million 90-day push to restore essential services such as electricity and water, as well as repair roads and airports.

But for individual Kuwaitis, resuming normal lives and going back to work means facing the orgy of destruction wrought by Iraqi troops.

Government buildings were particularly hard hit by the occupation, which ended when allied forces swept into the emirate a week ago and Iraqi troops fled. Kuwaitis loudly celebrated their freedom, embracing allied soldiers.

But that initial sentiment has begun to give way to despair.

"When you think where we were and see the destruction you regret all the lost years," said Ali Al-Khayat, 32, an amputee on Radio Kuwait. "It's years of our lives going to waste. How many years is it going to take us to rebuild?"

But repairing government buildings is the single biggest task facing the 200-member Since joining the softball team after the end of basketball season, senior Koscia Kennon (No. 2) has been an immediate offensive boost for Seminole.

Kennon, who was 4 for 5 with three RBI in her first game this past Tuesday, hit an inside-the-park home run against the Oviedo Lions on Thursday afternoon.

LAKE MARY — Heather Golden went 3 for 4 with two triples and an RBI to key a 14-hit attack that powered the Lake Mary Rams to an 11-6 victory over the Spruce Creek Hawks Thursday afternoon in a softball game played at Lake Mary High School.

Dena Morasch added a triple, single, three RBI and two runs scored for the Rams, 7-3.

Lake Mary, which trailed 6-3 going into the bottom of the fifth, exploded with six runs in the bottom of the SANFORD — Oviedo scored five runs in the top of the fifth inning to nip Seminole 6-5 in a Seminole Athletic Conference girls' softball game Thursday at Fort Mellon Park.

With Seminole ahead 5-1 in the fifth, Oviedo moved out in front on singles by Lenn Massey, Barbie Bartels, Michelle Schialfo and April Manning and two Seminole errors.

"It was a good, close game," said Oviedo Coach Jackie Miller. "We always enjoy playing Seminole. Seminole has improved tremendously since last year."

Despite having three more at bats after falling behind, Seminole was unable to push across the tying run. Only Rita Frison and Tina Rathbun managed to hit safely over the last three innings as seven of the last nine Seminole batters popped up.

"They did not finish the game well," said Seminole Coach Greg Register. "Seven out of the last nine outs were pop ups, and when that happens, you are just not playing well at all. We also made a lot of errors."

Seminole claimed the early lead by scoring four runs in the first inning and one in the fourth inning. In the first inning, Val Wilks, Frison, Nakia Riggins and Rathbun singled while Oviedo committed three errors. Koscia Kennon hit a home run to account for the run in the fourth.

But while Seminole did lose the game at the end, there were signs of improvement. After opening the season with blow-out losses to Lake Brantley and Lake Howell, the Seminoles (now 1-4) beat Lyman 18-13 Tuesday and stayed with potent Oviedo. In past years, a game against Oviedo may have meant another top-sided loss.

"They played better," said Register. "We're a young team."

Bartels, the winning pitcher for Oviedo, had two singles with a run scored for the Lions. Also contributing were Melame Schrupp and Schialfo (two singles and an RBI each), Massey (single, one run scored), Manning (single, RBI) and Christy Montone, April Zorn and Jill Clayton (one single each).

Leading Seminole offensively were Andrea Ruffin, Wilks and Frison (a single and a run scored each), Kennon (home run), Riggins (single, RBI) and Rathbun (single).

Register singled out outfielder Riggins and infielders Kennon, Arge Walker and Wilks for their defensive play against Oviedo.

Seminole will play again next Tuesday in a 3:30 p.m. game at Lake Mary. Oviedo will face Lake Brantley on Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. at Redding Lake Park.

LONGWOOD — Jeff Jackson went 2 for 3 with a double and four RBI to lead the Lyman Greyhounds to a 6-2 victory over the Daytona Beach-Seabreeze Sandcrabs in a high school baseball game Thursday evening at Lyman Field.

