Seminole defends state title

Seminole High School track coaches Ken Brauman and Nate Perkins are approaching Friday night's Class 3A state meet at Winter Park's Showalter Field and Bob Mosher Track.

Brauman, coach of the Seminole boys, will have a real strong idea of how his team will finish after the field events are over. On the other hand, Perkins and the Seminole girls may have to wait until the final event of the evening to find out if they've won their fifth consecutive state title.

Michael Jordan strikes again

Try as they might, the Philadelphia 76ers cannot make Michael Jordan go away. They couldn't do it in Game 1, and they couldn't do it in Game 2.

The 76ers have yet to win on the road in the playoffs. They beat the Cavaliers in five games in the first round holding the home-court advantage. But for Philadelphia to reach the conference finals they will have to win at least one game at Chicago Stadium.

Marijuana confiscated

MIAMI — More than 4 tons of marijuana were confiscated from an American boat just off the Mexican coast Wednesday by the U.S. Coast Guard, the largest such seizure by the agency this year, officials said.

Two crew members, Joseph Glow Jr. and Robert Melley, both of the St. Petersburg area, were arrested.

Ether forces evacuation

HAIALEAH — Police and firefighters evacuated 15 homes and several businesses while specially trained crews moved about 4,500 gallons of highly explosive ether out of a Hialeah warehouse Thursday.

Florida Department of Law Enforcement agents discovered 50 90-gallon drums of ether at the warehouse earlier in the week during a drug investigation. The chemical is often used in cocaine processing, but the officers found no illegal drugs or processing equipment at the plant.

The drums were labeled as a harmless substance and the warehouse owner said he did not know they contained ether. The shipment was still under investigation.

Crews trained to handle hazardous chemicals carefully loaded the drums into an 18-wheeler truck. The neighborhood was evacuated as a precaution.

"The ether is in drums and the drums are sealed. They're very stable," said Hialeah Fire Chief Omar Fernandez. "These people really know what they're doing. It should be as safe as we can possibly make it."

Man under siege by Satanists?

LANTANA — A Lantana man, fearing he is under siege by a satanic cult or terrorists, has offered a $2,500 reward for apprehension of vandals who have caused $80,000 worth of damage to his home in the last three months.

"You'd think this was a war zone. There is a whole gang on the loose," said Manfred Buttner of the damage to his 3,500-square-foot home.

A pentagram, a five-pointed circle representative of satanic worship, was spray-painted on the garage floor where a red Triumph TR7 was left on concrete blocks after being stripped of its seats and tires and then bashed repeatedly.

A sheriff's supervisor said investigators do not know whether there is a connection between the vandalism and any cult group.

No water restrictions

Action not needed here despite record low well readings

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — Despite the second month of record lows in a test well near here, the St. Johns River Water Management District has decided not to reinstate lawn watering restrictions in Seminole County.

A district water officials said private wells aren't running dry and salt concentrations aren't increasing in Seminole County's wells, so there is no need for mandatory restrictions for now.

Since March, a test well monitored by the district has record low levels, said Barbara Vergara, district director for groundwater programs. Last month, the well recorded a groundwater level of 33.99 feet. That level was 0.62 feet below what it was in March and 1.01 feet below the level it was at in April 1989. Vergara said the well not only recorded a record low in March, but in May 1989 as well.

"We're going to go back and look at the consumptive use permits we're issuing in that area and try to figure out what's going on," Vergara said. Other wells in the area are dropping, but not quite as fast.

A district test well near Geneva recorded 17.77 feet in April, which was 0.62 feet below the level it reached in March and 0.86 feet below the level it reached in April 1989.

Seminole County residents endured four months of brown grass and wilting foliage when the district imposed mandatory restrictions, limiting lawn watering to three days a week and only eight hours on each of those days.

Although water table conditions improved enough for the restrictions to be lifted in

SCC teacher files lawsuit against school

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — Adrienne Perry, a reading instructor at Seminole Community College since 1977, has filed a class action suit in county civil court charging the school with racial discrimination in their hiring and promoting practices.

The class action suit, filed on behalf of any other alleged victims of racial discrimination at SCC, charges the school has "historically and systematically failed and refused to hire, promote and recruit black persons for faculty and administrative positions."

Perry alleges that not only did the school hire its first black faculty members only under court order in the mid 1970s, but that they have yet to hire a black administrator.

Craig Orsino, SCC's coordinator of public information, said the school would not comment while the matter is being litigated.

Perry, who is also a city commissioner in Longwood, applied for the position of Dean of the Open Campus on July 27, 1988 when reorganization of the school created the position.

When the position was first advertised on July 12, 1988 the description called for an applicant with a doctoral degree. A week later, the requirements were changed to reflect a need for only a masters degree.

Perry, who holds a doctorate from the University of Florida and a masters from Columbia University Teaching College, was one of three applicants for the job. Gloria Pickar and Marilyn Mitchell, both white females, also applied, though Mitchell withdrew.

Perry alleged in her civil suit that Dr. Keith Samuels, vice president for instruction at SCC, had pre-selected Pickar, who had been at the college for only three years, for the position before interviewing began.

Samuels, according to court doc-

SANFORD — The adage is that lightning never strikes twice. For Sanford couple Howard and Elaine Smith, it has struck two, maybe three times.

When they came back to their home on Sand Pine Circle in the Hidden Lake subdivision on Monday after attending their niece's wedding in Maryland, they certainly were not expecting to find fire trucks in their yard.

But, of course, there was a fire, they said this morning.

A stubborn muck and brush fire that officials said started under suspicious circumstances on Monday in the vicinity of Airport Boulevard and Old Lake Mary Road has kept firefighters busy since then, has sent columns of smoke into the air that have been visible for miles, and has resulted in heavy, smelly

Seminole County gets unexpected financial boost

By J. MARK BARFIELD

SANFORD — Financially-strapped Seminole County has been rewarded with a $736,013 windfall, aided by a puff from Seminole County Commission Chairman Sandra Glenn.

Glenn, accompanied by county commissioner Jennifer Kelley, last week attended a meeting with officials of the State Board of Administration, which oversees distribution of the taxes and other state-collected revenues to counties and cities.

Glenn said she learned the SBA was behind in its accounting for deductions from the revenues to pay for county-issued bonds. As a result, a $150,000 payment due last September was not sent to the county and an October payment was withheld. In all, county commissioners feared they had lost more than $242,000 of the 350,000 they expected from the revenues. Two weeks ago, commissioners drastically cut their transportation budget to $107,689 and drew on reserves to maintain county spending levels.

Glenn said the SBA officials were quick to atone for the error. "You got us," Glenn said they commented. She said about $12 million had been wrongly withheld from counties statewide.

Glenn said SBA officials promised to send full revenue collections for May through September this year to

Amusement park lovers can enter a whole new world later this month

By J. BRADLEY DILLING

SANFORD — A whole new world is about to open its doors to Sanford.

Flea World, the Sanford flea market on U.S. 17-92, will debut a 10-acre, $5 million amusement park called Fun World on May 25.

More than 100 people will be employed at the park.

"We're excited," said owner Syd Levy. "We wanted to have a family-type place. I looked around here and realized that we really need something like this. The community has given us a lot and we just want to give something back."

Levy said he had traveled around the country looking at amusement parks and that some of the best ones that he had seen were designed by a man named Bill Beatty.

"We really let him have the run of things with the design," Levy said. "There are some things that he came up with that I just didn't see as really important, but he said 'Hey if we're gonna do it, let's do it right.' And I just let him have the run of the whole thing. It's really beautiful. Wait till you

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Columbia grounded for repairs

By WILLIAM HARWOOD UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — Rocket engineers Thursday fine-tuned plans to remove a faulty cooling system valve from the shuttle Columbia in a tricky repair job that will delay the ship's blastoff on a Spacelab astronomy mission for two to three weeks.

William Lenoir, associate administrator for space flight, announced the launch delay Wednesday after wrapping up a two-day flight readiness review to assess the status of Columbia's flight processing. Liftoff on the 36th shuttle flight had been scheduled for next Thursday.

"We are obviously disappointed that we are not ready to fly," Lenoir said in a statement. "However, this particular system is absolutely critical to the safety of the crew and overall mission success, so we have decided to change the component."

Launch director Robert Slesick said the schedule called for engineers to begin the repair job Thursday. But before the valve can be removed from under the floor of the shuttle's payload bay, engineers must first drain toxic Freon 21 from pipes leading to and from the faulty component.

Then, with a rotating "clean room" butted up against Columbia's open payload bay, engineers plan to gain access by

Hubble Space Telescope's first photo delayed again

United Press International

GREENBELT, Md. — The Hubble Space Telescope should be able to snap its historic first picture of the heavens next week now that engineers determined that a mathematics error had made the observatory slightly askew.

If all goes well with correcting the error and focusing one of its cameras, the telescope should be able to photograph a star cluster in the Milky Way between May 16 and May 18, officials said.

NASA had considered taking the long-awaited picture Wednesday after two of three guidance sensors on the telescope failed to locate and lock onto stars during testing earlier in the week. That ability will be critical once the telescope begins its 15-year mission of exploring the universe.

Officials thought taking a picture with the telescope's wide field planetary camera could help orient the $1.5 billion, 12-ton observatory.

But engineers determined that the reason the sensors had failed to find bright enough stars was a faulty command sent to the telescope, pointing the observatory about a half of a degree in the wrong direction, said Jean Olivier, telescope deputy project manager.

The faulty command stemmed from a math error made while updating star charts dating back to 1954, said Olivier.

After correcting the commands from the Space Telescope Science Institute in Baltimore, engineers at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt and Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., will resume testing the guidance sensors.

working from platforms extended into the cargo hold. Safety netting will be set up below the work area to prevent tools or other debris from falling on the shuttle's $150 million telescope payload.

An official launch date will not be set until after managers get a better idea of how long it will take to replace the valve, which is vital to the operation of a Freon cooling system, one of two needed to carry away heat generated by the spaceplane's electrical and mechanical systems.

"The decision to go and make this right was not a tough decision because we want 100 percent performance in our cooling system before we fly, and right now, this system would be marginal at best," Slesick said.

A preliminary repair schedule showed Columbia would not be ready for blastoff until at least May 30, two weeks later than planned. Slesick refused to speculate on when the work might be finished, saying "It rates right up there with one of the most challenging" tasks ever attempted at the launch pad.

"I think it's going to take two to three weeks," he said. "This is straightforward work but it is tedious. It has a high degree of difficulty."

Engineers have never attempted such a repair job inside the shuttle's 60-foot payload bay with the spaceplane in the vertical launch position.

Columbia and its seven-member crew had been scheduled to take off on the 36th shuttle mission at 12:45 a.m. next Thursday.

