Man Found Dead In Sanford Tabbed Delaware Fugitive

PUTT

PUTT

Lou Hargis concentrates on a putt from dangerous range — five feet — in the Mayfair Open at the Mayfair Country club while George Hiltz checks his form. Hargis, here from Missouri and playing on the Florida PGA circuit, shot 75 each of the first two rounds and was not in contention in today's closing round. Story, more photos, scoreboard, Page 6A.

Delaware police said today that a man found dead in an apartment at Sanford Wednesday night was a known drug dealer who jumped bond two months ago before his scheduled trial on multiple felony charges including robbery, kidnapping and attempted murder.

Sgt. Joseph Testa of the New Castle County Police said James Kruzenski, 27, was a member of the Pagan Motorcycle Club and was arrested last June in connection with two bizarre incidents involving the same victim. "He was known to have been heavily involved in illegal drug activities," Testa said.

Testa said Kruzenski is believed to have been in the Daytona Beach area for the last two months and apparently came to Sanford around Jan. 3, the day before he signed a six-month lease for an efficiency apartment at Sanford Court Apartments, 2301 S. Sanford Ave.

Police here said Kruzenski used identification bearing the name "Jerry J. Phillips, 28, of New York State" when leasing the apartment.

Sanford police detective Lt. William Lykens said today that Kruzenski, whose decomposing body was found Wednesday night on a sofa bed in the apartment, was identified by his fingerprints on file with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Police said Kruzenski was last seen alive on the night of Jan. 22.

Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G.V. Gray said today that an autopsy on Thursday gave indications that Kruzenski died of intoxication. "We suspect intoxication," he said, "pending laboratory reports."

A report filed by a Sanford police patrolman indicating Kruzenski's body had "gunshot wounds" was apparently based on an assumption made when the decomposing body was first discovered, police said today.

Lt. Lykens said the autopsy showed no gunshot wounds. Police did find an automatic pistol in the dead man's apartment, according to officers.

A spokesman for Sanford Court Apartments said today that the man known to the management of the complex as Jerry J. Phillips "appeared to be a nice, quiet young man" who indicated he'd come to Sanford "planning to go into the motorcycle sales business."

