FIFTY TWO COUNTIES WORK ON MOSQUITO ERADICATION IN STATE OF FLORIDA

HEALTH OFFICER RAYMOND TURCK GIVES INTERESTING FACTS

IMPORTANT WORK

That Must Be Carried on if Florida is to Get Healthful Conditions

(By The Associated Press) Fifty-two Florida counties are devoting themselves energetically to the extermination of the mosquito...

Dr. Turck's interesting review of the mosquito situation and the campaign to eradicate the pest was embodied in his speech to the conference as follows:

"I am just now engaged in a general survey of the coast and coastal cities of Florida. I have been out since the latter part of January...

"More and more I believe we must impress upon the people of this state that we cannot hope within any reasonable time to exterminate the mosquito from Florida. When we talk of mosquito control they scoff and jeer...

"It is most gratifying to know that at present fifty-two communities in Florida have instituted, are seeking for or planning mosquito control measures, and every one of those communities has asked the state board of health for assistance...

"The state board of health must have the money and the men to throw into the field—we do not want money to sit in offices—we want money to put field workers throughout the entire state. Yet the state board of health has been accused of crying 'Wolf-Wolf' or scaring up bogaboos in order to induce the legislature to give us a larger appropriation...

"With knowledge of the possible proximity of the yellow fever to the United States, the public health service has already assigned one of its most experienced engineers to cooperate with the state and local health authorities in mosquito control measures in the border states...

Clermont Employs Landscape Architect Road Beautification

A session meeting held at the historic "Log House" at Clermont for the purpose of discussing the beautification of the scenic highway soon to be opened, was addressed by Mr. N. B. Wilkinson, landscape architect. Mr. Wilkinson made several definite and helpful suggestions, and the meeting set the ball rolling toward putting some really constructive plans at work.

The highway in question is that portion of the newer, shorter, Tallahassee-Tampa automobile highway that runs through Clermont, south to Auburndale, cutting off some miles in distance, and opening up an entirely new section of rich and beautiful lake and hill country, heretofore practically unseen by human eye.

"It is true the cows roam our highways, and the best way to solve that problem is to meet and beat it and find a way out. Treat the highway under consideration like a drive thru a park. This cannot be done by the planting of a few rows of shrubs and plants along the road, but it can be done by planting things that are 'cow resistant' outside of the fences. The best results are obtained if the fences are not stressed too much.

"The principal planting might be of original native growth, including pines, turkey oak and saw palmetto, adding a few clumps of bamboo and touching the general scheme up with bits of hibiscus and oleander. This can be done at very small cost and made much more attractive than the places where they tried to use all the plants in the nursery catalog.

There are a number of lakes along the highway that can be made beauty spots at small cost by developing the land between them and the road. This can be done very satisfactorily with the native growth.

Definite date for the opening of the highway to Clermont will be announced in the near future. Rumor says it will be a motorcade well worth while.

ROTARY CLUB WEEKLY MEETING AT VALDEZ HOTEL

VISITORS PRESENT AND NOMINATION OF OFFICERS FOR NEW YEAR

The Sanford Rotary Club had another good meeting at the Valdez Hotel today and with songs and several short talks the time passed all too soon. The biggest part of the meeting was the nomination of officers for the ensuing year and as these nominations held for one month before election the suspense may kill off several of the members before the election day and the result is known.

V. R. Jervis, of Jacksonville, and Willard Kells, of Wilmington, N. C., were among the visitors present and expressed themselves as being proud of the fact that they were allowed to sit down with Rotarians and they gave the Rotaries something to think about in short talks. Harry Ferran, of Easton, and Frank Melans, of Orlando, were among the visiting Rotarians.

Judge Hancher made a report of the St. Petersburg meeting and reported the fact that he did not see more Sanford Rotaries in the meeting and said he would give a more detailed report at a later date.

The Rotarians voted to take their regular space in St. Petersburg, the Sanford High School annual after President D. L. Thrasher had explained what the money was to be expended for and he also made a plea for the support of all Rotarians for the Christmas that starts Saturday night and lasts for five days.

Dry Goods Dealers To Be Relieved of Part of Income Tax

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Thousands of retail dry goods dealers will be relieved of paying income tax on portions of their book profits described as "unrealized income," through a new regulation announced by Commissioner Blair of the internal revenue bureau. The change to be effective on July 1, 1923, will result in a more uniform system of book-keeping among the dry goods merchants in order to comply with the bureau requirements and obtain advantage of the tax exemption resulting from the ruling.

The bureau decision eliminates a long effort made by the Retail Dry Goods association to have the regulations changed on the ground that certain of the book profits did not constitute gain or income in the meaning of the revenue laws. With this stand Mr. Blair has agreed, saying that the amount of the book profit should not be included as income from the operation of the business in future tax returns.

Mr. Blair's instructions to internal revenue collectors, however, makes it clear that accurate records must be kept by the retailers if they are to have advantage of the decision's tax exemption provision. It stated further that the tax payer should keep separate records on actual and book profits and that riders attached to the income tax return should show fully the difference in the amounts and on which the tax exemption is claimed.

ALL FRANCE MOURNS SARAH CALLED DIVINE

WORLD FAMOUS ARTIST DIED AT EIGHT O'CLOCK LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press) PARIS, March 27.—All France today mourns for her well beloved daughter, Sarah Bernhardt, is dead. Paris is stunned scarcely believing that she who was regarded as almost immortal in more than one sense of the word, has passed away. It seems not too much to say that not since the death of Victor Hugo has France been stirred so deeply. An impressive funeral ceremony is expected to be held Thursday or Friday.

It was arranged, the body should lie in state at her home until two o'clock this afternoon. The chamber in which Bernhardt's body lies is already filled with flowers brought by hundreds of her admirers. The first bunch of lilies were placed on the bier in the early morning hours by her granddaughter, Albe Louit, an actress and close friend for many years remarked that in death she had "recovered the beauty of her youth."

Sarah Bernhardt died peacefully in the arms of her son, Maurice, at one o'clock before eight last night. In life she had an amazing power of emotion of unworldly realism, and pathos in her acting of death scenes. At the end of her day's trial she quietly drifted away into eternity, tired after her long fight against death, which she did not wish but never feared.

Hope for the life of the great actress had long since been abandoned, and only an hour before she passed away, those in attendance found her sinking beyond recovery, though, knowing her recuperative powers, it was thought she might live through the night.

Mme. Bernhardt died in a large room on the second floor of her home with windows open on the boulevard Periere, the noise of trucks and the railroad keeping up a low roar to which she was long accustomed. It was the sudden closing of those windows, opened on the finest day of spring, that gave the signal to those waiting and watching without, that Bernhardt was dead.

Death was due to a renewed attack or uraemic poisoning, which began Friday, but the actress astonished her physicians by her repeated rallies and her will to live, just as she did last December, when hope had several times been abandoned. A priest was summoned hurriedly in the middle of the afternoon, when symptoms of the gravest nature supervened, but Bernhardt rallied, and regained lucidity. The priest administered extreme unction, which she acknowledged with faint movements of the hands and head, too weak to speak.

The widow of Edmund Rostand, whose fame is linked with that of Bernhardt, and the poet's son, Maurice Rostand, were at the bedside. Bernhardt's grandson, M. Grossa, brought in the first flowers into the death chamber—mauve and white lilies. Flowers came from many friends on the outside, and the room was soon heaped with large designs.

Bernhardt's last stage role, in Sacha Guitry's play "Un Sujet de Roman" was never filled. She insisted she would appear, but the doctors and her family interfered and prevented her last appearance. Her last appearance was in motion pictures made in her home which remains unfinished. Three score and one years on the stage did not fill her life. She found time to be poet, novelist, painter and sculptor, yet seemed never too busy to see her many friends and always seeking something more to do.

TWO BOLD, BAD PRISONERS IN FEDERAL HOSPITAL PEN SAWED WAY TO FREEDOM

TWO THEORIES ARE FORMED ON MURDER OF DOROTHY KEENAN AND LETTER FORMS THE BACKGROUND

OF DOROTHY KEENAN AND LETTER FORMS THE BACKGROUND

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, March 27.—Two theories formed the background of today's police investigation of the murder of Dorothy Keenan. The first was that a man intent on blackmailing had chloroformed Miss Keenan to obtain an engineering letter written to her from Palm Beach by John Kearsley Mitchell, a prominent Philadelphian. The second was that a robber entered her apartment and chloroformed her to get her jewels and escaped with the loot, ignorant of the fact that he had murdered the woman.

