Need A Funeral Escort In Altamonte? It'll Cost You

By TOM GIORDANO
 And CINDY MOOY

The Altamonte Springs Police Department is the only law enforcement agency in Seminole County charging for funeral escort service.

Those charged for about five years, are passed on to the deceased's family as part of the total funeral costs, spokesmen at both funeral homes acknowledge.

And Jeff Etzberger, city manager at Altamonte Springs for about four months, said he doesn't know if the city commission authorized the police department to levy such fees. The charges for funeral escort service went into effect in 1976 when former Mayor Norman Floyd Sr. was in office and he approved them, according to Lt. Richard Laese, bureau commander.

Etzberger said he did not know about the practice until he was asked about it Friday by an Evening Herald reporter.

Neither Laese nor Etzberger know for certain if the matter ever went before the city commission, they said.

A check by the Herald of the police departments in Seminole County's six other cities, as well as the county sheriff's department, disclosed none of them charge for funeral escort service.

And, in those other cities where funeral escort service is extended, those duties are usually performed by on-duty personnel. The Altamonte Springs Police Department, however, uses off-duty policemen who keep most of the money, according to Laese.

The charge for the escort service is $15 per man, or $20 per man, depending upon which of the two funeral homes in Altamonte Springs is paying, according to Laese.

Laese explained both funeral homes had been paying $15 per man, but that one of them raised the fee recently to "keep up with inflation."

Although the off-duty officers who get paid for the escort service get the money direct, about 10 percent goes into the department's police association account, according to Patrolman First Class Bob Fedi, in charge of traffic.

Average time for a funeral escort is 10 to 15 minutes and requires, generally, a minimum of two officers, but that can increase depending upon the size of the procession. Prime purpose of funeral escorts, according to police in the county, is traffic control.

The Altamonte department provides such service about 50 times a year, and using Fedi's estimate, the funeral homes are paying the off-duty officers between $1,500 and $2,000 a year.

None of that money, except for the 10 percent estimate which goes into the police association fund, goes to the city. Although, according to Laese and Fedi, the off-duty officers use the department's motorcycles and fuel.

Fedi said, however, Altamonte does not charge funeral homes outside the city when escort service is needed for a procession coming through from another city.

Where did Altamonte police come up with the idea of charging for funeral escort service?

"Partly from the Orlando Police Department and partly from the funeral directors themselves," Laese points out.

He explained his department sent its motorcycle officers through the Orlando Police Department.

A typical funeral scene with motorcycle officers on stand-by after the escort service they provide. Altamonte Springs Police Department is the only law enforcement agency in the county which charges for that service.

Reagan Makes Hiring Freeze Stick

President Reagan said Friday he is making permanent the temporary federal hiring freeze that he imposed just hours after taking office on Jan. 20. Said Reagan, "it is time to put Washington on a diet."

The president said "new permanent ceiling" will reduce federal employment by 37,000 jobs by Sept. 30, 1982, at a saving of $1.3 billion.

Administration sources said later that the reduction means an undisclosed number of workers now on the federal payroll will lose their jobs, although attrition will account for most of the cutbacks.

In his second press conference since taking office, Reagan said there is no

Pair Arrested For 8-Year-Old's Murder

NEW YORK (UPI) — A judge says a woman whose breast was disfigured by a leaky silicone implant cannot collect $2.5 million in damages from Dow Corning Corp. because the warranty on the device has expired.

Judge Jack Weinstein ruled Friday in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn Joy Klein, 47, of Manhattan was not entitled to any money from the Michigan based company that made the implant because the device leaked four years after it was implanted and the warranty had expired.

Papers filed with the court showed Miss Klein had the implant done in 1965 for cosmetic purposes.

In April 1978, because of a leak of the implant, she suffered discoloration of her breast followed by severe disfigurement and had to have the implant surgically removed.

Miss Klein's attorney, Lawrence Goldirsch, said he will appeal the ruling.

The former girlfriend of 8-year-old Tshwanda Rene Leacock's father and the woman's ex-husband are in the Orange County Jail today, charged with first-degree murder in the child's death. The girl was kidnapped while on her way home from school Feb. 20.

Katherine Daniels Waters, 29, and her ex-husband, Alfred Daniels, 48, were arrested by the Orange County Sheriff's Department late Friday evening and are being held in the Orange County Jail without bond.

Ms. Waters, former girl friend of the Leacock girl's father, Willie Miller, is charged with kidnapping and first-degree murder. Daniels is also charged with first degree murder.

The girl disappeared on her 8th birthday from Orlando's Rock Lake Elementary School and her body was found Feb. 23 in the parking lot of an Orlo Vista Park.

She died of a gunshot wound to the upper torso.

Witnesses saw the Leacock girl entering a blue and white car with another girl, who was identified as Ms. Waters' daughter, in front of the school on Feb. 20. The witnesses said the pair left to go to a birthday party for the Leacock girl.

Ms. Waters' 1976 blue and white Oldsmobile was later seized by sheriff's deputies and sent to the Sanford Crime Lab for analysis after investigators found pine needles, bloodstains and what appeared to be black hair in the car's trunk.

Pine needles were found in the girls' hair and a bloodstain was on her face when the body was found. Blood in the car matched the girl's blood type, investigators said.

The girl's mother, Annie Leacock, told sheriff's deputies that Ms. Waters and she argued on Feb. 7 but two days later Ms. Waters returned to the Leacock home and apologized for the incident, asking at the same time about plans for the girl's birthday.

Ms. Waters, a bus driver for the Orange County School system, did not report for work on the day the girl disappeared returning to work on the afternoon of the day the body was discovered.

Ms. Waters was first placed on a paid leave of absence from her job and was later fired, according to a school spokesman.

Battalion Comrades Gather In Sanford

By CINDY MOOY
 Herald Staff Writer

Memories of World War II are being recalled this weekend in Sanford as members of the 805th Aviation Engineer Battalion meet for their annual reunion.

The comrades gathered this morning near the flag pole at the Lake Monroe Holiday Inn for a ceremony in tribute to their departed brothers. They were welcomed by Sanford Mayor Lee Moore, followed by a flag raising and 21-gun salute.

Tonight at 7, a dinner preceded by a business meeting and election of officers. The 805th Battalion, established several months before the start of World War II, was assigned to build, maintain, defend, and camouflage military air fields.

At the war's start, the battalion was stationed in Panama and was placed on immediate alert to defend the canal against possible assault and sabotage.

When at full strength, the battalion consisted of about 800 men. Small squads of men from the 805th were dispersed to many locations throughout South and Central America, to establish airfields or to improve existing ones. In 1942, a detail was enroute to Guatemala when its ship was sunk by a German submarine.

In April 1943, the 805th Engineers transferred to the Army Air Base at Richmond, Va. There some of its men were chosen to form a cadre for other engineer battalions. Many new recruits were then assigned to the 805th for an intensive training program. The training was completed about Thanksgiving 1943 and the battalion embarked for Hawaii by way of Camp Stoneman, Calif.

In Hawaii, the 805th set up headquarters at Bellows Field and quickly dispersed units to several locations where they undertook runway improvements that would accommodate larger aircraft. Some new airfields and support buildings were established to handle the larger number of aircraft that was being brought to the islands.

In June of 1944, the 805th Engineers were enroute to Saipan in the Mariana Islands where one of the bloodiest battles of World War II was fought with the Japanese. After securing a beach head, the group camped at a spot overlooking the channel between Saipan and the island of Tinian. Within a few days the battalion took up more secure and permanent quarters by establishing a tent city and commencing work on Aslito Airfield, the major air strip taken from the Japanese.

With bulldozers, shovels, carry-alls, and graders, the 805th opened a large coral pit that supplied the materials which it used to build roads and surface runways. Before Saipan was secured, the 805th began the construction of a new airfield in the northern sector of the island. The site was an old cane field within sight of open tank battles between

Juvenile Arbitration Program Helps Kids Avoid Court System

(Editor's note: The war on juvenile crime is like no other: a war without front lines, elusive yet every-present. What follows is the story of Seminole County's Juvenile Arbitration Program, an isolated outpost in that continuing struggle.)

By BRITT SMITH
 Herald Staff Writer

It was obvious the kids didn't belong in jail. Basically, all they were guilty of was some roughhousing that got awkwardly out of hand. They knew it. The four of them — three boys and a girl, ages 13 and 14 — sat making faces and giggling as the hearing got underway.

Unfortunately for them, the man who held their fates in his hands wasn't amused.

