KINLOCH MINE, NEAR
PARNASSUS, Pa., Mar. 22.—(INS)—The known death toll of the mine gas explosion here mounted today to 28, of whom 21 have been identified. Bodies of the unidentified victims have not been removed to the surface. Rescue teams returning from below reported discovery of the others.

No one, not even company officials themselves, know positively how many men are still in the mine. Deputy coroner Charles F. Brush of Westmoreland County in charge of the emergency morgue, hazarded a guess that there may be with the number of those who were killed. He said that a party of four men, trapped 24 hours ago, had succeeded in breathing themselves in a section and were still alive. He said that 2,000 persons called for information at the Valley Camp Coal Company yards here.

Rescue teams reported discovering a tunnel which was thought to be a new way they will find a number of survivors.

J. Taylor, superintendent of the ill-fated mine, would not say whether many of the men had been able to get out. He said that he was hoping to possibly give rise to the hope that others were in danger.

Rescue operations were determined to press forward into the unexplored sections as rapidly as possible, spurred on by the hope that lives of some miners may be sustained for a while longer, if they are not already dead.

"If there are any more in there alive," said Taylor, "no time is to be wasted. We must make every effort to reach them as soon as we can. We hope to have every part of the mine explored before noon."

Boxing Fans Turn Out Despite Rain

Despite inclement weather, several hundred persons turned out last night for the first of a series of boxing exhibitions to be staged in the public park here. The exhibitions were arranged by the Citizens' Athletic Club at the suggestion of the local sportsmen.

The boxing exhibition was staged under the auspices of the park association for the benefit of the Citizens' Athletic Club. The program is scheduled for Apr. 1.

Entomologist Urges Conservation Of Birds As Aid To Celery Farmers

Proof of the value of birds in the local celery fields, and the need for better conservation of them, was given by a group of entomologists and ornithologists at a meeting held at the local hotel here last night.

Dr. Steyer presented data he had gathered from his studies on the relationship between birds and celery. He said that the birds were not only eating the insects that were destroying the celery, but were also eating the celery itself.

Here's a Texaco Service you'll appreciate

Let your neighborhood Texaco Station take care of your car. Drive in every five hundred miles. Ask the attendant to see if the oil should be drained. Have the shackles and chassis lubricated. Do this regularly. Your car deserves it.

Well cared for cars are quiet cars. Clean, full-bodied golden oil in the crankcase, freshly greased spring shackles and gears cushioned against wear and noise are easily worth the little time it takes for thorough Texaco Lubrication Service.

Texaco Golden Motor Oil is clean, clear and full-bodied. It holds its body at highest engine temperatures . . . and flows freely when the engine is cold. Texaco is free from the impurities that cause other oils to thicken and slow up during the winter months. It protects from the first turn of the starter.

Stop when you see the Texaco Red Star with the Green T.

Water Overflows

Annual floods remind us of the fellow who wouldn't repair the roof of his house because when it was raining he couldn't and when the sun was shining he didn't need to.
 When the Mississippi, Alabama, and other rivers of the South are overflowing their banks and spreading destruction over fertile and populous valleys, there is nothing man can do but let Nature take its course. When the rainy season is over and the floods have passed along, the people return to their homes and are so busy repairing their property and planting their fields that they soon forget that the river ever leaves its bed.

Florida's interest in flood protection does not lie alone in the rivers which flow through it to empty into the gulf.
 While considerable property damage has been done in the northwestern part of this state by the floods, only one life has been lost as compared with nineteen elsewhere. We do not attempt to minimize the need of assistance with which these Floridians are faced, but we cannot forget the awful disaster which was visited upon the people of the Okecho-bee section in September of 1926 and again in 1928. The people of Florida well know what it means to be without flood protection.

"Widening of rivers and deepening of channels, building of dikes, levees and dams will help to save destruction," the Jacksonville Journal suggests. "Wiser building will also assist. Denuding of forests and growing settlements along river banks add to the danger. Adoption of possible measures to prevent disaster and to save lives should occupy our time and attention. It ought to be possible through public administration to put into effect some measures which will lessen the loss and suffering. Floods we will have with us always."

Yes, floods will be with us always, but the damage caused by them can be reduced to a minimum. Up to the present time we have in effect done nothing toward keeping the waters where they belong. We have indeed spent some money, but we have actually accomplished nothing. By this we do not mean that we believe it is an impossible task. We believe that if politics can be removed from engineering skill, the disasters of floods will be known to history only.

With an engineer in the White House, we have every reason to hope for much.

