ORLANDO - Sea World of Florida may soon add a female adult killer whale and her calf to its breeding and performance stable as a result of the purchase of three animals from a Canadian park

The other adult female likely will go to the Sea World park near San Antonio, said Brad Andrews, vice president for zoological operations for the marine parks.

The acquisition from Scaland of the Pacific in Victoria, British Columbia, was authorized late last week by the National Marine Fisheries Service.

The two adults were blamed along with a male for drowning a trainer during a performance at the Canadian park in 1991. The male, Tillikum, was moved to Orlando last January because he was considered a threat to the calf.

SANFORD - A political mud slingfest has broken out between Sanford commissioner Lon Howell and commission candidate Jordan Beckner

Beckner accused Howell of moving to DeBary and questioned his fundraising practices as a consultant for the Community Improvement Association of Sanford Hopper Academy restoration project. Howell denied the accumutions and countered with a charge that Beckmer has insulted black residents and sought to drag his family into the political fray.

Beckner said he hopen commissioners investigate the aliegations and has not officially filed a request for an investigation.

Although Howell has filed initial papers de-claring his campaign depository and establishing his campaign treasurer, he has not submitted qualifying papers to the city clerk's office. In an opening attack, Beckner said "It's common knowledge that Howell does not live in Sanford, that he has set up residency on Canter Club Court in DeBary. Howell's son goes to school in Volusia County and that requires residency, so Howell no longer is an official resident of Sanford."

SANFORD - While a recent study shows that Florida's public schools can be a violent place, ad-ministrators at schools in northern Seminole County say there is no increase in violence over last year, though the Seminole County schools have never had much in the way of very violent crimes.

Seminole High School continues to show that, despite an image problem, the school is a safe environment for learning, said Verna Jackson, an administration spokesman for the school.

'Kids will be kids and get into some lights," she said, "but things are not bad."

So far this year, she said, there have been 31 incidents of fighting reported at the school. That number, she said is about equal to last year at this time.

"We try to break up fights before they become physical." Jackson said. "We are taking quick action and handling these cases so that learning will not be interrupted." Jackson acknowleges the school has had to deal with one incident of a student having a weapon in his possession on campus and that that gun caused an injury to a student. but she said that the school's quiciaction to have the student expelled is indicative of the way the school handles such cases

"We are dedicated to making this a safe place for students to learn," Jackson said. "I think the students know that and they have responded.

LAKE MARY - The members of the Lake Mary High School chapter of Health Occupations Students of America (HOSA) want to make sure that the parents of Michael Beckler and Arcadio Vagara have one less thing to worry about.

They have arranged for the Central Florida Blood Bank to transfer the credits of donated blood to the families so that they do not have to purchase the blood the youngsters will need during the course of their recovery.

The two young men, students at Lakeview Middle School in Sanford, were critically injured on Friday when a runaway trailer stammed through their bus stop at State Road 46-A and

The story of Sanford's Lakegate not quite over

Chapter 11

The Lakegate story is not quite OVCT.

A grand jury indicted Ernest Amos - the Florida state comptroller for not closing the doors of the Seminole County Bank and Trust Company when it should have been.

It seems that Amos earlier had sent his suditors to Sanford to check into the Seminole Bank's financial condition. As a result the comptroller's office notified the bank's board of directors that the institution was in a very difficult financial attuation.

That audit was made 15 months before the bank actually went under. Amos was charged with not making a more timely audit after notifying the directors of the precarious financial status of the bank. Amos was also charged with the fact that the first audit indicated that Forrest Lake had borrowed far in excess amounts permitted by Florida banking statutes.

I have been working on this story for over a year and to this day I cannot find the results of the trial of Amos. In fact, I cannot find out if there ever was a trial.

In 1930, the city of Sanford's financial records indicated that the municipality had issued $6.5 mil-lion in bonds. Naturally, after losing everything it had in the way of money and bonds, the city was forced to renegotiate with bond holders and devise a way to repay the indebtedness.

It was in 1977 - 50 years exactly after Lakegate - Sanford's City Clerk, Henry Tamm, made the final payment to the bondholders.

National Bank went belly up as a result of the Depression and not because of any mismanagement. The building at the southeast corner of First and Park (now known as the First Union Bank building) that housed the First National Bank was built in 1925 at a cost of $100,000. In 1930, after the first National closed its doors, produce broker A.H. Moses bought the structure for $70,000.

The Forrest Lake Hotel had its problems during the Depression years and closed its doors. Who bought it? The city of Sanford - for $43,756.

The hotel later was leased by W.E. Kircholl and when he opened it the hotel took on the name of "Mayfair Inn." In 1948, the New York Glants purchased the hotel which everybody thought would become the spring training headquarters for the New York club of the National

Truck driver killed by train

ORLANDO — The driver of a flat-bed tractor-trailer tried to cross train tracks and was struck and killed by an Amtrak passenger train, police said. Troy Goodman, 30, died at the scene Wednesday after he was dragged nearly 150 feet by the train, which tore away most of the left side of the truck's cab, police said. The truck had been traveling parallel to the tracks but attempted to cross the tracks using a private drive that did not have a cross arm or lights, witnesses said. Home of the 165 passengers on the Manni-bound Silver Meteor was injured in the 2 p.m. accident, an Amtrak spikesman said.

Judge to rule on mother's fitness case next month

Associated Press

GREEN COVE SPRINGS (AP) - A judge will decide next month if Crystal Jones will have to give up her infant son as she has three other children after allegations of abuse and neglect. But a child-advocacy group that accuses the woman of breeding children to abuse them" and wants her sterilised was told by Circuit Judge William A. Wilkes on Wednesday that it may not have any my in the case, to be heard Nov. 13.

The Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services has taken three other children from the 36-year-old mother in the past. following complaints of abuse and neglect. A fourth child drowned in 1978.

At the requests of attorneys representing Mrs. Jones and her estranged husband, Norman, the judge ordered psychological exams for both before the November hearing.

Wilkes said he will decide then if month-old Steven Shawn Jones should be taken from his mother and whether the father should be given custody. Norman Jones' mother has custody of two of Mrs. Jones' children.

Mrs. Jones' court-appointed attorney. Terrance Jones of Orange Park, said after the brief hearing that he expected the psychological exam of his client to show that she is a fit mother.

