Pile of Business May Delay End of This Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress returns today from Labor Day visits home, with two hot issues for immediate attention and a pile of unfinished business threatening the chances of adjourning before the Nov. 8 election.

Senate leaders expect to move promptly for consideration of the civil rights bill with its controversial provisions against discrimination in some housing. It — as is expected — opponents adopt filibuster tactics, the bill may be set aside while the Senate completes action on fiscal and other major legislation. The civil rights debate will be expected to consume weeks.

The House has scheduled consideration Wednesday of a bill to limit certain bank deposits. It is the only legislation being introduced on the hot political issue of expensive and tight money, but it touches only one facet of the problem — the competition between banks and savings and loan institutions for money to finance mortgages.

The main fight will come on a choice between two versions of the legislation. One, by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., House Banking Committee chairman, would put a 4.5 per cent ceiling on interest paid on time deposits — those left with banks for a fixed period — up to $10,000. The other, backed by the Johnson administration, would leave the ceiling up to the Federal Reserve Board.

Patman contended in a letter to all Democratic members that his bill is the only one that "plainly says it is the intent of Congress that interest rates be lowered."

More than 20 bills await reconciliation of differences between Senate and House versions.

91 Candles for Mr. Penney

James Cash Penney, founder of the department store chain of nearly 1,700 stores bearing his name, will observe his 91st birthday on Friday, Sept. 16, Mr. Penney, still a director of the Penney Company, made a sharp impact on retailing through his insistence on applying the Golden Rule to business.

Penney's 45-story headquarters in New York is a dramatic contrast to Mr. Penney's first store, opened in 1902 in Kemmerer, Wyo.

The Penney founder has a strong interest in opportunities for young people, especially in retailing. Says Mr. Penney, "Chances for success for those with good education and the right attitude have never been better."

Local Penney's Store Will Honor Founder

James Cash Penney, founder of the nationwide chain of department stores bearing his name, will observe his 91st birthday on Friday, Sept. 16.

Associates at the Penney store here will participate in the observance by sharing an appropriately decorated cake, according to Manager C. L. Robinson.

While he has not been directly in the company's management for a number of years, Mr. Penney continues to serve on the board of directors. This makes him one of the last retail pioneers still active in the business here.

Mr. Penney has an office on the top floor of the company's store. Three major ones may see action this week.

One is the $3.5-million foreign aid authorization, which lacks only Senate approval of compromise. Another is the minimum wage bill, still facing a fight in the House as to whether to put the new top rate, $1.68 an hour, into effect in 1969 or 1969. The third is the $38-billion defense appropriation. The Senate and House are in dispute over provisions authorizing the President to call up some Reservists. He has not asked for such authorization.

Burrowing Nematodes Can Destroy A Grove

By DOYLE CONNER
Secretary of Agriculture
TALLAHASSEE — (Special to The Herald) — Would you believe that a roundworm the size of a pinpoint can destroy an orange grove?

One roundworm, of course, can't, but let a huge generation of burrowing nematodes linger awhile and they will.

Nematodes are small round worms, measuring about 1/50 of an inch. The damage they do can be measured in the millions of dollars.

Probably the first record of plant-parasitic nematodes in the United States was in Florida. Back in 1888, W. H. Ashmead of the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station at Lake City reported that he had found root-knot nematodes attacking peaches.

This past month it was my privilege to address the first meeting ever held in Florida by the Society of Nematologists. Over 100 of these scientists from various parts of the world gathered at Daytona Beach for their annual session. A number of Florida nematologists, including three from the Department's Division of Plant Industry, attended the meeting.

More than 200 different kinds of Florida plants are susceptible to devastation by the burrowing nematode. The nematodes attack the feeder roots and draw out the juices.

An ominous milestone was reached on February 21, 1957, when inspectors for the old State Plant Board (now the Department's Division of Plant Industry) detected cyst nematodes in citrus groves near Argyle to Pensacola, Florida.

