State Grant To Finance Project

Rosenwald Center Classrooms OK'd

BY MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Over the objections of a parent group, Seminole County School Board members have approved a plan to build seven new classrooms at the Rosenwald Exceptional Child Center in Altamonte Springs.

Dick Skaggs, president of the Rosenwald parent-teacher organization, asked board members to delay their decision until March 9 when the group would make recommendations for the new construction.

The biggest concern to Skaggs is a plan to build a finishing kitchen at the school, instead of constructing a full kitchen.

"We would not consider this reasonable. Our needs are more than this," he said.

Charlotte Whitmore, food service director, told Skaggs the finishing kitchen, which will cost about $7,000 is the best facility for the Rosenwald school.

Children using the school require varied menus, she said.

Parents concerned about type of kitchen to be constructed.

Many cannot eat the regular school menus. "Some must have their food pureed, others chopped fine, others chopped coarsely."

The finishing kitchen would provide facilities for keeping the food warm after it is delivered from the kitchen at Lyman High School in Longwood. The finishing kitchen would allow food service personnel to prepare some vegetables and meat at the school.

Superintendent Robert Hughes said "we're faced with more needs than we have dollars. It's much better than what we have out there right now."

He said a full kitchen would cost about $70,000.

Construction of the new classrooms is being funded by a $295,000 grant from the state Department of Education. The grant is available because Seminole County schools will take responsibility for the training of more mentally retarded and mentally handicapped students as a result of the closing of the state's Sunland Centers.

A total of 31 new students between the ages of 12 and 21 are expected at the school bringing the attendance at Rosenwald to more than 200.

The district originally planned to build portable classrooms to house the additional students but later decided to construct the permanent classrooms. As a result of the new buildings, the kitchen and dining area, which had been renovated into classrooms, will be returned to their original use.

Construction of the new buildings would also allow Rosenwald officials to move some classes out of portable classrooms. By moving profoundly handicapped students out of portables and by placing staff offices in them, further expansion of existing facilities would also be possible. Those portables would become available for use at other schools in the future.

Group Sets Goals

Seminole Toll Road Study Funds Near

The Seminole County Expressway Authority should receive a check for $109,000 to fund studies of potential toll road sites within two weeks, the executive director of the authority said.

The grant has been approved by the state Department of Transportation but has not yet been approved by Gov. Bob Graham, Jack Schuder told authority members Tuesday.

He said it will probably be two weeks before Graham signs an order to release the funds.

Schuder, who is Seminole County's public works director, said he would advertise for a consultant to do the studies as soon as the grant arrives.

The board, composed of the five county commissioners, Sanford Commissioner David Farr and Altamonte Springs Commissioner Lee Constantine, approved the organization's goals and objectives.

The first goal of the organization is to organize an expressway authority that can plan for an expressway system that is economically feasible and meets the transportation needs of Central Florida.

To reach that goal, the group hopes to secure professional staff to develop the studies for toll roads, provide ongoing discussions with the state DOT, local planning agencies, citizens and other governmental agencies.

The second goal of the authority is to determine and select feasible corridors for expressways.

The objectives under that goal include determining the location for corridors and the financing for expressways along with integrating the expressways with state and federal highway systems.

The third goal is to design, finance and construct an expressway within a chosen corridor.

Under that goal the objectives will be to determine the center line of the corridor's right-of-way, prepare final engineering plans and specifications, finance the construction and select a contractor for construction.

Board members also discussed the future of the authority. Several county commissioners expressed an interest in having citizens appointed to the board to replace them.

Commissioner Robert Sturm said the seven-person board should be made up of one county commissioner, two representatives of the county's seven municipalities and four citizens named by the governor.

Sturm said the governor might be more agreeable to giving the county highway funds if he can appoint four members of the authority.

But before the commissioners can be replaced on the authority, a special act must be passed by the Legislature. The deadline for introducing special acts has passed, meaning the board must retain its current composition until next year.

No date was set for the authority's next meeting.—MICHAEL BEHA.

Both Men Killed In Plane Crash Were Good Pilots

By VICTOR ASSERBOHN
Herald Staff Writer

One of the two victims who died in the light plane crash near the Flying Seminole Ranch on Wednesday was a Casselberry resident. Seminole County sheriff's deputies identified him as Jim Humphrey, 60, of 626 Stanhope Drive in Casselberry.

The other person killed was 23-year-old George L. Patino of 1382 Craftsland Lane in Palm Bay, Melbourne. Investigators have not yet established which of the two men was flying the Cessna 182 when it nose dived 200 feet into the ground and exploded as it was taking off at about 10 a.m.

Witnesses said the four-seater Cessna had reached about 200 feet when the engine stopped and it plunged to the ground as it appeared to be making a 180 degree turn.

Witnesses said that the aircraft, owned by Humphrey, was on a trip to Georgia. The aircraft was kept at the Flying Seminole Ranch.

Humphrey, a spokesman for the Sheriff's Department said, had many years flying experience. He had wintered in Florida and would take the plane north in the summer. Patino had about five years flying experience and had been teaching at the flying ranch part time since last July, said officials.

Although Humphrey was experienced, he had asked for an instructor to fly with him because of his age, said officials. Members of Humphrey's family were too distraught to comment.

Jobs Bill May Get Tentative Approval

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The bipartisan jobs legislation President Reagan trumpeted earlier this month is ready for a tentative seal of approval today.

Assistant House Democratic leader Thomas Foley was prepared to go to the White House today to deliver his party's version of an emergency jobs bill that will be considered formally by the House Appropriations Committee Friday.

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill said Wednesday the administration's $4.3 billion plan and the Democratic plan "somewhere in the vicinity of $5 billion" will differ, with the House passing the Democratic version and the Senate approving the Reagan version.

An eventual compromise will be written in conference committee with members of both houses before the mid-March expiration of federal unemployment trust fund money, he said.

O'Neill suggested House Democrats have enough leverage to force an increase in spending over Reagan's proposal because of the "sensitivity" the president will have to show to the 19 Senate Republicans up for re-election next year.

County Commissioners Support Group's Work

Seminole Environmental Advocate Suggested

Seminole County commissioners should hire an employee to work as an advocate for environmental concerns within the county, members of a conservationist group believe.

Representatives of the Friends of the St. Johns, Inc., a group which aims to preserve and restore the St. Johns River, told county commissioners Tuesday an environmental advocate should be hired to make "positive" action to improve environmental quality in the county.

The drainage problems which plague Florida are "not wet weather problems; they are man-made," said Tom Turnipseed, president of the group. "Concerned, honest officials have the integrity to resolve some of those problems."

Alex Dickerson, a spokesman for the group, said the conservation group becomes a negative agent for the environment since it often steps into debate over developments in wetlands areas.

Dickerson said the group would like to place more emphasis on taking positive action to help the river rather than just trying to prevent negative impact.

"Very little of the county's resources is spent on positive impact," he said.

But county officials said they are already working to preserve "the quality of life" in Seminole County.

County Planner Woody Price said one of the five people on his staff is assigned to working on environmental concerns. Thirty percent of Environmental Services Director Ken Hooper's staff time is devoted to water quality monitoring, he said.

Dickerson told commissioners that Seminole County is in a unique situation. The county is bordered on three sides by the St. Johns and the county's economic roots are tied directly to the river, which served as the main access route to Central Florida throughout its early development.

He said the county reaps benefits from the fishing and boating industries and from the tourists who come to the area because of the St. Johns. Renewed efforts to cleanse the river would provide aesthetic, environmental and health benefits.

Dickerson said commissioners are overwhelmed by the number of requests for development approval so that they have little time to work on positive environmental action.

"We feel that there needs to be a staff member designated to provide the commissioners with ideas and input in environmental actions the county could take," Dickerson said. "The designated person will be working independently with interested groups to develop plans that will improve the environment. This person will have the varied resources of the expertise of the rest of the county to develop their ideas. This person will serve both the commission as a source of information and the environmentally concerned citizens as a point of contact in the county government."

Sturm described the position as an ombudsman, a liaison between the government and the people. He said the post would be valuable.

Price said various county workers are doing the functions the group wants. He said the county has in its comprehensive management plan the ability to designate a conservation agency. That agency would do the things the group requested along with its regular duties, Price said.

Commissioners promised to look into the request and voiced their support for the preservation work the conservation group is doing.

NATION IN BRIEF

Social Security Rescue Plan Survives...For Now

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The $165 billion Social Security rescue package survived its first congressional hurdle — but only on a party-line vote — indicating the plan may undergo some changes before it wins crucial bipartisan support.

The Democratically led House Social Security subcommittee Wednesday repeatedly rejected attempts by the panel's Republicans to raise the retirement age as a means of reducing the system's long-term costs. That prompted the GOP members to vote against the entire package. The vote was 7-4.

The panel adhered closely to a national commission's recommendations to raise money through the end of the decade, but added some of its own ideas to deal with the system's long-term deficit, including curbing benefits of future retirees and raising payroll taxes. Both proposals would take effect early next century.

Lavelle Defends Herself

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rita Lavelle, fired head of the EPA's toxic waste cleanup program, says she did nothing wrong, wants her job back, and resolutely defends her ties to the White House and the chemical industry.

In 4 1/2 hours of questioning under oath before the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee Wednesday, she said she did not play political favorites in releasing toxic waste cleanup funds, insisted there is no evidence of any "sweetheart deal" for industries involved in cleanup operations and said "nothing unethical" occurred during frequent dinners she had with industry officials.

