Arkansas Senator Is Practically Certain Of Nomination For The Vice Presidency Endorsement Is Given By Walker

Twenty Other Names Receive Mention But Very Little Support

HOUSTON, Tex., June 26.—The vice presidential star of Sen. Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, brightener today, although a dozen other candidates were widely discussed as potential running mates for the Democratic nominee for president.

The "board of strategy" directing the campaign of Gov. Al Smith for first place on the Democratic ticket was reported to have definitely decided, in event of his nomination, to pick as his running mate a "dry" protestant, friendly to agriculture, from a southern or border state.

Robinson met the requirements fully and was said to be the personal choice of Smith himself for the vice presidential nomination.

There were four classes of candidates for the second place honor, it was disclosed, Robinson himself. The Arkansas senator, who has led his party in the United States since 1922, had the endorsement of scores of Smith leaders while spokesmen in the anti-Smith camp praised his record and raised no substantial objection against his candidacy.

The second class was occupied by Sen. James A. Reed, of Missouri, still fighting desperately for the presidential nomination, Sen. Alben W. Barkley, the Kentucky labor leader, and Sen. Pat Harrison, the genial Mississippian, who was a newcomer to the vice presidential race.

The third class, in the scale of possibilities, included former Sen. Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, the famous Wilson League of Nations leader, Rep. Cordell Hull, the Tennessee dry leader Evans Woolfson, the Indian banker, Rep. Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, and Gov. Vic Donahay, the three elected executives.

The remaining of a list of 20 potential candidates for running mate honors were in the final and hopeless class. These candidates were really hotel lobby possibilities, with new exceptions, and some of them never will hear their names presented to the convention.

Smith leaders were quick to endorse Robinson. Mayor James J. Walker of New York, said: "I don't know Senator Robinson personally but on every side I hear excellent reports about his career as a statesman, senator and party worker."

Other Smith leaders were more outspoken in urging Robinson's candidacy. "There is great sentiment for (Continued on page Four)

Jimmy Walker Struts As Admiring Throngs Follow To Give Him 'Glad Hand'

HOUSTON, Tex., June 26.—(INS)—They've rolled up the sidewalks of New York and reloaded them in Houston. Follow the crowd and you'll find that the crowd is following Jimmy Walker, the mayor of New York, the pal of Al Smith and, since he arrived here, the pal of the South. Jimmy's a pally guy. He calls himself a "guy." In another week the governor of South Carolina probably will be calling the governor of North Carolina a "guy."

Houston knew Jimmy was coming and, knowing that Governor Smith liked him, was prepared to make itself like him, too. No compulsion was necessary. Houston today likes Jimmy Walker because he's Jimmy Walker.

The mayor was told that several hands, a woman's organization among them, were to be seen on the mezzanine floor from the lobby of the hotel. The mayor appeared, late as usual—and the southerners here liked it. They must have, for they cheered him till the welkin quit ringing and began to clank.

Any good mathematician could have proved to you that the crush of people in the lobby never in the world could have jammed themselves up into the narrower mezzanine. The mob proved that mathematicians can be wrong.

Everyone tried to—and seemingly did—get up there and shook hands with Jimmy.

They can't convict me of picking pockets in this town," the Mayor laughed. "Both my hands are in somebody's else hands all the time," and don't think they weren't."

The mayor visited the spacious mezzanine until the throngs trailing him got inside. Al Smith headquarters and got his delegate's badge. Most of Houston went with him from room to room.

After being shunted pushed, slapped and banged around for an hour by what some idiot has termed a "good natured crowd," Mayor Walker said he'd like to visit his fifteenth floor room and cool off.

Elevator after packed elevator whizzed past—loaded. The mayor waited for 20 minutes, mopping a sopping, glowing forehead.

"Why not walk up to floor three," I suggested, "take an elevator going down and refuse to get out when we hit the lobby. Then we'll be first in when it gets up."

"Just to show you how innocent I am; let's go," Jimmy said, snapping his fingers.

When the lift door opened, the amazing girl operator was popt-eyed at the number of persons swarming in with the distinguished New Yorker.

"It's all right; these are all my relatives," the mayor assured her.

RIVER SERVICE TO BE STOPPED AFTER JULY 1

Railroad Commission Will Allow Clyde Company To Stop Boats Running From Sanford To Jacksonville

The petition of the Clyde Steamship Company to discontinue steamboat service between Jacksonville and Sanford was granted today by the Florida State Railroad Commission at a hearing held here this morning. The date for the discontinuance was set for July 1.

In granting the petition A. S. Wells of Tallahassee, chairman of the Commission, stated that the continual loss sustained by the Clyde Company on the river line between Jacksonville and Sanford for the past three years, with no relief in sight, made it advisable for the Commission to accede to the Company's request.

