The second Blood Donor Day for Old Glory Community Blood Bank will be held at the American Legion Home on Highway 1, near Prairie Lake, on Tuesday, May 12 from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m.

This Blood Bank is sponsored by the following organizations: American Legion Post 183, American Legion Auxiliary Post 183, Lyman P.T.A., Altamonte Civic Club, Altamonte Springs Volunteer Fire Department Inc., Longwood Civic League, The Woman's Missionary Society of the Longwood Baptist Church, the Woman's Auxiliary of the Christ Episcopal Church, Longwood, the Longwood Tourist Club, and was established for the members of these organizations, their families, and residents of Longwood, Altamonte Springs, Fern Park, Forest City and Bear Lake.

Mrs. Bailey recommends wild flowers as a hobby on many fronts. She said that, requiring only appreciation and an eye for beauty and the unusual in Florida wild flowers, they may be seen at their best in countrywide and parks, but they may also be found in empty-city lots and even in the back yard.

Jack Morrison To Get Dental Degree In June At Emory

ATLANTA, Ga. (Special)—Jack C. Morrison, son of the late Charles S. Morrison of Sanford, is something new in college graduates.

He is among the first students to receive a degree through the Southern Regional Education Program. He will take his degree in dentistry from Emory University in Atlanta this spring.

He has one of the quota of places which Florida yearly reserves at Emory through the Southern Regional Education Board. The class of '53 is the first four-year class to graduate under the interstate arrangement.

Florida's regional education program provides for 60 students taking dentistry at Emory at a total cost of $20,000 annually.

Florida contracts with the Southern Regional Education Board to send a yearly quota of students to Emory. If the students meet the University's admission standards, they are accepted and Florida pays Emory $1,600 a year per student. The students pay their own tuition but do not pay out-of-state fees.

This enables Florida to provide dental training at much less expense than it would take to build and support a medical college.

W. F. Powers, secretary, Board of Control of Florida Institutions of Higher Learning, Tallahassee, is the state control officer for all regional programs, which also include medicine, veterinary medicine and social work.

Proposed.

Up until 1941, the road board members served staggered terms although it long had been a custom for incoming governors to ask and get resignations of holdover members.

The 1941 Legislature made terms of the road board members and several other major appointive officers coincide with that of the governor at the request of Gov. Spessard L. Holland, who complained he was unable to organize an administration to carry out his program because some appointive officers of Gov. Fred P. Cone refused to quit. One of them was the Cone road chairman.

A bill to impose a prison term or fine on both an anyone attempting to influence the outcome of an athletic contest with a bribe was introduced in the House today by a Judiciary committee.

The measure also would penalize any athlete who solicited or accepted a bribe. The maximum penalty would be a 10-year sentence or fine of $10,000 or both.

It would be illegal knowingly to permit vicious animals to run at large in Florida under a measure proposed in the House by the Judiciary Criminal Committee.

Permitting such an animal to run at large would be punishable by up to six months imprisonment or a fine of $500. If the animal injured a person or another animal the penalty could be increased to a year in jail or a $2,000 fine.

The House Judiciary Criminal Committee also proposed allowing state attorneys to appoint their assistants. Assistant state attorneys now are appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate.

A bill to define as murder any killing committed during a kidnapping or crime against nature was likewise introduced by the

Plans Are Made To Revive St. Johns Trail Association

Plans to revive the St. Johns River Trail Association, defunct for the past few years, were outlined yesterday at a meeting of representative officials who convened at the City Hall.

It was agreed that past name of the association will probably be dropped in favor of having it called by the highway route number which it is promoting, U. S. 17-92.

Lester Bush of Palatka, association president, appointed H. Stuart Johnson, manager of Greater Orlando Chamber of Commerce, chairman of a committee to arrange a meeting with officials of the Highway 44 group which operates south of Orlando to Miami.