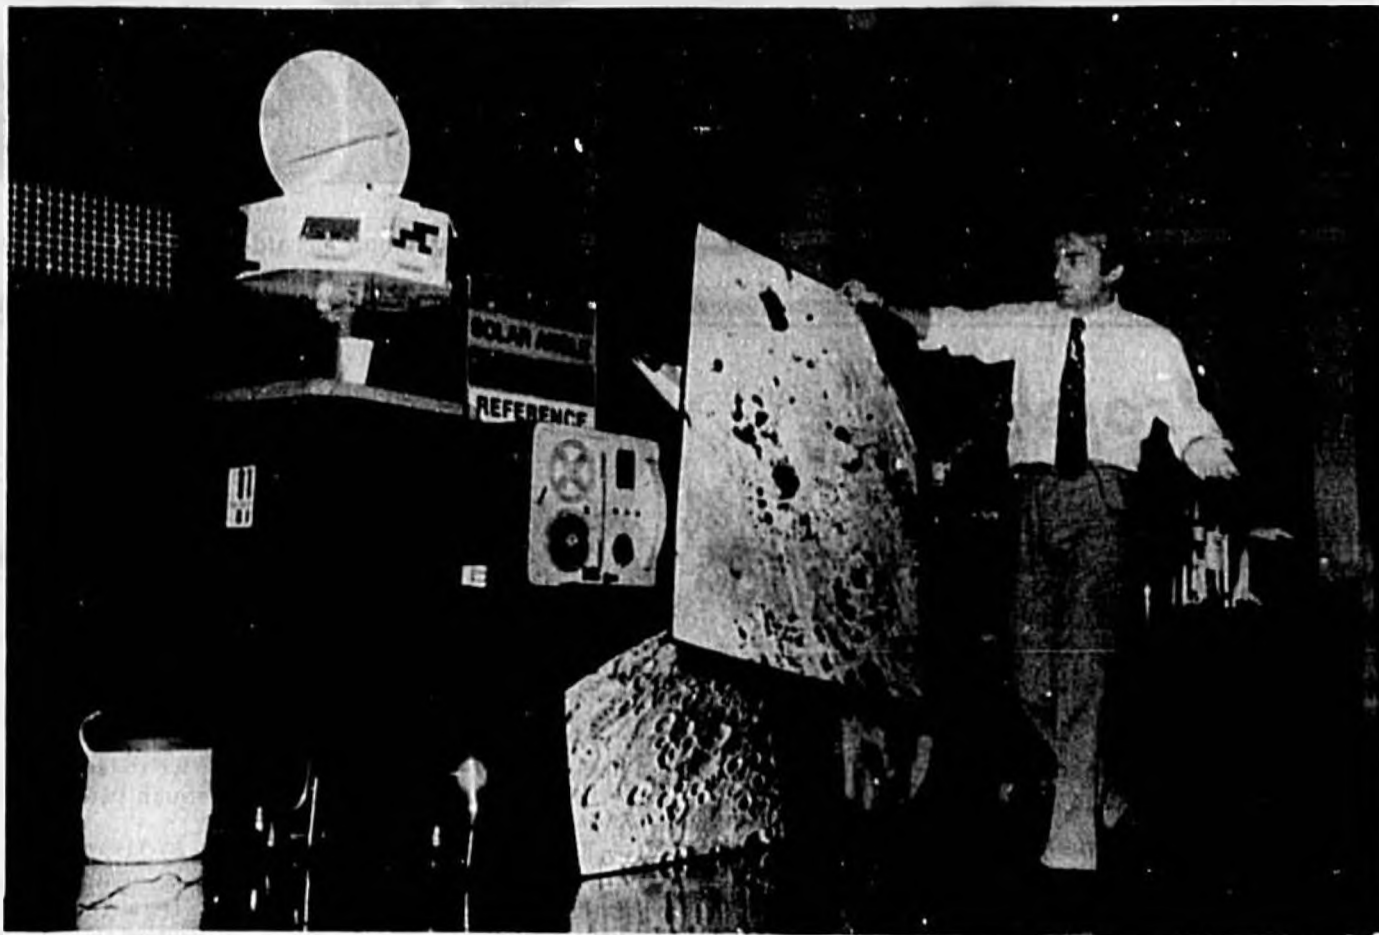

But she delicately criticized her former boss, EPA Administrator Anne Burford, bemoaned her firing by President Reagan and said her White House connections had been nothing but a hindrance.

Washington Threatened

CHICAGO (UPI) — Harold Washington, a good bet to be the city's first black mayor, is stepping up security as a result of death threats he has received.

Washington won a three-way Democratic primary, defeating Mayor Jane Byrne and State's Attorney Richard Daley. He is the favorite to defeat Republican Bernard Epton in the April 12 election.

Washington campaign manager Al Raby said there had been death threats before the election and there were more following Tuesday's balloting. He would not detail the nature of the threats but ascribed them to "sick people"

Vogt Outlines Tax Plan At Oviedo Town Meeting

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

State Sen. John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach, with only a handful of Oviedo citizens present, explained Gov. Bob Graham's taxing proposals and asked for advice in making the difficult decisions dealing with the plan which he will have to make during next Tuesday and Wednesday's special legislative session.

Although Vogt said he hasn't fully digested all the information in a thick tax packet sent to him by the governor's office, Vogt explained the main points of the proposed program which includes:

- Removing the sales tax exemption from gasoline sales. This would cost motorists about 6 cents more per gallon.
- Repeal of 4 cents of the present 8 cents state tax on gasoline and giving counties the right to levy a 2-cent tax per gallon within the counties.
- Increasing the price of truck tag fees.

Vogt expressed concern about the method suggested for applying sales tax to gasoline sales, noting the tax would not be tacked onto the cost at the pump, but rather levied at the wholesale level as a sort of index tax with the add-on ultimately paid by motorists. He said Graham expects this tax will bring the state about $141 million, after revenues lost by eliminating 4 cents of the state's current 8-cent per gallon gas tax.

Increasing the price of truck tags is estimated to bring in another $21 million annually, the senator said. The truck tag fees would be increased according to specific weight from: $360 to $572; from $420 to $678 and for heavier trucks the fee would go up from $460 to $979.

He said the danger in raising the truck tag fees is that truck owners may register their vehicles in Georgia where the fees are not as high and thus defeat the purpose of raising additional money.

Graham's plan also calls for removing the partial sales tax exemption on aviation fuel, a move intended to raise $45.6 million. Vogt explained that currently, the state taxes only the fuel used in aviation by an aircraft as it flies over the state with the balance exempted from the tax.

The senator said while considering the higher proposed sales taxes for transportation, he looked at the road improvements in his district which are being promised if the program passes.

In the portion of his district in Seminole County—generally the Oviedo, Casselberry, Winter Springs and Sanford area—Vogt said he sees benefits for his constituents.

He listed the following:

- Preliminary engineering for a railroad signal on State Road 419, $65,000, in 1983-84.
- Preliminary engineering for six-laning of Interstate 4 from SR 436 to SR 434, $200,000 in 1983-84.
- Widening of SR 419 from U.S. 17-92 to SR 434, but keeping it at two lanes, $1.19 million in 1984-85.
- Construction of turning lane at intersection of 419 and Tuskawilla Road, $28,000 and turning lanes at intersection of 426 and Hall Road, $72,000, in 1984-85.
- Also intersection work at 46 and 426, $94,000, and engineering for SR 436 and Red Bug Road exchange, $150,000, in 1984-85.
- Construction of the Red Bug-436 Interchange, $7,059,000, in 1985-88.
- Preliminary designing for the six laning of U.S. 17-92 from 436 to at 434, $100,000, in 1985-88.

"There's not a great deal there to get excited about," Vogt said, adding the program doesn't address the SR 419 problem in Oviedo where city officials for years have been asking for a rerouting of 419 around the city's downtown section.

Vogt said it appears that the majority of the Senate and House of Representatives are committed to

.. asked a small crowd for advice in dealing with Gov. Graham's proposed tax plan

supporting the gas tax program.

The senator, who has represented Seminole County for nearly 11 years, said Graham's program also includes:

- Requiring school boards to increase "their local effort" by raising property taxes by $1 per $1,000 assessed property value. This will bring in $240 million more in taxes.
- Increasing the state intangibles tax from $1 per $1,000 to $1.50.
- Raising taxes on alcoholic beverages by 8 cents per gallon on beer, by 50 cents per gallon on wine and by $1.75 per gallon on liquor to give the state $96.2 million more in revenues.
- Increasing driver's license fees from $7.50 to $12 to bring in $12 million more annually.
- Increasing tuition charged at state universities by 8 percent to bring in $6.5 million more, and increasing traffic fines by more than $7 million.

Vogt said Florida's state budget has risen from $2.8 billion in 1977-78 to $4.8 billion in 1982-83 and at the same time the state's population, per capita income and personal incomes have also gone up.

The Democrat from Cocoa Beach said Graham's "number one priority" is education, specifically, raising the quality of education in Florida to the top 25 percent in the nation. Toward this end, Graham is proposing an $1,800 increase in teachers' salaries and placing emphasis in secondary education in math and the sciences.

Vogt said Graham is also pushing for improvements in the criminal justice system and for building more state prisons.

Vogt characterized the governor's program as "ambitious." He said Graham called the special session on transportation funding so that transportation would not have to compete with human services and education for funding.

"I personally think everything should compete for funding at the same time," Vogt said.

On other matters, the senator said that several bills are being considered to overcome the recent Florida Supreme Court decision striking down the requirement that a person be resident of the state for five years before claiming the $25,000 homestead exemption.

One suggestion, he said, is that a homeowner who files for homestead exemption the first time should only be allowed a $5,000 exemption and thereafter $5,000 additional exemption will be added until $25,000 is reached. The problem with this, Vogt said, is that native Floridians will be penalized the same as new residents to the state.

Another question making the rounds among legislators, he said, is the creation of a state lottery.

Sanford Woman, 19, OK After Car-Train Crash

By VICTOR ASSERSOHN
Herald Staff Writer

A young Sanford woman was back home today nursing only minor injuries following a rather abrupt meeting Wednesday morning between her car and a freight train.

Teresa Vincent, 19, of Rabun Court, was rushed to Central Florida Regional Hospital with suspected back injuries after the crash at the Wylly Avenue crossing entrance to the Sanford Airport at about 8:15 a.m. Wednesday.

She was on her way to work at the Seminole County Sheriff's Department where she works in the records section when six freight cars being hauled by a single engine travelling north on the local line between Sanford and Aloma crashed into her as she attempted to drive over the unprotected crossing.

The train conductor, Doc Bennett of Lake Mary, was not injured in the collision. He appeared shaken and declined to answer questions.

A representative of Seaboard Lines, Carmer Davis, said that the train was travelling at "20 m.p.h." when the crash occurred.

"It looks like the girl didn't see the train and ran into the side of it," Davis said. "I don't think it is a dangerous crossing if you are paying attention to what you are doing and if you look, which apparently she didn't. I don't remember there being an accident here in the last 17 years I have been working here," said Davis.

Marine consultant Chuck Cameron of Deltona preceded Ms. Vincent's car across the tracks and saw her four-door Chevettte collide with the train.

"I got across the tracks safely. I watched in my rear view mirror to see if she stopped. I saw her car go under the train. It hit the train, went sideways and then spun around."

According to Florida Highway Patrol trooper G.E. Odom, Ms. Vincent's car struck the engine just behind the rear wheels. It was thrown back about 30 yards by the force of the impact.

Ms. Vincent was taken to the Central Florida Regional Hospital where she underwent X-rays for a suspected back injury.

Seminole To Get Emergency Medical System

Herndon Ambulance Service Inc. will receive a $119,000 subsidy for emergency service in Seminole County through September, according to Assistant County Administrator Jim Easton.

