566 students: No more free rides

By VICKI Descritter Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Nearly half the students in Sanford and Lake Mary who live within two miles of their zoned school and have been granted courtesy busing in the past will have to find another way to get to school in the fall.

Of the 1,227 students who were eligible to ride the bus, 566 or 46 percent will be told there will be no more free rides.

While the state Department of Education provides financial support to the district to transport all students who live more than two miles from their zoned school, the rules for those living closer are different. The DOE will provide for those students in kindergarten through sixth grade who must traverse hazardous areas to get to school. Above the sixth grade, the district has provided transportation for those whose routes are hazardous, despite a lack of financing from the DOE.

Eyewitness testifies in trial about elephant's rampage

Associated Press

MELBOURNE - A mother who took five children to the circus for a birthday celebration that was shattered when the elephant they were riding went berserk detailed her terror at the trial of the animal's trainer.

"I knew we were all going to be killed." said Kathy Lawler. "I thought there was no way out." Six people were injured in the incident.

In two hours on the witness stand Thursday, she told how a $2 ride on an Asian elephant named Janet with her 3-year-old son. 8-year-old daughter and three other children turned into the stuff of horror films.

Suddenly, as the Feb. 1 ride before a performance of the Great American Circus in Palm Bay approached its end, Janet anapped, Lawler said. The 27-year-old beast tried to destroy a lion's cage, then smashed a longing platform. Trainer Tim Frisco, 30, who is charged with failing to control Janet, tried to calm her, but the pachyderm refused to be pacified and tossed him 25 feet.

A voice on the loudspeaker urged the 'crowd of more than 500 to stay calm and in their scats, Lawler recalled.

"All I could think was I've got to get these kids off this elephant or they are going to die," she testified

Then Janet charged the granstand.

"She started toward the bleacher where my daughter and my husband were sitting," Lawler said.

"I got close enough where I could see right in my husband's eves. I thought 'This is it. There isn't anything we can do. We are all going to die.'

"It was right there that she reached up with her trunk and grabbed the electrical cable and snapped it like a bungee cord." Lawler testified. "Sparks flew up and kids started screaming and people started running. I thought the whole tent was going to collapse.

Lawler and the five children clung to Janet's back as she left the tent to overturn a van and fling an electric generator.

The kids were all screaming hysterically," Lawler said. Peo-ple ran toward the elephant with arms outstretched for the children.

A circus worker on another elephant rode up alongside. Lawler handed the kida to him, then scrambled after them.

She then went to the tent and found her family. Seconds later, the 7:500 th: Janet rumbled back inside.

'All hell broke loose," Lawler said. "People were screaming top of each other. There was metal all over the place, falling down in front of us.

"I saw one old man fall. Someone grabbed my daughter. Somehow we made it out through a slit in the tent."

Palm Bay Police Cpl. Blayne Doyle testified that Frisco, 30, did nothing to help. The trainer told him to kill

Janet, Doyle said. 'You better shoot this elephant, because if she gets in that crowd she's going to kill somebody," Doyle recalled Frisco saying. "She's a bad elephant. she's always been a bad elephant. I'm telling you - shoot her now."

Doyle said he refused at first, hoping Janet would settle down. But when the enraged elephant headed back toward the circus

Redistricting help irks Democrats

Court appoints a GOP loyalist to pick plan

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - The appointment of a Republican loyalist to help a federal court draw Florida's new congressional districts has Democrats up in arms.

"You would not have a member of the opposing team referee the Super Bowl," said Simon Ferro, chairman of the state Democratic Party.

The party filed a motion Thursday asking a panel of three federal judges to disqualify Stephen McNamara as an expert witness for the court. McNamara was selected earlier this week by Special Master C. Clyde Atkins, a retired federal judge.

McNamara, director of the Collins Center for Public Policy at Florida State University. was given the task of recommending a plan for the 23 districts to Atkins by April 28, He can draw one if none of the other 12 plans appear valid.

Atkins, in turn, will submit his recommended plan to the three Judges by May 6. The judges intend to adopt a final congressional redistricting map May 29.

Ferro and other Democrats say McNamara is too partisan for the job, noting that he has been intimately involved in GOP politics for more than 14 years.

'The appointment of this individual as an expert to the special master poses a clear risk of partisan, biased analysis in contravention of the (court's) duty of accepting and enforcing plans made with fairness and not influenced by politics," the Democrats' motion reads.

McNamara did not return a telephone call Thursday. But his resume is highlighted by jobs with strong ties to the Republican Republican Former Gov. Bob Martinez hired McNamara to run the Department of Business Regulation in 1989 to replace Van

Poole, who left to become chairman of the state Republican Party. McNamara also worked for the Tallahassee branch of a law firm that included J.M. "Mac" Stipanovich, Martinez's top political adviser and former chief of stall. McNamara worked for Republican Skip Bafalis' gubernatorial campaign in 1982 and managed former Gov. Claude Kirk's attempted comeback in 1978.

Ferro said he did not have any suggested replacements and added that Atkins must not have been aware of McNamara's ties to the GOP when he was selected.

Fiscal integrity

The idea of former Sen. Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts and Sen. Warren Rudman of New Hampshire leading a fight to restore fiscal responsibility to the federal government has appeal. Rudman, a Republican, and Tsongas, a Democrat, could be effective spokesmen for the effort.

What the two propose is radical. Both say they want to push for responsible economic policies.

Of the changes needed in America, few are more important than changing the attitude of Congress about spending tax money.

