Husband, wife return from war

SANFORD — U.S. Army Sgt. Tyrell Bookhard and his wife Angela, who is also an Army sergeant were both expected to return to Sanford from Saudi Arabia this weekend. The couple arrived Thursday at their military base in Savanna, Ga.

Tyrell's mother, Mildred Bookhard, also a Sanford resident, left Friday morning to pick them up and return them to their home at 1404 Valencia Court.

Tyrell had been transferred to an aviation support group in Saudi Arabia last August. His wife Angela was sent overseas one month later. While in the war zone, the two were stationed 30 miles apart.

The couple have been married for three years, and have a set of twins, who were left with Angela's parents in Little Rock, Ark., while they were overseas.

According to Tyrell's sister, the couple has agreed to meet with the Sanford Desert Storm War Support Group during their regular meeting, Monday night, at the American Legion Hall in Sanford.

Sanford and Lake Mary area families who have loved ones returning home from service in the Persian Gulf may call The Sanford Herald at 322-2611.

BRIEFS

Unemployment soars

TALLAHASSEE — Some 59,000 people joined the ranks of Florida's job-seekers last month, swelling the state unemployment rate to 7.1 percent, its highest level in seven years.

All told, some 453,000 Floridians last month were looking for work. Another 6.35 million have jobs. The state doesn't know how many "discouraged workers" have given up the search for employment.

The country as a whole and seven of the 11 major industrial states Friday posted lower rates than Florida, according to Rebecca Rust, chief of the Florida Bureau of Labor Information. The national rate was 6.5 percent.

Faced with Friday's data, Gov. Lawton Chiles was pessimistic.

Seminole High's 'fest' a success

SANFORD — Splish! Splash! The rain may have put a damper on many outdoor activities on Saturday, but Seminole High School students, parents, faculty and staff didn't let it lessen their fun at the first Springfest fundraiser.

"It (the rain) may have gotten the rest of Sanford wet," Bobby Lundquist, assistant principal, said, "but it didn't dampen our spirits."

Lundquist said about 300 people turned out for the first of what he hopes will be many such spring festivals to raise money for school organizations and student groups.

It won't be known until later this week how much money was made in the various activities.

The Springfest was conceived as a way to consolidate the multitude of fundraisers that the different groups have throughout the year.

"We really hope we do well here," Lundquist said. "That way the school won't have to have so many fundraisers."

There was a flea market, a plant sale, a barbecue chicken luncheon and an auction aimed at raising money for the school.

The money raised by each organization will be kept by the group for whatever purpose they want.

Money raised by auction items donated by community groups and businesses will be put into the school's general account and divided equally

Baptist Youth Blast drenched but organizers still feel good

SANFORD — Despite the rain which brought an abrupt end Saturday to most of the outdoor activities at the second annual Youth Blast, sponsored by the First Baptist Church of Sanford, organizer Sydney Brock said the event was successful.

"I think we did pretty well considering the weather," he said.

Brock said that more than 20 churches had made reservations to attend the event but only 11 churches showed up at the rain-drenched facilities at Ft. Mellon Park on Saturday morning.

"A couple of Daytona Beach churches who didn't have reservations made the trip out here," Brock said.

Though they had expected close to 2,000 youngsters at their celebration today, Brock said he was pleased with the turnout.

"We had a lot considering the conditions," he said.

Organizers decided to pull the plug on the outdoor activities when the cool temperatures and intermittent heavy rain showed no signs of SANFORD — A group of young, urban professionals descended on Cora Jones' two-bedroom frame house on East Seventh Street in Sanford Saturday. When they left, her modest home was freshly painted and her yard was tidy and free of debris.

"They're nice people," said Jones, 83. "I'm really glad they're doing this. I couldn't afford to do it myself. I think it's wonderful."

Looking at her yard last week after the initial work had begun, she began to visualize her own improvements. "I'm going to put me a garden over there," she said.

Jones was one of eight homeowners in Sanford selected to be a benefactor of "Paint Orlando Beautiful." Begun last year, Paint Orlando Beautiful is a project of the Central Florida Council on Corporate Volunteerism, a program of the Volunteer Center of Central Florida.

Under the project, 61 homes throughout Orange, Seminole and Osceola Counties belonging to the disabled or the elderly are selected by area social service agencies for a sprucing up. Paint and supplies are donated by more than two dozen corporations, including Walt Disney World, Florida Power Corp. and The Home Depot.

Although the focus of the project is to paint homes to improve neighborhoods, Paint Orlando Beautiful volunteers also clear lots, plant flower and other landscaping and install a renewed pride in homeowner unable to upgrade the appearance of their homes. The volunteers get the satisfaction of knowing they are making someone's life a little brighter. The volunteers will be treated to a picnic in Apoka Saturday afternoon.

Last Saturday, volunteers from Via, a professional singles volunteer organization, scraped the peeling paint from Jones home and applied a base coat.

Via team leader Dan Burns, 25, a Westinghouse Corp. contract analyst, said he enjoys the work Via does. Paint Orlando Beautiful is one of many projects selected by Via, he said.

"It gives me the opportunity to really make a difference with a project like this," Burns said. "She's real nice."

Jones has lived in the home since August, although her mother lived there for 30 years, she said. Jones' family roots go back many years in

The day the immortal 'Babe' Ruth came to town

It happened 43 years ago — March 16, 1948. It was a delightful Spring afternoon — perfect for a shirt-sleeved crowd to see a baseball game. But this wasn't going to be an ordinary ball game even though it was an exhibition affair between the Washington Senators and the Minneapolis Millers. The grandstand was packed. Every bleacher seat filled. Why?

This was the day every baseball fan in Sanford had been waiting for. It was the day they would get to see and hear baseball's immortal George Herman "Babe" Ruth.

Infield practice completed, a double gate down the Mellonville Avenue fence opened and into the park came a shiny Lincoln. Inside was the Babe and his escort, Jimmy Chapman — at one time sports editor of The Herald.

The crowd roared as Babe emerged from the car and headed for home plate where he was greeted by the old New York Giant lefthander, Carl Hubbell, Chamber of Commerce director John Krider, Sanford Mayor Bob Williams, and the master of ceremonies, yours truly, Julian Stenstrom.

Ruth was making a tour of the major league training camps and cities where local American Legion posts had baseball programs. The Babe's tour was being sponsored by the Ford Motor Company.

After introducing several "dignitaries," I introduced Mayor

Williams. In turn he introduced the man still considered the greatest personality to ever play the game.

In a voice so hoarse it was difficult to understand some of what he said, he complimented Hubbell and the Giants' farm system. He concluded by saying he was glad to be here. He went to a box seat and autographed scorecards and baseballs. He also signed a baseball for every member of the local American Legion baseball team.

I don't recall who were members of that Legion club except for my brother, Frank Stenstrom, and my step-brother, John Lewis Salsbury. Both got autographed baseballs. Both still have them.

Judge overturns conviction

FORT LAUDERDALE — A federal judge has overturned a jury's conviction of a man accused of threatening a high school sweetheart by writing her more than 1,000 letters over two decades.

Calling the case "a tragicomedy from a theater of the absurd," U.S. District Judge Norman Roettger threw out all charges Thursday against David Taylor, saying the love letters were ambiguous and not threatening.

A jury decided after four hours of deliberations last week that the letters amounted to threats. Taylor faced up to 2½ years in prison under federal sentencing guidelines.

In his written opinion, Roettger said he was "not quarreling with the jury's verdict" but had no alternative under legal precedent.

Taylor was charged last year with sending threatening letters to his high school girlfriend, Kathleen McHugh Goldstein, and her husband, David, of Coral Springs.

Students play basketball on the world

ORLANDO — Students from Howard Middle School play basketball all over the world.

Seventh-graders have covered the Orlando school's outdoor basketball courts with a 10,282-square-foot map, and they claim it's the largest map of the world in the world.

The students, who call themselves the Purple Pythons, hope to see their school in the Guinness Book of World Records because the listing for the largest map is an 8,272-square-foot painting on two tennis courts at a Tempe, Ariz., high school.

Sherwin-Williams Co. donated 55 gallons of paint, and the PTA donated other supplies for the project. The idea came from teacher Glenn Anderson, who noticed the Guinness listing.

But the students didn't just paint the map. They used the project as a learning tool in all their classes, from language to science.

Earth shaking still a mystery

ST. PETERSBURG — A mysterious rumbling rattled windows, shook walls and even caused hairline cracks in eight buildings, but no one can say for sure what it was.

Many residents from Clearwater to St. Petersburg felt the Earth shake Thursday between 10 a.m. and 11:15 a.m. Authorities looked into every possible angle but still had no explanation Friday.

"I think God shook the Earth," said Jim Barca, civil preparedness coordinator for St. Petersburg. "We tried to find a reason or explanation for this and we have not been successful."

Pineellas County authorities talked to officials at MacDill and Eglin Air Force bases to find out if either had jets in the air when the shaking was reported. But both bases, whose planes can cause sonic booms, said no.

An official with the National Earthquake Information Center in Boulder, Colo., said instruments in Colorado and South Carolina did not register any ground activity.

Baby sitter sentenced to prison

WEST PALM BEACH — A baby sitter accused of torturing her wards and breaking their bones was sentenced to the maximum 3½ years in prison and 10 years probation for child abuse.

Paula Septor, a 23-year-old mother of two, has repeatedly denied hurting the children in her care. She pleaded no contest in October to two counts of aggravated child abuse shortly before her scheduled trial.

Two-year-old Steven Russell, one of Septor's charges, quietly Thursday in the arms of his father during the hearing. He suffered 12 fractures in nine places when he was 6 months old and is still undergoing physical therapy.

In addition to the Russells, five other families came forward last year with stories about their children coming home from Septor's house with inexplicable bruises.

