

County Commission Purchases Another Utility Co.

Third Such Buy Since November

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

County government continued buying its way into the utility business today with the $160,000 purchase of Eagle Utility Inc. — the third private utility to be purchased since November.

Bill Dale, the county's director of environmental services, said Eagle officials are scheduled to deliver the title and deed to the county later today, closing out the deal Dale feels is "the best" purchase made to date.

The entire $160,000, Dale said, will be paid from future hookup fees. County officials will pay $200 to Eagle for each $700 connection fee, a payment process Dale says will allow the county to own the firm in about three years.

Also, Dale said county sewer and water rates will remain about the same as Eagle's for some 150 customers who live in the Sterling Park area near Casselberry. Monthly rates are $3.50 for first 5,000 gallons and 30 cents for the next 1,000 gallons of water.

The only major change is that customers will receive their December bills from Seminole County instead of from Eagle.

The reason, according to Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski, is essentially better services for cheaper prices.

"It's the board's feeling that the health, safety and welfare of the citizens must be guarded, and it is our feeling that we can do a very, very good job in this business," Kwiatkowski said.

Kwiatkowski pointed out the county is a non-profit corporation which can "provide services for less." Also, county government is eligible for state and federal grants which tend to offset the final price of services charged Seminole County consumers.

Because for now "money changes hands" Dale was elated at the county's acquisition of Eagle.

He said a number of housing projects are planned for the Sterling Park area.

Thus, Dale said, it will be less than five years before the county pays Eagle on its own money out of connection fees supplied by new customers.

A New Year-- A New Life

It's the time for resolutions; for rethinking our lives and starting anew.

But for the thousands of people who are still in a state of confusion, the New Year is a time of new life in a new life.

For many, the New Year is a time of new life in a new life. For many, the New Year is a time of new life in a new life.

For many, the New Year is a time of new life in a new life. For many, the New Year is a time of new life in a new life.

The man whom Sanford has come to regard as its own champion of wildlife conservation and restoration of the Central Florida Zoo, will be back in the city Friday — not in person, but on the cinema screen.

Stan Brock will star in the jungle spectacular, "Forgotten Wilderness," opening Friday at the Plaza Rocking Chair Cinema in Sanford, and simultaneously in many other cinemas in the Central Florida area.

During the past two years, Brock has become a familiar face in Sanford as he worked at the zoo and promoted its development.

"The people of Sanford have watched closely the progress at the Central Florida Zoo," observed Brock. "We have stimulated their awareness that the wild animals of the earth must be saved. Many of the animals they see in captivity in the zoo, they will be able to see in their natural habitat in 'Forgotten Wilderness.'"

The film, says Brock, is for family viewing and is entertainment-oriented, but it also carries a strong conservation message.

It was during his 13 years as a jungle cowboy in the dense, isolated Amazon Basin that Brock first developed a deep concern and understanding of many exotic animals — a closeness few people ever achieve. This dedication and sense of caring for wild animals was furthered during Brock's years as co-host of television's "Wild Kingdom."

A champion of endangered species, Brock has devoted his life to the care and welfare of exotic animals and the world in which they live.

"Not many of the South American animals are on the endangered species list yet," he commented, "but the jaguar, which you have seen in captivity at the Central Florida Zoo, is an endangered animal, one of the world's largest and most dreaded snakes, the giant anaconda."

The story opens in Brock's home and animal compound in Central Florida, then moves over the spectacular Andes Mountains, through the ancient monuments of Colombia and plunges into the uncharted depths of the Amazon jungles.

Viewers experience wild horse fights, a wild cattle roundup, Brock's solo parachute jump into the dense forest. They also see newborn jaguar cubs, visit a primitive Indian village and view dramatic scenes of animals who roam the Amazon shores only at night.

Brock will be in Sanford briefly during the film's week-long run in the city, then he hopes to proceed once again to South America where filming of his next movie, "Jungle Cowboy," adapted from his book of the same title, is scheduled to begin in March.

Ben Harden Murder Trial Slated To Begin Tuesday

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Jury selection in the first-degree murder trial of Ben Harden Jr., 46, of Sanford, is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. Tuesday before Circuit Court Judge A.J. Hosemann Jr.

At an in-chambers hearing today Judge Hosemann said the Harden case has been designated the first of nine trials scheduled this week on a 20-case docket.

Defense attorney Newman Brock and Assistant State Atty. Claude Van Hook indicated that the Harden case will likely take three days.

Harden, 46, is accused of the Nov. 12 shotgun slaying of his ex-wife, 47-year-old Laura Mae Harden.

Sheriff's investigators said he was shot twice by a man with a shotgun who phoned her from her residence on Mulberry Ave., Sanford, into a commission of a felony and three counts of kidnapping in connection with a Dec. 1 incident at Fairlains Bowling, Fern Park.

Police recovered a shotgun in roadside grass a few blocks away.

Harden surrendered about 45 minutes after the shooting to a probation supervisor at the courthouse in downtown Sanford.

Other trials scheduled for this week in the order to be heard are:

- Alan C. Lee, 43-year-old Casselberry housewife, accused of aggravated assault.
- Carolyn Fields Crowder, 42, of Altamonte Springs, charged with buying, receiving and concealing stolen property.
- Theodore J. Marcia, 45, of Orlando, accused of grand larceny of money.
- Isaac E. Cobb, 24, of Orlando, charged with delivery of a controlled substance: PCP to a state undercover agent.
- Michael Quattrly, 25, Orlando, charged with delivery of a controlled substance: cocaine in March of 1974.

Defense attorney Gordon Frederick told the court his client has failed to answer letters sent to an Indiana address and letters have been returned undelivered.

The court indicated seven other cases docketed for trial this week will be disposed of in hearings during the week.

PERC Action Urged

The Seminole County Commission is being urged in a confidential memorandum to put pressure on the state Public Employees Relation Commission (PERC) for action of an earlier request concerning a local collective bargaining unit.

The commission early last month requested PERC to approve the establishment of a local agency to handle bargaining matters for the county. The state agency has not acted, although the request was made after the commission, under home rule, drafted an ordinance to establish a local agency.

