

Seminole Migrant Clinic Gets A Clean Bill Of Health

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Four months ago, the prospect of thousands of Seminole County's seasonal farm workers going without medical care seemed a very real possibility. Citing gross mismanagement, federal officials were threatening to cut off all funding for the county's migrant health clinic.

But now, the problems seem to have been solved, the clinic has successfully weathered three recent evaluations, and is expected to pass a fourth next week, thus qualifying for federal funding set to be doled out in April.

This rosy picture is a far cry from the situation which existed in late November when the U.S. Division of Health Services (DHS) temporarily suspended funding for the migrant clinic until a whole litany of deficiencies were corrected.

Number one on the DHS hit list was former clinic director Anita Montgomery, who DHS and the Health Systems Agency of East Central Florida (HSAECF), a federally-funded regional health planning agency, considered an incompetent administrator.

The clinic continued to operate on reserve monies until mid-December when, bowing to the pressure, Montgomery resigned, paving the way for the naming of present director Bill

Schomberg to the $22,000-a-year post. HSA agreed to turn the money faucet back on, but not completely satisfied, demanded more changes: the hiring of a full-time medical director, a shift in the make-up of the clinic's board of directors, and an end to major abuses in patient care.

January elections brought more members of the public as well as health professionals to the board as HSA had demanded. But the clinic still has no full-time medical director.

That will change April 1, however, when Dr. Joseph Azelevandre, currently filling the post on a part-time basis, becomes the clinic's full-time medical director.

In addition, Dr. Brett Bolhofner, presently completing his internship in a New Orleans hospital, will join the clinic full-time in July, supplementing the four part-time physicians now on the staff.

"With only part-time help; we can't fill the needs of our clients," Schomberg said. "We give good care to the people we see (about 8,500 a year). The trouble is, we can't see everyone who needs help."

"A lot of people have been going to the hospital or just not bothering to come in," he said.

Even some of those who did go in didn't get proper medical attention. During the November shake-up, some clinic employees were cited for turning away patients who could not pay for services, and doctoring charts or lab tests which had been conducted by unsupervised or unlicensed personnel.

"All that stopped the day I walked in the door," Schomberg said. "I sat the staff down and laid out all the criteria and procedures for the way things were supposed to be done and that's the way we've done it."

"They're really turned things around," confirmed Kim Beaton, HSA executive director. Two recent HSA assessments have "given them a clean bill of health. They're in real good shape."

That's pretty much what the HSA board of directors said following a review Thursday night. And the clinic should have "no problems" passing an inspection by a team from the DHS office in Atlanta on Tuesday, Beaton said.

"Fifteen days after that, we should know how much of the $1,170,407 we've requested for next year we'll be getting," Schomberg said.

The clinic's current annual budget is $505,124, of which $395,957 is funneled through DHS. The remainder comes from Medicare, Medicaid, and patient fees.

In the proposed budget, $1,094,716 would come through DHS.

Poles Strike 4 Hours; Ignore Soviet Threats

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Most of Poland's 13 million industrial workers walked off the job for four hours today in the first nationwide general strike of the country's eight-month-old independent union movement despite Soviet-led war games nearby.

The workers poured out of industrial plants from the shipyards of the Baltic to tractor plants near the Czech border in a walkout that ignored an ominous extension of Soviet-led Warsaw Pact military maneuvers in and around Poland.

The workers struck in a protest against police beating of union members last Thursday in the northwest town of Bydgoszcz.

Negotiations with the government had been scheduled to resume at 8 a.m. EST but were delayed, government and Solidarity spokesmen said.

Solidarity leader Lech Walesa whipped up a rally of about 600 workers at Warsaw's giant Huta Warszawa steel mill, saying, "Our people were shot at today" and describing an apparent potshot taken at a local union official in the provinces. But a Solidarity spokesman said later that Walesa "had been mistaken" and was referring to an incident last week. The spokesman implied that Walesa could have been carried away by his speech, in which he made an impassioned plea to avoid violence.

Grave Concern At White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan kept a close watch on events in Poland today, and aides said there still was "grave concern" in the White House despite the peaceful end of a four-hour workers walkout.

White House press secretary Jim Brady said President Reagan and other officials are continuing to monitor developments in Poland.

"What we hear this morning is that things are tense but calm," White House chief of staff James Baker said in a CBS-TV interview today.