"We're not here for that," he snapped. "This is serious stuff. You're all charged with battery, a crime, a first degree misdemeanor which, if you were being treated as adults, could get you one year in jail or a $1,000 fine. Anybody here have a year or $1,000 to spare?"

He looked around the table. No one spoke. Smiles vanished. Eyes looked away. The children's parents sat grim-faced against the wall. It wasn't funny anymore.

The 12-year-old victim of the kids' prank had never seen the humor in it. After all, what's so funny about having three bigger boys hold you down and a girl try to take your pants off? When you're only 12, that can be more than a little embarrassing.

Although this was a judicial proceeding, the scene and format would baffle courtroom buffs. There was no jury or casual observers at the confidential hearing. There was no black robe or gavel to maintain tradition. The fact is, it was all very Untraditional. There wasn't even a judge. Non-lawyer Ed Schuckman was in charge. He is called an arbitrator.

Something of an umpire in these legal disputes, Schuckman begins as he always does by stating his case simply: "I'm here to find out exactly what happened and then decide what to do about these charges. Now, who wants to go first?"

Silence. Kids and parents squirm. No one so much as coughs. The arbitrator's voice goes frigid, his eyes positively glacial. "O.K., you can talk here or we go to court. Take your pick." Choose arbitration and your Fifth Amendment right to remain silent goes out the window; along with right to an attorney, a speedy trial, and trial by jury.

Tongues quickly loosen. Stories vary. It's difficult to determine exactly where the horseplay ended and criminality, if indeed there was any, began. In the end, the charges are dropped and the youngsters get off with a warning. But, Schuckman adds grimly, "if you get in trouble again, this whole affair will be brought up and it will go hard on you."

Everyone seems satisfied. No one got punished, and the 12-year-old victim was assured of not getting picked on anymore. But one couldn't shake the feeling that he had just lost four friends.

This particular hearing ended well. Some don't. Hearings have been known to degenerate into shouting matches and name calling. Participants have gotten up and stalked out. When this happens, there's only one recourse: "They get to tell it all to the judge," says Gayle Hair, director of the county's two-year-old arbitration program. "But that doesn't happen often."

For example, of the 366 cases heard in Seminole County last year, only 25 could not be resolved through arbitration and wound up in court.

And of the roughly 1,000 cases handled by Hair's office since the program began in Oct. 1978, there have been only six complaints — either the kid, his parents, or the victim thought they got the short end of the arbitration stick. In five of those cases, the arbitrator's decision was upheld. A rehearing was granted in the sixth and a mutually agreeable solution arrived at.

What are some of the offenses of which these kiddie criminals have been accused? Last year, nearly half involved

One witness estimated the car was traveling at about 70 miles per hour when it struck the children. The car flipped over at least two times after the impact, witnesses said.

The Florida Highway Patrol said early Saturday that charges of manslaughter and driving while intoxicated were pending against George William Purdy, 44, of Fort Lauderdale, the suspected driver of the car.

The victims were identified as Cassandra Gary, 6, her sister Veronica, 12, and a relative, Stefanie Mack, 5. Witnesses said the three, holding hands, apparently were attempting to cross the six-lane West Broward Blvd. to enter a fast food restaurant when they were struck about 9:10 p.m.

Under The Gun, Highway Patrol Seeks Female Officers

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida's Highway Patrol, for the first time in its history, is preparing slick television ads to try to attract women recruits to its ranks.

The 30-second spots have an attractive woman trooper doing calisthenics at the police academy and, dressed in the snappy patrol uniform, cheerfully giving a ticket to a speeder. The message? "Want to change jobs? Get into something exciting... Think about the Highway Patrol."

Why the hard sell in times when jobs are scarce? The patrol, under threat of federal court action, has been given two years to bring its complement of women troopers up to 15 percent of the total force. Within five years, 20 percent of the force must be female.

Oliver said the minimum age of 19 was kept, but the maximum age of 35 was eliminated. The patrol now has 1,208 uniformed personnel. If the Legislature boosts it to 1,508, full compliance with the federal mandate would require that 315 be women and 495 blacks, Hispanics or other minorities.

PEOPLE IN BRIEF

Convincing Space Grabs Best Actress Nomination
By United Press International
HICK IN MINK: Sissy Spacek was so convincing in the movie, "Coal Miner's Daughter," about Loretta Lynn's hard-scrabble existence in rural Kentucky, she was nominated for best actress of the year. She even sounded country when singing Miss Lynn's songs about the sorry lot of homebound women married to hard-drinking, two-timing men. But she's not about to dress the part when attending the Oscar awards show March 30. She says she purchased a white mink jacket to wear.

Grasso Nixes Controversy
GRASSO'S AIRPORT: The husband of the late Connecticut Gov. Ella Grasso says he doesn't want Bradley International Airport renamed for his wife if it's going to create controversy. There's a bill before the Connecticut Legislature to rename the airport for her. But the widow of Lt. Eugene Bradley, a young pilot killed in a plane crash at the airport and for whom it was named, opposes the name change. So do veterans groups. "If there is any controversy at all, Ella would be the last person who would want to be involved," Thomas Grasso said. "I don't want Ella's name put on the block this way."

Shields Gets The Goat
PET PYGMY: Brooke Shields and the newborn pygmy goat hit it off right away. While the teenage model and actress was co-hosting the Mike Douglas show this week, she was kissed on the cheek by the 1-week-old goat. "I love it," she said, squealing with delight. Joan Amery of the San Diego Zoo offered to get Brooke her own personal pygmy goat.

'I Love You Billie...'
JILTED NO MORE: A bedsheet banner hung on an interstate bridge by a jilted lover has resulted in a marriage plan for a Memphis couple. Ronald Lovett painted the sign last fall and hung it from the bridge where his fiancée, Billie Nichol, was sure to see it on her way to work. She had given Lovett the ax about a month before she saw his message. "I Love You Billie Nichol," Lovett said he put up the sign not only to tell Miss Nichol his intentions, but to let everybody in on how he felt. "When you're in love, you want the whole world to know." The sign and several telephone calls from Lovett eventually convinced Miss Nichol and the couple has announced a March 27 wedding date.

Alda, Burnett Take Honors
PEOPLE'S CHOICE: Alan Alda and Carol Burnett won honors as the American public's favorite entertainers for the second straight year in the annual People's Choice Awards telecast. Bob Hope, Burt Reynolds, Barbara Mandrell and Barbra Streisand finished as runners-up in the selections, which are determined through a nationwide opinion poll. The winners, named at a black-tie show telecast Thursday on the CBS network, received crystal trophies depicting two hands applauding. Cita Eastwood beat out Robert Redford and Burt Reynolds to be named favorite movie actor. Jane Fonda and Goldie Hawn, nominated for this year's best actress Oscar, were her role in "Private Benjamin," tied for the award as last year's best actress Oscar. Was, third...

Getting A Handle On Social Security

Although the President's Commission on Pension Policy has provided no cure-all for the ailing Social Security system, it has emphasized the need to re-think the way this nation provides for its old-age pensioners.

The commission's call for mandatory privately financed pensions for all Americans, for increasing the Social Security retirement age to 68, and for taxing Social Security benefits would radically restructure old-age security.

Even so, the system is in danger of foundering. By the 1983 fiscal year, the old-age fund will have an income of $143 billion and pay out $158.7 billion, with a year-end deficit of $8.2 billion.

Much of this red ink will be generated by the failure of Congress to reckon the consequences of voting a major extension of benefits in 1974, and of indexing benefits in excess of the rate of inflation.

The mandatory private system urged by the presidential commission would reduce reliance upon Social Security by setting up an additional pension, funded by a 3 percent payroll levy on employers.

The commission's proposal to raise the Social Security retirement age by steps to 68 in the year 2002 may seem harsh by present standards, but by the end of the century increasing longevity may make it sensible.

An equally controversial proposal to tax Social Security benefits was instantly rejected by President Reagan on the basis that the beneficiaries had already paid tax once on the money.

Congress could do a number of other things to keep Social Security healthy. It could, for example, end the costly indexing of benefits in excess of the rate of inflation.

And Congress could integrate into Social Security the hundreds of public employee pension programs. Public employee plans are almost invariably more costly than private pensions and they take millions of workers out of Social Security whose contributions would significantly strengthen the system.

Social Security is soaking up 30 percent of the federal budget, and its costs are rising. Something very like the innovations urged by the presidential commission will be needed to bring it under control.