Assistant District Attorney Pecora and Police Inspector Caughlin joined in the active search for Draper M. Daugherty, only son of Attorney General Daugherty, to question him concerning reports he was friendly with Dorothy Keenan, the murdered model, and that he might know of a blackmailing ring using her as a decoy.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—J. Kearsley Mitchell, the Philadelphia millionaire who was the mysterious "Mr. Marshall" of the Keenan murder case in New York met his wife here early today for their first interview since his connection with the case became known. The meeting took place at the Union station upon the arrival of Mrs. Mitchell from Florida in a private car of her father, E. T. Stotesbury. As Mitchell came up the steps of the car she appeared in the doorway and held out her hands to him. They then disappeared inside the car which later in the day was to resume the journey northward.

NEW YORK, March 26.—It was today pointed out that if Daugherty is at Atlantic City as reported, he could not be compelled to come here to tell the story, but Caughlin declared he would be glad to listen to it.

Charley knows as much about theatres and the show business as any man on the road and after he had inspected the new Milane theatre and gone over the plans he said it was one of the best in the state for the size and that it would accommodate any road show that came to Florida. He also purchased some stock in the Milane and stated that he would be in Sanford early in the fall to put on a home minstrel and would be able to see all his old Sanford friends. Charley was for many years the premier comedian with Coburn's minstrels and has traveled all over the world with various aggregations.

KIDNAPPED MAN AND TOOK HIS AUTOMOBILE FROM HIM

REFUSED TO AID

Them and They Took Him On Street Car to City Limits of Atlanta

(By The Associated Press) ATLANTA, March 27.—Two prisoners confined in the hospital at the federal prison near here sawed their way to freedom early today, stopped at the home of H. W. Edwards, a railroad man in Lakewood Heights and when he refused to aid them to escape, they kidnapped him and brought him on a street car to the city, where they left the car and made an escape. Edwards broke away and jumped from the car before it reached the city. The escapes are said to be Frank Gray, serving five years for forgery and Gerald Chapman, serving twenty-five years for mail robbery.

GUY HAMMOCK ARRESTED IN KU KLUX CASE

KISSIMMEE, March 27.—Guy Hammock is at liberty under $1,000 bond, pending the action of the April term of the Osceola county grand jury, on charges preferred by Mrs. Metula Vockrodt and Mrs. Lela Strewing that he participated in an alleged Ku Klux Klan attack on Dr. W. L. Winn of St. Cloud, on Jan. 7, last.

The two women who preferred the charges against Hammock, accompanied Dr. Winn on the date mentioned, when he was summoned from Kissimmee to answer what proved to be a fake call.

At the time of the physician's party came upon an automobile which he recognized as being the one which had brought the call to him. He got out and walked toward the strange car and asked where to locate the sick person. According to his account of the affair, he was jumped on, thrown into the car, bound and gagged and escorted to a point some miles away near the Kissimmee-Orlando highway where he was cruelly beaten.

At the time of the attack the women in Winn's car are said to have been restrained from interfering, by a revolver pointed at them by one of the gang. When the alleged klansmen drove off, followed by another car, which had come up during the mixup, they took with them the key to Winn's car, thus forestalling any attempt on the part of his companions, to summon help.

In the car with Winn and the two women, were an aged veteran of the war between the states, and a young boy.

member of President Hardings' party, who had just landed by airplane, having been dispatched by the president from the Indian river to express his greeting to the Rotarians. The president, according to Carmack, is indignant because he has been "virtually imprisoned" on the East Coast and because he has had too much rest "and a poor variety of that." He communicated that he had made every effort to escape and come to this side of the state, where there is "something doing"—but promised to elude his captors and come next winter.

Fred Turner as "Father Time" and Dave Cook as the "Spirit of Rotary" put on a novel and snappy dialogue that kept the auditors applauding and laughing. They touched on subjects of interest to Rotarians and made a number of distinct hits, especially in their reference to the "bicycle paths" that serve as roads in Pinellas, the growth of Tampa and St. Petersburg, the Gandy Bridge, Mayor Pulver, Kendrick Guernsey and Russell Tarr. Turner wore a complete "Father Time" make-up, including a scythe.

E. D. Lambright gave the only serious feature of the program, a brief address on Rotary precept and performance.

The music at the luncheon was exceptionally good. Mrs. Russell Tarr, wife of the president of the Tampa Club, sang two solos and received an ovation from the assembled Rotarians. Two quartettes, both furnished by St. Petersburg, and a St. Petersburg soloist gave appreciated selections. The parodies of Rotary songs, one "Blowing Bubbles," the other "McDonald's Farm" written by Mrs. Ralph Martin of this city, proved winners with the crowd. The latter parody dealt with the Gandy bridge, "Old Man Gandy" taking the place of "Old McDonald" in the song. By special invitation, Mr. Gandy was present at the luncheon and greatly enjoyed the song and the other allusions to himself and his enterprise.

Mrs. Frank Jackson accompanied the Tampa committee, which motored to St. Petersburg in the morning. A number of Tampans attended the Tampa luncheon, but the majority of them were assigned to other luncheons.

One of the hits of the "Father Time" stunt was when Fred Turner said that the Tampa president's first name is Russell, his middle name "Hustle" and that the "Tarr" was put in to stick the two other names together.

The Tampa committee received many congratulations on its program.

OUR WEEKLY CITRUS REVIEW

ORLANDO, March 26.—The weekly citrus review by F. L. Skelly as issued from the office of the American Fruit Growers, Inc., says:

The cold snap at the beginning of the week which missed Florida probably will exert a favorable influence on the citrus situation. Reports are that strawberries and some early fruits in many sections outside of Florida were given a severe setback. They therefore will not be felt in to the extent which otherwise might be expected.

Oranges—While there was some slackening in inquiry, orange prices continued steady and firm throughout the week, exceptionally good prices being paid for very good fruit in the markets. A further advance on good stock is anticipated.

Grapefruit—The effect of the very heavy shipments of the previous two weeks has been very manifest this last week. The market has been dull and listless with very light inquiry and small demand. The evident accumulation of supplies has halted an upward turn in price which properly should have been left about this time. In view of the continuing heavy shipments there is no immediate prospect of betterment. In spite of this accumulation the market has continued steady; and with any noticeable reduction in the volume of outgoing shipments the market will probably show considerable responsiveness.

Apparently it is going to be necessary to revise figures as to the grapefruit crop remaining for shipment. Heavy drop in some sections during the last two weeks, and the quantity of grapefruit being utilized by canning must be considered. Few realize the extent to which the canning industry has grown since Mr. Ralph Polk produced the first canned grapefruit in Miami in 1921. The largest company in this business, operating three plants, advise that they alone will use this season something in excess of 250,000 field boxes of grapefruit. If it is estimated that all the other canneries combined will use an additional 100,000 boxes, it is apparent we must deduct 250,000 boxes from the estimated amount of grapefruit remaining on the trees. The dropage is more difficult to figure, but should be taken into consideration.

Chic Acosta, of Jacksonville, has the right name.

And next week we believe the legislature starts "working."

And then we can look for some laws to be fearfully and wonderfully made.

That sailor who drowned in the St. Johns river because he could not swim must have been the boy who was taught "not to go near the water."

Statement by figure shark says that internal revenue figures show prosperity is now here. We want to think so but there is some Christian Science in the deal somewhere.

Orlando is about to take in some new territory and the new lines north will go to the city limits of Winter Park. Greater Orlando will then contain 3,000 more people, making 3,150 in all.

Sanford wants high class entertainment. There is nothing in the same class with the Redpath Chautauqua. Beginning next Saturday the Chautauqua will play five days and nights in Sanford. Are you willing to help put it over this year or do you really mean what you say when you talk about better plays, better entertainment, something good for the children?

If Sanford could have the benefit of a big loan and investment company that would loan people money to build houses and loan them at a rate of interest that a poor man could pay this city would have at least five hundred new homes started this summer. Sanford will never grow until the people have houses in which to live. Hundreds of them leave here during the reason because they cannot find houses in which to live.