Trailing 1-0 in the bottom of the third inning Lyman (9-2) took the lead for good with a three-run rally. Donny Bazler led off with a walk and Kevin Scott reached on an error. Two outs later, Andy Spolski doubled in Bazler and Jackson single in Scott and Spolski, making it a 3-1 contest.

The Sandcrabs, now 6-1, answered with a single run in the top of the fifth inning when Mike Cost singled and later scored on Bruce Cameron's double.

But the Greyhounds came back with two runs in the bottom of the fifth. After Scott led off with a single, Rob Wilson came in to pinch run. Doug Porter then singled Wilson to third and advanced to second himself on an error. After Spolski was walked to lead the bases, Jackson doubled to deep right center field to score Wilson and Porter.

Lyman benefitted from strong pitching performances from Bazler and Kevin Stuckey. Bazler, making his first pitching appearance of the season, pitched 4 2/3 innings. He allowed only two runs, one earned on four hits, striking out six batters and not walking a batter.

Stuckey threw the last 2 1/3 innings, allowing only one hit and one walk while striking out two to earn his second save of the season.

"We played very aggressive baseball tonight," said Lyman Coach Bob McCullough. "We hit the ball real well and took advantage of their mistakes."

Tonight the Greyhounds will travel to Lake Brantley to face the defending Class 4A state champion Patriots.

Catcher Andy Spolski (No. 13) hit a two-run double to highlight a three-run rally in the third inning that helped Lyman overcome an early 1-0 deficit and point the Greyhounds toward a 6-2 win over Daytona Beach Seabreeze.

Florida Manor clinches share of title

From staff reports

SANFORD - Florida Manor clinched a tie for the championship in the Sanford Recreation Thursday Polar Bear Softball League by defeating Gator's Dockside 6-5 at Chase Park.

In other games played Thursday, Grace Apostolic routed Town and Country R.V. 18-2 and First Baptist thumped Dunbar's 17-4.

With a week left in the season, Florida Manor has a 7-2 record, one game ahead of the second place duo of Grace Apostolic and First Baptist, both 6-3. Gator's Dockside is now 5-4 followed by Dunbar's (3-6) and Town and Country R.V. (0-9).

Next week, Florida Manor can clinch the championship outright when it plays Town and Country R.V. at 6:30 p.m. Grace Apostolic and Dunbar's play at 7:30 p.m. before Gator's Dockside and First Baptist square off at 8:30 p.m.

After five innings of their game Thursday, Gator's Dockside was shutting out Florida Manor 3-0. But Florida Manor exploded for five runs in the top of the sixth and, after Gator's Dockside got a run back in the bottom of the sixth, added their last run in the seventh inning.

Gator's Dockside scored a run and had the bases loaded with two out in the bottom of the seventh, but Florida Manor got the third out to preserve the win.

Ron Lesage hit three singles and scored a run to pace Florida Manor's 13-hit attack. Cliff Partlow added a triple, single and one run scored while Kyle Brubaker singled twice and scored once. Kent Brubaker doubled and scored a run.

Contributing a single and a run scored were Bryan Hartman and Rick Poore. Kirk Renager hit two singles. Joe DiBartolo had one single.

Bee Bops rock Saturday night

By JOAN KING
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Out of the blustery north came the dynamic duo, band leader Terri Barrett, and Sonny Bono look-a-like, Paul Klodner.

For the past 12 years Terri and Paul have been solidly making music together as the Bee Bops.

The Bee Bops have been booked weekends at Sanford's Disabled American Veterans' Post for the past three years.

They have delighted audiences from Canada to the Keys of Florida and west of the Mississippi.

Out of their past springs names renowned in the music world with whom they have worked. Names like Randy Travis; Joe Cook, of 'Peanuts' fame; William Lee Golden of the Oakridge Boys; John Capps, producer of famous names such as the Barbara Mandrel Band.

