County jail guard arrested

SANFORD — A Seminole County jail guard has been suspended and jailed for allegedly smuggling two bottles of alcoholic beverages into the jail and selling them to a federal prisoner Tuesday.

Eddie Ree Williams, 25, of 101 Glover St., Apt. 36, Eustis, was charged with official misconduct and introduction of alcoholic beverages into the jail. Seminole County sheriff's deputies who arrested Williams at the jail Tuesday afternoon allege he sold the alcohol to a federal prisoner for $584. Deputies said the alcohol was smuggled into the jail hidden inside two socks Tuesday morning.

Chief Deputy Duane Harrell said the alleged payment was made outside the jail by a third party, and an informant told officials about the sale. Harrell said he believes this was an isolated incident.

Williams who was hired as a jail guard Jan. 5, 1988, was suspended by Harrell for 30 Tuesday with his employment to end at that time.

Court dismisses charter suit

SANFORD — Bob Webster's attempt to eliminate the Seminole County Charter has failed. Seminole Circuit Court Judge Kenneth M. Leffler dismissed Webster's case against the county on Monday which had claimed the county failed to properly adopt the charter, a form of county constitution.

"This is the expected outcome," said Seminole County Attorney Bob McMillan. "Leffler said Webster failed to prove we did anything wrong."

Webster's attorney, Johnie McLeod of Apopka, said this morning he needed to review Leffler's order, but he may file an amended complaint.

Webster claimed the county failed to make a draft of the charter available for the public prior to the county commission's adoption of it in September 1988. As a result, the charter could not have been placed on the November 1988 ballot, Webster alleged. Seminole County voters approved the charter. It took effect Jan. 1.

U.S. attacks Panama; dictator 'decapitated'

Nine Americans killed, 38 wounded in fighting

Local reaction mostly favorable

By Laura L. Sullivan
Herald staff writer

The United States military action in Panama dominated conversations over breakfast tables, at work and among leisure groups around Seminole County this morning.

"It's been the topic of conversation here. Everybody's looking at the paper and talking about it," a waitress at Christy's in Lake Mary said.

Other popular breakfast spots in the area were abuzz with pro and con talk of the military actions, spokespersons for those restaurants said.

The United States invasion of Panama was also the focus of conversation at the Sanford Fire Department this morning. Although several opinions were tossed around in the French Avenue station, Battalion Chief William Ellenberg said, the consensus was approval of action in the country's war on drugs.

"The overall consensus here is we're all just glad something is being done," Ellenberg said. "Everyone's really concerned."

Firefighters this morning were paying close attention to news developments on the invasion.

The Panamanian invasion was the only topic of conversation.

WASHINGTON — President Bush ordered U.S. troops into combat today to overthrow Gen. Manuel Noriega as a response to "reckless threats" and declared the Panamanian dictator driven from power and replaced by a democratic government.

Nine U.S. troops were killed, 39 wounded and one reported missing in the attack against Gen. Manuel Noriega's forces in Panama, Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said this morning.

In addition to the American casualties, Powell said "several" American C-130 cargo planes and helicopters were damaged in the fighting.

Panamanian officials said more than 80 Panamanians were killed and nearly 100 wounded.

Powell said U.S. forces had essentially "decapitated" Noriega from the leadership of the country.

In a six-minute address televised from the Oval Office this morning, Bush said, "I took this action only after reaching the conclusion that every other avenue was closed and the lives of American citizens were in grave danger."

Speaking more than six hours into the most powerful flex of American military muscle since the invasion of Grenada six years ago, the president announced that "key military objectives had been achieved."

At the same time, however, Bush was forced to admit to the American people that a major aim of the operation — nabbing Noriega to bring him to the United States to Forces during the operation that included U.S. infantry, paratroopers, Army Rangers and Special Forces.

He said the United States airlifted 12,000 troops into Panama to back up the 12,000 U.S. troops already there. Those included a brigade from the 82nd Airborne Division from Fort Bragg, N.C., two Army Ranger battalions, and elements of the 7th Infantry Division from Fort Ord, Calif.

In addition, the 16th military police brigade from Fort Bragg was also being sent into the help secure the country.

Bush, targeting what he described Monday as a source of "enormous frustration," marshaled the American troops against the Noriega-led Panamanian Defense Forces.

The climax of almost two years of tension, which escalated over the weekend into violence against Americans, Bush said he resorted to military force only after Noriega thwarted all peaceful solutions to stand trial on U.S. drug charges — had not been met.

"The operation is not over yet," Bush said. "General Noriega is in hiding. And nevertheless, yesterday a dictator ruled Panama and today constitutionally elected leaders govern."

Powell cautioned that the figures were preliminary and said that at 8 a.m. EST the U.S. military operation was continuing in Panama with sporadic fighting.

PSC orders Florida Power & Light to reduce its rates by $38.5 million

By Laura L. Sullivan
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Thousands of electricity customers in Seminole County should see lower utility bills as a result of the Florida Public Service Commission on Tuesday ordering a $38.5 million rate reduction effective Jan. 1 for customers of Florida Power and Light.

A spokesman for FPL, the state's largest electric utility, said this morning no decision has been made on whether to appeal the PSC order.

The utility's customers could be getting more good news. The commission called a public hearing for next May to decide whether FP&L should return even more money.

In Seminole County, 31,389 utility customers in Sanford, Geneva, Chuluota and the northern 10 percent of Lake Mary may see lower power bills as a result of the PSC action. The area is served by three coal-fired units in Sanford.

Dale Thomas, public relations officer at FPL's corporate office in Miami, said the reduction would amount to about 60 cents or 70 cents per month for the average 1,000-kilowatt customer.

"We believe the commission's order is premature," Thomas said. The company, as all utilities, must file detailed financial data, projections and rate structures in March, he said.

The PSC staff had recommended a rate reduction of $57 million, but commissioners said they were uncomfortable ordering a cut of that magnitude without more information.

The commission also called a hearing for Jan. 9 to decide what the utility's return on equity should be for 1990. The return on equity is used to establish rates.

"All this (an additional May reduction) is really tentative," said PSC spokesman Bev DeMello. "It's just that we can't say whether that's all it will be or if there will be more of a reduction later."

Commissioner Betty Easley recommended the $38.5 million cut.

City ordinances restrict garage sales, car stereos

By Brad Church
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Sanford City Commission has preliminarily approved two ordinances that could affect when garage sales can be held and how loud car stereos can be played.

The commission gave preliminary approval Monday to an ordinance limiting the number of garage sales a household can have each year, how long they can run, and how they are advertised.

The proposed ordinance defines a garage sale as sale of personal property to the public in a residential district and limits a household to two such sales per year. Each sale would be limited to the daylight of three consecutive days. The proposed ordinance would also limit signs advertising the sale to the property where the sale is being held, from one day before the sale starts until it ends.

Anyone convicted of violating the ordinance would be subject to fine of from $25 to $250 for each offense.

The commission also gave preliminary approval to an ordinance

Soviets, Ortega condemn invasion; Thatcher offers support

United Press International

The U.S. military intervention in Panama Wednesday drew condemnation from the Soviet Union and support from Britain while Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega called for an emergency meeting of the U.N. Security Council (UPI).

"These actions, a violation of the U.N. Charter and generally recognized rules of state relations, should be condemned by the international community," Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Vadim Pavlov said in a dispatch from the official Soviet news agency Tass.

"The United States must immediately stop its armed intervention in Panama," Pavlov said.

U.S. forces attacked Panama's military headquarters and other strategic points before the dawn Wednesday in an attempt to capture Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega and install leaders of the invasion of the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Panama but a threat to the peace and security of all Latin America, of Central America and in a special way a serious threat to Nicaragua," Ortega said he had asked Nicaragua's ambassador to the United States to request an emergency meeting of the Security Council to call for the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Panama.

Ortega also put his troops on maximum alert against what he said was possible U.S. military action in Nicaragua. The United States has made repeated offers in the 1980s, including the sponsorship of the rebel Contra movement, to remove the Sandinista government.

"I have also ordered the mobilization of troops and the maximum-grade alert nationwide," Ortega said in the statement addressed to other heads of state and the secretaries-general of the United Nations and the Organization of American States.

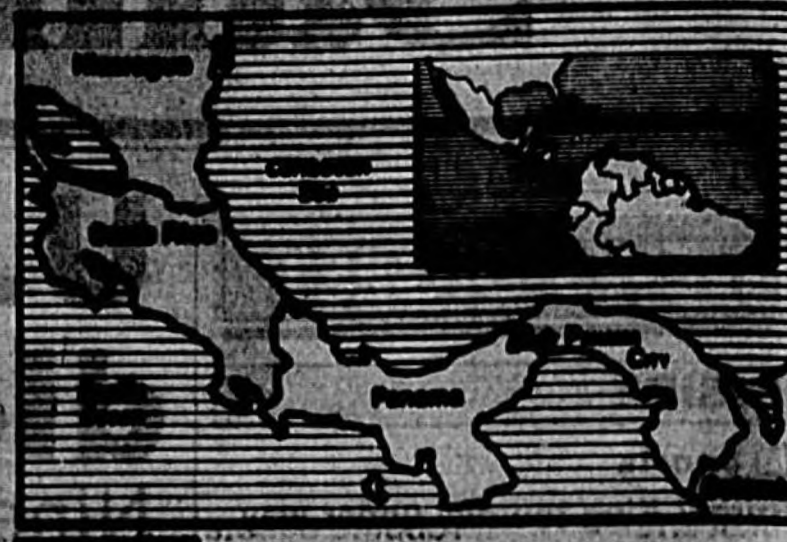

"We demand the most energetic condemnation of the American invasion against Panama," Ortega said.

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher reaffirmed her staunch support for U.S. foreign policy, describing the U.S. intervention as "a strategic decision."

Thatcher, who was briefed on the operation in a phone call from President Bush, spoke earlier last Wednesday from her residence, saying, "I believe that he was right to do so. Every peaceful means of trying to see the results of the democratic election respected have failed."

A government official in Japan said, "We are watching the situation with deep concern and we hope the situation will be stabilized and that the democratization of Panama will prevail once again."

Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega: Power came after Torrijos' death

United Press International

Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega, chief of the Panamanian Defense Forces and the newly declared power behind his nation's civilian government, has been accused of drug-running, being a CIA agent and dealing secretly with the Soviet Union.

Called "The General" or just "The Man," Noriega is known for his sharp mind and cryptic comments.

On Friday, he was unanimously chosen as chief of government by his hand-picked provisional National Assembly of Representatives.

Born in Panama City on Feb. 11, 1928, to a working-class family, Noriega first entered the military in 1950 when he joined the Panamanian army and served in the military for 20 years before becoming a colonel.

Instead, he accepted a scholarship at a Peruvian military academy and started a military career in the powerful national guard.