Mrs. Jones, who lives in Middleburg, declined to com-ment Wednesday, but said in an earlier interview that she would fight to keep her baby and regain custody of her other children.

Dean Tong, president of the Jacksonville chapter of VOCAL (Valuing Our Children and Laws), was denied permission by the judge to file a friend-of-thecourt brief because the group didn't have an attorney.

Tong's brief maked that Mrs. Jones be institutionalized for psychiatric treatment and undergo a court-ordered sterilization.

"She's breeding children to abuse them." Tong said. "Any child in her custody is in harm's way."

"Temporary reversible birth control is not the answer here. We want permanent birth control." he said.

Attorney Terrence Jones dis-missed the VOCAL efforts. "This is not a society where a court can order someone to be sterilized." he said.

Ann Hatcher, a neighbor who pulled 2-year-old Crystal Gayle Jones from a pond about a year ago and resuscitated her, and another woman. Sondra Scit-ticatt, both of Middleburg, have collected about 300 signatures on a petition against Mrs. Jones.

in July 1978. Mrs. Jones' first son, 4-year-old Robert Will Carter, drowned in Black Crock The drowning, which happened while Mrs. Jones was at a mearby anack bar, was ruled accidental.

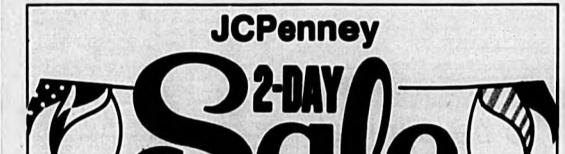

in 1985, the state placed Thomas, now 9, with his maternal grandmother because of emotional and physical abuse. HRS records show. He had burns on his body from a refrigerator coll and cooking oil.

The state placed Mrs. Jones third and fourth children. Crystal Gayle, 3, and Shawn, 2, with their paternal grandmother after Crystal nearly drowned in August 1991.

Mrs. Jones was sentenced to one year probation for child neglect.

She has a lengthy criminal record ranging from petty theft and disorderly conduct to indecent exposure and arson.

Editorials/Opinions WILLIAM A RUSHER 8 S00 H. FRENCH AVE., BANFORD, FLA. 32771 Area Code 407-322-3611 or 851-6665 mer B. Bertin, Publisher and Balle It's probably true that "no one scored a knockout" in the first presidential debate, but any fair referee would have to declare Rose Perot the winner on points. Overnight polls indicated that the percentage of people planning to vote for the feisty Texan had more than doubled, from about 6 percent to 14 percent, and if his support is even 10 percent on Election Day, his impact on the outcome will be considerable. The all-important question is: Which candidate – Bush or Clinton – will he hurt the most? solutions, and summoned the American people most effectively to make the sacrifices that he (and they) know will have to be made. To be sure, as the evening wore on it became apparent that Mr. Perot h a d not altogether mastered his brief, in the sense of breasting exactly 710 ni pay 7% c of knowing exactly what he would do on every specific issue. Here he was on EDITORIALS Lormann right health care: "We've for Lake Mary

Although both candidates seeking election to the District 1 seat on the Lake Mary City Commission are able men, Jim Lormann has a slight edge.

Both Lormann, and his opponent Gary Brender, appear to have a good eye on what their responsibilities would be while serving on the city commission. Each sees a positive future for the city and its growth potential. The difference is personal involvement. Lormann served as mayor of Longwood from 1975 to 1977, following in the footsteps of his mother and father, who were both Longwood mayors. He has been a resident of Lake Mary since 1987.

For the past several years, he has been a member of Lake Mary's Board of Adjustment. Of major importance is his understanding city operations. Lormann has attended commission meetings, not just recently as a prelude to running for office, but as a constant observer, and frequent spokesman for the people.

Time after time, Lormann has spoken out on issues brought before the present city commission. Most of his suggestions have been well thought out, and often give the members of the commission another point of view on a particular subject.

Certainly, there are times when Lormann speaks out in anger against a motion or move the commission may be considering, but even in anger, he manages to control his emotions. Although firm, he presents logical and precise rebuttal.

Lormann's opponent, Gary Brender, is involved in city activities, as a member of the Landstone standard gency, which has been responsible for guiding the development of the city's comprehensive plan.

As such, he is familiar with the various requirements for development of commercial business, the environment, paving and drainage, residential development, and other plans which must be followed in Lake Mary for growth and expansion in the future.

Brender however, is a political newcomer with no actual experience in city government operations. With a close observation of the management of the city and personal involvement in meetings and discussions, as well as involvement in various other boards and public forums, he could be a candidate worth considering for election to the city commission in future years. Purely on involvement with the activities of government, and his active participation inother activities and meetings which may have an effect on the citizens of Lake Mary, Lormann should be the voters' choice for District 1, in the Lake Mary municipal election, Nov. 3.

Perot climbs polls after the debate

Despite Democratic complaints about the format (which Bush's seconds had insisted on), the evening pretty thoroughly redeemed presi-dential debates in my eyes. All three men were required to answer good questions posed by journalists, and each had the chance to comment on the others' answers. Each exhibited his characteristic strengths and weaknesses. Presi-dent Bush was thoughtful, and displayed the caution typical of someone who has spent long hours in the Oval Office making agonizing choices. Gov. Clinton had detailed programs for everything, and a positively alarming confidence that they would all work. But it was Ross Perot, with his salesman's verve and wit, who told the most painful truths, proposed the most painful plaints ("The country is coming apart at the scame") and his exuberant laundry list of solutions. Compared to him, Mr. Bush inevitably seemed less focused. There's nothing quite like four years in the presidency to cure an honest man of glibness.

Of course, the two remaining debates will modify these powerful impressions of the first one, and somebody may yet score that long-swatted "knochout." Moreover, Mr. Perot's hostility toward the president was obvious, and - if it continues to be evident in the remaining debates — may alter the dynamics of this three-cornered battle in some interesting ways. But if Mr. Perot continued to do well in his own behalf, and the percentage of viewers disposed to vote for him continues to rise, or even maintains the level it reached after the first debate, then the all-important question has to be: Whose support is he croding most heavily? There are, it seems to me, two possible answers to that question, and unfortunately they cut in opposite directions. Among the most loyal supporters of the Republican Party are the economic con-servatives, to whom Mr. Perot's astringent economic realism might be expected to apprai strongly — more strongly than Mr. Bush's broken promises and flabby compromises.