Original Social Security ought to be what it was originally intended to be — a mandatory savings program to sustain retired workers, with built-in insurance to tide them over if their lifetimes exceed the predicted limit.

Meanwhile, Back On The Hill

While most of us have been focusing on President Reagan's budget cuts, the increasingly conservative Congress has been contemplating some cutting of its own.

It has been said that nobody should have to view the making of sausages or laws. The closed-door mania sweeping Congress makes it unlikely that outside observers will have any opportunity to lose their appetites from exposure to the legislative process.

Apparently overcome by shyness, members of the House are closing themselves away from public view — at least, when doing anything controversial.

Last summer, for example, the House Ways and Means Committee cut President Carter's budget behind closed doors.

The House Democratic Caucus has also retreated into the closet from some of its recent meetings. And the full House is said to be changing some procedures to avoid the potential embarrassment of recorded votes.

In the aftermath of the ABCSCAM scandal, the Congress seems determined to preserve its reputation as the finest legislature that money can buy.

The upper chamber will consider a proposal by Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., to ease what he calls the "diddly little rules" that require financial disclosure and prohibit the acceptance of gifts valued at more than $100.

Meanwhile, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., has revived the internal security subcommittee of his Judiciary Committee. The subcommittee, a relic of the Joseph McCarthy era, died in 1977 after years of investigating imaginary subversion.

Thurmond doesn't spend all of his time worrying about bureaucratic Bolsheviks. He is also examining the judicial selection process.

Thurmond is seeking to have his colleagues regain the control over federal judicial appointments that they largely relinquished with the establishment of merit panels two years ago.

Lefever: Pro Rights? Record Says No

WASHINGTON — Ernest Lefever, who has been appointed to the human rights chair at the State Department, placed an incendiary telephone call to my office last week to protest my column assailing his human rights record.

What's in a name? Don't look at me. I have had several... and have been called many. And I have been through the Mrs. Mrs. and Ms. bit. I yield to Dr. Maria Perez who will tell you: Dr. Maria Perez — the attractive physician says, "but I may not always be Mrs. Lalis Perez."

This week, Jane Casselberry and I joined a former Herald scribe for lunch. It was when I addressed our friend as Ms. Gordon that Marilyn whipped out a legal petition declaring her name change — to that of her husband.

When Marilyn and Jim Whelan were married several years ago, she retained "Gordon" as her legal name — not Gordon-Whelan as is popular today, but just plain Gordon.

Ms. Gordon and Mr. Whelan ran into several stumbling blocks while traveling in foreign countries — posing as man and wife. The different names caused many a... raised eyebrow.

Our little Gypsy, as we call Marilyn, is always searching out new territories and new experiences. Some of her ventures have included serving as the subject of hypnotic research, as well as exploring other aspects of the psychic sciences.

Marilyn told the story of a night in the Philippines last year when she and Jim were comfortably seated in two large overstuffed chairs with matching footstools while listening to the radio.

Jim left the room. In a matter of seconds, his large chair and footstool moved a few inches. Making sure that nothing was pushing it forward, Marilyn said she stepped back in her chair to see what was going on.

The chair and footstool moved again and Marilyn said her excitement at witnessing telekinesis was unbelievable. How thrilling! The radio announcer interrupted the program to broadcast that an earthquake was in progress.

At the same time, she projects that aura of fragile innocence that seems endemic among former Texas beauty queens and that football fans recognize whenever there is a sideline shot of the Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders.

Mrs. Jenrette, who dabbled in singing and acting before marrying former Rep. John Jenrette, D-S.C., is now launched on a new career — explaining why she posed for Playboy with her clothes off.

I have never heard her sing nor seen her in a dramatic role, but I can tell you that she explains very well.

The capital was the first stop on her first national explaining tour, which began after a news conference premiere in New York. Also on the road company itinerary were Chicago, Houston, Toronto and Los Angeles.

Since her new career seems rather one-dimensional, some of her admirers already are asking what she will do for an encore. Two possibilities spring to mind:

(1) She can have another 10-page pictorial spread published in Playboy and go around the country explaining why she posed for it.

(2) She can go on another tour with some new explanations about the original pictures. I liked Mrs. Jenrette, what little I saw of her. I got the impression she really did try as hard as she could and as best she knew how to be the kind of wife she thought a congressman should have.

I likewise got the impression that being the right kind of wife for Jenrette was beyond her capabilities.

What's happened to our education system? During the past several days this subject has been on the TV and radio and has been discussed in public.

The most discussed subject was discipline and the TV showed pictures of how children disobey and disregard discipline. Without discipline there can be no order and the children that want to learn, can't because they are distracted by the disobedient ones.

Sooner that we can get discipline in our schools and colleges, the sooner we can reduce our crime rate. This has to start in the home at an early age.

The parents will first have to discipline themselves and set a pattern for their children to follow and enforce it. The teachers and principals will have to give more authority in handling the children and the parents will have to give them stronger backing and support.

The private schools have a big advantage over public schools in both discipline and education. If a child doesn't behave, the private school first informs the parent or guardian to either correct this child's behavior or they will have to remove him from their school.

This is what is lacking in public schools and the parents and children take advantage of it. Some parents even expect the school teacher to be a nurse maid for their children.

Clark: A Good Choice

The media have it wrong about Bill Clark, recently confirmed as President Reagan's choice for under secretary of state.

The media have some excuse, but they should have done some homework on this one. It's true that Clark did not show to advantage, to put it mildly, in his confirmation hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Pets Sympathize With Rolf's Plight On Death Row

When my dog, Bo, who looks like Rolf met me with the paper last Saturday, he often times in a playful mood tries to grab the paper from me — but last Saturday's, Feb 28th's edition was of no excitement for him — he didn't seem like his old playful self...

Yes, why did you people want to kill Rolf when you have your jails full of criminals who have raped, mugged, robbed, and killed, and you don't punish them? Little Penny, our six pounder, barked and said, "Explain to us why is it that you people have your convicted criminals in beautiful air-conditioned buildings, feed them the best food, and give them far better living conditions than is enjoyed by most law-abiding citizens and you want to destroy Rolf who chased a few chickens and bit a few people who bothered him?" Penny argued that it was a natural instinct for Rolf to chase chickens and bite because he has no fists to protect himself with.

Discipline Necessary

What has happened to our education system? During the past several days this subject has been on the TV and radio and has been discussed in public.

The most discussed subject was discipline and the TV showed pictures of how children disobey and disregard discipline. Without discipline there can be no order and the children that want to learn, can't because they are distracted by the disobedient ones.

Sooner that we can get discipline in our schools and colleges, the sooner we can reduce our crime rate. This has to start in the home at an early age.

The parents will first have to discipline themselves and set a pattern for their children to follow and enforce it. The teachers and principals will have to give more authority in handling the children and the parents will have to give them stronger backing and support.

The private schools have a big advantage over public schools in both discipline and education. If a child doesn't behave, the private school first informs the parent or guardian to either correct this child's behavior or they will have to remove him from their school.

This is what is lacking in public schools and the parents and children take advantage of it. Some parents even expect the school teacher to be a nurse maid for their children.

What is the Post Office Dept. trying to do, wreck the economy still further? This proposed nine digit zip code is not necessary. They just want to spend more money on non-essential machinery, so they will have an excuse for upping the price of stamps! This will not help this new administration to get this country back on its feet! It is not the patriotic thing to do, that is what this 'Stand Up For America' program is all about. We must all help this country, but with a few that don't give a damn, it is hard to do, but at least I am trying.

'Art Beckwith Has Bought Himself Another Job'

Clerk of the Circuit Court Arthur H. Beckwith Jr. was given an additional chore by the county commission this past week.

He was asked for a recommendation on whether the county should hire a consultant to determine if more interest county funds and if the county should invest cash flow on a daily basis.

Beckwith's response was that his staff in cooperation with staff from the county's Office of Management, Analysis and Evaluation (OMAE) could do the job competently.

Another Child's Body Found In Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) — The body of a 13-year-old boy was pulled from a river and officials said he had been asphyxiated — the tenth of Atlanta's 20 child murder victims to die by a cutoff of air and the fourth killed since Jan. 1.

DeKalb County police found the body of Curtis Walker, described as a boy who would follow anyone to "make a few bucks," lodged against a log Friday in the South River, in suburban DeKalb County southeast of downtown Atlanta.

The discovery of Walker, who vanished Feb. 19, brought to 20 the number of black children killed in the city in the past 19 months. One — Darron Glass — has been missing since September.