Noriega received a sharp rebuff in 1980 when he helped foil a plot to oust the charismatic military chief, Gen. Omar Torrijos, who had taken over the government in a coup a year earlier.

Noriega became one of Torrijos' trusted officers, and soon was promoted to head the department of military intelligence. In that job post over the next 12 years he built a power base in the ever-changing alliances of the military.

Torrijos died in a plane crash in 1981. Two years later Noriega, by then a brigadier general, maneuvered his way to the top of the national guard. He remained in the Defense Forces, and worked hard to build an image of the ever-changing alliances of the military.

Criticism of Noriega mounted, however, and he was linked to a series of became head of Panama's Defense Forces — and the nation's de facto ruler — Aug. 12, 1983, following the death of Gen. Omar Torrijos in a plane crash. The following is a chronology of recent events:

June 7-8, 1987 — Col. Roberto Diaz Herrera, ousted chief of staff of Panamanian Defense Forces, accuses Noriega of rigging 1984 presidential election and links him to Torrijos' death.

Feb. 6, 1988 — Federal courts in Miami indict Noriega on racketeering and cocaine conspiracy charges, accusing him of turning Panama into a "safe haven" for Colombian drug lords. Noriega charges the United States seeks his removal to retain control over Panama Canal.

Feb. 25 — Panama's figurehead President Eric Arturo Delvalle dismisses Noriega as commander of the Defense Forces but Noriega affirms determination to remain in power.

Feb. 26 — Noriega-controlled National Assembly in Panama declares emergency session, elects new president, Manuel Solis Palma. Delvalle goes into hiding.

March 7 — Panama's major opposition groups announce formation of a "government of national reconciliation" under

Guillermo Endara: Sworn in as Panama's leader before attack

United Press International

Guillermo Endara, who by independent accounts won Panama's presidential election in May, was sworn in Wednesday as the new leader of Panama just before the United States began its assault on Gen. Manuel Noriega.

Endara, 53, a successful lawyer, never imagined he would one day run for the presidency but said if he were to be elected, his first task would have been to ask military leader Noriega to retire.

"Without looking for it, I saw a way to serve my country, my party and the opposition," Endara said.

Endara was a candidate of the U.S.-backed Civil Democratic Opposition Alliance, a three-party coalition opposed to Noriega. In May 7 elections that were annulled three days later, most foreign observers and Panama's Catholic Church said Endara won the elections by 3-1 ratio.

Endara and his supporters said his candidacy was important for what it represented — a unification of the opposition against the military-controlled government of Noriega.

Endara was candid about his relative lack of political experience and pointed to his family's traditional loyalty to Arnulfo Arias, the three-time Panamanian president, who died last year at 87.

"I know I wasn't chosen so much for my own personal merits but for my ties to Dr. Arias," he said in a recent interview.

In early January, when the opposition announced it would not boycott the elections, government officials predicted the opposition coalition — composed of the Liberal Authentic Party, the Christian Democratic Party and the Liberal Republican Nationalist Movement — would be unable to unite behind one candidate.

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

" Fellow citizens, last night I ordered U.S. military forces to Panama. No president takes such action lightly. This morning, I want to tell you what I did and why I did it.

For nearly ten years, the United States, the nations of Latin America and the Caribbean have worked together to resolve the crisis in Panama.

The goals of the United States are to safeguard the lives of Americans, defend democracy in Panama, to combat drug trafficking and to protect the integrity of the Panama Canal Treaty.

Many attempts have been made to resolve this crisis through diplomacy and negotiation. All were rejected by the dictator of Panama, General Manuel Noriega, an indicted drug trafficker.

Last Friday, Noriega declared his military intention to be in a state of war with the United States and publicly threatened the lives of Americans in Panama.

The very next day, forces under his command shot and killed an unarmed

American serviceman, wounded another, arrested and brutally beat a third American and then brutally interrogated his wife, threatening her with sexual abuse.

That was enough.

General Noriega's reckless threats against Americans in Panama created an imminent danger to the 25,000 American citizens in Panama.

As president, I had no higher obligation than to safeguard the lives of American citizens and that is why I directed our armed forces to protect the lives of American citizens in Panama and to bring General Noriega to justice in the United States.

I contacted the bipartisan leadership in Congress last night and informed them of this decision and after taking this action, I also talked to leaders in Latin America, the Caribbean and those of other U.S. allies.

At this moment, U.S. forces, including forces deployed from the United States last night, are engaged in action in Panama. The United States intends to withdraw the forces readily deployed to Panama as quickly as possible.

Our forces have conducted themselves courteously and with respect, and no combat member in chief. I salute every one of them and thank them on behalf of my country.

Tragically, some Americans have lost their lives in defense of their fellow citizens, in defense of democracy and my heart goes out to their families. We also regret the loss of innocent Panamanians.

The brave Panamanians elected by the people of Panama in elections last May, President Guillermo Endara and Vice President Calderon and Ford have assumed the rightful leadership of their country.

You remember those horrible pictures of newly elected Vice President Ford, covered head to toe with blood, beaten by so-called dignity battalions.

Well, the United States today recognizes the democratically elected government of President Endara. I will send our ambassador back to Panama immediately.

Key military objectives have been achieved. Most organized resistance has been eliminated but the operation is not over yet.

General Noriega is in hiding. And notwithstanding, yesterday, a dictator ruled Panama and today, constitutionally elected leaders govern.

Today, I have directed the secretary of the treasury and the secretary of state to lift the economic sanctions with respect to the democratically elected government of Panama and in cooperation with the government, take steps to affect an orderly unbidding of Panamanian government assets in the United States.

I am fully committed to implementing the Panama Canal Treaty and turn over the canal to Panama in the year 2000.

The actions we've taken and cooperation of a new democratic government in Panama will permit us to honor these commitments as soon as the new government recognizes a qualified candidate, a Panamanian, to be administrator of the canal, as called for in the treaty.

I will submit this nominee to the Senate for expedited consideration.

I am committed to strengthening our relationship with democratic nations in this hemisphere.

I will continue to seek solutions to the problems in this region and dialogue and multilateral diplomacy.

I took this action only after reaching the conclusion that every other avenue was closed and the lives of American citizens were in grave danger.

I hope the people of Panama will put this dark chapter of dictatorship behind them and move forward together as citizens of a democratic Panama with the government that they themselves have elected.

The United States is eager to work with the Panamanian people in partnership and friendship to rebuild their economy.

The Panamanian people want democracy, peace and the chance for a better life with dignity and freedom.

The people of the United States seek only to support that in pursuit of these noble goals.

Thank you very much."

Local legislator appointed to subcommittee

Action a result of GOP removals at state level

By J. MARK SANDFORD
 Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A Seminole County legislator has gained a subcommittee appointment as a result of House Speaker Tom Gustafson's removal of several Republicans from key committees in an unusual mid-term reshuffling of committee assignments.

Rep. Art Grindie, R-Altamonte Springs, who gained the subcommittee appointment, said this morning, "Mid-year shifts don't happen. I think it's typical Tom Gustafson partisanship. He likes to pick on Republicans and keep things shook up."

Grindie, already a member of the House Health Care committee and one subcommittee, was appointed to one additional Health Care committee. He retained his membership on the House Highway Safety and Construction, Insurance and Regulatory Reform Committees. But an aide to the Democratic speaker said Tuesday the changes were not unusual and were not aimed at removing Republicans from powerful committees, but several members of the GOP accused the House leader of partisanship and said he was retaliating for some of their votes earlier this year.

"There's a reason, there's no question about it," said Daniel Webster, R-Orlando, who was removed from the Reapportionment Committee. "It would have to be partisan politics."

Gustafson was not available for comment. Three Republicans who lost seats from important committees voted against a transportation package offered by House Democrats in last month's special session on the transportation issue.

Grindie said although he worked hard to see that Seminole County was included in the proposed $4.7 billion transportation package, he voted against the bill because it included too many low-priority and questionable projects.

Bad weather forces another delay of Titan launch

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — The maiden launch of a powerful Titan 3 rocket carrying British and Japanese communications satellites was postponed another 24 hours Tuesday because of bad weather, the fourth delay in 12 days for the long-awaited flight.

The $100 million rocket, the most powerful U.S. booster ever built as a commercial venture, had been scheduled for liftoff at 7:20 p.m. EST from launch complex 40 at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station.

But with the countdown in a "hold" at the T-minus five-minute mark, officials with rocket-builder Martin Marietta Astronautics Group decided winds aloft were too high for a safe launch and ordered a 24-hour delay, the fourth postponement since Dec. 7.

"We are scrubbed for this evening, due again, for the second night in a row, to high winds aloft," Martin Marietta spokesman Robert Gordon said. "We will recycle 24 hours for a liftoff (Wednesday) evening at 7:20 (p.m.)."

Wednesday called for a 50-50 chance of acceptable weather.

Martin Marietta mission director Victor Whithead said Monday the Titan 3's countdown could be "recycled" on a day-to-day basis through the end of the month in the event of further postponements.

The goal of the long-awaited launching is the deployment of Shynet 4A, a British military communications satellite, and JCSat 2, a $150 million communications satellite owned by the Japan Communications Satellite Co. and Hughes Communications Inc.

Launch originally was scheduled for Dec. 7, but a computer software problem delayed the flight 24 hours and the next day, stormy weather put the flight on hold until Monday when the countdown was stopped at the T-minus five-minute mark because of higher-than-acceptable winds aloft.

Martin Marietta was anxious to get the rocket off the launch pad to kick off a new era in commercial rocketry.

In the wake of the 1986 Challenger disaster, commercial payloads were banned from NASA's manned space shuttle.

No turning back

Although legitimate concerns have been raised about President George Bush's safety at a mid-February hemispheric drug summit in Colombia, he should stand by his decision to attend the meeting. Failure to do so would hand international narcotics traffickers a tremendous psychological victory and send a signal of American vacillation in the war on drugs.

Ever since Mr. Bush persuaded President Virgilio Barco Vargas to mount a full-scale campaign against Colombia's cocaine traffickers, the country has been plagued by escalating violence perpetrated by the Medellín cartel. During the last four months, scores of politicians, policemen, judges and civilians have been killed by drug-financed hit squads.

All told, more than 230 bombs have been set off in public buildings, including schools and movie theaters. The most recent casualties were two police officers killed by a bomb hurled at their patrol car in Cartagena, the walled city on the Caribbean coastline where the drug summit is tentatively scheduled. The attack came on after a massive bomb blast killed 25 people in Bogotá, the capital.

The drug warlords have threatened to kill 10 judges for every Colombian extradited to the United States to stand trial. This threat prompted hundreds of judges and court workers to go on strike briefly last month until the government provided them greater protection.

Because Colombia is such a poor country, it cannot wage an effective war against the well-armed cartels without increased financial and technical assistance from the United States and elsewhere. The drug lords have at their disposal a multibillion-dollar network of arms and explosives, including that which exists in other Latin American nations.