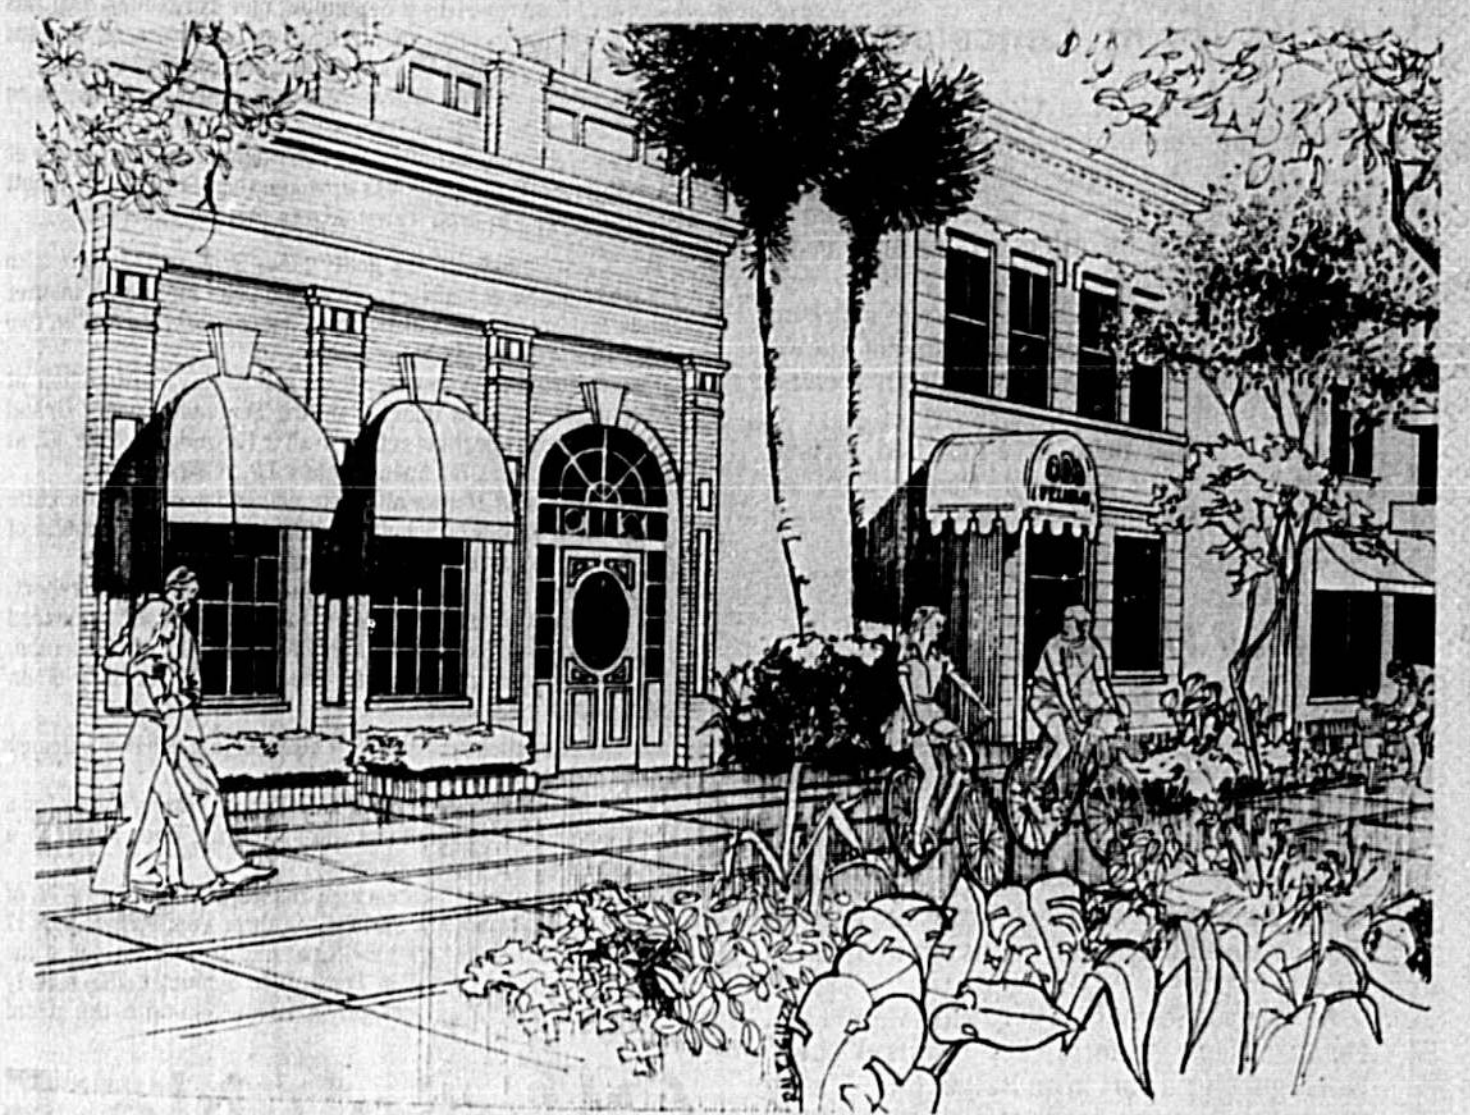

Sanford police today were trying to locate the registered owner of New York state license tags on a 1972 two-door sedan found parked with a flat tire in front of Kruzenski's apartment.

Testa said police found a van registered to "a Jerry Phillips of Daytona Beach" parked at Kruzenski's trailer home at Sanford.

DDC Unveils Plan, Prods City Action

'I bring you, if nothing else, a bit of hope for this community...'

—Planner Cy Paumier, Land Designer Research Associates, Columbia, Md., Jan. 27, 1977

By MARK WEINBERG
 Herald Staff Writer

Judging by the reception and applause accorded Paumier after he finished his presentation for revitalizing downtown Sanford at the Civic Center Thursday night, Downtown Development Corp.'s chief consultant obviously had done more than offer hope.

His plan seemed to offer possibilities for a comprehensive facelift of the downtown area, including:

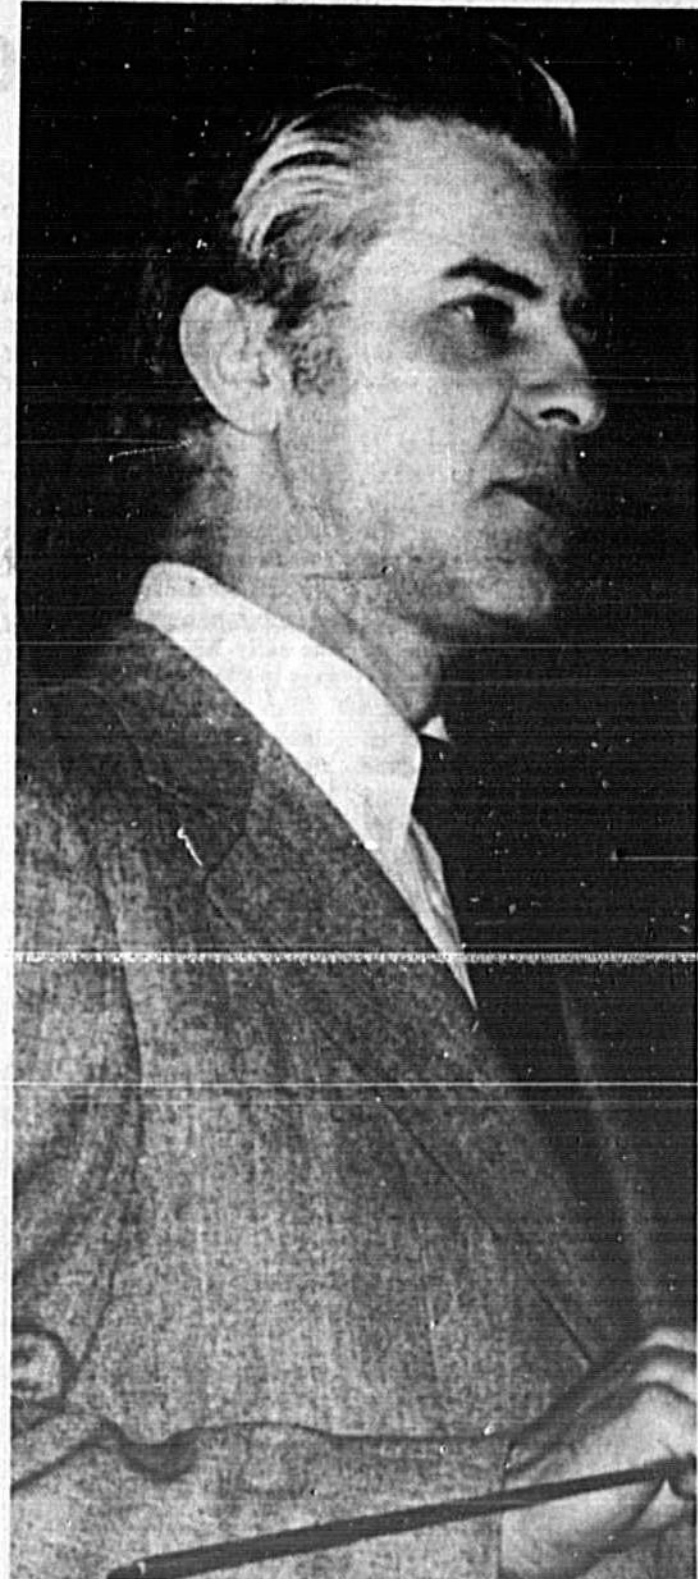

— Connecting the Seminole County Courthouse and planned new city hall area (which he termed "the most impressive place in the entire city") to the retail core through a pedestrian walkway;

— Two and three-story townhouses and apartments proposed for the 12-acre vacant "tank farm" site near the lakefront and "may be a small athletic club as part of a commitment to downtown living;

— A downtown retail core featuring widened sidewalks and the addition of trees, closing Magnolia Ave. between First and Second Streets and a shopping arcade extending north to the government center and added parking south of Second St.; and — A renovated model area between Park and Palmetto Avenues on First St. in the image of a restored Victorian village.

It's all part of DDC's revitalization program for the downtown area. "You don't need high-rise buildings," See FACELIFT, Page 3A

Merchants React To Plan

"It's a definite challenge, which could come true with cooperation of the property owners, merchants and people of Sanford . . ."

—BOYD COLEMAN, owner, Gifts By Nan, 228 E. First St.