At her sentencing, Septor asked Palm Beach Circuit Judge Marvin Mounts Jr. for mercy.

Special prosecutor to begin hearings

TALLAHASSEE — A special prosecutor hired to run the House sexual harassment investigation of state Rep. Fred Lippman probably will begin public hearings in the case April 1.

Judy Hoyer, an assistant state attorney in Tampa and former assistant U.S. attorney, was approved Friday by the select committee looking into the charges and the secret $47,000 payment made in 1988 to a former Lippman aide to prevent a possible lawsuit.

Mrs. Hoyer, 41, said she came on board with assurances that politics would not thwart her efforts.

"This is a political body, and I am not used to working with political bodies," she said. "I have been assured there will be no interference with my work."

Contraband law under scrutiny

Forfeiture act goes before Supreme Court

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Contraband Forfeiture Act has gone on trial before the state Supreme Court in a case that could lead to changes in the embattled law.

The 1980 law has been sharply criticized by judges and defense attorneys because it gives police the right to seize the property of suspected criminals before proving a crime has been committed.

The law allows police to seize cash, cars, boats and airplanes. In 1989, it was amended to allow police to seize real estate.

The case heard before the high court Friday involves a reverse sting police used to set up and then arrest Charles DeCarlo of Cedar Key. Police met in a restaurant DeCarlo owned to discuss using his airstrip as a site to land a drug shipment. He was arrested May 15, 1990.

On Friday, justices heard arguments only on the issue of seizing real estate.

In December, Levy County Judge Benjamin Teneh ruled the law was unconstitutional because the 1989 amendment refers to real estate seizures as "punishment."

Florida police and civil rights activists are intensely interested in the high court's decision.

"This is really a criminal law masquerading as a civil statute. Undeniably, that's how it is used," said Paul Joseph, president of the Florida chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

"If the court is willing to bite the bullet and recognize what is factually true, if it's gutsy enough to say that, then the Legislature can re-pass this law with those due process protections that will make it a much better law," he said.

Police do not want the law changed.

"The statute is carefully laid out ... to impede the success of a criminal enterprise," Arthur Jacobs, a Florida State Attorney's Association lawyer, said Friday. Jacobs described the law as a "great weapon" for law enforcement officers in fighting drug-related crimes across the state.

But Supreme Court Justice Rosemary Barkett said the drug war is not the issue.

"The problem that we're here about is whether the properties are being taken with all the protections that our constitution provides," she said.

Barkett questioned whether police should seize real estate since it cannot be moved.

Parker Lee Thomson, a lawyer for the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, said that seizing real estate "impedes further criminal activity."

Historian: black women never praised enough for rights work

By Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Black women were responsible for much of the work of the civil rights movement but never received their due credit, a University of Florida historian said.

"If it hadn't been for women ... there probably never would have been a civil rights movement," said Chana Kai Lee, a history professor.

The Montgomery, Ala., bus boycott catapulted Martin Luther King Jr. to national attention, but it was actually the Women's Political Council and Jo Ann Robinson, an English teacher from Alabama State College, who organized the campaign, Ms. Lee said.

"One reason women haven't received credit is people's obsession with the dynamic, charismatic nature of King and the interest in the movement at a national level," she said.

While male leaders dominated the national spotlight, women played pivotal roles organizing bus boycotts, registering blacks to vote and establishing activist groups, Ms. Lee said.

"The women often said the civil rights movement didn't

Rosa Parks
Bus boycott catalyst need a messiah-type figure, referring to King," she said.

versally identified as King's group, was the brainchild of activist Ella Baker.

Ms. Baker, initially an NAACP field organizer, saw a need for a network to pass information and share resources. She organized community members and church leaders, laying the groundwork for the later-to-emerge SCLC, Lee said. But Ms. Baker was never given a position in the organization.

She also formed the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in 1960, a key year for youth participation in the movement beginning with the lunch counter sit-in in Greensboro, N.C.

Another civil rights leader, Fannie Lou Hamer, canvassed farm fields at 5 a.m. and took sharecroppers to courthouses to register to vote, Ms. Lee said.

On one trip, Ms. Hamer was refused service at a South Carolina restaurant and taken to the county jail, where deputies held two black male prisoners at gunpoint and ordered them to beat her, Ms. Lee said.

Ms. Hamer, who suffered severe kidney damage, told her story at the national Democratic convention in 1964.

Health care reform

Bill generates heat during lawmakers debate of commission creation

By JACKIE HALLIPAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The emotional side of health care reform surfaced during the session's first week when lawmakers debated the proposed creation of a regulatory and advisory commission.

Before a 14-6 favorable vote along party lines in the House Health Care Committee Thursday, a legislator twice commented on the belligerent atmosphere as lawmakers expressed fears and sounded warnings and challenges. An audience of about 150 was packed for several hours Wednesday and Thursday into a room with seats for 70.

Some lawmakers spoke somberly about their fears of the advent of socialized medicine. Others warned the federal government will soon yank its support of benefits and cited the failure of the Legislature to enact comprehensive solutions in the past.

At one point, one lawmaker was offended. Another was outraged. A third issued a ringing challenge to an opponent to propose a general tax if he didn't like a hospital assessment proposed in a second bill.

Many, however, seemed to agree that something must be done.

"It kind of scares me that if you're in a motor vehicle accident in Miami, you can drive past 10 hospitals in an emergency vehicle before you get to the one that takes you."

Rep. Mike Abrams said, responding to apprehensions voiced by those who thought the Health

Mother convicted of violation

By Associated Press

DELRAY BEACH — A woman whose three children were killed in a car accident has been convicted of failing to restrain her youngest in a child safety seat.

County Judge Howard H. Harrison ruled Friday that Claire Harris of Cape Canaveral broke the law, but he didn't fine her for failing to put her 3-year-old daughter in a child-restraint seat as required by state law.

Florida Highway Patrol trooper Timothy Watts testified Jamila Harris wouldn't have survived the crash last Sept. 17 on Interstate 95 even with the safety seat.

"Jamila thought she was too big for the car seat, and she was three weeks away from her fourth birthday, so she shared a seat belt," Harris testified. "There were only two seat belts in the back seat, so it was safer to share a seat belt than to have anyone out of a seat belt."

Bike Week brings out the leather

By Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH — An estimated 380,000 people roared into town for the 50th Bike Week, but police have reported few problems going into this weekend's finale.

"This is the best behaved crowd I've seen in 25 years with the police department," Daytona Beach Police Chief Paul Crow said Friday.

Hooting at wet bikini contests, sporting the latest in leather fashions and tooling up and down Main Street, bikers have been in their version of Harley Heaven.

At Sunflow Pier restaurant in Daytona Beach Shores, one biker couple got engaged on Thursday, and on Friday, another got married. It was a simple ceremony: the groom wore black, and the bride wore white. Leather.

"Things get very romantic here during Bike Week," said Raymond Barahay, the restaurant's owner.

There have been traffic problems — but not as bad as past years, said tourists, residents and city officials. A year of planning paid off, said Daytona Beach traffic engineer Larry Rivera.

"This year the traffic is better; the bikes are quieter, and the bikers are more upbeat," said

John Williams, who lives on a busy street in Daytona Beach. "I am not hearing a bit of animosity toward the bikers."

Today's Rat's Hole Custom Chopper Show was expected to bring 350 entries — 40 more than last year, according to Karl "Big Daddy Rat" Smith, the show's organizer.

And on Sunday morning, the bike parade is a warmup to the 50th running of the Daytona 200 at Daytona International Speedway.

Hours before the start of the race, Actor Peter Fonda, ZZ Top singer Billy Gibbons and the Colorado Precision Drill team plan to lead an estimated 5,000 bikers in what sponsor Harley-Davidson Inc. says will be the largest motorcycle parade in the world.

Between 15,000 and 20,000 spectators are expected. The parade of bikers, will begin revving their engines at 8 a.m. and ride to Harley Heaven at the Daytona International Speedway.

The big crowds haven't necessarily translated into big profits for businesses.

"The people have been fantastic, but they've been sluggish with their purchasing. The country's in a recession," said Smith, who is also the owner of several area T-shirt stores. Other business people agree.

But that could change: The biggest shopping day of the week is today.

"It's not over till it's over," said Tom Scianabio, owner of Tombstone Silverworks, a jewelry manufacturing and retail business with the biker in mind. Advertising in motorcycle and tattoo magazines paid off this week, he said.

"People see the name. They see the ad. It works well," he said.

This is the seventh Bike Week for Dentee Donahue of Cape Cod, Mass., who expects a significant increase over last year's sales at her D&L Leathers on Main Street. "We're kicking butt," she said.

Tonight, awards will be given to the oldest biker, the best-dressed biker, the best-dressed motorcycle club and the club coming the greatest distance.

This also was the first year the city made a concerted effort to include black bikers in Bike Week, and organizers of "Salute to Bikers," is pleased with the way things have gone.

Entertainment trades suffer with industry

By Associated Press

ORLANDO — A rush of entertainment trade publications to the Orlando area hasn't paid off — three of six have closed their doors or suspended operations.

Magazine and newsletter publishers saw an opportunity to capitalize on the burgeoning movie and television industry with Disney-MGM and Universal opening operations and Florida an increasingly popular setting for shooting.

But along came the recession. Publishers relying on declining advertising income were struggling to survive, and the level of film production was slower than expected.

Gone are Entertainment Revue, Florida Celebrity and Florida Picture Show. Markee, Florida Blue Sheet are Florida Reel are still publishing.

The magazines that say they are doing well — Blue Sheet and Markee — have kept production costs low or extended their focus beyond Central Florida.

For others, "the advertising base isn't here," said Patrick Charuhas, former art director at Entertainment Revue.

Revue, a slick-cover magazine, notified advertisers in December that it was closing. The magazine was launched in 1988 as a monthly publication for production professionals.

