What is More Important than Health?

A man may gain millions, may become a leader in his community, may get everything he wishes in a material way, but unless that man has good health, his accumulations will do him little good.

In the busy life of the city we are often apt to neglect the most important of all things, our health. We allow our bodies to run down. We overwork. And then along comes disease and gets the best of us. In a community without proper sanitation we run a greater risk of being prey to disease germs.

Sanford Cannot Afford an Epidemic of Sickness

At the stage this city is in at the present time, it would be disastrous to have an epidemic. The rapid march of progress would be stopped. Sanford's good name would be injured. It would suffer irreparably.

Aside from a financial loss, an epidemic of sickness would result in the loss of manpower. Death would choose some of the city's best workers and boosters.

Prevention is Better than Cure

Florida is again having dengue fever. In cities and towns not properly protected from the mosquito they are suffering from this weakening disease. Those cities now free from the mosquito and which take precautionary measures will soon become known the state and nation over, for their health conditions.

An ounce of prevention now is worth more than a pound of cure later.

Sanford Must Continue to be the State's Healthiest City

By giving all sections of the city, especially the colored sections, proper sewerage systems, the chances for disease and epidemics will be reduced to a minimum.

To provide sewers in the various sections, it will be necessary to vote in favor of the bond issue next Monday.

To defeat the bond issue will invite disease and serious epidemics.

Next Monday a Bond Issue of Vital Importance will be Voted Upon Will You Vote to Make Sanford's Health Conditions Better?

Still Time to Enroll in the Herald's Big Campaign

The Contest is Still Young, Anyone can Enter and Win

ENROLL TODAY

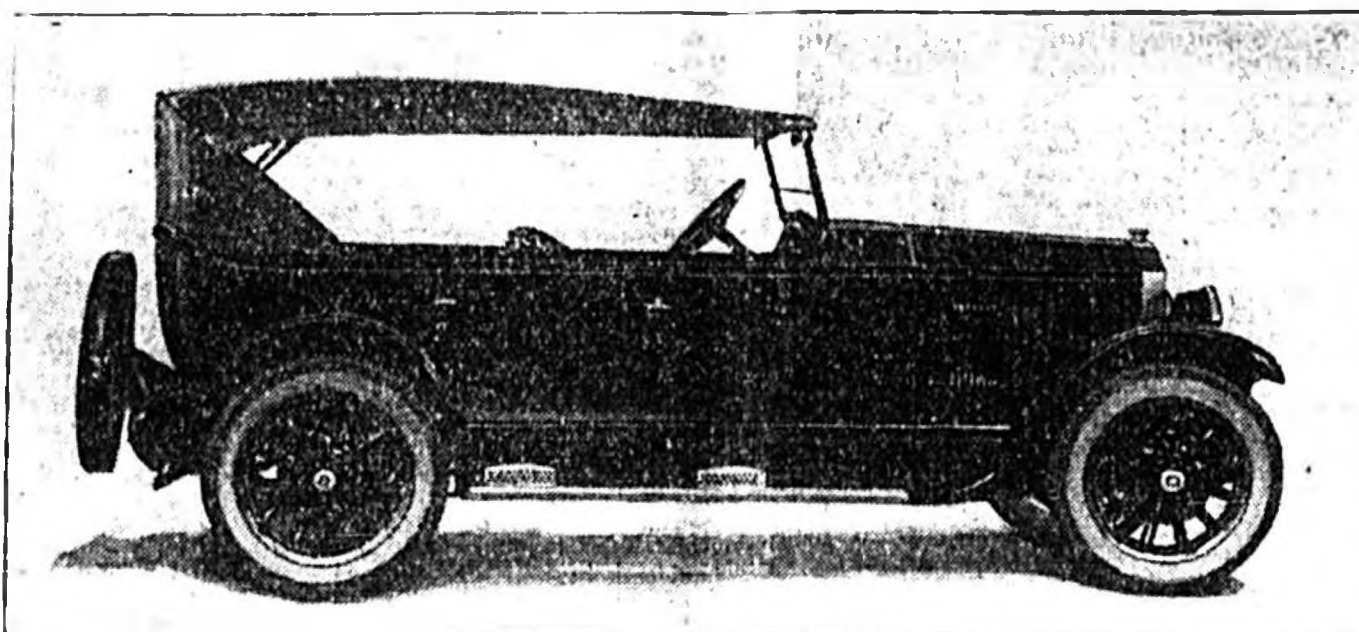

Every day The Herald receives inquiries regarding its big campaign for subscriptions. Many young ladies are still talking about participating in the race and while no definite assurance has been given some of them will enter, it is thought that before the end of the second period the list of active workers will be greatly increased.

