Does this take the prize or not?

The three Americans who helped develop the impotence drug Viagra have been awarded the Nobel Prize in medicine. Word is all the judges were males 70 and over.

Finding that nitric oxide makes blood vessels dilate by relaxing their smooth muscles, the three winners were able to discover new treatments of heart disease, shock - and at least indirectly - impotence. The latter item is, of course, what has Mr. and Mrs. America humming.

Chipper Bob Dole, for one, has told us what Viagra means to him. As far as he's concerned it's the supper of champions. Some guys eat their Wheaties, some take Geritol. Dole's a Viagra man. He's probably called to congratulate the Nobel winners.

Nobel Prizes in medicine don't grow on trees. Dr. Jonas Salk didn't win one when he discovered the Salk Polio Vaccine. No sir, the Nobel Prize committees in the 1950s looked right past Dr. Salk. That he saved millions of lives mattered not.

There's irony, one might think, that a good many of those who may be benefiting from doses of Viagra are the teenagers from the 1950s who are now 55 years or more. Men who remember a friend or relative dying from polio before Salk developed his vaccine in 1955.

Salk, who was born in New York, was a kindly man who gave his children the vaccine when they were asleep. He never wanted to see a child hurt or crying. He wanted to stop the disease that was killing and crippling America and he did so. But he did not win a Nobel Prize.

Robert Furchgott, 82, Louis Ignarro, 57, and Dr. Ferid Murad, 62, have the prize that eluded Jonas Salk. They also have a three-way split of the $978,000 prize money. "I truly wasn't sure I'd ever get an award like this," Furchgott said. "I wasn't sure I deserved it."

Ignarro said that the future of pharmacology is going to be the creation of a "superaspirin" that will be fundamental in the prevention of heart attacks, of cardiovascular disease and arteriosclerosis. Big words. Big hopes.

The Nobel Prize winners are going to Stockholm on Dec. 10. That's the anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel. He was a Swedish industrialist and the inventor of dynamite. Like Dr. Salk, Alfred Nobel, never won a Nobel Prize.

Firefighters, Kaiser get raises

By Russ White
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY - It was a day to plan and a day to plant. A day to give the county's firefighters their due and to fight for improving U.S. Highway 17-92. A day to give county manager Gary Kaiser a $7,000 pay hike to $125,000 a year.

The Seminole County Commissioners met in the morning, afternoon and evening and agreed unanimously on almost each issue on the agenda. Kaiser's raise was approved, 4-1. Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide cast the nay vote.

The Board voted, 5-0, to approve a contract giving the firefighters, a minimum $2,000 raise.

Starting salaries for firefighters will be $26,000 and lieutenants will be $32,430. The contract is firefighters union's first contract since it was formed in 1989.

Three of the five commissioners worked from laptop computers on Wednesday and four of the five planted a 10-foot oak tree. Kaiser said the tree would be a reminder of how the county has reduced the use of paper in its daily operations. The ceremonial gold shovels were brought out, of course.

The Board reviewed 28 issues on the county government's 1999 proposed legislative program, voting on those issues it would support and those it would not. Priority items are:

SANFORD - The decomposed body of man found in the back yard of 336 Redwing Way, a home in the Deer Run area of unincorporated Casselberry, Monday by Seminole County Sheriff's deputies has been identified as 55-year old Lynn Davis.

Davis owned the home along with his wife, 53-year old Patricia Davis. Patricia Davis is currently staying with family, according to Deanna Brown, spokeswoman for the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

The Sheriff's Office is investigating the case as a possible homicide. Investigators are speaking to anyone who had contact with Davis prior to his death, but there are no primary suspects at this time, Brown said.

Further details on the discoveries of Tuesday afternoon's autopsy, including the nature of Davis' death, are "not available at this time," Brown said.

The Sheriff's Office is searching for Davis' wife. Please see Body, Page 3A

Police officer goes beyond call of duty

SANFORD - Officer Terri Murray was awarded both a Certificate of Appreciation and the Sanford City Employee of the Month honor Monday for her valiant efforts in the service of a citizen.

On Sept. 9, officer Murray responded to a call to assist a 59-year old female resident at 2001 North Grandview Ave. who was in distress and refusing to put on clothing. Officer Murray was able to reassure the woman, get her dressed, and see that she was transported to the hospital for observation and treatment. The woman was distressed over the health of her husband, who is under the care of a nursing home. After getting off-duty, officer Murray changed clothes and returned to the woman's residence. Unknown to her supervisors at the time, Murray worked alongside a neighbor, George Weld, to clean the woman's home for her. Murray, who received a grade of excellent on her latest evaluation, wanted the woman's spirits to be lifted by coming home to a clean house.

"Recently your department responded to a call at my neighbor's home," said Weld in a letter to Sanford Police Sergeant Darrell Brewer, made public by the Sanford City Commission. "It was necessary to take her to the hospital, which the paramedics did." One thing that really stood

Crash snarls traffic

SANFORD - A pick up truck spinning out of control may have made at least a few people late for work on Tuesday morning.

According to the Sanford Police Department, Bernard Barbour's 1984 Chevy pick up slammed into a concrete power pole at about 7:10 a.m. when he lost control of the vehicle on Airport Boulevard near the Bridgewater Apartments just south of U.S. Highway 17-92.

Police said he had failed to negotiate a curve properly and ran off the roadway into the grass.

Barbour sustained a head injury and was transported to Orlando Regional

When the pole was hit, power was disrupted to customers both to the north and to the south of U.S. Highway 17-92, including the to the traffic light at that intersection with Airport Boulevard.

HEATHROW - A program of automobile crash survival, using seat belts, will be presented at AAA, 1000 AAA Drive, Heathrow on Thursday and Friday, at 9 and 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

S.A.F.E. (Staying Alive From Education), was designed by two Miami-Dade paramedics, to show dramatic, real-life experiences and victims who would have survived had they used seat belts.