Mr. Johnson said the meeting will be held in Orlando, probably late in May. Other members of the committee are John Dillio, public relations director for Ponce de Leon Springs and F. V. Oliver, vice-chairman of the highway committee for the C of C in Palatka.

Also, F. E. Breckenridge, manager of the Seminole County C of C; George C. Miller Sr., secretary of the chamber in Crescent City; and Gerald Frierson, chairman of the chamber's highway committee in Deland.

It was also decided that the association should employ an experienced person to direct promotion and publishing of the arterial route from Jacksonville through Central Florida.

Among other topics discussed at yesterday's meeting were newspaper advertising in south Florida to direct motorists along highway 17-92, financial support from such an advertising firm, which will gain from promotion of the route and printing of new strip maps.

Election of officers was postponed until after the joint session with the Florida 44 members. Mr. Bush, who is secretary of the Palatka C of C, will continue as chairman. Secretary is Mrs. A. Howard Franklin, Jr., publicity director for Greater Orlando C of C.

Judiciary Committee

Killings committed during rapes, robberies, burglaries or arson attempts already are defined as murder under state law.

The House also passed unanimously and sent to the Senate a constitutional amendment proposal which would allow the voters to decide whether to accept any revision state constitution.

Under the plan, after all requirements for rewriting the state constitution had been met, the voters would have a chance to say whether or not they liked the final draft. All the voters have to do at present is indicate whether they want the Constitution rewritten.

A rival plan to Gov. McCarty's proposal to have the secretary of state serve as acting governor in the event of a governor's death or resignation went before the House.

A lieutenant governor was proposed by three members. A person seeking to be lieutenant governor would run on the same ticket with the gubernatorial candidate and the two would be voted on as one candidate.

McCarty's idea on succession has not yet been put into bill form.

Twenty-three House members introduced a bill stripping the state beverage director of powers to collect cigarette and liquor taxes and let the state comptroller do it.

In the Senate, a bill backed by the administration passed, making Florida A. and M. College for Negroes a university. It now goes to the House.

have made county school superintendents appointive rather than elective officials; would have abolished school trustees; and would have cut off state aid from kindergartens and new junior colleges. These three measures were sponsored by the Legislative Council.

But approval was given a bill to require legislative approval of any plan to finance new buildings at state-supported institutions of higher learning with self-liquidating certificates and express legislative approval for construction of most new university buildings. Buildings financed by grants or gifts or those built as replacements with insurance money would not need legislative approval.

One committee said it would approve a resolution okaying plans already underway to construct a one million dollar 10-unit dormitory at the University of Florida; a 300,000 dormitory and new dormitory at Florida State University and a $900,000 dormitory at Florida A. and M. College for Negroes.

Committee approval also was given a bill which would require the Board of Control to file a schedule of students' fees with its biennial budget requests and make no increases during the two-year period.

A proposal to permit the Board to employ an educational consultant also won committee approval. He would check the needs of the university and their compliance with the Board's educational policies.

A bill which would have made the state superintendent of schools a member of the Board of Control was rejected in committee.

Gov. McCarty's recommendation that farmers and commercial fishermen be exempt from five cents of the seven-cent gasoline tax on gasoline used exclusively in farming and fishing operations advanced a step when the Senate approved bills by Sen. Floyd Applewhite, but with a $500,000 annual ceiling on refunds suggested by State Road Department Chairman Richard Simpson.

Sen. Pearce, Palatka, who described himself as the only senator who earned his livelihood exclusively from farming, opposed the bill, terming it discriminatory, open to abuse and possibly the opening wedge for a flood of tax exemptions.

Hagerty's statement was in reply to queries about a letter sent the President by 25 senators who oppose state ownership. The letter asked whether Eisenhower approves of state ownership beyond three miles offshore.

Taft's motion to table the opposition proposals would force an immediate vote, unless sponsors of federal administration withdraw their amendment.

Taft said he "part of dared them to run away" from a test of strength on the issue.

