Trade Body 'Army' Workers Enthused At Drive Opening

County Chamber Of Commerce Begins Annual Campaign For New Members

Faith In County, Suggested Slogan

It Is Your Chamber Of Commerce, Says President Simpson

Enthusiasm was the keynote at a "kick-off" breakfast in the Chamber of Commerce Building at 8 o'clock this morning, signaling the start of the annual drive for members in the County's trade body. There was a large attendance of workers in the "sales army," and right after the breakfast they started out to "sell" the Chamber of Commerce.

General Evans presided at the breakfast gathering and called on several of those present to speak. Among those delivering short, but encouraging, talks were Mayor S. O. Shinkler, Holland L. Dean, editor of The Herald, President T. E. Simpson and Vice President Earl F. Hahn of the Chamber of Commerce, and "Major General" Schmidt.

"We have faith in your faith in your County," was suggested by President Simpson as a slogan in this year's membership campaign to make the Seminoles County Chamber of Commerce a more effective organization.

The Chamber of Commerce has been held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, but during the summer months at least, the meetings are to be at 8 o'clock in the evening. Under another resolution of the directors, all clergymen in the County are to be made honorary members of the Chamber of Commerce.

Resolutions expressing the "heartfelt sorrow" of the Chamber of Commerce in the death of Mayor T. L. Dunn, a "dear friend and honored co-worker" of the Chamber of Commerce were passed by unanimous vote. Another resolution expressed "deep appreciation for generous efforts and counsel in behalf of the organization" to H. M. Papworth, who a month ago resigned as president of the Chamber of Commerce after serving in that capacity for several years.

There are several divisions, but two headed by women—"Objectives" and "Sales." Mrs. J. W. Cooper of Ocala, who is in the pitch of the "sales" with the intention of winning two of Mrs. Cooper's neighbors, Mrs. Arthur Brown and Mrs. John Douglas, to become Chamber of Commerce members.

Mrs. O. E. Harrison, Mrs. W. L. Thomas, Mrs. W. E. Hickey, and Mrs. A. W. King, Mrs. Arthur Gentry, Mrs. D. W. Thomas and Mrs. W. E. Kirkland.

Indignation has expressed against the drive was voiced by several individuals, among them being Mrs. J. W. Cooper, Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mrs. John Douglas, Mrs. O. E. Harrison, Mrs. W. L. Thomas, Mrs. W. E. Hickey, and Mrs. A. W. King.

County Boosters Plan To Meet In Oviedo Next Time

Trade Body Wants Invitation To Town For Supper Session

Directors of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce hope to have some of the meetings of the organization in other towns in the County, instead of having them all in Sanford, and it is therefore planned to hold the May meeting in Oviedo, if Oviedo wants it.

J. L. Marvett made the motion to meet the next time in Oviedo, provided proper arrangements can be made. The motion was seconded by E. A. Newman, and was carried by unanimous vote. The suggestion was also made that a supper be provided at a nominal price, preceding the meeting.

Meetings of the Chamber of Commerce have been held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, but during the summer months at least, the meetings are to be at 8 o'clock in the evening. ## Support Of Army Of Salvationists Urged By Clergy

Sanford Ministerial Group In Praise Of Feren's Work

Pledging support to the Salvation Army, the Ministerial Association of Sanford adopted resolutions at this week's meeting urging residents of the section to respond liberally when the Army's campaign is put on the last of the month.

The clergy's endorsement of the Salvation Army "is based on the splendid work the Army has done in the past, and especially during the past 16 months under the leadership of Captain and Mrs. F. S. Feren."

Captain Feren was recently elected secretary and treasurer of the Ministerial Association.

Major Routes Are Open In Georgia Despite Floods

Swollen Streams Are Disrupting Travel On Some Highways

The highway department said there was no likelihood the high water would interfere with traffic to Darien, coast town where a civic celebration commemorating the two hundredth anniversary of Darien's founding, will be held today.

"All roads are open to Darien, and the flood crest is not due there until about Apr. 20," said an official of the highway department.

The department reported that it might be necessary to close United States Route 17, which runs along the coast from Florida north at some points in Georgia.

Route 17 was reported open throughout Georgia today, but closed at some points in South Carolina. North-bound tourists were detouring via Augusta.