Easton said the new contract with Herndon calls for a fourth advanced life support (ALS) system unit, primarily cardiac care equipment, to be established in the county within 60 days.

Herndon's contract with the county had been extended twice since October to work out auditing and accounting procedures so the county can determine how much of the company's profits are derived from emergency service.

The firm faced competition for the county subsidy from Aero Products, a Longwood-based firm, when discussions began on a 1983 contract. But the company withdrew its application in November when it could not come up with all the information necessary to apply for the subsidy.

Aero President Scott Barnes said projections for revenues could not be calculated because Herndon had not provided enough information in its annual report to the county.

Barnes asked for a $257,000 subsidy for maintaining four ALS units in Seminole. Herndon officials asked for a $100,000 subsidy to maintain three ALS units. A fourth unit was projected at another $105,000.

Under the new contract, Herndon's total annual subsidy would be about $234,000, Easton said. That compares to fiscal 1981-82's subsidy, of $120,000. —MICHAEL BEHA

U.S. Auto Sales Hit 22-Year Low

DETROIT (UPI) — Domestic automakers blame East Coast snowstorms for a 12.7 percent plunge in mid-February sales, but analysts say car buyers are growing used to offers of lower interest rates.

The five automakers said Wednesday they sold 129,696 cars in the Feb. 11-20 period, down 12.7 percent from 167,210 a year ago. The selling rate of 16,212 cars per day is the worst since 1961.

The annual rate for the period was 5.7 million, compared to 6.4 million a year ago.

This month the five automakers have sold 267,374 cars, down 8.5 percent from 309,425 last year. But year-to-date sales of 680,267 are up 2.8 percent from 677,563 in 1982.

Domestic automakers this year had one less day during the Feb. 11-20 period in which to sell cars. That accounts for the apparent disparity in some sales figures.

For the middle of the month, sales by the Big Three alone dropped 16.3 percent. February sales to date are down 10.2 percent from last year. Year-to-date sales for the Big Three are up 1 percent.

Chrysler Corp., which began a rebate program midway through the period, was the only major automaker to report a sales increase. Both General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. had double-digit declines.

Automakers said the selling period a year ago featured extensive rebate programs, and snowstorms this year battered much of the East Coast during the middle of the month.

Even with rebates, however, the selling rate last year was poor.

Analysts said the 11.9 percent interest rate programs offered by the Big Three may be running out of steam because interest rates in general are dropping and many consumers have deferred Christmas bills arriving.

Chrysler said its sales in the middle 10 days rose 1 percent. It sold 14,837 cars compared to 16,556 last year. The automaker on Feb. 14 announced a "Buyer's Choice" program in which customers can choose between the 11.9 percent interest rate and rebates.

Chrysler's February sales are up 2 percent. Its sales for the year are up 3 percent.

Ford said its sales dropped 14 percent on a daily basis during middle 10 days of February. It sold 32,396 cars versus 42,209 last year. Ford's sales this month are down 11.8 percent and its sales for the year down 3.7 percent.

The No. 2 automaker said its redesigned Thunderbird and Cougar models, introduced Feb. 17, got off to a hot start. Sales gains for those two cars were 83 percent and 138 percent respectively.

GM said its sales dropped 16.8 percent in the Feb. 11-20 period. It sold 78,697 cars compared to 103,743 autos the year before.

GM sales are down 11.6 percent for February. Its sales for the year are up 0.1 percent. American Motors Corp. sold an estimated 4,400 cars in the middle 10 days, up 89 percent from 2,615 last year due to the success of its Renault Alliance. AMC sales for February are up 100.4 percent and up 144.6 percent for the year.

Volkswagen of America sold 1,366 cars in the middle 10 days, down 28.4 percent from 2,090 last year. VW sales for the month are down 16.8 percent and down 3.7 percent for the year so far.

GIVES COPS THE SLIP ... TURNS HIMSELF IN

A high-speed chase ended when a truck disappeared in a wooded area. But the man sheriff's deputies charged in connection with the chase, Richard Thomas Howard, 720 Bongart Road, Winter Springs, gave himself up.

Four hours after eluding sheriff's deputies, Howard walked into the Seminole County Sheriff's Department at about 4 a.m. Sunday and gave himself up. He was charged with reckless driving and fleeing and attempting to elude police. The chase had started at about 11:40 p.m. on Saturday after a truck which sheriff's deputies charge was driven by Howard was seen going fast next to another vehicle along Cassel Creek Boulevard.

The truck driven by Howard was chased by a deputy sheriff in an unmarked car but even with his blue light flashing, he could not stop the truck which went into some woods and gave him the slip.

Howard was released from the Seminole County jail.

SHOPLIFTING SUSPECT ARRESTED

Chum Fong Ng, 25, of 1001 Esplanade Way, Altamonte Springs, was arrested on a charge of shoplifting after he had been seen by a security official at Zayre's department store, U.S. Highway 436, Fern Park, take a $169 cordless telephone out of its carton and place it in a box containing an antenna. He had walked through the checkout at 11 a.m. on Sunday paying only for the antenna.

FLORIDA

IN BRIEF Racial Riot Spawns Suit Against Policeman

MIAMI (UPI) — The parents of a young black man fatally shot by a white policeman in the Overtown ghetto have filed a civil suit for more than $10 million, claiming the young man's civil rights were violated.

The slaying of Nevell Johnson Jr. on Dec. 28 sparked three days of racial violence in the Overtown district. Last week, a Dade County grand jury indicted Dade police officer Luis Alvarez on charges of manslaughter for the shooting.

Alvarez, 32, is the third white officer to be indicted in three months by the grand jury for fatal shootings of black suspects.

Marlyn and Nevell Johnson Sr. filed the suit in federal court Wednesday, naming the city of Miami, Police Chief Kenneth Harms and Alvarez as defendants.

The suit, assigned to U.S. District Judge Lawrence King, charges that Johnson's civil rights were violated when he was gunned down in an Overtown video game parlor.

Graham Tax Plan Blasted

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The airlines and a powerful big business lobby have attacked Gov. Bob Graham's transportation tax plan, but the chairman of a citizens committee that studied Florida's road needs has endorsed it.

The airlines, predictably, argued against the tax hike on aviation fuel that would raise $46 million of the $250 million. In the spending plan.

Most of the large airlines operating in Florida, including Eastern, Delta and National, lost money last year and they can't afford a big increase in their taxes, House members were told.

Jake Varn, the former Department of Transportation secretary who headed a special commission that studied road and mass transit funding needs for House Speaker Lee Moffitt and Senate President Curtis Peterson, however, came out for the Graham plan.

The $250 million to be generated by the Graham program would meet state DOT needs identified by the Citizens Transportation Task Force. And the program includes a local option for county and city transportation needs, which accounted for the remainder of the task force's $533 million.

Counties would be given the option of re-imposing part or all of the four-cent-a-gallon state tax being repealed. Under a House version of Graham's plan, they could levy the entire four cents; under a Senate version, only two. Counties would share their proceeds with the cities.

IN BRIEF

Persian Gulf Oil States Warn OPEC Dissidents

United Press International
Saudi Arabia and four other Persian Gulf oil states, in a growing confrontation with OPEC dissidents, vowed to undercut the renegade producers unless they accept a unified price cut at an emergency summit next week.

Mexico's energy minister flew to Europe for urgent talks today with OPEC ministers and British officials on stopping a global oil price war that could shatter the cartel and cause massive loan defaults by poorer oil-producers.

The frenzied activity followed the decision by OPEC renegade Nigeria last weekend to reduce its oil by $5.50 to $30 a barrel.

AREA DEATHS

JAMES P. LYND

James P. Lynd, former executive director of the now defunct Seminole Youth Ranch for dependent children near Winter Springs, died Wednesday at the Orlando Regional Medical Center at the age of 55 following a heart attack. More recently he has been associated with the Edgewood Boys Ranch near Orlando, where his brother, John W., is executive director.

Memorial services are planned at the Edgewood Ranch at 2 p.m. March 15. A resident of 640 George St., Orlando, he had worked with problem children for 30 years. Born Jan. 16, 1928, in Ironton, Ohio, he served as superintendent of the Butler County, Ohio, Juvenile Detention Home before moving to Orlando in 1962.

A former administrator of Great Oaks Village and Youth Hall, he served as head of the Orange County parental home and detention center from 1962 to 1973.

After leaving the county post, he was employed for awhile as mental health counselor at Florida Hospital before coming to Seminole Youth Ranch, a non-profit interdenominational facility built and operated by a local board of directors for housing, counseling and providing spiritual guidance for troubled youth.

He was a Lutheran and served on the board of directors of the Orlando Youth Center and Edgewood Boys Ranch. He was a member of the Scottish Rites Bodies, Orlando, past president of Orlando High Twelve, current president of Orlando Shrine Club, past president of Winter Park Sertoma, Central Florida Council on Crime and Delinquency, STEPS (alcoholic rehabilitation), and past secretary-treasurer of the National Juvenile Detention Association.

Among the honors which he had received were Kiwanis Layman of the Year, Sertoma Service to Mankind Award, Chamber of Commerce Distinguished Service Award, and Sigma Alpha Zeus Award.

In addition to his brother, John, he is survived by a brother, Ben H.

Whatta Card

If you couldn't tell from the giant birthday card, Bill Jacobs has turned 40 years old. His employees at Chelsea Title Co. on First Street in Sanford surprised him (and just about everyone else who passed by) Tuesday with the somewhat unusual birthday greeting.

Toto Sweeps Grammys

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Toto, a group of suburban studio musicians who toiled in obscurity for a decade, won a record-tying six awards including record and album of the year at the silver anniversary Grammys show.

"We're overwhelmed," Steve Porcaro, one of three brothers in the group told reporters backstage Wednesday night. "It's from our peers and that's what counts. We've worked with about half those people out there in the audience."

Willie Nelson's ballad "Always On My Mind" upset Toto's "Rosanna" for song of the year and top country song. Nelson, who sang on the show by satellite from Texas, won for best male country performance.

Composer John Williams won three Grammys for his soaring score for the movie "E.T.," raising his career total to 14.

Joe Cocker and Jennifer Warnes beat Toto to win best pop duo or group performance for their love song "Up Where We Belong," from the movie "An Officer and a Gentleman."

Both winners are also nominated for 1983 Oscars. The theme from "Chariots of Fire," which captured last year's best picture Oscar, won the Grammy for pop instrumental performance.

Jennifer Holliday won for best R&B female performance for "And I Am Telling You I'm Not Going," the showstopper from Broadway's "Dreamgirls," named best cast show album.