Mounting government troops and the police face a logistical nightmare in capturing the drug leaders and destroying their cocaine production centers. Colombia, the size of Texas and New Mexico combined, is divided by three mountain ranges, dotted with dense forests and laced with rivers that create an ideal sanctuary for drug producers and smugglers.

Although the United States has given the Colombian government $60 million mostly in secondhand military equipment, President Barco's forces desperately need special training and the means with which to fight a highly sophisticated enemy. American aid should also be targeted at Colombian farmers to persuade them to plant crops other than the lucrative coca plant, which is processed into cocaine. Yet Congress has tightened trade quotas, making it even more difficult for Colombia's farmers to sell their legitimate crops in this country.

February's summit meeting will give President Bush a powerful forum from which to offer increased U.S. support for the Barco government as it courageously stands up to Colombia's drug lords. To be sure, there are risks in the planned visit. But the risk of allowing the cartels to prevail in the drug war are even more threatening.

Mr. Bush has taken an important first step by acknowledging this nation's dependence on illegal narcotics. Now he must emphasize there is no turning back in the struggle to put international dealers out of business and eradicate their deadly trade.

Huge Pentagon cuts seem inevitable

WASHINGTON — At the Pentagon, the nation's military establishment is about to go to war. These involved know only too well what is at stake — survival. No, the coming conflict is not against communism or terrorism. But to many in the Pentagon, it will be fought over an even more important issue.

This war is over the much smaller Pentagon budget that is coming in future years.

Defense Secretary Richard Cheney slammed the military establishment this fall when he ordered the armed services to prepare long-term budget projections incorporating cuts of up to $180 billion. While he has made public the $180 billion cut order, Cheney has refused to answer a number of critical questions about the coming cuts. For example: Over how many fiscal years will the $180 billion cut be spread, and what will be used as a base figure? The latter is critical. It will make a tremendous difference if the cuts are based on current spending levels or on spending projections made during the "all for the military" Reagan years. Finally, it is not clear if Cheney is talking in terms of actual dollars or "inflation-adjusted" dollars.

One number being used around the Pentagon is an inflation-adjusted $180 billion from current spending levels spread over five to six fiscal years and starting in fiscal 1991 or 1992. But no matter how the blanks are eventually filled in, Cheney is about to order the most significant Pentagon budget cutbacks since the post-Vietnam era.

Cheney's order came even before recent events in Eastern Europe.

More than 80 percent of the Pentagon's budget is geared to fighting a major East-West land war in Europe and then containing and re-supplying to escalations. Now it is impossible to justify that expenditure to counter a threat that no one believes exists anymore. So — even apart from the budgetary cuts — there will be in coming years a total reshaping of internal Pentagon budget priorities. This restructuring will probably be the most far-reaching since the end of World War II. The survival of entire parts of the armed services could hang in the balance.

The survival of entire parts of the armed services could hang in the balance.

For example, insiders expect that a major confrontation is in the offing between the Army and the Marine Corps.

Today's Army is geared to defending Europe and fighting an East-West land war. The Marine Corps, however, is meant to be a quick-response force that can be rapidly inserted into smaller conflicts anywhere on the globe. As a result of recent changes in Europe, Army planners are actively talking up what is being called "the new Army" — the conversion of the Army's current heavy divisions into what Army Chief of Staff Gen. Carl Vuono calls a "smaller, more versatile global force." Does that sound strangely like the Marine Corps? It does to the Marines, who believe this is the Army's attempt to usurp their traditional role. This Army-Marine confrontation will be one of the central battles in the coming Pentagon budget war.

Members of Congress act on the basic premise that defense cuts are good — so long as they do not take place in their state or district. Thus a major part of the coming war will be over Congress' resistance to cuts the military actually wants to make.

America needs younger leaders

These words are being written six miles over the Atlantic. By the time they are read, I will be in Berlin, the first stop of a two-week reporting swing through Eastern Europe. That is where a reporter goes these days to get a glimpse of the fastest-moving story in the world.

Looking eastward for change, or turning toward Europe to see the future, is a complete reversal of American history, of course. For 200 years, Europeans have come to America in pursuit of their dreams, and we in turn have sought our future on the westward-moving frontier. Even when we have incorporated all the land up to the Pacific shoreline within our borders, our internal migration patterns have tipped us toward California and the West.

But this reversal of directions is only one of the unexpected developments that confound us at the end of the decade. My last assignment before leaving was to report and write, with several colleagues, a series of stories on America in the Eighties. The project was instructive on many levels, not least in helping to understand why the United States has become what economists call "a lagging indicator," not "a leading indicator," of worldwide trends.

Our scramble to keep up with foreign competition in product design and manufacturing techniques is the story of the decade, along with our slide from the biggest creditor to the biggest debtor nation. Looking back, we can also see how hard it has been for us to keep pace in political leadership.

The one clear American policy revolution in this decade was engineered by Ronald Reagan, when he came to power intent on reversing the almost half-century growth of the welfare state. He succeeded to a significant degree in realizing that ambition. But his thunder had been stolen, his rhetoric and agenda anticipated, by Margaret Thatcher, the formidable woman who began remaking British government 18 months before Reagan came to office. And now, of course, Mikhail Gorbachev is setting off even more sweeping changes in the communist world.

Thatcher and Gorbachev were too young to have been in uniform during World War II. They are part of a new generation of leadership. It was my notion back in 1979 that this decade would see that generation replace the World War II vets at the helm of American government. I was wrong.

The leadership change I expected simply has not happened on this side of the Atlantic. Instead, George Bush has become the latest in an unbroken string of eight World War II veterans, going back to Dwight D. Eisenhower, who have led the nation from the White House.

The slow pace of change in American leadership in this decade is underlined by the fact that ten years ago this month, Bush was already well into his first campaign for the presidency. Yet even now, he has not finished his first year in the job.

Nor is his an isolated case. Ronald Reagan had to wait twelve years from the time of his first try for the presidential nomination, in 1968, until he became President. By then he was the oldest man ever elected to the office. Behind Reagan and Bush a long file of potential national leaders has grown old waiting.

It is true that many other posts of power have changed hands. In Michigan, where I was reporting my part of the Eighties series, the governorship, the legislative leadership, the presidencies of the Big Three auto companies, the United Auto Workers, the University of Michigan and many of the other institutions that shape the state have moved into the hands of younger people. Only Coleman Young, the perennial mayor of Detroit, remains where he was when the Eighties began.

In Michigan, the new people are the ones who have forged the partnerships that link labor, management, government and academia in cooperative efforts to adapt to the economic and demographic changes that have marked this decade. Their successes have been limited by the failure of national leaders to focus on the issues critical to our future — the quality of our schools, the skills of our work force, the productivity of our businesses. Most of our national leaders are a generation removed from those concerns.

In interviewing Michigan voters, I was struck by the fact that those who expressed most satisfaction with the Eighties were men and women who, like Reagan and Bush, are at or past normal retirement age. The younger voters who have not discharged their personal obligations to their children are far more worried about the state of the nation at the decade's end.

And so I fly to Berlin, where in the Sixties, an American President not yet 45 rallied the spirits of a city encircled by communism — and where today the East German Communist Party has installed as its new leader a reform-minded man who is all of 41.

What a change the Eighties have brought. And what an effort it will take for the United States to catch up.

We can also see how hard it has been for us to keep pace in political leadership.

Speechwriter's memoirs begin to cause a stir

WASHINGTON — White House memoirs from the Reagan era are beginning to sound like a broken record. Everybody liked the president. Nobody liked Nancy. He was too disinterested. She was too much of a meddler.

Now, along comes Peggy Noonan, Reagan's top speech writer, the brain behind the mouth of the "great communicator." Her memoirs, "What I Saw at the Revolution," are due to be published by Random House in February.

We took an advance look at the unrevised proofs of the book. Yes, indeed, Reagan was a nice, superficial guy, and Nancy was a dragon lady.

Noonan didn't spend every day in the Oval Office, observing the president, but she apparently was an avid note-taker when others shared their observations. She passes on those observations from sources who remain anonymous in the book. (Without requesting anonymity, even we got it. One of Noonan's long, un-attributed quotes from Reagan on being president comes from an interview we had with him.)

Some of Reagan's finest words were Noonan's words, including his speech given in France on the 40th anniversary of D-Day and his short but moving remarks after the Challenger explosion. Noonan wrote much of George Bush's acceptance speech for the Republican Convention, including the "thousand points of light" phrase. She capped her career as wordsmith by writing Reagan's farewell message and Bush's inaugural address.

Her memoirs are not as graceful. She takes pugilistic jabs at the villains and gushes over her heroes.

Reagan began as a hero, but the shine wore off. At first, Noonan was frustrated that she couldn't spend more time with the man for whom she was writing speeches. Then, when she saw more of the president, she found him to be less brilliant and engaged than she had imagined.

The most devastating commentary on Reagan comes from this exchange between Noonan and her boss, Bentley T. Elliott:

Noonan: "The president is clearly an intelligent man, but I get the impression sometimes his top aides don't think he's very bright."

Elliott: "There are people who say that's why the first lady is so protective of him ... Because she thinks he's not smart ... because she really thinks he'd do anything, he's so innocent and dumb ..."

Noonan gives the first lady a modicum of sympathy. After all, it's tough to be confined to a job with no job description. But then, Noonan brings out the long knives. "They called her Evita, they called her Mommy, they called her the Missus and the Hairdo with Anxiety," Noonan writes. "Her power was everywhere, in personnel, in who rose and who fell; she was on the phone with McFarlane about foreign affairs, on the phone mixing and OK'ing trips and events, arranging to closet the president with this policy analyst or that, calling to get the speeches earlier. She was everywhere."

The president that Noonan admired didn't necessarily need someone running interference. "No one could do what he did, move people that way, talk to them so they understood," she writes. "A demagogue would have begged for that power; he didn't even care. That's part of why he had it. He didn't have to be the man pulling the switch, he wasn't in it for ego; he was actually in it to do good."

Reagan was a nice, superficial guy, and Nancy was a dragon lady.

Military action wins Congressional support

United Press International

WASHINGTON — President Bush's decision to use military force in Panama was quickly bipartisan support Wednesday from Congress, whose leaders said it was a grim necessity in response to the actions of Gen. Manuel Noriega.

Bush informed congressional leaders in keeping with the requirements of the War Powers Act, reaching Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell of Maine on a secure line at the U.S. Embassy in Mexico City after midnight.

"I support the president's decision," Mitchell said in a prepared statement. "It was made necessary by the reckless actions of General Noriega."

Mitchell, flying back to Washington after canceling a meeting with President Carlos Salinas of Mexico said, "I hope that the restoration of democracy to Panama will occur as soon as possible. I regret the loss of life which has resulted."

Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas, reached by Bush shortly before midnight, said, "The president did the right thing. I expect broad bipartisan support for the president's action."

Congressional reaction was slower than usual with the Senate and House in recess, and some members were cautious in their comments until they could obtain additional information.

But Congress has long been frustrated by the situation in Panama and the inability of the United States to force a change through diplomatic moves and economic sanctions.

That feeling on Capitol Hill grew after Noriega's refusal to abide by the outcome of the May 7 elections in Panama and intensified after the failed October coup, during which the United States took no action.

Congress adopted a non-binding resolution in October expressing its support for Bush to restore constitutional government in Panama and to remove Noriega through "diplomatic, economic and military options."

Rep. William Ford, D-Mich., said, "The safety of Americans in Panama, the security of the Panama Canal and the removal of Manuel Noriega from the international drug-dealing scene — all made this intervention necessary."

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., a senior member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said the venture is an "overwhelming success because democracy has now been inaugurated and installed in Panama."

Panama

"The crisis in Panama," Bush said, "is not a simple one."

The last straw, Bush said, came Friday when a declaration by the Noriega regime of a "state of war" appeared to prompt a series of confrontations with Americans that included the killing of a U.S. Marine officer by FICP soldiers.

"That was enough," he said. "General Noriega's reckless threats and attacks upon Americans in Panama created an imminent danger to the 35,000 Americans in Panama. As president, I have no higher obligation than to safeguard the lives of American citizens."

Though the situation in Panama, including Noriega's status, remained uncertain, Bush recognized the new government and ordered the repeal of economic sanctions that had been used unsuccessfully to drive Noriega from power.

"I hope that the people of Panama will put this dark chapter of detestation behind them and move forward together as citizens of a democratic Panama with this government that they, themselves, have elected," Bush said.

Bush saluted the American troops involved in the operation for acting "courageously and selflessly." He extended condolences to the families of those killed and said, "We also regret and mourn the loss of innocent Panamanians."

No one could forecast when the operation would end. Bush promised only that the United States would "withdraw the forces newly deployed to Panama as quickly as possible."

Even with the full outcome still somewhat in doubt, however, Powell declared it a success "because it cut off the head of that government."

While noting that no one expected the operation to be an easy one, White House press secretary Marina Fitzwater said, "We would not undertake such a mission if we did not feel confident that we could carry it out successfully."

The Panama Canal was closed to shipping today following the U.S. invasion of Panama, halting shipping between the world's two great oceans, Loyds of London said.

If the 50-mile canal, jointly run by Panama and the United States, remains closed for an extended period, the economic impact could be felt around the globe.

Rates

A spokesman for the worldwide shipping authority said Lloyd's insurers received an urgent message early Wednesday from their agents in Panama saying that "due to military intervention in Panama, all canal transit has been suspended."

The U.S. military launched an invasion of Panama Wednesday with the intent of capturing Panamanian leader Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega and installing opposition leaders in leadership posts.

The closure of the canal, which connects the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, will delay dozens of ships that pass through each day. More than 13,000 vessels use the canal each year.

"If there's a prolonged closure, it means that a lot of shipping will have to be rerouted," said John Landella, shipping correspondent for Lloyd's List, the authoritative shipping daily.

The bulk of the traffic is plying between the Far East and the East Coast of the United States.

Particularly hard hit, Landella said, would be banana producers in Colombia and Ecuador, who rely on the canal to get produce to the East Coast. They would have to go around Cape Horn at the tip of South America or by land.

Reaction

tion at the Sanford Senior Center this morning, supervisor Elizabeth Derr said. Most of the seniors who gathered there early today were either military veterans who served time in the Central American country, or have friends or family in the canal zone, she said.

"They are concerned about the Panamanian people and about the families of people in North Carolina who don't know if they have a brother or a son or a father there — the families who don't know," Derr said.

The invasion wasn't the talk of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department this morning, but the handful of deputies who expressed opinions were supportive of the action.

Bombs

Jacksonville. At first FBI officials said the bombs might be related to federal prosecution of drug cases, but now they say there appears to be racial motives behind the incidents.

In Sanford, Turner Clayton, president of the local chapter of the NAACP said today, "We are concerned." He said NAACP members will meet to go over preliminary reports about the bomb attacks.

Clayton, who is a Seminole County sheriff's deputy, said he will ask the department's explosives expert to review precautions for the group. The bombings, Clayton said, appear to be retaliation "by a small group of people concerned with civil rights issues."

Any activist may be a target, he said, because the bombs may be addressed to activists either in a general or specific way. He said there are some activists in the Sanford area who might have been involved in specific civil rights cases, which would cause them to be singled out specifically.

In Sanford, where no federal cases are tried, courthouse security is maintained as usual, Seminole County Sheriff's Lt. Bob Kunkler, who supervises deputies assigned to the court house, said he hasn't thought about the potential threat. "Basically they're after the federal people," he said Tuesday.

Robert Quinn, who for the county clerk's office distributes the U.S. mail in the Sanford courthouse, said he is maintaining his usual watch over the mail. That means he, as always, will take note of any packages that aren't flat, and which have an unusual return address. Most of the mail to the courthouse is flat, he said, so a bulky package is always checked out before delivery.

A U.S. postal service spokesman in Orlando said postal workers aren't searching the heavy-load holiday mail for bombs. They are cautioning the utilities to reduce their rates in accordance with the annual tax savings, but it decided instead to let the companies keep the additional money on the condition that they rebate it later.

Critics of that arrangement, like Public Counsel Jack Shreve, who represents customers before the FSC, have argued that the rebates have never come close to equaling the additional tax savings.

Information from United Press International is contained in this report.

Ordinances

Limiting the volume of sound coming from "boom box" stereo equipment in motor vehicles. At the meeting, two people asked commissioners to also make the ordinance apply to loud mufflers, but commissioners said the ordinance as drawn would only apply to radio or stereo equipment.

There are no current restrictions on the decibel level of car stereo equipment. The proposed ordinance would make it illegal to play a car radio or stereo loud enough so the sound could be heard from 80 feet away.

Anyone convicted of violating the ordinance would be subject to the same civil penalty levied for non-moving traffic violations which is now limited by state law to $33 per offense.

These who receive packages that appear unusual to handle them with caution.

Jim Patterson, support services manager for the county, said he became aware of the potential problem Monday, but hasn't yet discussed with any other officials, what if any extra precautions should be taken to ensure courthouse security.

"We know enough to be concerned, but not enough to know exactly what we need to do," he said. "We've been very cautious since the bomb has been made."

A mail bomb was found Tuesday at the Jacksonville regional headquarters of the NAACP and federal authorities were focusing on a "possible racial motive" for the incident, as well as the mail-bomb associations of a federal judge and Savannah, Ga., city councilman.

Bomb experts from the Duval County Sheriff's Department, and the federal government, disabled the bomb about 4 p.m. and there were no injuries, said sheriff's spokeswoman Ana Higg.

Information from United Press International is contained in this report.

Endara

Negotiations among opposition parties were bogged down for several weeks as followers of Arias and the Christian Democratic Party argued over who would be the coalition's candidate.

Arias supporters said they had the support of the working class and rural residents, while the Christian Democrats said they were best organized and most likely to win. In the end, the Christian Democrats backed down and Endara was nominated.

Asked why Endara was chosen, his campaign adviser, Luis Martins, said, "Endara was the only one of the Arnulfistas who didn't have any enemies in the other parties."

Endara, one of two brothers, was born in Panama City in 1936. At age 7, he went into exile with his family after Arias was overthrown for the first time by the military. Later he returned to Panama and studied law at the University of Panama, graduating first in his class. He went on to do post-graduate work at New York University.

Drunk driver murder trial goes to jury

CARROLLTON, Ky. — After hearing evidence for six weeks, a jury must determine whether a chemical plant worker is guilty of murder and responsible for killing 37 people in the worst drunken driving accident in U.S. history.

Carroll County Circuit Judge Charles Batterswhite ordered the jurors to be sequestered during the deliberations. He said the jurors will have to reach a verdict of guilt or innocence on each of the 83 charges against Larry Mahoney, including 37 counts of murder.

The 36-year-old chemical worker was driving his pickup truck the wrong way on Interstate 71 near Carrollton the night of May 14, 1986, when he slammed into the Radcliff First Assembly of God bus loaded with 67 people.

Battery tests showed he had more than twice the legal limit of alcohol in his body at the time of the collision.

Judge upholds base-closing law

WASHINGTON — A federal judge upheld a law under which Congress delegated to a commission the politically sensitive task of choosing dozens of military bases to close nationwide.

The National Federation of Federal Employees, which brought suit in April challenging the constitutionality of the law, plans to appeal Tuesday's decision, said A.W. Evans, a spokesman for the group.

The union represents 150,000 civilian federal employees, including about 5,000 at three of the installations scheduled to be shut down — Chanute Air Force Base in Rantoul, Ill., plus Norton and George Air Force bases in California.

Anxious for the new year? Wait a second

LONDON — If you wake up feeling sluggish on Jan. 1 next year, there's a ready explanation — global time lag. It seems 1988 will be a second longer than it should be.

Slowing of the Earth's rotation has compelled the introduction of an international "leap second" in order to keep the world's atomic clocks in line with the actual duration of a day, an expert explained Tuesday.

So this year there will be 31,536,001 seconds, instead of the 31,536,000 we are all accustomed to.

Three killed in foggy train-truck collision

United Press International

STOCKTON, Calif. — A witness said the barrier at a fog-shrouded rail crossing was not operating when a passenger train barreled through, slamming into a truck at 70 mph, killing three people and badly injuring 24 others.

A spokesman for Amtrak discounted the report, saying there was no evidence the crossing lights were not operating properly Tuesday when the train carrying 126 holiday travelers shredded a semitrailer truck loaded with chocolate syrup.

The impact turned the truck into a twisted ball of metal, killing the driver, identified as David T. Haskell, 47, of Anaheim, Calif. The engineer and fireman died in the flaming locomotive, and 24 passengers on the train were seriously injured. Another 31 passengers suffered minor injuries. The dead trainmen were not immediately identified.

Amtrak officials said there were 126 passengers and seven crew members aboard the five-car San Joaquin Flyer that runs between Oakland and Bakerfield. Officials said the train was going 70 mph on a stretch of track where the speed limit is 70.

"I was thrown to the floor," said passenger Phyllis Ferguson. "Seats crumpled ahead and behind me. Everyone was screaming and yelling."

Witnesses: Battles raged between Romanian military, civilians

United Press International

BUDAPEST, Hungary — Visitors to western Romania came back with tales of a Tiananmen Square-style massacre of democracy activists, describing morgues filled with bodies, tanks patrolling streets and citizens seizing guns to fire on government soldiers, Hungarian and Yugoslav news agencies reported.