MARTIN SCHRAM Michael Milken can rescue our cities

The reason so many of us view our presidential debates as more grating than great is that none of the Marathon Men of '92 is running the bold race we really want and INCLU.

President Bush is running on empty - he still has no new domestic initiative, except nomething called a "Jim Baker."

Gov. Clinton is running on change probably just enough change to get him through the tollgate a t 1 6 0 0 Pennsylvania Avenue

Mr. Perot is running on air - mostly hot, all of it lite, an the billionaire who once ridiculed General Motora' decisions by committee now promises us government by task forces.

Meanwhile, we're running out of patience, and time. Nelther our professional politiciana nor our professional tycoon has shown us the wit nor will to tap the resources that can solve our problems.

Consider the problem of our underclass. A bold, innovative leader could have months throughout a certain Pleasonton. Calif., security institution as Federal Prisoner 16126-054. We know him as Michael Milken. "Milken ... is widely considered to be the most influential financier of the postwar era." as The Washington Post wrote earlier this year. But he was also a white-collar crook of unprecedented proportions. And so, in 1990, our federal justice system punished Wall Street's king of junk bonds by sentencing him to 10 years in prison — which was itself a federal crime of missed opportunity. A government headed by a bold thinker-doer could have proposed that Milken pay his debt to activity by debt the hind of mark his debt to nociety by doing the kind of work he does best. They could have sentenced Milken to 10 years of working to reshape an urban ghetto wasteland. Milken could have been ordered to live in and work in, say, New York City's South Bronx (which is near his former kingdom of Wall Street) or in Watts (which is near his home in Encino. Calif., just a gematone's throw from the Beverly Hills site where he began his Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. empire). In either locale, he could have created a South Bronx-Watts Redevelopment Corp. to rehabilitate - block by block - the buildings and the lives of the people who live in them. This most influential financier of our time could have been given a federal court charter to wheel and deal with his chums from Wall Street and corporate America to finance the rebuilding of the decaying structures - plus the counseling, training, job placement, health care and on-site security needed to rehabilitate the lives of the residents (subject to court approval). No doubt Milken's financing effort would require some creative tax breaks for corporations who sign on; so let Milken figure out what is fair and let the government make the deals that will get the job done. As CEO of the Redevelopment Corp., Milken would have all that he needs in start-up capital - the $600 million he paid in fines and penalties. That was just pocket change for Milken, who in 1967 alone made $550 million. So it's not asking too much to have him put up a few hundred million more. If need be. (Perhaps this idea strikes a familiar chord. I've made it a minor campaign theme for a couple of years; a similar plan was also championed in 1990 by The American Lawyer publisher, Steven Brill. It was a grand idea then: it still is today.) It's not too late. A new president could move rapidly to write a new chapter for white-collar crime and punishment.

Time to change HRS rules

When Gregory Kay sued his parents for divorce and won the suit, testimony came out implicating the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services in the child's neglect. The youngster remained in his mother's care although she neglected him and subjected him to emotional abuse throughout his lifetime.

Critics charge that HRS should have permanently removed Gregory from his mother's custody 10 years ago. The critics are right. That's what should have happened. But what should happen and what som happen are not always the same thing within an overburdened organisation.

Before your criticize that investigations of abuse are not swift and complete, consider the pay scales of HRS personnel; look at the percentage of positions held vacant due to lack of funds. Before you take umbrage at HRS' intervention into family matters and action taken toward unwarranted charges of child abuse, think about the laws that give HRS duties normally resting with the courts and the police.

The Gregory Kay case ian't an issue of what can be done to halt an onslaught of similar cases as much as it's a question of what reforms can be made to HRS to ensure that no child ever need file such suit. If HRS is to be held responsible for the well-being of every child in this state, then the Legislature needs to take a realistic look at the volume of work expected of the agency in relationship to its level of funding. State rules and regulations, state budgets and the chain of command within all state agencies need to be revised.

Public has right to be cynical

I hereby nominate this as the dumbest question ever asked: "Why is the public so cynical about politics and government?

JOSEPH SPEAR

I hear it and I want to acream: Because politics and government are shot through with hypocrites and pretenders and liars, that's why. Because Congress gives itself a pay raise and calls it "ethics reform." Because the president claims a hotel room as his residence as a ruse to evade taxes. Because the vice president, after years of screeching about abortion, now mays it "is not an issue" for Bush/Quayle and allegations to the contrary are "simply a creation" of the news media. Maybe I should add a category: Politics and government are shot through with hypocrites. pretenders, liars and damn fools.

OK. not all public officials are like that. But at least 28 percent of them are, and that's a documentable fact.

On the penultimate day of September, the most significant political reform in 20 years was given the death sentence. The independent counsel law will go out of existence on Dec. 15. The Senate refuned to reauthorize it because 28 Republicans threatened to filibus-ter any attempt to save it. That's 28 sanctimonious frauds in a body of 100 who rant about honest government with one face and vote against it with the other. Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., asys Republicans don't like the law because Democrats use it to pick on them: "The independent counsel law has been turned into a blunt partisan club that Democrats start swinging whenever they feel the need to rewrite history." Other critics my the system is too expensive and cite as proof the $32 million that Independent Counsel Lawrence Walsh has spent to probe the Iran-Contra mean. Others maintain the independent counsel is superfluous because the Justice Department is fully capable of investigating high-level malfeasance.

Let us examine these moronic arguments one by one.

The first two officials investigated after the independent counsel was created in 1978 were Hamilton Jordan and Timothy Kraft, both members of Jimmy Carter's team. Nine ensuing probes — with the possible exception of two in which the subjects remain un-disclosed — involved Republicans. The obvious reason for this is that Republicans have controlled the executive branch for 12 years and have thus been the exposed party.

And one more little detail: The muchmaligned Lawrence Walah, an 80-year-old former federal judge, is a lifelong Republican. On his ladder of priorities, unlike Quirky Bob and the Obstructionists, integrity in government obviously occupies a higher rung than petty partiaan politics.

