Close Encounters Of Furry / Feathery Kind

Docent Jeanne Robinson of Lake Mary, above, holds Moe, a salmon crested cockatoo, on her shoulder for the first time. She recently joined husband, Paul, in photo on right with Sassy, the striped skunk, as a Central Florida Zoo volunteer after completing 35-hour training course in July. He has been serving as a Docent since August 1982. Central Florida Zoo is recruiting new volunteers 16 years or older to serve as Docents, to introduce visitors, particularly school children to the animals and assist with the zoo's outreach program. The next free training class will meet from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the zoo for seven consecutive Saturdays beginning Oct. 8. To become a Docent each volunteer must complete the training course to learn about the zoo animals, be taught a mini-zoology course, learn and practice giving tours and successfully complete several examinations. Prospective trainees do not have to be professional educators or zoologists to qualify.

School Building Plan Irks Land Developer

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Plans of the Seminole County School administration to buy a 60-acre tract of residentially zoned property off County Road 427 as a site for a consolidated maintenance and transportation complex has raised the ire of Lake Mary city officials and a prominent land developer in the city.

In fact, Larry Dale, developer of Cardinal Oaks and Cardinal Oaks Estates, with homes valued in the $300,000 price range is so angry about it he may go to court.

The Lake Mary City Commission voted unanimously Thursday night to whip off a resolution to both the School Board and the Board of County Commissioners expressing their dismay and opposition.

Dale, who has been active in Lake Mary's Volunteer Fire Department for many years sought help from the Lake Mary Commission, saying the school administration's planned complex is actually an "industrial park" and that it violates the county's comprehensive plan calling for low density residential development in the area.

The parcel of 60-to-65 acres which the school system plans to purchase for $800,000 is directly across CR 427 from the entranceway to Dale's development.

Dale said the property involved is on the south side of 427 and is generally known as the Forest Green plat.

Dale said in conferences with school administrators earlier Thursday he was told that the school system has the right to invest in any property it sees fit.

"I personally will oppose this," said Commissioner Ray Fox, adding that he questions whether an elected body has the right to play with taxpayers' money by investing it at will in property. "But they have run amok before," he said.

Dale added that school officials told him they have already discussed with county officials a change in the county's comprehensive plan to accommodate the consolidated complex and believe they will have no problem achieving their goal.

The city commission agreed to prepare a resolution for adoption at its Sept. 29 meeting objecting vigorously to the plan. The resolution is to be directed to the School Board and the County Commission.

Commissioner Ken King, considered the environmentalist on the city commission, stated his concern that the tract is adjacent to Spring Hammock which is designated a conservation area in the county comprehensive plan.

The county's comprehensive plan for the area was the major concern of all the commissioners.

Mayor Walter Sorenson was bothered that "everyone in Orlando knew Lake Mary was buying two lots and the school board is preparing to buy 65 acres and all is quiet."

Dale asked the city commission to consider joining him in a lawsuit if that is ultimately necessary to stop the industrial development of the property by the school board.

City Attorney Robert Petree first said the city might have standing in the court and could enter the suit because of concern about the comprehensive plan which the commissioners have committed to adhere to and because of the effect the development would have on the health, welfare and safety of Lake Mary citizens.

Polk Pleads With State Over 8-Bed Gap At Jail

Sheriff John Polk has asked the state Department of Corrections to approve eight beds at the Seminole County Jail which state officials say do not meet their specifications.

Polk installed 32 beds at the jail last year, increasing the capacity of the facility to 248 prisoners. But state inspectors have cited the jail twice this year for overcrowding and have approved only 24 of the additional beds. The inspectors contend there is not enough space in the facility for the eight additional beds.

In a letter to Louis Walwright, secretary of the state Department of Corrections, Polk asked that the state approve the beds until a new 200-bed addition is constructed.

During budget work sessions this summer, Polk told county commissioners that he would not obey the state order to remove the eight additional beds at the jail.

"We desperately need those additional beds," Polk said today. "It's better for them to sleep on beds than on the floor."

Polk said he believes the state ultimately will approve the additional eight beds.