H. G. White, general agent for the steamship company, testified at the hearing this morning that in the years 1926, 1927 and in the first four months of 1928 the company had lost money on the river line. Mr. White stated that when the company decided to discontinue the line it requested all its agents in the various cities served by the line to make a survey to determine if there were any prospects of an increase in business.

W. F. Griffin Jr. and J. F. Hunt, traveling agents for the Clyde Line, were called to testify and each stated that the surveys made between June 1 and June 20 of this year had been very discouraging. Mr. Griffin said the DeLand Chamber of Commerce circulated a petition, which was signed by a majority of business men of that city and in which the Clyde Company was promised 2700 tons of freight during the next 12 months.

This was the only offer made to the traveling agents. Mr. Griffin said the business would not be enough to pay the expenses of operating the river line. When asked as to reason for the decline in business, Mr. White and Mr. Griffin stated that it was due principally to the strong competition of the railroads, overland trucks, and the other river lines which offer store delivery.

A number of citizens were present at the hearing this morning. Ragland of the firm Kay, Adams, Ragland and Kurg Attorneys of Jacksonville, attorney for the Clyde Steamship Line; J. H. Lauster, manager of the A. B. C. Transfer Company of Orlando; W. A. Leffler, J. B. Calder, A. P. Connelly, C. A. Byrd and E. J. Trotter.

The members of the Railroad Commission were present, were: A. S. Wells, chairman of Tallahassee, E. S. Matthews, Starks, and Mrs. R. L. Eaton, Monticello. In addition to these J. H. Tench, rate expert, was also present.

Democratic Platform Makers Resort To Strategy In An Effort To Reconcile Divergent Views Wets, Dries

Compromise Plank Sought For Harmony

G. O. P. Would Be Flayed In Plank That Pledges Enforcement Of Volstead Act

HOUSTON, Tex., June 26.—(INS)—A new plan of strategy was evolved by Democratic platform drafters today to head off the threatened stormy row over the prohibition plank.

The idea is this: Let the wet side of the resolution committee draft a pliant plank calling for modification of the Volstead Law. Let the militant dry counter with a proposal lauding the Eighteenth Amendment to the skies.

At this point, according to the scheme of those leaders who are seeking to make harmony, the watchword of the convention, both sides will be counseled to reconcile their divergent views through the adoption of a middle-of-the-road plank pledging the party to strict law enforcement.

The compromise plank, as suggested by Smith leaders, would condemn the Republican party for laxity in enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment and would place the Democrats on record as staunchly favoring the enforcement of all provisions of the Constitution.

Representatives of the Smith camp and such champions of the drys as Senator King of Utah have discussed the plan in private conferences and are understood to have approved it. Further more, it was represented as having the approval of Governor Smith. He is said to have suggested it to his leaders here through one of his closest friends and advisers.

It bears out earlier International News Service dispatches that Governor Smith, prior to the convention, would reveal his law enforcement plank wishes to his lieutenants here.

Of course, the compromise may not deter the radical wets or drys from carrying a fight to the floor but its backers hope it will take the sting out of their fight.

That the southern drys, under the leadership of Gov. Dan Moody of Texas, are not going to be satisfied with anything less than an open endorsement of the Eighteenth Amendment was manifested after an early morning conference in Moody's headquarters. Attending were Senator Glass of Virginia, Ex-Secretary of Navy Josephus Daniels of North Carolina and representatives of Tennessee and Florida.

In compliance with the state law, the City Commission has designated next Monday afternoon as the occasion on which it will sit as an equalizing board. Although the tax roll will be submitted at that time, no hearing of complaints from taxpayers will be held. A series of meetings will be staged later for this purpose, it was announced today.

At its meeting yesterday afternoon, the Commission instructed City Clerk F. S. Lamson to notify every property owner of the assessed valuation on his property, giving the date on which complaints or objections will be heard by the equalizing board. Cards bearing this information will be sent out beginning today.

Property holders, who plan to voice objections to the assessments, are asked to file their petitions with the City Clerk not later than the day previous to the meeting of the board.

Several meetings are expected to be held before the assessment roll can be complete, it was stated today. Hearing the taxpayers in small groups is expected to facilitate the work of the equalizing board and speed up the Commission's efforts to finish the task at the earliest possible time.

Smith And Robinson Booms Given Impetus As Convention Opens

FLORIDA CALLED DUMPING GROUND FOR ILLICIT RUM

Other States Receive Most Of Liquor Smuggled Into This State; Coast Patrol Has Job Of Great Magnitude

TAMPA, Fla., June 26.—Only a small part of the thousands of gallons of liquor smuggled into this country, through Florida, are in Florida. The bulk of it, federal officers said yesterday, is shipped to other states, and most of that by automobiles.

Florida couldn't afford to buy all that is smuggled and landed on its shores. The middle west, and intermediate territory, is the big consumer of that which comes through here. Not long ago an automobile from Florida was seized in another state and officers found nearly 300 quarts concealed in a false bottom. One bottle broke, spilling the liquor. That gave the bootleggers away.