The $32 million tab for Walsh's five-year probe is nothing to sneeze at, but its value cannot be measured in practical terms. Independent prosecutors should not be judged by the number of people they send to jail but by the message they deliver: No one in this democracy is above the law. "The convictions are a by-product of the process." Walsh once told Lyle Denniston of the Baltimore Sun.

"They are not a measure of the process." He is absolutely right.

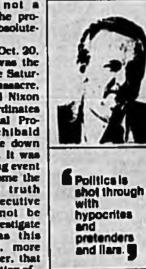

Remember Oct. 20. 1973? That was the evening of the Satur-day Night Massacre. when Richard Nixon ordered subordinates to fire Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox and close down his operation. It was this frightening event that drove home the self-evident truth that the executive branch cannot be trusted to investigate itself. It was this single event, more than any other, that led to the creation of the independent counsel.

If the Justice Department is to be trusted to do its duty, then why has it not launched a probe of George Bush's role in the Iran-Contra affair? Why has it not investigated the Bush administration's role in arming Iraq before the war in Kuwait?

Because such matters always boil down to politics and that always bolls down to hypocrisy - and that's why we are cynical.

Campaign 1 Tight race in Florida 4 years after Bush landslide

AP Political William

APALACHICOLA - Ask lifelong Republican George Wefing about the presidential race and he wanders to a file cabinet in his marine supply store and digs out his latest health insurance bill. I guess it's desperation. But we need something done." Harsh words for Bush are commonplace among the hardscrabble folks who work on and around the weather-beaten docks in this artity fishing

the weather-beaten docks in this gritty fishing ville

If found only here, such talk could be attributed to tough work, stagnant scafood prices and cheaper imports. But it echoes across much of this diverse state, making Florida one of 1992's most unlikely battlegrounds. In 1988, Bush claimed 61 percent in Florida, winning 66 of 67 counties as he beat Michael Dukakis by 1 million votes. Since then, however. Florida's unemployment rate climbed from 6 percent to 8.9 percent. Bolatered by working-class voters who once supported Bush. Clinton cam-paign polls show a narrow Clinton lead in the struggle for Florida's 25 electoral votes. "The painful secret is it's very hard to hold the Republican coalition during a tough economy," said GOP polister Bill McInturff. "The Republican coalition of the '80s was built on economic good news and it frays very hard around the edges in a tough economy." Btill, Republicans predict a Bush win here. They reason the race will inevitably tighten as Election Day nears, transforming Florida and other traditional GOP strongholds from tossups to the Bush column.

"We're happy to have the Democrats waste time and money here," and Bush state director

"We're happy to have the Democrats wate time and money here," and Bush state director Sally Harrell. "The president will win Florida." It is far easier to find Bush supporters here than in many other battleground states, lending credence to the Republican assertions. "It's not leadership — it's a lack of cooperation from the Congress," said marketing executive and Bush supporter Kurt Volker of Fort Lauderdale, a Republican candidate for a county root.

complicated not only by Florida's fractured politics but also by the revived candidacy of Ross Perot.

"I don't think either Bush or Clinton is worth a damn." said Dennis Martins. a 57-year-old Apalachicola crabber who voted for Bush in 1996 but says he won't again because of the economy. "I'm voting for Perot just for protest. I know, he doesn't have a chance."

"I'm voting for perce just as protect a market of doesn't have a chance." Many former Perot backers were reluctant to support his renewed candidacy. Still, many who consider the Texan as a good vehicle for a protest vote supported Bush last time — a bad omen for the president.

Among Florida's farmers. Republicans and Democrats alike are worried that Bush's support for a free-trade agreement with Mexico could hurt their business. Clinton, too, has endorsed the trade pact, but only after piedging he'll push first for stronger worker and environmental protections.

"It is going to be very hard for me to support him." farmer C.P. "Happy" Tucher said of Bush. "This is our livelihood."

Tucker, the Republican mayor of tiny Belle Glade, says he would "consider very strongly" voting for Clinton if the Democrat addresses the farmers' concerns.

Defections like these, here and across the country, have put Bush in deep political trouble just weeks from Election Day, Instead of focusing on voters who often swing from one party to the other. Bush must shore up support among those who normally vote Republican as well.

Clinton tried to complicate that task with a recent bus tour across the state's GOP heartland.

"Floride is not just a feint." said Clinton campaign manager David Wilhelm. "We're starting to believe we can really win it. Two months ago, I would have said no way." In sprawling Florids, the candidates must cast appeals to a diverse racial and economic population.

Round Two: Bush, with only 19 days, seeks elusive breakthrough

AP Political Writer

RICHMOND, Va. - Questioning by undecided voters could spark a few more surprises during tonight's second presi-dential debate, while President Bush searches anew for the clusive breakthrough he needs to reignite his campaign. For Bush, stalled in the polls behind Democrat Bill Clinton. the pressing goal was to make a significant gain to carry into Monday's debate finale in Michigan - the curtain raiser for the final two weeks of the campaign.

But history is on the Arkansas governor's side: no modern candidate has lost the election with as big a lead this close to Election Day - now just 19 days AWEY.

The latest CBS-New York Times poll, published today, showed that Bush's attacks on Clinton's credibility weren't changing voters' minds. The poll gave Clinton 47 percent, Bush 34 percent and Ross Perot 10 percent in its survey of 854 registered voters. That's unchanged from a CBS-Times poll conducted 10 days ago. The poll had a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

Perot's against-the-odds candidacy likely was detailed a bit ng mate James Stockdale's unsteady showing in the vice presidential contest, but even analysts who discount Perot as serious force in the race say tonight's more relaxed format could help the Texas businessman. Clinton's task was to defend his lead without appearing too overconfident or cautious, and Democrata said they expected Bush to pick up where Vice President Dan Quayle left off Tuesday night: savaging Clinton's trustworthiness and casting the Democrat as an eager taxer.

will do, but it doesn't get you votes," said Clinton's communications director George Stephanopoulos. "You can't win an election simply by tearing your opponent down with smears and distortions. But Bush can't defend his record and he can't offer a vision for the future.

Republicans and some other analysts praised Quayle's performance Tuesday night in Atlanta for landing repeated blows to Clinton on the credibility innue.

