

Guatemala Terms Note Intervention

GUATEMALA has rejected an intervention in its internal affairs by the U. S. note demanding compensation for expropriated United Fruit Co. property in this country.

This position was outlined in a Foreign Ministry memorandum replying to a State Department note delivered in February. The memorandum was made public last night.

The U. S. note demanded payment of 15 million dollars for the expropriated property or submission of the matter to international arbitration.

Guatemala's reply said "there has been no denial or delay of justice" to justify the State Department demand "in favor of the United Fruit Co. and the Guatemalan Agricultural Co. since they have had access to protection provided under the new agrarian law." (The Guatemalan Agricultural Co. is a United Fruit subsidiary.)

The note said:

"If the United States continues acting in support of the illegitimate pretensions of these companies, the government of Guatemala cannot but consider this attitude as a persistence in the intervention of the internal affairs of Guatemala, contrary to the most firmly established principles of inter-American unity."

L. De Galard lived in a tiny, rain-filled dugout. She said she had little sleep during the ensuing fighting—sometimes only an hour a night.

"All of the sanitary equipment and places for the wounded were in underground bunkers," she said. "All radios had been destroyed in the fierce Vietminh shellings."

"And with each terrific barrage there were new problems as to how the wounded could be cared for."

"They had to be shifted from place to place the best we could, saying them on stretchers when they were available, or on the wet or damp ground until some better place could be found."

"How we ever managed to care for the increasing numbers of wounded was in itself a miracle."

"I think we saved the maximum number of lives. We had not enough blood plasma."

The brave young nurse already has received his honors for her heroism at Dien Bien Phu. Gen. De Castries pinned two of France's most cherished medals on her during the height of the battle. Other countries also bestowed their honors.

At a meeting of the League of Red Cross Societies at Oslo, Norway, Greece proposed yesterday that the board of governors send "warmest congratulations" to the nurse. A Greek delegate said she had "shown herself worthy of the example set by Florence Nightingale."

... (Continued From Page One) State Department officials made it plain the double-quick movement of military equipment to Nicaragua and Honduras is a special effort prompted by Guatemala's arms acquisition. It is being done under the authority of recently signed mutual defense agreements.

Officials said the first American shipments were trucked for air movement, with further cargoes being by sea.

Details of the actual movement were checked in military secrecy. It was understood the equipment had been assembled somewhere in Central America, but exact amounts were not disclosed.

Officials said two big C-54 transport planes were loaded for the high-priority delivery.

DELIVERS ANNOUNCEMENT
OMAHA —Carrier Joe James Corrie was surprised but not stunned when Mrs. Theima Kaski handed him a marriage certificate along with payment of her paper bill.

It seemed she wanted an announcement of her marriage at Papillion, Neb., in the paper and took the way as the simplest one to get it.

James brought it in along with his collations, and the World Herald made the announcement—with a story about how it happened.

New Death Time Set For Condemned Kidnap-Rapist

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. —Kidnap-rape victim Caryl Chessman is scheduled to die July 30.

The stay of execution granted the convict-turned-author on the eve of his scheduled death in San Quentin's gas chamber May 11 was terminated yesterday and a new date set.

Superior Judge Thomas E. Keating of Marin County denied a petition of habeas corpus and revoked his own previous order that stayed Chessman's execution.

In Los Angeles, Superior Judge Charles W. Fricke, who presided at Chessman's trial, set the new execution date.

Chessman's attorney, Berwyn Rice, said he would appeal again to the State Supreme Court and the U. S. Supreme Court if necessary.

J. S. Is Sending Road Department Tells Of Projects

According to a report received from the State Road Department, extensive grading, paving and structural work of State Road 8320 is continuing today.

The road runs from the Orange county line to Ojeda, according to the mimeographed report.

The road is closed to through traffic and the SRD urges drivers to use the road with care. Construction time was given as two months, but no completion date was stated in the report.

According to the state office the Highway Patrol was today notified of 54 new or existing construction projects in the state.

The projects are on from one to 10-month work and construction schedules. One of the continuing projects is the work presently in progress on U. S. 90 between Monticello and Tallahassee which should last approximately nine months.

Other U. S. 90 projects still going include those in Holmes, Okaloosa, Jackson and Madison Counties. Work today is continuing on the U. S. 1 project on the east coast side of the state in Nassau County and is scheduled to last another month before completion. Another stretch of the same project is scheduled to last another month, according to the road department.

A 10-month long project is in progress on U. S. 1 in Indian River County. Other projects are in progress in Broward and Dade counties on the highway.

Several other projects are in progress on U. S. 41 in Hamilton, Columbia and Collier counties, according to the state report.

Agent Attends Club Meetings

Miss Myrtle Wilson, Seminole County Home Demonstration agent, yesterday attended a meeting of the Longwood 4-H Club where she gave a demonstration on the proper method of sewing buttons and snaps. There were 58 girls present at the meeting, according to Miss Wilson.

Today, the agent is scheduled to attend a meeting of the Seminole High School 4-H Club and present the same demonstration, and give an additional talk on the annual 4-H summer camp.

The camp is scheduled to be held for one week, beginning June 5 at Camp McQuarrie, which is located near Ocala National Park. Tomorrow, Miss Wilson will speak at a meeting of the Ojeda 4-H Club, according to her report.

More Than 100 Building Permits Issued In May

Four building permits were applied for and granted at City Hall yesterday and today, bringing the month's permit total to approximately 105.

The Sanford Charitable Fraternal Organization Inc. received a permit to re-roof its building located at 114 Park Ave. Approximate cost of the new roof was set at $1,700.

The project will be handled by Evans Roofing and Heating Company, local contractors.

Worth Cherry was granted a permit to erect a frame home at 1506 Mulberry Ave. Approximate cost of the construction was stated as $12,285, according to the report. It will be built by Walker Construction Company.

Two permits were issued to Lowell E. Oiler to erect frame homes on two lots in Palm Terrace, subdivision. One will be located at 2525 Princeton Ave. and the other at 2513 Princeton Ave.

Total cost of construction of both houses was set at $16,000, according to the record.

Thailand Wants To Avert War

BANGKOK, Thailand —Thailand's involvement in the Indochina war, Lt. Gen. Mom Luang Kharb deputy prime minister, said today.

Kharb said Thai troops sent to the border were only "to protect Thailand and to prevent Communist invasion."

The statement was prompted by a Communist Peiping radio broadcast Saturday quoting a Bangkok newspaper as saying Thailand was preparing to "interfere" and had strengthened ground and air forces on her northern frontier.

Uranium Boom Swamps Western Brokerage Firms

SALT LAKE CITY —A uranium boom swamped Salt Lake City brokerage firms yesterday, with an estimated five million shares of uranium stocks changing hands in over-the-counter trade—which accounts for most of the uranium stock business.

Issues listed on the Salt Lake Stock Exchange also were active and made substantial price gains.

E. N. Bogle, manager of the J. A. Hogle and Co. office, attributed the brisk trade to demand that has been "building up for several days." He said "a lot of outside money" coming mostly from Texas, New York and California, boosted the volume and also the prices.

Knowland Speaks On Indochina

MANCHESTER, N. H. —Senate Majority Leader Knowland (R-Calif.) says "the road to agreement (in Asia) is not the road to peace... It is only surrender on the installation plan."

Urging a policy of "effective collective security" in Asia, the senator told the New Hampshire Federation of Republican Women's Clubs yesterday.

"The United States has the right to ask other nations 'What are you going to do to build a collective security system?' And we are entitled to straight answers."

Money Found In Magazine

WILMINGTON, N.C. —The battered old safe had been standing in a corner in police headquarters here for two weeks. Part of the evidence in a robbery case.

It was found in a magazine. Personal papers and a detective story magazine. The robbers had taken the remainder of the contents.

Officer J. S. Smith idly picked up the old magazine and began leafing through it. Out dropped $300 in bills—possibly a remnant of the $2,000 taken in the robbery. The magazine—Inside Detective.

STAYS WITHIN LIMIT

FREMONT, Neb. —When the time came to let the candidates talk at the Republican state primary election convention here, State Chairman W. W. S'yan warned them to stay within a five-minute time limit.

Atty. Gen. Clarence S. Beck, seeking re-election, did it again. His address: "Thank you, Bill. Goodnight to you all and God bless the magazine—Inside Detective."

RIBBITZERS AT FIRE

ELMHURST, N.Y. —Three were 300 ribbitzers on hand last night when firemen doused a small blaze in the kitchen of the Mark Twain Hotel.

The advice came from delegates to the 27th annual conference of the Eastern Assn. of Fire Chiefs.

BOYS ESCAPE JAIL

GOLDSBORO, N.C. —Two thin boys, 8 and 9 years old, removed their clothes and squeezed through the bars of a city jail cell here over the weekend.

Police recaptured the pair in a corridor outside the cell block.

They had been arrested for investigation of bicycle thefts.

Toys made of celluloid are not desirable for toddlers because they have sharp edges when they are broken and, in addition, are highly flammable.

MISSING MAN RETURNS

SPARTANBURG, S. C. —In April last year, H. J. Johnson Jr. rented a motor boat and went fishing.

The next day the boat was found overturned, in the Santee-Cooper Lake and an unsuccessful search for Johnson's body followed.

Yesterday Johnson came home. Asked about his strange disappearance, he replied, "No comment."

Tucker Tells Pilot Club Of New Hospital Here

Local Banker Says Interest Stemmed From Medical Confinement In Army

"We are going to have a hospital in Sanford," declared T. E. Tucker, president of the Florida State Bank and chairman of the Seminole Hospital Association at the dinner meeting of the Pilot Club which met at the Yacht Club last night with Mrs. George A. Stine presiding.

A large architect's drawing of the hospital was placed on an easel, and while Mr. Tucker told of the plans and specifications for the building, he pointed out the locations of the various departments such as delivery rooms, maternity ward, operating rooms, etc.

Costing $1,119,480.00, the building will be constructed of Roman brick and stucco over reinforced concrete structure. The first floor will contain the kitchen facilities, central administration offices, the examination rooms, snack bar, conference rooms and a morgue.

There will be 15 rooms on the third floor with seven private rooms, one pediatric ward with four beds, the delivery room and maternity ward, while the other rooms will be furnished with two beds, thus making it possible to convert a semi-private room into a private room by removing one of the beds.

The wing will be called the "Fernald Memorial Wing" in honor of the late Fernald Laughlin Wing. The hospital will be called the Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Tucker said that the hospital will be a county-owned project and will be financed by a bond issue. He said that the hospital will be a county-owned project and will be financed by a bond issue.

Victory Assures Governorship

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS State Sen. LeRoy Collins of Tallahassee won the votes of south Florida's heavily populated areas yesterday to defeat Acting Gov. Charley Johns for the two-year unexpired term of the late Gov. Dan Mcarty.

Collins, close friend and supporter of the late governor, won by 67,000 votes in the Democratic runoff primary which virtually assures election.

Collins' victory in the runoff election was a significant one, as it secured him the support of the heavily populated areas of south Florida.

11 Puerto Rican Nationalist Party Leaders Arrested

WASHINGTON (AP) — 11 Puerto Rican Nationalist Party leaders were arrested today on charges of sedition against the U. S. government.

Six of the arrests were made in Chicago, four in New York City and one in San Juan, the capital of Puerto Rico.

Brownell released the detainees against six other members of the Nationalist party, including the four in jail here, charged with plotting to overthrow the government.

The other two detainees were placed against two Puerto Ricans now imprisoned in the federal correctional institution at Danbury, Conn.

The roundup resulted from a lengthy FBI investigation into Nationalist party activity extending back to 1930.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover noted in connection with today's roundup that members of the party were responsible for a bloody revolutionary attempt in Puerto Rico in October and November, 1950.