"I'm pretty pessimistic because the merchants don't stick together . . . nothing ever comes of it . . . but this time I hope it does . . ."

— ERNIE MILLS, pharmacist and co-owner, Touchton Rexall, 121 E. First St.

"Anything we could do to renovate downtown would be a tremendous boost to business. . ."

— JIM TAPSCOTT, manager, McCrory's, 107 E. First St.

"The DDC is talking to the wrong people . . . there's little a tenant can do without wholehearted cooperation of his landlord. . ."

Seminole Bars Amur Until Cabinet Acts

By ED PRICKETT
 Herald Staff Writer

The controversial weed-gobbling white amur will be barred from Seminole County lakes for at least one year, according to County Commission Chairman Dick Williams.

"Unless someone smuggles them in, I guess it'll be a year," the chairman said. Referring to smuggling, however, Williams added: "Some people have done that you know . . ." Williams and Commissioner Bob French voted to place the Asian Carp in Seminole's waters in hopes of eliminating, or cutting down, on pesky water weeds which clog the county's waterways and lakes.

Lake Orlena, Mirror Lake and Lake of the Woods were targets for introduction of the fish.

However, controversy over the weed carp reached Tallahassee. And Seminole's commissioners postponed stocking lakes here until the Florida Cabinet decides it is or is not safe to place the weed carp in Florida's waterways.

Florida Atty. General Robert Shevin, a cabinet member, has introduced a resolution to the Florida Cabinet asking the natural resources department to establish guidelines for approval by members.

Boyle Wins New Trial, 3 Life Terms Canceled

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Supreme Court today ordered a new trial for W. A. "Tony" Boyle, the former United Mine Workers president convicted of murdering UMW insurgent Joseph Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

The court also "reversed" Boyle's prison sentence of three life terms. It was not known immediately if this would result in freeing him.

Disney Firm Opposes Play

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — A play that has been criticized by Walt Disney Enterprises because it depicts Mickey Mouse as an alcoholic opens here this week.

The one-act play, entitled "And They Used To Star in the Movies," was written by former State University of New York at Oswego teacher Campbell Black and is set in a sleazy hotel barroom.

An aging Mickey Mouse is with Minnie and Donald Duck. While Mickey awaits a phone call regarding a part in an Italian film, Minnie reminisces about love affairs with Bugs Bunny, Popeye and others. Donald complains bitterly about always playing "second fiddle." Goofy, Disney's canine cartoon character, is referred to as a hopeless junkie.

'Roots' Sets Audience Record

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Roots" is well on its way to becoming the most watched program in television history — and the most talked about. Word of mouth has increased its audience every night since its premiere Sunday, when ABC estimated 75 million people tuned in. By its conclusion this Sunday, ABC expects it will pass "Gone With the Wind," the highest-rated TV show to date.

Sikes Blames Defense Foes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert L. F. Sikes, D-Fla., says he was ousted as chairman of a powerful House subcommittee because he advocates a strong national defense, not because he was reprimanded by his peers for misconduct.

"It should be obvious that the talk about ethics was a smokescreen," Sikes said in a written statement.

Captain Kidd: 'A Nice Guy'

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Captain Kidd, the infamous 17th century pirate, was really a bumbling buccaner whose buried treasures don't exist, says a University of California historian.

The purportedly roguish 17th century Scottish sea captain who was hanged in London lacked even "the killer instinct to be an effective pirate," says Dr. Robert C. Ritchie, who sums up:

"The fact is, Captain Kidd is basically a nice guy." Ritchie, an associate professor of history at UC San Diego, has traveled to England a half-dozen times in 10 years of research on William Kidd.

Scott Leaves Hospital

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Retired western actor Randolph Scott has been released from the Mayo Clinic after 10 days of tests.

After his release Thursday, he said he was returning to Beverly Hills. During his stay, Scott turned 79. He said he received dozens of cards and notes — and that he was "very touched and moved" by them.

Scott made 140 western and adventure films during his career. He said he had come to the clinic periodically since the 1930s for checkups.

Avoids Trial On 'Murder By Fright' Charges Sailor Gets 5-Years For Area Burglaries

By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer A 19-year-old Kentucky sailor who avoided trial on a "murder by fright" indictment by a September plea bargaining deal was sentenced to two concurrent five year prison terms plus concurrent 10 year probation for two armed burglaries.

Circuit Court Judge J. William Woodson meted the sentences on Thursday for David Kim Hargis.

Hargis had pleaded guilty to the two Aug. 2 armed burglaries at Casseberry after negotiations in which then State Atty. Abbott Herring agreed to drop a first-degree murder indictment.

When Hargis entered the guilty plea Sept. 20 the state also dropped charges of burglary, grand and petty larceny on another residential break-in and also agreed not to prosecute him on two Longwood area burglaries.

Hargis, listed as a deserter from a U.S. Navy installation at Memphis, Tenn., was indicted by the Seminole County Grand Jury in the Aug. 2 death of retired Walter Raymond Schultz, 67, at his trailer home at 751 Spanish Moss Dr., Casseberry.

Authorities said Hargis allegedly armed himself with a knife during the burglary of Schultz' residence and robbed Schultz $40 when he returned home and confronted the burglar.

Schultz died of a heart attack, according to an autopsy report. On Monday Circuit Court Judge Joe A. Cowart Jr. sentenced Hargis' traveling companion, Ronald J. West, 20, of Henderson, Ky., to five years probation for the July 17 burglary of an apartment at Longwood.

Official: No Easy Answers For High Rate Of Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration will appear to bankers and labor to hold down wages and labor but there is little hope of a quick reduction in the national rate of inflation, says Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal.

"We'll be very cautious of the danger of inflation, just as we're cautious of the need to bring unemployment down," Blumenthal said in an interview Thursday. He said this is why the administration won't let "fall steam ahead" to stimulate the economy.

"I'm convinced we will be able to get it down gradually," Blumenthal said in an interview Thursday. He said this is why the administration won't let "fall steam ahead" to stimulate the economy.

— Jesse D. Richardson, 32, of Sanford Route Two, was sentenced to three years prison plus two years probation for burglary.

— William Elroy Bennett, 18, of Winter Springs, got two years prison plus three years probation for burglary.

— Willie Mae Lock, 25, of Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, was sentenced to spend the next 10 weekends in county jail as a condition of three years probation meted for aggravated assault.

— Timothy Wayne Burke, 25, of 1316 Lake Ave., Sanford, was put on three years probation on a guilty plea to burglary.

