Sanford Commission Approves Housing Complex

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The way for a new $2.5 million, 90-unit apartment complex — Georgia Arms —, north of Seminole High School, was cleared by the Sanford City Commission Monday night.

The complex for the low income and elderly will be financed with tax-free bonds to be floated by a new corporation, Sanford-Seminole Housing, Inc., for developers Georgia Arms Limited.

The bonds are to be insured by the U.S.

Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

A partner in the development is the Law Co., Inc., of Wichita, Kan.

Jerry Linscott, project bond counsel, said federal law requires the project to have a governmental organization like the city of Sanford as a sponsor for it to be approved by HUD. He said since the law providing the special type financing insurance expires Aug. 1, project approval must be acquired from the federal agency prior to that deadline.

He said the only reason the project is feasible is because of the tax-free financing.

Linscott, who is with the Orlando law firm of Baker and Hostettler, said the city's only obligation in sponsoring the project is to review the firm's annual audit and send a letter of opinion on the audit to HUD.

City Commissioner David Farr, who said he has grown to dislike HUD because of problems the city had over HUD financing to the Sanford Housing Authority, was the only commissioner to vote against the project.

"I cannot in conscience go for it," Farr said. "I have nothing against the Law Co. It (the project) doesn't feel right to me."

Pointing to the resolution adopted by the City Commission authorizing the project and agreeing to sponsor it, City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles noted the resolution doesn't take effect until the city is given further assurances.

The assurances include legal opinions from Linscott's law firm and a Washington law firm associated with the project that the city will have no financial liability. In addition, the Law Co. is also to provide the city with written promises that it will pay the city any money it might be required to pay for the project.

Farr asked Linscott if his legal opinion that the city would not be liable for the project's indebtedness is wrong, would his law firm defend the city?

Linscott said his firm's agreement with the city "will make us liable if we are wrong."

He said since HUD is administering the project, there will always be money on hand to complete it. "HUD would have to complete the project if something happens," Linscott said.

Bill Hutchison, local attorney for the project, said, "It doesn't make any difference what happens the city has no liability."

Construction of Georgia Arms is to begin in the fall if HUD grants its approval, officials said.

ComBank Project Delayed

Construction of the new ComBank at the northeast corner of Park Avenue and Commercial Street has been delayed while bank and city officials work out a compromise.

The Sanford City Commission Monday night took no action on a proposed site plan for the branch bank. This was after branch manager Joe F. Justice III said no changes could be made in the plans for the facility even though some aspects conflicted with city law.

After a lengthy discussion where no compromise could be worked out with Justice, the City Commission voted unanimously to instruct City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles and City Engineer Mack LaZenby to contact ComBank-Seminole President John Squires to resolve the problem.

Squires said today there is a "vast area for compromise for one very good reason. We want to do business in the city of Sanford. We don't want to cause traffic hazards or create any dangerous situation for downtown Sanford. We want to be a real asset to the city and not create any problems."

"There is all manner of room for compromise. I plan on getting with the architect and sitting down with Knowles and LaZenby to see if we cannot come up with some kind of agreement," he said.

Squires added he is probably the cause of the confusion. "It was probably misunderstanding on my part," he said, adding that he doesn't know of a single site plan for a branch bank in his system that was accepted by any governing body as originally drawn.

Knowles told the Commission the Planning and Zoning Commission approved the site plan conditioned upon ComBank working out a parking plan approved by LaZenby.

He said at a meeting Friday between Justice and LaZenby the engineer pointed out the plan included "hazards" and changes were necessary.

Knowles said Monday afternoon the old plans without changes were submitted to the City Commission for approval, overriding his and the engineer's objections.

The manager said the parking plan was denied because it eliminated four parking stalls, called for a curb cut of 72 feet when the maximum allowed under city law is 50 feet; and creates seven private parking stalls backing into Commercial Street traffic at its busy intersection with Park Avenue.

Knowles said the private parking stalls are not required by the city and they should be relocated.

Justice said it cost the bank $16,000 for architectural work on the site plan. He said if the city would not approve the planned parking on the property, the entire site plan would have to be redrawn. "We are at your mercy," Justice said.

Commissioner Milton Smith said the plan deviated too far from the city code. "I'm for a reasonable compromise. I appreciate it when a business wants to locate in Sanford."

A motion by Commissioner Ned Yancey to approve the plan as presented died for lack of a second. All five commission members voted for Knowles and LaZenby to solve the problem with Squires.

Robbery

South Seminole S&L Hit By Lone Robber

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Investigators are continuing their search today for a man who held up the First Federal Savings and Loan Association in south Seminole County at gunpoint Monday, stealing an undisclosed amount of cash.

According to sheriff's spokesman John Spolski, investigators from his department and the FBI are looking for a middle-aged man, who walked into the savings and loan building at about noon and handed a teller a note saying, "Holdup — no trouble."

Deputies said the man indicated to tellers that he was armed although no witnesses reported seeing a weapon.

The teller filled the lone robber's brown paper bag with an undisclosed amount of money and he fled from the building to a parked car and drove east on State Road 436, Spolski said.

"There were about three customers in the building and four or five employees when he robbed it," Spolski said. "The bank also had a camera surveillance and we have a good picture of the robber on film."

Spolski added the man was wearing a long-sleeved pullover shirt, dark blue pants, and a black boating-type cap with a captain's insignia on the cap's bill.

"According to witnesses, he didn't wear a mask but they said he was very, very nervous during the whole ordeal," Spolski said.

Witnesses told deputies the man's getaway car was a light-colored blue, two-door sedan with a Florida license plate.

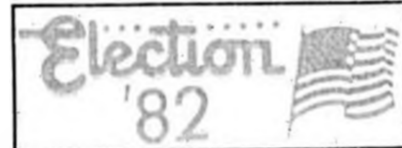

A lone robber takes the money and runs from a teller at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, of south Seminole County, as surveillance cameras film the robbery.

Brantley Says 'No' To Lieutenant Governor Job

State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Lopwood, has turned down a bid from GOP gubernatorial candidate U.S. Rep. L.A. "Skip" Bafalis to be his running mate in the November elections.

Instead, Brantley has qualified to seek election to a third term in the Florida House of Representatives.

"While I believe Bafalis will be an outstanding governor, and I feel honored to be among those mentioned to run with him, I have decided that I wish to concentrate on helping the people of my district and the state as a legislator,"

Brantley said. "I believe my effectiveness as a legislator has increased with experience, contacts and the knowledge I have gained over the past four years in Tallahassee," he said.

Brantley, elected in 1978, was re-elected in 1980 by an almost 3-1 margin, the second largest margin of victory on the entire ballot.

No one has announced to oppose him in the primaries or general election.

Meanwhile on the local level, County Commissioners Sandra Glenn and Robert Sturm and School Board member Pat Telson, also have no qualified opposition yet. Mrs. Glenn and Sturm are Republicans.

While former County Commissioner Bob French, D-Casselberry, announced he will oppose Sturm, he has not yet qualified with Seminole Elections Supervisor Camilla Bruce.

Allan Keeth, senior member of the School Board with 16 consecutive years in office, has drawn opposition from Jean Bryant. Mrs. Bryant served two terms previously on the board.

School Board member Bill Kroll announced he will seek re-election, but has not yet qualified. He is completing his first term in office.

School Board seats are non-partisan. The candidate qualifying period ends at noon, July 20. Write-in candidates have until noon, July 27, to qualify.

A three bedroom ranch-style house like the one shown in this sketch will be auctioned off to help the Central Florida Zoo.

Auction May Raise $30,000

House To Be Built, Sold For Zoo

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

A unique fund-raising effort in support of the Central Florida Zoo will begin officially at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday with groundbreaking of Residential Communities of America's zoo house.

Seminole County, Sanford and zoo officials are expected to attend the ceremonies which will kick off a four-month campaign in support of the zoo.

RCA of Altamonte Springs will build the house in Sanford's Hidden Lake addition. When completed, the three-bedroom, two-bath house will be auctioned off with all proceeds above the builder's costs going to the zoo.

J.D. Feinstein of RCA said he envisions the sale bringing the zoo a minimum of $30,000. But the proceeds could be much more if subcontractors and suppliers of materials add to the contributions.

"We've put out a letter to the subcontractors for solicitations," he said. "We've already received some donations of material."

"Local response has been excellent," Feinstein said. "We have already received a service donation from a group of surveyors and a planning and design commitment from a local landscape gardener. If we are unable to use the products on the RCA Zoo House, we'll use the materials on another house and the Central Florida Zoo will receive full credit."

Al Rozon, the zoo's executive director, said, "Some of the letters have already come back in the form of credit or credit chips for materials. Those chips have been passed along to the developer."

Rozon said the zoo will be involved on a daily basis with RCA's effort. "We will have members of the board of directors contact them to follow up the letters."

Feinstein said RCA has long been a supporter of the zoo.

"But rather than just write them (the zoo) a check, we wanted to try and find something which could bring in a lot of money," he said.

The first idea the company considered was auctioning off a house and giving the money to the zoo. "We had hoped to auction off a house and give all the proceeds to the zoo but with the economy like it is we just couldn't do that."

Feinstein said a raffle with the thought of selling $100,000 in tickets at $1 each was considered but eventually dropped. Eventually, the decision was made to sell the house and donate everything over costs to the zoo. But Feinstein went one step further and asked the subcontractors to help hold the costs down.

Rozon said the zoo is grateful for the promotion but does not envision regular house auctions to replace current zoo fundraising efforts.

"It's the type of promotion that can bring us more attention and publicity," he said.

"Visitors to the zoo are primarily residents of Central Florida," he said. "We are totally dependent upon contributions from the community, and I feel this is a unique way to benefit both the zoo and the community. There is the opportunity for many different people and companies to become involved in supporting their zoo."

School Budget Concerns Raised

Approval for advertising the proposed $111 million Seminole County school budget was given Monday night despite questions by board members about several growth problems that could affect the county.

No serious problems were found with the new budget, which projects a 3 to 5 percent increase in the number of students attending county schools. But there were some concerns raised about the school lunch program and about contingency funding.

