Some 40 million automobiles, he National Safety Council estimated, will be on the roads during the three days in the big change of place. City dwellers will hunt out lakes and pastoral retreats. Rural folk will take to the city attending ball games, horse races or just seeing the sights.

From among these some 300 motorists and pedestrians will be killed in the holiday traffic between 6 p. m. tonight and midnight Monday, the Safety Council estimated.

This would compare with the 342 who, the Associated Press found in a nationwide survey, lost their lives in traffic in the nonholiday weekend of June 17-20.

What Are We Eating

A hot dog skin stuffed with turkey and a lollipop shaped mold of frozen ground chicken meat impaled on a stick are two delectables hesitantly hovering on the edge of the food market. And well they may hesitate.

"Turkey hots" and "chick sticks" may prove to be succulent as anything but the vision of ticking a lollypopped chicken for Sunday dinner or drawing a chair up to a wiener shaped turkey at Thanksgiving seems somehow deflating. The whole project is baffling. No hot dog addict is going to be fooled for one moment. Turkey is far too digestible to replace the wiener. And personally wouldn't you rather see kids wandering around with startling green tongues than to watch them licking a ground-up chicken, leg?

What's the point of all this confusing of issues? Shouldn't a hot dog look like a hot dog and turkey like turkey? And a lollipop like an honest-to-goodness lollipop?

Aren't Molotov and how do you spell Khrushchev and other foreign issues confusing enough without thus adding chaos on the domestic scene?

Kentucky Celebrates

"Forgotten Americans" was a name given a generation or two ago to the Southern mountaineers. Far from railroads and isolated by bad roads and distance from large settlements, the mountain dwellers of Kentucky, Tennessee and adjoining states were a community apart. Their speech often preserved terms and phrases once used in Elizabethan England, but long since disused there. Their songs and customs kept the usage of England centuries before. Off the beaten track, the mountaineers were noticed by their fellow-citizens only when intermittent warfare arose between "moonshiners" and "revenuers."

Now the barriers are broken down. Partly due to the rise of the automobile, which has brought better highways, and to radio and television. The change comes even more from schools such as Berea College in Kentucky, established to educate mountain children, and now celebrating its 190th birthday. Its head, Dr. Francis S. Hutchins, succeeded his father in the post. A brother, Robert M. Hutchins, headed the University of Chicago and is now associate director of the Ford Foundation.

More Self-Rule For Tunisia Gets

French Approval PARIS In-Agreements to give Tunisia greater self-rule were approved today by the National Assembly's Foreign Affairs Committee. The vote was 20-5, with 13 abstentions. Under pressure from Premier Edgar Faure, the full Assembly is expected to ratify the agreements next week.

Tunisia is one of France's North Africa protectorates where Nationaliste demands for independence have flared into open rebellion in recent months. Morocco is another. Uprisings also have developed in Algeria, technically a part of the French homeland.

ACHIEVEMENT

20 YEARS

In 1935 when we started the first Mutual Insurance Agency in Sanford, there were only a few mutuals operating in Florida with agents in nine cities. This type of insurance was unfamiliar to most Flordians at that time.

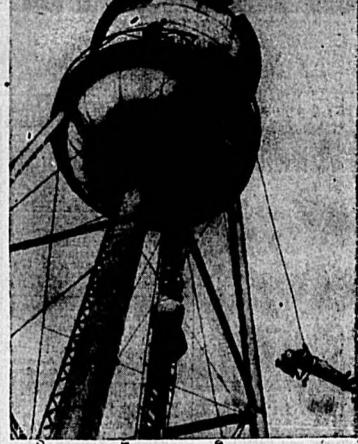

Our ambition has been to furnish our customers— Insurance At A Saving—for their HOME—AUTOMO-BILE and BUSINESS. The fact that we have paid to our customers over $225,000.00 in dividends the past 20 years would indicate we have to some extent accomplished our ambition.

The largest fire occuring in Sanford the past 20-years was Nov. 18, 1951, ($41,596.50 including loss of income) was insured in mutual companies. This loss was adjusted and paid through our agency.

We have not been unmindful of the fact that pay-claims is the most important part of the insurance siness and take a personal interest in claim settle-

The Navy said it is dissolving its 10-ship search force and the Air Force said that from now on search planes will check only mountain peaks, islands and coastlines for signs of wreckage. Dozens of planes and ships have searched some 85,000 square miles of water in a vain hunt for the