The following state roads were reported closed: Abbeville-McRae, Sylvania-Statesboro, Roberts-Reynolds, Woodbury-Zebulon, Americus-Vienna, Maxwell-Reidsville.

Highway workers and CCC employees strove to keep main routes open in the flooded areas. Hundreds of sandbags were used to keep important fills from washing out.

The adjourned meeting of the Advisory Board of the State Market will be held at 7:30 o'clock this evening in the market office. Nathan Keys, state commissioner of agriculture, and L. M. Rhodes, state market commissioner, wired Chairman H. M. Papworth of the committee, they would be present.

Andrew Curraway, sales manager for the Norge division of the Seminoles Tire Shop, reported yesterday that Norge set several new all time sales records in March with sales totaling 56,548 units throughout the nation and that the aggregate sales for refrigerators, washers, ranges and ironers in that period greater for the quarter than the corresponding period last year.

Britain Warned Not To Play Lone Hand Against Mussolini

PARIS, Apr. 16.—(AP)—France warned Great Britain last night not to play a "lone hand against Italy" under penalty of withdrawing French support to the British fleet in event of an attack in the Mediterranean.

The French caution came on the heels of an Italian warning to France that the fascist nation refuses to allow its military campaign against Ethiopia to be "frustrated."

Mother Of Five Is Executed In England

BIRMINGHAM, England, Apr. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Waddingham, 34-year-old mother of five children, died on the gallows of Women Green prison today while police guarded approaches against a demonstration in protest of "this disgrace."

Mrs. Violet Van Der Elst, energetic campaigner against capital punishment, organized the demonstration, broadcasting appeals to a crowd of 2,000 to prevent hanging. The crowd looked on quietly, however.

Mrs. Waddingham was convicted of poisoning a patient in her nursing home.

Italy Demands Right To Make African Peace

Would Deal Directly With Ethiopia, Says Report From League Of Nations Council

(By The Associated Press) An authoritative League of Nations source said today that Italy has demanded the right to conduct negotiations for East African peace directly with Ethiopia. The Italian demand, which arrived as an eventual establishment of a military armistice between victor and vanquished, was reported to have been held "utterly impossible" by the Ethiopian delegation.

As conciliation efforts continued, Italian soldiers started by motor truck for the Ethiopian capital in the interior of Emperor Haile Selassie's war-torn Empire. Fascist sources indicated they believed not more than 1,000 warriors stood between their motorized column and the capital. The column itself was reported as moving over a seasonably good highway from Desaye, 178 miles away. Reports from the Geneva League of Nations conference room indicated that little headway was being made there. France, fearful for eventualities, "surveyed its own military strength to be certain she had sufficient power to defend herself in case the whole system of collective security should collapse under weight of the Italo-Ethiopian war and Germany's denunciation of the Locarno pact.

The children's mother, Queen Astrid, was killed last August in an automobile accident near Lucerne, Switzerland. The children are Josephine Charlotte, 7, a son, Baudoin, 3, and another son Albert, 2.

Agronomists See Celery Culture In This Section

"Agronomists and horticulturists to the number of nearly 100, representing every southern state, visiting Seminole County yesterday afternoon, showed considerable interest in celery production in this section, according to County Agent C. E. Dawson.

With Dr. E. R. Purvis of the agricultural experiment station as lecturer, the visitors were taken by W. M. Scott for a tour of the American Fruit Growers' 100-acre west side farm where they were shown the method of tilling the land, and cutting, washing and packing celery. A four-foot hole was dug for the purpose of showing the visitors the character of the soil. They were then taken to the Mountain Ice Company's plant where they were shown how celery is led for shipment.

Included in the party were Dr. O. C. Bryan, soil chemist, Dr. B. W. Ruprecht, head of the department of chemistry, W. E. Stokes, head of the agricultural department, and J. F. Stokes, editor of the extension service of the State University at Gainesville.

Staggering Facts

When Fred Cone, one of the best men who has entered the gubernatorial campaign, made the opening speech of his campaign, he brought out some information which proved severely shocking to the Tampa Tribune. Fred Cone used to be president of the Senate in the Florida Legislature away back in 1911, and for purposes of comparison he showed how many more attaches were required in the last Senate as compared with the number who found jobs there in 1911.