Of the victims found quickly enough for a cause of death to be determined, 10 died by asphyxiation or strangulation. All four of this year's victims were killed that way.

DeKalb County Public Safety Director Dick Hand said Friday night, "I think it's logical to assume" the same person who killed Walker also killed Patrick Baltazar, 11, whose body was found in northern DeKalb County Feb. 13.

Judy Closer To Execution
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court has moved Steven Judy a step closer to Indiana's electric chair by rejecting a request by a fellow death row prisoner to stop the execution, scheduled for Monday.

Over objections by its two liberal justices, the court Friday denied a request by Larry Williams to delay Judy's execution for a constitutional review of Indiana's capital punishment law.

The court issued its 7-2 vote without comment, noting only that Justices William Brennan and Thurgood Marshall would have temporarily delayed the execution. Both have said they believe the death penalty is "cruel and unusual punishment" prohibited by the Constitution.

Judy, 24, confessed killer of an Indiana woman and her three children, has waived his right to appeal.

In a Friday night news conference at the Indiana State Penitentiary, Judy said he has no regrets about the slayings and that "when Altamonte officers learned Orlando has been charging $15 per man for the service for years. An Orlando police spokesman confirmed Laese's comments.

Other reasons Altamonte charges, according to Laese, is that funeral directors themselves approve of the fees as a guarantee of the service when they need it.

The lieutenant explained sometimes the department, for one reason or another, might not be able to provide on-duty officers for a funeral procession and the funeral directors would rather pay for the assurance of off-duty officers who will take the job. "They would rather pay for that assurance, rather than an as-you-can basis."

Altamonte Springs currently has eight motorcycles, but only six motorcycle officers, according to Fedl. And, Laese points out, Altamonte has the most police motorcycles in any law enforcement agency in the county, including the sheriff's office.

They used to pay very good care of their bikes. They used to pay for a high grade oil out of their own pockets, until the city garage began buying it. And our men take their bikes home and keep them clean and well-maintained on their own, putting in many hours to do that," Laese added.

The city does not charge for escort services. "It is handled predominantly by off-duty officers, who are paid directly by the funeral home. If motor men are not available, a regular on-duty car is used, and we do not charge for that service."

Gerald Richardson, a funeral director at Baldwin Funeral Home Ltd., said if he is the person paying for the funeral, he would not wish to pay for a police escort "when we don't have it. If they don't want that, then we will not be in procession. They just do it to all meet in the cemetery."

Erik Anderson, owner of Semoran Funeral Home, said he contacted the Altamonte Springs Police Department about three years ago to find a better means to ensure police escorts are available after an accident occurred in an emergency — such as an armed robbery in progress, or a fellow officer needing assistance — those in the escort would leave on the call, after ensuring there is no traffic hazard.

And, while Altamonte police insist it is predominantly off-duty officers who pull escort duty, in such an emergency, they too would respond to the call. Explains Fedl: "They, policemen, are on duty 24 hours a day."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most congressmen have had little to say publicly about Rita Jenrette, apparently hoping she would just go away and stop saying those things about what goes on in Congress.

But Rep. William Hughes, D-N.J., decided Thursday it was time to answer the tell-all estranged wife of former Rep. John Jenrette, D-S.C.

Mrs. Jenrette has received considerable publicity from her semi-nude pictures in Playboy magazine and her stories of sex and high life in the nation's capital. Her husband in an abandoned bus was parked on a city street, a local radio station reported.

Caracas Radio News Network, a usually reliable private organization, said police found the bus with Bitterman's body and a guerrilla flag after being tipped off by an anonymous phone call.

The radio report said the guerrillas apparently boarded the bus Friday night and then forced the driver to stop. They bound and gagged him and then machine gunned Bitterman as the driver watched helplessly, the radio said. The driver was found tied up in the bus near Bitterman's body.

Orlando Brain Rehab Unit A Step Ahead

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — The emergency room doctor figured 15-year-old Robin Gott, but would never make it. Besides shattering her body, the automobile accident had caused severe brain damage.

But Robin fought back and on Valentine's Day returned home to her father in Houston. Except for the cast on her leg, she was ready to resume teenage life again.

Her treatment included four weeks in the Brain Injury Rehabilitation Center at the Orlando Regional Medical Center, the only facility of its kind in Florida. It is a place where people suffering brain damage undergo testing and therapy to recover from debilitating injuries and disease.

"Much of what we do is attempt to get patients thinking that when they leave here their cup is half full — not half empty," says Robert Wright, head nurse and administrator of the unit. "No other disease affects the body as much as a brain injury."

Most of the 100 patients treated since the unit opened six months ago have been victims of strokes and auto accidents. Few have recovered with the vigor of Robin Gott. But with the exception of four patients discharged to nursing homes, all have been able to go back to their families.

That in itself, says Wright, is a step forward in the treatment of brain-damaged patients who in the past received treatment to keep them at home to add a personal touch to the brain unit by making it colorful and cheery.

"We try to make the atmosphere as home-like as possible," says Wright. "When people come here they are distraught, they are disoriented. We want to get them thinking positively again, to think of themselves as individuals."

The rehabilitation wing is staffed by 25 nurses, speech pathologists, dietitians and occupational and physical therapists who are divided into two treatment teams.

So far, patients have come from as far away as California and Minnesota, and Wright says he gets two or three calls a week from doctors and others interested in the program.

"We must be doing something right," he says. "It's been a hell of a time getting some of them (patients) to go home."

Preston Murder-Rape Trial Off Again

It had been scheduled to begin Monday, but the murder-rape trial of Robert A. Preston Jr. has been delayed again — the fourth time in three years.

Saying they had not had enough time to prepare their case, Preston's defense lawyers last week requested a continuance to complete interviews with the nearly 100 witnesses who may be called to testify during the trial.

With the concurrence of Assistant State Attorney Alan Robinson, Circuit Judge Joseph Davis Jr. granted the defense request and set trial for April 27.

This latest delay was just another in a series of setbacks the state has experienced since the night of Jan. 9, 1978 when Preston allegedly entered the L.J. Champ convenience store at Springs

Onks Boulevard and State Road 436 in Maitland, Fla., and shot and killed some food stamps and kidnaped the 45-year-old clerk, Earline Walker.

Walker's nude corpse was found in a field in Forest City the next day. The body had several broken ribs and had been stabbed and slashed several times.

Preston's lawyer, James H. Blythe, has insisted if Preston is convicted, the case then fell to former Judge David Volle Williams who said he would not impose the death penalty if Preston waived a jury trial and pleaded guilty.

Then, on Jan. 9, 1981, as the result of a staff shake-up in the Seminole-Brevard Public Defender's Office, Preston's key defense lawyer, former Assistant Public Defender Bennett Ford, resigned.

techniques they think will work best. Patients with brain damage affecting their movement practice skills that stimulate coordination. They may be asked to type letters on a typewriter or balance on a beachball chair.

Patients with brain damage affecting their speech relearn their communication skills. The work requires patience for both the therapist and the patient. Rehabilitation tasks are repeated continually, day after day.

'Scopes II' Trial Ends

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — California's version of the Scopes "monkey trial" has ended with a decision that left both the state Board of Education and Christian fundamentalists free to claim victory.

Although the fundamentalist attempt to change California's guidelines for teaching science — especially evolution — was rejected Friday, Bible-believing creationists were happy with part of the ruling handed down by Superior Court Judge Irving Perluss.

Perluss declared the state must observe Darwinian evolution is not absolute. He said the state Board of Education must include in future guidelines a 1973 policy statement, long dormant in its files, that Darwinism be taught as theory, not dogma.

The fundamentalists contended the state guidelines required teaching of Charles Darwin's 19th-century theory of evolution as fact and, thus, violated the rights of children who believe the biblical story of creation.

The suit came 56 years after the celebrated "monkey trial" in Dayton, Tenn., in which high school teacher John Scopes was fined $100 for teaching evolution in violation of state law.

petty theft, primarily shoplifting. Number two on this dubious list parade was criminal mischief, a "catchall" which includes such things as rolling yards with toilet tissue, throwing rocks at cars, and knocking down mail boxes. Then comes assault with a battery, trespassing, loitering, possession of small amounts of marijuana, and indecent exposure. Nearly three-fourths of the offenders were male.

Cases are referred to the program by Seminole area police officers based on the type and severity of the offense. Kids charged with felonies or who have prior criminal records need not apply.