The Nationalist party of Puerto Rico has been on the attorney general's subversive list, described as an organization seeking to alter the form of government of the United States by unconstitutional means.

The party, founded in 1922, is "filled with violence," Hoover said.

No Sign Of Weakness

There seem to be some confusion and misconceptions in foreign countries as to what the hearings in the McCarthy-Army controversy really mean. In some places they are interpreted as weakness, as a sign that our internal unity is in danger. Those who take this position know little of the nature of the American people.

Would a weak nation truly worried about its unity permit public hearings of such a nature? Is it really undignified and immature to seek out the truth no matter how unpleasant and wearisome it is to do so? Are the political trials held behind the Iron Curtain, where public trials mean only public confessions by brainwashed defendants accused of crimes against the state, a sign of strength and maturity?

The United States has made many mistakes in the past and will probably make a great many more. But we do not find it necessary to cover those mistakes with a veil of secrecy or to pretend they do not exist. One cannot rid a house of dirt by sweeping it under the rug.

The hearings are disclosing some mistakes in the way we have been doing things—either party to the controversy will agree to that although they differ as to just what errors were made. As long as we can face our past blunders, admit our faults and try to do something about them, we do not need to fear for our unity or our strength. Nor should our frankness disconcert our allies.

Terms Of Governors

Massachusetts is taking steps to increase the governor's term from two years to four. The legislature is expected to vote a constitutional amendment to this effect. A new legislature must follow suit, and then the plan must be accepted by the voters.

The idea is in line with the growing tendency of other states, twenty-eight of which now have the four-year rule. Massachusetts herself used to elect governors annually until 1920, when the two-year term went into effect. Giving a governor only

Court Rules More On Segregation

WASHINGTON—It is not clear how far the United States Supreme Court intends to go at this time in outlawing segregation in places supported by public money. Last week it said segregation in public schools is unconstitutional. In several cases yesterday it might seem the court was extending its ban on segregation to colleges and city-owned theaters and low-cost housing.

The decision was revolutionary in a social sense. For the first time in 50 years the court said segregation is unlawful because it deprives Negro children of equal opportunity.

In 1896 the Supreme Court had said segregation itself was all right so long as Negroes got treatment equal to that given whites. Until now succeeding courts went along with the separate-but-equal doctrine. None banned segregation.

The decision was revolutionary in a social sense. For the first time in 50 years the court said segregation is unlawful because it deprives Negro children of equal opportunity.

But the court traditionally never says its opinion in one case applies to this, that or the other kind of case. It waits until other similar or related cases come before it.

The court now says segregation must also end in colleges and other places supported by public money. At hospitals, bathing houses, city-owned theaters and housing.

There was no way of knowing what cases in these fields reached the court, but the court was considering some of them when it gave its May 17 opinion. Whether the court acted on some lower courts, in effect had up-one year was a carry-over from early days, when voters were liable to suspect any sort of chicanery if office-holders had terms long enough for them to catch their breath. Now Massachusetts recognizes that in these complicated days two years is not enough for a governor to get acquainted with his job.

Probably most of the remaining states will eventually fall in line. No one would dream of cutting the president down to a two-year term.

When Congress Ran Wild

When conditions are favorable, Congress is apt to encroach on the president's domain. Ex-President Truman recalled just such an occurrence, in his birthday address. He referred to the experiences of President Johnson in Reconstruction days. Then two-thirds of each house of Congress was opposed to the President, and passed bill after bill over his veto.

The climax came with the adoption of a measure dividing the South into five military districts, to be ruled by a general, until the states included should adopt universal Negro suffrage. Then followed an effort to remove Johnson through impeachment, which lost by only one vote in the Senate. Had the effort succeeded, future presidents would have been at the mercy of two-thirds of Congress.

The Supreme Court was threatened. Because some decisions dissatisfied the Congressional rulers, some proposed to wipe out the power of declaring statutes unconstitutional. John A. Bingham of Ohio, one of the group, favored a constitutional amendment to end judicial usurpation by abolishing the Court itself.

This is what may happen when Congress gets out of hand. It reminds us that a dictatorship may come from Congress, and not only from the Presidency.

Pock-Marked Windshield

Not so much has been heard lately of the curious dents which many drivers have been discovering on their windshields. Fanciful explanations have been advanced, the most unlikely being that these were work of invaders from another planet.

Now George B. Watkins, director of research for a leading glass maker, says that minute examination indicates that the damage has been confined entirely to windshields, with only occasional marks on the back windows. This suggests that the windshield marks were caused by objects thrown up on the road. It is nothing new.

Why have there been so many complaints about pock-marked windshields? Chiefly because there are more and more cars on the road, and their speed is greater. A tendency to imitation may also play its part. People hear of others having a new experience, and the power of suggestion makes them discover that it is affecting their own cars.

Some day we may be invaded from another world but our windshields of today furnish no such evidence.

Publisher, Reporter Are Sentenced

ATHENS—A publisher and a reporter have been sentenced to four months in prison because their weekly newspaper published a report that Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, Greece's Premier, may retire from politics soon. The men appealed the sentence and were set free pending a hearing.

They are Constantine Mayer, publisher, and Elias Bredemas, reporter, of the weekly Monday News. They were convicted of "disseminating false reports liable to cause alarm and anxiety."

SWALLOWS PENNY
VICTOR, N. Y.—Two-year-old Danny Duraczeck, a penny stock in his throat, was rushed 18 miles to Rochester General Hospital yesterday.

X-rays, taken just as surgeons prepared to operate, showed that Danny had swallowed the penny. Doctors left the rest to nature.

Too Late To Classify

Conventions get harder to take as a fellow gets older. Last week I attended the spring convention of the Florida Public Relations Association held at the Sans Souci Hotel in Miami Beach.

I have been attending conventions in Miami Beach almost before there was a Miami Beach, and each time I visit this fabulous area I am amazed at a point of gasping. Being more or less a conservative type of thinker, I held the subconscious idea that sooner or later the beach would reach the saturation point. They build skyscrapers like hotels there like most towns build three-bedroom homes. I understand that new hotels were opened last year and nobody knows how many motels; but in spite of this steady growth most of them are doing a land office business at the time of year are running great guns with more customers than they can accommodate, while the old ones are just filling up.

Man Says Steals To Raise Alimony

BAITMORE—Boysie Ash, 27, pleaded guilty here yesterday to a charge of stealing 2,000 pounds of plumbing fixtures from a plumbing supply house.

He said he took the $1,051 worth of brass valves, faucets, elbows and other supplies to raise $25 due yesterday on an alimony payment.

Ash was arrested yesterday morning along with Robert L. McGee, 42, who pleaded innocent to the charges.

Police said they became suspicious and followed the men when they noticed how their car sagged over the rear wheels. It was loaded down with the ton of plumbing fixtures.

Both are Negroes.

HAL BOYLE

Old Star Is In New Medium

NEW YORK—"I don't mind crying now and then," said the cheerful old lady in town as she cheerfully put on some lipstick. "Tears keep the soul green."
This elderly, little Georgian character, now 77, 80th years has become the toast of Broadway.
Five years ago at 81 Mrs. Carhart, a retired concert singer, appeared at a temporary panel on "Life Begins at 80," a DuMont TV network program. Her sage wit and wisdom made her an immediate hit, and now—an old star in a new entertainment medium—she has become one of America's most widely quoted widows.
Millions of old folks have been cheered and inspired by the gay courage with which Mrs. Carhart tests away time and age. But too-both for herself and for the fine fun she is having out of her late-in-life success.
After each Friday night show, she likes to go to Lindy's restaurant, where she holds court sometimes until 3 a.m., trading quips on equal terms with the fastest minds in show business.
The other day I had lunch with Mrs. Carhart, a serene grande dame with a patrician air resembling the mother of President Franklin Roosevelt. The resemblance ceased the moment Mrs. Carhart, a rose pinned to her ample bosom, sat down and, her sprightly blue eyes twinkling, opened her shrewd Irish mouth and began to paint the world in philosophic wisecracks.
Nobody can picture "Georgia" as her friends call her, better than herself, so, tell us about yourself, Georgia:
"Well, I was born in Baltimore the month after they shot Abraham Lincoln. I've been a widow 35 years—or is it 36? I never was any good on details. My bump of concentration is just a hole in the head.
"Being an octogenarian has been so enjoyable I can hardly wait until I am a nonagenarian—that means you are 90.
"What was the best fun in my long life? Why, just living! Good. People are too selfish. They love themselves too much—and too long.
"I try to live from the inside out. Everyday is a birthday to me. I'm like a grasshopper, always ready to jump to something new.
"I feel I am a very practical woman... even though I do believe in fortune tellers.
"Death? I never think of it. Why am I not afraid? Darling, I am not very religious, but the most important things in the world to anyone are God and good health.
"I cling to my memories, but I am not a victim of them. We worry too much about yesterday and tomorrow. Today is ready cash.
"I've had a rich life, and that sustains me. My bubble has been more—well, I can still bubble. I've had everything, and I've been down to nothing. But I don't believe in money—or alimony, either.
"You're happier if you get a little bit of everything in life, and not too much of anything.
"I wouldn't turn my hand to go back to where I was—in a big house with five servants. I live in a small apartment and take care of myself.
"I don't take maid service. I do my own cooking and wash my own hair. I sleep eight hours every night, and eat two meals each day. That is all I need. I like a cocktail, but never before I've had morning coffee. A cocktail is no good on an empty stomach. My favorite food is fish.
"God has been good to me. I still have all my own hair and some of my own teeth. My hair didn't turn gray until I was 70, and it used to be gold... as gold as anything you ever saw. It is still gold at the ends.

"I never had a rival... under my eyes until six weeks ago. Now I can't stand social circles.
"The two most beautiful women I ever knew were Lillian Russell and Maxine Elliott. Poor Lillian. Her teeth weren't too good. They had little dark streaks in them.
"I would like to have my own lower teeth straightened, but the dentist just says, 'Good Lord, I don't even know another woman your age who even has any of her own teeth.'
"The last time he pulled one of my teeth—coming out it sounded like a footstep on crisp snow—he held it out and said, 'Madam, here it is—75 years old. I told him, 'My, isn't it a bit small for its age?'
"What do I think about men? Poor dears, men aren't understood. We women are the aggressors and they, the frigsons, then Women too often turn love into an ugly thing. A man may have many reasons, but only one next, and he'll usually come back to it. It's a man's duty, although shouldn't be crowded too hard or pushed too far.
"My pet peeve is against injustice. Too many people are unjust to each other. I try to eliminate two words from my vocabulary—hate and envy. I don't envy a human soul.
"There has always been some thing inside me that is singing, and I hope God will let me help make other people feel this something singing in them, too.
"I'd be young myself until I die. That I know. Youth is of the soul, and cannot be taken away. I feel the Lord will take me when I am no longer useful, and where he'll send me that I don't know. 'But I have friends in both places.'

Editor Sanford Herald,
Dear Sir: I would like to take this means to thank the many friends who have expressed their sympathy in words, deeds and flowers during the short illness and death of my wife, Mrs. E. W. Miller. Also, I would like to thank the hospital staff for giving every aid possible during her stay there. The 12 Miller children join me in thanking all who have been so kind.

Normal Blood Pressure Varies

By HERMAN B. BUNDEHEN, M.D.
PHYSICALLY and mentally, the borderline between the normal and the abnormal is indeed thin. One of the hardest tasks of medicine is to decide the line that divides the two.

This holds especially true in regard to blood pressure.

One of the most important questions that is asked a physician by his patients is what is normal blood pressure and what are high and low blood pressure.

Measured in Millimeters
Blood pressure is usually measured in millimeters of mercury in both systolic and diastolic phases. The generally accepted upper limit of 140 to 150 millimeters mercury systolic and 90 to 100 millimeters mercury diastolic consider normal for a physician's consideration.