Even though the budget includes a $14 million increase over the fiscal 1981-82 budget, School Superintendent Robert Hughes said it "has the appearance of being a status quo budget in a rapidly growing school district." Hughes said no additional administrative personnel were included in the budget.

Board member Allan Keeth expressed concern over a proposal in the budget to increase the cost of school lunches for elementary and secondary students by a nickel.

Keeth suggested a study be made to determine "what would happen if, rather than raising the price 5 cents, you drop the elementary schools 5 cents and increase the secondary schools another 5 cents."

Keeth said he is not trying to eliminate the projected $192,000 deficit in the school lunch program but to increase participation in elementary schools.

The budget recommends pricing elementary school lunches at 90 cents and secondary lunches at $1.

Board member William Kroll who sits on the food service committee, said Keeth's idea was interesting and had not even been considered by the committee.

Kroll said the committee's recommendation to hike prices at both levels by a nickel came because "the consensus was that a nickel wouldn't deter anyone if they know something is being done to improve the quality of the program."

Kroll said the committee has studied the program and made other recommendations to improve the quality of food served and the conditions at many of the schools.

A study conducted by University of Central Florida students showed that lunchroom conditions were inadequate at many of the county's schools and because of those conditions participation in the program had decreased.

"We tried to come up with some short-range goals, things that would cost little or no money and could be done this year," he said. "Long-range goals could be quite expensive, but it's the first time we've ever really had any goals."

Kroll said the food service program has remained virtually the same over the past two decades even though Seminole County has undergone massive growth. Because of that growth, some of the facilities are now inadequate.

"The most urgent need is providing adequate space for students to eat," he said.

Board chairman Roland V. Williams expressed concern at the level of contingency funding in the 1982-83 budget: "Ever since I've been on the board the contingency fund has been set at $500,000."

He said the need for contingency funds should grow in proportion to the size of the budget.

Roger Harris, assistant superintendent for business and finance, agreed that contingency funds must increase in proportion to the budget and said $1 million would be a good fund for the $111 million budget.

Harris said contingency funds exist in other areas of the budget. He said one contingency is the FTE program, designed to provide state aid for rapidly growing areas. The county budget does not spend all the anticipated money from that fund.

IN BRIEF

Reagan Backs Amendment Mandating Balanced Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, who ended up endorsing budgets with record-high deficits, now promises "to do all I can" to achieve passage of a proposed constitutional amendment to require a balanced budget.

The Republican-controlled Senate Monday opened debate for the first time ever on such an amendment and planned to resume consideration today.

The proposed amendment would require Congress annually to adopt a budget resolution in which total spending would be no greater than total receipts, unless three-fifths of Congress voted specifically to permit a deficit.

The amendment further states Congress shall not allow taxes to increase automatically by a rate greater than the rate of increase in national income in the previous year, unless a majority of both House and Senate pass a bill approving specific tax increases.

Refugee Hearing Today

ATLANTA (UPI) — Attorney General William French Smith has dispatched his third-ranking deputy to argue the Justice Department's motion to delay the release of almost 1,900 Haitians held more than a year in crowded detention camps.

Deputy Attorney General Rudolph Giuliani was to appear before a three-judge panel of the U.S. 11th Circuit Court of Appeals hearing oral arguments in the case today. The federal government last week filed a 40-page motion for a stay of the Miami court order for release of the Haitian refugees.

The Justice Department maintained that U.S. District Judge Eugene P. Spellman overstepped judicial authority in ordering the Immigration and Naturalization Service to implement an eight-point plan for freeing the detained refugees. Volunteers from five Miami relief agencies began interviewing the Haitians Monday, in preparation for carrying out Spellman's order if the circuit court declines to quash it.

Tape Hinders Crash Probe

KENNER, La. (UPI) — Frustrated investigators say they have made virtually no progress in deciphering a cockpit tape of the final moments of Pan Am Flight 759 and will seek replacement of the troublesome device in all Boeing 727s.

The malfunctioning recorder is expected to cause at least a week's delay in analysis of the tape, which could determine whether pilots of the Pan Am jetliner heard "wind shear" warnings moments before a takeoff and crash that killed 153 people.

Shultz Confirmation Begins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Shultz is expected to be confirmed by the end of the week as President Reagan's secretary of state, but today he faced questions from pro-Israel senators about his dealings with the Arab world.

Shultz, 61, was called before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and several members said they wanted to ask him about his role as head of a company that had multibillion-dollar dealings with Arab nations.

After Impartial Jury Couldn't Be Found

Brevard Murder Trial Moves To Sanford

By TENI YARBOROUGH
 Herald Staff Writer

The trial of a 23-year-old ex-Marine, accused of kidnapping, raping and drowning a six-year-old Merritt Island girl, began today at the Seminole County courthouse after efforts to find an unbiased jury in Brevard County failed.

Bryan Jennings, who is reportedly from the Merritt Island area, is being tried in connection with the death of Rebecca Kunash whose body was found in a Brevard County creek after she had been abducted and raped at her home May 11, 1979, state prosecutors said.

"Circuit Judge Clarence Johnson ordered the change of venue to Sanford's court after every potential juror was questioned and all but one said they had read, heard or seen something about the trial through the newspapers, radio or television," said Chief Assistant State Attorney Chris Ray, from his Brevard County office.

"A large majority of the potential jurors indicated to the court that they had already formed a preconceived idea of the accused man's guilt or innocence," Ray said.

Ray said Jennings was previously convicted of the charges and was given the death penalty but the Florida Supreme Court overturned the ruling in April because his public defender failed to question an essential witness at the first trial.

Jennings is being represented by a specially-appointed public defender, Stan Andrews, Ray said. Prosecutors in the case include Seminole State Attorney Douglas Cheshire and Assistant State attorney, Michael Hunt.

"I expect the trial will be over within a week," Ray said. "They should be able to pick a jury in Sanford today and begin opening arguments this afternoon. But, I can't see it going any longer than a week with the change in location."

WATCHES, RINGS RIPPED OFF

Two watches and about 10 rings were stolen from a Longwood home at about 10:14 p.m. Sunday.

George A. Burlakos, 40, of 201 Duncan Trail, Longwood, told deputies the thieves entered his garage through a window and stole the items from a table where they had been displayed at a garage sale earlier that day.

The stolen property is valued at about $400, deputies said.

AUTO ACCIDENTS REPORTED

The Sanford Police Department reported the following automobile accidents:

— Bill Harriett, 69, of 6496 Lenway, Sanford, was charged with improper passing following an accident involving Robby Staats, 16, of Longwood along Park Avenue, near the county court house at 9:20 a.m., Friday. Police said about $50 damage was done to Harriett's 1979 Ford. No damage was reported of Staats' 1981 Honda.

— Terri L. Blalle, 18, of 912 W. Blue Spring, Orange City, was charged with right-of-way violation following an accident July 6 in Sanford involving a truck driven by Clayton Ashnault, 81, of 5 Carriage Cove Way, Sanford. Police reported no injuries but estimated damages at $550 to Blalle's vehicle and $400 to Ashnault's truck.

MAN CHARGED WITH AUTO THEFT

Halsey Dean Piercy, 25, of 3606 Country Club Road, Sanford, was being held in the county jail today following his arrest at 9:09 p.m. Sunday on charges of grand theft of an automobile, deputies said.

Piercy is charged with the theft of a 1980 Cadillac, which was reported stolen by owner Joe Del Rosso, who told deputies he had parked the vehicle at the Mayfair Country Club at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Deputies observed the vehicle along State Road 46A near Upsala Road at about 7:50 p.m. and pursued the car to Monroe Road, to State Road 46 west and on to Lake Markham Road.

Deputies said the driver of the car stopped the vehicle along Lake Markham Road, jumped from the car and fled into a nearby wooded area. A short time later, deputies arrested Piercy with assistance from Altamonte Springs police and their police dog, Bullet.

Florida's Economy

State Tax Collection Down, May Prolong Recession

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — State taxes last month produced $40 million less than expected, which might mean a longer and deeper recession for the Florida economy.

Tax collections in June totaled $398.7 million, $40 million less than the official estimate used to develop state government's budget and $38 million less than in May, state economists reported Monday.

They said they aren't sure if the poor showing means the recession won't end this fall as expected if it was a fluke or sorts resulting from the recent penny sales tax increase.

"We're sitting here with a big question mark," said Jim Lacrosse of the Joint Legislative Management Committee. "We're just going to have to wait until next month's revenue figures are out."

The reason for the uncertainty is the penny increase in the state sales tax that took effect May 1, Lacrosse said.

The official estimate for June was the first based on a nickel sales tax and it could be that many merchants aren't yet collecting the extra penny.

In addition, June's tax revenues reflect May's economic activities. There was some "prebuying" in April, with Floridians purchasing automobiles and other big money items before the sales tax went to a nickel. That would result into less than normal sales for May and less than normal tax collections in June.

There was a $7 million windfall in May's collections. The total was $437.4 million, $7 million more than expected. It was the first time in months collections weren't below the estimate and was seen as a preliminary sign that the recession was about over.

Until the full extent of the impact of these two factors is known, it won't be clear whether the economy has once again dropped into a decline or no-growth pattern, Lacrosse said.

"We don't think it is as bad as it looks, but we don't know," he said.

The sales tax provides the bulk of Florida's revenues. It came in at $262 million, $25.5 million below the estimate. The other large shortfall came in intangibles tax collections, which totaled $17.4 million, $6.7 million less than expected.

The intangibles tax deficiency isn't alarming because most of these revenues come in during the last two months of the fiscal year, so while there was a shortfall, it isn't one that could recur on a monthly basis as the sales tax deficit could recur.

The fiscal year ended June 30 with state taxes producing $4.365 billion, $62 million below the last official revenue estimate, calculated in February, and $306.8 million below the May 1981, original estimate calculated before the Florida economy went into a recession.

The $62 million shortfall was covered by surplus funds kept in the working capital fund.

State government finished the 1981-82 fiscal year with a balanced budget because of the reserve fund. It could be in a lot of trouble during the just-begun fiscal year, however, if the recession doesn't end soon.