Marvin Gaye won twice for best R&B male and instrumental performance for "Sexual Healing."

The Australian Men at Work, whose debut album "Business As Usual" topped the charts for nearly four months, won as best new artist. Losers included Miss Holliday and the Stray Cats.

Other pop winners were Melissa Manchester for "You Should Hear How She Talks About You" and Lionel Richie for "Truly."

Rock winners included Pat Benatar for "Shadows of the Night," John Cougar for "Hurts So Good," Survivor for "Eye of the Tiger" and A Flock of Seagulls for "D.N.A."

Dazz Band's "Let It Whip" and Earth, Wind & Fire's "Wanna Be With You" gained a rare tie for best R&B duo or group performance. "Turn Your Love Around," whose writers included Steve Lukather of Toto, was named top R&B song.

Other country winners were Juice Newton for "Break It To Me Gently," Alabama for "Mountain Music" and Roy Clark for "Alabama Jubilee."

Cop Will Help Direct Mental Health Center

A Sanford police sergeant has been appointed to the board of directors of the troubled Seminole County Health Center which made headlines earlier this month when its executive director, Dr. George Lindenfeld, was fired.

Sgt. Bill Bernosky, the department's training officer, will take up his full-time membership on the board March 1. The appointment will run for four years.

As a board member, Bernosky will help formulate policy for the center which cares for the mentally ill and those with alcohol problems, among other community services.

He will also be involved in the selection and appointment of the center's next executive director.

"I was just asked if I wanted to be on the board," Bernosky said. "I have been close to the mental health unit in the past. It sounds to me as though the mental health unit had been drifting away from the common people."

Bernosky says that as far as he knows, he is the first law enforcement officer to serve on the board of the health center.

"I consider it a challenge and an honour to be asked to sit on the board. It certainly seems to enhance the ability of the Sanford police to be part of the community," he said.

Cause Of Gym Leak Sought

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer
An investigation to determine liability for water damage to Lyman High School's gymnasium is being conducted by Seminole County School officials.

Assistant Superintendent for Facilities Benny Arnold said an architect and design engineer have been hired to study the cause of the roof leak which allowed water from the roof to flood the gym floor.

Architect William Paxton and the engineering firm Henry, Glenn, Richmond are recognized as experts in their field by insurance firms and would make excellent witnesses if a suit to determine liability is filed in court, Arnold said.

Arnold said a professional photographer was hired to take pictures of the damage at the Longwood school and a surveyor will take measurements on the 22 beams in the gym roof. The photographs will document the damage to the roof and the surveyor will determine how much the roof is sagging.

Rain water which pooled on the roof following April 13 storms tore loose flashing on a parapet allowing the water to flood the gym floor. The leak was discovered later that day and a pump was placed on the roof to drain it before the whole roof caved in. "Nothing fell in besides water," Arnold said. "The water falling in was a blessing. It made us aware of pooling on the roof."

The extent of the damage to the roof has not yet been determined, Arnold said. "But if the roof has to be replaced, the floor may have to be replaced too. It's already showing signs of buckling."

Arnold said the construction method and material used on the Lyman roof, which was built 15 years ago, were prevalent in construction at that time but are rarely used any more.

The architectural firm that designed the roof, Watson & Co., designed no other gym roofs in Seminole County, Arnold said. Watson & Co. is the firm that designed the new Alan F. Keeth Elementary School now being built in Winter Springs.

"That construction should have lasted forever," Arnold said.

Arnold said a state Department of Education engineer came to the school to review the situation and recommended closing the gym and shoring up the roof. Those actions were taken last week.

School Board Attorney Ned Julian said the consultants would probably cost the county $5,000 to $7,000.

Superintendent Robert Hughes said he does not know where the liability for the roof damage lies. "We do not know if it was an architectural problem, the company that placed the beams or materials used in the construction, Hughes said.

Arnold said a full report is expected by the consultants at the board's March 9 meeting.

Negotiate End To Salvador War

Thomas O. Enders, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, has proposed that the United States encourage the government of El Salvador to enter into negotiations with the rebels, according to an unconfirmed report in the Washington Post.

The proposal would mean a sharp turn in U.S. policy. The United States and El Salvador have shunned negotiations with the rebels.

The Post said Enders suggested a "two-track" policy. The United States would continue military support while encouraging the Salvadoran regime to talk to the guerrillas. Spanish Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez, with whom Enders met recently in Madrid, may serve as go-between.

National Security Adviser William Clark and U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick gave the proposal a "less than enthusiastic response," The Post said.

The White House denied reports of a change in Salvador policy.

The Salvadoran civil war has reached a stalemate. Neither side can win, but both are inflicting terrible civilian casualties and destruction. On Feb. 1, the rebels took the town of Berlin; then the army attacked and Salvadoran planes fired from the air. By the time Berlin was retaken, more than 20 civilians had died, and the guerrillas melted back into the jungle. Such Pyrrhic victories will ultimately destroy El Salvador in order to save it.

Conditions in El Salvador are tragic: Two percent of the population own 60 percent of the land. One out of four babies dies before age 5. Nearly half the rural farm workers are unemployed and 40 percent of urban workers earn less than the minimum wage. These conditions will generate disaffection for as long as they continue.

The U.S.-supported program for land reform, which made strides early on, has largely been turned back by political maneuverings of right-wing Assembly President Roberto d'Aubuisson, whose party controls the land reform ministries.

The democratic elections of 1982 showed the overwhelming support of the people for non-violent political revolution. The rebels failed to destroy those elections. But the elected government has failed to defeat the rebels. Meanwhile, the war cost the United States $66 million in military aid last year. The killers of U.S. nuns, labor leaders and an American tourist have not been brought to justice. And on Feb. 2, a U.S. adviser on a combat helicopter mission, in violation of U.S. law, was wounded.

Ruben Zamora, a spokesman for the Farabundo Marti rebel coalition, said: "The increasing consensus inside El Salvador among different social and political sectors...is in favor of a form of political solution...Negotiations are the most humane, realistic approach to ending the conflict."

Dialogue is an arduous process; but it is preferable to a suicidal civil war or to a rebel military victory, as happened in Nicaragua. Negotiation is supported by Mexico and Venezuela. It is the only path out of the war and toward reconciliation.

As suggested by Rep. Stephen J. Solarz, D-N.Y., the president and Congress should make future U.S. aid to El Salvador conditional on the Salvadoran government entering negotiations with the rebels for a political settlement.

BERRY'S WORLD

"We have information that your son has been taping stereo recordings."

By DONNA ESTES

Tom Binford took his quietly waged battle over the state law which permits both county and city governments to levy occupational license fees on businesses to the Seminole County Legislative Delegation last week, "respectfully requesting the legislators to rectify the situation."

"We with businesses within municipalities are forced to buy occupational licenses in the city and in the county," Binford said, adding the businessmen get no benefit from the county from the licenses.

State Sen. Tom Jennings, R-Orlando, said, however, that the costs of such licenses are considered fees rather than taxes, and that she has not been successful in her fight of many years to solve the problem.

She noted that several years ago the Florida League of Cities dubbed her the "queen of occupational licenses with the right to do any business in Bithlo" as a result of her battle.

Marilyn Soper of the Seminole County League of Civic Associations, meanwhile, urged the legislators to take action so that every homeowner will pay something in property taxes. Her suggestion was that the first $5,000 or $10,000 of home values be removed from the homestead exemption and be taxed and the $25,000 homestead exemption be applied thereafter.

Every homeowner should participate by paying taxes, she said. She noted that her organization represents 40 homeowner associations.

Sen. Richard Langley, R-Clermont, reported that he has pre-filed legislation calling for part of the homestead exemption to be applied to the first $10,000 and that the next $10,000 be taxed and then the remainder of the homestead be applied. Langley said this method should not hurt the "real poor."

Langley said the change in homestead exemption application he is proposing would have little impact. He noted it will mean a difference in revenue to a county the size of Marion of about $189,000 annually.

The biggest flap at the delegation meeting concerned the county's request for special legislation to validate its $7 million library bond issue referendum. The county had a problem with falling to advertise the proposed referendum two times, five weeks and three weeks, prior to the election. County Attorney Nikki Clayton said special legislation validating the referendum is a much simpler method than any other of correcting the lack of legal advertising.

South county businessman Tom Pratt "promised" to take whatever action necessary, including a lawsuit, to force the county to take the issue to referendum again. And long-time Seminole County resident and real estate broker Forrest Greene said he usually agrees with everything the county commission does but "neither I nor my business would ask the delegation to do this."

"Why is the county commission asking for special treatment? Maybe they feel it won't pass another referendum," he said.

Langley was also curious why the county was resisting a second referendum. Langley said he had been told that a second referendum would cost $75,000 to $100,000, but state Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, said Seminole Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce estimated the cost at $35,000.

Langley warned commissioners that they were "taking a heck of a chance to buy a lawsuit, saying the cost of a special election would be much less expensive than a lawsuit and the resulting delay. He estimated the issue could be in court for three years.

Supporters of the library issue said invalidating the October election would mean disenfranchising all those voters who cared enough to take the time to vote approval of the bond issue.

DICK WEST How To Placate Publisher

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The wonderful folks who brought you "The Official Preppy Handbook" are now out with a paperback called "How To Deprogram Your Valley Girl."

If inclusion of both titles in the same catalog strikes you as a publishing equivalent of schizophrenia, we are on the same wave length. Fer shurr.

What we have here is a book company lighting cultural fires with both hands while stamping them out with both feet.

Will the firm's next instructional manual be "How To Deprogram A Preppy?" Certainly the demand is there.

I can foresee a whole new market for publishers who claim to know the antidote for social trends they abetted.

In recent years, for example, several books containing detailed guidelines on how to be Texan have been published.

Such directions, I understand, were particularly welcomed in Texas, where there is a good bit of confusion about behavioral patterns. Judging from the western hats and high-heeled boots I have seen in this area, however, the problem is national in scope.

Fresh evidence came the other day from Austin where a member of the legislature introduced a measure authorizing the sale of "Texas native" auto license plates to us expatriates fortunate enough to have been born in the state.

Does this mean conditions now are ripe for a counter-training regimen embodied by "How To Deprogram A Texan?" If so, I want to be the first to reach some opportunistic publisher with a manuscript.

The Valley cult, according to Lillian Glass, its chief deprogrammer, originated in California. It may help to assume that the Texas cult started in California, too.

"Today," writes Miss Glass, "no community is safe from the Valley cult, and no matter where you live in these United States you may find yourself harboring a Valley Girl under your very own roof."

