

BLUE EAGLE IS AT CROSSROADS ON 1ST BIRTHDAY

Next Congress To Get Unenviable Task Of Deciding Future

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—(AP)—The Blue Eagle, one year old today, is at a crossroads. Its future is still to be determined.

Changes are in the making. Suggestions have ranged from Hugh S. Johnson's idea that a board, instead of one man, should manage the job, to a demand by Senator Hays (R.-N. D.) that NRA be deprived of price fixing and other anti-competitive powers and be placed under the federal trade commission with the anti-trust provisions in effect.

The next Congress, which meets in January, will have the task of determining NRA's future.

The Blue Eagle is slightly younger than the NRA. It was born Aug. 1, 1933, and quickly became the best-known emblem in America.

It started life as a merit badge to employers who signed President Roosevelt's re-employment agreement (PRA) for shorter hours, higher pay and no child labor.

Today, as it turns one anniversary, it symbolizes the vow of countless industrial code signers to comply with NRA's rules of fair competition.

When the PRA was announced by Johnson to speed unemployed to jobs, it was pending more business legislation, he set up the Blue Eagle to guide the consumer in his buying.

An army of 1,500,000 volunteers—probably the largest volunteer host in history—joined in carrying PRA and Blue Eagle from door to door. NRA estimates that 2,000,000 employers signed.

The original PRA lapsed from Aug. 31 to Dec. 31, but later was extended to allow more time for contracting. Today, all but about 100 pending agreements have been filed into the code structure of nearly 500 industries.

A Popular Exhibit

They are giving away books at the Chicago Exposition in Chicago. Just push the button and you get a book! This is not a trick, a procedure as it sounds, however. It is merely one of the manifestations of an exhibit of the largest manufacturer in the world of its cans and their allied products—the American Can Company.

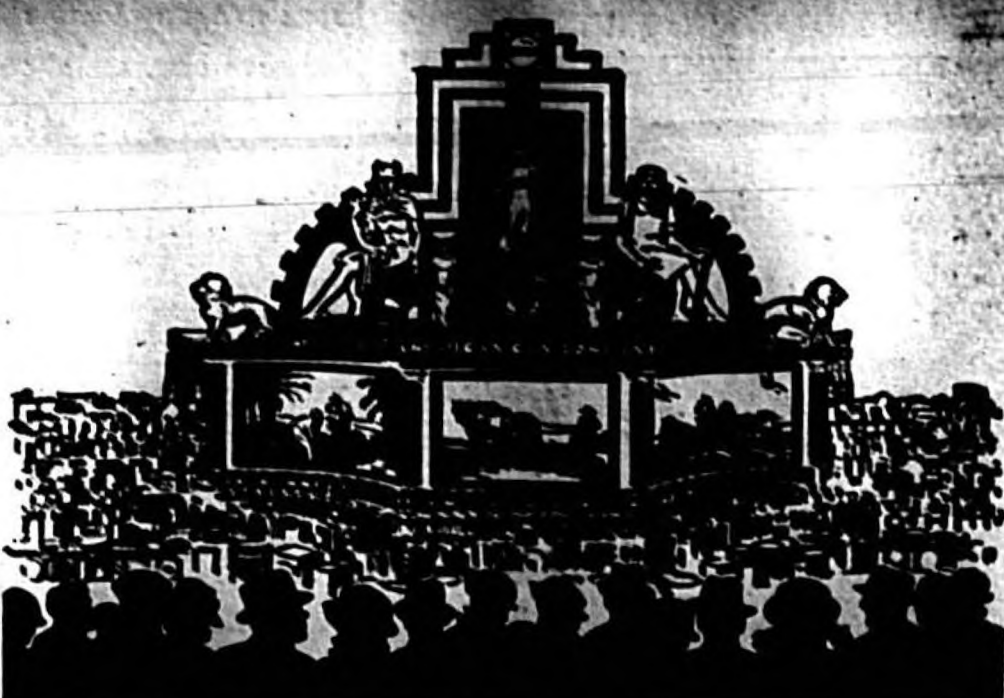

The exhibit of giving away these books is to demonstrate before the eyes of the public exactly how the cans are hermetically sealed and all the wholesome goodness of the food they contain kept in.

They are made in the form of a small tin can with a slot in the top, and are hermetically sealed with machine exactly like those operated in a canning factory.

The design on these cans shows a colorful panorama of the sky-line of the Fair and the background, and they have proved so popular that there is always a long line of people waiting to push the button which sets the timing machine in motion and delivers to the purchaser a completed book. Careful statistics which have been kept show that more than twenty per cent of all the people who visit the fair come to this American Can Company exhibit.

A Colonial Showing

They come because they are attracted by the vast signing of the cans and metal products against an edifice covered with colonial gold figures of Labor and Commerce with paintings at its base representing the harvesting of fruits and vegetables and the successful cultivation of vegetables.

For example, Liberty thousands of cans are shown in this exhibit which occupies a space of twenty by eighty-eight feet in the General Exhibits Building.

Thousands of these cans are set out with the colorful labels of those who purchase them and put them and other products into them, and thousands more are neatly photographed in all the lanes of the exhibit. The designs and illustrations on these latter cans reveal the tremendous progress that has been made in recent years in developing them to make them attractive to the public, and much comment is heard on the color harmonies of the exhibit, particularly as viewed from the West balcony of the building.

Hundreds of Products

Five people realize how many products are shown in this exhibit in a can, clean, wholesome condition in various forms of the cans. These range all the way from cigars and cigarettes, sealed and shown in their original packages, to the various food products which are being given away, and a small fountain display in front of the exhibit.

Books in addition to these cans and other products, a chromolithograph showing the conveyor system and runway have been included to put the tops on the cans which are being given away, and a small fountain display in front of the exhibit.

PARIS SEES BID FOR ANSCHLUSS AS PAPAN'S AIM

French Ready To Ve-to Move For Austro-German Union

PARIS, Aug. 2.—A battle of diplomacy to prevent negotiations between Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany and the successor to Chancellor Engelbert Dollfus of Austria for a union of Germany and Austria was foreseen by French officials.

The danger of a new Nazi campaign of diplomatic persuasion for an Austro-German alliance through a customs union would be revived, said authorities, if the new Austrian government should accept Franz von Papen as German minister to Austria.

Although Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria is expected to continue the Dollfus policy of opposition to the Nazis, von Papen is regarded here as a clever diplomat, who might "play his Catholic cards in the Anschluss game"—Anschluss being a union of Austria and Germany.

French quarters suspect that von Papen's mission might be primarily the negotiation of a customs union between Austria and Bavaria.

"France and Italy naturally would not accept that," a French spokesman said.

The French, consequently, are continuing their policy of watchful waiting on the side of Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, who is "ready for anything."

The French hope that Schuschnigg will be able to maintain the "fight to keep Austria independent." They expect that the Austrian socialists will be less hostile to him than they were to Dollfus.

news agency kept open an hour later than usual waiting for news of his condition.

The man described by Adam as having carried plans of the Austrian putsch was said to have had a German passport in the name of Franz Hoel. The Nazis involved were not named, but were referred to as "our people." Adam said Hoel admitted receiving the documents in Passau on the Bavarian side of the border and agreeing to deliver them at Linz for $100.

According to a document which was partially deciphered he said the "revolt" was a "festival" to be held in Vienna (see page 1) and a demonstration of Nazis in the name of Dollfus.

Chancellor Dollfus resigned in case of opposition to the "festival" and "festival" and "festival" were given as the sign for an armed insurrection.