BUILD THE LIBRARY

For several months the money for the new library building has been available. Many wanted the building to be placed in Central park because it was centrally located and because the land would not cost anything thus giving the $15,000 for the building and the money in the hands of the library association for the equipment of the building could have been spent for the best equipment that money could buy. From many viewpoints this was really the best thing to do but the law plainly says this building could not be placed in the parks and whether the law so stated or not the people living in the proximity of the parks said they would enjoin the city from placing the building in the park and they could have tied up the building for several years. Everyone has a right to his own opinion and the Herald has always granted him that right. We have nothing to say about the location of the library in the parks because we take what the law says to be the last word. Now the question has been for the last four weeks or more as to where the library could be placed and this like all other questions brought out many ideas. A central location in the city will cost more than the library association has to spend on a lot or two lots. The matter was brought to the attention of the Chamber of Commerce and the Chamber of Commerce has been trying to give its offices the result of untangling the skein of doubt and uncertainty and various views on the subject. Yesterday a committee from the Chamber of Commerce appeared before the City Commissioners and asked them to select two lots within the price of the library association and to ask the Library association to take this selection and start the building at once. The Herald hopes that the association will take the location, buy the lots and let the work of erecting the new building start at once. There is not a location in the city that will suit everyone. It is better to suit the majority and let it go at that. It is better to start the building and put this bond money into circulation than to have any more useless arguments on the matter and keep the bond money tied up. The people voted $15,000 for a library building and the people want it built at some central location. On Park avenue and 13th street are two lots that have been chosen and while they are not central now as far as the business location is concerned, they will soon be in the center of the growing city of Sanford and they are in a part of the city that is free from the heavy automobile traffic, free from the commercial traffic and business and in a position that we think will prove very satisfactory in the years to come.

And in the name of peace and harmony and a Greater Sanford the Herald asks that all parties be satisfied with the location and get the building started and get to something else in the line of building a bigger and better Sanford. Let's Go!

HIGH CLASS ENTERTAINMENT NEEDS SUPPORT

We wish to call attention to the week of splendid entertainment which is offered the people of Lakeland thru the Redpath Chautauqua programs which start here tomorrow afternoon. They are of the highest order, both in musical and lecture events and the opportunity offered is one that should be appreciated and well supported. There is too much trash and light entertainment given the public today and not enough of the solid and real uplifting kind and the support given programs of merit such as this one, is an index as to the calibre and consistency of the general attitude toward the better lines of entertainment.

Lakeland is especially appreciative of these lines of entertainment, although they could give them better support but people here believe in backing up any movement that has for its purpose the general uplift of the community, the elimination of self or the idea of doing a locality for private gain or money-making schemes. Public programs with high class entertainment and music should be supported and we believe that Lakeland will show its appreciation of the chautauqua this week by a good attendance at every program. —Lakeland Star-Telegram.

A REAL NEWS SERVICE

The Associated Press leases from the telegraph companies more than 82,000 miles of wire, enough to reach around the globe more than three times. Nearly 1,000 telegraph operators are used in transmitting and receiving the news in the newspaper offices of America. Seventy central offices are maintained where the news is centralized and then sent out to the Associated Press papers.

More than 1,600 employees are used in gathering the news of the world, not including the thousands of employees of Associated Press newspapers who are required to report all important news events in their locality.

Nearly two thousand daily newspapers are members of the Associated Press and are a part of its news gathering force, the Associated Press being a co-operative organization in which all members must share news with other members.

The Associated Press has grown at a wonderful rate in the past few years, its increase mileage of telegraph wires alone amounting to 70 per cent in seven years.

The Associated Press is by far the greatest news gathering organization in the world, and no other organization can give service even remotely comparing with it. The Morning Journal is proud of its exclusive Daytona membership in this great organization. —Daytona Journal.

WHY UHLANIZE FLORIDA

Of the multitude of bills to be presented at the next session of the legislature, there is one which should be given careful forethought by all the legislators. We refer to the Buckman Bill for the establishment of a Mounted Rural State Constabulary.

The printed copy of this bill has recently been received from the Florida Development Board, and we note, upon reference to the purposes, as em-

JUST KIDS—Horrors of Warfare

stabulary shall be employed primarily in the furnishing of adequate police protection to the inhabitants of the rural sections of the state for the greater security of their persons and property. The bill further elaborates that the duties of the members of the Constabulary are similar to other peace officers of the state, and in addition to the factor for the prevention of crime, they will have the authority to execute any lawful warrant against violators of the law, and will be able to make arrests without warrant for any violations of the law committed or admitted in their presence. They will also be expected to give first aid to the injured, to render succor to the helpless, although this clause is rather indefinite as to the nature or relief to be rendered, and will also have the same powers and authority as those now possessed by municipal police. The ramifications of their duties, as provided in the proposed bill, are very general, but the specific purpose for which the author of the bill intends it being used is to afford police protection to the rural communities.

The question naturally arises, what motive prompted such a bill being drawn in the first place, and is crime in our rural communities so rampant as to necessitate the state maintaining a force of constabulary, or does the author of the bill believe that the creation of such a force would prove to the country that Florida can secure a certain amount of publicity by organizing a force of state constabulary?

An investigation of conditions in those states where state troops have been organized show that there was an actual need for them. This need was caused principally by the large alien population, a greater percentage of which is notoriously criminal, or continually fomenting trouble in the large industrial sections. This is especially true in the case of Pennsylvania, where state troops are considered vitally necessary to the preservation of peace. They have performed admirably in the coal mining sections, and the large steel and industrial centers of that state during the labor troubles of past years. They are recognized by the citizens of the state as the bulwarks between the treacherous tide of radical movements and the firm ground of recognized authority.

The Northwest is another section of the country where mounted constabulary are considered indispensable. This section has long been the refuge for fugitives from justice, who have taken advantage of the vastness of that section for refuge. The Texas Rangers were also organized when the need for them was apparent, and New York state, with its large alien population, has, in recent years, organized a body of state constabulary which has been doing excellent duty during crucial times in the industrial sections.

In Florida no such conditions exist. It would be a gross misrepresentation to claim that crime is rampant in this state, and our present county and municipal officers empowered to afford protection are unable to cope with it. No such conditions exist as they do in the states farther north. Florida has no large alien population, neither is it a refuge for law breakers. A great deal of the unrest in the country is due to too much espionage, and our much vaunted freedom is fast becoming mythical. The real Anglo-Saxon resents any attempt to deprive him of any portion of his liberty and has always proven that he excels any other race in self-government. It is gratifying to note that south of the Mason-Dixon line where the Anglo-Saxon strain is perhaps purer than in any other section of the country, it has never been thought necessary to organize state constabulary, with the from foreign renegades made such an organization necessary. Neither the urban or rural population need an organization of state troops to protect them from criminals within or without, and we feel confident that the members of the legislature will put greased skids under the proposed bill, which in addition to creating a further objectionable organization, would saddle on the tax-payers neck the sum of $700,000.00 for their two years maintenance. Native and adopted Floridians will not stand for the sunshine state being Uhlvanized.

DID SOME ONE GET NUMBERS MIXED?

Somebody apparently got their dates mixed counting heads on Orange avenue Saturday. Two counts were kept of the number of persons passing corners within a given time. One counter sat at the Yowell-Drew corner. This was G. H. A. Fisk, who tallied 22,482 as passing the sidewalk intersection between eight o'clock a. m. and ten o'clock p. m.

At the same time there was another count being kept on the part of the White House candy kitchen, the corner of Church street and Orange avenue. The total at this point was 28,415.

Comment on the divergence of the figures was to the effect that some mistake had been made; that a difference of thirty thousand people as between the two prominent corners of the city was hardly likely.

The Yowell-Drew count was made at the suggestion of S. K. Guernsey, of the chamber of commerce. The Church street and the avenue count was tallied by representatives of the J. D. Palfrey, of the candy kitchen. —Orlando Reporter-Star.

If you leave it to Ralph Doble or Ed Mendon of the Winter Park Herald, they would probably say there is an open sewer in that block and the thirty thousand people disappeared there. Since we did not miss thirty thousand people from Sanford Saturday we are quite sure they were not Sanford people. Probably from Pinecastle or Conway of Taft.

FROM OTHER SANCTUMS

THERE IS NO MIDDLE COURSE

Nine bills have already been prepared for introduction in the legislature to strengthen prohibition enforcement in this state. Several others are contemplated.