"The single most effective act that could save your life in an automobile crash is to buckle your seat belt," said Laura Reed, public and government relations coordinator for AAA. Four in 10 Florida drivers don't buckle up, according to Reed.

There will be an additional 3 p.m. presentation on Thursday, and AAA is encouraging teenagers and their parents to attend the special program aimed at novice drivers.

Door prizes will be awarded at each session. Seating is limited. RSVP to Reed at 444-4136 today.

High school seniors to be rewarded

SPECIAL TO THE HERALD

FERN PARK - Seminole County School Board Member Larry Furlong announced he is accepting applications for his 1999 Special Seniors Awards.

This year the top four applicants from the graduating classes of Seminole County's public high schools will each receive a certificate and a check for $500. During his 1996 campaign, Furlong promised to donate a portion of his School Board salary for scholarships if he was elected.

"We have so many talented, hard working students in our schools that it will be tough to narrow it down to four," Furlong said.

To be eligible for the award students must submit an essay describing how they have demonstrated the seven qualities of the Special Senior. The qualities are service to community, perseverance in work, empathy for others, cooperation with teachers and classmates, independence of thought, appreciation for freedom and democracy, and love of family and friends.

Students must also furnish two letters of recommendation. One letter must be from a current or former teacher. The other letter can be from anyone personally acquainted with the student such as an employer, friend, guidance counselor, neighbor, or cleric.

Applicants have to be registered voters or pre-registered if under 18 years of age. A certified copy of the students high school transcript must also be supplied. Applications are available in each high school's guidance department.

The Special Senior Award continues the tradition of rewarding hard working students Furlong began as a Seminole County Commissioner. During his six years

POLICE LOG

The following reports were compiled from the Seminole County Sheriff's Office for incidents recorded Oct. 13:

Battery:

ALAMONTE SPRINGS, State Road 434 at Jamestown, Oct. 12, 6:44 p.m. A 19-year-old woman was arrested for felony battery and criminal mischief by Altamonte Springs Police. Police said the woman was stopped in traffic when she got out of her car and went to the car behind her. As the woman in the other car began to get out of her vehicle, the defendant slammed the door on her legs. She then opened the door, pulled the other woman out, dragged her along the street and banged her head on the pavement. When the two women were pulled apart by others at the scene, the first woman started kicking the other woman's car. Police did not indicate if the women had met before this incident.

APOPKA, Rock Garden Court, 7000 block, Oct. 12, 6:52 p.m. A 27-year-old woman was arrested for battery by Seminole County sheriff's deputies. Deputies reported that the woman saw her husband and another woman chatting on the porch of their home and that she got out of her car and hit both of them. She told officers that when she was released from jail she would do the same thing again.

Concealed firearm:

SANFORD, Olive and 5th Street, Oct. 13, 12:40 a.m. A 27-year-old man was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies for having a concealed firearm, for resisting arrest without violence and for tampering with physical evidence. Deputies said they tried to stop him for a traffic infraction when he refused to stop and then ran from them when he finally pulled his car over. They chased him on foot and saw him toss away a metal object he had pulled from his pocket. As he was running, his pants fell down and he had to stop to pull them up. When he stopped, he was apprehended by the deputies. When deputies went back to find what he had discarded, they found a gun and its magazine.

Driving under the influence:

OVIDO, State Road 434 at Dalton, Oct. 12, 2:21 a.m. A 25-year-old man was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies for driving under the influence.

Drugs:

SANFORD, Mellonville at Seminole Boulevard, Oct. 9, 9:41 a.m. A 38-year-old man was arrested for possession of a controlled substance and for assignment to commit prostitution by Sanford Police. Police said they found a piece of crack cocaine in his pocket during an arrest after he offered to perform a sex act on an undercover officer in exchange for $20.

Retail theft:

LONGWOOD, U.S. Highway 17-92, 600 block, Oct. 12, 6 p.m. A 29-year-old woman was arrested by Longwood Police for retail theft. Police said she selected a $4.28 lip liner and a $3.49 eye shadow in the cosmetic aisle and concealed the items in her hand. She then went to the next aisle and put the items in her purse. When she left the store, they said, she made no effort to pay for the makeup.

OVIDO, County Road 426, 1900 block, Oct. 12, 2:19 p.m. A 38-year-old man was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies for retail theft. Deputies said he had put a $238 pressure washer and a $38 drill in his cart and tried to walk out of the store with it. When asked for a receipt, he showed the clerk one from another store. Told of his error, they said, he went back into the store with the items. A few minutes later, he tried to do the same thing again, but he was taken into custody at that time.

SANFORD, Town Center Circle, 300 block, Oct. 12, 2:02 p.m. A 35-year-old woman was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies for retail theft. Deputies said store security personnel saw her select a $158 dress, remove it from the hanger, roll it into a ball and shove it down the front of her pants. She then tried to walk out of the store without paying for the dress.

SANFORD, Town Center Circle, 300 block, Oct. 12, 6:56 p.m. A 22-year-old man was arrested by Seminole County sheriff's deputies for retail theft. Deputies said he selected a tape measure from the shelf, broke the end off and then exchanged the broken item with the cashier, saying he had purchased it previously.

"We've had more expensive requests for the state leaders in Tallahassee," County Chairman Randy Morris said, "but these issues are most important. The Little Wekiva River Restoration funding is a continuation and the others are new appropriation requests."

Former Lt. Gov. Bobby Brantley and Ed DePuy are the county's consultants who gathered the information here Wednesday and will go to Tallahassee to present the issues. "Bobby Brantley is well respected by the Republicans and Democrats in Tallahassee," Morris said. "He and Ed DePuy represent this county very well."

The county wants $2,200,000 for the final phase of funding for the Little Wekiva River Restoration aimed at reducing sedimentation and erosion thereby improving the environmental quality of the river. The estimated total cost was more than $5 million.