Commander Vance Brand, 59, co-pilot Guy Gardner, 42, John "Mike" Lounge, 43, Robert Parker, 53, Jeffrey Hoffman, 45, and civilian astronomer Ronald Parise, 38, and Samuel Durance, 46, plan to spend 10 days in orbit.

Eight players share Fantasy Five jackpot

TALLAHASSEE — Eight players matched all five winning numbers in the latest Fantasy Five drawing, and each can claim more than $189,000, Florida Lottery officials said Wednesday.

Two top prize tickets for Tuesday night's drawing were sold in Orlando, and one each was sold in Lamonia, Jacksonville, Lauderdale, Leisure City, Ocala and Riverview, Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul said.

Some 1,200 players matched four of five numbers to win $362 each, and another 37,464 players matched three of five numbers to win $6 each, Paul said.

The winning numbers in Tuesday's drawing were 5, 25, 29, 33 and 37.

High-ranking FDLE official ousted

TALLAHASSEE — Danny Johnson, chief of criminal investigations for the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, was fired Wednesday following his arrest on charges he abused his 15-year-old stepson.

"After a thorough internal review of the allegations against Mr. Johnson, I feel that he can no longer be effective in FDLE," said Commissioner Tim Moore in a written statement.

He continued: "In the interest of preserving the public's trust and confidence in our ability to carry out FDLE's mission, Mr. Johnson has been relieved of his command."

"He's no longer with FDLE," agency spokesman John Joyce said.

M. Michael McHargue, staff director in Moore's Tallahassee office, was named to replace Johnson in the position overseeing five regional FDLE operations throughout the state and 17 field offices.

Johnson, 40, and his wife Lee Ellen Johnson, both were arrested Friday on charges of aggravated child abuse involving her son, now living with relatives.

A May 1 probable-cause affidavit says the boy "has been a slave for Danny Johnson," and was battered by him in March and April while his mother watched.

Johnson denied the charge, a second-degree felony punishable by up to 15 years in prison.

Florida State rape suspect pleads guilty

TALLAHASSEE — The second of three fraternity brothers pleaded no contest Wednesday to charges in the 2-year-old sexual attack on a severely drunk Florida State University female student who was dumped at the house of a rival fraternity.

Byron Stewart, 23, was sentenced to serve five years probation and 200 hours of community service after pleading no contest to a charge of sexual battery with slight force before Leon County Circuit Judge Ted Steinmayer.

Stewart and co-defendant Daniel Oltarsh, both members of Pi Kappa Alpha of FSU, were scheduled to go to trial Monday. Oltarsh, who is charged with sexual battery by multiple perpetrators, is still scheduled for trial on that day.

The third defendant, Jason McPharlin, a Pi Kappa Alpha member of Auburn University, pleaded guilty to a lesser charge and was sentenced to one year's probation.

The three students were indicted in May of 1988 in the attack, which had occurred two months earlier. The incident caused a major controversy on campus.

Pi Kappa Alpha was suspended from the school for five years, not only because of the attack, but because the fraternity refused to cooperate with investigators.

Under his agreement with prosecutors, Stewart, who had been charged with sexual battery by multiple perpetrators, agreed to plead guilty to a lesser charge, a second-degree felony, which carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison.

Accused cop killer threatens prosecutors

MIAMI — Guards said a man charged with killing two policemen threatened prosecutors as he was being led from court, prompting the prosecutors to ask that the suspect's hands and legs be shackled for the rest of the trial.

Dade County Circuit Judge Alfonso Sepe denied the request Wednesday, calling shackles a last resort.

Charles Street, charged with the first-degree murder of two Metro-Dade policemen, told jail guards he was "fed up" with prosecutors and threatened them, a court report said.

Street's lawyers said the defendant had been provoked by prosecutors' repeated taunts.

Assistant Public defender Art Koch said the prosecutors frequently poked fun at Street out of the judge's earshot, making remarks such as "Doesn't Chuckie look good?" and "Chuckie, you look nice today, your lawyers dress you up?"

"These are attempts from day one to needle him," Koch said. "Here's a man of 77 IQ who's on trial for his life."

Street, 36, is accused of fatally shooting officers Richard Boles and David Strzalkowski on Nov. 28, 1988, just days after his early release from prison on an unrelated conviction.

Coast Guard seizes four tons of marijuana off Mexican coast

United Press International

MIAMI — More than 4 tons of marijuana were confiscated from an American boat just off the Mexican coast Wednesday by the U.S. Coast Guard, the largest such seizure by the agency this year, officials said.

Two crew members, Joseph Glow Jr. and Robert Melley, both of the St. Petersburg area, were arrested and charged with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute and importation of marijuana, said Gerald Hochman, co-director of the federal Florida Joint Task Group.

The task group, a joint operation with 60 agents of the Drug Enforcement Administration and the U.S. Customs Service, were trying to determine where the marijuana originated, as well as its destination, Hochman said.

The boat was towed to Key West and turned over to U.S. Customs authorities. Coast Guard Petty Officer Veronica Cady said.

Hochman estimated the wholesale value of the marijuana at $700 to $800 a pound, or $3 million to $6 million.

"It's a pretty sizable amount," Hochman said. "The Coast Guard made a very good hit in this one."

The crew of the Coast Guard cutter Tahoma boarded the 40-foot La Fiesta sailboat, which was registered in Mobile, Ala., about 350 miles southwest of Miami for a routine check, Cady said.

The Coast Guard found 8,210 pounds of marijuana, an unusually large amount for the size of the vessel, Cady said.

"It was a routine boarding. We found the marijuana, and they were arrested," Cady said. "It was unusual because there was so much on such a small boat."

"What was unusual is the the marijuana was not concealed," Hochman said. "It was simply stacked in the vessel. But, with that kind of bulk, it's very difficult to conceal."

Police recover 57 pieces of stolen art from cafeteria owner in Miami

United Press International

MIAMI — Fifty-seven pieces of Ecuadorian art missing since 1988 were recovered Wednesday by police from the attic of a cafeteria owner who allegedly paid $400 for the 49 paintings and eight sculptures.

The art, valued at more than $200,000, was taken Nov. 17, 1988, by two men who saw a delivery van parked at a Miami restaurant and stole it while the driver was talking on the telephone, police detective J.B.

Martinez said. "They took it to a house and started opening the crates and found the artwork and a lot of other ceramic pieces," he said.

"Realizing it all came from Latin America, they thought it might have some cocaine stashed inside. They destroyed most of the statues. The rest of the stuff is here."

The men then took the art to a cafeteria owned by Alberto Bello, who allegedly bought the whole delivery for $400, Martinez said. The artwork belonged to Banko de Pichincha, which sent it to Miami for display at an international bankers' convention.

The two suspects, Vincent Kenneth Beggs and Shawn David Lawson, both of Miami, were arrested in February 1989 and convicted of auto theft and grand theft. Shortly after their arrest, Bello's cafeteria and home were searched, but nothing was found.

Investigators received a tip this week that the artwork was hidden in a home owned by Bello but leased.

Martinez campaigns in Panhandle

UPI report

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez's two-day campaign swing through the Florida Panhandle got off to a quiet start Wednesday with small, polite crowds.

About 50 people turned out to greet the governor in Blountstown, the first stop on the 9-city tour that ends Thursday in Pensacola. Campaign officials blamed the light turnout on rain showers.

The Republican governor's trip is designed to drum up the support of conservative Democrats who helped put him in office in 1986. Rural north Florida is considered a traditional Democratic stronghold.

Martinez trails former U.S. Senator Lawton Chiles in virtually all of the polls. Chiles' name recognition from years in the Senate and his moderate stance on some issues have helped his standing in the Panhandle and north Florida.

Aides to Martinez are hoping that a personal campaign stop, as well as help from some former Democrats who are now Republicans, will bolster GOP strength this fall.

POLICE BRIEFS

Police nab cocaine courier suspect

CASSELBERRY — Orlando Metropolitan Bureau of Investigations agents who followed a suspected cocaine courier from Orange County to Casselberry arrested the woman here at 9 p.m. Wednesday.

An agent reported seeing the woman put a suitcase in the trunk of her car in Orange County. When she was confronted at a gasoline station on State Road 436, Casselberry, she reportedly gave the agent permission to search her car. In the suitcase in the trunk of the car the agent said he found 400 grams of cocaine.

Angela Jill Laracuente, 23, of Orlando, is charged with trafficking in cocaine in the case. She was booked into the Seminole County jail.

Tip leads to marijuana find

SANFORD — A tip that identified to Sanford police a man who might have marijuana led early today to the arrest of James Glivens, 23, Randall Street, Sanford.

Police said they searched Glivens and found marijuana. He was arrested on a charge of possession of more than 20 grams of marijuana on Sanford Avenue at 3:19 a.m.

Man charged with prescription fraud

FERN PARK — A man, who allegedly increased the pill count from 20 to 30 for librium, was arrested after he tried to have the altered prescription from Florida Hospital Altamonte filled at K-mart in Fern Park.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies charged Dan Edward Willis, 34, 111 Shellpoint W., Maitland, with uttering a forged prescription and resisting without violence for allegedly giving inaccurate identity information.

He was arrested at the store on U.S. Highway 17-92 at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Man accused in copper theft

SANFORD — Michael Gilcrest, 34, address unknown, was charged with burglary and petty theft, after Sanford police caught him with a box of copper wire in an alley behind 1002 S. French Ave. at about 4:29 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said the wire had been stolen from 401 W. 10th St., Sanford, and sneaker prints at the scene led them to the suspect.

DUI stop brings other charges

LAKE MARY — City police here who stopped a car clocked traveling 56 mph in a 40 mph zone on Lake Mary Boulevard, charged the driver with DUI, possession of a controlled substance, possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, speeding and careless driving. Garth Austin Schwelzer, 32, 784 Maitland Drive, Sanford, was arrested at 2:03 a.m. today.

Arrested with him on a charge of possession of marijuana were passengers Deborah Ann Sisson, 31, and Larry Deen Sisson, 29, both of Altamonte; and Pamela Jayne Kavanaugh, 33, 1930 Arthur St., Altamonte Springs. Larry Sisson was also charged for carrying a concealed knife.

Residents brainstorm on 'uptown' downtown

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — City residents are expected to make their thoughts and ideas for downtown development known, at a meeting May 15 at Longwood City Hall, 175 Warren ave.

The Orlando architectural firm Herbert/Halback, Inc., has been selected by the city commission to head up the initial design project for the area to the northwest of the intersection of County Road 427 and State Road 434, which contains the city's historical district.

According to City Administrator Mike Abels, the downtown development project grew out of the original Beautification Task Force recommendations, and is also part of the related project to determine what Longwood should or will be by 2005.