One may be certain that if anything is done to amend the prohibition laws it will be in the direction of better enforcement. It is the same with other improvements in our social laws. There was the time when it was an exceptional city that refused to become a legal partner with vice by issuing licenses of the underworld to ply their trades. Today there is not a single city in the United States that gives official sanction to a red-light district.

Prohibition is here to stay. Saloons and restricted districts are forever gone. These are facts, not theories. It will be well for politicians as well as citizens generally to accept the conditions as they are.

And yet the wets are desperately trying to push the old saloon door wide open. An evidence of their desperate efforts as well as their gigantic field of operation is found in the "counterfeit internationalism" which is being exerted to win a victory any where in the world. Spain is the "weak sister" and is being used as most weak sisters usually are. She is being subsidized by those interested in foisting the saloon back onto the American people, to whip Norway and Iceland out of the light wines and beer class back into the hard liquor class.

As everyone knows, Norway and Iceland are chiefly dependent upon their fisheries for their prosperity. Spain is one of their largest customers. "Keep your eyes on the hat, ladies and gentlemen, here is where the black magic comes." Some time ago Spain notified both Iceland and Norway that unless they would modify their prohibition laws so as to admit Spanish wines with an alcoholic content up to 21 per cent, all commercial treaties with them would be renounced and their exports taxed to the point of being barred. Iceland yielded after a brief struggle. Norway held out until a few weeks ago when she yielded to "the necessities of the situation." The attack is now being directed against Denmark, while in Germany the liquor interests under the direction of Dr. Neumann, of Berne, have for some time been organized in an effort to fight against prohibition throughout Europe.

Americans who are fearful of the dark ways of the Old World diplomacy need not be particularly proud of this fling in "internationalism" which American brewers and distillers are taking in European affairs. It is a fair sample of their methods.

As stupid as they are vicious, they think they have the Americans fooled with their light wines and beer talk. We all know the twaddle: "Give us back light wines and beer and the whole American problem is solved; smuggling, bootlegging, the private still and the rum fleet will all be things of the past, and the whole nation will return to the ways of righteousness under the benignant influence of 'mild liquor.'" It is enough to make a horse laugh.

Banking on the remoteness (exploded myth) of Europe or on a low average of intelligence among Americans, they are playing well ahead of their game in Norway. While arguing for light wines and beer here, they conveniently forget the fact that Norway presents a dismal failure of "light wines and beer" according to their own showing. When in October of 1919 Norway converted her war-time prohibition into a peace-time enactment, she fixed the alcoholic content of liquors that could be legally sold at 12 per cent. When the liquor fores content with 12 per cent? Not on your life! She was promptly forced by Spain to admit liquor of an alcoholic content of 21 per cent while her shores, according to the laws' catefully disseminated by the liquor ring, are beset by rum fleets beside which these lying off the Atlantic seaboard of the United States are mere flotillas.

The only difference, aside from the size of the booze armadas, between the Norwegian and the American situations is that here we are bombarded with the insistence that the siege would be lifted immediately, if only light wines and beer are permitted, whereas in Norway where light wines and beer have flowed in ever-increasing extent for the last three years, the demand is for complete abrogation of the prohibition law.

There is no middle course between booze or no booze. —Jacksonville Journal.

Guard Put Under Arrest on Charge of Brutal Killing

(By The Associated Press)
TALLAHASSEE, March 26.—Walter Higginbotham, private convict guard, has been arrested and is held in custody in Dixie county charged with first degree murder in connection with the death early in 1921 of Martin Tabert, of Munich, N. Dak., according to a telegram to the Associated Press from State's Attorney J. R. Kelly.

Higginbotham was arrested upon an affidavit sworn out by the state's attorney who acted in lieu of grand jury action, it is understood, when it was learned that Tabert had died in Dixie county instead of Taylor county, and that the circuit court for Dixie county had already held its spring term without having the case on its docket.

Higginbotham was employed by the Putnam Lumber company of Perry, Fla., and was charged in affidavit given by a North Dakota attorney as having brutally flogged John Tabert and caused his death. Tabert was serving under lease to the lumber company after having been sentenced in Leon county to two months imprisonment for vagrancy.

Public attention was focused on the Tabert case a couple of months ago, approximately a year after its occurrence. An investigation had been conducted in the meantime by an attorney from North Dakota.

NEW CLUE TURNS UP IN DOROTHY KEENAN MURDER

Detectives Searching for $1,000 Liberty Bond;

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, March 27.—A $1,000 liberty bond and a valuable jade bracelet, gifts of John Kearsley Mitchell, wealthy Philadelphia club man, to Dorothy Keenan, "blain model, set detectives on a new trail, and offered a new clue to the slayer last night. The bond and bracelet, as well as several hundred dollars in cash, were given the model by Mitchell on his visit to her apartment March 14, but were missing when her body was found the next day, authorities said.

Detectives were concentrating their efforts in tracing the bond which Miss Keenan was known to have had the night she was murdered. Her jewels, valued at several thousand dollars, also were taken by the slayer and were being traced through pawn shops and fences.

Details of a plot to shake down Mitchell for $50,000 as the price for silence concerning his relations with Miss Keenan, were revealed by Assistant District Attorney Pecora.

Miss Keenan, he said, had been approached a few days before her murder, and an attempt was made to enlist her aid in the conspiracy.

The plotters, whose identity was unknown, and who was said to have had confederates, sought to obtain the letters Mitchell had written the model, Mr. Pecora said. Whether Miss Keenan refused to be a party to the blackmail scheme and was slain by the conspirator through fear that she would reveal the plan to Mitchell, has not been definitely established.

The possibility also was advanced that the model had demanded too large a share of the "hush" money.

Mitchell, Mr. Pecora continued, knew but little of Miss Keenan's mode of living, and did not know until her murder, of Albert Guimares, the "man in the fur coat." The model had told him, it was said, that she was employed in a dress making establishment.

The Philadelphia clubman, Mr. Pecora said, had written but few letters to Miss Keenan, and none of these was couched in excessively endearing terms.

Permission had been readily granted Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Pecora said, to leave the state in order to join his family.

Frederick E. Goldsmith, attorney for Guimares, said Guimares had spent "three times more on Miss Keenan last year, than had Mitchell." He said his client had lavished "between $60,000 and $70,000" on the model, and was now practically destitute.

Guimares, he continued, did not know of Mitchell's existence until after the murder, and had never seen him in the guise of "Marshall" or otherwise.

Redpath Chautauqua Begins Saturday Night With Fine Program

Any One Number on Program Worth Price of General Admission Ticket

The best good thing that comes to Sanford is the Redpath Chautauqua, sponsored by the Sanford Chautauqua Association.

These Chautauques are as entertaining as they are instructive. They serve a very excellent purpose in our civic life and should have the unflinching support of our people.

The program as scheduled for this season, includes addresses by some of the country's most famous Chautauqua speakers and many interesting musical attractions will also be presented. The famous comedy drama,

"Turn to the Right" on the second night will be staged by an entirely New York professional cast.

To bring an organization of this kind inevitably entails not only great responsibility in a financial way but also tremendous work, which has been shouldered by the busy members of the association. It is urged that the public support this enterprise in a fitting manner, for it is of a great educational value and an inspiration to any community.

...MAGIC NAMES...

The influence of advertising is apparent in every turn of my daily life. I find I cannot disregard it. It is always with me, guiding me in my pleasures and in my duties, telling me what I should eat, wear, and use and what I should buy for my family.

I find that there is on the tip of my tongue a multitude of names the mention of which will bring from some shelf nearly everything that I can use in my daily life and in the daily life of my family.

In every instance that name means a very definite promise and assurance of something substantial and which will make me feel completely satisfied about having exchanged my money for it.

Let me say a few things which these names—these old friends of the newspaper and magazine pages—mean to me.

They mean good taste. For certainly I desire to do the thing that I believe discriminating people have judged best.

They mean convenience. It is not necessary to describe the thing I want. Even the most intimate articles may be purchased without embarrassment since the advertisers have given us handy names.

They mean assurance in shopping. There is no indecision. Even before I enter the shop I know what I want to buy.

And certainly they mean satisfaction. For the advertiser whose product is not good cannot continue to advertise. The fact that I have seen a name repeated over and over again assures me that it stands for a product of quality. In speaking that name to the clerk I know I am asking for the best.