When efforts to boost advertising support failed, publisher Roberto Vetta gave Revue more of a tourist focus last year, focusing on the entertainment side of theme parks and dinner theaters and switching its frequency from monthly to bimonthly.

"It was a classic case of it evolving to a point where we realized we simply couldn't take it any further," Charuhas said.

Florida Celebrity, which was begun by Douglas Dobbs in 1987, was designed for actors and others working in front of the camera. It stopped publishing last November but may return later this year if he takes on a business partner. He also is an editorial consultant at Blue Sheet.

"The market, the entertainment industry, it's still coming here," Dobbs said. "It's just coming a lot slower than we expected."

Dennis Zink, publisher of Florida Reel, is trying to keep his magazine afloat by paring production costs and offering advertising incentives.

"It's tough, no question about it," he said. "What we have seen is a lot of the small people who were our advertisers have gone under."

Two Reasons For Getting A Barnett Home Equity Loan That Have Nothing In Common.

As many of you probably already know, the tax laws have changed. And as of January 1991, the interest on most personal loans is no longer deductible.

Just about the only personal interest that is deductible is that which you pay on your home.*

That's where a Barnett Home Equity Loan comes in. Not only do you get a loan with tax deductibility, you also get one that's very flexible. You can use it to pay for a car, a boat, a vacation or tuition.

You can even use the funds to make certain investments or consolidate other loans into just one payment.

That's not all. Now through May 15, Barnett will pay the closing costs associated with the loan.** That can save you hundreds of dollars right from the start.

To make things even easier, you can have your loan payment automatically deducted from your checking or savings account. And if you have recurring borrowing needs, ask about Barnett's Home Equity CreditLine.

So come in to your local Barnett office and find out how a couple of things that have nothing in common can actually save you money.

*Subject to certain important qualifications, generally, interest paid on home secured loans is tax deductible. Please consult with your individual tax advisor for the tax consequences of any Barnett loan.
**Offer applies only to Home Equity Loans. Normal closing costs apply to other mortgage loan programs. Offer expires May 15, 1991. ©1991 Barnett Bank, Inc.

Our Bill of Rights: 2 centuries strong

The 19th century British statesman William Gladstone once referred to the Constitution of the United States as "the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man." Yet this magnificent document might never have been ratified in 1787 without assurances that specific safeguards would be added soon thereafter.

The Bill of Rights, ratified by the states 200 years ago, limits the government's power over its citizens.

Under these first 10 amendments to the Constitution, Americans are guaranteed fundamental rights, including the freedom to speak openly, to worship as they please, to be safe in their homes from unwarranted searches and seizures. These constitutional safeguards sustain the flame of liberty and have inspired emerging democracies around the world for centuries.

The Bill of Rights has been a constant source of strength for Americans whenever their rights have been threatened. No document in American history, except perhaps the Declaration of Independence, has been cherished so deeply.

Yet a recent public opinion poll found that 59 percent of Americans could not identify the Bill of Rights.

Many pundits doubt whether the American people would even ratify these liberties if they were put to a vote today. In fact, polls show that some Americans would gladly dispense with many of the liberties contained in the Bill of Rights.

Take, for example, the highly emotional flag-burning controversy. Bowing to public sentiment, President Bush proposed a constitutional ban on torching the national emblem. Congress rejected this misguided measure, thus preserving a Supreme Court ruling that such protests, however distasteful, are protected by the First Amendment.

Another contentious First Amendment issue centers on military censorship of the press in the Persian Gulf. A large majority of Americans sides with the military on this point. Some go so far as to question the patriotism of journalists who report unfavorable news about the war. CNN reporter Peter Arnett, whose Baghdad reports were cleared by Iraqi censors, was branded by Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., as an enemy sympathizer. Others have urged that Arnett be tried for treason when he returns to the United States.

These First Amendment issues illustrate the degree to which the Bill of Rights animates and sometimes agitates our lives. In upholding the right of students to refrain from reciting the Pledge of Allegiance in 1943, the high court held that "freedom to differ is not limited to things that do not matter much. That would be a mere shadow of freedom."

The Bill of Rights has been described appropriately as the soul of the nation.

"Do you think we ought to disburse our assets?"

School social work week observed

Tuesday, the 26th of February 1991, the School Board of Seminole County unanimously adopted a proclamation designating March 4 through 8, 1991, "School Social Work Week." The proclamation specifically recognized the contributions school social workers make to the educational system.

Lola Jackson has been the lady directing school social work services in the County since 1975. Her precursor, Marie Taylor, was Seminole County's first social worker. She introduced social work services to the schools in 1970. At that time there were approximately 25,000 students and 32 schools. Jackson shared a prized newspaper clipping dated September 3, 1972. The clipping quoted Taylor and stated that her primary function was "to keep our children in school." Her services involved visiting families and helping with items of clothing to facilitate children's return to school. School social workers still perform this service and many more.

Jackson realized that the escalating student population created a need for expansion of school social work services. Currently, there are fourteen school social workers, two attendance officers, and one attendance assistant visiting families under her supervision.

Historically when attendance is a continuing issue at the elementary school level it may be symptomatic of family dysfunction. Consequently, it is more appropriate for a social worker to contact the family and provide help as needed.

SEMINOLE OPINION

LURLENE SWEETING

At the middle and high school levels non attendance is often truancy. Therefore, attendance officers service families at those levels.

The plethora of economic, social and medical problems engulfing families today require special helping skills. Social workers are trained to offer assistance while preserving the dignity of the family.

Social workers are well acquainted with community resources and making proper referrals to private organizations and public agencies.

They often see families in great distress economically and socially. For example, if a family is about to be evicted they would like to intervene prior to the family's becoming homeless. They also work to prevent electric and water services from being disconnected. In essence, they assist families in dire circumstances to meet basic human needs through referrals. School social workers are that part of the educational team that links the schools with the families they serve and the community of which they are a part.

The school district's exceptional education programs utilizes social work services extensively as part of the data gathering process in assessing a student's need for services.

School social workers are professionally trained. Among the 14 social workers on Jackson's staff (including herself), 11 staff members have master's degrees in social work. One has a master's degree in liberal arts and two have bachelor's degrees in social work. There is discussion at the state level to require a master's degree in social work for entry into school social work.

The University of Central Florida doesn't offer a master's level program. They offer a bachelor's of arts in social work. Jackson has an intern from the University of Central Florida interning with them. On occasion they have interns from Florida State's master's degree program. Linda Reabis served her internship with them while at F.S.U.

Social workers observe the same pay schedule as teachers. Jackson envisions greater need for social work services as more social problems arise in the families of the children served by the school district.

A GRATEFUL NATION THANKS ITS TROOPS FOR A JOB WELL DONE.

Hey, wanna' be a hangman?

SMYRNA, Del. — It looked a few years ago as if Delaware was going to carry out its first execution in almost half a century. A convicted murderer named Billy Bailey had exhausted most of the legal-appeal process, and the state's corrections department began making the gloomy but necessary preparations.

The preparations in this case included a gallows. Delaware is one of three states that authorizes hanging as a capital punishment. The old scaffold here, on the grounds of the Smyrna penitentiary, had fallen into disrepair. Hence it was rebuilt behind a large screening fence, which was weathered to an appropriate black.

The penalty was never carried out, as it happened. Bailey got a most timely stay. And in retrospect, that was probably a relief to authorities. Bailey was entitled to choose his form of execution, hanging or legal injection, and if he had picked the former over the latter no one knows if a hangman could have been found.

Hangmen, it seems, are in short supply. It's not work, after all, that is very much called for anymore. Legal authorities say they know of no one who has the required experience in Delaware to handle the job; and, in fact, there may be only a handful of people in all of North America who have practiced the profession.

Fred Silverman is Delaware's ranking deputy attorney general. He says he can't say precisely what would be done if Billy Bailey's execution is rescheduled, and the noose is selected: "I suppose we would ask around in some of the other states. You can't exactly put an advertisement in the paper. It's a problem."

And the problem goes beyond the gallows. Penal officers across the nation have begun to be concerned about soliciting qualified professionals for electrocutions and lethal injections as well. There are 2,400 prisoners under sentence of death in 34 states, and it's increasingly hard to get good help in dispatching them.

In 1989, for example, executioners in Texas took almost an hour to kill a man who did not respond as anticipated to an injection. Executions have also been botched in Florida, where one man was set afire by electric current, and in Alabama, where it took 20 ghastly minutes and repeated high-voltage charges to kill another.

Then there are the out-and-out "killing merchants." One warden in the South says he gets regular calls from "coconuts" peddling "execution ware." Florida is beset with "weird volunteers" every time an electrocution date is announced. And there are several people whose letterheads identify them as execution advisers.

Delaware's Silverman says the botching and the amateur brutes have always been a part of capital punishment. So it's especially important to seek real experts for the gallows. There is nothing so distressing, he suggests, as when a hanged man doesn't die, and has to be strung up a second time to satisfy the law.

Officials in Washington state and Montana agree. They are the other jurisdictions that still have scaffolds in place. Veltry Johnson, a corrections publicist in Washington state, says hanging may be a fundamentally low-technology endeavor — a man, a rope and a piece of beam — but it demands extraordinary finesse.

The rope, for one thing, must be of sufficient size and length. There is a dispute as to whether hemp or synthetic is best. And the noose must also be arranged with precision: if the loop does not close tight enough, the neck may not easily break, and, if the cinch gets too close, the head can be wrenched from the body.

Silverman says the rules are spelled out for the most part in, of all things, a U.S. military manual. The armed services once carried out hangings routinely — a sergeant at the Nuremberg war crimes trial was said to have hung 350 people in his career — so Silverman says that hangings in Delaware go by the Army book.

The book was used to reconstruct the Delaware gallows, for instance. Big timbers and a spare roof to repel the rain. The book also suggests that the structure be tested from time to time. Thus, corrections employees have tied a bag of sand to a rope, dropped it through the trap door, and let it popped wide open on the earth.

