

Elvis Wants Respect

By HARRY N. JOHNSON
Special Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — "I discovered
Elvis Curtis admits that he let out a "bad foot" of laughter the first time he was asked to direct Elvis Presley in a motion picture.
"He needs someone who can really discover him," Curtis was told by producer Hal Wallis who was then in the initial phase of signing Presley's final pre-Army movie, "King Creole."
"Elvis needs to be discovered as much as Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield do," Curtis said in an attempt to end the conversation. But he gladly did agree to see the starburst king's dramatic 1956.

"After the first few lines Elvis spoke," Curtis said, "I began to sit up and take notice."
"Instead of a gyrating rock-androller, I was watching a natural, mature actor, underplaying his role because he knew none of the tricks of the trade."
Discovered Many Stars
Curtis, credited with the "discovery" of such persons as Doris Day, Errol Flynn, John Garfield, Bing Crosby and Ann Blythe, was convinced.

And that was the beginning of what Curtis said was an attempt to give Elvis what he most wants — respect.
"Elvis knows the trend of his own publicity," Wallis told Curtis, "and he's painfully aware of the fact that not everyone is in his corner. He realizes that he is ridiculed, made the butt of jokes and that the older movie-goers run in the same groove when they see the same on a screen screen."

Curtis said Presley was the first one on the set at 7:15 in the morning, his knees learned, and he always stayed within earshot of the camera so he would not have to be called twice.
Sings Without Swag
"When I told him that he would sing three ballads without one single movement, I didn't get the answer you'd expect.
"Instead, he merely nodded and said simply, 'You're the boss, Mr.
Curtis!'"
The director described Presley the actor as an "amazingly refresh, unassuming young man, pleasant, glowing with a humor like a rubber ball."

"In my manner of thinking," Curtis said, "he possesses much of the same qualities which Gary Cooper and John Wayne showed when they first started in pictures — with one notable exception.
They capitalized and still capitalize on an element of awkward-ness, while Elvis is agile and resistant with a smoothness that you'd expect in a veteran.
"I guarantee that he'll amaze everyone. He shows a formidable talent. What's more, he'll get the respect he so dearly desires."

Trade Legislation Sought By Firm

NEW YORK — A top textile industry spokesman today called for new reciprocal trade legislation to replace the trade agreement expiring June 30.
W. Ray Bell, president, the Assn. of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, said an extension of the present agreement would "only perpetuate discrimination against American textiles."
Bell endorsed the Dorn Bill H.
R. 11280 now pending before the House Committee on Ways and Means, and he said he would like to see consideration of the value of the domestic economy in place of administrative caprice."

Citing "maladministration" of the present foreign trade program, ACTM chief pointed out foreign textile mills have been subsidized with United States cotton furnished them at 25 per cent less than the price U. S. mills must pay.
Besides aids to overseas mills through financing capital equipment and raw material purchases, foreign manufacturers have the added advantage of cheap labor.
This gives European and Asiatic mills unequal privileges in markets overseas, as well as in the United States, under the government's one-sided foreign trade policy, the statement added.

Quotas on textiles and apparel shipments from Japan to the United States are a stop-gap and underline the "need for sound legislation applicable to trade from all countries," Bell continued.
"Triangular deals by American government agencies have favored foreign mills with substantial textile business in non-industrial countries, Bell charged.

Reports Show Benson's Position With Farmers May Improve

WASHINGTON (UP)—The hope is not word from the grass roots today is that things are looking up a bit for Agriculture Secretary Sara Tamm Benson.

This word comes via Republican channels and could be tainted with wishful thinking. But it reached Washington by sources notably reliable in the past and is minus the kind of emphasis which usually marks suspicion of exaggeration.

Most specifically, the word is that Benson's reduction of dairy support prices from 82 to 75 percent of parity effective April 1 has not hit milk producers as hard as blow as had been forecast. Specifically also, a related mass meeting summarized this morning in Wisconsin as a forum for attack on Benson's farm policies was a dismal flop. Fewer than 100 of an expected 1,500 or more persons showed up.

The foregoing applies to a single community or, at most, to a single state, but it could be of great political significance. William Proxmire, Democrat, was elected in August 1957 to the Senate seat vacated by the death of Joseph R. McCarthy, Republican. Proxmire defeated Walter J. Kohler Jr., former Republican governor of Wisconsin and a popular figure in the state. Benson was blamed for that. Republican members of Congress have been denouncing "tax President Eisenhower fire Benson. Most of them believe privately that their chances on re-election next November depend largely on getting Benson out of the Cabinet. It would be good news for Republican politicians if the heat were getting off Benson. Strangers though have happened. The Agriculture Department reported about three weeks ago that farm prices rose 4 per cent between mid-February and mid-March, the highest monthly gain since early 1951.

Benson said some of this increase was due to delayed marketing, especially of cotton, but that most of it reflected a real price improvement. Final figures on the first quarter will be out next week, perhaps to improve Benson's position with the farmers and brighten Republican election prospects.

Weather
Fair today and tonight. Partly cloudy Saturday. Slightly warmer. Low tonight 64 to 66.

Russia Protests Against U.S. H-Bomb Flights

Local Post Office Needs Are Studied

"I have requested my staff to check into the needs of the Sanford post office and to advise you further after final determination is made as to what can be done to improve the postal facilities at this office," Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield told Senator George Smathers in a letter dated April 14.

Senator Smathers recently wrote the Postmaster General requesting information as to why the Sanford Post Office was not included in a list slated for either new buildings or renovations.

Summerfield stated in his reply that "The offices shown in List C of the news release would be a start in our program to rehabilitate 2,500 offices now located in Federally-owned buildings."

"You may be assured," he said, "that the need for adequate postal facilities at Sanford will be given every consideration under the proposed Senate Amendment to the Postal Rate Bill now in House-Senate Conference."

Senator Smathers, in his letter this morning to The Sanford Herald, stated that local interest may be "assured of my continuing interest and efforts toward accomplishing this goal."

Important Date For Many Disabled

June 30, 1958 is a very important date for many disabled people. Colonel Byron R. Patton, district manager of the Central Florida Social Security Office said today.

Many people who are disabled have neglected to apply under the social security disability provisions. Colonel Patton said. Workers, both men and women, who have been disabled for over a year have until June 30, 1958 to file application for the disability freeze or for disability benefits if they are 50 or older. Those who have been disabled for a prolonged period and will file their application after June 30th may forfeit their rights to disability benefits at age 50, to maximum old-age benefits, and to benefits for their survivors.

Colonel Patton pointed out that there is no deadline for those who file within a year from the time they become disabled. The June 30, 1958 deadline applies only to those who have been disabled for a prolonged period.

MOSCOW (UP)—Russia announced today it is protesting to the United Nations Security Council against United States H-bomb flights. Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko personally announced the U. N. protest at a Moscow press conference.

Delegation sources at the United Nations headquarters in New York said the United States probably would welcome debate on Russia's charges. This would be in line with American policy of never opposing U. N. discussion of any charge brought against the United States.

In introducing a statement on the subject, Gromyko referred to a "report of the American news agency United Press," which described Strategic Air Command procedure in dealing with suspected radar targets.

Precautionary Action
The dispatch mentioned by Gromyko, detailed Offout Air Force Base, Neb., control center of the Strategic Air Command, was written by Frank H. Hartman, president of the United Press.

"As it appears from United Press reports, confirmed by representatives of the U. S. Air Force command, these flights are made in each instance as some obscure

Boosters Propose Season Tickets For Sports Events

The Seminole Boosters Club last night, meeting at the Seminole High School, proposed a change in its by-laws which would allow the sale of season tickets to high school sports events.

The proposal pointed out that the season tickets would sell for $10 and would allow the purchaser to attend all sports events including football, basketball, track and swimming. The ticket would also be a membership card in the Boosters Club.

By-laws would also allow season tickets bought by both man and wife to be used as "family tickets" if children are accompanied by parents.

The proposal will be voted on at the next regular meeting to be held on May 15.

Officers for the following year will also be elected at the May 15 meeting which is the annual session.

The Boosters Club, last night, also challenged the Seminole High School baseball club to a ball game that is slated to be played on May 18.

Members of the boosters group who wish to play are asked to contact Seminole High School athletic director Fred Gianis.

objects emerge on the American radar screen of the so-called early warning system, and which objects are mistaken by American operators for guided missiles or ballistic rockets," the Soviet foreign minister said.

Gromyko's news conference, held on the seventh floor of the 30-story skyscraper headquarters of the Foreign Ministry, was attended by 75 Soviet and Western newsmen. His remarks were translated into English as he went along. When he finished, he asked if there were questions. The newsmen asked only one question on the H-bomb protest, that is, would it be made "immediately," Gromyko said it would be.

Gromyko said: "These flights with American bombers constitute playing with fire—a game too dangerous for us

FSGA Adopts Program, Elects Officers Today

The Florida State Golf Association adopted a broad program of new activities at its annual meeting here today. The session brought together representatives of member clubs and association directors during the playing of the 41st state amateur golf championship at the Mayfair Country Club.

George R. Guy, a Fort Lauderdale resort operator, was elected president of the FSGA for the coming year. Bill Carey, Sarasota advertising executive, was appointed to the newly created post of executive secretary and will supervise the expanded state golf program.

Other officers and directors elected were Calvert Pepper, vice president, Gainesville; district director Jack Russell, Clearwater, and outgoing president, C. L. A. P. Porch, Jacksonville; Roland Brough, Tallahassee; Henry Russell, Coral Gables; Henry Taylor, Ocala; Stanley Knight, Vero Beach; John Elliott, Sarasota and Jack Vidal, Gainesville.

State directors at large are Maynard Ramsey, Tampa; Gardner

In his dispatch, Bartholomew reported a hypothetical flight—as pictured by an SAC colonel—of a bomber which took off after objects had been picked up on a radar scope.

The present action by the Florida High School Activities Association which barred teenage players from competing in west coast conference tournaments because they had played in club pro-amateur events came in for much discussion. Association directors agreed to send a committee to the Miami meeting of the FHSAA in Miami Beach April 23 to formally protest the ruling and demand a clarification of the controversial code which governs the play of high school golfers.

Dickinson Sr., Panama City; Jack Penros, Miami; Bill Carey, Sarasota; Bill Rolleston, Marineland; Jim Spencer, Sanford; Wayne Daily, Pompano Beach; and Jim Paul, Daytona Beach.

Among new services to be offered to member clubs will be the rating of courses according to USGA standards, the establishment and supervision of a uniform state handicap system, the awarding of an annual scholarship to a state university. The association also will publish a monthly newsletter for members and the press and serve as a clearing house for golf tournament dates.