The magnitude of the coast patrol job is realized when one bears in mind that the shore line is 1400 miles. Then counting the rivers, creeks, bayous and bays, there is an additional 2400 miles. The experts have figured that there are 10 landing places along every mile. That means 39,000 spots in Florida where a boat may slide in and dump its liquor.

"It is impossible to guard all this vast expanse of territory," said a federal officer. To guard it properly would require more than an army. Florida in this respect is more difficult to patrol than states further up the coast. Moreover we are nearer to Cuba and the Bahamas, from which most of the contraband is shipped. There is a big profit for the shipper, along with the risk, and then, too, we have in this country a vast consuming army. If people didn't want liquor it wouldn't be transported in such great quantities.

Enforcement of the laws is difficult, the officer said because of the ready market for the bootleg product. Officers down here realize the natural desire of the home folk to protest when Washington reports that Florida is one of the principal offenders in the matter of smuggling.

"The public, and maybe some of those in the government do not realize," they say, "that Florida simply is used as a landing place, and that the liquor is put ashore, picked up and started on its way to bigger markets. Often we get two shots at it, as it comes in and after it gets out of the state."

This happened three weeks ago when a carload of liquor, shipped from Orlando to Kansas City, was seized at Birmingham. No statement has been made as to the owner. In fact, the government hasn't found out who owned it. It was just put in a claim and the government couldn't put its hands on the shipper.

But while much of the imported liquor is handled by the bootlegger in Florida, government officers say that a large part of the stuff sold here in Tampa, as the imported article is made right here. Agents have found that Bacardi rum, which is supposed to be Bacardi, from the big plant at Santiago, Cuba, is really made here. Benedictine is made here, for that matter. There is mighty little real liquor sold here about, but buyers don't seem to bother their heads. They take it at a dead weight, and if it doesn't kill them, they become regular customers.

ITALY PROVOKED BECAUSE NOBIL SAVED SELF 1ST

Government's Displeasure Is Seen In Announcement That Romagna Will Remain In Control Of Rescue Expedition

ROME, June 26.—(INS)—There were indications today that the Italian government is not entirely pleased because Gen. Umberto Nobile allowed himself to be rescued first from the ice floe in the Arctic.

The government has sent a radiogram asking Gen. Nobile to forward immediately a report of the disaster to the Italian and the subsequent events including the rescue.

Contrary to Nobile's plan to assume direction of further rescue work the government announced that it will remain in charge of commander Romagnolo of the supply ship Citta di Milano.

LONDON, June 26.—(INS)—General Umberto Nobile, now safe aboard the Citta di Milano at Virgo Bay, today held a conference with the pilots of the three seaplanes using the ship as a base, an exchange telegraph dispatch from Rome stated.

The commander of the dirigible Italia, which was lost while returning from the North Pole, has thrown himself wholeheartedly into the task of rescuing the 20 men still marooned on the Arctic wastes.

Hoover Tunes In On Democrats Work Outlines Republican Campaign

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Herbert Hoover tuned in his radio receiver today and prepared to get as much political edification as possible out of the Democratic national convention at Houston.

The Hoover camp will keep quiet while the Democrats are selecting their leaders. The G. O. P. will make no bid for the front pages for several weeks to come.

Hoover now plans to go west about July 10 and the only contemplated action prior to that time is the selection of east and west managers, posts probably to go to Senator Moses of New Hampshire, and James W. Good of Iowa.

Good is a little miffed because he was not selected national chairman and so far has not given any indication whether he will assume charge of the Chicago Hoover headquarters. His friends, however, said he would be ready when the time comes.

Each Scheduled To Be Nominated On First Ballot In Effort To Speed Adjournment

California Has Parade For Smith

Enthusiastic Throngs Jam Convention Hall Long Before Opening

SAM HOUSTON, June 26.—The rumble of a Smith parade wagon bearing the legend "Smith-and-Robinson" was heard in the offing today as the thousand-odd delegates to the Democratic national convention sweltered their way into this huge mountain of pine and bunting at Houston erected for them almost overnight.

Of the Smith part of the parade no one had any doubt whatsoever—not even the bitterest detractor from the forks of some northern creek.

The movement to nominate New York governor on the ballot was growing as the gates assembled for the convention. A careful figure showed that having last night's vote on the initial ballot several of the favorite contenders on the fence over the question of withdrawing are letting it go with a whoop. First roll call.

As for the Robinson ticket, the movement had been growing by leaps and bounds since the Arkansas senator early proceedings. A dozen delegates were booing him, and next three days there will be enough votes to insure his nomination.