A scarcely less sensational revelation came from Franz Winkler, former vice president in the Dollfus regime, interviewed in Carlsbad, Bohemia. He said a radical plan to overthrow the Dollfus dictatorship already had been worked out by the fascist Heimwehr when the Nazi putsch upset all reckonings.

Kissimmee-St. Cloud Highway Again Open

KISSIMMEE, Aug. 2.—The last of the bridges washed out during the flood-rains on the Kissimmee-St. Cloud highway was replaced Tuesday and the road opened to traffic.

Reports of Superintendent Campbell show nearly all other county bridges had been rebuilt, and that work of repairing damage to roadbed, culverts and drainage channels generally is progressing.

Youth Gives Up To Face Murder Count In Death Of Beauty

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Facing murder charges in the death of Miss Marian Mills, former University of Oklahoma beauty queen, Neal Myers, young pharmacy student, surrendered to his attorney here today after pleading guilty to three weeks.

Third and seven from his whereabouts in three states, the 21-year-old university student appeared at the home of his attorney, W. F. Thompson, and disclaimed any responsibility for the death of Miss Mills at Norman, Okla., July 11.

"I committed no crime, just couldn't face the charges," he said.

Young Myers fled from Norman following the death of the girl at the apartment of Mrs. Hazel Brown, fraternity house cook.

Mrs. Brown told authorities the girl had been taking quack medicine in an effort to avert motherhood.

FOREIGN TRADE IS HELD TO RULE BUSINESS HERE

Economic Basis Of U.S. Adjusted To Require It, Survey Shows

NEW YORK CITY, Aug. 2.—The economic structure of the United States has been developed and its productive capacity adjusted to a type of output that is dependent on foreign markets, and these markets depend almost entirely on the country's willingness to accept foreign goods and services in exchange for its own, says the Commerce Trade Commission of New York in the current issue of "The Commerce Survey."

"Our concern in international trade is not merely a matter of the refusal of other nations to purchase our goods if we are not willing to buy theirs; it is an economic impossibility for foreign countries to take our products unless we, by accepting imported commodities, provide foreigners with the means to pay," it continues.

"While there is an abundance of irrefutable statistical evidence that the physical volume of trade in most of the nations of the world has shown an appreciable increase during the last several months, and while clear evidence has been reported for some time that the general tone in foreign business quarters has been unmistakably better, there are some who hold a less optimistic view."

"It seems difficult for many American business men not directly engaged in dealings in commodities and services with foreign nations to comprehend fully the relationship between their profits and conditions abroad. To obtain the water supply, the in-

DEATH TURNED SUICIDE

NEW SMYRNA, Aug. 2.—The death of Earl Mondel, 27, was attributed to suicide, in the verdict of the coroner's jury, which investigated the case. It was stated that the young man wrote a last message in a notebook, before firing the revolver shot, which ended his life, at his home shortly before noon yesterday.

A motorcycle manufacturer has equipped his product with front wheel suspension resembling the "lane action" device used on many automobiles.

Long Aide Refuses Service Of Order To Demobilize Troops

Adjutant-General Defies Court By Telling Men To Fortify Barracks Position

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Surrounded by the guns of a mobilized National Guard at Jackson Barracks, Adjutant-General Raymond Fleming today replied to the Civil District court order for the dismissal of the troops by directing his officers to fortify their positions.

Entries at the gateway of the barracks refused a civil sheriff access to the Commander of the State Militia when he sought to serve the court order on him, and Fleming over the telephone told newsmen "I shall carry out the Governor's orders. I have given my officers orders to fortify their positions."

The court order, calling for the demobilization of the troops summoned to duty in a bitter factional dispute between the political forces of Senator Huey Long and Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans was secured late yesterday by city attorneys.

The civil sheriff and chief of police served Long as "A conspirator," with a court summons last night, but they are unable similarly to serve the Adjutant-General.

Meanwhile, National Guard officers sent a fresh detachment of militia into the city voting registration office held by the forces of Long since last Monday night, and unloaded additional machine guns at an office just across the narrow street from the city hall where Walmsley has massed scores of heavily armed men.

Long yesterday with "Napoleon complex," the Mayor said.

This usurpation of the assessor's office will not be recognized by the City of New Orleans.

Governor Allen, lieutenant in the Long organization and usually a background figure in the major disputes between Senator Long and Mayor Walmsley, answered by "wailing" New Orleans officials "to desist from advertising delinquent tax property," which he charged was being done in violation of moratorium resolutions passed by the last legislature.

While the leaders wrangled in public statements, the city maintained an outward calm, the only public sign of the bitter factional dispute being the two more National Guardsmen standing duty with full arms in the registration office, across the street from the city hall. Machine guns which the militiamen had kept trained on the city hall entrance for two days were temporarily out of sight.

Key West Lost 10,000 Residents In 10 Years

KEY WEST, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A decrease of more than 10,000 in the population of this economically-battered city within 10 years was shown yesterday in the final report of FERA's census.

The island city, now undergoing rehabilitation at federal direction, has 11,856 inhabitants, of the population, 6,777 persons are available for work, and 3670 have already been enlisted in Key West's voluntary work corps.

Government Strikes Out At Speculators Who Would Attempt To Corner Markets

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The government disclosed plans today to thwart wild cat speculation or "corners" in the nation's food in the aftermath of the drought disaster.

Perhaps the most potent weapon is the power under AAA to buy surpluses of farm commodities for future use thereby striking a blow at any attempt to kite prices because of a relative scarcity.

Foodstuffs bought by the government could be distributed to the needy, reloaded through commercial channels, or shipped into drought areas where needed.

CITY BRIEFS

Local weather yesterday: High 92, low 73.

Officials of the Florida League of Municipalities advised City officials today that as the result of a resolution passed by members of the Sanford and Arcadia City Commission, the League has called a state-wide meeting to be held in Orlando Aug. 22 and Aug. 23, for the purpose of discussing the policy which should be pursued by cities seeking relief under the terms of the Wilcox bill.

The influence of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation is held by City Clerk F. S. Lamson as being a prime reason why tax collections for 1933 to Aug. 1, 1934, were more than 12 percent better than were collections for 1932 to Aug. 1, 1933. Records this morning revealed that $21,976.46 or 33.97 percent of the 1933 assessment.

At the same time the Railroad Commission postponed indefinitely its general investigation of bus fares in the state. The investigation was originally set for Aug. 7.

Both the Florida Motor Lines and the Union Bus Company were ordered to put the reduced fare into effect within five days and to post with the commission a schedule of the new rates.

BIBLE VERSES FOR TODAY

RULES FOR RIGHT LIVING:

He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?—Micah 6:8.

Even Secretary Wallace admits that a good first class drought is far more successful in reducing crops than an Agricultural Adjustment Act.

Now that Shirley Temple, the five-year-old movie star, is making a thousand dollars a week, the depression can safely be said to be over, at least for her.

A movement is being organized in Austria to place the Archduke Otto upon the throne as the fountain head of government. We presume the slogan will be "Two autos in every garage."

The profits of the Colgate-Balmolive-Peet Company for the first six months of 1934 were $2,446,887, or 216 percent more than for the same period of last year.

In Georgia the American Federation of Labor and the Governor of the state are about to go to war; in Louisiana Walmesley's policemen and Huey Long's Brown Shirts are lining up for civil combat; in North Dakota Governor Olson, and Governor Langer are battling for the supremacy of the state.

Russia, it seems, is also having trouble with "chiselers." There wheat farmers are supposed to turn over to the government all the wheat which they raise in excess of the amount needed for their own requirements. But the farmers are raising wheat on the side, not reporting it to the government, and keeping it for themselves.