The U.S. Highway 17-92 Draining System issue calls for funds to a remedial drainage system that will eliminate urban blight and enhance water quality. The total project cost is $12.7 million.

Morris is actively seeking legislation which enhances the public's ability to contact local government officials. He is against any legislation that de-ters the ability of the public to communicate and instruct officials. This is the Ex Parte Communication issue.

In one other piece of business Wednesday, all the parties in the Black Hammock dispute that has raged for four years, seem to be close to a settlement. Ovidio, Winter Springs, the county and the developer of the Battle Ridge housing effort are expected to come to terms. The settlement could be ready by Oct. 27 said county deputy attorney Lonnie Groat.

Due to his criminal background and the amount of drugs, Bush faces a mandatory term of life imprisonment without parole and a fine of up to and including $8 million dollars. "DeLand Weed and Seed Task Force" which receives federal funding and is operating out of the Volusia County Sheriff's Department. The case will be prosecuted by Managing Assistant United States Attorney Rick L. Jancha of the Orlando Division of the United States Attorney's Office.

Furlong hopes that others will make donations to boost the amount of the award.

Voice mail is like guerrilla warfare

BOSTON - We are at lunch when my friend leans over the table to share his latest encounter with telephone technology.

It all began with a voice mail message, which wasn't in itself so startling. But my friend was at his desk when the phone didn't ring. A colleague, it seems, had learned how to dial directly into voice mail—avoiding the middleman, or middle ear, entirely.

Was my friend, a man who parses moral dilemmas for a living, insulted that this caller didn't want to speak to the real, live and available him? Were either of us aghast at some new techno-wrinkle of rudeness? Appalled by the state of the art of message-dropping?

No, we were delighted, curious, envious. How on earth did he do that?

I am old enough to remember black rotary phones, the model-T of this technology. I remember when the telephone was a beloved instrument of conversation. Furthermore, I was raised to believe in courtesy as one of the cardinal virtues.

But we are in the middle of a communications revolution that feels increasingly like guerrilla warfare. Everywhere you turn in this revolution, machines are pointed at you. Today, anyone near a phone can end up feeling like the target of snipers.

Half a dozen years ago when I read that Martha Stewart had something like six or seven voice mail numbers, I was bug-eyed in astonishment. Now I have three voice mails, three e-mails, three fax machines all collecting messages in assorted buildings that are nowhere nearly as well decorated as Martha's—but you get the point.

To understand how the world has changed, think back to the warm and fuzzy telephone ads that once encouraged us to reach out and touch someone. Compare that to my favorite telephone ad of this season. It features Paul Revere in his full midnight ride regalia trying to reach John Adams, who is of course screening his calls: "John, John, this is Paul. Pick up. It's important."

In this revolutionary atmosphere, it isn't a new communications weapon that is lusted over by patriots seeking their personal freedom. It's an anti-communications weapon.

We want technology that enhances our ability to not talk to people. We want a personal star Wars defense system to screen and shoot down, avert and disarm the incoming missives. We long for the ability to be out of touch.

This has created a whole new etiquette called "etiquette be damned." The dirty little secret of corporate America is the number of people for whom phone tag is actually dodge ball. All over the various midtowns of our country, there are people waiting to return calls until they are pretty sure the other person is at lunch. Who hasn't picked up a phone to have a startled caller exclaim: "Oh, I just wanted to leave a message?"

Of course, the invasion of the dinner snatchers has created an additional wrinkle. People who know the words to "Solidarity Forever" and are generally sympathetic to the plight of the new working class now greet marketing callers by snarling, "Why don't you give me your home number since you have mine?"

This is now leading to a high-tech arms race, a kind of mutually assured destruction. First you pay to put a phone in your house/office/car. Now you can also pay to keep the calls out.

Just last month, Ameritech announced a service to let customers reject the sort of unwanted telephone calls that come from telemarketers. "Customers are screaming for this," said the CEO.

We are also "screaming" for what I would call in oxymoronic fashion, one-way conversations. The linguistic types call this asynchronous talk. In that sense the phone is becoming more and more like e-mail. One person leaves a message for the other who leaves a message—look ma, no hands. It's like playing virtual tennis.

But such is the reality of modern life. All the advances have ratcheted up the number of "exchanges" we're expected to make until our own circuits are overloaded. Efficiency trumps courtesy. We don't just talk, we use the phone as a drop-off center.

Remember Alexander Graham Bell's first words over the newfangled phone? "Mr. Watson, come here, I want you." What would he say today? "Watson old boy, when you get a minute, have your voice mail call my voice mail."

Budget surplus, paycheck deficit

With mid-term elections a mere four weeks away and polls showing that the White House sex scandal has had a deleterious effect on Democratic candidates throughout the country, the White House is trying desperately to shift the focus from the president's debauchery in office to his handling of the economy.

To wit, the president brought his economic team to the Rose Garden last week to crow about the latest Census Bureau figures showing that median household income rose an inflation-adjusted 1.9 percent last year, while the poverty rate fell from 13.7 percent to 13.3 percent.

The president held yet another White House ceremony this week to announce that the federal government was ending the 1998 fiscal year with a $70 billion budget surplus, its first since 1969. "America puts an end to three decades of deficits," the president proclaimed, "and launches an era of balanced budgets and surpluses."

But as a 13th century amateur economist observed, "Nan teneas aurum totum quod splendet aurum." And for the folks out there who count themselves among 20th century non-Latin speakers, that translates to: "All that glitters is not gold."

Indeed, one has to wonder, with the supposed healthiest economy in three decades, with six straight years of economic growth, low unemployment, low inflation and low interest rates, why the average American family isn't better off today than at the start of the decade.

For while Clinton boasted last week that "the typical family's real income has risen by more than $3,500" on his presidential watch, he neglected to mention that it has taken the past eight years (including six with Clinton in the White House) for this typical family's income to catch up to where it was in 1989, during the first year of the Bush presidency.