The Soil and Crop Science Society of Florida began active support of nematology during the 1930's, and its 1942 annual meeting emphasized nematodes. Researchers had become well aware of the seriousness of Florida's looming problem and were making every effort to communicate their concern to the agricultural community.

For example, strong programs dealing with vegetables and turmeric production problems were a result of Dr. J. R. Cantler's discovery in the late 1940's of the tremendous importance of ectoparasitic nematodes to our agriculture.

The problem in the state's citrus groves which bore the general name of "spreading decline" was not known to be the result of burrowing nematode activity until Citrus Experiment Station researchers were able to document the fact in 1952.

Within three years, burrowing nematode infestations were found in more than 1,000 citrus groves covering 6,000 acres, 130 citrus nurseries and 170 ornamental nurseries in 32 counties of our state.

It didn't take long before the burrowing nematode was recognized as Florida's agricultural enemy number one, and our citrus growers were understandably alarmed over the continued spread of the pest.

Although over 10,000 acres of Florida citrus have been taken out of production because of the burrowing nematode, something is being done to contain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although present activities are continuing approval of new Head Start programs is being held up pending congressional action on new anti-poverty appropriations, officials said today.

The Office of Economic Opportunity, under which Head Start and other anti-poverty programs operate, is one of the agencies for which appropriations have not been completed.

Since the fiscal year started July 1, these agencies have been given month-to-month spending authority, limited generally to last year's figures.

Head Start projects already underway are being given priority in allocation of available funds, officials said, and action on new applications is being held up accordingly.

Head Start classes, for needy pre-school children, are of two kinds. Summer programs for those preparing to enter school have been completed for this year. Some areas, however, operate year-round programs open to children as young as three years, and it is these which are getting priority.

E. D. Kirchhoff, executive director of Seminole Community Action, Inc., said today that the local office had not received any official notification on the matter.

"We had made application for Head Start funding, but have not received approval, because funds for next year's operations have not yet been appropriated by Congress," he explained.

Field workers of the local office and the consulting committee have been working for several months on compiling the necessary information for approval of the program and an application has been submitted.

"We had been informed that no new programs would be started until funds for next year were appropriated. The local Head Start program is planned as a year-round operation, and when funds are made available," he noted.

It had been hoped that a program to provide pre-school preparation for education could be set up here to serve approximately 200 disadvantaged children.

"We had originally hoped to get started in September but obviously that is not possible and we have no idea when it might be. We have understood that the matter would not come before Congress until sometime in November. They are still working on the budget, which has top priority," Kirchhoff commented.

When we get a new Junior High School (two years away) the present facility (?) will still be used. Although we hear the front will be renovated. Now, why doesn't the state consider across building an overpass so our kids won't get killed. We hope to tour the school soon but we hear the faculty has done wonders putting some 1,500 students in a school able to accommodate only 800.

Opps! By the way plans for the new junior high school are in Tallahassee and they call for a new facility next to the high school complex. The land has already been purchased.

Governor's Race Roundup

Two Clash Over Crime

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
MIAMI (AP)—The two rivals for governor of Florida have high offered rebuttal when asked to speak against crime in this area.

Republican nominee Claude Kirk charged Democratic nominee Robert King High with failure to provide leadership in warring on crime. He said also that there aren't enough Miami policemen and that High voted in 1959 against raising the pay of those there were.

High—mayor of Miami—replied that his anti-poverty vote was on a general employ pay boost, not just police, and the taxpayers couldn't afford it.

He said, "my entire public career shows that I have been outspoken against crime in this area."

The GOP standard bearer said that if elected he will give High a stated period in which to clean up Miami, which he said the FBI has held just behind Los Angeles as the nation's No. 2 "sin city."

If High doesn't show satisfactory results, Kirk said, "the state will do it for him."

Kirk said serious crime flourishes in Miami only "because it is tolerated."

Commented High: "Miamians know me and know that the untold story cannot make deals with me."

Kirk said that in 1959 Miami had a population of 250,000 and 280 policemen. Now, he said, "with a population of 350,000 Miami has a police force of only 618."