The first roll call late 2:15 minutes today sent 1,100 delegates into session only long to listen to the formal roll call, to hear Mayor Holopeco bid them welcome to Houston. Then a recess until 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The temporary organization will be effected, and Claude G will deliver the keynote. Clem Shaver's open invitation to make this a "coastal" convention was accepted with the perspiring delegate Spartans, probably from the East, clinging to their shirts and fanning women who stuck dully to their backs at Madison Square Garden years ago. The ventilated all sides and that help drew the prize seat location, floor, being directly in the speaker's platform, phrasing that this was a cratic not a republican convention.

If the Republican campaign according to plans it will be a short affair. Real action is expected to start about the middle of the first of August, after Hoover sounds the call to arms in connection with his address at national ceremonies.

Chairman Robert H. Taft said the campaign would be a test of the international ability of Hoover to organize and administer big projects and a national policy.

"There will be no estimate of Hoover's strength, but we don't can lose."

Yale Liberty Pole Replaced By Staff. NEW HAVEN, Conn. (INS) June 25.—A Liberty Pole had stood on New Haven Green from a day in 1776 when a group of Yale students and faculty members, and other residents of the town went to the western woods and cut down a tall pine that they fashioned into a mast, carted into the village and raised in place where the band met and the village cattle grazed.

From time to time the Liberty Pole was replaced until within a year when various citizens wanted the pole permanently replaced by a bronze construction to be a memorial to World War veterans who died in action.

The Liberty Pole has gone now, and in its place a monumental flag staff costing many thousands will rise before the summer is over, Yale art school students designed it.

BOOM STARTS FOR ROBINSON AS RUNNER-UP

(Continued From Page One) same way the Republican Party did. There were two thorns in the Robinson "bed of roses." First, his candidacy was based entirely on Smith winning the presidential nomination, and second, on the complete elimination of "Jim" Reed. Robinson headquarters could see no alarm in the situation, however, as Sen. T. H. Caraway, the Arkansas junior, predicted Robinson's selection.

Senator Robinson is the outstanding political figure of the South, said Caraway. "He commands the respect and confidence to a greater degree than any other Democrat in the South, bar none. He really should lead the ticket." Senator Robinson will not discuss his chance for the second place nomination. He merely reiterated his frequent statements of the past that he is not a candidate for any office this year. He is slated, however, for permanent chairman of the present convention, regardless of the presidential race.

Citrus Growers of State Hold Meet Here On Saturday

The last of a series of meetings which have been held in this country by a committee of 50 of the Florida Citrus Growers Association was held in Sanford Saturday night, for the purpose of outlining the Clearing House plan to the growers and shippers of this city. Throughout last week, meetings were held in Geneva, Oviedo, Maitland and Altamonte Springs. Speakers sent out from the state headquarters of the association at Winter Haven were in charge of the meeting. These speakers are grove owners who have become interested in the proposed plan and are traveling over the state at their own expense to speak at meetings of the citrus growers of this state.

At the meeting here Saturday night the speakers announced that this plan, which would provide for the distribution of fruit in a regular manner, had been approved both by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and by Herbert Hoover.

Due to the rainy weather a very small number were on hand for the meeting here, it was announced, but much interest has been shown in the plan as proposed.

GEORGIA SPECIAL ARRIVES IN TEXAS WITH DELEGATES

Group Displays Great Enthusiasm Over Their Candidate, Senator George, Whom They Will Back To The Very Last

HOUSTON, Tex., June 25.—(INS)—The "George for president" special arrived today bringing 75 enthusiastic delegates, alternates and "just friends" of the cause. "We believe in harmony, too," but "George first, last and all the time," epitomized the spirit of the delegation.

It was Judge A. B. Lovett, of Savannah, who added the harmony note to National Committeeman John D. Cohen's declaration that the delegation stood firmly behind Sen. Walter F. George for president. Sen. William J. Harris, Georgia's other representative in the upper house of Congress, headed the delegation and G. E. D. Maddox, of Rome, Ga., came along as vice chairman. The train was on time and the Georgians were whisked away to their headquarters at the Sam Houston Hotel.

"We can't talk politics before breakfast, and I need a shave, so please let a fellow get both," Cohen replied to questions concerning the Georgians' attitude on Al Smith in the event Senator George's name is withdrawn after the early balloting. "You may say, though, that the Georgia delegation has been instructed for

"In the business world, today, the positions of leadership and responsibility are held by men who have been advanced to them under a system of competition and elimination. The test of fitness is an economic test—a test of ability to produce economic results. The fact that we rate the men in positions of responsibility on the basis of their ability to produce economic results is fundamentally sound and effective. Society cannot afford to change from this economic test of fitness to an arbitrary or political system of selection." George E. Roberts

Yale Students Plan Convocation In F

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(INS) June 25.—When Yale University opens next fall a general convocation of the student body will be instituted for the first time in the long history of the University, and will be preceded by a week of voting to help incoming students get oriented to their new surroundings.