And even though this typical family's income has caught up to where it was nine years ago, that family still is not as well off economically as it was at the start of this decade. That's because the federal tax burden is at a post-war high.

This is attributable to the two big tax hikes American families were hit with earlier in the decade. The first came in 1990, when Bush acquiesced to the Democratic-controlled Congress, raising taxes $263 billion. The second came in 1993, Clinton's first year in office, when he socked the American people with an additional $275 billion in new taxes.

So when you combine the anemic growth in family incomes over the course of the decade with the heavier tax burden these families have been forced to bear, the result is that the average American family has actually lost economic ground during the 1990s.

Now there is little either the president or Congress can do to raise family incomes (save for, maybe, raising the federal minimum wage, which would have an effect on, at most, 5 percent of American families). But they can do much to increase the average family's take-home pay. That is, of course, by cutting taxes.

House Republicans have, in fact, passed a tax-cut bill. But the $80 billion in various and sundry tax cuts (spread out over five years) is not even one-fifth the size of the tax hikes the American people were hit with earlier in the decade.

And even as stingy as the House GOP has been with its proposed tax cuts, Clinton is demagoguing the proposed cuts as "fiscally irresponsible" because they would be gleaned from the budget surplus.

But in the early 1990s, when the U.S. economy was mired in recession, the American people were asked to pay some $538 billion in new taxes.

Now, with the "healthiest economy in three decades," with a projected $1.6 trillion budget surplus over the next decade, the president is telling American families that they don't deserve to have any of their surplus tax dollars back.

President Clinton and his fellow Democrats are hopeful that the American people will vote for their pocket-books when they go to the polls four weeks hence. But it hardly is a credit to the president's economic policies that the paycheck of the average American family is smaller today, after taxes, than it was in 1990.

In response to Mayor Larry Dale on Ft. Mellon Park

Seems as if I may have touched several nerves in my last guest column, Mr. Mayor. I will respond to only a few of your inaccurate comments and questions.

The "historic" value of Fort Mellon Park has nothing to do with whether or not the fort was there. We are not sure why you made such a big point of this since no one that I am aware of in the Society for the Preservation of Fort Mellon Park has ever claimed that the park was the site of the fort. Fort Mellon Park was created and landscaped as a park through the Works Progress Administration. Many WPA projects across the country are already set aside as historic sites because of this origin. This fact alone qualifies Fort Mellon Park as historic. The word historic means "having importance in history" (American Heritage Dictionary). Most certainly this park has great importance in the last 63 years of history in Sanford. How many citizens have enjoyed its serenity and quiet? How many birthdays and family reunions have been celebrated within its environs? How many children and grandchildren of Sanford have taken their first steps or slid down their first sliding board there? How many personally historic events of our citizens have taken place there? These personal histories of our neighbors are what really define this as an historic place, not whether some relatively unimportant building used in a long forgotten war against native inhabitants of this region sat there or not.

On your assertions about the meaning of a "yes" and a "no" vote on November 3, you assert that a "yes" vote means you (the voters) want Sanford, the county seat, chosen as the site for Seminole County's Conference Center. The ballot question has nothing to do with this decision. It was already made by your friends on the County Commission. This vote is about whether or not the citizens want PRA Development & Management to build commercial businesses on their (the citizens') park.

You also assert that a "yes" vote means you want to see

Sanford restored to its splendor with a historic hotel as the grand centerpiece." Since you seem to wish to debate the use of the word historic I would submit that something which does not yet exist can hardly be labeled as historic—perhaps you were referring to the Mayfair Hotel, which sits today as the New Tribes Mission, one block east of the proposed building site. This "historic hotel" is a hotel no longer because it went bankrupt.

A "no" vote certainly does NOT mean prosperity will blithely leap over our downtown. Nor does it mean any limits on the future viability of Sanford's waterfront. Sanford's waterfront has been horribly misused by people preceding both of us, Mr. Mayor. Why not try to right some of those obvious wrongs instead of taking away over half of the people's park? Why not find a better location for the Post Office and use that lakefront site for something that adds beauty and value to our lakefront? Why not use the surface parking lots along the lakefront for some purpose other than temporary vehicle storage?

You assert that a "no" vote means you are running the risk of not bringing prosperity and revitalization to our historic downtown yet, elsewhere in the same 11 October Seminole Herald a letter from Andres Duany, one of the foremost town planners in the world appears. Mr. Duany states, "With a layout like this one (of the proposed hotel/convention center), the retail in the existing downtown will surely wither and die."

The "mediocrity of a public asset that has so much potential" is due solely to the fact that mayors and city commissions over the years have ignored the maintenance, let alone the beautification of our parks, including Fort Mellon Park. As a developer you seem unable to understand that land not used as a building site can be a more valuable asset in many ways. You do point out one important fact. This is public land. Owned by the people of Sanford.

Ballfields cannot be "relocated." Unless you, or members of the City Park & Recreation Department have discovered some new laws of physics, ballfields cannot be "moved" or "relocated." Existing ballfields can be bulldozed and new ballfields can be built elsewhere. This is the City's current plan. As to my reference to a "children's fishing lake," you will have to forgive me for relying on public record and believing the City's Comprehensive Plan, which lists (page 6-26, appendix VI-A of the parks & recreation facility inventory) Lake Corola as a "children's fishing lake." Perhaps the fact, assuming your statement is true, that there are no fish in Lake Corola is another example of the city government's neglect of our parks.

The "landmark" is the park, Mr. Mayor. You just can't get this, can you? You are correct that, in the late '20s and early '30s this land was a platted subdivision. In 1935, during the height of the worst economic times ever experienced in this country the Sanford City government thought it important to transfer this land from private to public use, from on the tax rolls to off. At the height of the Great Depression they consciously set aside this property not to be used for commercial purposes. Now, you and others are trying to reverse that wisdom and, at the height of the best economic times this country has known, build commercial businesses on land set aside by a wiser generation. The "birthright" comes from the fact that every person born in or moving to Sanford since 1935 has owned a piece of Fort Mellon Park, assured to us by those wise commissioners of the '30's.