The arbitrators who sit in judgment on these youngsters are just plain folks — housewives, businessmen, teachers, real estate brokers — volunteers who have gone through eight training sessions at Seminole Community College and whose most effective weapons in the ongoing war against juvenile crime are compassion and common sense.

"Remember when you were a kid and you hit a baseball through your neighbor's window and your folks made you go over and apologize, to face up to what you had done, and then save up your allowance for weeks in order to pay for a new window? That's what we do," she says.

"After a hearing has been held and we've determined what action, if any, is warranted, we're like a parent handing out discipline." Arbitrators are not empowered to send a child to jail or reform school, but they have a whole litany of lesser options from which to choose. Those can include one or a combination of the following: restitution, curfew, yanking a kid's telephone or driver's license, church attendance, getting a haircut, work programs such as raking leaves or mowing grass, letters of apology, extra school work, participation in athletics or some fraternal organization like the Boy Scouts.

"We even had one case that resulted from a classic lack of communication," Hair said, "where we mandated the kid and his parents sit down together for an hour every day and just talk. Of course, some cases are unfounded and we simply dismiss them charges."

The sanctions arbitrators impose are binding. Failure to follow them can land a child in front of a judge to face the much harsher penalties he can meet out.

After "sentencing," arbitration enters what Hair calls a "help phase."

Raiders Down, Out In State JUCO Play

By SAM COOK Herald Sports Editor

There were two four-letter words neatly written on the chalk board in the Seminole Community College locker room Friday night at Edmunds Activity Center in DeLand.

Both were printable for a family newspaper and they summed up the feeling of the Raiders after a semi-final victory in the College State Tournament with Chipola.

NEXT YEAR.

The author was unknown, but by the somber state of the dressing room—it was known to all that the state's top-ranked team was no longer tops.

Chipola 79, Seminole 78. It was as apparent as the two four-letter words in chalk, Joe Sterling's Raiders, ranked seventh in the nation, had been beaten. There were other signs.

Sanford's Bruce McCray slamming down a towel after being tickled with his fifth foul with 4:03 to play and the Raiders down 69-58.

The way McCray's luck had been going the last two nights, it was surprising the towel reached its destination. The Raiders' bread and butter man all year with a 20.7 points per game average hit only 4-of-13 field goals Friday.

Coupled with a poor 9-of-21 Thursday, the shovel-shot artist had come up with a broken blade. He was 13-of-34 for 38 percent. Less than ONE-HALF of what he normally shoots.

"Boy, I tell you, that was hard," said McCray about his 19 minutes of playing time. "I guess I was a little intimidated by their big (6-8, 6-6 1/2, 6-6 1/2) men."

"I just couldn't get it together tonight," McCray wasn't alone in not "getting it together."

Mt. Dora Bible's 6-foot-5 center Mike Ryals hit just 6-of-15 floor shots, most coming from within the five-foot range. Swinigan Jones was 6-of-18. Travis Filer, a 60 per cent shooter, was 5-of-14.

"Too much spin on the ball," said Ryals quietly about his missed attempts. "Instead of laying it up easy, I was putting spin on it."

Along with the lackluster shooting, the Raiders were crushed on the boards—especially offensive—by a whopping 63-39 differential.

"They're big, and really strong," said Assistant Coach Tony Mandeville shaking his head.

"They're posting man up real good and getting the easy jump shot," continued Sterling.

Twice in the final 20 minutes the Raiders closed the gap to two and three points.

The first occasion came with 13 minutes to play courtesy of sixth man Arthur Jackson. The Boone High product blocked two passes and eventually hit 10-of-32 to play.

Ten seconds later, "A.J." had a chance to tie it.

As a team, SCC fired away at 29-of-78 for 37 per cent. In 30 regular season games Seminole shot 53 per cent.

"We had good shots," reasoned Sterling. "We just didn't hit them. Bruce didn't play well, but he wasn't the only one."

ceded Ryals. In comparison, SCC was stifled with 10 feet.

"Our inside game wasn't there," observed Jones. "We usually score at will with it and work it to perfection. When Bruce isn't scoring, you know something is wrong inside."

Doing most of the posting was Chipola's 6-foot-8, 235-pound Willie Jackson, who set the trend in the first half when he scored 10 points and plucked 15 rebounds.

Chipola broke to 12-4 and 20-10 advantages before Ryals sandwiched a pair of buckets around Reggie Butler and Jones baskets to make it 24-10 with nine minutes remaining in the half.

Sterling, per usual, went with his second team halfway through the period. Former Seminole Keith Whitney led a spirited charge to pull Seminole to 26-23 before the starters came back.

Properly refreshed, Jones, Filer and Ryals combined for 10 points while Chipola could only muster four for a 33-30 edge.

With still 3:10 to play in the opening segment, it was hard to believe the Raiders wouldn't net another shot.

Seeing was believing, however. The Indians 6-foot-4 Melvin Roseboro hit six of the next 11 Chipola points as they rolled into intermission with a 41-33 edge.

SCC's Mike Ryals (53) had a rough night inside against Chipola as one can ascertain by the pained look on his face. Ryals was 6-of-15 from the floor in the Raiders loss.

Davison tallied seven of the total in the second overtime to lift Brevard. Isaiah Singletary dropped in 28 to complement Davison.

The Pioneers' Eric Carithers and Arno Bush tossed in 20 apiece for IHCC honors. Bush is a former DeLand High star.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

The Donkeys Are Coming, The Donkeys Are Coming

The donkeys are coming. The donkeys are coming. Maybe not as dramatic as the Russians, but the donkeys are coming to the Seminole High gym Saturday night at 7:30 for a basketball game.

The Seminole Student Government is sponsoring this version of basketball with Seminole faculty, Sanford celebrities and student club members riding to glory. The object is to make baskets while riding donkeys and hopefully avoid the residue which sometimes comes with four-legged creatures at inopportune moments.

Cotton, UCF Play For Title

Sanford's Ruben Cotton tossed in 19 points Friday night to propel Central Florida's Knights to a 94-77 victory over Moorehead in the NCAA South Regional semi final at UCF.

The victory sets up a rematch for the Region crown with Florida, South, who disposed of West Georgia 70-59. The title contest will begin at 8:30 Saturday, preceded by the 6-30 consolation contest.

Last year FSC slipped by UCF 71-64 in the championship game. The two teams split games this year, each winning at its home court. The Knights must stop the Mocs' 6-foot-7 All American John Ebling who scored 16 points against West Georgia.

Carpenter: Phillies For Sale

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI) — Rully Carpenter, president of the world-champion Philadelphia Phillies, said Friday he is offering to sell the National League baseball team.

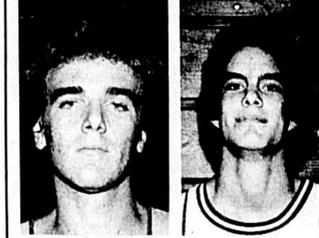

"It was one of the most difficult decisions this family has ever had to make, especially in light of the recent success the team has had," Carpenter said.

Carpenter said the primary reason for the decision to sell is that "it has become very apparent to me that some deeply ingrained philosophical differences exist between the Carpenter family and some of the other owners as to how the baseball business should be conducted."

But Carpenter said he wanted to endorse the position taken by management in the battle with players over the compensation issue.

Burger King Picks All-County

STEVE GRACE TOMMY MOTHS

Steve Grace restaurant of Seminole County has selected its All-County Boys Basketball Team for the past season.

During the basketball season, Burger King honored players at Seminole, Lyman, Lake Howell, Lake Brantley and Oviedo for their weekly performances.

The voting was conducted by the Seminole County coaches. The girls team will be announced Sunday according to Burger King's Bob Santulli.

Oviedo's Bill Burgess, Ronnie Murphy and Kurt Kline all rated first team honors. Burgess was the county's leading scorer with 18.5 a game.

Sophomore Murphy grabbed 11.2 rebounds a game for the lead in that department and was just .01 of a point behind Burgess in scoring.

Point guard Kline, a 5-foot-3 sparkplug, dished out 200 assists for the season. Burgess and Kline are seniors.

Lake Howell and Seminole both had a first team member. For the Hawks it was stellar guard Bruce Brightman, who was third in the county in scoring (16.62) and unofficially led in steals (90).

KURT KLINE NEAL GILLIS

Grace was the big man (6-foot-7) for Sanford all year. The curly blond averaged 14 points and eight boards a game.