In other "business" directors awarded the 1958 state amateur tournament to the Gainesville Country Club. The 1959 tournament will be played at Pompano Beach, May 24 and 25 were set as the dates for the annual four-ball event for state amateurs. Pompano will also be the site of this tournament. The Ocala Golf Club was selected for the FSGA sponsored state juniors tournament in June.

Dogs in City Must Be Vaccinated
Dogs, in the City of Sanford, must be vaccinated against rabies, City Manager Warren E. Knowles warns.

Ordinance of the city require that vaccination tags must be worn continually by dogs on a collar or harness for the complete year following the vaccinations.

NARCE To Organize Chapter In Sanford

All chapters in the Fifth Congressional District National Association of Retired Civil Employees are invited to send delegates to a meeting at Recreation Center, Fort Mellon Park, Sanford, at 2 p. m. Thursday, April 24.

The purpose is to organize Seminole County members of NARCE into a chapter. The Hon. James M. Mead, former U. S. Senator of New York State, now living in Clermont, will be the principal speaker and will have charge of the organizational procedure.

A. G. Larkley of St. Cloud, who was the first president of the Florida State Federation, will speak on "A decade of achievement" and will explain problems yet to be solved. David E. Deips, a former federal officer, will have charge of details.

NARCE has been organized for thirty-seven years and now has six hundred and sixty chapters in the United States, the Republic of the Philippines and the Panama Canal Zone. Thirty-six chapters are now in Florida. The object is to keep the Civil Service Retirement Fund on a sound basis. It has been pointed out that a fair interest rate on the fund, which will amount to $8,000,000,000 as of June 1, 1958, will pay all increases recently authorized by the Congress many times over.

Central Florida is becoming a favorite center for federal employees. Ten thousand have already arrived in Florida and newcomers are arriving every day.

Jaycee Speakers Tell Of Curricula, Advantages At Uoff

Two University of Florida students, representing the Florida Blue Key Speakers Bureau, told Sanford-Seminole County Jaycees yesterday of the Uoff. Its advantages, curricula, and activities of the school.

Norwood Gay of Jacksonville pointed especially to the academic career and extra curricula activities "which make a well rounded citizen adapting him to better citizenship."

Gay spoke particularly of the "course in basic logic to help improve the mind" as he outlined the various courses available at the Uoff.

He told the Jaycees of the colleges at the University which also offer advance work in the graduate school "to better qualify a citizen for his part in the professional or technical fields."

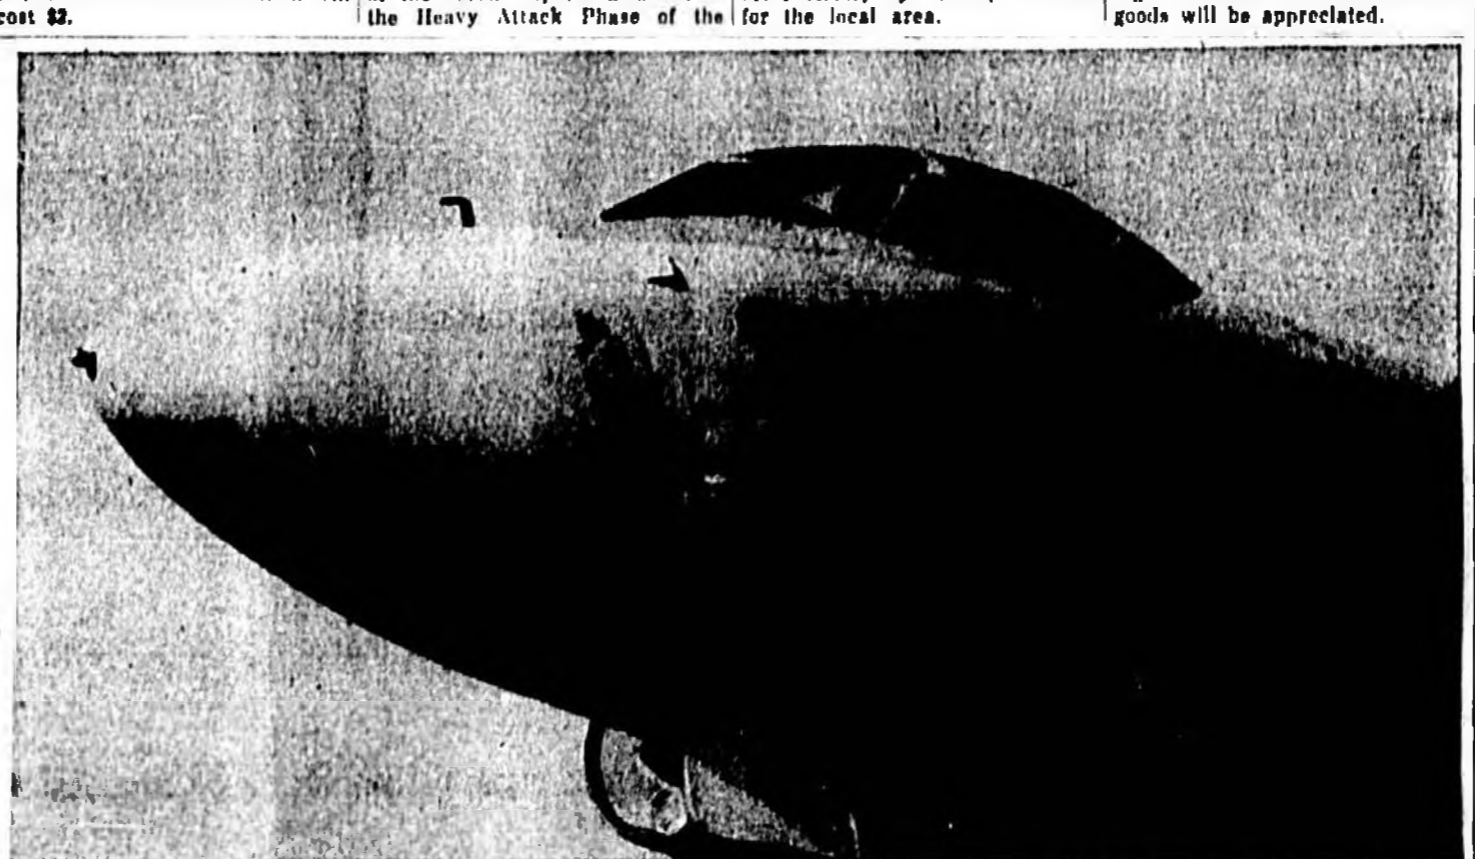

"There are over 300 organizations on the campus of the University of Florida," Gay said and pointed to the "Gator Growl" as the largest campus variety show in the United States.

Gay also spoke of the inter-mural activities for those who "cannot make the variety."

All of this, he said, "is an incentive for the students to learn to live together to make the whole person a well rounded individual."

Miss Leslie Sanders of Mount Dora spoke of the girls viewpoint at the University of Florida. "We girls are a pretty recent addition to the campus," she said.

Advising Jaycees, she said "It is important for your sons and daughters to figure out how much time to give to their studies and how much time can be devoted to the colorful campus social life."

RUSSIA CAN'T GARBLE THIS MESSAGE

Behind the iron curtain is a powerful transmitter which tries to garble the messages which come from the free world.

We like to think that no one can garble the prayer of a little child to his God. But sometimes, here in a free Christian land, we jam the wave-lengths of faith with examples of doubt and indifference. Even parents occasionally stifle the spiritual yearnings of their own children!

One of our freedoms is FREEDOM OF WORSHIP. In the sight of God, and before the eyes of a growing generation of free Americans, what shall we do with this freedom?

There has never been a day when Christian sincerity in the community, Christian example in the family, and Christian devotion in the individual were more essential for the preservation of our spiritual heritage to another generation!

Come to Church—join the Church—support the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Trust in the Lord, and do good; he shall then dwell in the land, and verify that shall be said.—(Psalm 37, 3.)

Those who really trust in God's love and wisdom, His kindness and mercy, are spared the fearful worry and anxiety that agitate and shorten the lives of so many of us. In love and in obedience to His will, they do the very best they can each day, and leave the results to Him.

THE OLD TIMER
"Not much to see in a small town - but what you hear makes up for it!"

The DeBary Garden Club held its meeting recently at the Community Center. Mrs. J. B. Broom, president, presided.

Mrs. Harold Lynch presented a plaque in memory of the former members for whom trees, plants and shrubbery had been planted around the community center.

Mrs. Moore spoke on the urgent need for the passage of the state resolution concerning the preservation of the Everglades Park.

Mrs. Broom appointed Mrs. A. Bremner, chairman and Mrs. H. Morrison co-chairman; to plan and arrange the club entries in the DeBary Flower Show, April 30. Last year the DeBary club brought home 18 ribbons as prizes.

Mrs. A. L. Lincoln introduced Mrs. E. L. Vihlin, Grapeville Nursery, Sanford, who spoke on "Native Shrubbery and Flowers".

A fitting touch to our Community Center grounds is the unanimous comment of DeBary residents when they stop to admire and salute the Stars and Stripes flying from its regulation military flagpoles at the main entrance.

The flag is the gift to the Civic Association from Mr. and Mrs. Claude Davies, of Baltimore, who purchased the former home of James A. Romney, one time director of DeBary Ground Observer Corps, which he organized and supervised for three years at his Lake Dr. home. Before he came to DeBary, of which he was one of the early settlers, Romney, an artist, had charge of the canvas work on the warships at the New York Navy Yard during World War II.

He was cited for his work by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Romney erected the flagpole on the grounds of his home, believing the sight of Old Glory, flung to the breeze, would stir patriotic fervor among members of the G. O. C. and citizens passing by, while the corps was in action.

The DeBary Corps was cited several times for outstanding efficiency by the U. S. Air Force headquarters staff. It is understood that arrangements for appropriate dedication exercises for the National Emblem are being made, the date to be announced.

Dr. William Pilder, who before coming to DeBary was the nationally known Princeton Survey, and is president of the DeBary Civic Assn. and Supervisor Joseph Santillo of the G. O. C. are to be on hand Thursday, at 7:30 p. m. when Capt. Raymond Rodgers will be the guest speaker.

Presentation of Merit Medals, by Mr. Sgt. Lester Shipman of the Military, will be made, to which the public is invited.

Refreshments will be served by Beatrice J. Tyson, chairman, and Mrs. Gaston Crosby, co-chairman.

Representatives from all DeBary Clubs and Churches, met at the home of Sam Faron, Monroe Ave., Friday evening, to discuss plans for a Lions Club Bazaar and what have you, to be held Saturday May 3 at 4 p. m. in and around the post office vicinity. Harold Jenkins presided at the mass meeting.