"I'll try my hardest to do as well as he did - it was first class," Bush said as he greeted Quayle at the White House on Wednesday, when the president also worked in 90 minutes of mock debating. For all of Quayle's volleys.

however, Republicans and only Bush could significantly crode Clinton's lead because people focus less on the vice presidential choices. Many questioned whether Bush can succeed on the same track as his vice president. "Quayle helped lay some groundwork for Bush to take advantage of - but is he capable of doing it?" said Atlanta-based polister Claibourne Darden. He's shown no evidence yet in this campaign that he can.

"He's the guy who said 'Read my lips," said Republican strat-egist John Sears, "and education president and environment president and kinder, gentier nation. His own record on trust is not pure so I don't think it gets judged the winners of Round One - Clinton for making no errors and responding forcefully to early Bush attacks: Perot for a witty, engaging performance that earned him an uptick in polls that nonetheless showed him a distant third.

In tonight's debate, ABC News' Carole Simpson will moderate at the University of Richmond and take questions from 250 local undecided voters selected by The Gallup Organization for the debate audience.

This format should allow more interaction among the candidates, although it is not as freewheeling as the wide-open slugfest between the vice presidential contenders.

"I think Perot will do very well in this kind of atmosphere." Sears said. "He can speak directly to the other two guys and he doean't have to be careful because he doesn't have to protect much."

While Bush partiaans gamely predicted a dramatic comeback. even Republicans were publicly discounting a Bush victory. "No," said Sears when asked if he thought the president could rebound.

Clinton is "running away with the election," said Thomas Hopper, state GOP chairman in Tenneasce, where Bush is about 12 points behind. "The president needs to be very tough and WASHINGTON - Poli cians and students of the breed say retired Vice Adm. James Stockdale gave a gift to every politician in America in his stumbling vice presidential debate performance: At a time when the craft has a bad name, he showed the country that running for office ian't a pickup game.

Call it glib, they said, but a politician has to be able to speak in a convincing way without obvious strain.

"I'm of the opinion that politics in a profession; the

Despite Stockdale's generally agreed-upon charm and wit, Lengle said, "Just as we would not entrust our son's brain surgery to a first-year intern, we don't want to entrust the White House to someone with limited political skills."

Lengle said both Ross Perot and Stockdale, his running mate, are "dispelling the myth that skills in one area translate into political skills." His students are "repulsed" when he tells them that politics is not easy, he said; they believe the myth that the presidency is within the birthright of every American.

HRS considers 'Titanic Model' plan for public health clinics

By The Accordiated Proce

TALLAHABBEE - State oflicials say they're considering a plan to ration services at county public health clinics on the basis of age and sex because they don't have enough money to provide care for everyone. Women and children are at the top of the priority list, which has been called the "Titanic Model" by some state officials, the St. Petersburg Times reported Wednesday, They're followed by adults without young children and then elderiy people last. "We've been hiding our heads in the sand, thinking people are getting services when they're not." said Dr. Charles Mahan, state health officer. He called the plan "weil-thought-out rationplan "well-thought-out ration-ing" an opposed to "blind rationing.

Florida's $31.5 billion budget includes $28.5 million for primary health care for poor people, down from $30 million last year. However, the amount the state spends on such serv-ices is probably three or four times greater once grants and specific programs are included, according to Dr. Leslie Beitach, insistant state health officer for family health services.

An estimated 2.5 million of Florida's 13 million residents have no private health insurance. and don't qualify for government aid. An estimated 10 percent of that group goes to the county health clinics.

The plan will apply only to state-funded public health department programs that treat the poor for everyday ailments like sore throats and chronic illnesses like high blood preshure.

It will not affect Medicaid or Medicare, federally funded community health centers, mi-grant clinics or privately run

The policy is scheduled to become effective Nov. 25 if it wins final approval from the head of the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Serv-

"What we're doing is ration-ing." said Bettach. "Anyone who says different simply hasn't been paying attention to what's hap-pening." ices.

The plan puts into writing what has already been going on for months in most financially strapped counties.

The plan sets up seven categories of people who could be served, in order of priority. At most health departments, there will probably be money enough to cover no more than the first two or three categories - preg-nant women, children and teen-aders.

The state's Department of Elderly Affairs has filed a formal objection, calling the plan repugnant.

"Will the disabled of any age be the next to be excluded?" wrote June Noel, deputy secretary of the agency.

"Once we place devaluation on any population group, a prece-dent is set." she wrote. "Please do not allow public health to be rationed to this point."

The state Health Office, part of HRS, says the policy makes sense for three reasons:

- Chronically ill older people are expensive to care for, with medicine bills that can run hundreds of dollars a month. If the public health units continued to care for them, the money would quickly run out. — Most people older than 65 qualify for Medicare, a federal duality for medicate, a reterna insurance program for the el-derly and diambled. While it doesn't meet the needs of most low-income older people, at least it's something.

- Money spent on health care for pregnant women and children tends to reduce the state's bills in the long run. Checkups for pregnant women reduce the number of infants who need costly treatment after birth. Checkups for children can block the onset of crippling iclong diseases.

With this policy, the health officers say, Florida is following in the footsteps of Oregon, only in a more modest way.

Oregon set priorities for health-care services, rating the benefits of surgical and medical dollars could be spent. The underlying idea was that it would be better to limit the number of services that would be covered than to limit the number of people covered. But the Oregon plan threw out the guidelines for Medicaid, the joint federal-state health care program that covers some poor people. So it couldn't be implemented without the permission of the federal government. President Bush vetoed the plan in August.

Florida won't need federal permission for its plan since none of the money comes from the federal government.

After a public hearing scheduled for Friday in Fort Lauderdale, HRS Secretary Bob Williams must decide whether to give final approval.

Caffeine withdrawal may be hazard

AP Science Writer EL Q. MANEY

BOSTON - Got a headache? Feel a little anxious? Sluggish? Depressed? It could be caffeine withdrawal.

A study published today found that people who are used to a couple of cups of coffee or several cans of caffeinated soda can feel downright lousy if they miss their daily fix.

"Anyone who drinks two or more servings of caffeinated beverages per day is at risk for possible withdrawal effects." commented Dr. John R. Hughes of the University of Vermont.

Experts have long known that caffeine withdrawal could be a problem for people who gulp vast amounts of collee. But the new study found that average drinkers can also suffer if they mine their daily jolt.