Brantley's fine center Tommy Moths, who averaged 15.7 points and almost 10 rebounds, was the Patriot representative. All three are seniors.

Lyman's Greybouts, winners of 20 games for Coach Tom Lawrence, placed senior forward Neal Gillis and junior guard Antonio "Pop" Lemon on the squad.

Gillis, a three-year starter as was Brightman, scored 14.55 points an average while Lemon averaged 16.55 per game.

Seminole County basketball players from the five schools will be honored at a banquet Wednesday March 25 at the Westmonte Recreation Center on Spring Oaks Blvd. in Altamonte Springs.

Dinner will be at 6:45 p.m. and the awards presentation will follow at 7:30 p.m. The Evening Herald's All-County Spotlight honors to Burgess (scoring), Murphy (rebounding) and Lake Howell's Tim O'Shaughnessy (free throws) will also be presented.

Hill Chills Creek With Three-Hitter

Sophomore right hander Greg Hill chilled Spruce Creek with a four-hitter Friday night as Seminole blanked the Hawks 7-0 in Five Star Conference baseball play at Sanford Stadium.

"Greg pitched a real solid game," said Tribe Coach Bobby Lundquist. "He found his curve ball over and never got behind the hitters."

The 6-foot-2 185-pounder struck out eight, walked just one and never allowed a runner to reach second base. He retired the last 10 batters he faced.

The victory improved Seminole's record to 3-10 for the season and 2-1 in the Five Star Conference. Creek fell to 4-2 and 2-1.

Matching Hill's goose egg for goose egg until the fifth inning was Hawk hurler John Kutsukos, brother of Pele, an All Conference performer last year.

In the fifth, though, the Tribe went on the warpath sending 12 batters to the plate and scoring seven runs.

Terwilliger singled and Hill beat out a bunt and when no one covers, third base, Terwilliger took advantage.

Left fielder Eugene DeAlba executed a perfect suicide squeeze to score Terwilliger. The catcher then threw the ball down the right field line enabling Hill, no speed demon, to score all the way from first base. "Bam, bam, that was the turning point right there. Those two quick runs did it," said Lundquist. But the Seminoles weren't finished yet.

Third sacker Brett Von Herbulis walked and scored second. Alton Davis walked to load the bases. Senior Chip Saunders then rifled a single, scoring two runs for a 4-0 ledge. Saunders had a perfect 3-for-3 night for the Tribe.

Saunders immediately stole second and then he and Davis were chased home by shortstop Travis Walker's single.

Walker swiped second, took third on a passed ball and scored the seventh run when Griffith broke for second forcing the pitcher to balk.

Terwilliger later added his second single of the inning before Hill popped out to short. DeAlba had two hits and two RBI for the game.

For the ball game, Sanford placed nine batters in nine attempts. In 13 games Seminole has swiped 46-of-41 attempts.

"We've got better than average speed, so we've been running a little more this year," said Lundquist, whose Tribe is off Monday before returning to action Wednesday at Lake Brantley.

SLIDING STEVIN

Crooms' left fielder Stevin Dennis slides safely home as Lyman junior varsity catcher Mike Sawyer holds up the throw. Despite Dennis' run, the Panthers lost 6-5 in the seventh inning. Tuesday, Crooms hosts Lake Howell at the Stadium.

Super Park Just 'Super'

They call it Super Seminole. Officially, it is Seminole Greyhound Park, Inc.

But Seminole County sports fans will identify more easily with the new dog track on the site of the old horse track in Casselberry.

Even the mood around the track is Super, and opening day is not until May 4. The track's conversion from horse to dog racing is significant in that private racing enthusiasts will not have to drive to Daytona Beach to see these eight sleek, asp-waisted greyhounds chase the mechanical bunny around the track.

"We plan to offer our fans the best greyhound racing the area has ever seen," says general manager Carroll Toler. "And what better way to stimulate interest among kennel owners than with the biggest race and biggest purse ever offered in Central Florida? We will be seeing world calibre greyhounds."

Presently, some 100 workmen are busy knocking out walls and making more space, creating extra lounge areas and even adding a new structure to help house crowds expected to hover in the neighborhood of 8,000 for opening night.

The multi-million dollar refurbishment is aimed at creating a more comfortable atmosphere than area dog racing fans are accustomed to.

Howell Powers 'Hounds'

By SCOTT SMITH Herald Sports Writer

Led by pitcher Duane McGuire and a 13-hit attack, Lake Howell overpowered Lyman Friday at Lyman, 8-5.

The Silver Hawks jumped to 2-0 in the first inning. Charlie Miller drew a walk and moved to second on a grounder hit by Doug Chiodini.

Carl Carlson singled to right, speedy Miller scored when right fielder Todd Marriott bobbed the ball. Gary Smith followed with a single putting Carlson on third.

Jay Drivas hit a grounder that allowed Carlson to score and gave the Hawks a 2-0 lead.

Lyman came back in the first to pick up one run. Mike Andriano led with a double. With two outs, Gene Green walked.

Marriott singled, scoring Andriano. But that's all Lyman could get and left Green and Marriott on base.

Lyman left a total of 13 men on base. They were just one hit away, almost every inning, of getting back into the game.

"We couldn't get the hits when it counted," stated Greyhound Coach Bob McCullough.

Howell expanded their lead in the second. Tony Dimauro singled and moved to third on a two out single by Miller.

Chiodini doubled, scoring Dimauro. Carlson hit a grounder to third

Girl Scout Week
Sterling
Memories,
Golden
Tomorrows

By DORIS DIETRICH
OURSELVES EDITOR

Sanford area Girl Scouts are painting the town — not the proverbial red — but Girl Scout green in celebration of the National Girl Scout Week, March 8-14.

Sanford store windows are being colorfully painted to mark the 69th birthday of the Girl Scouts, as well as the 25th anniversary of the Citrus Council of Girl Scouts.

Area girls and adults will be observing this celebration with special activities and displays in the community. The theme for the anniversary festivities is "Sterling Memories... Golden Tomorrows." Past and present members of Girl Scouting — and any other individual interested in learning more about the organization — are invited to join in the celebration.

Two council-wide activities, which will be of interest to Girl Scouts everywhere as well as to the general public, will be held on March 14 and 15. "Let Your Spirit Soar," a potpourri of Girl Scout activities coordinated by a Senior Troop of Orlando, will be held March 14 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Lake Eola.

An open house at Citrus Council's Mah-Kah-Wee Program Center in Seminole County is being held March 15, from 1 to 5 p.m. The open house will give people an opportunity to see the program center and its facilities and to learn about plans for resident camp to be held on that site next summer.

Anyone interested in more information about either of these events should contact the Citrus Council of Girl Scouts in Winter Park.

The first Girl Scout troop was organized in Sanford in 1938. It was a project of the Woman's Club of Sanford, under the presidency of Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith.

Mrs. F.M. Marler, wife of the minister of the First Christian Church, was the first Girl Scout leader, followed by Miss Irene Hinton.

The woman's club committee helping form the first Girl Scout troop included Mrs. J.C. Mitchell, Mrs. Julius Dingfelder, Mrs. Sam Jones and Mrs. J.H. Cogburn.

Mrs. Smith said Mrs. Jones was instrumental in acquiring the old depot in Sanford for the first Girl Scout meeting hall. The Atlantic Coastline Railroad painted the depot for the scouts.

At the time the Sanford Girl Scouts were formed, Mrs. R.E. True had already organized a troop in Lake Mary.

As the Girl Scout program continued to expand, the need for a central council was realized. In 1956, the Citrus Council of Girl Scouts incorporating Seminole, Orange, Osceola and Brevard counties, was formed. Mrs. Handall Chase and Mrs. F.D. Scott, both of Sanford, were on the original planning committee.

Mrs. Chase served on the council board of directors for about 10 years. She says she has seen some major changes during the past 25 years.

"We had the Navy here then (Sanford Naval Air Station)," she said, "and they were super-social people..."

Duty In The Philippines: '...Best Year Of Our Whole Life'
Peace Corps Volunteers Win Friends For America

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

"We felt it was the best year of our whole life — the people were so warm, so loving," Marilyn Gordon Whelan said of the year spent with her husband, Jim, as Peace Corps volunteers in the Philippines.

"They shared so much with us and they had nothing. The average pay there is $1.50 a day."

"Many of the people from the village waited for two hours at the airport to wave good-bye. They loaded us down with so many presents it was embarrassing, we knew they couldn't afford them," said Marilyn.