The state news agency Tanjug in neighboring Yugoslavia said Yugoslavs exiting Romania at the border town of Vrsac reported hearing renewed gunfire

Tuesday in the western city of Timisoara, where violence first was reported Sunday.

Tanjug quoted the travelers as saying demonstrators in Timisoara broke into a store and seized weapons, which they fired at Romanian troops.

The visitors also reported seeing Romanian soldiers marching citizens to the city's main square, where they were beaten, stabbed with bayonets and put in vans and driven to undisclosed destinations, Tanjug said.

The Tanjug reports could not be immediately confirmed.

Estimates of the number killed in Sunday's police crackdown on protesters in the western city of Timisoara ranged from a few dozen to many hundreds, with many others wounded or arrested, the Yugoslav and Hungarian news reports said.

Romania's official news agency Agerpress Tuesday confirmed it had sealed its borders with Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Hungary, but attributed the closing to "no free places in Romanian hotels."

Romania also closed its borders with Moldavia and the Ukraine, turning away Soviet tourists because of "the absence of snow needed for winter tourism," the Soviet news agency Tass reported from the Romanian capital Bucharest.

The border closings blocked communications and travel into the country, making it virtually impossible to independently confirm the casualty reports.

Tass said troops with automatic weapons and militiamen patrolled Bucharest's tense streets Tuesday and that security measures were stepped up at state offices, factories and plants.

Some witnesses compared the situation to the June crackdown in and around China's Tiananmen Square, when hundreds and perhaps thousands of pro-democracy demonstrators were killed by government forces.

"Tiananmen was nothing when compared to the shooting in Timisoara," a Western diplomat coming from the Transylvanian city told Tanjug. He was quoted as saying the death toll could reach 1,000.

Witnesses said Romanian soldiers, after scattering protesters with gunfire, hunted down protesters in a house-to-house search early Sunday, gunning down several people in their homes.

Bulls knock over Lakers

Santa Claus visited Chicago Stadium Tuesday night and watched Michael Jordan display his extraordinary gifts to the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Bulls took advantage of a flat Lakers squad, Jordan scoring 37 points to lead Chicago to a 93-83 victory in an early-season battle of first-place clubs.

Jordan added seven rebounds and five assists as the Bulls won their fifth straight overall, 10th of their last 12 and ninth in a row at home.

"I think it's great for our confidence win," he said. "I think it could really put us on a good roll if we take this game and learn from it and not get overconfident with it."

In other games, Detroit destroyed Seattle 94-77, New Jersey nipped Miami 100-86, Atlanta topped Sacramento 115-112, Charlotte defeated Dallas 102-97, Washington whipped Minnesota 112-99, New York beat Utah 115-107, Boston defeated Milwaukee 95-86, the Los Angeles Clippers demolished Indiana 128-102 and Portland crushed Houston 119-100.

BASEBALL

Fernandez re-signs with Mets

NEW YORK — Sid Fernandez, who anchored the New York Mets pitching staff last year when Dwight Gooden was injured, Tuesday signed a 3-year contract worth $6.05 million.

The left-hander has an option on a fourth year if he pitches 219 innings in 1992 or a total of 434 innings in 1991 and 1992. Should he reach that plateau the pact would be worth $4.1 million.

Fernandez went 14-5 with a 3.25 ERA in 1989. In 219 innings he struck out 198, gave up 157 hits and walked 75. He held opposing hitters to a .196 average.

"I am very pleased, very happy to still be a New York Met," Fernandez said from Hawaii. "I wanted to stay a Met. I felt it was the best place for me to play."

Al Harazin, the Mets senior vice president, said the signing sets New York's goal for the next 10 years. Other Mets mentioned were Ron Darling, Bob Ojeda, David Cone and Frank Viola, comprising one of the best groups of starters in the major leagues.

Florida State punishes Sanford

TALLAHASSEE — Five Florida State players scored in double figures as the Seminoles cruised past Sanford for an easy 100-62 win Wednesday at the Leon County Civic Center.

After a slow start, the Seminoles took control using a 15-2 run to take a 20-11 lead when Mayea hit a long jumper with 13:25 left in the half.

FSU had its biggest lead of the period when reserve forward Byron Wells scored on a layup with 3:38 remaining to make it 44-22 en route to the 48-28 halftime score.

The Seminoles kept up the pace in the second half, scoring the first two baskets of the period. Reserve forward Blake Miles scored his first college points with a 59-foot shot at the buzzer to set the final margin at 100-62.

Oilers blank 'tired' North Stars

MINNEAPOLIS — Minnesota suffered the effects of playing three games in four nights when it was shut out at home for the first time in 78 games.

Craig MacTavish scored two goals and Paul Ranford made 22 saves Tuesday night, leading the Edmonton Oilers to a 5-0 victory over Minnesota, the North Stars' first shutout in Bloomington, Minn., since Feb. 25, 1988.

"We got caught gambling," said Minnesota Coach Pierre Page, who held a closed-door meeting with his team after the loss. "It was a disappointing effort from our players — something I haven't seen much of this year. We didn't play them very smart."

Classic continues play

Defense fuels Tribe comeback

By DEAN BORTH
 Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Robert Moore scored 22 points as Seminole used its defense to post a come-from-behind 70-59 triumph over Eau Gallie in first round action of the Central Florida Classic high school boys' basketball tournament at Seminole Community College Tuesday night.

In other first round games at SCC, Lyman hung on to defeat Bishop Moore 58-53, West Orange handed Lake Howell a 75-61 setback and Winter Park squeaked by Leesburg 57-56.

Wednesday's schedule at SCC has Bishop Moore taking on Lake Howell at 4 p.m., Leesburg meeting Eau Gallie at 5:30 p.m., Lyman playing West Orange at 7 p.m. and Seminole challenging Winter Park at 8:30 p.m.

Eau Gallie (2-3) came out like they meant to run Seminole (5-3) right out of the gym. The Tribe came out shooting very cold while Eau Gallie did a good job of getting the ball inside to 6-10 Jeff Faile. Beating the Seminoles in transition for several easy layups, the Commodores took a 20-9 lead with 2:24 to play in the first quarter.

At this point, Seminole Coach Greg Robinson called time out and put Ron Coffield and Willie McCloud into the lineup and went to a full-court press. The press was ineffective at first as the quarter ended with Eau Gallie ahead 22-11.

But the second quarter belonged to Seminole as it forced several turnovers and held Eau Gallie scoreless until the 4:30 mark of the period. Seminole scored the first 13 points of the frame as the 'Noles took their first lead of the night 24-22 on a layup by J.J. Wiggins with 5:00 to play in the first half.

A bucket by Coffield put Seminole ahead 26-22 before Tim Hall finally broke the drought for Eau Gallie. Seminole the scored the next six points on basket by Brandon Cash and two by Moore before Eau Gallie scored seven straight to take its last lead of the night, 31-30, with 2:32 left in the half.

Seminole went on another run, outscoring Eau Gallie 8-1 the rest of the half to take a 38-32 halftime lead. Seminole outscored Eau Gallie 27-10 in the second quarter as Eau Gallie was unable to handle the Seminoles' pressure.

The Tribe kept up the pressure in the third quarter and outscored Eau Gallie 20-12 to take a 58-44 lead into the fourth quarter. Coach Seminole got a game-high 22 points from Robert Moore (No. 45) as it rallied past Eau Gallie 70-59 in the Central Florida Classic Tuesday night.

Lions prevail over Tavares

By ROBBIE STOKK
 Herald Correspondent

OVIDO — Rob Crager scored the final two of his 30 points on a slam dunk with one second left in overtime to clinch a 70-67 for Oviedo over Tavares in the first round of the Central Florida Classic at Oviedo High School.

In other first-round action, Apopka defeated Lake Brantley 83-57, Lake Mary ran past Dunedin 60-44 and South Dade routed Colonial 96-62.

Crager scored six of the Lions' eight points in the overtime period, two on feeds from Brad Bolton. Bolton added the other two points on a wide-open layup to put the Lions up 68-64 with 57 seconds left in overtime.

Joe Scott drilled a three-pointer to put Tavares ahead by one 24 seconds later, but Crager hit a turnaround jumper with seven seconds left to give the Oviedo a 68-67 lead. Scott slipped and traveled to give the Lions the ball with three seconds left.

"Tavares is real good (Class) 2A ball club. Joe Scott is one of the best players in the Central Florida," commented Oviedo head coach Dale Phillips. "Rob Crager played well offensively. Forrest Rogers did a good job on the floor."

"We've got to stop making stupid mistakes. We've got to play better defense. We started playing a little better late in the game."

Oviedo led throughout the first half, but the Bulldogs showed signs of life when Ben Buchanan stole the ball from Danny Phillips and passed it to Darryl Davis, whose slam dunk cut the lead to 37-31 five seconds before halftime.

The momentum carried over in to the second half for Tavares as it went on a 21-9 spurt to lead 52-46 after three quarters.

Scott kept the Lions at bay early in the fourth quarter by sinking three consecutive jumpers, the last one for a 58-54 lead. However, Crager took two feeds from Phillips on separate plays to tie the game up at 60-60 with 2:43 remaining in regulation. Phillips finished the night with 15 assists.

Phillips had a chance to win the game in overtime.

Poised Patriots advance to finals of own tourney

By TONY BOESCHNER
 Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — For a collection of young athletes, the Lake Brantley High school girls' basketball team is showing the poise and composure of a veteran squad.

On Tuesday night in the semifinals of the Lady Patriot Christmas Tournament at Lake Brantley, the Patriots stayed in control of a fast, physical, emotional game to beat Winter Park 72-63.

The win advances Lake Brantley to today's championship game at 5:30 p.m. against Sarasota-Riverview, a 74-36 winner over Lake Howell on Tuesday.

"It'll be a tough game tomorrow night," said Lake Brantley coach Cindy Frank. "Riverview runs the floor better than anyone in the tournament. We'll have to play one of our best games to beat them. Last year, we beat them by two. We'll see if we can do it again."

Now is just as good a time as any for the Patriots to play a team like Riverview. Tuesday's win was Lake Brantley's second in a row and evened its record at 5-5. And the Patriots are playing their best basketball of the year, led by Tara Gibson and Lisa Bunce.

Against Winter Park, Gibson

scored a game-high 18 points and had nine assists to lead the Patriots. Bunce, who sat out much of the second half with four fouls, had 15 points and seven rebounds.

But what really has Lake Brantley playing well is the increasingly improving contributions from its other starters and bench. Starting forward Shelley Sturdivant had a game-high 14 rebounds and seven points. Denise Gerrity came in and contributed 10 points and eight rebounds while Michelle Davis has provided a spark on defense.

Still, Frank wasn't completely satisfied with the effort.

"I felt that we were forcing some passes that we shouldn't have," said Frank. "That was something we didn't do against Apopka. That frustrates me, that from one night to the next, we'll totally change what we do."