Yes, I certainly do talk about jobs being at minimum wage because this is the sad but plainly true fact about hotel/convention center employment. I get that from the July 1998 Wage & Salary Survey of the Employers Association of Florida, where 617 companies, including hotels and convention centers share their wage and salary levels with each other. With around 3 percent unemployment, Seminole County does not need more low paying jobs. We need jobs whose wage levels will increase the quality of life for our citizens. The jobs you wish to bring here plainly and simply will not do that. I have, of course, mentioned the jobs "that are above average" on several occasions. According to three Seminole County hotel general managers I have interviewed 90 percent of the management jobs will be filled by transferring people from other existing hotels. These jobs will not be filled locally for two reasons. First, they provide opportunities for the hotelier to promote existing employees into higher level jobs, thus capitalizing on their experience and assuring their retention with the company. Secondly, the entry level management jobs will be filled with recent graduates of university programs in hotel or hospitality management. The 1997 graduates from the Cornell University Hotel Management program, generally regarded by the hotel industry as the best in the country, averaged starting salaries of $27,325. How many college graduates with degrees in hotel or hospitality management do you suppose we have living in Sanford, Mr. Mayor?

Potentially huge tax debt for every Sanford taxpayer is an obvious reality. I have never stated that there are any obligations on the general tax funds. You may be able to dazzle a few people who do not understand tax incremental funding with your rhetoric but, it is not rocket science. The fact is, if this hotel/convention center is built and goes belly up, the taxpayers are on the hook to pay off the debt. There is a surviving memorial to this in the old Mayfair Hotel, whose debt it took Sanford taxpayers nearly 50 years to pay off. The fact is, if the CRA floats bonds and the hotel/convention center goes belly up, the taxpayers are on the hook for that debt too. Using your estimate of the developer's cost of $40,000,000 and your promise of $2,000,000 in "park enhancements" and the Fishkind Report's $7,050,360 to $8,565,937 in 1999 CPA Bonds I arrive at a potential tax debt of between $49,050,360 and $50,659,937.

This is no scare tactic. It is a scary prospect. You and your cronies wistfully assume this hotel will thrive and prosper, with no proof at all, although we do expect PRA will magically complete a glowing feasibility study, which is 9 months past due, just before election day. Some of us, who know this behemoth would be built within the shadows of two hotels that have already failed, are justifiably concerned about the possibility that it too could fail and we, the taxpayers, will again have to foot the bill.

Building the boardwalk from incremental funds is corporate welfare through and through. The May 1998 Fishkind Report, a matter of public record, lists the boardwalk (in Table 1), at $1,000,000 as part of the "Private Development" portion of this project. Since this has been moved into the "Public Development Program" arena it means that what the developer originally intended to pay for is now planned to be paid from tax incremental funds. In other words, the City, through the CRA it created, has decided to subsidize the developer to the tune of at least $1,000,000. We, the City of Sanford, are giving PRA at least one million dollars they proposed and intended to spend. This cannot be characterized as anything but corporate welfare.

The St. James A.M.E. Church will host a debate between Doug Groseclose, Chairman of the Society for the Preservation of Fort Mellon Park and Mayor Larry Dale on October 19 at 5:30 p.m.

Marino proves the 'old gunslinger' is not finished yet

JACKSONVILLE - He was written off as an old man on a young team.

For some reason, Miami Dolphins' coach Jimmy Johnson tried to phase out one of the two or three best quarterbacks in the history of the NFL.

But Monday night, before as hostile an environment as there is in the league, the old gunslinger proved he still has some bullets left.

The Dolphins didn't win, but don't blame Dan Marino. The Jacksonville Jaguars beat Marino, 28-21, but the old guy put in a pretty good performance as he almost single-handedly pulled off one of his greatest in a long line of wins.

Since he came out of the University of Pittsburgh in 1984, Marino has wowed fans in Central Florida. Thirty-four times he led the Dolphins to come-from-behind fourth quarter victories. In the meantime, he took a stranglehold on nearly every important passing record in the league.

Critics always said Marino was simply plugged into the perfect situation. Anyone could throw for a million yards with Mark Clayton and Mark Duper.

He never won the Super Bowl; in fact, he hasn't been there since his second year when he was a raw kid with dreams of making the final Sunday in January an annual event.

The years went on and Duper and Clayton were gone. Marino still found ways to win with marginal players and a non-existent running game.

He just wasn't winning enough. Then Johnson came to town with some big ideas and one of them was to find Marino's replacement.

Of course he wouldn't bench the aging star. Miami would have rioted, not that the city doesn't seem to do that every couple of days.

But Johnson also knew that, until Marino was gone, it would never be a Jimmy Johnson team.

So he adopted a so-called running game, leaving the best statistical quarterback in NFL history to hand off to the likes of Karim Abdul-Jabbar and Bennie Parmalee.

Bad choice. Miami entered Monday night with the worst offense in the NFL. Even worse than the Colts and that's saying something.

So after Jacksonville ran out to a 14-0 lead, Johnson was forced to turn to the gunslinger and ask him to let er' rip.

By the time he was done, Marino had racked up his best performance of the season. Thirty of 49 for 323 yards and two touchdowns. Just like the old days.

As soon as the Dolphins took possession for the first time, it was obvious that Marino would have to do it all himself. He has no running game and the receiving tandem of O.J. McDuffie and Lamar Thomas aren't scaring anyone.

So he turned the clock back 10 years and went to work.

Throwing under the Jacksonville secondary, he eschewed the long pass and started to move the chains.

He was almost 50 percent on third-down conversions and he turned a 14-0 deficit into a 21-14 lead against the cocky upstarts from Jacksonville.