— Lee Ellis Norvitz, 20, of Mailland, got three years probation for grand larceny of an auto.

— Lee June Hatcher, 24, of Lake Monroe Terrace, Sanford, was sentenced to 20 months in prison plus 40 months probation for resisting an officer with violence.

— Mark D. Morrison, 27, of 805 W. First St., Sanford, was put on three years probation on a conviction for attempted lewd assault upon a child.

Lake Mary Taps Martucci Project Chief

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer The Lake Mary City Council in special session Thursday afternoon named financial consultant Nick Martucci project coordinator for its upcoming federally funded water system improvements and instructed City Councilman Cliff Nelson to negotiate a contract with the consultant.

Martucci's responsibilities would include: maintaining adequate and accurate records of all incoming and outgoing project funds, to file performance reports quarterly with the federal government and to maintain a payroll file for each contractor and subcontractor and check payrolls for compliance with federal law.

Councilman Harry Terry, water department commissioner, recommended Martucci's appointment and suggested that Martucci's compensation for the job be set at $13 per hour, a sum Terry believed had been included in the federal funding requests for the co-administration.

Mayor Walter Sorenson, however, said the sum was an "outrageous amount" for a part-time employee of the city, adding that he did not intend the federal government to require the city to pay that high a fee.

Nelson wanted an estimate of the full costs of the coordinator's services even though it is to be paid for with federal money. He said he makes no distinction between federal money and city money.

Porter reported to the council that both federally funded water system improvements — a $208,000 — can be bid under a single contract.

20 Missing After Fire Sweeps Hotel

BRECKENRIDGE, Minn. (AP) — Fire swept through a three-story hotel early today, and officials said they were trapped in the ruins. The temperature at the time was 23 below zero.

The blaze destroyed the Stratford Hotel in this community of 4,200 on the Minnesota-North Dakota border, said fire department spokesman Robert Blackwelder.

"About 20 people are unaccounted for," he said. "We don't know whether they got out."

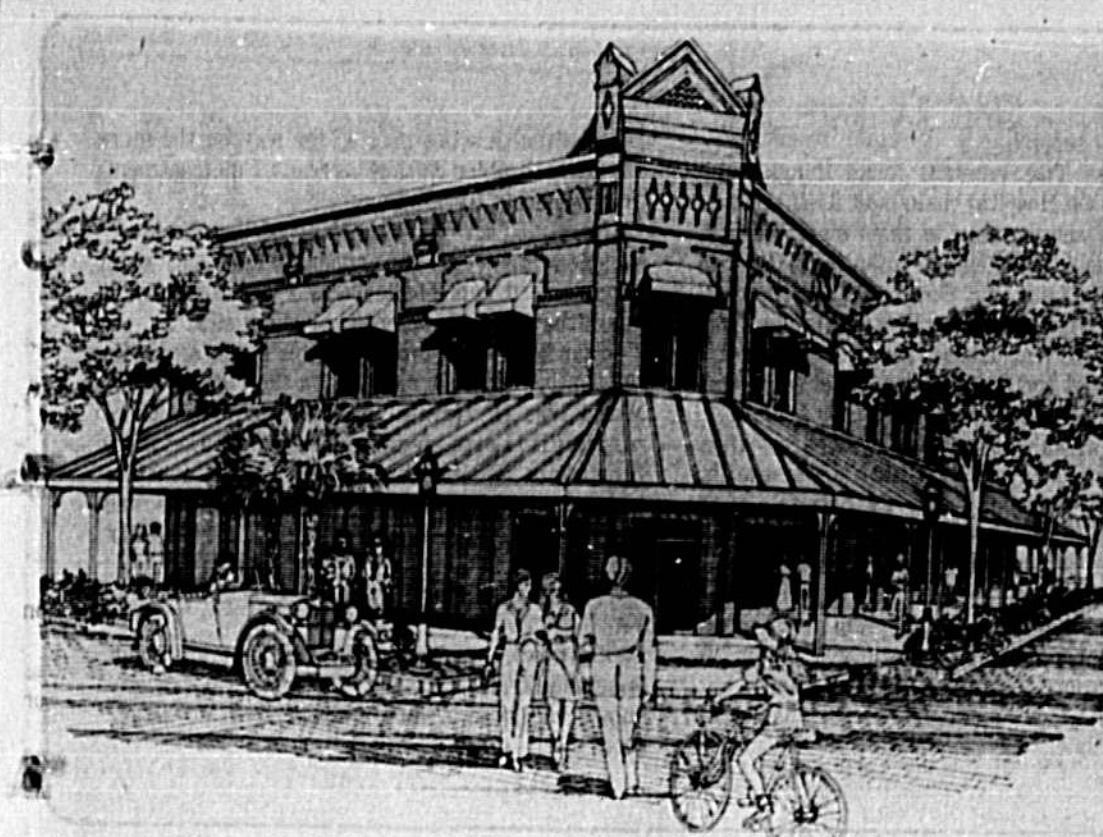

Mayor Hugh Mikkelsen theorized that some of the missing persons may have taken refuge in other buildings. The mayor described it as a "railroad hotel" where workers on the Willmar-Breckenridge run often stayed.

About 10 of the 80 firemen who fought the blaze were treated for frostbite, fire officials said.

A coffee shop, auto supply store and insurance-real estate agency housed on the first floor were destroyed, the mayor said.

'Under Paint, Stucco'

Hiding beneath layers of stucco, boarded-up windows and false fronts of downtown Sanford buildings are some of the most architecturally interesting historic buildings in the State of Florida.

And Winter Park design consultant Chris Raleigh wants to help downtown businessmen and property owners make their buildings more interesting places for shoppers to patronize and for professionals to locate new offices.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

No Grapefruit Shortage: Skins Save Grapefruit

MIAMI (AP) — There'll be no shortage of grapefruit this year despite a deep freeze in Florida's citrus belt, says a spokesman for a growers' association.

"Grapefruit withstands the cold better because of the thick rind," Mike Zotti of Florida Citrus Mutual explained.

Although 75 per cent of a projected record crop was exposed last week to the worst Florida freeze in 15 years, Zotti said the loss is probably only 10 to 15 per cent.

Mayo Chides Paula Hawkins

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Public Service Commissioner Billy Mayo says PSC chairman Paula Hawkins is "whipping a dead horse" by calling for an investigation of spying at the PSC.