There is no danger of generous federal relief finally resulting in everyone being on the relief rolls. Early this week, Paul Ficker and his wife, elderly, unemployed, broke, turned on the gas in their apartment, and died, leaving a no that they preferred death to public charity.

One county at least seems to have taken our suggestion that a concerted drive be organized for the purpose of ridding this state of rattlesnakes. Down in St. Petersburg the welfer administrator for the WERA has undertaken the job for paying $3 each for rattlesnake skins.

Seminole County commissioners have a place on the Governor's honor roll. It was "buying one." They responded to his call for tax cuts by proposing a bill and three "buyers" of their idea. With the bill will come the "buyers" of the bill, making a total reduction of $1.5 million, their record as impressive. It is surprising to learn from the Sanford Herald that such a reduction will mean an actual saving of only $17,776 to taxpayers.

"Old Paul" Dies

With the death of Paul von Hindenburg the world has lost one of its foremost statesmen, and Germany, its most stabilizing influence.

While it is true that since the rise of the Nazi party to a position of dominating influence and the accession of Adolf Hitler to the chanceryship where he has exercised the most arbitrary powers, the presidency of Germany has sunk to an almost degrading level, nevertheless the world at large, and probably many of the German people, felt that as long as von Hindenburg lived the dictatorship of the fiery Adolf was not complete and could be terminated at the will of "Old Paul."

The check-rein which von Hindenburg held was twofold: his popularity with the people and his control of the army. He had saved Germany from the Russian hordes when hundreds of thousands of them swept over the plains at Tannenberg. The outstanding military hero of Germany, he was the idol of the masses as well as the trusted advisor of the classes. On the general staff of German army for twenty years prior to the World War, soldiers of Germany had been taking orders from him for so long that force of habit alone would have insured their loyalty to him.

Now that he is gone, one wonders what Hitler will do next.

In this connection it should be recalled that when von Hindenburg himself was first elected to the presidency, the world trembled at the thought of this old militarist, this loyal and devoted friend of the Kaiser, this supreme foe of all Allied armies, assuming a position of such power and influence in Germany. It was widely predicted that the Versailles Treaty would be peremptorily scrapped, that new military campaigns would soon be planned.

But von Hindenburg did none of these things. The world can only hope that Hitler will prove to be as wise as his former master and as completely misjudged.

Twenty Years Ago

The "Twenty Years Ago" columns of the daily newspapers these days are particularly interesting because of the tremendous consequences of the events which were occurring throughout the world at this time twenty years ago. Every day witnessed some new move toward a general conflict, and yet strangely enough so few seemed to see the direction in which these moves were leading.

And yet in the New York Herald Tribune which we received today containing a "Twenty Years Ago" column for July 29, we find New York bankers predicting that a general war in Europe would not take place. Austria had already declared war on Serbia, Russian troops were being mobilized, army notes were flying thick and fast between all European capitals, and yet the intensity and extent of the approaching conflict was not appreciated even by men in a position to know.

The Herald Tribune's Twenty Years Ago column reads as follows:

AUSTRIA DECLARES WAR, RUSHES VAST ARMY INTO SERBIA. RUSSIA MASSES 80,000 MEN ON BORDER. VIENNA—A manifesto issued yesterday by Emperor Francis Joseph said: "The intrigues of a malevolent opponent compel me in defense of the honor of my monarchy and for the protection of its dignity and the security of its possessions to grasp the sword after long years of peace."

THE NEWS OF AUSTRIA'S formal declaration of war was greeted in Vienna with a spirit not unlike that of religious exultation. In St. Petersburg there were scenes of enthusiasm and people cheered wildly. In Paris there were patriotic demonstrations and also demonstrations against the war; the government and people appeared to be quietly preparing for it.

WITH COURSES of the Continent and Canada closed and trading on the London Exchange restricted, the New York Stock Exchange was yesterday the one primary exchange in the world offering an open market for unlimited trading.

BANKERS at the end of a conference in the offices of J. P. Morgan & Co. yesterday afternoon expressed a belief that general war in Europe would yet be averted.

EDITORIAL—THE GOVERNMENT AT VIENNA has been bent on war with Serbia at any cost. It did not expect or desire a diplomatic settlement. With the Viennese government in that reckless temper, it is not very surprising that the German Emperor did not care to join Great Britain, Italy and France in insisting that Austria-Hungary should accept mediation.

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Russia has begun the invasion of German territory, Russian forces having crossed the German frontier at Schwinden, southeast of Biella. Within last night a Russian patrol entered Germany near Eichenberg. The Russian column which crossed the frontier at Schwinden was accompanied by artillery. Two squadrons of Russian Cossacks are riding in the direction of Johannesburg, in East Prussia, fifteen miles from the frontier. The Russian general which entered near Eichenberg attacked the German guard at the railroad bridge over the Warthe, but was repulsed. Two German aviators were slightly wounded. A French aviator has been dropping bombs from an aeroplane in the neighborhood of Nuremberg, Bavaria, according to an announcement made by the military authorities today.

In making this announcement, the authorities added that this action was a crime against the rights of man, as there had been no declaration of war. County Commissioners Magnus Melvin, Clark, and Herington are in the city and expect to be here several days adjusting tax matters and looking after the county's interests. They had a very important session yesterday. Kent Hoesetter returned last Saturday from Commerce, Ga. where he went to bring the Hewitt car home. T. A. Hamilton returned with him, but Miss Annie will remain another week. This evening the Bachelors Club will enjoy their moonlight launch ride to Fort Florida, under the guardianship of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Betts. The "B. O.'s" are presiding a very pleasant voyage. It is rumored that Pop Milton caught a bass at the beach the other day—his first one and it is about to unburden his mind. The rumor comes from Pop himself and the fish will have to be taken with a grain of salt—see sail. Henry Peschke is enjoying at Seaside, where he expects to recuperate after his very painful accident on his motorcycle several weeks ago. He is now improving every day and will soon be on the job at the V-C plant again. Mrs. J. M. Hardy leaves today for a visit with Jacksonville, Fla. The Sanford Commercial Club will be called to order on Friday night, Aug. 14 at the city hall.

BRIDES WANTED

BEAMI, HERALD

The recent solicitation in the Russian colony of Paris for wives for the former Russian soldiers now fighting in the armies of Paraguay, that little South American republic which is staging such a fight with Bolivia in their dispute over that barren region, Grand Chaco, does not set a precedent for the New World.

In the early years of the American colonies there existed much the same situation as exists in Paraguay today, and has existed in all localities whose settlement and development occasioned great hardship, that is scarcity of women suitable for wives and mothers. Following its settlement, the colonists of Virginia advertised in England for maidens suitable for mates and help-meets of the settlers, and many a proud Virginia of today can trace his existence back to the fact that one of his female ancestors was willing to risk a long dangerous voyage in an attempt to find a mate among total strangers.

It is extremely doubtful, however, if many of these colonial maidens had the qualifications necessary to become the bride of one of these modern pioneers. They specify that the girls contemplating such a marriage must have "that fine sort of beauty that has in it something of the suggestion of decay." They also "must be sufficiently well bred to suggest that they were not born to the heavy duties of life." This last specification, alone are such that the practices of 10 percent can drag down to their level, the whole of that industry." "It may be that small order houses and filling stations sales should run all the dealers out—that chains should eliminate all independents in every line and that employment and independent earnings there should be reduced by one-third but this is no time to permit such sudden and explosive change," he said. "With between 10 and 12 million people unemployed and general commerce and industry barely recovered from the worst mortality in history this is no time to withdraw the actual and moral support of NRA from our convalescent structure. To the extent of the powers of NRA we shall maintain the status quo of small enterprise in this country." As for price fixing, Johnson said: "In general NRA does not favor price provisions, but we are here applying no theoretical fiat to the infinite variety of American business in a continuing emergency. If we find such price abuses as loss leaders and sales below cost are creating an emergency and imperiling a whole industry, we will move against them with what powers we have. "When we tackled the alarming labor and industrial situation in the bituminous coal industry, which in the past has caused general industrial paralysis and bloody economic war and was in imminent danger of doing so again, there was no way to approach the minimum wage necessities without some price stabilization.