Dr. James Rowland Angell, president of Yale, has agreed to address the whole student body in Woolsey Hall on the evening of Thursday, September 27, when Yale is opened officially. There will be no other speaker on Monday, September 24, the freshmen will have a chance to learn the ropes at Yale, a task that will continue until Thursday evening, and on Friday the Freshmen will be given a reception of the upper classmen.

"The numerical size and geographical extent of the University make it difficult for the undergraduates to recognize the existence of a unified Yale," the Student Council pointed out in making the suggestion for revolutionary changes in the opening week. "That Yale has avoided any insularity of college spirit is highly commendable but that her students should possess an intelligent understanding of the finest progress of Yale is equally desirable.

Senator Reed comes out for impartial enforcement of the prohibition laws. That makes it hard on congressmen.

A ticket is proposed with Smith for president, and Hefflin for vice president. Such an alignment at that would be likely to set the ball on fire.

The total vote cast in the recent primary, we find, was 255,014. This includes, we believe, almost everyone who could hobble to the polls, and as it should be.

Among those making radio talks in favor of the Florida Citrus Growers' Clearinghouse Association are Allen E. Walker, Governor-elect Doyle Carlton, Senator John S. Taylor, Mayor W. A. McKenzie and Dr. L. A. Bize.

Claude G. Bowers delivers the keynote speech at the Democratic convention and in two weeks 75 percent of our people will be thinking, "Who is this man Bowers anyway?"

When we asked the question the other day "Would Tunney receive her?" we promptly received a telegram from an excited friend of ours wanting a more adequate explanation.

Spain Comes Back

There was a time when Spain was more than a romantic name, when her galleons sailed to every corner of the earth and brought back chests filled with gold and silver. Her possessions were so extensive that it was said the sun never set upon her domains.

Through the overpowering maze of circumstances which invariably unite to militate against the continued ascendancy of a country, Spain began to grow weak. Her invincible armada ran amuck with the small but scrappy English fleet in the Channel where there was written one of the most vivid pages of naval history.

The pace set by France and England in the contest for world conquest was deadening and Spain was rapidly pushed into the rumble seat where she has remained ever since. Handicapped by the lack of coal and iron, minerals which have so large a part in the development of powerful countries, Spain has been content to rest upon the memory of her former greatness.

Under the able guidance of General Primo de Rivera a new order of things has been instituted. Rigid economy has been practiced, manufacturing and trade has been encouraged and the people have been solicited to wake up and take a fresh lease on life.

Nobile Saves Himself

We were somewhat surprised to see in yesterday's dispatches that General Umberto Nobile of the recently lost Polar expedition had allowed himself to be saved first before his men were taken from the rapidly melting piece of ice which had served as their life boat since the crash of the Italia.

There were indications today that the Italian government is not entirely pleased because Gen. Umberto Nobile allowed himself to be rescued first from the ice floe in the Arctic. The government has sent a radiogram asking Gen. Nobile to forward immediately a report of the disaster to the Italia and the subsequent events including the rescue.

Nobile's action in saving himself first is hardly in line with the heroic tradition of the sea where the captain is always the last man to leave the sinking ship. Nor is it consistent with the history of other generals who have been out in front during the charge, and who brought up the rear during the retreat.

Perhaps the fact that Nobile had broken his leg just before the rescuing plane landed will save him from a severe reprimand and possible court martial at the hands of the Italian army leaders.

Even so, we seriously doubt if medals will be awarded for his being the first to leave, or if history will hold his act as heroic.

ANONYMOUS MIAMI HERALD

Anonymous thou art a devil Malice and Cowardice thy parents are, and thy house is foul. It has not always been so, for thy ancestry was honorable, but the present generation has defamed thy family name.

Last Sunday morning while driving along one of our beautiful asphalt streets, I saw a tack sitting upright in direct line with my tire. I felt that I picked it up, yet I was not sure. The next morning I had a flat tire and I thought of the tack. It was—"the tack".

Someone (unknown) deliberately placed that tack on the street for someone (unknown) to be annoyed and discomforted by it. Strange is the pleasure and satisfaction that is found in the secret knowledge of another's distress. It is not always mischievousness of innocent children that is responsible for such pranks.

If all the deeds of Anonymous were as trivial as the prank of a tack for a tire of a pin for a chair, we would contest ourselves with a patient tolerance of his sense of humor. But out from his filthy lair have come his offspring breathing and threatening slaughter until the air is foul with the stench of their malodorous breath.

bles, none can be more obnoxious than Messers. Wellwisher-Hitandrun-Kidnaper and Theysay Anonymous.

Wellwisher is the favorite son of Anonymous. He is the writer of anonymous letters and signs them "A Well Wisher". He is a Welldigger instead. With the talons of a vulture he claws away at the vitals of helpless men and women until a deep well in the heart is dug, which he fills with abject misery and despair.

"If you hate anybody, either go and whip him, or else go away and let him alone. Don't stab him in the back, don't put poison in his tea, don't shoot him from behind a fence corner, and, what is worse, because still more cowardly, don't write him an anonymous letter."