The problem is going cold turkey. Easing back over a few days seems to minimize the risk. The symptoms reach their worst after a day or two and then usually taper off within a week. How bad are they? The unidentified people who took part in the experiment had these comments:

Dr. Roland R. Griffiths, senior author of the study at Johns Hopkins University, said his work does not imply that caffeine is unhealthy. "It's not bad as long as you keep taking it." he said.

As the population of 18- to 34-year-old men — what Fox calls "the young and the ruthless" — increased from the 1980s through the early 1980s, so did violent crime. When that age group began to drop in the early 1980s, violent crime fell.

tell. But around 1985, violent crime inexplicably took off again. By last year, the nation's murder rate was 9.8 per 100,000 population — the highest in a decade — while the 18-24 age group dropped to 10.3 percent of the population — the lowest since 1965, when the murder rate was 5.1 per 100,000.

Even more troubling is the spread of violence among younger teens. From 1985 to 1991 the homicide arrest rate for 15-year-olds jumped 217 percent. Arrest rates among 13- and 14-year-olds have more than doubled.

Fox said the FBI recorded about 1,500

homicide arrests among those ages 15 to 16 hast year -- nearly double that of 1905. "The increases in violence we're observing are among very young people and they are very dramatic," Pierce said.

These crimes aren't limited to big cities.

These crimes aren't limited to big cities. Communities with populations as small as 25,000 saw a 40 percent increase in homicides over the past six years -- the same as cities 10 times their size. "Violence and gauge move in and out of jurisdictions. It doesn't matter where you're st." said Harris, the incoming president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. Social scientists tick off reasons why crime is on the rise among teens: more gains and fewer jobs; cuts in funding for schools and community programs; an increase in the drug trade; profound changes in the family; and a rise in violence in the media.

"We're ioning monies for programs and so these hids upond a lot of time on the streets." and Daroid Johnson of the Washington-based Children's Defense Fund. "There is a loss of hope among these hids. They aren't just dropping out of school — they're dropping out of hie." The future looks even dimmer. "The bad news is the homicide rate has been increasing desents a desites in the most tinkert.

increasing despite a decline in the most violent-prone age group." Fox said. "But the really bad news is this generation is about to expand in size. which will likely bring an continued increase in crime.

Pierce is gloomy about society's willingness to fix the problem with better schools, job training and the more difficult task of showing the young an alternative to violence.

"Unless we are willing to look at how we are committed to hids, the situation is bad for this country." he said. "We're not just facing a federal deficit, we're facing a growing deficit in how we invest in children, and it's payback time."

WASHINGTON - About 44 million Americane will find bigger Social Security checks in ger Social Security checks in their mailboxes next year, but analysts say the increase likely will be the smallest in six years. The Labor Department today is releasing the Consumer Price Index for September. The report will trigger additional Social Security benefits in 1993 de-signed to offset price increases during the past year. Social Security News, a quarterly newsletter published by William M. Mercer Inc. in Louisville, Ky., predicted the increase would be between 2.9 percent and 3.1 percent.

percent and 3.1 percent. If so, it would be the smallest cost-of-living adjustment since a 1.3 percent advance in 1987, it would add an average of about 820 to monthly Social Security checks.

Benefits are adjusted at the beginning of each year, based on the increase in the CPI in the previous July-September quarter over the same period a year earlier.

Through August, the CPI had risen 2.9 percent at an annual rate, down from 3.1 percent in all of 1991 and 6.1 percent in 1990.

The average retired worker's monthly benefit rose 3.7 percent this year, an average of $22 a month that boosted their monthly checks to 9634. The CPI report also affects ' Supplemental Security Income, the welfare program that pro-vides a minimum income for poor people who are aged, blind or disabled. BSI payments also ross 3.7 percent this year, from a maximum of 8407 to 8422 for individuals and from $610 to 8633 for couples.

The Labor Department announcement also will increase the maximum earnings subject to Social Security and Medicare taxes.

in 1992, a 7.65 percent tax was levied on all earnings up to $55,500 for both programs, with 1.45 percent of that tax extended to maximum earnings of $130,200 to pay for Medicare benefits. Those rates will not change in 1993, although the maximum carnings for both will.

The rate was I percent, up to a maximum of $3,000 in earnings, from the time Social Security started in 1937 until 1960. After that, it rose gradually to the current rate, set in a 1963 plan that Congress designed to rescue the system from recurrent financial problema.

Fortune compiled the ranking .

NEW YORK - Seattle. America's closest mainland port to Asia, is the nation's best city for business, Fortune magazine nays.

"No city has escaped the ravages of recession, although Seattle has fared best by a long shot." the business magazine said in its fourth-annual ranking. The survey, released on Wednesday, appears in the Nov.

Seattle's bustling scaport on fish-filled Pacific make the city a good distribution point, the magazine said.

At the same time, Seattle is the home to America's biggest exporter - the aircraft giant Boring Co. - and the nation's richest entrepreneur, computer-software whiz Bill Gates.

The rest of the Top 10, in order, are: Houston, San Francisco, Atlanta, New York, Raleigh-Durham, N.C., Denver, Chicago, Boston, and Orlando, by asking Moran Stahl & Boyer, a business location consulting firm, to survey more than 900 executives, all of them Fortune subscribers, and evaluate the nation's 60 largest metropolitan areas. Criteria ranged from taxes and nocial conflict to the quality of the labor force. Fortune then used the responses to calculate a city's quality of life and its competitiveness in a global economy.

We measure our success by the success of every business we serve:

There is a boat builder in New Bern, North Carolina, looking to expand. There is an oil refinery in Abilene, Texas, needing new sources of capital. And there is a contractor in Cutler Ridge, Florida, with a list of hurricane repairs that they need to make.

We have worked with many different businesses just like these. We have given them advice, shared with them our insights and provided them with loans. As a result, we have grown strong with businesses from Baltimore to Miami to El Paso. Together, we have become the building blocks for strong communities, strong industries and a stronger nation.

Today, as NationsBank, a bank of vast resources and over 2,000 locations, we are bringing aggressive business lending to a local level on a scale never before achieved.

It is no wonder that this bank, dedicated to making a difference in the businesses of a nation, would today be called NationsBank.