In retail trade—we did not hesitate to limit loss leaders to get a floor below which price cutting might not go in trade. The policy is very simple, NRA does not favor price provisions, it will never permit them when their only purpose is to exploit the public. It will never deny them where they are necessary to save an industry or to maintain decent labor standards therein."

PROCESSING TAXES

UNITED STATES NEWS

A brief newspaper item during the past week imparted the information that "processing taxes" collected during the first year of their levy, had totalled $871,422,000. At the same time the item revealed "rental" and "benefit" payments made to farmers out of these tax collections had amounted to $290,249,000.

That is a lot of money. Where does it come from? What are "processing taxes"? Who gets the money once it is collected? Those as well as other questions grew out of the first months of operation of these most unusual taxes. In the first place, just about every consumer of farm products in this country contributed to the collections. Every person who bought a shirt or any other cotton goods, everybody who bought flour or bread, or who bought pork products or who used tobacco, did his part to build up the huge pot.

What then is the idea? The idea is that farmers in the United States have been at a great disadvantage with other classes. They have found that a bushel of wheat, or a pound of cotton, or a hog, or a pound of tobacco would buy much less in the way of city products than it would in former years. That led to the thought: Why not tax the users of these farm products and then turn around and give these proceeds to the farmers, in return for a promise on the part of the farmers to adjust their output? In that way the 30,000,000 people on farms will have a chance to get money with which to buy city goods. The combination of the market price and the processing tax payments would enable them to exchange their wheat and pork and cotton and tobacco for more products of city factories.

What has happened through processing tax collections is that money has been taken from the city people to be paid over to farmers. In this way it is expected that "disparities" that exist between city prices and farm prices can be removed.

Thus, the government goes over its record and finds that in 1928 a bushel of wheat would buy a bushel converted into cash, a certain amount of shoes, and overall and farm machinery and other farm necessities. Today that same bushel of wheat would buy only 70 percent as much as it would buy then. So, the government levies a processing tax equal to the difference on every bushel of wheat that is used, and this tax then goes into a fund which is distributed back to the farmers.

In that way the farmer can get "parity" for his wheat, and the "disparity" between the farm price of wheat and the city value of things the farmer buys, is partially removed so far as that product's purchasing power is concerned.

Such is the theory of the plan. It seeks to give to the farmer a larger purchasing power for those of his products which "concrete" specialists.

But in return for receiving part of the tax money the farmer must agree to certain things. He may agree to rent a certain portion of his crops to the government, or to sell to the government.

By President Lake and many matters of great interest to our city and county will be taken up. The question of fall advertising, the new hotel, the jail, and a new office for Seminole county, an increase in the number of judges, the office, better freight rates, but the matter of like kind that will be of great benefit to our city and county will be discussed.

SANFORD FORUM

Sanford, N. C. July 31, 1934.

Thanks be to someone who had a bright idea in the much needed "City News Briefs."

Several years ago the writer on a neighbor's porch made a similar suggestion to a representative of The Sanford Herald and the answer was "Nothing ever happens here." Wherever people live and move something is bound to happen of interest to the ones concerned. In the course of events turles will cross the road and often it makes a lot of difference to your neighbor which side you are on. Keep up the good work as it makes an infinitely more interesting paper.

Yours truly, MARY FLORENCE SCOTT.

FILM ACTOR DIVORCED

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A divorce court Wednesday granted a decree nisi to Mrs. Ronald Colman against her husband, the motion picture star, in an undefended suit. Mrs. Colman said that she and her husband were married Sept. 18, 1920, in London, but have lived apart since 1924 when Colman left her.

The London county council is insisting on the banks of the River Thames being raised in 1,500 places in the effort to prevent floods.

WHY ARCHITECTS SELECT Genasco

Architects must be sure of a product before they are willing to recommend it to their clients because they cannot afford to risk an excellent reputation built up over a period of years. However, architects who have seen the "Slam-Test" demonstration with Genasco Sulfur Shingles, made with Trinidad Lake Asphalt Cement—the Slam-Test coating developed by The Genasco Asphalt Company, manufacturers of these shingles—have no hesitancy in recommending them.

This simple test has convinced them and will convince you that Genasco Sulfur Shingles can take more punishment than they will ever have as counter on roof. Let us show you how Genasco Sulfur Shingles—the Slam-Test Shingles—can be subjected to the roughest kind of treatment.

Drop in today for a demonstration. If this is inconvenient, write or call in on the phone and our representative will gladly call on you. If you see the "Slam-Test" you will be convinced that Genasco Sulfur Shingles are superior.

Negro Servants Inherit $50,000 Of Star's Money

3.—(AP)—Autographed photographs and cherished bric-a-brac of the late Law Cooley, screen-writer, went under the auctioneer's hammer yesterday.

Founding the table with a gavel and calling his bids in a loud voice to be heard above the cries of hot dog and soda vendors, the auctioneer often used his ingenuity to "boost the ante" in the bidding. From a bid of 25 cents for a stack of photographs and prints, the gavel wielder worked the price up to $1 and suddenly shouted as he thumbed the pictures, "Here's one of a artist colony."

A man immediately offered $2 and another won the lot on his bid of $2.25. He hustled away with the collection without showing the picture to many curious who surged around him. An autographed picture of Rudy Vallee, crooner and orchestra leader, brought 60 cents. Prints ranging from $1 to $2.50 were paid for autographed and note-attached photographs of Harry Joe Brown, film director; Irene Dunne, actress; O. O. McIntyre, writer and Winfield Sheehan, producer. A life-size oil painting of Cady brought $50 Wednesday and a caricature of the actor was sold for $25. The only piece of furniture sold Wednesday, a piano, brought $475.

Tests Reveal That Consumer, Without Hesitation, Will Buy Celery With Tops Cut Off

By W. E. EMBISON

The thought of yesterday becomes the reality of today. We can cut the excessive tops from celery and thereby cut the excessive costs of marketing, cut the excessive costs to the consumer and then emerge with a profit to the grower! These facts have just developed as the result of a trial shipment to Boston and Chicago. Several months ago the Florida Grower published a story concerning the loss of shipping to market those vegetable parts that are not eaten. Aside from a few experimental data secured at the packing house, there was little to support the feasibility of removing off part of the tops from celery. The attitude of the buyers at the market to this innovation was untried, and practically everyone freely predicted failure. "It won't work—the trade won't take it" was the well-known chorus that has been chanted with variations since the world began. Every new band wagon has few riders. It's the first sheep that's the hardest to get through the gap.

There is always someone with enough sporting blood in his veins to take a chance on anything, at least once. Judging by the number of suckers who continually consign cars to Pete, Nick and Tony, one would think that it would not be difficult to get supporters to a sound idea. But human nature is not made on that pattern. The consigning idea is an old band wagon—even the tires are flat! But Bryden, Raoul and Haneey, celery growers and shippers at Sarasota, Florida, had been doing some thinking of their own. They had observed that the celery with the tops cut off put in their automobiles was still fresh at the end of the day, whereas the stalks with the tops left on were like mags.