It was this information which the Tribune described as a "staggering fact." Mr. Cone revealed that the Senate got along very nicely 25 years ago with only 17 attaches who cost the taxpayers of the state only $6,000. By 1935 the Senate was employing 333 attaches at a cost of $92,600. "The item is a revealing instance," says the Tribune, "of how the cost of government has been padded to profligate and profiteering proportions."

And yet we wonder if the increase in this particular item is out of line with the increase in the cost of government in other lines, or in other states, or in the federal government. If you go back 25 years in our city government, or our county government, or in the government of Georgia, or New York, or in our national government, you will find the costs so greatly reduced as to make present expenditures look like the most dangerous extremes of extravagance.

Treasury figures recently released show that the cost of the federal government has increased 900 per cent in the last thirty years. On a per capita basis, it cost $6.64 to run the government at Washington in 1906; by 1935 this figure had been increased to $60.19 for every man, woman, and child in the country. In addition to this, the present per capita cost of local governments—city, county, and state—amounts to $77.15, making an annual charge of $137.34 for every person in the country for purposes of government.

What is more, this cost is constantly being increased. It goes almost without saying that regardless of which of our 16 candidates for governor happens to be elected, and regardless of all their platform planks for economy, the cost of our state government two years from now, will be greater than it is today; and the people as a consequence will be bearing a higher burden of taxation.

The only question is how much longer this tendency can be continued without serious consequences.

Teaching Auto Driving

The spread of automobile driving and safety courses in high schools as a means of cutting down the high death rate from motor mishaps is advocated today as a result of a national survey conducted on the subject by The Woman's Home Companion, which makes a stirring appeal to parents to insist on safety education for their children. Parents are also urged to back up what can be taught in schools spurred on by the realization that "at the present rate, one out of every three children faces the probability of death or maiming from motor accidents in the course of a lifetime."

"Schools are doing far too little to teach safe driving," the survey reveals. "In fact, most of them give no automobile safety training." When they do try to teach highway safety, they often find themselves handicapped by having to offset the poor influence of parents. As children approach driving age they should be taught in the high schools, by experienced and qualified persons, how to drive safely. There is no good reason for not giving driving and high-way safety instruction to every high-school student in the country. The essence of the bad driving problem would be attacked, for not only do the records show that drivers of high-school age are poor operators, but from our high-schools will come most of the future operators of motor cars.

"Steps have been taken toward providing driving instruction for high-school students in nine states, the District of Columbia and the City of New York. Several of the states have been doing it for some time. In New Jersey, where fifty high schools provide this training, credit is allowed to students taking the safety courses. In the Garfield High School, Akron, Ohio, there is a Student Motor Traffic Club which studies the difference between highway conditions before and after enactment of traffic laws.

"The most effective instruments for improving the situation so far as the younger generations are concerned, seem to be education and example. The latter is of first importance to parents because with operation of motor vehicles, as with other phases of family life, the child is deeply influenced by what the parent does. If you are careless and reckless with your car, you cannot expect your children to drive much differently. If you fear traffic laws, your child cannot help agreeing with you that such laws are silly and not to be taken seriously. If you are a parent who tells your boy or girl to watch out the rear window for motorcycle officers while you challenge death by stepping hard on the throttle, you have no right to expect youth to be law-abiding.

"Approximately thirty-six thousand persons were killed in this country by automobiles in 1934, an all-time record! During that year one human being was killed by automobiles in the United States every fifteen minutes, and somebody injured every thirty-one seconds!"

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

WASHINGTON, Apr. 15.—The announcement was made today at the White House that Wilson has practically completed the consideration of the forthcoming recommendation to Germany. It was indicated that it probably will go forward to Berlin late today or tomorrow. Wilson and Lansing worked on the communication all day yesterday. The officials said the document to press the substance of the decision was returned in the Senate once more yesterday. The evidence of the U. S. to rebuild and show Germany has not been late provision.

Sanford now has a first class ball team and several good games have been arranged with neighboring towns. Little money having been raised, the various clubs of that county are anxious to play with the Sanford team.