Yes, and much the same might be said of the Texas cult. Disciples of the two movements even develop along parallel lines, eventually reaching what Miss Glass refers to as "the terminal phase."

Despite such similarities, however, it appears that deprogramming Texans, particularly those who have never been west of the Mississippi, is more difficult than changing the "total image" of Valley Girls.

Very few Valley Girls, I gather, feel compelled to ride mechanical bulls when they go honky-tonking. Therefore, I might just take the easy way out and write a book called "How To Deprogram A Bureaucrat." That way I could closely follow the outline devised by Miss Glass.

EPA Boss' Lush Life Nets Wrist-Slap

WASHINGTON — For years, Americans were amused by the television antics of Sgt. Bilko, the scheming Army topkick created by comedian Phil Silvers.

Sgt. Bilko, meet Administrator Bibko of the Environmental Protection Agency. Tall, rugged-looking Peter Bibko bears no physical resemblance to the bald, overweight Bilko, but he seems to have the sergeant's knack for bending government regulations to his own advantage.

Bibko is the EPA regional boss for Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. But his behavior is more like that of a Byzantine satrap than of a mere bureaucrat.

Tipped off by a written complaint from a Bibko subordinate, the EPA's inspector general investigated the official's high living. The IG's still-secret report, obtained by my associates Tony Capaccio and Lucette Lagnado, confirms the allegations.

The report recommends "that Mr.

VIEWPOINT

Reagan Courts The Right

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan has been wooing his wavering conservative constituency, which feels he has strayed from the fold.

In recent days he has given an interview to the conservative weekly Human Events, spoke to the Conservative Political Action Conference Dinner, attended a reception for the conservative magazine National Review and hosted a White House reception for conservative groups.

Still, there is thunder from the right, which takes issue with Reagan's recent compromises with the Democrats and which contends he has not fought hard enough for the issues that are close to their hearts — anti-abortion, anti-school busing, school prayer and tuition tax credits.

In his banquet speech to the conservatives, Reagan said: "Sometimes it's better if a president doesn't say exactly what's on his mind."

He pulled out all the stops in trying to reassure them, making frequent references to "we conservatives" and telling them that "we've developed a whole new cadre of young conservatives in government."

"We've shown that conservatives can do more than criticize — we've shown that we can govern and move our legislation through the Congress."

Furthermore, he predicted that conservatives will dominate American politics for decades to come. He said a new consensus has developed and during the '70s "the American people began to see misdirected, overgrown government as the source of many of our social problems — not the solution."

Reagan said that this new consensus was founded on the premise that government is created to "maintain order, to protect our nation's safety," otherwise he appeared to be following his consistent philosophy that it has no other role. Certainly not a role in terms of the social programs that have grown up since the New Deal.

"It's true we haven't brought about every change important to the conscience of a conservative... but we conservatives can take a great deal of honest pride in what we achieve."

And Reagan told Human Events: "We can't be giving ourselves political saliva tests all the time."

Among the chief conservative critics of the president are Richard Viguerie, publisher of the Conservative Digest, and Howard Phillips, head of the New Right Conservative Caucus. Phillips headed the anti-poverty program in the Nixon era with a mandate from on high to dismantle it.

They feel that he has abandoned the principles of conservatism and has moved to the middle of the road.

M. Stanton Evans, one of the conservative leaders, complained to CBS-TV: "Everytime we go to the White House we are treated like old American Indians or handicapped Filipinos."

In many ways, the conservatives have been as tough on Reagan as his so-called "liberal" critics. They have called him to an accounting every few months and he has on several occasions sought to reassure them that he is in their camp although he cannot push some of the issues as fast as they would like.

The president, on the other hand, says that he has brought about "a quiet revolution" and has the liberals on the run.

Furthermore he says, "Now, I'm the first to acknowledge that there is a good deal left unfinished on the conservative agenda. Our cleanup crew will need more than two years to deal with the mess left by others over a half century."

Those remarks were widely interpreted as a hint that Reagan is seriously considering running for a second term.

SCIENCE Aging Is Not Fixed

By AL ROSSITER JR.

UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Just as infants are not young adults, the elderly are not older middle-aged people. Geriatric specialists say the medical problems of the elderly are different and more doctors must recognize that.

Age affects every body organ. The changes are dramatic in infancy and progress more slowly in later years. Some symptoms of aging are obvious. Others are more subtle.

The Association of American Medical Colleges, noting America is graying rapidly, recently urged the nation's medical schools to increase their emphasis on care for people over 65.

As part of a series of recommendations to improve the training of physicians — and cautioning there always are individual exceptions — the association issued a report outlining many of the changes associated with old age:

— Heart muscles increase in size and thickness, and their pumping capability diminishes. The lungs lose elasticity and breathing capacity diminishes.

— The excretion capacity of the kidneys tend to diminish with aging, and there is decreased bladder capacity.

— The liver and pancreas become less effective.

— Bone mass decreases, and muscle strength is lost. There is less ability to repair damaged cartilage, leading to arthritis.

— Visual acuity diminishes, visual fields narrow and the eye's ability to adapt to different levels of light is slowed. There is decreased hearing for high frequencies, especially in men.

— The ability of taste, smell and touch senses diminish.

— The skin becomes thinner and less effective in protecting people against their environment.

The association says evidence is accumulating that there is no single cause for aging. And it said it is becoming increasingly clear that human aging is not simply a biological process, but one in which the social environment also is involved.

Such factors as lifestyles, educational levels, nutrition, self-care, economic status, family relationships all play a role.

And the report said aging is not fixed for all time.

"People do not grow old today in the same way as people did 100 years ago, and people who will be old by the year 2000 will still be different from the elderly of today."

In addition, the report said some of the processes of aging are subject to postponement or reversal with modifications in attitudes, behaviors, social relationships and environments.

Right now, the report said the estimate of life expectancy is about 85.

expense to give a single speech to the environmental law section of the Louisiana Bar Association.

— Though he was entitled by regulations to only 106 hours of annual leave and an equal amount of sick leave, Bibko's records showed that he had actually used 117 hours of annual leave and 140 hours of sick leave as of last September. The auditors found no evidence that Bibko had tampered with his records or ordered them to be altered.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Gerald P. Egan declined to prosecute Bibko "due to lack of evidence of criminal intent." Egan noted sympathetically that "after years of working in the private sector, Bibko... may not have recognized the impropriety of his actions."

So the inspector general recommended that Bibko be admonished and ordered to make restitution for all the personal telephone calls.

Raiders Plan Rude Welcome For Guest

BY SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

When Bill Payne took over the Seminole Community College basketball post last year, he didn't see any reason why the Raiders couldn't continue the success of the Joe Sterling years.

After all, he's a veteran coach and a shrewd game tactician and the talent has always been within 50 miles. Nope, there was no reason the Raiders couldn't continue to put together 20-win seasons.

Payne is 30 games older now. He's had his ups and downs. The Raiders have beaten some of the better teams in the state—and they've lost to some of the poorer teams. "I've learned a lot, I'll tell you that," said Payne about his first year. "This is a tough conference and a tough state for junior college basketball...especially on the road."

Well, Payne won't have to pack his bags for at least a week. The Mid-Florida Conference Tournament opens tonight and the 37-year-old mentor won't have to go any further than his own backyard for victory number 20.

On the basis of Sunday's coin flip, the Raiders won the rights to the post-season tourney which will determine the other representative (along with conference champion Lake City) to the State Tournament March 3-5 at Stetson University in DeLand.

The Raiders, 19-11, take on Santa Fe tonight at 9. The preliminary semi-final game pits Daytona Beach against Florida Junior. Daytona tamed Valencia Tuesday night while Florida Junior knocked off hapless St. Johns River. Santa Fe and the Mid-Florida Conference Player of the Year James Anderson disposed of Central Florida, 91-87.

"Anderson must have got 40 or 50 points," said Payne who witnessed part of the game. "He was scoring from everywhere. Everybody (college coaches) is chasing this guy."

The Raiders will be chasing for a different reason tonight. Anderson has not been normal against SCC, which may be one reason the Raiders have beaten the Saints on both occasions, although both were struggles. In the first game, SCC jumped to a big lead and then held off a fast-closing Saint charge. The second game, which SCC needed to win to host the tournament, went into overtime before two Keith Whitney free throws ensured it.

The 6-5 Anderson scored 18 points the first time and 24 points the second. His average is around 26 points per outing. The sophomore from Greer, S.C. also collects nine rebounds a game and blocks his share of shots.

Payne will once again call on freshman Delvin Everett to put the clamps on Anderson. Everett used his quickness to deny Anderson the ball when the Raiders beat Santa Fe at home. While Johnson is a fine outside shooter, he is almost unstoppable when he posts low, so Everett will try to keep him out of the paint.

The Raiders will have an edge on the boards, though. "They're not real big," said Payne. "Luis (Phelps) had a real good game against them over there."