The list of names, tours and recordings goes on.

This dynamic duo has made their mark in the music industry for over thirty years.

Barrett, the leader is originally from Maine and has been visiting Florida as a snowbird and musician for 16 years. Four years ago he decided to make his home here permanently. He and his wife Donna now live in Deltona.

Recently, Barrett purchased shares of ownership in an Orange City restaurant where the Bee Bops will play exclusively.

Klodner, Bee Bops' drummer, met Barrett in Maine and joined the band. Klodner's list of credits started in 1968 with the Van Guards. He has played with Freddie Cannon' who recorded 'Palisades Park,' toured and recorded with Joe Cook in the late '70's and the Indigos, famous for 'Taboo.'

Klodner's list of credits are as his partners, in depth. Because he bears a striking resemblance to Sonny Bono, he has chosen the stage name, Sonny Paul.

To watch these two musicians perform is a treat in cleft glutony: you can't get enough of their sound.

Barrett, the leader of the duo kicks a left-handed bass on the keyboard while playing right-handed regular piano. He also plays lead and rhythm guitar often adding harmonica in conjunction with the guitar.

They use no tapes nor filler background. They provide their own sound, full and robust.

ENTERTAINMENT

Klodner is featured in a segment of their performance where he makes magic as a solo. The man places a drumstick in his teeth and beats out a rhythm with one stick, belts the cymbal with his elbow, leaves his seat while continuing to strike the drum bodies, then onto the floor, tables, chairs and glasses. Anything in his path that reverberates deserves a rapid strike with his sticks. Without missing a beat, Klodner plays his way back to the drum heads for his finale. It's an exciting performance that brings the house down in thunderous applause. He is joined in his finale by Barrett who adds a touch of the genius with guitar background that compliments Klodner's finish.

Near the end of their gig Barrett invited a lady spectator to sing for the folks at the D.A.V. and sing she did. The lady, Phyllis Sullivan, belted out two songs with strong command and knowledge of musical performance requirements. Those who know her and her ability were ready for the professionalism, however, those who thought she was an amateur out of the audience were pleasantly surprised.

Sullivan revealed that she is coming out of retirement and is available for vocal engagements.

The Bee Bops and Sullivan will also perform for the Nancy Dukes Benefit which will soon be announced. Dukes needs to raise $75,000 for a heart transplant.

Smoking claims sister's life but her story saves others

DEAR ABBY: When everything — and I do mean everything — else failed, I finally quit smoking when someone sent me the enclosed column you wrote in 1986. Will you please run it again?

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

GLORIA IN WINNIPEG
DEAR GLORIA: Yes, I will. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: About a year and a half ago, a woman wrote you a very moving letter about her sister who had died of lung cancer. Then a Denver woman wrote to say that the letter had caused her to quit smoking. Please run them again. Someone I love very much needs to see those letters in print.

WM. McD, TORONTO, CANADA
DEAR WILLIAM: Here they are:

DEAR ABBY: I am hurting more right now than I ever have in my whole life. My beloved younger sister died nine months ago. I still can't believe I will never be able to call her on the phone again to gossip and giggle as only sisters do. God, how I miss her!

I asked her doctor what actually killed her, and without batting an eye, he said, "Cigarettes!" Now I feel so guilty because I, her older sister, smoked. Thank God, I was able to quit in time. She tried to quit, but it was too late for her.

Her husband and children are inconsolable. I have learned a lot from this terrible experience. A smoker has a lot more to worry about than dying. My sister's stay in the hospital with lung cancer wiped out her family financially.

Abby, why do advertisers make cigarette ads so attractive? Instead, they should run a before-and-after picture of a once-beautiful woman vomiting and bald from radiation therapy?

I know this letter is too long for your column, but if it will help just one person to reach into her purse (or his pocket) and throw that pack of cigarettes in the trash, it will be worth it.