Rudman believes that the best way to get Congress to make the hard choices is to generate support across the country for the cause of reasonable fiscal management. By changing the thinking of Americans, Rudman believes it will be easier to promote policies in Congress that embrace the concept of fiscal discipline.

Their thoughts on the economy are remarkably similar. Rudman, interviewed on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation," said he and Tsongas "share the view that the flacal integrity of this country, unless things change very rapidly, is going to dissipate, and we will face a mjaor crisis within a very few years."

Rudman has been fighting a lonely battle to bring fiscal responsibility to the federal government. The New Hampshire senator was a co-author of the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget law that Congress and the White House enacted in 1985. He is retiring from the Senate this year because of, among other things, his frustration over efforts to reduce the budget deficit.

Tsongas, who dropped out of the Democratic race for the presidential nomination, has sensible ideas about the economy. He said government's responsibility is to provide jobs, not handouts. The government, he said, can't afford new social programs. Tsongas' economic program included incentives that Republicans have sometimes favored, such as tax credits, a targeted capital gains tax reduction and export assistance.

Both Rudman and Tsongas have talked about the deficit and the other economic problems that have dragged down the vitality of America. Their message deserves to be heard. How much more effective that message will be if delivered from the same platform.

Madness in the Balkans

Last November, Serbian gunners laid waste to Dubrovnik, an Adriatic jewel founded in 200 B.C. Their aim was to terrorize civilians in an attempt to stop Croatian independence. Now the gunners have opened up on civilians in Sarajevo, capital of the new republic of Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Not even the recent arrival of two U.S. cargo planes carrying relief supplies stopped the bombardment, characterized by a representative of the European Community as "barbaric." Fortunately, the U.S. C-141s carrying food, blankets and medicine to Sarajevo were not hit.

In continuing these attacks, which are in violation of an April 12 cease-fire agreement in Bosnia-Herzegovina, the Serbian government in Belgrade and the rump Yugoslav (Serbian) army have become their own worst enemeics. They are creating an unbridgeable chasm of enmity between Serbs and every other ethnic group of what was formerly Yugoslavia.

Europeans and Americans alike should be aghast that these atrocities can take place in modern Europe. Even allowing for the ethnic rivalries that have marked Balkan history, the Serba have gone beyond the pale. In attempting to create a "greater Serbia," uniting Serba in all of Yugoslavia, they are using the same methods and same tactics used by Hitler to unite Germans in the 1930s.

Belgrade's protest to Washington that U.S. policy has become anti-Serbian is pure fatuity. In an attemplat to satisfy Belgrade, the United States delayed longer than other Western countries in recognizing the independence of Croatia, Slovenia and Bosnia-Herzegovina.

That delay did no good. It did not slake Belgrade's desire for more land. But in turning their artillery on cities and towns, the Serbs have forfeited any good will the world might have had toward them.

As the largest Yuoslav republic, Serbia should have taken the lead in forging a new confederation of southern Slavic states. Serbia could have played the same role that Russia is playing in the former Soviet Union. Instead, the Serba tried to block independence by the others and steal their territory — not through warfare, but through military rrorism.

These tactics are pathetically self-defeating.

Cheer the changing faces of sports

This is the happy season of change, a time when families of red azaleas, yellow forsythias, pink dogwoods and coral cherry blossoms compete for our oracular affection.

Sparrows seem to warble with lustier early-morning enthusiasm. Stiff-legged robins hop-scotch across lawns, and Tennyson's tribute to the awakening libido is reconfirmed, except for one egalitarian modification. "In the spring a young man's — and a young woman's — fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love."

That poetic modification is only one of three quiet, but dramatic plastic surgeries around college campuses. Two others have changed the face of collegiate sports.

Women and men from academically superior colleges — in the case of the men, white men — have become national athletic powers.

On almost any national list of academic rankings. Duke and Stanford universities are easily housed in the top 15. But few of their NCAA competitors distinguish themselves with comparable intellectual proficiency.

A current movie and the NCAA basketball championships, won by the Duke men and Stanford women, jointly symbolize a change. As Duke's Ichabod Crane-thin white star, Chris Lattener, soared toward the stadium's ceiling and pirouetted to earth on the power of a sassy in-yo'-face dunk, he had to be grinning inwardly at a movie title's false assumption, "White Men Can't Jump."

Oh. Indeed they can. They can also s hoot their Caucasoid buns off. If Duke's Bobby Hurley and the Ceitics' Larry Bird had served in World Warl, they would have put Sgt. Alvin York to shame.

The ethnic transition is not complete, however. After all, Duke's opponent in the NCAA final was Michigan, with its all-black "Fabulous Five Freshmen." Some things do remain sacred.

Still, in this era of heightened racial consciousness and a creeping alienation between races on many college campuses, athletics reigns as the most integrated force in America.

The ethnic transition is however.

not complete,

At any Sunday-afternoon baseball game, Saturday-afternoon football game or

Thursday-evening basketball game, the teams usually are 20 times more racially integrated than the congregations of 95 percent of this country's churches — and the Princeton basketball squad.

What continues to fascinate me is the paradox of this country fostering racial integration in sports and entertainment while resisting the same process in academia.

Organizations such as the white, elitist, anti-politically correct National Association of Scholars (NAS) will attend sporting events, root for their teams to bring home television money, then turn around and lobby to keep blacks and Hispanics out of academia.

That which we call chutzpah by any other name would smell as rancid.