SECOND THINGS BEST
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—John de Laurier learned that in some cases, particularly divorce cases, second things come first. Subs May Seek Information
Wright said it is "quite possible" Russian subs are "seeking information about our defensive measures."

"We don't know what they know, but it is reasonable to assume that they gain both experience and information by cruising in the Atlantic and in the sea areas along North America and Europe," he said.

"In addition, we have been threatened by Soviet leaders with the possibility of a submarine launched guided missile attack against the United States and our overseas bases," Wright said.

It is generally believed the Russians do now possess such a submarine—atomic missile punch, but Wright described this as a "serious threat we must be prepared to counter."

In wartime, Wright's forces could not legally do anything even if a Soviet sub surfaced four miles off the coast. Wright explained that under international law, "There is nothing to stop the Soviets from sailing their submarines to points on the high seas outside our national waters—that is, beyond the three-

How To Determine Your Caloric Requirements

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ALMOST everyone is calorie-conscious these days. With all the publicity given to reducing diets of one sort or another, you can't help but be aware of the major role the calorie plays in our everyday health—especially in regard to weight.

But how many of you know your own daily caloric requirements? Probably very few.

More Calories for Men
Men generally need more calories than do women. People who do a lot of physical work need more than those who are less active. Age also plays a part in determining the daily caloric needs.

To help you find your personal caloric requirements, here is a simple formula used by many doctors.

In a general way, you can determine the basic caloric expenditure of almost any adult during a 24 hour period by multiplying the ideal weight by 10.

If the individual is female, short, elderly, subtract 100 to 200 calories. If the person is male, young, tall, add 100 to 200 calories.

Active Person
For a person who is active physically during the day, add from 50 to 75 per cent more than the basic requirements. If the person had ordinary light activities, add 50 per cent more than the basic calories.

Let's take a couple of examples to show how you can figure your own diet needs.

If you are a man of 25, your weight should be about 140 pounds. Multiplying this weight (140) by 10, we get 1,400. Since you are a young man, add 200. This gives a total of 1,600 calories.

If you carry on a moderate amount of activity, add 50 per cent, or, in this case, 800. This gives you a total daily requirement of approximately 2,400 calories. Consuming many more calories than that will only add unwanted weight.

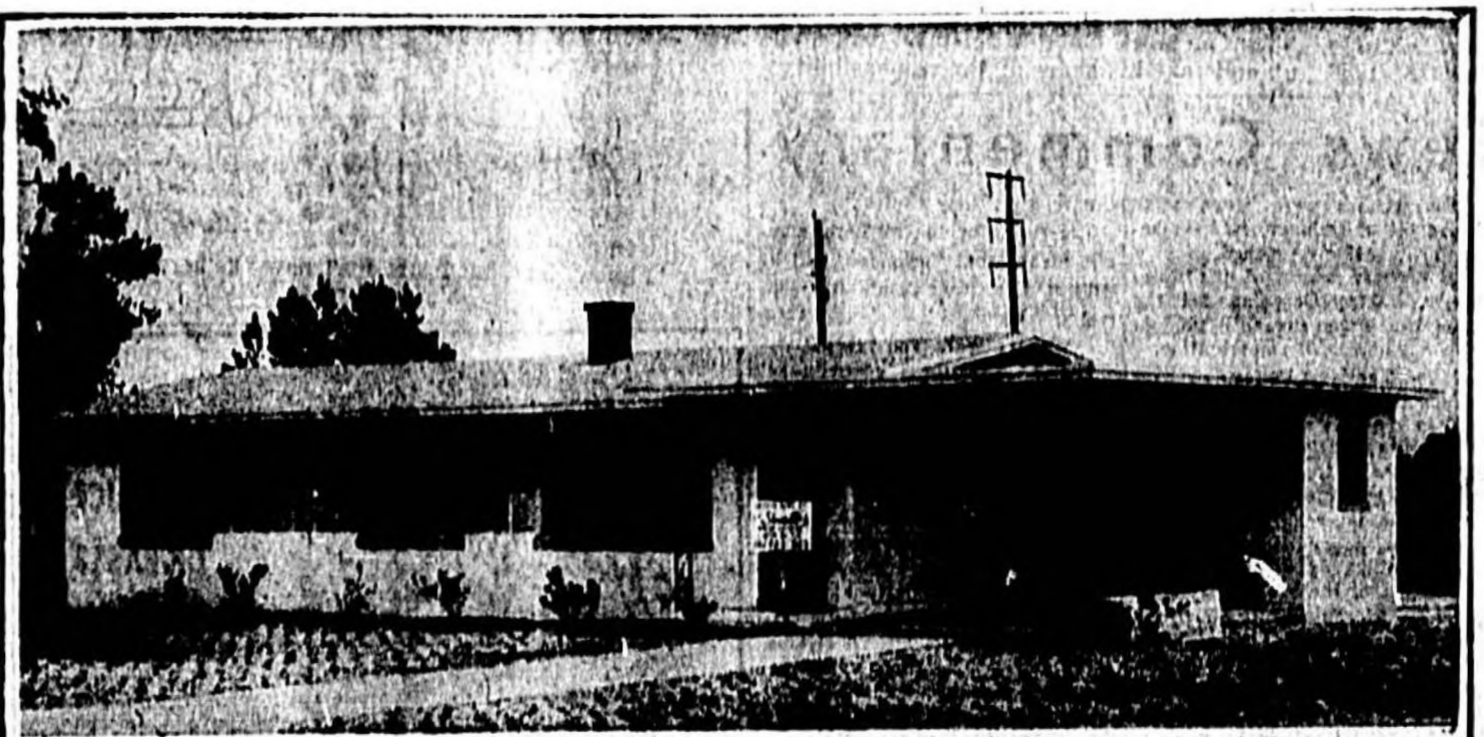

To cite one more example: Say you are a woman, about 55 years old. In this case, also, the ideal weight would be about 140 pounds. But the caloric requirements are different.

Fewer Calories Needed
Multiplying 140 pounds by 10 we again get a total of 1,400. But because this is an elderly woman, we deduct 100. A woman of 55 generally is not overly active physically—I know I'll get an argument about this from many of you—so we add only 30 per cent. Thus, the maintenance diet should consist of about 1,800 or 1,700 calories.

I want to emphasize one more thing. If you think you are getting far too many calories and want to lose weight, check with your doctor before embarking on any stringent reducing diet.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

The Goal's The Same - But It's Education That Got's Us There

There were a lot of long faces in the United States last October when the Russians hurled man's first artificial satellite into orbit. When the second Russian satellite was launched about a month later, faces became even longer.

The situation has changed. Sputnik I met a fiery end some time ago. Now Sputnik II, together with the little dog that was the first creature of Earth to journey around the globe in outer space, has gone down too. Only the three American satellites are whizzing through the heavens.

When the Sputniks went up, a lot of those who wore long faces did so in the erroneous belief that this meant Russia had forged ahead of us in education and science. This was not true. It was true, however, that the launching of the Sputniks gave Russia a great propaganda advantage. It also was true that the Red satellites gave fair warning that Russia was not the technological laggard many Americans had complacently supposed it to be.

There is now a danger, that those who were alarmed will be soothed into new complacency. Nothing could be more harmful to the United States and the free world.

Sending up satellites is not a game. It is senseless to keep score and make it now three to nothing for America, as it was two to nothing for Russia last fall.

Our satellites are a token of our technological progress, but they do not mean we are "ahead." The Russians can send up their satellites. We must continue to improve our educational system so that it will produce men and women who can measure up to the technological and spiritual demands of life.

We must not be diverted from this goal by our momentary triumph in the satellite contest.

Teen - Age Tension Statistics

If appearances have meaning our teenagers are a supremely self-confident group. They know what they like and they insist on it; they know what they want and they generally get it. Or so it seems.

The Young Men's Christian Association, curious to find out what our young people are thinking, conducted a survey of some thirty thousand youngsters in a metropolitan area and came up with some thought-provoking statistics. These statistics reveal that our teen-ager's world is far from the sunny, self-confident place it often appears to be.

Two out of five teen-agers have fears that they may be failures in life. One-third of the group worry about making mistakes, while nearly half of the girls and a third of the boys are concerned lest they be humiliated. From this it would seem that fear, worry and concern dominate the lives of a large proportion of our adolescents.

One should not be surprised by these attitudes. Recollections of our own youth will remind us that the young person's world can be a hazardous place where the unexpected is almost the usual. It takes awhile and some civilizing, before these shocks can be readily absorbed.

If the study conducted by the YMCA has any lessons for parents and other adults it is this: Let patience and kindness be the watchword in our associations with youngsters. If our children like their rock 'n roll loud, it may be because of a need for distraction from a world with which they have not yet come to terms.

Fabrics And Decision!

Not many years ago, man-made fabrics were a curiosity. The fibres that went into clothing and other textiles were all natural fibres—wool, cottons, linen, silk. Today about one-third of the clothes Americans buy are made of synthetic fabrics. This tremendous shift is a striking example of the changes that are coming about in our society.

Time was when changes came slowly. Generations might pass before new techniques and new products were fully accepted. In our time, the pace is speeded up almost incredibly. Americans have a taste for what is new and different. If it is also better, it is accepted almost overnight. Then the wheels of industry are geared—and here again, far greater speed is possible now than in the past—to make enough of the new product to meet increasing demand.

This veritable explosion of technology—new ways of doing things, new products, new uses for old products—goes deep into our lives. This is one of the reasons why the constant acquisition and absorption of new knowledge is important.

In days long ago, a man could go comfortably all through life with the basic tools of what he learned as a youth. That time has passed. Life is changing more swiftly than ever before in history. We must keep up with the change. We must know at least the broad outlines of what is happening to society, or as individuals we will gradually relinquish our power of decision as to the future.

Dare To Get Things Done!

It doesn't pay to spend too much time making sure that you are "right" before going "ahead." Almost anybody can be right if he never takes a chance, but he never gets anywhere.

He whom the world admires most is the man who dares to take a chance—to make a mistake if need be to get things done. And when he does make a mistake, he stands up and takes his share of the responsibility.

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Polish Communist Leader Wladyslaw Gomulka is drastically tightening up his control of industrial workers and writers.

He has announced that strikes by members of labor unions are now illegal. He has all but abolished the "worker councils" which he had set up to share control of factories.

The comparative freedom which Polish writers were given after the revolt of October, 1956, is being progressively curbed.

As first secretary of the Communist Party, Gomulka led the revolt which won Poland's freedom from Soviet Russian domination.

The New Policy

Since then, he has adroitly managed to keep his country independent despite the opposition of Moscow-minded Communist leaders and despite a most difficult economic situation.