The book says nothing about finding a hangman, however. And the gallows is inoperable without such a mechanic. Silverman says he has heard rumors about a Canadian hangman who may or may not be available. Other than that, he adds, it might be possible to get a person within the corrections system to accept the assignment.

This kind of thing apparently has happened here once before. Delaware was the last state to use flogging for corporal punishment. And malefactors might still be getting it save for circumstances. The legislature abolished flogging in the 1970s, and one reason was that it was more and more difficult to find whippers.

Botching and the amateur brutes always have been around.

GIs won't miss Persian gulf much

WITH U.S. FORCES IN SAUDI ARABIA — Ask the soldiers here for a list of things they will least miss about the Persian Gulf, and they will need a ream of paper. Besides the sand and the sun, here are the things U.S. troops will be happy to leave behind:

□ MREs, the ubiquitous Meals Ready to Eat, served in a pouch, consumable hot or cold. We thought they were passable, but we didn't have to eat them for six months.

The meals come in a dozen varieties with tiny bottles of Tabasco sauce to give them some bite. Swaps were the order of the day, and the coveted meal was the one with a little packet of M&M candies.

The soldiers tried to be creative with their rations. Some added cheese and crushed crackers to their tuna and called it a "casserole," but it was not like Mom's home cooking. Others made makeshift chili by mixing the "beef slices" entree with something dubiously called the "bean component" and Tabasco sauce. Peanut butter fudge was concocted using two cocoa packets, four coffee creamers, one envelope of peanut butter and hot water.

Some Americans even tried to trade their food to the French, but the French turned up their noses.

□ Slow mail. The 300 tons of daily mail came slower and slower en route as trucks were diverted for shipping the more vital supplies to the front. One major figured out it took nearly two months from the time his wife posed a question in a letter and got the answer back. "Writing letters is almost no dialogue at all," he complained. "It's more like two soliloquies that occasionally overlap."

□ Camouflage uniforms. Many soldiers found them too heavy for the desert heat, but the troops had no choice. The Pentagon sent 5.2 million of the outfits to the Gulf. Few soldiers complained about the uncomfortable but necessary kevlar helmets, since they were considered protection against head injuries. But the boots had few fans. The Saudi Shoe Co. in Dammam made a killing selling from 10,000 to 15,000 pairs of light-weight boots (something akin to high-top Hush Puppies) to soldiers who didn't like the Army issue.

□ High security. All the key camps were ringed with sandbags, concertina wire, concrete and machine gun emplacements. No one could go anywhere without a weapon, a gas mask and a password. That made for some interesting ensembles — soldiers wearing T-shirts, shorts and shower shoes with an M-16 and a gas mask slung over their shoulders. And there were some bizarre conversations. A guard might say, "Well sir, read any good NOVELS lately," to which a soldier was supposed to answer, "No, just a lot of RUBBISH." One division rejected the use of "bedroom" and "crusade" as the password and response of the day. The disappointed soldiers had planned a fine variety of exchanges around that combination.

□ Dirty clothes and sleeping bags. Laundry facilities were rare, and hand washing clothes meant hanging them out to dry in a sand storm. The Pentagon was supposed to supply enough spare sleeping bags so the troops could rotate their dirty ones into the laundry, but the spares never materialized. Anyone who turned a sleeping bag over to the laundry had to sleep a few nights bundled in clothing until the bag came back.

□ Latrines. They are always rudimentary, and never the high point of military life. In Vietnam, locals were hired for the cleanup and burning of waste, but in this war Americans had to do their own.

Soldiers tried to be creative with their rations.

baseball with an authentic signature of the Babe is now $5,000.

As Ruth waited at home place that day he appeared tired and haggard. But when he stepped up to the microphone to acknowledge his welcome to Sanford he threw back his shoulders and displayed that famous "grin" of his. But the folks there that day could see it was only a matter of time for Ruth.

He was suffering with throat cancer. He had gone through several operations. During the winter of 1947-1948 he resided here in Florida. He said he thought that it had done him some good and that he hoped he'd get back most of his health. But it wasn't to be.

It was August 16, 1948 — exactly five months later to the day. I was at Harris Field in Gainesville, broadcasting a Florida State League game between the Sanford Giants and the G-Men. Suddenly, through my earphones I heard the announcer at WTRR in Sanford break into the broadcast. He said, "We regret to report that Babe Ruth is dead." He had died in a New York City hospital. There were several thousand people at Sanford's old Municipal Stadium that March day. And, if they're still living they'll never forget seeing the great Yankee slugger in person the day Babe Ruth came to Sanford.

Thanks to Alva Conway, one of the twin daughters of Elmer "Swede" Lundquist who spent most of his life with Hill Implementation Company, we now know that one of the early principals of Eastside Primary at Palmetto and Sixth Street was Velma Mitchell. She also was the principal at Southside Primary for many years. Mildred Pearce also called to let us know about Mrs. Mitchell. But we also were called by Mrs. Elizabeth Leffler Bush who not only told us about Mrs. Mitchell but that even before when Emma Owens was Eastside's principal. She was assisted by Annie Mae Dyson and Mrs. L.P. McCollough. Mr. McCollough was a Sanford grocer. During those days Carmeta Barber Ray was a teacher at Eastside. Mrs. Bush is the wife of former Seminole County Engineer Bill Bush.

I recently saw a list of potential candidates for the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame. I noticed the name of Murray Kenner. I recalled the last time I saw Murray he was with his brother Jack at an NFL exhibition game at Tampa Stadium between the Washington Redskins and the Miami Dolphins. So, I called Jack to find out about Murray who was better known as "Ushy."

Murray is now 77 and lives in Lake Mary. While at Seminole High he played football and in his senior year was an All-Southern center. He also starred in track, basketball and baseball. At one time he was with the NFL's Philadelphia Eagles. When Murray left football he turned to boxing. Later he completed his athletic career when for several years he served as a sparring partner for the former great heavyweight champion, Joe Louis.

By the way, you old timers might like to know that Murray and Jack's cousin, Anna Kanner Samuels and her husband Lee are still residing in Atlanta. Anna was a teacher for many years in local schools. There couldn't be many of us who are up in years that didn't have Miss Anna for a teacher in junior or senior high school.

"I remember the postman used to live down there," Jones said pointing to a nearby white house. "He used to bring his horse right up there at noon. This is a really old neighborhood."

among all the organizations that participated in the day's activities.

Lundquist said that so many chicken lunches were sold that the chefs had trouble keeping up with the orders. By 3 p.m., more than 750 orders had been filled.

"Because of the weather it took so much longer to cook the chickens," he said. "We had people standing in line waiting for the lunches."

The covered walkways that connect all the buildings at Seminole High School may have saved the day, Lundquist said.

"Everyone just stayed under the walkways and nobody got too wet out here today," he said.

If it had not been for the rain, organizers said the Springfest would have been even more successful, but no one was complaining.

"We did really well," said Jeanette Stiffey, who helped put the Springfest together. "I don't think anyone would complain."

School officials feel that the fundraiser was a success and hope to begin a tradition.

"This was loads of fun," Lundquist said. "It was our first, but it certainly won't be our last."

Students and others alike sought shelter to keep dry during the rain Saturday at Seminole High School's Springfest.

Attorney general probes Southern Bell

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The state will conduct a criminal investigation into a sales scam at Southern Bell Telephone Co. that has already been reviewed by the company and is still under inquiry by utility regulators.

Attorney General Bob Butterworth's office will determine "if there were crimes committed and who's responsible for it," said Peter Antonacci, deputy attorney general. "We are going to have a full-scale investigation by our economic crimes unit." The company disclosed the sales scam last fall and said it had fired five workers in Orlando and West Palm Beach and refunded $600,000 to 40,000 customers who had been signed for maintenance services they had not approved.

Southern Bell spokesman Spero Canton said Butterworth's office knew about an internal company probe of the sales scam for several months and that the company will cooperate with the new investigation.

"We're going to cooperate with anybody who wants to find out more information about this," Canton said.

The state Public Service Commission, which regulates utilities, and Public Counsel Jack Shreve, who represents consumers in cases before the commission, also have been scrutinizing bogus customer billings that were part of an illegal scheme that lasted more than 10 years.

The commission and Shreve began their investigations to determine how long company managers knew about the problem before they took action.

Bush still stands by his man

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON — White George Bush soars. Dan Quayle wallows. His rating in opinion polls hardly benefits from Persian Gulf War euphoria. Yet the White House insists Quayle is "lock-solid" on the 1992 Republican ticket.

But the question is whether by 1996, Americans can think of Quayle as "President Quayle."

"I think he's getting a bad rap," said political scientist Theodore Lowi of Cornell University, who quickly added that he's no fan of Quayle. "Part of the wimp factor for Bush came from his behaving like a vice president should."

And that, said Lowi, is what Quayle is doing.

Bush managed to overcome jibes that he was a wimp, a lap dog, a second banana unwilling to cite any issue on which he differed with Ronald Reagan. So, why not Quayle?

"Nobody ever said George Bush wasn't smart," said Democratic pollster Peter Hart. "Nobody ever said George Bush didn't have experience."

A Republican who insisted on anonymity put it more harshly: "No one thought George Bush was too stupid to be president."

Friends, foes and academics speculate at length on the meaning and the depth of the vice president's image problem and what he might do to repair it. Ironically, the prospect that Republicans have a sure winner in 1992 is prompting concern that the GOP could find itself with a sure loser in '96.

Special notice is given to polls that say Quayle finishes nearly 20 points behind Gen. Colin Powell when Republicans are asked their preference for the 1992 vice presidential nomination.

Dump Quayle for the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff? No way, says the White House.

