

Some May Pay More County Tax Bills Out Today

By JOE ASKREN
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County taxpayers may receive their 1975 tax bills in time for Halloween, Mrs. Sally Lipsey, assistant tax collector, said today.

No tricks, and the only "treat" involved, Mrs. Lipsey said, is no increase in taxes unless a property owner's assessed valuation went up 30 per cent or more.

"If a person's reappraisal increase of his property was 30 per cent or less, there is no increase in taxes," said Mrs. Lipsey.

Tax bills are being put in the mail today, she said.

Mrs. Lipsey said 62,283 bills on property valued at $1.4 billion are being mailed. She said the office of Tax Collector Tray Ray should receive some $23,653,350.30 from taxpayers this year, considering the discount schedule for early payment.

She explained that taxpayers will receive a four per cent discount on their taxes if they mail in their payment before the end of November, a three per cent discount if they return it before the end of December, a two per cent discount if they return it before the end of January, and one per cent discount if they pay the bill before the end of February.

"We go by the postmark on the envelopes to determine the discount," said Mrs. Lipsey. The full amount is due in March and taxes become delinquent April 1, she said.

The biggest slice of revenue goes to the county school system. County taxes range from a low of $14 for each $1,000 worth of property — $8.60 to the school system and $5.40 for county operation — to a high of $20.33 per $1,000 worth of property.

The difference depends on where you live in the county, and taxpayers in Sanford pay an additional $6.33 for each $1,000 worth of property, she explained. Your taxes will be higher than the base rate if you live within one or more special taxing districts, such as a fire or street lighting district.

Residents in the county's six municipalities will also receive their city tax bills along with the county bills. A breakdown of where a person's taxes go will be included in the bill, she said.

Mrs. Lipsey also said 21,300 notices with tax breakdowns are being mailed to property owners who hold their own mortgages. Those who haven't received their tax bills by Nov. 15 should contact Ray's office.

County Action Awaited

Action approving cost figures and updated reports submitted on two proposed sidewalks needed for Idylwild and Pincrest Elementary school children is now up to the Seminole County Commission, two county officials said today.

County Public Works Director Robert Andrew said the next step regarding the $2,100 county share for sidewalk construction on S.R. 46A from Larkwood Drive to Whiten Road for Idylwild pupils is up to Commission Chairman Sid Vihlen Jr., "to bring it before the board next Tuesday."

Sanford City Commission approved its $1,950 share Monday.

Andrew said he also gave a status report for a sidewalk on 27th Street between U.S. 17-92 and Sanford Ave. for Pincrest pupils, to Vihlen as requested, but has received no direction.

County Engineer Bill Bush said "the county has all the figures" on the 27th Street project. He said the city's share for labor and materials on the 250 foot portion would be about $1,000.

Bush said the county's share for materials for the 550 foot section would be about $2,000, plus labor.

Bush said the county already spent about $10,000 for condemnation proceedings for right-of-way from Sanford Avenue to the east side of Pincrest school.

City Commissioners Julian Stenstrom and Gordon Meyer said the 27th Street project has been bouncing back and forth from the city to the county for nine years.

Lake Mary Sleuth Recovers Equipment

By AUDIE MURPHY
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Investigative work by the one-man detective force of the Lake Mary Police Department has resulted in the recovery of over two-hundred dollars' worth of stereo equipment.

Lawrence Stephen Sassman, 18, 162 West Wilbur Ave., reported to police Tuesday afternoon that the stereo equipment had disappeared after he had accepted a ride from his home to a local convenience store from three youths in an automobile.

Sassman said he discovered the stereo equipment was missing when he returned to his residence.

According to police officials, an intensive investigation conducted by Patrolman George Myers brought results within 24 hours. The stereo equipment was recovered and charges are pending against one youth.

"This case is very significant because it's the first real case we've had to deal with since I was assigned detective duties on a part-time basis," Myers said.

Myers, 35, said he assumed the duties of part-time detective at the beginning of October.

"Before that," he said, "we had to patrol all the time because there were only a few people in the department. Now with five people on duty, we can have one person performing this kind of follow-up on these cases."

$300,000 Additional Cost Cited Utility Firm Bond Sale Approved By County Board

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County officials entered the utility business Tuesday when the county commission approved the sale of $2.4-million in bonds to finance the purchase of Indian Hills and Consumer Utilities.

County officials estimated the 7.35 per cent interest rate paid the Orlando firm of William R. Hough & Co., cost the county taxpayers an additional $300,000 more than the same sale would have cost earlier this year when the county attempted to have the bonds validated in circuit court.

But the bond validation was blocked by a suit signed by Casselberry Mayor Bill Grier, a suit county officials claim was "harassment" and did nothing but cost the taxpayers a lot of money.

The issue centered on thousands and thousands of dollars the county already has paid owners of the two firms because the Grier suit delayed the purchase, which, by contract, held the county liable for default payments in the event the sale wasn't consummated after the bond validation hearing.

Bill Dale, the county's director of environmental services, said Tuesday the 7.35 interest rate will cost an additional $250,000 over and above what the sale would have cost in January when Dale speculated the bonds could have been sold for a low of 6.2 to a high of 6.8 per cent.

In addition county officials estimate $90,000 in default payments will be paid owners of the two firms.

Grier says he acted on behalf of city council. The mayor also says he doesn't believe Dale has adequately checked the interest rates because Grier says he "doesn't believe the market has changed that drastically."

But commissioners, one by one, have severely criticized the Grier suit, calling it irresponsible and a ripoff of the county's consultant, but taxpayer's money. One reason for the suit is Casselberry, for two years, had attempted to purchase the two firms prior to the time the county entered the picture.

George Bland, a Hough representative, also is the financial consultant for the county.

Dale says Bland gave up a $25,000 fee because the firm is the county's consultant, but highly recommended the commission accept the Hough proposal, rather than take the bonds to market.

The motion to accept the Hough offer was made by Commissioner John Kimbrough and seconded by Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski who quipped: "I've never made a $3.97-million second."

Commissioner Dick Williams asked whether the county was getting the best deal possible? "Price tag for the two utilities is $3.97-million."

DBA Has Banquet At Inn

Almost 200 members and guests enjoyed an evening of good fellowship at the Downtown Business Association (DBA) Banquet held in the Holiday Inn, Sanford Marina, on Wednesday evening.

This is the first time the DBA has had a board of directors and full slate of officers, most of whom attended the banquet including Forrest Foggin, president; Earl Black, vice president; Brad Hollingsworth, secretary; Bill Brown, treasurer.

Also Ralph Larson, Dave Farr and Sara Jacobson, Bill McLaughlin and Mike Capko were unable to attend.

Guests included Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore; Sanford City Commissioners and other city officials and area business persons.

The purpose of the banquet, said Foggin, was "to draw our business people together in a spirit of good fellowship."

"This objective was reached during an evening which began with a social hour from 6:30-7:30 p.m. followed by the pledge of allegiance led by City Commissioner Gordon Meyer and invocation by Rev. J. T. Conmato and finally the informal buffet-style banquet.

Emcee at the event was Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Executive Manager Jack Horner.

Pot Smoking Report Probed

Oviedo High School Principal Keith Stone today was investigating complaints of pupils smoking marijuana on a local school bus recently, Fred Taylor, transportation director of the Seminole County School system, said today.

Taylor said the reported incident involved bus No. 23 and its first year driver, Jack Grass, and complaints from other pupils.

Taylor said this is the first such incident he could recall "and we're not sure this one involves marijuana or not." He said no evidence of the pot has yet been found. He said School Board Attorney Douglas Stenstrom will be consulted on the matter.

No smoking of any type is permitted on any school bus, said both Taylor and Superintendent W.P. "Bud" Laver.

Laver said if a pupil is caught smoking on a school bus he can be suspended for up to 10 days and can be expelled from school if drugs are involved. Laver said he can't remember when pot smoking was reported on a bus, but there are "always rumors."

"I can't remember when we last expelled a pupil for smoking pot on a school bus," said Laver.

Both Laver and Taylor said local law enforcement personnel are permitted to board a school bus, if a driver suspects there's a problem or if there is a disturbance.

"If there's a disturbance on a bus, we would welcome assistance from the police to board a bus," said Taylor.

"We'll cooperate with the law enforcement officials if it occurs, and we always have," said Laver. He said police assist school bus drivers in other disturbances about twice a year.

Laver said drug abuse programs are in all the county's schools.

"Drugs in schools are becoming less frequent, but we still have it," said Laver.

Voters Must Return Cards

Some 11,500 Seminole County citizens will have their names purged from the voter rolls unless they immediately return renewal cards to Seminole County Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce's courthouse office.