Responding to a question, he said there

"Somebody shot at the Solidarity deputy chairman in Pulawy through his window and curtains," Walesa said. "The bullet has been given to police to investigate. It could have been a slingshot."

But Walesa cautioned against union workers replying in kind.

White House counselor Edwin Meese said on NBC-TV the administration has made contingency plans and would take "appropriate action" if the Soviets intervene.

The administration is not ruling out any steps, he said. A Soviet invasion of Poland, he said, would be "a serious threat to world peace and to relations" with the West.

Baker also declined to discuss potential U.S. options. "There are things we can do but it would not be appropriate to speculate," he said.

"Even if there are shots and even if there are dead, do not respond in kind. Do not polarize the situation. Remember, don't attack or strike against the party or police. We are against breaking the laws."

He vowed a battle against corruption and said Solidarity would fight hardliners in the ruling elite who signed the social agreements last summer to save their own positions.

"We will strangle them like rats," he said.

"The authorities must be given a chance," Walesa said, but warned the workers not to trust all the people in power or else "five years from now there will be mass bloodshed and we will not trust even each other."

"We have almost assured 100 percent victory. Now we'll go for the coup de grace. The way we choose is right," he said.

Nonetheless, he cautioned, "We know we will not get 100 percent of what we want, but the most important thing is not to bow to pressure."

UP, UP AND AWAY

Sanford skies filled with color this morning as 700 helium balloons were loosed and floated into the clouds at Pinecrest Elementary School. Nine-year-old Earnestine Walton, a third grader at Pinecrest, seems to be comparing her hand-held balloon with the larger one on the grounds for the event. Part of a "Weekly Reader" contest, the students filled their balloons with messages and will wait to see which balloon travels the farthest.

Cause Of Blaze Undetermined

Brothers Die In Sanford House Fire

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

It was one of those cruel quirks of fate that took the life of 42-year-old Clifford Fillinger Wednesday night.

He had driven down to Sanford from Huntington, W. Va. Sunday for a visit with his brother Stanley, 52, of 2406 Holly Ave. He had planned to head back home this weekend. But things changed and he will be staying in Sanford... forever. He will be buried here Saturday.

He and Stanley died in a fire at the elder Fillinger's rented one-story, cinderblock home about 9:30 p.m. The cause of the blaze has not been determined, but investigators say arson not suspected.

"It looks from all indications like an accident," said Sanford Fire Chief William Gailey.

Firefighters found the two men dead in a chair by a closed living room window. Clifford sprawled out on the floor near a bar off the dining area.

The flames were confined to the living room, but the house was full of thick, choking smoke, according to Gailey. "They were apparently overcome. It's a shame, too. It only took us about three minutes to put out the fire."

A dozen firemen, two pumpers, a water tanker, and a rescue unit responded to the scene. Besides the two dead men, the only injury reported was to firefighter R.R. Picklesimer who cut his left wrist on some broken window glass. The gash required 10 stitches to close.

Wednesday's tragedy wasn't the first to come on the heels of a trip south for a member of the Fillinger family. Five years ago, just after Stanley had moved to Sanford from Warren, Mich., his 20-year-old daughter Linda came down for a visit, but never made it back home. Headed north through Perry, Ga., she apparently fell asleep at the wheel and had a fatal collision with a bridge support, family members said.

Five years earlier, Stanley lost his four-year-old son, Buddy, to a brain tumor.

Death seems to come in five-year increments for Stanley Fillinger. His turn came Wednesday. His body will be returned to Warren this weekend to be buried with his children.

Sanford Crime Lab May Move To Expanded Facility

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford Crime Laboratory, which serves the law enforcement agencies of seven Central Florida counties, may be moving to new and more spacious facilities within the next two years.

Gov. Bob Graham has included $4 million for a new crime lab for Central Florida in his budget submitted to the Legislature for approval.

State Sen. John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach, said today he supports the plans for a new facility and favors it being built in Seminole County.

"This has a fairly good priority. It might depend on how far the state's money will stretch, but I am supporting it," he said. Vogt added he, as a member of the Senate appropriations committee, still must evaluate conflicting priorities.

"The Sanford lab is the busiest crime lab in the state system and has some capabilities other crime labs do not have," Vogt said.