The circus ran away to join the Sanford Nursing and Convescent Center Wednesday and gave residents, such as Bea Hamp, shown clowning around with visiting clowns, "Striper", left, and "Liberty", plenty of laughs during Circus Fling Day. They even had hot dogs and popcorn. The special event was arranged by Dee Dee O'Neal, activities director.

Lake Mary Staff Get 8% Pay Hike

Lake Mary's city employees got good news Thursday night.

The city commission approved pay raises averaging 8 percent for the 20 full time employees beginning Oct. 1 and granted $8,000 to be divided up by the 10 police officers and dispatchers for holidays they have worked in the past and were neither paid for nor given compensatory time.

The commission voted unanimously to pay for the holiday time accumulated by the police personnel, but Commissioner Ray Fox said his vote in favor is contingent upon a serious attempt being made to keep holiday time from going out of control again.

City Treasurer Madeline Minns said the $8,000 figure is correct as of Aug. 8, but there could be more or less cost because of the Labor Day holiday and compensatory time which police employees may have taken since the August date. Commissioner Russ Megonegal's motion to pay for the holiday time included a rat out date of Sept. 30.

Meanwhile, the average 8 percent pay raises will bring city employees into a new pay plan, prepared by a committee composed of Megonegal, Public Works Superintendent Jim Ortoles and A.R. "Doc" Jore, a resident of the city. Assisting in preparing the plan was Mrs. Minns and Mayor Walter Sorenson.

Cost of the pay increases for the city's full time employees is $22,673.09 with $20,804.19 of that sum for general fund employees and $1,868.90 for utility department employees.

Megonegal has said the pay plan includes eight steps, with 3 percent increases for each step as employees are moved up. He got the commission's approval to continue the committee's work of preparing forms to evaluate the performance of employees and to prepare job descriptions.

Megonegal told the commission earlier that salary schedules were arrived at by surveying cities of similar size in the area.

The pay raises approved are as follows: City Clerk Connie Major and Mrs. Minns, from $14,966.42 to $17,231.75; administrative secretary Carol Edwards from $11,224.22 to $12,136.13; utility billing supervisor Barbara Gorman from $11,224.22 to $11,765.60; public works superintendent Ortoles from $15,938.20 to $17,748.70; public works lead man, $13,220.16 to $14,322.15; job reclassification from public works workforce person to public works journeyman, $8,985.60 to $11,439.38; Police Chief Harry Benson $19,351.33 to $21,161.94; police lieutenant, $15,765.94 to $16,729.86; police sergeant $14,802.48 to $15,170.31; police patrolman 1st class, $13,969.69 to $14,751.81 for the officer with most seniority; and for two others with less seniority, $13,913.29 to $14,322.15; one patrolman, from $13,613.29 to $14,121.23; senior dispatcher, from $10,473.62 to $11,765.60; one dispatcher $9,393.22 to $10,767.21, and for two newer ones, from $9,303.22 to $10,453.61.

In another employee related matter, the commission agreed to continue setting aside $6,445.42 from the current year's budget at the rate of 5 percent of salaries paid for a retirement system for general employees. The city already has a retirement system for police employees.

Mrs. Minns was instructed to get additional information about a retirement system sponsored by the Florida League of Cities. —Donna Estes

Mildew Problem Extreme

Library Work At LMHS Is Dirty Business

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Almost a third of Lake Mary High School's 12,000 books have been damaged by mildew since the school opened in two years ago, according to a school librarian.

Beth Whigham, media specialist at LMHS, said a survey by school district officials has shown that 31.73 percent of the school library's volumes, valued at about $25,000, have been damaged by mildew since the school opened in 1981.

"We've only been open for two years but many of our books look like they've been here for years," said Ms. Whigham.

Mildew in the library has been a problem before, but this summer it was worse than usual with the humidity frequently climbing above 90 percent, she said.

"We've wiped off every book and every shelf in the library," said Ms. Whigham. "I don't think the teachers or students would want to use them the way they were."

Mildew makes the books look old and gives them a musty odor, although they are still useable. If it's not wiped off soon enough books can be warped.

"A number of books are warped very badly. And there's nothing that can be done about that," she said.

She said the mildew also gets into the school's audio-visual equipment covering it with a dull dirty film and making them difficult to use.