"Winter Park beat us by 14 in the Thanksgiving tournament. We have come a long way since then."

In Tuesday's other semifinal game, Riverview used several different full-court presses in blowing out Lake Howell. Led by Cindy Hayden's 12 first-half points (she finished with a game-high 14), Riverview pressed its way to a 52-15 halftime lead and cruised to the win.

Against Winter Park, Gibson

Lake Brantley's Tara Gibson (No. 23), who had nine points and eight assists in the Patriots' win over Apopka Monday, came back with 18-point, nine-assist effort Tuesday as the Patriot defeated Winter Park.

Burger King Classic kicks off today

By TONY BOESCHNER
 Herald Sports Editor

Can Lake Brantley make it three in a row? Starting this afternoon at Lyman and Lake Mary high schools, 16 high school girls' soccer teams will be playing in the Burger King Classic tournament. Leading the field are the Lake Brantley Patriots, who have won the last two Burger King tournaments.

Lake Brantley has to be considered the favorite to win its third consecutive title. Currently, the Patriots lead the highly competitive Seminole Athletic Conference with a 6-0 mark, 10-1 overall.

Other contenders for the title would have to be host Lake Mary (defending Class 4A state champions) and Bishop Moore (the reigning Class 3A state champs). Also, Seminole County schools, Lyman and Lake Howell as well as Winter Park and Fort Lauderdale-St. Thomas Aquinas have good shots at the crown.

Play begins this afternoon with four games at both Lyman and Lake Mary.

At Lyman, competition begins at noon when the host Greyhounds meet Deltona. At 2 p.m., Bishop Moore will play Eau Gallie with Winter Park facing Largo at 4 p.m. and Lake Brantley facing Dr. Phillips at 6 p.m.

Games at Lake Mary will begin at 2 p.m., when St. Thomas Aquinas battles Seminole. Melbourne faces off against West Orange at 4 p.m. before Lake Howell and Boone play at 6 p.m. and Lake Mary tangles with Tampa-Berkley Prep at 8 p.m.

Action will resume Thursday at both sites with first round losers' consolation games at 2 and 4 p.m. Quarterfinal games are scheduled for 6 and 8 p.m. at the two schools.

All the games will move to Lake Mary on Friday, when there are six games scheduled, including the two semifinal games at 6 and 8 p.m.

On Saturday, there will be five games at Lake Mary's Don T. Reynolds Stadium, starting with the finals of the first round losers' consolation bracket at 10 a.m. and the game for seventh place at noon.

At 4 p.m. on Saturday, the game for fifth place will be played. The third place game is scheduled for 6 p.m. with the championship game set for 8 p.m.

Oviedo ends Rams' streak

OVIDO — Everything must come to an end.

On Tuesday night, it was the Lake Mary boys' soccer team unbeaten streak against Seminole County opponents.

Oviedo's Rob Geisler atoned for an earlier mistake by scoring his second goal of the night with under 10 minutes left to play as the Lions upset the Rams 2-1 in the Lions' final game before the Pizza Hut Tournament next week.

Lake Mary will play at Bishop Moore on Friday.

"It might be as big of a win as we've ever had — period," said Oviedo head coach Dave Jekanoski. "They've (Lake Mary) got a

In the opening game of the day, Lyman took a 10-point lead, 42-32. Into the last quarter as Octavio Holiday scored 10 third quarter points.

But Bishop Moore, playing without star center Sean Fitzgerald, rallied behind Jason McIntyre, Andrew Buckler and Owen Busc, to outscore Lyman 19-12 and close the gap to 64-51 with :10 remaining. But the Floyd Nelson stepped to the line and hit both free throws to give Lyman a safe five-point lead.

Nelson scored 14 points and Holiday 12 as Lyman won its second straight game and improved to 2-5 on the season. Paul Janke (11) and Busch (10) paced the Hornets.

In the second game, Josh Kohn hit a three-pointer to tie the score at 56-56 with 2:07 to play. But Keith Little of West Orange answered right back with a three of his own and the Warriors made 10 straight free throws down the stretch to post the victory.

Ken Mills led four West Orange players into double figures as they improved their record to 5-1. The others in doubles were Jarrodd Shaw (15), Quentin Smith (12) and Johnell Bennett (11). Kohn (15), Cortez Graves (14) and Thomas Demps (12) paced Lake Howell as they fell to 3-4.

The third game of the day was the most exciting as neither Leesburg or Winter Park had more than a six-point lead at any time during the game. Winter Park led 32-28 at halftime as Toney Edney scored 12 points. Willie Dickens also scored 12 points to keep Leesburg close.

Leesburg outscored Winter Park 16-12 in the third quarter to tie the game at 44-44 going into the fourth quarter. The two teams traded the lead back and

Osteen's Newton picks up Mini Stock win with wire-to-wire run

By PAUL MARSHALL
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — Richard Newton of Osteen went wire-to-wire in winning the Mini Stock feature on Friday night at Orlando Speedworld.

Bobby Sears, another Osteen resident who ruled over this division during the 1988-89 season, is still trying to overcome his mechanical gremlins. After only one tour around the third-mile oval, Sears had to retire to the pits with engine problems.

For the last four weeks, Sears has encountered either engine or suspension problems.

Driving in relief for David Russell (who is still recovering from injuries sustained in the recent Florida Cracker 200), Pete Orr held off a last-lap charge by Jimmy Balle to win the FASCAN-sanctioned 25-lap Late Model feature.

With five laps to go, early-race leader John Penett relinquished the lead to Chris Robertson. On lap No. 23, Orr was able to slip inside of Roberts to take the lead and go on to the win.

Pre-race favorite David Rogers, who handily won the Late Model heat race, was running in the top five when he was spun out by Orr and was sent to the rear at the restart. While working his way back up through the field, he broke a water pump belt and was forced to withdraw from the race.

"I'm disappointed that the guy who spun me out didn't have to go to the rear of the pack with me," said Rogers later. "But I guess they call it like they think they see it. This has always been one of my favorite tracks. I've always run real good here. Tonight, though, I never really got a good chance."

Rogers is a former Late Model track champion at Orlando Speedworld and at New Smyrna Speedway. In 1988, he won 37 of the 43 races he entered at New Smyrna and set a national record for the most races won in a single racing season.

In victory lane, Orr said, "This win is a nice gift for David (Russell). Today, we took him out Christmas shopping and he really enjoyed being out."

"I really have to thank the crew. This is my second win in two weeks. With David out of the shop, we're all doing extra work, but the crew is really keeping it together."

Von Crews led every circuit as he cruised to victory in the Sportman feature event. With Crews on the point, a battle for second place developed between the father-and-son team of Wayne and Ricky Marshall. With two laps to go, young Michael Williams went by Ricky Marshall to score a third place finish.

For almost the entire "A" Bomber final, Paul Colgan ran wheel-to-wheel with race leader John Foery. With three laps remaining, Colgan drove around Foery to gain the lead and hold on for the victory. Foery finished second with Bentley Mead a close third.

From his fourth place starting position, talented young driver Ted head overtook veteran Jerry Smith of Sanford on the third lap to take command of the "B" Bomber feature. From that point on, it was "slam-bang" racing between head, Sanford's John Ripley and John Potts.

On the last lap, the hard-charging lead trio was running three abreast coming out of the fourth turn to the checkers. But Head nosed in front for the win with Potts second and Ripley third in a blanket finish.

Glenn Carter survived spins and tangles to clinch the victory in the Florida Modified feature.

On the second lap, Gary Salvatore tangled with Greg Hughes and David Indiveri. The incident causing severe sheet metal damage to all three cars. With two laps to go, Hughes and Indiveri tangled again but were able to continue.

The Figure Eight feature went to Denny Meyer Sr. while Wayne Marshall won his fourth consecutive V-8 Enduro.

On Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway, severe frost warnings prompted speedway officials to cancel the racing program for the second week in a row.

tremendous program, one of the top notch in the state.

"I think we had a tremendous level of intensity. I just think we were more aggressive. We probably had seven or eight very good chances to score. I'm just thrilled for the kids."

Geisler came up with both goals for the Lions. His first came 48 seconds into the contest when he headed a corner kick by Jeff Karson past Ram keeper Jason Redditt.

Oviedo blew a chance to take a 2-0 lead when Geisler blew a one-on-one opportunity halfway through the second half.

Lake Mary countered quickly, with Bill Governale nailing a shot by Lion goalie Bill Barto to tie the score at 1-1.

Geisler responded with an unassisted goal five minutes later.

LYMAN 4, MERRITT ISLAND 0
LONGWOOD — Defense was deciding factor in the "Battle of the Unbeaten."

Lyman's Greyhounds came up with a tough defensive effort on Tuesday night to shutout the Merritt Island Mustangs 4-0 at Lyman High School.

The Greyhounds, who will play at Spruce Creek on Thursday, improved to 9-0 with the win. Merritt Island fell to 7-1.

"This is the best that we've played all year," said Lyman coach Ray Sandidge, who was without the services of striker JoJo House (out with pneumonia). "The seniors really took it upon themselves to lead us tonight. This is truly a team. They know they don't have to rely on one person."

Sandidge singled out seniors Eric Leibin, John Mairs, Troy Hamilton and Craig Terrett for their efforts and the duo of Paul Klaus and Jeff Oenderlo, who gave strong performances despite being sick.

"Klaus and Oenderlo really gutted it out," said Sandidge. "We played very well defensively. I'm very pleased."

Leibin scored all the goals Lyman would need when he took a pass from Hamilton and hit the net with 14:41 remaining in the first half. Richie Stevens made it 2-0 when he took a punt from goalie Marcus Dewberry and scored three minutes later.

With under five minutes remaining before halftime, Mairs out the Greyhounds up 3-0 when he scored on a beautiful diving header, knocking in a corner kick from Brian Fookes.

Leibin scored his second goal midway through the second half. Allen Newsome picking up the assist.

Lyman's defense limited Merritt Island to six shots on goal while the Greyhounds got off 12. Each team registered three saves as Dewberry and Robert Colon (who came on for Lyman after Leibin's second goal) shared the shutout for the Greyhounds.

In Tuesday's junior varsity contest, Lyman ran its record to 4-0-2 with a 2-2 tie against their Merritt Island counterparts.

regulation for Oviedo, but his foul shot with four seconds left clanged off the rim and forced the overtime.

In Lake Mary's victory, Mike Merritt scored eight of his 14 points in the first quarter as the Rams grabbed a 20-12 first-quarter lead and walked over Dunedin. Jamon Perry added 11 points for the Rams while Dale Whitman added nine. Zane Morris led all scorers with 21 for the Falcons. James Bryant added seven points.

South Dade used pressure defense to panic Colonial into unforced turnovers as they pulled away for the victory. The Falcons scored 57 points in the second half. Four South Dade players scored in double digits. Donald Brook led all scorers with 21 while Cal Burdick added 18. Buck Purdom led the Grenadiers with 10 points.