There have already been some citizen-initiated suggestions for the redevelopment of the area. Some would have no vehicle traffic in the area, opting instead for decorative colored brick walkways or tree-lined winding sidewalks that would circle past the area's decorative stores which would be maintained in a motif compatible with the overall historical design of the area. Others might prefer vehicular traffic, with scenic drives and historical markers that would inform the visitors of the significance of the restored reminders of the Longwood of long ago.

Herbert/Halback has developed several designs, and through citizen input, they hope to narrow the selections down to one workable plan for the improvements.

Abels said once the plan is finalized and goals have been set for downtown improvements, over 50 percent of the improvements will have to come from the private sector. He said the city is prepared to undertake some of the work, but a great deal of support will be needed from area home, property and business owners, developers, local landscapers, and many others. Abels said this is not a project that is years in the future, but something that "could be started as soon as we have a workable plan."

The public meeting will be Longwood City Hall at 7:30 p.m. May 15.

Utility taxes approved

From staff, wire reports

TALLAHASSEE — The Senate Finance and Tax Committee voted Wednesday to approve $78 million in new taxes on Florida utility bills to finance school construction, but it declined to extend that levy to cable television customers.

However, the bill does extend the state sales tax to "wireless cable" operations, or home satellite television services. The measure also includes a soft-drink tax of one half-cent per bottle at wholesale, raising $26.4 million for the schools.

If the proposals survive a Senate floor vote and joint Senate-House conference committee consideration, Rep. Art Grindie, R-Altamonte Springs, said he would favor the committee's package.

"I'm generally against taxes, but we have to do something," Grindie said. "We've got a billion-dollar deficit to make up and it has to come from somewhere."

Rep. Frank Stone, R-Casselberry, said he could support most elements of the bill, although he said the surcharge on drinks would be an "administrative nightmare" to monitor and collect.

Stone said he would prefer cable television company receipts be taxed, rather than sodas. The cable tax was included in a similar House tax package.

Polk released from hospital

By SUSAN LODEN

SANFORD — Sheriff John Polk Wednesday was released from his third re-hospitalization for complications related to his second heart bypass surgery performed six months ago in North Carolina, his administrative aide Sherry Clark said today.

Polk was admitted to Florida Hospital Altamonte May 1. He had complained of chest pain, Clark said. X-rays showed that four of the five wires used to reattach his sternum after the bypass surgery had broken, she said.

Polk was in intensive care, and underwent major chest cavity surgery May 2, Clark said. During the surgery doctors found three of Polk's ribs had been floating unattached in his chest cavity. Scar tissue had developed in his chest cavity because of damage done by the ribs, she said.

The tissue was removed and the ribs repaired in the surgery, Clark said. Polk was released from the hospital Wednesday and has returned home to Sanford, Clark said she hopes he will return to work part-time in June.

Polk, 58, who has been sheriff 21 years, underwent his first heart bypass surgery in Gainesville more than a decade ago. A couple of years ago while on a business trip to London, England, he suffered his first and only heart attack, records show.

Since his second bypass surgery, which involved two arteries of his heart, Polk has been rehospitalized three times because of related complications.

Building official suspended

SANFORD — A senior Seminole County Building Department official is on paid leave while an investigation takes place to determine if county building permits had been issued improperly.

Fred Thurman, supervisor of permits and records, was notified by county building official David Beitz Monday not to report to work or visit any construction site until notified otherwise. Beitz refused comment, only confirming that Thurman is on paid leave and an investigation is being conducted. Thurman has been in the position since June 1985.

Thurman said Beitz gave him no details when he notified him of the leave Monday. Beitz' letter to Thurman, on file in the county personnel office, states the investigation is to determine whether Thurman failed to "follow proper procedures."

A pivotal moment

The savage slayings last November of six Jesuit priests, their housekeeper and her daughter by uniformed gunmen in El Salvador posed a critical test for President Alfredo Cristiani. Unless the murderers, believed to be linked to the Salvadoran army, were brought to justice without delay, the democratic government in San Salvador would face a cutback in American aid. Five months later, the Cristiani government is plainly failing the human-rights test.

Recently a select panel of House Democrats concluded that the Salvadoran probe into the massacre has ground to a standstill without any serious effort to determine whether senior military officers were involved. The State Department did not quarrel with the findings and Secretary of State James Baker went out of his way to support the work of the 19-member task force. Thus the case revives bitter memories of the Salvadoran government's failed effort to prosecute the killers of Archbishop Oscar Romero in 1980 and of hundreds of other political killings that have gone unpunished.

El Salvador's tragically politicized judicial system is the weakest link in the nation's fragile democratic process. Despite a $9.2 million American aid program designed to strengthen the court system, little substantive progress has been made. The murders of the Jesuits amply illustrate the Salvadoran justice system's chronic shortcomings.

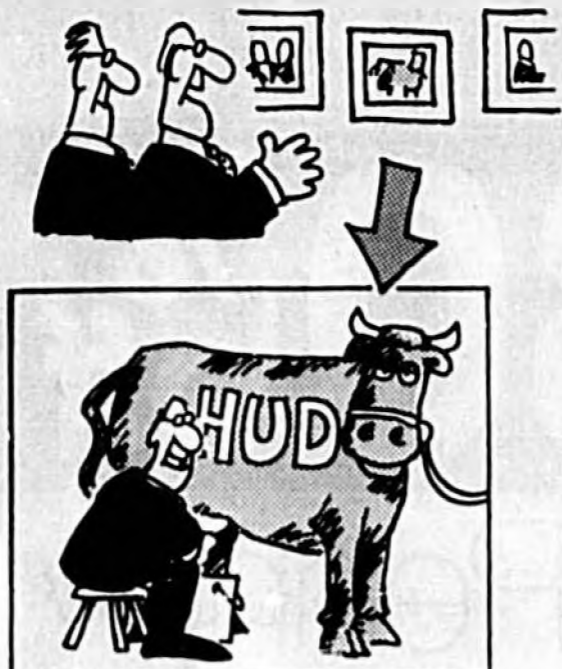

From the outset, President Cristiani condemned the killings and pledged an aggressive investigation. The government's investigators, in fact, were credited by the House Democrats with performing sophisticated police work, including gathering ballistics evidence and handwriting samples. But, under Salvadoran law, the judge handling the probe is vested with wide authority to pursue the prosecution however he sees fit.

In this case, Judge Ricardo A. Zamora is blamed by the House panel for failing to follow up on evidence that might implicate high-ranking military officers. Key figures who could provide critical testimony, and have volunteered to do so, have not even been interviewed.

Although an army colonel, two lieutenants and five low-ranking officers have been arrested, wide suspicion persists that top officials who ordered the killings are immune from prosecution. The colonel, Guillermo Alfredo Benavides, is the highest-ranking army officer ever arrested for human rights violations in El Salvador. Yet he has been allowed to spend part of his time in detention at a vacation resort for military officers. Consequently, there is considerable doubt whether he ever will be brought to justice. Can Washington exert constructive pressure to counter the serious flaws in El Salvador's justice system? The answer is probably yes, provided American influence is applied in a way that does not undermine other democratic institutions.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee already has voted to cut U.S. military aid to San Salvador next year by half. In testimony before the Senate on May 1, Secretary Baker was receptive to linking American aid to an improvement in El Salvador's human rights record, but he did not endorse the sharp cutback in military assistance.

Eastern Europe soiled by pollution

BITTERFELD, East Germany — Welcome to what the environmental watchdog organization Greenpeace calls the most polluted city in the dirtiest country in the industrialized world.

Imagine an environmentalist's worst nightmare of the Los Angeles Basin in a Stage 3 smog alert superimposed over a landscape that looks like Gary, Ind., in the late 1950s. Even that does not convey the environmental damage done to this industrial city 100 miles south of Berlin — or to a 400-mile-wide swath of East Germany, southern Poland and northern Czechoslovakia.

Bitterfeld, with a half-dozen plants, is the center of East Germany's large chemical industry. It has a huge aluminum plant, a steel-smelting mill and two large electrical plants to supply power. The Saale river, about 20 miles away, runs red from steel mill waste; the local drinking water is off the charts for heavy metals and other contaminants; and the air is so heavy with sulfur dioxide and other pollutants that car headlights are often needed at midday. Virtually every tree within a dozen miles has been killed.

While Bitterfeld is a worst-case example, it is not much worse than many other industrial cities and towns throughout this region. What ties them together is the area's rich supply of soft, brownish lignite coal, which is scooped out of huge open pits and used for cheap power to run the energy-intensive heavy industry.

This coal is the most sulfur-laden in the world.

When burned, it gives off a brownish-yellow haze containing sulfur dioxide emissions 20 times what is considered safe in Western Europe. By one estimate, Eastern European factories spew forth into the air a staggering 26 million tons of sulfur dioxide a year.

The environmental devastation throughout the entire region is almost total. Rivers, lakes and streams are dead. Drinking water is badly contaminated, and 300,000 acres of forests have been destroyed. Most bird life and animals have disappeared. In many places the soil is so contaminated that food grown in it is unfit for consumption.

For the past 40 years these plants have provided jobs and relative prosperity for local residents, but the resultant pollution has robbed them of health, and in the end, of life.

In one study commissioned by West German health officials, the high incidence of stillbirths and premature births with very low birth weights were believed to be caused by environmentally related chemical changes in the mothers' blood. Infant mortality in the area is about three times that of the non-industrial areas of the countries. Among the children who live, four out of five develop chronic bronchitis by age 7.

Life expectancy is 8 to 10 years lower than in Western Europe, and three out of five deaths are traceable to environmentally induced diseases — especially cancers, lung and heart disease.

For the past 40 years the communist governments of Eastern Europe have largely ignored the environment, and those who raised environmental concerns were frequently treated as enemies of the state.

Now the cost just to halt further pollution — let alone undo the damage — will be staggering. The West German Institute of Economic Research has put a price tag of $200 billion over the next 20 years to clean up Eastern Europe.

The Saale river runs red from steel mill waste and the local drinking water is off the charts for heavy metals.

Bush capitalizes on negotiation

WASHINGTON — In the antic American presidential selection system, almost nothing tests a candidate's skills as a negotiator. The emphasis is all on trial by combat — in the primaries, against members of the same party, then in high-stakes debates against the opposing nominee in the general election.

The unstated assumption seems to be that politics is a form of warfare, in which toughness and durability, the capacity to sustain blows and inflict injury, are the vital qualities. Certainly, no one should enter the Oval Office without demonstrating the competitive traits our campaigns demand. Governing is no work for sissies.

But neither is it work for brutes, at least in a democratic society and in a world where war has become a steadily less attractive option. More often than not, Presidents have to attempt to solve problems, not by riding roughshod over the opposition, but by dealing with them.