The problem has been traced to the air conditioning system, which cannot remove enough moisture from the air, according to Maintenance Supervisor Glenn McGraw. McGraw said the system is not defective and needs only minor adjustment to cope with the library's needs.

Six dehumidifiers have been placed in the library to take moisture out of the air, McGraw said, adding that district maintenance people have been working with the system for about three weeks trying to adjust it.

"We hope the situation is improving," said Ms. Whigham. "In the meantime, we'll continue to take books off the shelf and wipe them with alcohol."

Mildew is also a problem at Seminole County's main library in Casselberry. There, county workers have added humidistats to the air conditioning system to reduce the moisture in the air.

About 200 books in the library's reference section have been damaged by mildew, according to County Librarian Jean Rhein.

"They aren't ruined, just unpleasant to work with," she said.

When mildew is noticed on books, Mrs. Rhein said, the volumes are removed from the shelves. On the first sunny day, they are placed in the sun to dry.

"Sunlight is really the only thing that will make the mildew go away," she said.

At the Casselberry library, books in general circulation have not been affected, according to Mrs. Rhein, because they most of them have plastic covers and because the books aren't exposed to the high humidity all the time like reference books.

Sod Webworms Likely To Show Up In Lush Lawns

The sod webworms have arrived and they have the knack to seek out the greenest, most succulent grass. They are therefore, most likely to show up in well fertilized lush lawns and prefer Bermuda and St. Augustine grasses to Bahiagrass.

Although there are several kinds of caterpillars which may cause damage to turf grasses, the most damaging caterpillar is the tropical sod webworm. The larvae are greenish with many black spots. Adults are dingy brown moths with a wingspread of about 3/4 inch. Eggs are deposited on the grass blades and hatch in about one week. Larvae feed on the grass blades and cause noticeable injury within two weeks. There may be rather extensive damage within the next one and one-half weeks until pupation. The adult moths appear about one week later. They complete their life cycle in five-six weeks and have several generations each year. In Central Florida sod webworms are usually not present in sufficient numbers to damage grass before July or August and usually reach their peak in September and October.

The webworms feed primarily at night and remain in a curled position on or near the soil surface during the day. This habit makes them difficult to find. Newly hatched caterpillars cause very little visible damage to grass. It is not until they are almost full grown "worms" nearly 3/4 inch long that their feeding becomes noticeable. Then it appears to show up almost overnight. This, along with their night feeding habit, explains how extensive damage may occur before it is noticed.

Injured grass has notches chewed along the sides of the blades, which are also eaten back unevenly. The foliage may be almost completely stripped off in patches, and these close-cropped areas soon become yellowish to brownish. The sod webworms also produces fine webs across the surface of the grass where they feed. This webbing can be very obvious in the morning when dew is still present.

Healthy grass not under stress will usually recover from even a large population that exceeds 10 per square foot of sod. Pesticide application is recommended. Several products such as Diazinon, Sevin or Dursban are effective if used properly. When you spray, it is important to apply the insecticide in a large amount of water. If granular materials are used, irrigate lightly with about 1/2 inch of water.

Sod webworms may reinfest the lawn within one to three weeks after treatment. Continue to examine the lawn and retreat as required. For those who have lawn maintenance service, the damage can occur during normal maintenance checks so if webworm damage appears, contact the pest control service.

All Extension Programs are open to anyone regardless of race, color, sex or national origin.

Young Women Honored For Acteen Participation

The entire Sunday evening service at the First Baptist Church on Sept. 18 was dedicated to honoring three young women from Geneva.

Cathy Corns, Anna Hart and April Long were the recipients of crowns as a result of completing phase one of the Acteen program.

The Acteen Recognition Service was opened by a prayer of dedication by the pastor, the Rev. Larry Sherwood. The candidates attired in formals were presented for the crowning by their fathers, Estel Corns, Paul De Rosa and Harold Long Jr.

Serving as crown bearer for Cathy Corns was Brian Holland; for Anna Hart was Scotty Baumer; and for April Long was Sammy Hanna.

Others participating in the dedication and recognition service were Mr. and Mrs. Scott Baumer, music directors; Mrs. Joseph E. (Liz) Mathieux, flowers; Mrs. Betty Moran, mistress of ceremonies; Lois Long, Acteen Director; and youth workers Libby Long, Janet Burkett and Patti Holland.