Mrs. Hawkins, saying she "did not want to be part of any coverage," has announced an investigation into why PSC executive director Jack Dodd hired a private investigator for three weeks last summer to spy on employees.

PSC staffers said the investigator posed as a mailroom clerk, rifled through wastebaskets and eavesdropped on telephone and personal conversations in an effort to find evidence of homosexuality or inefficiency on the part of employees.

Otero Guilty In Bombing

FORT WALTON BEACH (AP) — Cuban exile Rolando Otero, cleared last year of federal charges in nine Miami-area bombings, has been found guilty of one of those bombings by a state court.

After more than four hours deliberation Thursday, a circuit court jury found Otero, 33, guilty of placing a bomb in a Miami International Airport locker Oct. 17, 1975.

Otero was convicted on five charges stemming from that explosion, which injured no one.

But he was acquitted of 34 other counts arising from eight bombings of public and federal offices Dec. 3-4, 1975. No one was killed or seriously injured by those blasts.

Facelift Plan For Sanford

Paumier told the audience of over 100 Thursday night. "All you need to do is take what you have and improve it."

Paumier's firm specializes in improving cities with populations of under 30,000. Thursday night's presentation for a downtown facelift is only a part of DDC's four-point program, explained DDC Chairman Sara Jacobson.

The other elements are training programs, recruiting efforts to bring new businesses to downtown and feasibility studies.

"We feel we have come to understand the problems leading toward a complete downtown program. We've given you leadership and the organization... through which you can develop the downtown," she told the gathering.

The trend is toward growth in the county, and it's coming our way," she said. An encouraging sign is the designation of downtown Sanford as a national historic site for the federal government.

Miss Jacobson pointed out some of downtown's current problems. About 20 per cent of its buildings are vacant; 25 per cent of its land is undeveloped; and downtown accounts for only 10 per cent of city retail sales.

But Paumier felt these factors could be turned to downtown's advantage. The area is easily accessible by car, he noted. And the vacancy rate means that new development sites are readily available.

The area has "slowly regressed," he said, but "until we begin to recognize that streets are for people (as well as cars), I doubt that anyone will want to take their business to Sanford," he said.

A public commitment "within six months" is absolutely necessary to making the plan a success, the planner said.

In a question-and-answer period following the presentation, DDC's attorney Douglas Stenstrom said that in the past, Maggolia Ave. between First and Second Streets would allow a variety of small shops and landscaped areas to make the downtown area more interesting for shoppers and visitors from south Seminole County.

"Until we begin to recognize that streets are for people (as well as cars), I doubt that anyone will want to take their business to Sanford," he said.

"We're not going back to the way things were 15 years ago," Stenstrom said. "We're going to have to be some private commissions first..."

Meat Extortion A Fact Of Life

Under federal law, meat processing plants can't operate unless an inspector is present to oversee operations. The inspectors are provided by the Agriculture Department and draw wages ranging from $12,000 to $19,000 a year, depending on length of service.

If an inspector fails to show up, is late or decides to leave early, a meat processing operation can be hurt badly. Thus, for all intents and purposes, meat processing plants are literally at the mercy of the inspectors. Consequently, it takes little imagination to see that such a situation is almost guaranteed to result in extortions here and there.

It has, in New York City, and not a single or a few isolated cases. The practice, involving 34 federal meat inspectors and 50 meat processing plants, all of them small, has grown to the proportions of a regular racket, according to a report in the Wall Street Journal.

The extorted payments, amounting to more than $50,000, were extracted from 40 Manhattan and Brooklyn plants by the federal inspectors who threatened them with harassment if they didn't kick in, according to an indictment announced by U.S. Attorney Robert Fisk.

The 34 indicted inspectors face prison terms of up to three years and fines of $10,000 if convicted. But that is not to be the end of the matter. Having created a situation where extortions was almost bound to occur, and did, the federal government is preparing to further punish the victims of the extortion at the hands of federal agents. Misdemeanor charges are being prepared against the 50 victimized meat companies for violating federal law against payoffs to public officials. Maximum punishment would be a $50,000 fine. The companies were being charged with a less serious crime. Fisk was quoted as saying because "the payments were found to have been inspired by the inspectors' threats."

Meanwhile, instead of going to the cause of this deplorable situation—the law which put the meat plants at the mercy of the extorting inspectors—the Agriculture Department is bringing in other inspectors to replace those under indictment.

In theory, the primary purpose of government and law is to protect the lives and property of the citizens. When such government and law are used as a vehicle for violating the very rights they are supposed to protect, what happens to the theory?

Pakistan Paradox

"Not many countries in (Pakistan Prime Minister) Bhutto's part of the world hold elections on schedule, or indeed at all. Bhutto himself was lolling up the defectors the other day. Afghanistan, India, Bangladesh, Cambodia."

He then proceeded to enumerate the conspiracies threatening Pakistan, a perfect and predictable reason—one might have thought—for adding his own nation to this list of deferred democracies. But not at all.

Suddenly Mr. Bhutto named the date: or at least a date. Pakistan will hold its first election since the break with Bangladesh on or before Aug. 14 next. That is both welcome and perplexing news.

Wellcome, because Bhutto has needed an electoral mandate for too long now, perplexing because he has never really acknowledged that need and most of his vocal critics—loud in their denunciation of quasi-dictatorship—drift—have never really believed that he would risk the plunge.

A Bhutto democracy is certainly better than a military autocracy—and the millions of votes the prime minister seems likely to gain freshly in rural Pakistan must help secure his position.

DON OAKLEY Crackdown On Smut Backfired

One of the least persuasive arguments some people have advanced in defense of pornography is that the legal censorship of this form of "expression" could ultimately lead to erosion of the constitutional guarantee of a free press.

History plainly shows otherwise. Even at the height of sexual repressiveness in the Victorian era, this country's press could only be described as robust. In many respects, it was far more sensational and far less self-disciplined than it is often accused of being today.

Even that arch-foe of smut, Anthony Comstock, who was responsible for getting the Post Office involved in the business of guarding the public morality, never dreamed of inhibiting ordinary political or literary expression.

But if the pornographers can be accused of trying to wrap them selves in the mantle of the First Amendment, there is also something unsavory about the tactics that have lately been adopted by professional smut-hunters. Ignoring as bad or worse material that is freely available almost everywhere these days, they have been going after a few highly visible targets.