Hitandrun Anonymous is known in practically every community where the speed demon, intoxicated law violator and wild pirate of the road have appeared. Devoid of sympathy, reckless with life and limb, drunk with the power of the speedeavourer he drives, he maims, cripples and kills without the least regret or remorse.

He dashed down Biscayne boulevard as throngs were gathering to witness the Shriners parade. An aged mother attempted to cross the boulevard and Anonymous crashed into her. With his eye glassy from fear, pausing long enough to frown his diabolical frown upon the crumpled creature whom he had crippled, he sped away into oblivion.

helplessly hurt, and whose conscience is so seared that he can continue to live in the same community undiscovered and unknown, and never make recompense with even a single word of sorrow or regret.

The third member of this dirty tribe is Kidnaped Anonymous. His pen poised with avarice is ever scribbling threats to the loving parents of the sweet little victim whom he has snatched away into the unknown. Such acts have become so numerous that it is unnecessary to cite any specific case as illustrative of the methods of his nefarious schemes.

The other member of the family, Theysay Anonymous, is one with whom the most of us are rather well acquainted. On every hand and almost daily we hear some one say, "They say it is so and so," "They say," etc., and of justice, and is now serving time in the state penitentiary where all of his Anonymous kin ought to be. I shall never forget his attempt at defense. He had peculiar spells which he himself did not understand. His "I" did not understand his "Me". Leopold and Loeb ascribed their morbid crime to a desire for a cultural experience and Hickman—well, did he ever state a real reason? Sarcasms, keets, shrewd, clever in the schemer as long as he is free to frighten and terrify his victims, but when the culprit is caught he cries, "Insane! I am insane!" Insanity is the refuge of all the unmasked sons of Anonymous.

this anonymous "They say" is a creature of powerful influence. I recall the story of a visitor addressing a very distinguished man as follows: "They say—" when he was interrupted by the other gentleman replying, "They say, is a liar, Sir. If you cannot give specific names I do not care what was said." That was a telling and timely remonstrance. How true that we should be definite in making reports. Especially if there is anything in that report that may be derogatory to one's character or reputation, if the source of the influence is in any way indefinite. How glibly do we follow the lead of this anonymous deceiver: "They say" and how unable we would be, in most instances, to subordinate our statements by giving definite names, dates and places.

family loses almost behind the counterfeits of peculiarities and eccentricities. Eccentricities covers a multitude of sins, or apparently excuses them in the minds of many. It is distressing to realize that there are so many who cultivate their peculiarities and seem to take a strange delight in a very dangerous tendency for it is as one seeing how near he can drive to the edge of a precipice. Since exaggerated eccentricity is incipient paranoia, and since people in general are lenient with peculiar folk, perhaps that is the reason this tribe of Anonymous punishment when discovered, by crooks seek to escape their just pleading insanity.

Therefore as it is easy to slip on down the paranoiac lane by unduly emphasizing one's peculiarities, even so is there danger of drifting into the foul and filthy den of Anonymous, by retreating from frank and honest acknowledgment of mistakes, wrongs and sins; of words, thoughts and deeds and of accidents, injuries and reports.

If a man wants his dreams to come true he has to wake up.—Florida State News.

Egyptian Mummies Supply Comedy In Picture At Milane

Strange mummies, in elaborate carved sarcophagi, suggesting a museum or a catacomb in King Tut's tomb were used for broad and hilarious comedy purposes in one of the oddest sets ever designed for a motion picture, in "Detectives," new co-starring comedy of Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, which comes today to the Milane Theatre.

The new set kept the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer property shops busy for several days. In the picture the mummies represent a collection of a strange Egyptologist, turned crook, and the heroes of "Rookies" as amateur detectives, blunder into a strange series of hairbreadth adventures in the secret grotto. Dane even gets wrapped in mummy-cloth and impersonates a long-dead Egyptian monarch in his efforts to recover the stolen jewels in the odd adventure.

The new comedy is something entirely new to the screen, in that the story itself is a bizarre mystery thriller, the laughs being created by the two heroes blundering by mistake into the thrills and mysteries, and escaping usually by their own stupidity. Every "straight" thrill is thus anticlimaxed in a comical episode when the heroes of "Rookies" make an entrance.

SUPPORTERS SAY AL TO BE NAMED ON FIRST BALLOT

Smith Lieutenants Makes 1st Official Prediction As To Outcome; "Steam Roller" Methods Are To Be Tabooed

HOUSTON, Tex., June 26.—(PNS)—Gov. Al Smith will be nominated for the presidency on the first ballot, his managers predicted two hours before the Democratic national convention was to get under way today.

This marked the first time that the Smith leaders have given official indication that they expected the New York executive to go over on the first roll call. Previously they had taken the position that every favorite son should have a chance to show his strength and they were satisfied to predict the governor's nomination on "an early ballot."