But it's an idea that makes the hearts of Quayle critics beat a little faster. They argue that Quayle can't win in '96 and that after two terms as vice president he'd have a big edge in the race for the GOP nomination.

"The fear is that the party is sufficiently made up of loyalists that Quayle could use the trappings of Air Force 2," said another anonymous Republican critic of the vice president. "The fear is that he could ride that all the way to the nomination and, of course, then there goes what would then be a 16-year string of control of the White House."

Mitch Daniels, a former White House political director, brushes off the Quayle bashing.

"All vice presidents face this," Daniels said. "But George Bush proved they could not only surmount it, but do it very suddenly. Right now, Dan Quayle never looked any better from the standpoint that the ticket is looking very formidable and scintilla of a chance that he wasn't going to be on it has been erased."

"We're going to get used to Dan Quayle," said scholar Stephen Hess of the Brookings Institution. "His hair is going to gray, lines will appear on his face."

Hess, under the assumption that a Bush-Quayle ticket is victorious next year, added: "The American people will learn to live with Dan Quayle. The problem then becomes contemplating him as president."

With approval ratings in the 85 percent to 90 percent range, Bush is riding high in the aftermath of the Persian Gulf War. And Bush is the only person whose backing Quayle needs in 1992.

"A Bush-Quayle ticket is a lock-solid ticket in 1992," said White House staff chief John Sununu.

Conservative court deals blow to conservatives

By JAMES H. RUBIN
AP News Analysts

WASHINGTON — An increasingly conservative Supreme Court dealt an ironic, devastating defeat last week to a cause close to the hearts and pocket-books of many conservatives.

The court, with a near unanimity that delighted and amazed consumer activists, decried the American business community's campaign for more protection from costly lawsuits.

By a 7-1 margin, the justices refused to limit the size of punitive damage awards juries may impose to punish and deter wrongdoers.

It may not be the court's last word on the subject. But for now, the justices have turned thumbs down on granting new constitutional protection to corporations that claim they are being treated unfairly. Many conservative organizations had urged the court to provide such protection.

But what amounts to an anti-business ruling also is a triumph for judicial restraint — a core doctrine of the conservative legal agenda.

The ruling "is an irony for those who thought judicial restraint always means a victory for corporate America," said Alan Slobodin, head of the conservative Washington Legal Foundation. He favors limits on punitive damage awards.

Court watchers and legal scholars said the decision demonstrated the justices' reluctance to act like a legislature, setting policy rather than interpreting the Constitution.

"If the court opened the door to the manufacturers' argument, there simply was no end to it," said Arthur Bryant, head of the pro-consumer Lawyers for Public Justice.

"Imposing restrictions on what a state can do would get the court into a mess," added Georgetown University law professor Mark Tushnet. "It would mean a lot of supervision of the instructions judges gave to juries."

Slobodin held out the hope the justices still might find some punitive damage awards are so excessive they exceed constitutional bounds, but spokesmen for the business community were more pessimistic.

Andi Summers (left), also known as Goggles the Clown, and Georgette Bisallant, known as Snuggles the Clown, from Clermont, fill balloons for kids.

Huddled under umbrella, Ben Blake (left), Stephen Crmko and Lisa Sillaway, all of Sanford, watch as Mark Murray, of Longwood, tosses Frisbee before outside activity was called off.

When the rain came Saturday, many of the participants gathered under shelters at Ft. Mellon Park along Lake Monroe on the edge of downtown Sanford.

letting up by late morning.

Brock said that the weather reports he had heard had promised clear skies by afternoon, but by noon it was clear that wasn't going to happen. "We'd been praying for it to clear up," Brock said. "Imagine what would have happened if we hadn't been praying. We'd have had a hurricane."

The Youth Blast is the beginning of First Baptist's Youth Revival Week which will continue at the church through Wednesday. The First Baptist Church is located at 519 Park Ave. in Sanford.

Planned games, musical entertainment, law enforcement demonstrations and barbecue were called off.

The barbecue was moved to the church's parish hall. About 200 young people enjoyed half chickens inside instead of on the lakefront.

"We're going to have the real events Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday," Brock said.

Monday, the church will host the week's first Revival service. All the youngsters are being encouraged to bring a friend to the service. An award will be given to the youngster who brings the most guests.

Tuesday's revival will be coupled with a Pizza Blast where young people will be able to eat all the pizza they want for a dollar.

Wednesday night, the celebration will culminate in Victory Night, a revival service that will wrap up the other activities.

Smokers prone to complex diseases

By DR. JAMES E. QUINN
Family Practitioner

The largest health problem that primary care physicians face today is a patient who smokes. He or she is prone to many complex, crippling and fatal diseases. Smoking is the most important cause of death and illness that could be prevented by the patient himself.

Approximately 390,000 people die each year in America from smoking. People die from multiple types of cancer, cerebrovascular disease (strokes), coronary artery disease (heart attacks) and pulmonary diseases such as emphysema and chronic bronchitis. What is even worse, patients suffer such disability and pain as their diseases slowly overcome them.

Doctors often hear "we all die of something" when they ask why patients choose to smoke, but the way smokers die, prematurely and painfully, is something the medical profession would like to prevent.

Why do people smoke? Most of our patients tell us they would like to quit. Many have tried multiple times only to fail. Some have bought gadgets or had acupuncture or taken medications without success. Because of this, many people feel they are

Smoking is the most important cause of death and illness that could be prevented by the patient himself.

—Dr. James E. Quinn

weak and give up trying. The reason they continue to smoke is because nicotine is one of the most addictive drugs available legally or illegally. Researchers have shown that nicotine may be even more addictive than cocaine. Therefore, in any attempt to quit smoking, the patient must realize they are not just fighting a "habit" but trying to actually attempt to withdraw from a highly addictive drug.

Why should people quit? The reasons are numerous. Obviously to decrease the risk of the many diseases makes quitting worthwhile. Also, the cost of a cigarette when medical bills are added is over one dollar apiece.

Passive smoking that family and co-workers suffer also should be considered. Finally, setting a role model for growing children is important. It is awfully hard to tell a child not to smoke when you are!

How do you quit? Many people have quit different ways. Eighty-five percent of people quit "cold turkey" just like other people addicted to illegal drugs have to quit their drug. Tapering seldom works though is worth trying if a person sets a schedule and a date to finally quit. Avoiding caffeine helps decrease the drive for nicotine so temporary cessation of products with caffeine can be helpful. The patient should also realize the withdrawal is about 21 days long and therefore, should not expect to be over their symptoms in a week.

Other things that help are being physically active since most weight gain from smoking occurs from patients decreasing their movement during the withdrawal period. Some patients have benefited from the nicotine gum available from their doctor.

So is it worth it? If I've smoked thirty years I could still get cancer couldn't I? The studies show that the patient's cancer risks go down immediately after quitting, and by five years after quitting, the risk of cancer falls to the level of non-smokers.

Out of all the subjects I could have written for this column, I chose this one because smoking is by far the leading cause of diseases my patients need treatment for and these diseases, once they occur, are the most devastating. I encourage all of you who smoke to realize how tough it is to quit but it is worth it. Good Luck!

Dr. James E. Quinn is a family practitioner at 2209 French Ave., Sanford. The health column is provided as a community service by the Seminole County Medical Society. Inquiries may be directed to the medical society.

Arnold Palmer Hospital offers programs to help abusive, new parents with variety of services

ORLANDO — Over the last 10 years, thousands of children and their families have utilized the services of the Child Protection Team (CPT), the Developmental Center for Infants and Children and the Neonatal Parent Infant Education (NeoPIE) Program at the Arnold Palmer Hospital for Children & Women.

According to Program Manager Toni Baker, the CPT program was established in 1980 by a grant through the Department of Health and Rehabilitation Services and Children's Medical Services. Using a multi-disciplinary approach, CPT provides a full range of services for the prevention, assessment, identification and treatment of child abuse and neglect, as well as training and education to the communities of Orange, Osceola and Seminole counties.

"One of the goals of CPT is to help break the cycle of child abuse and neglect through education, networking, increasing community awareness and providing a consistent resource for child abuse prevention programs within the tri-county area," said Baker.

Baker added that the CPT has been selected as one of only five exemplary teams in the nation by the National Police Foundation, the American Bar Association and the American Public Welfare Association.

The Developmental Center for Infants and Children is dedicated to helping families understand the development of their infants and children, so that they may encourage a strengthening of intellectual, emotional, social and physical skills. The center, along with the Child Protection Team and the NeoPIE Program office, is housed at its new location at 1717 S. Orange Avenue in Orlando.

Developmental Center Manager Michael Dey, said that infants and children receive a comprehensive developmental evaluation. "An interdisciplinary approach is utilized to complete evaluations, resulting in substantial cost and time savings to families."

Dey said that originally, the Center only evaluated infants admitted to the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) at the Arnold Palmer Hospital. Developmental evaluations are now available to any child from birth to four years of age with the primary focus being in the first two years.

Dey added that funding for the Center is provided primarily by a grant through the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

The Neonatal Parent/Infant Education (NeoPIE) Program works closely with the center. This program provides home-based intervention services for babies at high risk for developmental disabilities who have been discharged from the NICU.

For more information about the Child Protection Team, please call 843-0331 or 237-6356 for information about the Developmental Center for Infants and Children. Please call 841-5111, extension 5919 for information about the NeoPIE Program.

DESK WORK DISCOMFORT

If you sit at a desk most of the day, are you sometimes bothered by pains in your back and other muscular discomfort?

Working in a sitting position for long periods of time can cause postural stress. This problem is compounded unless your chair is designed to give you support where it's needed, and unless you sit with the proper posture.

No one likes to go through life with nagging back pains. After a full day's work you want to be able to come home and relax comfortably with family and friends. And when you get up in the morning, you want to be able to feel refreshed and up to the challenge of another day's work.