The first two periods of the campaign offer the best opportunities for securing votes. As the vote schedule decreases every two weeks, the smart contestant will make the early periods of the campaign count for the most.

As the week passes Miss Naomi Fellows continues feeling confident that she will continue holding her lead on Saturday when the list of contestants is published. Working consistently and making every day count Miss Fellows intends doing all within her power to keep other contestants from overtaking her.

Those intending to enroll in the campaign are urged to get started today. Phone 148 and the campaign manager will call to see you and give you instructions as how to proceed. Don't delay. Don't put it off any longer. Every day counts.

WILL THIS HANDSOME CAR BE YOURS?

The Herald's campaign has just gotten a good start. A little over two weeks have passed and almost ten more remain in which workers may secure votes and in which some valuable prizes may be won.

But the time is passing quickly. Every day sees November 22 come nearer and every day some contestant either gains in the campaign or loses. No worker can stand still. Minutes count.

A hustler can enroll now and by keeping hard at work may yet be able to come out a winner at the end of the campaign. The vote schedule for the second period is a liberal one. But it will be reduced again after September 27. And the longer anyone waits the more difficult it will be to win.

$1,845 in prizes are to be given away by The Herald soon. The prizes are all worth having.

No young lady can lose. Everyone who works is guaranteed to win. It is a most liberal offer and top good to neglect.

NEW VOTING SCHEDULE

The second period in the campaign has started. The new schedule has gone into effect.

Published on this page today is the new schedule of votes allowed on subscriptions to The Herald. Note the reduction in votes over those given for the first period of the campaign. And figure, if you can, what the reduction will be at the end of the second period when another cut will take place.

Every two weeks during the campaign the votes will be reduced. Don't get the wrong impression and think they will be increased. They positively will not. And as the campaign proceeds they will be steadily cut down.

The voting schedule for the second period is still a liberal one. Contestants are urged to study it carefully and then get busy and continue piling up a big score.

Rules of Campaign

Any young lady residing in Sanford or Seminole county, over 16 years of age, is eligible to enter this automobile and salesmanship campaign and compete for one of the valuable prizes offered.

The territory is wide open. Contestants can enter from any point in Seminole county and be on an equal basis and have the same opportunity to win.

Subscriptions to The Sanford Herald may be secured anywhere in the United States at the regular rates. All orders turned in at The Herald office must be accompanied by the cash in payment.

A contestant will not be permitted to pool her votes in favor of some other contestant. Votes can not be transferred from one contestant to another.

No employee of The Sanford Herald, or member of his or her family will be allowed to enter this campaign.

A nomination blank, when properly filled out with the name and address of the contestant nominated, will give that person so nominated ten thousand votes. Only one nomination will be credited to any one contestant.

Only one prize will be awarded any one contestant. The winner of the first will not be eligible for any other prize or commission.

Contestants who remain active in the campaign until the close and who fail to win one of the prizes will be paid a commission of ten per cent on the amount they have secured in subscriptions. The Herald wants no contestant to work without remuneration and will pay all those who fail to win one of the valuable prizes a commission of ten per cent provided the contestant remains active until the end of the campaign.

All votes to be counted to the credit of contestants in this campaign should be mailed to The Sanford Herald or delivered personally to the Campaign Manager at The Herald office.

The Salesmanship Campaign began Friday morning, August 29, and will end at ten o'clock p. m. Saturday, November 22, 1924.

This campaign is to be conducted on a fair, square and impartial basis and the prizes will be awarded to the contestants securing the largest number of votes. In order that there shall be no question in the minds of any person relative to the fairness of the campaign, The Herald will select three judges who will at the end of the campaign, count the votes that have been cast and will award the prizes to the winners.

Those contestants who fail to live up to the rules of the campaign will be subject to suspension, thereby forfeiting all rights they may have had. Said forfeited votes can not be applied to any other candidate.

The decision of the Campaign Manager will be final in all controversies arising between candidates.