Mrs. Bruce said today that her office mailed out 45,943 voter renewal cards nearly a month ago, advising voters to sign and return the cards within 30 days to keep their voter registration in force.

State Attorney Abbott Herring today declined comment on a rumored investigation into the campaign contributions and expenditures of Lawrence Swofford, Altamonte Springs mayor candidate.

Noting that his office conducted an investigation recently into "accusations and allegations" Swofford made against his opponent in the Altamonte Springs mayor's race, Herring said any questions directed to Fulenwider apparently confused the chief investigator.

The state attorney said he deliberately kept Fulenwider out of the investigation concerning Floyd because of "past personality conflicts" between Fulenwider and Swofford.

He said that investigation was conducted by a deputy investigator and assistant state attorney rather than Fulenwider and that Floyd gave the state attorney's office a statement under oath, waiving immunity.

Mobile Radio Units To Be Installed Dispatch Center To Handle Emergencies

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Every household in this city will be receiving a letter from the city fathers in the next few days advising them to call the countywide communications center — 630-4111 — if the services of the fire or police departments are needed or a medical emergency arises.

The city council, in a meeting with fire commissioners and directors of the volunteer fire department, agree to have fire department mobile radio units installed in the city police cars to dispatch fire and medical emergency calls.

LAKE MARY'S NEW PLANNER

Under the agreed plan, citizens of the city with emergency needs will call the sheriff's department countywide communication center which dispatches city police cars.

in the city within the past few weeks because of lack of communication. "It was heartbreaking," he said.

Regional Alford, of Sheehy Boulevard, Winter Springs, is on the job at the Lake Mary City Hall as city planner-researcher to aid in preparing the community's comprehensive land use plan, mandated by state law to be completed by 1977.

Altamonte Sewer Plant Called Aid To Wekiva

The Altamonte Springs regional sewer plant, currently under construction, will help clean up the Wekiva River rather than pollute it further, Alford says.

Senkevich, at a meeting of state officials sponsored jointly by the Sanford and Astor Kiwanis Clubs Tuesday night, said the Altamonte Springs 7.5 million gallon daily capacity facility is a model plant and will help reduce pollutants in the river.

Senkevich noted that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has also approved plans for the plant.

City Takes Action; County Ponders

The Sanford City Commission is to be commended for its prompt action in earmarking funds for the city's share of a new sidewalk on SR 46A for the protection of Idyllwild Elementary school pupils who must traverse that busy thoroughfare twice each day.

Unfortunately, the county commissioners don't seem quite so concerned about the matter and are dragging their feet in coming up with their part of the funds for the project.

One-third of the proposed sidewalk project is in the city and the remaining two-thirds is under county jurisdiction.

Concern for the safety of the children is so great that City Manager "Pete" Knowles has written to the Board of County Commissioners urging action on this particular project, pointing out that there has been one "bad accident" on the road and calling for a lowering of the speed limit in the area.

Meanwhile, the city commission is pressing county action on yet another hazardous area — 27th Street between Sanford Ave. and U.S. 17-92 which city fathers claim has been bouncing back and forth between the county and the city for nine years.

The Herald shares the concern of Sanford city commissioners and we sincerely hope that the county commissioners don't wait for a tragedy to occur to force the issue to a head.

Pocketbook Issue

President Ford's proposal for a $20 billion tax cut linked to a corresponding slash in federal spending has been called "political" by his Democratic critics.

It is, of course, just as any issue in Washington on the eve of an election year is buffeted by political currents.

Mr. Ford is aware that an extension of 1975 tax reductions, at least, is inevitable. The House Ways and Means Committee, chaired by Rep. Al Ullman of Oregon, is considering a system of tax credits even more generous.

The President has stolen the tax cut thunder by doubling the most glowing of the programs now under consideration in Congress.

But he has also focused attention on the steadily rising budget deficit, which is expected to reach $70 billion this year. Projected spending for fiscal 1977 has been calculated at about $423 billion — up $83 billion from the current figure. Mr. Ford argues that the ceiling be set at $395 billion as a condition for the tax cuts.

Even then, red ink spending would exceed $40 billion, giving new fuel to inflation.

The trouble is that 75 per cent of projected spending is beyond control — debt interest, Social Security payments, veterans' benefits, welfare and other similar programs politically untouchable.

And, although the President's recommendations on budget cuts have not yet been made public, it is not likely that he will advocate heavy reductions in defense spending, the other major expense.

Democrats already have termed Ford's program unworkable and unacceptable, but they concede that the public is concerned over spending and receipt on the budget for cuts.

Mr. Ford has put the spotlight on the call for and its potential for fiscal disaster, putting the pressure on the Democratic leadership in Congress to exercise restraint.

The outlook is for a sort of compromise — a modest tax cut accompanied by a congressional "nonbinding" pledge to utilize its new budget-setting procedures responsibly.

That in itself is a worthy achievement.

For the second consecutive year, the Goldenrod Jaycees are sponsoring a Haunted Castle, from Nov. 1 through Nov. 5.

This prize-winning attraction is at Glenn Turner's castle on Bear Gulch Road in Goldenrod.

Many people will tour the castle from 6 to 10 p.m. nightly and movies will be shown for those waiting in line to enter. Drama clubs from area schools are taking part in the action and they also helped with sets, props and other aspects of this project.

All proceeds from the castle benefit the Goldenrod Jaycees' Youth Shelter. Last year, the Jaycees received local, state and national awards for the best fund-raising project ever and from the way things are going they shouldn't have any trouble repeating those laurels this time around.

The Seminole Youth Ranch will be the beneficiary of Lyman High School's homecoming activities this weekend as admission to a couple of events will be a can of food, which will be turned over to the Youth Ranch.

Last night, the students dressed up in 1950's fashions while today and tonight they'll take on the appearance of small children. Tomorrow's uniform of the day is Halloween costumes for all students.

Lyman has adopted the theme "Greyhounds In Touch With America" for this year's celebration.

Last night was skit night at the school with 15 groups of students putting on a variety of skits about Homecoming, using the theme as described above.

Tonight, there will be a powder-puff football game between female members of junior and senior classes. A parade of floats will be presented at halftime of the game with the winning float being announced afterward.

Tomorrow night's activities include a football clash with Orlando Evans High followed by the Homecoming Dance at the Matland Civic Center from 10 p.m. till midnight.

Admission to the dance is $3 per couple or $1.50 per person. And, you guessed it, the music will be provided by a group calling itself "Cat Food."

Remember, though, admission to tonight's activities is a can of food — not cat or dog food, but the kind made for consumption by humans.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Released Americans Arrive In Bangkok From Vietnam

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Nine Americans captured by Communist forces in South Vietnam last spring arrived in Bangkok today along with two Canadians, two Filipinos and an Australian.

The 14 civilians were flown from Hanoi to Vientiane, the capital of Laos, and then on to Bangkok in a Laotian plane chartered by the United Nations. U.N. officials said all were "fit and well" although one of the Americans complained of "psychological hardship" during a period of solitary confinement.

The Americans included two missionary couples and the small daughter of one of the couples, two government officials and a student. One of the Filipinos also worked for the U.S. government, and the Canadians were missionaries.

60 Killed In Yugoslav Jet

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — A chartered Yugoslav DC9 jetliner with 127 persons reported aboard crashed four miles from Prague's Ruzyně Airport today, airport sources said.

The sources said at least 60 persons were killed, and many of the survivors were in critical condition.

Most of the passengers were Czechoslovak trade union members returning from a vacation on Yugoslavia's Adriatic seacoast near Tivat, the sources said.

Tanjung, the official Yugoslav news agency, said a crew of five Yugoslavs was aboard the plane.

Juan Carlos Prepares To Take Over

Generalissimo Franco's Condition Worse

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco's condition has worsened again, the Spanish news agency Europa Press reported today.

The 71-year-old dictator had a peaceful night although his condition remained "extremely grave."

The doctors said there was no change in the clinical condition reported Wednesday night. At that time, the medical team said intestinal paralysis that nearly caused death Tuesday had eased, but cardiac insufficiency continued and a new complication with the heart, "isolated premature ventricular beats," had appeared.

Juan Carlos, designated by Franco to be his political heir and Spain's first king since 1801, stood in for him in July 1974 when the generalissimo nearly died with pleurisy. But Franco returned to office after 40 days, and the prince said to have vowed that the next time it would be all or nothing.

At that time, it was Franco himself who appointed the prince temporary chief of state. Now, with Franco apparently conscious for brief periods only, the replacement process must be initiated by the cabinet.