Kirk said long range objectives in fighting crime should include changing laws that seem to shield criminals, and doing away with crime-breeding conditions such as slums and substandard education.

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Claude Kirk trails Democrat Robert King High nearly three to one in campaign contributions to date, according to financial reports submitted to the Secretary of State's office.

High reports total contributions for the primary races and the coming general election of $523,468, while Kirk has received $185,836 for the entire campaign to date.

General election reports show $154,573 for High and $122,021 for Kirk.

Longwood Council Woes

It will again take the Longwood City Council three months to pass its budget this year.

The budget to total $160,000 and require a $50 million increase in taxes is scheduled to come up for its first reading at the regular meeting of council Thursday evening.

At a workshop session which took place "in the dark" last night the electricity was off, Longwood informed the board he would vote against the budget because of an allocation for the fire department of $2,500 for a down payment on a new fire truck, while Williamson objected to the $37,000 for the police department and the raise in the Williamson school budget.

The police department allocation (largest single item in the budget) is just a little less than the Caselberry and Altamonte Police Departments combined budgets for 1966 and more than double last year's allocation.

The $2,500 for down payment on a new fire truck is in addition to $1,000 which the department plans to donate out of the fire department of $2,500 for a down payment on a new fire truck, while Williamson objected to the $37,000 for the police department and the raise in the Williamson school budget.

Slain Leader's Policies To Stand

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South Africa's ruling white Nationalist party announced its "unshakable determination" today to maintain the course set by its assassinated leader, Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd.

As police continued their investigation of Verwoerd's assassination, the party's parliamentary caucus met in Cape Town to approve a message of condolence on the death of their leader Tuesday.

The pledge to uphold his policies confirmed expectations that Verwoerd's death would mean no modification of the government's militant apartheid policy of racial segregation.

The caucus is expected to meet next week to select a new party leader who automatically will become prime minister. The party has almost a 3-1 majority in Parliament.

There was no announcement yet of funeral plans for Verwoerd, but Radio South Africa said he probably would be given a state funeral Friday in Pretoria, the administrative capital.

The South African Press Association said the funeral probably would be held Saturday.

Following Verwoerd's assassination, Finance Minister Theophilus Dönges became acting prime minister.

Dönges was considered a strong contender for the premiership.

Others mentioned as possible successors are Transport Minister Ben Schoeman, a former reliant worker who is leader of the House of Assembly, and Justice Minister Balharzo Vorster.

Vorster, at 51 one of the cabinet's younger members, is likely to get support from extreme rightist elements in the ruling party. He drafted most of the country's harsh suppression of communism laws, under which the government's apartheid policy of racial segregation is being enforced, and is responsible for internal security.

There is little or no likelihood that Vorster's successor will modify the Nationalist government's apartheid policies, which have the backing of the majority of the country's 3.1 million whites. There are 10 million blacks in South Africa.

Police so far have not released any information on their interrogation of Dimakatso Tledana, a white parliamentary messenger they identified as the man who plunged a knife into Verwoerd's heart and neck as the 64-year-old prime minister sat at his desk in Parliament.

But Tledana's coworkers said he was obsessed with the high cost of living which he said especially penalized South Africa's "poor whites," mostly manual workers on the lower income scale.

'Virgins' Charter Pledges Swamp League Of Honor

READING, England (AP) — So many teenage girls want to take a no-ex view that the Reading League of Honor is in danger of collapse.

"It's all become too big for our small society to handle," said organizer Fred Jackman, 50. Jackman, who has two teenage daughters, is secretary of the Reading Temperance Society, which founded the league several months ago. Girls were invited to sign a form pledging to renounce sex outside marriage, and encourage other youngsters to do the same.

The pledge became known locally as "the virgins' charter." Word of its existence spread to other parts of England and to countries overseas. The result, said the worried organizer, was that hundreds of girls wrote to Reading asking for copies of the pledge. It is becoming just too much work for Jackman.