The Legislature "busted" the reserve fund for all practical purposes to balance the $10 billion new spending plan, so Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet might be forced to make giant cuts in state agency spending at some point.

A recession is defined as at least six months of decline or no growth in the major areas of economic activity. The Florida economy has been in a recession for the last six months, with a rebound predicted for the quarter that began this month.

What is critical now is whether June's less than expected tax collections mean not only will there be no recovery, but that the recession will worsen, as well as continue.

Defense Revenues Could One Day Rival Tourism

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — An economist says the defense industry could become Florida's largest money-maker if the Reagan administration continues its massive military buildup.

Federal defense spending in the state jumped by 31 percent last year, up from $5.1 billion in 1980 to $6.7 billion, a Defense Department spokesman said. Four percent of the department's budget was spent in Florida.

John Godfrey, an economist with the Jacksonville-based Barnett Banks of Florida Inc., says last year's figure for Florida could almost double if Congress goes along with the president's military plans.

"If the Reagan administration continues spending as expected and Florida continues to attract its historical proportion of defense spending, total defense spending in the state could reach $12 billion by the mid-1980s," he predicted.

That sum could be more than tourism, Florida's No. 1 industry, produces.

The $6.7 figure makes Florida fifth in terms of total defense spending in 1981, behind California, $26.3 billion; Texas, $12.9 billion; New York, $9.8 billion, and Virginia, $6.7 billion.

Defense dollars, however, are not being equitably spread around the state. Godfrey said 90 percent of the defense spending has gone into the coffers of only 12 of 67 counties.

About $772 million was spent in Orange County last year, making it the state's No. 1 defense county. Among contractors in Orange County is Martin Marietta Corp., which manufactures missiles and missile guidance systems.

Florida is emerging as a center of manufacturing and research. An increase in the number of defense manufacturing and service contracts won by Florida firms accounted for the largest proportion of last year's spending increase.

Spending on manufacturing and service contracts jumped 54 percent last year, to $3.2 billion from $2 billion the year before. That is more than triple the 1971 level and accounts for nearly half the total defense spending in the state.

"The state's emphasis on high-technology industries has positioned the state well to participate in the defense buildup," Godfrey said.

Florida is now dotted with major arms-related plants that are owned by many of the nation's biggest defense manufacturers, like McDonnell Douglas Corp. and United Technologies Corp. Dozens of smaller subcontractors and parts suppliers have sprung up around them.

Prime defense contracts awarded last year included aircraft and airframes, $1.2 billion; missile and space, $394 million; ships, $80 million; combat and non-combat vehicles, $131 million; weapons, $166 million, and electronics, communications, $436 million.

Included in defense spending figures were payroll costs at Florida's military bases and the cost of military retiree pensions. Not included was $500 million used by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for construction at Cape Canaveral and the space shuttle program.

The Cost Of Having Your Day In Court Going Up

By MICHEAL BEHA
 Herald Staff Writer

The costs of filing civil court cases in Seminole County is increasing.

The County Commission voted today to increase the filing fees for cases filed in circuit and county courts.

Commissioners voted 3-2 in favor of hiking the fees to go toward constructing new and upgrading existing court facilities. Those fees would add $10 to $20 to the filing fee, depending upon the amount of damages sought in the case.

A second ordinance, to provide an additional $3 fee to go to the county's legal aid society, passed unanimously.

The new fee schedule will be $33 for cases involving less than $100, $43.50 on cases involving from $100 to $1,000, and $48 for cases between $1,000 and $5,000. There is also a provision charging $12 for issuing a summons in a civil case.

Commissioners Sandra Glenn and Bill Kirchhoff voted against the increased fees saying they felt the increases were excessive.

"I personally didn't realize you could go up to $60 in fees on a $200 case," Mrs. Glenn said. "Jury trials take up several hours but most of the cases in small claims court are done in less than half an hour."

The second ordinance increases from $2 to $5 the amount given to the county's legal aid society for service to indigents. The ordinance originally called for a $5 increase, but was amended by Commissioner R.G. "Bud" Feather.

"Three dollars will tremendously increase the benefit to the legal aid society," he said.

"We're more than doubling the amount we give them. With the advent of trust accounts which can earn interest, I believe doubling the fee is magnanimous."

The number of cases filed in county and circuit courts has more than doubled in the past four years, Feather said, and he predicted a similar increase over the next four years.

Feather used the discussion as a platform to endorse funding for a proposed mediation program, suggesting $2 per case be placed into a fund to support the plan.

The program would help unlog the court system, providing for an alternative to costly, time consuming civil actions, he said.

The problem could also be useful in dealing with the growing number of divorces, Feather said.

"We've got 40,000 children in this county. And about a third of them, 12,000 come from divorced parents. This program could go a long way to solving the animosity and anger in those situations."

Altamonte May OK Garbage Hike

The Altamonte City Commission is expected to give preliminary approval to a refuse rate hike at its regular meeting tonight at 7 at City Hall, 225 Newburyport Ave.

If approved, Altamonte's 4,300 garbage customers would see a hike in monthly collection rates from $5.65 to $6.25.

City Manager Jeff Etchberger said today the rate increase will cover the costs of adding a fourth crew to the city's present three-crew garbage pickup schedule and will help pay for the purchase of a new $88,000 garbage truck. Etchberger said both the new truck and the fourth crew are expected to be added towards the end of the year.

"The increase will cover a combination of inflation, will help replace old equipment, and add the new truck and personnel," he said.

Etchberger added that even with the 50-cent increase, he believed Altamonte Springs had one of the lowest rates of a government- or privately-run refuse collection system.

Orange, Seminole May Swap Fire, Rescue Services

Seminole and Orange counties are discussing a plan for swapping fire and rescue services in some areas of the two counties.

Gary Kaiser, Seminole County public service director, said talks were progressing toward arranging an exchange for services already provided by Seminole County firefighters stationed in Fern Park.

Seminole has been receiving $38,000 a year from Orange County for fire protection in a section of unincorporated Orange County, including the Palm Grove subdivision.

Orange County officials want to swap service for the money. Under their proposal, Orange County would offer fire protection to the unincorporated sections around Goldenrod in southeast Seminole County.

Kaiser said he is working to get the best service available for the money and said the county could receive service worth more than the $38,000 if a good agreement can be reached.

Under discussion are proposals to jointly staff fire stations in areas where service is offered in the adjacent county.

Kaiser said meetings would continue this week to iron out differences in the plan. If approved, the exchange of service could go into effect Oct. 1, he said.

IN BRIEF

3rd Sinkhole In A Week Threatens Water Supply

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — The third sinkhole in a week opened up Monday night and experts said it could threaten the city's drinking water supply and a nearby apartment house complex.

The newest sinkhole was about 8 feet across and very deep, said Edward Renna, an engineer and co-owner of Lakeland's Sinkhole Data and Research Center, who was called to the scene.

The newest sinkhole was in an open field less than a quarter-mile from where a 50-foot-deep cave-in occurred in the parking lot of the Maracaibo Manors Apartments a week ago. It gobbled down an $11,000 new Oldsmobile. Renna's firm completed plugging that chasm with 10 tons of reinforced concrete and 100 tons of dirt Saturday.

A second and much smaller sinkhole, described as "about the size of a pothole," opened up Sunday about a mile away from the Maracaibo cave-in. It was causing no problems.

Wounds Not Self Inflicted

LEESBURG (UPI) — Stab wounds to an inmate who accused prison officials of routinely ordering Sumter Correctional Institution guards to beat prisoners were too deep to be self inflicted, a Leesburg doctor says.

Dr. Higinio Serra, on duty when inmate John Edgar was brought to Leesburg Regional Center Sunday with stab wounds to the stomach and back, said Monday he doubts Edgar stabbed himself as prison officials have alleged.

Edgar had charged in sworn testimony that prison officials, including Superintendent Wayne Helms, ordered guards to beat inmates after a race riot at Sumter in October 1981. In March, 13 guards were fired, suspended or reprimanded for slapping and shaving the heads of 10 inmates.

Since the disciplinary action, guards have alleged they were told to get rough with prisoners to regain control of the prison, charges prison officials have denied.

Sheik Pays Off Bad Debts

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Saudi Arabian sheik Mohamed al-Fassi paid off some of his bad debts Monday in a big way — $1.5 million to a hotel and about $200,000 to a line of some 30 various merchants, contractors and service people.

Then the reputed oil potentate filed a $1 billion damage suit against the luxury Diplomat Hotel, which had him evicted last week and arrested on charges of defrauding an innkeeper.

British Rail May Fold, Fire Striking Engineers

LONDON (UPI) — The management of state-owned British Rail, unable to break a 10-day strike that has halted most trains, called a meeting today to consider shutting down the national network entirely or firing striking engineers.

The strike, which has all but halted inter-city services and severely curtailed suburban lines, has forced 1.4 million weekday commuters into packed buses and subways and frustrated hundreds of thousands of foreign tourists.

Officials said a shutdown of the 11,500-mile network, which would add 200,000 railway employees to Britain's 3 million jobless, would not take effect until Saturday.

Train Derailment Kills 23

TEPIC, Mexico (UPI) — A train heading south from the Arizona border jumped the tracks and crashed 800 feet down a mountain gorge in western Mexico, killing at least 23 people, including one American, and injuring 100 others.

Railroad officials, giving conflicting reports on the number of dead ranging from 23 to 35, said 13 cars of the 26-car train carrying 1,560 passengers toppled to the bottom of the gorge.

Engineer Jose Luis Velasco told his superiors the train derailed because a section of roadbed had eroded and the tracks collapsed under the passing engines, the Mexican government news agency Notimex reported.

Casselberry Puts Sting On Bee Request

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

Citing concern expressed by nearby residents over the possibility of being stung, the Casselberry City Council has voted 4-1 to deny a request by a city resident to temporarily keep two bee hives in his back yard.