I am a more judicious shopper because I buy advertised goods. I patronize the shop that sells them.

WHY MEN BECOME CANNIBALS

Writer Asserts Cause Is Natural Craving for Meat Where There Is a Scant Supply.

Why does man become a cannibal? Mr. W. D. M. Bell, a contributor to "Country Life," thinks that the cause is constant craving for meat in a land where mostly grain abounds.

When they inhabit a stockless area, he says, they go for months without flesh, except of course for an occasional rat, mongoose or bird.

When the people suddenly have almost unlimited meat, as they do have when they kill an elephant or a hippopotamus, they simply gorge themselves.

If, as with the elephant, there is much fat with the meat, the natives are likely to become extremely fit on that diet. For example, for sixty-three days of consecutive marching a kilangoli, or head porter, of mine who was of slight build carried his mat, his blanket, fifteen pounds of rations and a tusk that weighed one hundred and forty-eight pounds!

LAMENTS CHANGE IN FASHION

Captain Dingle Says Paris Dress Craze Has Hit South Sea Island Femininity, Too.

Capt. Charles Dingle of the freighter Bay Port, which arrived in Port Newark from Hawaii and the South Sea Islands, brought a dismal tale of the ravages of fashion in those once guileless and innocent regions.

Even Lucky Bill Fanning, optimist that he is, joined in the threnody. It was enough to make an old-time sailorman shed tears, he said, to see the girls all wadded up in straw and moss like that.

Loss Would Be Irreparable

There is much curiosity and anxiety to know what has become of the famous Codex Bezae Cantabrigiae, which was, before the Russian revolution, in the Imperial library at Petrograd.

More than the loss of the jewels of the last Russian dynasty its destruction would be an irreparable act, even though there is another similar document, known as the "Vaticanus," an uncial manuscript of the Fourth century, found by Tischendorf in 1844 in the same monastery.

Economic Error.

New Jersey's forests are being burned up at the rate of 70,000 acres a year, which means not only that her area of growing forests is being reduced annually to that extent, but that land which should become a public asset of great value is being converted into a public liability of unacceptably and embarrassing proportions.

When Merchants Coined Own Money.

The action of the German government in allowing certain firms to print their own money in small denominations recalls a somewhat similar state of affairs in the early years of George III in England.

In those days the amount of copper coin in circulation was inadequate, and tradesmen all over the country issued tokens of their own which attained almost equal standing with the royal coinage.

JOHNNY JONES EXPOSITION OPENED LAST NIGHT FOR WEEK'S ENGAGEMENT HERE Bunch of Good Attractions Brings Out Big Crowd on Opening Night

Johnny J. Jones' Exposition opened from where we sat, the old folks had a lot more fun than the kiddies. Those who follow the show business, or even give it a thought, have heard of the splendid reputation of the Jones outfit, and it is not the brought-and-paid-for linge of the press agent.

The Johnny J. Jones' own band provides the best of music of the free acts there is no doubt in the world but what, for the love of Mike, would we do without the Joy Plaza. Where would we tollown mortals be without the Jovial, dazzling, tinselled, jazzy joy plaza composed of the wonderful attractions of Johnny J. Jones?

What is it when even the sturdiest old stager enters the fair grounds, that makes him hold his head a little higher, prick up his ears and quicken his pace. Nothing more than the burst of harmonious discovery that breaks upon his ears from the Joy Plaza. When he can hear the sound of the hoarse voice of the perspiring showman roaring through his megaphone the wiled howls of the wild man, the clash of cymbals, the deep rum-a-dum-dub of the merry-go-round, the shouts of the lemonade seller, the earnest exhortations of the hot dog man, the impassioned appeal of the artist with the balloons and whips, the seductive tones of the lady with four rings for a dime—when he hears all these things, he becomes young again, and promises himself a couple of hours on the Joy Plaza.

That well known "When-you-see-one-you-see-'em-all" remark they apply to carnivals and circuses and the age-in-the-wood alibi, "I went to take the children" offered by the grown-ups when they are retreating to see the show—neither of these are applicable to the Johnny J. Jones Exposition that is among the big reasons for attending the Lee County Fair.

You may have seen lots of carnivals, and circuses, but you never saw one just like the Johnny J. Jones Exposition. If you wish to peevish Ed. R. Salter refer to the Jones caravan as a carnival. You don't need to refer to the old alibi either, for the fun there is for old and young alike, and snappy and clever and they go thru their saunts without the usual hesitation and urging on the part of Capt. James Dooley, their trainer. Here, too are to be found Jimmy and Harry, two trained dogs that amuse everyone, and make the youngsters shout with glee.

As Ed. R. Salter remarked, "If she can do that with mules, think of the way she'd manage a husband"—referring to Mabel Mack and her military maneuvering mules. She makes the stubborn "critters" do some didos that would confuse the average person.

Mary Mack's wild west combing with Col. Dunn's 110 Texas Ranch give almost realistic performance depicting early days on the frontier borders of the wild and woolly west.

With this show too is Jimmy Foster, who wilds a larint in a way that would make Tom Mix look like Jack Dempsey and his gang rope. Alice Foster displays her skill as a trainer with her horse, Janie.

Johnny J. Jones Big Circus sideshow captivates a wonderful collection of curiosities, but to the credit of Johnny J. Jones, he said there is not a single human monstrosity exhibited within the large enclosure.

Nine, the seventh daughter of a seventh daughter is in the same show, and there's nothing spooky about her mind reading, but take our word for it, she is clever. She told us the month we were born in, and the date but thank Heaven she didn't mention the year. It must be remembered that the admission to this tent includes a number of smaller exhibits, such as these: The fire eaters, the tattooer, the disappearing lady and a number of others.

There is the water spectacle, where there are a dozen good looking girls, who all do some clever diving stunts. Here, too, the performance is wholesome from the beginning to the end, offering thoroughly high class entertainment without the suggestion of a single objectionable feature.

Ancient Pillars Support Flapping Refugee Bags; American Red Cross Aids

Between the pillars of the Temple of Theseus, in Athens, said to be the most perfectly preserved of all the beautiful edifices erected by the ancients, Greek and Armenian refugees cook and wash and hang their clothes to dry.

The American Red Cross has accepted full responsibility on behalf of American charity for aiding in the refugee emergency. Out of its disaster emergency fund the organization has purchased $2,000,000 worth of food, medicine, blankets and other supplies and sent them to Greece.

A staff of experienced American executives is handling the distribution of America's gift through the Red Cross to the stricken refugees. American doctors, using Red Cross supplies, have thrown a sanitary cordon around the port towns and have successfully ward off the invasion of cholera, typhus and smallpox that menaced all Greece.

Judge John Barton Payne, Chairman of the American Red Cross, has put the entire Greek program under the direction of Colonel William N. Haskell, who gained a world reputation for efficient administration of the American Relief Administration program in Russia and other great American charitable efforts.

being aided, that actual suffering has therefore been virtually obliterated and that the problem will rapidly resolve itself into one of permanent solution rather than charity.

FABLE OF THE SELF-IMPORTANT GUY Once upon a time a youth answering to the nomenclature of Alfred received his sheepskin, and looked about him to determine what business house he would sell his valuable services to.

He, after much deliberation, decided he would become a great figure in the world of finance and he connected himself with a joint in Wall street. He was full of Wim, Wigor and Witally and had a great urge to make his mark in the world and as a consequence he soon became valuable to the man who paid his wages. "In the course of time, or possibly a little sooner, he was given a more responsible job, and he began to think he was pretty good.

EDY THE LURE OF OFFICE As was to be expected, President Harding, in reference to the movement to renominate him, remarks that he has a lot of work to do for the public between now and 1924 and that his thoughts must be centered on that rather than on a campaign to succeed himself.

Whereas at one time the office staff had been pleased to see Alfred around the place, they now, one and all voted him a snob of the first water, and emphatically hoped that he would pull a lever, so that the big guy would hang the old tin can to him, pronto.

It was about this time that Alfred was taken very ill. Too much work, and not enough recreation, the sawbones said. One morning the office force was relieved to hear the news that their dear Alfred wouldn't be with the mfor a few days.

Of course Alfred finally got better, else we wouldn't have any moral to hitch to this tale, nor would Alfred have learned a lot of things about himself of which he was ignorant.