Robert Ellis, the county commission's employe relations officer, signed the memorandum that asks commissioners for permission to draft a letter to PERC because of its failure to "take any meaningful action" on the commission's earlier request.

"It appears that PERC is delaying scheduling hearings on local option applications upon hope that the Legislature will repeal local option before any public employer in the state of Florida has an opportunity to implement same," the memo says.

The Ellis memo goes on to say that the City of Lakeland filed an application for review and approval of their local option ordinance on Nov. 21, 1974. Ellis said Lakeland officials are still waiting for PERC to act on their request.

The board's labor attorneys, Alley, Alley and Blue, submitted Seminole County's application to PERC in September, 1975.

Ellis said PERC's delay is a pressing problem and is in opposition to the state's home rule and the Legislature's plunges into wild horse fights, a wild cattle roundup, Brock's solo parachute jump into the dense forest. They also see newborn jaguar cubs, visit a primitive Indian village and view dramatic scenes of animals who roam the Amazon shores only at night.

Brock will be in Sanford briefly during the film's week-long run in the city, then he hopes to proceed once again to South America where filming of his next movie, "Jungle Cowboy," adapted from his book of the same title, is scheduled to begin in March.

32 Floridians Die On State Highways

By The Associated Press

At least 32 people, as predicted, died on Florida's highways during the long New Year's holiday period, a Highway Patrol spokesman says.

The toll for the 102-hour period, from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday, included six people killed New Year's Day when their station wagon collided with an Amtrak passenger train in the tiny community of Loughman in Polk County.

Four of those victims were from one family. The other two were neighbors. All were headed to nearby groves to pick citrus fruit. Troopers said the toll also included:

- Thomas H. Dougherty, 26, killed Sunday when his speeding auto ran off State Road 31 near his home in Charlotte County.
- Elbert Alexander Williams, 33, of DeBorne, Mich., killed when his car left a road and struck a tree in Pasco County early Sunday.
- Charlotte D. Johake, 21, of St. Petersburg, killed Saturday night in Tampa when the car in which she was riding was involved in a two-car collision.
- Three-year-old Jennie Lee Dunbar, fatally injured while crossing a street in Fort Lauderdale at dusk Saturday.
- David Dean Horne, 18, of Melbourne, involved in a two-vehicle smashup in his hometown on New Year's Eve.
- Olga J. Kutza, 59, of Fort Myers, a passenger killed Saturday when the car in which she was riding was hit head-on by another vehicle in Lee County.
- Willie C. Simmons, 24, Gainesville, killed when his car ran off a roadway in Alachua County late Saturday.
- Curtis Moore, 30, fatally injured Saturday when the car he was driving ran off a road and struck a culvert near Byronville in Escambia County.

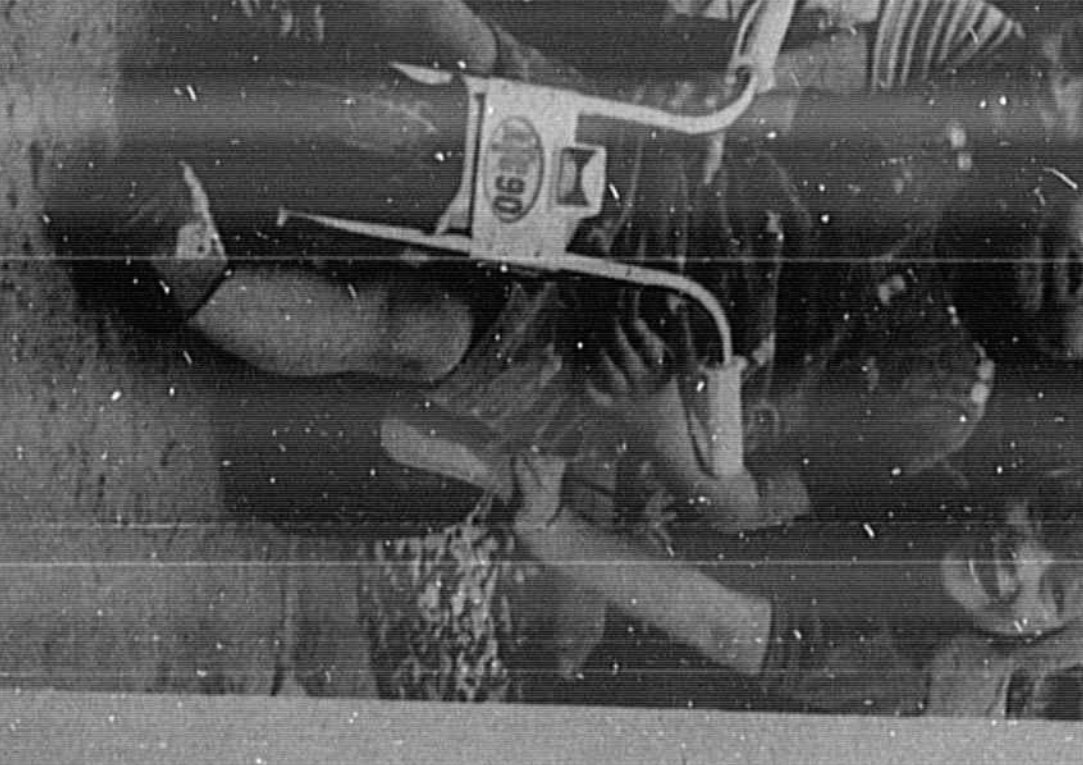

Troopers also identified Sunday a pedestrian killed Saturday near Pnetas Park as John Lester Fitzmaurice, 31, of Largo.

Ford Calls For Cease-Fire In Angola, Warns Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford called today for an immediate cease-fire in Angola, an end to all outside intervention and a government of national unity to stop the civil war there. He also warned the Soviet Union that if it continues its intervention in Angola "damage to our broader relations will be unavoidable."

Reagan Kicks Off Campaign

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Ronald Reagan kicks off a two-week campaign swing today with a bus tour through snow-covered New Hampshire where he hopes to mount a strong challenge to President Ford in the nation's first presidential primary.