MAKE EVERY DAY COUNT

No other campaigns of this kind leading contestants get the idea that they cannot be beaten and frequently relax for a time—just long enough to allow some other wide-awake worker to win.

Every day should be an active day for contestants. It may be that just one subscription will win. The failure to see one friend may mean the loss of that Buick.

It will be the contestant who keeps consistently plugging away who will win. It will not be the one who works spasmodically.

There are still hundreds of persons—yes, thousands of persons in this section of Florida, who will want to subscribe to The Herald and who will want to give that subscription to you if they know you are working for one of the valuable prizes offered.

Many times since the days of the Pharaohs, statesmen have drawn up schemes of government which were excellent but failed to work. The greatest achievement of the Constitutional Convention was the fact that it was eminently practical.

At last the great instrument was agreed upon and it was turned over to Governor Morris of Pennsylvania, who was noted for his choice of English, to correct any faults of expression. The greatest number of deputies or delegates who sat in the convention was fifty-five and thirty-nine signed it, some of them not being present and some, like George Mason, refusing to sign because he thought the instrument gave too much power to the Federal Government and robbed the states of their independence.

In 1776 the American Colonies declared their independence but the United States was not organized as a constitutional republic until 1789. Mexico obtained its republican government in 1824, which it has ever since possessed, except in the brief period of Maximilian's reign, from 1837 to 1867. All the independent countries of America are now republics, Brazil obtaining that form of government in 1889. It is not at all improbable that the present century will witness the establishment of republics in many regions governed at present by powerful monarchies.

The Constitution of 1870, the last of the many institutions of France since the Revolution, consists of a series of laws, passed by the National Assembly. Thus, profiting by the United States and establishing a republic, France has established a republic.

The Swiss differ markedly among themselves in language, in religion, and in customs. About 70 per cent of the inhabitants are German-speaking but people of the romantic speak of when passing of debate had risen every high and it seemed as though the Convention must break up and disperse. Franklin arose and said:

"In our endeavors," said Washington, "to establish a new general government, the contest, nationally considered, seems not to have been so much for glory as for existence. It was for a long time doubtful whether we were to survive as an independent republic, or decline from our federal dignity into a significant and withered fragments of an empire."

The convention had two great aspects. In Washington, its President, whose wide reputation, practical wisdom and unflinching demeanor, calmed every storm; and the wit, good humor, and unvarying confidence of Franklin. At one time when passions of debate had risen every high and it seemed as though the Convention must break up and disperse. Franklin arose and said:

There were a few great land owners in that body but very few. Among them was George Mason, who owned an estate of two hundred thousand acres on the Potomac River, eight miles below Washington, home, Mt. Vernon. In his personal characteristics he was perhaps the greatest aristocrat in the body. He refused to sign the Constitution and despite his devotion to Washington, latterly opposed its ratification by the Virginia Ratification Convention. He was a man of great ability and was a member of the Federal Government, but was ardently for a Democratic form of government.

At the very close of the Constitutional Convention, when the draft of the Constitution had been agreed upon and was about to be signed, he made a brief speech. On the back of the chair of the presiding officer in which Washington sat as President, was carved a representation of the sun and its rays. He said that often during his deliberations he had noted this carving and wondered if it portrayed the rising sun of a new country. When called to the floor he hesitated to sign because the document did not in every particular meet his views, he told of a French lady whom he had known in Paris who once said to her, "It is very strange that I always find everyone wrong but myself," and said that he had learned in this long life that he frequently found himself mistaken in things about which he was most sure, that he had come to believe that after all the will of the majority was nearly always right. His speech brought a ruse from many who before had refused to sign and throughout the deliberations of the convention his unflinching good humor, that could always tranquilize any tumult with a witty remark, his unflinching wisdom, his common sense, always exercised at the right time, made the Constitution possible.

Of course the commanding figure was General Washington of whom no satisfactory life history has ever been written. The years that have passed since his death have changed his image and likeness into a sort of steel engraving without anything human about it. He, too, like many of the other members of the convention was self-made. He inherited from his brother the estate of Mt. Vernon which he increased until he owned five thousand acres. He was the most progressive farmer in Virginia. No other man but Washington could have held an equal balance between the rival factions and, with the unlimited confidence of all classes, carry the infant Republic through its first year, and set it upon that sure basis which it has followed with success for one hundred and thirty-four years.

the policy of mutual toleration prevents either language or religion from becoming a dominating force; thus keeping the Swiss a united nation.