All the way he had pictured in his mind's eye the joyful reception he would get from all and sundry. Great disillusionment awaited him. The big guy merely hoped that the youth was feeling better and told him to take as much time off as he needed before putting on the old harness again. In surprise, Alfred looked about expecting to see some evidence of the havoc that he felt sure must have resulted from his inforced absence. But lo and behold, there was no havoc, not a speck. Things were booming, and he suddenly realized that he was not such a much in the scheme of affairs after all.

COMMUNISTS WERE MEETING LAST WEEK

EVIDENCE IN TRIAL OF FOSTER SHOWS REDS ARE WORKING

By The Associated Press ST. JOSEPH, Mich., March 27.—The Communist party of America was meeting and functioning as a party organization and discussing its legal activities as late as a week ago Sunday, according to evidence produced by the state yesterday in the trial of William Z. Foster, charged with violating the criminal syndicalism law of Michigan.

Attacking the claim of Charles E. Ruthenberg, a defense witness, and co-defendant with Foster, that the communist party had passed out of existence last January, merging its identity with the labor workers party, the prosecution, on cross examination won an admission that Ruthenberg had attended a communist gathering in New York, Sunday, March 18. Reading from the report of a government agent, who also was at the meeting, Charles Greer, prosecutor recited the alleged events at the New York meeting and in most of the essential details, the witness agreed the account was correct.

Ruthenberg admitted he and another member of the central executive committee of the workers party who used the alias of Pepper, was present, and that Pepper delivered a long speech in German which Ruthenberg translated. He admitted that Pepper stated the reason why the communist international in Moscow had ordered the communists in this country to come out in the open, and that the reason advanced was because the political situation had changed since the election of men classed as liberals to important offices, including congress.

The report of the unnamed government agent who attended the meeting said the speech was followed by a general discussion in which Ruthenberg answered questions. He stated as follows, the department of justice agents report recited: "The apparatus of the communist party of America will consist of a very confidential committee which will direct all illegal work such as sending men into the American Legion, the Ku Klux Klan, the army and the navy and in case of an uprising getting arms and distributing them also to get people to distribute illegal literature and to do the general work of the party."

Ruthenberg denied the statement representing what he had actually said. Ruthenberg admitted he had been elected as a delegate from the meeting to a district convention but said he had not attended the latter.

Efforts of the state to get Ruthenberg to admit that the communist party had issued orders forbidding its members to testify for the government in any court of law were unsuccessful.

Clermont to be a "City Beautiful" At the last weekly meeting of the Clermont Business Men's association, much time and discussion were given to plans for the building of a symmetrical, harmonious and beautiful city, utilizing to the greatest extent possible, all the splendid natural advantages of hill, vale and lake which this progressive little Lake County city enjoys.

At this meeting, the enthusiasm and interest reached heights almost unprecedented for a city the size of Clermont, when it was moved and carried that either Warren H. Manning or John Nolan—America's foremost city engineers—be employed to make the proper survey of the city and lay out a fitting economic plan for Clermont's future.

Before the meeting adjourned descriptions were voluntarily made towards the necessary funds, and Dr. O. I. Woodley was appointed chairman of a committee to raise the remainder of the amount required to engage the engineer of high standing of either of those contemplated.

Needless to say, this is an almost unparalleled movement and indicating the courage and confidence of the people in the assured growth and beautification of Clermont. The industrial section, playgrounds, parks, residential section—everything essential to an ideally planned city—will be taken into consideration.

The scenic Tavares-To-Tampa automobile highway, soon to be dedicated, will pass through Clermont.

Boxing Invades
 Ball Parks and Hurts Business

NEW YORK, March 27. With the two New York ball clubs engaged in a polite form of business throat cutting in the promotion of boxing bouts at the rustic tree fields, it will be interesting to note the effect on baseball in general and the 11 other major league clubs in particular. The Willard-Johnson bout, for example, with Luis Firpo on the same program, is scheduled for the afternoon of May 12 at the Yankee stadium.

Just how many customers will the Giants and Pirates attract to the Polo Grounds across the river on the same afternoon? The territories shall not tick that day.

The Giants' reply is the Killcumby Cup match for the featherweight championship, June 2, a bout they hope to put on in spite of edicts to the contrary by the boxing commission. If the affair is held the Yankees and their minor league guests of the day will suffer.

These are only two of an imposing list of championship and exhibition prize-fight bouts to be held at the ball parks during the outdoor season. Nearly all of them will be scheduled for Saturday and holiday afternoons, thus striking at the very heart of baseball revenues.

It becomes increasingly apparent, however, that this is of slight importance to the local management. Indeed, they are almost candid in leaving nothing to the imagination in this respect. Their plans are to be made to pay for themselves by being used for all sporting events capable of drawing huge crowds.

The new Yankee field will seat 65,000, according to specifications. The Giants' park, Chas. A. Stone has declared, will seat 45,000 persons for the opening game, 53,500 shortly thereafter, 45,000 for football and 42,000 for boxing. The inference is quite obvious when it is considered that the average attendance at local ball games is not more than seven thousand.

Baseball, therefore, has become a minor issue, except on special occasions such as Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

In consequence the important issue involves the lining up of as many important bouts as possible, for this not only will mean big money to the club so fortunate, but also will cut deeply into the rival receipts from baseball.

Gene Gaffney, Ex-Celery Fed May Play With Orlando Team

The Sanford fans will remember Gene Gaffney, first brought to the Florida State League by Jimmy Burns to play for the Sanford team, later becoming the league leader in hitting and all round good player and is now negotiating with Orlando for a berth on that team this season. Gene will make a very valued addition to the already strong Bull Dogs and the Orlando fans are hoping that he and Burke will come to terms. The Orlando Sentinel says:

Gene Gaffney, heavy-hitting outfielder, may play with the Bulldogs this year, it was learned yesterday. Gaffney and officers of the local baseball club are discussing terms and it is likely they will agree today or tomorrow.

This will be great news for the fans as Gaffney is not only one of the best ball players in the Cracker circuit, but is popular with the local baseball enthusiasts.

He spent the winter here and is anxious to play with the Bulldogs, not wanting to leave Orlando. It is understood that only a small item is in the way of salary agreement and the fans, at least, will be hoping that can be adjusted.

Addition of Gaffney to the club would give the Bulldogs a formidable trio of outfielders in the persons of Gaffney, Walter Hunter and Arthur Green, the promising St. Louis boy who got four hits in yesterday's game. Hunter is one of the best hitters in the league, Gaffney is a slugger of considerable reputation and a great man in the field and Green looks like a great running mate.

Gaffney is a class man, having played in a league of higher classification than the Florida circuit so in Ernie Burke and the two of them would be the limit for the Bulldogs. But Gaffney would round out the club so nicely that there would be no need for worry as to who could fill the breach. He would be a tower of strength in the outfield and fill a place that was always a weak spot last year and which probably kept the club from winning the pennant.

If Gene's services can be obtained for a reasonable amount it seems that the baseball club owes it to the fans to get him. Unless he signs a contract here he will play with Lakeland, where it is understood he has been guaranteed what he is asking here.

The fans will support a winning team and with Gaffney adding the winning touch to the outfield, supplementing the winning combination which is promised with the peppery outfield and strong pitching staff which Joe Tucker and Burke have controlled, a pennant chance would be assured.

OF COURSE DORIS WON OUT

What Was There for Mother to Say in the Face of Such an Argument?

They had been chatting since entering the bus, but the Woman, who sat opposite them on top, heard nothing really good until Grant's monument was reached. Without taxing her hearing in the least the Woman learned that they were former schoolmates at the university (for university days were mentioned again and again) who were revisiting the city after a number of years. "I don't think the girls of this century will ever stand for long skirts again," remarked the one in the green dress. "Reminds me of what Evelyn was telling me just before I came away. She was making a skirt for her daughter, Doris. Everything except the correct length had been decided upon. Evelyn wanted to make this a little longer than Doris' other skirts. She told her that the fashion was for increasing the length. But Doris was obstinate. "Evelyn, you know, generally lets her hair way in matters of dress, but this time she argued and Doris burst into tears. 'Be fair, mums,' she pleaded. 'Honest Injun, now which do you think I should take—the advice of one mother or of twenty girls?' " "And what happened?" "Oh, mother shortened the skirt, of course."—Exchange.

HISTORIC HOME FOR AMERICA?