GRIEVING
DEAR ABBY: On April 5, I read a letter in your column in the Rocky Mountain News that did something for me that nothing else was able to do. It made me decide to quit smoking.

It was written by a woman signed "Grieving," whose beloved younger sister had died from lung cancer. Her doctor bluntly stated, "Cigarettes killed her."

"Grieving's" final paragraphs hit me like a thunderbolt. Abby, please tell "Grieving" that her letter made this 42-year-old, four-pack-a-day woman reach into her purse and throw her cigarettes in the trash! I've taken an oath never to smoke again.

Too bad she didn't sign her name. She deserves to be thanked publicly.

FREE IN DENVER
DEAR FREE: She did sign her name, but requested that her letter be signed "Grieving" if published.

However, I telephoned her to tell her what a terrific impact her letter had made and asked if I could reveal her identity. She said, "If you think it will help just one person, go ahead."

So, orchids to you, Dorothy Soseber!

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your continuing efforts to get people to quit smoking. My beloved brother died last week. He was a special person, loved by many. He was a good Christian and we find some comfort in knowing that he is with our Lord, but selfishly, we want him here with us now. He knew that cigarettes could kill, but he never thought it would happen to him. He loved us and did not want to cause us all this pain and sorrow.

Abby, please give this message to your readers. If you can't quit smoking for yourselves, please do it for those who love you.

HEARTBROKEN IN INDIANA
DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old single parent with one child. Not to brag, but I am a nice-looking woman who has been on my own since I was 17.

About five months ago I met "Tom," and we hit it off right away. He is 27 years old and lives at home with his parents. I met them just once, and I could tell they didn't like me. Tom told me they had nothing against me, but they don't approve of his dating a woman with a child. Abby, I am a decent person who works for a living. I have my own place and live in a nice neighborhood.

Well, I baked a birthday cake for Tom, and when he took it home, his mother said she didn't want it in the house and he should return it to me, so that's exactly what he did.

I was very hurt and disappointed, because it showed that Tom was a mama's boy who wasn't a man enough to stand up to his mother.

Now I don't know what to do. I still like him very much, but when he brought that cake back it made me wonder if I should continue the relationship. Please help me decide.

UNDECIDED IN KENTUCKY
DEAR UNDECIDED: Wonder no more. If you want a man with a mind of his own, keep looking. Tommy is a mommy's boy.

LET US REPLENISH THE SEED OF FAITH THROUGH ... Regular Church Attendance

"It All Depends On How You Look At It"

How often have we heard this phrase? But have you ever really thought about it?

This toddler is viewing her topsy-turvy world with a smile on her face. As she grows older, she may perceive unstable situations as more threatening; yet she need not feel helpless if she is taught to face life with humor and with faith.

Job 8:21 reassures us that God "... will yet fill your mouth with laughter." Furthermore,

James 1:6 instructs us to "... ask in faith without any doubting."

As we guide our children into adulthood, may we encourage them to live their lives with strength and a positive perspective as we worship with them in God's house each week.

With His word as our compass, the twists and turns in the paths of our lives need not turn our world upside down, as we walk hand in hand with God every day.

IN BRIEF

What's what of Christian Scientists

LONGWOOD — First Church of Christ, Scientist, 975 Markham Woods Road, will sponsor a free public lecture which covers the most often asked questions about Christian Science. The lecturer, Bruce Fitzwater, C.S.B., of Portland, Ore., is a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship. He is also an active Christian Science practitioner, who is available to church members and others to assist in the Christian healing that characterizes the denomination. Fitzwater speaks from the standpoint and background of having taught university classes in humanities and religion in both the United States and Asia.

Entitled "What It Is and What It Isn't: An information lecture on Christian Science," the lecture will be held March 17 at 4 p.m. in Lake Brantley High School auditorium, 2150 Sand Lake Road, Altamonte Springs.