Then, Johnson suffered brain lock. After Jacksonville knotted the score at 21, Marino had the ball and time left on the clock.

So Johnson turned stubborn.

He was determined to turn the Dolphins into a ground team and he proved it Monday night. Abdul-Jabbar was stuffed repeatedly. So was Parmalee.

And so were the Dolphins.

Johnson compounded the problem, with the score tied at 21, by going for a 54-yard field goal attempt with just over two minutes remaining. The kick was wide right and Jacksonville scored on the next play. If Johnson was thinking clearly, he would have punted and made Brunell, who was not sharp all night, go 90 yards instead of just over 50.

But even after the Jags went up 28-21, there was Marino, still firing, still moving the team until he fumbled when the ball was knocked out of his hand from behind with time winding down.

Marino didn't win Monday night, but he proved he's still Dan Marino and that's enough for anyone.

Think of the big-name quarterbacks in the league: Favre, Elway, Young, Brunell.

It's easy to forget Marino since it seems he's been here forever.

But Marino let everyone know he's not done yet, despite what Jimmy Johnson thinks.

America's Largest Nighttime Sporting Event

Special to the Herald

DAYTONA BEACH — It's been well-documented that NASCAR Winston Cup stock car racing is the fastest-growing sport in America, but a new milestone will be reached this Saturday, Oct. 17, 1998, as "America's Largest Nighttime Sporting Event" will take center stage at Daytona International Speedway.

The inaugural nighttime running of the Pepsi 400 will combine the speed and excitement of NASCAR under the lights with the rich history and prestige associated with NASCAR's premier venue.

Along with a capacity crowd of more than 150,000 on hand, millions more will be glued to their television sets at home as TNN Motorsports presents the live broadcast.

Daytona International Speedway has hosted the "Great American Race," the Daytona 500, and the "Mid-Summer Classic," the Pepsi 400, annually since 1959.

For the last 40 years, millions of race fans have been exposed to the drama, excitement, fantastic finishes and historical victories that define racing at Daytona.

This week, fans will experience the "World Center of Racing" in a whole new light, as the world's most famous speedway has been transformed into the world's largest outdoor lighted sports facility.

Musco Lighting of Muscatine, Iowa, is responsible for the process of converting the hallowed grounds of Daytona International Speedway into a facility capable of hosting one of the most anticipated sporting events of the decade.

"Lights at Daytona is going to be fantastic for everyone," said two-time Daytona 500 champion Dale Jarrett. "I can't imagine what it's going to look like, we've all seen racing under the lights, but not the kind of racing we do at Daytona. As thrilling as it is during the daylight, it should be even more thrilling at night."

"Running a night race at Daytona will be awesome," added Mark Martin. "This should be the most exciting Pepsi 400 in history. "It's going to be exciting for the fans," defending champion John Andretti adds. "The cars look better at night, and as close as the pack is going to be together here, it's only going to add to the excitement."

"Nobody has ever seen a restrictor-plate race at night before. I think I'm just as excited as the fans to see how it's all going to come off."

Although grandstand seating is sold out for the 1998 Pepsi 400, other options available to fans wishing to experience "Daytona at the Speed of Light" include unreserved grandstand tickets good for admission to all of Thursday's and Friday's on track action.

Infield tickets for the entire weekend of racing will be available at the gate starting on Thursday, Oct. 15.

For more ticket information, call the Speedway Ticket Office at (904) 253-7223 or visit www.daytonausa.com.

an 8-7 triumph over the Sharks.

In the nightcap, Chris Clark tripled in two runs in the bottom of the third inning and scored on a two-out single by Yoyo Cox that proved to be the deciding run as Flyers Wings & Grill upset previously undefeated Sunniland Corporation, 6-5.

With Tuesday's results there is a race again, as Curt's Alleycats and Sunniland Corporation are tied for first with 5-1 records and Curt's Alleycats are just a game back at 4-2. Trailing the leaders are the Sharks and Vaughan Incorporated (both 2-4) and Orlando Dodge (0-6).

Next Tuesday night at Pinehurst Park, Curt's Alleycats challenges Sunniland Corporation at 6:30 p.m.; Flyers Wings & Grill battles Vaughan Incorporated at 7:30 p.m.; and the Sharks and Orlando Dodge meet at 8:30 p.m.

Orlando Dodge and Vaughan Incorporated were tied at 2-2 after the first inning, but Vaughan Incorporated looked to be in good shape for the win as it scored two runs in the third inning and five runs in the fourth inning to take a 9-2 advantage.

But Orlando Dodge rallied back, scoring five runs in the fifth inning and three runs in the sixth inning, with Theresa Brooks driving in five runs with a double and a home run, to take a 10-9 lead.

Bree Davis led off the bottom of the seventh inning for Vaughan Incorporated by reaching on an error. After a fly out, Cindy Giles singled and the runners moved up a base on a grounder to first by Anne Sterling.

Turner followed with her double that gave Vaughan Incorporated the lead for good.

Leading the way for Vaughan Incorporated were Cindy Giles (two triples, one single, four runs scored, two RBI), Marnel Burkett (one triple, one double, two runs scored, two RBI), Liz Turner (two doubles, three RBI) and Debbie Sterling (two singles).

Also, Luanne MacIsaac (one double, two runs scored), Bree Davis (one single, two runs scored, one RBI), Sondala Chaplin (one single) and Christina Berring (one run scored).

Pacing the Orlando Dodge attack were Theresa Brooks (two home runs, one double, three runs scored, seven RBI), Nikki Snell (one single, three runs scored) and Shonda Bryant (one single, two runs scored).

Others contributing were, Gloria Beasley and Elke Morrissey (one single, one RBI), Pat Trowbridge (one single), Pat Tillman (one RBI) and Marie Byrd and Debra Sutton (one run scored each).