It could propose to the Cortes (parliament) that Juan Carlos be named interim chief of state in view of the generalissimo's incapacity. Or it could propose to the Council of the Realm, a body of advisors to the chief of state, and to the Cortes that Juan Carlos be proclaimed king.

Most political observers believe the council and the Cortes would approve either proposal, although some would like to re-

Prince Juan Carlos
The agency said its information came from reliable sources. A medical bulletin was issued from Franco's doctors. Meanwhile, Premier Carlos Arias Navarro called his cabinet into session and reports that Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, Franco's designated political heir, has agreed to become chief of state temporarily.

Reliable sources said the 37-year-old prince, who had previously refused to step in on a temporary basis, gave in to intense pressure from the government. Franco's doctors said the 82-year-old dictator had a peaceful night although his condition remained "extremely grave."

Showdown Predicted For Ford

How quickly men seem to forget their years as congressmen when they become president of the United States.

The other day President Ford came personally to get his story across to a dozen or so selected columnists in the Roosevelt Room at the White House in anticipation of a confrontation with Congress over his proposal to couple a major tax cut with a $96 billion lid on expenditures. He expects a fight which will be all the more bitter because he hadn't bothered to consult Congress in advance.

Yet Mr. Ford and his top assistants know that Congress must, by its very nature, have a different approach to the nation's budget than the President.

Mr. Ford can, if his advisers have the ability and the wisdom, propose $28 billion or more in genuine and valid cuts in government spending. The amount of waste in the cabinet departments and in the assortment of federal agencies and commissions — is incredible. The number of inflated and outworn programs is large.

But each senator and congressman is faced with his own constituency. Virtually every cut in the budget means that someone group in his congressional district will get less from the government than they have been receiving, or not receive the added payments or services they believe they deserve. The senator or congressman who votes for reductions or lids on spending usually fears in his bones he is endangering his political life.

Mr. Ford also knows the only possible hope for success is for his aides to sit down in friendly meetings over a period of months and work out with Congress what cuts are possible and where they are impossible politically, as seen by congressmen.

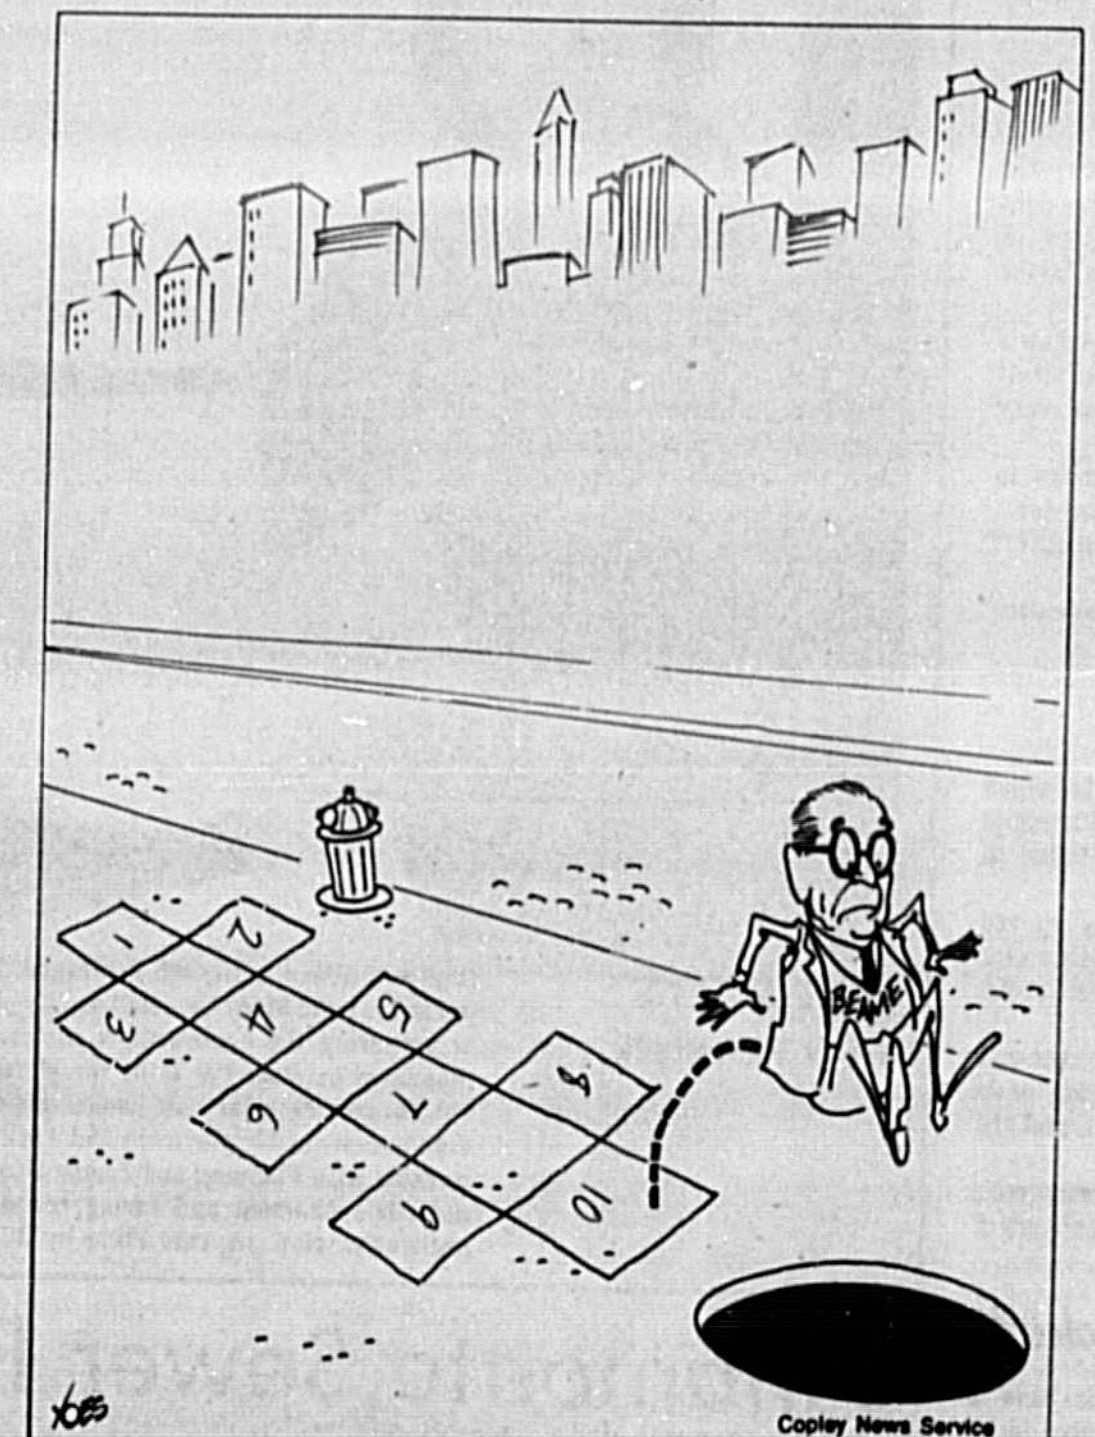

As noted above, Mr. Ford, more than most presidents in the past, knows this full well. During his years as leader of the Republican opposition to the Democratic majority, Mr. Ford was respected by all for his ability in this business of reconciling all sides.

Thus, Mr. Ford seems to be going against everything he learned. He repeatedly sends an arrogant, blistering, wordy and authoritarian "father knows best" Secretary of Treasury, William Simon, up to lecture congressmen on what's good for them and the country. Simon is fond of self-righteous lectures on the financial sins of other nations and their downfall.

This is a sure way to induce congressmen to vote against what Mr. Ford wants.

My question is why doesn't the President use the White House Office of Management and the Budget Director James Lynn more, and the bumbling Simon less?

There are others of equal ability and stature in the White House. They are not sufficiently used. The only conclusion I can draw is that Mr. Ford wants and welcomes a confrontation with Congress over spending and tax reduction.

Protects Loved Ones

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is an open letter to the Central Florida Zoological Society):

During my 80 years of "inactive" life, I've always protected those I love and who are close to me — also my property, to the best of my ability and resources.

So, your society management has placed those wild animals and birds in positions where thieves can enter and take them.

Security? The loss of these birds and animals besides being terrible and unnecessary, is a slap in the face of the society and to those of us who have given of our time and money.

LEAA's administrator, Velde spent $14,969.31 for air fare and another $2,668.47 for miscellaneous travel expenses. His trips took him from Atlanta to Alaska, New Orleans to Las Vegas, New York to Hawaii.