So the new crate, heretofore referred to as the Howard crate, was fashioned to take an alternate-reverse pack with celery cut to an over-all length of 16 inches. The butts of alternate layers of celery are reversed so that the top of one layer serves as cushions to butts of the next. This arrangement permits packing the same number of stalks of celery as in the old crate, but eliminates the crushing and bruising incident to the damaging pressure necessary to close the latter. The Howard crate is an all-round, side-opening tumbler crate equipped with Rock-faster which facilitates opening for inspection. The spaces between slats has been made small so as to eliminate the crate bruises at the edges of the slats. Incidentally, this arrangement reduces the cost of packing since "facing" the package is unnecessary. Here are some comparative data on the two crates when packed:

Howard Crate		Rock-faster Crate
Dimensions	14x22x10 in.	14x22x14 in.
Cubic contents	6100 cu. in.	5220 cu. in.
Weight—tare	2 1/2 pounds	3 1/2 pounds
Gross weight, approx.	35 pounds	45 pounds
Net weight, approx.	32 1/2 pounds	40 pounds
Car loading	225 crates	155 crates

Bryden and Raoul shipped a car of celery to John L. Duffy at Boston, May 11, arriving there Tuesday morning, May 13. It contained 208 Howard and 178 regular crates. The writer was at the market when the buyers were advised. Demand was relatively slow, but the entire lot of Howard crates was disposed of to seven different buyers in about three hours, ranging in price from $3 to $3.50. This averaged about 25 cents under the top price. No discount would have been necessary had the price been asked. It was thought best, however, to move them out quickly in order to get the trade reaction. This was almost immediate and very favorable, as may be seen by the fact that the buyers of Tuesday were back on Thursday demanding more of the Howard crates, even at a premium of 25 cents.

All sales at the terminal market at Boston are made from samples of a dozen or more crates of each commodity. The buyers were impressed most by the lack of damage to the produce, its fresh appearance and the construction of the package, permitting thorough inspection of the contents.

The summary taken from the official report of the handling of three cars of Howard crates shipped to Chicago in the same month tells the story concisely and concretely:

Car No. BRE 75085, FGE 58225 and BRE 75407.

Routing: ACL Jeup, Southern, C. & O.

Consigned to: Rogers and Haller, 41 1/2 Water Market, Chicago.

Date of loading: Car BRE 75085, Tuesday, May 22 at Sarasota, Florida. Cars FGE 58225 and BRE 75407, Wednesday, May 23 at Sarasota, Florida.

Method of loading and stowing: 6 across, 3 high, 16 tiers, BRE 75085; 8 across, 8 high, 18 tiers, FGE 58225; 8 across, 4 high, 16 tiers, BRE 75407 (80 short).

Reconditioning: 85 degrees F. Refrigeration: Standard. (Initial icing would probably have sufficed.)

Condition of celery at origin: Green and immature; some of top leaves that were cut off were "burned." Heavy rains compelled harvesting a week to 10 days before it should have been moved.

Date of arrival, Chicago and unloading: Car No. BRE 75085, May 26, Saturday; Car FGE 58225, May 28, Monday; Car BRE 75407, May 31, Thursday.

Temperature, air, Chicago: May 26, average; May 28, average; May 31, average.

Condition of load upon arrival: No breakage reported.

Condition of celery upon arrival: Looked as fresh and unharmed, as when loaded.

Market condition: Saturday, May 26, supplies short, little demand; Monday, May 28, supplies short, demand strong; Thursday, May 31, supplies short, demand strong.

Rates and prices: May 26, packages of 4's, 6's and 8's at $3.75 to $4.00; May 28, packages of 4's, 6's and 8's at $3.75 to $4.00; May 31, packages of 4's, 6's and 8's at $3.75 to $4.00.

Attitude of buyers: Commission men—Apathetic to hostile; Washers—Recognized the virtue of the pack in reducing loss of bruising to minimum; Retailers—Enthusiastic, for it required no further washing and no loss occasioned by bruising.

Storage: The smaller sizes—10's and 12's were put in storage since the demand was not strong at that time for small sizes, and the supplies for the ten days following appeared to be very limited—only about 20 cars in storage in Chicago.

Prevailing retail prices May 22 and 23: 2 stalks No. 10's or 2 stalks XXX's tied in a bunch sold as "hearts" at 2 for 25c. Each bunch would be equivalent to about a No. 6 or No. 8 and would probably weigh about three-fourths to seven-eighths pound. At this rate they would sell at 7 one-fourth cents per stalk, or 16 to 19 cents per pound.

Three crates of No. 6's were taken from storage at Chicago to determine the extent of damage incurred by the large pack in the old crate.

The writer counted 2200 stalks and 2200 leaves in processing the celery from these crates. They were cut to a 16-inch length and the broken and mold broken stalks were stripped off and packed in 2 Howard crates with 16 stalks each. Eight damaged stalks of celery from the 2 crates had to be discarded entirely, while the others were reduced from No. 6's to No. 8's.

a loss of 27.7 percent by weight, not counting the damaged tops that were cut off. This was somewhat less than that observed in the washhouses at Boston.

In some cases the loss there amounted to approximately 40 percent.

Preliminary estimates of the savings that may be effected by the use of the new pack at point of origin and destination show some interesting figures. Following is a summary of some of the more important items:

A. AT POINT OF ORIGIN

1. Loading 642 crates per car reduces cost of initial icing 3 cents per crate or 6 cents for standard refrigeration.

2. Increased yield by use of better varieties and more careful handling in field and packing house—5 to 10 percent, or 5 to 10 cents per crate, average, 8 cents per crate.

3. Reduction in freight cost 25 percent, or about 22 cents per crate.

4. Reduction of 95 percent of present cost in loss and damage claims—3 cents per crate.

5. Stepping up the grade by eliminating diseased or blemished leaves, 6 cents per crate.

6. Other small and less definable economies such as labor saving in handling, loading, fertilizer value of tops (where topped in the field) fewer car trips—4 cents per crate.

The total saving of 48 cents per crate means an aggregate saving to Florida growers at point of origin of approximately $1,500,000.

B. AT DESTINATION

1. Eliminates the services and profits of the washers at the market amounting to 20 to 30 cents per dozen stalks, or an average of $1.30 per crate of 52 stalks.

2. Eliminates crushing and bruising of the stalks that is now taking a toll of 25 to 40 percent of the stalks, or 89 cents per crate.

3. Reduces to a minimum the spoilage upon which most discounts at prices by commission buyers have been based, conservatively estimated at 10 percent, or 27 cents per crate.

The total saving at destination of $2.48 thus practically equals the price that the grower must receive to make a fair profit by the time the retailer gets his profit, celery must go to the consumer at 7 to 8 cents per stalk (No. 6's or 10's) or 37 to 42 cents per crate.

These are few items in the above summary that may require some explanation. The possibility of increasing the yield of better quality celery are immediately open to the growers.

The standard grades of celery, as now defined for U. S. No. 1, places undue emphasis upon the condition of the tops; also the meaning is so loosely defined that no two persons can possibly agree as to what constitutes a No. 1 grade. This has opened the door to much unjust discrimination of really excellent edible stalks.

One large grocery store and restaurant in Chicago is able to buy the celery it uses at about half the market price, by taking those crates that show leaf blight and deterioration. The outside ribs that are blighted and broken are used for soups in the restaurant, and the so-called "hearts" are sold at a fancy price. Almost all of the damage claims and discounts allowed are for bad tops, and considering the method of packing and loading it is a wonder that they arrive in as good condition as they do.

