FRS soothes garbage concerns

By Joe DeSantis

SANFORD — The Board of County Commissioners and representatives from Florida Recycling Services (FRS) patched up their differences over service complaints this week. But performance of the solid waste collector will continue to be monitored in Seminole County.

Appearing before the board at its regular meeting on Oct. 24, FRC vice president Sid Vihlen pulled no punches, acknowledging the firm has experienced staffing problems the past two months,

Contractor says staffing problems are to blame; county will watch progress but informed commissioners significant steps have been taken to remedy the situation.

Two weeks ago the board cited more than 300 customer complaints over a two month period for justification to review the company's agreement with the county to determine if it should be held in breach of contract.

"I acknowledge our level of service was deplorable and there are no excuses," Vihlen told the board. "I'm not here to give you excuses, I'm here to tell you the problem is fixed."

Vihlen explained that the company has undergone large staff changes in the past few months, particularly at the mid-management level. He told commissioners staff shortages, both at the supervisory level and crew level have been beefed up, the company has installed a 24-hour customer service hotline, and that complaints had peaked and were going down.

"We have over 200,000 customer contacts per month and last month received less than 100 complaints," Vihlen said. "We want to work with Seminole County. The best we can do for you is to

County students earn top academic honors

By Michelle Jeris

SANFORD — Forty-three high school students were recognized this week by the Seminole County School Board for scoring in the top one-half percentile on a national college entrance exam.

The students were recently named National Merit/Achievement/Hispanic Scholarship Semifinalists for the 2000-01 school year. They received the honor from the National Merit Scholarship Corp. after taking the PSAT/NMSQT.

"This is a wonderful honor," Community Involvement Director Dede Schaffner said. "We are talking about our future doctors, lawyers ... and college professors."

"These students are leaders in academics."

Each year, the typical school system nationwide has approximately one-half of one percent of its student body reaching the designation of National Merit Scholarship Semifinalist, Schaffner said. The students receiving the recognition in Seminole County represent 1.2 percent of the 2001 graduating class — almost three times the national average.

According to Schaffner, the 43 students averaged 1449 out of 1600 on the SAT, accumulated an average 4.09 GPA, ranked

Halloween scares up business for Meadows

SANFORD — Halloween is a good time of the year for Margie Meadows.

For the past 20 years, her shop has attracted an influx of costume hunters several days prior to All Hallow's Eve. And, A Second Image usually has what they are seeking.

The Sanford shop has more than 7,000 costumes, many created by Meadows, available for rental. If a person can't find what they are looking for, the seamstress will custom make an outfit for them.

GOP nominee receives warm welcome on Republican turf

SANFORD — They came. They listened. They cheered wildly.

Playing to a capacity crowd at the Seminole Community College gymnasium Wednesday, Republican presidential hopeful George W. Bush completed what will likely be his last campaign swing through Florida this week.

With the state's critical 25 electoral votes at stake, Bush hammered home his message of trust in Americans to decide for themselves, fewer mandates from the federal government, more educational control for local school boards, and an across-the-board tax cut for all Americans

An energetic Bush, fueled by the enthusiasm of a turf-friendly, Republican flavored Seminole County audience, received the crowd's most raucous reaction when he touched on allowing younger workers to invest a portion of their social security deductions in individual investment plans.

He also warned seniors not to fall prey to the scare tactics targeted at the elderly by his opponent, Democrat Al Gore. "This place is on fire," Bush said after a thunderous welcome. "And so is this campaign."

The Texas governor was accompanied by his wife Laura, Arizona Senator John McCain, and brother, Florida Gov. Jeb Bush.

McCain, a former Vietnam prison of war, warmed up the crowd for Bush by thanking Floridians for their compassion shown to his family who resided in Orange Park during his captivity and told the crowd Bush would restore

SGTV expands programming

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County cable television households will soon be able to take advantage of expanded programming hours broadcast by Seminole Government Television (SGTV).

Beginning Nov. 1 evening programming hours will be added to compliment SGTV's current offerings of morning and afternoon programming.

"We're trying to reach out to as many citizens as we can in Seminole County," said Matt Chesler, Program Manager.

Three locally produced original series will be aired during the expanded hours. They include:

"Seminole Connection" featuring programs such as 'Museum of Seminole County History,' 'Central Florida Zoological Park' and 'Seminole County Libraries; 'Your Seminole County,' highlighting county departments and services provided to residents; and "Seminole Segment," covering events and special activities in the county and among the county's seven cities.

In addition, SGTV will also air programming produced by students of Seminole County public schools, State and Federal Government programs, and other educational and government related programming.

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Halloween isn't what is used to be

When I went out as a child on Halloween night, door-to-door, I never said "Trick or Treat". My saying was, "Help the Poor." I thought everyone said that, as I know all the children I knew were saying the same thing.

Nick Pfeifauf

To explain this, let me say that I was born a depression-era child, in a poor, ethnic section of Detroit, Michigan. My father's take-home pay from an auto factory was $10 a week and he didn't work every week. Checking with others who were also depression babies, I find most all of them said "Trick or Treat." So perhaps "Help the Poor" was not normal. In my neighborhood however, everyone was considered poor even though some of us may not have realized it at the time.

The "poor" concept also came into being with our costumes. We couldn't afford to buy costumes or cloth, and try to look like Batman, one of the Spice Girls, or a ghost. We just put on clothing that made it appear we were poor. And in many cases, these old clothes were what we normally wore in the first place.

Going door to door, most of the goodies consisted of home-made cookies. Occasionally, but very seldom, we would get a penny. Only one - never more.

The concept of pulling a trick on someone never entered our minds. Children honored their parents and their neighbors and would never do any damage to property, destruction, or even impish tricks of embarrassment. When we knocked on a door, it was opened, and the person inside handed out a goodie.

Then too, everyone trusted everyone. Even though we were all in the same economic boat, no one locked the doors of their homes or cars. People trusted their neighbors and would help anyone at the drop of a hat.

Now, what do we have? Youngsters going out shouting "Trick or Treat" and often retaliating against someone who might be out or not hand out enough candy (and even money), by spray painting their front door, damaging a lawn ornament, rilling, (TP in a tree), or spraying foam on a vehicle's windows or body.

On the other side of the coin, youngsters are now urged to have everything they obtain checked for injurious materials. Candy and cookies have been known to be laced with drugs and even razor blades. Children are urged to accept only individually wrapped candy, and refrain from home-made cookies.

Yes, I know that many people of younger age, complain that older folks do nothing but think of the good old days. They are just not "with it" anymore. But in this situation, I can't help but recall the past. Halloween was an exciting adventure for children. We didn't get much, but then, our parents didn't have much to give. Yet they gave, unselfishly.

I don't want to go back to existing as we did back then. I don't want to drive a Model-T and have to change tires every five miles. I don't want a $10 a week paycheck. I like modern life. But as for Halloween — oh for the good old days.

Making Lake Mary greener

City begins donation program in hopes of planting more trees

By Michelle Jerla
Managing Editor

LAKE MARY — Officials are hoping to make their city greener.

The Lake Mary Parks and Recreation Department recently began a tree donation program for residents, Lake Mary Parks and Recreation Department Director Bill Carrico said. People now have the opportunity to donate a tree to help beautify various areas within the city.

"The city was a very forested area at one time," Carrico said. "We've lost so many trees, and they have not been replaced in an adequate proportion."

Carrico said he would like to see more trees planted along the walking trail on Rinehart Road, along Lake Mary Boulevard and in the Lake Mary Sports Complex located on Rantoul Lane.

Planting more trees isn't as easy as it appears, especially along the walking trail. Currently, there is no irrigation system along Rinehart Road to get water to additional vegetation. But, Carrico has a possible solution.

"We could try to get a water wagon truck for it right now, and then eventually get an irrigation system," he said.

Carrico wants additional trees in the sports complex so park users could enjoy more shaded areas. And, the added greenery along Lake Mary Boulevard would make the street more scenic for motorists and pedestrians.

Through the tree donation program, people can have a tree planted in their name within the city. The donor also gets to choose where the tree will be planted.

"Through the program, a person provides a tree to the city, and they can place it where they would like it as long as we can get water to it," Carrico said. "Then, they can watch the tree as it grows, and say 'that's our tree.'"

Tree donors will receive a certificate from the city indicating where the tree is located, Carrico said.

"This is a good way to memorialize birthdays and other family events," Carrico said. "And, it's a nice way of helping the city."

City Manager John Litton believes the tree donation program is a good way of getting the community involved with the city.

"Anytime you involve the community in a city project, it's a win/win situation for everybody," Litton said. "Trees have a long life, and it will be a lasting memorial for anyone who participates in the program."

For more information about the tree donation program, call the Lake Mary Parks and Recreation Department at 407-324-3053.

OUT & ABOUT

SAT 28

The Fleet Reserve Association Branch and Unit will host a Halloween party Saturday, Oct. 28, at the Fleet Branch Home, located at 3040 W. State Road 46. The event will include live music and a covered dish dinner. SUN 29

The Sanford Middle School Bands, under the direction of David Hedgecoth, will host their first concert of the season Sunday, Oct. 29 at Centennial Park in Sanford, Park Avenue, between 4th and 5th Streets, beginning at 2:30 p.m.

The bands will consist of beginning, concert, advanced and jazz groups with a combined total of 250 students.

A barbecue lunch will be held before the concert at 1:30 p.m., including chicken, baked beans, potato salad, roll and beverage. For the meal tickets are $4 per person. The concert is free. For additional information phone 407-320-6203.

A 37-year old man, identified as Christopher M.

Detreville, of Groveview Way, Sanford, drowned Thursday, Oct. 26 in a retention pond near an Altamonte Springs apartment complex.

According to the Altamonte Springs Police report, at approximately 3:30 a.m., an officer, patrolling the Cameron Springs Apartments on Calibre Crest Parkway, noticed a black mail exhibiting a minivan near the clubhouse.

When the officer attempted to question the man, he reportedly ran from the parking lot. The officer said he started to chase the man, and during the chase, Detreville reportedly fell into a nearby retention pond. When the officer attempted to pull him out, Detreville is said to have attempted to pull the officer into the pond. A struggle ensued in the water and the officer said he feared for his life, exited the pond and phoned for backup. By the time other officers arrived, the man's head was seen submerging. After being pulled from the water, he was pronounced dead and the medical examiner and crime scene officers were summoned.

The case is still under investigation.

Body Found

Sanford police were called to DeSoto and El Capitan Drive Wednesday by a man and woman who reported finding a man's body in the trunk of a vehicle. When police arrived they saw the white Honda, with the trunk open, and the body of what they believe was a Hispanic man, inside. His head was almost hanging out of the trunk.

At this time, police investigators have been unable to establish an identity, but the case is under investigation.

Stolen Vehicles

A maroon 1987 Chevrolet, license number C85-FZH, was reported stolen Thursday from a residence in the 1300 block of Osceola Avenue in Sanford.

A brown 1988 Buick 4-door Century, license number E23-KCC, was reported stolen Thursday from a residence at Lake Monroe Terrace.

A beige with vinyl top 1999 Jeep Sahara, license number B-31-HRQ, was reported stolen Thursday from the 1800 block of Landing Drive in Sanford.

A light blue 1988 Buick LeSabre, license number K1745V was reported stolen early Friday morning from the 600 block of San Marcos Avenue in Sanford.

A gold 1983 Chrysler sedan, license number VNT-93B was reported stolen Wednesday from the 1200 block of West 13th Street in Sanford.

Drug Arrest

Donald Antonio Tanner, 34, of William Clark Court was arrested by Sanford police Wednesday. An officer reported seeing Tanner toss an object from his vehicle near 10th Street and Mangoustine Avenue. After Tanner's vehicle was stopped, the officer investigated and reported finding drug related items in the car. Tanner has been charged with possession/use of narcotics equipment, possession of crack cocaine, and driving without a valid drivers license.

Funerals (Buyer Beware)

A growing trend within the funeral profession is the purchase of funeral homes by large international corporations who own literally HUNDREDS of funeral homes worldwide! Their local funeral home politics are mandated by "corporate headquarters", frequently out of state!

They now have entered into the low-cost funeral market in central Florida. Family Funeral Care in Oviedo and south Orlando are owned and operated by Service Corporation International (SCI). If the Family Funeral Care funeral homes can offer low-cost funerals why can't the rest of the SCI funeral homes in central Florida? The other SCI funeral homes are charging as much as twice what Family Funeral Care charges. These other SCI funeral homes would be the Woodlawn, Carey Hand, Cox Parker, and Garden Chapel groups. The same people make the removals, do the preparation, work the funerals, or do the cremations from a central facility. Why then does SCI only have a few funeral homes offering low-cost funerals.

Banfield Funeral Home has been in the low-cost funeral market since 1989. We believe in the personal touch, being a local, family-owned funeral home. We carefully guide each bereaved family through the funeral arrangement process. We take the time to learn about the life of the deceased, and strive to accommodate all family desires.

The result is a very personal and memorable funeral service, honoring a life that has been lived. This is always done at the guaranteed lowest price with no monkey business.

Who's best for Seminole County? The Herald endorses, Van Gaale, Adams and McLain for county commission

As Seminole County steps into the 21st Century, its citizens should demand their leaders are ready to move the county forward in progressive ways. Voters will have such an opportunity on Nov. 7 when they go to the polls. The turnout is expected to be large since a tight presidential race tops the ticket, but we remind voters that all politics is local. County leaders have more day-to-day influence on our lives than George W. Bush or Al Gore will ever have. With that in mind, the Herald endorsed the following candidates:

In District 1, we endorse Andrew Van Gaale.

A city planner in Sanford for five years, Van Gaale brings a number of positives to the table. He's a moderate Democrat who knows he can't stand on partisan issues if he hopes to be an effective leader. He's an experienced municipal planner who understands the intricacies of promoting good growth in the county, while at the same time realizing that residents expect and demand nice parks, abundant open space, and thoughtful zoning to ensure a high quality of life. Van Gaale is tight with the pocketbook, realizing that county taxpayers work hard for their money and they don't want to see the government waste it.

For Sanford residents, there is the added benefit that Van Gaale knows the issues that affect the city and will be a strong advocate for the county seat and her residents.

Van Gaale will add a fresh perspective to on the county commission, something his opponent, incumbent Grant Maloy, was supposed to do four years ago. Maloy, though a decent and upstanding gentleman, just simply hasn't lived up to expectations. Maloy stresses that he has focused on small, neighborhood issues that are important to residents, and several of his constituents will vow that he has done an admirable job in those areas. Taking care of the small problems is an important part of the job, however, we expect more of our leaders, especially as the county faces a time of change and transition.