Douglas Auld, 324 Oleander Way, came before the council Monday armed with a poll which showed a majority of his neighbors favored allowing him to pursue his hobby. Auld also presented a letter from the city's Animal Control Officer stating that the department had no objections to him keeping the bees. Auld estimated his two hives were home for about 600 "lame" Italian honey bees.

He was requesting permission to keep the bees in his back yard for 40-60 days while two new queen bees were introduced to build up the hive's population. Auld told the council he planned to move the hives to a friend's 10-acre parcel of property on Dean Road in Orlando once the hives had sufficient time to grow.

At first, the council appeared ready to grant Auld's request. After checking with City Attorney Kenneth W. McIntosh to see if the city would be liable for any resident who was stung by Auld's bees, the council and Auld appeared to have reached a "hold harmless" agreement in which Auld would accept any and all responsibility should a neighbor be stung.

But after hearing opposition from two of Auld's neighbors, the council changed its mind.

One of Auld's neighbors, Mary Johnson, 322 Oleander Way, told the council, "I'm allergic to bees. If I'm stung, I'd be in the hospital."

Another neighbor, Jack Schubert Jr., said, "I'm sure Mr. Auld has the best intentions, but my fiancée is allergic to bee stings and there is some danger involved."

Auld contended that his nearest neighbor was 120-feet away and that the bees were kept in a fenced yard.

"My children and grandchildren play within a few feet of the hives," he said. "And they've never been stung."

Councilman Jim Lavigne said he felt a "hold harmless" agreement would satisfy the city's responsibility in the matter. But on reflection, Auld said he felt if someone was stung, it would be impossible to determine if one of his bees was the culprit.

"There's bees all over the city. How can someone be positive it might be one of mine?"

he asked.

Councilman Frank Shutte then made a motion to deny the request. His motion was backed by a 4-1 vote with only Lavigne siding with Auld.

"I have no qualms with Mr. Auld's request, but it's been the council's desire in the past to respect the privacy of homeowners in the immediate proximity of their property," Shutte said. "I can't vote for it."

As expected, and without much fanfare, the council went along with Mayor Owen Sheppard's request to table any discussion about Casselberry's participation in the Iron Bridge Sewage Treatment Expansion project.

Casselberry, along with Maitland, Winter Park, Winter Springs, Seminole County, Orange County and Orlando, currently hold shares in the Oviedo-based sewage treatment plant. Plans are on the drawing board to expand the facility from its current 28,000 gallon-per-day capacity to about 44,000 gallons-per-day.

Prior to Monday night's meeting, Sheppard cited spiraling engineering study costs and projected higher future costs for Casselberry's participation in the expansion project as the city's reason for cooling its heels on Iron Bridge participation.

Last week, the city began negotiations with Maitland to purchase that city's sewage treatment plant. Sheppard added that the city is considering spending money to upgrade its own sewage treatment plant instead of joining in Iron Bridge.

In other council matters Monday, the board tabled action on accepting a bid from Basic Asphalt and Construction Co. for the construction of sidewalks on Winter Park Drive until another public hearing can be held to give residents along the street a voice in whether or not they want to pay an additional 26-cents per lineal foot above the city's original cost estimate on the project.

City Engineer Ken Elthers informed the council that the lowest bid received, which was from Basic for $15,751, was slightly more than the city's estimate of $14,140. Based on Elthers original estimate, the six homeowners and the Casselberry Golf Course were to be assessed $11 per lineal foot for the 1,400-lineal foot construction project. Basic's low bid would mean an increase of 26-cents per foot for the seven parties involved in the project.

Sanford Commission

Tentatively OKs $8.5 Million Budget, Cuts Taxes To Lowest Rate In 35 Years

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The proposed $8.5 million budget for fiscal 1982-83 with the lowest tax rate in at least 35 years has been unanimously approved by the Sanford City Commission, but not without some concern for the city's future financial posture.

The city will hold two public hearings on the proposed budget before final adoption in September. The fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

Only Commissioner Milton Smith expressed concern at Monday night's meeting about the city reducing property taxes by 26.6 percent to $4.37 from $5.95 per $1,000 of assessed value.

Smith said by not cutting taxes so much, the city would have money for a mosquito control program, road paving and other necessities.

"We have an opportunity to have funds to finance city needs," he said.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles assured Smith, however, that even with the property tax cut, the city will be in better financial shape than it has been in 29 years.

He also said there will be sufficient funds in the contingency account to take on new projects.

And on mosquito control, Knowles said that he and Seminole County Administrator Roger Neiswender are to discuss a cooperative, countywide program Wednesday.

After Knowles and Neiswender met Friday, the county staff was instructed to gather information on the costs and benefits of a countywide program.

Agrees To 6.6 Percent Cable TV Rate Hike

Sanford subscribers to Orange-Seminole Cablevision will be paying a higher base rate beginning Aug. 1.

The Sanford City Commission Monday night took no action on the firm's announcement that it will raise rates from $7.50 to $8 monthly, thus allowing the new rate to automatically take effect.

Stephen T. McMahon, regional manager of the cablevision company, noted the city's franchise with the firm permits a rate increase once a year.

The contract between Sanford and Orange-Seminole says the request will not be unreasonably withheld providing the requested increase is consistent with the rise in the consumer price index (CPI) for the previous year.

The CPI went up by 8.9 percent during the past year. The rate hike will be 6.6 percent.

The last rate increase for Sanford subscribers was in April, 1981.

Sanford Chamber Supports Plan To Acquire St. Johns Marshland

The Board of Directors of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce unanimously endorsed a plan to acquire wetlands for the "health and well-being" of the St. Johns River at a meeting this morning.

In a resolution directed to the St. Johns River Water Management District (SJRWMD) board in Palatka, the chamber directors commended the group for its plan to begin purchasing thousands of acres of marshlands along the river.

The marshlands will provide natural storage and purification of river water along the St. John's winding course.

The resolution will be hand delivered to the management district board by Mike Gray, Seminole County's representative at its 9 a.m. meeting Wednesday when it considers a new budget for 1982-83.

Gray is among those members on the board who are supporting a plan to increase taxes levied by the district this year to raise the money necessary to begin buying the wetlands.

The board Wednesday will decide whether to increase taxes from the current 12.1 cents per $1,000 of assessed property value in the 19-country district to raise some $5 million for the acquisition. In addition, the board is also slated to receive some $4.3 million in state money from the "Save Our Rivers" Act to buy the needed marshland.

The Chamber board adopted the resolution on the recommendation of its St. Johns River Task Force committee. The chamber committee, which has been working on the river's pollution and decreasing flow for the past two years, was described as a leader in the river restoration effort by Fran Pignone, SJRWMD chairman, Monday.

'Limited... Involvement'

"...If a brief limited involvement of U.S. personnel is what it takes (to obtain peace in Lebanon), I believe we must do it."

That statement by President Reagan best summarizes the administration's willingness to face the risk and controversy inherent in dispatching 1,000 Marines to reside over the evacuation of about 6,000 Palestine guerrillas trapped in west Beirut by the Israeli army.

The question being asked is why Americans should be sent into a dangerous war zone of the Middle East. The convincing answer lies in a humanitarian concern for tens of thousands of helpless Lebanese civilians who are also trapped in Beirut and hostages to the fighting. It is in the best interest of the United States, Israel, and Lebanon to avoid a bloodbath in Beirut.

American Marines accompanied by forces from France or other nations appear to constitute a necessary catalyst if the fighting and dying are to be halted in Lebanon. This may be the only way around the impasse involving the PLO, Israel and Lebanon. The certainty of Israeli determination to drive out the Palestinian guerrillas has forced them to negotiate with special U.S. envoy Philip C. Habib, the Israelis, and the Lebanese on the terms of their evacuation. But, as the PLO refuses to lay down its arms and march under a white flag between victorious Israeli lines, it may have to be evacuated to other Arab countries by sea. Meanwhile, Israel demands a complete purging of the PLO presence from Lebanon as do the Lebanese authorities.

Much uncertainty still cloaks the touchy negotiations and some major hurdles remain before U.S. forces wade ashore into the Lebanese combat zone. The Lebanese government had not requested American intervention, but is expected to do so. France has indicated a willingness to participate in a Lebanese peacekeeping expedition, but has taken no firm steps to implement the commitment. And, any U.S. military presence in Lebanon depends on firm agreements and solid assurances from the PLO, Israel, and Lebanon as to how the PLO's evacuation will be safely conducted.

Beyond the cleansing of PLO terrorists from Lebanon, there must be an understanding among the Israelis, the Lebanese, the Syrians and the Americans on the complete withdrawal of all foreign forces from Lebanon and the restoration of civilian rule there.

As expected, congressional reaction is divided with prominent Republicans as well as Democrats voicing misgivings, and with Democrats joining Republicans in support. Under the War Powers Resolution of 1973, the president must consult Congress before deploying military forces abroad, as Mr. Reagan is already doing. But the president retains freedom of action to order such military operations for a period of 60 days. This, the cries of alarm being heard about bogging down in another Vietnam are clearly without foundation.

Twenty-four years ago this month, President Dwight Eisenhower ordered 13,000 Marines and airborne troops into Lebanon. This was in response to an appeal by the Beirut government because of an armed rebellion by leftist Moslem followers of the late Egyptian President Gamal Abdul Nasser.

After stabilizing the country, U.S. forces left within three and a half months. Their legacy was almost two decades of peace and prosperity until the PLO swarmed in and savaged the land.

Because the presence of American troops in 1982 is even more desperately needed than in 1958, President Reagan is correct to undertake this military initiative. The results promise to equal or excel those following President Eisenhower's intervention almost a quarter century ago.

The reason "a brief limited involvement of U.S. personnel is what it takes," as President Reagan suggests, is that only the United States has the necessary international clout for such a mission. But irrationality of the middle East's conflicts could still abort this last chance at peace in Lebanon.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I'm writing a romantic novel, too. It's about how biotechnologies will pay off enormously in marketable products."

Shannon Lee picked up a big prize Friday from the Sanford Recreation Department. Well, it wasn't that big — about a size 2.

A year's worth of running, jumping, walking in water, sliding in dirt, screeching halts on bicycles and climbing trees paid off Friday when Shannon won the Rec Department's "Rotten Sneaker" contest.