Reagan's first extensive campaign trip since he announced his candidacy Nov. 20 will take him to nearly two dozen small New Hampshire communities in three days. Then he moves on to four other primary states and returns to New Hampshire for another three-day swing Jan. 15.

Teachers Picket Schools

PITTSBURGH (AP) — City teachers vowed to man picket lines today and continue their five-week old walkout, despite a back-to-work court order and a school board decision to reopen classes for 62,000 public school pupils. A last minute bargaining session ended early today and produced only bad feelings as the school board released its latest offer and the teachers responded with a bitter "No."

The schools will not reopen until new contracts are negotiated and ratified, said Pittsburgh Federation of Teacher President Albert Pondy, adding that no new negotiations were scheduled.

He said pickets would be placed at all 104 public schools. However, the school board told teachers and students to report at 1 p.m. for classes.

National Airlines Set To Resume Service Tuesday

MIAMI (AP) — National Airlines is preparing to resume limited flights Tuesday, the first since flight attendants walked out Sept. 1 in a dispute over pay, hours and fringe benefits.

"We can all breathe a little easier now," Bob Metell, a National vice president, said Sunday as pickets came down after stewardesses and stewards ended the 126-day strike.

The attendants voted 674-210 to accept the contract. They were under court orders to reconsider the agreement worked out with federal mediators and rejected two months ago in a dispute over contract language.

The ballots were to be presented to U.S. District Judge C. Clyde Atkins today in Miami.

Borman Heaves Luggage

MIAMI (AP) — In a move from moon orbiter to bag totter, ex-astronaut Frank Borman worked all day heaving luggage onto push carts for Eastern Airlines customers.

"I'm not exactly used to this kind of labor," said Borman, president of Eastern. "But it sure beats jogging. I really like to get out of the office once in awhile."

Borman headed a crew of 700 regulars and more than 90 extra volunteers Sunday trying to control the holiday avalanche of departing tourists after Eastern booked an extra 4,500 seats.

Eastern employee Mike Williams thought Borman's presence was a morale booster.

However, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., says the fears expressed by his mother during an interview with the National Enquirer at the Kennedy compound at nearby Palm Beach are groundless.

Several Weekend Burglaries Reported

Thieves Set Fire To Mask Crime

Sanford police today were investigating the burglary of sporting goods store in which $2,215 in guns was taken and a fire that apparently was set to mask a residential burglary.

Detective Tom Bernosky said several numbers of eight revolvers, five rifles and seven shot guns have been entered in state and national computer networks in hopes that the weapons will be recovered.

Police said the firearms were taken from Seminole Sporting Goods, 2484 Sanford Ave., during a burglary early Saturday. Investigators said the thieves smashed a glass door and once inside the store smashed a display case to grab the weapons. Officers said the guns were apparently passed through the smashed door to a waiting vehicle.

Bernosky said an undetermined amount of ammunition was also taken by the burglars.

A neighbor used a garden hose to keep flames from spreading from the kitchen of the Daniel Nunez residence at 112 Country Club Circle, Sanford, until firemen arrived to extinguish the fire.

Police reported the occupants of the house were not at home when burglars apparently removed panes from a rear jalousie window to enter the house.

Detectives said today it isn't known if anything of value was taken in the break-in. Fire damage was limited to the kitchen, police said.

Mrs. Black is being held in county jail without bond. Investigators declined to comment on results of laboratory tests on the gun found at 2809 Grove Drive, Sanford, the day Black was shot in the head and neck.

The Blacks were visiting the home of her sister, Mrs. Archie W. McCormick, when the shooting occurred. Black was found on the living room floor about 1 a.m. with a pistol nearby, police said.

Deputy P. J. Higgins reported rare silver coins, a $500 ladies projector, a camera and a slide projector were reported missing after a burglary at the residence of Mrs. Marie Moses, 20, of 905 Spring Valley Road.

Cubans Release Woods Family

SATELLITE BEACH (AP) — Robert Woods says he's convinced his family and his 52-year-old wife were finally released by a Cuban gunboat because of his religious beliefs.

"I explained to them that God is love and intelligence and truth and principle, and principle hit home with this Cuban official," Woods said. "And he said, 'We believe in intelligence and truth and principle also.'"

"I kind of think this was a turning point. At that point he began to smile a little bit and I began to relax a little bit and I felt we might have a chance of getting out of there," said Woods, a Christian Scientist.

Woods, his wife and their three teenage sons sailed their homemade boat to the dock behind their house here Sunday night after spending three days as Cuban captives.

"I've never been on the dangerous end of two .50-caliber machine guns before and I didn't really like it very much," Woods said.

Woods, 48, a businessman who moved here from Sheboygan, Wis., said he and his family were heading home after a six-month cruise in the Caribbean when they were near Cuba and were stopped by the gunboat.

Woods said that Cuban officials told him the boat was a fishing vessel and that he and his family were to be released.

Light winds were carrying the heavy gas from the derelict area a few miles north of Cantonment toward the suburbs of Pensacola, about 15 miles south of the city, officials said.

100 Applicants For SEEDCO Jobs

By JOE ASKREN Herald Staff Writer

More than 100 job seekers showed up this morning at the Sanford Airport office of a federally-funded agency which announced receipt of a $228,539 federal grant to create 103 new positions in an emergency job program in the county this year.

Horace Orr, president and executive director of the Seminole Employment and Economic Development Corp. (SEEDCO), said his office received about 200 calls "over the weekend." He said job applicants range from those interested in construction work to professional positions.

Orr said a minimum of five persons will be interviewed for each available opening and he hopes to have all 103 positions "placed" or filled by Feb. 1.

"We processed about 45 this morning, and we'll do over 100 today," Orr said.

Hiring procedures are set up within federal guidelines according to a point system devised by SEEDCO. Orr said. A number of the applicants ranging from their teens to late 50s were interviewed while waiting in the hallway this morning.

Arthur Maynard, 55, Altamonte Springs, said he has been out of work for six months and is looking for a sales or installation job.