"What we need now," he told a reporter, "is someone interested in the scheme to take over as national secretary. Unpaid, I'm afraid."

Trained Aides Quit Institutions

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Prisoners and other correctional institutions are losing trained personnel because of the working environment. Florida State University Prof. Leonard J. Hippenhan said today.

Hippenhan, a new member of the personnel-social workers, psychologists and psychiatrists — were leaving their jobs because of the working environment rather than as a result of low salaries.

"When professional people go into an institution as a majority to expand the treatment program they often find themselves in conflict with the traditional orientation which can hamper their treatment efforts," he said.

"They may become frustrated over the custodial-treatment conflict, and some may leave," he said.

ACA Pictures Voting Changes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans for Constitutional Action says changing patterns of voting are carrying members of the House and Senate away from a liberal and toward a conservative stance.

Two Republican senators — Wallace F. Bennett of Utah and Milward L. Simpson of Wyoming — and 14 House members, none from the South, were rated as 10 per cent conservative.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Grant Sawyer of Nevada has won Democratic renomination for a third term after a primary election campaign that focused on gambling operations.

In another primary election Tuesday, an Iowa State University history professor breezed to the Democratic nomination for senator and a fellow faculty member held a slim lead in the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

In North Dakota, a member of the John Birch Society was defeated by the Republican organ. Jack Miller in the general election.

Miller, a farmer and distant cousin of the late president who campaigned on a peace platform.

The winner will meet Democratic Gov. Harold E. Hughes, unopposed for re-nomination, in the general election.

None of Iowa's seven House members, La. Democrats and a Republican — had primary opponents.

In North Dakota, former Bismarck Mayor Thomas S. Clapp was the 2nd District GOP congressional nomination, defeating Birch Society member Martin Valter by a 2-1 margin.

School Transfers Eyed In County

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Transfer of elementary students living west of Highway 17-92 in Casseberrys from South Seminole School to English Estates School is expected as soon as problems of transportation can be worked out.

Meeting today to discuss the situation with Herbert Muse, coordinator of transportation for Seminole County, are Principals C. M. Harp, of South Seminole, and Mrs. Margaret Reynolds, of English Estates.

Harp reported at Tuesday night's meeting of the South Seminole County of Teachers and Parents, that he has 871 students enrolled. Based on an average of 25 students per class, South Seminole can accommodate only 400 youngsters.

If the transfer becomes effective, parents will be notified through letter sent by the students of the change and of new bus schedules, Harp said.

Sand Lake Road Still A Puzzle

The Sand Lake Road controversy remains unsolved. The board of county commissioners continued their test-trotting ways of trying to please property owners on both the north and south sides of the road in its attempt to find a satisfactory solution of re-alignment of the deviated course of the road at its Tuesday meeting.

Mrs. Harry Williamson appeared to complain that she and her neighbors had not been informed as promised before the matter was discussed last week.

Commission Chairman John Alexander advised "the board had not taken any action" and authorized proper advertising for public sales with minimum bid of $200 plus costs to be placed with the clerk and authorized a dredging permit be issued after Oct. 1 to the Fern Park Orthodox Church in Fern Park for dredging in Lake of the Woods with restriction that dredging take place no nearer than 200 feet off shore in water at least six feet deep.

Harp reported at Tuesday night's meeting of the South Seminole County of Teachers and Parents, that he has 871 students enrolled. Based on an average of 25 students per class, South Seminole can accommodate only 400 youngsters.

If the transfer becomes effective, parents will be notified through letter sent by the students of the change and of new bus schedules, Harp said.

'Dr. Sam' Arraignment Thursday

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Strict rules for newsmen will be a effect for Thursday's scheduled arraignment of Samuel J. Sheppard, who was ordered to be retried when the U. S. Supreme Court ruled excessive publicity jeopardized the impartiality of his 1954 murder trial.

The state appealed the release order to the Supreme Court, which sent the case back to the court's journal, must be re-prosecuted. Cuyahoga County prosecutor said he would try Sheppard on a charge of second degree murder.