All of the six-year-old's footwork was rewarded with a new pair of Nike sneakers from Don Knight of Knight's Shoes in Sanford.

Shannon is a member of Bob Hartman's Youth Wing that frolics around the Fort Mellon Park area each day. I guess that makes Shannon the favorite for next year's contest too.

Lake Mary High basketball coach Bill Moore has announced a change of date for the Lady Sunshine AAU-Jr. Olympics Basketball Camp. Due to a conflict with Moore's girls national tournament trip to Boston, the camp was moved to the week of Aug. 9.

Moore previously scheduled two, one-week sessions. They will be combined into one week.

Tournament action at the Seminole Pony Baseball Complex near Winter Springs is heating up like the weather.

Tonight at 7, the Seminole Pony All Stars take on Semoran. The Ponies are coached by Wayne Overstreet. Also at 7, Gene Oliver's Mustang All Stars battle Semoran.

The double-elimination district tournament will run through Thursday or Friday.

A week later, the Seminole Pony Complex will host the Bronco District Tournament with Carl Vanzura's Seminole All Stars, Semoran and Gainesville.

The Mustang World Series begins the next night.

On July 28, the Bronco World Series comes to town.

There was an interesting announcement and reply at the Sub-District Little Major Tournament at Fort Mellon Park last Tuesday.

Gary Taylor, president and announcer for the Sanford Youth Baseball Association, said, "Is there a Sam Cook in the audience?"

Whereupon a Leesburg fan replied, "He died two years ago."

That's news to me.

Movers And The Shakers

If it comes to nothing else in the long run, the abdication of Alexander Haig demonstrates once more the impact of American affairs upon the entire world.

It is inconceivable that a similar governmental upheaval elsewhere could have an even remotely comparable effect.

French foreign ministers in these latter days come and go in virtual anonymity as far as most of the world is concerned. As successors of Talleyrand and Briand, they are pale to the point of invisibility. Few outside France other than their diplomatic peers are likely to be able to even name the occupants of the office at any given time.

Britain's Lord Carrington briefly made news as the first casualty of the Falklands war. He hadn't seen the Argentine urge to self-destruct coming. He was widely respected and his resignation was briefly regretted, but the war and the world moved on.

Not even the other superpower is in the running. The departure of Andrei Gromyko would certainly be news. After all, he has been an international fixture almost as long as the three-mile limit. But unless it was part of a total power transfer in the Kremlin — in which case that is what the outside world would be focusing upon — it would not have the mesmerizing effect upon foreign offices that Haig's departure has had.

Or be interpreted so variously according to local interests.

The alarmed Europeans see it in the light of the controversy over the Soviet natural gas pipeline.

To both Israelis and Arabs, it signals a possible American tilt away from the concerned former toward the hopeful latter.

To the Argentines, it is retribution for Haig's tilting toward Britain over the Falklands and a first calculated step by the White House to repair the consequent damage to U.S.-Latin relations.

The basic Soviet reaction is good riddance. And they say they aren't the least bit surprised because as one of the architects of an American foreign policy that sought to be both realistic and anti-Soviet, Haig was doomed to fall from the start.

So it goes. What it shows is that this administration's rhetoric to the contrary, the United States has not suffered a disastrous loss of influence. This nation remains the center of political gravity in the world.

That is not necessarily all to the good, however.

The pipeline issue and the deeper question of how hard an economic line to take toward the Soviets that it represents, Mideast and European policy and the fallout from the Falklands are certainly all factors in the Haig affair.

But they are not the heart of it. That, as the proliferating inside stories keep telling us, is a matter of internal politics and political personalities.

The situation has been building for a long time — in the unresolved question of whether foreign policy is to be shaped in the White House of State Department in the incompatibility of the secretary of state and the presidential staff, in the competing constituencies of the participants in a power struggle that used foreign issues for internal purposes.

It was a struggle that was under way when the administration took office and that the president, unable to resolve it otherwise, would have to deal with forcefully sooner or later. He chose later.

With the Haig affair, the United States has once again demonstrated an ability to shake the world.

JACK ANDERSON

Nixon Feared LBJ's Bugging System

WASHINGTON — When Richard Nixon's elaborate White House bugging system shocked the nation and provided the evidence that brought him down, spokesmen for the disgraced president justified the secret tape by protesting that Nixon had merely followed the example of his predecessors.

This wasn't strictly true; Nixon's clandestine taping setup was far more elaborate than anything previous presidents had used. But the Nixon crew can be forgiven if they had an exaggerated view of the executive mansion's bugging operation. They had it on what should have been excellent authority — none other than FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

The top G-man, who was certainly no stranger to secret wiretaps, sought to ingratiate himself with the Nixon administration. Shortly after the 1968 election, Hoover scurried up to New York with some advice for the president-elect: Don't use the White House switchboard during the transition period — a traditional courtesy extended to incoming presidents — because Lyndon Johnson had every incoming and outgoing call secretly recorded. Hoover warned.

Hoover happened to be wrong. Johnson had several bugs at strategic locations in the White House, but his eavesdropping system wasn't nearly as all-embracing as Hoover thought it was.

Nixon's chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman, summoned Jack A. Albright, head of the White House Communications Agency, to New York and confronted him with the accusation. Albright indignantly told Haldeman it was "lie."

Just to be on the safe side, though, Haldeman sent an expert down to check out the Johnson White House. Albright describes the Nixon bug sleuth as "a political hack who couldn't have tracked an elephant through six feet of snow" — to say nothing of uncovering a secret tap in a complex communications system.

The supposed expert reported back: "I don't see any way it could be done." Haldeman apologized to Albright.

Ten days before the transfer of power, Johnson had all the clandestine taping equipment removed. Immediately after Nixon's inauguration, Haldeman had the White House checked again — by real experts this time — but, of course, it was clean.

Haldeman had neglected to ask Albright a crucial question: COULD Johnson have recorded all the White House calls? It was only later that Haldeman learned the capability existed.

Evidently feeling that Albright had misled him, Haldeman never trusted the White House Communications Agency again,

ANTHONY HARRIGAN Restoring Troy, N.Y. Downtown

TROY, N.Y. — Only a few years ago, this old city at the head of navigation on the Hudson River had a prominent place in a book entitled "Gritty Cities."

Troy was widely viewed as a seriously deteriorated city without a future.

Today, Troy projects an image of a city with a wholesome community life and progressive future.

A major chapter in America's intellectual history was written in this city. By the middle of the 19th century, Troy was an industrial giant. The Burden Iron Works produced 51 million horseshoes in one year. The metal plates for the federal warship the Monitor were fashioned in the mills of Troy. It was the capital of the collar and cuff industry, with more than 20 collar manufacturers based in the city.

Troy's reversal of fortune was abrupt, however. Early in the 20th century, Troy lost its competitive edge. There were severe labor troubles. New energy sources replaced the water power of the Wynanskill and Poestenkill streams. Industries moved closer to the raw materials that they had been transporting here for processing in Troy.

Left behind was a handsome 19th century city. A generation ago the Victorian character of the city was a severe handicap. Today, with the new focus on good architecture and the quality of life, the value of the city's buildings is truly appreciated. Troy has a compact downtown district that contains a rich collection of fine commercial and public buildings. There's an abundant supply of good houses in and adjacent to the business district.

Downtown renewal often is a failure in America because improvements are seen only in terms of new high rise business structures and creation of urban plazas. City dwellers have departed for the suburbs and the suburban shopping malls.

Downtown Troy offers the amenities of classic city life — attractive business structures constructed on a human scale, myriad small specialty shops, and fine old residential housing in plentiful supply. Troy has a downtown revitalization program, and has been widely developed around existing assets. Therefore, Troy today offers a comfortable urban lifestyle which is attractive to a new generation.

An especially happy aspect of Troy's life is the presence of the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, one of the nation's leading engineering centers. It has a major computer center which attracts new business such as IBM to the area. One needs to bear in mind, in looking at cities such as Troy, that residential housing is in very short supply and will be for years to come. Across America, young people are desperate to find and finance homes. The post-World War II dream of a home in the suburbs is an impossible dream for many. Land values have risen to the point where many young marrieds can't hope to own a suburban house such as their parents bought in the early 1950's. In this situation, the new generation is turning towards the old urban neighborhoods that were dying of neglect.

The silver lining in this economic situation may be a revival of old cities, many of them in the Frost Belt, which social commentators of a few years ago thought would become ghost towns. Troy, with its bustling, beautiful, downtown and attractive row houses, provides evidence that old cities in cold regions can meet the social needs of a new generation in an era of economic difficulty.

Albright told my associate Bob Sherman. As a result, when Nixon installed his super-sophisticated bugging equipment, the job was handed by the Secret Service.

As the world learned years later, Nixon's White House bugs were fancy and farflung. There were at least three separate systems in the White House and Executive Office Building, with six or eight microphones hidden in the Oval Office walls and furniture alone. The recording devices were voice-actuated; the telephone taps went on when the receiver was lifted.

The three presidents since Nixon have all stoutly denied that they have surreptitiously recorded their conversations. But, as Albright neglected to tell Haldeman, the capability exists.

Have It Your Way

Sanford Nationals Insatiable Hit Appetite Devours Orlando, 27-8

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

"May I take your order please?"
"I'll have a big fat fastball right down the pipe."

It's too bad Orlando Bruton's All-Stars weren't sponsored by Burger King because their motto against the Sanford Nationals Monday night at Fort Mellon Park was, "Have it your way."

"Hitter's Delight" was the special as Sanford devoured Orlando pitching for 27 hits en route to a 27-8 drubbing and advanced to the Sub-District 2 Little League finals.

Sanford now must beat Groveland twice in a row to advance to the District 4 Tournament hosted by Sanford. Groveland handed the Nationals their only loss of the Sub-Districts, 11-7, last Wednesday.

The home runs are sailing out of the park at a tremendous pace for Sanford. Five round trippers were clubbed Monday bringing Sanford's five game total to 19.