The Whelans were at their Indian Ridge home in Winter Springs enjoying a breather before taking off for six-months in Hawaii, where they will house-sit for friends.

Petite and outgoing, Marilyn was supervising Youth Programs, Inc. volunteer programs in several Central Florida counties including Seminole, when she married Jim, a big red-headed retired Marine sergeant.

A YPI volunteer, Jim was well-known in Seminole as a basketball referee.

She resigned her job to have more time to travel with her husband. They admit, being Gypsies at heart and travel they only. Mexico, the Caribbean, Europe, and across the United States.

Then they decided to put their love of people and experience to good use and enlisted in the Peace Corps.

When they joined the Peace Corps in 1979, they had anticipated going to the Philippines for two years, but when Jim needed surgery in Washington, D. C. they were forced to return after only one year.

"The Peace Corps was very supportive," said Marilyn, "they left it up to us whether we would return or not."

After a month's recuperation for Jim and treatment of a parasite Marilyn had picked up in the drinking water while on the field, they decided to stay here.

Contributing to the decision was a November wedding of Marilyn's daughter, Deborah, in Baltimore and some personal business back in Florida. She had missed her daughter, Stacy's wedding while overseas and it was a very painful experience for both mother and daughter.

Jim and Marilyn, both say they would like to return to the Philippines sometime in the future, however.

"As far as really winning friends for America, the Peace Corps is probably one of the few programs which had actually done what it set out to do," Marilyn commented. When the Peace Corps was first established most of the volunteers were idealistic young college students, but now, she said, it is looking for older volunteers.

The Whelans were part of a group of 19 volunteers who were in a pilot program, Volunteer Development. Six members in the group were over 60 years old and one woman, a retired Red Cross worker, was 74.

The older volunteers were an instant hit in the Philippines. "They went wild over grey hair said Jim, "they equate wisdom with age."

"We never heard a child talk back to a parent, no matter how old they got they never talked back and depended on their parents to make the most minute decision."

Jim found life in the Philippines ego-boosting to say the least. Filipinos have flat noses and Jim was considered handsome because of his big nose, explained his wife. It was common for women of all ages to stop him on the street to admire his nose. Marilyn thought it was a little too much though when they were dining in a restaurant and three waitresses gave him their names, phone numbers and addresses because he was "so handsome."

"But then three Arab men walked in and they dropped him flat," she laughed.

After an orientation session in Seattle, Wash., the Whelans and other Peace Corps volunteers were flown to the Philippines arriving on Sept. 28, 1979. They went through three months of training and language school before finally getting to Alabang, a village in Metro Manila outskirts where they were to live.

Although English is the national language there are 78 different dialects spoken and the Whelans had to learn Tagalog.

The Whelans were directly assigned to work at a Catholic church under supervision of the priest, Father Tomas Gonzalez. "I was the only non-Christian in the group (Jim is a Catholic) and we were the only ones assigned to a Catholic church," said Marilyn, who is Jewish. "I went to Mass every night and felt very close to God there. I did everything but cross myself."

"We were totally accepted by the people, but I had trouble explaining what a Jew is," she said. First she tried to relate it to the Old Testament. "Like Abraham and Moses," but they thought of candles and tents on the desert. Then she said "like people that live in Israel," but when she had to admit neither she, nor her parents or grandparents lived there, she gave up.

It was the Christmas season when they arrived in Alabang so Marilyn and Jim decided to host a party for other Peace Corps workers in the area at the home they had rented. Several of the women in the church agreed to help saying "Don't worry, we'll take care of everything." They provided a lavish spread, said Marilyn, "and arranged for 100 carolers carrying candles to come to the house and sing for us."

The singers came back again to serenade the Whelans the night before they were to leave the country.

One of the biggest projects which Marilyn and Jim undertook was the building of a library and securing the furnishings and books. "We wrote to everyone we knew asking them to send books," said Marilyn. They were disappointed that more friends and relatives did not respond, but eventually Marilyn and Jim Whelan hold shell and macrame gift from a Filipino friend. Inlaid wood art on wall was given to her by prisoners for whom she held a workshop and macrame lamp was also a gift.

they collected 6,000 books many from people they never heard of before.

Living so close to the need, instead of birthday and Christmas presents to each other they would buy toys for poor baskets or give money for a tin roof for a nutrition hut.

"They had put so much effort into the library it was ironic that when the big day arrived for the dedication they arrived at the appointed hour and the ceremony was over. It seems the Cardinal, who had come to dedicate the building, arrived early."

"There are three kinds of time," explained Jim. "Spanish time is when you say noon and start at 5 p.m. Filipino time is when you say noon and start at 11:30 a.m. and U.S. time is when you say noon and start at noon."

There are three things that Filipinos don't understand about Americans, said Marilyn. They ask about divorce, why we put our old people away in homes, and do we really throw our young people out when they reach 18.

They more or less had an open house every day with neighborhood children coming in and out looking for candy and watching cartoons on television. They unofficially adopted one teenage boy by the name of Eduardo. They got him to finish high school and paid his tuition for computer school.

Marilyn wrote to a manufacturer of yarn pom-poms in the United States and asked him to send kits, which they did. She taught the people to make toy animals and wreaths which they sold to make money for their church projects.

Ask, And You May Receive

DEAR ABBY: Every time I read a letter in your column about a man who thinks he's all washed up sexually because he's impotent, my blood boils! These men are convinced that no woman would want them. Are they merely ignorant, or are they just using that as an excuse to mask the real reasons?

Such men are male chauvinists who see sexual satisfaction only in traditional male terms, and if they aren't able to deliver that way, they don't want to play! How naive and uninformed!

Your column is filled with letters from women who complain that they are married to cold sex machines who don't know the first thing about how satisfying warm hugs and tender caresses can be.

Our libraries and bookstores are full of excellent sex manuals detailing the various ways men and women can please and satisfy each other without going in for exhausting intercourse marathons. In these enlightened times, everyone should know that impotent men can be wonderful lovers!

For a man to satisfy a woman, he need only cast off his prudishness and inhibitions, forget all the stereotyped nonsense he heard from other men about what women really want, and show some imagination and sense of adventure. He will be amazed at how much mutual enjoyment can be achieved. For heaven's sake, who knows better than the woman herself what it takes to satisfy her? Just ask her to be honest.

The winter of '79 chalked up new records for sub-zero temperatures and unbelievable snow storms...

Old man winter also left many a frayed temper in its pathway. Snow-heavy roofs caved in, buses and trains were hours late...

Winter's chill is only a memory now, though many of us are a bit tougher for the experience. Life has been a way of testing us and making us develop muscles we never knew we had.

Yet the sun always comes out. And the clouds of modern day living eventually turn into clear blue skies.

Our Lord has overcome the world and the trouble in it. And we have His promise to be with us always...

Draw fresh strength from that promise this week. Worship in the church or synagogue of your choice.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Sunday, March 8, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 8, 1981
Contributing allies can be won this coming year for projects which you inaugurate. Give full expression to your inventiveness so you can attract the right cohorts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In a discussion today, one of the participants may talk with authority about something of which he or she knows little. You'll spot it, but it'll go unacknowledged.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A friend who is a pretty shrewd investigator may try to pry information from you today regarding your financial status. Keep your secrets secret.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Before becoming involved in new ventures, begin to lay strong foundations today. Projects with a weak base won't stand the test of time. Find out more about what's in store for you by sending for your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Small misunderstandings with companions can be quickly rectified today if you are the first to say "I'm sorry," even if you feel you aren't wrong.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Before attempting tasks today, think each step out in advance. Hasty procedures will cause you to make mistakes and thus create unnecessary frustrations.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may enjoy yourself today more with a small, select group rather than with a big group. You need company, but not too much.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You won't find it hard to please most of the people you could run into a stickler who may give you a bad time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You may have some undesirable tasks to contend with today. Unfortunately, you might make them more difficult than they really are by having the wrong attitude.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be strong enough to resist pressure from your peers today if they start to lean you to do something which is against your better judgment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It would be wise to keep outsiders and relatives out of your family affairs today. Domestic matters can be resolved provided others don't butt in.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) If you hold strong views in sensitive areas, such as religion or politics, try to keep your opinions to yourself today, especially around people you know who think differently.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

The standard lead from a long suit is the fourth best. Sixty years ago, the auction bridge writer would show how declarer could count the whole hand when a deuce was opened against his n Trump contract.

Today, there are many players who open eight from 10 8 7 2 and reserve the deuce or other very small card opening lead to guarantee that he will lead at least one of the four top honors. This is known as "Attitude."