However, many of these figures come from insurance company statistics, taken from young persons usually in the prime of life, and are not, therefore, applicable to the average person.

Ideal Blood Pressure
It is believed that the insurance companies' concept of the problem is often actually based on what is known as ideal blood pressure rather than normal blood pressure. It has, at times, been noted that pressures above 150 systolic and 90 diastolic were (Copyright, 1954, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

June 6 Is Wedding Date Set For Miss Barbara McAlexander

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Barbara McAlexander to Daniel W. Burnham, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Burnham of Plant City, is today being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McAlexander Jr. of Sanford.

The ceremony will be held at the home of the bride's parents at 1609 Sanford Ave. at 2 o'clock on June 6.

The wedding date has been set for the afternoon of June 6 at 2 o'clock at the Church of God, French Ave. and 22nd St. Following the ceremony, a reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents at 1609 Sanford Ave.

All friends of the couple are invited to attend the wedding and the reception.

Miss McAlexander is a student at Seminole High School and will graduate in June with the Class of 1934.

Mr. Burnham attended Plant City schools and is presently affiliated with a construction company in St. Pete.

Band Association Elects Mr. McCoy As Its President

The Seminole High School Band and Orchestra Association met last night at 8:15 o'clock in the band room for the last meeting of a successful year.

The group elected officers to serve for the 1934-35 school year as follows: Evans McCoy, president; Mrs. R. E. Robinson, vice-president; Mrs. H. A. Fisher, secretary; Robert Reedy, treasurer; Marvin Milam and Herman Morrison, board members.

After the meeting, ice cold watermelon was served by Mrs. Wade Garner and her committee to approximately 30 members and guests.

'Petticoat Fever' To Be Presented Tomorrow Evening

Tonight the last rehearsal of the Sanford Theater Guild's "Petticoat Fever" will be held before opening night. The curtain will go up tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock on the stage in the City Hall auditorium. The three act comedy will run through Saturday at the same time each evening.

George Dabbs is director of the play and the cast is composed of the following: E. H. Cawley as Captain Blinmore; Albert Pitts as Sir James Penton; Miss Dorothy Benton as Ethel Campion; Miss Jo Hayman as Clara Wilson; Marvin Goebel as Kime; the Eskimo quartet; Don Fletcher as Capt. Shapham; Lynn Sellers as Capt. Landry; Jackie Thomas as Scotty; and Miss Pat Cassube and Miss Mary Ann Bukur as Snowbird and Little Seal, two Eskimo girls.

The setting for the play is a desolate wireless station operated by Davcom Dinmore in Northern Labrador.

McCoy Students Are To Appear On Radio Program

Three of Mrs. Evans McCoy's piano students will appear on the Student Program tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock over radio station WTR.

Kay Ivey will render "A Theme from Patience Symphonie No. 18"; Marilyn McDaniel has chosen to play "Mazurka"; Both girls are students at Sanford Grammar School.

Allen Swain, who attends Sanford Junior High School, will play "Prelude in C Sharp Minor." The announcer will be Leslie Smith.

We order wedding invitations and announcements.

Ladies' Night Is To Be Thursday

The Methodist Men's Club of the First Methodist Church will entertain with its last ladies' night of the season Thursday night at 7 o'clock.

A chicken barbecue and a large program has been planned. Elmo Paris, president of the club, will preside and visitors are welcome.

There are three ways to make an old-fashioned sewing machine attractive: Make a ruffled skirt for it, dressing table fashion, out of fabric that matches the draperies or upholstery in the room in which the machine is placed. Paint the wooden part of the machine in a striking color and give the legs and foot treadle a coat of black enamel, or enamel the entire machine in a color that matches the walls of the room.

Here Is Tasty Fish For The Epicures

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Frankly fancy, is how we describe this rutilant fish fillet.

The fillets are stuffed with butter, especially practical and especially practical and is the fillet X which cuts a whole tomato with one stroke. Here's an item which has a real place in the arsenal of every salad-maker bearing the marks of a modern kitchen slave. Enter the modern kitchen master. When Grandma was a bride kitchen chores were back-breaking tasks. Long hard hours were spent at dull-as-dishwater culinary jobs. But edgier-minded America has come up with just the things to make housekeeping easier and more efficient. For example, take the three most recent items:

West Side School Fourth Graders Enjoy Outing

The fourth grade children of West Side School enjoyed their annual picnic last week as they traveled on the school bus to Ocala where a guide showed them through the Foremost Dairies farm.

The children were served chocolate milk and were given a tour of the dairy. They later went to Lake Mary where they enjoyed a picnic lunch and swim before returning home.

Thirty-five students made the trip with their teacher, Mrs. Ann Kelly, three mothers, Mrs. Charles Carlson, Mrs. Miles, Mrs. H. Russell, and the bus driver, Herbert Mann.

Larry Bates Chosen As New President Of SHS Glee Club

The annual election of Seminole High School last week elected new officers for the 1934-35 school year.

With Miss Olive Reese Whittle as director of the glee club, the officers who will serve are: president, Larry Bates, vice-president, Leslie Bennett, secretary-treasurer, Joan Wilks, and business manager, Joan Kennedy, Nancy White, Robert Miller, and Harold Pate.

Cardinals Play Clermont Tonight In Stadium

Game Will Start At 8:00 p. m.

Buddy Lake will take the Sanford Cardinals into Memorial Stadium tonight at 8 o'clock to battle the Clermont baseball team. The Cardinals will be looking for their fourth victory in the Central Florida League.

At present the Cards are in fourth place with a 3-3 record. Clermont is tied with Groveland for fifth position with a 6-6 record.

The Sanford amateur team has settled down and is now playing the type ball they are capable of playing. In the last two games the Cardinals have scored 26 runs and have gotten 40 base hits.

Red Hires has hit three doubles in the last three games and Fulton Haxley has nine hits for the last 11 times at bat. The Cardinals have a well rounded team and from now on will be hard to beat in the Central Florida League.

John Keeling, second baseman, is going to return to the game. John has not started in any of the CFL games because he has been out with an injured ankle. It will take John a little time to develop his eye for the ball, but when he does, watch out.

Buddy Lake, Pete Schirard has been keeping the team moral up better than any other member of the group. Besides cracking his jokes and clowning throughout the game, he will come up with a couple of base hits at the right time.

Gene Pennington and Bill Crabtree are currently waging an extra base hitting battle. Pennington has hit one home run and a triple. Crabtree is one jump ahead of the Cardinal short stop. He has a home run, a triple, and a double.

Charley Thomas will be looking for his first win in the pitching department of the team. The right handed fireball artist has lost two games in two starts this year. He lost to Longwood, and Sanford Navy. Thomas pitched a three hitter against the Navy team earlier this year in an exhibition game.

Clermont has tasted defeat at the hands of Pinecastle, Sanford Navy, and Longwood. They have lost to each of the teams twice. They have only been shut out once and that was done by Longwood.

The game tonight will be the first of a two game series between the two teams. Sanford will travel to Clermont Sunday afternoon and play at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Cardinals started the season off by defeating Longwood 8-3 in a rough nine inning game. The Cardinals then lost the next three straight ball games. First they were defeated by Longwood, 7-2 then by the Sanford Navy, 11-0. They then dropped another game to the Navy boys. This time the score was 9-3.

The Cardinals then bounced back into the winning streak by outslugging Groveland 13-12. Next they traveled to Groveland and won again. This time the score was 13-2.

Other games throughout the CFL Wednesday night are: Longwood vs Sanford Navy base, and Groveland meeting Pinecastle in Kissimmee. Probable starting Cardinal lineup:

Pennington—short stop
Crabtree—center field
Lake—right field
Hires—first base
Cardon—third base
Schirard—catcher
Thomas—pitcher

QUESTIONS

1. What is "ringing" a horse?
2. What great boxing champion was known as Ruby Robert, Freckled Bob and The Lanky Cornishman? What three titles did he win?
3. How many years did Babe Ruth hit 30 or more home runs? How many times did he hit 40 or more homers? How many times 50 or more?
4. What catcher holds the major league record for the most consecutive chances without an error?
5. What ten events make up the decathlon in a track and field meet?

ANSWERS

1. "Ringing" a horse is the fraudulent substitution of a fast horse for a slow one, taking the name of the latter, or vice versa.
2. Bob Fitzsimmons was known as Ruby Robert, Freckled Bob and The Lanky Cornishman. He held three championships—middle weight, light weight and heavy-weight.
3. Babe Ruth hit 30 or more home runs 13 times, 40 or more 11 times and 50 or more 4 times.
4. Warren (Buddy) Roser, while with the Philadelphia Athletics, set the major league catching record for most consecutive chances without an error. He had a perfect string from Sept. 15, 1944 to May 20, 1947. During that time he accepted 754 chances.
5. The ten events that make up the decathlon are as follows: 100-meter dash, running broad jump, 16-pound weight throw, running high jump, 400-meter run, 120-meter high hurdles, discus throw, pole vault, javelin throw and the 1500-meter run.

Red Press Hails British-Soviet Pact

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press hailed the British-Soviet Mutual Aid Treaty on its 12th anniversary today as still the best cornerstone for European security. But newspaper articles complained that Britain has drafted away from its treaty obligations "by becoming the junior partner of the United States."

Britain and Russia have a 20-year treaty.

Both Izvestia, the government official paper, and Pravda, the Communist party official paper, stressed a theme that Britain had deserted "a policy of cooperation with all its allies of the war period" by leaning toward the United States.

First baseman Tom Alston of the St. Louis Cardinals is a graduate of the Agricultural and Technical College of North Carolina. He has a B. S. degree in physical education and social sciences.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT
GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Greenberg has picked a poor time to propose that the two major leagues whip up new spectator interest by playing a certain number of games against each other as part of their regular 154-game schedules.

Specifically, Cleveland's general manager would have each of the 16 big league clubs play two games in its home park against each of the eight teams in the rival circuit, the results to count in the respective league standings the same as any others. Hank figures that the fans of one-team cities, in particular, would break down the fences to see the stars of the opposite league in action.

He could be right, but it would be extremely difficult just now to see the National League on the scheme. There might have been a time when the older league would have welcomed such a stimulant at the rate, but it scarcely would be interested at this juncture. The Nationals, with some reason, consider themselves quality folks, not in need of any back-door handouts.

For one thing, the league has won the last four All-Star Games and fully expects to make it five in this summer's classic at Cleveland. Club officials have long memories, and the Nationals have not begun to forget those bitter days when their muscular rivals were peering it on them 12 times in the first 16 games, including one string of seven out of eight.

Additionally, the Nationals feel that the pendulum finally has swung strongly in their favor both in the matter of colorful, home-run-hitting "samurai" players and in the over-all quality of their eight member teams. With only one club, Pittsburgh, obviously out of the race, the old firm expects to put on a thriller right through the summer and to outdraw the American by a wide margin.

A contributing factor to the decline of the personality boys in the American League probably has been the long domination of the loop by the Yankees. The Bombers have left their manager, Casey Stengel, supply most of their own color for the past five seasons, with only catcher Yogi Berra breaking into the act on rare occasions. Players on the seven other clubs have had little incentive to go for the headlines.

VOLUSIA COUNTY HENNE CLUB

PRO and DUFFER

By DICK MAYER

The best thing a week-end golfer can do to keep in practice is to get a heavy club—an old driver loaded with lead or one of those specially weighted practice clubs—and keep it where he can take a few swings every day.

The next thing is to take it easy. Don't do any good, especially for the fellow who is going out for the first time in the spring, to hit a lot of balls on the practice tee and wind up with both hands full of blisters so he can't play on Saturday and Sunday.

My advice to Mr. Duffer is to start out slowly and to start with his short game. When he begins getting ready for the summer play, he should practice for only a short time—a half or three quarters of an hour—mostly on chipping and putting around the green.