His new policy does not mean that Gomulka is moving toward restoration of the Stalinist type of harsh dictatorship.

But it is further evidence of the fact—which Nikita S. Khrushchev found out for himself in Russia—that in a Communist country a little liberalization can be dangerous.

The effect of the new anti-strike-order is to bring the labor unions more closely under direct Communist Party control.

The ruling on the workers councils means that these, too, will be subjected to closer Communist control.

Writers Were Too Liberal

The 3,000 workers councils set up in factories will be enlarged into "conferences of self-government."

In each factory, the "conferences" will consist of the workers council, management and representatives of the Communist Party.

It seems most likely that the Communist Party will have the deciding voice in any decisions.

The latest restriction on writers bans the publication of articles and books which do not serve a "useful political purpose."

The trouble seems to be that Polish writers took advantage of Gomulka's liberal policy to be a little bit too liberal.

Health Experts Study Disease Killing Horses

JACKSONVILLE (AP)—Army and federal health experts are studying a disease which killed 366 horses in Florida last year.

Dr. James E. Scatterday, director of the division of veterinary public health in the state, said Monday a task force of specialists from the U. S. Third Army, U. S. Public Health Service and state Board of Health is setting up headquarters in Orlando to study the virus, eastern equine encephalomyelitis.

Scatterday said the group hoped to find greater protection against the disease, which also was fatal to one Florida resident and left another insane last year.

He said the virus incubates in the blood streams of certain birds and is carried by mosquitoes to horses and humans.

"GO" FOR SECURITY!

Conservation News

By MEN WIGGINS,
Selling Conservationist, USDA

Roger Jimenez, president of the local chapter of Future Farmers of America, won the Soil and Water Conservation public speaking contest last night. The library in Longwood, where the meeting was held, was filled with farm bureau members and guests.

Following the covered dish supper Mrs. Mary Earle Walker, local tax assessor, gave a short informative talk on assessed valuation of the various types of property and land in Seminole County. Mrs. Walker also explained the meaningless phrase of "100 percent valuation" and answered numerous questions from the audience.

The public speaking contest followed Mrs. Walker's talk. Serving as Judges for the contest were: R. F. Cooper, C. F. Lind, and Dr. Phil Westgate. The contestants were judged on the following: subject matter, composition, voice, stage presence, power of expression, and general effect.

Each of the contestants gave an excellent speech that was enjoyed by the entire audience. The talks were so close the judges had a difficult task of selecting the winner. According to the score cards each judge selected a different contestant for first place; however, after a conference by the judges Roger Jimenez was selected as first place winner. Larry McQuatters received second place, Bill Alford was third, and Burke Winn was fourth place winner in the contest.

Bonner Carter, chairman of the Board of Supervisors, presented the winners with checks for $25.

LAFF-A-DAY

"I know, dear, but I just don't have the nerve to ask him for a raise."

GERMS CAN ACCIDENTS PRODUCE DISEASE!

Definitely real! If your automobile was involved in an accident, you would have a mechanical check over the entire machine and correct any misalignment, broken parts or other damage. You would make sure that it was sound mechanically before driving it again. The same principle applies to your body if it has been involved in an accident.

Your Chiropractor is a trained specialist in detecting interference to transmission of nerve energy caused by misalignments or subluxations in the spine. If there is an interference to the free flow of nerve energy to any part of the body, he will tell you so. He will correct this interference by an adjustment to the spine.

If you have had an accident lately, it will pay you to have a check-up by your family Chiropractor. And don't put it off! The longer you wait, the more damage you will suffer, and the harder it will be to correct the CAUSE of your trouble.

See your Chiropractor today . . . for a check-up . . . and avoid serious consequences later.

Electronic Highway Of Future

By BOB QUINN
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP)—A team of electronic wizards has worked out details of the electronic highway of the future, a highly sensitive and intelligent slab of pavement that can control your steering, braking, and acceleration automatically.

The trick is turned by buying a continuous series of circuit-breaker, cable, and transmitters—in the roadway and along the highway. Thus wired, the road itself stratifies your car to a safe course—with the help, of course, of receiving devices in each vehicle.

Remarkably Feasible

In a report on their proposed system to the Highway Research Board in Washington, V. K. Zworykin and L. E. Flory, of RCA Laboratories, Princeton, N. J., asserted: "All of the electronic means exist for accomplishing any degree of control which can be economically maintained."

So the vision opens of barreling up to the automation superroad and simply obeying the sign: "Controlled highway—please switch to electronic drive." Select your lane, and that's it. You can begin a six rummy game with your passengers, read a book, catch up on a portable television.

Well, that may take care of the problem of highway accidents—taking the gas pedal, brake, and steering wheel away from the foolhardy driver. But it seems to me these electronic planners have missed the boat for traffic in big cities.

What about the foolhardy pedestrian? Can he be wired for safety? New York City has all but thrown up its hands at the attitude of its pedestrians. Installing big "Walk" and "Don't Walk" signs at intersections, it began an intensive educational campaign against jaywalking. Policemen patrolled in and tried to cut-out jaywalkers.

Not Much Effect

Recently the chief magistrate said the program obviously hasn't made much of an impact on New York's walking million. He said the education should go on "another year or two" before penalties are fixed by law.

Maybe the engineers could help.

Now about fixing the street corners so that a man gets a cut-and-paste automatically fixing in his path the minute he steps on the curb against the lights? Or, maybe the streets could be charged with current, shocking some sense into jaywalkers.

As a last resort, the city could require all pedestrians to wear an electro-magnet on each knee which would cross the jaywalker, when the "Don't walk" overhead current was on.

Let's sleepers march. What we need is electronic-control sidewalks.

Veterans Corner

A World War II veteran holding National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) may choose from four options the manner in which the policy will be paid in the event of his death.

Benjamin S. Beach, Officer in Charge of the Central Florida VA Office, who made the announcement today, listed the four options as:

Option 1—Lump sum payment.

Option 2—Equal monthly installments for three to 30 years, in multiples of one year.

Option 3—Equal monthly installments for life of beneficiary, with 100 installments guaranteed.

Option 4—Equal monthly installments for life of beneficiary; total payments guaranteed to equal face amount of policy.

Beach pointed out that if the insured chooses Option 1, the beneficiary may elect any of the other options at time of settlement.

Beach said Options three and four are not available if certain types of beneficiaries, such as corporations or estates, are named by the policyholder.

Complete information about the optional payment methods is available at any VA office, or from the VA district office which services the policy, Beach said.

Business Activity Downturn Reported

CHICAGO (AP)—The Federal Reserve Bank says the current downturn in business activity now approximates two previous recessions—1948-49 and 1950-51.

The report, in a monthly review called "business conditions," compared the dips on the basis of industrial production, employment and retail sales.

The bank said industrial production edged downward a little more rapidly in the six months from August to February, 1957-58, than it did during the six months following the 1948 and 1950 peaks.

The most recent decline was 10.4 per cent in industrial production compared to 8.7 in 1948 and 8.8 in 1950.

The decline in nonagricultural employment, the bank said, was about the same during the latest period as in 1948 and more than in 1950.

The figures, 8.8 per cent decline in 1957; 8.3 in 1948; and 8.1 in 1950.

Retail sales, though off almost 8 per cent from the summer high, did not dip as far as in 1953. The latest recession showed a 4.8 per cent decline, while the 1953 figure was 4.8. The 1948 period showed no decline in retail sales.

The bank said the trend of wholesale prices of finished goods and of stock market prices have been "notable different" than in the two previous slumps.

It said finished goods at wholesale have gone up 1.3 per cent in the first six months of the current recession; this was contrasted to almost no change in 1953 and a 3.9 per cent dip in 1948.

Early Treatment May Cure Certain Cancers

By WILLIAM H. BARRISMAN, M.D.

SOME types of cancer are relatively easy to cure—providing treatment is begun in time.

Persons with cancer of the face or lip, for example, have an excellent chance of being completely cured. In fact, the outlook for victims of this type of cancer is more favorable than that of patients with any other type.

Percentages of cures for basal cell cancer range between 81 and 98 per cent, while treatment of lip cancer is successful in from 90 to 98 per cent of the cases.

Should Be Healed

Yet these figures should be even higher. Far too many persons fail to obtain treatment because a lesion on the face or lip does not hurt and appears harmless.

I would like to emphasize once more that pain is not an early symptom of cancer.

In many instances, the dentist is the first one to notice a cancerous or precancerous lesion. He can help save a life by referring patients with these lesions to physicians for immediate treatment.

Generally, cancer of the lip and face is found in dry, thin-skinned persons, with little pigmentation, who are constantly exposed to the wind and sun.

Other Lesions

We also believe that consistent exposure to some chemical irritants such as petroleum coal-tar and lead arsenate also help cause skin cancer.

An irregular tooth, poorly fitting dentures and frequent lip-biting cause chronic irritation which may, at times, speed development of a cancerous lesion.

Most victims of cancer of the lip or face are white males over the age of 40. Most common forms of intra-oral cancer is carcinoma of the lower lip. Women, however, probably are more frequently affected by cancer of the upper lip.

First Evidence

In many cases, the first evidence of cancer will be a small, persistent blister on the lip. Some patients have reported that such blisters heal during the winter and ulcerate in the summer.

Basal cell carcinomas generally are lesions on the side of the scalp, the nose, eyelids, chin, cheeks or forehead. Usually, this type of lesion appears as a nodule which ulcerates and then crusts as it develops slowly.

The prognosis for the majority of these cases, as I have said, is very good if proper steps are taken early enough.

With surgery or X-ray we can generally cure cancer in these areas.

Conning The News

Girl Scout troops in Seminole County are always doing something. The days when in Stage House a troop was making peanut brittle at home. It's made, and tastes pretty good, but waiting on peanut brittle is not much fun. And that's where half of it is. On the kitchen floor.

There is a vast difference between the men's and women's state golf tournaments. Perhaps just as much difference as between men and women. Of course the girls were here for a week of fun and relaxation away from their families. The men are here just to play golf. Many of them brought their wives. Coming as close as the two tournaments do, the comparison is most interesting.

Whitely McMullen, former Sanford newspaper man, is a contestant in the tourney. Whitely is now in Gainesville, where he enjoys his job as a nine county editor. Good to see him again. Whitely was an influence strong in the defense of freedom of the press and straight news reporting. He has been missed in Sanford.