The soft-spoken Velde, whose lanky frame and receding hairline give him the appearance of everybody's next-door neighbor, is a protégé of Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., the Senate's self-proclaimed champion of mediocrity.

Ex-President Nixon retained Hruska's treaties to elevate Velde to the top of the LEAA's totem pole for five years. But in the closing hours of his presidency, Nixon needed Hruska's support for an anticipated impeachment battle in the Senate.

Nixon reneged at the last minute and nominated Velde to head the LEAA. It was one of Nixon's last nominations. The buffeted LEAA is still stuck with it.

Footnote: Velde is also an amateur shutterbug. Our sources say he has helped himself to LEAA's photographic equipment. This is denied by a spokesman who swears: "Velde has never had film processed for his own personal benefit. He does not have the camera at home."

But our associate, Bob Owens, checked with LEAA's audio visual department, which acknowledged that Velde checks out a Nikon camera "for a couple of weeks at a time." He also picks up film, usually about five rolls at a time. He submits the film for processing, which

Masquerade An Excuse For Violence

On October 31 of one year ago a group of tads in northern New Jersey strung a neighbor's cocker spaniel from a tree by its front legs. Left to trash about, the dog pulled several joints out of socket. It later had to be killed. The perpetrators were never positively identified, but the father of one suspect said retribution was not necessary anyway.

"All it was was some kids playing a Halloween prank."

Halloween, ostensibly the autumn complement to May Day, is the oddest of commemorations. Originally a pastoral observance, the Celtic festival of the end of summer, it has become in America something of an excuse for maliciousness and abuse. It is the only day set aside as a tribute to extortion. Christmas is for brotherhood, Valentine's Day for love, but Halloween is for vandalism.

It is the time of the year to slash tires, break windows, uproot rhododendrons, throw stones, and leave the outside faucets running. Some towns in South Dakota several years ago an elderly man trying to save his mailbox from Halloween destruction was bitten by one of the pranksters, kicked by another, and eventually suffered a heart attack from the commotion. In California last year a woman was raped when she opened her door, or else, to what she thought was another in the parade of costumed children.

The kids in costumes, undeniably, are almost always harmless enough. And cute. And funny ("Can I use your bathroom, mister?")

But in effect, many of them are trainees for the kind of delinquency that can end in the raping of women or the mugging of men, a child of 6 or 7 sitting catty at the door, by 9 he brings his soap along, and at 14, with years of experience already, he may be prepared to string up a cocker spaniel, particularly if he knows a parent, or society, will forgive the deed in the name of celebration.

Not only does society forgive Halloween, actually, it encourages it, part for want of profit, part from a sense of solidarity with the spirit of the season. Industry manufactures special Halloween products (sprays, foams) with which kids can better do damage. Merchants happily sell the cartons of eggs and packages of wax that add to the arsenal. As for parents, all too often, they have been known to drive the getaway cars, sometimes engaging in rock throwing themselves, it being, after all, a good time for adults to howl also.

Since 1963 juvenile delinquency has been growing at a rate faster than has the juvenile population. Kids 13 and under commit more serious crimes, according to FBI compilations, than people in any other age grouping. "If present trends continue," predicts Cornell University child psychologist Ivor Bronfenbrenner, "one of every nine youngsters will appear in court before the age of 18."

Seminole High School Senior Dies Of Heart Blockage

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G. V. Garay said today that a Seminole High School senior found slumped on a bench at the school Wednesday died of heart failure due to "congenital hypoplasia of the right coronary artery."

Garay said an autopsy showed the small artery blocked the blood supply to the heart and that the condition is hard to detect with tests.

Sanford police reported Harry Corbett, 18, of 161 Bethune Circle, Sanford, was pronounced dead on arrival at Seminole Memorial Hospital just after 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Officers said Corbett was found lying on a bench at the school auditorium.

Seminole High Principal Don Reynolds today described Corbett, a senior who would have graduated in January, as "a good student who always did his share and more."

Reynolds said two persons saw Corbett slump over on the bench as he waited for a school bus. Police reported the youth was rushed to the hospital by dean of students C.B. Franklin.

Reynolds said Corbett had suffered "dizzy spells" at the start of the school year and was hospitalized for tests. "I know this because he called me every day while he was in the hospital," Reynolds said.

Suffers From Smoke

Seminole County firemen reported today that William C. Mellor, 31, was treated for smoke inhalation Wednesday after a fire in a bedroom at Red Lion Square Apartments off Howell Branch Road, in south Seminole.

Sheriff's deputy Randy Pittman reported the fire, of unknown origin, caused light damage to the apartment.

Sheriff's and Fire Department investigators are reported probing the blaze.

Sanford police have arrested Howard Wilkins Lafair, 27, of 1302 Williams Ave., Sanford, on a circuit court warrant charging delivery of a controlled substance.

Rope Attempt! Told

Seminole and Orange County sheriff's detectives today were investigating a reported attempted rape Wednesday night of a 17-year-old Orlando woman at a south Seminole orange grove.

Deputies reported the woman, accompanied by a 20-year-old woman, had accepted a ride with an unidentified man in a blue pickup truck on Old Cheney Road, Orlando.

Deputy R. J. Harley said the women said they agreed to accompany the man "to a party" and ended up in the grove on McCulloch Road in south Seminole.

According to reports, the 17-year-old rejected advances made by the man in the parked truck "and threatened to cut his throat with her knife."

Officers said the women said they fought with the man outside the truck and he chased the 17-year-old into the grove and had ripped off her clothing when the other woman attacked the man. The women said the man fled when a car approached the grove and the victim put on her clothing.

Negligence, Malicious Prosecution Claimed

Man Seeks Damages From Sheriff In False Arrest Suit

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

A 23-year-old Sanford man has filed suit in circuit court seeking in excess of $10,000 damages from Sheriff John Polk on claims of false arrest, false imprisonment, malicious prosecution and negligence in connection with a May 1974 firebombing case.

Abner Jackson, according to the civil action filed by Winter Park attorney Charles A. Tabscott, was arrested June 7, 1974 by sheriff's deputies on charges of "attempted murder, first-degree arson, throwing a destructive device and conspiracy..." in connection with an incident at the 2717 Truman Boulevard, Sanford, home of Sheriff's Deputy Luke Stallworth.

The suit alleges Jackson "wasn't involved in any of the crimes alleged in any way" and that the charges were "later dropped due to lack of evidence."

The lawsuit, demanding a jury trial, has been assigned to Circuit Judge Dominic Salfi. No hearing date has been set.

The suit maintains that officers had no reasonable cause for arresting Jackson and that there was no reasonable information which would lead officers to believe that he was involved.

On May 1, 1974, police said "Molotov cocktail" devices were thrown at the homes of Stallworth, and Sanford Policemen Eugene Fogle and Tony Brooks Jr.

Stallworth put out a blaze on the roof of his residence before any damage resulted, police said.

Fogle's auto was damaged by fire and a firebomb thrown from a passing car landed harmlessly in the driveway at Brooks' home.

Felony charges in the firebombings were also dropped against James McIntyre, John Henry Young and Samuel L. Jackson.

Nathaniel Lee Williams, 23, was sought by authorities in the cases after he apparently jumped a $10,000 bond and disappeared.

A sixth man, Benny Payne, 20, of Sanford, pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor of compounding a felony in circuit court. Payne had been scheduled for trial on felony charges in the firebombing incidents but the state's key witness, James B. Ashford, 24, of Sanford, was killed in a motorcycle accident on I-4 west of Daytona Beach.

Ashford's testimony was to have been used to link circumstantial evidence in the case, sources said.

When the firebombings occurred, Polk said he believed the incidents were in retaliation for a drug and gambling crackdown in Sanford black communities.

Longwood Artists Long-Time Friends

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Staff Writer

Two attractive and enthusiastic Longwood women have been friends for several years, and each is an artist in her own field.

Betty Kemp is an artist with paints, while Pam Sears recycles junk — any kind of junk!

Betty's brown eyes sparkled when she talked about her paintings. "I have finally found the time to work at my art and find out if I can really be a good artist," she said. Betty will have several paintings in the Kissimmee Art Show, "My first show!" she beamed.

Seascapes, landscapes and flowers are featured in Betty's paintings. "I'm experimenting with acrylics now," she said. "I figured, if other people could do it, then so could I. By piling the paint on, it will resemble oils, or paint dries quickly, but to me, they appear a little too commercial. They will never take the place of oils, in my opinion," she added.