If you have a posture problem, if your spinal column is out of alignment and causing painful pressure on nerve centers, you may be able to benefit from treatment that brings welcome relief from pain and discomfort.

Don't let nagging back pain get you down. Do something about it.

Iraqis riot; POWS head home

By THOMAS WAGNER
Associated Press Writer

Twenty-one Americans who were captured behind enemy lines headed for home Saturday, as a top U.S. official tried to use the allied victory to nudge Kuwait toward democracy and improve security in the Middle East.

Saturday also was a good day for some of the journalists who covered the Persian Gulf War and the civil unrest that followed in Iraq. After about a week's captivity in Iraq, 40 correspondents, including 11 Americans, and two men identified as U.S. servicemen drove to freedom in Jordan.

As Iraq released its last known American captives, anti-government unrest in Iraq, first reported more than a week ago, continued to spread and intensify, according to opposition sources and travelers.

"It's a real massacre," one person who left Iraq said of the fighting in the southern city of Basra, Iraq's second largest. "The deaths are in thousands. The houses have been levelled."

-Refugee from Basra

The harshness of Saddam Hussein's crackdown on the uprising prompted Washington to warn him not to use chemical weapons against the rebels, as he did against a popular uprising in Iraq several years ago.

In an effort to help the rebellious forces, some of the American soldiers stationed in occupied Iraq are providing the insurgents with guns and ammunition, U.S. military intelligence officers said Saturday.

The officers told The Associated Press that although U.S. policy forbids it, some GIs are handing the material to the rebels while others are leaving it behind for them. The officers said the practice was not widespread.

At military bases across the United States, meanwhile, American citizens continued to extend the warm welcome to returning GIs that the soldiers of the unpopular Vietnam War looked for and never received.

"I think it's time people get back into patriotism," said Dave Rice, organizer of a parade in Scottsbluff, Neb.

In all, 4,000 American soldiers headed home Friday to bases in Texas, California, Maine, North Carolina, Georgia, Kentucky, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

Meanwhile, the 21 former American POWs — some injured, all worried about the nine U.S. servicemen who remain missing in action — finally left the Persian Gulf region aboard a VIP jetliner and a medical evacuation plane.

Top Bush administration officials will be among the throng to greet the 19 men and two women Sunday at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington.

Intelligence officers: Iraqi rebels getting U.S. guns

Associated Press

KUWAIT CITY — Some American troops in Iraq are providing Iraqi rebels with ammunition and guns although U.S. policy forbids it, U.S. military intelligence officers said Saturday.

The military intelligence officers also said reports that Iraq's Republican Guard had crushed the rebellion in Iraq's second-largest city, Basra, appeared to be premature.

"It's a very fluid situation there," one officer said, speaking on condition of anonymity. "We know they are cracking down but the rebels are fighting back."

Earlier reports said the Republican Guard controlled the city but the officer said he believed the guard only dominated certain sections of the town.

Officers said several rebel groups fighting Saddam Hussein's troops in the southern Iraqi city of Nassiriya had approached U.S. forces stationed south of the city and asked for weapons.

He said battalion commanders in the area had requested orders from the army's Central Command in Saudi Arabia on what to do.

"They were told that we were not to get involved," the officer said.

However, another intelligence officer said that despite the ruling some soldiers passed ammunition and weapons.

With war win, retailers offer military discounts

By The Associated Press

Retailers are switching from yellow ribbons to deep discounts for the military to boost lagging business, but they don't want to look like they're riding the coattails of the Gulf War victory.

Ford Motor Co. is offering the Ford Military Program, allowing dealers to sell any 1990, '91 or '92 model Ford, Lincoln or Mercury for 4 percent over dealer cost compared to the standard 25 percent.

Ross Roberts, Ford vice president and general manager of the company's Lincoln-Mercury division, told Florida dealers in Orlando on Friday that the earmark would cover any losses for vehicles sold under the program, which intentionally has a low profile.

"It is a very difficult problem for us because we feel it is a delicate line to walk to make sure we aren't capitalizing on the war," Roberts said.

Chrysler already has extended rebate deadlines on some vehicles for military personnel, and General Motors Corp. is considering a military discount plan.

Airlines, among the leading losers in the recession, also were quick to respond to the war's end.

USAir is offering "Desert Storm Discounts" in a sales pitch that mentions it was the first airline to offer flight discounts. Many major carriers have followed suit, offering 70 percent off the full coach fares to military personnel, reservists and their immediate families.

Walt Disney Co. is working out the final details of a plan to offer free tickets through Veterans Day to each Gulf War veteran and a guest good for admission to the Magic Kingdom in Orlando or Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif.

Other attractions, including Universal Studios Florida, are offering promotions of their own. Some can be obtained through the Navy's office of information, tours and tickets, which serves all active and retired military personnel.

Cops clash, tanks roll in Yugoslavia

By DUSAN STOJANOVIC
Associated Press Writer

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — The federal government sent dozens of tanks into Belgrade on Saturday after police clashed violently with 100,000 protesters rallying against Communist rule in the republic of Serbia.

A police officer and a demonstrator were killed in fierce street battles and 76 people were injured, in the most serious riots in four decades of Marxist rule in the republic, which is Yugoslavia's largest.

To quell the violence, the federal presidency deployed tanks in front of the state television building and at other points around the city.

The battles arose after an opposition rally that began as a protest against biased Communist media reports. Demonstrators, demanding that Communist leaders resign, began to throw rocks. Police fired live ammunition, tear gas, water cannons and rubber bullets to push back the crowds.

The injured included Dragoljub Miceunovic, a leader of the opposition Democratic Party, the state news agency Tanjug reported.

Vuk Draskovic, the leading Serbian opposition figure, was arrested at the Serbian Parliament while negotiating with authorities, said Jovan Marjanovic, vice president of Draskovic's Serbian Renewal Movement.

Serbian President Slobodan Milosevic, a pro-Communist hard-liner, asserted on television that "the forces of chaos and madness must be confronted by all legal means." He said he might call an emergency session of Parliament Sunday to discuss the conflict.

Facing opposition in Serbia from anti-Communist forces, Milosevic is also embroiled in conflict with the leaders of pro-Western republics who seek to shape the country into a loose confederation of six sovereign states. Serbia and the leadership of one other republic, Montenegro, seek to maintain a strong federal system.

After Draskovic's arrest, other opposition members refused to leave the parliament building, and some declared a hunger strike, Marjanovic said.

The opposition leaders met with Serbian Premier Dragutin Zelenovic and demanded the resignation of five state TV editors. They also said Interior Minister Radmilo Bogdanovic must be held responsible for the police attack.

Zelenovic promised that everybody's responsibility will be determined, but we cannot accuse anyone without proof, Tanjug reported.

Lake Mary trims Oviedo

LAKE MARY — Eric Leister's two-out single in the bottom of the ninth inning plated Jimmy Newberry with the winning run, giving Lake Mary a 2-1 win over Oviedo on Friday night.

Newberry led off with the ninth inning with a single and advanced all the way to third on wild pickoff throw to first base. Pitcher Todd Bellhorn, who went the distance for Oviedo, struck out the next two batters but Leister came up and hit the first pitch up the middle.

Russell Haney (2-1) pitched the ninth inning to earn the win for Lake Mary. Starting pitcher Chad Kessler worked eight innings, allowing six hits, striking out seven and walking two.

Bellhorn gave up two runs on seven hits in his 8 2/3 innings, striking out 10 and walking one.

Lake Mary went up 1-0 in bottom of first inning as Matt Diemer walked, stole his way to third and scored on Kessler's double. Oviedo tied the score in the top of the second inning. Chrota Stokes led off with a single, took second on Lee Reynolds' one-out single and scored on Lou Traeger's two-out single.

Leister led the Rams' seven-hit attack with three singles and an RBI in four at bats. Diemer was 2-for-3 with a run scored and three stolen three bases.

Lake Mary, 7-2, will play Monday afternoon at Seminole. Oviedo will play at Lake Howell on Tuesday afternoon.

FSU exits Metro as champion

ROANOKE, Va. — On their way out the Metro Conference door, Florida State's Seminoles took the championship trophy with them.

The Seminoles rallied from a 20-point deficit in the final 17 minutes and beat Louisville 76-69 in the championship game of the Metro tournament Saturday night.

Charlie Ward's long 3-pointer with 23 seconds left was the winning basket for Florida State, which is leaving the Metro after 15 years to join the Atlantic Coast Conference next season.

In winning their seventh straight game, the Seminoles (20-10) advanced to the NCAA tournament for the third time in four years.

Florida State had come up short in its five previous Metro title games. Three of those losses had come at the hands of the Cardinals, but this time, Louisville came up short by making just four field goals in the final 17 minutes.

The eighth-seeded Cardinals (14-16) had won five consecutive games and three straight Metro championships. It broke a streak of 48 straight winning seasons by Louisville.

Stanton makes in three straight

DAYTONA BEACH — Jeff Stanton became the only rider in history to win three consecutive Daytona Supercrosses with an easy victory before 30,000 rain-soaked fans Saturday.

Stanton, the two-time defending American Motorcycle Association series champion, led every lap of the 20-lap event on his Honda and beat the Kawasaki of Jeff Ward by nine seconds in the 21st annual Supercross.

"It was truly a great accomplishment, and I'm very proud of it," said Stanton, 22, of Sherwood, Mich. He earned $20,000 for the win.

The only other rider to win the Daytona event three times is the legendary Bob "Hurricane" Hannah (1977, 1983, 1985).

BARBERVILLE — The traveling NASCAR Busch Grand National Series will return to Florida for the final time in 1991 to make its only short track appearance in the state for the Spring 200 at Volusia County Speedway on Sunday, March 24.

The 200-lap race will offer posted awards of $93,628, the largest purse ever paid for an event at the half-mile oval in Barberville.