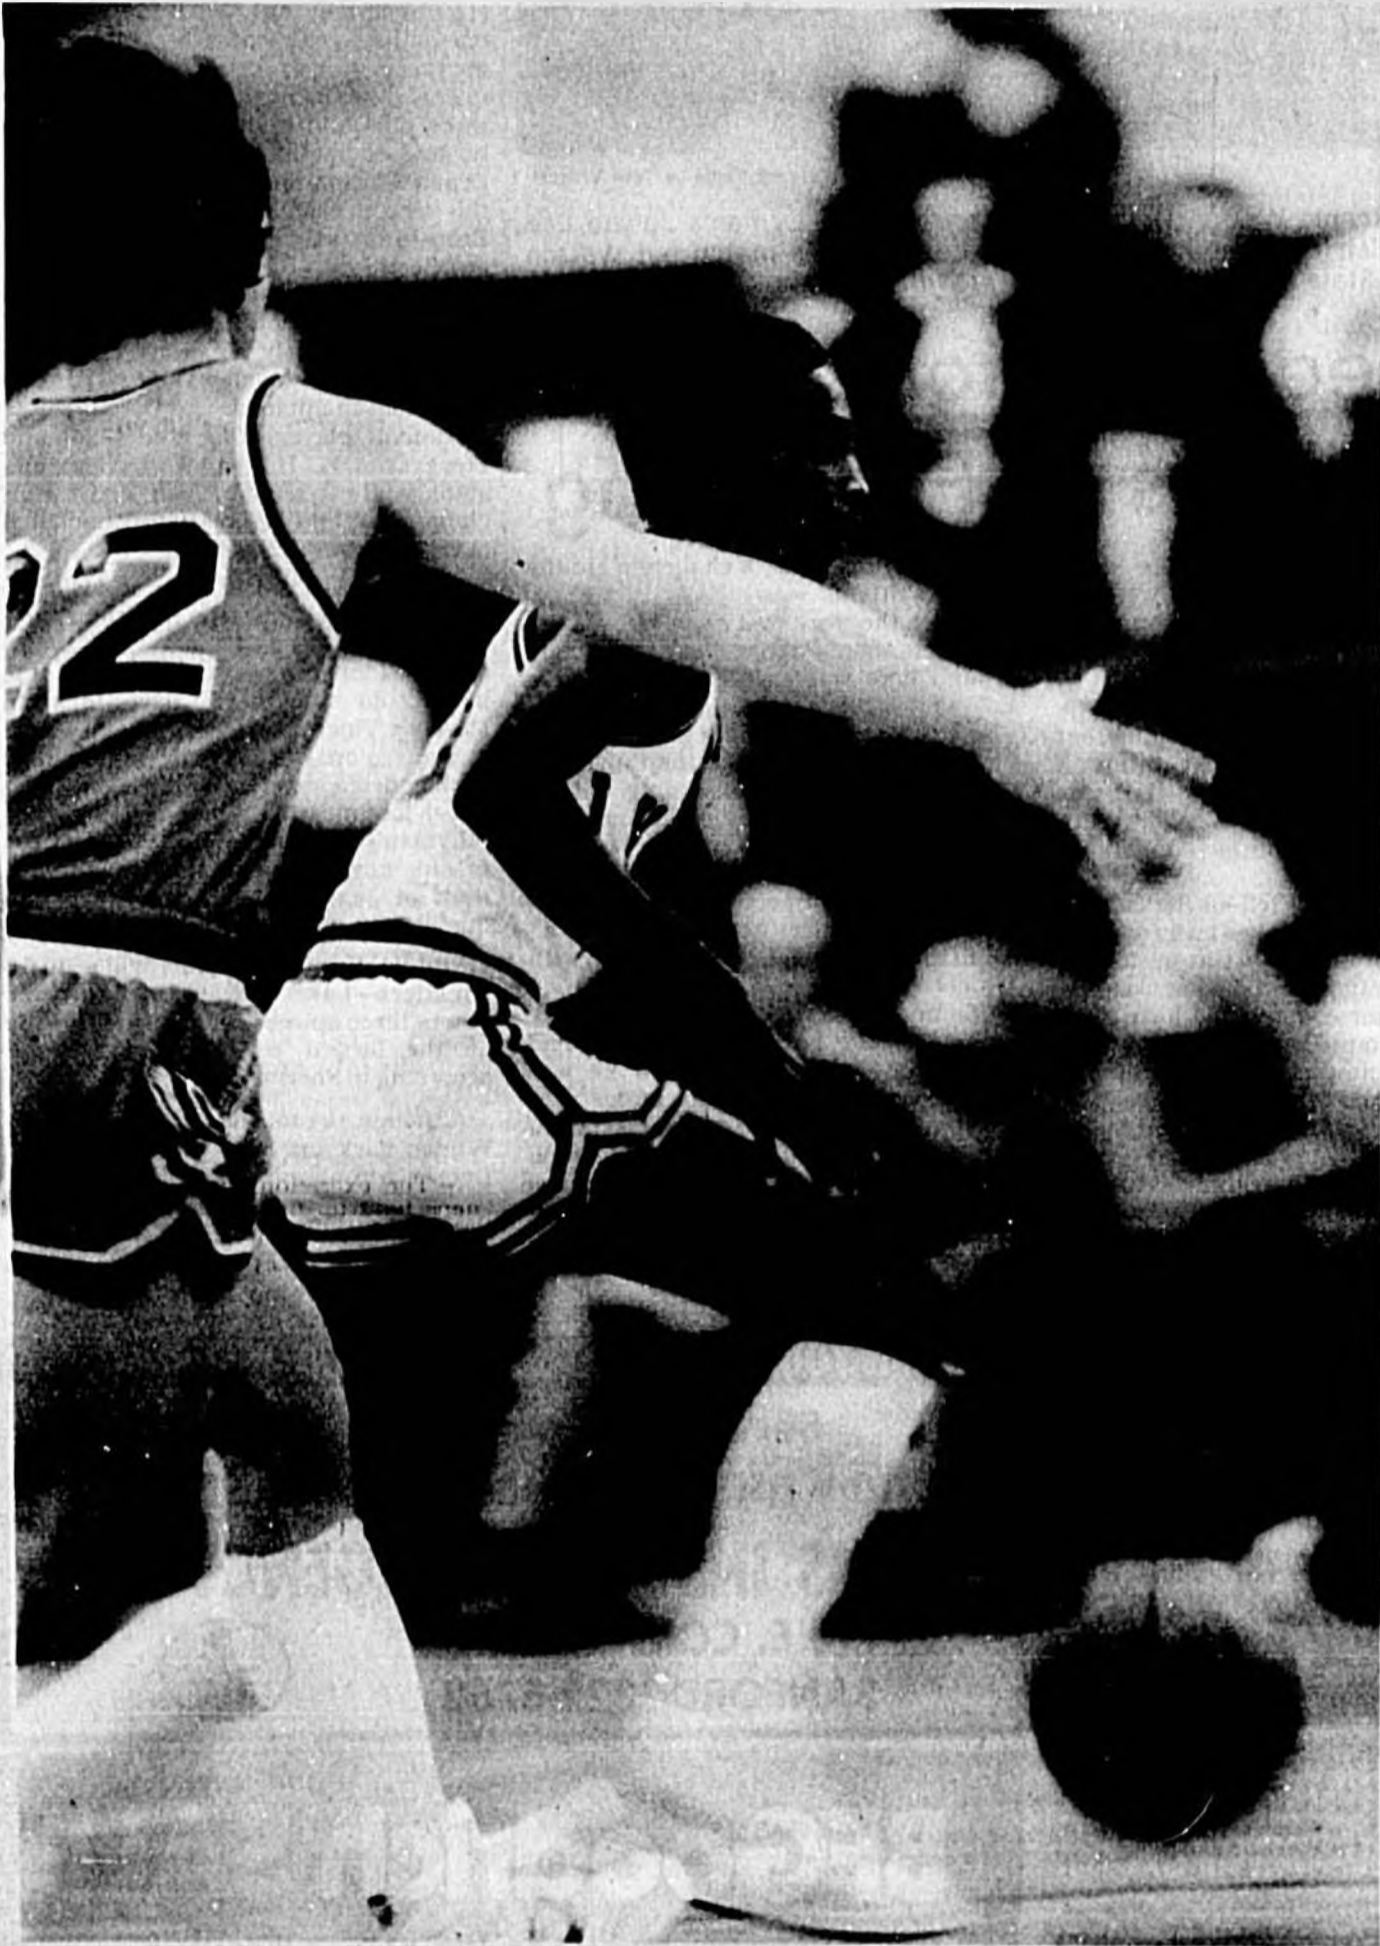

Phelps, SCC's 6-6 center, joined Anderson on the All-Conference team as did the Raiders' Ricky Sutton. Phelps poured in a career-high 31 points against the Saints the last time. The powerful freshman has upped his average to 15.6 points and nine rebounds since the middle of the year. Sutton, 'Mr. Steady' for SCC all year, averages 12.8 while Whitney (11.1) and Everett (10.1) join him in double figures. The fifth starter Jimmy Payton is averaging 7.6. The ex-Spruce Creek standout has also taken 30 charges.

SMITH

The Lyman Greyhounds used a balanced scoring attack with all five of its starters in double figures and got some clutch free throw shooting from Greg Pilot down the stretch en route to a 71-66 victory over Spruce Creek's Hawks in first round action of the 4A-9 District Tournament at Seminole High.

Greg Pilot led the way with 16 points and played string music from the free throw line hitting 6 of 6 shots. James Pilot and Rod Hillman added 13 points apiece. James Stewart tossed in 12 and Alexis Cleveland chipped in 10.

"The kids really played together well tonight," Lyman coach Tom Lawrence said. "They played with a lot of poise and beat a very good team in Spruce Creek."

The Greyhounds now advance to Friday night's 7 p.m. semi-final game against the DeLand Bulldogs who rolled over Lake Howell's Silver Hawks, 67-39, in Wednesday night's first game.

The first quarter saw three ties and the lead change hands seven times. Greg Naugle hit two free throws with six seconds left in the quarter to give Spruce Creek a 17-16 lead.

The second quarter started out like a carbon copy of the first. The game was tied three times and the lead changed hands three times. After the score was tied, 30-30, Lyman's Gregg Walker hit a layup and added a free throw for a three-point play and James Pilot came back to hit a layup to give the 'Hounds a 35-30 lead with 36 seconds left in the half.

The Creek's Rod McCray hit one of two free throws to cut Lyman's lead to four, 35-31, but the Greyhounds came back to score four points in the last 10 seconds of the second quarter to take a 39-31 halftime lead.

Hillman scored all 13 of his points in the first half and Greg Pilot added 10. Willie Cooks hit 11 of his game-high 24 points in the first half and McCray added nine.

A layup by Cleveland off of the second half tip gave Lyman a 10-point lead, 41-31. The Greyhounds' biggest lead of the night, 11 points, came when James Pilot dropped in a layup with 4:28 left in the third quarter to give Lyman a 46-35 lead.

Just when the Hawks looked like they were up the Creek, Cooks found the paddle and guided Spruce Creek back into the game in the fourth quarter. Down 59-50, Cooks scored six straight points to cut Lyman's lead to three, 59-56, with 4:43 left in the game. The Hawks stayed within three points until Greg Pilot hit two free throws and Lyman went back up by seven, 67-60, with 1:28 remaining.

But, Spruce Creek scored four unanswered points to make it, 67-64, with 29 seconds left to play. Pilot stepped to the line again with 26 seconds remaining and canned both shots and Cleveland broke loose for a layup with 14 seconds left to seal the victory for the Greyhounds.

"It's always nice to win that first game," Lawrence said. "You never know what's going to happen in districts."

DeLand, meanwhile, had a rather shaky first half against Lake Howell, but the verdict was never in doubt in the second half as the Bulldogs breezed to victory.

The Bulldogs got into some early foul trouble and led by just five, 20-15, over the overwhelming underdog Silver Hawks. Fred McNeil Kept Lake Howell close with 11 of his 18 points in the first half.

DeLand caught fire in the third quarter and scored 23 points and wound up outscoring Lake Howell, 47-24, in the second half. Chase Brown took high-scoring honors with 20 points while Derek Watson added 13.

In District 3A-8 prep action tonight, two Seminole County teams—Lake Mary and Oviedo—square off at Bishop Moore at Orlando at 6:30.