That way he can get his grip and stance straightened out; get a comfortable feeling when he makes his shots. After he has done that for a few days, he can work up to the longer clubs.

But he should always work up from the bottom of the bag, from the short shots to the long ones. He shouldn't worry too much about the long woods. It's around the green, the puts, the chips and trap shots, where he can lose a lot of strokes.

The touring pros spend a lot of time on the practice tee, of course, but you'll notice they're on the putting green, too. They spend every minute they can spare there.

Another very important thing for anybody is to practice before you start a round will eliminate sore muscles and loosen them up.

For an older player it would be silly to go right out on the front tee and hit his drive. His muscles aren't as supple as a younger fellow's and that puts a strain on them. For anybody with back trouble, it would be even worse.

That's one way a weighted driver can help. Sometimes when I don't have time for much practice I carry a heavy club—after a half dozen swings I feel limber.

For the fellow who only can play week-ends, it will do a lot more. He can keep it round the house and swing it in the backyard or anywhere that's convenient. That will help him keep his timing, it will strengthen his wrists and toughen his hands.

In my opinion, swinging a heavy club three or four minutes is as good as hitting 50 practice balls.

The week-end player also can practice chip shots around home. The main thing for him is to correct any faults in his grip or swing and that will do it.

He has persuaded Kenneth Hall, prize schoolboy athlete of Texas, to enroll A & M this fall.

Hall, a 205-pounder who runs 100 yards in 28 seconds, scored 841 points for Sugar Land High. In one game he scored 49 points.

During his school career Hall has won four letters in football, four in track and three in basketball. Sugar Land doesn't have a baseball team.

Giants Defeat Haines City 7-5

By T. V. DAVIS

Those ever-fighting Sanford Giants went on the field last Sunday afternoon before about 250 howling baseball-hungry spectators and staged their best-played baseball game of the season by edging the Haines City Royals by a 7-5 margin in Memorial Stadium.

The Giants' starting pitcher, Alfonso Fields, a recently acquired hurler, pitched seven complete innings of ball, while giving up only two hits and allowing two un-

Money Returned After 11 Years

AUDUBON, Iowa (AP)—Eleven years ago Ralph Jones was serving in the Army in Africa and gave a wounded veteran a $10 bill. The understanding was the wounded veteran on arrival in the United States would telephone Ralph's parents and tell them Ralph was doing fine.

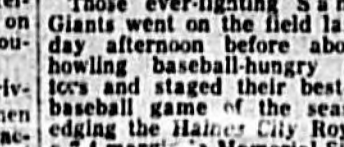

Later Jones learned the call was never made. He wrote off his $10. Now he has it back. It happened that recently Postmaster Russell Ramsey received a letter from a person asking for Jones' address. Ramsey sent it to the writer, who had explained he recalled Jones' request while recently going through personal effects.

In turn Jones got a letter and his $10.

Outfielder Lloyd Merriman of the Cincinnati edgess was a star fullback at Stanford. He was drafted by the Chicago Bears but preferred baseball as his career.

Venice Is Slowly Sinking Into Sea; Inch Each 10 Years

VENICE, (AP)—The romantic city of lagoons and singing gondoliers is slowly sinking under the creaking seas. Local experts say no technique now known can save the most famous of the world's strange cities. That doesn't mean tourists this summer should scratch the gondola city off their vacation schedules. Even at the present rate—sinking almost an inch every 10 years—the city will be above water for many generations. Moreover, its scientists and architects hope some method may yet be discovered which will help them win their long battle against eroding tides. But here is an example of what is happening.

The famed St. Mark Square has been awash in recent years with a foot of water almost every spring at the alta marea high tide. The famous marble of the great square is only 13 inches above present sea level. Yet only a couple of centuries ago, the level of the square was raised 2 1/2 inches, to avoid such flooding. The same thing has happened to the great palaces along the Grand Canal. Their original gondola landings are now a foot or more below water level. New entrances are used, or the old ones have been raised.

Centuries of old buildings are now almost entirely inundated and unusable. Engineer Eugenio Miozzi, who for 25 years has been chief technical adviser to the city of Venice on such problems, says: "It must be remembered that the islands which form our city are subject to a general and steady sinking, which averages about 2 1/2 centimeters (one inch) every 10 years."

Recent excavations have brought to light perfectly preserved pieces of old parts of the city now completely beneath water. But even without paying attention to these, it is enough to note the condition of the doors and entry ways of the old buildings along the canals. These show clearly the water now lapping high up on canalside old railings of what once were doorway landing levels.

"Sadly enough, with the passing of more centuries, Venice, like other ancient cities, will have to be abandoned. Our task is to conserve as best possible the art and beauty of Venice with such means as we now have available, in the hope that future techniques may finally save the city."

Venice's mayor, Prof. Angelo Spanio, said the biggest obstacle is economic.

"With the rents of today," the mayor said, "building owners might as well turn their palaces over to the pigeons."

"The amount they can obtain through rental is absolutely inadequate to cover the costs of combating the steady wear of the sea. In some of the finest buildings along the Grand Canal, foundations are already badly deteriorated and the costs of restoring and saving them would be as great as the present total worth of the buildings."

It isn't a new story to old Venice. A thousand years ago this flourishing city spread over a dozen fine islands in the lagoon.

The present Venice then was only the "Rivus Altus," the Rialto. It became a center of government because it was in the most inland and protected position.

Today the rich merchant islands are beneath these. Of them all, only one prospered. Torcello remains above water. Tourists take the boat there to see the Roman-Byzantine Cathedral and what is left of the town.

Over a hundred tens of thousands now only a few score fishermen live there.

Jaycees To Install Officers Tomorrow

Sanford's Junior Chamber of Commerce is scheduled to hold its installation of officers at the Mayfair Inn Country Club tomorrow night, according to Mrs. H. K. Ring, secretary.

To begin a 7 p. m., the affair will feature the installation of the local organization's newly elected officers for the 1954-55 club year. It was reported by Mrs. Ring that Charlie Johnson, president-elect of the state organization, will attend and take part in the ceremonies.

According to Jaycee president Cliff Ables, there will be dancing following the installation.

Seven Are Killed In Head-On Crash

FORT PIERCE (AP)—A head-on crash of two automobiles 10 miles west of Fort Pierce early today killed seven persons. Four others were hospitalized.

State Highway Patrolman Robert Gray reported that all the dead and injured were Negroes.

One of the dead was identified as Dr. George Keebe, about 50, a Fort Pierce physician. Another was Winnie Gillin, also 50, following the installation.

Pierce and Deputy Sheriff Ken Coleman said evidence at the scene indicated Keebe was driving west on State Road 60 at an "extremely high speed" when his Cadillac car collided head-on with another carrying nine persons. Gray expressed belief the Keebe car must have been traveling "at least 90 miles an hour."

Two of those in Fort Pierce Memorial Hospital were reported in critical condition.

Killed in addition to Dr. Keebe were Winnie Gillin, a passenger in his car; Clarence Bush, 26, driver of the other car, and his wife, Anna Rene, 27; Josephine Andrews, 40, Anna Joyce Saffold, 3, and Edward Charles Saffold, 17 months.

Navy Tugboat Is Pulled Off Reef

MIAMI (AP)—The U. S. Navy tug Catalpa was pulled off the rocks of Triumph Reef, 20 miles southeast of Miami, early today and is being towed to Miami for drydock and repairs, the Coast Guard reported.

The Coast Guard said it received word from the Navy that the 799-ton steel vessel was refloated at 1:30 a.m. (EST), nearly 24 hours after it had first run aground for assistance. Both Navy and Coast Guard vessels participated in the rescue.

The tug carried 43 men. Its home port is Jacksonville.

White Collar Worker Modernizes House In Spare Time With Help Of His Wife

Just about two years ago a white collar worker, John A. Carlton, gazed bug-eyed at an abandoned two-story house in Sanford, Fla. The house was in a state of complete disrepair. Carlton, a white collar worker, decided to take on the project himself, with the help of his wife.

SMITH RESIDENCE—The spacious house of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith is located at 1415 Seminole Blvd., facing Lake Monroe. The house, which contains seven rooms, is 30 feet, four inches long, excluding the car port, which would add another 20 feet to the length.

Carlton's first job was to patch and repair plaster cracks. He then moved on to the plumbing and electrical work. The project was a labor of love for the Carltons, and they are proud of the result.

Camlet Sets New Trade-In Home Values
Convenience, comfort and resale value are among the major factors in home ownership that such historians estimate as the family place for generations. Year-round air conditioning is done a lot to speed this trend. Since it is longer necessary to winter in summer, any more than it is to shiver in winter, home buyers and home builders are beginning to regard homes somewhat with the attitude they have toward automobiles.

New model homes, like new model automobiles, are expected to have more refinements and more efficiency for those persons who can afford them. So trade-in value is becoming more important in homes. As far as air conditioning affects this, the change is most noticeable in areas where summer heat is the biggest problem.

Consider Texas Robert D. Brown, whose firm has served Houston for half a century with heating and ventilating supplies. "It is not far in the future when air conditioning will be obsolete the day the buyer moves in the house without complete air conditioning." See it today!

Remodeling Bathroom Is Tough Job

Remodeling an old bathroom can be one of the toughest jobs in modernizing a house. Plumbing fixtures are heavy, tile may need re-setting and the room may be cut up with joists in the walls. There were some problems John Carlton encountered in rejuvenating his house. "Because he found the bathroom in particularly bad condition, Carlton had to rip out and discard all fixtures, except the ceramic bathtub, which cleaned up in good shape with a little sanding. He was able to buy used fixtures. He wanted and lasted—in perfect condition, thus saved considerably on these normally expensive items. A used medicine cabinet was re-finished, sanded down and painted.

But what about homes that do not have warm air systems? "The problem here is not quite so simple," Bickel admits. "But there are three solutions: 1. The year-round room unit, about as compact as a radiator. Remote coils, in basement or garage, provide chilled or heated water according to the season. In some cases the chilled water system can be used in summer while the regular radiator serves in winter. 2. A central system with duct-work added to circulate cooled, dehumidified and filtered air during the summer. 3. Room air conditioners for summer use. New types of window units can be installed almost flush with draperies."

room is advisable when a room is not exactly true in shape. This allows for a decorative mirror above it, tiles being cut accordingly along the walls.
A few dry runs of tiles in both directions showed Carlton that the wall was fairly true so he could start cementing the tiles down, working from one wall. This made it easier to find it easy to cut the tiles by hand with a blow torch.
He made a cardboard clothes hamper out of the lower part of an old linen closet and removed another closet to make space for a vanity table. He converted an old dressing table for this feature and hung a decorative mirror above it. All woodwork had to be sanded down and cracks and nailholes filled with wood filler. Then he applied two coats of paint. After sanding all plaster patches smooth, he hung wallpaper above the tile wainscot. He added a decorative border to the wallpaper on the room's side walls. This makes the paper slicker, lighter, and is important in a bathroom where the wall is subject to dampness. He covered the bathroom wallpaper with a coat of clearcoat to further protect it.