The use of the Howard crate automatically changes the emphasis to the edible portion of the stalks, provides for ample top and provides for their protection and the protection of the stalks against bruising and crushing. These are varieties of celery that are able to have heavy solid hearts but do not grow as tall as the old standards have demanded.

By adopting the new pack shorter varieties can be grown to the betterment of the entire industry. It is difficult to estimate the possible reduction in freight cost per package because of the tangled condition in which it exists at the present time. A 25 percent reduction, on the present basis, seems reasonable. Likewise, there are a number of economies in the handling of the crop that are quite impossible to accurately assess, but those given are believed to err on the side of conservatism so that the net savings to the growers at point of origin will approximate $1,500,000 annually.

The largest savings to be effected as the above table shows are at the markets. The enormous waste incident to the bulge is most in evidence.

One item of considerable significance is that of container breakage. The huge bulge which the old container is made to take, not only causes a considerable breakage and consequent loss, but more important still it gives unscrupulous receivers an excuse for willful breakage on which he benefits in two or more ways. At one of the large markets the following condition was said to exist: Some receivers would break the major part of them in a car, sell the few remaining whole ones at the prevailing market price, but throw the others in at a discount, ranging from 75 cents to a dollar per crate. Not only did these receivers collect loss and damage claims from the railroad, but they took a personal graft from their clients for the favor bestowed. It takes little imagination to realize the havoc that such tactics play with the market. There was no breakage reported for any of the Howard crates in the four cars used in the trial shipments.

A few years ago the growers of Florida began washing their celery and packing it in packing houses instead of putting it up in the field, under the supposition that they were going to eliminate the washers at the market, but they overlooked the fact that their method of packing made the service of the washers mandatory. Some one must strip off the broken and bruised ribs and the washed and slimy tops before the celery is presentable to the consumer. Growers have been lousy in their condemnation of the system that necessitated so many middle men and the too great spread in price between producer and consumer. For the past few years they have, also, been spreading more money and greater effort in putting up a better grade and pack. There is one well known grower and shipper of Florida celery who justly prides himself that he commands a premium of 25 to 30 cents per crate, yet this effort at bettering the product is almost completely nullified in the few minutes that it takes the man who sells on the job to stop on the powerful lever necessary to closing the overfull packages. In these few dramatic moments about $2.00 worth of damage is irreparably done to a crate of celery that ordinarily sells for $2.50 (containing that is all it is worth after the fiddling operation). But here is a new method of packing that effectively and practically eliminates this necessary waste, that makes it possible to grow celery with hearts instead of excessive tops, that reduces the price to the consumer about half of what he is now compelled to pay and yet make a profit for the growers and legitimate merchants.

Based upon experimental tests and trial shipments, the following conclusions seem to be justified:

1. Cutting off the tops of celery to an over-all length of 16 inches and packing them in the Howard crate with an alternate-reverse pack provides the consumer with a superior product at a lower cost.

2. Practically eliminating the breakage of the containers.

3. Eliminating the need for washing and precooling at the markets.

4. Reducing evaporation from the edible stalks, thus keeping it more crisp for a longer time.

5. Reducing the cost of packing and shipping by—

1. Reducing the weight of the celery about 25 percent, with no loss of edible portion.

2. Reducing the weight of the container by nearly 60 percent, and gross weight of packages about 25 percent.

3. Permitting the loading of 160 more per car, thus reducing the cost of refrigeration per crate, car, thus reducing the cost of refrigeration per crate.

4. Reducing the labor and cost of hauling from field to packing house, handling, stowing, and cart stripping.

5. Insuring inspection and insuring a greater uniformity of pack.

6. Changing the emphasis from celery tops to the edible portion, thus making it possible to grow heavier yielding varieties of better quality and more heart.

7. Steps up the grade, as now defined, by removing the damaged and bruised stalks, thus improving the appearance of the product.

8. It is therefore, imperative front and back entrances. Private bath and bedroom, 819 Elm Phone 719 W.

9. That the new pack be offered to the trade as a superior product rather than using it as a means of moving inferior produce.

10. Changes in packs and packages are accompanied with disfavor by the majority of commission men, irrespective of the merits of the innovation.

VIII. Buyer (retailer) and consumer demand must be secured for any change of pack or package in order to force the commission men into acceptance. This implies the necessity for some interested party to contact the trade when changes are launched.

IX. Buyers (retailers) and consumers welcome an change that means better produce, less waste and lower prices. The packing of celery in the Howard crate fulfills these conditions.

X. Packing celery in the Howard crate provides the logical transition of sales on a per package to a per value with tomatoes, beans, squash, cabbage, carrots, and beets, hence, it can no longer be regarded as a novelty.

XI. The accepted acceptance and use of the Howard crate by the celery growers would move quickly and completely insure its acceptance by the trade; the profits and benefits to the growers would likewise be hastened.

operation of the amendment, should it be approved by the voters. Those who have studied the proposal at city hall said that it was not generally understood that the exemption measure had nothing to do with the levying of a debt service tax, which in the case of Orlando amounts to seven mills. For the loss incurred in the ad valorem tax, municipalities, if they maintained their present efficiency of government would be compelled to seek elsewhere for adequate revenue with which to operate.

Opponents of the amendment proposal declare that wide approval by the home owners has been gained through their lack of understanding of its various phases. They can see nothing gained in taking away one tax and compelling another to be levied no matter in what guise.

Many believe that it will lead into a sales tax. Opponents of the bill further point out that its operation would to a great extent, injure the present bond refunding programs being carried to completion and that it would place another bludgeon in the hands of unscrupulous bondholders.

In the case of Orlando the reduction of $106,000 in city revenue would necessarily cut deeply into municipal services such as fire, police, garbage and sanitary agencies, it was pointed out.

Advocates of the homestead plan believe that it would attract thousands of additional families to the state on the strength of the exemption offer.

However, in meeting this argument, opponents point out that Florida despite a homestead exemption law could scarcely hope to attract home owners when its debt service tax of more than $350 per capita is compared to a similar average levy for the nation of slightly more than $100. The latter contend that the state would be trying to induce outsiders to enter the state for the purpose of escaping home taxation while at the same time asking that the new residents help liquidate Florida's large funded debt.

Under the proposed measure homes of assessed value of $5,000 and less would be exempt from ad valorem tax but would not be exempt from the debt service tax. Homes of more than $5,000 in assessed value would be exempt $5,000 of that value in ad valorem taxes but not in debt service.

CAROLINIAN KILLS SELF IN MAD RAGE

Former Columbia Loan Executive Fires At High Masonic Head In Revenge Attack

COLUMBIA, E. C., Aug. 4.—(A.P.)—Armed with two pistols, John E. Black, former executive of the Security Building Loan Association of Columbia set out today, apparently to attack its directors, but ended by fatally wounding himself.

Black fired two shots at O. Frank Hart, Grand Master of South Carolina Masons and one of the directors before turning one of the pistols against his own chest and firing a bullet which penetrated his heart.

Hart was unharmed by the bullets which were fired in his office in the business section.

Police said they found letters in Black's pocket addressed to officers of the Association and asserting "In taking the Security Building and Loan Association that I received, organized, named, and by hard and faithful work, built up from me, you have forced me to kill myself."

Sales Tax Pennies Have Put Illinois On Solid Cash Basis

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Pennies of the Illinois sales tax have mounted into millions of dollars to put the state on a cash basis.

"At the end of its first year, state officials announced $36,032,123 poured into the treasury from the 3 percent sales tax, and accounted it as the "most satisfactory state tax."