The Seminole Baptist Association WMU director Mrs. Patay Hardy was the guest speaker.

Following the formal candlelight ceremony that followed the theme, Flowers In His Garden, Cathy, Anna and April were received at a reception in fellowship hall. Refreshments of cake, punch, nuts and mints were served.

Also given recognition Sunday evening for completing adventures one and two in the GA's was Elizabeth Brown who recently moved to Geneva from Union Park.

There was a good turnout at the recent meeting of the Geneva Citizens Association as approximately 40 residents of Geneva posed questions and concerns about Geneva's unpaved roads.

Don Crabtree, pastor of the Church of God, prepared a paper which pointed out that within 17 years Florida is projected to be first in the nation for population. Also, often emergency vehicles such as police, fire department and ambulances cannot gain access to homes in Geneva when the roads are unpaved due to poor drainage and other maintenance problems.

A preliminary survey conducted by a Geneva citizen, according to the president of the citizens group, Arnold Gottlieb, shows that hundreds of cars are using Lake Harney Road during peak business hours.

Road Superintendent Schuder and County commissioner Bill Kirchhoff are expected to attend the next meeting of the association on Oct. 3.

The first meeting of the Parent Teacher Organization of the Geneva Elementary School will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 27 in the media center.

The entire community of Geneva is invited to take advantage of a special package of portraits offered that day, too. A photographer will be available from 5 to 9 p.m. to take family or individual pictures. A $5 deposit will be required when the pictures are shot and the studio guarantees that proofs and finished pictures will be available in time for Christmas giving.

Mr. W.B. (Hank) Heath of Geneva underwent recent surgery Wednesday for removal of a kidney. Mrs. Heath reports that her husband is progressing satisfactorily.

Mr. Heath's surgery this week is the second he has had within six weeks. On Aug. 8, he had kidney stones removed.

When you've been a resident of a community as long as Hank has Geneva, you know a lot of friends are praying for a speedy recovery.

Mom's Model Son Can Go Straight To The Top

DEAR ABBY: My good-looking, 19-year-old son, "John," was encouraged to go to modeling school here in our city. Upon graduating he was accepted by a well-known modeling agency in New York.

My husband and I have been warned by someone in the fashion industry that most of the men in the modeling profession are homosexual. Since John expects to go to New York in a few months, do you or any of your readers have any advice for him other than to "forget it?" Do you think he can make it in that profession without being compromised or intimidated when he makes it plain that he is heterosexual?

Is a young man's sexual preference formed by this age, or is a man always vulnerable to try anything?

CONCERNED MOM

DEAR MOM: I have no advice for "John," since he has asked for none. But I have some for you, Mom: If your son is heterosexual, you need not worry about the possibility of his being "compromised or intimidated" by homosexuals in the modeling/fashion profession; his sexual orientation — not "preference" — will have

And whether a man (or woman) is always vulnerable to "try anything" depends on the man or woman.

DER ABBY: I am a widow of 70. My husband and I raised all our children with the same amount of love and understanding, but the only one who has shown any love and caring for me is our youngest. If my husband knew how the other children ignore me, he would turn over in his grave.

Abby, the youngest telephones me every evening to chat for at least half an hour and visits me often. The others I rarely hear from (unless they want something), and if I want to know how they — or their children — are, I have to do the calling. We are on friendly terms, but it is apparent that they couldn't care less if I were dead or alive. Of course if I invite them for dinner, they ate all here to put their feet under my table and fill up. But they never invite me.

The big question: Do I treat them all alike in my will? My husband left me everything. I am thinking very strongly of leaving my estate to the one who deserves it.

If I tell the others now, they will probably treat me nicer only for the money, which is as empty as an upside-down bucket. That kind of "love" I don't need. What do you say, Abby?

HEARTBROKEN MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Where is it written that children should automatically get what their parents have worked and saved for? Tell your lawyer how you feel. Do exactly as you please, and surprise your heirs.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Killing Bacteria Can Cure Bad Breath

DEAR DR. LAMB - I wanted to share my problem with bad breath with you. Several years ago I developed this condition and was exceedingly distressed.

in the nasal passages usually requires antibiotic treatment. You are fortunate that yours seems to respond so quickly and completely.