All this is by way of prelude to the observation that the one skill George Bush was never forced to demonstrate as he sought the presidency — a talent for negotiating — may prove to be his most useful tool as President. Certainly, it is the capacity on which he relies most this month, as he deals with congressional leaders of both parties on the budget and awaits a Washington meeting with Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev on the future of Germany, European security arrangements, arms control and great-power relations.

The stakes in these two sets of talks are larger, by several magnitudes, than the previous negotiations of the Bush presidency. The 1989 budget compact, heralded in the Rose Garden last April, was essentially an agreement to slide by the 1989 Gramm-Rudman deadline and save the hard decisions for later. The windblown Malta meeting between Bush and Gorbachev last December was a truncated affair, which did little more than certify the recognition on both sides that their vital interests would be served by reducing the cost of the arms race.

Now the imperatives are much clearer. The threat of resurgent inflation and rising interest rates is forcing Bush and congressional Democrats to contemplate the consequences of disingenuous and dismissing the structural deficit that has gone unrepaired for almost ten years. A financial crisis would make life uncomfortable in 1992 for the Republican President and for those in both parties responsible for fiscal policy on Capitol Hill.

As for U.S. Soviet relations, the increasingly strident opposition to Gorbachev, given expression at the extraordinary May Day jarring in Moscow, is a powerful prod to action on his part. It serves notice also on Bush and his administration that agreements must be reached soon, if the West is to benefit from the pressures Gorbachev feels.

Given the high stakes, it truly is fortunate to have a President with Bush's negotiating skills. The testimony on this point — from members of Congress and foreign officials — is nearly unanimous.

They find Bush well-briefed, engaged and self-confident enough to be flexible. He is described by associates as an ear-man, rather than an eye-man, one who prefers conversation on a topic to a set of memos or position papers. He governs by talking to people, face-to-face or over the phone. And he likes to deal.

His own ego needs are well under control. He encourages those with whom he negotiates to advance their own ideas and gives them room to maneuver.

Told as a youth that it is bad form to brag and inconsiderate to make others feel uncomfortable, Bush prides himself on his ability to build personal relationships. One difficult NATO leader has been converted into a reasonably strong supporter of U.S. policy by Bush's repeated acknowledgment of this man's erudition and intellect.

But Bush is more than an artful flatterer, a convivial locker-room or cocktail-party pal. His real gift, those who deal with him say, is his capacity to "see the other guy's needs." He understands and respects the reasons why others at the table take the positions they do.

By conveying that understanding, he was able to defuse a rather nasty London-Bonn feud at the NATO summit a year ago, where he made his international debut as President. At that Brussels meeting, Bush managed to line up both Great Britain and West Germany behind an American initiative for sweeping conventional arms cuts in Europe. That NATO offer, as it turned out, gave Gorbachev the assurance that he needed to let the Warsaw Pact countries break away late last year without fear of Soviet tanks.

None of this guarantees success for the upcoming negotiations on the budget or on arms control. The policy problems in both are daunting. Nor is negotiating skill an adequate substitute for public rhetoric when it comes to leading a democracy. In a representative government like ours, the voters need to hear goals and strategies debated, not just bear mute witness to a leader's tactical skills.

Governing is no work for sissies.

Papandreou sees new allegations

WASHINGTON — Former Greek Prime Minister Andreas Papandreou, awaiting trial for a potpourri of offenses in Greece, now faces allegations with a decidedly American twist. Papandreou's replacement, Constantine Mitsotakis, wants a full investigation of the deal Papandreou made in 1987 to buy 40 F-16 fighter jets from General Dynamics.

Mitsotakis inherited the $900 million purchase when he took office in April, and he doesn't like the terms of the deal. If General Dynamics does not let Greece renegotiate the terms, Mitsotakis has vowed to seek a U.S. congressional investigation into "what extent the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act was violated and to what extent commissions were paid or other benefits." The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act was written to keep American companies from bribing foreign government officials to secure contracts.

We asked General Dynamics for a reaction to Mitsotakis' hint that the purchase contract may have broken the law. The spokesman told us, "We have been in total compliance with the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and every other law of either the U.S. or Greek government. There were no payoffs."

In 1986 when Papandreou was negotiating the contract, he opted to do it directly with General Dynamics instead of going through the U.S. government. The Defense Department's Foreign Military Sales Office is set up to help foreign governments negotiate the purchase of defense equipment. That agency warned Papandreou that he could cut a better deal if he worked through the Pentagon.

General Dynamics claims it was Papandreou who insisted on direct negotiations.

Our associate Jim Lynch has seen internal Greek government documents showing that Papandreou was warned by his military advisers as early as 1986 that the terms of the F-16 contract were not favorable. In one memo to Papandreou, a Greek air force general warned that General Dynamics was only offering 10 percent of the "offset benefits" that it originally agreed to. Offset benefits are the entitlements a company throws in to sweeten the deal. They may include maintenance contracts on the equipment or even unrelated items, like promising to promote tourism in the country that buys the merchandise. We have seen the General Dynamics letter of intent to provide the jets. That letter, from 1985, mentions offset benefits equal to the entire sales price. But a Greek document indicates that original benefit package was later dropped. The spokesman at General Dynamics said he could not give the current percentage of the contract price that was backed by offset benefits.

Papandreou threw a document-shredding party before he left office, but enough of a paper trail of the F-16 deal remains to be examined in great detail in Greece and the United States.

The House Energy and Commerce Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations has already begun looking into the issue. The House and Senate Armed Services committees have also been briefed on the jet sale in the past month. The F-16 purchase may become one of the central issues at the Papandreou trial. Despite the fact that Papandreou is already out of office, that trial is shaping up as the equivalent of an impeachment hearing for his leadership of the Pan-Hellenic Socialist Party.

Papandreou threw a document-shredding party, but enough of a paper trail remains.

Commission honors board members

LAKE MARY — City commissioners Friday will say "thank you" to citizens who serve on city boards to support local government at a Board Appreciation Dinner at the Lake Mary Community Improvement Association Building, 260 North Country Club Road.

City Clerk Carol Edwards said recognition will be given to the leaders and members of the various boards that provide support in the planning processes and operation of the city. Boards to be honored tomorrow night include Planning and Zoning, the Board of Adjustments, Local Planning Agency, Parks and Recreation and several others.

The dinner will begin at 7 p.m.

Police linked to confrontation with major league ball players

United Press International

TAMPA — Tampa police again have been linked to a confrontation with major-league baseball players Gary Sheffield and Dwight Gooden, and this time Sheffield said an officer held a gun to his head.

In a case of mistaken identity similar to a 1986 incident that also involved Gooden and Sheffield, Sheffield said he was stopped outside a West Tampa bar and harassed by policemen who thought he was an armed drug dealer.

Police would not comment Thursday on Sheffield's account of the incident, which occurred March 14.

Tampa resident Chuck Jones said Sheffield, who drives a black four-door Mercedes with gold trim similar to the one driven by drug suspect Rufus James Jackson, said they have filed internal affairs complaints against the officers.

"We're bound by state statutes that say that anything which may be linked to an internal affairs investigation cannot be released," said Tampa police spokesman Steve Cole. "We're not confirming anything. We're not talking about it, period."

The Milwaukee Brewers infielder said Gooden, a pitcher for the New York Mets, left the bar, Grace's Place, shortly afterward and tried to intervene.

"I said, 'I'm Gary Sheffield and I'm a professional ball player,'" Sheffield said. "They said, 'I don't care who you are, you're driving a dope dealer's car,' and they threw me up against the car."

A crowd of patrons leaving the bar shortly after midnight witnessed the incident, Sheffield said.

"My complaint was, I've been harassed too much, and my life was in danger," Sheffield said.

He and Gooden were stopped by police in 1986 for a traffic violation that escalated into a brawl with about 20 officers. Gooden, who claimed the incident was racially motivated, was charged with resisting arrest and battery on a police officer.

Gooden, who lives in St. Petersburg, pleaded no contest and was placed on probation.

Vice Detective Jose Penichet issued a warrant for Jackson's arrest on a charge of conspiracy to traffic more than 12 pounds of cocaine on Sept. 3, 1989.

Penichet said one of Jackson's cars described looks like Sheffield's. "They were going by the information I had given them," he said.

As Sheffield was about to drive away from the bar, two police cars blocked the Mercedes, said Marvin Striggers, a bartender at Grace's.

"They came out with their revolvers," he said. "It looked like they were going to fire on the car."

Gooden, upset, started to run toward the action and an off-duty police officer working at the bar tried to calm him down, Striggers said.

"But the cops were screaming and yelling at him. He was just standing there," Striggers said. "That's what they wanted him to do — mouth off — and then they could kick his ass."

"They told me to stop the car," Sheffield said. "They had guns to my head. And they had guns to Chuck Jones' head. And they were cursing."

Man charged with killing his girlfriend

United Press International

MIRAMAR — A man charged with murdering his live-in girlfriend confessed that he had tortured and killed her because she planned to leave him and take their young daughter with her, police said.

Hector Colon, 32, told friends at work about the killing Wednesday, then surrendered to police. He was charged with first-degree murder in the death of Kimberly Warlick, 27, at their apartment.

Colon was being held without bail Thursday at the Broward County Jail.

Warlick had just returned from visiting her mother in Surfside Beach, S.C., Lt. Chuck Gebro said. She planned to go back to South Carolina, leaving Colon and taking their 2-year-old daughter, police said.

Colon told her the child had to stay, Febro said.

"They got into a fight, and he started hitting her with his hands," Febro said. "Then it escalated."

Febro said Colon hit Warlick repeatedly with a long, metal socket wrench handle, then tied her hands and feet with rope and continued the beating.

"Apparently she was struggling and screaming," Febro said. "She was suffering and crying and he felt sorry for her and strangled her."

The daughter remained asleep in her crib during the killing Wednesday morning, police said.

After killing his girlfriend, Colon took a shower and went to work at Midtown Collision Specialists, an auto body shop in Hollywood, Febro said.

Additionally, the suit seeks more and better training opportunities for minorities at SCC, including a court-administered affirmative action which would require the college to hire and promote minorities who are qualified for a position.

Bullet sale to minor was legal

United Press International

MIRAMAR — A store that sold rifle bullets to a juvenile apparently did not violate federal law because employees thought the buyer was at least 18 and proof of age is not required, investigators said.

The U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms investigated the purchase after the 15-year-old buyer shot and killed a teenage friend during the weekend.

The .22-caliber rifle discharged in the unidentified teen's Miramar home, killing Scott Leary, 14, of Sunrise. The shooting is still under investigation but police think it was accidental.

ATF agents said Wednesday their preliminary investigation had turned up no evidence that ammunition regulations were violated.

Federal law says licensed firearms dealers cannot sell ammunition "to any individual who the licensee knows or has reasonable cause to believe is less than 18 years of age."