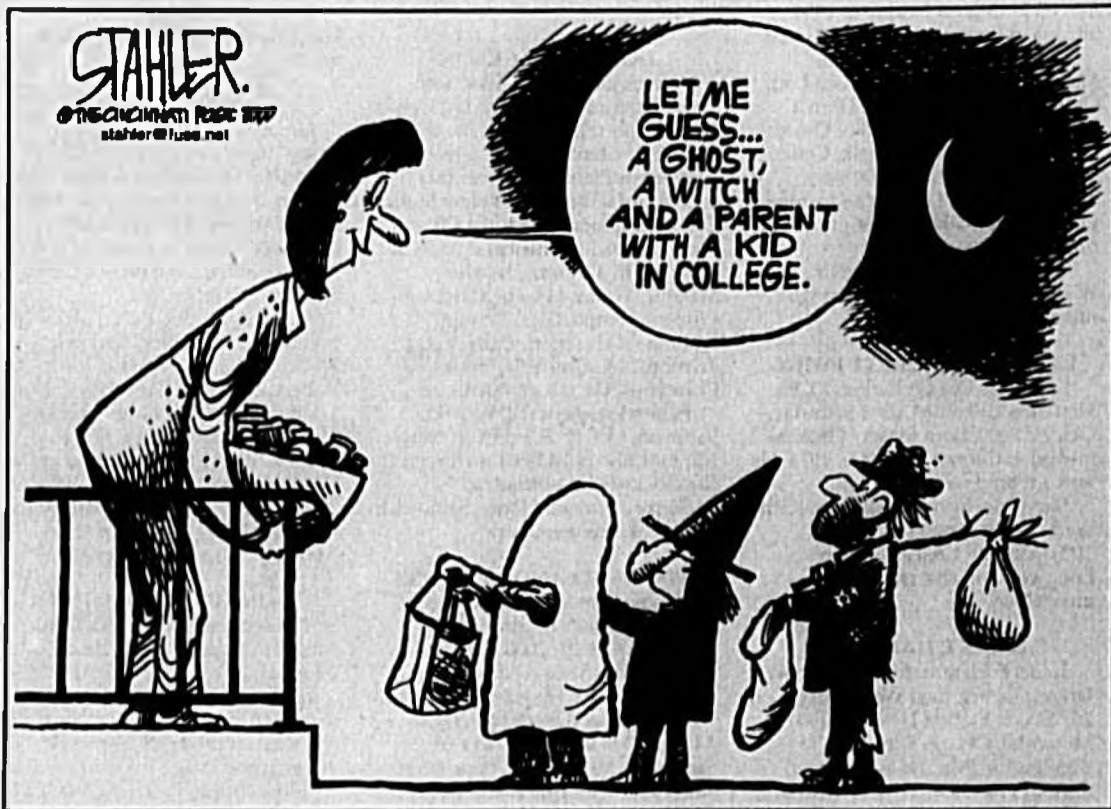

In District 3, we endorse Win Adams. A former commissioner who has remained active in county affairs, Adams is an advocate of aggressive economic development, particularly when it comes to recruiting high-paying jobs to Seminole County. Business and residential trends continue to show strong growth in our community, and our leaders must understand the importance of attracting that growth which benefits, not harms, Seminole County. Adams has a proven track record in that regard.

Furthermore, Adams brings a less confrontational style to the commission. Adams has a vision for the county, and his past record shows he keeps the interests of all residents in mind, not just those in his district. His opponent, incumbent Dick Van Der Weide, likes to attempt political power plays. Most notable is his ongoing feud with Clerk of the Circuit Court Maryanne Morse. Van Der Weide's lawsuit against Morse has cost the taxpayers several thousand dollars (and the meter is still running), all because the commissioner tried to be reimbursed for undocumented expenses on an overseas trip.

In District 5, we endorse Daryl McLain. The two-termed commissioner had a tough primary fight on his hands and earned a well-deserved run-off victory against Bob West. Like Van Gaale, McLain brings a progressive approach to dealing with growth in the county. He understands commercial development in Seminole County will continue, but McLain believes that growth must be properly managed to ensure a high quality of life for residents. To that end, he's supported policies and projects that mirror that goal, and has been criticized by residents for some of his stances. However, it's important to note that while a group of residents in north Seminole County (WATCH DOG) were vocal in the criticism of McLain for a particular vote, members of that same group endorsed McLain in his primary run because of his sensible policies.

Again, Sanford residents have the opportunity to put a Sanford advocate on the county commission. McLain is a native of Sanford and understands the city's importance in the county.

Election day is Tuesday, Nov. 7. We encourage all registered voters to head to the polls and vote for the candidates of their choice on the Seminole County Commission. The presidential races draw all the attention, but remember, the local candidates have the greater influence in our day-to-day lives.

District's budget does include Seminole County

To the editor:

An article published in the Oct. 4, Seminole Herald about the St. Johns River Water Management District's reduction of its property tax rate stated that the District's budget does not include any funding for projects in Seminole County.

I can assure the residents of Seminole County that the District's budget does, indeed, include funding for projects in Seminole County.

Those projects include restoration work associated with the Little Wekiva River, Little Econlockhatchee, Lake Jesup and tributaries of Lake Jesup.

Partnerships have also been formed with local governments to further stretch the funding that the District appropriates each year for projects in Seminole County.

The District is also actively working with water providers throughout the 19 counties within the District's jurisdiction to develop new sources of drinking water to meet future demands. We have placed a particularly high priority on drinking water issues in Seminole, Orange, Volusia and Lake counties, and are currently funneling resources into a pilot project that will look at the feasibility of withdrawing excess surface water from the St.

Johns River. Additionally, we continue to jointly fund water resource development projects with Seminole County local governments.

Anyone interested in learning more about our work in Seminole and other counties can visit the District's Internet site at <http://sjr.state.fl.us>, or call us at (800) 451-7106.

The importance of voting for Bush

The election is now bearing down on us at full speed, and it is time to do a little thinking up.

Nobody who has followed my columns at all carefully will be surprised to learn that I believe the election of George W. Bush is absolutely critical to the health and future of this country. But I am not going to waste this space repeating a laundry list of reasons why I believe that is so. Rather, I want to step back and dwell on certain major concerns that bother me.

The polls in recent weeks have pretty uniformly reported that Governor Bush is now leading Vice President Gore by a significant margin. This is so contrary to the wishes of the pollsters and their sponsors in the media, who are overwhelmingly liberal and hence pro-Gore, that one can only assume it actually understates the true size of the Bush lead. That is why I am telling my friends nowadays that I am "hopeful" about the outcome, albeit not altogether "confident."

For one thing, polls can be wrong, and since they tend to have a herd mentality, they are all likely to be wrong in the same direction. But, far more important, for the first time in my life, I have begun to lose faith in the American people.

I have been on the losing side of plenty of elections, and in those cases I have made no secret of my belief that the voters were wrong. But it's their country, after all, and they can be wrong if they want to. Moreover, I never quite lost sight of the possibility that they were wiser than I was. And I always told myself that in a pinch, when it really mattered, they would do the right thing.

But I will confess that the voters' reaction to Bill Clinton, in two presidential elections, has shaken my faith. His policies may have been wrong (as I believe they often were), but there was always a case to be made for them. But his performance of the other half of a president's duties — those summed up in the concept of "head of state" (rather than simply head of government) — has simply been beneath contempt. From the illegal Chinese contribution scandals to the whole sordid lifetime summed up in the words Monica Lewinsky, he has been a national disgrace.

And yet an impressive number of Americans — not a majority, but a plurality — demonstrated by their votes that they simply didn't care: As long as the good economic times kept rolling, they were ready to give Mr. Clinton a pass on everything else.

Now it's true that Mr. Clinton isn't on the ticket this year, and that Mr. Gore has done everything he can to distance himself from the stomach-turning aspects of the Clinton record.

But he cannot logically serve as a loyal supporter of Mr. Clinton for eight years, even hailing him as one of our greatest presidents on the very day he was impeached, and then ask the American people to waive, by voting for Mr. Gore, the last opportunity they will ever have to register their condemnation of the sleazy performance that he and the Democratic party and its other candidates have noisily defended year by year.

If the American people let Messrs. Clinton and Gore get

"COME NOVEMBER 8TH, WE'RE GOING TO MISS THE PANDERING."

From A to Z

Art Zielinski asks people what they think ...

Election day, Nov. 7, is right around the corner. All the presidential and vice presidential debates are over. And soon it will be time for the voters to decide who will run the country for the next four, or possibly eight, years. To find out how people feel about voting we asked, "Do you plan to vote in the upcoming presidential election and why?"

Yes, I plan to vote. It's obvious we need new leadership (under Bush) to get back to honesty, dignity, and leadership in the White House, and the trust of the people. Let the people decide things for themselves — not letting the government run your life.
Mike Bismann,
Sanford

Yes, I plan to vote. People need to get involved in politics. I don't care for the present administration because of morality. I think a Bush in the White House and a Bush in Florida will help the state of Florida.
Ashley Oltz,
Sanford

I voted once about six years ago. But now I'm not registered. I need to get registered again so I can vote.
Ron Carver,
Winter Springs

Yes, I plan to vote because I'm a concerned citizen. I'm a business owner and have a family as well.
Capt. Joe Detrick,
Sanford

I plan to vote — I'm a Democrat and I like Gore. We have jobs today and I don't want a president to make things head downward. We need to move ahead.
Isalah Murray,
Sanford

Is this the best the United States has to offer?

I have a recurring nightmare. I am stuck in a room with Gov. George W. Bush and Vice President Al Gore and binders of baseball cards. Bush is touching his finger to each card and merrily announcing, "Got it. Want it. Got it. Want it." He can't say why he wants the cards, only that his dad knows some people who can get them for him.

Gore is reading the back of each card out loud; reading every mind-numbing statistic and fact. He pictures his father smiling at how smart he is. He drones on until I lunge across the room with a fire poker.

Joan Ryan

I always wake up before I can strike either one of them.

Why do our presidential candidates this year seem particularly grating and inadequate? Do I have an unrealistic, mythical image about what a president should be? Or is our political system so screwed up that these two were the best it could produce?

It's like having to choose between Dennis the Menace and Margaret.

The Overmatched versus the Overbearing.

What has become clearer with each day of this campaign is that it is less about principles than about footprints.

Though Gore seems better suited for academia, he long ago set his tasseled loafers onto his father's political path, grim determination compensating for a complete lack of natural skill. He's like a character from "Star Trek" trying to fit in on a distant planet, scanning his microchipped brain for the appropriate gestures and responses.

(I had the sense during the third debate that he had studied the floor plan and, using vectors and slide rules, carefully mapped out his movements down to the precise number of steps to take toward the audience. He calculated the angle of his shoulders and the degree to which he should narrow his eyes to convey concern or passion.)

Bush, on the other hand, followed his father's footprints because, well, they were there and it was less taxing than making his own.

I have a theory that most of the world can be grouped into players, assistant coaches and head coaches. Head coaches have the vision. Assistant coaches implement the vision. Players carry the vision out.

Most assistant coaches should never be head coaches. Though they know the game inside and out, they can't inspire players to win one for the Gipper. They lack charisma. They don't motivate. They have never developed a meaningful philosophy of leadership that lights their way.

What we have on our ballot this year are two assistant coaches.

Bill Clinton is a head coach. He fills a room. He connects. Before his credibility was dismantled by the Monica Lewinsky affair, he had us believing we could change the world.

Ronald Reagan was a head coach. No matter what you thought of his politics, he could put a lump in your throat and make you feel lucky and proud to be American.

John F. Kennedy was a head coach. He spoke as if reciting poetry. You wanted to find recordings of his speeches and sink into his inspiring words.

Can you imagine anyone voluntarily listening a second time to anything Bush or Gore has said? Of course, in this campaign we have no choice.

The candidates speak as if on endless loops:

"Soft bigotry of low expectations."

"I will fight for you."

"Working families."

"I trust people, not government."

For years, we've been crying that politics should be about policy and not personality. Our votes should be based on the issues. With two such unsatisfying candidates, we finally have exactly that. I guess we should be careful what we wish for.

There are no losers with George W. Bush's proposed tax plan

Most Americans do not count themselves among the ranks of taxpayers for whom Al Gore has so much contempt — "the wealthiest 1 percent," as he referred to them during the first presidential debate; "the wealthiest of the wealthy," as he characterized them during the second.

Yet, they do not resent those who are. They do not subscribe to the premise, inherent in the vice president's divisive class-warfare rhetoric, that the "rich" (which, according to Gore's definition, is anyone who earns $250,736 or more per year) have prospered at the expense of the poor and middle class.

That most Americans are above the class envy to which the vice president is shamelessly appealing is evident from their views on the estate tax, which falls heaviest on the "wealthiest of the wealthy."

While only 2 percent of families of those who die are subject to this confiscatory tax, 60 percent of Americans, according to a recent Gallup Poll, favor elimination of "all inheritance taxes on estates over $1 million."

Which brings us to Gore's attack on the proposal by George W. Bush to cut income taxes across the board.

"(A) tax-cut plan that's so large, that would put us into such big deficits, that gives almost half the benefits to the wealthiest of the wealthy" is indefensible, the vice president asserted in Winston-Salem.

But as Bush retorted during the debate, "That's the kind of exaggeration" for which Gore has become famous.

The Texas governor proposes $1.3 trillion in tax relief over 10 years. With the federal government projected to post a $4.5 trillion budget surplus over that span, it is hard to see how returning less than a third of that sum to the taxpayers could produce "big deficits" as Gore claims.

That's the "fuzzy math" to which Bush alluded during the first debate.

Then there's the vice president's charge that "almost half" the Bush tax cut will go to the top 1 percent of taxpayers, a fiction based on figures supplied by the liberal Citizens for Tax Justice.

An analysis by the nonpartisan Joint Committee on Taxation, which Gore himself has referenced on previous occasions, calculates that the top 1 percent will receive about one-fifth of the Bush tax cut. This hardly can be viewed as a giveaway to the "rich," given that this tiny cohort pays one-third of all the federal taxes.

Indeed, under the present tax regime, the more one earns, the more disproportionate one's tax burden. This was documented last week by Trace Gallagher of Fox News.

"A family of four that makes $50,000 a year pays about $3,700 in federal taxes," he reported.

"You'd think the family of four that makes $100,000 would pay twice as much. Instead, they pay five times as much. A family that makes $200,000, 15 times as much.

"And if you work hard and long enough to make it into the 1 percent club, you can look forward to paying 20 times as much in taxes as the people who the vice president would like to give a tax cut."

Indeed, Gore proposes $620 billion in tax cuts over 10 years. But only certain categories of taxpayers stand to benefit.

For instance, the vice president offers a tax credit of up to $2,160 for families with a child in day care; a tax credit of up to $2,800 for a family with a child in college; a tax credit of up to $3,000 for families with a sick parent in a nursing home; and a federal match of up to $3,000 for a family breadwinner with a retirement savings plan.

But if you don't have a child in day care (if you're a mother who stays home with your child), if you don't have a kid in college, if you don't have an ailing parent in a nursing home, if you don't have an IRA (if, instead, you are enrolled in a company retirement plan), Gore doesn't deem you worthy of a tax cut.

You don't get to share the benefit of the $4.5 trillion budget surplus to which your tax dollars have contributed. You are one of the 50 million Americans who, as Bush notes, are excluded by the vice president's tax cut plan.

The Bush plan is far more equitable. It discriminates neither for nor against the various categories of taxpayers; rather it cuts marginal tax rates across the board.

Yes, the top 1 percent would get a tax cut — which is hardly unfair, considering that a family with roughly $250,000 in income pays not five times as much as a family with $50,000 in income, but 20 times as much. But the middle class would get a tax cut that is far more substantial in terms of proportion.

Indeed, a family of four earning $35,000 would receive a 100 percent tax cut under the Bush plan, dropping them entirely from the federal tax rolls. A similar-sized family bringing home $50,000 would get a 50 percent tax cut; a family earning $75,000 a 25 percent cut.

There is no loser under the Bush tax plan. No matter what Al Gore and his fellow class warriors argue to the contrary.

away with what they have done to the moral backbone of this country, we may never get another clear shot at restoring it. For, make no mistake about it: Mr. Clinton's behavior is not only not condemned, but is (privately, but very actively) approved by a great many people — in fact, by a whole new class, which John Derbyshire recently and superbly described as "an arrogant, self-satisfied elite of overeducated libertines."