DEAR READER - Your repeated success with Bacitracin ointment argues strongly for its good effects on your bad breath.

One of the ways a person develops bad breath is from bacteria. You can't see them and they may not cause any symptoms but they are there.

You will have a better understanding of how complex the bad breath condition can be after reading The Health Letter 9-4, Halitosis: The Breath Problem and What to Do About It, which I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I need to know as soon as possible if a man with just one testicle can father a child.

DEAR READER - It depends entirely on the state of that one testicle. If it is normal there is no reason at all that he can't produce adequate amounts of sperm and father a child.

Bacteria living in the nasal passages can be a cause of bad breath. The nasal passages are not the sinuses so there is nothing to see on sinus X-rays either.

Bacteria form chemicals that cause the odor. That is how sleeping with your mouth open results in bad breath.

You may be interested to know that a few years ago a man without functional testicles received a transplant of one testicle from his identical twin.

After recovery from the testicular transplant his wife got pregnant and he subsequently became a proud father.

Now, in case others get enthused about testicular transplants, I must point out that it was possible in this case because the two men were identical twins.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Bridge hand layout showing North, South, West, and East cards and dealer information.

had made a surprise lead from K-J-x and there was a chance to collect a lot of tricks and a top score.

Then he wondered why a heart had not been opened. No one had bid hearts and North's three-club call had indicated a probable five-card suit.

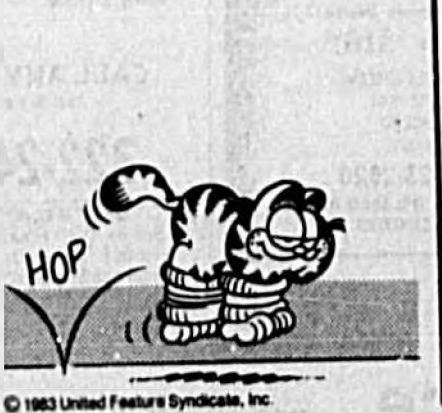

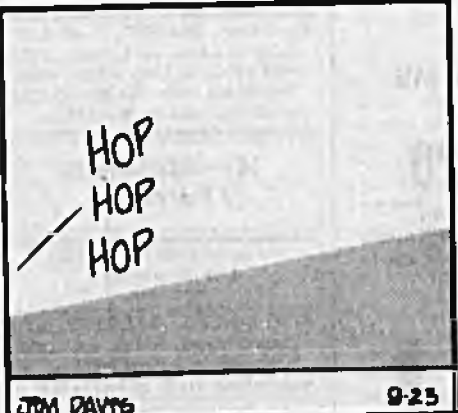

Omar went a step further and saw that with East holding the club king, there was a good chance that three no-trump would go down at other tables.

Now Omar made sure of nine. He rose with dummy's ace of clubs and led a club toward his 10.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby Omar Sharif looked at the jack of clubs lead.

Note that if Omar had finessed the club queen, East would have taken his king and might have led back a heart.

High school seniors, having attained that lofty status after years of sweat and study, are accorded certain privileges by most schools — going off campus for lunch, first shot at choice classes, larger lockers, etc. But Seminole High School is unique in giving its seniors the privilege of painting just about whatever they please on parking spaces in the seniors-only lot. Students do the work on their own time and at their own expense with no control from school officials. Some students prefer a musical theme such as a Beatles and The Who fan (top left). School colors are a favorite in some designs (top right), while the surfer (bottom right) extols the virtues of the Pirates Pipeline.

It's Tradition -- SHS Seniors Add Personal Touches To Parking Spots

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

It's a senior privilege, cherished even more than being allowed to leave campus for lunch, and it's unique among the high schools in Seminole County.

It's a privilege that can be costly and involve hours of labor in the hot, August sun.

And it's something that the students at Seminole High School look forward to all their years as lower classmen — the choosing of their own parking spots in the area reserved for seniors between the administration building and the gymnasium and the privilege of painting and decorating those spaces in any way they see fit.