"I've tried it in sales commissions, including door-to-door routine, but it just didn't cut it," Maynard said.

Jack Pries, 30, Orlando, said he didn't know if he qualified for one of the openings, but he was referred for a sales job from Product Movement Systems, Sanford. He said he has been out of work for six months.

Mrs. Linda Patterson, 25, Sanford, said she has been out of work since Nov. 1, and is seeking a position in bookkeeping "or in computers."

Willie Cash, 19, Sanford, said he is interested in a position in drafting or technology work and has been out of work since July, 1975.

Mrs. Clara Robinson, 22, Fern Park, said she has been out of work for one week and is seeking clerical work.

Mrs. Margaret Diello, 40, Fern Park, said she has been out of work for one year and is looking for a job in accounting or bookkeeping work.

Gary Argo, 15, Altamonte Springs, said he wants a construction job and has been out of work for a year.

The 103 new slots include 47 positions within the SEEDCO-backed corporations; 40 positions involved with Seminole Community ACTION, Inc. (SCA); 13 positions in the Seminole County Public Works Department; and three administrative jobs under the Job Opportunities Program, Title X of the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1968, according to Orr.

Orr said the new jobs actually would mean only a small percentage reduction of the 700 unemployed in the county.

McFall said he feels Congress should be awarding a larger tax cut, if needed, by about the middle of the year.

The current tax cut, approved in December, lasts for only six months, and some action will have to be taken to extend it or taxes will jump back to 1974 levels when it expires.

The compromise measure includes reductions of about $18 billion, on an annual basis, from 1974 levels. Various experts have estimated this at a reduction of $2 to $6 a week for most workers from the taxes they would have had to pay.

Ford had asked for a cut of $28 billion, or $10 billion more than was approved. Cheney said Ford will repeat his call for this increased reduction, to be coupled with a $395-billion federal spending ceiling.

McFall noted, however, that the congressional Joint Economic Committee has warned that such a ceiling would add to unemployment and slow economic recovery.

The battle over spending limits raged between the White House and the Congress in the fall. Ford finally settled for a congressional promise to try to hold down spending when a tax cut was approved last month.

Both sides called it a victory: Congress because it had not agreed to a specific ceiling and Ford because Congress accepted the principle of reducing spending when cutting taxes.

Problems May Stem From 'Mobile Lifestyle'

Military Launches Anti-Child Abuse Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The armed services are launching major efforts to combat child abuse among military families.

Military experts believe some child abuse problems in service families may stem from stresses peculiar to what one called "the mobile military lifestyle."

An Air Force medical service publication said "recurrent or prolonged family separation by duty assignment all too often leaves the mother with the full responsibility of home and children."

"Many younger servicemen and their wives are often unable to adequately manage their financial affairs, thereby provoking additional problems for themselves."

Some joined the service because they were neglected by society, and because of this they may be poorly equipped emotionally to be parents."

The Army and Air Force already have inaugurated new programs to cope with the child abuse problem, while the Navy said it is preparing to establish a similar program for itself and the Marine Corps.

Under the Army's plan, special "child advocacy program officers" will be assigned at virtually all bases.

"The problem calls for identification of child abuse cases, protection of the child's rights and professional help for the parents," the Army circular said.

All alleged cases of child abuse will require examination by a military doctor. After an initial exam, an Army hospital commander may report the incident to law enforcement agencies, if necessary.

In general, the Army said its program is aimed at developing "emotionally healthy families rather than removing the child from the home and punishing the parents."

Individual and group therapy, counseling and change of environment are listed as forms of treatment. Army officials also are planning telephone "hotlines" manned by trained volunteers, "parents anonymous" programs for group therapy and other educational approaches "to help parents cope with the frustrations of raising a family."

The Air Force program is similar. An Air Force regulation provides for establishment of child advocacy committees directly under base commanders. These committees will include medical, legal, chaplain, security policy and special services officers.

Details of the Navy-Marine program still are being developed.

Kissinger Was The Wrong Target

When a secretary of state comes within a hair's breadth of being cited for contempt of Congress, it suggests he has problems at home equally as challenging as those he is forced to deal with abroad. So it is that Henry Kissinger, who became something of a superstar of diplomacy in the Nixon years, appears now to be more on the defensive in Washington than at any time during his career.

No one was surprised when President Ford decided to keep Mr. Kissinger in the same role he had assumed in the Nixon administration, wearing the two hats of secretary of state and national security adviser on the White House staff. Mr. Ford saw the wisdom of maintaining continuity in U.S. foreign policy in spite of the Watergate trauma that brought him into office.

It is in terms of our foreign policy that the storms now swirling around Mr. Kissinger should be viewed. That he has irritated some members of Congress in his relations with their committees would not interfere with an objective judgment of the policies and decisions they are trying to examine. That he has appeared to be pushing too hard, too fast for a new arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union should not detract from the fact that the world would be much safer if the Russians eventually commit themselves to an end to the nuclear arms race.

While Mr. Kissinger faces criticism for many disappointments in the results of the diplomacy of détente, the ultimate question for the critics to answer is whether they would prefer to pass up the opportunities which détente offers if it can be made to succeed.

President Ford obviously has the highest respect for the intelligence and negotiating talents of Mr. Kissinger. We would guess that most of his critics would concede, too, that he has made extraordinary and valuable contributions as a mediator abroad and toward keeping our foreign policy in tune with significant changes occurring in the political and economic relationships between all nations of the world.

It would be regrettable and potentially damaging to the conduct of our foreign policy if Mr. Kissinger is to become a political target in the forthcoming presidential campaign. Whatever mistakes may now be laid to his performance — and being human, he is bound to have made some — they should be kept in perspective. When foreign policy issues arise, let them be debated on their merits — not on the personal style of record of the Secretary of State.

IRS Reliable?

A cautious taxpayer should be able to depend on the professional advice provided by the Internal Revenue Service to submit an accurate federal income tax return, right?

Not so, concludes IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander in praising the research of a private consumer group that found the IRS staff accurate in its assistance in less than half the cases surveyed. In the more complex returns, the study group said, the error rate rose to 75 per cent.