At the same time, racial, gender and class changes in sports offer a challenge. Michigan's "Fabulous Five" freshmen proved they can jump. They also proved that minorities have the ability to master cognitive learning well enough to attend college.

It's up to schools in minority communities — aided and encouraged by minority parents — to get their pedagogic act together. Only then can all deserving minority kids reap the harvest of a college education.

Europeans' message mixed the year in which Europe's major nations would greet a new era, moving toward closer economic union. A unified and confident Europe was to claim a central role in world affairs.

However, over the past few weeks, European voters have gone to the polls, and the results have led to forecasts of confusion and uncertainty:

By far, the biggest surprise was in Britain, where Prime Minister John Major and his Conservative Party stunned experts by holding onto a narrow majority in Parliament. Every public opinion poll showed that the populace was tired of Conservative policies after 13 years of rule. Voters seemed ready to give a remade Labor Party a chance to see what it could do.

However, the same polis also showed that John Major was personally very popular and trusted; the same could not be said for labor Party head Neil Kinnock. In the bitter, flve-week national campaign, which included American-style negative ads and a stress on personalities rather than issues, Major exploited the distrust of Kinnock to his own

Still, the narrowness of the victory means that Britain is liable to enter a period of uncertainty. Major is operating with an actual majority and vowing to push ahead with economic and social reforms. But the Conservatives clearly lack the overwhelming mandate they enjoyed in the past three elections, when Margaret Thatcher was at the height of her popularity.

At the end of 1992, the agreement to eliminate trade barriers and other restrictions within the European Economic Community will take effect. With a majority of the British skeptical of Conservative Party policies, next year should bring a great deal of soul-searching in Britain as it looks inward and not towards

In Italy, after 45 years of rule by 50 coalition governments dominated by the generally centrist Christian Democrats, voters have thrown the political system into near chaos by turning to new regional parties. It is still unclear if the Christian Democrats have been left with enough power to form a coalition that can govern

Since 1948, the Christian Democrats have held power because of national fear of the Italian Communist Party, the strongest communist party in Europe. Now, though, with the fall of communism generally, that threat has ended. Voters tired of the chronic corruption and inefficiency of the Italian government are now saying it is time for a change. However, as of yet, they have failed to articulate what that change will be

This all comes at a particularly inopportune time. By newly adopted rules, for a member to fully participate in the EEC, its national debt by 1997 must not exceed 60 percent of its GNP, Italy's is now above 100 percent and climbing monthly. It is going to take very strong economic measures to bring the economy under control. This will probably not be possible under fragile coalition government.

In Germany, the linchpin for the new EEC, it appears that, after 20 years. Chancellor Helmut Kohl's Christian Democratic Party is in big trouble. In a series of votes for key state parliaments contests that normally serve as barometers of national sentiment the Christian Democrats lost control of several states, including those in the most prosperous area of Germany, Baden-

By far, the biggest surprise was in Britain

Wuerttemberg.
In elections where about 12 percent of Germans went to the polis, the result was called a "political earthquake" by ARD, Germany's national television network. Two small radical right-wing parties took over two state parliaments, and the radical right made big gains everywhere.

It was not only Kohl and the Christian Democrats that were the losers. The Social Democrats and their leader Bjorn Engholm — who was to be the main challenger to Kohl in the next national election in 1994 — were ousted from control of their state parliament in Holstein by another small radical party.

These voters were sending a message that they are unhappy with the economic cost of German reunification and the influx of foreigners into the country. This, too, is not good for the EEC.

Finally, in France, regional voting has shown that the Socialist government of Prime Minister Francois Mitterrand has reached a new low in popularity. After receiving only 16 percent of the vote for seats on France's 22 regional councils, Mitterrand fired his unpopular prime minister, Edith Cresson, and made other moves to shore up his popularity.

But, as in Germany, the election showed an upsurge in the popularity of ultra-nationalist. right-wing parties that are committed to France first, and only secondarily to a newly unified Furore.

Gadhafi continues to haunt the U.S.

WASHINGTON — Col. Moammar Gadhafi summoned us to Tripoli 13 years ago this month for an interview in a tent. "I like to see the sky," he said, explaining our unusual surroundings. "It helps me think better than when I am surrounded by walls."

During our tent meeting with Gadhafi, his face seemed somehow divided against itself—the upper half flerce, with a trace of anguish in the eyes; the lower half disarming, almost lost in thought, with a wisp of a smile playing across the lips that spoke softly. Gadhafi had an amazing ability to smile and scowl at the same time.

President Bush, like his predecessors, will be spending much time in the coming months atudying this inentification. What, Bush discerns may determine questions of war and peace this election year.

Gadhafi seems to serve up tests for every American president. Despite his resolve in Desert Storm. Bush is apparently no exception. Bush's determination in rolling back state-sponsored terrorism will be put to the test in the way he responds to Gadhafi. Lesson one for administration officials: The strongman of this North African nation has always reliahed pressure from the United States, as if taking on a superpower enhances and exalts him with his own people, almost bestowing a mythical quality.

Moreover, CIA reports show that there has actually been more Libyan-sponsored terrorism against Americans since Ronald Reagan sent 18 warplanes to blast Tripoli in 1986 in retaliation for suspected terrorism.

Gadhafi has shelters and bunkers to protect him from military threats, but he's defenseless to one weapon: oil. While a bombing strike would be politically popular and militarily simple, intelligence experts believe that the only way of tightening the noose on Gadhafi is the imposition of an international boycott on Libyan oil.

boycott on Libyan oil.