Todd Revels led the Sanford charge with four hits in four official at bats.

Revels drilled two homers, one a solo shot, and one a three-run blast, singled, doubled, scored four times and knocked in four runs.

Leonard Lucas also collected four hits, two singles, a solo homer and a two-run shot. He scored four times and collected four RBI. Tim Graham lined a two-run homer for the Nationals.

Tarance Carr in relief of Edward Gordon, pitched five and two-thirds innings, allowed four runs and struck out 12 for the pitching victory.

Sanford opened the game with five runs in the top of the first. Two of the runs were unearned while Willie "Sugar Tex" McCloud, Ronald Blake and Willie Grayson each picked up an RBI for walking with the bases loaded.

Orlando Bruton responded with four unearned runs off Gordon who could not seem to find the plate and was pulled with only one out in the first frame. Carr came in and walked a batter, then retired the next two in order to end the inning.

The Nationals chalked up three more in the second to take an 8-4 lead. With one out Revels then clouted his fifth homer in as many games, Shawn Green singled and scored on McCloud's double and McCloud raced home on an Orlando miscue.

A two-run homer by Lucas and a two-run double by Gordon plated four more runs for Sanford as they increased the lead to 12-4 in the top of the third.

A two run single by Jimmy McCree highlighted a three-run third for Orlando Bruton who climbed back to within five runs, 12-7.

An RBI single by Lucas and a three-run homer by Revels, his sixth of the tournament, gave Sanford another four-run inning and a 16-7 cushion.

The Nationals saved the big explosion for the sixth inning. Fourteen hitters went to the plate in the sixth and 11 runs came across on 10 hits. Revels led off with a double down the left field line and Graham followed with a two-run homer to right.

Included in the sixth was a solo homer off the bat of Lucas, a two-run single by Bobby Coffield and a two-run triple by George Gordon.

Sanford National has now scored 82 runs in five games on 84 hits. Manager Sylvester "Slick" Franklin will go with his ace, McCloud, against Groveland tonight at 7.

Tarance Carr, Sanford National pitcher, applies a late tag to Orlando's Bruce Dixon after his head-first slide into home plate.

Umpire Willie Brown signals Dixon safe as Carr looks for action elsewhere during Monday night's Sub-District Tournament game at Fort Mellon Park.

Dixon hurries back to the dugout after the completion of the play and Carr disconsolately stalks to the mound. It was one of the few bad moments for Carr, who struck out 12 hitters as the Nationals romped, 27-8.

Laszaic's 2 Homers, 1-Hitter Make It Easy For Altamonte Majors

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

The big news Monday night at the Altamonte Springs Eastmonte Recreation Complex was that Anthony "A" Laszaic DIDN'T pitch a no-hitter. But he came pretty close.

The smooth-throwing righthander who has six no-hit gems to his credit, stifled Oviedo on one hit-first-inning single to Gary Gotwalt — as Altamonte clubbed Oviedo, 8-1, in the opening round of the District 14 Major League Tournament.

"Anthony is a young man of many talents," pointed out Altamonte manager Terry Hagen. "He's just a great all-around baseball player."

The 12-year-old pitcher showed off another one of those talents the first two times he came to bat. In the first inning, 11-year-old Wes Weger ripped a single past Oviedo starter Ron Veres.

Laszaic, who belted five home runs during the season, promptly deposited a Veres fastball over the center field fence for a two-run round tripper and a 2-0 Altamonte edge.

In the third inning, catcher Scott Stiles doubled to right center and Weger struck out. Laszaic, worked the count to 3-2, then boomed a shot over the left center field barricade for a 4-0 bulge.

An inning later, Altamonte put the game out of reach with some alert baserunning. Jeff Hagen singled to right to start the uprising. Eric Birle reached on an error by the second baseman and pinch-hitter Cary Prom singled off the pitcher's glove to lead the bases.

Then the alert baserunning took over. Catcher Johnathan "Moon" Boston let a pitch roll off his glove and Hagen scooted home from third. Boston's throw to the plate sailed past Veres and Birle raced home. First baseman Willie Gainey then overthrew third trying to nab Prom and he trotted in for a 7-0 advantage.

Laszaic, meanwhile, was mowing down Oviedo. Overcoming early control problems, "A" struck out 10 and walked five. He was in trouble just once — the sixth inning.

Baseball

After Micah Kinnard popped out, Clinton "Man" Dunston reached second on a wild throw by the shortstop. A passed ball moved Dunston to third and Laszaic walked Richard Cobb.

Cobb broke for second base on the next pitch, but Altamonte catcher Stiles gunned him down with a perfect peg to Weger as Dunston scored the lone Oviedo run. Laszaic then fanned Gainey to get out of the inning.

In the final frame, Laszaic struck out the side around a walk to finish with a flourish.

"We didn't play very good," said Oviedo coach Charlie Beasley. "The kids were dropping their bats and swinging up at the ball."

Laszaic's two homers led the Altamonte attack which also received a double from Stiles and singles from Weger, Prom and Hagen for its six hits. Laszaic had four runs batted in.

The victory moves Altamonte to DeLand tonight for a 7:30 matchup with either West Volusia or Maitland depending on who won Monday night.

Oviedo returns home to host the loser of that game at 7:30 p.m. The tournament is double elimination.

Hagen will go with right-hander Chris Brock in tonight's game. "Chris has good steam," said Hagen. "If he gets in any trouble we've got a lot of guys who can back him up."

Seniors Rout Oviedo

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

EUSTIS — Derek Livernois handled the pitching here Monday night against Oviedo.

Tony Johnson and Keith Wallace took care of the hitting.

And the rest of the Altamonte Seniors played errorless ball.

All three components added up to a 9-0 whitewash over Oviedo in the opening round of District 14, Division II Senior League Tournament.

"We looked real good as a unit and we felt real good as a unit," said assistant coach Rod Metz. "Derek had good control and he mixed his pitches real well."

The Lyman High right-hander blanked the Lions on three hits and struck out 15 hitters. He walked just three and also hit a batter.

Altamonte snapped a scoreless tie with three runs in the fifth inning off Oviedo starter Craig Duncan. Johnson, also a Lyman product, slapped a bloop double to center field and Wallace, who plays for Lake Mary, reached on a swinging hunt down the third base line.

After Keith Morrissey struck out, Kevin Hill, another Ram, ripped a single to score Johnson with the first run. Alan Wing followed with a single to score Wallace, but a strong throw by center fielder Terry Gammmons nailed Hill at third base.

Scott Underwood then doubled down the right field line to chase home Wing for a 3-0 advantage.

In the sixth inning, Altamonte tacked on two more. After Van Golmont grounded out, Johnson and Wallace ripped back-to-back singles. Morrissey fanned again, but Hill was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Wing grounded a ball to short and the throw sailed past first base allowing Johnson and Wallace to score for a 5-0 edge.

Altamonte added four more in the seventh to put the game out of reach. Livernois reached on an error and Golmont singled off Duncan's leg. Johnson stroked a single to right to plate one run and Wallace pulled a shot down the right field line for two more. Wallace later scored on a passed ball.

Johnson and Wallace led the Altamonte attack with three hits each.

Today at 5:30, manager Clayton Garrison will send Golmont against St. Johns at the Westmonte Field in Altamonte Springs.

Lake Mary Couple Married 60 Years

By MARVA HAWKINS
Herald Correspondent

When Daylight Savings Time was experiencing its first day's trial, a young Lake Mary couple were getting married. The time was June 6, 1922, at 7 p.m., a Tuesday evening.

This was the day Katherine Kade became the bride of Walter E. Lippincott. They were married in Arbutus M.E. Church, Arbutus, Md. The reception followed at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. William Kade, of Towson, Md.

The couple lived in Baltimore where Walter retired after 44 years with the Baltimore Gas and Electric Company. Katherine was employed in the earlier years of their marriage and was a mother and homemaker.

After retirement and a lot of discussion, the couple decided to move to Florida to be near their only child, Robert W. Lippincott.

On June 6, the Walter Lippincotts celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. Walter's brother, Clarence, came from Pompano and the family celebrated the big event with a dinner held at Freddie's in Fern Park. The next day the family gathered at the honoree's home for cake, ice cream and lots of good wishes.

Those attending were: Walter and Katherine, Bob and Marcia Lippincott and children, Marcia Kay Lippincott, and Dennis and Cindy Brown, all of Lake Mary. Robin was in Boston and could not be here. Katherine's sister, Sue, of Miami extended her best wishes.

Oldsters Agree On 'Company'

DEAR ABBY: I agree with that "old lady" who said her entertaining days are over because her health is poor and her housekeeping isn't what it used to be, and she's happy to be left alone.

I'm another old lady. I have rheumatoid arthritis, cataracts and an ulcer. I've been in the hospital a lot lately, which brings me to my complaint: people who come to the hospital and stay long after they should have gone home.

Some bring huge flower arrangements when all the space you have is the 12-inch-square top of the commode. Some bring heavy picture books or stiff magazines you couldn't hold if you wanted to. Others clutter up the room with jigsaw puzzles and games, bedjackets you can't wear and food you can't eat.

I have just spent a month in a hospital getting an artificial hip, and I've had all the above.

My cousin and his wife came to visit me one afternoon. She sat for an hour jabbering away, while he excused himself to go out to "prowl the corridors and pinch some nurses" (his words).

Visitors at home or hospitals may mean well, but for my part, they can all stay home. Sign me...

SICK AND TIRED IN VERMONT

DEAR ABBY: An elderly lady said some old folks don't want company dropping in because it's hard for them to keep their homes in "company" order. I agree.

Here's how to handle that: Phone your elderly friend and say, "I just made a batch of vegetable soup that turned out better than usual. May I stop by around 3 o'clock and drop off a jar? Please forgive me if I don't come in because I have a lot of errands to do."

If your senior friend comes to the door and begs you to come in, you can always "change your plans."

That way you've given her an easy out if she really doesn't want company, and you've also given her a nice treat.

Dear Abby

ANOTHER ELDERLY LADY

DEAR LADY: Beautiful!