The area which has about 75 parking places is ablaze with color, but a marked preference for black and orange, the school's colors, is apparent. Some take the time and effort to paint pictures, to depict one of the 'Fighting Seminoles' athletic teams; to flaunt the names of the service clubs of which they are members, the rock groups that are their favorites or symbols of the zodiac.

"Someone, probably a student, came up with the idea about five years ago," says Wayne Epps, school principal.

The seniors aren't officially assigned specific parking spots by the school administration, he says. It is merely noted that the area between the administration buildings and the gymnasium is reserved for seniors.

The students, with no official formula, choose their individual spaces and "it's an unwritten law that no one parks in another's parking space. If someone violates the rule, the students handle the situation themselves," Epps says, adding that he never gets involved.

"Only the seniors can paint their parking spaces. No one else can paint any other place at the school," he said.

What the seniors paint on their spots is left strictly up to them. "They know it has to be in good taste and I've never had to censure anyone on what was put on a space," Epps said.

The tradition got its start about five years ago with seniors painting just the curb of their parking space, but in the past couple years a number have painted their entire spot.

These Picassos of the pavement do the work on their own time with their own paint. The spaces are usually painted just before the beginning of the school year in August.

"It kind of starts off the new school year, adds a lot to the class spirit and class unity," Epps said.

Tracy McNeill, a Seminole senior, painted her entire spot white with her name in orange, trimmed in black. Also listed on her spot are the clubs she belongs to.

"I got the outside kind of paint. It cost about $13 a gallon. I used two gallons of white, and two little cans of orange and black," she said.

To complete the job took five or six hours, Tracy said.

"Others don't usually park in your place unless there is no other to park in. If they do, you can ask them to leave and they usually do," she said.

And, "nobody writes dirty stuff in the parking places. I guess they would be too embarrassed. We don't do things like that at Seminole," Tracy said.

The 75 parking spaces are probably enough for the seniors who have cars, Tracy said, adding that if someone defaces a parking space, the one to whom it belongs just paints it again.

Tisha Tipton also painted her parking space all white as a background for her message.

"I painted my name in orange on the curb and a big 84, varsity rah, rah, Keyettes and different clubs I'm in," she said.

It took her about 15 hours. "I painted it once and it started raining and washed away so I had to paint it white again.

"Someone splined out his car on my space and someone wrote ha ha on it. But we found out it was some juniors and they painted it again," Tisha said.

"Painting ones own parking space is a big thing about becoming a senior. I love it," she said.

Minority Leaders Criticize New Season

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Black and Hispanic leaders are angry about the new television lineup this fall and accused the television industry of presenting the public with "negative images of people of color."

Minority leaders told a House Energy and Commerce subcommittee this week that there is a disproportionately small number of blacks, Hispanics and other minorities in starring roles, production and management jobs and ownership of broadcast stations.

"You can hardly walk down the street in Dallas and avoid seeing a Hispanic. But in Dallas (the TV show), we're lucky if we're a maid. We're not even a ranch hand," said Arnaldo Torres of the League of United Latin American Citizens.

Many complained about the image of minorities painted by prime time television shows.

"When all you see is Mr. T and no real comprehensive projection of ... minority lifestyle, that's a problem," said Rep. Mickey Leland, D-Texas, referring to the muscle-bound black character in The A-Team who is famous for his mohawk haircut.

"I am concerned whether the character he portrays is the best possible role model for children," Leland, who is black, said in opening the hearing on minorities and the media.

The sharp words were prompted by proposals to deregulate the broadcast industry.

In general, spokesmen advised the subcommittee against total deregulation of the broadcast industry and argued that stations, studios and networks should be held accountable for their records on hiring and public interest and minority programming.

Black actor and producer Sidney Poitier called for an investigation into what he alleged is a "conspiracy ... among the producers, networks and studios to exclude minorities from fair and meaningful participation in motion pictures and TV programming."

Homosexual Artists Honor Television Portrayals Of Gays

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television's new role in portraying homosexuals was the inspiration for a star-studded awards ceremony honoring the TV series Cheers, Dynasty and Gimme A Break for their realistic depictions of gays.

Robert Preston, nominated for an Oscar this year for his portrayal of an aging homosexual in Victor/Victoria, and Rita Moreno, who was a bathhouse entertainer in The Ritz, hosted the third annual Alliance for Gay Artists awards program Monday night at the Huntington Hartford Theater.