But first, Bush might have to go to war diplomatically with U.S. allies — not to mention powerful American corporations. Using the oil weapon would inflict a direct hit on the Libyan economy, which derives 90 percent of its earnings from petroleum imports. Bush would incur heavy political fire from Italy and other European allies, who buy the bulk of Libyan oil, not to mention some of the most powerful American oil companies that conduct business internationally.

Bush would also be rolling the dice: Does he want to risk a deeper recession as a reward for dislocating Gadhaff?

for dislodging Gadhaff?

The first shot across Gadhaff's bow was the recently passed United Nations sanctions that halted arms sales, cut off air flights to and from Libya, and in some, cases, expelled Libyan diplomats around the world. Bush administration officials see these initial sanctions as a way of sending a warning to Gadhaff that his reign of state-sponsored terrorism is at an end.

The United States is squeezing Libya by expelling three of its diplomats from the U.N. and pledging to maintain an economic war against the North African nation until it can prove it no longer supports terrorism. Even if Libya surrenders two suspects in the 1988 Pan Am Flight 103 bombing, it probably won't be enough to lift sanctions imposed by the U.N. The resolution also demands Libya to pay compensation and end its support of There's more sabre-rattling than substance behind Bush's approach. The United States has no relations with Libya, and there are no Libyan diplomats in this country. The United States already bans commerce with Libya and has no diplomatic relations.

Arvida officials unveiled a bulletin board last night at their Heathrow Sales Center which of the students and the faculty at each of the schools.

"When potential residents come in here," Bartlett said. "they will see the good things that are going on in the schools their children will attend."

Arvida donated the land on which Heathrow Elementary School is built and has committed to doing what they can to ensure that it is one of the finest schools in the Seminole County district, Bartlett said.

Seminole and Lakeview have long been plagued by a poor image, Bartlett said. That image, she said, is largely undeserved.

"We want the people who come in here to know that the Seminole County school district, its schools and its parents are committed to the same sort of excellence that we are."

Across America in this springtime of freshness and hope. AP reporters took those questions to people in a post-tion to speak for a constituency or-e community. Those interviewed included a retired minister in San Antonio. Texas; a bank president in Knoxville. Tenn.: the editor of a Spanish-language weekly in San Jose, Calif.; a juvenile judge who moved to Florida as a Vista volunteer nearly 30 years ago to work in the inner city and has been there since.

On the surface, the fear and distemper don't make much

Yes, there's a recession. But it's ending and never was as bad as the last one, 10 years ago. Ninety-three percent of workers, after all, are gainfully employed.

Meantime, the Cold War is over. A 45-year threat of war with a ruthless tyranny is gone. The nuclear risk diminishes, a shroud of fear lifting.

Everywhere, America is envied, its democracy emulated. Muscovites line up for an American hamburger on a sesame seed bun. Asian youngsters buy worn-out blue jeans, all the more valuable because they were once worn by an American kid.

Yet discontent abounds here. Two-thirds of voters in the primaries say they can't abide any of the candidates. Turnout is low, turnost high. Ross Perot, a billionaire whose ideas still are a mystery to the country, draws thousands to his possible insurgency presidential campaign. Incumbents fear wholesale rejection: many jump ship. Charlie Nash, 63, who lives on the Ohio farm where he was born — and who lived through the Depression, the big war, the Cold War, Korea, Vietnam, the assassinations, Watergate - says he's never seen his country so sour.

"I grew up in the De-pression." he says. "The country wasn't in a good mood, but I don't think it was as bad as the mood is right now. At that time, people helped each other."

No single thing explains America's malaise, say the people questioned by AP. But each new event, each new worry adds to the anxiety. Washington's check-bouncing imbroglio would have been a one-week phenomena in ordinary times. Now it lingers, a camel back's straw, corrosive enough to persuade congressmen to quit.

In the interviews, these were among the factors mentioned:

-Divided and deadlocked government, with a Democratic Congress and a Republican presidency.

-Big government. "It's in our pockets, it's in our lives in every way. ... It's in our faces," said homebuilder Roger Berle, who lives on Maine's Cliff Island.

-The inability of many two-income families to do more than make ends meet.

-Unemployment and the disappearance of high-paying manufacturing jobs and the inadequacy of low-paying service jobs.

-Negative campaigning. 'People are turned off." said

-Television. It is seen as magnifying bad news. exposing people to the stale-mate within government, ignoring what's good in society and what works.

-The ire felt when people who are barely getting their own see others using food stamps.

-The fearsome cost of medical care.

-The failure of schools

-The perception that the Japanese are beating America at what used to be America's own game.

Many parents, like Harry Ellis. who said he lives near Summeriin Avenue and Forest Drive in Sanford, believe the routes should be reassessed because some which are considered courtesy are outside the two mile boundary. Ellis, whose child attends Sanford Middle School, said it is two miles from his front door to the school.

"I think this needs to be remeasured," he said.

The transportation department, which had transparancies depicting the location of each bus stop on a map and slides of each stop, was well prepared to answer questions from the board and the public about the routes. They promised, however, that if parents filled out the proper request forms, they would remeasure individual routes.

Church asks Sanford to help it in demolition of burned building

By MICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

D - The burned remains of the old Bethlehem Primitive Baptist Church, in the 1600 block of W. 15th Street are to be torn down. The church wants the city to handle the demolition.

The structure was severly damaged by fire last year. According to Sanford Fire Inspector Paul Keith, "We responded to a fire at 1606 W. 15th Street on July 21st of last year, and again at the same location on July 22nd."