Vogt personally toured the Sanford crime lab on Wednesday and said the staff there is extremely conscientious.

Claude Trubey is supervisor of the Sanford facility. While the laboratory is currently operating with 40 forensic science analysts in 11,000 square feet of space at the Sanford Airport, Trubey said the proposed facility will have nearly triple the space — 31,000 square feet.

Among the sites being considered for the re-location, Trubey said, are a 10-acre tract of city owned property located off Rinehart Road in Lake Mary and a site in the planned research park at the University of Central Florida.

State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, chairman of the Seminole Legislative Delegation, was one of the legislators who spearheaded the move, at the request of law enforcement personnel, state funding for the crime lab in 1975.

He said today he would like to see the crime lab retained in Seminole County. "The lab is beneficial to law enforcement in this area," he said.

Hattaway said there is no question the current facility is too small, but he said he has been kept in the dark about plans for expansion.

And, he said, it will probably take another grass root organization by law enforcement to get the approval for the funding of a new facility.

"If I don't hear from those concerned with the crime lab soon, I'll contact them," Hattaway said.

State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, said he definitely would like to see the laboratory stay in Seminole County, but "the issue came to my attention only Thursday." He said he will tour the current facility before he can say whether that much additional space is needed.

Trubey said the budget as submitted calls for planning and site acquisition the first year and actual construction the second year.

The Sanford Crime Lab was created in 1970 by law enforcement agencies from the region in a move led by Sheriff John Polk. Its operation with only two employees was funded with federal money through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

During its last year of local operation before being taken over by the state, it served 27 counties, Polk said today.

In other action, the council: — Awarded Sanlando-Storer Cable TV of Altamonte Springs an exclusive 10-year franchise for service in the city.

Storer's competitor for the Lake Mary contract, Orange-Seminole Cablevision, already serves a small area of the city. Councilman Gene McDonald requested this be allowed to continue as an exception to the exclusive franchise.

Councilman Dick Fess also asked Storer representatives to extend service to 26 homes in the far north end of the city which earlier plans had suggested might be left out of the cable TV picture. Storer officials said every effort would be made.

— BRITT SMITH

"Law enforcement must have a good crime lab to bust a case involving murder, rape and drugs. The Sanford Lab has good people, but it is under-staffed," Polk said.

"The current facility is operating out of an all-steel warehouse and a three-section mobile building which was moved in from Pensacola three years ago, Trubey said.

There is a backlog of 900 to 1,000 cases in the lab now, Trubey said, only half as many cases as was back-logged six to eight months ago.

"The police departments cooperated to cut down the backlog," Trubey said, by calling back cases there was no longer any need to process. "The departments are now being selective in what they send us."

The laboratory sections include: toxicology, a limited number of poison cases, documents for handwriting and typewriting analysis, fire arms and tool marks section; latent finger prints, micro-analysis and trace evidence; serology and a recently added section works crime scenes in major cases involving rape, murder, kidnapping and recovery of bodies by use of a vapor detector.

Space Shuttle Readied For Pre-Launch Testing

CAPE CANAVERAL, (UPI) — After 2½ years of delays, the space shuttle Columbia underwent its last major pre-launch test today — a fueling rehearsal to clear the way for its maiden flight as early as April 9.

Engineers began pumping liquid oxygen, kept at 297 degrees below zero Fahrenheit, into the shuttle's huge external tank at 7:10 A.M. EST and followed 40 minutes later with the flow of even colder liquid hydrogen.

It was the first time both propellants were pumped into the 154-foot tall tank simultaneously — the primary purpose of the test.

A lunch control center spokesman said the exercise was proceeding smoothly, in sharp contrast to a similar fueling drill Wednesday.

Jane Doe's Memory Jogged

FORT LAUDERDALE, (UPI) — Amnesia victim "Jane Doe" — her recollection of the past jogged by a picture of the family dog — has her identity back today but doctors say she still needs months of treatment to regain her memory.

"Her treatment will continue. There is still a long way for her to go," psychiatrist Dr. Jesse Kaye said Thursday after the attractive young woman known for six months as Jane Doe had a tearful, storybook reunion with her parents, Andrew and Irene Tomiczek of Roselle, Ill. — and with her name: Cheryl Ann Tomiczek.