Fire

blankets of smoke hovering close to the ground over a wide area. No homes have been damaged and firefighters said this morning they expect the muck to smolder for several more days.

The Sanford fire was not the only one in the Smiths' lives recently.

While they were staying in a hotel in Maryland the weekend of their niece's wedding, they certainly were not expecting to be roused from their hotel room and evacuated at 2:30 in the morning.

But, of course, there was a fire there. However, they were back in at 4 a.m.

And, after the Smiths returned home, Elaine called some friends in Morristown, N.J., to tell them about the fires that seemed to be occurring wherever they went. She was not expecting her friends to have a fire story of their own. But, of course, there was a fire.

The friends had lost the clothes they had taken to a local dry-cleaner, because the business had burned to the ground.

"Elaine got off the phone and came in and said to me, 'Howard, this is the third I don't think we'll have to worry, any more,'" Howard joked. "And they were out here lighting a backfire yesterday."

Firefighters had lit a backfire — a controlled fire aimed at burning off all the possible fuel, should the main fire head that way.

While neighbors in the vicinity of the fire, such as on Sand Pine Circle, Centennial and other nearby residential streets, have been concerned about the smoke and flames and the emergency vehicles from at least three area fire and rescue services, the dominant effect of the fire seems to have been to bring neighbors closer together.

"People have really been nice. They have been more than generous," said Sanford Fire Department Battalion Chief M.C. Hoening, as neighbor Colleen Duguld brought out a pitcher of ice water and some plastic cups. "We appreciate it very much."

Duguld said she was happy to do it because the fire personnel were so easy to talk to.

"I'm concerned, but these guys have been great," Duguld said. "I like that you can go up to them and ask them what's going on and they will explain things to you. They don't just brush you off."

Marian Hamke, another Sand Pine Circle resident, wore a borrowed, bright yellow fire hat and posed with her poodle in front of a wall of flame where firemen had just lit a backfire.

"I'm scared and I'm worried. I want to be able to get out if the worst happens, but there's nothing you can do about it," Hamke said. "And as long as they are here, it's not so bad. They look like they know what they are doing."

"It makes it really bad, when you come home and there are trucks in your back yard," said Larry Lawrence, another resident of Sand Pine Circle. "But I think they know what they are doing."

Firemen left stuck in the muck

By J. BRADLEY DILLING
Herald staff writer

SANFORD -- Firemen more than three days firefighters have tried their tricks on the fire that has been smoldering in the untamed underbrush and in the backyards of neighborhoods near the Sanford-Lake Mary border.

They have crushed it under bulldozers, plowed trenches around it with tractors, and bombed it with water from a helicopter that can refill its 250-gallon bucket hundreds of times in a day.

As of today, it has burned more than 100 acres in the vicinity of Airport Boulevard and Old Lake Mary Road.

It's a muck fire and its an example of how Mother Nature doesn't give in easily.

Muck is nature's dirty trick of hiding pockets of air and other gas under trap-door-like coverings of vegetation in the forest floor. It is layer upon layer of decomposing vegetation that has been forming ever since there was a forest to begin with.

Humans are trapped under the layers and the result is a deceptively safe looking piece of ground that can be hiding combustible raw materials as shallow as six inches or as deep as 16 feet.

In addition, it poses the danger of swallowing firefighters and their equipment. Sanford Fire Department Battalion Chief M.C. Hoening explained. "The Division of Forestry (in the past) has lost entire pieces of equipment to it. You can't put men on it. And it's just not safe to put equipment out there either."

In addition to the pits, there is the danger of smoldering. Muck can be several feet thick. It is composed of material that is on its way to becoming fossil fuel, so like underground coal or oil fires, it can smolder for days or months at a time. All that is required for it to become a fire is a little dry weather and some strong wind, Hoening said.

The smoldering car, he stopped with several days of moist weather or the use of "rain-bird" sprinklers.

"We'll just have to wait and see," Hoening said. "You can't predict Mother Nature."

Photographs submitted to the Herald for publication will be returned if that is requested. An addressed envelope large enough to accommodate the picture and carrying sufficient postage should be provided. Pictures may be picked up at the newspaper within two days of publication if a request to save the picture has also been submitted.

How Do I Announce A Wedding Or Engagement?

People wishing to have their engagement or wedding announcement published in the Sanford

Herald must submit the appropriate form to the Sanford Herald People editor. Completed engagement forms must be submitted at least 20 days prior to the wedding. Wedding forms should be submitted as soon after the wedding as possible.

The forms provide the basis for information that will appear in the announcement. The forms are available at the newspaper office or by sending an addressed, stamped envelope to Engagements (or Weddings).

If desired, the completed forms may be accompanied by a photograph (professional preferred) of any size to be published in black and white with the announcement. The newspaper reserves the right to reject any photograph that it cannot reproduce.

Photographs may be picked up after publication or can be returned by mail if accompanied with an SASE.

Engagements and weddings are published in the Sanford Herald Sunday edition of the People section.

Is There Anything I Should Know About Writing Letters To The Editor?

Letters to the editor are welcome. All letters should be typewritten or written legibly, signed and include a mailing address and a daytime telephone number. The letters should be on a single subject and should be as brief as possible. Letters are subject to editing.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Talks to address deficit

WASHINGTON — A group of Republican Senators opposed a call for new taxes to reduce the soaring budget deficit and said lawmakers can place the proposal on President Bush's table, but like broccoli, "he's not going to eat it."

Nineteen Republican senators signed a letter to Bush urging him to stick with his 1988 campaign pledge of no new taxes. Instead, the lawmakers want Bush to push harder for a cut in the capital gains tax.

"The president feels about taxes the way he feels about broccoli — you can put it on the table in front of him but he's not going to eat it," Rep. Jon Kyl, R-Ariz., said on the House floor. "If somebody is going to propose new taxes, it's got to be somebody other than George Bush."

Researchers: Drug will fight AIDS

BOSTON — The promising AIDS drug DDI apparently can combat the deadly virus without causing excessive side effects, alleviating recent fears it may be too dangerous, researchers said.

Results of two new studies suggest dideoxyinosine, or DDI, may be the second drug that effectively attacks the AIDS virus and may offer an alternative to the only currently approved AIDS drug, AZT.

On the basis of the findings, "It is fair to say that this is one of the most promising drugs to come along since the development of AZT," said Dr. Robert Yarchoan of the National Cancer Institute, who was the first to report that DDI appeared to fight the AIDS virus.

No-dancing district holds prom

PURDY, Mo. — The last waltz for students in the town of Purdy likely will take place this weekend when the school district that banned dancing sponsors a prom in nearby Monett.

The Purdy R-2 School District, which had its ban on school-sanctioned dancing challenged all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, could reinstate the ban at the next board meeting on May 21.

In the meantime, a dance by Purdy students this Saturday in Monett, about 7 miles north of Purdy, is an alternate location for students who said "they would rather have it off-campus to avoid all the hassles," Fox said.

Congressmen concerned about cable

WASHINGTON — Members of Congress voiced concern Wednesday that millions of Americans may be denied the chance to watch their favorite sporting events because of the shift of sports programming from free television to cable.

The lawmakers suggested Congress might reconsider the antitrust exemption granted to sports leagues or might pass laws limiting the percentage of games that can be carried by cable television.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, testifying before a House Energy and Commerce subcommittee, also said Congress should act to re-regulate the cable television industry, where charges to customers have risen steadily.

But representatives of the major sports leagues said Americans have more opportunity than ever before to watch baseball, football and other sporting events on over-the-air television.

House passes Amtrak bill

WASHINGTON — Ignoring the Bush administration's repeated attempts to eliminate subsidies for Amtrak, the House voted Wednesday to reauthorize federal support for the passenger rail system.

Supporters said the bill, passed on a 322-93 vote, will enable Amtrak to buy new cars and other equipment that will attract more passengers and increase revenues.

In their annual budgets, both the Reagan and Bush administrations have proposed that the federal subsidy for Amtrak be phased out, but Congress has continued to vote funds for the rail service.

WORLD BRIEFS

China frees more than 200

BEIJING — Chinese leaders today announced the release of 211 people jailed since last year's crackdown on the democracy movement, including many prominent intellectuals, in an unexpected move made to show an improving human rights record.

Several of those cited by name were believed to have been already released and under house arrest. The statement, carried by the official Xinhua news agency, also said 431 other people were still being investigated and some were being prosecuted.

The announcement marked the first time Chinese authorities have given a specific number of suspects being investigated. The statement failed to say whether all were being detained or whether the 431 figure was the total involved.

Pope calls for fair wages, jobs

MEXICO CITY — Pope John Paul II urged businessmen from Latin America, a region suffering from increased unemployment and declining living standards, to improve conditions for their employees by creating jobs and paying fair wages.

In his speech to Mexican businessmen in Durango, 300 miles northwest of Mexico City, John Paul II said Wednesday that Latin American businessmen have an important role to play, "since the profound existing social differences are in everyone's sight and constitute a giant challenge to those with ... responsibility in the socio-economic field."

Today, the fifth day of his weeklong visit, the pope was scheduled to hold a religious service for miners at Los Campos Deportivos de Industrial Minero.

Officer killed in ship fire called hero

By MITCHELL MILLER
United Press International

NORFOLK, Va. — The officer killed in the fire aboard the USS Conyngham rescued a fellow crewman and returned to smoke-filled areas of the destroyer to evacuate other sailors before he died, a sailor says.

The sailor, who asked not to be identified, told the Newport News Daily Press in Thursday's editions that Lt. Algernon Pope Gordon Jr., 34, helped officers escape Tuesday's blaze by awaking them from their sleeping quarters.

The crewmen were in danger due to flames rising from a boiler room where the fire started while the ship was on routine maneuvers in North Carolina.

The sailor told the newspaper Gordon rescued an officer who was one of the most seriously injured in the fire, which caused 18 to be hospitalized. He then headed back into a smoky area of the guided missile destroyer and never returned, the crewman said.

"He might have thought somebody else was in there," he said of Gordon, a native of Montgomery, Ala. "He was an unselfish individual."

Lt. Cmdr. Steve Burnett of the Atlantic Fleet said Thursday that the Navy was still looking into the fire and could not confirm the sailor's account. Gordon was the ship's operations officer and was responsible for coordinating the ship's communications, radar and sonar information.

Navy officials have said Gordon likely died of smoke inhalation.

3 expeditions reach summit of Mt. Everest

United Press International

KATMANDU, Nepal — Climbers with three expeditions reached the world's highest peak today, among them the son of the man who first stood atop Mount Everest, the Ministry of Tourism said.

Also, a Nepalese army helicopter awaited approval from China before attempting to rescue two Japanese whose balloon crash-landed Wednesday in Tibet while trying to make the first hot-air balloon trip over Everest, the ministry said.