If Mr. Gore wins, the battle will, of course, go on. The many millions of Americans who uphold higher standards will not abandon them simply because a majority (or plurality) of voters has done so. But this country will have taken a probably irreversible step toward its own moral destruction.

Posley, Littles honored for service

By Marva Hawkins

The Central Florida YMCA Black Achievers Recognition Ball was held Saturday, Oct. 21, 2000 at the Omin Rosen - Orlando. "Life's journey begins with just one step."

The Central Florida YMCA Black Achievers program endeavors to develop Christian values and improve the quality of life in Central Florida through involvement and ownership of the total community in the development of African-American and others' spirit, mind and body.

The program is recognized locally, regionally and nationally by education, business and community partners as a leader in strengthening the future of our nations by nurturing, encouraging and support of our youth.

City of Sanford Police Chief Brian F. Tooley, with great pride, nominated two of the police department members to receive the 2000 Central Florida YMCA Black Achievers Award.

The first candidate was Gracy Posley, a native of Sanford and a graduate of Seminole High School. In 1978 she began her employment with the city in the Building Department. On her "Lives' journey" she became secretary to the Chief of Police. She also worked in the Assistant City Manager's office as his secretary. Ms. Posley has worked as an auxiliary officer from 1989 to 1993.

She has also served on the City of Sanford Human Advisory Board, the Martin Luther King Committee, Nuisance Abatement Board, and is currently secretary to the Sanford Police Department's Citizen's Advisory Board. With the concerns of others always on her mind, she has served as representative for the police department for the United Way since 1982.

She has been recognized as Employee of the Month (July, 1994) Employee of the Year (1994) and the City of Sanford's Commitment to Community Service Award (April, 2000).

With such a vast experience and years with the city of Sanford, her supervisors and peers hold her knowledge in high regard and she is looked upon as a genuine leader. A very pleasant, trustworthy, Christian-hearted person with always an open ear and heart for all.

Chief Tooley also recommended Officer Cynthia Littles, a very proud outgoing community servant. She was born and reared in Sanford.

Officer Littles was hired by the department in May, 1998 as a community service officer.

She has spent many hours visiting nursing homes and talking with citizens about what the City of Sanford can do to make their neighborhoods safer.

In February, 1999, she was promoted to Police Officer, and is currently the School Resource Officer at Sanford Middle School.

Officer Littles is involved in numerous extracurricular activities including, but not limited to The Boys and Girls Club, Family Fun Festival, Safe Kids, Sankofa, Gang Resistance Education, girls basketball coach, counseling teenage pregnancy groups and tutoring children in reading and writing skills at The Harbor. The Sanford Police Department will be represented during

NOTICE OF PROPOSED TAX INCREASE

THE PREVIOUS NOTICE PLACED BY THE CITY OF LAKE MARY HAS BEEN DETERMINED BY THE DEPARTMENT OF REVENUE TO BE IN VIOLATION OF THE LAW, NECESSITATING THIS SECOND NOTICE.

The City of Lake Mary has tentatively adopted a measure to increase its property tax levy.

Last year's property tax levy:

A. Initially proposed tax levy	$3,629,756
B. Less tax reductions due to Value Adjustment Board and other assessment changes	($27,798)
C. Actual property tax levy	$3,657,554

This year's proposed tax levy $4,246,830

All concerned citizens are invited to attend a public hearing on the tax increase to be held on:

Thursday, November 2, 2000
7:00 P.M.
100 N. Country Club Road
Lake Mary, Florida 32746

A FINAL DECISION on the proposed tax increase and the budget will be made at this hearing.

Golden Age Games 2000

West chosen as honorary chairman of Games

Lake Mary runner shares her life experiences

From staff reports

The Sanford Parks and Recreation Department Golden Age Games Executive Committee has announced the honorary chairman for this year's games will be Ursula West.

West, 64, lives in Lake Mary with her husband Tom. This will be her fourth year participating in the games. She was born Dec. 20, 1936 in Volklingen, Germany.

In a prepared statement, she writes:

"As a child, growing up in war torn and post-war

Germany, I gave little thought to sports and games. My thoughts were focused on food and how to survive for another day.

After the war, life slowly improved. I went to school, graduated and worked in a lab at the Agricultural Experiment Station. Due to a lack of jobs, I moved to France, where I met my husband-to-be, an American Army officer.

We were married in June, 1957. On Labor Day of that year we arrived in New York on a Navy ship. I stayed up all night so I would not miss the Statue of Liberty.

My husband had long ago decided that he would only live in a warm climate. A trip to Los Angeles convinced us that the west coast was not for us. So we came to Florida; Miami to be more specific. Here, Tom had a job with FP&L waiting for him. However, the big city of Miami was not to our liking either, so Tom asked for a transfer to Sanford, a small town with a clock in the middle of First Street.

Why Sanford? People were friendly and helpful. They took us in as if we were family. During the next five years, we were blessed with four children. I became an American citizen. Life was good.

After a three year assignment in Fort Myers, we returned to this area and built a house in Lake Mary. Life was even better.

The children had become teenagers and I was able to find some time for myself. A friend challenged me to take a conditioning class at SCC and soon I became hooked on 5 and 10 Km runs, bike riding and other fun things. I was never very fast, but I had a great time. One time I even finished a half marathon in Orlando.

The physical activities kept me fit for my part time job with Auto Train and the demanding work as a bilingual tour manager.

In 1994 I began having some breathing problems. I decided it was one of the signs of getting older. Eventually there were other symptoms. I could no longer ignore them. Then after many medical tests, including some at the Mayo Clinic in Minnesota, all the doctors agreed that a heart transplant was the only help they could offer.

In early November 1995, I checked into Shands at Gainesville and settled for a long wait. I was classed as a status-1 patient. That means urgent. On Dec. 5, 1995, I received a slightly used, strong beating heart. A true miracle had happened for me.

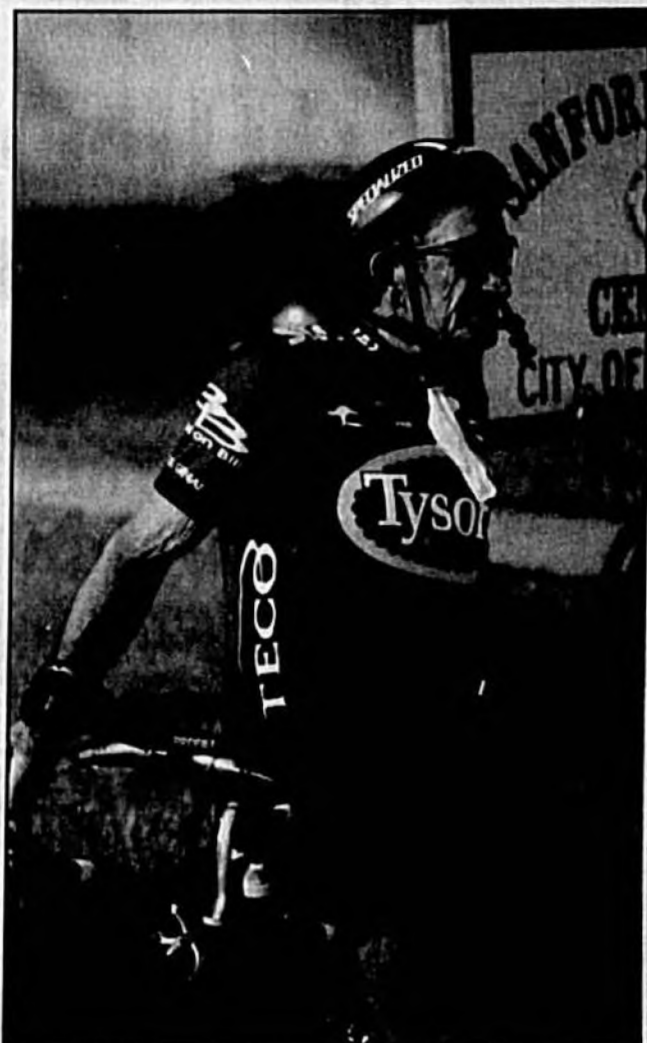

A year later, I competed in the Golden Age Games and have done so three or four times since. In 1998 I also competed in the National Transplant Games in Columbus, Ohio (Olympic type games for organ recipients). This year in June, when the Transplant games were held at Disney's Wide World of Sport, I, along with 1,800 other athletes competed.

Yes, I won some medals, but winning is not what's important. It is important to participate, to contribute something, to do the best you can and to live every precious day to its fullest. This is my motto and also, to me, the spirit of the Golden Age Games.

These days my objective is; not to run 5k or do 20 pushups (how I wish), my objective is to talk to people about organ donation, and how one can share one's life with others. Oh, can I talk about my grandchildren too?"

Violence Free Week, where 1,200 children will sign a pledge rejecting the use of guns and violence as a problem solver.

Well respected by her supervisors and peers alike for not only pitching in when extra work is needed, but also going beyond the call of duty, helping citizens with their own problems.

Recently Officer Littles was approached by a Sanford family which didn't have enough money with which to bury their small child that had been hit by a car. With a heart full of love, care and concern, she visited businesses and funeral homes in the community and raised enough money to prove an appropriate burial for the child.

Officer Littles is a strong believer in positive thinking and a promoter of a professional and trustworthy police department.

Team work and community relations are not just catch words with Officer Littles. She lives them. Officer Littles is truly committed to improving the quality of life in Central Florida. She is a strong believer in doing whatever it takes to get the job done and we are proud that she has chosen to work and serve our community.

These honorees are serving our community.

Oct. 28 - PAW PARK FUND RAISER - This fund raiser will be from 9 a.m. until noon at the Jaycees Park, on U.S. Highway 17-92. The Paws Park Citizen Committee will host a Halloween costume contest for dogs. There will be refreshments sold and a bake sale.

Ex-boyfriend's manipulative power is all in girl's mind

DEAR ABBY: After being apart for two years, I recently encountered this guy I used to go with. He was always a manipulative jerk. But once again, I let him kiss me and shivers went down my spine. He gave me his phone number; however, I keep getting his answering machine. I'm dying to talk to him, even though he always treated me so badly. I can't stop thinking about him. It's driving me crazy. I can't leave my number on his machine, because I live with my boyfriend. I realize it's not good for me to talk to him, but for some reason, I feel I need to. I can't make myself throw away his number either, because I've already got it memorized.

Why, oh why am I so desperate to contact him? Is it because he has this manipulative power over me?

GOING CRAZY OVER A JERK

DEAR GOING CRAZY: Heck no! This isn't about anything your former boyfriend is "doing" to you — you're doing this to yourself. On some level, you have a need to be punished, and he is providing it. Unless you stop obsessing and let it go, your compulsion will cost you the boyfriend you already have.

DEAR ABBY: Bless Jack Salisbury's heart, whose letter explained that people with a hearing impairment can be in danger because of their inability to hear high-frequency sounds. Due to loud explosions and the constant roar of airplanes during World War II, I am profoundly deaf in the high frequencies. I don't hear birds singing, the music of piccolos, cell phones or smoke alarms. I have stood unaware beneath a blaring smoke alarm while my wife called to me from three rooms away asking if I had burned the toast!

Abby, I have brought this problem to the attention of fire chiefs and smoke alarm companies, however nothing has been done about it. The alarm companies point out that there are alarms with strobe lights, which is true — but they can't take the place of alarms we can hear.

What is needed are appliances with frequencies of 1,500 to 2,000 megahertz. Most of us can distinguish those frequencies. Please bring this issue to the attention of those who can solve the problem.

KEMAL SAIED, SAND SPRINGS, OKLA.

DEAR KEMAL: Fully one-third of our population over the age of 65 has significant hearing loss. Add to that the number of younger people whose hearing has been impaired from rock concerts and discotheques, and the market for appliances such as you describe becomes appreciable.

A basic principle of business is the importance of continual improvement. I hope at least one entrepreneur or inventor will take note of these facts and regard your complaint as an opportunity.

P.S. Another point worth noting: People with hearing loss are frequently in denial about it. Untreated hearing loss can lead not only to isolation, anxiety, frustration and depression, it can also lead to accidents and suicide — more reasons why it's so important to get one's hearing checked regularly, and if a hearing aid is indicated, to use one.

What teens need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, and getting along with peers and parents is in "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 417, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0417. Costumed robber pulls felony trick at First Union

From Staff Reports

Investigators with the Seminole County Sheriff's office continue to be on the lookout for the suspect in Thursday morning's robbery of the Hunt Club Branch of the First Union Bank, 590 Hunt Club Boulevard.

The robbery was reported to the sheriff's office at 9:58 Thursday morning, Oct. 26. An eyewitness reported the robbery in progress. Deputies were told the suspect was wearing a Halloween "scream" mask, and was armed with a chrome handgun.

He reportedly got away with an undisclosed amount of money. He was last seen leaving on a bicycle, pushing it through an opening of a chain link fence at a nearby apartment complex. Authorities have recovered the mask and the bike near the apartments.

The suspect is still at large. He is described as a black male in his early 20s, but witness descriptions regarding height, hairstyle and apparel have been varied.

Anyone with information regarding this robbery is asked to phone Investigator Robert Jaynes at 407-665-6965, or Crimeline at 1-800-423-TIPS.

Sheriff: Municipalities will determine when to trick or treat for Halloween

The Seminole County Sheriff's Department has issued a memorandum regarding Halloween.

Public Information Officer Steve Olson wrote, "Again this year we are fielding inquiries about the best time and day to take children trick or treating. Should it be Saturday before the time change (fall back an hour) or Halloween night?"

The sheriff's office is leaving that up to parents and neighborhoods, but said it will be prepared to handle both nights.

"We do, however, encourage Seminole County residents to take advantage of Halloween events many of the local cities are sponsoring," he added. In addition to those already announced in the Seminole Herald, Casselberry will have a party at Secret Lake Park beginning at 6 p.m. Saturday; Longwood's event will be Saturday beginning at 4 p.m. and Tuesday, Oct. 31 from 6-9:30 p.m. at the Longwood Police Department; Altamonte Springs' event will be Tuesday, Oct. 31 from 4-8 p.m. at Cranes Roost Park; Oviedo will celebrate Saturday from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m. at Riverside Park.

SGTV will continue to provide live gavel-to-gavel coverage of Seminole County Board of County Commissioners meetings, work sessions, and Planning and Zoning Commission meetings. In addition, SGTV now airs Board of Adjustment and Codes Enforcement Board meetings live.

SGTV is operated by Seminole County Government and can be viewed on Time Warner Cable Channel 9 throughout most of Seminole County. The SGTV weekly program lineup is available on the county's Web site at www.co.seminole.fl.us.

Business

giant termite costume for a pest control business.

"I think the oddest costume I've done was a naked chicken for a shop in Jacksonville," Meadows said. "I had to go out and look at a chicken in the grocery store to get an idea for the design."

Meadows began her costume-making career when she was 8. As a little girl, she decided she was going to make a blue ballerina costume for Halloween.

"I snuck into my mother's sewing room; and when I was finished, I had made my first Halloween costume," she said. "I've been sewing ever since."

In 1981, the Central Florida native opened a consignment shop on the corner of Sanford Avenue and Airport Boulevard. Costume making became part of Meadow's business after several customers came in looking for Halloween outfits.