Both schools were victims of ineligible players. Oviedo, however, suffered the biggest loss when all-stater Ronnie Murphy was ruled ineligible Tuesday and also had his special hearing to regain his eligibility turned down. The Rams lost junior guard Reginald "Chuckle" Medlock who was living in a different school zone than Lake Mary's.

Oviedo dropped the Rams in the Oviedo Outlook Tournament but coach Dale "Digger" Phillips is worried about Lake Mary's quickness and swingman Darryl Merthle. Guards Billy Dunn and Fred Miller are both double-figure scorers along with Merthle.

The Lions won three of four games when Murphy was first ineligible in late January. Senior guard Gene Angel picked up the scoring slack. He will get help from forward Bill McCartney and junior Darren Riechle.

Wednesday night, Osceola blew away Eustis, 106-41, while Leesburg knocked out St. Cloud, 69-42. Bishop Moore plays Jones in tonight's second game.

Livernois, Sawyer Throttle Lake Mary, 10-0; Winter Park Shades 'Noles; Hawks Stomped

BY BRENT SMARTT
Herald Sports Editor

Breaking out of a pre-season hitting slump, the Lyman Greyhounds exploded for 10 runs in the first three innings Wednesday night to pound the Lake Mary Rams, 10-0, in prep baseball action at Longwood. The game was stopped after four and one-half innings due to the 10-run rule.

Sophomore Derek Livernois held the Rams to one hit. The hard-throwing right-hander allowed just three baserunners and lost his bid for a no-hitter when Kevin Hill rolled a seering-eye single up the middle with two out in the last inning.

"We've been playing good enough defense and pitching well enough to win," said Lyman coach Bob McCullough said about his 2-3 club. "We've been bringing Livernois along slowly because of his sore arm. He's doing much better now."

Starting the fireworks early, Lyman catcher Mike "Duck" Sawyer drilled a Mark Chasey fastball over the left-center field fence after Todd Marriott had walked for a 2-0 lead. Senior Tom Perkins manufactured another run when he was hit by a pitch, moved up on an error and came home on a wild pitch. Tom Gibbons followed with a single and third baseman Lee Jenkins made it, 5-0, with a two-run homer down the left-field line.

Showing no mercy in the second, ex-Ram Paul Alegre singled and went to third on Marriott's double. Two wild pitches and a walk to Mike Henley scored two runs with Henley moving to second. Sawyer delivered Henley with a bloop single to right and Perkins followed with a double for a 9-0 bulge.

While Livernois continued to blow the Rams away with his smoking fastball, Lyman finished the night's scoring in the third as Alegre singled and moved to third on a double by Henley. Sawyer drove in his fourth run of the night with a single to center for the 10-0 final.

"If they haven't been hitting, they sure did tonight," said Lake Mary coach Smith whose squad fell to 1-2. "It was over quick. For a sophomore, Livernois is a mighty fine pitcher. He has good velocity. He did a good job."

Lake Mary travels to Oviedo Friday for a 4 p.m. game while the Greyhounds begin their Five Star Conference season Monday at Daytona Beach against Seabreeze at 7:30 p.m.

In other action Wednesday, Sanford's Fighting Seminoles, fresh from winning the Seminole County Baseball Tournament, dropped a 3-1 decision at Winter Park. At Winter Garden, West Orange ripped Lake Howell, 15-6.

For the 'Noles, it was the second loss to the Wildcats and it evened their record at 2-2, both victories coming in the tournament. Saturday, the Tribe travels to Oviedo for a 1 p.m. game with the Lions.

Seminole opened the scoring in the third inning when Saturday's hero Andy Griffith stroked a two-out single. Pitcher Greg Hill walked and junior Kevin Smith delivered the run with a single over third base. The Wildcats averted further damage when Jimmy Smith was retired on a close play at first base.

"We tore that first pitcher (Dave Hanson) to pieces," said Seminole coach Bobby Lundquist. "They just got him out of there too quick." The 'Noles laced five hits in the first three innings but produced just one run. Left-hander Jim Lyons came on in the third to quell the rally and blank Seminole the rest of the day.

Right-hander Hill, meanwhile, was sailing along with a shutout until the fourth when Winter Park scratched out a run on an error by shortstop Brian Rogers which allowed a runner to score from second base.

In the fifth, a passed ball by catcher Steve Dennis moved runners to second and third from where Rick Abel delivered the tie-breaking run with a sacrifice fly and Rick Given chased home an insurance run with a double.

Hill gave up just four hits and struck out six while losing for the second time against one win. Kevin Smith led Seminole's eight-hit attack with a pair of singles. Winter Park improved to 3-1.

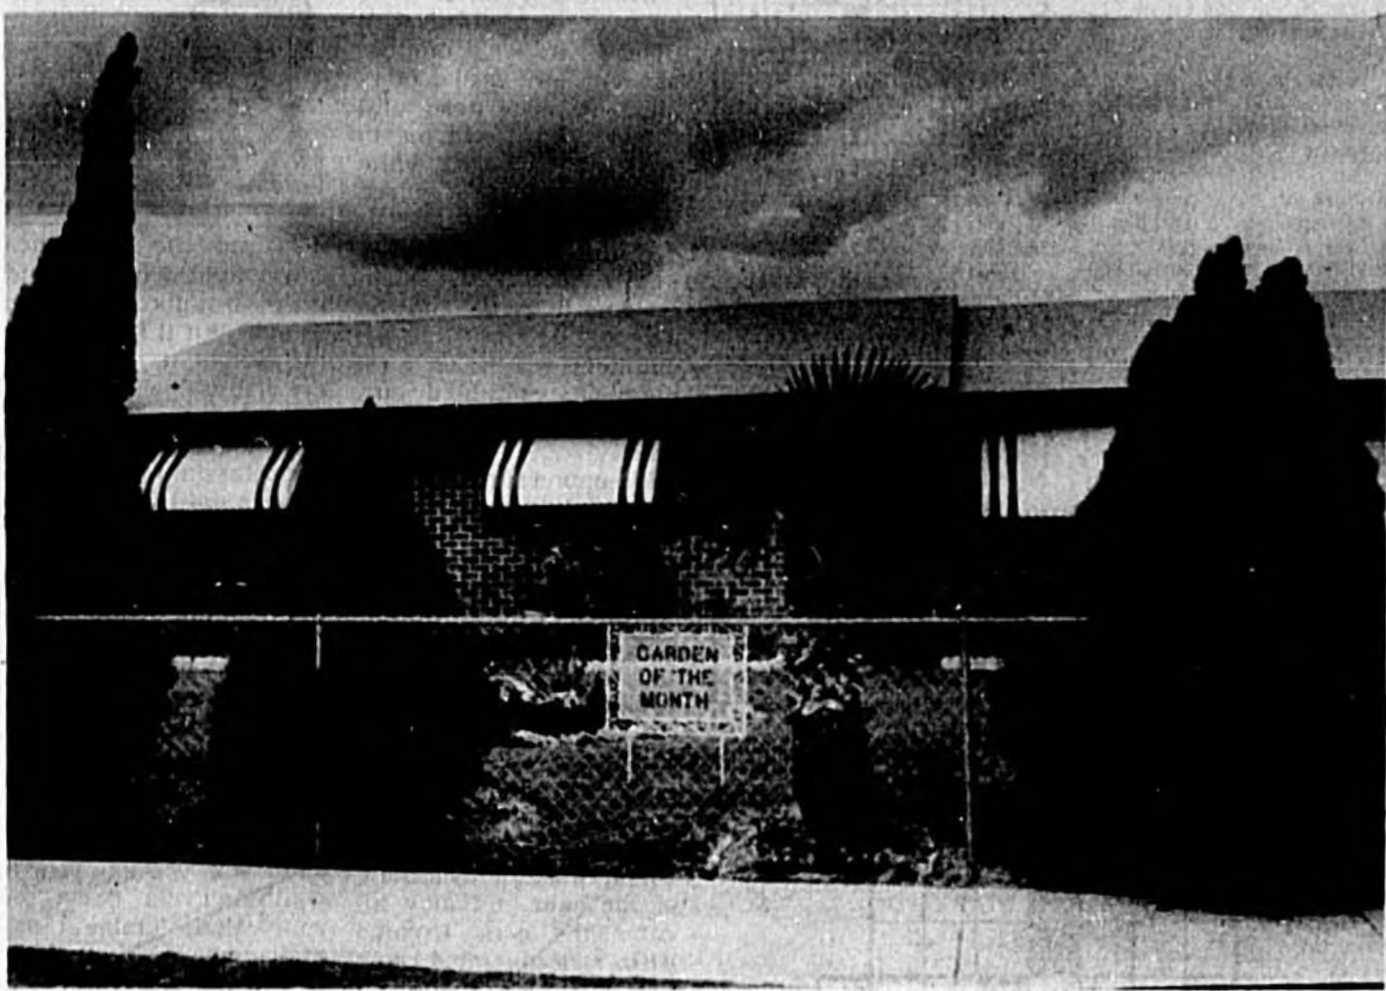

Lake Howell, meanwhile, continued to have its problems with Metro Conference schools as Winter Park jumped on left-hander Jay Robey for four runs in the second to erase a four-run Hawk lead and six more in the third. The Hawks bounced back for two more in the third but West Orange added two of its own and then put the game out of reach with three in the sixth.

Jeff Poindexter led Howell with two hits. Each team committed four errors.

GARDEN OF THE MONTH

The home and grounds of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Thornton, 112 Anderson Ave., has been selected for the Garden Of The Month award by Jacaranda Circle of the Garden Club of Sanford. According to a club spokesman the grounds feature a variety of shrubs and present a neat, clean appearance.

Living One Day At A Time Has Added Up To 12 Years

DEAR ABBY: I need some answers fast because I feel like I'm sinking in quicksand.

I'm involved with a married man. We have tried to be truthful from the start. He has never promised to leave his wife, nor has he told me any of the lies most married men tell their mistresses. We live one day at a time. This has been going on for 12 years. His wife has caught us together twice, but she's never offered to leave him, knowing he sees me daily.

I know he loves me, but I'm no fool. I know he loves her, too. So why doesn't he leave one of us alone?

I am 31 and would like a man to call my own, but he's got me under his spell. I know I must sound like a mental case, but I'm really a smart girl. I'm just not strong enough to make the break. Can you help me?

SOUTHERN FOOL

DEAR FOOL: You ask, "Why doesn't he leave one of us alone?" Why should he? He's been eating his cake and having it, too. And should he ever run out of cake, he's got two bakeries going for him.