Builder, Spare That Tree

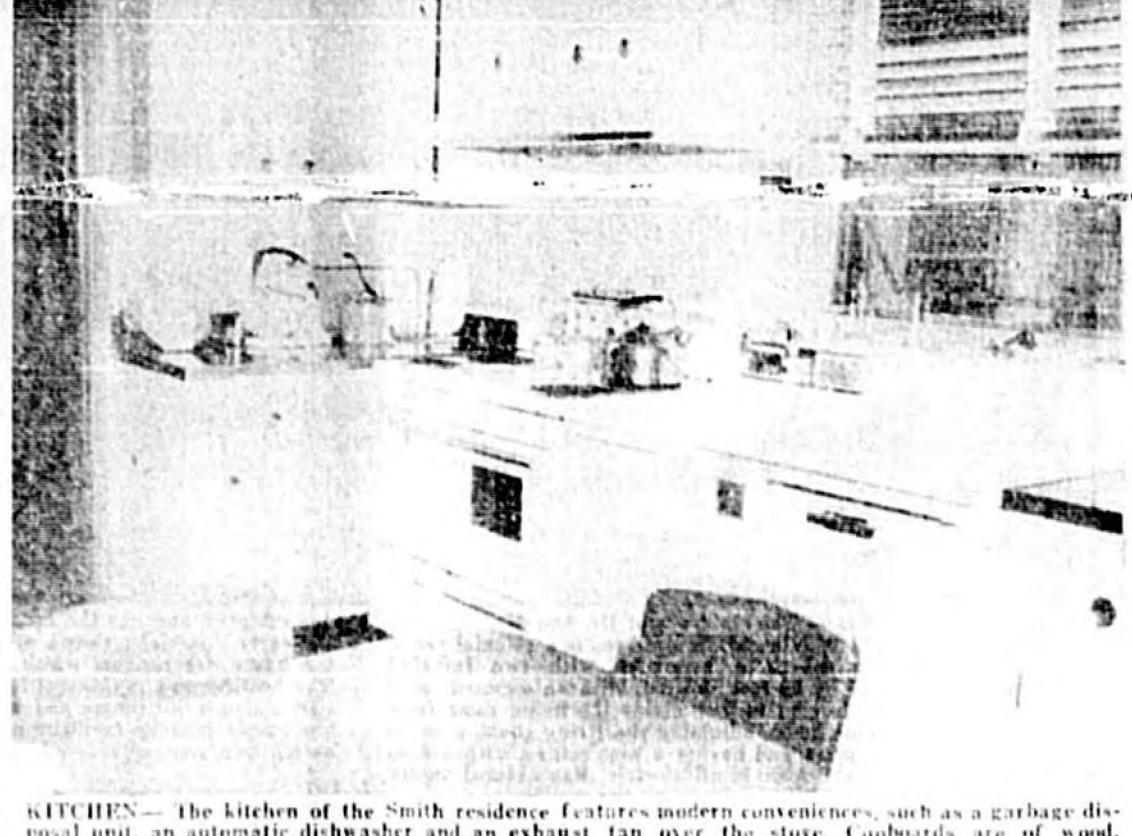

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
One of the important reasons people buy houses is they can also have grounds. While many builders construct good homes, few of them provide the kind of grounds the homeowner will want two or three years after he moves in. This, of course, is no reflection on the builder. His job is to construct houses and to make them as quickly as possible. The time of construction, costs are much less than piecemeal repairs and changes undertaken later—when the homeowner becomes wiser, older and braver.
The wise, forward-thinking homeowner can do much during the building process to save himself money, trouble and heart-labor later. If there are trees to be saved, for instance, he can ride herd on his builder to mark off an area to be avoided by the builder and other heavy machinery. The if a tree should be wrapped heavily with burlap to protect them from being injured.
And then, that precious topsoil which is my neighborhood soil for almost as much a truckload as humus and manure. Builders are no respecters of topsoil, and also, neither are most builders. Insist, as strongly as you do for adequate numbers of electric outlets. But the good rule is to be scraped into a separate pile away from the construction before the excavating process begins.
There's a myth in the making—a tall tale, in fact, spread mostly by speculative builders—that a fine stand of grass can be grown on an area that has been excavated.
My landscape architect can tell me what kind of soil I have. He can look over the trees and shrubs on the property and suggest which are worth saving, and which are not. Sometimes, alas, a builder with his hand in his pocket will tell you he will save a young softwood tree which will immediately give a pleasing impression of a tree and grow into a big tree which is a problem because of its close proximity to the house, and because its roots interfere with the proper functioning of the underground drainage system.
Situations vary widely. The house which is connected with sewers and storm sewers has fewer drainage problems usually than the country house which is equipped with septic tanks and septic tanks, and where the drainage can be handled only with fields of agricultural life carrying water to lower points. But a man who knows as they once were. Some houses never need them at all.

If you have a picture window, think in terms of the outdoor picture. You will fill it with from the house is in "bright" stages of the sun. If you have the first year of residence. That is where your lawn will be that there is a minimum of four inches and preferably six inches of topsoil, and you'll be better for years to come if you have the whole area gone over with a rotary plow, the major cracks and chinks, raked from unwanted places, and showing acting fertilizer, organic matter, and a good grade of grass seed. It is a good job once it is done, and it won't be an annual, even if it is a one-time job.
There are as many ways to landscape grounds as there are families who live in houses, and certainly no two, particularly if they are close together, want the same arrangement of trees, shrubs, etc.
At the moment—and I hope for ever after—the emphasis on landscaping seems to be to combine usefulness and beauty. No longer is the principle object of landscape planning to provide a screen for the house, but to provide something pleasant for the homeowner to look upon.
If landscaping funds are laid out on a suitably sized lot, it can be a course with a grouping of small trees and shrubs, or even a screen needed for privacy. Foundation plantings rarely are the first focus required these days, for 25,000 can be the eyesores.

Novel Room Divider Can Be Built In Home Workshop

Secret of the luminous partition is a long fluorescent tube concealed under the decorative wooden shield at the top. As shown in the drawing at the right, wiring channel is mounted on the ceiling with the lamp in ribbed glass extended between the ceiling and top of the plant box helps to spread the light smoothly between the two areas.
When applying this "lighted divider" to your own home, General Electric home lighting specialists suggest that you follow dimensions given on the drawing. Not only does this give you a decorative point of interest, but also it is for best results.

Remodel Your Lamps And Get Better Light

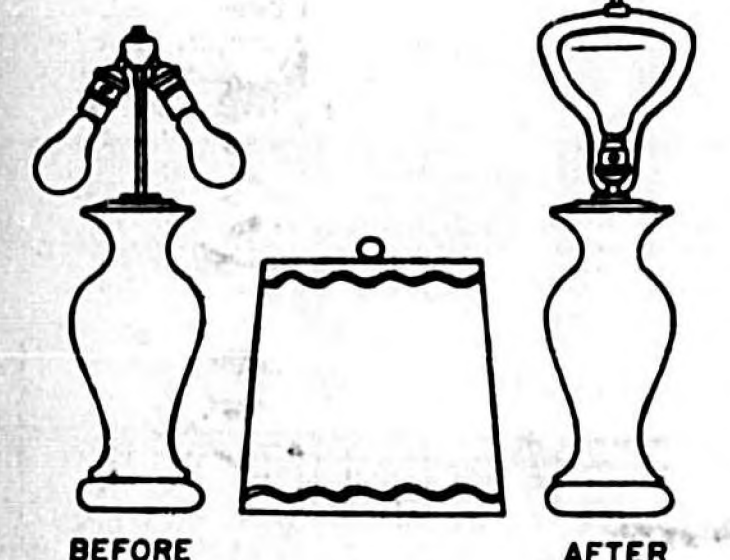

BETTER LIGHT from old lamps often can be obtained by simple alterations. Here are three examples worked out by the Rural Electrification Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture for do-it-yourself fans.

A LITTLE LAMP, too low to give enough light, can be remedied to a block of wood and given a wider shade to make the lamp more useful for reading or sewing.

INVERTING the socket of a turned-down bridge lamp like this, adding a diffusing bowl and wider shade often can give better, softer light. If you can't invert the socket, a silver-bowl bulb and light reflecting disc mounted to the socket will achieve similar results.

ONLY SMALL LIGHT BULBS can be accommodated in most double-socket lamps. Therefore light cannot be used because of the size of the socket and the space within the shade. Replace the double-socket with a modern single socket to hold a large white indirect bulb. A wide "lamp" to hold the shade will give you a lamp that is useful and decorative.

Friendly Feeling Of British Ebbs As War Fear Mounts

London. - The friendship of America and Britain—the great allies of World War II—has reached an alarmingly low ebb today. The British people generally have lost confidence in America's leadership. They fear that America—not Russia—will push them into another war.

Time and time again the same story is heard from the man on the street. It's so persistent it assumes almost an undercurrent of antagonism toward the United States.

The story comes from taxi drivers, barbers, shop keepers, waiters, newsmen, RAF fliers, housewives and pub keepers.

Here's what some of them have to say:

A shopkeeper: "The quarreling is between you and Russia. All you want with us is to make England the jumping off place for an atomic attack."

A chauffeur and ex-merchant marine: "We think you may be pushing Russia into a corner—you won't even trade with her. You don't live with half the world's trading with the other half. We don't think Russia will start a war—the never has won a war on her own. If any of the Russians and Chinese want Communism, it's their business."

Ex-fighter: "We're afraid you chaps are going to get fed up with the Communists and say 'All right, let's have it out.' And then it starts all over again."

Restaurant manager: "I must say there is a feeling against America. We don't quite trust that you're doing and the way you Congress acts."

A barber: "We are a bit afraid of what you are going to do. We think there should be a way to find a settlement with the Russians without war."

A British newsman: "Geography makes a big difference in politics and the way people feel. Our people say it's easy for the Americans to say let's have it out and send troops to Indonesia. But they haven't had their homes bombed—we have. We're tired of fighting and arguing and all we want to live at peace again."

Housewife: "It isn't that we are American. We're afraid you will do something to start another war. And another war would finish us."

There are contributing factors in this feeling such as the persistent attacks on America by the left-wing Socialists led by Abraham Lincoln. There is a matter of pride, too, since the British have slipped from their position of world leadership.

But the British feeling seems to spring basically from a deep suspicion against anything that will lead to another war.

It isn't difficult to understand British opinion on an awful beating from Nazi bombers in World War II. The physical and spiritual endurance of the people was strained almost to the breaking point.

Then came victory in Europe and what was victory to the British? It was dark days of rationing, self denial and self sacrifice for survival while America soared to new heights of prosperity.

"It made you ask yourself 'what's the war?' one Britisher said. 'Certainly we didn't. We could go to Germany long after the war and see the Germans—the defeated—living better than we lived.'"

The Britons agree generally that the war in Europe and the Pacific is over. They are not alarmed about the Communist situation. When two Russian diplomats were expelled recently for attempted espionage at the British guided missile center—the reaction was: "Those two guys were about the stupidest ones we ever saw."

The Englishman's attitude toward Communism seems to run along these lines: Communism is dangerous and Communists can't be trusted—but let's try to find a solution to this thing without a war and meantime let's get along with our business without any fuss or feathers.

They even laugh at their own Communists in this part of the world. There is a story of the British hobby in Hyde Park listening to a Communist urge his audience to move on Buckingham Palace and burn the place down.

At this point the hobby stepped out and said: "All right, chaps. All who want to burn down the palace line up on this side. Who disagree line up over here."

If your pet bird has a sore eye, bathe it with a warm boracic solution.

Breaks Leg

FREDERICK, Md. - Arthur N. Poole, a Woodbine farmer, broke his leg in a fall from a ladder and lay nearly 30 hours without help before a neighbor found him last night.

While firemen were giving him first aid in the barn, a stretch-bearer was taken by a horse. Poole was taken to Frederick Memorial Hospital in serious condition.

Mix Them Or Match Them But Choose Your Lamps For Good Lighting And Good Looks

Five lamps may sound like a lot, but, count the lamps in the picture above and on the right. A good light for eye comfort is needed beside all favorite seating locations in your room.

By E. W. Connelly
General Electric Lighting Designer

Has it ever occurred to you what a difference the lamps you use in your living room can make? Simply by your choice of table or floor lamps you can create a light airy atmosphere that is right with new contemporary ranch house interiors.

However, if you like the warm, cozy feeling of informal traditional and the simplicity of contemporary interiors, you'll be glad to know this you can have it without sacrificing the other.