Curt's Alleycats found themselves trailing 4-3 after two innings, but took a 5-4 lead by scoring two runs in the fourth inning. The Sharks reclaimed the lead in the fifth inning, scoring three runs to go up 7-5.

Becky Simpson opened the bottom of the seventh inning for Curt's Alleycats with a single. After a fly out, Barbie Bartels and Leah Sparrow singled to load the bases.

Kim Curtis walked to score a run and Anne Orteme singled in the tying run. Dee Walden then grounded back to the pitcher, forcing a runner at the plate for out number two. But it came to naught as Johnson drew a walk to score Curtis with the winning run.

Contributing for Curt's Alleycats were Barbie Bartels (one double, two singles, one run scored, one RBI), Anne Orteme (three singles, one run scored, one RBI), Becky Simpson (three singles, two runs scored) and Sharon Ritchie (two singles, two RBI).

Also contributing were Sue Nickell (one single, one run scored, one RBI), Dee Walden (one single, one run scored), Kathy Klingensmith and Leah Sparrow (one single each), Kim Curtis (two runs scored, one RBI) and Deena Flamm and Jodi Johnson (one RBI each).

Doing the hitting for the Sharks were Teresa Howdyshell (one double, three singles, one run scored, four RBI), Robin Bishop (one triple, one double, one single, one run scored) and Jenny Blowers (one triple, one single, two RBI).

Others, Sheila Sanders (one single, two runs scored), Deborah Manfredi (one single, one run scored), Kathy Spellman and Beth Hundtser (one single each) and Tanya Geiger (two runs scored).

Flyers Wings & Grill scored a single run in the first inning and two runs in the second inning, but Sunniland Corporation answered with three runs in the top of the third inning to tie the game at 3-3.

Flyers Wings & Grill came right back in the bottom of the third inning with Clark's triple scoring two runs and one out later, Cox singled in Clark to make the score 6-3.

Sunniland Corporation got a pair of runs back in the fifth inning, but that would be the last scoring of the game.

Powering Flyers Wings & Grill were Yoyo Cox (one home run, one single, one run scored, two RBI), Margaret Clevenger (one double, one single, one run scored) and Carol Norman (two singles).

Also, Chris Clark (one triple, one run scored, two RBI), Brenda Hartfield and Oina Green (one double and one run scored each), Tracey Mitchell (one double), Lucy Sellers (one single, one RBI), Paula Songer (one single, one run scored) and Sharon Burch (one RBI).

Shrimp adds a party touch to any meal

MARIALISA CALTA

New-fashioned shrimp cocktail with celery vinaigrette.

FOOD

- 1 small celery rib with leaves, minced
 - 1 tablespoon bottled horseradish
 - 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
 - 1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh parsley
 - 1 tablespoon vodka or gin (optional)
- For the shrimp:
6 cups water
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 small onion, peeled and sliced
 - 1 bay leaf
 - 4 whole peppercorns
 - 36 large shrimp (about 1 to 1-1/2 pounds)

SPAGHETTI WITH SHRIMP IN GARLICKY WINE SAUCE

- 1 pound medium shrimp
- 1 cup bottled clam juice
- 1 cup dry white wine
- 2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
- 3 garlic cloves, peeled and minced
- 3 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley
- 1 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon red-pepper flakes
- 1 pound spaghetti
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- salt, to taste

- 1/4 cup fish sauce (see note)
- 2 scallions, white and green parts, chopped
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh cilantro, including stems
- 2 serrano or jalapeno chiles, seeded and chopped
- grated zest of 2 limes
- 6 garlic cloves, peeled and chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon red-pepper flakes
- 2 to 3 pounds large or extra-large shrimp

Remove the tough outer layer of the lemongrass. Using a sharp knife or a mini food-processor, mince the bottom 4 to 6 inches of the stalks. Discard the tops. You should have about 1 cup. In a blender, combine the minced lemongrass with all of the ingredients except for the shrimp. This is the marinade. In a heavy-duty, self-sealing plastic bag, combine the shrimp — shells still on — and the marinade. Refrigerate, turning shrimp occasionally, for at least 1 hour and up to 2 hours.

Prepare a charcoal fire in a grill and let it burn until the coals are covered with white ash and you can hold your hand at rack level for about 3 seconds. If using a gas grill, preheat to medium.

Remove the shrimp from the marinade. Skewer them or place them in a grill basket on the rack. Cover the grill and cook until shrimp turn opaque around the edges. Turn and continue grilling until just pink and firm. Total cooking time will be about 3 to 4 minutes. Serve immediately. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Note: Fish sauces from Vietnam (nam pla or nuoc nam) and Indonesia (patis) are found in Asian markets and many supermarkets. Lemongrass can be found in Asian stores. When you find lemongrass, buy extra, wrap it well and freeze it for future use.

— Recipe from "Simply Shrimp," by Rick Rodgers (Chronicle Books, 1998)
©1998 NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Peel and devein the raw shrimp, reserving both the shells and the shrimp. In a medium saucepan, bring the shrimp shells, the clam juice and wine to a simmer over medium heat. Simmer for 20 minutes. Strain the stock into a small bowl and set aside.

In a large skillet, heat the oil over medium heat. Add the garlic, parsley, oregano and red-pepper flakes. Cook, stirring constantly, until the garlic is fragrant, about 1 minute. Add the reserved stock and bring to a simmer. Add the shrimp, and cook until pink and firm, 2 to 3 minutes.

Meanwhile, bring a large pot of slightly salted water to a boil over high heat. Add the spaghetti and cook, stirring occasionally, until barely tender. Drain and return to the pot. Add the shrimp sauce and butter and toss well. Season with salt — be careful, the clam juice can be quite salty, and you may not need to add any. Transfer to a large, warmed serving bowl. Serve immediately. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

SHRIMP WITH THAI LEMONGRASS AND CHILE MARINADE

- 4 lemongrass stalks (see note)
- 1/2 cup fresh lime juice

To make the vinaigrette: Combine all of the vinaigrette ingredients in a bowl. Cover and refrigerate until chilled, at least 2 hours, or overnight.