In July, Sheppard's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, of Boston, said he would be the arraigner.

Inflation Is A Pickpocket President Opines

NEW YORK (AP) — The two hottest things this year have been the weather and the economy, and there is a good chance that neither will cool much until fall.

Temperatures can be forecast closely and measured exactly. But what happens when Washington blows coolants on the economy? It's not nearly as precise.

Inflation is a pickpocket. President Johnson says, but a recession resulting from too much anti-inflation would be a housebreaker.

The economy has been booming now for 4 1/2 years and its interest rates in 40 or 45 years. As some economists view it, the inflation is demanding too much from its body, perhaps pushing itself beyond its ability to fulfill its wishes.

Should demand be cooled? How? By high interest rates, taxes, less government spending, or perhaps increase taxes. In other words, use fiscal policy as a scalpel. It can be measured out when you consider that an overdose could provoke a recession?

The burden of slowing demand so far has been on interest rates — monetary policy — and much of the banking community is angry. Few people like high interest for long. The banks of course get more for their money but they pay more.

Should there be a monetary policy of many months ago, for example, are just now cutting into demand.

Secondly, there is much disagreement among the experts on the potential effect of any measure.

Proof that the same figures mean different things are the economic predictions of last December, supposedly scientifically arrived at and now being revised — scientifically.

Focus on this variety of interpretation came this week from the First National City Bank, the third largest in the nation, which broke ranks with much of the banking fraternity and suggested that perhaps we've been misreading the economic signals.

Maybe demand is not excessive, the bank said. Perhaps inflation can be checked by encouraging productivity growth rather than by checking demand too harshly.

Yellowstone, which became the first national park in 1872, is still the nation's largest with 3,472 square miles.

Sanford GI To Be Honored With Silver Star

SP5 James C. Bennett Jr., 23, of Sanford, is being presented with his country's third highest award, the Silver Star, for gallantry in action while in South Viet Nam during ceremonies at Camp Campbell, Ky., on Sept. 15.

The Silver Star and two Bronze Star medals will be presented at a retreat parade and awards ceremony of the 101st Airborne Division Support Command.

Bennett is a former resident of Sanford and attended Sanford Junior High School. He is the nephew of Lt. C. P. Bennett, of the Sanford fire department.

Bennett was in South Viet Nam just 362 days as a medical corpsman with the 101st and became affectionately known as "Doc."

Bennett, only 18 years old, was at Can-Thin on Feb. 6 when he was wounded five times. His platoon was pinned down from two directions but "with complete disregard for his safety, Bennett ran through devastating fire to aid the wounded, though his himself five times," according to the 101st commanding general.

The day began when he "ran 500 yards through a minefield in the dark to answer the stick-en cry of two soldiers who had been hit by an exploding mine."

During the next few hours he went on the aid of other wounded Americans, dozens of times, mostly under heavy fire and after being wounded, by crawling to the men and administering first aid.

And then, when the wounded were being taken out by helicopter, Bennett refused to go. Shortly thereafter he was stopped only by mortar fragments that hit him while he was dragging a paratrooper to safety.

Bennett joined the Army in 1964, went to South Viet Nam with the 101st Airborne, arriving on July 28, 1965.

Galleries, caves, basins and tunnels riddle the 1,388-foot-high Rock of Gibraltar. High gorges have been sunk deep into the stone to catch rain-water.

About 100,000 Europeans live on boats and canal barges, says the National Geographic.

It's Up To YOU!

School bells are ringing again in Seminole County and school zones are among our most important traffic areas for safer driving. It is again that time of the year when parents shudder and say a short prayer each time they hear the wail of an ambulance siren. "Jesse" and "Jane" are going to and from school and this is the time when motorists and students alike should take special precautions to avoid accidents.