Kaye said it could be months before Ms. Tomiczek's regains her memory. "She'll be with us for a while," Florida State Hospital spokeswoman Jackie Baker said.

Typhoid Among Refugees

MIAMI (UPI) — Forty-one Haitian refugees who arrived in South Florida in one small boat last month have been quarantined after at least three of them came down with typhoid.

Laboratory tests have confirmed four cases of the highly contagious disease, the Dade County Health Department reported Thursday.

Three were Haitian refugees who had arrived on a boat Feb. 14, requesting political asylum in the United States, officials said. Except for those sent to hospitals, all were confined to the North Krome Avenue Haitian refugee camp on the western outskirts of Miami.

3 Sentenced From Riots

MIAMI (UPI) — A 17-year-old black has been sentenced to life in prison and two other young blacks to 4½ years each for the deaths of three whites who were dragged from their car and beaten to death by a mob during last May's racial rioting.

"The facts in this case are as bad as any could be," said Dade County Circuit Judge Mario Goerlich Thursday as he sentenced Samuel Lightsey, Jr. to three consecutive life terms and Lawrence Capers, 25, and his brother Leonard Capers, 21, to consecutive 15-year terms each.

"These victims were shot or stabbed. They were stoned and beaten to death," Goerlich said. "Racial disturbances cannot be an excuse. In a country like the United States, many forces are protesting but this type of violence cannot be allowed."

NATION IN BRIEF

FBI Says It Has Suspects In Atlanta Child Slays

ATLANTA (UPI) — FBI agents say they have suspects in three or four of the 20 black child murders, but have no single suspect in the "pattern killings" — those believed connected because of the killer's method.

The revelation late Thursday by FBI spokesman Ed Gooderham was the first time federal authorities have acknowledged having any suspects in the slayings of the 20 children and the disappearance of two others over the past 20 months.

"We have suspects in three or four of the killings," Gooderham said. He indicated however, these were all in cases authorities believe are isolated. "We have no single suspect in the pattern killings."

It appeared today a black exconvict from New York City, arrested last weekend for abducting a 9-year-old black youth in Beacon, N.Y., was not considered a serious suspect in the Atlanta slayings.

Coal-Miners On Picket Line

United Press International

Striking soft-coal miners whose contract expired at midnight walked picket lines today and grumbled about a new tentative labor pact that allows producers to use non-union coal without paying royalty fees.

United Mine Workers President Sam Church Jr., heading for West Virginia and Ohio to explain the contract to strikers, is getting a tongue-lashing from some miners and union officials who feel he bargained away job security.

Still, Church predicts two-thirds of the UMW's 100,000 soft-coal miners will vote Tuesday to ratify the pact and return to work by Thursday.

No Runs, Hits, Or Uniforms

Members of the Lackawanna Junior College baseball team know all about stealing bases. But they were on the wrong end of another kind of steal Thursday when someone broke into the team car and stole their uniforms.

The team arrived in Sanford from Pennsylvania late Wednesday night for five days of exhibition play, but hadn't even completed their first practice before someone made off with their uniforms.

According to a police report, the theft occurred between noon and 4:30 p.m. from the team's rented car which was parked outside Sanford Memorial Stadium on Melville Ave.

Taken were several jerseys, jackets and a pair of sneakers.

MOTORCYCLE COP HURT

City motorcycle police officer Lt. Doug Bishop will be out of action for about a week as a result of Wednesday morning's crash in downtown Sanford.

Following the 11:45 a.m. wreck, Bishop, 34, was treated at Seminole Memorial Hospital for a gash to his right elbow which required 18 stitches to close, and multiple cuts and bruises.

According to Florida Highway Patrol Trooper P.C. Wright, Bishop was heading east on First Street with blue lights and siren when a westbound Lincoln Continental driven by Dan DeBruyne, 75, of 711 E. First St., turned in front of him onto Magnolia Avenue.

Bishop was responding to a Joplifting call at a downtown grocery store at the time of the accident.

DeBruyne was charged with failure to yield to an emergency vehicle.

Connally: Waiting In Wings For Haig To Fall?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig says it is time to forget the dispute over management of future crises, but a White House official warns "there are land mines ahead."

And former Texas governor and Cabinet member John Connally is starting to look better and better as a possible Haig replacement, another source said.