The March race date will be a departure for Volusia County Speedway, which has hosted a late June-early July event for the Busch Series the past two years. Also a departure will be a Sunday afternoon race (2 p.m. starting time) instead of a Saturday night event.

The race will attract entries from all the top drivers on the NASCAR Busch Grand National Series, the nation's second-richest stock car racing series. Expected to compete are defending series champion Chuck Brown, along with last year's Volusia County race winner, Tommy Houston.

"This year's meet had many outstanding performances," said meet coordinator Fred Fink. "If you want to run faster, throw farther or jump higher, you can't be afraid of stiff competition. When you win here, you've really done something."

Jones High School took home both of the individual high-point Trophies.

Anson Watts claimed the boys' trophy, scoring 13 1/2 points by winning the 330 intermediate hurdles, placing second in the 120 high hurdles and contributing to a third-place finish in the 440 relay.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you By Ken Rummel

Here's an amazing oddity from baseball. On Sept. 22, 1975, pitcher Gaylord Perry had a lifetime major league record of 215 wins and 174 losses — and on that same day, his brother, pitcher Jim Perry also had the EXACT SAME lifetime win-loss totals, 215-174...What are the odds of that?

Although Bob Knight of Indiana is one of the most famous basketball coaches in America today, many fans don't answer this question about him...Where did Knight coach before he went to Indiana... It's a little-remembered fact that Knight was head basketball coach at Army from 1966 to 1971... He became coach at Indiana in 1972.

What was the greatest comeback by any team in a college basketball game in history?... On Jan. 6, 1990, Butte Community College of Orono, Calif., was behind by 18 points with just 77 seconds to go against Shasta College. But Butte rallied and won the game... Incidentally, they scored 18 points on a combination of field goals and fouls in just 77 seconds!

Businesses opening in Sanford

By NICK PPEIPAUP
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The establishment of new small business operations as well as long-time stores and businesses that have new owners or new locations continues in various sections of the City of Sanford.

Among the new establishments in the southern area of the city is the VCR Doctor, on Highway 17-92, near 21st Street, across from the Golden Lamb Restaurant. The business began operation in the middle of last December, at 2100 S. French Avenue. The Sanford branch of the video equipment servicing establishment, with its main headquarters in Orlando, is the fourth now operating in Central Florida.

Just two doors down from the VCR Doctor, at 2114 S. French is the new home of Iowa Discount Meat and Grocery.

The food store is owned and operated by Nabil Jammal, and has been in its new location since December 7. It features a wide selection of fresh meats as well as a delicatessen and groceries. Jammal selected the name of the store because of the fact that a large majority of his meat products come from the State of Iowa as well as other parts of the middle west.

Several blocks further south, on Highway 17-92, at 2413 S. French Avenue, is Corey's Tire Zone and Auto Service. Corey's is new to Sanford, having taken over the former A-OK Tire store in January. Corey Dunn's establishment features several prominent lines of tires, and handles all types of automotive service work.

The company will close toll-operator centers in Fort Myers and Ocala.

Intense work is murder

In the upcoming performance of "Who Shot Diddy?" Linda Zern plays mystery writer Margaret DooWah, the who-dunnit's narrator.

By LACY DOMEN
Herald People Editor

SANFORD — They all know who killed Diddy. But they'll never tell.

Fifty cast members, many of whom are Sanford residents and not trained ballet dancers, will gather for the murder mystery ballet performance of "Who Shot Diddy?" next weekend.

Guest performers, who are not members of the Sanford-Seminole Ballet Guild, said they participated in over two years of intense rehearsal for reasons ranging from being able to use their brains to being a last resort for the non-profit ballet guild, producer of the often comedic ballet.

"It's brain oil to make yourself do something like this," Linda Zern, who plays mystery writer Margaret DooWah, said. "It's like being on a roller coaster and I always enjoyed that ride," she added.

Guest dancer Ed Korgan jokingly said he got involved "as a last resort."

"This is more work than I've ever had to do before," he laughingly said.

"Yeah, he's still asking himself 'Why me?'" Staci Shannon, a guild member who plays Monica Monce, chided Korgan.

Korgan said he plays the part of "Big Ed the thug and one of the chorus boys in hot pink and black costumes."

"We look like a bunch of flamingoes on stage," he confided.

Cast members all agreed that keeping a sense of humor has helped during the two years of preparation time for the show.

Fonda Nobles, a guest dancer who plays an 'Apple Pie Mom' said working on the show has been "a lot of fun, a lot of hard work. We've learned to take correction with a smile. We've earned these calluses on our heels," she said.

Both Nobles and Zern called themselves "frustrated ballet dancers." Nobles, who danced for 10 years, now has two daughters who dance. Zern has four children but has always wanted to be on the stage.

"I didn't know I could do this 'til I tried. It just shows that no matter what dreams you have in the back of your brain, no matter how old you are, you can do something different," Zern said.

Nobles is also proud of her part. "I earned every one of these calluses on my heels," she quipped.

The ballet, a who-dunnit about a Broadway producer who is murdered, features guest dancer Scott Ferguson as a wealthy backer who steps in, as Biltmore Byit, to run the show. Ferguson said he concentrates hard on his role as a rich man.

"I have to act rich and I'm really a poor student doing this for relaxation," he said.

And Anna Higgins, guild member, is performing for the challenge of mastering many parts.

"I play lots of roles: a three-piece suit, a ballerina, a dancer in the chorus line and I forget what else!" she said.

But she'll remember by next week. She'll remember this experience always, she said.

Tickets for "Who Shot Diddy?" are $5 in advance, $6 at the door. Tickets may be purchased at the School of Dance Arts, Sanford and Lake Mary; Knights Shoes, Downtown Sanford; Dancers Depot, Deltona and Sun Hobble Shop in Seminole Center.

More murderous fun

The plot thickens for Lake Mary teacher

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — Putting up with the stress of being a teacher is sometimes enough to drive someone to murder.

Diane Lewis, a science teacher at Lake Mary High School who has been Seminole County's Teacher of the Year (1990) and Outstanding Young Educator of the Year (1991), thinks about murder a lot. And she thinks it can be fun, especially when it takes the form of one of her soon-to-be famous murder mystery parties.

Lewis, who said she has always loved a good murder mystery, began Mr. E. Productions last September almost by accident.

"My whole family loves a murder mystery party," she said. "We've played every one that's on the market."

She said they "really get into it," dressing in costume, speaking in appropriate accents and playing the role for an entire evening of fun.

She said her mother's sorority was planning a party last September and she asked Lewis if she would write a murder mystery party for the women to play out.

Lewis sat down and penned "Black Magic Murder," a Halloween mystery.

Each party-goer was given a description of their character and a short synopsis of the background before arriving at the event.

Then, through the course of conversations, the participants are expected to solve the mystery.

Lewis attended the "Black Magic Murder" to replace a guest who could not attend, and said that it was interesting to see her own work in action.

"It was interesting seeing it from another point of view," she said.

Lewis has since completed three more mysteries: "Tea for Two," a double murder that takes place in Georgia in 1860 just prior to the Civil War; "Shooting Star," the murder of a theatre critic is solved; and "Cupid's Arrow," a Valentine's murder in which participants at a wine festival try to find out who murdered Beau Je'Lay, a judge at the event.

Lewis' mysteries are filled with puns.

"I love playing with words," she said.

Among the suspects being questioned in "Cupid's Arrow" are Eve Aslve, Champ Payne, N. Tara Gare, Popda Korkoff and Perry Aigh.

Lewis said that she has copyrighted and is selling the parties she has created for $25 apiece.

"My main goal right now is not so much selling them as it is getting them written," she noted.

Lewis has used murder mysteries in her teaching as well.

Instead of just teaching students in her anatomy and physiology classes about the mechanics of blood typing, she created a murder mystery where the only evidence is blood left by the perpetrator at the scene. Students are required to find the murderer based on the facts they can gather through matching blood types.

"It makes learning a lot of fun for the students," she said. "They don't even realize they are learning sometimes."

Though she said she is always coming up with new ideas of scenarios for her mysteries, she said it takes nearly a month to create the whole party.

Lewis said when she is finished writing the murder mystery parties that she wants to submit to Hallmark, she plans to write a murder mystery novel.

Toes tapped, fingers snapped

"All That Jazz" rated a standing ovation for Michael Kramer at the March meeting of the Sanford Woman's Club. The talented Central Florida entertainer kept the women snapping their fingers and tapping their toes.

Kramer told the women the importance of jazz and its relation to all music from ragtime on through to rock 'n roll and including the classics.

He presented a similar program to those he gives in Seminole County schools. In one instance, he asked the women for suggestions for a song with Sanford chosen as the theme. Jane Saxon sang the lyrics for the fun blues special about Sanford that was created in just a couple of minutes.

From the spirited "12th Street Rag," Kramer moved on into the 1920s and told the women the importance of Louis Armstrong's music. "Everybody borrowed from him," Kramer said.

The audience participated in a rock 'n roll number as the highly entertaining program came to a close.

The guest artist was introduced by Jean Metts and the program was presented by the Arts Department under the chairmanship of Faye Siler who presented Kramer with a plaque.

Over 70 Seminole County guests helped David and Susie Kwang usher in the Chinese New Year recently. Susie said it's now the year of the Ram, 4689.

The Chinese zodiac runs in 12 year cycles with a different animal symbolizing each one.

Count in 12s to find out if this is your year. Susie said someone born under the sign of the Ram is elegant and accomplished, wise, gentle and compassionate, but probably shy.

Guest Frank Gabrielle, who volunteers his time to many civic organizations in Seminole County, including Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Missing Children Center and a newly created board to assist home-bound persons with transportation needs, said he was born under the sign of the Ram in 1931.

"Nobody's ever called me shy," he said.

