Trammell Claims BONUS BILL 'Special Interests' Is REJECTED Are Behind Pepper BY SENATE

Senator Says He Has Been Informed That Group Already Has Paid Out $100,000

TAMPA, June 12.—Senator Park Trammell, speaking over the radio from the Hillsboro Hotel last night, said he was "reliably informed" that his opponent, Claude Pepper, represented special interests which already had spent $100,000 in his campaign.

"Claude Pepper has gone from one end of this state to the other," Trammell said, "telling me and my record in attempting to mislead the people with vicious and false statements."

"Now about my opponent. The special interests, I am informed, have created a slush fund for his campaign and have already spent, by a conservative estimate, $100,000 in an effort to elect him to the United States Senate. He has charged I have never offended special interests and I charge that is simply an outrage to mislead the people to the belief that he himself does not represent them."

"If the voters of Florida will just think back they will realize he was a lobbyist for the special interests while he was in the Legislature."

Trammell said he had been fought by the shipbuilding interests because of his effort to put dry docks in Tampa, and a ship building plant at Port Boca.

"As chairman of the Senate Naval Committee and Affairs Committee I have offended ship

Valuable Papers Are Salvaged From Plane

LIVINGSTON MANOR, N. Y., June 12. (AP)—The grand jury plane which carried seven persons to their deaths on the rugged peaks of Mongongo Mountain near here, carried valuable valuable papers which were salvaged.

Dr. V. G. Burke, Sullivan County coroner, disclosed the fact that the papers were found aboard a boat which had today with permission for an inspection to determine the cause of the disaster.

He said the papers had been in the possession of William Baker of Buffalo, one of the crash victims.

Dr. Burke said that strong representations were made today by Seminole Solvent Company, employer of Baker, for possession of the papers, but the request had been refused pending the inspection tomorrow.

Carolina Bank Thieves Believed Arrested

KENANSVILLE, N. C., June 12. (AP)—Two heavily armed men, found asleep in woods near here, were captured today by officers who charged them with participating in Saturday's holdup of the Bank of Magnolia in which two men were wounded.

Officers, acting on a tip, found the sleeping men with $800 is believed to be part of the $850 the bandits carried as they shot their way out of the bank through a ring of blazing guns in the hands of Magnolia residents.

Awakened the two suspects went for their guns but found themselves covered, and surrendered without resistance.

Trade Body Directors To Meet Tuesday Night

The June meeting of the Board of Directors of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Yacht Club building on the lake front in Sanford at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening and a full meeting is anticipated to transact the business of the organization. All members of the organization, whether members of the Board of Directors or not, President Vice-president B. F. Haines will preside in the absence of President H. M. Papworth, who is vacationing at Daytona Beach.

Graves-Dixon Fight For Governorship Center Of Interest

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., June 12. (AP)—Alabama Gov. Frank M. Triplett, two congressmen, all three of legislative and other officials as the climax to the annual general political show.

Six weeks ago it was clear to names were on the board but the first primary election to a majority of candidates whose names were coming to the top. Two names for each party advanced.

With the usual political maneuvering, Triplett, a Democrat, was successful in getting his name on the ballot, but the other two candidates, John W. Graves, a Democrat, and George H. Dixon, a Republican, were left off.

Both men are sons of former governors.

ADDING INSULT TO INJURY

When I drive out to take the air
I hear a brass blast,
And up and down the thoroughfares
A motor truck roars past.
I wildly veer from left to right,
And, while the wheel I clutch,
I mutter, with a gasp of fright,
"He missed me; but not much."

These monsters of the highway roar

Like dragons gone insane,
Across the hills, beside the shore,
Along the winding lane.
Whenever a shrill siren hoots
Behind me on a bus,
My hair arises from its roots,
My heart leaps—and stands still.

And now, I'm told, a builder plans
To augment motor power,

And step up lorries, trucks and vans

To eighty miles an hour,
So they will bear still heavier loads,

And, in the time of need,
Can cannonball along the roads
At locomotive speed.

As well extend the eagle's claws
When swooping on his prey;

Or give the tiger keener jaws.

The timid deer to stay.

Why still increase our many fears?"

I murmur with a moan,
Why can't those pesky engineers
Let bad enough alone?"

Yamamoto Konoye. No, and the average man wouldn't rock Prime Carter on the button either.

Others seem to see the result of the recent senatorial primary much as we do. Says the Orlando Reporter-Star, which took no part in the first campaign. "Apparently the voters of Florida have turned thumbs down on Park Trammell as U. S. Senator. It will be impossible for him to defeat Pepper in the run-off."