Apopka used an 18-12 second-quarter run and held on in the second half to prevail over Lake Brantley. Rodney Stokes connected for 22 points for the Blue Darters while Chris Sharp added 15. Tony Cunningham poured in 17 for the Patriots while Trevis Certo added 13.

Lake Mary plays Apopka tonight at 7 while Oviedo takes on South Dade at 8:30. At 4 p.m., Lake Brantley will face Dunedin

Gilmartins celebrate early

Dinner is final one in home

By LAY BROWN
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Christmas dinner has been served 28 times at Sanford resident Florence Gilmartin's vintage Victorian home. This is the last one.

Over the years, a succession of eight men, along with the dinner table, have taken turkey and dressing to the Gilmartin home. Recently, the Gilmartins were gathered to receive from their mother an early gift: the last Christmas dinner in the home filled with all their beloved memories.

"There is a logical explanation to this."

"I sold the house," Gilmartin explains.

Who everyone grows and nurtured, the Victorian home is too large to maintain. So, Gilmartin, a widow, is preparing to move into Sunnyside Towers.

The early celebration of Christmas has actually been a Gilmartin tradition for a number of years. For awhile, it wasn't easy to get the large clan together. Today, most of them are here.

"For the last 15 years, as the boys married and had children, we've celebrated Christmas early with immediate family, so as not to interfere with the in-laws and the out-laws. We haven't all been together in six years because Mike lives in New Zealand with his wife, Norma, and Patrick is in the Air Force and can't always get home. I was very happy that they all could be here before I move," she says.

Gilmartin, an energetic ball of fire, bustles in the midst of her boys, their wives, her nine grandchildren, and many of her friends. She appears contented among them. She reminisces about Christmas meals eaten long ago.

"I always had a big turkey with all the trimmings — a lot of food," she recalls.

Youngest son, Patrick, enroute to the Honduras after his leave, guffaws, "Yeah, but if you blushed twice, the food would be gone."

Mike comments, "Remember the Waltons at their holiday meal? We were nothing like 'em! One of the years, my mom volunteered to carry food baskets to the needy from All Souls Church. We thought she had forgotten us. We called All Souls and reported some needy children at this address. She came home pretty quick," he says.

"I didn't forget you. You just wanted it right then," Gilmartin scolds.

Gene of Sanford explains, "We didn't have our turkey, the stores were going to close in a half hour, and we didn't think 7-Eleven sold turkeys, so we called."

Gilmartin rushes to the kitchen to finish dinner preparations as son Brian, of Sanford, accompanied by his wife, Kathy, 11-year-old son Scott and daughter ter Amy, 15, wander toward the food-laden table.

The Gilmartin clan eats an early holiday feast, the last one in this home.

"In the Publix, or some?" he jokes of the ample spread.

Patrick adds, "It's just not a holiday if the pie isn't burned."

From the kitchen, Gilmartin interjects, "That's true. We were always so busy talking at the dinner table, we'd forget about the apple pie burning in the oven."

Gilmartin is not one to get melancholy around the holidays.

"I always loved Christmas. With a husband and eight boys to shop for, I took Orlando like Teddy Roosevelt took San Juan. Because boys will rummage, we had to hide the gifts in a secure spot. I even locked them in the food freezer one year," she says.

Gilmartin's husband, Gil, blinded by an accident while serving in the Navy during World War II, passed away in 1977, but "was always an integral part of Christmas. He loved me, his boys, and a good time," Gilmartin fondly recounts.

"Yeah, and he was a better cook than my mom," Gene adds. He attends the festivities with wife, Betty, son Gil, 6, and daughters Ann, 4, and Jane, 1 1/2.

"She still can't cook a turkey. One year she forgot to soak the chestnuts to soften them before putting them in the dressing. They sucked up all the juice in the turkey as it all cooked. Boy, was that a meal!" Gene says.

Mike remembers the time his mother "mashed the brown-in-cream potatoes with the turkey."

"My dad was a superb cook," Mike continues.

"He taught us all well, except

Danny. He can barely boil water.

Danny is unable to attend the dinner and is not present to hear his brother's comment.

"We had to learn to cook. We would have starved if we had waited for my mom to get it right," Gene explains.

Gilmartin, overseeing the progression of diners at her buffet table, dismisses her sons' digs with a flick of the wrist and a "pooh, they exaggerate with their weirdo tales about my cooking."

"We do?" Mike asks innocently. This son is a strapping man who towers above his mom.

Gilmartin, hand on hip and shaking her finger, reminds Mike that she is still his mother and "boys are like canoes: they work best when paddled from behind."

Questions: "He's late. Let's eat," the rest

Baking contest produces original Swedish recipes

The First Annual St. Lucia Baking Contest took place early last Saturday morning in spite of the windy, rainy weather. Judges, Sheila Wilkens, Randy Andrews and Keith Keogh announced the winners and the prizes were awarded at Magnolia Square shortly after noon.

The first prize, Best of Show, went to Melissa Morrison, for her Citrus Gingerbread House. The second prize was awarded to Alice Clark of Lake Mary for Ambrosia cake (Ambrosia cake). Third prize went to Gloria Palumbo for Danish pastry. Honorable mention ribbons were awarded to Nikki Ventry for Kaldormar (Swedish Cabbage Rolls) and Hank Palumbo for Citrus Pie.

Many thanks to the judges, Albertson's, Rich-United Foods and Russell Sea Foods, prize sponsors, contest participants, and to Cliff Weitzel, sexton of Holy Cross Episcopal Church for their help with the contest.

The recipes from the contest are not microwave recipes, but I wanted to share some of them with you, anyway.

These Swedish Cabbage Rolls have a delightful flavor that I think you'll enjoy.

KALDORMAR (SWEDISH CABBAGE ROLLS)
1 large head cabbage
4 thick slices of onion
1 slice stale bread
1/4 cup bouillon

MIDGE MYCOFF

1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon sugar
1 egg
1 cup cooked rice
1 stick butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons cream
1/4 teaspoon allspice

Remove large leaves whole from the cabbage and boil in water for 5 minutes. Set aside. Chop the onion and fry in butter. Soak the bread in the bouillon. Mix the hamburger with the bread and bouillon. Add onions, salt, sugar, allspice, egg and rice. Mix well. Put about 3 tablespoons of the mixture inside each cabbage leaf. Roll tightly and fasten with a toothpick. Fry Kaldormar in one stick butter until golden brown.

Place in a baking pan greased with 2 tablespoons butter. Pour the fat from the frying pan over the Kaldormar. Bake in a 300° F. oven about 75 minutes.

Make a gravy by adding a little water to the drippings and thickening with 2 tablespoons flour. Salt to taste. When

Narcolepsy symptoms can be controlled

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please give your latest information on narcolepsy. Our 18-year-old son has been diagnosed with it and is being treated with Ritalin. We want him to go to junior college this year, but first and foremost we want him to get well.

DEAR READER: Narcolepsy is a rare neurological disease of unknown cause, marked by recurrent attacks of sleep and/or sudden loss of muscle tone. The sleep attacks often occur without warning and at inappropriate times, such as while driving or carrying out everyday activities. Loss of muscle tone can be equally unpredictable, although these episodes seem to be triggered by feelings of surprise in some patients. For instance, narcoleptic patients may experience momentary paralysis from spontaneous emotional reactions, such as anger, fear or joy.

The symptoms of narcolepsy usually begin in otherwise healthy adolescents and persist throughout life. The disease, which is four times more common in men than women and tends to run in families, does not cause ill-health or shortened life span. The diagnosis is made by the typical attacks.

Treatment is almost always successful and consists of stimulant drugs, such as amphetamine or methylphenidate (Ritalin). When taken regularly, these medicines block sleep attacks and lessen the muscular weakness.

If your son's symptoms are controlled with Ritalin and he is under medical supervision, he should be able to participate fully in college activities and lead a normal life. Although narcolepsy is not curable by present methods, the symptoms are controllable.

Because the unpredictability of narcolepsy seems to resemble the unprovoked outbursts of Tourette's syndrome, another neurological disease, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Tourette's Syndrome."

DEAR DR. GOTT: Exactly what does a tummy tuck operation consist of?

DEAR READER: A "tummy tuck" is plastic surgery to remove fat and sagging tissue from the abdominal wall. Although the actual technique varies from patient to patient, the principle is the same: surgical excision of excess fat and skin, followed by "tightening up" of the subcutaneous tissue.

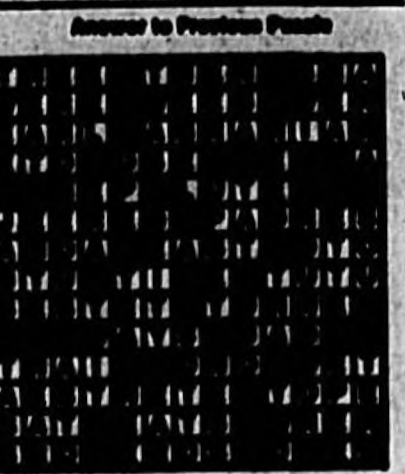

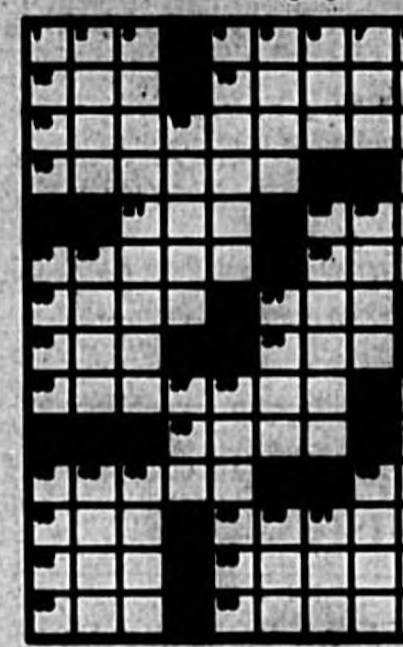

There is a difference between the "tummy tuck" and liposuc-tion. In the latter, fat is removed by suctioning, whereas in the former, excess skin is also excised.

I know South's heart spots aren't very good, but he does have eight cards in the suit. For my money, it's worth opening a strong two-bid, just to make sure of eventually getting to game.