The cause of the fire has still not been fully determined.

The actual street number is confusing. The Church identifies the property as being located at 1630 W. 15th Street, while the Sanford Fire Department records indicate the address is 1606. The number 1630 has since been marked on the front of the burned structure. Bernice Jackson, secretary/treasurer, and her husband David Jackson, deacon of the church, have made the application to the City. They want the City to tear the building down. David Jackson has informed City Manager Bill Simmons, "I got in touch with three contractors. From two, I did not get any response. The other one wanted $4,400." He added, "We can't pay that amount and we agreed to ask the city to tear

Jackson said the church will pay the city for the cost.

According to an estimate from the Public Works department, the demolation, if accomplished by the City, would have a total cost of $1,886.77. The work would be done by Public Works crews.

Simmons had suggested Jackson might wish to consider some other organization to handle the demolition, but has scheduled the matter on Monday night's City Commission agenda for consideration should the request still stand.

Future shock

Retiree offers solutions in booklet he wrote

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - For many years, J. Wain Cummings saw many of the nation's environmental, crime and life safety problems traveling along highways.

Cummings says America's dependence on petroleum has contributed to acid rain and environmentally-devastating oil spills.

"I'm a true ecologist," said Cummings, who retired last year from the county after nearly 17 years as a building inspector.

Cummings, 67, served for two terms as a housing commissioner for the Sanford Housing Authority and has worked as steam engine operator. He is supreme chief and co-founder of the Phoenix Knights of Pythias No. 5 lodge in Sanford.

A self-described inventor. Cummings has a host of ideas for improving our life.

Cummings visualizes highways and railways being ripped up and the land under them restored to its natural origins. Gasoline and other petroleum fuels would be replaced with such natural power sources such as the ocean, rivers, wind and the sun. Cars and trucks and trains would be abolished except for the occasional sport

And how would we get around?

Those highways and roads would be replaced by a network of overhead ribbons spanning from state to state and city to city. Local "sky rails" would even move you about from your front door to the grocery store several blocks away.

J. Wain Cummings

Cummings believes so strongly in the merits of his idea he has printed up 1,100 copes of "Stop and Think." a 14-page booklet describing his view of the problem and the solution. Copies can be ordered by calling 322-7680.

Bush pushing Mexico trade pact

WASHINGTON - President Bush says he will push for a major trade agreement with Mexico before the November election, but Democrats say he'll run into a fight with Congress uniess he negotiates a better deal.

"The president simply hasn't argued forcefully on the competitive issues regarding the United States and Mexico that really matter: adequate environmental controls, worker rights and the policies we need to create high-wage jobs in America." House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt said.

Gephardt issued his statement Thursday night after Bush, in a speech to the Council of the Americas, said he had instructed U.S. negetiators to speed up work on a treaty to bring Mexico into a tariff-free trade alliance with the United States and

"There will be no delay because of American politics." the president promised. He said trade with Mexico supports hundreds of thousands of U.S. jobs, and that the proposed agreement would create thousands more.

Clinton tests issues in Fiorida

MIAMI - Bill Clinton returned to Florida to raise money and test foreign and domestic policy themes for his likely fall campaign against President Bush. And his rhetoric sounded a little like Republican themes of the past.

Criticizing Bush's foreign and domestic policies, Clinton recalled how Ronald Reagan beat Jimmy Carter in 1980 with a simple question to voters: "Are you better off than you were four years ago?"

"I say to you tonight my fellow Americans, let's just take Ronald Reagan's question into the election in 1992." Clinton said to applause at a Miami fund-raiser.

Hoping to pull Miami's largely Republican Cuban-American community away from Bush. Clinton said the president hasn't exerted enough pressure on Cuba's Fidel Castro and other dictators. He endorsed legislation by Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla., that would tighten the economic embargo against Cuba.

Soldiers to keep desert uniforms

WASHINGTON - Veterans of the Persian Gulf War will be able to keep one "chocolate chip" camouflage uniform in the attic to show off to their friends and grandchildren.

After some prodding from Congress, the Army announced Thursday that it has suspended an order requiring all those leaving the service to return the special gulf uniform by June

"A message is being sent to the field suspending the request for soldiers to turn in their Desert Storm BDUs (battle dress uniforms)." said Army spokesman Col. Don Kirchoffner.

The attire was worn by Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf during his famous television briefings and dubbed "chocolate chips" because of its brown, black and white speckled appearance.

U.S. aids Mexican victims

Texas architects offered their help in rebuilding the section of eastern Guadalajara that was nearly destroyed by Wednesday's series of explosions. A grocery chain in San Antonio offered to fill a caravan of trucks with food and water for the trip to Guadalajara.

The private U.S. relief organization Americares on Thursday sent a plane carrying 85,000 pounds of bandages, medication and materials for temporary shelters to the city, where at least 176 people were killed and more than 1,300 injured in the

Walesa subjected to personal attacks

WARSAW, Poland - President Lech Walesa has come under a virulent personal attack from ex-members of his inner circle, who say the man who led Poland out of Communism is now isolated, erratic and surrounded by yes-men.

The charges, made in a six-page section of the country's largest newspaper on Wednesday, have been dismissed by presidential spokesman Andrzej Drzycimski.

But they have lent a new air of uncertainty to Poland's 3-year-old democracy as it struggles to reform an economy wrecked by four decades of communism.

Walesa, 49, once seemed unassailable. After leading the Solidarity trade union for a decade, he was chosen by a 74 percent majority in 1990 to be the country's first popularly elected head of state.