The report, merely confirmed the department's own analysis, Alexander said, which indicated that private accountants were equally erratic in preparing returns for their clients.

Both the research team and the commissioner pointed accusing fingers at Congress as responsible for the confusing tangle of tax regulations.

BERRY'S WORLD

WASHINGTON — Government auditors are still trying to calculate exactly how much of the taxpayers' money was spent to remove Richard Nixon from the White House and to install him at San Clemente as a presidential pensioner.

The latest confidential General Accounting Office audit, which attempted to straighten out all the gifts the taxpayers have given to Nixon, was completed appropriately on Christmas Eve. Here are some of the highlights:

— The federal paymasters had to do some fancy financial juggling before they could start paying Nixon his $5,000 monthly pension. They had no authorized funds, for example, until Congress belatedly voted a separate pension for Nixon. In the meantime, they made the initial payments from pension funds that had been earmarked for the widows of Presidents Harry Truman, Dwight Eisenhower and Lyndon Johnson.

— Before Nixon's tapes and documents became tied up in litigation, the General Services Administration assigned 37 archivists and laborers to sift through his papers. This cost the taxpayers an estimated $102,000.

— The depressed President completed the transition to civilian status, according to the bookkeepers, on Feb. 9, 1976. He then was given a $45,000 budget to last him until the end of the fiscal year on June 30. According to the con-

Are you an alien?

If so, the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) reminds one and all that the alien population must report their address to the INS during the month of January.

Edward T. Sweeney, district director of the INS of Miami, estimates that 375,000 aliens are currently living in Florida. During January of last year, 371,000 aliens reported their addresses. Sweeney said that all non-citizens, except those in diplomatic status and foreign representatives of certain international organizations, are required to file the address report.

Failure to file this address report could lead to serious penalties.

Those aliens who are not in this country during January must report their addresses to the INS within 10 days after their return.

Address report cards are available at all U.S. Post Offices and at INS offices in Miami, Port Everglades, West Palm Beach, Jacksonville, Tampa and Key West.

Spending Abetted By Voters

A recent remark by Yale University president Kingman Brewster has been widely, and approvingly, quoted.

"Until we can devise ways by which the inflationary consequence of a congressman's vote is traced to him with the same particularity which attaches to a vote on a revenue bill, we will not cure the disease of public spending motivated by the desire to achieve reelection."

As with other statements of a similar nature, the implication is that politicians will do anything to get themselves re-elected. That goes without saying. Nobody will argue about that.

But again, what seems to be totally ignored is the fact that it takes two to tango in this matter. If the voters insist on rewarding the big spenders by returning them to office again and again, the voters are at least accessories after the fact.

To complain about inflationary government spending while ignoring the responsibility of the voters in a democracy is like lamenting about the rise in automobile thefts and burglaries while ignoring the fact that criminals don't buy stolen goods from each other — they sell them to law-abiding citizens happy to make a good deal.

Brewster also seems to be saying, however, that voters are unable to see the connection between their congressman's vote on a particular issue and its effect on inflation, and until they can see the connection, spend and elect and elect will continue to be the watchwords of politics.

This may be so, but in this regard the people are no different from the best economic minds in this country who cannot agree on what causes, or cures, inflation.

Be that as it may, it is time we recognized that the contempt so many Americans feel for politicians is a two-edged sword. If politicians do anything to cheat or re-elect — well, who elects them re-elects them?

Thanks to the Fair Credit Billing Act, which took effect last November, retailers who accept "third-party" credit cards like the ubiquitous BankAmericard and Master Charge, may offer discounts to customers who pay cash.

Theoretically, that is. The law doesn't say they have to, and so far, there doesn't seem to have been any rush by merchants to take advantage of the new law.