While the Smith leaders continued to insist they would not resort to any roller steam methods to put the New York executive over on the first roll call, they admitted, however, that nothing would please them more than to see the governor nominated on the first ballot.

"Of course, what happens on the first ballot is entirely up to the delegates, but I have insisted right along that we want to give every favorite son a chance to show his strength," said George E. Vann Namee, pre-convention manager for Governor Smith.

But the rank and file of the New York delegates and the Tammany leaders who flocked to Smith headquarters gave no thought to any other candidate except their governor. They were smiling and laughing and slapping each other on the back, confident that Smith would go over on the first ballot flying colors.

Mention of Governor Smith's name at the caucus of the New York delegation was the signal for a noisy demonstration that lasted several minutes. A resolution offered by National Committeewomen Elizabeth Marbury, that New York cast its 90 votes for Smith, was adopted amid wild applause.

"Governor Smith's unsurpassed record as an executive, his unimpeachable integrity and honor, his fidelity to the interests of the people, his broadminded adherence to progressive principles have made him pre-eminent among the statesmen of the nation," the Marbury resolution declared. "Many of our sister states, recognizing his fitness for the presidency of the United States and his ability to secure the confidence and votes of the people, have summoned him to assume the leadership of the party in the nation."

Smith, Robinson Loom As Nominees At Houston Meet

The box holders were the most favored in the hall. While the delegates sat out in the middle and perspired, the box holders sat on the outer fringe and were cooled by individual electric fans. On the railing of each of the hundred boxes were perched a small electric fan. And all of them going.

Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, floor manager for Governor Smith, was one of the early arrivals. He took his seat in the New York block at 11:30 with the rank and file and they gave him a warm greeting.

The crowd was regaled with a modest outburst of Smith fever not long before the gravel fell. The California delegation came in marching with a blue silk banner which was set in the middle of the California section. It bore a picture and the name "Alfred E. Smith." There was a brief burst of applause and cries of "we want Al."

Mayor Jimmy Walker lived up to his reputation of being late by strolling in unconcernedly at 12:00 P. M.

He almost didn't get in. A burly Texas policeman could not believe that dapper little figure in the waspish coat really had any business in this convention.

"Are you a delegate?" he inquired.

"Not only that, but I'm the mayor of New York," returned "Jimmy," summoned to his rescue all his official dignity.

Before the cop could recover from the wise crack, the mayor had slipped under his arm and was lost in the crowded aisles.

By the time the officer went to look for him, the mayor was wedged in between Judge George W. Olvany, the leader of Tammany, and Franklin Roosevelt, the mayor was one of those who did not remove his coat.

As 12:12 Texas' 40 delegates marched in to the hall with the young red headed governor, Dan Moody, carry in the flag of the state. Upon the platform tion—apparently, and after some minutes of futile banging, the chairman sent for a heavier gavel. It wasn't much better. The blows could hardly be heard in the center of the delegate section, let alone in the "bleachers." That seemed a mile away from the platform.

"Pass the word back that the chairman is trying to get order." Still nobody appeared paying much attention.

After five minutes, the leader of the "old gray mare" band, down in front of the platform tried to help the chairman out by sounding a few bugle calls.

"The convention will come to order," Shaver shrieked.

"The delegates will get out of the aisles and into their seats."

All this while the gavel was pounding. Then more bugle calls. Despairing apparently of getting the delegates to listen to him, chairman Shaver motioned forward Bishop S. R. Hay, of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, who gave the invocation.

The cry was everywhere to make this convention "short and snappy"—no Madison Square Garden. The heat of which Houston has plenty, contributed to the desire to wind things up as quickly as possible; the principal barrier seemed to be the prohibition plank in the platform but here again was the impatient desire on the part of the leaders to avoid any lengthy argument. A short and snappy fight and a strong law enforcement plank that will be acceptable to the wets and still will mollify the dries was the goal.

Sam Houston's Hall holds 16,000 and covers seemingly a mile of space. Across the street was what Houston calls its "hospitality house," a covered city block of benches, ice water and electric fans.

This was for the thousands who were unable to buy, beg or steal a ticket into the main tent.

Amplifiers carried the burning words from the platform to those outside. Not even the drab character of the opening session could keep 'em from flocking out to see the show.

There wasn't much planned for the initial session—not even the usual keynote. With a keen eye to the millions who might listen to this tonight over the radio, the convention planners decided to postpone that until 7 P. M.

The first session concerned itself only with perfecting the temporary organization and the usual routine duties of appointing committees, etc.

"It is Robinson for second place for a certainty," observed Sen. Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey. He will balance the ticket, hold the border states in line and help us sweep a nto victory in November."

"I consider Senator Robinson the best candidate we can nominate for vice president," said Sen. David I. Walsh of Massachusetts. "His nomination would give the people an opportunity to draw a sharp contrast between the two parties by a comparison of the records of the party leaders in the senate. The records of Curtis and Robinson would make better campaign propaganda for the Democratic party than any speeches."