"I told them if they bought the stuff they needed at the store, I'd sew together the costumes," she said. "I began spending all year getting ready for Halloween, and I really enjoyed it."

More than two years ago, her business outgrew the small building, so she moved to the shopping plaza located at 407 E. First St. Business has been good.

She provides costumes to many local theater groups, and she even created stage outfits for N'Sync. She credits "word of mouth" for her success.

"After 20 years of business, you ought to have a good reputation," she said.

Halloween remains one of her busiest months, and this year isn't an exception. With only a couple of days to go before the holiday, her store is filled with people looking for just the right costume to rent.

This year, Meadows said many men have decided to go with the "pimp" look, and many women are dressing up like Xena, the princess warrior. Fairies and southern belles are also popular.

The cost of renting a costume averages between $27.50 and $47.50, depending on how intricate the outfit is and whether it has to be dry-cleaned. The business also sells a small variety of costumes, accessories and Halloween decorations.

As for Meadows, the costume creator doesn't know what she will be this Halloween.

"I really have no idea yet what I am going to dress up as," she said. "I guess I will take whatever is left Saturday night."

For more information about the store, contact Meadows at 407-323-9421 or visit its Web site at www.asecondimage.com.

The Way We Were: 40th reunion

The Seminole High School Class of 1960 is holding its 40th year reunion this weekend. Activities are centered around the Best Western Lakefront Hotel with a cocktail party on Friday night and a buffet dinner Saturday from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m.

This was the last class to graduate from the high school building on French Avenue. The building was bursting at the seams with 1,100 students (grades 9-12 plus about 100 eighth graders) and 44 teachers. Just six years prior (when integrated) there were only about 500 students in grades 9-12. The new school on Ridgewood Avenue opened in January 1961. Eight other new schools had been built in the county in the previous eight year period. Growth was beginning, due in large part to the reopening of the Sanford Naval Air Station in 1951.

Andrew Bracken was principal, Ed Christianson was guidance counselor and registrar, and Mrs. Mae Fort was dean of girls and attendance officer. Miss Saldee Williams was secretary and bookkeeper.

Those on the faculty that I recognize as being at SHS for longer than a few years were Bud Leyer, John Higgins, Ethel Riser, Don Reynolds, Paul Hickson (math and science), Ann Allen, Edna Chittenden, Alicia Schmidt, Nellie Coleman, Ester Williams, Effie Curden, and Mary Joyce Bateman, (language).

Also Hilda Wray, Virginia Burney, Dave Laude, Kay Ryan, (social studies) Will West, John Colbert, Louis Girard, Mary Rogers, Joanne Bohannon, Rebecca Stevens, Barbara Ruprect, (vocational)

Physical education teachers were Beverly Cooper, June Wynn, Jim Pigott and Fred Ganas. Ollie Reese Whittle and Ernie Cowley taught music, Joe Mathieux, art, and Marlon Martin was drivers' education instructor.

Officers of the senior class were Doug Miller, president, Kay Ivey, vice president, Linda Parker, secretary, Linda Roseman, treasurer, and Dian Aiken, captain. Class sponsors were Ed Christianson, Alicia Schmidt, Rebecca Stevens and Ernie Cowley. Their class flower was the carnation. Colors are red and white and the motto is "Nothing without God".

Grace Marie Stinecpher

The student council, which served as president of the third district during the year, had its officers; Charles Brogan, president, Nikki Ashby, vice president, Marilyn McDaniel, secretary, and Frances Strickland, treasurer.

Homecoming sponsors were Janet Glenn, Colleen McFarlin, Sally Williams, Diana Haynes, with escorts Tom Raynor, Ronny Lindsey, Don McCoy, and Winston Piercy.

In football, SHS tied for the Orange Belt Conference title under coaches Jim Pigott and Dave Laude. Chosen for the all conference team were Jim Gracey, Terry Christianson, Charles Brogan, Neely Ross, John Lovelace, and Ray Lundquist. Jim Gracey was also chosen for all mid-state.

The basketball team, coached by Bud Leyer, won the OBC Conference title with a record of 19 and 3.

SHS clubs with their presidents were Future Farmers, Burke Winn, Glee Club, Don McCoy, Latin Club, Herman Allman, Future Teachers, Dian Aiken, Future Nurses, Betty Ann Long, Projectionist, Jimmy Gracey, DCT, Larry McQuarters, Tri Hi Y, Peggy Price, Key Club, Steve Sewell, S Club, Johnny Lovelace, Science Club, Cordell Jeffrey, Spanish Club, Billy Museiwhite, Bob Osborne was captain of the band and Dee Hargrave was head majorette.

While looking at the 1960 Salmagundi for this information, I realized that even though I was not in school with this class, nor did I teach them, I know about 25 members of the class. Our paths have crossed in various ways, so perhaps if I tell you how, you will learn a little more about each.

First of all, Martha Stemper is my first cousin. She is the sister of Bill, Jr. and the daughter of Bill and Mildred (Wells) Stemper. In 1952 I was a counselor at the MQ Ranch (owned by Gladys and Herman Morris, my aunt and uncle) and had Marty in my cabin along with Kay Ivey, another 1960 classmate. Also at the MQ that year were Fay Noel and Kathy Carlos.

Linda Sue Koke and Peggy Price are good friends of mine, beginning with youth activities at First Baptist Church. In 1963, the three of us traveled to Hawaii where we spent two weeks with another friend. Sue and I also took other trips together. Dee Hargrave substituted for me at SHS quite often. She later became a member of the faculty and we taught in the math department together for several years. Ned Julian was defense attorney in a trial on which I was an alternate juror in 1971. (I will tell you about this trial at a later date). I later knew him as a fellow member of First Baptist Church.

Others I knew at First Baptist were Johnny Allred, Faye Garner, Don McCoy, Winston Piercy, Jane Osborne, Jeanne Southward and David Wilson. Jane Osborne is the sister of my classmate, Milner Osborne, while David Wilson is a first cousin of my good friend Nancy Roundtree. I taught Winston Piercy's sister, Susan.

Sue Toney, Duane Goebel and Cecelia Milsted are siblings of three of my 1954 classmates, Phillip Toney, Marvin Goebel and Delores Milsted. Frances Strickland is sister to Marianne (SHS 1955), both daughters of Mr. and Mrs. M.R. Strickland, family friends. Glenn Ut is my present next door neighbor.

I was in Beta Sigma Phi Sorority with Flora Mae Richardson and Linda Parker who married Bill Reck. The Recks were my neighbors for several years. Flora Mae was the sister of Dora Lee Richardson Russell (SHS 1953).

Marilyn McDaniel and I were both Evie Kratzer's bridesmaids when she married Bill Park (another of my 1954 classmates). I do not know Dian Aiken but I remember when her dad, Dick Aiken, would sing "Diane" as his theme song for his radio program. I do know several other of the Aiken children.

There are lots of memories in those last few paragraphs. I know that the Class of 1960 has many more through 12 years of school together, and will be reminiscing about them this weekend.

Have a great time together.

Wilderness hike planned for Nov. 4

In celebration of the 10th anniversary of the Seminole County Natural Lands Program, the organization will hold a guided Wilderness Hike, beginning at 8 a.m., November 4.

Program officials will lead participants on a walk on the wild side of Seminole County. The hike will take place at the Chuluota, Geneva, Econ River, Lake Jesup and Lake Proctor Wilderness Area sites.

There is no charge for the event, however, space is limited and it is suggested reservations be made as early as possible. Contact Rosalind Cohen at 407-669-7352. Directions may also be obtained by calling that number.

Hikes will last between two and three hours and will cover two to five miles. It is suggested that participants bring needed items such as insect repellent, comfortable hiking shoes, water, and binoculars.

morale and strength to the U.S. Military.

Pointing to a number of veterans seated close to the speaker's podium, McCain said, "Hang in there. In 13 days, help is on the way."

Bush returned the endorsement moments later.

"I am a better presidential candidate because of John McCain, and America is a better country thanks to his sacrifices," Bush said of his former primary opponent.

With polls showing the presidential race a virtual toss-up, a charismatic Bush told the audience, "I'm here to look you in the eye and ask for your vote."

Speaking to the crowd equally comprised of men and women, the candidate drew a warm round of applause when he introduced his wife Laura.

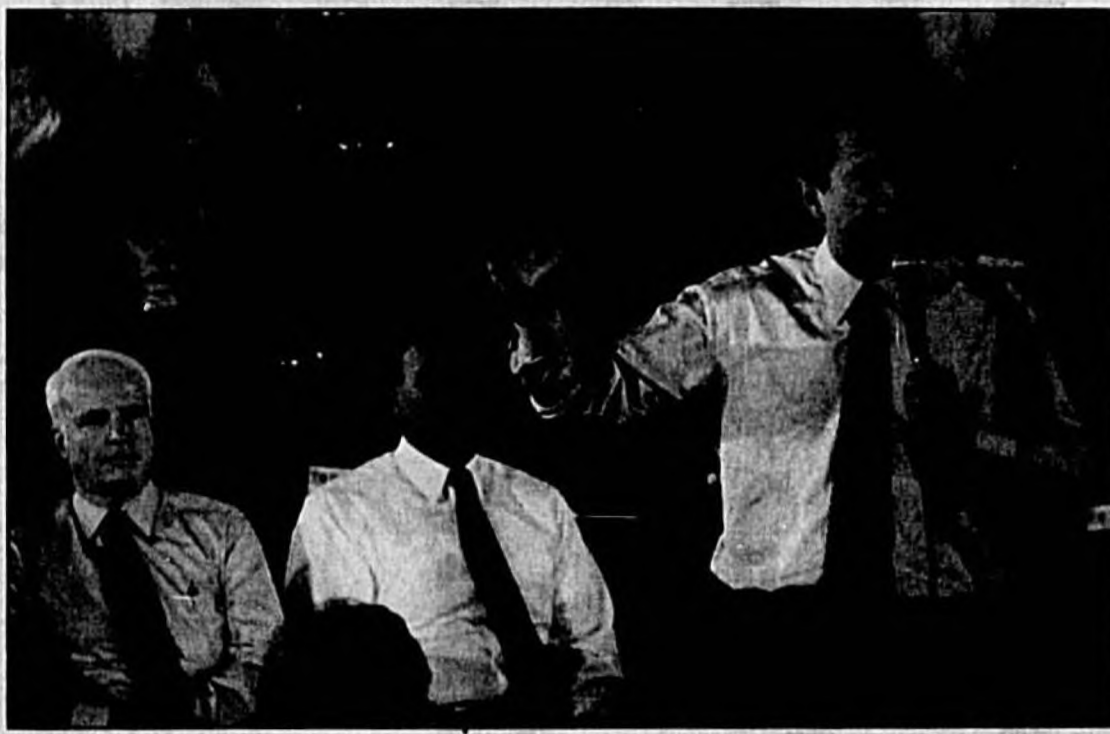

"You can judge a man by the nature of the company he keeps. She'll be a great first lady," Bush said of his wife.

For the better part of 60 minutes Bush repeated the themes he highlighted during three presidential debates with Vice President Gore, imploring the audience his vision for America called for less federal government not more, said the nation's military should be peacemakers and not peacekeepers, and defended his stance on tuition vouchers and local control of educational initiatives.

"I don't want to be the federal superintendent of schools," Bush said.

He also continued his push for an equitable tax cut, telling the crowd projected budget surpluses should be returned to taxpayers.

"The surplus is the people's money and we should share it with those who pay the bills."

Bush took his most direct shot at Gore late in his speech, telling the audience for the past eight years the Clinton-Gore team had not led the nation.

"For eight years they have not fixed social security, Medicare, or the educational system," Bush said. "The Vice President is running around the country telling people, 'You ain't seen nothing yet.' Well he's right. Clinton-Gore have had eight years to fix

Medicare, and we ain't seen nothing yet.

"They have not led. I promise you I will lead."

Feeding off the partisan crowd's energy, Bush closed his message by raising his right hand and taking an oath before the audience to restore character and integrity to the White House.

The SCC stop was sandwiched between bus stops in Daytona Beach and Tampa. More than 1,000 were turned away at the door during his Seminole County stop because of space limitations. Bush helped soften the blow for those who could not be seated by working the outside crowd prior to his entrance and before his departure.

make sure you receive no complaints about garbage service."

He added that FRS was taking the situation seriously and cited the fact that FRS paid $7,000 in administrative fines as the result of 96 service violations in September and another $11,000 in administrative fines for 150 complaints in October.

County staff concurred that the problem has peaked and will continue to monitor FRS's level of performance.

Vihlen said a new goal is to have a missed pick up taken care of in less than 24 hours, and he said the majority of service complaints came from rural areas. The company has added more equipment to address the problem.

"This seems to be a good plan of recovery," said commissioner Randy Morris, who also cautioned the firm that he was looking beyond a temporary quick fix to the complaints.

"There could be contractual problems not just administrative fines if the problem comes back," Morris said.

Board chairman Carlton Henley, who pushed for a formal response from FRS officials two weeks ago, said he felt more comfortable with FRS's commitment to an improved level of service.

"I can appreciate that you've taken your 30 lashes of punishment," said Henley. "And I understand that every company goes through problems from time-to-time."

Gift of a Lifetime

Though the Creason family grieves over the death of their son, they find peace in knowing he saved seven people and gave sight to two others

By Dan Ping Editor

AUBURNDALE — Carol Creason was busy when her son Keith came home with his new four-wheeler. She needed to do some things around the house, but Keith insisted his mom have the honor of being one of the first to drive his new vehicle. With Keith sitting on the back, mother and son rode through the orange groves surrounding their rural Auburndale home. At 22 years old, Keith was forming that special relationship young people develop with their families as they mature. The kind of relationship that finds joy in sharing a few spontaneous moments alone in the room. Carol has many of these memories, but she doesn't remember the last time she shared such a moment with Keith. Two weeks after that mother-son ride, Keith died in a motorcycle accident while working in collapse on Highway 170 in Sanford. "I thank God many times for giving me the chance to ride with Keith that day, and that I took the time to do that," Carol recalled two months later. "I will never forget that one ride we took on that special day. It was one of those times I could have missed by not taking the time. Thank you, Keith, for that."

Keith Creason

Like a lot of families, the Creasons found themselves wondering whether Keith would have chosen to be an organ donor. In their hearts, they knew her sensitivity to the Creasons' grief was much appreciated. "We knew we couldn't bring my little brother back to us," said Keith's older brother, Dave. "Mindy understood what we were going through. She knew this was a tough decision for us, and she tried to help us any way she could. She talked with us, and she even cried with us." "We were numb with emotion, Mindy was very comforting," Carol said. "She has worked as a critical care nurse, so she knew all the emotions that families go through." "She was there for us, and after talking to her — and talking as a family — we knew this is something Keith would want us to do. He was also trying to help other people, and this was the ultimate help."

Overcoming Fears Many families have a lot of fears about organ donations, and there are numerous misconceptions about the procedure. One of the biggest misconceptions, especially for families who must make a decision about donation while a loved one's life might end, is that doctors won't work as hard to save the life of an organ donor. "That's just simply untrue," Mindy said. "The transplant teams have no connection to the hospital. They're not a part of the hospital's regular staff. The doctors and nurses at the hospital are going to make every effort to save patients who might be organ donors. In fact during the life-saving procedures, the doctors may be unaware that the patient is an organ donor."