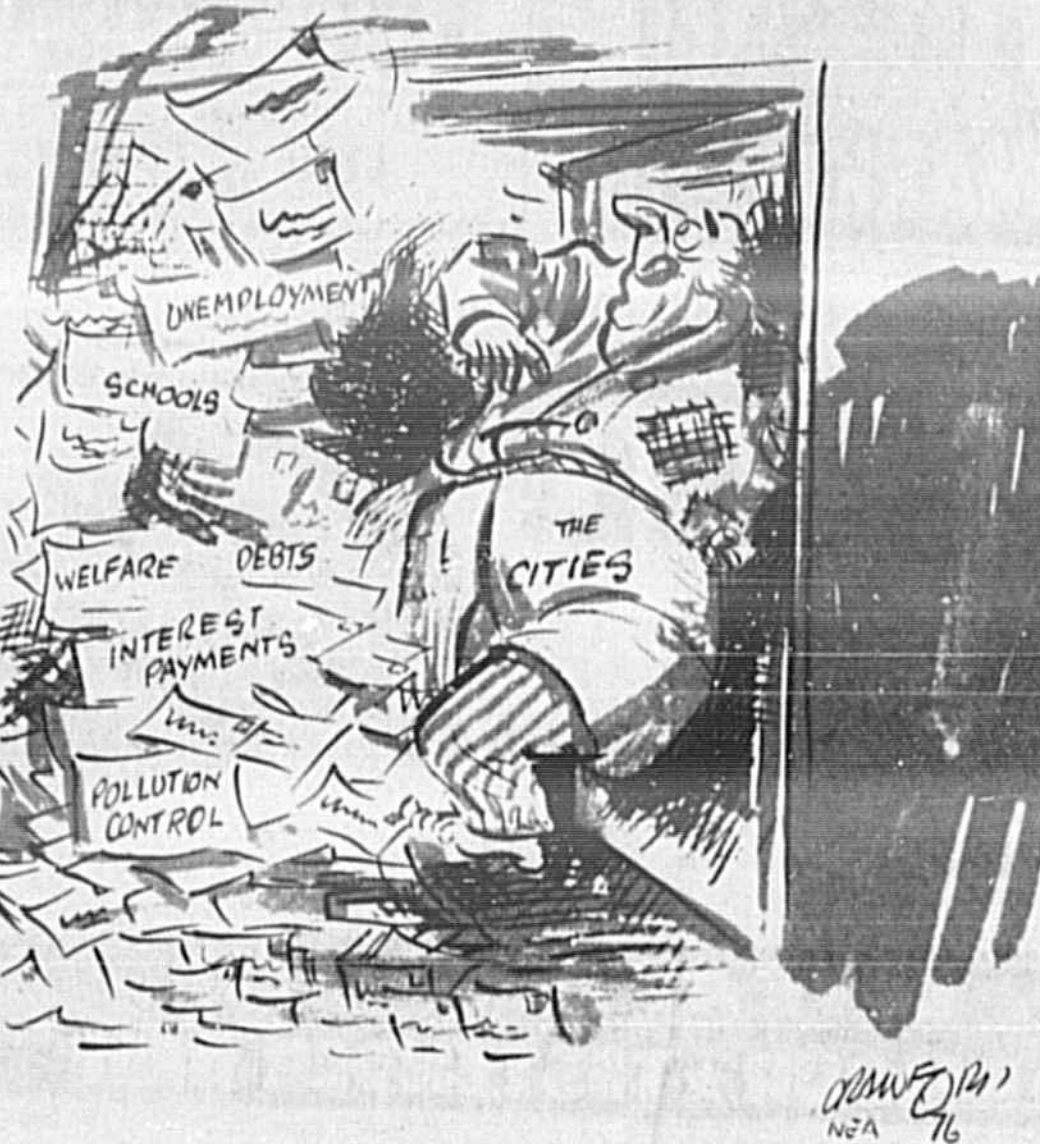

And that strikes us as rather strange in this land of free enterprise.

True, the two to five per cent or more service charge the retailer pays to the credit card company is covered by his prices. But that means that not only are credit users paying for the convenience of delayed billing, every cash-paying customer is to some extent subsidizing the card holder's.

One would think stores would be leaping to cash customers away from their competitors by offering appropriate discounts.

Both the research team and the commissioner pointed accusing fingers at Congress as responsible for the confusing tangle of tax regulations.

The Candidate's Past

WASHINGTON — If we are to elect the men we should as President and vice president and as senators and representatives in 1976, virtually every citizen old enough to look into the facts will have to do his part.

The responsibility is on each of us. Already, one citizens' committee is getting ready to publicize the source of each major donation — and the connection of each source with one special interest or another, if any.

Another citizens group is planning to look into the personal finances of each presidential candidate and some congressional candidates, to see if they have any special interests.

But this is needed for every candidate. If he has major real estate holdings, or if his major donors include sizeable numbers of men heavily into real estate, and if he consistently votes or takes other actions favoring real estate interests, this should be noted.

It should be emphasized that such information, standing alone, does not prove a man's vote has been bought or that he is in any way dishonest. But the correlation of past interest and votes is something that must be taken into account.

Digging out the information mentioned above will require far more work than can possibly be accomplished by a handful of citizens groups. We will be concerned, in the primaries and general elections, with somewhat more than a thousand men and women. And we will be dealing, in many instances, with facts most difficult to acquire. But if research groups of citizens, some conservative, some liberal, some in-between, could organize in each congressional district and each state, the job could be done.

It is essential there be four or five competing groups in each District. For each, however sincere, will come to the task with its own attitudes. Each will emphasize certain facts in its investigation, and tend to ignore others. We are all alike in this regard. Each, therefore, will do best in investigating the men and women candidates its members would like to see defeated.

I do not mean to overemphasize the financial investigations. If the man has been a legislator, we need to know every vote he's cast on every significant issue. And we need to compare these votes with what he says. The listing of his public votes takes work but records for years back are normally available. His most significant votes, however, may have been in secret committee meetings. These can be dug out from interviews with men who were there. Finding sources who will talk with details. But the emphasis is on digging out what we need to know about each candidate but rather on how we could get that information.

One would think we could count on Democrats coming up with the facts about Republicans, and vice versa. Both sides, in fact, will do this in some matters with fanfare and simplistic exaggerations.

How then do you know which side to believe? Possibly neither.

Politics is too serious a business for such sweetheart pacts.

A Crime To Know Communist?

WASHINGTON — Was Martin Luther King Jr. a Communist? Various well-meaning law enforcement officers and millions of others concerned with the security of the nation believe the answer is at the core of the ongoing investigations into the extraordinary federal interference with the late leader's civil rights. If he was, they say, interference was justified; if he wasn't, it wasn't.

And if this thinking has validity, that is, if it is true that complex questions can be reduced with simplistic answers, it does not in all honesty look good for Dr. King.

Though there is little save low suspicion to suggest that he personally subscribed to a Marxist doctrine at odds with the welfare of America, it is quite true that he was acquainted with, perhaps even surrounded by, men whose histories and predilections were not altogether one with capitalism.

This does not necessarily mean King was an associate of Communists who advocated the overthrow of the United States. Rather, it means he had friends and co-workers whose names were recorded on numerous lists as having espoused a Communist thought, or belonged to groups in which some of the members were Communists, or as in a couple of cases, served their private lives in such a way as to raise questions as to their politics.

These name lists, as the argument has it, were reason enough for a large number of high ranking government authorities to allow the public to know of them.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Soviet's Angola Statement No Indication Of Change

MOSCOW (AP) — Western specialists in Moscow find the Soviet Union's latest statement on Angola interesting and even intriguing, but they see no indication of a basic change in the Kremlin's policy toward the civil war in the African country.

An editorial Saturday in the Communist party newspaper Pravda called for "termination of foreign armed intervention" in Angola. It asserted that the Soviet Union has military, economic or other designs on the strategically located country. But it said the Soviet Union "has given and continues to give moral and material support" to the Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA) and the "lawful government" it has set up in Luanda. This aid, it added, was requested by the Luanda government.

MANILA, The Philippines (AP) — Two armed men believed to be Japanese seized control of a Japan Air Lines jetliner and its 199 passengers and crew members at the Manila international airport just before it was scheduled to take off today for Japan, the official Philippine news agency reported.

A spokesman for the Manila office of the Japanese airline said its managers were all at the airport and that he could not confirm or deny the report.