The revenue officials said, made possible elimination of all state bonded debt, including more than $18,000,000 for emergency relief, and filled in miscellaneous funds when other revenues rank alarmingly.

The state is on a cash basis, paying all bills and taking advantage of discounts. Without the tax, a depleted treasury, unpaid bills, and mounting real estate taxes would have thrown the treasury into a mess," Director of Finance Knowlton J. Ames said.

A dispirited populace greeted the enactment of the measure in 1932, but when no appreciable difference in prices resulted, and state property taxes were entirely eliminated people hailed the sales tax as an ideal assessment.

(By The Associated Press)
Peacemakers on the nation's strike fronts were hopeful today.

Although striking Minneapolis truck drivers rejected the terms offered by their employers, federal mediators reported they believed a settlement would be reached soon.

Governor Floyd Olson threatened a lighter military clamp on the city as a means of hastening the truce.

St. Pete Man Would Exempt New Homes Up To $5,000 If Put On Tax Delinquent Lots

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 4.—Vice Mayor John B. Smith, speaking before the St. Petersburg industrial board Thursday night, outlined a tax exemption plan which he declared was far more feasible and workable than the proposed homestead exemption amendment.

His plan, briefly, calls for a special act of the Legislature exempting from the tax delinquent lots up to $5,000 built upon tax delinquent lots.

Under the plan, a prospective builder, by paying up delinquent taxes upon the lot could erect a $5,000 home upon that lot which would not be subject to tax levy for 10 years providing taxes on the lot were kept paid.

After 10 years the exemption would cease, and the home would be subject to regular taxation.

Such a plan, Smith said, would not only put back on the tax rolls many lots now delinquent, resulting in added revenue to the city, but would further increase the revenue after 10 years.

The plan has been tried in New York City, he pointed out, and has met with great success. It has one big advantage over the proposed homestead exemption amendment in that it will provide future sources of revenue to the city in addition to not cutting too deeply into current revenues.

The plan, further, he said, would stimulate all lines of business dependent upon the building industry, lighten the tax burden on existing homes, put new money into circulation and would clean up the surplus of vacant lots.

BORAH PROMISES TO AID BAKER IF NRA BEARS DOWN

GLENN'S FERRY, Idaho, Aug. 4.—(A.P.)—The price of unaltered white bread dropped a cent a loaf yesterday after Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, promised to provide "counsel without expense" to a baker if he should be prosecuted for defying an NRA code authority administrator's order.

E. W. Nestak, the only baker here, increased his wholesale and retail unaltered bread prices one cent to 7 and 10 cents Aug. 1 in accordance with an order issued by the bakery code administrator for southern Idaho. After receiving the senator's message in response to an appeal for advice, Nestak lowered the prices to their former standard.

"I feel you are justified in going ahead and conducting your business as you have been conducting it and disregarding all instructions to raise the price of bread," Borah wrote him. "If you choose to take this course and are prosecuted I will see that you get counsel without expense to you."

"I contend that they have no right to direct you to increase the price of your bread. I not only contend that it is indefensible in morals and economics."

Allen H. Eaton of Boise, labor compliance officer of the NRA headquarters for Idaho, said last night: "It would seem that under the circumstances prevalent in the instance in question the baker was within his rights in declining to abide by the order issued by the bakers' code authority administrator."

"The reasons for this conclusion are found in President Roosevelt's executive order exempting businesses in towns of less than 2500 population which do not employ more than five persons and do not compete with other businesses, with certain exceptions. These exceptions do not include bakers."

Fort Myers Plans To Use Wilcox Bill If It Can Get In Touch With Debtors

FORT MYERS, Aug. 4.—A letter to 125 bondholders went out from the city hall yesterday, explaining the proposed debt adjustment plan and asking their consent. It is estimated that the group hold 90 percent of the municipal securities.

REPUBLICANS TAKE CRACKS AT NEW DEAL

Turning From Tribute
To Coolidge At Memorial Service, Beck
Lambasts Roosevelt

PHOENIX, Va., Aug. 4.—(A.P.)—Republicans, paying tribute to the late Calvin Coolidge at exercises here yesterday, seized the opportunity to fire broadside denunciations of the Roosevelt Administration.

Speaking at services on the 11th anniversary of Coolidge's induction into the presidency, Representative James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, charged the new deal had subjugated "individualism" and said that dictatorial powers are not less dictatorial because they may be politically and apologetically exercised.

Senator Warren R. Austin of Vermont said the business man "is policed by a federal bureaucracy. The common rights of free men are subject to federal regulation. The right to be free from competition by the government is threatened."

"The tendency is to put the government more and more into business and to substitute it for private enterprise, by destroying private incentive and right."

"Containing that under the new deal 'individualism' was smothered, Representative Beck said: 'If Calvin Coolidge were alive today, he would prefer that 'square deal' of individualism to the 'new deal' of bureaucratic regimentation which has changed the American from a citizen to a subject."

"The Constitution never intended to real all powers over trade and industry in the federal government," he said. "The dictatorial powers of the NRA and the AAA have been exercised by an iron hand veiled in a velvet glove."

Beck came to the defense of Henry Ford, whom he termed "America's greatest industrialist."

"No one questions that Mr. Ford was under no obligation to sign the automobile code. As an individualist, he preferred to conduct his business without the protection of the Blue Eagle, which he regarded as an emblem of governmental tyranny. To the Administration of the NRA this was high treason. Although Ford was under no legal obligation to sign the code, and voluntarily complied with its provisions, the NRA proceeded to injure him in every way that bureaucratic ingenuity could devise."

The late president was praised by all speakers. Mrs. Coolidge was in the audience, having driven from her home in Northampton, Mass.

FARLEY SAYS GOP FULL OF VAGUE CLAMOR

Postal Bureau Chief
Defends Roosevelt
Policies As Those
Based On Authority

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 4.—(A.P.)—Postmaster General Farley asserted before an audience here Thursday night that there was no criticism of the President or his policies "until an election was imminent and the opposition party felt that it had to do something to justify its existence, or had to go out of business itself."

Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, said the tactics of the opposition could hardly be called criticism, "for that implies a definiteness of complaint and ought to imply the offer of some substitute for what is complained of."

"What we really get from the opposition," he said, "is a clamor as vague as its import as 'no no' in its utterance. The President is accused of making ducks and drakes of the constitution, although what he has done and is doing is simply exercising the authority reposed in him by acts of Congress in the enactment of which a large proportion of the Republican senators and representatives joined."

The postmaster general defended the National Recovery Administration and Agricultural Adjustment Administration and said political adversaries of the Administration had charged "that your government was shoveling out money without the least regard either for the taxpayer or for the nation's credit."

"On the contrary," he said, "you are having the most economical federal administration that you have had for years."

"Of course, there have been vast emergency expenditures—money put out to save millions of our people from starvation and to provide work for millions who would otherwise be in the bread lines."

J. J. Bolly Succeeds T. F. Adams As Head Of Truck Growers

J. J. Bolly, vice-president of the Sanford-Oviedo Truck Growers, Inc., last night was elected to the presidency of the organization, succeeding T. F. Adams, local grower who advanced from field man to the presidency of the city's largest cooperative marketing agency, a position he held for more than 13 years.

Mr. Bolly's election came during the annual meeting of the stockholders, held at the Court House last night.

George E. Balmes was elected vice-president to succeed Mr. Bolly, while the stockholders named the following as their new directors: Mr. Bolly, Mr. Balmes, W. S. Hand, George Herbert, Charles Wilkie, C. E. Branson, T. F. Adams, Henry Witte, J. H. Clair White, and F. F. Dorner.