In Keith's case two physicians pronounced him brain dead before any transplant procedures began. "Mindy explained to all of us the differ-

The Decision to Donate Keith hadn't left any instructions for his family in case of his untimely death. What 22-year-old does? Carol gathered at Central Florida Hospital on that July afternoon. The Creasons had to prepare for the decision they had to make whether Keith could be an organ donor. It wasn't the first time the family had talked about organ donation. Keith's younger sister, Kelly, had just her driver's license and needed most of her signature for the organ donation pledge on the back of the license. "I said, 'Kelly, why don't you wait a couple of months until you turn 18,'" Carol remembers. "She said, 'Mom, I'm going to be an organ donor anyway, why don't you just go ahead and sign it.'" This was much different, though. Signing an organ donation card is a pledge for the living. Making the same decision when a loved one has just passed leaves no hope left.

He would. "In my experience, maybe only 20 percent of the families know what their loved ones would have wanted," said Mindy Zoll, a transplant coordinator for TransLife, the regional organ donation program. Zoll made herself available to the family to answer questions and a shoulder to cry on, or just listen to family members griever. "I'm not here to coerce the family into organ donation, that's their decision," Mindy emphasized. "I'm not there for the recipients, the people who are going to get the organs. That's someone else's job. I'm there for the needs of the donor family. I never meet the recipients. My entire focus is on the donor family." "These are not patients with long illnesses," she adds. "It's usually a sudden, shattering event, and the families have a lot of emotions to work through. Sometimes these deaths are the result of a homicide or a suicide or a drunk driver, so there is a lot of rage. Many times the family is on the board for the families."

Lifeline

• Keith's heart was gifted to a 48-year-old man who lives in the Tallahassee area. After serving in the U.S. Army, he worked as a law enforcement officer until he suffered a heart attack six years ago. His health had deteriorated and he was listed for a transplant in April. He is married and has three children and four grandchildren, as well as five siblings and 18 nieces and nephews who welcomed him home on Aug. 3. His doctor says he is doing remarkably well and walked out of the hospital on his own.

• Keith's lungs were gifted to a 36-year-old man from southern Florida. His lungs failed due to Pulmonary Hypertension. He is married and has two children. He was placed on the transplant list nearly two years ago. He owns his own company and says that he enjoys reading a good book. He was transferred out of the Intensive Care Unit on Aug. 3 and his doctor said he is recovering very well.

• Keith's liver was gifted to a 57-year-old man from the Tampa area. He is a retired pharmacist. His own liver failed due to cirrhosis and he was listed for a transplant in July 1998. He has been married for 21 years and he and his wife have three children.

• Keith's pancreas and left kidney were transplanted into a 57-year-old woman from the Jacksonville area. She suffered from glomerulonephritis, which destroyed her own kidneys. She is married and has two sons and one grandchild. She is a homemaker and enjoys playing her piano, swimming, reading, and working in her garden. The organs functioned immediately and she is doing well. The right kidney was gifted to a 44-year-old man born here in the Central Florida area. He suffered from Juvenile Onset Diabetes. He is presently disabled due to his illness, but he used to work as a real estate agent. He has been on dialysis since January. Both of these recipients are recovering rapidly and look forward to lives free of the pain and complications of dialysis.

Myth & Reality

Misconceptions about organ and tissue donation abound. Here are the facts.

Myth — Wealthy people and celebrities are moved to the top of the list faster than "regular" people.
Reality — The organ allocation and distribution system is blind to wealth or social status. The length of time it takes to receive a transplant is governed by many factors, including blood type, length of time on the waiting list, severity of illness and other medical criteria. Factors such as race, gender, age, income or celebrity status are never considered when determining who receives an organ.
Myth — Donation will mutilate my body.
Reality — Donated organs are removed surgically in a routine operation similar to gallbladder or appendix removal. Donation doesn't disfigure the body or change the way it looks in a cast.

Myth — My family will be charged for donating my organs.
Reality — Donation costs nothing to the donor's family or estate.
Myth — If I am in an accident and the hospital knows that I want to donate, the doctors will not try to save my life.
Reality — Organ donation is only after all efforts to save your life have been exhausted and death has been legally declared. The medical team treating you is completely separate from the transplant team. The organ procurement organization (OPO) is not notified until all lifesaving efforts have failed and death has been determined. The OPO does not notify the transplant team until your family has consented to donation.

Myth — I am not the right age for organ donation.
Reality — Organs can be donated by newborns on up to the general age limit for tissue donation is 70. At the time of your death, the appropriate medical professionals will determine whether your organs are usable.
Myth — My religion does not support organ donation.
Reality — All mainstream religions approve of organ and tissue donation and consider it an act of charity.
Myth — Only heart, liver and kidneys can be transplanted.
Reality — Needed organs include the heart, kidneys, pancreas, lungs, liver and intestines. Tissue that can be donated include the eyes, skin, cornea, heart valves and tendons.

Myth — I have a history of medical illness. I don't want my organs to be used.
Reality — At the time of death, the appropriate medical professionals will review your medical and social history to determine whether or not you can be a donor. With recent advances in transplantation, many more people than ever before can be donors. It's best to sign a donor card and tell your family your wishes.
Myth — I don't need to tell my family that I want to be a donor because I have it written in my will.
Reality — By the time your will is read, it will be too late to recover your organs. Telling your family now that you want to be an organ and tissue donor is the best way to ensure that your wishes are carried out.

Myth — I've heard about a business traveler who is heavily drugged, then awakens to find he or she has had one kidney (or sometimes both) removed for a black market transplant.
Reality — This tale has been widely circulated over the Internet. There is absolutely no evidence of such activity ever occurring in the U.S. or any other industrialized country. While the tale may sound credible, it has no basis in the reality of organ transplantation. Many people who hear the myth probably dismiss it, but it is possible that some believe it and decide against organ donation out of needless fear.

Hall of fame

Dr. Earl S. Weldon recognized for service to Seminole Community College

Seminole Community College president emeritus Dr. Earl S. Weldon was recently inducted into the Florida Community College Activity Association's Hall of Fame in Tallahassee. Weldon established the college in 1966 and completed 30 years of service to the institution with his retirement in 1996. Herald staff writer Joe DeSantis talked with Weldon about his Hall of Fame induction and what keeps him and his wife of 49 years, Gerry, busy these days as they enjoy retirement from their Chuluota residence.
Q: Were you surprised at your selection into the Community College Hall of Fame?
A: It was a very pleasant surprise. I only found out about it a few weeks before the ceremony took place in Tallahassee. I'm greatly appreciative of it as I am the president emeritus status with Seminole Community College.

Q: Since your retirement in 1996, how have you kept busy?
A: I'm a reading bug. I like to go back and re-read novels that I haven't read in a long time. Gerry and I have done some traveling, mostly to Canada and New England. She's very much involved in the community as president of the Izora Garden Club. I'm involved in Kiwanis and was recently selected as a lifetime member of the Salvation Army. Another activity I really enjoy at this time is keeping up with my 1929 Model-A Ford. It's been immaculately reconditioned and

I enjoy taking it for a spin from time-to-time. You'd be surprised, but we can still find parts for it.
Q: Having served for 30 years as SCC's founding president, are you pleased to see the continued growth and development of the institution?
A: Absolutely. It's actually grown even more rapidly than I could have anticipated. When the school began, I was generous about my predictions for its future. I still get back to campus from time-to-time and I appreciate the fact that President Ann McGee keeps me informed about future developments, like the opening of the Oviedo campus.
Q: What are some of your fondest memories of your tenure at SCC?

A: That first year will always stick out as a special time. We dreamed of the day students would actually arrive on campus. What I recall most about that first year was the cohesiveness and family spirit of the faculty, staff, and student body coming together. It was a special time.
Q: Have you observed many changes over the years in the community college student body or its mission?
A: I see two changes. More people are going to community colleges with a definite goal of completing two years of undergraduate work in a specific time frame and then going on to finish a four-year degree at a university. The second change is the shift in educational focus more directed in the area of technology and technology processes.

Q: What does the future hold in store for the Weldon's?
A: Gerry and I will continue to do some traveling. And when we are at home, we have four grandchildren to keep us busy. As you can imagine, that's almost a full-time job itself.

ence between being brain dead and being in a coma," said Keith's brother Dave.

"No one comes out of brain dead," his father added. The difference between the two highlights another misconception — not every death can result in an organ donation. Organ donors must have a beating heart at the time the transplant team begins the organ removal, a surgical procedure that follows the same standards as any major surgery for a living patient.

Because the patient must have a beating heart, there is a limited pool of donors, about 11,500 people every year. Approximately 50 percent of those consent to donation, either through prior arrangements or a decision by family members at the time of death.

"The availability of organ donors is very limited, especially when you consider there are more than 72,000 people in the United States waiting for an organ donation," Mindy said. "People tend to lump organ donation and tissue donation — things like corneas, cartilage, tendons — in one big group. They are different. You can still be a tissue donor if the heart has stopped beating."

The Healing Process

The Creasons decision to donate Keith's organs and tissues helped at least 10 families — those of the nine recipients, and ultimately, the Creasons themselves.

"Emotionally, those who choose to donate are doing much better," Mindy says.

"When a family makes a decision to donate, it's the first time during this terrible event that they ever have control. For the first time, they can decide what happens, and that's where the healing begins."

She's quick to point out, however, that organ donation does not eliminate the pain of losing a loved one.

"They float back and forth. Some days are good, some days are bad," Zoll said. "You grieve a little bit everyday. You're always going to miss your loved ones."

The Creasons can attest to that, especially when Sunday comes. It's always been family day in the Creason home. Carol would cook a big Sunday dinner and the family would spend time together like families would use to do. Of course, little Lexi drew most of the attention. Like the rest of the family, Keith was enamored with his 3-year-old niece.

Some Sundays the family would get involved in an activity, like riding four-wheelers. Other times they enjoyed a lazy afternoon conversation, sharing their good times, their bad times, their hopes, dreams and fears.

Those Sundays spent with family made an impression on Keith that his family never realized until after his death. While going through some personal items, Carol found an English paper Keith wrote a few years before while attending college in Lakeland.

"My family and I share a special bond," he wrote. "Once a week on Sunday we all make it a point to spend time together. We eat Sunday dinner, then we sit around and talk for awhile. That's special to me. It makes me feel good that we can do that."

"Every day is hard, but Sundays are very difficult," Carol said. "I know he helped seven other people — plus their families — and gave sight to two others, but it's still so hard because we lost him."

"It's going to take a long time for us to heal," said Keith's father, Dave. "I work construction and it shakes me sometimes. If I see a guy working in a ditch, it'll shake me to the bone. The first thing I think of is Keith."

Meeting the Recipients

The family has done a number of things to remember Keith. Local churches held services, and a tree was planted in his name. They also intend to participate in TransLife's Donor Memorial Quilt, a project many donor families chose as a way to memorialize their loved ones. Bibles have been donated in Keith's name. And the family remains in contact with Mindy.

"We do follow-ups with all the families. The last thing in the world that I want a family to think is that we no longer care once the transplants are done," Mindy said.

Carol wants to take the healing process a step further, though. She wants to meet the recipients of Keith's donation.

"It's important for me to be able to meet them," she explains. "I want to tell them about Keith. I want to tell them that he liked to hunt and fish and how much he loved life. I want to tell them about his dreams and his plans and how he loved to laugh. I don't think anyone could get mad at Keith. He had a way to make you laugh just when you needed it the most. He loved helping people. I think at the other end (recipients), those are the things you would want to know."

Carol especially wants to meet a specific recipient.

"I want to meet the person who got his heart," Carol says, barely getting the words out between tears, "because Keith had such a big one."

The Tallahassee man who received Keith's heart is the father of three and grandfather of four. He left the hospital shortly after receiving the transplant, and doctors say he is doing remarkably well. He even walked out of the hospital on his own.

The transplant organizations don't usually orchestrate reunions between donor families and recipients. In fact, Mindy says she has only witnessed one reunion.

"You need a whole box of Kleenex," she said. "It was beautiful. I cried all day."

Though some transplant organizations are opposed to the idea, many provide contact information to both parties if they want to meet. These "reunions" often aid in the healing process for everyone.

"I know one man who always sends a red rose to the mother of his donor on the anniversary of the transplant," Mindy said. "He says it's his new birthday."

She noted, however, that often times the recipients are reluctant to meet the donor families.

"The donor families have given this incredible gift and have been so generous that the recipients have a lot of guilt," Mindy said. "They are alive because of someone else's tragedy and that is a very heavy burden for some recipients. Sometimes they don't want to meet."

The Right Decision

The pain and emptiness is still there for the Creasons. They know it always will be.

They also know they made the right decision to be a donor family. Carol says they received a sign the moment the decision was made. A late afternoon storm had darkened the skies, mirroring the family's mood as they wrestled with their emotions. But those dark clouds hid a brilliant scene.

"A nurse came in and took me by the hand, and we went across the hall to a room that faced west," Carol remembers. "A spectacular sunset had burst through the storm clouds. The colors were so vibrant, all these bright oranges and reds. I don't think I have ever seen a sunset like it."

"And it didn't happen until we said yes."

Do celebrities or wealthy foreigners receive preferential treatment for organ donation?

The short answer is no. I take your question to mean "Is there a realistic possibility that being connected affects organ allocation?" Of course, the answer to any question that asks if there is "absolutely any possibility" is always, yes. It is possible.

Realistically, it does not. In the United States it is illegal to "engage in the procurement, sale or purchase of any human organ." The organ allocation system is organized and managed by the United Network for Organ Sharing (UNOS) through an explicit, computerized system. Factors considered are the recipient's medical condition, time on the list, blood type, size, and location. The system is designed to be fair.

The case of a celebrity has been covered in the past. There is no evidence that the system is biased against anyone. The system is designed to be fair. The system is designed to be fair. The system is designed to be fair.

The system is designed to be fair. The system is designed to be fair. The system is designed to be fair. The system is designed to be fair. The system is designed to be fair.

Dancer/actor returns to roots to retire

Thomas J. (Thom) Lake says he's back home to stay. His famous father, big league ball player, Bernard David "Buddy," Lake said jokingly, "The prodigal son has returned."

Thom found his niche in another brand of ball-ballet and developed a deep passion for dance from the time he was 17 years old and attending Seminole High School. The year was 1976 and the nation was celebrating its bicentennial. Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole performed in a dance drama, "River Gold," which focused on 200 years along the St. Johns River. Artistic directors Miriam Rye and Valerie Weld recruited about 80

Doris Dietrich

Thom a scholarship to attend the school of 500 female dancers along with one other male. Thom didn't have to think twice about accepting opportunity.

Thom was on his way. From the School of Dance Arts in Sanford and VIC, Thom was also the recipient of scholarships at North Carolina School of the Arts (where he graduated), American Ballet Center-Joffrey School of Ballet, New York City, David Howard's School, New York City and Jacobs Pillow Dance Festival, Becket, MA.

Thom began his professional career by dancing with a number of internationally famous ballet companies including the National Ballet of Mexico, the Taiwan National Ballet and the Santa Barbara Ballet where he was principal dancer and ballet master from 1980-85.

In order to expand his career options, Thom moved into the commercial entertainment market. Since his transition, Thom has become one of the most versatile performers working today. He has thrown knives, twirled guns, performed dangerous martial arts and has assisted magicians. "I thrive on unique challenges," Thom said. "It's what I enjoy."