Peace on earth in preparation for Easter

By DR. J. OTIS ERWIN

Most of us are already through Lent, preparing for Easter and more recently are now ready to move toward peace in our world with more interest, power and thoughtfulness than before. While preparations are necessary and vital for each of these three, Easter is foremost in our minds, spirits and hearts today. It is always a great Christian experience for us.

The faith and hope that Jesus would rise after being crucified became a reality on Easter Day when the women visited the "borrowed tomb" and found it empty, as it was predicted to be. They left hurriedly and joyously to seek the disciples and inform them of "the good news," that He was not there.

About a week earlier we had anticipated, but hoped not to, have the war in the Gulf still being waged. It would have dampened our Easter Day spirits, yet hopefully, we would have still proclaimed with John the Revelator that He is "alive forevermore."

Nevertheless, a climatic change of circumstances has evolved in terms of the battles, the general crises — the virtual end of the loss of lives for all sides, and the destruction

Today, peace is still one of the uppermost hopes for many of us for our world today and tomorrow. Many of us will give and express on Easter Day our thanksgiving to God that our wishes, hope and prayers have been heard and answered.

—Dr. J. Otis Erwin

beyond our imaginations have so shaken us that we will still proclaim for Easter, "Alive forever more."

Jesus counseled the disciples after the resurrection, "Peace be with you." He apparently was speaking of inner, personal, at-ease kind of peace.

Today, peace is still one of the uppermost hopes for many of us for our world today and tomorrow. Many of us will give and express on Easter Day our thanksgiving to God that our wishes, hope and prayers have been heard and answered.

However, our work is not finished. In fact, it has barely started in a new quest for peace. Many will and do recall peace treaties of earlier wars and related encounters the world over. Following such hostilities, contracts, treaties, decisions have been made many times, especially by the victors, which of his loins and justice shall roll down like a mighty stream." He was a successful prophet for about 40 or more years. Isaiah also pleaded with his contemporaries, "...then justice will dwell in the wilderness, and righteousness abide in the fruitful field. And the effects of righteousness will be peace...my people will abide in a peaceful habitation..."

Another whom they heard and read was the prophet Micah who counseled, "...what does the Lord require of you but to do justice and to love kindness, and walk humbly with your God?" Finally Isaiah counseled again, "The work of righteousness shall be peace."

Prophetically then, we have the qualities necessary for the foundations of peace and there are many more to be found. Justice, righteousness, faithfulness, and others are the foundations or requirements for peace. These qualities must first characterize our lives, nations and civilizations if there is to be peace in the lands and all souls ultimately liberated.

May our Easter 1991 bring these qualities to each of us and more, and perhaps the theologian Robert McAfee Brown was fully correct earlier when he wrote his book, "Creative Dislocation — The Movement of Grace" (as he confessed at the end of the volume in 1980):

"So in the midst of uncertainty about the future, I do not feel abandoned. I feel upheld, even though I have to remind myself from time to time that there is a power beyond me doing this upholding."

It's the more, the plus, our faith that upholds us in the midst of uncertainty about life, the future. We are never abandoned. To that I say "Amen!"

Dr. J. Otis Erwin is pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church, Sixth Street and Sanford Avenue, Sanford.

See a cardiologist about palpitations

DEAR DR. GOTT: When do heart palpitations become serious enough for an individual to visit the doctor? I'm 26 and have had them for eight years. My doctor feels they come from stress. My heart beats around 180 times per minute when they occur, and I have dyspnea. I find it very hard to lead a normal life.

DEAR READER: Palpitations, awareness of rapid or irregular pulse, are a common complaint affecting both healthy people and those with heart disorders. In its simplest form, palpitations consist of one or two extra beats or a brief episode of irregular pulse. This is harmless. It commonly occurs during periods of stress or fatigue and is often related to smoking or consuming caffeine. Many people experience this phenomenon on occasion. It does not indicate heart disease.

On the other hand, palpitations may reflect an extended attack of rapid heart rate, including ventricular tachycardia, a potentially fatal "runaway" rhythm associated with cardiac disease.