To give you an idea of how the lamps you put in your living room depends to a large extent on the room's personality and mood. To help home decorators realize that their rooms can be light-conditioned for a variety of uses, General Electric dealers throughout the nation's top decorators select a variety of lamp groups for the same room.

Knowing that some homemakers prefer contemporary, while others want traditional and that light shades versus dark shades is a matter of personal taste, Mr. Eugene Stephenson, President of the American Institute of Decorators chose two dozen different groups of floor and table lamps which would be equally pleasing in the light-conditioned room above which he created.

There are many other combinations which are just as decoratively good as the two selections shown above. If you are considering new lamps for your own living room and would like to see the full collection of two dozen different groupings of floor and table lamps selected by Mr. Stephenson, just write for the new illustrated booklet, "Lamps Make A Difference" which shows how you, too, may change your room with new lamps. Send request to Inquiry Bureau, L&L-4, Lamp Division, General Electric Company, Nela Park, Cleveland 12, Ohio. Single copies of booklet will be mailed to readers without charge.

How Fence Can Tend To Change Looks Of House

Sometimes a fence can be especially important to the architectural design of a home. John Carlin decided this when he undertook the modernization of an old house. The house seemed to be too tall for its width, when Carlin looked at its front facade. He wanted to widen the appearance.

So he built a fence to one side of the house, separating the back yard from the front.

His fence, about 30 feet long, extending from one side of the house to the 1st line, needed only about $20 worth of lumber.

"I built it strong," he says, "to let the kids climb it if they wanted, and to be as for such. And I used 1 by 4s for posts and 1 by 6s for trimmers and rails."

"Building a gate is very simple. The main thing to do is to brace a gate diagonally to prevent sagging. Keep the diagonal brace in mind in your design."

Don't let your favorite picnic ground or recreation area be destroyed by your careless campfire.

Each year fires burn enough trees to fill a paper pencil all the way to the moon. The new papers in the U. S.

When stumps no longer "bite" on wood or plaster holes, which have become large, roll a small amount of steel wool into a long and narrow and force it into the hole with a pencil. The steel wool will fill the hole and take a firm grip.

Lighting Tips For Homemakers

When you're planning your lighting, you should think of the room as a whole. Don't clutter up corners of your living room with tables of extra lamps. Use 22 or 25 watt lamps for the exact length you need that will work better if you didn't think of it before.

Long Hours of Hard Work in Spare Time Paid Off For Couple

A famous architect was recently shown through the home that John A. (Jack) Carlton and his wife renovated and modernized in their spare time.

Jack had a collection of "before" photographs to show the dilapidated condition of the house at the time he bought it and started his do-it-yourself project.

The architect said he was amazed that one man and his wife could have accomplished so much.

"Oh," replied Mrs. Carlton, "John just worked about every night. He wouldn't get to bed until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. And he would have to get up before 7 in order to get to his job.

"His hands became so stained and scratched that I thought they never would be normal again."

Mrs. Carlton, who painted most of the woodwork, did not mention her own hands.

"But we loved every minute of the work," she continued. "It was so satisfying. And we haven't finished yet. There is always something new that we think of."

"After the kitchen and breakfast room were completely modernized, decorated and furnished, just the way we wanted them, we enjoyed sitting there admiring the results.

"Suddenly John said: 'You know what's wrong? We should have continued this kitchen linoleum right through into the breakfast room to tie the two rooms together.' And so he did the following weekend."

The Carltons had to start with a thorough cleaning of the old house—even fumigating. The garbage collectors were so pleased to find someone cleaning up the house that they sent special trucks to help remove the debris. Mrs. Carlton says she was ashamed of the refuse that had to be hauled away. They tore down loose plaster, torn wallpaper, removed rusted equipment and ripped out disreputable bathroom fixtures.

Then the Carltons drew pictures—rough sketches of each wall of each room where they planned to make changes. They put in each window and each door and made careful measurements. They colored the sketches and studied their plans.

"You don't have to be an artist to do this," Carlton says. "Anybody can draw well enough to understand it himself. No one but you will be looking at your drawing. But it's very important to draw picture plans. It helps you to see what you have in mind. You can't just trust to carrying all details in your mind, making costly mistakes and having to start over. It's cheaper to make your mistakes on paper. And the more you plan and think about a job like this the better it turns out."

He used rough sketches for ordering the correct amounts of various materials. If you make sketches of each of the four walls of a room, showing all dimensions, the location and size of windows and doors, a wallpaper dealer can give you the correct number of rolls and minimize waste.

As for procedure, the kitchen came first.

"We started in the essential living places," Jack said, "and of course we had to eat. Furthermore the kitchen needed the most work. Then we moved on to the living room so we could entertain our friends. And so on through the house."

"We didn't try to complete everything in one room at a time. We have gone back to the original wood, which turned out to be beautiful."

They had to sand down the woodwork, scrape and sand the floors. Jack rented a sanding machine, then did all the corners by hand, to get down to the original wood, which turned out to be beautiful.

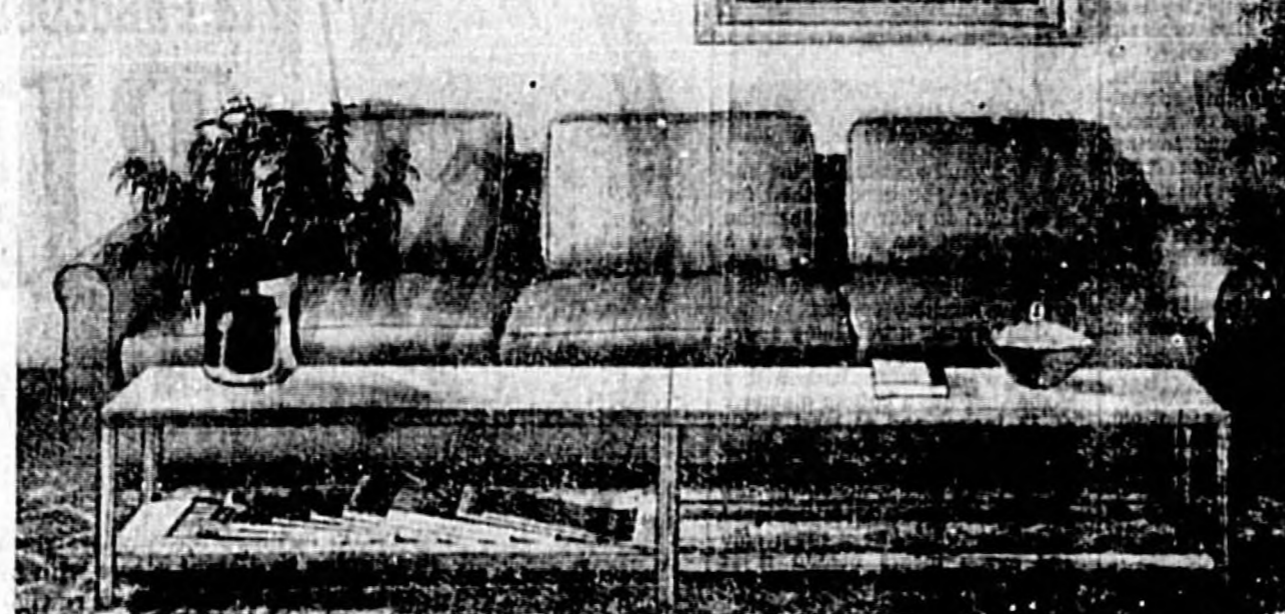

"I found a fabulous quick drying finish for all the floors (called Fabulon) which proved much better than shellac or varnish. I could put on three thin coats in one evening — it dried so fast — and got an excellent finish."

THE ORIGINAL KITCHEN was in a sad state, presenting plenty of problems. Here John A. Carlton Jr., home on leave from the Navy, leads a hand. The door and window behind him were ripped out to convert porch to breakfast room.

THE KITCHEN TODAY, from the same angle, showing how the breakfast room has been merged into the scene. Note cellar door at left in both pictures. At right, flanked by tilework is a modern range with ventilating fan above. Adjoining is a double sink and dishwasher worked into $525 budget.

LONG AND LOW are the sofa and table shown here designed by Edward Wormley. The sofa is 9 1/2 feet long, although arms are only 17 inches high. Depth is 40 inches. The table is 7 feet long, is lower half of a pair of interlocking tables. It is of zebra wood with white mica top.

MODERN COMFORT is achieved in a no-sag arm chair with sprayed-on vinyl-plastic designed by Vakassian.

BEFORE "Do-It-Yourself!" Carlton tackled his project, the living room looked like this. He had to sweep up fallen plaster from the floor. But he knew he had sound construction—an oak floor here.

AFTER the Carltons redecorated the living room, installed valances over the windows and moved in their furniture, they found they had a gracious room, 20 by 26 feet, with a wide 4-foot open stairway.

around the edges with a brush to keep the roller from touching the walls and away you go with a long-handled roller doing a perfect job.

And the Carltons found there are many people in this world, who are willing and anxious to help the do-it-yourself man.

"Wallpaper stores, for instance, will trim wallpaper for you for about 10 cents a roll. They do it by machine to give you a perfect edge for fitting. It makes it easy to match the pattern. You don't need any special wallpaper. Whatever paper you like can be trimmed at the store."

"Your hardware dealer, lumber man, paint store man, all will help you with sound advice and job pointers."

"New gadgets like paint rollers are a big help, too. I found there was nothing like a paint roller for doing ceilings. Just paint a strip meet inspections. I wanted no trouble with building authorities or insurance men."

Did they ever get discouraged in the midst of their task?

"Oh, yes," both Mr. and Mrs. Carlton answered in unison. "Lots of times. And they got tired, too. When Jack got fed up he would go play golf or go fishing for a change. But the challenge of the job always brought him back to it."

Mrs. Carlton kept the meals going and was always ready to get down from a stepladder, leaving a strip of wallpaper dangling, to find a chisel or some nails for Jack.

'Horsetrading' Helps Handyman

It takes "horsetrading," says A. Carlton, handyman extraordinaire. If you want to modernize a house yourself and do it without spending a lot of money.

The Carlton, "horsetrading" means shopping around, making friends, watching for bargains and using his head when it comes to making new uses out of old articles—just an agreeable easy-going Southern definition without any sharper connotations.

Here are some ways he has made his brand of horsetrading pay off.

"See this lamp post in my front yard?" he asks with a tinge of pride as you approach his house. "That cost me no more than $12 complete. I put it up myself."

"I found the post, with a hollow core, in a used lumber yard. The lantern had been discarded in a junk yard. The crossbar that holds the address sign is a piece of broomstick, decorated with a couple of old knots. A little wiring and taint and that is all there is to it."

"You just have to watch for articles of good basic design. A lantern may be rusty, so most people won't give it a second look. But you can clean up a rusty lantern, paint it to keep it from rusting again, and if it is of good design to begin with, you have a nice-looking fixture."

"Ideas like that have been among Carlton's secrets in renovating and modernizing his entire eight-room house. The results reward him for his efforts and ingenuity.

"How do you like that decoration around the front door?" he asks. "That white ironwork came from old soft drink signs. The signs were worthless, but the decorative ironwork was perfectly good. Just needed a good cleaning and some white paint. Notice how nicely it contrasts against the gray siding of the house. Something like a modern version of the frozen face of the Deep South."

When you step into the spacious Carlton living room and look around, one of the original features of the old house that strikes your eye is its broad open stairway. This stairway is more than four feet wide with a colonial style white banister surmounted by a dark mahogany handrail.

There is an unusual window above the first landing. This window has a heavily carved white frame. It really frames a picture, too, because the window looks out into the treetops. Carlton has put a glass shelf across the middle of the window to hold a few plants with the effect that foliage is brought right into the house.

"That frame?" Carlton repeats in your question. "Oh that's just an old picture frame. It's nailed right over the window frame. Turned out real pretty painted white didn't it?"