Czechoslovakia is a republic with a Constitution patterned after that of the United States. With the Constitution as a guide this new republic is advanced in agriculture, trade, and manufacturing and is well provided with schools and it has every assurance of a prosperous and happy future.

Like its Czechoslovak neighbor, Poland has become a republic and by this form of government she has found herself by a special treaty with the Allies to maintain free institutions, under the influence of the League of Nations.

During the years of 1918 and 1919 Finland contended with both the Bolsheviks and the Germans, but Germany's collapse restored liberty to the country. It was soon recognized as an independent republic by the principal allied powers. That had a great effect upon Finland for it was freed from the dreadful hands of the Bolsheviks and Germans.

The Social Democrats before the war were the chief opponents of patriotism and autocracy in Germany and even in 1914 held out against the war. They were the chief opponents of the war. They were the chief opponents of the war.

Under its protection, the United States is today the richest, most intelligent, the most powerful and the happiest Nation the world has ever seen.

Don't ship green fruit!

Help Florida's Greatest Industry To Pay Real Dividends EVERY Year

Anybody can ship green fruit these first weeks and get a few high dollars. That may not be difficult. But the far-sighted shipper—he who works for future as well as present profits—will not. He knows that green fruit kills the interest of the consumer and brings forth in Florida fruit. He realizes that green fruit helps drop the bottom out of the market and the balance of the Florida crop. He has EXPERIENCED the result. He, together with all shippers, has figured in red instead of counting profits. And he will do all in his power to stop a practice that tends to bring about another poor season. Don't ship green fruit. Play fair with the industry. It pays.

The Florida Citrus Exchange guarantees all fruit shipped as Sealdsweet to conform to the spirit of the law against green fruit. Make certain that your fruit is properly marketed and have it shipped under the Sealdsweet brand.

CROWD 30,000 SEES AMERICAN POLOISTS WIN

Is Picturesque Scene With the Prince of Wales as One Center of Attraction, the Game the Other; Yankees Clinch Possession of Cup-Emblem of Polo Supremacy

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 17.—America's infrepid riders galloped to their second successive victory Tuesday over Great Britain's horsemen and clinched possession of the International challenge cup-emblem of polo supremacy between these rival nations.

Another picturesque crowd of 30,000, with the Prince of Wales as the center of attraction, saw the flying Yankees dash to victory by a margin of 14 to 6, but though it was decisive the score does not reveal the gallant stubbornness with which the British, led by the redoubtable Louis Lacey made their last fight for the cup.

The challengers, shifting their lineup in a final desperate rally, made a brilliant fight against heavy odds, one that thrilled the throng and made the match closely and more interesting than the score indicates. Pitting with far more fire and aggressiveness than they showed in the first match the invaders outscored their rivals in the first period and held them on even terms in the three other chukkers.

The Americans handicapped by the loss of their crack No. 3, Malcolm Stevenson, who was injured in the first game but once to strike their stride but slow their attack gathered headway, the final outcome never was in doubt.

Though the British fought desperately toward the close they fought in vain against the superior team play, the harder and more accurate hitting and versa-tility of their opponents. Tommy Hitchcock a whirling dervish on attack, and Devereaux Milburn, a stone wall on the defense, were the outstanding figures in the American's irrefutable sweep to victory.

Triumph assured the United States possession of the historic challenge trophy for at least another three years and marks the fifth time this country has won it in the eight international games since 1886.

The Prince of Wales was a prominent figure in the crowd that surrounded the players as they gathered alongside of the field for the presentation of the trophy to the winners by Major General Robert Lee Bullard. He was warm in his praise of the Americans.

The story of Tuesday's victory was simply one in which each team work combined with class, told over gallant individual effort. While he did not fit quite as well into the team as his predecessor, Robert E. Strawbridge, Jr., the new No. 3, in the Yankee lineup, played brilliantly.

Hitchcock and Milburn were the heroes of the triumph. The young No. 2 played one of the best games of his career, dashing into the thick of scrimmages to send the ball out with leg, powerful strokes, riding off opponents with definite stalling and scoring from all angles of the field. His total of five goals was the highest individual score of the afternoon though he was closely pressed by Webb, who total led four times.