To make the cocktail sauce: Combine all the cocktail-sauce ingredients in a bowl. Cover and refrigerate until chilled and flavors are blended, at least 2 hours or overnight.

Shortly before serving, prepare the shrimp: In a saucepan, bring to a boil (over high heat) the water, salt, onion, bay leaf and peppercorns. Add the shrimp. Cook until the shrimp turn pink, opaque, and firm — 2 to 3 minutes, counting from the time you add the shrimp. (The water does not have to return to a boil.) Drain and rinse under cold running water until easy to handle. Peel, leaving the tail segments intact. Devein the shrimp if you wish. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

To serve: Place 6 individual bowls, martini glasses or other stemmed cocktail glasses in the freezer for about 10 minutes to chill. Using a slotted spoon, place equal portions of the celery vinaigrette in the glasses. Hook 6 shrimp in a circle around the edge of each glass, tails facing out. Spoon about 3 tablespoons of the cocktail sauce into the center of each glass. Serve chilled. Yield: 6 servings.

— Recipe from "Simply Shrimp," by Rick Rodgers (Chronicle Books, 1998)

We are not, by and large, a nation of fish eaters. Despite our health concerns, our interest in low-fat food, and all the hoopla over omega-3 fatty acids, our per-capita fish consumption is low when compared with that of much of the rest of the world, especially Asia. (Some statistics I found put American fish consumption at 15 pounds per person, compared with 33 pounds per capita in Japan.)

But the fish we eat the most of — aside from canned tuna — is shrimp. Which is no surprise, I guess. Shrimp is a sort of "party fish"; bring some to the table and it makes any meal feel special.

Fortunately, there's a new book dedicated to our favorite fish: "Simply Shrimp," by Rick Rodgers. It tells you everything you need to know about shrimp, from buying it to cooking it.

What you need to know for the following recipes is that shrimp is sold by count. Small shrimp come 40 to a pound, medium shrimp are 36 to 40 per pound, large are 31 to 35; extra-large, 26 to 30; and so on, up to super-colossal (12 to a pound).

You also need to know that you will most likely be buying frozen or previously frozen shrimp, unless you live near a coastal community with a shrimping industry. Thaw frozen shrimp in the refrigerator or under cold running water. Keep all shrimp chilled until ready to use. Don't buy cooked shrimp for the recipes that follow. They lack flavor.

I also found out from "Simply Shrimp" that the black stuff in the vein that runs down the back of the shrimp won't hurt you. Deveining shrimp is purely a matter of aesthetics.

You don't need to know much more, except that your guests will be happy when you bring any of these dishes to the table.

 - 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- For the cocktail sauce:

Roommate fed up with brother-in-law

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I live with three friends in order to save money. One of our housemates is my wife's brother. I can't stand him. He's bossy and always wants things his way. The other housemates ignore him and let him do what he wants. I am the only one who seems to have a problem with him.

Abby, last night he held a "family meeting" and asked my wife and me not to fight on the front porch. We don't fight very often, but there are two things we fight about: money and her evil brother. I have considered telling him what to do with his thoughts on many occasions, but I have kept my mouth shut because my wife gets upset when I criticize her brother. She's very protective of him and feels he can do no wrong. She thinks I'm vindictive if I disagree with him.

Should I keep my mouth shut for the sake of peace, or do I have a right to say what I think of him?

FED UP IN WEST VIRGINIA

DEAR FED UP: As long as you're living under the same roof, you'd be wise to keep your mouth shut.

DEAR ABBY: Regarding your response to "Irritated in Minneapolis," the woman who was distressed because a minister's widow was chasing after her husband at church: You said the widow probably needed "verification that she's still attractive to men."

Abby, you excused this woman's behavior and minimized the wife's distress. The minister's widow should know better. She does know better if she is trained in the holy Scriptures, which are guidelines for what is appropriate and what is not between the sexes.

The widow has already had a husband of her own, and though it's unfortunate he's deceased, pursuing someone else's husband (in her own church, yet) is not only inappropriate, but delinquent to the man's wife.

People like the widow invade others' boundaries and count on "compassion" in order to continue their game. The husband is not always "not attracted," and it's not the wife's job to find the widow a new man so that she won't steal hers.

I have been in similar situations and have a solution: I take the woman aside and say, "I may be wrong, but I get the feeling you're attracted to my husband, and it told me, and do not be afraid. The most important message you can give her is that you never stopped loving her, and you did what you thought was best for her at the time.

ADVICE

DEAR ABBY: The number of people who take the time to write a letter, address it, stamp it and mail it only to complain about ridiculous, everyday things blows my mind. The lady who wrote complaining that restaurants don't slice lemons the way she likes them for her iced tea flabbergasted me. Maybe she should take a reality check.

When someone or something starts getting on my nerves, I find that taking a moment to think about its importance in the grand scheme of things really helps. This may seem morbid, but I do so by imagining that I am on my deathbed. Think about it: Do I want to lie there and say, "I've had a wonderful life full of challenges, beauty and love," or do I want to say, "I should have worried more about that snotty salesperson, or the paperwork requirement form?"

We can't all be easygoing all the time — and we shouldn't be — but the key is keeping things in their proper perspective.

Abby, the advice you gave the lemon-wedge lady was right on. If she doesn't like what's offered, she should bring her own darn lemons. That's a pretty good concept to keep in mind when it comes to just about anything.

MONIQUE BYRNE, FREMONT, CALIF.

DEAR MONIQUE: Thank you for your support. I received a fistful of criticism for having printed that letter.

Good advice for everyone — from toasters — is in "The Anger in All of Us and How to Deal With It." To order, send a business-sized, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Anne Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61044-0447. (Postage is included.)