We don't particularly like this—in fact we don't like it at all, although we have been known to lead deuce from a Q 9 7 2 to conceal the fact that we were leading a five-card suit against no trump.

There is one time when attitude leads become important. You are in back of dummy and in front of declarer. Dummy holds 9 4 3 and you hold 8 7 2. You are going to lead the suit through declarer and definitely should not lead the deuce. If your partner holds K 10, CARLYLE™

FOR Monday, March 9, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 9, 1981
This coming year you should be luckier than usual in enterprises and ventures where you can give free rein to your imagination. Seek situations which give you opportunities to express your thoughts.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) One of the reasons you years carry more weight than usual today is because you talk straight from the heart. The advice you offer others will have a ring of sincerity. Find out more about what's in store for you by sending for your Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your chances for a breakthrough are very good today regarding something material you've been secretly working for. Persist in pushing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may find yourself in a position today to help guide a pal through an awkward predicament. When you see the signals, lend an ear.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An opportunity may arise today where you can be of assistance to someone whom you know can help you at a future date, yet you won't act for selfish reasons alone.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your ability to spot errors in the ways others do things today is exceptionally keen, but of more importance:

Southwest Bank of Volusia and Southeast Bank of Volusia... Southeast Bank of Volusia and Southeast Bank of Volusia...

Who Am I?

In my league, I became the first woman owner. I like sports. What else? Oh, writing poetry. I used to sing in quartets and musical comedies, too. And I co-hosted NBC-TV's "Today" show with Dave Garraway in New York.

Thomas Jefferson steadfastly supported freedom of the press, even as he himself was being slandered and libeled by many newspapers.

IN BRIEF

Six FP&L Generating Units Scheduled For Overhaul

MIAMI — Florida Power & Light Company said today its power plant overhaul and maintenance schedule for March and April calls for six generating units to be taken out of service for periods ranging from one to 10 weeks.

Five oil-fired units will undergo boiler maintenance in March and April: Fort Myers Unit No. 2, Turkey Point Unit No. 1, Riviera Unit No. 3, Port Everglades Unit No. 4 and Sanford Unit No. 5.

In addition, Turkey Point nuclear Unit No. 3 was taken out of service March 1 for refueling and steam generator inspection required by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. It is scheduled to return to service the first week of May.

Mild weather and reduced power demand during this period facilitates these multi-plant outages, an FPL spokesman said. The company does not anticipate any power supply difficulties — barring any unforeseen mechanical problems — while these units are not in service.

Construction Cutback

NEW YORK — The impact of public construction cutbacks, as much as soaring interest rates, forced a "retreat" of contracting for new construction in January, it was reported by the F.W. Dodge Division of McGraw-Hill Inc. national systems company.

Unlike last year's spring collapse of building in the face of soaring interest rates, the construction market's reaction to the most recent round of credit restraint has so far, at least, led to a more modest downward adjustment, according to the construction authority.

January's $10.5 billion of newly started construction of all kinds was down 4 percent from a total of work started in the previous January. On a seasonally adjusted basis, the month's contracting was also down 4 percent from December's rate. The seasonally adjusted Dodge index, which uses the total of work contracted in 1972 as its 100 base, settled back to 185 in January. This compares with 193 in December and 210 in November — last year's strongest month by far.

Bonus Offered For Scrap

Last year in Florida, Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company collected nearly 17 million pounds of aluminum and paid recyclers over $5 million for their efforts.

During March, residents of Sanford may redeem their aluminum every Tuesday from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at Public, Sanford Plaza, 1080 W. State St.

At Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company's location in Sanford, you will receive 28 cents per pound for all aluminum cans and other clean household aluminum products. This price includes the national price of 23 cents per pound, plus a 5 cent per pound bonus. The bonus is subject to change or withdrawal without notice depending on local market conditions.

As an added bonus to recyclers, Reynolds has selected Sanford as a test market for the distribution of S&H Green Stamps. Recyclers will receive 10 stamps with every dollar's worth of aluminum they redeem.

'Magic City' Cursed By Bad Publicity

MIAMI (UPI) — Miami, the "Magic City" has lost a lot of its luster since the city was hit by a series of crimes, drug smuggling, riots, refugees and soaring housing costs.

Officials and businessmen agree it's getting harder to lure visitors and prospective workers to the city because of an increasing fear of the highly publicized problems.

"Each time these stories and television shows talk about criminals and druggies, it becomes more difficult to recruit," said John Haley, director of Dade County's Industrial Development Authority.

Sid Levin, Florida Commerce Secretary, said last week, "There is no question that bad publicity is hurting Miami. We are receiving fewer inquiries than usual from companies that might seek to relocate there. I don't see any state-wide fallout. It is perceived as a Dade County problem."

Alexander Wolfe, chairman of Southern Bell's National Office in Miami, said his banking institution lost about five prospective employees "in the last year, and in most cases, it was the wives who implored their husbands not to take the jobs. When they say 'Miami, crime and refuge problems,'

At the height of the winter season last month, some Miami beach hotels were reporting 20 percent vacancies, and Miami Beach Convention Bureau manager Warren Erickson said to fly to Las Vegas last week to convince the National Association of Electrical Contractors it would be safe to hold their convention here next year.

According to some, sky-high housing prices are also a discouraging factor. "I spend most of my time selling Miami and not the position or the company," said Kirk Landon, president of American Bankers Life Assurance.

"We have had a number of people who tentatively accepted jobs. But when they returned with their wives for a second look at the housing situation, they changed their minds."

Gary Walton of the University of Miami business school said recruiting professors with families is a thorny problem. "They find the cost of housing is high and the quality of the public schools is low," he said.

Gary Walton of the University of Miami business school said recruiting professors with families is a thorny problem. "They find the cost of housing is high and the quality of the public schools is low," he said.

Crime and refuge problems. At the height of the winter season last month, some Miami beach hotels were reporting 20 percent vacancies, and Miami Beach Convention Bureau manager Warren Erickson said to fly to Las Vegas last week to convince the National Association of Electrical Contractors it would be safe to hold their convention here next year.

According to some, sky-high housing prices are also a discouraging factor. "I spend most of my time selling Miami and not the position or the company," said Kirk Landon, president of American Bankers Life Assurance.

"We have had a number of people who tentatively accepted jobs. But when they returned with their wives for a second look at the housing situation, they changed their minds."

Funeral Escort Fee Practice Halted Pending Review

By CINDY MOOY And DONNA ESTES

Altamonte Springs suspended this morning the practice of using off-duty police officers and acceptance of a fee for funeral escort service within the city pending a review of the practice.

City Manager Jeff Etcheberry ordered the practice halted following inquiries and an article disclosing it in the Sunday edition of the Evening Herald.

"Based on y'all's article and y'all's questions about the practice," Etcheberry said, "I decided it would be best to suspend the practice until the next city commission meeting. We'll, as I told your reporter when asked about it, be looking into it because it does raise a lot of questions."

"Remember, this practice was started some time ago with the authorization of the former mayor and under a previous charter," Etcheberry added.

Until today, Altamonte Springs was the only city in Seminole County to use off-duty police officers and to charge a fee for funeral escort service.

working the escort while on-duty for the city. Said Etcheberry: "As of this morning, that is a moot question," referring to his order to stop the practice until it's studied.

Commenting on the article in the Evening Herald, Commissioner Dolores Vickers said, "I feel it is an inappropriate procedure. I am unaware of any funds that the city receives as a result of this practice. I will be looking forward to proposals which will address the problem."

Commissioner Lee Constantine said he did not know police were charging a fee for funeral procession escort service until told by reporters.

"I need to find more information. Some questions I have are whether the city is getting any money for the service since city equipment is being used. The city should have some compensation when city equipment is being used. I'm sure the city manager will have some answers for me."

"I don't think it is proper for a city employee to moonlight and use city equipment. It would only be proper if it is a program that regular on-duty personnel could not perform. I

Constantine added: "Certainly there is the question of city liability not only for the officer, but also the city's vehicle if an accident occurred. I'm not an attorney, our city attorney will have to answer the questions of liability. The city commission is going to have to formulate some sort of policy."

City Commissioner Bob Reis also was unaware of the practice.

"This practice has to stop. The city commission must take a look at this situation. The city police department ought to provide the service in an above board manner rather than as it is being done. The commission has to find why the police department is doing this. It's something most definitely the commission as a whole must look into," Reis said.