Possibility That Dwelling in Which Miles Standish Was Born May Be Brought Here.

The hero of Longfellow's poem, "The Courtship of Miles Standish," was a real historical character, who was born in Lancashire, England, somewhere about 1554. It is now suggested that the house where he was born should be transported to New England. It is even said that within six months the four rooms of the Standish home now located in the parish of Standish, near Wigan, Lancashire, England, will be fitted into the house for some United States citizen whose family history goes back to Mayflower days. The Standish house has been occupied by the Standish family since the Norman conquest. One of the ancestral stately homes of England is just now being taken down and carried across the Atlantic to be set up stone by stone somewhere in the States. Now if history belonging to these ancient buildings could also be transferred to the United States, what a heap of renown that enterprising nation could collect and own?—Montreal Family Herald.

Reckless Was the Burglar.

A New York Chinaman made an urgent call to detective headquarters complaining that $500 had been stolen from him. The Chink, who conducts a restaurant, told the detectives he suspected a colored employee, stating he hid the money in his cellar, but could not locate it. A detective suggested a search of the cellar. The detectives made a careful survey, without results. As they turned to abandon their search, one of them noticed a small bundle of paper move across the cellar floor. Springing up on the object, he placed his foot full upon it. The bundle ceased to move, but its moving force—a husky rat—vanished into a nearby hole. Nine hundred dollars in bills was in the bundle, thus accidentally clearing up what might have been a baffling mystery.

Diplomatic Corps Cared For.

Other Washingtonians may shiver with the cold this winter, owing to the coal shortage, but the administration has seen to it that the 400 persons in the diplomatic corps will not suffer, owing to a lack of fuel. Many of the diplomats come from countries where artificial heat in homes is almost unknown and, indeed, unnecessary, and worried about their empty coal bins. The State department has given them precedence over others, thus emphasizing the entente cordiale. It is only in recent years that the English and the Scotch have known the comfort of steam heat, the sea coal fire, as they call it, burned in open grates, being the only method of heating their homes.—Washington Star.

Something He Can Teach Her.

"I simply couldn't teach my wife to drive the car. Gave it up and let somebody else do it." "Well?" "Same with bridge. She wouldn't listen to me at all. Hired a tutor for her." "Well?" "Dancing was another art we learned separately. Always wrangled when we tried the new steps together, but, at that, there's one thing she's willing to let me teach her." "What is that?" "She insists that I must teach her how to blow cigarette smoke through her nose."

Martens Raised in Captivity.

The raising of martens in captivity is now commercially possible as a result of the discovery of their breeding season by naturalists of the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. These valuable fur bearers mate late in July and in August, and appear to have a gestation period of eight months, much longer than most animals of the same group. It was formerly thought that their breeding season was in the fall or winter, the young being born in the spring.

CHINA DEMANDS GOOD ROADS

Oriental Country Awakes to the Necessity of Immediate Development of Its Highways.

A plea for good roads as a necessity for the proper development of China is made by the Oriental Motor of Shanghai, which began publication a year ago to encourage interest in motor use. Asking where the United States would have been if the good roads movement had not been earnestly supported throughout the country, the editor says: "Yet at this time of greatest development in the making of roads China lies dormant. If any nation in the world needs roads, good roads and national highways, it is China. Means of communication in the country are inadequate and medieval, transcontinental travel is only possible by water at the rim of the country, while the great heart of the nation is still inaccessible to any mode of transportation except the most primitive. "China can never become a nation until her roads are developed. With them the penetration of the interior, both for commerce and pleasure, would mean a few hours or a few days by motor. The people of the interior would be brought into touch daily with motors and motorists from all sections of the nation. They would begin to realize that there are parts of the country other than their own province and city, and the great veiling influence which would make China a nation united would begin."—New York Times.

UNWORTHY RULER OF ROME

History Accords Low Place to Commodus, Whom Fortune Capriciously Lifted to High Estate.

Commodus was a Roman emperor, notorious for his cruel and voluptuous character. He was endowed with extraordinary strength, and often appeared in imitation of Hercules, dressed in a lion's skin and armed with a club. To display his skill and strength he appeared publicly in the amphitheater. As his opponents were armed with weapons of tin or lead, while he was encased in impenetrable armor, he had naturally an easy victory on every occasion. For his amusement he cut up his victims, put out their eyes, and mutilated their noses, etc. Commodus was strangled by the gladiator Narcissus, who was hired to commit the deed by Marcia, the mistress of Commodus, who had plotted with members of his official family, to put him out of the way. When he died the senate declared him an enemy of the state, ordered his statues to be broken to pieces, and his name to be erased from all public inscriptions.—Detroit News.

Searching for Shock.

There are so many instances where speech and hearing have been restored by a severe shock that there is a general notion among deaf and dumb persons that their salvation rests in this direction. Consequently they are resorting to airplane trips as a means of restoring their faculties. The manager of the air station at Crofton, England, reports that he is besieged with requests from these afflicted persons who are hopeful that an experience in midair might supply the necessary shock. The parents of an afflicted child brought their offspring to the station and made a request that the child be taken aloft with the idea of possibly curing her, but aside from the tonic effect upon the child there was no other result. The child returned to the ground in a very happy frame of mind and was delighted with her experience. It has been suggested that the trip aloft does not have the desired effect for the reason that the various experiences in the air are more or less expected and therefore the element of suddenness and shock are lacking.

Warren Stories.

Warren is a Shelbyville boy five years old and fond of eating. One day he and another little boy were playing soldier, and were shooting both men and women, when Warren cried out: "Don't shoot the women, cause they do the cooking." Warren's father was telling about transacting some business matters with a woman and said: "She is so ignorant, she doesn't know anything." Warren looked up and said: "Reckon she knows how to cook, don't she?" One day Warren's nurse was ready to give him a bath. She called to him to come and he said: "Wait a minute." Again she asked why he didn't come and he replied: "I am trying to make my minute as long as mom's."—Indianapolis News.

Holland Restricts Flyers.

Flying regulations of the Netherlands government provide that the minimum altitude over closely inhabited areas is 400 meters (1,312 feet). All aircraft must always fly at such a height over towns or public gatherings as will permit of their landing outside of such areas in case of engine failure. No trick flying may be indulged in above closely inhabited areas or public gatherings.

Waste Paper Money.

A traveler recently returned from a trip through Austria had his cafe bill handed to him made out on the back of a ten-crown note. When the patron expressed his surprise at this unusual proceeding, the waiter told him that bank notes were cheaper than plain paper.

DOESN'T KNOW HOW TO LOVE

Gilbert Frankau Believes the Young Woman of Today is Not Capable of Self-Sacrifice.

You have to watch the modern dance to see the modern girl at her most self-revealing. Regard her carefully, this beplumed, bepowdered, be-manicured product of our hectic age, as she circles the ballroom. She dances emotionally, but her emotions are for the rhythm and the music, not for the more male, her partner. Even in a man's arms she is as nearly sexless as the ladies of the Lystrata. Gilbert Frankau writes in the Forum. Regarding her truth, one cannot help answering the question which stands at the head of this article in the most emphatic negative. No! Give her all her good qualities, her poise, her efficiency, her intelligence and you will still be forced to admit that—judging her superficially—the modern girl is not capable of a great and enduring love. To begin with, she is too selfish, too self-centered, too set on the pursuit of what she considers pleasure, to abandon herself to that self-sacrifice which is love at its best. And then, perhaps, she is too wise. Myself, I am and have always been, a strong supporter of the civil contract in matrimony. Matrimony, after all, is—however much sentimental, middle-aged fogies like myself may like to regard it as a pure love affair—a legal undertaking. And I think that it is high time for the young man of today to understand that his legal undertaking when he marries a self-supporting or an independent young woman is not confined purely and simply to housing her. The modern woman, you see, is something more than a mere domesticated pet. She requires her leisure, her pleasures and, more perhaps even than these, her full partnership rights.

STARLIGHT HEAT SPECTRUM

Scientist of Smithsonian Institution Explains How It May Be Determined.

By measuring a hundred millionth degree of temperature and a trillionth of an ampere of electric current, Dr. C. G. Abbot of the Smithsonian Institution has determined for the first time the heat spectrum of starlight, as he announced in an address at the Carnegie Institution of Washington. Working with the 100-inch telescope at Mount Wilson observatory this fall, Doctor Abbot measured the heat at different parts of the spectrum of ten stars and the sun. The rays were dispersed by a spectroscopic in a band similar to the rainbow.