Southside School auditorium was filled with parents and children Wednesday afternoon when the second grades presented folk dances on the stage. Much cranking of necks, stifled gasps and suppressed waves came from the still-behaved group of children. Parents were just as eager to identify their own and point them out to friends. The dances were short, well-executed, and delightful to watch. Among the mothers seen in the audience by this reporter were Elm Lechner, Ginny Shivers, Gretchen Higinbotham, Mildred Smith, Irene O'Hara, Shirley Perkins, Marty Millsaps, Polly Brubaker, Sue Payne, and Annabelle Henderson. The Hendersons by the way, are busy building an addition to their house.

Understand that Scott Burns of Florida Power and Light, has complete control over an amazing pastime known as "peanut flipping". With a flick of the wrist, the peanut pops into the air and Scott's mouth. Perfection was achieved after many months and thousands of peanuts. Scott no longer has the time for training, but fortunately has the trick down pat.

That little bit of nonsense may seem irrelevant, but one never knows when talent like Scott's might be needed. Talent scout will remain undisclosed.

The Giants Farm teams are pulling out today, after intensive training. Has been brought to my attention that an article about the Giants and a picture of Carl Hubbell (among others), appears this month in Holiday magazine. Carl has become such a well-known figure in Sanford, that many of you may be interested in the re-cap of Giant's baseball history. The picture, incidentally was taken many years ago—no should I say, a few years ago? Not recently, at any rate.

Written by Roger Angell, a Giant's fan, the ups and downs of the great baseball team are sympathetically revealed. The reader is impressed again with the tremendous drive that made up famous manager John McGraw.

Tickets are being sold in the Lake Mary-Loch Arbor area for a home dinner May 3 at the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce. The dinner is sponsored by the Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department. Proceeds will build a firehouse. In the past the small fire department has bought engines, and equipment with just such dinners, and the sale of Christmas cards. This is the fire protection for two miles around Lake Mary. Deserves all the support it can get.

After a certain amount of research into the re-registration and another school bond election, I have discovered that the election will now be put off until September, when the state primaries will be held.

The school board hopes that at this time all the voters will be in the polls anyway. Of course, a large county highway building bond and added fire protection will increase the millage this summer. We sincerely hope that this will not effect the way freeholders vote in the fall. As a parent, the schools are far more important to me than new roads. It is up to every parent, every civic club, and every citizen of Seminole County to see that the school bond issue is not defeated again.

If it had been known in time, there could have been a registration and election next month. There still could be one this summer. However, there are legal technicalities like advertising, and many other astonishing pieces of red tape not clear to me, which go before the election. Also, a hard campaign must convince the voters that they are defeating the purpose if they do not go to the polls. Fifty-one percent of all freeholders (land-owners) must vote. If they stay home, they automatically vote against the issue.

Since many residents in Seminole County register only to claim homestead exemption, their interest must be kindled. Those who have no intention of voting for anything must be dragged out by hook or by crook. And if it should come to a choice between super-highways and schools, which would you choose? We, as ordinary citizens, do not have to sit back and take everything dished out by our leaders if we don't want to. The County Commissioners are in office to serve us. They should be informed of our desires. In a democracy the things that do the most good for the most people are the most important. But we have to get behind the things we want. There is no room for apathy. We are not building monuments for the past. We are building hope for the future.

Several high school products from the Miami area will be returning home with the Uoff, including see freshman vaulter Henry Wadsworth, who has cleared 12 feet 6 inches on the Uoff; and sophomore jumper Earl Foucher, who has cleared 4' 11 1/2". Other Miamians on the Florida team are Vic Miranda, who will add strength to the shot put; Morgan, the distance runner; and Rompt, the varsity vaulter who is injured.

Today's Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK—The one line was buried in the flap of opening day baseball copy but it spoke volumes. It read: "RBI—Martin." Those few letters proclaimed to the watching baseball world that Billy Martin still was at it. His single drove home the run which successfully opened the season for the Detroit Tigers. It must have produced mixed reactions in places like New York, Washington and Kansas City. Among the Yankees, who topped him away last season; to Washington manager Cookie Lavagetto who was Billy the Kid's roommate at Oakland in the long ago; and at Kansas City, from where he was sent to Detroit last November. Some things are true. It took all of them that the scrappy, skinny guy still has the "something extra" which made him Casey Stengel's "boy" when he was breaking in on the Coast 13 years ago. Those were the days when the scrawny 16-year-old with a battered drug store glove and a scrawny uniform stopped everything that the Oakland manager—destined to attain managerial greatness with the Yankees—smashed at him. That defiance, as much as anything, has written the saga of Billy Martin. Two years ago he was labeled by the front office as the "best clutch pitcher on the Yankees." But in the front office they didn't like him. He didn't conform to the demanded Yankee pattern of off-field anonymity. Billy was an extrovert who liked the bright lights and the accusation went, lured Mickey Mantle on the prime time path. It boiled to head when Martin, Mantle, Hank Bauer, Whitey Ford, Yogi Berra and Johnny Kucks became embroiled in an after-hours fracas at the Copa. Martin was doomed. Peddled to Athletics Without consulting Stengel, the front office peddled Martin to Kansas City—it was a move which may have cost the Yankees the subsequent World Series against the Braves. A jockeying, nging, battling Martin just might have turned the tide. Dazzling World Series play always is his specialty. In 1952, after a poor season, Billy took personal charge of the series with a record-tying 12 hits. Among them were two homers, two triples and a double for 23 total bases which erased Babe Ruth's six-game mark of 19 total bases set in 1923. The kid whose nature demands a chance at the jackpot got a life when he was traded to Detroit. He has confidence. So those who knew him weren't too surprised that Martin's hit should win the opener.

Swimming Official Clinic Set Sunday At Pool In Eustis
W. B. Clements, vice-president of the Florida Association AAU, announced this week that a swimming official clinic will be held at the Eustis Swimming Pool on Sunday afternoon, April 20, beginning at 1:30 p. m. Bruce Bradshaw, diving coach at the Hotel Langford in Winter Park, will bring some of his top divers with him and will demonstrate and explain the various dives, and conduct the clinic for the diving judges. A full demonstration of the various swimming strokes, starts, turns, timing, judging, etc. will also be held to enable those attending to qualify as AAU Swim Officials. All adults, 17 years or older, are invited to register for this clinic (whether they have children in the summer swimming program or not) and all swimmers and divers planning to compete this summer are extended an invitation to attend as observers.

Tallahassee Golfer On Top In Yesterday's Tourney Play

Florida amateur golfers got down to the business of making each play count in yesterday's match play at the Mayfair Country Club course. Fighting blistering winds, the championship flight completed its first 18-hole match play with the usual day's toll of upsets, strange happenings, and victories. F. L. Berry Jr., 25-year-old Tallahassee golfer came in on the top side of Wednesday's medalist and took the 18-hole match 2 and 1. Bruce Houdak of Lake Wales, who posted a 66 in the Wednesday qualifying round tied at 37 on the front nine but Berry took the 11, 12, and 17 holes. Don Blasinghoff of Winter Park, Fla., was the third straight runner and pole vaulter Dick Smith still is not fully recovered from a leg injury. Florida varsity standouts making the trip to Miami include shot putter Winfield Willis, who hit 51 feet against FSU; bumper Watson, who ran the 100 in 15.0 seconds in the same meet; Tom Nichols, high hurdler who is showing steady improvement and ran the 120 high in 18.1 seconds against FSU and Georgia Tech; Art Foster, who has broad jumped 27 7/8' for his best mark this year; and distance runner Mike Morgan and Jack Huenschke, who have alternated winning from each other in the mile and two mile runs this season. Morgan has a best mile mark of 4:37.4 minutes, while Huenschke has a top time of 10:00.8 minutes in the two mile run. Several high school products from the Miami area will be returning home with the Uoff, including see freshman vaulter Henry Wadsworth, who has cleared 12 feet 6 inches on the Uoff; and sophomore jumper Earl Foucher, who has cleared 4' 11 1/2". Other Miamians on the Florida team are Vic Miranda, who will add strength to the shot put; Morgan, the distance runner; and Rompt, the varsity vaulter who is injured.

Whatever Happened To BING-MILLER

By UNITED PRESS
His real first name is Edmund but when he began to hit it went "Bing" and he became Bing Miller, one of the stars of one of Connie Mack's most fabulous collections of Philadelphia Athletics. Bing was in the outfield in 1929-30-31 when the A's won three straight pennants with a gang including Mickey Cochrane, Bob Grove, Jimmy Dykes, Jimmy Fox. He broke in with Washington in 1921, played also with the St. Louis Browns in mid-career and wound up his 16-year stand with the Red Sox. But 12 years were with the A's and that's when Bing was at his best. In later years he managed in the minors and coached. Whatever happened to Bing Miller? Today, at 53 and firm as ever, he has a new job in Philadelphia as an engineer with the Atlantic Coast Construction Co., a pipeline outfit.

Tigers Lose Game To Braves Yesterday

The Rotary Club league's pennant winning Tigers of last year took a 6 to 4 drubbing at the hands of the Braves Thursday at the Eighth Street ball orchard. However, the Bengals staged a last inning rally that netted three runs and left three men on the bases when the game ended as Foster was tagged out at home. Alec McKibbin worked well in the clutches and although he was generous with free trips to first he struck out seven and gave up only two hits. In the third inning with three men on the sacks and one out, he sat down the next two batters on strikes.

Homes On Today's Market Better Buys Says Local Realtor

Whether judged by comfort of living or price, the homes on today's market are better buys than those of the past, William H. Stempser, president of the Seminole County Real Estate Board, declared on the next to the last day of Realtor Week.

"As a fitting conclusion to Realtor Week, which has had as one of its themes the explanation of the services which Realtors offer to the public, many of our members are now featuring what they call the 'House of the Week'."

Stempser said, "By inspecting these homes, Seminole County residents can satisfy themselves of the many features for better living found in the houses of today as compared with, for example, those of 1925."

The Seminole County Realtors' executive listed as among the superior features of good existing housing better heating and cooling facilities, more convenient and numerous plumbing fixtures, larger and better located closets and terraces, and better arrangements for outdoor living. He indicated also that zoning ordinances have given contemporary housing more protection against neighborhood deterioration than was possible 20 years ago.

Noting that the average cost of homes built in 1925 was $5,000 as compared to a 1935 average of $12,500, Stempser pointed out that these figures have significance only as they are related to the changing values of the construction dollar, the index of which, based upon 1947-48 as 100, was 53 in 1925 and 133 in 1935.

First Round Of Talks Unprogressive

By WHITMAN BARROW United Press Staff Correspondent MOSCOW (UP)—The first round of pre-summit ambassadorial talks ended today without apparent progress toward settling up an Eisenhower-Khrushchev conference. French Ambassador Maurice Dejean met today with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and announced as he left: "The real talks have not begun."