The grand opening starts at 10 a.m. tomorrow, and will last through Saturday.

cans with Dissoutces Act. Interior design professor Jim West is heading the project involving 15 faculty members and 80 students from several state universities. The survey will examine more than 31 million square feet of classroom, office, service facility and build-

"Basically, the act says that any service that any governmental agency offers must be accessible to anyone with a disability who would want to or is entitled to use that service." he said.

"That includes students, staff. faculty, even parents of students that come to visit. Everyone has to have an equal chance to avail themselves of the service," West

Braves stun Pirates

ATLANTA - The Atlanta Braves, in a wild ninth-inning rally that ended with a play at the plate, beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 in Game 7 to reach the World Series for the second straight year.

The stunning loss gave Pittsburgh its third straight postseason failure.

The Pirates were three outs away from their first World Series since 1979, but Doug Drabek. who pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the sixth and stranded two runners in the seventh. didn't have one more escape act in him.

It ended when pinch-hitter Francisco Cabrera singled to drive in two runs, and Sid Bream slid safely across home plate, triggering a wild celebration.

Guzman leads Jays into Series

TORONTO - The Toronto Blue Jays finally learned how to win in October and took the World Series out of the United States for the first time by beating Oakland 9-2 in Game 6 of the AL playoffs.

Beneath hundreds of red maple leafs, Juan Guzman did what Jack Morris and David Cone could not do, winning on three days' rest, to wrap up the series. Joe Carter and Candy Maldonado made Guzman's second victory of the series easier with home runs that put Toronto ahead 6-0 after three innings.

MVP Roberto Alomar fittingly capped off the series with an RBI single in the eighth inning.

will be involved in games almost that important tonight. The Seminole Fighting Seminoles (2-2) will host the Edgewater Eagles (2-2) in a 4A-District 7 confrontation while the Lake Howell Silver Hawks (2-3) visit the Oviedo Lions (3-2) for a 5A-District 4 showdown.

In both cases, the winner becomes a frontrunner in its respective district race while the loser would fall all but out of the district race.

Seminole and Edgewater are half of a four-team district that also the includes Leesburg Yellow Jackets and the University Cougars, who play each other Friday night Friday night at Leesburg. With the four teams combining to play just six games to decide the district championship, each one is critical. The other four games will be played on Oct. 30 (when Seminole plays at University and Leesburg travels to Edgewater) and Nov. 13 (when Seminole visits Leesburg and University is at Edgewater).

Rams continue surge with win over Tribe

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - Normally, a team will divide its year into two seasons. the regular season and post-season. But for the Lake Mary High School boys' volleyball team, this year's campaign has been fragmented into three parts - that with injuries, that without injuries and, hopefully, the postseason. On Wednesday night, the Rams continued their successful run through the second of those three stages, knocking off a stubborn Seminole squad 15-11, 13-15, 15-10 in a Seminole Athletic Conference match at Seminole's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"It was a good, competitive match," said Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen. "We started an all underclassman lineup in the second game and played them the entire game. They were able to take a lead, but they couldn't hang on to it."

Earlier this season. Whalen was forced into playing makeshift lineups on a regular basis as lan Saunders, Drew Thomas and Edrick Cosme all were out of action for extended periods. During that stretch, the Rams were 4-7.

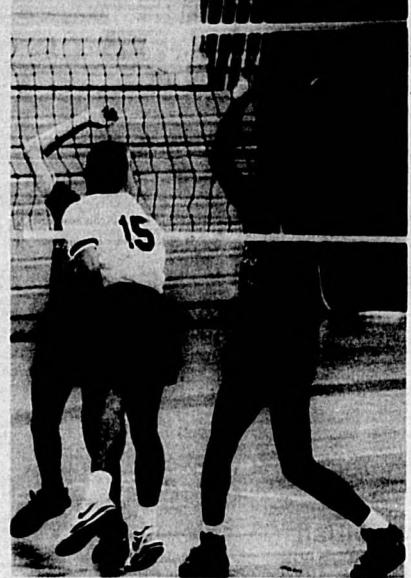

back to full strength was to Lake Howell in the Lake Brantley tournament last weekend and to Lyman this past Monday night." The loss to Lyman was the one that really hurt. Not only did it come at home, it all but mathematically eliminated the Rams from the conference championship race.

"That's one reason we played an underclassmen lineup." explained Whalen. "We're out of conference race, so we were looking at playing some players who may have to perform in Volleyfest (scheduled for Oct. 30-31).

"Also, we have to look at program as whole. We were looking at the younger players and rating them. trying to see how they will might help us in the future."

Whalen stressed that the Rams are focusing on preparing for Volleyfest, which serves as an unofficial state tournament for boys" volleyball, which is not sanctioned by the Florida High School Activities Association as a varsity sport. "The main thing right now

MINNEAPOLIS - The Minnesota Timberwolves signed former Duke star Christian Laettner, the third overall pick in the NBA draft, to a six-year, $21.6 million contract.

The 6-foot-11 forward led Duke to national titles in 1991 and 1992. He averaged 16.6 points as a four-year starter for the Blue Devils and 21.5 points as a senior, when he was the national player of the year.

"Once we got them all back together. we've been able to put a few things together." said Whalen. "Our only two losses since we got getting ready for Volleyfest." said Whalen, whose teams won the tournament in 1989 and 1990. "We have shown that if we put it together at a given time, we can play with anybody we step on the floor with."

The Lake Mary junior varsity extended its undefeated run through the SAC, sweeping the Tribe, 15-13, 15-0.

Edgewater) to decide the district winner. Three of the last four years, the district championship has had to be decided by a Kansas tiebreaker.

At Oviedo High School's John Courier Field, two teams that didn't expect to be in the thick of the 5A-District 4 race will go about trying to knock each other out of it.

When the season started, Oviedo (2-1 in the district) was considered to be a long shot largely to the unknown emotional impact on the team of the injuries suffered by two key players in a late-summer auto accident Lake Howell (also 2-1 in the district) was considered to be too young, especially on offense.

Going into tonight, Lake Howell and Oviedo are tied for second in the district race with Lake Brantley (3-2, 2-1 in the district), a game behind of dis-trict-leading Mainland (4-1, 3-0).