Frank said many of the guests were affiliated with volunteer organizations and governmental bodies. Susie and her family are always donating food to civic causes, Frank explained, so a New Year's party was a good excuse for friends to gather.

"She's always trying to get her friends to eat, eat," he said.

Everyone did just that. The Gold Lion Chinese feast came complete with dragon-costumed performers, fireworks and ivory chopsticks.

"Susie is Number One in my book," Frank said.

Lake Mary Rotary Club member Larry Guignon selflessly calls two sets of bingo for charity every time the club hosts the game at Flea World. Last week, Larry said Rotary raised $630, more than had ever been raised before!

Larry said eight bingo games have been held since last April, with proceeds averaging $425. A total of $3,250 has currently been raised for Rotary civic projects.

While Larry announces the numbers, other Rotary members assist by checking cards and answering questions. Donating time from their busy Saturday morning were: Dennis Courson, Pete Jamison, Keith Samuels and Bobby Sharp. Donating time in the afternoon were Tom dishes. The event will begin at 6 p.m. There will be dancing and also the Woman's Club Chorus will sing. Reservations are due through the telephone committee.

Squaws take blue ribbons

The American Legion building took on the airs of a bustling Indian reservation Feb. 28 when 23 member clubs of District VII of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs convened for an artistic pow-wow. Among the out-of-town guests were Tam Duggan, Ocala, president of the FFWC.

First place winners in each individual club's arts and crafts festival were in competition for awards with these winners advancing on to competition at the FFWC State Convention in Orlando in May.

Faye Siler, chairman of the Sanford Woman's Club Arts Department, was the overall chairman, assisted by Pine Castle Woman's Club, Suburban Woman's Club and Wekiva Woman's Club.

Frank Voltoline lent his artistic aptitude to the event by constructing a tepee and an Indian Chief which he painted and hung on the walls along with blankets and other Indian artifacts. All types of Indian relics graced the walls, tables and stage with a genuine tepee centering the stage.

Many of the 142 women attending arrived dressed in authentic Indian attire complete with elaborate headdresses and decorated leather moccasins. The proud squaws showed off their award-winning handwork and eagerly awaited the announcement of the district winners.

District VII Director Charlotte Ninow of St. Cloud was the mistress of ceremonies. Mayor Bettye Smith and Marty Colgrove, Sanford Woman's Club president, welcomed the visitors to Sanford.

Elle Bone of Mount Dora, gave a humorous and quite dramatic Mark Twain reading followed by the award-winning Woman's Club Chorus. "Something Special", singing a medley of melodies. Under the direction of Mayor Bettye Smith, the chorus, attired in purple dresses, performed par excellence. Their performance brought rave reviews from the visitors.

Following lunch, women who entered clothing in the sewing contest modeled their fashions which definitely qualify as designer creations. Just lovely!

Mary Childers was the luncheon chairman. She and her committee served turkey on a crossant, fruit kabob and cookies from a cleverly decorated "white bag" which featured a tepee, sun and moon designs, cactus, fringe and a feather.

Viola Frank was in charge of the welcome coffee with Eve Rogero and Phyllis Conklin registering the guests. Hazel Cash, immediate past club president, was the official hostess who greeted the women upon arrival. Trish Colbert came up with a collection of exciting door prizes. Jean Marcel was in charge of registration of crafts. Others assisting were Sara Bowen, Audrey Roush, Jane Saxon, Betty Steffens, Martha Stevens and Mary Tillis.

Tina Joseph won three blue ribbons for her oil paintings in different categories while Jean Marcel walked off with three blue ribbons for photography and print making. Joyce Hissen received two blue ribbons for her counted cross stitch.

Others receiving blue ribbons were: Mary Childers, fabric craft; Viola Frank, family sewing; Jean Metts, decorated ware; Jane Saxon, floral arrangements; wreaths; Fran Morton, pressed flowers; Jean Skipper, baskets, weaving; and this writer, photography, general interest.

DEAR ABBY: I have some next-door neighbors (they are two sisters and their cousin) who are nice people, but they act like my house is a free grocery store. They even bring their empty bottles to me to fill up with shampoo. When they borrow my mayonnaise, if I don't hurry up and ask for it back, they keep it in their refrigerator and use it until it's all gone.

I have no husband and I'm doing my best to raise five children, and I can't afford these "borrowing" neighbors anymore. They borrow cough syrup, peanut butter, aspirin, eggs, bread — and never offer to replace anything.

I would like to stay on good terms with them because our front doors are 3 feet apart. Any ideas?

HAD IT IN HAWAII
DEAR HAD IT: Yes, I have one. And if you use it, it's the only one you'll need. The next time these neighbors ask to "borrow" something, tell them you are "fresh out."

And should you soften up and decide to "lend" them something, measure it out; if you hand over the entire container, they will take it to mean "help yourself." Nice guys finish last, and overly generous neighbors usually get stuck, so don't lend them anything you can't afford to give them.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

South got to four spades in today's deal, and West led the king, ace and queen of hearts, ruffed by South. South really now had few worries. If East held four spades, he would not have four hearts, so there would be no way he could thwart declarer's plan of giving up a trump trick to East and then taking the rest of the tricks.

So declarer played the king, ace and queen of spades and was discouraged to find that West held the length in spades. Now the hand was unmakeable. If declarer tried to run the clubs, West would wait for the appropriate moment to ruff in and exit with a heart. Eventually he would take a diamond trick and another heart trick.

The winning safety play is to go against percentages in the trump suit to avoid at all costs the chance of four spades falling. After ruffing the third round of hearts, declarer simply leads the nine of spades from his hand, and when West plays low, declarer plays dummy's three-spot. This is an interesting safety play because it seems so unlikely that West would hold four spades to the jack. But the mark of the expert player is to ferret out those situations in which he might be set and to take steps to counter them.

Students donate a bit of themselves: blood

Seniors gave a bit of themselves Wednesday, March 6 when the Central Florida Blood Bank came to Seminole High School. Seniors and juniors over 16 years of age were allowed to donate blood. This was the second blood drive at the school. The first occurred during December. The blood drive lasted from 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Seniors had the opportunity to sign up during their English classes while juniors signed up during lunch periods.

Those students able to donate blood received cookies, cokes and a headband provided by the Blood Bank.

While other seniors and juniors were saving lives, 25 others were preparing a trip to the campus of Florida A&M University. The 25 students will participate in the 14th Annual Student Preview Friday and Saturday, March 8, 9. Prospective college students will meet members of the administration, faculty, staff and students. They will learn more about academic programs, student life and student services available at the F.A.M.U.

Students will leave for their informative trip Friday morning, meeting at the school at 3 p.m. They will return to the Sanford area, Saturday, at 10:30 in the evening.

Bridging the language gap

Students of foreign languages, studying at Seminole County district schools met last weekend at Seminole High School for the district-wide Foreign Language Competition and Conference. About 400 students from all of the local high schools attended the festivities and vied for various prizes.

While the competition may have drawn a smaller crowd than it has in past years, organizers were still very satisfied with the number of students who participated in the contests.

The top prizes at the competition were two $500 academic scholarships which were awarded to Joanna Sekula from Oviedo High School and Susan Gross from Lake Howell High School.

Independence and fun through fabric

By WICKI DeBORNIER
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Catherine Arledge of Maitland is working her way toward financial independence with the help of the reupholstery class at Seminole Community College.

As the single mother of a three-year old, Arledge was looking for a profession that she could pursue at home so that she could spend time with her son while still earning a good living.

"Most of the people here are like (Arledge)," said Joe Williams, who teaches the class. "They want to go into business either for themselves or with a manufacturer. They aren't in here for the recreation, though some are."

The reupholstery class at SCC began as a part-time endeavor in 1973 and has grown to include two sections of full-time students in furniture and automotive reupholstery and several part-time students.

"It's a two-year program for the full timers who want to learn everything we are teaching here," Williams said.

He said that the students who come to his class arrive with varying levels of experience, from none at all to those who have completed one reupholstery project in the leisure class and want to pursue a career.

"All we ask is that they be alive," Williams jokes.

He noted that not all the people who complete the class are planning careers with the sewing machine and the staple gun.

Williams said that graduates of the course have stepped into jobs as furniture manufacturer sales representatives, fabric consultants and interior design assistants.

Students often take on projects for the college or employees of the college who understand that the work is being done by people who are still learning their craft.

"They are still learning, but their work is usually very good," Williams said.

He makes sure that every student in the class learns to take pride in their work even if they do not have career ambitions in the reupholstery field.

"I'm just taking the class because I can buy a chair for $35 and re-do it and have a brand new chair," said Carmela Sisco of Lake Mary.

Sisco said she wanted to learn more than the leisure course offered. While she has no intention of going into business, she wanted to learn about the craft at more than the "hobby level."

"It's fascinating," she said.

One woman's fascination is another's dream of a good livelihood.

Arledge said that she doesn't know if she can get rich reupholstering furniture, but she is looking forward to the day when she can get off public assistance and earn her own living with her hands.

"I plan to be a home owner within five years," she said. "And this is how I'm going to do it."

Williams said he encourages his students to seek employment and helps out whenever he can. He does not, however, offer guaranteed job placement as part of the course.

"That'd be a full time job all by itself," Williams said. "We do what we can though."

Flag flap for kids concludes

WEST MELBOURNE — The squabble over softball uniform patches of the American flag ended patriotically.

Parents and Little League officials have agreed to allow the patches demanded by a girls softball team for this year only. But they will have to be furnished and sewn on 480 uniforms of all 36 teams in the Greater West Melbourne Athletic League.

The agreement came late Thursday at a special meeting called to resolve the issue after angry parents and members of the West Melbourne Devils demanded to be allowed to wear the patches they had sewn on their new uniforms to honor troops in the Middle East.

The league, which sets policy for the area's 20 Little League teams, refused to allow the patches and threatened to prevent the team from participating in league play beginning Saturday.