The same sense of good design and proportion that has guided him to real finds in castoff articles also has kept him from overdoing novelty in his house. Everything must serve a purpose in his book. And like any man with a good spirit, he is proudest of the work he did in rejuvenating the kitchen.

"Now that kitchen range," he says, "was one of my best buys. Some people were moving and wanted to sell it. Perfectly modern, you'll notice, and a famous-name stove. It would cost more than $300 new. I got it for $25."

"It just needed a good cleaning and a few new parts. By the time I had it refitted and hooked up my total cost came to only $45."

That's the way Carlton shopped around for his bargain. As to the sink and dishwasher—

"I did a favor for a man and he did a favor for me. His wife wanted him to change their kitchen around and this sink and dish washer wouldn't fit in the space they had for it. They had to get one of these combination single electric sinks with built-in dishwasher."

"Well, the dealer would only allow them so much on a trade-in and wasn't very anxious to haul this set up away. So I got the whole thing at the same trade-in price. Hired a plumber to help me hook it up and the total bill came to just about $100."

Two of Carlton's niftiest contrivances are in the breakfast room. One is a round breakfast table, made out of the heavy rack that once held a punching bag. He sanded its matched hardwood surface thoroughly, then finished it with F-shlon, his pet substitute for varnish, and it has shone like a newly completed bowling alley.

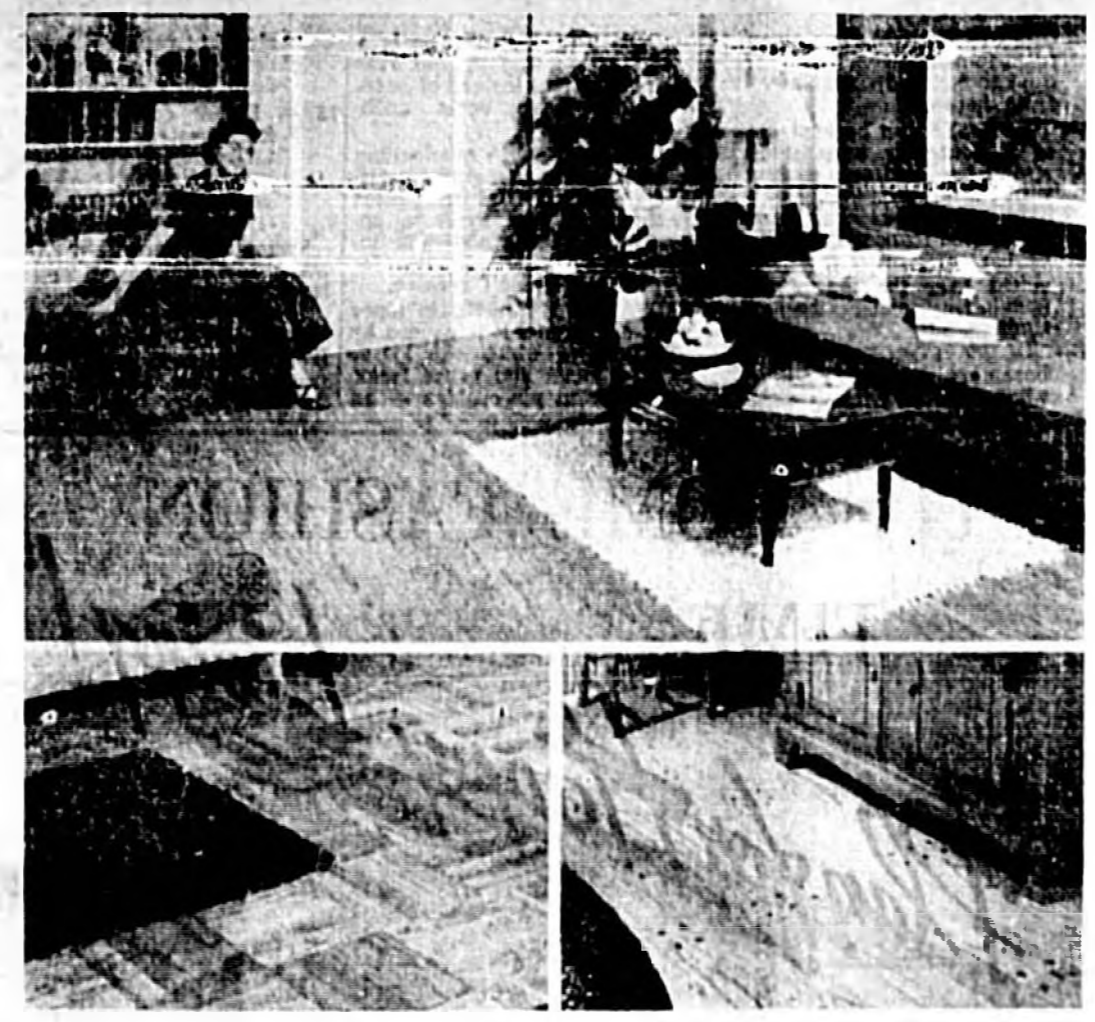

And at the backdoor, where the children enter in all kinds of weather, they can and do stop at the door, sit down on a yellow upholstered leatherette bench, open a little trap door in the end of the bench and statch their rubbers and gashes away.

Atomic By-Product Traces Pipe Leak

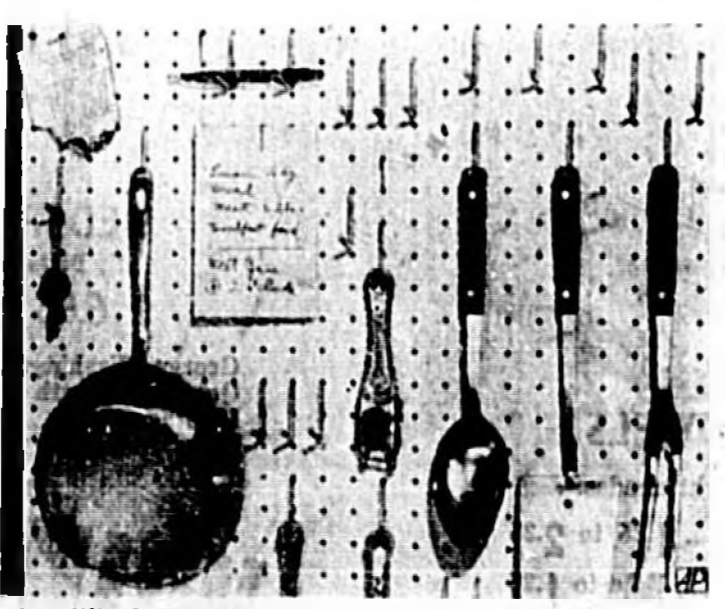

If your radiant heating system leaks don't tear up the whole floor. Just send for a couple of physicist friends like Robert Marden did in Weston, Mass.

The physicists brought along their Geiger counters, injected radioactive iodine 131 into the pipes, and traced it.

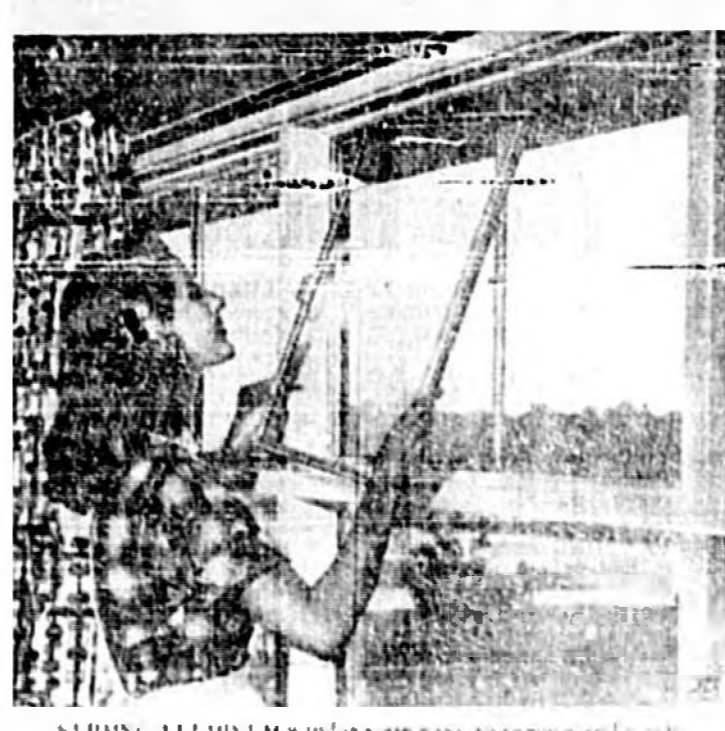

They located the leak within two inches.

More than ever before, decorators and homeowners are planning their rooms around the decorative appeal of attractive floors. Oak floors in particular are widely utilized in this treatment because of their rich natural beauty of grain pattern and coloring. Their ease of upkeep and lifetime durability. Long favored for most rooms, oak is available in three general types or styles. The strip (upper photo) leads the popularity parade.

IN THE KITCHEN a peg-board panel keeps everything handy. Car keys, recipe clippings, memo pad and pencil included.

Sliding aluminum windows are easy to remove and wash.

Service — With Style

Here's a new snack server, as modern as television and as useful as it was in great-grandmother's day. Note particularities: the washable and the drop leaves. The wood is cherry with a gleam finish. (Brand "Almond Works.")

Enough wallpaper is burned each year in the U. S. to build 50,000 modern homes—houses that go up in smoke before they're even built.

PLASTER fallen from the ceiling (note holes) and exposed rusted pipes were among casualties. Old stove had lost an oven door.

Smokes the Bear is the symbol of the Cooperative Forest Fire Prevention Campaign which began in 1942 under the name War Time Forest Fire Prevention Campaign.

On the average one out of five will start every three minutes in the U. S.

The House

virtually all of the work himself in his spare time and without a lot of money. In fact, his cost accounting, best exemplified in the kitchen project, is one of the most amazing parts of his modernizing story.

One look at the kitchen made Mrs. Carlton gasp. "How can this place ever be cleaned up and made livable?" she asked.

The floor was littered with plaster that had fallen from the ceiling. The oven door on an old gas stove had fallen off, revealing a hopelessly rusty interior. Exposed pipes were rusty and rickety. Woodwork was blistered and peeling from too many coats of paint piled on top of one another.

"Don't worry, it can be done," Carlton said.

After cleaning the house thoroughly, he called for bids on fixing up the kitchen. The lowest estimate, not including everything he wanted, was $1,500. The highest still leaving out several wanted items was $2,000.

"I'll do the job myself," Jack declared.

He not only did it, but kept his total expenditures to $324.10, including an automatic dishwasher, a double sink, a modern stove, gleaming white cabinets, linoleum, tile, mosaic, wallpaper, a new ceiling, venetian blinds, curtains, drapes, light fixtures — and a beautiful breakfast room converted out of an old glassed-in porch.

Ask Carlton how he did it and he'll answer in his calm Southern manner:

"Well, it took a lot of doing, you know — planning and figuring, plenty of shopping around and just working away every minute I could spare."

Shopping around was a big factor in keeping his cost down to $324.10.

"Cabinets cost a lot of money if you buy them new," he explains. "But if you use a little elbow grease, sand off thick coats of old paint and then apply a good grade of enamel, you can make beautiful cabinets out of old ones. You can get special enamels for metal. They are not marketing the same kind of enamel used in industry for finishing refrigerators. You just shop around and find these things out."

"This section of base cabinet cost me only $12 and that hanging wall cabinet came to $12.60. The reason was, they were second hand and needed refinishing."

"This base cabinet over here housed the old sink. We wanted a double sink and a dishwasher. So I moved the cabinet, cut off one third of it and turned it 'L' shape in the corner, built shelves to fill in the corner and put one plywood top over the complete 'L'. Then I put a linoleum counter-top over the plywood, rolling it down with a rolling pin and special adhesive, applied this chromium edging to dress it up and made it match all the other cabinets."