DEAR ABBY: I'm not exactly "old," I'm 21, and I've been married for six years. I used to be ashamed when people would come to visit me and my house was a mess. Then I finally realized that when I visited people I never noticed if their house was a mess unless they pointed it out and kept apologizing about it.

That's when I said, "What the heck, this is my home and I live here, and I'm not expected to have the place picked up and party-perfect all the time."

Some older folks prefer to be left alone, which is fine. But others get lonely and depressed when they're alone all the time. They need people around to make them feel alive. It would be a shame for folks who enjoy company to live in loneliness because they're embarrassed by their casual housekeeping.

Cleanliness isn't next to godliness. Love is. CATHY
DEAR CATHY: Bless you. You've acquired more than most folks have at 80.

I'm appalled to read recently that statistic showing that the percentage of new cigarette smokers are young girls. So, remembering why I started to smoke, 1) to look older, and 2) to look sexy, I am compelled to write this letter.

AN OPEN LETTER TO TEEN-AGE GIRLS

If you're thinking about starting to smoke, or if you smoke only occasionally, please read this before smoking becomes a hard-to-break habit.

If you think smoking will make you look older, forget it. I started to smoke when I was 16 because I wanted to look older. I didn't realize until I was 22 that smoking didn't make me look older, it only made me look like a young punk trying to look older.

Do you think smoking will make you look sexy? Look at the cigarette ads. It never shows a woman actually smoking a cigarette — just holding one.

Why? Because when a woman smokes, she looks ugly. Her cheeks cave in, her face becomes distorted and when she looks down at the cigarette, her eyes cross. Most women are constantly squinting to keep the smoke out of their eyes, and when they take a deep drag, the cords of their necks stand out and their nostrils flare like an old horse.

As if lookin' funny isn't enough, consider the smell. People who smoke stink. Literally. Their breath stinks, their hands stink, their hair stinks and their clothes stink! No perfume can mask it. As for kissing, unless a smoker kisses another smoker who stinks as bad, it's nauseating.

So girls, before you light another cigarette, ask yourself, do I really want to look ugly, and do I really want to stink?

NEW YORK (NEA) — A 75th anniversary is a time to look over the family album, and Pond's, which introduced the first commercially viable cold cream back in 1907, found that the album contained some fascinating old-time advertising.

Cold cream was useful, sold everywhere, and unglamorous. So, in 1919, Pond's found stars of the theater endorsing the cream. In the 1920s, Pond's began a series of society ads that were so successful they ran into the 1940s. At first, princesses and duchesses declared their love of Pond's creams, but by 1930 the ads had shifted to American socialites.

Names like Morgan, Vanderbilt, Belmont, Astor and du Pont endorsed the "Pond's method." It was the dimple daily use of cold cream cleansing, freshener and vanishing cream. However, facial tissues were part of the method, even though they were only a few years old. Such ads might seem odd during the Depression, but they gave women the assurance that the inexpensive cold cream was used by even wealthy women.

A later series of society ads featured young women in the "She's engaged ... she's lovely ... she uses Pond's" theme, a lucky choice when World War II came, since it could easily be adapted to society girls doing war work while their fiancés were in the services. For the 75th anniversary, Pond's has brought out a new lotion-type cleanser, water-rinseable, good for dry skin and gentle enough to remove eye makeup. More complex than cold cream, whose formula goes back to the second century A.D., it comes in a modern pump dispenser and a travel tube. Pond's isn't saying what the advertising theme will be, but it's not likely to feature the socialite or "engaged" themes of 50 years ago.

Arts, Crafts Show

The Driftwood Village Merchants Association, Lake Mary, is sponsoring the second Arts and Crafts Show Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., in the village plaza.

According to Ann Reynolds, a "Christmas in July" theme will be depicted. Mrs. Reynolds says over 50 arts and crafts entries have been accepted. A juried judge will judge the works in four categories. Winners will receive cash prizes, Mrs. Reynolds says.

Entertainment will be provided by cloggers and Greek dancers.

The show and entertainment are open to the public at no admission charge. Proceeds will benefit the Seminole County Humane Society.

Interior Fashion At Reasonable Rates

If you're looking for the most up-to-date trends in decorating at a discount price, Interiors By Ellen is the place to turn.

Ellen Chaput, a Sanford native, runs the business from her home and guarantees the lowest prices in town for decorating services.

Ms. Chaput returned last year from San Diego where she spent 15 years learning the decorating field there and working for several firms. She returned to Sanford in August.

"I know my prices beat everyone in town," she said. "Every call I've gone out on I've been hired."

She said competition in San Diego is a lot more intense and decorating firms in that area "discount" their prices. As a result of that experience, she feels she knows how to give clients what they want for the best prices.

Ms. Chaput says her specialty is windows. She says decorating windows is a challenge and she uses verticals, mini-blinds, and woven woods along with custom draperies.

Interiors by Ellen gives free estimates at your home. Ms. Chaput said she examines the space to be decorated and then brings samples around for examination. "That way I don't have to carry hundreds and hundreds of samples."

Interiors by Ellen will complete most jobs within three to four weeks.

Marcus Starts In New Field At 77

DALLAS (UPI) — From his magnificent office 48 stories above downtown Dallas, Stanley Marcus looks out over an empire he helped create.

Dallas-Fort Worth is now the center of commerce, of industry, of style for a huge area of the south-central United States.

No one is more responsible for the area's rise in influence than Marcus, now 77 and still voicing creative and thought-provoking ideas at a pace that challenges the imagination.

Marcus headed the super-quality Dallas department store of Neiman-Marcus for 25 years during which it expanded from its Dallas roots to other major metropolitan areas and became a national pace-setter.

Marcus still is chairman emeritus of Neiman-Marcus, which was merged in 1969 with Carter-Hawley-Hale Stores Inc. of Los Angeles. He serves as a consultant for the chain and several other firms. In addition, he makes about 25 speaking appearances a year and does a daily syndicated radio commentary broadcast over 60 stations.

He estimates he spends two thirds of his time traveling.

In an interview he was asked how and why he continues to keep such a pace at an age when many would be content to stay home tending roses.

"First of all, I don't feel like I'm 77. I feel like I'm about 45," he said with a smile. "I have good health and that enables me to keep a pretty fast pace. It enables me to serve 13 clients in a new (consulting) field

A speech made by Marcus in Atlanta five years ago to an organization of shopping center developers took him into the new field.

Computer Helps Open Up Jobs For The Blind

NEW YORK (UPI) — The electronic computer is making life a lot easier for many blind persons — and opening up job opportunities for them.

It is doing this by printing communications in Braille automatically at very high speeds from ordinary coding in English or other languages. Also, the computer has been adapted to free scan speech terminals that deliver audible output instead of or along with visual output from information stored in the computer.

"What this means," says Guy Carboneau, head of Triformation Systems, Inc., of Stuart, Fla., "is vastly more jobs are opened up to blind persons because they now can work with computer terminals almost as well as sighted persons with the addition of the proper auxiliary equipment."

Among the jobs blind persons can fill with this equipment are nearly all kinds of information processing, telephone service representatives, credit clerks, dispatchers, reservationists, systems analysts, time and charge operators and jobs in law and brokerage offices. They also can be radio broadcasters, weather forecasters or engineers.

Although Louis Braille invented the embossed six-dot alphabet for the blind in France in 1824, many blind persons have not been able to learn to use it very effectively. Others can read Braille at speeds of up to 140 words a minute.

Carboneau, who developed the first system of using the computer to turn out Braille in 1969 while a student at the University of Dayton in Ohio, said the computer can produce a simplified Braille code that can be read rapidly by blind persons who have trouble with standard Braille.

Triformation makes a full line of computer terminals and accessories to be used by the blind. Carboneau said a number of other companies make single devices, particularly those for audio assistance to blind persons using the computer.

He estimates that since Triformation put its equipment on the commercial market in 1973, the company has enabled about 1,200 blind persons to take good jobs using the computer.

"That may not seem a large number, considering that there are 2.5 million blind persons in the United States, but the program still is pretty young and so far 80 percent of our sales of equipment have been to public agencies and universities," he said.

"Business now is getting interested. We have made sales to Ford Motor Co., International Business Machines, Rockwell International, General Motors, General Mills and some other blue chip companies and they are very pleased with the work they get from blind persons using the computer terminals."

He said Triformation's computer devices sell from $3,000 to $15,000. They not only produce embossed braille on paper but in a paperless system of pins by which one line at a time can be read and then dispersed just as a line of visual copy is read and dispersed in an ordinary miniature computer terminal.

Braille, of course, is read with the finger tips. Triformation also has launched what Carboneau said is the nation's first "for profit" Braille publishing house. It uses the computer to translate ordinary copy into Braille and publish an edition of 80 copies of a book in Braille for about $4,000. The sales are virtually all to libraries or universities.

'Get Out Of Debt Now' Helps You Do Just That

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every American family that buckles down and gets out of serious debt not only is saving itself but is helping the nation to overcome inflation, says Fred Graver.

Graver is a young book editor and author of "Get Out of Debt Now" (Little, Brown & Co., Boston). He wrote it after he and his wife got into a credit jam and had to work their way out. The authoritative Kirkus Reviews of the book publishing trades indicated it is one of the best ever on the subject or at least the most timely.

Graver told United Press International he believes credit abuses and the vast accumulation of personal debt are a big factor in the rise of inflation and reduction of that debt could have a most salutary effect.

Even worse than their stimulus to inflation, he said, credit abuses erode the incentive of young people to fix sensible financial goals in life and pursue them realistically.

Asked whether credit cards should be outlawed, Graver said, "On the contrary, that could cause a much worse recession. The easy credit revolution is here to stay. The trouble is we haven't really learned how to live with it yet. "We must face up to the fact that educating people to exercise self control and to act honestly and intelligently to dig themselves out of a debt hole once they fall in is the only thing that will work. There can be no easy way out."

Graver, thus, regards bankruptcy as an absolute desperation resort and he looks on debt consolidation loan schemes with suspicion. But he says debt counselors can be of great help in setting up a realistic schedule for paying off what you owe.