Betty laughs at her background in painting. "You know, I can't sketch or draw, so I have to paint in what I want. I never really started at the beginning, so I do have a lot to learn." A retired art teacher, Ms. Barry Wilson, helped Betty and several others interested in art. "We learned to get the feeling of using color," said Betty. "We would meet every week, and paint and criticize our work. I learned you have to have a natural talent for color. It's difficult to mix colors on a palette, but fun when you find you can do it," she said.

Pam's specialty is scouting junk yards and picking up what no one else wants. "I've always picked things off junk piles," laughed Pam. The painstaking labor begins once she gets the "junk" home. If it's a piece of furniture, she strips off the old finish and starts from scratch. Betty smiled and said, "You know, Pam doesn't just see a piece of junk — she can actually visualize what the finished results will be!"

Friends and neighbors of Pam's have a slogan, "If you want something, tell Pam!" said Betty. "That's because she can take anything and make something out of it!"

Pam's scavenging began early in her life. She explained, "I had a baby sister several years younger than I. One day, while I was driving along, I saw a new crib mattress in the road. So I picked it up and took it home, figuring if I didn't, someone else would. Then later, I found a play pen being discarded, with only one broken slat, so I grabbed that, and the rest just sort of grew."

Both women admit they had great fun and good results when they were allowed access to the Seminole County Dump, but the public is no longer able to dig around for cast-offs. Betty laughed and said, "Our houses are decorated in what we call, 'everybody's junk!'"

Pam and Betty finally decided to do something with their talents and have recently opened a charming shop, the Serendipity, in the heart of the Longwood historical district, with "Discover the Unusual," as the shop's theme. They call themselves the "do it yourselfers," as they painted, pounded and decorated the shop all by themselves. "We just go ahead and do what needs to be done," they said matter-of-factly. "We paint, wallpaper and aren't afraid to tackle anything!" In fact, they built a barn and stalls for Pam's horses, with lumber found at the dump!

"Since we opened the shop, we've been working like crazy. I've finished 10 paintings in six weeks, but only by staying up 'til 2 and 3 a.m. I really had to let a lot of things go, but we have pictures in our shop!" enthused Betty. Both women's husbands are local attorneys.

Carrying out the look of the Longwood Historical District, Betty and Pam wear long dresses and friendly smiles to greet customers. One of Betty's original paintings will be given away at a drawing, on December 1.

Gardening Is Fun For Betty Ford

One of these days passerby may be startled when they spot the First Lady on her knees digging with her bare hands in the White House garden.

As a matter of fact, her love for the good earth, flowers, fresh fruit and vegetables is so great, she goes out of way to use all three as table center pieces for her formal White House dinners, she reveals in an exclusive interview in November's "House Beautiful."

She recalled the recent dinner-dance they gave honoring Walter Scheel, President of the Federal Republic of Germany, and Mrs. Scheel in the State Dining Room and Blue Room. The table settings were a garden fresh mixture of fresh fruit, vegetables and nearly-wild flowers and even the delphinium-filled vases decorating the side boards and fireplace were wrapped in green asparagus stalks.

Mrs. Ford said President Scheel was "dazzled" by the natural garden setting and at times "he seemed totally and happily distracted by the natural beauty" of the center pieces set off by the trillium patterned green tablecloths and flower-circled china.

"I'm really a gardener at heart," she confesses, "well really a peasant. In the garden, I always pull off my gloves and dig right into the earth. I get a true sense of relaxation from this, really therapeutic. . . One of these days I'm going to get down and help the gardeners."

Direct Banking Helpful

Millions of working and retired Americans will never see another pay or benefit check. But most of them are happy with the new arrangement.

Their earnings are paid directly into their bank accounts. They never have to receive, carry or cash paychecks.

And that's the way most of us will be paid someday — as the nation's financial system turns to simpler, more streamlined ways of handling money. It's part of an electronic funds transfer system called Direct Pay Deposit (DPD), and it's rapidly gaining popularity across the nation, reports the American Bankers Association (ABA). Already, numerous companies and dozens of our government agencies pay employees this way.

All of the 30-million Americans who are on Social Security have the option of having their checks deposited directly into their bank accounts. This service is free. The authorization form, SF 1199, is available at banks and takes only a few minutes to fill out.

Your employer, the government or anyone else who pays you on a regular basis may soon announce that you'll have the opportunity to get your wages or benefits in this simplified manner. Here are some things you should know about Direct Pay Deposits and how they will affect you.

- (1) On payday, your money is in your account and instantly available to you. You don't have to go to a bank, wait in line for cash or deposit your pay check.
- (2) If you happen to be out of town, on business, on vacation or ill, your pay is still automatically deposited, and therefore available to you away from home.
- (3) Your pay check cannot be lost or stolen, and you don't have to carry a lot of cash.
- (4) Most DPD participants claim they have lighter control over the family budget when total net earnings go straight to the bank. Tax records, too, are easier to keep.
- (5) People with Direct Pay Deposit accounts generally have a better chance of obtaining bank credit because of a continuous and permanent bank relationship. (This is particularly true of people who have never had a bank account before.)
- (6) Participating banks may provide free checking accounts with unlimited check writing privileges for people on Direct Pay Deposit.

Discipline A Must In Most Every Home

By ANIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: That letter on the "best kind of punishment" was interesting. Punishment is always destructive to a relationship. Just think about how you felt when you were punished.

Dear Abby

In a well-functioning family, punishment is unnecessary. Parents respect their children's rights — such as the right to privacy and the right to make their own decisions. And children respect their parents' rights, such as the right to be free from worry about their children's safety at 2 a.m. Children and parents concede these rights out of love and understanding, not fear or guilt. When those rights conflict, parents and children sit down and work out solutions that satisfy everyone.

Thus, relationships grow warmer and closer. That's what being a parent is all about. JOY R. IN BEVERLY HILLS
DEAR JOY: You make it sound so simple. Punishment may be unnecessary, but discipline is a must. Until children reach legal age, their parents are responsible for them, and parents who really love their children will give them guidelines. I'm all for parents allowing their children to make their own decisions to a point. But while it's wise to let your child the baby's natural parents. Abby, there are so many people in this town who know of the adoption. I don't see how we can keep the boy from finding out.

We got him when he was only 34 days old. He is our child in every sense of the word, and we want him to feel that he is.
Should we tell him he's adopted? And if so, when? We don't want him to hear it from anyone else. NEW MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: I think your lawyer gave you very poor advice. Your son should be told that he was adopted as soon as he is able to understand what it means.
DEAR ABBY: My husband has some relatives who always leave the price tag on gifts they send to us and our children. I just can't understand it. The first thing I do when I buy a gift is to make sure the price tag is removed.
It can't be a coincidence that every gift that comes from these people has the price tag on it. Do you think it could be because they want us to know how much they have spent on us and want us to spend the same amount on them in return?
DEAR ABBY: I recently adopted a beautiful baby boy who is everything we had ever hoped for in a child.
We were married for 11 years before we accepted the fact that we weren't able to have children of our own, so we decided to adopt. I can't describe the happiness this child has brought into our lives.
Our lawyer advises us not to tell our son that he is adopted since all the records, including the birth certificate, show us as

April In Paris Attracts 1,000 To Charity Bash

NEW YORK (AP) — Under a blue sky and a cool breeze, a ticket and a cutback in the number of wines, some 1,000 of the beautiful and would-be beautiful people frolicked through the night at the 24th April in Paris ball, billed as the world's most expensive annual charity bash.
"We charge more, we give more and we make more," said Claude Philippe, mastermind of the $185-per-person ball to benefit the American-French Foundation and a long list of charities.
Philippe said the 1974 ball netted about $175,000. Over the years, he said, the April in Paris ball has raised $35 million for charity.
The party at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel started with a reception Friday night and wound up with a Haitian-style discotheque that lasted until early hours Saturday. And the guests really didn't suffer too much from the paucity of inflation. True, the tickets cost more than they did last year. But the increase was only $10 a person or just under 6 per cent. The Consumer Price Index, which measures the cost of more mundane items, has risen almost 8 per cent in the same period.
The half a dozen different wines that used to grace the tables throughout the night had vanished. But the replacement was champagne — Laurent Perrier, Grand Siecle, vintage '498 and the bubbly flowed faster than the water in the 40-foot fountains decorating the ballroom.
The switch to champagne wasn't really a cutback, explained a ball spokesman, some people just thought it would be gay.
The dinner was still seven courses — from a crown of fole gras to coffee with cognac — VSO?
This year's affair was officially dubbed the Le Bal de la Soie — the ball of silk — and the American Silk Corp. provided about 5,000 yards, specially fireproofed.
Among those receiving complimentary tickets was Mayor Abraham Beame, whose financially beleaguered city probably could use a fund-raising event of its own.
After the main party was over, guests adjourned to another room of the hotel for less formal celebrations at a voodo-oriented discotheque created by resort-operator Olivier Coquellein.
"We may charge more than anyone else, but we offer more," said a spokesman for the ball. "Don't forget it goes on until 5 a.m. And then there are the gift boxes."
The gift boxes, including cosmetics and other party favors donated by corporations and individuals, are worth more than $100 each.