Midway between these extremes are moderately severe forms of palpitations, including paroxysmal atrial flutter and fibrillation — bursts of rapid heartbeats that should be treated, even though they may not indicate heart disease. For example, mitral valve prolapse, a weakness of one of the heart's valves, frequently causes harmless but distressing periods of rapid pulse; paroxysmal atrial tachycardia. The condition, which is more common in women than in men, can be successfully treated with beta-blockers to regulate the heart rate.

Therefore, before assuming that palpitations are harmless (or harmful), a doctor needs to know what form is present. The diagnosis can be made with a Holter monitor, a continuous 24-hour electrocardiogram, which will automatically record the palpitations for later analysis. Then, using this information, the doctor can determine the type of heart rhythm causing symptoms. Such symptoms include weakness, fainting, shortness of breath (dyspnea), apprehension and chest discomfort.

Judging from your age and your description of the palpitations (up to 180 beats per minute), I suspect you are experiencing extended attacks of paroxysmal atrial tachycardia. Since these attacks are not hazardous to your health, you needn't worry about them. Nonetheless, they should be diagnosed and — if they occur frequently — treated.

I suggest you make an ap-

pointment with a cardiologist. This specialist will examine your heart and obtain the necessary tests to document the exact cause of your symptoms. I think you could feel more normal if you were prescribed medicine to prevent the palpitations.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

North and South were using the two-over-one force to game, a system that can get one's side too high. But if there are no wasted cards, the method gives a partnership a good chance of arriving at the right spot. Since North and South knew they were behind in their match, they bid aggressively to the slam.

Declarer won dummy's king of spades and played back the six of hearts, covered by the 10 and Jack. He was happy to see West's queen win. Another spade was led, the ace winning in dummy. Another heart was led from dummy, and declarer's expectations were rewarded when the king of hearts hit the table. Now the king and ace of clubs and a club ruffed in dummy set up the rest of South's clubs.

Although it looks as if six hearts can be made routinely, in an expert game many Easts came up with a winning defensive play at trick two to hold declarer to only 11 tricks. Work it out for yourself. If East puts up the king of hearts when trumps are first led from dummy, there is now no way for declarer to come to 12 tricks. Oh, a declarer with X-ray eyes might still finesse against West's jack of clubs, but that play would be against per-centage.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 9, 1991

Endeavors you share with close friends could have promising possibilities for all concerned in the year ahead. In addition to being worthwhile, they should also be fun.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your possibilities for realizing your hopes and expectations today are a bit better than most other signs, because your aspirations will be practical. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Everyone is appreciative of acknowledgment, but you're more likely to get what you desire by not trying to solicit praise.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll take your involvements seriously today, and you're apt to be philosophical regarding their outcomes. Your attitude will help you to effectively handle developments.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your greatest gratification today is likely to come from a situation in which you're working on something that is in common with another. It could either be business or social.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Before making a major decision today, it may be advisable to get your mate's opinion regarding the matter. Your partner may see alternatives that you've overlooked.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you do not use your time and energy productively today, you're apt to feel guilty about your behavior later. Do the right thing and forego punishing yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Business and pleasure make a compatible mix today, provided you put the major emphasis on socializing and the minor emphasis on promoting what you have to offer.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your possibilities for doing what you set out to do are very good today, provided you can sustain your motivation. Make sure to keep why you want it done foremost in your thoughts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you let yourself get into situations that are too confining today, you could feel uncomfortable and restless. Try not to let others restrict your movements.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your best asset today, if you apply yourself, is your ability to make what is already a good thing even better. This could be especially true in regard to finances.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Treat people with whom you're involved respectfully today, but don't let them take charge of situations you're equipped to handle better. You'll be able to do this tactfully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you have to do something important today that requires concentration, make arrangements to perform your assignment in quiet surroundings. Noise or interference will negatively affect your productivity.