All of the directors were re-elected with the exception of Mr. Dorner and Mr. White who take the places vacated by Henry Nickel and John Ludwig.

The board is expected to meet next week in organization session to select a secretary and a treasurer and transact other business.

Robert W. Deane is the present treasurer and Robert A. Cobb is the present secretary of the organization.

Engineer Minarik Slightly Injured In Rear-End Train Collision On Friday

Suffering shocks and bruises occasioned when his freight engine and 56-car train figured in a rear-end collision with a switch engine near Jacksonville yesterday morning, M. "Miss" Minarik, Atlantic Coast Line railroad engineer, was confined to his home at 1318 Park Avenue this morning. His injuries are not considered serious, and it is expected that he will go out on his regular run tomorrow.

Mr. Minarik's fireman, Robert Ringleton, and his trainman, Will Irick, both negro residents of this city, also were at their homes, uninjured, but slightly shaken up.

Power Produced At Oregon Dam, Says Roosevelt, Will Be Controlled By U. S. Always

BONNEVILLE, Oregon, Aug. 4.—(A.P.)—President Roosevelt returned to the continental United States yesterday and on the banks of the Columbia River said "the power we are developing here is going to be power which for all time is going to be controlled by the government."

Addressing "my friends of Oregon and Washington" at the site of the $31,000,000 government project on the Columbia River here the President said the power "that we are developing here is going to be the power which for all time is going to be controlled by the government."

Roosevelt referred to government power development projects as "yardsticks" which would show whether the public was "paying the proper price for the electricity of our times."

The President spoke of enlarging the time when the Columbia River would be opened to navigation.

SPOKANE, Washington, Aug. 4.—(A.P.)—A sack of dynamite and percussion caps, found lying near a railroad right-of-way over which President Roosevelt's train passed early today led to extreme precautions of federal and county officials to avoid any attempt against the Presidential train.

The train passed over the spot near here without any untoward incident. The explosives were discovered by a Union Pacific agent four days ago who became suspicious of four men he saw depositing the package.

For four days a body of secret service men and sheriff's deputies watched the spot. "We kept a guard here," Sheriff George Miles said. "To capture the men if they returned for the explosives."

going commerce far northward in to Washington state and eastward into Idaho.

"That is a dream, my friends," he continued, "and not an idle dream. While we are improving navigation we are creating power. I don't believe that you can have enough power for a long time to come."

Roosevelt said government projects which would constitute "yardsticks" for determining power costs were those of the Columbia River (Boulder dam), the Tennessee and the Columbia, the latter being the project here and the $63,000,000 project at Grand Coulee, and one on the St. Lawrence.

In a brief talk to the thousands gathered here, the President intimated that sea locks may be ordered for the $31,000,000 Bonneville power and navigation dam here, permitting ocean going vessels to "pass up as far as the delta."

"There are many people who want to come to a portion of this country," the President said of the West, "where there will be better chance for themselves and their children."

He declared "we should make room for crowded families" after having spoken of "many sections" (Continued on Page Three)

HITLER CALLS REICHSTAG TO MEET MONDAY

New Napoleon Slated
To Justify His Unusual Assumption
Of Monarch's Power

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—(A.P.)—Adolf Hitler, seeking to consolidate his position as a "New Napoleon," summoned an all Nazi reichstag today to assemble Monday for a memorial service to the late President von Hindenburg.

Hitler's address a Chancellor's spokesman intimated, will be of a political nature, with a direct eulogy of von Hindenburg reserved for the funeral services Tuesday at Tannenberg because of the unusual circumstances of his coup d'etat which he merged the offices of President and Chancellor.

Hitler is believed to be intending to seize the occasion to justify his assumption of the powers of a monarch.

From the Reichstag rostrum, "Der Fuehrer" is expected to utilize what may be his best opportunity to justify in a guarded way, to the German people and the world, his precipitate action of Thursday immediately after von Hindenburg's death.

Displaying a lively interest in the world reaction to the situation Hitler is said to be especially desirous of having America understand his motive and plan.

The German government decided finally that their late president will be entombed in the memorial at Tannenberg instead of on the grounds of his estate at Neudeck where he had expressed a wish to lie.

Until today authorities in Berlin and members of his household at Neudeck had been in disagreement as to the final disposition of the field marshal's body following a state funeral next Tuesday.

Long Jests About His Battle With Walmsley

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4.—(A.P.)—Senator Huey P. Long yesterday joked broadly about the tense political war between his faction and that of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley as city authorities moved to bring both the senator and Adjutant General Raymond H. Fleming to task for refusing to obey a court order to disband the national guard.

Citations for contempt were prepared for filing in the civil district court after the adjutant general had dodged service on the court order for demobilization and instead of disbanding had ordered his force strengthened.

Claude R. McIntosh Is Buried Near Sorrento

Funeral services for Claude R. McIntosh, 43, former Coast Line railroad conductor, who resided here some months ago, were held from the Carey (Hind) Chapel in Orlando yesterday afternoon, with Rev. H. C. Gannaway of Concord Park Methodist Church in Orlando, officiating.

Burial was in Memorial Springs Cemetery near Sorrento. The pallbearers were: B. G. Methrin, R. Z. Johnson, Hall Newman and J. B. Fields of Sanford, J. B. McLoat of Tampa, and H. A. Billwell of Lakeland.

During the service, Mrs. Tom Hoy of Tampa, sang "Abide With Me" and "When They Ring the Golden Bells." Miss Margaret Davis of Sanford, accompanied at the piano.

Mr. McIntosh, widely known among railroad officials and employees in this city, died in Alburquerque, N. M., last Friday after a long illness. He is survived by his mother and sister, both residing in Orlando.

CITY BRIEFS

Local weather yesterday:
High 87, low 74.

The tides at nearby beaches tonight and tomorrow: High tide this afternoon 4:09 o'clock; low tide tonight, 10:27 o'clock; high tide Sunday at 4:36 A. M., and 5:06 P. M.; low tide Sunday at 10:30 A. M., and 11:12 P. M.

A limited supply of the new Wisconsin Tercentenary stamps now are on sale at the postoffice, it was announced today by acting Postmaster R. J. Holly, Sr. Of special interest to stamp collectors, the new issue is rectangular in form, and is printed in a variation of lavender color. It has on it a picture of Nicolet's landing on the borders of Green Bay, Wisconsin.

Officials of the State Hospital at Chattahoochee arrived in Sanford by bus late yesterday afternoon with a load of passengers en route to the hospital. A stop was made at the County Jail for Emma Johnson, negro woman who has been confined there for some days. The Johnson woman had been treated at the hospital on another occasion, but her condition now necessitates still further treatment.

Fire Chief Mac Cleveland's record of fires for the month of July, filed at the City Hall this morning, reveals that only two calls were made during the month, and they were within an hour of each other. The calls took the department to the vicinity of Sanford and Geneva Avenues where lightning caused fires in a dwelling and garage. The damage at the dwelling was set at $14, while the garage fire damage was set at $40.

Having enjoyed a six week vacation during which they spent most of their time at nearby beaches, camps and other pleasure spots, members of Boy Scout Troop 5 will return to another active season of service when they gather at their headquarters in the Arcade Building next Monday night at 7:45 o'clock. The meeting has been called by Scoutmaster Herman Morris, and all members of the troop are expected to be present.

Supervisor of Registration W. J. Tigging announced this morning that registration books will be opened at his office next Monday, to be available on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday of each week through Oct. 20, to all persons interested in registering for the General Election in November. The books will be opened in the various county precincts at a later date, and announcement is to be made as to the date within a few days.