There are many ways in which we can keep down the sound of those shrieking sirens by reducing or eliminating accidents which main and kill. Here are a few tips thanks to the Sheriff's office and Sanford Police Department:

Be extra careful drivers at all times, particularly in school zones. Obey traffic light signals and those of the police and schoolboy patrol. Stop your own vehicle when a school bus stops to take on or unload passengers. Give extra attention to that youngster on the bike and the one about to dart across the street in front of your car.

Teach your own youngsters the importance of obeying the traffic rules and do not depend on the "other fellow" to look out for them. Teach your children that there are traffic rules for pedestrians as well as bicycle riders and motorists.

Do not allow your older youngster a car of his own, or use of the family car, unless he or she is licensed and mature enough to realize that the vehicle can be turned into a lethal weapon through carelessness. Remind the young driver that he is liable for the lives of his passengers.

Sanford and Seminole County can be thankful because of the few tragedies which have struck our students, but there have been accidents right here in our community which have left crippled children, dead children and saddened parents. There will be others. What will you do to prevent them?

The Sheriff's office and police department are doing their job—and we commend them—NOW will you do yours.

Thought For Today

Before destruction a man's heart is haughty, but humility goes before honor.—Proverbs 18:12.

Humility leads to strength and not to weakness. It is the highest form of self-respect to admit mistakes and to make amends for them.—John J. McCloy, American diplomat.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Hal is a victim of "love hypnosis." He is as helpless as the hypnotist's patient, when he meets a girl with red hair, freckles and large hands. So see why such a combination is the "trigger" for his love. And he all means employ the "Sweetheart Tests" below when you pick a mate! USE your head before the wedding and your heart afterwards!

CASE A-521: Hal T., aged 38, has been divorced twice. "Dr. Crane," his business partner began, "Hal is now planning to marry again."

"But this wife is totally unsuited to him."

"They have almost nothing in common, so I am positive he will be back in the divorce court within a year if he goes through with his wedding."

"So can't you talk a little sense into his head? He will not listen to me or any of his other friends for he seems infatuated."

Hal showed me color pictures of his previous two wives, as well as his present fiancée. They all looked much alike. All three of them had red hair, freckles and large hands. So I figured that Hal's emotions were "triggered" by a "letch" that must involve this type of woman.

After a long session with his body,

Hal found that he had been a lonely child in a wealthy home. His father was gone most of the time and too preoccupied with the stock market quotations to be a good father. His mother was a New York socialite who was more interested in new gowns and hats than in tucking Hal into bed at night.

Governesses and maids thus served as his caretakers. But he never got accustomed to any one of them for long.

So Hal led a very lonely, loveless childhood.

But there was one ray of brightness therein. A kindly Irish maid, who had red hair, freckles and large bony hands, would pat him on the head and kiss him goodbye when she went home at night. She would bring him toys and cookies.

Thus, she subconsciously "marked" Hal in the boy's realm so that he associated affection with red haired women who had freckles and large, bony hands.

Hal didn't realize that he had been "conditioned" or "marked" so that such a woman would trigger a rush of love and happiness all throughout his life.

But when he became an adult and chanced to meet such a girl, he was immediately smitten by her.

It was love at first sight on Hal's part, even though the girl was unsuitable on many counts. Hal had couldn't see their lack of congeniality at all for she was always a veritable angel in human form.

Hal thus felt as helpless to resist such a girl as the patient feels toward the hypnotist who has him under full control!

The usual case of love at first sight, can be traced to some such "triggering" of childhood emotions, as by the shape of face or gesture or tone of voice possessed by a favorite brother or sister, dad or mother.

So learn to use your head when you pick a mate and then you can develop love even after the ceremony.

Send for my 200-page "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a flat stamped, return envelope plus 50¢.

Don't marry anybody who falls below the "Superior" category on that vital test.

Bruce Bissat — Ray Cromley Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The nation's judiciary, the heralded "third branch" in the constitutional U.S. system, is moving in the way toward breaking down in some critical areas.

The courts—federal, state and local—are generally so overburdened, so inefficient and so ill-equipped to cope with the avalanche of problems descending upon them that justice is either being delayed or denied in thousands upon thousands of cases.