The Fifth of July, a PBS and Showtime movie of Lanford Wilson's play about several people recalling their experiences in the 1960s, won three awards — for the production, for Richard Thomas' portrayal of a gay handicapped man and for Jeff Daniels' performance as Thomas' lover.

Josh Schlowitz, co-producer of the ceremony, said the alliance tried to recognize "fair portrayals of gays in the media" and encourage wider treatment of homosexual issues.

"What's nice is that now gay characters are gay in movies and TV but their gayness is incidental to the plot," he said.

"They're what we call the also-happens-to-be-gay characters.

Their sexual preference doesn't determine their character. They're regular people. There is a great spectrum of gay lifestyles. We love to see the variety represented."

The ABC series Dynasty was honored for its depiction of Steven Carrington, the homosexual son of an oil magnate.

The NBC series Cheers was cited for the episode titled The Boys in the Bar in which the bartender risks alienating his regular clientele by making gay customers feel at home.

The series Gimme A Break, also on NBC, was honored for the episode titled The Chief's Gay Evening, portraying the police chief's struggle when he learns a colleague is a homosexual.

Lianna, a movie about a married woman who falls in love with a female professor, and Take Your Best Shot, a TV movie about a troubled actor who gains stability and insight from a gay ex-actor he befriends, were honored for balanced depictions of homosexuals.

Linda Griffiths and Jane Hallaren were also honored for their leading roles in Lianna and Jeffrey Tambor for his portrayal of the actor in Take Your Best Shot.

The Phil Donahue talk show was also given a plaque honoring its fairhanded forum for gay guests.

'Manimal' Makes Debut

New York police consultant Jonathan Chase has found a unique way to fight crime. This is the premise of NBC's new Friday night series "Manimal," to debut with a 90-minute episode on Sept. 30.

Simon MacCorkindale plays Professor Chase, but you won't always recognize him. He has been experimenting with transformation and this has led to the biggest secret in crime fighting since someone found that silly red and blue uniform in Clark Kent's closet. Chase can change himself into a variety of animals and that's how he helps detective Brooke McKenzie (Melody Anderson) fight crime in the Big Apple. This show ought to be funnier than a barrel of monkeys.

Nancy & Grace

First Lady Nancy Reagan is on hand when "Great Performances" returns on Monday, Sept. 26. She will be part of a musical tribute to the former First Lady of Monaco, in "Princess Grace Remembered." The National Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Mstislav Rostropovich, will be part of the 90-minute presentation taped at a benefit concert last March.

Second Generation Carrying Out Family Tradition At Carlo's Restaurant (Pizzeria)

Entering Carlo's Restaurant is like stepping back into tradition. Paul Balo is a second generation owner-operator of this Italian restaurant located eight years at its 1008 South French Avenue, Sanford, address.

Although steeped in his family's tradition of fine Italian cooking, Paul has picked up a few "trade secrets" as a chef in New York City. His special touches are notable in the many dishes all of which are begun with quality imported foods, oils and seasonings.

The delicacy of the recipes is detectable to the diner's nose as he awaits arrival of his order in the cozy, red-checked atmosphere of the restaurant.

For a 52-seat restaurant, Carlo's menu is lengthy. If your taste runs to veal, whether it be scallopini or parmigiana, you can count on a fresh, select cut of meat properly prepared in a special breading and served with tender cooked peppers and mushrooms. Imported wines bring truth to the flavors.

A blend of three cheeses produces the creamy sauce Alfredo for fettuccini, which, with salad and garlic bread calls for a $7.50 tab.

Paul's antipasto is a combination of Italian spiced meats, provolone cheese, green and black olives on a bed of lettuce with just the right seasoning and the house Italian or another choice dressing.

Carlo's New York style pizza has a thin, crisp crust that is moist. The special sauce is topped with whole milk mozzarella and a choice of garnishes. The restaurant offers both round and the square Sicilian pizzas.

Paul's wife, Debbie, will greet you at the door Monday through Friday beginning at 11 with a choice from six lunch specials and in the evening until 10 through the week and 11 on Fridays. Dinners start at $3.65.