Milburn was a tower on defense. He was forced to shoulder an additional burden through the loss of Stevenson and broke most of the British attacks with no alertness and powerful driving. The challengers found him impenetrable at critical moments, while on the attack this brilliant veteran, playing in his sixth international cup series, often started drives that paved the way to one of his team mates to score.

Webb had a difficult assignment for he was opposed to the spectacular Lacey, Captain and back of the challengers, but he did his job well.

Lacey, however, proved formidable on the defense and several times averted what looked like certain goals for America.

The British as a whole hit with more severity and displayed better team work than they did Saturday but their wildness cost them many excellent chances to score.

The lineup and summary:

America: J. Watson Webb, No. 1; Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., No. 2; R. E. Strawbridge, Jr., No. 3; Devereaux Milburn (C) Back.

Great Britain: Lieut. Col. T. P. Melville, No. 1; Maj. G. Philippa-Hornby, 2; Atkinson 3; Lacey 4; Strawbridge 5; Milburn 6; Milburn 7; Atkinson 8; Lacey 9.

Esferree; Carleton F. Burke. Umpires: Captain Wesley K. White for America; Col. Vernon Whitley for Great Britain.

Times, Williams H. Kocap and J. Eugene Greer. Time of chukkers: 7 1-2 minutes each.

COACHING STAFF OF HIGH SCHOOL GOOD THIS YEAR

Kenneth B. Hait, Graduate of the University of Florida, Heads Coaching List; Two Assistants Are Secured

By Bill Cann. As a head coach, Kenneth Hait, who hails from the University of Florida, fills the ticket admirably according to first hand information received concerning him. Mr. Hait will teach physical education and freshman English this year at Sanford High and will find ample time to round into shape a successful grid squad.

Mr. Hait was graduated from the University of Florida last year, and during the summer took a course in football coaching at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He comes here well recommended, and according to all appearances is well liked by his football men. The writer received a pleasing impression of him at his first interview and probably all others say the same.

Mr. E. Z. Heit, who will be another of the faculty this year, will be one of Mr. Hait's chief assistants. Mr. Heit is not as "easy" as his initials attempt to say, but is in high favor in scholastic sport circles. He came from the same place as Coach Hait and received training for a coach at the University of North Carolina also.

Coach Wheelock comes from the University of Georgia, and was "All Southern" grid player for two years. Although he is not connected with the faculty of the school, as are the others, he will be a valuable asset to the coaching staff. The services of Mr. Wheelock were secured through the efforts of members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of this city who are interested in the progress of athletics in the school.

LEADERSHIP OF AMERICAN AGAIN WITH SENATORS

Take Lead While Yankees Are Idle; New York Has Chance Today in Double Header; Giants Hold in National

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. Washington regained undisputed possession of the American League pennant Tuesday by defeating Cleveland 6 to 2, while the Yankees were kept idle in St. Louis by the Cardinals. The Philadelphia Athletics, 14 to 2, and dropped further back in their quest for season honors in San Francisco's contest.

Washington now leads New York by half a game but the Yankees will have a chance to get back into the lead when they play a double header against the Braves.

The complexion of the National standing changed somewhat yesterday when the leaders found the pace rather fast for their slowly moving caravan. The Giants were forced to split up their twin bill with the Reds, winning the first game 5 to 1, but losing the decision in the night cap, 3 to 1. At the same time Brooklyn absorbed a terrific beating at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals, the Westerners being on the excursion end of a 17 to 3 count.

The Pirates, the West's lone candidate for premier honors in the National were forced to split with the Phillies, losing the opener to 5, but landing on top in the second session, 13 to 7.

MOM'N POP "The Effect" By TAYLOR

Mary K. Browne didn't win the woman's national golf championship this year, but she was the big biller of the tournament just the same. She defeated Gloria Collett, a former champion, and went to the finals before losing to Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Furd. Her performance was all the more remarkable because it was her first appearance in the championship. Ten years ago she was the nation's greatest woman tennis player. From 1912 to 1914 she ruled supreme. You see her pictured here during her glory as a tennis champion, garbed in the snappy sport garments of the times.

The Gored Bull

A sharp right from Harry Wills to Lou Argel Frigo's ribs sent the Argentinian to the canvas for the count. It was the second round in their little debate in Jersey City. It was the early knockdown in the show. But it showed the "wild bull" was a half as wild as he was said.

Chicago 8, 1; Boston 3, 2. BOSTON, Sept. 17. Chicago went into fourth place by winning 8 to 2.