They don't seem to have any trouble in killing John Dillinger's lieutenants, but they don't seem to be able to get the big boy himself.
He may be like that general during the war who encouraged his men,
"Give 'em hell boys. But when you can't hold 'em any longer, retreat.
I'm lame so I'll start on now."

Another American family is going abroad to avoid the risks of kidnapping. Horace E. Dodge who has been keeping a bodyguard of strong arm men around his family for the past year, left for Europe
the other day, taking his children to a place where he said "they would be safe." Thus he joins C. P.
Cord and others who are afraid to live in this country because of kidnappers. And America suffers from the loss of their business.

We have to admire the attitude of young Governor McNutt of Indiana who refuses to dicker with John Dillinger or other bandits in order to get them to "lay off" the public. It had been suggested to the court if he would surrender. It doesn't help maintain respect for the law and put the rest of the government into the hands of other criminals. If our governing officials have to make a trade in order to capture such parades as Dillinger,

Social Insurance

In a message to Congress last week President Roosevelt outlined his plan for a three-fold attack upon the problems of human security. Insisting that the individual and his family are entitled to decent homes to live in, a place to work, and adequate safeguards against the misfortunes of sickness, old age, and unemployment, President Roosevelt declared that he regarded as the principal objective of his Administration the security of the men, women, and children of this country.

The problem is tremendous and not one at all which can be provided for through hastily enacted legislation. The President has wisely decided to postpone legislation of this nature until next winter, allowing plenty of opportunity in the meantime for careful study and planning so as to avoid the pitfalls which so often beset social legislation. Briefly, however, his plan embraces unemployment insurance, and old age insurance, not through taxation, but rather by means of voluntary contributions administered by the national government.

Under our old system, men were supposed to provide for rainy days by saving. Everyone recognized that sooner or later he might be unemployed, his business might fail, he might fall ill, and certainly he would grow old. To provide for these exigencies of life, he was supposed to lay aside small sums from his wages or profits to take care of him and his family when reverses came. Prudent men did this.

But in the case of many a man, these savings were dissipated by agents who make a business of handling other people's money. The risks of burglary were too great to permit a sensible person to hide his savings in a coffee can in the pantry. He put them in the bank, or invested them in bonds, or other securities, which he had every reason to believe could be readily disposed of when he wanted his money back. Then the banks failed, or the bonds were defaulted.

When the rainy day came, as it did to millions of Americans during the past few years, those who had raked and scraped a few pennies together every week out of their meager incomes and had laid them aside for future use, found themselves no better off than if they had spent their money in riotous living. They were forced in many cases to accept the charity of their friends, or go on the relief rolls provided by a generous government.

Obviously the social insurance plan sponsored by President Roosevelt will present the same risks of faulty administration, the same dangers of misappropriation. Billions of dollars will be accumulated, if the plan is to cover all of those who may need it, and it will become incumbent upon some board or commission to see that the money raised is held in trust for those for whom it is intended, that it is wisely invested, and is readily available when needed.

The temptations of such a board to use so large a fund for political purposes, to finance questionable projects in doubtful states, to pilfer and squander in a manner natural to political racketeers will be great. The same evils which befell the savings of the past decade may befall those of the next. And the public indignation over the dissipation of insurance funds by a governmental agency would doubtless be so explosive as to shake the foundations of the country.

Yet without a doubt something of this nature has got to be tried. The old system did not work. It brought only suffering and starvation to millions of people. The new system will work, if it is honestly and efficiently operated. If it does work, it will eliminate from the ordeal of mankind the destitution of old age and the harassing fears of unemployment. But the constant vigilance of the people will be necessary to see that their rights are protected, not for this year and next, but throughout the years that follow.

Salad Days

June, the month of romance and roses, is also the month of salads and mayonnaise, according to the United States News. "In June of 1933, for instance, a salad conscious citizenry caused the production of 3,120,053 gallons of mayonnaise; 578,423 gallons more than for May and 352,764 more than for July. The figures come from the Bureau of Domestic and Foreign Commerce of the Commerce Department, which has been making a survey of mayonnaise, salad dressing and allied appetite ticklers," the News declares.

"At that, however, more salad dressing than mayonnaise was produced because for some reason salad dressing became so popular that in 1933 its production constituted 54 percent of sausages of this kind, whereas in 1930 it constituted only 18 percent. For 1933, the production of salad dressing was 12,828,475 gallons; of mayonnaise, 8,174,000 gallons; of sandwich spreads, 1,979,511 gallons; and of Thousand Islands French and other dressings, 766,757 gallons."