Study estimates 1 in 8 women have been raped

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Some 12.1 million American women - one in eight - have been raped at least once and almost 62 percent of the assaults occurred when they were minors, a new study

The National Women's Study survey, financed by the gov-ernmment's National Institute on Drug Abuse, also said 683,000 American women were raped in 1990, a vastly higher number than those in other crime reports.

"Rape does seem to be a tragedy of youth in America." said Dean Kilpatrick, who directed the research and is co-author of the report, "Rape in America."

Twenty-nine percent of the rapes occurred when the women were 10 years old or younger and 32 percent happened from ages 11 to 17, according to the survey on which much of the report was based.

Kilpatrick would not estimate how many minors were raped in 1990. The report said that, given the other survey findings, the 683,000 rapes of adult women "probably constitute well less than half of all the rapes that were experienced by all Americans of all ages and genders" in

The National Women's Study. involving female interviewers talking by telephone to about 4,000 women.

Crisp to guide Lightning

TAMPA — Terry Crisp, who led the Calgary Flames to the Stanley Cup championship three years ago, was named coach of the expansion Tampa Bay Lightning on Thursday.

Crisp, who has the highest winning percentage among active NHL coaches, compiled a 144-63-33 record in three seasons in Calgary. He agreed to a three-year contract that reportedly will pay him about $150,000 during Tampa Bay's inaugural season, which begins in Octo-

Crisp's Calgary teams won three Smythe Division titles and twice finished with the best regular-season record in the NHL. The Flames won the Stanley Cup in 1989, but lost in the first round of the playoffs the next year and Crisp was fired.

Crisp, currently an assistant coach with the Canadian Olympic team, played 11 seasons in the NHL with the Boston Bruins, St. Louis Blues, New York Islanders and Philadelphia Flyers. He was part of Stanley Cup teams in Philadelphia in 1974 and 1975 and is one of only 12 individuals who've won NHL titles as both a player and coach.

Tribe trounces district

By TONY Desorate Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD - When you're chasing state championships in high school athletics, district competitions are largely a necessary evil. You have to compete in them - and win them — if you want to advance to the next level.

On Thursday night, the Seminole High School track teams did what what they had to do and then some in sweeping through the 3A-District 5 track meet at Seminole's Thomas E. Whigham Stadium.

The Tribe girls, who qualified at least one person in every event for next week's 3A-Region II meet at Titusville-Astronaut, outscored runner-up New Smyrna Beach 132-83.

Rounding out the rest of the girls standings were Daytona Beach-Seabreeze (62), Edgewater (40), Jones (15), Leesburg (6) and Bun-nell-Flagier Palm Coast (5).

Seminole's boys were every bit was impressive in accumulating 141 team points, more than scond-place Edgewater (81.5) and third-place New Smyrna Beach (56.5) combined. They were followed by Daytona Beach-Seabreeze (47.5), Leesburg (23), Jones (21.5) and Bunnell-Flagler Palm Coast (0).

"Everything went perfectly," said Seminole girls' coach Nate Perkins. "The girls are peaking at the right Leading the Seminole girls were double winners Kischia Lawrence and Carolyn Hubbard. Lawrence finished first in the 110-yard high hurdles (15.4) and 330-yard low hurdles (47.8) while Hubbard won the mile (5:33.2) and two-mile (12:17.1) runs.

Seminole also swept the two relays, the quartet of Nicole Banks. Kanika Whitehead, Kim Brown and Patrece Varner winning the 4 x 110-yard relay in 50.2 while Brown. Belinda Morgan, Lawrence and De-nice Martin combined to run a 4 x 440-yard relay in 4:12.6.

Other event winners for the Seminole girls were Katina Perry (shot put, 35 feet, 2 inches), Morgan (triple jump, 34 feet), Kaykay Mullins (100-meter dash, 12.5). Mildred Davis (880-yard run, 2:35.8).

Perry also qualified for the re-gional meet in the discus (third, 104 feet, 8 inches) while Morgan qualified in the 440-yard dash (third. 1:03.1) and Mullins advanced in the 220-yard dash (third, 27.5).

Niki Washington qualified in the high jump (third, 4 feet, 10 inches) and long jump (third, 16 feet, 31/4 inches). Banks advances in the 330-yard low hurdles (second, 49.2) and 110-yard high hurdles (third. 16.6). Varner was second in the triple jump (33 feet, 715 inches) and 220-yard dash (27.1) while Daphne Brown finished fourth in the 100meter (13.3) and 220-yard (27.9) dashes.

Whitehead earned a trip to re-gionals by finishing second in the 100-meter dash (12.5).

On the boys' side of the meet, not only was Seminole wracking up points in impressive numbers. many of the points could be described as "state quality" points, meaning that the marks would stand up in the competition at the state meet.

"Not only have we qualified everybody we thought would qualify for the regional meet, we've gotten a couple who were on the bubble as far as qualifying for regionals," said Seminole boys' coach Ken Brauman. "And so far, no-one's gotten hurt, so that gives us another week to get some of those who are still a little sore well." Like the girls, the Seminole boys had quite a few athletes - six, to be exact — who qualified for the regional meet in two different indi-☐ See District, Page 23

SANFORD — Bye-bye, butterflies. Seminole High School's baseball team chased away any nervousness they may have had entering the 3A-District 5 tournament Thursday afternoon at Seminole Field by scoring eight runs in the first inning enroute to whipping Edgewater Seminole will play Leesburg this afternoon at 4 p.m. for the championship at Sanford Memorial Stadium. The Yellow Jackets nipped Daytona Beach-Seabreese 7-8 Thursday afternoon at the Stadium.