From 1962 through 1965, the case backlog in all U.S. district courts rose 16 per cent to an astonishing 74,000.

More than 1,700 cases in New York's Southern District, where 24 judges preside, last summer had been pending more than three years. In Pennsylvania's Eastern District, with 11 judges, the rising backlog reached 6,000 last year, with the median delay between issue and trial measured at 40 months.

State courts are no better. The average litigant in Cook County, Illinois, waits nearly six months from filing to trial in a Circuit Court civil jury case. The backlog in Texas exceeds 212,000 cases.

Unaccounted thousands of individuals and many corporations are simply being injured rather than undertake the cost of litigation in time and money.

Thousands of cases are settled out of court, often with no justice to the complainant, for the same reason.

In case after case, the result of this near-breakdown in the judicial system is to reward the offender, to let the civil wrong doer, sometimes even the nuisance-maker who figures it may not be worth his victim's trouble to sue.

The alarms are really ringing now, but they seem not to

Helen Fuller Says: LBJ Seeks Stray Demos

WASHINGTON—Traditionally Democratic Presidents celebrate Labor Day with a speech in Cadillac Square in Detroit—a stronghold of organized labor's political power.

This year there was more than tradition to draw President Johnson to Michigan. Labor is restless, critical in many respects of him and certain of his policies. Johnson's celebrated consensus is slipping in a sector he had counted on to be solid for his party in the 1968 and 1968—elections.

Only the President himself could tighten the old Labor-Democratic alliance. That, as much as tradition, turned Lyndon Johnson toward Detroit to observe Labor Day.

Johnson knew that in Cadillac Square he would be playing to a tough audience. Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers union which packs so much political punch in Michigan politics, had just rejected his strong opposition to the Johnson policy in Vietnam. Following the recent Executive Council meeting of the AFL-CIO, Reuther publicly declared his disagreement with the resolution of approval for our actions in Viet Nam.

It was no small task for the President to undertake to change Reuther's mind—or to steal away the allegiance of Reuther's membership on the vast issue.

It was even harder perhaps to know how to deal with the rebellion against the Administration's "guideline" limits on wage increases. Auto workers have all but served notice that the union will strike rather than agree to a new contract that does not increase annual pay more than the 3.2 per cent set under the President's guideline formula.

Labor in Detroit was in no mood to listen to the President explain why they must agree to the public interest to do what they consider unjust.

The famed Johnson consensus on politics is not holding firm in the sector of organized labor—the sector which until recently the President considered per-

Hal Boyle Says Age Of Frustration

NEW YORK (AP) — In an era that is sometimes called "the age of frustration," rare indeed is the human being who is not the sufferer from the blues. But such a man seems Jack Lemmon.

The boucny film actor, whose gift for comedy has won him one Oscar and three other nominations for an Academy Award, never seems to be in the dumps. He always appears to be in a good mood, as if he had just reached in his pocket and discovered he held a winning ticket in the sweepstakes.

"I don't have any personal recipe for curing the blues, because I don't have any time for them," Jack responded.

A frantic air of involvement in many things is typical of Lemmon, who enjoys racing through life in high spirits and high gear.

"To get involved is a very good thing, I believe," he said. "It takes you out of yourself. When you keep busy you don't have the time to brood and magnify little troubles into big ones. If you keep a broad perspective on your life, you can't help realizing that most of the things that bother you are only temporary — and that you really aren't suffering as much as you think you are."

"Anyway, people love to tell how wonderfully terrible their lives are. They take pride in the thought that the mess we are in is the worst one possible."

"This year there was more than tradition to draw President Johnson to Michigan. Labor is restless, critical in many respects of him and certain of his policies. Johnson's celebrated consensus is slipping in a sector he had counted on to be solid for his party in the 1968 and 1968—elections.

Humidity

Every air conditioning system cools. Naturally. But heat is only half the problem. The other half is humidity, that soggy moisture in the air that causes so much summer misery.