The first joint climb of Mount Everest by U.S., Soviet and Chinese mountaineers today broke the record for the number of climbers from the same expedition to scale the world's highest peak.

Although one turned back, six climbers made it to the 29,028-foot summit, bringing to 20 the number of climbers from the expedition to conquer the mountain, including the first Soviet female climber to do so.

The news was relayed from base camp at 17,500 feet by expedition leader James Whitaker, via satellite telephone links with United Press International in Beijing and with his wife, Dianne Roberts, in Seattle.

"We're stunned," Whitaker said in a conversation relayed from Seattle.

The designer had his work cut out for him, because Levy was not thinking small.

The park will be called Fun World and will have bumper boats and bumper cars, two go-cart tracks, two 18-hole miniature golf courses, a hamburger-pizza restaurant with seating for 200 people, a 10,000 square-foot game room and batting cages.

Admission to the park is free. The rides and games will be paid for with tickets that visitors can use on any activities in the park.

"All the games will be for redemption tickets," said Tom Bonk, manager of the park. "If someone were to spend $100 on games, he would probably win $75 of it back. That's not a bad deal."

The grand opening for the park will be May 25. There will be a job fair for the park Saturday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Clemens wins 100th

Roger Clemens extended his dominance over the Seattle Mariners, while the Baltimore Orioles broke Mark Langston's mastery over them. Clemens pitched a four-hitter Wednesday night for his 100th career victory, giving the Boston Red Sox a 4-1 triumph over the Mariners.

The Orioles defeated Langston for the first time in three years, winning a 9-1 rout over the Angels at California that included Cal Ripken's becoming the third shortstop in major league history to hit 200 homers.

In other AL games Wednesday, Cleveland cracked Minnesota 7-3, Toronto edged Chicago 4-3, Detroit shaded Milwaukee 2-1, Texas trounced Kansas City 9-3, and Oakland nipped New York 2-1 in 11 innings.

MDA FUND RAISERS

Bowling, golf events planned

A bowling party and a golf tournament have been scheduled during the next five days to help raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

This evening at 6:30 p.m., more than 75 employees of local 7-Eleven stores will participate in a bowling party at the Brunswick Parkwood Lanes, located at 3303 W. Colonial Drive in Orlando.

Muscular Dystrophy patients from around the area will also be in attendance.

This event is part of The Southland Corporation's nationwide effort to raise money for MDA. To support this effort, please call The Southland Corporation at 295-3076 or MDA at 677-6665.

Also, Daniel and Wohlwender Realty, Inc. is sponsoring their first 4-Man Scramble Golf Tournament to benefit MDA at Timucuan Golf and Country Club on Monday, May 14, beginning at 12:30 p.m.

Deadline for entry was April 30. For more information, contact Daniel and Wohlwender at 321-9444 or 869-4600.

TOUR de TRUMP

Mexico's Alcalá wins time trial

ALLENTOWN, Pa. — Raul Alcalá of Mexico, emerging as a strong favorite to capture the Tour de Trump, easily won the Lehigh Valley time trial Wednesday morning by 26 seconds.

While Alcalá narrowed his gap behind overall leader Vlasteslav Bobrik, the U.S. 7-Eleven team suffered through a difficult day, endangering its hopes of repeating as team champion.

Canadian Steve Bauer, after starting the day a strong third in the overall standings, crashed on a railroad track, injuring his buttock, and wound up falling to 10th place, 4:29 behind Bobrik. His 7-Eleven teammate, Ron Kiefel, who had been the highest-placed U.S. rider, faded from sixth place to 18th.

ARENA FOOTBALL

Detroit Drive signs Schlichter

DETROIT — The Detroit Drive of the Arena Football League announced Wednesday the signing of Art Schlichter, the former Ohio State and Indianapolis Colts quarterback suspended in 1983 for betting on pro football and baseball games.

Prior to the news conference announcing his signing, Schlichter said he was eager for a new start and "looking to enjoy my life and have some fun."

The Drive, who are the defending ArenaBowl Champions, open the 1990 season with road games June 8 in Pittsburgh and June 16 in Washington, D.C. Their home opener is June 22 at Joe Louis Arena against the Denver Dynamite.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Rain, Cubs beat Braves

The rain came down at an opportune time for Chicago but much too soon for Atlanta.

The downpour started in the Cubs' fourth Wednesday, but umpires did not halt play until after the Braves' fifth, and didn't call the game until 1 1/2 hours later, giving Chicago a 4-0 victory over Atlanta.

"We weren't able to get to our part of the game," said Braves Manager Russ Nixon, whose team had rallied in the late innings the last two days. "All of our runs were scored from the fifth inning on here."

In other National League games, San Francisco beat New York 4-2, Pittsburgh pounded Cincinnati 6-2, Montreal defeated Los Angeles 5-3, St. Louis blasted San Diego 11-5, and Philadelphia destroyed Houston 10-1.

Seminoles seek sweep

How the Seminole boys fare in Friday night's Class 3A state track meet at Winter Park's Showalter Field will determined largely on how Carlo White (left), Tommy Hampton (right), Henry Williams and Robert Moore do in the field events Friday afternoon. White is the top-seed in the shot put, Hampton qualified in the discus and Williams is entered in the triple jump. Moore will compete in the triple jump, long jump and shot put.

Tribe after both state track titles

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

Seminole High School track coaches Ken Brauman and Nate Perkins are approaching Friday night's Class 3A state meet at Winter Park's Showalter Field and Bob Mosher Track from different directions.

Brauman, coach of the Seminole boys, will have a real strong idea of how his team will finish after the field events are over. On the other hand, Perkins and the Seminole girls may have to wait until the final event of the evening to find out if they've won their fifth consecutive state title.

Seminole is attempting to do something that hasn't been done since 1986: win both the boys' and girls' team state championships. The last schools to accomplish that were Seminole (back when it was a Class 4A school) and Belle Glade-Galdes Central.

Sullivan scores in U.S. win

United Press International

HERSHEY, Pa. — In the city where Will Chamberlain scored 100 points in an NBA game 28 years ago, the U.S. national soccer team experienced a modest offensive outburst of its own Wednesday night.

Peter Vermes scored on a penalty shot in the 58th minute to break a 1-1 tie and help the United States defeat Poland 3-1 in a World Cup tuneup.

Chris Sullivan, a member of the Orlando Lions of the American Soccer League and a two-time All-American while at the University of Tampa, added an insurance goal late in the game.

Bruce Murray had a goal in the first half as the United States showed a scoring punch previously nonexistent against quality opponents.

"The bad rap on our forwards should be over for a while, at least," midfielder Eric Wynalda said.

The United States, appearing in its first World Cup in 40 years, entered Wednesday night with just 12 goals in nine international games — but six against pushovers Iceland, Bermuda and Malta. The most goals they scored against a top opponent came in a 3-2 loss to East Germany.

"We're playing aggressive mentally — going forward," U.S. Coach Bob Gansler said.

Poland was chosen as an opponent because of its similarity in style to Czechoslovakia, the Americans' first World Cup foe in Italy next month. The Poles just missed qualifying for the World Cup, finishing behind Sweden and England in its group. Nine of its players Wednesday night competed during qualifying.

"It's good for the players to get a victory of this nature against a team of this caliber," Gansler said.

Before a vocal crowd of 12,063 at Hersheypark Stadium, the Americans overcame an early goal to score three straight times.

Weger, Brandenburg star at Stetson

Lake Brantley graduate Tracy Brandenburg led the Stetson Hatter softball team in several offensive categories this year as a freshman.

From staff reports

DeLAND — Longwood residents Wes Weger and Tracy Brandenburg have been recognized as leaders of their respective diamond teams by Stetson University.

Weger, a sophomore shortstop from Lake Mary High School, was named most valuable player on the 1990 baseball team at the annual banquet held in the Carlton Union Building this past Saturday night.

Weger is leading the team in hitting (.380), triples (five) and runs scored (46). He also ranks second on the ballclub with 12 doubles and has only struck out 12 times in 184 at bats. On defense, he has committed just 15 errors in 209 chances.

The Hatters will be completing their regular season this week, then will begin preparation for their third consecutive trip to the NCAA regional baseball tournament. Stetson earned the trip by winning the Trans America Conference champion trip for the third straight time last weekend in Shreveport, La.

Brandenburg, from Lake Brantley, enjoyed a very successful rookie campaign for the Hatter softball team.

The freshman shortstop led the Hatters in triples (nine), RBI (27) and slugging percentage (.622). She also tied for the team lead in home runs (four) and walks (14). The nine triples by Brandenburg, who also played guard on the basketball team, established a new team standard, breaking the old record of seven.

According to the NCAA Statistical release through games of April 28, her average of .243 triples per game ranked her second in the nation behind Chris Parris of Nevada-Las Vegas, who had 13 triples in 53 games for a .245 mark.

Her 0.73 RBI per game average gave her the 21st highest per game average in the country.

The Hatters finished their season last weekend with a third place finish in the New South Women's Athletic Conference Softball Tournament at Georgia State.

The Hatters finish their season with a 19-25 mark after starting the season 4-15.

Hype begins for Tyson-Tillman fight

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — Mike Tyson wore custom-made white coveralls and no shirt. Don King did his Walter Brennan impersonation and hugged arch-rival Bob Arum. George Foreman swallowed everything in sight.

The hype for Tyson's June 16 bout in Las Vegas against amateur antagonist Henry Tillman — Tyson's first fight since he lost the heavyweight crown to James "Buster" Douglas in February — began in circus-like fashion Wednesday with a 90-minute news conference.

There was, however, little news.

Tyson did pronounce himself in "tremendous shape and ready to fight" Tillman, who beat him twice in the 1984 Olympic box-offs. Tillman went on the win a gold medal while Tyson failed to make the team.

Looking fit, Tyson said he weighed 226 pounds two weeks ago and wants to get down to 218 for the scheduled 10-rounder at Caesars Palace. He indicated he has been running six miles a day, and started boxing Monday.

Jordan scores 45 as Bulls keep 76ers winless on road

By United Press International

Try as they might, the Philadelphia 76ers cannot make Michael Jordan go away. They couldn't do it in Game 1, and they couldn't do it in Game 2.

This does not bode well for the 76ers, who return home for Game 3 Friday night trailing this best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal 2-0.

The 76ers have yet to win on the road in the playoffs. They beat the Cavaliers in five games in the first round holding the home-court advantage. But for Philadelphia to reach the conference finals they will have to win at least one game at Chicago Stadium.

On Wednesday night in Chicago, Jordan scored 15 of his 45 points in the critical third quarter, rallying the Bulls from a 16-point deficit to a 101-96 victory.