The winner of tonight's game will immediately become Lake Brantley fans for a day on Friday, rooting for the Patriots to knock off Mainland in the other crucial 5A-District 4 conflict this weekend at Lake Brantley's Tom Storey Field and create a three-way tie for first in the district.

Also on Friday night, the Lyman Greyhounds (2-3, 1-2) will try to stay mathematically alive in the 5A-District 4 race when they host the winless Spruce Creek Buccaneers (0-5, 0-3).

Lake Mary (1-2, 3-2) and De-Land (1-2, 1-4), who are in a three-way tie with Lyman for fifth in the 5A-District 4 race, are idle this weekend.

DAR reviews history of Columbus

SANFORD — Dr. George Washington Borneman spoke on Christopher Columbus to the Daughters of the American Revolution at the October meeting at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Borneman has done much research on s and presented him as a "nice red-headed man, well-read, intelligent, serious and very religious." He belonged to a lay order of Franciscans and faithfully observed its disciplines all his life. He felt compelled to carry Christ to the world because he rechoned 1615 was to be the end of the world, and time was short. God, gold and glory were the ruling influences in his life.

Borneman told the members the voyages were financed largely by monics confiscated from the Muslims and Jews ousied from Spain in 1492. Although Columbus satied throughout the West Indies, he never touched any part of the United States. And his sailors never did "fall off the edge of the earth" as they had feared.

According to Beatrice Buck, Sallie Har-rison Chapter is pleased that the following aix women have completed their qualifications and were voted into full membership Olive White, Kristen Mikler, Audrey Jones, Barbara Dunn, Gail Leibowitz and Michele McCarter. Marian Walton was reinstated as a member.

Language barrier bars wife from dinner party

DEAR ABBIf: Once again, I am sitting home while my husband is enjoying a dinner at the home of some friends from work. I was not invited. Ricardo (my husband) told me that I was not invited because I do not speak Spanish.

Ricardo speaks Spanish fluently. I know only a few words, but not enough to carry on a conversation with people who speak very fast. We have had these people in our home and they spoke only Spanish. although they can speak English very well.

I am very hurt to be excluded from their get-togethers. I am also hurt that my husband would accept invitations that do not include his wife.

What is your advice, please?

Unless you are willing to settle for a "master-slave" relationship. I urge you to (a) learn to speak Spanish, and (b) seek marriage counseling, either from your clergyperson or a licensed professional counselor. If Ricardo refuses to go, go without him. Please do not tolerate this abusive behavior. It will only get worse. Trust me.

would make me very happy if she would buy herself a little something she wanted. I tried to be as diplomatic as possible, knowing that she is a very proud woman now living on a very tight budget.

Abby was I justified in feeling hurt when she returned my $20 with a note saying that I was far too generous and, perhaps, 1 could "buy myself a little something I wanted"? (She used the same wording I had used in my letter to her.) My feelings were hurt.

CAN'T GET OVER IT

DEAR CAN'T: Your longtime friend who is now living on a very tight budget may find it difficult to accept a monetary gift. Or perhaps she doesn't want to get involved in a giftexchanging situation.

nurt in Olympia, wash

DEAR MURT: For these "friends" to have invited your husband to dinner and excluded you is the height of ignorance and insensitivity. And for Ricardo to have accepted, leaving you home, shows him to be shamefully inconsiderate of your feelings.

You don't say how long you've been married or whether you have children, but if you tolerate this kind of demeaning treatment. you can expect more of the same in the future.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it was in poor laste for me to have enclosed a $20 bill with a birthday card I sent to a girlhood friend? We are both seniors and have lived in different cities for a number of years now.

She was a very generous hostens when I visited her two years ago, but now she has responsibilities at home that make it impossible for her to visit me.

Please give her the benefit of the doubt, and don't question her motives.

DEAR ABBT: Have you heard what one earthquake said to another earthquake? "It's not my fault!

How to care for a stroke victim

GOTT: My 71-year-old husband had a stroke eight months ago. He is totally incontinent and confined to a wheel chair. His doctor says he has degeneration of his central nervous system. Since my husband never speaks to anyone or asks for anything, we must constantly anticipate his needs and we require some

DEAR READER: This is an extremely difficult situation: you are courageous to take on the many responsibilities your

I don't mean to sound cruel but, to a large degree, you must adopt the same approach with your husband that you would with an infant. This means washing, feeding and changing him: in essence, anticipating his needs in the same manner you probably did with your children many years ago. You may be able to spark his interest in food by offering him meals that you, by experience, know he likes. You may be able to "toilet train" him by putting him on a commode every couple of hours during the day. At least this should cut down on his incontinence. You may be able to improve the quality of his life by playing music, reading to him or letting him watch TV shows that he once enjoyed. Finally, get some help in the form of home health aides or other health-care workers: you will need frequent breaks in the daily monotony of caring for someone who is so severely

I'm sure your husband's doctor can give you other, more cogent advice. Also, the doctor should be able to coordinate the services your husband will need. including meal planning, recre-ation, physical therapy and

Yesterday's deal featured an unusual second-hand-high play that would have killed dummy's long suit. Today's deal is a variation on the theme. It occurred during the Moscow Pairs Championship, held last May. Somehow South, Natali Karetnikova, got to four spades. I have guessed a sequence, but it is probably not even close, because strange bidding systems are ubiquitous in Russia.

West. Victor Makarov, led the diamond ace, playing ace from A-K. He continued with a low diamond, declarer ruffing East's queen. Now a heart to the 10 would probably make the contract. East wins with the king and returns a spade, but whether South finesses the nine or puts up the ace, she will find 10 tricks dropping into her lap. The fall of the heart queen and the lucky 3-3 spade split with the jack onside leave the contract unbeatable.

However, Makarov foresaw this possibility. At trick two, he put in the heart queen. Now declarer was dead. She won with dummy's heart ace and finessed the spade nine, but West won with the king, put his partner on play with a heart to the king and received a heart ruff to defeat the contract.

If dummy has a suit headed by the A-J-10 that will be established with two finesses, it is usually a good idea to play second hand high. It might disrupt declarer's timing. Similarly, if you are faced with a position like the heart suit in today's deal, consider playing the first nor on might have a powerful effect. Readers are invited to send card-play questions to Phillip Alder, in care of this newspaper.

They can be answered only through the column.