In other words, the year 1933, which saw an 8.3 increased production in salad dressings, brought forth 23,748,768 gallons of them. This means that about every fifth person in the United States consumed roughly a gallon, unless of course somebody exceeded his quota.

But while in 1933 the production of salad dressing was greater than that of mayonnaise, the value of the mayonnaise was more than $1,300,000 greater than the value of the dressing. The mayonnaise was worth $11,486,528; the salad dressing, $10,149,233. Sandwich spreads were runners-up with a total value of $2,224,293.

ADDING UP THE PRIMARY TALLAHASSEE DEMOCRAT

Returns from 66 of the 67 Hamilton, Hardee, Hendry, Jackson, Lafayette, Lake, Leon, Liberty, Levy, Madison, Marion, Martin, Monroe, Nassau, Okaloosa, Orange, Osceola, Santa Rosa, Sarasota, Sumter, Suwannee, Taylor, Union, Wakulla and Washington, a total of 38.

We find that Escambia, the most westerly county in northern Florida, was carried by Park Trammell of Lakeland, in southern Florida, while Monroe county, the most southerly county in Florida, or in the United States, for that matter, went strongly for Claude Pepper of Tallahassee. These instances alone might be regarded as flukes were it not for the fact that Trammell carried several counties in middle and northern Florida while many southern Florida counties went for Pepper.

Counties situated side by side and closely connected, divided, one for Pepper and one for Trammell. It is noteworthy that each of the top four candidates in the campaign carried his home county. Claude Pepper carried not only Leon, where he now resides, but Taylor county where he lived for some years before moving here. Park Trammell carried his home county, Polk, Charlie Mitchell his home county, Indian River, and James Sikes his home county, Pinellas. In addition to Indian River, Charlie Mitchell carried Walton and Sikes picked up Collier as well as Pinellas.

With less than 100 precincts out, indications were that Pepper had carried Baker, Bay, Bradford, Calhoun, Citrus, Clay, Duval, Franklin, Gadsden, Glades, Gilchrist, Gulf, of trial by jury, the writ of habeas corpus and naturally they will control the courts.

"And down the other fork of the road, what is the prospect? Behind the politician. So long as he is, what he is, and what he must be under the democracy as it is, an average man, keen to please an average electorate, government will be what it is.

"We find too often after the ballots are counted, we have picked the right fork of the road, we naming plutocracy, down the Americans are seriously considering handing over either to draconian regulation, stringent control, or actual ownership the vast complex, inherently intricate machinery of finance and commerce to whom?" Well to our American politicians who in their better moments are statesmen, but in times of crisis too often turn demagogues. The prospect is apalling. With all the power that must come to men in government when these part hunting politicians assume the added function of industry and banking, what then will become of liberty?

"The most dangerous enemy of democracy today is a man with a rigid plan either for recovery or for reconstruction. For a man with a rigid plan is liable to feel that the adoption of his plan is more important than the retention of liberties which may endanger it. Therefore give honest consideration to any plan that in its ad-

"You of all the classes who have come out of our colleges with eager eyes and shining countenances, must face the fact that you are confronting a new thing in the world, the first definite challenge to democracy," he said. "Liberty, for a thousand years, has been as sacred as the god of humanity. Now men say not merely by the millions, nor in limited hundreds of millions, not in nomadic but in vast majorities, half a billion east of the Rhine, say democracy is dead, liberty is a mockery.

"Why bother with free speech, they cry, when the drums and guns brook no reply? Why waste money on the ballot box, proclaim the tyrants, Mussolini, Stalin, Hitler, and their kind, when authoritative government goes to its purpose as an arrow from the bow? So speak the new despots of the modern world at the bier of democracy.

"Down one fork of the road we see looming before us a potential plutocracy embattled as an army with banners. Here stand those who control the machinery of the machine age. They are not necessarily owners. They represent on the whole merely a dominant minority, small groups of stockholders. But they are entrenched. They have possession of the machine, the super-bombs, the giant forges, the rails, the pipes, the wires, the flickering airways through the night that span the continent. They control the mines and the production of all basic commodities. They would rule us under the altruistic despotism of a financial fascism. To maintain its reign sooner or later that fascism will have to cramp our liberty, shut off free utterance in the forum, on the air, from the press. Moreover in the guise of suppressing demagogues and agitators, this despotism of unchecked capitalism will have to curtail the rights