Late in the first half, the Bulls trailed 54-38. The third period, however, belonged to Jordan. The Bulls scored 32 points in quarter and Jordan had 15. They outscored the 76ers 19-7 in the last five minutes and led 79-77 entering the last period.

While Jordan electrified Chicago Stadium during the quarter, Philadelphia's Charles Barkley produced nothing but static. He went scoreless and finished with 16 points, only 2 in the second half. This from a player who had 30 points in Game 1.

Jordan's scoop shot with 1:04 left made it 99-96. After Johnny Dawkins missed a jumper, he hit two free throws with 33 seconds left for a 5-point lead, and the Bulls were on their way.

Jordan went 18 of 36 from the floor and scored his team's last 8 points. Seattle Pippin added 16. For the 76ers, Hershey Hawkins had 23 points and Barkley 19 rebounds.

The other best-of-seven quarterfinal series resume Thursday night: New York, down 1-0, at Detroit; Portland, up 2-0, at San Antonio; and Phoenix, up 1-0, at the Lakers.

Pistons vs. Knicks

The Knicks entered Game 1 coming off a rousing victory over the Celtics. Reality hit with the subtlety of a crashing piano — a 112-77 thrashing by a Pistons team that enjoyed six days off. Much will now depend on how the Pistons handle New York center Patrick Ewing.

He was limited to 19 points and 4 rebounds in Game 1. James Edwards pushed him off his favorite spots, as did Bill Laimbeer. John Salley both Brauman and Perkins see their teams as being slight underdogs.

"Based upon regional results, Jacksonville-Raines is supposed to win the meet," said Brauman. "After that, there are 13 of us within nine points of each other. It could be the most competitive Class 3A state meet in recent history."

"It usually takes 40 to 45 points to win the meet, but this year, there are so many teams that are even, 25 points on up could win it. A low-scoring meet would definitely benefit us. We have 10 who qualified, but at this point, it's not quantity but quality that you have in the various events."

Carlo White, Robert Moore, Henry Williams and Tommy Hampton will be under the gun early Friday night. White's ranked No. 1 in the shot put, Moore is second in the triple jump, fourth in the shot put and eighth in the long jump, Williams is fifth in the triple jump and Hampton is 13th in the discus.

It will be tough for Moore to score in the long jump and for Hampton to score in the discus. Their rankings are based on their performances at the regional meet, where they both had personal records in these events.

"The key to the kind of meet we're going to have is the field events," said Brauman. "We'll pretty much know how well we're going to do in the meet before the running finals start in the evening."

"If Hampton is going to be a factor in the scoring, he'll have to improve on his personal record by nine feet. But the discus is a funny event. You just never know what's going to happen. There are some good people who are going to do poorly and some who are average or above average who will P.F.R."

While the Seminoles' fate may be decided by the time the running finals begin, they should have several chances to score some points: Maurice Thomas (120 high hurdles, 330 intermediate hurdles), Williams (100-meter and 220-yard dash), George Frison (220-yard dash) and Dalvin Davis (880-yard run).

Also, Moore, Williams, Frison and Joseph Murphy will run in the 440 relay while Eric Walker, Eldonte Stille, Davis and Murphy will compete in the mile relay.

Brauman again stressed the importance of Seminole performing well early.

"In the field events, you have to do it on the first three attempts or you don't get three more chances," said Brauman. "In field events and running events they are run in preliminaries, the whole meet is making it to the finals."

"The real state meet is the preliminaries, where you have to beat the field just to get the chance to run again. After that, you just have to beat two people to score."

Also working in Seminole's favor is the fact that the Tribe competed in several big meets this year, preparing them for the competitive challenge that awaits them on Friday night.

"We've run well the last three weeks," said Brauman. "We went to some big meets this season and got kicked around. We made some mistakes and, hopefully, we learned from them and we won't repeat them."

Keeping mistakes to a minimum will also be the key for the Seminole girls, who will have to get past a very strong Glades Central squad to extend their state championship streak to five years.

"It's going to be tough," said Perkins in his first year as the girls' head coach. "Glades Central seems like a powerhouse. There are four teams that have a shot — Glades Central, us, Jacksonville-Ribault and Fort Lauderdale-Nova. Cr... also has a wild shot at it."

"It will all come down to who makes the fewest mistakes. Everybody is almost even. I give Central a slight edge because they have two girls in each hurdle event. But we're going to be in the fight."

Unlike the Seminole boys, who are counting on a strong showing in the field events, the Tribe girls will score most of their points on the track. Leading the Seminoles will be Yolanda Baker, one of the state's premier female sprinters, who qualified in the 100-meter and 220-yard dashes.

Keelia Ward also is entered in two events: the 440-yard dash and long jump. Other state qualifiers include Mechelle Toombs (triple jump), Nadrian McGill (330 low hurdles) and Sheri Reddicks (shot put). Baker, Kim Brown, McGill and Toombs will run the 440 relay while Ward, Brown, McGill and Toombs qualified in the mile relay.

According to Perkins, Seminole will have to score every point possible to pull out the win.

"Every point counts at the state meet," said Perkins. "Everybody has to play their role and every role is a major one. We have to score in 100 and 220 with Yolando. If we get points out of her and Keelia in the 440, Nadrian in the 330 hurdles and the two relays, we'll be in good shape."

"Sheri has a pretty good shot at placing in the shot put and Mechelle in the triple jump. I'm looking for four points coming out of the field, so anything more they could score would be a plus. We're going with what we've got. This is what we've worked for all year. This is it."

Joseph Murphy, shown here triple jumping, will run in the both the 440 and mile relays for Seminole in Friday night's Class 3A state track meet at Winter Park's Showalter Field and Bob Mosher Track.

Summer Squall won't run in Belmont Stakes

United Press International

BELMONT, N.Y. — News that Kentucky Derby runner-up Summer Squall will skip the Belmont Stakes Wednesday shadowed opening day at Belmont Park, the showplace of downstate New York racing and host to the third leg of the Triple Crown.

Cot Campbell, president of Dogwood Stables and manager of the 28-member syndicate that owns Summer Squall, announced Tuesday in Atlanta the horse who placed behind Unbridled in the Kentucky Derby Saturday will run in the May 19 Preakness Stakes but not in the June 9 Belmont Stakes.

The decision ends six weeks of controversy concerning Summer Squall's ability to run, without the use of Lasix, the anti-inflammatory drug he has been treated with since suffering severe pulmonary bleeding in a February workout at Gulfstream Park.

New York does not allow the use of Lasix, which is legal in other states, including Kentucky and Maryland, where the first two jewels of the Triple Crown are contested.

Trainer Neil Howard said in late March while training Summer Squall for the Jim Beam Stakes at Turfway Park that the horse would not run in the Belmont because of New York's ban on Lasix.

Howard backed down from the claim, however, later in the week.

"Sometimes you say things in the heat of the moment," he explained. "I don't have any problem with the New York rules. New York is a non-medication state. I don't think there's anything wrong with that."

Dogwood does plan to run Summer Squall in New York without the benefit of Lasix but not until the Breeder's Cup Oct. 27 at Belmont.

Wisconsin gives Pryor OK to return to the ring

United Press International

MADISON, Wis. — Former junior welterweight champion Aaron Pryor, declared legally blind in his left eye by one state commission, has received permission to fight Wednesday night in Wisconsin.

The state Department of Licensing and Regulation has granted permission for Pryor to fight welterweight Darrell Jones at the Masonic Temple even though Pryor, 34, has cataracts in one eye and has not fought in 32 months.

In a report by a Nevada Athletic Commission ophthalmologist, Pryor was said to be legally blind in his left eye due to a cataract and a detached retina.

Pryor, in Milwaukee, said he is not worried about fighting.

"Altogether, I've been examined by five doctors within the last four or five months and they all said my eye was OK," he said. "They said I have no greater risk than any other fighter. If the doctors said my eye was OK to fight, I feel I should be able to fight."

Pryor, who has a 37-1 record, said he wants to show he can still be a good fighter.

"I just think I was a great fighter. I'm glad people are concerned about me. I hope I can prove the world wrong and be a credit to fighters who get injured in boxing," said Pryor.

DLR secretary Marlene Cummings, who had the final authority to license the fight, said she did so after making sure there would be no danger to Pryor or to the other fighter.

Tyson

"I know eventually I'll be the champ again," Tyson said. "Losing the title is a lot like being divorced. You still love the person, still have feelings for them, but you don't get the same treatment."

Like Tyson, Tillman is on a comeback. His career spiraled downward in Feb. 1987 after a seventh-round knockout at the hands of Evander Holyfield, and continued with a 10-round loss to Canadian Willie deWit 13 months later.

Tillman, 29, has fought just three times since, blaming his struggles on his former handlers.

"I had some problems with inexperienced management that made some bad mistakes," said Tillman, 20-4, who now is managed by Henry Grooms. "They did not have my best interests in mind. But I'm at ease with myself now."

On the undercard of the HBO telecast, the 41-year-old

Foreman, 66-2 with 62 knockouts, will face Jose Adilson Rodrigues. Foreman, who spent much of the news conference eating pastries, reiterated his desire to face the once-beaten Tyson.

"This is the first chance right on site for you reporters to compare Mike Tyson and George Foreman," he said. "I know I'm going to have a tough fight coming up, but the big fight is going to be Mike Tyson and George Foreman."

"Forget the masked marauder, Buster 'Do-Do,' whatever his name is. He says he doesn't want to get back in the ring, and then he shows up hugging and squeezing Hulk Hogan."

"I still think Mike Tyson is the real champion. And I want Mike Tyson."

Rodrigues, 36-3 with 26 knockouts, has beaten James "Quick" Tillis and lost to Holyfield on a second-round knockout. His trainer, Angelo Dundee, said he can beat Foreman.

Sexual expression takes many forms

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was very disappointed in your response to the young woman whose boyfriend urged her to have anal sex. Why would you lower yourself to answer that this practice is acceptable? Don't you realize the anus is for elimination, not for intercourse? Lots of young people read your column, and I am disgusted that they will experiment with this perversion now that you have approved it. I'm sure you won't print this letter, but I called the newspaper to complain.

DEAR READER: Sexual expression can take many forms. I am not opposed to sexual experimentation by both young and old, providing the method is not hurtful or unhealthy, and the couple engages in it out of mutual respect and caring — and the partners freely consent to the practice.

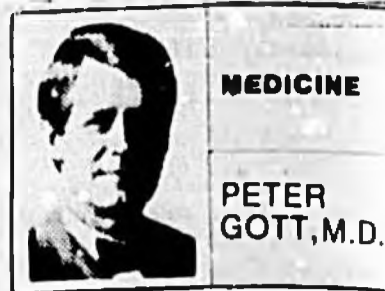

I do not believe I have an obligation to make a moral judgment about sexual practices. I think this decision can best be made by each couple, based on their values, orientations and convictions. I do have an obligation to present medical facts as I perceive them. As far as I'm concerned, oral sex, manual sex and anal sex are issues best left to the persons involved. If carried out appropriately and cautiously, they are not hazardous to health.