An example was the conviction in Memphis last year of 11 people, connected with the notorious porno film "Deep Throat," on charges of participating in a "national conspiracy to transport interstate an obscene motion picture." If the convictions are upheld, it will mean that the jury anywhere can set itself up as the moral monitor for everyone else in the nation.

Facing a similar "conspiracy" rap in Cincinnati is the publisher of a magazine, Hustler, which goes well beyond the better-known Playboy or Penthouse in rauchness, but not as far as some magazines that crowd it for space in certain bookstores.

Another case involves the New York's publisher of a particularly tasteless pulp sheet, which is a mixture of hard-core pornography and outrageous political commentary. The "conspiracy" here, however, seems to have been on the part of the legal authorities, who arranged to have people send in subscriptions to the publication—and then file complaints.

Obviously, and many will say, sadly, there is a market for pornography. No one is forced to see a film like "Deep Throat" or buy a magazine like Hustler. Nor is there any evidence that anyone has ever been harmed by the alleged obscenity, in Memphis or Cincinnati or anywhere else.

WASHINGTON—High above America's last untouched wilderness in Alaska, oil company planes are flying reconnaissance missions in search of a vast new reservoir of hidden oil.

Oil already has been spotted seeping out of the ground in small pools, according to our sources, on the widespread tracts of the Arctic Wildlife Range. The oil companies believe there may be as much additional oil underneath the range as already has been tapped for the Alaska pipeline. The high-flying geologists are focusing on a massive, dome-shaped structure underground, which may be hiding a great pool of valuable oil.

Environmental groups, meanwhile, have also been alerted and are preparing for an epic battle to save the wilderness area from development. They want to protect the caribou herds, giant polar bears and flocks of wildfowl that make their home on the Wildlife Range.

Meanwhile, the oil companies are quietly pressuring the Interior Dept., our sources say, to open up the Wildlife Range for exploration. They want to protect the caribou herds, giant polar bears and flocks of wildfowl that make their home on the Wildlife Range.

The oil companies turned to the Wildlife Range after disappointment in another area of Arctic Alaska, the Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 4. The oil barons had hoped to find millions of barrels of oil there, but our sources say some of the most promising sites have now been drilled and found dry. This caused the industry to seek

INDIA'S NUCLEAR POWER

Conspiracy Of Suppliers

NEW YORK (AP)—"When you stop to think about it" is a phrase that usually suggests somebody has retreated from a first and often frantic reaction to some event or issue and has taken a calmer, more reasoned view.

Like coffee users, who now are having second thoughts along with their second cups of coffee and rethinking their belief that a conspiracy is afoot to deprive them of their comfort and way of life.

Some seem to be coming around to the realization that they do not need to pay those prices. A few seem to realize that prices can be regulated both from the supply side and the demand side. For nonessential products, a supplier cannot dominate the market unless the consumer acquiesces.

A supplier might tell his customers that a shortage exists and that he must raise prices. But the consumer can reduce that shortage merely by cutting his demand.

"A conspiracy" of suppliers can be met by the product or service isn't essential to life and well-being.

But when you stop to think about it all over contracted in service. World War Two veterans found things a bit better as the VA Hospital chain built itself up to its present 171 hospitals, most of them closely tied to medical schools. President Truman limited VA to 110,000 hospital beds, but Congress ordered treatment for non-service ailments if a hospital bed was available. There frequently wasn't.

No treatment for any non-service ailment was permitted in VA outpatient clinics. Not until about two years ago Congress then eased the rules a bit more, telling VA to use its clinics to keep veterans out of VA hospitals or to continue their treatment after hospitalization so more beds will be available. New clinics were built, one in Orlando for veterans in this area. VA administrators were told to look away from those mounting veterans' costs—from $6 billion 10 years ago to more than $22-billion this year.

Even then treatment and medicines were restricted by law.

Now this new law goes all the way for the more seriously disabled class of veterans. Full treatment, free medicine for anything.

Next: Expect the same thing for less seriously disabled veterans. Proposals have a valid argument: it cuts Medicare and welfare costs. It eases the strain on veterans of being sick.

Take its possible benefits to this writer alone. He lost his left leg and was shot in the right thigh in World War II. He also has diabetes, high blood pressure and a related heart condition. For these non-service ailments he has been under constant treatment by his private doctor. True, he has Medicare and other health insurance but his costs are still high.

Now, he can get everything free by going to the VA. This new law will be popular with veterans and it is humanitarian, but don't you know I'll vex any number of doctors whose incomes will no longer

RONALD REAGAN Execution Pro, Con Is U.S. Trauma

Last week in Utah a 10-year moratorium was broken and a convicted murderer was executed. According to some, the world will never be the same.

Just the day before the execution of Gary Gilmore, columnist Morris Rybakoff quoted another famed columnist, Franklin P. Adams, who wrote some years ago: "At the time of a cold-blooded murder, no punishment seems severe enough for the slayer; but at the time of a cold-blooded execution, no crime seems horrendous enough to warrant the penalty."

My own conscience tells me that the death sentence is a deterrent and that society has the right in its own defense to take the life of those who commit murder with premeditation and planning. I don't like to use the term capital punishment because I think the emphasis should be on society's self-defense rather than on the death penalty as punishment alone.

Thanks to the American Civil Liberties Union and others, we now have been treated to every bit of information about Gary Gilmore's life, his habits, his views, until a virtual carnival atmosphere developed around his trial. His life story will be a motion picture and who knows what other commercial exploitations will be attempted.

He is dead and I truly ask God to have mercy on his soul. But should the issue of capital punishment be determined on a less emotional basis than whether or not this one man, who confessed his crime and agreed his trial was fair, should pay the penalty that he himself said was just?

The day after the execution, one newspaper ran a photo of the execution chair on front page and captioned it, "The place where Gary Gilmore was shot, where he bled and died." Another had a cartoonist's take of the stone tablets Moses brought down from the mountain. They were shown riddled with bullet holes and the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," in bold black type. And, of course, the "Thou shalt not kill" referred to the firing squad.

If the debate is carried on in this way, then what about the murderer's victims? Their names aren't household words. There was a young man working in a gas station to earn his way through law school. The other a hotel manager earning money to go back to school. Both were fathers of infant children. They were robbed, then made to watch their children where they were executed with shots through the head. Why not picture where they were shot and bled and died? Why no pictures, no interviews of those who kept them? Why? But that was a long yesterday ago. The wheels of justice are turning very slowly these days.

expedient pawn in national security affairs—which, unfortunately for him, he is. Given a continued emotional buildup, with the right conditions and the right stimulation, violence becomes a possibility to be reckoned with.