Council To Seek Rate Investigation

MIAMI (UP)—The powerful legislative council will meet in Tallahassee April 29 to ask for an investigation of auto insurance rates. Rep. W. C. Hargatz of Miami, chairman of the council, said if a study is to be made it should begin immediately so the 1959 Legislature can consider the results.

Herrell said he would ask permission to appoint a special "insurance committee" to analyze rates "with particular emphasis on the differential in rates between urban and rural areas."

Herrell's action came in the wake of recent newspaper criticism of state Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson for granting hikes to automobile insurance firms in the Miami area.

The study will be costly, Herrell said, "but I feel that the investment may well effect an overall dollar savings to thousands of drivers throughout the state."

Collyer Doesn't Like To See Self

By FRED DANZIG United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—Bud Collyer, a former lawyer, registers a strong dissenting opinion today whenever he hears someone refer to him as the very model of a modern master of ceremonies.

Collyer, whose wavy blonde hair and glittering white smile have been illuminating our TV screens since the pre-Liberace days of 1947, says there are times when he can't stand himself.

"I never watch a kinescope of my shows if I can help it because I always see some mannerisms in myself that drive me wild. It's all my wife can do to restrain me and convince me I should stay in the business," said Collyer as he relaxed in his dressing room after a hectic half-hour as emcee of "Beat the Clock" on CBS-TV.

Minority View Collyer's opinion, however, appears to be a minority view since he's one of the busiest emcees in the business. Along with the five-a-week "Clock" shows, he does the Tuesday night panel show, "To Tell the Truth."

Of the two shows, he finds the latter is much easier for him. "I like it because I can sit down for a change. This is the first time I've been able to get off my feet since 'Quick As a Flash' a few years ago."

His main function, said Collyer, is to help the contestant. "I just try to be sincere, put people completely at ease and convince them that I'm their friend. That's all I want to do."

"You know, for all our ridiculous 19.00-23.50; interior 16.00-21.00; few sales up to 22.00; medium heifers 22.00-23.00; inferior 18.00-21.00; common cows 16.50-20.00; inferior 13.50-15.00; good stocker calves 25.00-30.00; medium inferior largely 18.00-23.00

lous stunts on 'Beat the Clock' we never embarrass our contestant or abuse them. I don't like plotting people. We're not striving for anything but to have fun. I try out the stunts on ourselves to make sure they're not degrading or dangerous. And, of course, when a contestant does a stunt fast, the audience cheers to the rafters. They like to see us beaten at our own game. And that's what adds to the fun."

Stunted Law Collyer paid his way through law school in New York with a $100-a-week job as an early-morning singer on a radio show. He kept up his show business contacts while working in a law office and finally, when daytime soap operas beckoned, he gave up law.

"I figured I could always fall back on the law if my luck ran out, so I read off and did soap operas. As I became known as an actor, the singing jobs dropped off. From 1948 to 1952, I played the part of 'Superman' on radio. In 1947, I emceed my first TV show, 'Winner Takes All.' After that came 'Beat the Clock.'"

Comedy 'Paris Holiday' Opens Sunday At Ritz

"Paris Holiday," opening on Sunday at the Ritz Theatre through United Artists release, marks the historic teaming of two of the world's best known comedians — Bob Hope and Fernandel.

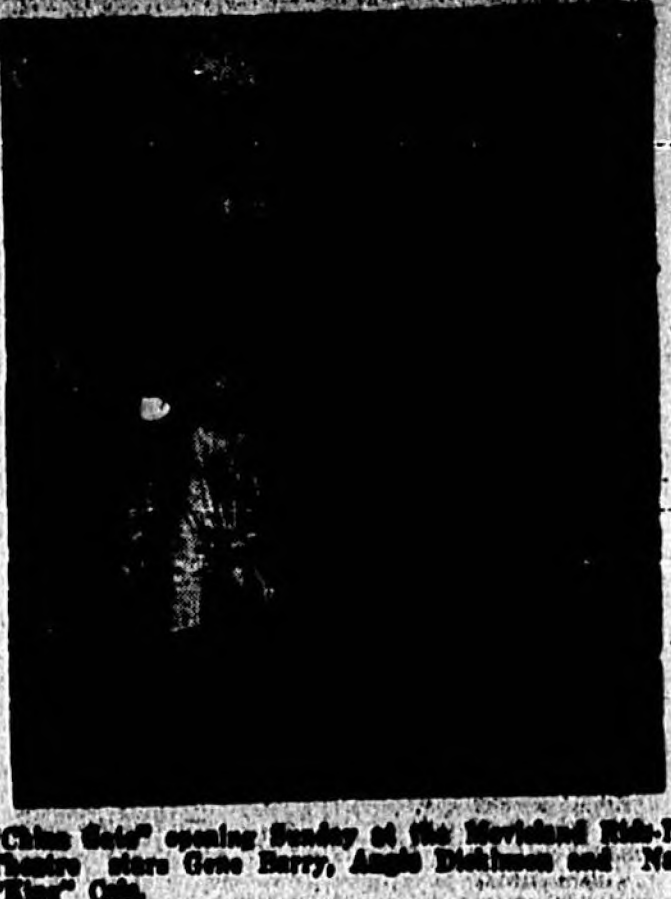

Planned entirely in Paris and the surrounding environs—some sixty percent of it on location—"Paris Holiday" is a wacky comedy centering about a sinister international espionage plot. The Messieurs Hope and Fernandel, playing roles not dissimilar to their real-life roles, become innocently involved with an assortment of spies.

The distaff stars of "Paris Holiday" are Anita Ekberg and Martha Hyer.

A Tolds Production, "Paris Holiday" was filmed in Technirama-Technicolor and directed by Gerd Oswald.

Fernandel, perhaps Europe's greatest and most popular comedian, is a young veteran of some 30 years in show-business. He was already a great music-hall favorite when, in 1909, he made his first movie. Since then, he has appeared in some 110 more films.

Bob Hope, who scarcely needs an introduction to film fans in any country, is unquestionably Ameri-

J. Collins Cinema City's Number One Bachelor Girl

By VERNON SCOTT
 United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD — Joan Collins has taken over the title of Cinema City's number one bachelor girl now that Jayne Mansfield and Natalie Wood have retired from the field.

The outspoken English lass sat at a table in the 20th Century-Fox commissary and discussed her love life over a platter of marinated herring. Two of her nervous suitors, actors Henry Silva and Steve Boyd, listened painfully while she outlined the requirements she expects of a husband.

"He must be intelligent, understanding, seven years older than I am, and terribly attractive," she started out.

"He has to be dominating without appearing to be and able to support me better than I can support myself."

Boyd looked at Silva. "Do we qualify?" he asked.

Silva, who appears in Joan's new picture "The Bravades" with Boyd, shook his head disconsolately.

Art Cohn, whose husband was killed in the plane crash that claimed Mike Todd's life, announced she will finish writing her husband's book, "The First Nine Lives of Mike Todd," Top rated "Mail-nee Theater," long-time NBC daytime show, leaves the air for keeps in June.

"I'm not so sure I'd want him to be an actor. They're dreadful bores. Present company excluded," she hastily amended.

"There are too many qualities about actors that I find annoying. They're more interested in themselves than they are in a girl when they go out on dates."

"Why should I marry? What can a husband offer me apart from children? I like being independent and self-sufficient. I don't want anyone telling me what to do, yet, I wouldn't marry a man who didn't try to dominate me."

Undaunted, Boyd asked, "What are you doing tonight?"

"Don't call me. I'll call you," preparing to leave. "I'll call you."

MOTHER DASHED into the nursery, when she heard her 5-1/2-year-old howling. His baby sister, it developed, was pulling his hair.

"Never mind," she counseled the lad. "Your baby sister doesn't know that it hurts you."

A couple of minutes later Mother had to come back to the nursery. This time sister was howling. "What's the matter with the baby?" she demanded.

"Nothing much," replied brother calmly. "Only now she knows."

Expert Defines Terms Used For Heart Disease

By GAIL H. GIBSON, M.D.
Specialist in Coronary Artery Disease

When the flow of blood through an artery is blocked entirely we call it coronary occlusion or a heart attack.
Now most such attacks are not fatal. You will feel weak and have a chest pain, but generally the flow of blood increases through undamaged coronary arteries and you will recover.

Damaged Vessels Replaced
The muscles of the heart served by the blocked artery receive oxygen from nearby arteries until the body establishes a new system of blood vessels to replace the damaged ones.
This temporary lack of oxygen, even though it usually is brief, generally causes some damage to the heart muscle. This injury is called myocardial infarction.
This procedure is known as coronary bypass surgery, but it will give you an idea of what causes a heart attack and what some of the medical terms mean.

Artery Aneurysms
A. D.: I had a coronary artery aneurysm. Does this mean I will have to have my second child this way also?
A.: In most cases, once a coronary section has been removed, it is better to have the second child delivered the same way, depending on the cause for the first operation.
However, in a certain few cases, when a vessel is carefully watched, there is very little danger in a person going through a normal delivery after having a coronary.

Youth Program Includes More Than Recreation

By GAY BAULEY
United Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Planned play for teen agers is only a half-way treatment, not a cure, for juvenile delinquency, says one experienced hand at working with youth.

Daniel Brisker, 26, is education director for one of the 26 youth villages in the 16-year-old state of Israel and a leader in a program to resettle the thousands of youngsters who have poured into the country as part of a huge post-war immigration.

"In this nation, the concentration in youth programs is on recreation," he said. "But it isn't enough just to give a kid a baseball and tell him to go play for a couple of hours. To keep children off the streets and out of trouble, a program must be more inclusive ... must provide some work, some schooling too."

Brisker said Israeli youth faces problems strikingly similar to those in our own big cities where there is a mass immigration. There are housing shortages, overcrowded schools, the language barrier, and the whole family's lack of fitting into a new country, new jobs.

Israel's government meets the youth problems three ways — with the villages, which are miniature communities, where a teen-ager is cared for until his or her parents get settled; with settlements, which operate similarly but are located right in a child's home area, draw from his own social milieu; and in a boarding school that he can go home at the end of a day; and day centers. These provide schooling in the morning hours for youngsters past 14, the compulsory school age in Israel, a few hours of daily employment on farm or in factory, and supervised recreation.

"One thing is to be stressed," said Brisker. "None of the programs is in any way compulsory. All are strictly voluntary."

Help Normal Children
"And none is a correctional institution ... a reform school as you have here. Our youth villages are not children who have run into trouble with the law or have extreme emotional and psychological problems. We are just trying to help normal children adjust to a new land."

Brisker said the youth village or kibbutz program began secretly in the late 1930's when thousands of children escaped Germany, although few of their parents could follow. When the British mandate over Palestine ended in 1948, and Israel became a nation, the villages have opened and were expanded. Today they care for close to 6,000 children.