30th Anniversary Of San Francisco Quake Is April 18

City By Golden Gate Suffered Third Of Billion-Damage

By SAM JACKSON
 SAN FRANCISCO, Apr. 15.—(AP)—A city without of earthquakes but still history about first will pass April 18 to remember a day 30 years ago when both catastrophic shock at once, taking between 100 and 200 lives and wrecking damage of $200,000,000. San Franciscans have been accused of referring to the tragedy of 1906 as a "fire" instead of a quake because of a sense of pride—a refusal to recognize California's ever present earthquake threat. But to 600,000 refugees who camped in parks and streets for three days while flames roared, the disaster was primarily "the" quake. The earth jolt occurred at 5:12 in the morning; the great San Andreas fault slipped a 10-mile undersea and violently jerked the coast over an area 50 miles long and 30 miles wide.

San Francisco buildings were violently shaken but few actually collapsed, although chimneys and cornices cascaded to the ground. Insurance companies found that only five per cent of the $600,000,000 damage from quake and fire was directly attributable to the quake.

Flames broke out almost at once in scores of places and spread without hindrance as the city's water system had been jolted to pieces. By evening of the first day eight square miles had been burned and 300,000 of the city's 425,000 residents had deserted their homes in panic.

Whole blocks of buildings were dynamited to create firebreaks. Authorities herded 200,000 of the refugees into Golden Gate Park and made desperate efforts to supply them with food and water.

On the second day a stiff wind fanned the flames to a new fury and cut off egress down the peninsula on which San Francisco is situated. With the third day the fire abated somewhat but completed the ruin of the financial and shopping districts.

It was not until the fourth day that citizens could set to work to restore the 12,000 buildings which lay in ruins. The catastrophe occurred before the days of city planning, and rapid rebuilding, authorities admitted, showed more courage and skill than wisdom. The city of today is one of skyscrapers and of lofty apartment houses crowded close together.

Engineers say that in case of another earthquake, few if any buildings would fall. San Francisco, however, vividly remembers the terror and is a city on guard against a possible repetition of such havoc.

No Pictures Of Lee To Be Seen On Roads

AVON PARK, Apr. 15.—State Comptroller J. M. Lee admits he is so rickety that his picture has to be taken on the highway. Mr. Lee has issued positive instructions to his campaign workers that no poster or placard advertising his re-nomination for a second term be posted or tacked to any tree, fence or post along Florida highways.

"Identification of our highways as being advocated by prominent clubs, garden clubs and other civic organizations can be a tremendous factor in Florida's progress," the comptroller stated. "I am so rickety I do not care to be planted along the highways and mar the beauty of my program. I will stay in the comptroller's office where I can be of service to the people."

Citizens Borrow Fortune To Speed Building Houses

Building Boomlet Of 200,000 Homes Is Forecast For 1936

By SIGRID ARNE
 WASHINGTON, Apr. 15.—(AP)—Building of private homes has increased so rapidly in the last year that a building "boomlet" is predicted for 1936. This year will see the construction of 250,000 new homes, says Stewart McDonald, federal housing administrator. He is corroborated by the federal home loan bank board which forecasts the construction of "over 200,000" new homes during the year.

Many factors contribute to this sudden rush of Americans to their own homes—some social, some financial. Federal experts point to the shortage of homes, estimated from 750,000 to 1,500,000 created by the depression years, when new construction stopped. They also point out that there is a large "marriage reserve" among persons unable to marry during the depression; to widespread doubling-up of families which now are seeking homes of their own; to accumulated unemployment of the homes; to the normal desire of householders to escape run-down neighborhoods, and to the return of net population movement from farms to cities.

New stimulus to finance home building, inaugurated by the Federal Housing Administration, have opened avenues to a new set of would-be home-owners. Prior to the government's entry into the field it was customary to write up mortgages for longer than 15 years.

Many of the homes were ordered by new and second mortgage, necessitating periodic renewals with extra charges. Furthermore, most financial institutions limited their lending on homes from 50 to 60 percent of the value of the property. Federal housing put into effect last year a plan for mortgages that permitted payments only 50 years. The plan was a home mortgage arrangement which also permitted making a larger percent of the value of the home.

Federal housing records for last year showed the type of loans and loans that the majority of Americans will be making in 1936. The new plan will be a home mortgage arrangement which also permitted making a larger percent of the value of the home.