During his climb to the top, Thom appeared in Reno and Lake Tahoe before moving south to Las Vegas where he was cast in eight spectaculars, each offering a different twist on his capabilities. In Winds of the Gods at the Luxor, Thom raced a tandem-horsed chariot and engaged in stage combat with bullwhips while playing in one of the three speaking leads.

At the Folies Bergere, Jubilee and Enter the Night, Thom assumed various adagio responsibilities ranging from comedy to romance. Adagio was his forte since he had already starred in this dance form.

His most recent credits include Tom Selleck's CBS-TV series The Closer, ABC-TV's The Drew Carey Show and Home Improvement, Fox-TV's Extreme Magic and Universal Pictures' The Mystery Men where he was actor, stunt man and choreographer. He was a featured performer with renowned motivational speaker, Anthony Robbins, beat up Brad Pitt for European television viewers and guest appeared in Romeo and Juliet with the Nevada Ballet Theatre.

After traveling the circuits in all phases of show biz including acting and singing, Thom says he is retiring, well semi, maybe and home to stay. He just recently returned from two months in Europe and is at home with his parents, Pauline and Buddy Lake, in Lake Mary. He is in the throes of building a home and his headquarters next to his parents home where he grew up.

Thom is presently teaching ballet and jazz at the School of Dance Arts two days a week. As a member of the Dance Educators of America, Thom goes where he is called to teach classes for this organization. He is also a member of Screen Actors Guild, so expect to see him on nighttime television and in the movies. The dedicated dancer and actor is glad to be back to his roots and home, sweet home. Valerie Weld said, "He's a neat guy, a real asset to our area — great family too."

Bridge Social

Autumn was in the air when the Sanford Woman's Club's Bridge Social met at the home of Zeldia Siskind for the October session. Serving as co-hostess was Shirley Mills. Before the women settled down for an afternoon of serious card-playing, they were served an array of delicious refreshments by the hostesses.

Winners were: Rose Edith Jacobson, high, and Libby Prevatt, second high.

Other players included:

Margaret Gross, Helen Ernest, Terri Milliken, Wilma Heaton, Carol Dennison, Mary Dale Jones, Emy Sokol and Betty Bruestle. "We had our usual good time," Shirley Mills said.

Home from Hawaii

Twenty-six members of the Sanford Over-50 Club had the time of their lives on a recent trip to Hawaii.

The entourage spent 11 days island hopping, shopping and pigging out on appetizing luau specialties with many learning how to dance the hula.

According to Jane Saxon, "We had a wonderful time. It was glorious."

Ruby Issac celebrates retirement with friends, family

Family, friends and co-workers helped celebrate the retirement of Ruby "Sugar Boo" Issac on Oct. 21, after 19 years of service with the Seminole County School Board.

The honoree entered the hall with a look of grand surprise and received a standing ovation from over 100 family members, guests and well-wishers.

As a tribute to the honoree, Family, friends and co-workers helped celebrate the retirement of Ruby "Sugar Boo" Issac on Oct. 21, after 19 years of service with the Seminole County School Board. Issac is pictured with her children.

her pastor, Rev. Ricky Scott was the Master of Ceremonies for the occasion.

The selection, "Thank You Lord" was sung in honor of Issac. A solo, "I Won't Complain" was given by Renee Stephen. Entertainment was rendered by the New Mount Calvary Praise Dancers, Rashay Stephens, Ashton Gaines, Shiquitta Debose, Jesslyn Hunt and Doashia Durhart. They rendered the selection "I've Got so much to thank God for" and "The Battle is not yours, it's the Lord's". Beautifully attired in their costumes their performance brought praise and a spirit filled Amen.

Minister Robert Guy, Sr., offered the prayer of praise for the honoree and Pastor Lennard J. Wilson read the honoree's favorite scripture. Words of congratulations, love, praise, and appreciation were given by her friend, Dorothy Holmes, friend and brother Wesley Wright, as a mom, Auntie Shirley Wynn, and as a Christian worker and friend, Deacon Raleigh Sutton, Gordon Fort and Janet Simmons.

All remarks reminded the guest of what a kind hearted, lovable mom, sister, grandmother,

Church Notes

Family Worship Center

Rev. Alister Belbin, recently approved Assemblies of God missionary to Spain will be the guest speaker at Family Worship Center in Sanford, Sunday, Oct. 29 at 9 a.m. according to Rev. Jeffrey Krall, pastor.

Allister and Lindy Belbin are going to Spain for the first time in association with the U.S. Assemblies of God but they have a long history of missions ministry with the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada.

The public is invited to hear this dynamic speaker.

Central Baptist Church

Terry and Collette Clark will present a concert at Sanford's Central Baptist Church, located at 3101 W. State Route 46, 6 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 29.

The Clarks are not strangers to this area as Terry served as minister of music in a local church in the past.

The Clarks have been singing together since they were teen-agers. They have recorded five projects during the past 25 years and sung in churches and conferences all over Florida and the southeast. Terry is minister of music at a Lakeland church.

The public is invited to attend the event. A love offering will be taken for the Clarks.

Community United Methodist

The Community United Methodist Church, 4921 S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry is now conducting the annual Pumpkin Patch.

Approximately 4,000 pumpkins have arrived with another 4,000 expected soon. The event is sponsored by the church's youth group, with a Pumpkin Store supplying other items such as Georgia walnuts and pecans and hand crafted items. Each weekday morning preschoolers will have story time with Grandma Pumpkin. Some 900 youngsters are expected to attend.

For information or pumpkin purchasing, phone the church office at 407-831-3777.

Florida Baptist Convention

The Florida Baptist Convention and Seminole Baptist Association will sponsor a free dental clinic Oct. 30 and 31 in Sanford, for low income families. Patients will be seen according to their need of care. Only fillings and extractions will be done with local dentists and their assistants donating their time.

The unit will be at Faith Bible Ministry, 1011 S. Sanford Avenue Oct. 30 and 31. Prescreening (which is necessary) will be at the church Saturday, Oct. 21 from 1:30 until 4:30 p.m.

Dead Sea Scrolls

Dr. Ken Hanson, author, lecturer, professor and founder of "Treasures in Time," an organization devoted to disseminating knowledge of the Biblical World will make presentations Thursday, Nov. 2, from 6:30 until 8:30 p.m., at the Seminole Community College SALI Program, at the new SCC Oviedo Campus, 2500 Lockwood Blvd., Oviedo. The fee is $5.10. Seating is limited.

For additional information or registration, phone SCC Community Education at 407-328-2121.

Congregation Beth El

Congregation Beth El of Central Florida will hold a Family Sabbath Service Friday, November 3, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Children Grade 6 and 7 will participate. Everyone is invited. Refreshments will be served following the services. Services will be held at 160 Ibis Road, Longwood.

Class collects books to make a difference

A fifth-grade class at Lake Monroe Christian Academy is making a difference in other children's lives by donating almost 200 books to Central Florida Regional Hospital.

The donation is in conjunction with the Book-It program, Pizza Hut's national reading incentive that motivates children to read by rewarding them for their reading accomplishments, teacher Jill Snyder said. As part of the Make A Difference Day campaign, which is held the fourth Saturday in October, the program encouraged Book-It participants to give back to their community.

"We decided to collect books to donate to the Sanford hospital's pediatric ward," Snyder said. "The hospital doesn't purchase books, and the only books available to patients are ones that are donated."

Through fund-raising and collecting efforts, including a hot dog sale, the five children in Snyder's fifth-grade class collected quality used books and more than $100 to purchase new reading material.

"We decided we were going to purchase nice books, so someone at the hospital will want to sit down and look at a book for awhile," Snyder said. "And, once the patient leaves the hospital, they can take the book home with them."

According to Snyder, the children didn't set a goal for how many books they wanted to collect, and they are proud of their results.

"I told them to do the best that they can do," she said. "They really had a good time doing it, and they've done a good job."

"And, it's been very educational for them, especially planning the hot dog fund-raiser."

Corporate sponsors included Scholastic Books Inc. and Target. Walden Books also provided a 20 percent discount on books purchased at their store.

Lake Monroe Christian Academy is an elementary school for New Tribes Mission.

Virgin Mary tours Egypt and Jersey

Once word got around that people were seeing an apparition of the Virgin Mary in an upstairs window of a New Jersey house, cameramen from "Imus in the Morning," a TV talk show in New York City, were dispatched to the neighborhood to take videos of this strange thing that had come to pass.

The usual believers were rounded up who testified that it was indeed the Virgin Mary in the second-floor window. Others said they couldn't be sure but admitted something appeared to be moving up there. Apparitions of the Virgin Mary are not everyday occurrences, but neither are they all that rare. They always raise the same questions: Is it a hoax? An optical illusion? The result of mass hysteria where some excitable person will exclaim "I see it!" and everybody else takes up the cry?

Most apparitions come and go in a matter of days, and things return to normal. It was different with the vision that first appeared in a suburb of Cairo, Egypt, on April 2, 1968.

Two mechanics were working in a garage across the street from the church of St. Mary when they saw what seemed to be a nun in white standing atop the large dome of the church.

They thought the nun was about to leap. One of the mechanics hurried to get the church's pastor while the other summoned the police emergency squad. The priest identified the "nun" as an apparition of the Virgin Mary. The emergency squad was told to return to the police station.

That might have been the end of the story except that the apparitions continued to appear for the next three years.

Thousands saw the visions. Bishop Athanasius of the Coptic (or Egyptian) Church, estimated there were 100,000 people in the crowd around St. Mary's church the night he saw the vision — April 29, 1968.

The bishop had been sent by the pope of the Coptic Church to investigate the phenomenon. In his report to the church head, Bishop Athanasius said, "There she was above the dome, full figure, like a phosphorus statue but not so stiff as a statue. There was movement of the body and the clothing. She would wave her hand. She blessed the people. Her garments swayed in the wind."

George Plagenz

The apparition, the bishop said, appeared at 3:45 a.m. and remained until 4:55 a.m.

Witnesses who saw the vision over the three-year period included both Christians and Muslims and people from all walks of life — such as two brothers on the faculty of Rutgers University.

The apparition remained visible for varying periods each night. On the night of June 8, 1968, it appeared uninterrupted from 9 p.m. to 4:30 a.m. Witnesses were able to go home and bring back family members to see it.

A U.S. priest who made several trips to Cairo to see the apparition and interviewed many who saw it said there were those — including some of his fellow priests — "who dismiss the whole thing." With some people, anything supernatural conflicts with their idea of how a rational universe operates.

"There is a physical explanation for it," an American physicist said. "Even if I saw the phenomenon myself, I would not agree it was supernatural."

Some saw a hoax at work. They contended the Egyptian ministry of tourism had arranged the whole thing. According to their theory, the lights and moving figure were produced by a hidden light projector.

In the view of believers, the Cairo apparition and other visions of the Virgin Mary are sent to strengthen the world's waning belief in God and the supernatural and to convert the non-Christian world to Christianity.

Handwriting reflection of each person

You can tell a lot about a person just from their handwriting. That's according to Jan Leach, a certified graphologist who visited the October meeting of the Lake Mary AARP.

Mary Rowell

Although everyone is taught to write by forming their letters in a certain way, even in elementary school, each child has their own way of writing. As we get older, our handwriting becomes more and more a reflection of us. As an example, Jan said that when you sign your name, if you loop the end of the last letter of your name back over the rest of your name, it means you're protective of your spouse or family. The longer the loop, the more protective you are.

One AARP member said that she has seen her husband's last loop get longer the older he gets.

Jan doesn't just tell people about their personality. She is also an expert witness and document examiner. Criminals, such as forgers, try to hide or disguise their handwriting. That's where Jan comes in. Cases she has worked on include suspect and disputed wills, poison pen letters, graffiti, industrial espionage, altered medical records and more.

Jan has also taught classes in handwriting analysis. If you'd like Jan to analyze your handwriting for a small fee, you can call her at 407-628-1090. Her offices are located in Winter Park.

In other AARP news, President Cynthia Pitcock gave the President's Award to Addie Rossi. Addie is the chair of the Telephone Committee. Her diligence in her job has meant more members at every meeting.

This year's AARP Christmas luncheon will be held at Timucuan Country Club on Tuesday, Dec. 19. The cost is $8. If you haven't already signed up for the luncheon, you can do so at the November meeting or by calling Jim Carmona at 407-323-9249.

FHC Speaker Coming To Lake Mary

The Florida Humanities Council has a speaker's bureau to help bring historical speakers to historical groups throughout Florida. The Lake Mary Historical Commission has received permission to host three speakers over the next six months. The first speaker is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 21, in the Lake Mary Historical Museum. Betty Jean Steinshouer will present "Yankee Ladies in Florida: Harriet Beecher Stowe, Sarah Orne Jewett and Laura Ingalls Wilder." The performance and discussion will demonstrate how the three authors saw Florida differently. Steinshouer will present the authors in character and then entertain questions from the audience about the authors and their writings about Florida. The public is encouraged to attend this free event.

At their October meeting, the Lake Mary Historical Commission began work on their annual festival "Olde Lake Mary Days." The event is set for Saturday, March 3. There were concerns that the stage would be under construction, but the Parks and Recreation Department has said that the renovation of the stage in front of City Hall will not begin until after Olde Lake Mary Days. Mary Jane Duryea volunteered to be the chair of the Olde Lake Mary Days Committee. Clinton Rhodes and Mike Wrogerman will be the co-chairs of the committee.

The Historical Commission also talked about the Smithsonian exhibit that's coming to Lake Mary Aug. 18. As part of the agreement with the Florida Humanities Council, the exhibit must be open at least 25 hours a week. The commission signed up volunteers at the meeting to be docents. Docents are volunteers familiar with the exhibit who lead visitors on a tour. Training will be provided for the docents. If you'd like to volunteer to be a docent, you can call Dee Gracey at 407-324-3065.

Candlelight Romance

Fall is the season for love and dinner for two

*"The fountains mingle with the river
And the rivers with the ocean:
The winds of heaven mix forever
With a sweet emotion.
Nothing in the world is single,
All things by a law divine
In one another's being mingle —
Why not I with thine?"*
— Shelley

Sica Nacu

Growing up in Romania — a four-season country — one of my few simple pleasures in life, which I dearly miss so much, is to see the color of the leaves change. A lot of people I know in Florida travel to North Carolina, Virginia or New England to personally witness the coming of fall with its vibrant reds, warm yellows and earth tone browns.

I don't know about other people, but to me, fall is the most romantic of all seasons. The nostalgia of happy summer days gone by, the preparation for school starting and the change in intensity of sunlight make me think of long walks for two through unattended gardens where leaves fall and fall again, embracing step after step.

Why not surprise someone in need of a little fall color with a gift of rich hued autumn leaves?

Press an assortment of fallen leaves (if you look around you will find some) in a phone book for a few days. Then let them curl at room temperature for a couple more days. Place them in a gift box and send them to a city-bound friend, someone in Arizona, or someone you know in a hospital.

Better yet, if you and your loved one never could take that long-planned trip to North Carolina because you couldn't catch up with work, then the next best thing is to surprise him or her by preparing a romantic candlelight dinner for two. Since it's Halloween, maybe you would like to come up with two romantic characters and wear costumes. I promise you, we will do it together and it is going to be very easy.

You have to have a game plan. You have to know what you are going to do, how the table will be set, and how to keep everything a secret.

Use your best china, linens and silverware. Because it is Halloween, have a few small-shape pumpkins carved and drop a candle in them. Spread a few autumn leaves on the table, or if you have an organza tablecloth, place them underneath it.