"There are thousands more to be helped," said Brisker, who is on a speaking tour in this country to help raise money for the United Jewish Appeal, USA helps support an immigrant aid program in Israel.

A native of Romania, Brisker migrated in 1940, followed a few years later by his parents. A youth village was his first home and after nearly five years with the British Army in World War II, he returned to the kibbutz. He spent 1954-57 studying social work at Columbia University and working with problem children on New York's Lower East Side.

C. Dauphin Says French Driving Habits 'Crazed'

By DOC GUNG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—"Crazed," says the eminent French actor Claude Dauphin. He's talking about the driving habits of France.

"Those New York drivers—I'm just getting their patience, their silence, in Paris, if you're stuck behind a car, you start insulting the whole world—you scream!"

"Here, I was caught in a tunnel, stuck 25 minutes — thousands of cars at midnight — and not a voice. The patience of American drivers is amazing. Particularly here in this city, where you sometimes proceed one block every 10 minutes."

Parading Miss Beaud
"I don't know how you'll manage, in a very few years, to add a car in New York. And the parking situation—I resent it! The parking meters used to be one hour for a dime. Now they're one-half hour for a dime. You can't do anything in one-half hour."

"In Paris the regulations are strict, but in France—you know with a shrug—you can always go around the regulations."

As he talks, we are scolding down crowded Third Ave. in his tiny French Renault. Gesturing with his left, he flips from opening to opening like a halibut in a broken fish. Twice I thought he was going to try to sneak right underneath big trucks.

"Nice to have a little car in big traffic," he says. "When I put my car beside a Cadde, or a Buick, or Oldsmobile, it's just half the fun for it. I got three parking tickets in three months—200 fines."

"In France, you can go out in the country, 200 miles an hour. No speed limit. On one trip of about five hours in a Jaguar, it was driving 100 miles an hour all the time. And no trouble."

Highly Unlucky
Here, I would have been highly unlucky on a highway with a 50-mile speed limit, and maybe I would have had an accident."

"I think you have many more accidents here than we do in France. Why? Drunk drivers. In France we are more used to drink. In America, they get drunk more easily. They start in the evening, fast. Want to catch up. They get more dizzy. In France, we start drinking in the morning."

"You see how we sneak the car into small places? It's just easier. You just outcrop (pronounced 'out-crop') by chance!"

Difference Between Depression, Now

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The old timers who were around for the big depression which began about 30 years ago will note some differences between then and now.

The principal difference is that now it is more a matter of political debate than a matter of fact whether there is or is not a depression in the works or not a depression.

Not so in the early autumn of 1929. The big depression began then with a bang—the crash of the stock market down somewhere into the rocky sub-structure of Manhattan Island. That's how hard and fast stocks fell on the black Thursday and black Friday which marked the end of the Coolidge boom.

That was only a beginning, however, and when the great market collapse came some months later the panic was on. Rich men caught in the market were rich no more, and many of them left their plush offices by high windows instead of the elevator in plump down on the sidewalk below.

F. D. R. Close Sanks
Speculating in stocks and bonds was winded out by the multi-thousands. Country banks began to fold. City banks folded, too. In the fourth year of the depression, the governor of Michigan decreed an eight-day bank holiday to prevent wholesale bankruptcies. Franklin D. Roosevelt took office as president within a month and immediately closed all the banks to protect them against withdrawals by frightened depositors.

Congress in special session met and passed in a single day—March 8, 1933, — a complex banking bill designed to effect some reforms and to enable the reopening of sound banks. There were nearly 15 million unemployed in the U. S. in 1933, and F. D. R. soon was off on what looked like a massive government spending campaign to create jobs.

F. D. R. either spent too little money or the policy of massive government spending is no unemployment cure. The record will support one conclusion or the other.

By 1934, F. D. R. had unemployment down to a little more than 10 million which was 14.0 per cent of the available labor force. By 1938 it was up to more than 10 million—19 per cent of the labor force.

The Boom Came
F. D. R. spent on his unemployment refused to wither and went away. There remained 5,500,000 unemployed in 1941, 10 per cent of the labor force. Then along came World War II and unemployment began to taper off. The Schless in 1945, the last years of war production, numbered 2,700,000 or about 4 per cent of the labor force.

The least unemployment on record since the big depression was 1,600,000 in 1948. That was 2.5 per cent of the labor force. In the boom-boom years of 1952-53 unemployment was, respectively, 3,800,000, 2,900,000 and 2,600,000, ranging from 4 to 3.8 and back to 4 per cent of the available labor force.

These figures somewhat inflated. In the present situation in which unemployment is counted at 5,100,000 which is 7 per cent of the 1963 labor force. F. D. R. never was able to bring unemployment to so low a figure. That is small comfort to the man or woman without a job today. It may be, however, on a

Science Today

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—The trouble with science's gift of a longer life for almost everyone is that although the life of the body has been lengthened, the life of the mind and the personality resident in that body has not been.

Dr. Edward A. Strecker was looking science's gift horse in the mouth at a recent conference on geriatrics, the medical science of aging. He concluded that unless science soon finds ways of preserving mind and personality as well as body, the lengthening of the life span will become "a curse rather than a blessing."

What is needed is more research and the questions must be pursued under high priority. The questions are not easy, which adds to their urgency. For instance, what deterioration occurs in the physical structure of the brain with age? He cited the experiences of a neuropathologist who dissected the brains of 20 persons who died in old age.

Some Signs
This investigator was looking for physical signs of deterioration, and he found them. But he found just as many in the brains of persons who had been mentally healthy in their last years as he found in the brains of those who had been mentally ill.

"We should not be too glib about blaming all the behavior manifestations of old-age disorders upon organic brain disease," he continued. "It is not the sole cause. Nor should we be too glib about linking chronologic age with mental deterioration."

"Some people manifest deterioration in the fifties, and indeed there may be profound deterioration in the early forties. Yet we know people in advanced life, 80 years of age and more, who, accepting for a few memory lapses, are bright and alert."

Previous Personality
In addition to possible physical changes in the brain, he suggested that "the previous personality" of aged persons could bring pressure to bear which "distorted" behavior. "The human personality is the most awesome thing in all the world," he said. "It is too fluid and far-reaching to be confined in a cage of words."

He asked two aged women the same questions—the day of the week, the date of the month. One replied "I'm ashamed, I can't remember." The other said: "None of your x x x business. Find out for yourself." Each had been like that as a girl.

Strecker is an oldest himself. He is professor emeritus of psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania, and professor of psychiatry, Stony Brook College, Jersey City, N. J.

Survey Shows 7 Sears Store Gets Reserve Award

WASHINGTON (UP)—A United Press survey shows the presidents of seven American republics want a bolder United States aid program, plus large-scale U. S. investments to make Latin America a more effective free world partner.

They agreed generally, in response to a series of questions, that the inter-American alliance could be strengthened by closing the gap between the nuclear-age U. S. economy and the medieval poverty that still afflicts much of the Hemisphere.

Their appeal for more aid coincided with new efforts by Latin American diplomats to obtain a stabler market in the United States for raw materials — mainly sugar, oil and copper.

The move is designed to counteract a business drop-off being felt in such countries as Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Mexico and Peru as a result of sharp drops in prices and sales of agricultural and mineral products.

Latin American diplomat-aid President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles for their determined defense of the foreign aid and reciprocal trade programs in the face of mounting congressional criticism.

But President Camillo Fonce of Ecuador voiced typical disappointment over Washington's hard credit policies. In answer to survey questions, he urged an assistance program "of a friend helping with idealism and generosity, not a banker's approach."

Another Latin American leader, President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil, called for vigorous technical aid and for more continued financing. He said this would be "invaluable" for the less developed countries.

Also giving their views were President Jose Figueroa of Costa Rica, Fulgencio Batista of Cuba, Hector Trujillo of the Dominican Republic, Jose Maria Lemus of El Salvador, Ramon Villeda Morales of Honduras and Gen. Alfredo Stroessner of Paraguay.

Most of them indicated a latent Latin American sentiment that the United States could ease some of their most pressing problems with only a small fraction of the aid it has provided to other areas of the world.

Polio Virus Found In Bird

By Special Service
United Press Staff
A polio virus was found in a bird, a report of a United Press Staff writer says.

Type 1 polio virus was found in a bird, which is the American form of "love bird".

The bird was found in the laboratory of the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Over the years such household and barnyard animals as dogs, cats, and chickens have been suspected of being "reservoirs" for polio virus.

The birds which are related to the male which despite human attention, is found of living close to people.

transmission of poliomyelitis by domestic pets.

The significance was that not only had the bird been infected with the virus; it had excreted the disease to human beings, for at least three weeks.

Report Card Time At June Taylor's School Of Dance

By FRED DANZIG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—It's report card time for some of the television performers whose feet patter across the floorboards at June Taylor's School of Dance.

Teacher Taylor, a tall, poppy blonde who sports one of those jagged-and-bathing-cap-type hair cuts, has some interesting progress reports on the recent guests of Patti Page's "The Big Record" TV show, which she stages.

Frankie Avalon: "He came off very well."
"Paul Anka: "It was difficult to loosen him up. He was so stiff." As for the boss, Patti Page, Miss Taylor said: "When you teach Patti something, you have to work at keeping it the way you want it. Otherwise, she changes the step so she can feel more comfortable. But she's gaining more confidence and that makes it easier."

Besides staging the numbers on Patti's show, June keeps busy running a school for dancers of all ages and sizes, with some of her customers being well-known singers.

Since graceful movement is so important on TV, it's a sign of the times to find in one studio the dancers from "Your Hit Parade," brushing up on some numbers while across the hall, learning "Beginner Jazzy" steps, are the singers from the same show.

"That might not be hard to do," Cord said. He looked at me. "I told you once about never crossing me, Smoke. You wouldn't listen."
"Was Overland putting the squeeze on you, Cord?" Bill asked.

"I looked at Cord and knew that Bill had the answer. 'You never liked to have anyone push you, did you, Cord? What did Heck want? A little of the money? Wasn't his cut big enough?'"

"I'M NOT A plan formed to jar Cord off balance. I said. 'I just talked to Edna. She hadn't seen you either, Cord.'"

"He looked at me blankly but I noticed, very carefully. Bill Hageman said, 'Maybe you just wanted us to think you were in town when all the time you were over to Heck Overland's place putting three bullets in his chest.' Bill smiled a little.

"You see, Smoke and I only missed you by a few minutes. Cord? You were running out the front door while we was stumbling around in the back. But we heard Heck good and proper."