"Leesburg hits very well," said Powers. "If our pitching holds out, we should win. Leesburg is kind of out of pitching, but they will put runs on the board. This is our first time in the district championship since I've been here, and it's going to be a doglight."

Seminole ace Jeremy Chunat yeilded one run in 31/2 innings before being lifted for reliever Ryan Ortis. Chunat struck out four without a walk and allowed four

"I'll probably pitch tomorrow," said Chunat. "I won't start though. Todd (Braden) will probably start and go as long as he can. Hopefully, he'll last all seven innings."

"We had three infield hits in the first inning," said Powers. "We hit it where they weren't. Once we had the big lead, I took Jeremy out to save him. King's throwing the runner out at the plate saved the game from going on. It was just a regular baseball game for us."

IN BRIEF

Softball game aids church

St. James A.M.E. Church annual fund-raiser activities include a special softball game to be held on the lakefront in Sanford. The game will be played from 4 to 6 p.m., April 25.

DAR to meet

The Sallie Harrison Chapter National Society Daughters of the American Revolution will honor its State Regent Mrs. Ruth McGarity at a luncheon to be held at noon, Friday, May 8, at Maison et Jardin. 430 Wymore Road. Altamonte Springs. Sanford City Commissioner Whitey Eckstein will be the special speaker for the occasion. Visiting Daughters in the area are cordially invited to attend the luncheon. Cost is $12. Reservations should be made by calling Dorothy Erisman at 323-9242 no later than May 4.

Arts and crafts featured

Reservations are now being accepted for spaces for those who produce and sell arts and crafts at the annual show sponsored by the music department of Sanford Church of God.

Cost is $15 by April 30 and $20 after April 30. The location will be in the Sanford Church of God air-conditioned gym Saturday, June 6, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

For more information, contact Wes at 324-9607 or 322-2942. Spaces are limited. Early response is encouraged.

Bowl for rhinos

The Central Florida Chapter of America Association of Zoo Keepers is having a bowl-a-thon to raise money to save the critically endangered rhinoceros. Bowling for Rhinos will take place at 7 p.m. May 2 at Skylanes in Orlando, but members are working now to raise pledges. Bowlers may be sponsored per pin or a flat donation may be given.

The worldwide black rhino population has dropped from 14.785 in 1980 to 3.392 in 1990 and continues to fall drastically, largely due to poaching for the horns. The horns are sold on the black market as dagger handles or ground and used for supposed medicinal purposes. There are four other species of rhino whose numbers are falling rapidly as well.

AAZK's focus is on helping the Bgare Sergoi rhino reserve in Kenya. More than $300,000 has been raised in the past two years through bowling pledges. Funds raised through Bowling for Rhinos nationwide last year were used to purchase a truck and a samil airplane, which are used for many purposes. including tracking both rhinos and poschers. AAZK hopes to raise enough money this year to complete fencing off the sanctuary and increase the number of people on staff at the Ngare Sergoi rhino reserve.

Anyone interested in sponsoring a bowler should contact Kris Swartchick at 323-4450 or Mike Cothran at 363-2542.

needs friends and wants to fit

DEAR MARY: We moved a couple months ago, and now I'm going to a new school. (I'm in 8th grade.) I feel really lucky because two really neat girls are being nice to me. but I don't feel real comfortable with some of the stuff they do. I'm afraid if I don't do the stuff they want me to, they'll drop me and I won't have any friends, but I don't feel good about myself when I do stuff I don't want to do, just to fit in. I don't know what to do. Can you help?

into their group. It is perfectly normal to feel that way. But we DEAR NEW KID: Everyone each also must have the right to the threat of being rejected. It is important that you feel that you can stand up for yourself, offer alternative plans, and even change your mind on things, if you are really going to feel comfortable with these girls. If they pressure you to conform or threaten to reject you if you don't, then you must continue your search for friends who are counselor with the Drug more like you. Remember, if you spend a lot of time with kids you are not comfortable around. people who are more like you and who you'd feel more comfortable with, won't have a chance to get to know you.

I'm sure you realize that regardless of what the group does. we are each responsible for our own behavior and actions. As we stand up for ourselves and what we believe, we gain more control of our lives and feel better about ourselves.

Have you ever tossed a coin into a wishing well, closed your eyes tightly, and made a wish? Did your wish come true? Well, maybe so . . . maybe not. When we make a wish, we take a chance. A wish carries with it no guarantee . . . only the elements of luck and coincidence; not so with prayer. Prayer is guaranteed. Matt. 7:7 promises, "for everyone who asks receives . . . "; thus each prayer is answered according to what God judges is best for us, His children.

Therefore, cast your eyes not into the depths of the wishing well, but upward toward heaven as we worship God each Sabbath and trust in His wisdom each day.

It has been said that "prayer, in it's simplest definition, is merely a wish turned God-ward." Prayer is, truly, wishing wall.

General Conference

United Methodist to address budget, issues during conference budget, and other weighty issues, will top the list of concerns when a 28-member Florida delegation votes at the General Conference to be held at the Convention Center in Louisville, Ky., May 5-15.