The bright star Capella, which is very similar to our sun in its spectrum, was found to furnish the equivalent of one horsepower to an acre on the earth approximately equal to the state of Minnesota. But this prominent star is feeble compared with our sun, which is equal to a hundred billion Capellas and sends down on twenty square feet heat equal to a horsepower. On the whole earth Capella's heat equals 500 horsepower, and as all the stars together equal one-quarter million horsepower over the whole earth from the stars alone.

Scottish Estates Being Sold.

Enormous estates in Scotland are going under the hammer, due in many cases to the taxes that have followed the war. As many as 310 square miles of forests, grouse moors and farms, with salmon and trout fishing, whole rivers and lochs, islands and mountains, and comfortable houses are offered for sale at the present time, including a large part of the Caledonian forest. Yacht anchorages and sea fishing are plentiful.

The briefest statement of the game bags on some of the properties, and of the average takes of trout and salmon, brings into strong relief the fact that, like Scott's "Flannan haddock," the sporting thus indicated "has a relish of a very peculiar and delicate flavor," imitable elsewhere.

Going One Better.

One of the brightest "stars" in "The Island King" at the Adelphi theater is Nance Lovat. She sings and acts charmingly. I paid Miss Lovat a visit the other evening, and she asked me if I had "heard this one." I hadn't. "Two kiddies were engaged in a bragging match. "My mummy's gone to the shops to pay some bills," said Joon, proudly. "My mummy doesn't have to," sneered Doris. "The men come to the house for our." Here is another of Miss Lovat's stories. "George" murmured the girl, as she nestled close to him, "cigars are nothing but a habit." "Yes, and you've now broken one of my habits," said the young man, as he sadly withdrew the remains of a Havana from his pocket.—London Tit Bits.

Advertising Signs Barred.

Preventing the national forests in California from being defaced with advertising signs, an order recently issued by the district forester at San Francisco states that advertising signs in the 17 national forests of California must come down. Advertisements printed on rocks and trees are also to be effaced. According to the regulations of the forest service of the United States Department of Agriculture, such advertising is prohibited from all national forests without special permits, which are seldom issued.

Business Recovery Will Proceed, Says Harvard Prediction

CAMBRIDGE, March 26.—The recovery of business from the depression of 1921 has proceeded normally, in spite of the European settlement, and good business may be expected throughout 1923, according to a report made by the Harvard economic service today. The outlook for the remainder of this year is for further expansion of business, firm or higher commodity prices and firm or higher money rates, the Harvard economists predict. "The Harvard index of general manufacturing output increased from 28 per cent below normal in May, 1921, to 10 per cent above normal in January, 1923, normal being 75 to 80 per cent of capacity," says the report.

The burning brand from the open fire-place is another threat of fire.

The cozy log fire crackles merrily—a glowing ember pops out and sets the rug ablaze. The flames are beyond control before they are discovered. Just another little thing that causes disaster.

Insurance—adequate insurance against such a calamity is just plain good business. And a long century of loss paying has demonstrated that there is no sounder fire insurance than that offered by the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, represented by this agency.

Moving Pictures Made 25 Years Ago

Will Be Shown at the Princess Wednesday Night

Striking proof that the "movie" baby at last come into their own as invaluable records of history is contained in "The Mirror," a new screen novelty released by International News Reel Corporation through Universal Exchange. This proof consists of extraordinary motion pictures of the 1867 inauguration of William McKinley as president of the United States. This film made a quarter of a century ago.

It has already been felt that motion pictures would be of tremendous interest and value to future generations—illustrating life today exactly as it is and not assume later historians might assume. Who has not wished that he could step into a theatre and see flickering films of George Washington or Abraham Lincoln just as they were in life? This is impossible, of course, but "The Mirror" is doing the next best thing and showing pictures made at the time of the very birth of the cinema.

It was a great day in Washington when William McKinley, accompanied by the retiring President Grover Cleveland drove down Pennsylvania avenue from the White House to the capitol in an open coach, acclaimed by cheering crowds and escorted by regular army troops soon to take part in the Spanish American war. The automobile was unknown. The "horseless carriage" considered the plaything of cracked-brained inventors. In the pictures the spectators lining the sidewalk saw as interesting as the remarkably clear views of McKinley and Cleveland. Styles of the period seem laughable and coil instantly to mind visions of the modern flapper and finale hopper. There were no "cake eaters" in those days. A "dude" or two, however, obtrude themselves in the pictures.

Behind the cavalry escorting the presidential party come batteries of artillery, the gunners wearing the uniforms made so familiar by the Spanish-American war and the artillery itself seeming strange in contrast with the monster weapons developed by the world war, their destructiveness and size still fresh in every one's mind. The picture affords an exceptionally striking study of the martyred president. Pictures of Woodrow Wilson's first inauguration and of McKinley's inauguration offer a contrast striking in the extreme.

Additional pictures of McKinley show him as an orator. That he was careful of his words is made evident by the fact that he holds his notes in his hand while crowds surround him in wrapt attention. It was following just such a speech as this that the assassin's bullet sped to its mark on that fatal day at Buffalo 24 years ago. Other historical pictures such as this will be a feature of the regular issues of "The Mirror."

With magnificent artistry analyses by motion pictures of the beautiful Denishawn dancers are shown. Every graceful movement of these wood-nymphs dancing in a leafy dell "neath California's early sunlight is shown to perfection—the personification of all that is beautiful.

This is in addition to "Brawn of the North" with the wonder dog "Strongheart."

Health Service Says Creosote May Be Used to Combat Mosquitoes

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Just at this time, when the mosquito league is planning its battling order to play ball all over the swamps and lowlands of the country, and on some of the highlands, too, a report from the public health department as to how this battling average may be kept low is more than interesting.

During the course of a study of rural malaria in Yazoo county, Miss., which was being conducted by the United States public health service, in co-operation with the state and county authorities, certain observations were made relative to the resting habits of anopheline mosquitoes as affected by creosote oil. Because of the possibility of their practical bearing upon rural malaria control, these observations are deemed worthy of a preliminary report at this time.

These observations indicate that creosote oil, when applied to the walls and ceilings of certain houses in the quantity of one gallon to 420 square feet, will noticeably repel anopheline mosquitoes. Observations made of certain of the creosoted houses ten weeks after the creosote had been applied see into indicate that the creosote oil was still effective.

The oil is especially applicable to homes of poor construction where the screening and other anti-mosquito measures cannot be effectively employed. Colored people who commonly live in houses of this type in the Southern states do not object to the application of the oil. Unquestionable it is less objectionable than the smudges of rags, leather and feathers, so universally used by these people to keep the mosquitoes away while they secure a few hours sleep.

The observations made would indicate that creosote may be used to prevent mosquitoes from laying eggs in water barrels. This is one of the best known hatching grounds to be found anywhere, with such alarming quickness does the mosquito reproduce its breed that it has been well said as of the common fly, "a grandchild today, a grandfather tomorrow."

Two Cars of Vegetables Being Shipped Daily from Okeechobee Sect'n

Two cars of beans and peppers were shipped from the Conners Farms yesterday through Okeechobee to the northern markets—the work of loading from the boats onto the cars being under the direction of Mr. B. A. Howard.

Mr. Howard informs us that from the Conners Farms, the farms of the Howard Company and other farms in the Pahokee district, there will be shipped through Okeechobee this season at least 1,500 cars of vegetables. These vegetables will be handled by the "East Coast Boat Line" in which organization there are at present six boats, with possibly others to be added. Although yet young in the season, a boat load a day is now being brought in and the smallest of these boats carry two car loads—some of the mfour.

Mr. Howard states that the present price on beans is very good and the results therefore quite satisfactory.

Just at this juncture Mr. W. G. Stovall bobbed up with the cheering news that Smith, Stovall and Gray, of Utopia, would ship at least seven cars of beans and peppers the present week, and that it will require the full time of the "Bernice" to bring their product to Okeechobee.

So, as between the track and immense fish shipping out of Okeechobee, we see no reason for complaint on the part of Florida East Coast officials.—Okeechobee News.

Taste is a matter of tobacco quality

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield are of finer quality (and hence of better taste) than in any other cigarette at the price.