Italian Lightening

Gamblers who do not like the laws of Florida should go to Italy. They gamble there; there is no law against it.
 Not only is there no law against it but the government encourages it by operating state lotteries. Mussolini believes, perhaps, that by allowing his people to occupy their time and spend their money gambling, they will not bother him.

Sanford people, wise in the ways of the world, play the races at Longwood nightly and know that it is poor business to bet on the same dog too often. The best dog does not always win. Every dog must have his day, especially every dog owner. So it shifts around giving every man his chance.
 Lightning does not strike twice in the same place.

But in Italy it does. Six years ago a peculiar combination of numbers was lucky. Eight, sixty-five, ninety, was played, and eight, sixty-five, ninety, won. Won not fifty centesimi, not one thousand lira, as is often won (in Italy), but the equivalent of two million dollars. Ever since, Italians, funny about these things, have continued to play these numbers, believing that lucky once, they would be lucky again.

Strangely enough, they were right. Last week there was much excitement in Naples. It might have been the carnival season from the way it looked. Naples' banks had to sent to Rome for more money. Some fool played the same old numbers, eight, sixty-five, ninety, believing that where lightning had not struck in six years, it was time for it to strike again. It did, and the lucky fool was two million and five hundred thousand dollars the richer.

Try it, those of you who think you can beat the Longwood dog track. Once you find a winner, bet on him night after night, every time he runs, may be you too will find that lightning strikes twice in the same place. Try doubling your former bet every time you place a new one; that is a good scheme. Then when the lightning strikes you may win a million.

But for heaven's sake, pay your local bills first.

FLORIDA MUST HAVE THIS ROAD JACKSONVILLE JOURNAL

Further argument for the immediate building of the Gulf Coast highway—if further argument is needed—is found in the fact that the Old Spanish Trail is blocked again by floods. A year ago this same thing happened and the state lost thousands of dollars because tourists could not come into the state from the West. Added to the tourist loss is the general loss of business and damage to automobiles by reason of blocked roads and bad detours.

The nature of the country which the Old Spanish Trail, Highway No. 1, traverses makes it practically certain that floods will shut off this road about once each year. The Gulf Coast Highway would never be blocked by floods because the flood waters have been channeled into wide basins by the time they reach the gulf coast. These basins are too large to be filled to the level of the roads or bridges along the coast.
 It would appear that this reason alone is sufficient for the building of the Gulf Coast highway at once. There is no calculating the amount of money lost last year and that will be lost this year by reason of the blockade of Highway No. 1. It is at present the only east to west road by which tourists can come in Florida. Those who do not turn back at Pensacola or other points are best served to take great care to get to Sanford, Alabama, and there, and then come over Florida's new road to Sanford, Florida, and then to Sanford, Florida.

The woman's end of frank berries is not yet. W. Orman who has three acres of fruit berries in the Starvo section, presented the latest along that line Saturday when he brought forth a berry that might pass for a rather stout duck's leg and was foot, a fabulous with a previous nose or what have you?
 The berry evidently started growing in it at a public house where, according to the story, berries were present on Saturday and were fed to the man out of the "bush" from the first portion of the berry making a woman's end of frank berries.

It has been stated that over 115
 the city last night. It is stated that a crowd of men were seen in the city last night.

Lives of great men all remind us We can make our lives sublime, And profitable too in this age when great men have discovered that glory gets its price if it will love and endorse something.

On the day after Major Segrave had broken the automobile speed record at Daytona Beach a cigarette advertisement in New York papers carried his telegraphic statement that there was nothing better after breaking a world's record than a puff of that particular cigarette. Thus far Lindbergh and Tunney are about the only celebrities who have not yielded to the temptation to capitalize on their fame by endorsing something.
 Queen Marie started it and there seems to be no end to it.

It would be interesting to know how effective these endorsements are in furthering the sales of the products endorsed. If they did not have a very considerable effect the companies advertising the products would certainly not be willing to pay as they do for the flattering confessions of celebrities.

When Herbert Bayard Swope, formerly executive editor of the New York World, endorsed a cigarette the World's famous P.
 P. A. implicitly implied that in all his long acquaintance with Mr.
 Swope he had never known him to smoke the cigarette mentioned or indeed any other kind of cigarette. Yet there was the endorsement.

The psychology of celebrities who make these endorsements seems to be a smoothly cynical one. If one of the prerequisites of fame is the privilege of earning a little extra cash by endorsing something, they may as well put their tongues in their cheeks and endorse.