Gallic Generation Gap

French Youths Reject Doormat Parents

By ROSETE HARGROVE
The Herald Services
PARIS — "How to bring up your child" is, according to a recent study, one of the thorniest problems French parents face.
Discipline or freedom? Pediatrists, sociologists, psychiatrists, doctors have all been confronted with this question. Many admit there is no simple, hard-and-fast rule applicable to the parent-child relationship. But today's adolescent has his own parental child problem, too, except that he is far more aware of it than preceding generations.
Should a child be exposed to a certain amount of discipline or allowed to go as he pleases? A few years ago, according to the avant-garde weekly "Le Point," many parents bent over backwards being a "pal" to their children and giving them a free hand. Today they are told they should put the machine in reverse.
Should a mother pick up a baby when he cries, nurse and fondle him, or paddle him? How is she to guess whether either impulse can be frustrating?
A French psychiatrist pointed out that most modern publicity is definitely oriented toward a way of living where children are impediments, hardly as important as an automobile.

There was an era when parents could not imagine their children having to live in a world different from their own. There was a certain code of behavior to be observed, essentially that of their great grandparents. The upheaval started with the first World War.
Today's children, according to sociologist Evelyne Sullerot, do not appreciate what they call "doormat parents" who have succeeded to the "pal parents." On the other hand, they could respect those who exercised a certain amount of discipline, who would not hesitate to say: "I forbid!" They need, too, the chance to rebel once in a while.

Then it is up to the parents to explain their attitude.
French parents, according to a recent poll, are moderately admitted they let their children have their own sweet way.
But what happens when they disobey? The majority of parents denied they beat their offspring, but nearly all children declare they have had their modicum of "clouting."
It is interesting to learn that 200,000 "martinets" (switches) are sold in France every year, even today. Mostly to people living in rural districts, small towns and in the new modern "dormitory" suburbs, but some also are bought by middle-class parents who pretend they use it as a potential threat.
The old adage, "spare the rod and spoil the child," may not apply today, but every child needs a certain amount of tenderness and loving care in the home.
Prof. Jeanne Delais, after a 20-year career teaching in public schools, has just published a book, "Children in Capital Letters," in which she cites some of the comments of adolescents (11 to 13) on their parents.
They say: "Doormat parents" are always critical of other children. But with their own they talk like them, use four-letter words, discuss sex, believing that they thus close the generation gap. It just does not work.
"Some parents think their offspring are prodigies, spoil them, give them too much pocket money, anything and everything he or she asks for, establish no rule about staying out too late."
These parents are very definitely anti-heroes in their offspring's eyes. What then do these modern children want or expect?
Primarily, parents who understand or try to understand, who do not punish if other children. But with their own they talk like them, use four-letter words, discuss sex,

Nine Organizations Join NBERA Group

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Nine organizations have become members of the National Bicentennial Ethnic-Racial Alliance (NBERA) to date according to the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA).
The NBERA, which was announced late in June, was initiated by ARBA to afford an opportunity for ethnic and racial organizations at the local level to receive official recognition for their contributions to the Bicentennial commemoration and to encourage other such groups to participate.
John W. Warner, Administrator of the ARBA, said he is heartened by the response to the Alliance. "These first members represent the broad spectrum of interest and support for Bicentennial efforts of ethnic and minority organizations at the local level," he commented.
The nine groups, some of which represent local units of national organizations around the country, are:
The Multi-Cultural Institute of San Francisco, the first Alliance member; American Council of Polish Cultural Clubs, Washington, D.C.; Canna Ambassador of Illinois; the Greater New York Finnish Bicentennial Planning Committee, Inc., New York; the Frederick Douglass Museum of African Art in Washington, D.C.; and the Irish American Bicentennial Committee, also of Washington, D.C.
Also in the Alliance are the National Center for Vietnamese Resettlement, Washington, D.C.; the National Mexican American Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, California; and the Ohio Outdoor Historical Drama Association Inc.

State Agency May Need Minority Quotas: Commission.

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Minority quotas may be necessary to break the discriminatory employment patterns of the agency that supervises state personnel policies, Commission.

Commissioners voted unanimously Wednesday to discuss minority employment quotas with Lt. Gov. Jim Williams, Gov. Reubin Askew's administration secretary.

The commission also voted unanimously to hire Norman Jackson, 42, a Tampa junior college administrator, as its executive director. He replaces Thomas Sanchez, who resigned after a five-month struggle over a commission vote to remove him.

Sharply criticizing the Department of Administration's hiring and promotion practices, commissioners considered the Department of Administration minority quotas as a result of a staff report attacking the agency's "poor and non-existent recruitment efforts."

The study said that the department's staff consists of 209 white males, 228 white females, three black males, 13 black females and one female identified as Spanish. It said white males hold most of the key positions and men generally earn twice as much as women employees.

Williams contended in an earlier interview that the department has "done the best we know how to do," but Pagano charged that the agency's minority hiring procedures "have been totally ignored."

The Department sets state personnel policies and is responsible for overseeing affirmative action programs required by Askew to increase minority employment in other agencies.

New commission director Jackson is a Hillsborough Community College administrator who has a Ph.D. from Florida State.

Sanchez resigned as of last Friday, ending a struggle between commissioners and Community Affairs Secretary William Ravenell on his removal. Commissioners who voted 9-5 for Sanchez's dismissal said they wanted to save money and obtain a director qualified to get federal grants.

"I know your concern as far as trying to attract funds to the commission to get about your work," Jackson told commissioners. "I'm committed to serving the commission in that capacity."

fraudulently selling $200 million of "undeveloped semiarid desert lands."

The developers also built the town of Rio Rancho, a bustling community of 5,000 residents near Albuquerque. The people there — except for minor complaints — apparently are happy with their lots.

Bob Ayles of the Albuquerque Better Business Bureau said most of the problems arise from attempts by people like Mrs. Scheer to sell their land in undeveloped Rio Rancho Estates.

"We have a report worked up by us, advising people that there is no resale for property of that sort," Ayles said. He added that the number of complaints has been relatively small.

New Mexico Atty. Gen. Tony Anaya said his consumer protection division has received "a fairly substantial number (of complaints) over the years, maybe a couple of hundred, that we turned over to the Federal Trade Commission early in the year."

The indictment charged the defendants had gestated that purchase of undeveloped Rio Rancho Estate lots would yield "financial security for the purchaser's retirement or the education of his children and for other financial objectives, all of which were false."

Instead, the indictment said, the venture was "an exceptionally poor, risky and dangerous investment" with "virtually no resale market for these lots throughout the entire 14-year history of this scheme."

A federal grand jury in New York returned an 80-count indictment this week charging the developers of Rio Rancho with Carolyn R. Scheer, a 43-year-old teacher from Wisconsin, said she bought her New Mexico land as an investment to keep "until my youngest daughter goes to college."

But it turned out she needed the money sooner, so she asked Rio Rancho to sell her undeveloped land for her.

"I guess they never made a commitment to sell it for me," she said.

Schlesinger Warns About Military Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger today renewed a warning that heavy cuts in the U.S. military budget would cause severe damage to American military strength.

Schlesinger made the statement one day after the Senate defense appropriations subcommittee rebuffed his previous warnings by approving a bill $7.2 billion below President Ford's original budget request.

The panel approved a bill providing $90.6 billion for defense. The House has voted $90.2 billion.

Seminole, Lake Howell Resting After Satisfying Victories

Seminole and Lake Howell can breathe easy this weekend.

Each judging from impressive victories last week, each will have an extra week to revel in the taste of victory.

The taste of victory at Lake Howell was particularly sweet.

The Silver Hawks had their cake and ate it, too. Following the 36-20 win over Spruce Creek — the first in seven games — cheerleaders baked a cake, decorated it with 36-20 trimmings and brought it in Monday for the football team and coaches.

One might say victory has done wonders at Lake Howell. Talk in the hallways was getting despondent along the gridiron lines but the first win in Lake Howell's first full year of varsity competition was better than a flu shot in the middle of an epidemic.

Seminole's win over Colonial was a no-hum matter, in fact there was more talk around the campus about the three fist fights than five TDs to one.