But the explosive situation can be defused with an intensive public relations campaign, the study argues. With the proper "image, attitude and approach," it contends, "many can be sold on the new treaty."

The U.S. embassy should decide "what will go over well immediately, what to hold back on, what is extremely sensitive, etc.," the report urges.

An effective sales job can be abetted, the study says, by the "skillful manipulation" of the government-controlled press. "A lot of good press would be essential for success; in this situation, we could make good use of the controlled press situation on the isthmus," the report suggests. "If this doesn't work, no propaganda will sell."

The State Dept. could regard Americans in the Canal Zone with "benign neglect," says the study, which would "continue the low morale, frustration and fear among Canal Zone residents." On the other hand, it says, the department could undertake a "liaison effort" to persuade the residents of the value of a new treaty.

Footnote: A State Dept. spokesman insisted that the report was prepared by an internal staff and "no influence whatsoever" on U.S. policy. The author, John Jackley, is the son of Col. Lawrence Jackley, an Army officer and Panama expert who works in the Pentagon's office of Internal Security Affairs.

Conscience Prompts African Catholics To Integrate Schools

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Archbishop Joseph Fitzgerald, South Africa's top Roman Catholic, says his church is integrating its schools because "we could no longer live with our conscience." Last week about 80 black, Indian and "colored" (mixed race) children were admitted to nine of the 171 Catholic schools or white children in South and Methodist churches indicated they would follow suit.

British Open Jubilee

LONDON (AP)—Battered Britain has launched the Silver Jubilee year of Queen Elizabeth II with a sparkling schedule of pageantry and public works aimed at recapturing the optimism that lit up the start of her reign.

Elizabeth's 25th anniversary as queen could give the British a much-needed economic boost and a spiritual uplift after a long slide in business and confidence.

Guns, Bombs Take Toll Of Madrid Police

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Two uniformed guards several times. The two died later in a hospital.

Premier Adolfo Suarez called an urgent meeting of top law enforcement and army officials and scheduled an emergency session of the full cabinet later in the day. The outbreak followed the killings of seven civilians earlier this week, five in a following terrorist attack and two during demonstrations.

Foreign diplomats and other sources have suggested that police had been helping rightwing extremists in a campaign of violence to show that law and order in Spain has disappeared. The government has said the kidnappings of two top government officials, was an attempt to provoke the army but did not mention rightists.

An extreme rightist group calling itself the Apostolic Anti-Communist Alliance claimed responsibility for the fatal shootings Monday night of five Communists in a lawyer's office in Madrid.

Those deaths set off a nationwide wave of strikes and mass demonstrations against violence in the biggest crisis since the government since dictator Francisco Franco died in November 1975.

At London Department Store

LONDON (AP)—Vice President Walter F. Mondale went shopping today at Liberty's, the elegant London department store, in a break from his daily round of meetings with political leaders of America's allies.

While reporters and photographers pushed around him, the vice president bought two ties, one print and one paisley, a square silk scarf for his wife and a cashmere scarf for himself. He paid about $10 for the purchases.

Mondale was flying to Paris this afternoon to meet with officials of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development soon after his arrival and with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing on Saturday.

The OECD issued a report today warning America and other non-Communist industrial nations to check energy-gobbling trends or face possible oil shortages, higher oil prices or both by 1982.

The world economy, arms sales, nuclear testing and the Middle East were expected to be on the agenda for the talk between

First Federal Promotes

Gilbert T. (Gib) Edmonds, executive vice president of First Federal of Seminole since February 1972, has been named president of the Sanford-based institution. He began in 1966 as teller-loan officer.

Other top-level executive promotions announced this week are the elevation of E.C. Harper Sr., president since 1961, to chairman of the board. J.H. Van Hoy, first vice president, has been named vice chairman; with W. Rex Clonts named to the board of directors.

Harper began the Sanford Electric Co. in 1926 and has been president and owner of the company; he is now a director. Van Hoy is a retired building material executive. Joined the association in 1943. Clonts is secretary-treasurer and manager of C.R. Clonts & Associated Growers Inc. of Oviedo.

First Federal operates offices in Sanford, Longwood, DeBary, Oviedo, Orange City, Winter Park, South Orlando, and Apopka.

ERA Short 1 Vote In Virginia

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The equal rights amendment to the U.S. Constitution has failed by one vote to win ratification by the Virginia state Senate.

"Wait until next year!" said angry supporters of the ERA after Thursday's vote. Their anger was largely directed at Sen. A. Joe Canale Jr., a Virginia Beach Republican who surprised everyone by voting against ratification.

The vote that came after nearly three hours of impassioned debate was 20 in favor of ratification and 12 against. Approval by a majority of the members—21—was needed for passage.

Canada said it favored the amendment that would bar discrimination on the basis of sex, but felt Virginia should not ratify it until the issue is submitted to the people in an advisory referendum.

There are no plans to hold such a referendum. Canada proposed one in an amendment Thursday but was ruled out of order.

Oviedo Girls Outast Lake Howell By 42-37

By SHARON REMPE
Herald Correspondent

It was "up the court, down the court" for the first minutes of the game, with neither team scoring. Oviedo finally broke the deadlock but could not hold on to the lead. Apparently forewarned of Oviedo's bombshell, Vicky Goulette, Howell coach Jo Luciano had Sonya Smith guarding Goulette exclusively. This defensive maneuver kept Goulette's shooting down to a minimum, so the task of scoring fell on Jody Michels.

Oviedo's Vickie Goulette shoots, Sonya Smith puts up her best defense

Oviedo added another six points to the margin at the top of the fourth. Lake Howell struggled to reclaim old dominance, but only managed to close the gap to within five points, giving Oviedo the game, 42-37.

Coach Luciano said that her team had a good defense in the first half but had "too many turnovers and bad passes" in the rest of the game.

The Unflappable Borg

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bjorn Borg stood into the interview area of the Spectrum. His long, blond hair dripped with sweat. He wore a coxskin coat. In the crook of his arm he cradled eight tennis rackets strung to an unbelievable 60-pound tension.

His strong Viking face was a frozen mask. Who could have guessed that this 20-year-old phenom of the burgeoning world of tennis had just been wiped out in a second-round match of the U.S. Pro Indoor Championships?