Remember that I also advised the woman to say "no." If for one reason or another she felt uncomfortable about her boyfriend's advances, sexual exploitation and intimidation are totally inappropriate in a caring and understanding relationship.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can foods with gluten cause constipation? Every time I eat white bread, pasta or anything with white flour, I become constipated. What, if any, other side effects might I expect to experience?

DEAR READER: I am not aware that gluten sensitivity, called celiac disease, causes constipation. Rather, patients with this disorder of intestinal absorption are more likely to experience diarrhea, abdominal discomfort and excess gas, in association with poor absorption of fats (leading to large, foul-smelling stools) and protein

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Tournament pair competition uses matchpoint scoring, which means that your score on a particular deal is compared with 12 or more scores of other competing pairs. Your total score is not as important as the number of pairs that you have beaten, even by as little as 10 points. In such a context, overtricks can be quite important. Today's deal presents an example. When South, a passed hand, bid two hearts, North jumped to four. He knew South held at least a five-card heart suit and enough high-card points to go to the two-level. East won the ace of diamonds and returned the suit. South's 10 was covered by the jack and ruffed in dummy. A low club went to the queen, and declarer played another club back to dummy's nine. East won the ace and played another diamond. South won the king, and played a heart to dummy's ace and a heart back to his king. When West showed out on the second heart, declarer had some problems. East had already shown with two aces, so South played a spade to dummy's queen. Next he cashed the king of clubs, throwing a spade, and ruffed the last club. That reduced his trump length to that of East. A spade to dummy's ace produced a neat ending — dummy with the lead and South holding Q-10 of hearts over East's J-9. Taking 11 tricks was a fine result, beating all those North-South pairs who played game in spades, where the defenders' trump trick could not be denied.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 11, 1990

Your material prospects look encouraging for the year ahead. You may, however, experience periods when your growth will be rather rapid and other times when things could move at a snail's pace.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Even if you're negotiating a commercial arrangement with someone you know quite well, make it a point to spell out all of the details. Leave no room for error. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Associates or companions cannot be manipulated today, especially if they are not in total accord with your aims and objectives. If you try to do so, their resistance will stiffen.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) People whose work you personally supervise will require skillful management techniques today. Their production could suffer if they are not guided properly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Taking risks on things over which you have no control could turn out to be an exercise in futility today. This is one of those days when even sure things may be hard to achieve.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Make an effort today to be a little more tender and affectionate than usual toward your mate, especially if he/she is in a cranky mood to begin with.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Industriousness, not apathy, will be required if you hope to make today count for something. If you neglect your responsibilities, you could be sowing seeds for future complications.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If your credit cards are too accessible today, there is a strong possibility you might waste your money on one or more silly extravagances. Lock up your wallet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may have to deal with a surly individual today who could be impossible to please no matter how hard you try. Don't blame yourself if you fail to succeed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you feel impelled to do something for another today, do it out of the kindness of your heart and not because you feel it's expected of you. No use making both you and the recipient resentful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There is a possibility today you might divert funds slated for essentials to something rather frivolous and extravagant. Instant gratification could be your downfall.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be mindful of your behavior when socializing with friends today, or else you might squander too much attention on someone you think can help and hardly notice a loyal pal.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful today you do not get yourself into a similar situation that caused you problems previously. Trade on the lessons you've learned from making mistakes.

She will enter the masters program in special education at the University of Central Florida.

Birth mom, adoptive mom are real

DEAR ABBY: In May 1971, my father gave me one of your columns, because at the time I was faced with the most difficult decision of my life — whether or not to place my son for adoption. This column, which I am enclosing, helped me to make the right decision.

Abby, it is 19 years later, and now I can part with this precious article because my son and his parents have made our reunion possible! That little boy I parted with 19 years ago wanted to meet his birth mother, so his parents contacted me, asking if I wanted to meet him, and them. We all agreed to meet, and words cannot express now what it felt like to finally hold my son in my arms again!

There is no longer a void in my life; it is filled with my loving son, his wife and their son, my newly born grandson!

A simple "thank you" is not

enough. You have truly touched my heart and soul. May God bless you and your work.

ANOTHER UNWED MOTHER: I'm delighted to reprint the two letters in the column you enclosed.

DEAR ABBY: My 7-year-old son, when told he was adopted, asked the inevitable question: "Then, Mamma, does that mean you're not my real mother?"

"Well, let's see," I said. "Here, pinch me real hard and we'll see if I'm real or not." He pinched, I squealed, and we both had a good laugh. A happy, frank discussion followed.

But the most wonderful part is that this precious son of mine has two mothers. I have had the privilege of rocking him, feeding him and watching him grow into an adorable 7-year-old. Yes, I am his "real" mother and don't you dare call me less.

But no less real is the little girl who refused to have an abortion, insisting, "This little life inside me is as much right to live as I." The little girl who looked the social worker in the eye and said, "This adoption will work, because I am doing it for his sake, and I don't ever intend to hurt him by interfering with his life."

She has every right to his love. And he will be a better man if he proves wise enough to know it.

HIS OTHER MOTHER

Doctor of the Day

James E. Quinn, M.D., Family Practice, Sanford, was "Doctor of the Day" for the Florida State Legislature recently. During the day he volunteered his services to take care of acutely ill or injured state legislators, staff and touring students or adults at the capitol building. Several people were treated for minor health problems and for injuries related to the Republican - Democrat Annual Baseball Game played prior to Quinn's visit. Quinn attended the legislative session as the guest of Representative Art Grindle, with whom he sat on the legislative floor. He also sat through the Health Care Committee meetings, and chatted with other local legislators such as Representative Frank Stone and Senator Richard Langley.

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Cleveland puts a stop to Minnesota's win streak

United Press International

MINNEAPOLIS — Mitch Webster hit a two-run homer and Tom Brookens doubled home the winning run in the sixth inning Wednesday night, helping the Cleveland Indians snap a Minnesota Twins' six-game winning streak with a 7-3 victory.

Consecutive doubles by Cory Snyder and Brookens snapped a 3-3 tie, enabling Sergio Valdez, 1-0, to win his first American League start. Doug Jones pitched two innings for his 10th save.

John Candelaria, 3-1, surrendered four runs on eight hits while walking one and striking out one in 5 1/3 innings.

With the Twins up 3-1, Cleveland's Jerry Browne opened the fifth with a triple and Webster homered. After Brookens put the Indians ahead 4-3 in the sixth, they added three runs in the ninth on Chris James' two-run bases-loaded double and Candy Maldonado's RBI groundout.

Blue Jays.....4

White Sox.....3

TORONTO — Nelson Liriano knocked in two runs and scored once and Frank Willis pitched 2-3 innings of perfect relief to help the Toronto Blue Jays grab a comeback victory.

Willis, 2-1, entered the game trailing 3-0 in the fifth with runners on first and second, but he got Ivan Calderon to ground into a double play to end the threat.

The 31-year-old righthander struck out one batter before giving the ball to Dwayne Ward, who worked the final two frames for his fourth save.

Cubs post 4-0 win in rain-shortened game

United Press International

CHICAGO — Ryne Sandberg and Domingo Ramos each hit two-run home runs and Les Lancaster won his first start to help the Chicago Cubs post a 4-0 rain-shortened triumph Wednesday over the Atlanta Braves.

Homeplate umpire Greg Bonin called the game after a 1-2 innings due to heavy rain which left the field unplayable.

Lancaster, 2-1, went five innings, giving up four hits and striking out two.

It was the right-hander's 11th outing of the year, but his first start since June 4, 1988. He had 76 relief appearances in the interim. Lancaster was moved into the rotation to replace struggling Jose Nunez as well as try to fill the void created by Rick Sutcliffe's absence. Sutcliffe, who has pitched more than 200 innings the last three seasons, underwent arthroscopic surgery on his right shoulder Monday.

Pete Smith, 2-2, took the loss, serving up both homers.

Giants.....4

Mets.....2

NEW YORK — Kevin Bass belted a three-run first-inning homer and Bob Knepper combined with two relievers on a seven-hitter, helping the San Francisco Giants to a 4-2 victory that snapped the New York Mets' four-game winning streak.

Knepper, making his first start since being scattered six hits over 5 2/3 innings in a 3-1 victory, Jeff Brantley yielded one hit over 2 1/3 innings before Steve DeJoria worked the ninth for his fourth save.

Knepper, 1-1, recovered from a shaky first inning and kept the Mets off balance with an assortment of breaking pitches. He walked one, struck out seven and was benefited by New York hitter's impatience. Several Mets were out in front of Knepper's pitches, pulling potential home runs into foul territory.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pirates.....6

Reds.....2

PITTSBURGH — John Smiley and Bill Landrum combined to stop a red-hot Cincinnati team and the Pirates collected 14 hits off four Reds pitchers, including previously undefeated Jack Armstrong, to help Pittsburgh to a 6-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Smiley evened his record at 3-3 with six plus innings of work, allowing two runs and seven hits with five strikeouts. Landrum pitched the final three innings to pick up his fourth save as the Pirates won their fifth straight.

Expos.....5

Dodgers.....3

MONTREAL — Andres Galarraga drove in two runs and helped Kevin Gross win his fourth straight and extend the Montreal Expos' winning streak to four with a 5-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Gross, 4-1, gave up three runs on five hits, no walks and four strikeouts in 8 1/3 innings. He left after surrendering a solo homer to Kal Daniels in the ninth. Tim Burke recorded the last two outs for his eighth save.

Galarraga's two-run single capped a four-run third inning against Fernando Valenzuela, 2-3, giving the Expos first baseman eight RBI over the last four games.

Cardinals.....11

ST. LOUIS — Vince Coleman had three hits and drove in two runs in a seven-run fifth inning helping the St. Louis Cardinals end a five-game losing streak with an 11-5 victory over the San Diego Padres.

The last-place Cardinals overcame a 5-0 deficit in the rain-delayed game to hand the Padres their third straight loss. San Diego committed four errors while five pitchers combined to surrender 12 hits, seven walks and a wild pitch. The Padres also wasted 15 hits.

Phillies.....10

Astros.....1

HOUSTON — Pat Combs fired a five-hitter, singled twice to drive in a run and scored once leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a 10-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

Combs, 2-2, allowed five singles, struck out five and walked three. He allowed only two Houston runners to reach third base.

Terry Mulholland pitched the ninth inning, giving up a hit, a walk and a run.

The Astros committed six errors, two by shortstop Rafael Ramirez. Five of Philadelphia's runs were unearned.