Kiss Of Death For Lyman

Lyman 21, Evans 12—Might as well go all the way and give the Greyhounds the kiss of death again, but sooner or later they are going to show themselves to be a sound team. Defense the key for Lyman, stopping the third down pass the problem for Evans.

West Orange 14, Oviedo 7—A cliffhanger in the ofing, maybe even a frogstrangler if Lee Ward can pump up the Oviedo offense, but I like West Orange for its balance, desire to get back on the winning track and home field advantage.

Trinity Prep 27, Florida Air 0—Nothing to this game, nothing at all. The Saints can do no wrong and it looks like another one in which substitutes will get in time toward their varsity letter.

Lake Brantley 21, Mainland 12—The key for Lake Brantley all season has been fitting the pieces of the puzzle together and the Patriots got the full picture last week against Lyman. They should be able to keep it together against an inconsistent team like Mainland.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League and Rep. Robert H. Macdonald are at odds over the impact of the lifting of the ban on sports television blackout of sold-out games.

Rozelle contends the anti-blackout law sponsored by Macdonald three years ago, which the Massachusetts Democrat now wants to make permanent, has caused the NFL financial harm and will do even more damage in the future.

Macdonald says no one has shown that the law has done any damage. Last month, when hearings on the legislation opened, Rozelle said:

"We're not saying the league is suffering millions of dollars of losses because of the lifting of the blackout. We're calling it an erosion. This year, season ticket sales are down all over the league and we attribute that to television saturation of games in the home market. That makes football a studio sport. And each year we are going to hurt a little more."

Rozelle appears today before the House communications subcommittee.

Don Ruck, vice president of the National Hockey League, and Simon Gourdin, deputy commissioner of the National Basketball Association, testified Wednesday in opposition to making the law permanent, saying they were being blacked out on local TV if they are sold out 72 hours in advance.

'The Count' Named NL's Top Rookie

NEW YORK (AP) — John Montefusco, who not only talked but also played a good game of baseball this year with the San Francisco Giants, was named the National League's Rookie of the Year today.

Because the cocky hurler put his money arm where his mouth was, the Baseball Writers Association of America accorded him top rookie honors ahead of Montreal's brilliant young outfielder-catcher, Gary Carter.

"I really think this is great," said the swaggering, 25-year-old pitcher after learning that he had outscored Carter 12-9 in the voting. "It's the biggest thing that's happened to me in my whole life. I've been shooting for it all year."

"I want to be the best pitcher in the majors and this is the start of it. This caps off the whole year beautifully."

Three other players received one vote each from the 24-man BBWAA board, two from each of the National League cities.

They were Montreal third baseman Larry Parrish, second baseman Manny Trillo of the Chicago Cubs and pitcher Ray Eastwick of the Cincinnati Reds.

As a high school shortstop, Montefusco was ignored in the free agent draft by all 24 major league teams. But he was signed by Giant scout Buddy Kerr following the draft in 1973 and went on to post a 9-2 record at Decatur after Kerr converted him into a pitcher.

After winning 15 games in the minors in 1974, Montefusco joined the Giants late in the season and won three games for them. The hard-throwing right-hander established himself as a strikeout artist in spring training this year and went on to become San Francisco's bread-and-butter pitcher with a 15-9 record and 215 strikeouts.

His victories were the most ever by a Giant rookie and his strikeout total narrowly missed tying the first-year record for pitchers established by Grover Cleveland Alexander, who had 227 in 1911.

Montefusco, a New Jersey native transplanted to Belmont, Cal., was known for braggadocio throughout his freshman year.

His own cheerleader, Montefusco became a quick favorite with Giant fans not only for his baseball talents but also for his colorful, boastful behavior.

Gaffney Set To Hit Road With Cast

GAINESVILLE (AP) — Florida, ranked 11th in the nation, is favored this time, whether Gaffney or junior Jim Fisher is at quarterback.

Meanwhile, Auburn Coach Ralph Jordan says he is looking for an offensive tackle to replace Chuck Fletcher, who was scheduled to undergo surgery today for a knee injury suffered in practice Wednesday.

Fletcher, the team's most consistent offensive lineman and a pre season All-SEC tackle, was injured during a goal-line drill.

Jordan said Wednesday that he was considering two players to replace Fletcher. They are freshmen Anthony Jones of Birmingham and junior Ronnie Jones of Chattanooga, Tenn.

"We've still got two days to make a decision on who will start in Chuck's place," said Jordan.

NFL'S Rozelle Locks Horns In Congress Over Blackout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League and Rep. Robert H. Macdonald are at odds over the impact of the lifting of the ban on sports television blackout of sold-out games.

Rozelle contends the anti-blackout law sponsored by Macdonald three years ago, which the Massachusetts Democrat now wants to make permanent, has caused the NFL financial harm and will do even more damage in the future.

Laker Star, Owner In Salary Dispute

LOS ANGELES — Gail Goodrich would like to play for the Los Angeles Lakers and the team's owner, Jack Kent Cooke, would like the guard to play for his team, too. They disagree on just one thing: $100,000.

The 31-year-old guard has been suspended by the National Basketball Association team because he hasn't signed his contract for this year. It's a simple matter of money, says a team spokesman.

"They're still miles apart," the spokesman said Wednesday. "He said Cooke wasn't budging and neither, apparently, was Goodrich. Asked if there was any comment on the situation, a spokesman said: "I don't know. He just left today for a vacation in Hawaii."

And that's where things stand: still.

The former UCLA guard who led the Lakers in scoring last year was paid about $150,000 for that season. He's asking something near $200,000, although none of the parties involved will discuss accurate figures. Rumors say about the fact that really separates the men is $100,000.

Last year, Goodrich was the scorer and ball handler of the Laker attack. He set up the playoffs for the first time in a dozen years.

Then came the celebrated off-season trade with Milwaukee that brought Kareem Abdul-Jabbar to Los Angeles. And then American Basketball Association guard Ronnie Freeman signed with Los Angeles.

The two acquisitions meant two things. First, a ball-handling guard was not needed as much because Abdul-Jabbar would then be the focal point of the Laker attack. Secondly, Freeman is a fine ball handler.

With Goodrich on holdout, the Lakers opened the season in New York one week ago tonight with Allen and Freeman at guards. They scored 12 and 16 points respectively in a 104-101 triumph over the Knicks.

Gail was suspended officially Tuesday, formalizing the fact that he wasn't being paid. And, perhaps to let Goodrich know the team for him, the Lakers signed 7-foot Jim McDaniels to a one-year contract on the same day Goodrich was suspended.

Big Eight coaches Win Cliche Honors

By HERSCHEL NISSONSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Courtesy of the Big Eight Conference, here are the front-runners for the Cliche of the Week Award: Coach Al Onofrio, Missouri — "Nebraska is the biggest game on our schedule. It's our next game, and we take them one at a time."

Coach Tom Osborne, Nebraska — "There's no danger of us looking past Missouri." Coach Jim Stanley, Oklahoma State — "I don't think Oklahoma has played to its potential this year, but I expect they'll get it together for us."

Coach Barry Switzer, Oklahoma — "There's no way you can play if you don't practice. You've got to be prepared. If practice wasn't important, you'd just play on Saturday."

Onofrio says "helped at overall because it gave us confidence." Last year, Missouri handled Nebraska one of its three setbacks. Two weeks ago, Colorado beat Missouri 31-20; and last week, Nebraska routed Colorado 63-21. Erp... Nebraska 27-21.

Last week's score was 46-19, 21 wrong, a 567 percentage. For the season, it's 234-129-706. Oklahoma at Oklahoma State: "I feel we've got an even chance with anyone we hook up with," says Stanley. "I think," says Switzer, "their greatest asset is their overall team quickness and speed. They've got people who can really run and chase the football. They kind of look a lot like us." And "us" is Oklahoma 35-31.

Who's On First For Nutrition?
By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am interested in getting into fiber in my diet, but I am most confused. I find it difficult to reconcile calorie nutrition to fats to proteins to carbohydrates to amino acids to come, etc. to other words, who's on first? It was complicated enough before, now along comes this nutrition thing, and I don't know how to relate it to it all the other stuff.

Championships Planned At Local Racing Plants

Local stock car racing draws to a close in the next couple weeks with championship plans planned by all of the race tracks. Suburbanite Speedway will get things started with the Winston Series Fall 100 on Sunday, the first big NASCAR sanctioned race on the fast quarter mile oval. They have just up $100 to the fastest qualifier and $120 plus to win.