His motion, he said, is designed to obtain "the first vote on the main issue—state vs. federal control."

Elsewhere in Washington a former Labor Department economist, Harry Ober, was summoned before Senate investigators in a probe aimed at showing that Communists infiltrated the government.

In advance of the hearing, officials of the Senate internal security subcommittee said Ober resigned from the labor agency last year and previously had held a number of other federal jobs.

Reported infiltration in the field of education was the target of the Senate investigation. The group has been inquiring into the House Un-American Activities Committee.

The congressional yeas today failed to get replica from Theodore S. Podunium to a number of questions about individuals and about membership in the John Reed Club, an organization of Yale students.

House committees pursuing other objectives were no less active.

Sources close to the House ways and means investigating subcommittee reported Sen. Bridges (R-NH), temporary president of the Senate, may be asked to testify again about a large tax case in which Bridges' name has figured.

The group has been inquiring into affairs of Washington "mystery man" Henry W. Grunwald, who says he's an old friend of the senator.

Bridges told the committee last year he conferred with Revenue Bureau officials about the possibility of lifting a seven million dollar tax assessment against the business assets of Hymah Harvey Klein, former Baltimore liquor dealer. But he said his action was solely in the interest of correcting a possible injustice against a taxpayer—the sort of "typical congressional inquiry which you and every member of Congress are requested to make daily."

Blues In The News

By BOB ANTHONY

Thirteen NAAS men will soon be wearing a third stripe on their uniforms as the result of the Senior, Airman, and Fireman examinations held aboard the station yesterday. Out of 25 men taking the examinations, thirteen came through with flying colors and are now recommended for advancement for their present apprentice rates. The following men are recommended for advancement to the rate indicated: on May 1, Lawson N. Austinson, Kenneth W. Johnson, Airman; Gordon A. Koch, Walter R. Shaw, and Robert A. Stencil, Fireman; Eugene A. Savage, Fireman; Vernon C. Down, Dana Contralman, Fireman; Gerald T. Kerkenbush, Electrician's Mate; Fireman; and Clark D. Yates, Engineerman Fireman.

Recommended for advancement on May 15 are: Frank J. Allan, Louis J. Cascard, Harry R. Cutler, and Darryl C. Nicholson, all to Seaman.

Passing yesterday's exams was an important step in the Naval ladder because those men who are advanced will now be able to fulfill the "time in rate" requirements necessary for them to compete in the next service-wide examinations for advancement to petty officer third class, scheduled for August. Of course other requirements must also be fulfilled before taking a petty officer exam, but most of those men already begun working on them. Congratulations men! Your next step will be third class petty officer.

Members of the NAAS Personnel Office are now making plans for an office picnic to be held Friday afternoon at Rock Springs. George Powell, yeoman first class, is in charge of arrangements and approximately thirty people are expected to attend.

C. M. Whitten, NAAS Chief, announced today that the total proceeds from the recent Benefit Shipments total $107.00. He estimated the attendance for the evening at 420 persons and said he was pleased to see so many navy and civilian people support the worthy cause. The $107.00, which is the amount cleared after all expenses, will be put into the NAAS Fireman's Operation Trust fund to be used only for buying toys for underprivileged children in the community at Christmas time.

Four NAAS men have left the station on leave, but only one will be spending his leave outside the state of Florida. Noel A. Atherton, airman, will travel to Philadelphia, Pa. to spend about ten days with his family and friends while William D. Deal, electrician's mate second class, Thomas R. Frostwood, parachute rigging second class, and Leland B. Volynator, aviation electronicsman third class, are all planning to spend their leave right here in the Sunshine State. Leland will be at home with his family in Miami. Bill will be at his Sanford residence at 104 West Tenth Street for about eight

West side farmers of Sanford got the good news that Commissioner Meese was authorizing the County equipment for cleaning the Smith ditch. Recent heavy rains have resulted in heavy crop losses because of poor drainage from fields.