Win or lose, Borg always has managed to retain an icy, unflappable reserve. On this occasion, there was a more understandable balin.

The link was hardly dry on the $100,000 check he had picked up three days earlier for beating Jimmy Connors in the televised Grand Slam of Tennis final at Boca Raton, Fla. Outside in the hall, Sam was waiting to offer him $1.5 million to sign a contract with the Cleveland Nets of World Team Tennis.

Hancock Leading Mayfair

Where have all the low scores gone? That's the time they were singing around the locker room at the Mayfair Country Club Thursday after the second round of the Mayfair Open failed to produce sizzling scores from the young lions on the Florida PGA tour.

While first-day leader Dick Pallario skied to a 74 Thursday and fell from a one-stroke lead to a two-stroke deficit, Phil Hancock traded places with him.

...learn how to land

It's easy to jump. Just leave the solid land behind you and soar into space. But before you jump—learn how to land! One man can alight gracefully and continue his course. Another will wrap his skin around his head and end up in the hospital.

Healing Leads To Hobby

Wiley's favorite books are sometimes crinkled and yellowed. The covers may be limp or softly curled at the edges. Some of them are worth a great deal of money and some are not. They are all treasures to Willey. Willey's interests in Bibles began prior to World War II. "I tried to join the Navy and the Marines in 1939," he recalls. "One wouldn't take me because I wore glasses. The other wouldn't take me because I had false teeth."

Baptists Plan Panama Trip

HOROSCOPE by BENNICE BEDE OSOL. For Saturday, January 29, 1976. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Continue to capitalize on your bright financial and career ideas. Your thoughts today are apt to be moneymakers. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Sometimes it isn't too wise to bank heavily on Lady Luck, as she can be fickle. Today, you should be able to count on her to ring up the cash register. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Joint ventures are your forte today, provided you play the leading role. Take control. Let your counterpart handle the back up. CANCER (June 21-July 21) You tend to benefit today from a confidential business matter. Keep it to yourself. LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) Make it a point to mix socially with persons who could give your career a boost. Influential contacts view your aims with particular favor today. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A calculated risk might pay a large dividend today, if you've done all the groundwork and know exactly what you're jumping into. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be imaginative today. There's an excellent possibility you can increase your profits by expanding your horizons a trifle more than usual.

HOROSCOPE by BENNICE BEDE OSOL. For Saturday, January 29, 1976. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In financial matters affecting you and your mate today, make no decisions unless you are both in full accord. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Opportunity is likely to come your way today through one you're closely associated with. It's a matter of being at the right place at the right time. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be luckier today if you conduct business outside the commercial atmosphere. Do your talking over a leisurely meal. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Have more faith regarding something you're gambling on. Though the situation is a bit risky, it should work out as you hope. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's a good day to repay social obligations, even at the last minute. An impromptu happening could turn out to be a ball. YOUR BIRTHDAY Jan. 29, 1977 More fun and games than usual are in store for you this coming year. Shadows that darkened your horizons are giving way to brighter aspects.

Tuna In Water Great For Diet. DEAR DR. LAMB—I am on a low-cholesterol diet. Is canned tuna fish packed in water good for my diet? Also, how about scallops? I read that scallops are low in cholesterol. Is that so? Please give me some information on what I should eat to keep my cholesterol down. DEAR READER—The water-packed tuna is an excellent choice for a low-fat, low-cholesterol food. Only 5.7 percent of its calories are from fat. Not many other foods are that low in fat, particularly if they give you any protein at all. And a three-and-a-half ounce portion contains only 59 milligrams of cholesterol. Lean beef and most fish contain about 70 milligrams, which is not high compared to the high cholesterol foods such as egg yolks (one yolk contains 222 milligrams) or fat in dairy products. Scallops are an equally good choice and only a little more than two percent of the calories in scallops are from fat. A three-and-a-half ounce edible portion, raw, contains only 60 milligrams of cholesterol. I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-3, Diet, Preventing Atherosclerosis to give you a general concept of what foods you should eat and which ones you should avoid in following a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101. DEAR DR. LAMB—If a person is highly allergic to penicillin does that mean he will also be allergic to bee stings? My mother-in-law thinks she read in your column that anyone who has a reaction to penicillin will have that same reaction if stung by a bee. Since she almost died from penicillin she is petrified of bees. As soon as the doctor gave her the penicillin she had a buzzing of bees in her ears, the room was spinning and she swelled up all inside which caused her to be unable to breathe. The doctor had to give her two shots to bring her out of the reaction. My mother-in-law is very upset and I can't convince her that this does not mean she is automatically allergic to bees. She never had a reaction to penicillin before. DEAR READER—She didn't read that in my column. There is no connection to being allergic to penicillin and having severe reactions to bee stings. Before a person has any allergic reaction to anything they must first be sensitized to the offending agent. In your mother-in-law's case she had received penicillin before and became sensitized to it at that time. The next time she was challenged with the penicillin shot she had a penicillin reaction. She does have the basis for forming allergies so she should be tested carefully before taking medicines to see if she is sensitive to them. If she happens to use hair dials she should be sure to always test her reaction. Other than a general increased tendency to have allergic reactions she need not worry about anything except penicillin and she needs to avoid it like the plague.

The Landfill Hassle: Public Hearings Loom

By MARK WEINBERG, Herald Staff Writer. An action taken by the Sanford City Commission would open the way for a public hearing on the city's proposal for a sanitary landfill at SFC-46A and Oregon Avenue. The city commissioners, in a special session Friday, killed a proposal before the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission which would have allowed, as a conditional use, public facilities on residentially zoned land such as the 85.45 acres proposed landfill site.

A conditional use would have required planning and zoning commission approval—but no public hearings. The action means the city commissioners would have to create a new zone to permit a landfill. And any change in the city's zoning requires a city commission public hearing, preceded by newspaper advertising announcing the hearing and its purpose.

The city applied Thursday to the Orlando office of the state Department of Environmental Protection for a landfill permit, "after a discussion with" Mayor Lee P. Moore, according to a Thursday memorandum signed by City Manager W.E. Knowles. The memorandum was part of a 60-page information packet on the solid-waste disposal documents relating to the solid waste situation dating back to 1974. One page of the package is a summary of the minutes of five city commission meetings at which the landfill was discussed. The dates of those meetings, See SANFORD, Page 2-A.