"I consider Senator Robinson the party's choice now for vice president," said Sen. William H. King of Utah.

Chief Steward Of Athletic Club Will Make Polar Flight

By BOB MITCHELL. International News Service Staff ATLANTA, Ga. June 25. A polar expedition will get no further than its stomach takes it, and for that reason, Sydney Gresson, at the present time chief steward of the Atlantic Athletic Club but engaged to act in the same capacity for the Byrd expedition to the South Pole in September, is one of the most important members of the party.

Gresson, a tall man with a well-knit, athletic body, whose eyes seem continuously to reflect the light of far places, will leave here for New York early in June, where under the direct supervision of Commander Byrd, he will buy food supplies for two years and superintend its storage on the ship which is to take the company of adventures first to New Zealand and thence to the unexplored wastes of the Antarctic.

The Byrd expedition, headed by Commander Richard E. Byrd, who conquered the North Pole, will leave this country in September and will probably be gone about two years. Three giant airplanes will be aboard the vessel, which will carry about 55 men, including

Latest developments from the Japanese viewpoint, Miss Matsudaira having already attended to countless details in America, is the problem of betrothal gifts. Ten days prior to the wedding Prince Chichibu will send Chief Steward one Yamabe, to the family of Viscount Matsudaira, presenting the bride-to-be with enormous quantities of costly wearing apparel, mostly foreign style frocks and garments emanating from Paris and New York, while, in return, Miss Matsudaira must send suitable gifts to the Prince.

Judging from the amount of purchasing which Miss Matsudaira already has performed and the lavish manner in which Prince Chichibu is expected to provide his betrothal gifts, it is estimated that the little girl, who until recently has been a student in Washington will have enough clothes to last an ordinary society girl several lifetimes.

Not only must Miss Matsudaira have a Parisian and summer and winter home after she assumes her royal duties as wife to the Heir Presumptive, but a pre-marriage home also is necessary. The house in which she will live prior to her marriage has been under construction for many weeks.

AMERICANS KIDNAPPED WASHINGTON, June 23.—(INS)—W. H. Mitchell and John F. Hooper, American mining engineers, were kidnaped by rebels yesterday at Rio Blanco, Mexico, and held for 18,000 pesos ransom, American consul Edward T. Lowrey, at Guadalajara, Mexico, wired the State Department today. The engineers sent a note back by their chauffeur who was not detained saying "we are all right but do not know for how long."

Gresson has a place which many would pay for the privilege of having. Around 15,000 persons have made application to Commander Byrd to be taken on the trip.

"I'm just lucky," Gresson said in answer as to how he came to be chosen by Byrd.

ANCIENT CUSTOMS TO BE OBSERVED BY ROYAL COUPLE

Japanese Couple To Follow Ancestral Marriage Rites Although Both Of Them Are Thoroughly Westernized

TOKYO, June 26.—Although both Prince Chichibu and his bride-to-be, Miss Setau Matsudaira, daughter of the Japanese Ambassador to the United States, are probably the most westernized couple in Japan's royal family, their wedding, which has been tentatively set for September 20, will be performed in accordance with the ancient Shinto rites that have marked the blooded weddings of Japan for centuries. The Prince and his bride will revert to the equally ceremonial robes of brilliant hues for the occasion.

These plans became known today when it was announced that true to the iron-bound tradition of Japan, Prince Chichibu will make no departure from the prescribed customs of many centuries, although both himself and his bride wear only western dress and, in fact, think and live in a surprising Occidental code considering the traditions which ordinarily cling so tenaciously to the Japanese.

A royal wedding in Japan is no affair to be arranged over the week-end, as some three score members of the Imperial household Department charged with the responsibility of arranging the wedding plans will testify.

Long Preparations Preparations have been going on for months and will not lessen in scope even up to the last minute of the service.

Latest developments from the Japanese viewpoint, Miss Matsudaira having already attended to countless details in America, is the problem of betrothal gifts. Ten days prior to the wedding Prince Chichibu will send Chief Steward one Yamabe, to the family of Viscount Matsudaira, presenting the bride-to-be with enormous quantities of costly wearing apparel, mostly foreign style frocks and garments emanating from Paris and New York, while, in return, Miss Matsudaira must send suitable gifts to the Prince.

Judging from the amount of purchasing which Miss Matsudaira already has performed and the lavish manner in which Prince Chichibu is expected to provide his betrothal gifts, it is estimated that the little girl, who until recently has been a student in Washington will have enough clothes to last an ordinary society girl several lifetimes.

Not only must Miss Matsudaira have a Parisian and summer and winter home after she assumes her royal duties as wife to the Heir Presumptive, but a pre-marriage home also is necessary. The house in which she will live prior to her marriage has been under construction for many weeks.