If you really want a man to call your own, put as much distance between yourself and this 12-year habit as possible. Make a clean break. Move and leave no forwarding address. I don't know how far south you are now, but head north until you reach Alaska. Happy hunting, or fishing. It's great for both.

DEAR ABBY: We're always hearing about people who want to lose weight. Well, what about those of us who would love to gain a little?

I don't know what to do, Abby. I'm a 25-year-old woman, stand 5 feet 3 and weigh 95 pounds. People tell me I am very pretty, but I'm too skinny. I've tried everything imaginable to gain weight, but I can't seem to put on a pound no matter what I eat.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Friday, February 25, 1983
YOUR BIRTHDAY February 25, 1983
Being both penny-wise and pound-conscious is a practice you should try to adhere to this coming year. The small amounts you begin to tuck away will add up to a considerable sum.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Companions will not respond favorably to your criticism today, even though you may feel what you have to say is constructive. Keep mum. Order now: THE NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic combinations, compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Pisces Astro-Graph predictions for 1983. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Persons who talk a lot yet say nothing will turn you off today. At a social gathering, don't sit next to gabby types.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In a career matter, it will be a mistake to take little things for granted today. They could turn out to be thorns in the flesh. Be detail-conscious.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take pains to be extra-careful in areas of communication today. When committing anything to writing, be sure not to omit important points.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Strive to keep current on your present obligations, especially those small bills which have been accumulating. They could add up to a sizable sum.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to make issues over little things with your mate today. You'll be better off going along, even though you may not be totally in accord.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is one of those days where you might do more talking about what you intended to do rather than actually taking care of your responsibilities.
LIBRA (SEPT. 23-Oct. 23) It will be wise today not to speak prematurely to friends about ventures you intend to bring into being. Let your deeds talk for you.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The large obstacles you can handle in stride today, but there's a possibility you might trip over the little things. Be dutifully attentive to both.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though you will have good ideas today, it doesn't mean you'll have a corner on the market. Give others the chance to express their views.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If there are any liabilities in joint ventures today, try to spread them out evenly. Don't be the fall guy who pays for the mistakes of another.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Your thinking is likely to be mercurial today and this is good, provided you don't jump from one course of action to another. Hone in on one direction.

Ears Chronically Itch; What To Do?

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been troubled with itching ears for a number of years. Two local doctors (one an ear, nose and throat doctor) told me to swab my ears with white vinegar, but it does not give me relief. I had this trouble a number of years ago when residing in Texas and the doctor prescribed an ointment which, as I remember, contained cortisone. This did give me relief. I'd appreciate it if you would advise me what to buy.

DEAR READER — What you should use depends on what causes the itching. The doctors you saw must have thought you had a fungus. That is why they suggested vinegar. Your doctor in Texas must have thought you had seborrheic dermatitis which causes itchy scaling of the skin and may involve the ears. Creams with steroids often help this problem. Either see a dermatologist or go back to your doctor and ask if he will prescribe a steroid cream that is used for seborrhea. You need a prescription for such a cream.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am having a problem trying to manage my osteoarthritis in terms of weight control. I take Indocin three times a day "with meals" according to directions. I used to find it easy to skip breakfast or lunch and I walked at least 2 1/2 miles a day.

This past year I have had to cut down to a mile because of increasing joint problems in my left hip and leg. My right hip was replaced seven years ago and I don't want any more surgery. I'm 70 and have taken hormones for 32 years after a hysterectomy. I'm sure it helped prevent osteoporosis and loss of bone which would have made my osteoarthritis worse. I really follow a low-calorie diet too. I understand the hormone cause fluid retention and make it difficult to lose weight. But if I could lose the weight it would help my arthritic joints. I know I could take a diuretic but then I'd have to replace the potassium I'd lose. I'm 5-foot-3 and 130 pounds.

Miss Gayle Expecting First Baby

United Press International

LABOR DAY
Crystal Gayle, 32, and husband-manager Bill Gatzimos are expecting their first child in September. Record company spokeswoman Janice Azrak confirmed the good news and said Miss Gayle and her husband "are thrilled about it." Miss Gayle, younger sister of Loretta Lynn, plans to take time off from touring to get ready for the blessed event. "My doctor has told me that Labor Day may have a double meaning for me this year," she said.

HALL OF FAME
There's the baseball Hall of Fame, the cowboy Hall of Fame — and now there's going to be a satyr's Hall of Fame. It will just be a paper honor roll of bedroom athletes who have been chosen by Phillip Nobile, editorial director of Forum magazine. The list, to be published in the March issue, includes Babe Ruth, George S. Kaufman and Porfirio Rubirosa.

SHOW PARTY
Norman Lear turned up to help the cast of "The Jeffersons" cut the cake and celebrate the 200th taping of their CBS sitcom on Tuesday. It was almost 10 years ago that Lear conceived the idea of spinning off the Jeffersons — played by Sherman Hemsley and Isabel Sanford — from "All In The Family." The episode, titled "Change for a Dollar," will air on March 13.

BEAUTY TIPS
Meryl Streep, who won an Oscar nomination for "Sophie's Choice," said the role was not as limiting, and so not as hard, as movies in which "you have to be just beautiful." David Hartman asked her in a "Good Morning America" interview to air Friday how she tries to be beautiful. "You hold in your stomach a lot," Miss Streep replied. "And you just wash your hair a lot."

NEW IMAGES
Country singer Ronnie McDowell has grown a beard and buttoned his shirt because he wants to get away from his "lady-killer image." "I want a more outdoorsy type of image, a more earthy image — like what I am, instead of a lady-killer image," McDowell says his new look will help eliminate "the bedcake" from his musical life. "I never did like the open-collar thing," he said. "I want to be seen as a man's man, instead of as a woman's man."

Barbie Charges Prepared

LYON, France (UPI) — Accused Nazi war criminal Klaus Barbie faces trial later this year on at least eight incidents of reprisal shootings, torture and deportations, constituting alleged "crimes against humanity."

The chief public prosecutor of Lyon, Jean Berthier, published a list Wednesday of the incidents during Barbie's tenure as Gestapo chief in the city 1942 to 1944.

"He has aged considerably in a very short time and refuses to accept his enforced isolation," said Alain de la Servette.

HOW TO ERASE A GOOD PART OF YOUR FUTURE...

SHOPLIFT

Here it comes again...another shoplifting pitch. We know you've heard it before, but read on. Shoplifting is stealing. It is punishable by law and it labels you a criminal. It can wipe out your hopes for the future. It gets you a court record that can't be erased. Say goodby to college plans or landing a job. Employers will think twice before they hire a thief. Is that wallet, necklace or lipstick you pocket worth the price you must pay in the end?

University Study Shows

Residents In Florida Like State And Stay Put

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — While it may be a great destination for people moving from other parts of the country, Floridians themselves tend to stay put, a University of Florida analysis showed Wednesday.

The study of 1980 U.S. Census figures by UF's Bureau of Economic and Business Research says 92 percent of the state's growth between 1975 and 1980 resulted from the arrival of new residents.

On the other hand, it notes that nearly 70 percent of the state's 1980 residents were living in the same county in which they had lived in 1975, and nearly half were living in the same house.

Other findings:

—Despite all the reports about south Floridians fleeing crime and creeping urbanization, the three south Florida counties of Dade, Broward and Palm Beach saw a total of 833,244 new residents arrive between 1975 and 1980, or nearly a third of the people who moved from one county to another or who arrived in the state during that time.

—The county with the highest percentage of new residents from out of state is tiny Flagler County on the state's northeast coast. More than 41 percent of its 1980 residents lived in another state in 1975.

—Statewide, transplanted northerners make up the largest group of new residents, but natives of the Midwestern states predominate in Manatee, Lee, Polk and Collier counties.

—The county with the smallest percentage of 1980 residents living in the same home as they did in 1975 is Alachua, where only a little over a third of its residents stayed in the same home for the previous five years. The University of Florida's 30,000-student enrollment makes up a large proportion of the county's population.

—About 8 percent of the state's 1980 population over 5 years old — 720,582 people — had moved from one Florida county to another since 1975.

—The highest percentage of "home bodies" was found in Jefferson County, where more than two-thirds — 67.2 percent — of its 1980 residents still lived in their 1975 homes.

—Gadsden County had the highest percentage of residents still living in the same county after five years — 87.1 percent.

—More than 7 percent of Dade County's 1980 residents lived in another county in 1975, triple the overall state figure of 2.6 percent.

—New residents from the West make up only 6.5 percent of Florida's out-of-state immigrants, and Florida counties with the highest proportion of westerners are Bay, Okaloosa and Santa Rosa, all in west Florida.

In parts of England it was once believed that seeing a hen and rooster through a keyhole on St. Valentine's day foretold one's marriage within the year.

Miami Grand Jury Will Expand Police Probe

MIAMI (UPI) — The Dade County Grand Jury, which has indicted three white policemen for the fatal shootings of blacks during the last three months, will investigate police procedures and hiring practices countywide.

The Grand Jury announced it would launch a wide-ranging probe into hiring, training, supervision and use of guns by officers.

A report issued by the grand jury explaining the investigation said, "We recognize the efforts and sacrifices made by police officers and their families in protecting and serving our community. All too often the supreme sacrifice has been made.

"But we also recognize that the powers and responsibilities given police officers have sometimes been abused, resulting in the unnecessary or negligent loss of life or other misdeeds."

The probe comes on the heels of the latest of three indictments against police officers for fatal shootings.

Miami Officer Luis Alvarez was indicted for manslaughter last week in the death of Nevell Johnson Jr., 20, whose shooting Dec. 28 in a video game room sparked three days of violence in the Overtown ghetto.

Last month, Metro Officer Ernest Uriaga was indicted for the slaying of a suspect in the theft of frozen fish. In December, Metro-Dade County Detective Thomas Pellechio was indicted for shooting a county jailer during a roadside traffic stop.

Members of the grand jury are forbidden to discuss their actions publicly and details on the probe — how long it will last or whether subpoenas will be issued — were not released.

The announcement of the grand jury investigation rankled some police officers, who have criticized the recent indictments of officers. "This is just a veiled criticism of the police," said Walter Rodak, president of the Miami Fraternal Order of Police.

Hugh Peebles, head of Metro-Dade's Police Benevolent Association, questioned how much insight the grand jury could get into problems police face on the job by holding a few weeks of hearing. However, he said he would be willing to cooperate.

"I would be glad to go before the grand jury and articulate the feelings of the rank and file," he said.

Miami Police Chief Kenneth Harms and Metro-Dade Police Director Bobby Jones said they would work with the grand jury in the investigation. "It sounds like a high quality type of undertaking," Jones said. "I hope it's beneficial to the community."