Pit Stop

By CARL VANZURA
The biggest race of the year for the many racers that the asphalt tracks every week has to be the Florida 200 late model stock championship. Drivers from all over the United States show up in Tampa each November for 200 laps of racing worth over $1,000 to the winner.

This year will be on Nov. 9 starting at 2 p.m. with two qualifying heats for the 20 cars that did not make it on Saturday. Two-time Champion Ed Howe of Beaverton, Mich. and two-time winner Wayne Reutimann will be going after their third wins. Both of those fine drivers are the only repeat winners. Dave McGinnis, Freddie Fryer, Bobby Brack, Dumont Smith, Gary Balough, Bob Hamke, Don Gregory, Jack Arnold, Reutimann and Howe all have their name on the permanent Governor's Cup Trophy kept at Golden Gate. This year is a must to get tickets in advance or be in line light and early as this is always a sellout race.

Coach Says Rattlers Can Beat Rated Teams, Will Hit Polls
TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida A&M college football coach says his team is good enough to beat teams that are rated in a few weeks if he expects the Rattlers to win the polls.

Parents Can Plan For Safe Haunting

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

With growing apprehension among parents about the safety of their children as they dress in costumes and indulge in the traditional "trick-or-treat" fun of Halloween, area organizations have stepped in to provide planned and supervised events.

"Haunted houses" designed to put terror into the timid soul are springing up in various locations around the county.

Perhaps the most impressive of these is the Haunted Castle utilizing the real-life castle of Glen Turner on Bear Gully Road (off Howell Branch Road in Southwest Seminole) as a setting for spine-tingling scenes from horror movies enacted by area high school drama groups.

The Goldenrod Jaycees are sponsoring the Halloween project for the second year and will be open to the public tonight and Saturday from 6-10 p.m.

The Jaycees won national honors last year for their fund-raising project and cars were lined up for miles waiting to get in. Movies will be shown those in the waiting line. Proceeds will benefit a youth shelter.

Igor's Haunted House at the Altamonte Mall, across from the York Steak House, is a project of the South Seminole Jaycees in association with the Altamonte Mall Merchants' Association. It will be open tonight from 6:30 to 10:30 and Saturday, 5-10:30 p.m.

Count Dracula heads the list of assorted resident ghosts and ghosts who will greet those daring to enter the 12 "scary areas." There will be free candy and surprises provided by the Mall merchants.

Vihlen, Other Witnesses Heard Former Officers Seek Releases

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Character witnesses, including Seminole County Commission Chairman Sid Vihlen Jr., have testified on behalf of two ex-Sanford policemen seeking reductions in prison sentences meted on guilty pleas to felony burglary in connection with a police burglary ring.

In a Thursday hearing before Circuit Court Judges Clarence T. Johnson Jr. and A. J. Hosenmann Jr., attorneys Newmann Brock and Gerald Rutberg backed their arguments that Raymond Bennett, 39, and Hiram Hamlin, 22, should be released from prison on probation with testimony from 17 witnesses out of a courtroom nearly filled with the ex-officers' relatives and friends.

Judges Johnson and Hosenmann said after the two-hour hearing that they will issue a written decision on the motions to reduce sentences within the next 10 days after studying notes taken during the hearing and examining a number of affidavits and letters submitted in addition to the courtroom testimony.

Bennett, Hamlin and a former city animal control officer, Robert Ray Campbell Jr., 23, were sent to prison in June after

RAYMOND BENNETT

The hearing was held on 24-hour notice after Bennett and Hamlin's attorneys filed the motion for reduction of sentence. Reporters weren't notified of the hearing until two hours before it took place.

Victims of the series of burglaries that police investigators said the burglary ring members confessed to were not seen in the courtroom.

Vihlen was the first witness to testify and said he'd known Bennett for 12 years. "Based on my personal knowledge of Raymond's character," Vihlen said, "I feel he could fulfill requirements of probation and return to become a productive member of this community."

Bennett pleaded guilty to felonies in connection with a nighttime burglary ring.

Bennett was sentenced to seven years in prison plus eight years probation; Hamlin to five years prison and five years probation; and Campbell to 10 years in prison.

Bennett and Hamlin filed appeals on the convictions but the appeals were withdrawn by the defendants early this month. Campbell's appeal is still pending in the Fourth District Court of Appeals, West Palm Beach.

The two-judge panel Thursday wouldn't allow Assistant State Atty. James Figgitt to cross-examine the character witnesses and announced that the court would accept hearsay testimony.

HIRAM HAMLIN

always very truthful with me as a friend and a customer. He's just a real fine boy," Kader said.

"I'm positive he could make it on probation," Kader said.

Police Capt. C. B. Fagan Jr., who headed the internal investigation that resulted in the ex-policemen's convictions, testified to Bennett's "good character" and noted that while free on bond after his arrest that Bennett got a job and worked to support his family.

Fagan said Bennett was the ringleader in 11 area burglaries. He said police recovered all items that Bennett allegedly stole. "They were never used," he said.

"Mrs. Marie Hamlin testified that her husband, while incarcerated in the Clermont Correctional Institution in Lake County, has become vice-president of the Clermont Jaycee Chapter. She said Hamlin 'knows' what he's done and is ready to come back to face people of the community."

She told the court that Lake County news reports described Bennett and Hamlin as "ideal inmates who have no problems getting along with fellow inmates."

Witnesses testified that if the ex-officers are released from prison that they have jobs waiting for them in Sanford.

"I submit that there's no ridicule in this community for these men," Brock told the court. "And I don't think society will ridicule anyone if they are released."

Officers testified that if the ex-officers are released from prison that they have jobs waiting for them in Sanford.

"I think the people of Sanford are behind us," Tate said.

Tate said he still doesn't understand how the officers "got into this and I don't think we'll ever know." He said he thinks Bennett and Hamlin have "suffered enough" and should be released from prison. "I think the people of Sanford are behind us," Tate said.

Grand Jury Clay Pit Investigation Hinted

Seminole-Brevard State Atty. Abbott Herring today was unavailable for comment on speculation by courthouse sources that he will take a page out of an aborted county commission clay pit purchase to the Seminole County Grand Jury.

Herring earlier said that a new full term grand jury will be impaneled next week.

Herring is personally heading an investigation into the clay pit controversy and today was cloistered with Lester Mandell, president of Greater Construction Co., owner of the 103 acre site between Markham Woods Road and I-4 and north of Dixon Road.

On Tuesday, real estate agent Tom Binford, who also is chairman of the Seminole County Port Authority, reportedly voluntarily answered questions under oath about the $17,000 land deal for over an hour at Herring's courthouse offices.

Herring would not comment on his session with Binford, who lost a $12,500 commission when county commissioners reversed their decision to buy the land as a county clay supply.

Commissioners, who earlier had contracted to buy the land, backed out of the deal Oct. 14, hours after Herring met with leaders of the Markham Woods Association which led opposition to the clay pit purchase.

Area residents had contended it would cost the county $100,000 a year for 10 years to use clay from the site, as opposed to the $20,000 the county presently is paying for Volusia County clay for use on county roads.

Area residents had contended it would cost the county $100,000 a year for 10 years to use clay from the site, as opposed to the $20,000 the county presently is paying for Volusia County clay for use on county roads.

County commissioners didn't explain their reversal on the purchase decision, but County Attorney Tom Freeman said, "The economics of the purchase was probably a significant factor."

Freeman advised commissioners not to say anything about the decision that they wouldn't feel secure saying in court since the county had signed a contract to purchase the acreage.

Earlier, Herring said he had assigned investigators to look into the clay pit controversy. "We'd be interested if there was a conflict of interest involved here," he told reporters.

Binford is Freeman's first cousin.

Mandell has said a $30,000 broker commission was to have been split 50-50 between Laurel Realty and Metropolitan Realty, a company owned by Greater Construction.

Binford, who has since severed relations with Laurel Realty, said he learned from news reports that the county was looking for a new clay pit site and asked Mandell for the listing on the land.

Binford also said that he suggested that Mandell deal directly with the county because Binford is Freeman's cousin and that Mandell then approached the county with the deal.

County Commissioner Mike Hattaway, project commissioner on clay pit selection, said he dealt only with Mandell and contended whatever commission Mandell would have paid a broker is Mandell's business.

Binford said Laurel was to have received 50 per cent of the $30,000 commission on the land sale and that he was to have received one-half of Laurel's commission.

Binford said both he and Mandell dealt with Hattaway, but Hattaway said he didn't know that Binford was involved.

The county contracted in July to buy the 103-acre site, but on Oct. 14, Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski made the motion not to buy the land. Hattaway and Commissioner Dick Williams, whose district includes the proposed clay mining site, joined to vote down the buy.