Decisions made at the General Confernece, which happens once every four years, affect local churches in terms of finances, church law (discipline) and various

Leading the Florida delegation are Jody P. Moxley of Titusville, and the Rev. Dr. Robert E. Fannin, pastor of First United Methodist Church, Lakeland. The delegation is composed of 14 clergy and 14 lay persons who were elected during the 1991 Florida Annual Conference held in Lakeland last

Delegates from the Southeastern Jurisdiction of The United Methodist Church rank the issue of budget as the number one priority. At issue will be the financial health of The United Methodist

Hit by recession, the UMC's proposal will be a four-year budget of $495.65 million for four years. This cuts $73 million from amounts requested by general agencies and increases the 1969-92 amount by $78.4

The United Methodist Church's budget is supported by an "apportionment" system in

The United Methodist Church's four-year which the General Conference apportions its needs to the various annual conferences which, in turn, passes on those apportionments to the local churches, in 1991, 50 of the 72 annual conferences paid an average of two percent less than in 1990 and some delegates to the General Conference feel the church's proposed budget is too high and plan to fight for a zero increase.

> Among other top issues will be: ●Homosexuality. Since 1978 delegates to > the General Conference, every four years. have struggled with the denomination's stance toward homosexual practice, particularly in reference to ordination of clergy. This year, however, delegates will consider a 35-page report completed by a panel of 24 church wide representatives which clarifles opposing viewpoints of a long-standing debate, acknowledging the deep pain experienced by United Methodists, often in the same congregation. The report urges the church to study the issue further and to strive "for greater humility toward one > OMinistry. A 51-page report by the Commission for the Study of Ministry urges replacing the church's historic two-step deacon-elder sequence for ordination with a one-step ordination process for elders only.

> • Health insurance. A proposal to adopt "UMcare," an insurance plan which would be mandatory for bishops, clergy and lay employees of general agencies which is intended to minimize rate increases and variable rates. The estimated first-year cost is $136.9 million.

• Mission board. Moving the mission board out of New York City to another location has sparked a heated debate over the amount it would cost, estimated between $9.5 million and $15 million.

Baptism. A study asks the church for another four-year-study. The study affirms "believer's baptism" while, at the same time, encourages infant baptism. It also proposes that baptism, even of infants. makes the baptized person a member of the church — a stipulation which has proven controversial within the denomination.

Abortion. The church opposes abortion as an "acceptable means of birth control." and "unconditionally rejects it as a means of gender selection" but recognizes "tragic conflicts of life that may justify abortion. and in such cases supports the legal option of abortion under proper medical procedures," and calls for a study of the missional emphasis of the church.

Other issues will be concern about membership growth (although the Florida Conference has experinenced a small growth in members, the general church has had a decline over the past several years). and publication of a new book of Worship.

St. John's Eastern Orthodox continues its ancient rite of Holy Week celebration

SANFORD - St. John's Eastern Orthodox Church, 2743 Country Club Rd., will continue its celebration of the ancient rites of Holy Week throughout the weekend.

This evening at 8 p.m., Holy Friday, also known as great Lamitations or Good Friday, will be recognized. On this day, the day of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ, the service is a very solemn one. The body of Christ is removed from the cross and is wrapped in a burial sheet. Then His body is carried around the outside of the church, brought back in and laid to rest in a tomb surrounded by flowers. .--

On Holy Saturday, services will begin at 9 p.m. with the reading from the book of Acts by 321-4193.

the people present. Everyone is invited to share in the reading if they so desire. It is during this time that confessions will be heard. At 11 p.m. the Vesper service is started. It is during Vespers that the Easter backets will be blessed. After Vespers the church will be darkened until midnight when once again the church is illuminated with the light of the Holy Resurrection Service, and the start of the Divine Liturgy. Religious forces moving strongly to safeguard environment

"The earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof," reads Psaim 24. People don't own this planet, in the biblical perspective, but are

They are to "till it and keep it," says Genesis 2:15. To "keep" means to preserve and protect, to maintain its divinely termed "goodness.

That mandate and other biblical pointers to the singular value of the natural environment and humanity's responsibility of caring for it have aroused America's religious forces to that cause.

"It is what God made and beheld as good that is under assault" says a broad cross-section of religious leaders. "The future of this gift so freely given is in our hands, and we must maintain it as we have received it.

"This is an inescapably religious challenge."
With observance of "Earth Day" this week and an ecumenical "Ecology Sunday" this weekend. churches are planning strong representation at the United Nations "Earth Summit" in Rio de Janeiro June 1-12, involving governmental delegates and thousands of others from around the

An ecumenically backed "Environmental Sabbath" was set June 7 to call attention to the international efforts to safeguard nature.

Churches have "drawn together about this," says the Rev. Ken Grant of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), based in Louisville, Ky. "We woke up. We've been sobered to learn of the harm being done to the environment.

Virtually every major religious body or their leaders, Protestant, Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox and Jewish, have joined in that effort in the last few years, with a growing crescendo of "The web of life is one," U.S. Roman Catholic bishops said last November, adding that the task of sustaining human life itself "cannot be separated from the care and defense of all of creation.

Most major Protestant denominations, the Episcopal Church, United Methodist Church, American Baptist Churches and the United Church of Christ, among others, have adopted calls to safeguard nature.

"The new global reality and our faith call us to make environmental justice and stewardship a central concern of our church's mission," said the 1990 General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.)

The Evangelical Lutheran Church in America is shaping a "revolutionary" social statement for church assembly action on the issue, says biologist Paul Lutz of Greensboro, N.C., head of the church's environmental task force.

"If every member did everything that was in this statement, it would cause a revolution the likes of which we have not seen," he said, noting changed practices urged.