The result would still be the same — West would bid spades and South would jump to four hearts, ending the auction. Everyone knows how Willy Nilly would play the hand. He would ruff the second spade and lay down the queen of hearts. West would win the ace. Later East would take two more tricks with the long hearts, and the contract would be set. Why would Careful Charlie make the contract? Charlie would correctly reason that with any 3-2 heart division he would lose only two heart tricks. He would also see that on most of the 4-1 heart splits there would be no way to avoid losing three trump tricks. However, if the ace of hearts just happened to be singleton, he could win the day by first playing a low heart out of his hand. So he would do just that and score up his contract. Playing a low heart first also wins with another combination. Suppose West holds A-9-8 of hearts and East holds J-10 doubleton. If declarer plays a high heart, West takes the ace and plays another spade, which East ruffs with a heart honor. But if South first leads a low heart, East must win with either the jack or the 10, and there is no trump promotion available.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Dec. 21, 1989

Your possibilities for success in your endeavors look good for the year ahead, provided you can suppress your impatience. Be content with steady progress instead of trying to get to the top of the heap in one jump.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Schedule your outside activities thoughtfully today or else they might turn out to be both time and money wasters. Try to establish an order of priority. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail #2 to Matchmaker P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This can be a successful day for you, provided you don't do things in a piecemeal fashion. Coordinate your efforts so that your forces aren't spread too thinly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't say anything about a friend today that you wouldn't directly say to his/her face, because any unkind comments you make are likely to be reported to the target of your remarks.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Think twice before giving friends tips today that you feel could make or save them money. If your information is faulty, they might try to hold you accountable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The opinions of others are important, but your own views have merit as well. Don't attempt to please companions today at the cost of subduing your own better judgment.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Assistants or co-workers will pull away from you today if you're overly critical of their efforts. Guard against making comments that could make them feel inferior or unappreciated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You're likely to keep things under control today where your larger expenditures are concerned, but it could be the small dollars and dime stuff that reeks havoc on your budget.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today you might be subjected to a series of minor frustrations and, instead of dealing with them and dismissing them from your mind, you might bring your troubles home and take them out on the family.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Double standards could cause others to lose respect for you today. Don't tell another not to do something a certain way and then go ahead and do it yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's an admirable attribute to be the first one who grabs for the check. Today, however, you might be saddled with a companion who doesn't practice this gesture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Even though others will be trying you might prove to be a difficult person to please today. If your friends lose patience with you, they could take an opposite approach.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your salesmanship will not be very effective today if you're inclined to belabor your points. Don't beat about the bush, make your presentation simple, clear and concise.

Whose 'vords' are the correct ones?

DEAR ABBY: With reference to "Vondering in Victoria," who wondered why the Scandinavians switched their "v's" and "w's." It's the same with Germans. In the German language, there is the "v" sound, but not the "double v" (vv) sound. When Germans speak English their "v's" become "w's" and vice versa. Example: "Vy are you laughing?" "I had a wery nice time in your village."

Other nationalities have similar problems. My Hispanic friends have the "y" sound in Spanish, but no "j" sound in speaking English. They make a mental switch. Example: "Jes, I like New York, but I can't find a yob there."

ROBERT J. ALEXANDER, PARADESA

DEAR ABBY: "Vondering in Victoria" was puzzled by Scandinavians' pronunciation. I would like to know why some eastern U.S. citizens "warah" their cars and "to Cubar." They insert an "r" where it isn't.

"I like to watch 'Woks Cooking' and other cooking shows, but I didn't learn to cook from my grandma," he says.

Gil's sister, Ann, admits that her brother "is a pretty good cook."

Dinner finished, family and friends gather around Gilmartin's tree to exchange gifts and reminisce for the last time in the old home.

Gene remembers fixing a car transmission with his brothers in the backyard one evening during a long-ago holiday season.

"We fell asleep under the car and were awakened well after midnight by my mom, with my dad in tow, returning from a party. She was singing and dancing down the alley to the song 'Alley Cat.' What a night," Gene says.

Although Gilmartin's Christmases have been tragically marred by the loss of sons Richard, to a drowning accident when he was 4, and Paul, to an accident on a Boy Scout trip when he was 16, she persists in being optimistic.

"We've had some very good times here. I'm going to miss Christmas in this house, but now that everyone is grown and gone, I've made my own plans. When you stop making plans, you start dying, and boy, do I have plans," she says.

Except for faint strains of "Alley Cat" being hummed in the kitchen during cleanup, the big, old Victorian house is quiet after all the guests have gone.

Gilmartin may be moving, but her treasured Christmas memories are going with her. She's stored them in her heart.

Following are a few of the recipes that won the hearts of Gilmartin's men.

CHRISTMAS CANAPES
 Pre-riced, packaged round party bread
 Cream cheese mixture (recipe below)
 Maraschino cherries, pimientos, cranberries. (Just enough to decorate with)
 Parsley

Use pre-sliced bread or cut regular bread into rounds. Spread with cream cheese mixture. Cut cherries, pimientos and cranberries into tiny rounds. Chop parsley until fine. Make a narrow ring of parsley around each piece of bread. Dot at intervals with red rounds to make it look like a holly wreath.

CREAM CHEESE MIXTURE
 Garlic
 1 package cream cheese (3 ounces)
 1 tablespoon cream
 One or more of the following:
 1/4 teaspoon onion juice
 1/4 teaspoon chopped onions or chives
 1 tablespoon lemon or lime juice
 1 tablespoon of finely chopped celery, parsley

1/4 cup chopped stuffed olives
 1 tablespoon horseradish
 1/2 teaspoon anchovy paste
 1 tablespoon caviar
 3 tablespoons crisp bacon, chopped
 1/2 cup shredded, salted almonds

Rub bowl with garlic. Mash cream cheese until soft and combine with cream. Add any of the remaining ingredients. Season with salt, paprika, or red pepper to taste.

CHRISTMAS SALAD
 6 large canned pimientos, drained
 2 1/2 cups drained and diced canned pineapple
 1 1/2 cups diced celery
 1 tablespoon tiny, pickled pearl onions
 1/4 cup whipping cream
 1 cup mayonnaise
 Shredded lettuce
 6 ounces soft cream cheese
 Chopped parsley

Combine pineapple, celery and onions. Whip cream until stiff. Combine cream with mayonnaise and fold into pineapple, celery, and onions. Spread pimientos with the mixture. Chill. Place on a bed of lettuce. Roll cream cheese into small balls and roll balls in parsley. Arrange balls around pimientos and serve. Makes 6 servings.

HOMEMADE KARLUA
 4 cups sugar
 3 cups water
 1 vanilla bean
 2 ounces instant coffee
 1 quart vodka

Combine sugar, water and vanilla bean and boil for 40 minutes. Set aside to cool. Dissolve instant coffee in 1 cup hot water. Add to sugar syrup mixture. Add vodka and stir. Let stand a few days before serving. A little cream on top is good.

HOLIDAY GIFT GUIDE

The epitome of holiday elegance

TODAY'S BEST DRESSED MEN are standing more than 600 miles from home and, to help carry them through with a variety of formalwear options, Alter His Associates offers several distinctively stylish coats. Available in "break-down" patterns of black, red, charcoal and light grey, these coats, with their "retro" wide shawl lapels, make the perfect holiday gift this season.

Classic scent in classic bottles: Gifts for all seasons

Some holiday gifts are momentary pleasures, while others are timeless expressions of affection that last from year to year. For those we truly love, the lasting gift is most meaningful because it provides a wealth of wonderful memories that last throughout the many holidays to come. An exquisite perfume in a uniquely designed bottle or heirloom-quality flacon is just such a gift.

Some of the most beautiful and unique perfume bottles can be found in antique shops and at auction. Antique Deco Lalique and Baccarat crystal perfume bottles are most popular, according to auction houses. But these places are certainly not the only sources for such coveted objets d'art. Certain fragrance companies, which have collaborated with crystal companies in the creation of perfume containers, also offer fine and distinctive flacons today.

It is important to do some research before making this type of purchase. Barbara Kostikoff, President of Parfums Nina Ricci, the famed perfume house whose L'Air du Temps comes in the beautiful double dove flacon by Lalique, offers some pointers on this subject:

Q. When did perfume bottles become popular?

A. In the mid 1920s many elegant women began to wear perfume, and it became popular to display decorative bottles on their dressing tables. These decorative arts flourished mostly in the '30s and '40s.

Q. How do I know if a bottle is authentic?

A. Check to see if the bottle has an etched (not stamped) signature on the bottom, with the name of the crystal company.

Q. Where can one get an authentic bottle?

A. It is possible to find many outstanding flacons in the better antique shops. If one is searching for an authentic Lalique bottle, it is quite easy to obtain during this holiday season. For example, Parfums Nina Ricci offers its L'Air du

GIVE A GIFT OF THE WORLD'S MOST ROMANTIC PERFUME in an heirloom-quality bottle. The fragrance bottle design is by Cristof Lalique for Nina Ricci.

Temps perfume in the famous Lalique double dove flacon in several sizes. L'Air du Temps is available in prestigious department stores across the country.

Q. How do I select a high quality perfume?

A. The quality of the perfume in the bottles is just as important as the beauty of the containers. One rule of thumb for judging quality is the ingredients. If the fragrance is made with a majority of natural ingredients, it is usually a high quality product. This is because natural ingredients react "naturally" with the wearer's body chemistry to create a unique scent that is slightly different for each individual.

Q. How much will I have to spend to purchase a fine bottle with perfume in it?

A. You can buy a small flacon of L'Air du Temps for approximately $100. Antique bottles can range anywhere from $50 to $900, making the perfume bottle gift one that will have long-lasting appeal.

Wondering what to give? Try these creative, quick gifts, packaged in reusable containers

Anyone who takes holiday shopping seriously is always looking for gifts that loved ones will enjoy and use. Even on a tight budget, it's still possible to make or buy wonderful, useful gifts for family and friends.

For starters, forget the cardboard boxes, tissue and wrap that get tossed out Christmas morning. Instead, fill reusable containers with your gifts.

Rubbermaid's see-through Servin' Stays™ storage containers come in many sizes and shapes to hold food or almost any other item you can imagine. Tight-sealing lids keep freshness in and moisture out. When contents are used up, containers become handy and useful gifts on their own.

Here are some ideas for filling your gift containers:

- For young artists, stock a canister with colored pencils. Top the container with a pair of children's scissors tied with a colorful bow.

- Holiday time is bird-feeding season too. Nature lovers will appreciate a dry food hopper filled with seed for feathered friends, combined with a field guide for identifying visitors to the feeder.

- Instead of a box of cookies, string together small cookie cutters. Tied-together cutters make a garland for the kitchen or tree, and can be used next year for holiday baking.

- Cylindrical containers used for storing pasta can also display holiday candies or jelly beans, and will keep them fresh too. Sweet-filled containers are a great hostess gift, and come in handy for holiday entertaining.

- A small, round container will hold loose potpourri, or spices that later can be simmered in a pot on the stove when you want to scent the home. The recipient of this gift can use contents as needed; the remainder will stay fresh and fragrant in the container.

- Gifts of cookies, pastries or loaf cakes can be placed in covered loaf pans or round containers. To make them pretty, wrap the goodies in colored or gold metallic foil. Tight-sealing container lids will help keep the foods tasty throughout the holiday season.