Before going shopping, make sure to take the list of all ingredients. Good shopping is half the work done.

Preparation And Cooking
A three-course romantic candlelight dinner can include Boston bib salad vinaigrette, baked filet of salmon served with mushroom couscous and creamy lemon yogurt mouse.

Boston Bib Salad Vinaigrette
Preparation time: 20 minutes

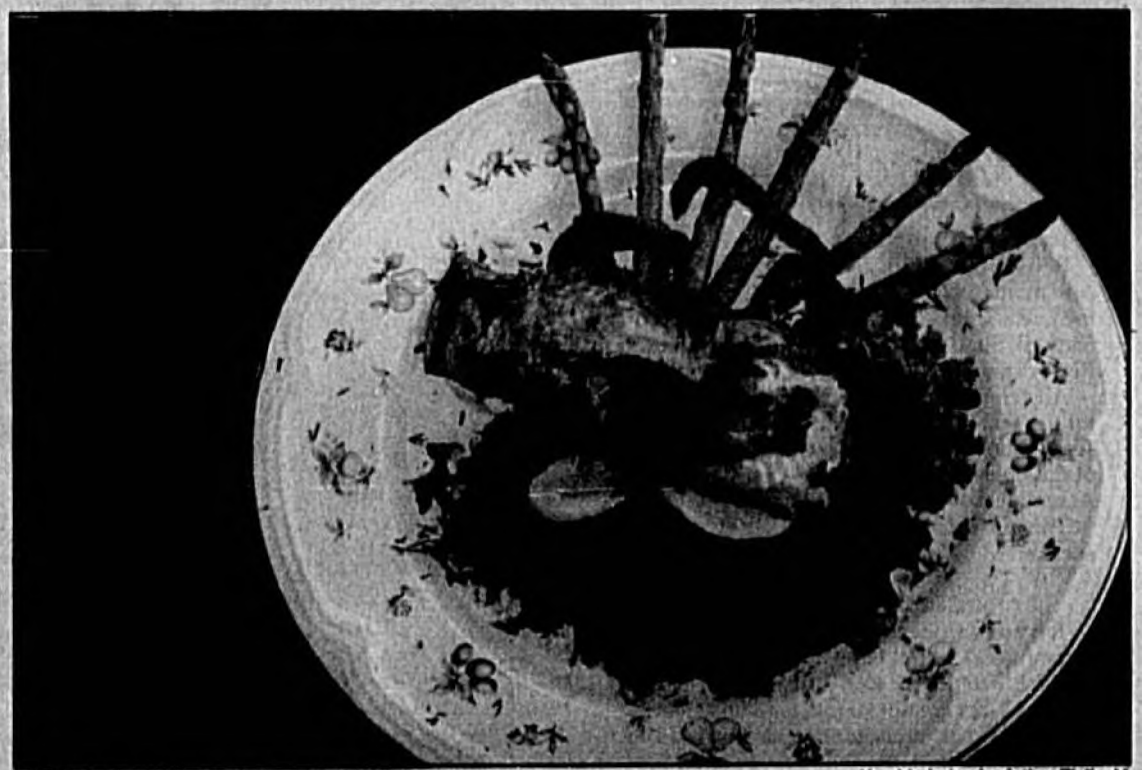

- 1 head of Boston bib
- 6 red radishes
- 4 scallions
- 2 sprigs of fresh dill
- Half of a small cucumber
- 2 tablespoons of olive oil
- 1 tablespoon of balsamic vinegar
- 1 pinch of salt
- 1 pinch of pepper

Wash and trim all ends of the vegetables. With your fingers tear the lettuce head into small pieces. Cut radishes and cucumber into round slices. Dice the scallions across. Finely chop the dill.

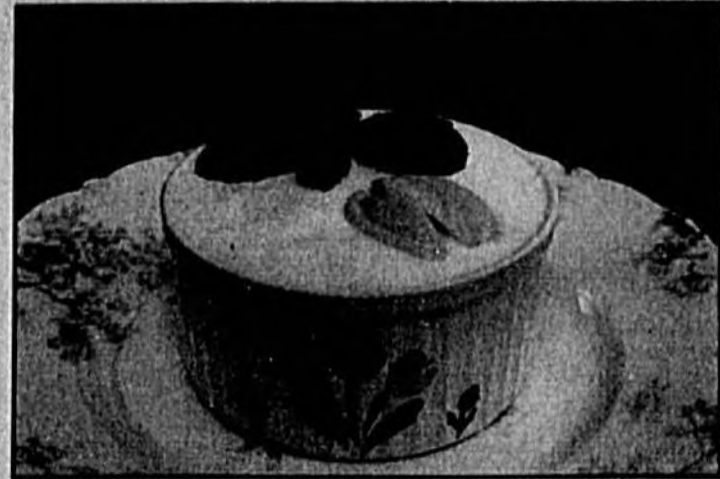

Prepare the dressing by whisking together the oil, the balsamic vinegar, salt and pepper. Add to salad. Toss to coat lightly.

Baked Filet Of Salmon
Preparation time: 30 minutes.
Baking time: 30 minutes

- 2 filets of salmon, 7 ounces each, cleaned and trimmed
- 1/4 cup of olive oil
- 1 small onion
- 1 scallion
- 1/4 vidalia onion
- 1/4 of a leek
- 2 bay leaves
- 1 sprig of thyme
- 2 tablespoons of tomato sauce
- 4 tablespoons of white wine
- 1/2 teaspoon of salt
- pepper to taste

Herald photos by Arthur Zelinski

Fall is the time for the beginning of school and long walks for two through unattended gardens. It is also a good time to prepare a romantic dinner for two. A three-course candlelight dinner can include Boston bib salad vinaigrette, baked filet of salmon (above) served with mushroom couscous and creamy lemon yogurt mouse (left).

- a few leaves of thyme
- fresh parsley
- fresh dill

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Clean and cut all onions in half. Each half cut across in julienne. Dice medium cut scallions and leek.

In a skillet heat olive oil up to moderate heat. Add all onions and mix. Sauté for two more minutes on low heat.

Place the salmon filets in a shallow baking pan. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and the wine. Put all sautéed onions on top. Cover and bake for 20 minutes. Open the cover and push all the onion sauce on the side and continue to bake for another 10 minutes. This will allow the salmon to gain a nice roast color.

Mushroom Couscous
Preparation time: 10 minutes
Cooking time: 15 minutes

- 1 tablespoon of olive oil
- 4 mushrooms medium size
- 1/2 cup of diced onion
- 1/2 cup couscous
- 1 1/2 cups chicken stock
- salt and pepper
- 1 small garlic clove

In a skillet heat the oil. Sauté the onions and garlic for two minutes. Add the mushrooms and sauté for three or four more minutes. Add the stock, thyme, parsley and dill, increase to medium high heat and simmer for five minutes longer. Stir in couscous remove from the heat, cover and let stand for five minutes. Fluff with the fork before serving.

To serve, place a mound of the couscous at the top of each plate. Arrange the salmon on top of that. Spoon onion mixture around couscous, like a nest.

- Creamy Lemon Yogurt Mouse
- 2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
- 3 tablespoons cold water
- 1 cup freshly squeezed lemon juice
- 8 tablespoons (1/2 cup) sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon zest
- 3 egg whites
- 2 cups plain nonfat yogurt
- 4 sprigs of mint, for garnish

Combine the gelatin and water in a saucepan and let soften for one to two minutes. Turn the heat to low and dissolve the gelatin while stirring for about four to five minutes. Stir in the lemon juice, six tablespoons of sugar, adding it two tablespoons at the time. Stir in the lemon zest and remove the pan from heat.

Beat the egg whites in a mixing bowl until soft peaks form. Add the remaining two tablespoons of the sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks form. Set aside.

Fold the yogurt mixture. Pour the mixture in individual bowls and refrigerate until firm. Garnish each serving with mint.

Bon appetite and have a good time!

Forget anything? BoatU.S. lists eight more over- looked chores when putting boats up for the winter

For the millions of recreational boaters in the U.S., fall means more than raking leaves and changing the furnace filters. This is the time when boaters in all but the warmest climates go through the annual ritual of winterizing their boats.

According to a recent review of insurance claims in Seaworthy, the BoatU.S. Marine Insurance and Damage Avoidance Report, boaters most often overlook the following jobs when getting their boats ready for winter:

- Not draining the engine intake sea strainer. Water left in the strainer can freeze and break the watertight seal. When the ice thaws in the spring and the intake seacock is opened, water pours into the boat, often getting discovered too late.

- Not storing biminis and dodgers inside. "Many people think the same cover that protects you from sun and spray in the summer also protects the boat from sleet and snow in the winter, but it doesn't work that way," said Bob Adriaens, editor of Seaworthy. "Not only do dodgers and biminis get ripped apart by winter winds, but accumulated snow often bends their aluminum support frames."

- Not closing all seacocks - except cockpit drains - when storing the boat in the water, including thru-hull fittings above the waterline.

"Leaving seacocks open is like leaving your door open when you go on a long vacation," said Adriaens. "It's a huge risk." If a thru-hole can't be closed either because it is broken or mechanically frozen, the boat should be stored ashore.

- Not clearing cockpit drains. Every winter, boats are damaged or even sunk by nothing more than a few leaves blocking cockpit drains. Water then trickles through the companionway, staining the interior woodwork, delaminating the cabin sole and soaking into bulkheads.

- Not adding extra lines and chafe protection. Blustery winter winds can tear a dockline apart lots faster than gentle summer breezes. If a boat is stored in the water, double the docklines and add chafe protection.

- Not having the right cover for the boat. Shrink wrap is used frequently to protect new boats, and is also fine for old boats, as long as the shrink wrap is well ventilated. Without enough ventilation, problems can occur with mildew, rot and exterior boat paint. Protective boat covers also need to be well supported so they don't accumulate snow and water, and should never be secured to the jack stands or support blocks.

- Not checking the boat regularly during the winter. Don't rely on bilge pumps to "guard" the boat. Bilge pumps fail, and boats sink.

Lyman harriers run like their namesakes

WINTER SPRINGS — It looks like the Lyman boys cross country team is going to be tough for years to come.

Thursday afternoon at the Seminole Athletic Conference Championships at Central Winds Park, the Greyhound boys teams crushed the competition, winning both the varsity and junior varsity crowns going away.

The girls events were not quite as one-sided, but the Winter Springs varsity and Oviedo junior varsity still won their individual races quite handily.

varsity race in a time of 18:33, but the Bears' Amy Giles and Crystal McKinney came home second and fourth as Winter Springs topped Lake Mary, 46-to-52. Lake Howell was a distant third with 87 points.

The girls junior varsity race was pretty much the same, with the Bears' Yamara Kiyarizta winning the event, but Oviedo had four girls (Adrian Hampton, 2nd; Jayne Kuniak, third; Nicole Cavallini, sixth; Kelly Raw, seventh) finish in the top seven as the Lions topped Lake Mary, 37-to-69. Winter Springs was third with 89 points.

Doug Brown repeated as the boys varsity champion, as Lyman doubled the score on Winter Springs, 39-to-78.

Brown was trailed by teammate Kevin Cook, with fellow Greyhounds John Finke (fifth) and Brian Christian (10) also in the top 10.

The Seminole boys, meanwhile, ran their best race of the season, finishing third with 95 points.

Grant Baker was named to the SAC First Team by placing sixth with an outstanding time of 16:34 on the very difficult course.

Hunter Roberts earned Second Team SAC honors with a 12th place finish in 16:59.

Brett Martin and Todd Baker made the Third Team with finishes of 17th and 19th, with Farbod Taheri running his best race

Patriots pull off upset

Lake Brantley knocks off Lake Mary in crucial 6A-2 contest

By David Quinones

LAKE MARY — In probably the most recognized rivalry in Central Florida the Lake Mary Rams took on the Lake Brantley Patriots in a Class 6A-District 2 football battle at Don T. Reynolds Stadium on Friday night.

The rivalry between these teams is so heated that Lake Mary has a "Brantley Week" filled with events such as "Dress like a Battered Patriot Day."

To add more pressure and tension to this already intense rivalry the winner of the game would earn the title of runner up in Class 6A-District 2 and also earn the final spot in the playoffs.

But in the end, the Patriots

Both teams came out fired up but it was Lake Brantley who got on the board first when quarterback Taylor Ramsaur scored on a 1-yard keeper putting the Patriots on top 7-0. The touchdown capped a 9 play, 77-yard drive that took 4 minutes and 24 seconds off the clock.

Senior Nick fills in for ill younger brother as Oviedo defeats Colonial 26-19

By Tony DeSormier

OVIDEO — Considering the season that the Oviedo High School football team has had, the fact that the Lions started one of their leading receivers at quarterback Friday night really wasn't that odd.

Senior Nick Tenekedes, filling in for younger brother Christian, completed nine of 24 passes for 143 yards and a touchdown. He also rushed four times for 23 yards and a touchdown as the Lions snapped a four-game losing skid with a 26-19 win over the Colonial Grenadiers.

"Who let the dogs out?"

Greyhounds run past Winter Springs, 40-12

By Dean Smith

WINTER SPRINGS — With all due respect to the Seattle Mariners (American League Wild Card team), the New York Mets (National League champions) and the DeLand girls volleyball team (the Class 6A-District 3 champions), the Baha Boys' hit must have been written for the Lyman football team.

Friday night at A.W. Epps Sports Complex, the Greyhounds looked tremendous in all phases of the game, manhandling hos Winter Springs in their Homecoming game, 40-12.

The Class 5A-District 4 game was played before a packed house, but after the middle of the second quarter the outcome was pretty much decided.

The Bears got off to a good start, taking the opening kickoff and eating up almost half the first quarter before Chauncey Hampton scored on a short run. The kick failed, but Winter Springs led 6-0.

The lead lasted for only about 20 seconds as Terry Cross took the ensuing kickoff back 90 yards to the tying touchdown. Lyman too, missed the extra point try and the score was 6-6.

Seminole, Oviedo to battle for SAC Fall Slow Pitch Softball leadership

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — It's nitty-gritty time in the Seminole Athletic Conference Girls Fall Slow Pitch Softball League.

This past Wednesday at Lyman High School, Seminole swept a doubleheader, outscoring Lyman, 9-4, and thumping Lake Mary, 7-1, to move into a tie for first place with Oviedo.

The Lions won their opening game at home, edging Lake Howell, 3-1, but then suffered a tough 12-5 loss at the hands of Lake Brantley.

The Greyhounds came back to gain a split at home, whipping the Rams, 10-3.

The other games at Oviedo found the Silver Hawks blanking Winter Springs, 6-0, but then the Bears bounced back to win a slugfest with the Patriots, 12-5.

With one week left in the season, Oviedo and Seminole are both 11-3 and are followed by Lyman and Lake Howell (both 8-6), Lake Mary (5-9), Lake Brantley (4-10) and Winter Springs (2-12).

The schedule for this week has been changed slightly, with the games scheduled for Lake Howell on Wednesday being moved to Monday (October 30).

Those games have the host Silver Hawks taking on Lyman at 5 p.m.; the Greyhounds challenging Lake Brantley at 6 p.m.; and the Patriots facing Lake Howell at 7 p.m.

The big games will be played at Winter Springs on Wednesday as Seminole plays the host Bears at 4:30 p.m. then turns around and battles Oviedo for what should be the regular season championship at 5:30 p.m.

The other two games have Lake Mary tackling Oviedo at 6:30 p.m. and the Rams squaring off with Winter Springs at 7:30 p.m.