Two Salons Near A Fist Fight In Hall Of Congress

Texasian Dislikes A Remark Made By Man From Washington

WASHINGTON, Apr. 15.—Rep. Thomas Blanton (D., Tex.), and Rep. Marion Zioncheck (D., Wash.), tried to swing at each other with their fists on the floor of the House Monday but were prevented by other members from engaging in a fist fight.

The two representatives have long been at odds and have exchanged bitter remarks frequently during House debates. Tuesday the feud flared to a climax.

Blanton, a broad-shouldered Texan, jumped out of his chair when Zioncheck made a personal derogatory remark.

The youthful Zioncheck stood up to meet Blanton as he swung around the aisle. Blanton and Zioncheck were pulled down to their seats by Democratic Party Whip Patrick Bohan and Rep. J. Duell Snyder, (D. Pa.).

Zioncheck, criticizing what he termed "innuendoes" against members of the House, had referred to the fact that Blanton "once said I was doped."

"I am going to put into the Record that Blanton is the son of a Texas," Zioncheck continued. Then he said he would revise his remark to leave a "blank" for the final word.

The feud between them began in debate on the so-called "Red Rider" which forbids district teachers from teaching communism. Blanton has staunchly opposed repeal of the rider.

Blanton burst into the Democratic cloakroom half an hour after the floor episode and rushed up to Zioncheck.

"If you put anything like that into the Record I'll bust you one," colleagues said he shouted. "I just wish you would hit me so I could hit you once," Zioncheck retorted.

Other congressmen intervened and finally both walked away.

Woman Farmer Works, Worries, Banks Profits

GREENVILLE, Ga., Apr. 15.—(AP)—"A lot of hard work, a lot of planning and even so much worrying."

That's how Edna Peavy, in two years as "head man" on a 250-acre farm, says she has managed to pay off a stack of bills and put money in the bank.

Without any training for farm work, Miss Peavy took charge of the farm in March, 1934, after her father's death. She lives there with her mother, and a hired man assists in the work.

Arising at dawn, she milks six cows before breakfast—then jumps into her automobile and is off to town to dispose of a load of milk, vegetables, butter and eggs to regular customers.

There she hurries home to take up the managerial reins.

She is a beller in diversified farming and last year had 60 acres in cultivation—40 in corn, 10 in peas, nine in cotton and one in sweet potatoes.

"I don't depend altogether on crops for a living," she explains. "Sometimes we have crop failures or ridiculously low prices and I like to have money coming in all the time."

She keeps between 50 and 75 hens and says her eggs and chickens usually bring good prices.

"In summer the garden and the peach, apple and fig trees add to my income," she continues. "Some of the fruit and vegetables are sold to my milk and butter customers."

In support of her theories the "lucky farmer" points to a bank account sufficient to finance her business through the harvest season.

Thrill Is Promised At High School Play

By CLIFFORD SHINHOLSER
All the fun-loving Sanfordites must get ready for the biggest kick the town ever had. The Juniors, up on "the hill" have found the ultra guaranteed comedy stage hit of this or any other year. It's the old story of a handsome man (Bily Zachry) who got cold feet when the girls came around. There is also a Beau Brummel who is not girl-shy (P. L. Laney).

As for the ladies, just listen to the names of the pretty members of the cast: Evelyn Gates, Mary Higgins, Dorothy Stewart, Lenora Whitdon, Antoinette Hayes, and Martha Adams.

James Hardin is a poet with a heart of 18-k gold and James Bradford is a 100 percent dignified devil. In contrast to those we have the tough Chocky (Bradley Odham) who meets his Waterloo when he kidnaps the actress and Boyd Coleman plays the part of a hero's stern father who has definitely selected the girl he wants for his son to marry.

The play is progressing splendidly and those who know predict that it will be the best performance ever staged in Sanford. It will be presented tonight at 8:15 P. M. in the high school auditorium. Music will be furnished by the Noctambulators.

cent Simpson from Lorenzo A. Wilson, chairman of the board of the Wilson and Toomer Fertilizer Company of Jacksonville yesterday:

"You know Sanford has always held a very warm spot in my heart, and I have always felt keenly interested in it. When I landed in Florida as a very small boy in 1877 there was a little old wharf down at Mellonville, about one mile south of the present City of Sanford, and for years as I lived in Orange county, to go into Sanford or Fort Reed was a great event in my young life.