Councilman Replies To Keller Statements

Longwood's Connell Rebuts Police Report

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Councilman Gerard Connell broke his silence today on accusations made by Public Safety Director Douglas Keller at a recent city council meeting that Connell was harassing the police department.

Keller, in a report to the governing body two weeks ago, accused Connell of "harassing" the police department.

Memo Describes '69 Incident

By The Associated Press
An FBI memo credited secret operations against black militant organizations for 1969's "high degree of unrest" within the San Diego police department, a spokesman for the bureau was not aiming for violence.

FBI May Have Caused Unrest

The Sept. 18, 1969, memo to then-FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover from the bureau's San Diego office described how agents tried to foment dissent between the Black Panther party and a group known as the "Black Liberation Army." The memo said the agents "disseminated" information that the Black Panther party was planning to "take over" the city of San Diego.

and going to keep a file on me and can show a need to have this information," Connell said, "I will be happy to give him a day-to-day report, thus releasing these officers to do the job they are paid to do — protect the citizens of the community."

The councilman at the same time stated that the law enforcement officers' preoccupation with the whereabouts of an elected official concerns me that the other citizens of the community may be also surveilled in the same fashion."

Connell called the "preoccupation with his whereabouts" "Gestapo-like tactics which have no place in the United States."

Keller, in a report to council two weeks ago, submitted predated letters signed by Sgt.

Manning and Officer Baker saying that Connell and a member of the news media, at 11:02 p.m. on September 6, had followed a patrol car with head lights on the Connell vehicle out.

Connell said the event occurred at 9 p.m. on September 3 after a council meeting and that he followed the unmarked vehicle only after he had been followed by the unlighted vehicle from near the city hall. He said when he determined that the vehicle had a city tag, he assumed it was the unmarked police car, although he could not identify the occupants. "The least the officers could have done was have accurate information about the date and time in the letter," he said.

Pointing to a statement from Officer William Barfield, Connell noted it carried a Sept. 24, 1975 date indicating it had been kept in the police department files for three months before being released.

The Barfield statement notes Connell traveled SR-34 behind a squad car driven by Barfield and that Connell turned in a different direction on SR-427 going to his Devonshire home.

Barfield stated that he went in the opposite direction to Lyman High School and parked, but that Connell did not follow.

A fourth report, carrying a date of Dec. 18, 1975, from Keller states that Connell and he had a disagreement on Dec. 19 in the police station and alleged Connell threw a pencil and pen holder at him.

Connell denied the accusation, again inviting Keller to submit charges of obstructing justice against him to State Attorney Abbott Herring's office if he feels true harassment has taken place.

Members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) will conduct the survey in conjunction with city officials.

Eleanor Anderson, a budget analyst in the office of Management Analysis and Review (OMA), is assisting in the survey. She said today, "The entire survey is geared toward finding out specific types of recreation desired by residents."

Liaison commissioner on the project is Richard Williams and it was at Williams' insistence last month that the county commission passed a countywide recreation program.

Since this is the first year the county will be providing recreation to its citizens, Williams felt a survey should be run.

As US, the San Diego Union and the Los Angeles Times said Sunday.

The New York Times had a similar story in Monday editions.

"Disturbances, beatings and a high degree of unrest continue to prevail in the ghetto area of southeast San Diego," the memo said. "Although no specific counterintelligence action can be credited with contributing to this overall situation, it is felt that a substantial amount of the unrest is directly attributable to this program."

James B. Adams, associate director of the FBI, told the Los Angeles Times that the bureau was "not trying to get people to kill each other, but to disrupt these groups, reduce their effectiveness."

"I don't know of any action that was designed to provoke violence. This violence was taking place before we got in the act."

Educational Fund Started At Seminole Youth Ranch

Beta Beta Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha International Sorority, Saturday presented the Seminole Youth Ranch with a bank book representing a savings account which has been opened as an educational fund. She Hates Pants Suits, Says Men Prefer Skirts

DEAR ABBY: Here is one woman who was delighted to read the letter signed, PLEPERS SKIRTS! I hate women in trousers! I don't wear pants. I plan to climb a tree. Women who claim that pants are more comfortable than skirts have never worn a pair of those money-hungry fashion designers. And what kind of an excuse is, "They hide the runs in my stockings"? As for the excuse is, "They keep my legs warm," a long dress will do the same thing. "Pants Skirts" did deflate me somewhat, however. Men are always exceptionally nice to me. They always open doors for me and treat me with respect, and here I thought it was just me. Now I realize that perhaps it was because I was wearing a dress. Oh, well, I don't care, as long as they keep doing it. And by the way, Abby, you don't have to wear pants suits. I know, because I've seen you. DEAR FEM: Sorry about that. I never wear pants suits for public appearances. However, I do wear them for

Raiders Triumph, Now 11-2

Seminole Community College's basketball team, another tournament championship in its hip pocket, won't be standing on laurels of its 11-2 record for long this week. The Raiders are home Wednesday night against Daytona Beach and hit the road for a Saturday night game in Palatka against Division 2 opponent St. Johns River. Last weekend Seminole swept past Hillsborough and Edison to win the Tarpon Booster Club tourney in Punta Gorda. Seminole knocked off Hillsborough Friday night in the opening round, 71-61, as Reggie McDonald scored 20 points. Saturday night, it was much of the same, despite the fact McDonald was held to 10 points. "That's the way it has been, we have plenty of hands to pick up the slack," says Raiders coach Joe Sterling. "You can never tell who might be our leading scorer."