"Never in my life had I seen Cord so colorless, or his expression so light. It's been at me. Just what is it you two pure people intend to do?"

"I'm not denying I'm scared," Bill said. "I'm scared when I find a rattlesnake in my blankets too. He straightened and dropped his right hand to his lap. 'Cord, if you leave this room, then you'll have to leave two more dead men behind.'"

"I tried to give them 'aways' or 'finger-snapping' to do. It's worse for them, though. We don't make professional dancers out of them, but we try to keep them from looking like a stick of wood while they're on."

"Heck liked to talk," Cord said. "And he could see the wrong things. That made me nervous. He pushed his chair toward me. 'You want to draw me a fresh beer, Smoke?'"

"Draw your own," I said. He laughed and got up, going behind the bar. I realized then what a position my foolish pride had put Bill and me into. Behind the bar, with his hands out of sight, Cord was in an ideal spot in case he wanted to shoot two people. He must have guessed what was going on in my mind.

When I started to get up, Cord said, 'Stay there on your hands and knees, Smoke. If you think I won't put a bullet in you, then you think wrong.'"

"Where are you, Bill?" I heard Cord leave Lumber's porch with a rush and jumped to my feet, pumping after him. I banged out, then came to a sudden halt. Cord had crossed the street and was standing near Julie, smiling in his old way.

"Have you seen Bill?" she asked. "I heard a shot as I came down the stairs." "So did I," Cord said. "That's why I came out to investigate." I found my voice at last and yelled, "Run, Julie! Get away from him!"

Old People Who Keep Active Enjoy Better Health

By LOUIS CARROLL
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Intensive medical research on the aging process has been under way only a few years. But it has already yielded one important discovery:

Old people who keep active, in spite of their infirmities, enjoy much better health than those who give up the struggle and "take life easy."

Well-meaning relatives often assume that an aging relative should be put to bed and spared exertion and responsibility. But medical studies show this about the worst possible thing. Unduly prolonged bed rest saps an old person's strength, leads to loss of mobility and even loss of kidney and bowel control. In time he becomes a helpless invalid—simply from staying in bed.

Inactivity is as catastrophic for the mental health of the aged as it is for their physical health.

Dr. Robert H. Felix, director of the National Institute of Mental Health, says people who "retain a place in life, who have interests, activities and responsibilities," tend to show relatively few signs of senility as they grow old.

But those "who step aside or are pushed aside, who lose their place in affairs," tend to become senile quickly.

Keeping active is a simple enough prescription for the old person whose disability is heart trouble, high blood pressure or a touch of arthritis. But what about the aged patient who has been paralyzed by a stroke, or who has broken a hip in a fall?

The conscientious nursing home staff often waits on patients hand and foot, anticipates every need, and discourages every attempt by their patients at self-care," Burney said.

With the active encouragement of the U. S. Public Health Service, some of the better nursing homes lately have begun to offer rehabilitation services. They are learning, Burney says, that "many of the techniques are remarkably easy and can be applied with inexpensive materials by properly trained nursing aides and orderlies."

Despite this and other efforts to life standards, the Public Health Service reports that nursing homes

Soviet Russia Is Making Big New Bid For Nasser's Favor

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Soviet Russia is making a big bid this week for the favor of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic. Nasser is flying to Moscow, at the invitation of the Soviet government, on the biggest state visit he ever has made. Advance reports indicate the visit will be a red carpet affair and that every possible attempt will be made to impress the visit with the industrial, political and military might of the Soviet Union. News that Nasser would make the visit in response to an invitation issued two years ago, leaked out in Cairo on March 22 and was confirmed officially. Cairo dispatches said that he will attend the big May Day celebration in Moscow May 1, that he will tour the country as far as Siberia—and that he may witness the launching of Russia's Sputnik No. 2. News of the visit is pretty certain to be unwelcome in Washington. There have been indications for several months, and especially in the last few weeks, that the United States is trying to put up its relations with Egypt.

There have been indications, also, that Nasser would welcome the improvement, partly because it would be calculated to lessen his growing dependence on Russia. As part of the attempt to improve relations, Eugene Black, president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, has announced that the institution will help Egypt plans to increase the capacity of the Suez Canal. It is expected this will be accompanied by big credits to Egypt. It is reported, too, that the United States may lend Nasser Army druggies to deepen the canal. If things work out well, the United States may release the 30 million dollars in Egyptian assets which it has kept frozen since the Suez crisis of 1956 in order to protect American shipping interests in any disputes about payment of canal tolls. Cairo dispatches reported on April 12 that Nasser had issued orders to Egyptian newspapers and radio to stop their persistent attacks on the United States. At any rate, the attacks have ceased, if only temporarily. But Nasser's visit to the Soviet Union is likely to make it harder for the United States to make any immediate progress toward its hope of winning Nasser away from close cooperation with Russia. Nasser is a most impressionable man. He banks in his chosen role of Mr. Big of the Arab world and is highly susceptible to favorable propaganda. That he will get all the favorable propaganda he can easily digest during his visit to the Soviet Union is certain. Nasser was first invited to visit Russia in 1950. But the Suez crisis and the Hungarian revolt caused the suspension of the invitation. Now, after the union of Egypt and Syria and the federation of Yemen with their United Arab Republic, Nasser is in a pretty nice position. He can sit back and enjoy himself while the world's two greatest powers seek his friendship.

New Recreation Director Discusses Program With City

Sanford's newly employed year-round recreation director, Ronald W. Perry, conferred with school and city officials Friday and Saturday in preparation for the city's summer recreation program. Perry will report to work in Sanford on June 1. However, details for the annual summer recreation program had to be worked out. "I am certainly in favor of a year-round program that will attract everyone, from the youngest child to the adult," Perry said Saturday morning. The summer recreation program will give men an opportunity to meet many of the folks in Sanford and to become acclimated before putting together a program to reach everyone, Perry said. Perry is now attending Florida State University preparing for his Masters Degree. "I am looking forward to being in Sanford in the near future with my wife and family," Perry said. Perry pointed out that the Sanford Civic Center's youth recreation wing will lend itself to a well-rounded program of diversified recreation for various ages of children. "It is possible to have several programs going on at the same time to reach several ages of children and none will interfere with the other," he said. "I have never enjoyed a more cooperative atmosphere," the new recreation director said, as he spoke of meeting with various school officials to work out details of the summer recreation program.

Wilkinson Named Outstanding Enlisted Man

JACKSONVILLE—Billy B. Wilkinson, aviation storekeeper first class, USN, is awarded the "Outstanding Enlisted Man of the Year Trophy" by his commanding officer, Cdr. T. R. Sedell. Wilkinson, the son of Mrs. S. A. Wilkinson of 2476 S. Palmetto Ave., Sanford, is serving with Attack Squadron 44 at the Naval Air Station, Jacksonville. In addition to receiving the trophy March 20, Wilkinson was awarded a Letter of Commendation for outstanding performance of duty as leading petty officer in the material division. Before entering the Navy in March 1954, Wilkinson graduated from Seminole High School.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States will test major parts of an atomic rocket engine in Nevada this fall, it was disclosed. Col. Jack L. Armstrong, deputy director of the Atomic Energy Commission Office of Aircraft Nuclear Propulsion, told the United Press the "nuclear reactor and necessary parts" of the "Rover" rocket engine will be tested at the atomic proving ground in Nevada. The Rover, which needs no air, could be used as a light-weight long-range motor for space ships. Simultaneously Rep. James T. Patterson (R-Conn.), a member of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, called on the Navy to step up its development of the "Subrock" missile. He said the Subrock could, if pushed, be in operation a year before the Polaris. He said it could be fired through torpedo tubes of existing submarines, travel "many miles" under water and then fly through the air to coastal installations "many hundreds of miles away." Patterson said in a statement "acute prototypes of nuclear propulsion engines for missiles" will be tested on the ground this year. He said airborne tests of nuclear powered missiles will be conducted within two or three years. Armstrong said this prediction might be "over-optimistic."

The reactor for the Rover is being developed by the AEC at its Los Alamos, N. M., plant. Other parts are being developed by the Aerojet General Corp. and the Rocketdyne Division of North American Aviation. The Rover's propulsion system is said to consist of an atomic reactor which would heat another substance, possibly liquid hydrogen, under high pressure. This would blast out through nozzles, driving the rocket or space ship much like present chemical fuels. The atom engine would not need the huge fuel supplies conventional rocket motors must carry. AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss has said this country will develop an atomic motor within "a reasonable period—a little longer than two or three years."

Corporation Seeks Permit To Erect Pier, Pipeline

The Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation, whose new mixing plant and tanks will be constructed in Sanford just south of Seminole Boulevard and the Orange State Oil Company, has made an application to the Department of the Army for a permit to construct a pier, a pipeline, and dolphins in Lake Monroe, southerly shore, at a project leased by the applicant. The pier, dolphins and pipeline are expected to be located about one-half mile eastward from the municipal pier. It is proposed to reconstruct a timber pier six feet wide extending into the waterway about 101 feet from the bulkhead, with an L-shaped head. The four existing dolphins would be repaired and two additional 9-pile dolphins would be installed in line with the existing dolphins. Plans for the work may be seen at the office of the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, 375 Riverside Ave., Jacksonville. It is not proposed to hold a public hearing on the application. However, protests based on effects on public navigation should be addressed to the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, Jacksonville in time to be received on or before May 9, 1958.

Attempted Robberies Reported Over Weekend

A series of attempted robberies and breaking and enterings plagued the Sanford Police Department early this morning.

At 3:37 a. m., George Scott, milkman at Perfection Dairies, reported that the building had been entered and plundered. Entrance was gained with a bar forcing the west door. Approximately ten dollars was missing according to Dan Ballinger, manager of the dairy. Sgt. W. R. Cosgrave and Ed Hayden, who investigated, reported that the door was closed by the subject entering, upon his departure.

The WinnDixie Food market on 25th and French was entered by vandals who cut the lock on the produce loading door. The lock was found thrown in palm tree bushes at the rear of the store. Nothing was taken or disturbed, according to R. W. Casube, manager. The report was made by Casube at 4:18, after a call from one of his truckers. The door was closed by the entrants. Harry Penley, owner of Penleys Grocery, 606 W. 11th St., reported that his store was entered during the night. The heap was pulled off the screen on the northwest side of the building. Nothing was missing, according to L. Jack Hilsken, who made the investigation.

Chief of Police, Roy Williams, stated this morning that Sanford police officers have doubled protection in recent weeks. Dusting for fingerprints has been made at each scene, and the department is working toward an early solution of the crimes. Chief Williams urged property owners to check their doors and windows, and to remove as much as possible any temptation for the vandals.