"I have watched the growth of Sanford with keen interest—and have very many warm friends there and like to feel that I am more or less identified with your County, and your City. The first distributing house we built was at Sanford and it has always been a splendid point for us where we have enjoyed a very nice business, indeed.

"Our company has so many demands upon it that it is hard to satisfy each section, as it seems that every cross-roads in the state either wants a baseball park, a hard road, a town hall, a band, a church, or something of that sort, so the company has had to draw the line on many contributions that we used to make a number of years ago. However, feeling so keenly interested in your section individually, I am glad to enclose herewith a check for $15."

How's Your Health

STUTTERING
Stuttering is one of those seemingly minor disabilities which often may exercise a major influence over the life of its sufferer. Some stutters are counted among the great men in history, but most stutters are likely to feel themselves set apart from social life. Becoming unduly introspective, they are likely to feel themselves excluded, if not actually oppressed by society. Stuttering is a fairly widespread disability. It is estimated that at one time or another in their lives upward of five per cent of the male population and one per cent of the female stutters. The recently published volume, "For Quitters," by Dr. and Mrs. Smiley Blanton is addressed to "those people with the symptom called stuttering, whom we feel to have been too long neglected." In the introduction, which is from the pen of Dr. J. Ramsey Hunt, the viewpoint of the work is tersely expressed as follows: "Fear and anxiety play the predominant role in blocking the rhythm of speech." The authors define stuttering, which includes stammering, as "an involuntary break in the rhythm of speech." This break, which is seldom if ever due to organic derangement, the authors charge to underlying and rarely appreciated emotional difficulties. The treatment must be essentially of a psychologic nature and calculated to eliminate the underlying emotional difficulty. With this may be combined a variety of forms of so-called speech re-education. Such treatment schemes as call for "breathing regulations," "stop-

Biggest Crowd At Opening Game Is To Win Gold Cup

Jaycees Of Daytona Will Give Trophy To Winning Club

To the baseball club in the city turning out the biggest crowd the first day of the season will be presented a gold cup.

Deciding to do its bit toward spreading the baseball spirit throughout the whole Florida State League, the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Daytona Beach has bought a costly gold cup and had it appropriately engraved, and will give it to the club in that city which has the largest paid attendance at its opening game of the season.

The season opens next Sunday, with games in Sanford, Daytona Beach and Palatka. DeLand plays Sanford, Gainesville will play Daytona Beach, and St. Augustine will play Palatka. The season will open in DeLand, Gainesville, and St. Augustine next Monday, Sanford playing in DeLand, Daytona Beach playing in Gainesville, and Palatka playing in St. Augustine.

BASEBALL MEN AND BUSINESS MEN BID TO SPAGHETTI SUPPER TONIGHT

Club Can Carry 18 Men For 3 Weeks If It Has Mazuma

Stuffy Hopes To Hold Several Men Until Team Is Shaped Up

Under rules of the Florida State League, member clubs can carry 18 men for the first three weeks of the season, and Stuffy McCrone, manager of the Sanford Lookouts, wants to do that thing. But he can't carry the extra men unless the association has the mazuma with which to pay the expense. Contributions are therefore asked.

Stuffy said today he would like to keep several men on the team until his aggregation is shaped up for the season's play, but if the association is without funds he will be compelled to let out some men who might shape up a little later as excellent timber for a winning club.

Zim Beck, Chattanooga scout, will keep a lookout for desirable left last night for the north and men for the team.

Two men were let out and two others were signed yesterday. Julian Purcell, second baseman, and Parks Burdoff, pitcher were given their release, and Cooper of Lakeland, southpaw pitcher and outfielder, and Houton of Eastville, left-handed batter and outfielder, joined the club.

After the first three weeks of the season the member clubs of the Florida State League can carry only 14 men, including the manager. These 14 will include five pitchers, two catchers, four infielders and three outfielders.

He was asked if the grand jury considered any conspiracy indictments or indictments to obstruct justice against any witnesses who testified in the case. "Those matters have not been taken up," Marshall replied.

You can't help noticing them. They have a certain distinction. These are the folks who played Monopoly before everybody got playing. They are people who usually know the inside story. They go places in this world.

Call for a taste for Wagner Ale—it marks the difference.