The public psychology, on which the advertisers rely, seems to be equally cynical. Very few people probably believe that the famous Mr. This or the aristocratic Mrs.
 That loves Jones' cigarettes or Smith's creams with the passion proclaimed in the advertisements.
 But nearly everybody's eye is caught with the name of Mr.
 This or the picture of Mrs. That.
 Consequently the endorsement advertisements get a ready and commercially useful public attention. They would get almost as productive an attention if the endorsement were omitted and the mere name or picture of the celebrity was carried without any particular emotions for the product advertised.

Almost—but not quite. The reader of an advertisement may be utterly skeptical of the glowing tributes paid the product by great people but nevertheless the thing intrigues him. It intrigues him in much the manner that historic fiction does when a general or president we really exist in the history books is given fictitious colorful things to say by the novelist. The Barrington novels proved this. It is interesting to hear Napoleon Bonaparte speak his part in an imaginary plot. It is exciting to hear Lord Byron saying little intimate things he never really said.

But now comes the magazine, Sales Magazine, national advertising and merchandising organ to spot it all. It charges that the current flood of so-called tu-timonial advertising, signed by stage stars, sports celebrities, society figures and others is one of several evils which are undermining public confidence in all advertising. It suggests that the International Advertising Association should set up an "audit bureau" which would investigate and pass upon all disputed advertising.

The investigations which such an audit bureau might conduct into the facts of certain endorsements would be colorful indeed.
 Imagine Harry, Bayard Swope mentioned before the bureau to prove that he ever really smoked or actually did prefer the cigarette he so laudably endorsed. Or witness appearing with testimony that Walker Hagen was heard distinctly coughing between puffs of a less than second lot of a certain other cigarette.

 the city last night. It is stated
 seen in the city last night.

The Bradford County Telegraph has found the reason why the janitors at the state capitol wear such an air of importance. It is given as this: "While on the subject of state salaries members of the legislature draw $36 a week and the janitors of each house draw $42 a week. The law maker gets less for thinking up new laws than the janitor gets for sweeping them out. Anyway, the reason they have to wear a cap (called "janitor") is to keep visitors from calling them governor—they wear such an air of importance."

MIAMI CHURCHES UNITE TO RETAIN GAMBLING LAWS

Adopt Resolution As Part Of Movement To Fight Legislation

MIAMI, Fla., Mar. 22.—Opposition to any repeal of the anti-gambling laws of Florida has definitely taken shape in the form of a resolution, unanimously adopted by the Greater Miami Ministerial Association, as a part of a movement to organize a committee of 100 influential citizens to get recommendations before the next legislature.

The resolution follows: "Whereas, we, members of the Greater Miami Ministerial Association, are informed that a movement has been started to organize a statewide committee of 100 influential citizens to get recommendations before our next legislature for the modification of our anti-gambling laws; and

"Whereas, we, as ministers of the gospel, recognize our responsibility for the protection of all instruments and influences for morals and righteousness, therefore,

"We do hereby resolve that we go on record as being unalterably opposed to any modification, change or substitution that will weaken the anti-gambling laws, and further,

"That we agree to call upon the members of our churches in Greater Miami and Dade county to use their influence to prevent any modification, change or substitution that will weaken our present anti-gambling laws; and further,

"That we do call upon all Christian ministers of the entire state to present this matter to their churches and communities, and also that we call upon all Christian laymen to co-operate in furthering this movement."

Kentucky Lady Says That By Taking Black-Draught She Obtained Relief.

Richmond, Ky.—Many people who suffer from biliousness should be interested in the following statement by Mrs. Cora Mullikin, of this place: "I had been troubled with bad cases of biliousness. My head felt too heavy, and I was very nervous."

"I heard of Black-Draught and began taking it. After three days I began to feel better. I took it every day and I soon had my bowels regular and my head clear. I was very happy and I would recommend it to all my friends and neighbors. I use it every day and I feel like a new woman."

Stoner Urges Bird Conservation As An Aid To The Farmer

by field observations and by examination of the bird's stomachs, says Dr. Stoner, several cases of such examination and observation were discussed by Dr. Stoner, who said that birds are without doubt one of the principal natural checks to celery and truck crop insect pests.

Speaking on the conservation of the natural fauna and Dr. Stoner brought out the necessity to the protective laws already enacted is a necessary item. The farmer and the people at large must be made to realize the importance of birds, he emphasized. Further investigation into the economic side of the problem and the necessity of cooperation of the truck growers themselves is not only desirable but necessary to bring about the desired results, it was declared.