In Saturday's championship game it was Chip Nye with 21 points and Vernon Johnson with 18. Manatee clubbed Hillsborough in the consolation game Saturday night, 78-70. SEMINOLE: Nye 56 21, McDonald 5 0 2 10, McIntyre 1 0 2 2, Fisher 4 4 4 14, Jacobs 3 2 1 11, Johnson 9 0 16, Jamerson 2 0 4, Totals: 34 14 21 82. College Offers Two Creative Aggression Courses

As a follow-up on the workshop on Creative Aggression conducted by Dr. George Bach, the author of "Creative Aggression," Adult Education at Seminole Community College is offering a series of classes on the subject. The first course of the series, "Introduction to Creative Aggression," will meet on Tuesday evenings from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in Room H 113 on the SCC campus, beginning Jan. 13 and ending March 2. The instructor will be Doris Salfi, who has been involved in several previous workshops with Dr. Bach. Mrs. Salfi will discuss the principles behind Creative Aggression, and teach the technique to learning to fight and argue as a valuable skill in improving relationships in the family. The principle recognizes that it is normal to differ and get angry with someone you love. The challenge is to learn to fight constructively. The class is taught with some lecture but is a personal involvement course. Students will be asked to participate in class activities. Space in the class will be limited to 25 people. Call now for your reservation at 323-1409 Ext. 303 or 304. The $10 registration fee must be paid prior to the first class meeting. In addition, the class Creative Aggression is now being offered with Dominick J. Salfi as a field instructor. This course is a follow-up of the class "Introduction to Creative Aggression." Las Vegas Bouts Coming Up

Both the Norton-Lyle fight and the Foreman-Libout are taking place in Las Vegas. Both bouts will be afternoon telecasts. Foreman is taking down a quarter of a million dollars for his end while Lyle can look for a $175,000 payday. The other fight is "costly" costing $250,000 for both fighters. Of that, Norton will be getting 150 G's and Lovell $100,000. Matches set for January in other parts of the world include Jan. 18, Berlin, Germany-Vito Antuoferno and Eckhard Dagge for the European junior middleweight title (look for the winner of this match to possibly meet Eliaha Obese the boxer's title in a very near future); on the same day in the Bahamas, Lomie Bennett is scheduled to meet Baby Boy Rolle; Jan. 17 in Argentina, the current 17 pound champ, Victor Galindez meets Hildo Silva in a non-title bout.

Despite long hours and travel that come with the trade, Maloney's arduous work has hardly cooled. Now he is the trainer for D.K. But I'm excited about this," he says of the track, which was mobbed for its opening Friday night. It is Connecticut's first pari-mutuel betting facility. Maloney, 41, came here two months ago from a track in Tampa, one of three on the circuit he raced in. The others are Wonderland in Revere, Mass. and St. Petersburg, which begins its season Friday. "There are guys who'd shoot their mother to get to St. Pete," he says of the track.

Rangers Need Fight To Regain Composure

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Toronto's Dave Williams knows exactly what the struggling New York Rangers need and the mistakes they have made.

What the Rangers need is an explosion, Williams said after his Maple Leafs topped New York 6-4 Sunday night in a National Hockey League game.

They need a fight to get some team spirit back. And the mistake? "They made a mistake trading Scotty Williams," Williams said. "They don't have anybody as good as defense as him."

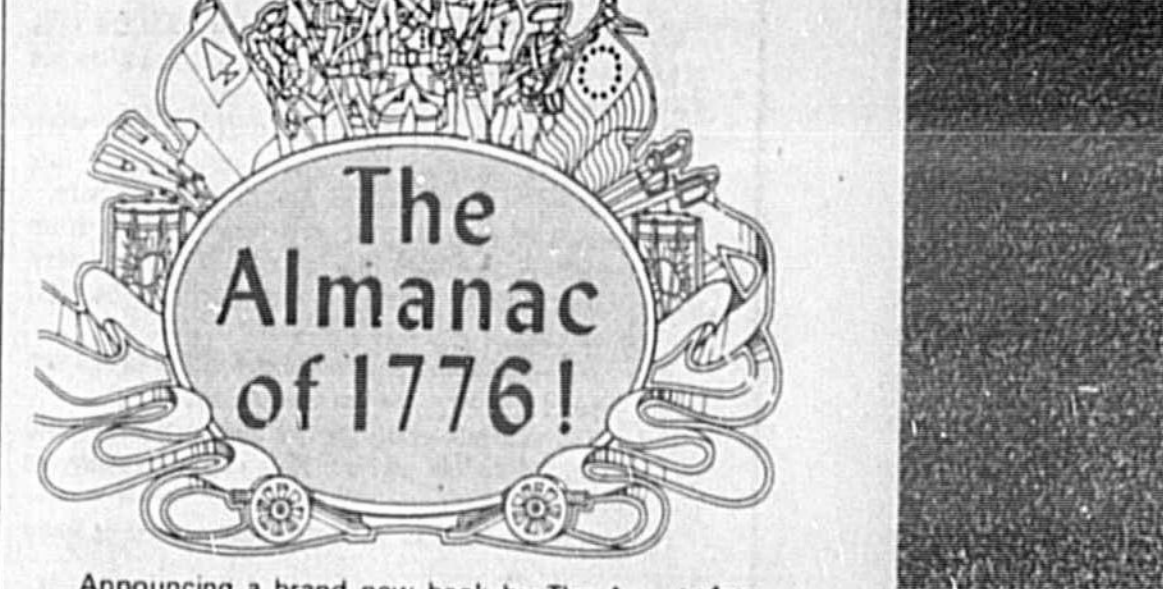

Davidson suffered a broken leg, Sunday and is expected to be out of action from six to eight weeks.

The Rangers now are down to one healthy goal, rookie Doug Sletten. Dunc Wilson has been sidelined five weeks after undergoing appendectomy.

In other National Hockey League action Sunday, Vancouver edged Detroit 4-3, Philadelphia 5-3, Chicago defeated Pittsburgh 5-3 and Buffalo smashed the Soviet Wings 12-6 in an exhibition game.

Sunshine On Skin Forms Vitamin D

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. DEAR DOCTOR LAMB—Do you have any information regarding vitamin D from the sun? I am interested in the possibility of receiving this vitamin from other sources.

The reason for this inquiry is that there are certain religious organizations that require full length dresses and sleeves and I wonder if this could be detrimental to children. Could this lack of vitamin D from the sun be supplemented through other sources such as cod liver oil, egg yolk and milk?

Especially I would like to know if sunshine on the face only would provide enough vitamin D for a child's well-being along with the proper footwear.