The playoffs will begin on Monday, November 6th at Lyman at 4:30 p.m. with the schedule to be announced next See 7 Softball, Page 3B

SCC TO OPEN BASKETBALL SEASON

Sophomore shooting guard Matt Story (No. 14) and the Seminole Community College men's basketball team will open its 2000-2001 season this Wednesday (Nov. 1) when it hosts defending state champion Brevard Community College from Cocoa at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center starting at 7:30 p.m. The women's team will open its season on the road next Thursday before returning home for a doubleheader with the men next Saturday. As usual, all SCC home games are free of charge. An advance on this year's Raiders teams will appear in Wednesday's Herald.

Week 9 filled with good games, division rematches

Welcome to Week Nine of the National Football League fans. The Crystal Ball of Football has been on fire lately. I was the only columnist in the United States that wrote about the Chiefs beating the Rammies before it happened! I knew that the Chiefs, at home, with their running game would be tough to beat even for the mighty St. Louis squad.

I must give quick congratulations to Corey Dillon for breaking the all-time single game rushing record of Sweetness last week. Any player that can post those kind of numbers playing for a team as lousy as the Bungles deserves a trip to the Hall of Fame. Enough old business, let's get to the schedule and find some winners.

BUFFALO (-3) VS. N.Y. JETS

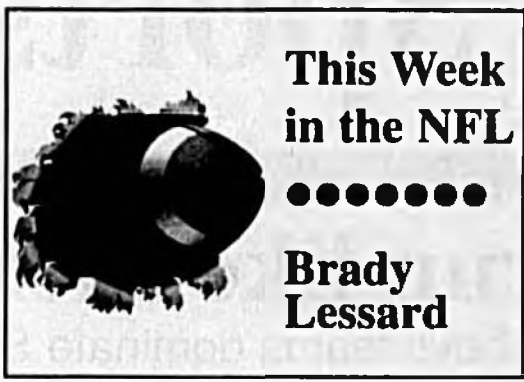

My beloved Bills dropped a heartbreaker in Minnesota last week by giving up a bomb. It should have never happened that late in the game. The Buffalo defense robbed Doug Flutie of a victory that rightfully belonged to him. I'm not sure my team can recover. Jets 31, Bills 28.

BALTIMORE (-5) VS. PITTSBURGH

The Ravens need to turn things around quick! If they lose to the Steelers these two teams will be tied. Who would have thought? Ravens 21, Steelers 17.

INDIANAPOLIS (-7) VS. DETROIT

The Colts are watching their hopes for a Division championship fade as the Dolphins seem to be getting their act together. If Peyton Manning doesn't throw all over the Lions this team is in trouble. Colts 34, Lions 24.

This Week in the NFL

Brady Lessard

MIAMI (-4) VS. GREEN BAY

The Dolphins, fresh off their fourth quarter failure, face the aging Packers at home. I can't see them losing, but nothing surprises me when it comes to Brett Favre. Nevermind, I think the Dolphins will thump Green Bay in the Florida Sunshine. Dolphins 27, Packers 12.

TAMPA BAY (-3) VS. MINNESOTA

This rematch means very little at this point as the Bucs have been killing themselves the last few weeks. Even with a win Tampa has a big hole to climb out of. The Vikings remain undefeated and don't look ready to stumble. Without a win the Bucs are dead. They'll find a way to keep us excited before breaking our hearts again. Bucs 23, Vikings 17.

NEW ORLEANS (-6) AT ARIZONA

Sanford native Jeff Blake has folks around the League saying good things about the Aints. I love the fact that a guy from a town like Sanford is exciting football fans across the nation. I don't anticipate him having a whole lot of trouble with the lowly Cardinals. Aints 27, Cardinals 13.

N.Y. GIANTS (-3) VS. PHILADELPHIA

This will be one of those games you don't mind sleeping through. The nice thing about it is the fact that when you wake up the Eagles will have won the game. Eagles 13, Midgets 10.

ST. LOUIS (-7) AT SAN FRANCISCO

The Niners get no respect here and I can't understand why. The Rammies have no quarterback and will be playing this one in the home of the feisty Niners. Jerry Rice, Niners 35, Rammies 24.

KANSAS CITY (-3) AT SEATTLE

The Chiefs need to avoid a let down after last week's huge victory. The Seahawks seem to be in complete disarray and will need all cylinders to keep this one close. Chiefs 24, Seahawks 19.

DALLAS (-3) VS. JACKSONVILLE

The Jaguars are a joke. The only thing they have going for themselves in this game is the fact that the Cowboys may be just as bad. Crystal refuses to waste his time giving a score in this one. Irrelevant.

OAKLAND (-6) AT SAN DIEGO

The Cheaters are looking strong as they continue to barrel towards the playoffs. The Chargers are suffering from split personalities as they keep trying three different quarterbacks in every game. This franchise has caused property values in San Diego to plummet. Cheaters 34, Chargers 12.

WASHINGTON (-4) VS. TENNESSEE

This should be a pretty good game. The Titans will be in trouble with the crowd noise early but should be able to keep the wheels attached to their running game. The Deadskins have found their fire and will squeak it out in a battle. Deadskins 23, Titans 16.

Each week The Crystal Ball of Football releases his patented LOCK OF THE WEEK. This is that game that after research and contemplation, I feel most comfortable giving out as a sure thing.

These selections have been very kind to my readers over the past four years and I consider it a public service. I'd like to thank all of you for your words of encouragement over the course of my tenure. That tenure has included some rare cold streaks and a major battle with management here at The Herald, and you stuck with me. I am proud to call each and everyone of you, friend.

Today I plan to grow that friendship with the MIAMI DOLPHINS (-4) OVER THE GREEN BAY PACKERS. The Dolphins have finally convinced me, they're for real, at least for now.

Don't hold that lose last week against them. Granted, they blew a huge lead but believe me, wild things like that happen to the best teams in this League.

Enjoy your football and remember, everything else can wait.

rounded out the varsity runners for the Tribe.

The Lyman boys were even more dominant in the junior varsity race, claiming the top four spots individually and having all five of its scoring runners finish in the top 14.

The Greyhounds easily won the team title, outscoring runner-up Lake Mary, 24-to-61.

David Fritch was the race winner, leading teammates Justin Steakley, Steve Christian and Jeffrey Wolynsky across the stripe. Harrison Sheplean came home 14th to complete the Lyman scoring.

Doing the scoring for the Seminole junior varsity were Evan Smith (20th), Mike Mealar (31st), Mike Neubauer (38th) and Trace Newling (45th).

The district meets will be held next Saturday (Nov. 4) with the Class 6A teams traveling to DeLand to compete at the Sperling Sport Complex near the DeLand Airport starting at 9 a.m.

The Lyman boys will obviously be the favorite, with the host Bulldogs, who claimed the Five-Star Conference Championship under first-year coach Willie Calloway, the long-time boys coach at Lake Mary, on Thursday, being a darkhorse.

The win gives Oviedo a 4-4 record (2-3 in 6A-District 2) heading into next Friday's showdown the district-leading Apopka (7-0, 4-0 before playing DeLand Friday night). Colonial (0-7, 0-5) hosts University next week.

"It felt good to get a win, especially on Senior Night," said Oviedo head coach Greg Register. "This is the first group of seniors that I've had since they were freshmen, so it was a special night for me. These guys definitely deserved a win."

Like almost everything Oviedo has done this season, it came under trying circumstances and the Lions did just about everything to try and complicate matters further.

For starters, Nick, not Christian, Tenekedes started at quarterback.

"Christian had a problem with his equilibrium in the summer," explained Register. "When he got his bell rung in practice and again against University, the problem returned."

Brett Murphy, who started the year dueling with Christian Tenekedes, has seen limited action due to bad knees, according to Register. And Grant Herron, who was moved up from the junior varsity quad after it completed its season this week, won't be eligible for varsity competition until next week.

"Nick has been our emergency backup all season, so it's not completely unexpected," said Register. "He wanted to give it a shot. As it turned out, he did a good job."

While the Lions did amass over 300 yards of offense against the winless Grenadiers (229 rushing, 143 passing), they did turn the ball over five times (three on interceptions, two on fumbles). Fortunately for Oviedo, Colonial only managed to turn one of the giveaways into points.

Not to be outdone, Colonial turned the ball over four times to Oviedo, which managed to convert just one of the opportunities into points, and that coming on a 47-yard Steve Asby field goal.

Asby, who missed nearly a month with mononucleosis, contributed 14 points for the Lions by scoring on a 14-yard touchdown run, kicking a pair of field goals, and kicking two extra points. He caught three passes for 42 yards and carried the ball four times for 48 yards.

Nick Tenekedes and James Jordan also scored touchdowns for the Lions.

Eight different players contributed to the Lions' 223-yard ground game. Billy Dreggors led Oviedo with 54 yards on nine carries while Dwayne Allen added 51 yards on four attempts.

Jordan caught a pair of passes for 51 yards (30 coming on a touchdown strike from Tenekedes) while Bobby Raulerson had two catches for 41 yards.

Colonial's Julius Lee led all rushers with 134 yards on 21 carries. Jamal Lewin rushed for two touchdowns while Emanuel Santana caught a pass for the Grenadiers' third score.

Lake Mary's Derrick Grayson (No. 4 above) eludes a Lake Brantley tackler, but is eventually collared by the Patriots' Brandon Grubbs (No. 11 right). Lake Brantley went on to win the Class 6 - District 2 contest 31-20.

The Bears looked like they might regain the lead after the runback, again moving the ball the length of the field on the strength of a 40-yard quarterback keeper by Carl Harris.

But on second and goal from the four, a bad pitch resulted in a fumble and the Greyhounds' Greg Marsh recovered at the Lyman seven.

The visitors then went on a 15-play, 93-yard drive that went from the 2:27 mark of the first period until 7:50 of the second period, a time of 6:37.

Senior quarterback Paul Sanchez, making just his second start of the season, ran the final 23 yards to paydirt. Travo Woods added the 2-point run and the Greyhounds were ahead to stay, 14-6.

After three change of possession's, Lyman scored twice in the final 1:29 to take control of the contest.

After Winter Springs turned the ball over on downs at the Lyman 25, the Greyhounds lost two yards on a running play before Sanchez found Woods with a short pass in the flat that Woods turned into a 77-yard touchdown catch. The extra point try again failed, making the score 20-6.

The Bears then fumbled on the first play after the kick off and John Haritan recovered, giving Lyman the ball at the 17.

Two pass plays netted five yards and Juan Zuluaga came on to boot a 30-yard field goal as time expired, giving the Greyhounds a 23-6 lead at halftime.

After Franco Scalione was crowned King and Crystal Haynes Queen during an impressive half-time ceremony, Winter Springs tried to quickly get back into the contest.

Starting at its own 32, Johnnie Blake dashed 41 yards on the first play, and after a pair of penalties for 15 yards, Harris ran for another 30.

Darryl Wright then did the rest, running for eight yards and then three yards for the touchdown. A penalty wiped out a 2-point run and the long kick following failed, leaving Lyman on top, 23-12.

The Bears looked like they had caught a break when, after the Greyhounds had driven down field, Josh Gather picked off a pass at the Winter Springs 17.

But the Bears immediately gave the ball back, fumbling on the next play with Walter Hadley claiming the ball.

Lyman was unable to move the ball, but Zuluaga came on to kick another 30-yard field goal, making the score 26-12.

The score would remain 26-12 until late in the game when Mark McNealy capped a 73-yard, 12-play, five minute drive with a seven-yard run. And when Zuluaga hit the extra point, the Greyhounds were up 33-12 with 1:54 left.

Winter Springs came out passing, but Andrew Barch, who replaced and injured Harris with 9:34 left in the game, had a long pass intercepted by Ricky Argo, who returned the ball 44-yards for a touchdown.

A 15-yard unsportsmanlike call after the touchdown did not phase Zuluaga, who made the extra point anyway, making the final score 40-12.

touchdown when quarterback Jason Hadley connected with Anthony Ballerino for the fifth time this year on a 21-yard touchdown pass with 1:07 remaining in the first quarter. The Ballerino touchdown made the score 7-6 (kick failed) in favor of the Patriots.

Lake Brantley would waste no time putting seven more on the board when running back Jamel Oliver scored on a 15-yard touchdown run, putting Lake Brantley up 14-6. The touchdown capped a 4 play, 49-yard drive that took only 1-minute and 12 seconds to complete.

Lake Mary would make it close again when Tucker Pierce punched through on a 1-yard touchdown run, leaving the score at 14-12 after the 2-point conversion failed.

Again Lake Brantley would score on it's ensuing drive when, with 2:11 remaining in the first half, running back Josh Demateis, who had 174 yards rushing on 22 carries, scored on a 4-yard touchdown run making the score 21-12 in favor of the Patriots.

The score capped a 6 play, 68-yard drive that took a mere 1-minute and 14 seconds to complete.

Lake Brantley received the ball to start the second half and wasted no time lighting up the scoreboard some more as wide receiver Corey Dryden scored on a 4-yard touchdown catch from Ramsaur to make the score 28-12 with 8:20 remaining in the third quarter.

The Patriots defense held the Rams on their ensuing drive when they stopped Reggie Campbell on a 4th & 2 situation on the Patriots seven-yard line.

This stop proved to be huge as the Patriots would march down the field and take a total of 8-minutes and 31-seconds off the clock before Corey Kalish would knock in a 32-yard field goal to make the score 31-12.

The kick came with 5:32 seconds left in the game, and pretty much ended any hopes of a Lake Mary comeback.

The Rams would score once more before the game was over when Hadley again connected with Ballerino on a 23-yard touchdown pass to make the score 31-20 after Hadley scored the 2-point conversion.

But that was all the Rams could do as Ramsaur kneeled down with 32 seconds remaining on the clock to end the game and any hopes of a district repeat for the Rams.

With the win the Patriots improve to 6-2 overall and 3-2 in Class 6A-District 2 play, while the Rams fall to 4-4 on the year and finish 4-2 in district play.

Next week the Patriots host DeLand in what will be a huge game in Class 6A-District 2.

Depending on the outcome of the Bulldogs' home game Friday night with district unbeaten Apopka, the game could be for the runner-up spot in the district.

If DeLand loss to Apopka on Friday, the Blue Darters are the champions, with Lake Mary in second and Lake Brantley and the Bulldogs tied for third.

If the Patriots win next week, they would finish second with wins over both the Rams and Bulldogs.

If DeLand won, Lake Brantley would still need to win the 7:30 p.m. game at Tom Story Field to earn a return to the playoffs.

Despite the loss, Lake Mary could still be invited as an At Large if Lake Brantley finishes second and DeLand lost last night (Friday) and again to the Patriots because the Rams beat the Bulldogs earlier this season.

Lake Mary will close out its regular season with a pair of Seminole Athletic Conference games against Lyman at home next Friday (Don T. Reynolds Stadium, 7:30 p.m.) and on the road at Lake Howell (Richard L. Evans Field, 7:30 p.m., Friday, November 10th).

Boat

* Not thinking the boat needs winterizing. Boats in temperate climates need winterizing too. In 1998, California had more winterizing claims than any other state, including Alaska and Maine. I don't think below freezing temperatures "can't happen here".

For a free guide to winterizing your boat, go to BoatUS.com, any of the 55

BoatUS Marine Centers, or call 1-800-283-2883. With 515,000 members, BoatUS is the nation's largest organization of recreational boaters.