Graver's book seems complete and very well researched. "I spent two years on it," he told UPI, "because I wanted to touch all bases and be detailed enough so it would be useful to all kinds of people."

Graver says his big message is "Talk to your creditors, don't try to hide anything."

Realize, Graver stresses, that under the law the debtor really has a lot of protection and is in a strong position as long as he or she acts honestly and shows a firm intention to pay. It is necessary to realize this in order to avoid being bullied by collection agencies whose methods aren't always genteel or fair, he said.

Among the best early warning signs that you'd better get out of debt before it's too late Graver mentioned:

- Habitual "second notices" on bills.
 - Spending more than 20 percent of take home pay on monthly installment payments, other than your home mortgage.
 - The sudden realization that interest on your charge purchases is taking an enormous bite out of your annual income.
- Most people really don't know how to cut expenses, Graver said. They don't know the difference between costly luxuries and necessary or useful expenditures."

She-Crab Soup: It's A Gourmet's Delight

PORT ROYAL, S.C. (UPI) — In some circles in the South, she-crab soup is almost a cult food. At a minimum, it is a gourmet's delight. "It's different from crab bisque and other crab soups because it contains crab roe," said Gene Fraley, whose company operates the nation's only she-crab soup cannery.

The Blue Channel Corp., the only major industry in this tiny coastal fishing town near Savannah, Ga., has been producing the soup since 1938 along with other crab and seafood products.

The company, a subsidiary of closely held Alexander Dawson Inc. of Las Vegas, leads the nation in crab meat sales with its Harris Atlantic and Pacific brands. Dawson bought the firm from Sterling Harris more than a decade ago.

It is Blue Channel's she-crab soup, however, that is unique — so much so that many top restaurants use it rather than trying to make their own.

"Our she-crab soup sales have increased every year," said Fraley, seated behind a desk in his relatively small, spartan office. "We think it's substantial, but Campbell's (Soup Co.) wouldn't. Campbell's would hardly notice us."

The she-crab is a female Atlantic blue crab, which Fraley believes contains the sweetest meat of the species. It is the most delicate crab, the only one that swims and frequently is caught by recreational crabbers using chicken necks.

The condensed soup, which sells in supermarkets for $1 to $1.50 for a 10½-ounce can, is concocted from crab meat, onion, celery, butter, flour, cream, milk and Worcestershire sauce. Blue Channel recommends adding sherry for additional flavoring.

"Basically it is a gourmet soup," said Fraley. "There's almost a cult to it. It has a very hard-core consumer."

Blue Channel, which stimulates its crab meat business by offering free recipes, began marketing the soup along the South Carolina coast. Now it ships the soup across the nation although more is still sold in the Southeast than anywhere else, he said.

The cannery at the nearby Burton Industrial Park employs nearly 400 people on a seasonal basis — eight to nine months. The crabbing season starts in the late spring and usually runs until early December. A hard working crabber tending 30 to 40 pots can haul in 500 to 600 pounds of crabs daily in season.

"The mostly costly part of the operation is getting the meat out of the crab," Fraley said. "It's a hand-picking operation in the first two processes and then a machine takes out the remainder. Nothing has ever been developed that can adequately clean a crab."

The crabs are steamed at the cannery before being chilled in a refrigerated room to firm the meat and make it easier to separate from the shell.

The core produces the white meat packed in lump portions while the claws provide the cocktail meat and fingers. The legs are thrown away because the meat is darker and oily.

Very little of the crab is wasted. The shell, rich in protein, is ground and ends up in poultry feed.

Blue Channel, which packed and shipped 500 pounds of crab meat in its first year, now produces an estimated 12 million pounds annually and operates another plant in Belhaven, N.C. It also markets frozen shrimp, catfish and oyster stews, clam chowder, a mariner's stew similar to a seafood gumbo, clam spreads and frozen flounder.

"People are eating less red meat and more poultry and seafood," Fraley said. "Consumers don't think frozen seafoods in general are top quality products because you see a lot of breaded, fried seafood items and quite a bit of duplication.

"There is a large group willing to pay a little more to get a lot more quality. When people pay $3 or better for a 6½-ounce can of crab meat, and put it in a casserole, they want that flavor to permeate.

"The trend now is toward baked and broiled seafood and away from the fried products. We have been expanding with a frozen flounder topped with crabmeat and shrimp."

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Runner Concerned About Heart Beat

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am in my mid-30s and have been running more than six-mile races. After I finish a race, my heart seems to beat irregularly for the rest of the day. I say seems to because it could be just beating harder at times.

Is this something I should worry about? Should I stop running? Is this an indication that I might drop dead from running? I've heard of this happening to some runners. I enjoy running and would like to continue my program but I don't want to take unnecessary risks.

you are most unlikely to get into trouble.

To help you have a better concept of the dangers or lack of dangers and what exercising sensibly means, I am sending you The Health Letter number 13-4, A Perspective on Jogging Deaths. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What is the percentage of non-smokers who develop lung cancer compared to smokers?

DEAR READER — Let's put it another way, 80 to 90 percent of all lung cancers occur in cigarette smokers. A nonsmoker's chance of getting lung cancer is quite small. This means that lung cancer is one of the easiest of all cancers to prevent. We do not need a cure for lung cancer, we need the will power to prevent it. Millions of dollars are spent for a cure of a problem that can be prevented. And while preventing it a person also saves money — the smoking bill.

Unfortunately, lung cancer is on the rise in the United States. We are reaping the effects of smoking 15 and 20 years ago. Basically it is a story of smoke today and die of lung cancer 20 years later. It takes years to see the effects of tobacco smoke in causing lung cancer in a population. About 6,000 more people will die of lung cancer in 1982 than in 1981. Lung cancer is the leading cause of cancer deaths in men and rapidly challenging breast cancer for first place in women.

Now, I must tell you that people who undergo high levels of exertion regularly often gradually develop a potassium deficiency. That is why a good eight-ounce glass of orange juice is a good thing for a runner or for others who labor or exercise regularly. Lowered potassium does make the heart more susceptible to irregular beats.

Most runners who get into trouble with heart disease, usually enough to have caused symptoms, or they simply overdo the exercise. How you exercise is important. So are your risk factors of blood pressure, cholesterol and whether you smoke or not.

If you exercise sensibly and have no underlying problems you feel will work out OK, if left to their own devices could be hazy today. Better stay on top of things.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Practice moderation in all of your activities today. Your tendencies to do something foolish could gain the upper hand if you let your guard down.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do not let it be said today that you only perform well up to a point. Put the same effort in finishing that you do in starting.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today you may be so concerned with minor aspects that you'll fail to see the big picture. Stand back for a better perspective.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be both prudent and deliberate in your financial affairs today. Unsound actions could swiftly move you from the profit to the loss column.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your decisions could be impaired today if you put too much stock in the opinions of persons whose judgments are questionable. Think for yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even tasks which are normally easy for you shouldn't be taken for granted today. Mistakes are likely when you rely upon rote and upon logic.

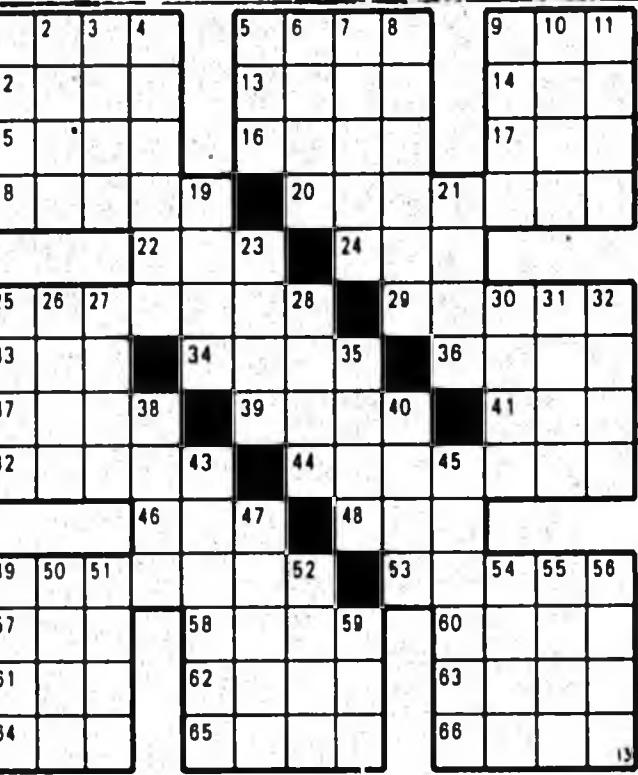

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Major accomplishments are possible today, but there is a chance you'll not put forth your best efforts. Indifference will deny you the success you deserve.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Someone you may have to contend with today might be quite boastful. He or she will get away with it, but don't you try to, because you won't.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be careful in joint ventures today or you could be the one to make the greatest contribution, yet get the smallest return. Make sure you get your fair share.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) To appease another today, you might commit yourself to something you feel you'll be able to wiggle out of. Chances are, you won't escape the responsibility.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your judgment regarding situations which

North and South bid all around Robin Hood's barn on their way to six no-trump. Not that it is a bad contract. There are 11 top tricks and a 3-3 break in diamonds or a drop of a doubleton queen-jack of spades will bring it home. Then there is a simple spade, diamond squeeze if one defender holds at least four cards in each of those suits.

None of these breaks are there and West got off to the best defense with his heart lead. However, Dr. John Fisher of Dallas brought home the slam by ducking the first heart, taking the heart continuation and then running off all his clubs.

As John explained afterwards there just was no defense. His three discards from dummy were two spades and a diamond, leaving dummy with three spades, two diamonds and one heart. East had to hold on to four diamonds. He also retained two spades. West was down to one heart, three spades and two diamonds.

Now John cashed his top diamonds. West had to discard on the third diamond. He chucked a spade so John threw dummy's last heart and scored three spade tricks for his slam.

East could have made matters a trifle tougher for John if he had discarded two spades and hung on to the 10 of hearts. But John would have held three spades in dummy and after the queen fell on his king John would fessle against West's Jack for his 12th trick.