Carlton finished his kitchen in red and white with yellow accents. The linoleum on the floor is a rich maroon; cabinets, stove, refrigerator and dishwasher are white. Wall paper has a small red flower pattern on a white background.

The breakfast room is nine paneled and fitted with built-in semi-circular benches upholstered in yellow leatherette. He built and upholstered his own benches.

His refrigerator is not included in his cost schedule, because he had that. He removed an old door to a shallow closet of little use and made this an alcove to set the refrigerator back from usable kitchen floor space. Scalloped millwork and a few shelves above the refrigerator make this an attractive feature of the kitchen.

"This kitchen ceiling is a good example of what you can save by doing things yourself," Carlton said. "The plaster was beyond repair. So I covered the old ceiling with these ceiling panels. You can get them at any lumber supply house. They're ordinary wallboard in squared and beveled sections.

"I got an estimate of $150 for that ceiling job, but because I did the work myself, it cost me only $25 for materials."

Points To Watch In Your House

Here are some of the major points to watch to keep your house weather-tight and in good working order:

- 1 — CHIMNEY CAP — See that it's tight and seals joints between flue lining and masonry.
- 2 — CRACKS or loose mortar in chimney mean trouble ahead. Remove loose mortar and re-point. Seal cracks.
- 3 — FLASHING around chimney, in roof valleys and at ridge should be rust-proof and underlap shingles at least 6 inches.
- 4 — SHINGLES which are curled, warped or split mean roof leaks to come. Replace them.
- 5 — COMPOSITION SHINGLES which flap in the wind mean danger when a real gale blows. Cement the tabs down with asphalt cement—a dab the size of a half-dollar under each tab.
- 6 — ATTIC LOUVERS should provide openings to equal 1 square foot of opening to each 300 square feet of attic floor area. Screening with 1/2-inch mesh to keep out birds and squirrels is acceptable. Screening with insect mesh calls for doubling the size of the openings.
- 7 — CALKING around attic louvers is highly important. Gable ends, where such vents are placed, usually lack overhanging eaves and face into prevailing storms. Open joints admit rain water into walls.
- 8 — FULL INSULATION in attic floor prevents heat loss in winter; heat gain in summer. Check it for settlement. Add more if needed.
- 9 — ROOF GUTTERS prevent rain water from collecting too near to foundation walls, which can cause damp or wet basement.
- 10 — LEADERS or downspouts should lead to adequate drainage — storm sewers or dry wells to keep water away from foundation and basement.
- 11 — SCREENING over roof gutters eliminates frequent cleaning out of leaves and twigs, which clog gutters and cause overflows.
- 12 — FLASHING and calking is needed around all windows and doors to keep water out of walls. Moisture in walls causes paint to peel, plaster to fall.
- 13 — WEATHER STRIPPING around all windows and outer doors seals heat losses equal to a hole 3 to 4 inches in diameter.
- 14 — VAPOR BARRIER directly back of plaster or wallboard keeps indoor moisture from reaching cold outer walls to condense and rot timbers. If this barrier is wrongly placed against cold outer wall it does more harm than good.
- 15 — INSULATION between studs in outer walls forms a blanket to keep a house warm in winter and cool in summer.
- 16 — DIAGONAL sheathing makes for the strongest house in rigidity.
- 17 — BUILDING paper over sheathing stops the wind, but should not be airtight or water-tight. This allows for breathing and the exit of moisture.
- 18 — SIDING of clapboards, shingles, aluminum, masonry veneer or composition materials keeps out the weather. When siding is lumber or lumber products, it must be kept painted to be preserved. When it is masonry, its joints must be kept tight and free from cracks.

19 — GRADING should slope away from foundation in all directions to insure drainage away from house.

20 — TERMITES can be kept out of a house by keeping all wood from direct contact with the ground, letting sunlight and air reach all parts of exposed foundation and by having a rust-proof metal shield over the top of the foundation, under the sill timbers.

21 — DON'T FORGET to paint basement window frames when painting trim.

22 — GENEROUS ventilation is a must under houses built over crawl spaces. Keep vents unobstructed.

23 — BEWARE of overloading electric circuits. Any electrical appliance which causes lights to dim needs a separate circuit. Overload indicators are paying for power you don't receive.

24 — WATER HAMMER in pipes is dangerous. It is caused by vibrations which can loosen pipe joints and cause leaks. Install an air cushion — an airtight vertical length of capped pipe to provide a dead end lined with soft rubber. KEEP combustibles away from heater. Keep paint and all volatile liquids out of the house. Prevent rubbish from collecting.

Systems for forest fire control was established on national forest lands about forty years ago.

When trees burn, people lose their jobs, merchants lose their trade and the prosperity of the whole country suffers.

Soft Rubber Tile is Easiest to Lay
An easy do-it-yourself home decorating project. Lay tile in a wavy pattern to rejuvenate dilapidated floors with bright colored rubber tile patterns.

Unlike hard tiles, rubber tile calls for no blow torch, is easy to cut and lay.

You can get a folder of instructions and step-by-step directions from your floor covering dealer, or by writing to the Rubber Manufacturers Association, 41 Madison Ave. New York, and asking for "How You Can Lay a Rubber Tile Floor."

Two Luminous Paints
There are two kinds of luminous paints. One, the fluorescent, glows only when it is activated by artificial light—such as headlights or under ultraviolet, "black" light. The other is phosphorescent paint, which continues to glow for several hours after sunlight or other stimulation is gone.

Report unattended woods fires to your county forest fire control unit. If the number is not listed in your telephone book under Emergency Numbers, ask the operator for it.

Collins Says Would Hold Probe For Ex-Employees

Proposal Offers Suspended Men Chance For Jobs

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—One of his first acts as governor, says State Sen. Lelley Collins, democratic nominee, will be to hold hearings for 16 McCarthy appointees suspended by Acting Gov. Charley Johns.

DR. HAROLD UREY tells a U.C.L.A. audience that "if the hydrogen bomb can be harnessed as a source of power, the world will have the energy equivalent of all the oceans of the earth turned into gasoline."

Collins told newsmen yesterday he will reinstate the men if Johns' charges are not sustained but then will expect their immediate resignation "thereby giving me a completely free hand to make such appointments as I feel are proper to carry out our program."

The action, he said, would be to clear their names "of the stigma of the suspensions."

Johns, defeated by Collins Tuesday, ousted the appointees soon after taking over the duties of governor upon the death of Gov. Dan McCarty in September.

He accused some of them of misfeasance and malfeasance in office. Johns' critics said the charges were trumped up.

The suspended appointees include five state road board members, five state racing commissioners, five members of the state supply authority and the hotel commissioner.

Collins said he would expect resignations from State Motor Vehicle Commissioner E. V. Fisher and Conservation Supervisor Charles Bevis, both appointed by McCarty. They offered to resign after Johns took over, but the acting governor refused.

Barring an unlikely Republican upset in the November general election, Collins will take office in January to serve out the remaining two years of McCarty's term. Tom Watson of Tampa, former state attorney general, is his Republican opponent.

Collins said he has nothing to announce on an appointment in top positions "except they're going to be fine, able and determined men and women who will be a credit to the state."

He said the program will be "to get done everything we've got in the platform."

He continued, "I'm impressed with the necessity to go further in developing a personnel system that will eliminate political coercion, intimidation and fear."

"We want to give protection to state employes and actually are doing good jobs for the state. That reform goes further than dealing with the present employe group. We want to make state employment more attractive to well trained and qualified young people who are willing to make government a career."

He said the "political type" of public employe must be eliminated and that better workers can only be attracted if they are certain their jobs won't depend on "voting right."

Collins said he would keep a "cautious eye" on the progress of Johns' program. He said he would not make commitments which will hamper or involve his administration.

SRD Head Says Plan Continues

MIAMI (AP)—Chairman Fred Webb said today the State Road Department is going right ahead with the $100 million road building program promised by Acting Gov. Johns.

He said the board expects to let contracts for the entire program before next January, when a new governor takes office. LeRoy Collins defeated Johns for the Democratic nomination Tuesday.

"We don't propose to involve any administration," Webb said. "The road board is composed of five businessmen who are much interested in the state and its welfare. We propose to build the roads we started out to build."

Webb said his board had let more than $20 million dollars in contracts during the brief Johns administration and would do about $10 million more.

There will be another contract letting in Tallahassee on June 15, he said.

Cohn Speaks Against Stevens, Counselor Says Did Not Want Hearings

Tells Probe Of Luncheon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Roy M. Cohn swore today Secretary Stevens and Army counselor John G. Adams tried to block the McCarthy subcommittee's probe for Communists in the Army, and quoted Adams as saying it would be "a feather in his cap" if no hearings were held.

Under oath, the 27-year-old chief of staff to Sen. McCarthy also said Adams had been in the McCarthy camp during the Army's investigation of Stevens.

Cohn said Adams had no direct request that the subcommittee drop its investigation but made it very clear it would be a "welcome news" if the subcommittee would turn the inquiry over to the Army itself.

Cohn said Adams had not favor doing this, partly because of a "strongly alarmed" reaction at the subcommittee's hearing at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., in March.

Navy Counts 91 Dead, 201 Injured In Blasts

Four-Man Board Of Inquiry Named To Probe Bennington Catastrophe

QUONSET POINT, R. I. (AP)—The Navy counted 91 known dead today and 201 injured, many of them critically, in the devastating explosion-fires aboard the aircraft carrier Bennington 75 miles at sea.

The 32,000-ton carrier, a proud bearer of numerous battle honors in World War II, was rocked by the disaster early yesterday off New England.

A violent blast on the second or third deck below the flight deck was followed by searing flames which roared through many forward compartments. Then came at least one more explosion.

Scores were trapped in sleeping quarters. Many suffocated. Many perished in the flames.

The disaster, one of the worst in peacetime U.S. naval history, was the second aboard a carrier in New England waters in less than a year. Last October, 37 died in an explosion and fire on the carrier Lexington while she was docked in Boston.

A four-man court of inquiry, headed by Rear Adm. John M. Jenkins, commander of the Quonset Naval Air Station, was named to begin investigating today.

Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas, who flew to Quonset for a quick inspection, and Capt. William E. Raborn, Jr., Bennington skipper for only a month, said there was no indication of sabotage.

Raborn, from Oklahoma City, said the cause of the explosion is "a mystery to me."

All leads have proved groundless, he said. "There was nothing explosive in the area where the explosions took place."

The "best information" he said, is that the blast occurred "possibly at the five-inch fuse magazine." He emphasized that this information had not been confirmed.

The big carrier was en route back to Newport, across Narragansett Bay from Quonset Point, on a routine training mission.

Aboard were four squadrons of about 100 men each which make up Air Task Group 181, based at the Quonset Naval Air Station near Norfolk, Va. The squadron boarded the Bennington last weekend.

The blast shook the Bennington just after the first of the four squadrons had been launched—a common practice aboard carriers nearing air bases.

"Realizing a serious catastrophe occurred we launched the rest of the air group to free the decks for the southern battens for the first time and starting back. They reached the 13,000-foot level."

"It was just a silly little accident," Wood said. "One of Thyra's feet slipped—probably because his clamped-on spikes lost their grip. He tumbled over the precipice and all of us went with him."

"I recall falling and falling. Thyra died because he struck a ledge sticking out of the cliff. Argus broke the fall by tumbling into deep snow which stopped him and pushed us to a stop."

They all tumbled together. After remaining at the scene of the accident for a week, Wood and Vierck tried to save Argus. The mountaineers on an inflatable mist net were up at the 11,000-foot level. There they left him Sunday in a tent. Argus had a broken hip and possibly other broken bones, they said.