Air conditioning by Carrier takes moisture in its stride...removes as much as 5 gallons of water per day from the air in the average home. Other benefits: Freedom from mildew. No sticking furniture drawers. Cleanliness and freedom from outside noise. All leading, of course, to greater comfort for your family.

Knock the heat and the humidity...with Carrier. Why settle for less? Call us today for a free survey.

Raymond Bellamy Is Honored

By R. R. THOMAS JR.
322-5756

Raymond Bellamy was feted with a surprised birthday party by his wife, Mrs. Katherine Bellamy at their home recently. Mrs. Louise Milton assisted her niece in preparing for the affair.

Like most surprise parties, whether birthday or just a party, this one had its moments. After having been called from home, the honoree returned later. Entering his dimly lighted house, he was greeted by guests singing "Happy Birthday to You."

As in many cases, there were tears, and the gathering passed for a moment for the honoree to wipe away same.

Rev. S. W. Washington led the group in prayer, and a song was led by Deacon Young.

A repast of fried chicken, potato salad, rice crackers, birthday cake and ice cream was served buffet style.

Many nice and useful gifts were given to the honoree. He thanked everyone for helping him enjoy a happy birthday.

On departing, each expressed himself as having had an enjoyable afternoon.

Those attending were: Rev. and Mrs. S. W. Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Young, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Linder, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Milton, Mr. and Mrs. Hill, Willie Dixon and family, Mrs. Shesha Williams, Mrs. Bessie Smith, Deacon Harry Brown, Mrs. Eleanor Holmes, Mrs. Madita Presha, Mrs. A. ### Politico, TV Star Launch Fight For Governorship

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Republican Ronald Reagan begin two months of handshaking and speechmaking this week in the official climax of their contest for the governorship of the populous, problem-filled California.

Preliminary scuffling ends today when the 61-year-old governor steps before a Labor Day crowd at the Alameda County Fairgrounds and tells working men why they should give him a third term. Only U.S. Chief Justice Earl Warren, a Republican, won three races for governor in this state.

That begins a five-day tour taking Brown through the farm fields of the central valley, into Los Angeles, up to San Francisco and back home to Sacramento.

Actor Reagan will launch his fall campaign Friday. He'll be seen on a statewide telecast that night, preceded by a news conference in Los Angeles.

California voters vote until Nov. 8, but strong attacks by both sides, and deep divisions over the issues, already have made the campaign an intense one.

Brown split with Reagan on another issue today — pornography. In a speech prepared for delivery in Los Angeles, he called for strengthening law against those selling smut to minors under 18.

But, he said an anti-obscenity initiative on the November ballot, Proposition 16, the CLEAN amendment, is "unconstitutional on its face."

Reagan backs the measure. Brown also outlined proposals for bringing science into law enforcement, setting up family courts to handle divorce and child cases; assistance to local law enforcement, and rehabilitation for dangerous drug users. They are part of what he calls a "working society." That's a phrase coined after Reagan outlined the "creative society," a partnership of government, business, churches, schools and other groups to solve the state's problems.

Polls show the governor still trails Reagan. But they indicate he has gained since the June primary. The private, respected Field Poll last week said Reagan led Brown 46 per cent to 43 with 11 per cent undecided.

'Guides Illegal' But Candidate Enrolls 2 Sons

COWAY, Ark. (AP) - Jim Johnson, the Democratic party's nominee for governor in Arkansas, thinks school segregation guidelines are illegal, but he has enrolled his twin sons in a class that will have Negro students.

"I promised that I would obey the law," Johnson said. "I still believe the federal school desegregation guidelines are illegal because they go beyond the civil rights law."

Johnson's wife Virginia enrolled the twins, Danny and David, 6, in the first grade of the Coway elementary school Wednesday. The boys teacher said she understood there would be three Negro children in their class.

Johnson, running against Republican Winthrop Rockefeller, came to prominence in state politics as a spokesman for segregationist groups.

So they sent her the letter of encouragement to Atlantic City, where she is competing in the pageant.