In his first public appearance since the crisis management flap, Haig appeared annoyed but calm Thursday when senators and reporters peppered him with questions about the decision to make Vice President George Bush head of the administration crisis team.

He was testifying, in his third public session this week, on the administration's proposed $7 billion security assistance program.

"My interest is getting on with the important matters that concern the American people," Haig said, "and I intend to do that."

"The obituary was wrong," Haig said, flatly denying he had suggested or threatened resignation, thus contradicting White House officials reported to have said the former general came close to quitting.

A White House aide said Haig did not seem to know that when President Reagan "gets his Irish up," he should not be challenged.

"It isn't over yet," said the aide. "There are land mines ahead."

A former Republican official said Haig does not seem to understand that "Reagan likes team players."

He said Connally, who sought the GOP presidential nomination himself, may be waiting in the wings to replace Haig, if and when Haig steps down. Connally was reported to have sought either the Defense or State Department posts in the Reagan Cabinet and was offered the lower-echelon Reagan aides talked to him about the Energy Department.

White House aides insist Haig did not threaten to resign when Reagan told him he was putting Bush in charge of crisis management, but they said everyone heard he "stormed around" his office after getting the word.

Haig attended the National Security Council meeting Thursday at which it was decided a statement on the gravity of the Polish situation should be issued. The events in Poland were not classified as the kind of "crisis" that would be handled by the newly formed White House team.

HRS Asking Volunteers Provide Shelter Homes

Seminole County has an urgent need for foster care and temporary shelter homes for youngsters in-crisis.

The state's Health and Rehabilitative Services office in the county is seeking volunteers to provide such homes, said Dr. Bryden Moon, HRS youth services counselor.

"There is a severe need in Seminole County that has just never been filled," Moon said, he said, are homes to provide shelter for children in crises and foster or group homes to provide a family living experience to youngsters who may never have had such experience.

Moon said those providing such homes will receive training and guidance from HRS staff and some reimbursement for costs incurred.

He said he is encouraging any persons who think they might be interested in providing a foster, shelter or group home to call him at 322-1861, ext. 166, for further information.

"We'll explain the whole process," Moon said, emphasizing those making inquiries will not obligate themselves in any way.

Currently, he said, there is a need for at least 10 foster and 10 crisis homes.

Thatcher Asks For Spy Probe

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, acknowledging the man who headed British counter-intelligence for nine years was suspected of being a Soviet spy, ordered an inquiry to ensure the nation's security is not penetrated by double agents.

In a 12-minute statement to Parliament, Mrs. Thatcher said Thursday no evidence was found in two interrogations that former MI5 head Sir Roger Hollis was a Soviet spy. But she confirmed allegations in the Daily Mail newspaper he had been suspected of being a Soviet double agent.

She told Parliament an independent inquiry would review security procedures to guard against Soviet penetration of the intelligence service and other sensitive government departments such as the Foreign Office.

Mrs. Thatcher also said a book, "Their Trade is Treachery," alleging Hollis may have been a KGB mole contained inaccurate and distorted material. But the author who also wrote the Daily Mail stories, Chapman Pincher, said Mrs. Thatcher was "enormously and bravely" misled in denouncing his book.

He pointed out at a news conference Mrs. Thatcher did not deny the allegation about Hollis.

Mrs. Thatcher said the investigations of Hollis, who headed British counter-intelligence from 1956 to 1965, "did not conclusively prove" his innocence. Hollis died in 1973.

"Indeed it is very often impossible to prove innocence," Mrs. Thatcher said.

Bell Donates Historic Sound Recordings

Southern Bell Thursday donated a collection of historic high-fidelity and stereophonic recordings to the Florida Symphony, the University of Central Florida, Valencia Community College, Rollins College, and Seminole Community College.

The unique recordings are of Leopold Stokowski conducting the Philadelphia Orchestra. They were made in 1931 and 1932 by the Bell Laboratories, the research and development unit of the Bell System.

The discs are considered the best quality recordings made of the orchestra during the period when it was considered to be at the peak of its musical powers. They are the first known stereophonic and high-fidelity recordings of orchestral music, and they were made on hi-fi electrical sound recording and playback systems invented at Bell Labs.

Thomas E. Hunt, Southern Bell's District Manager in Orlando, noted that the recordings were part of a Labs' project in the early 1930s aimed at improving the quality of recorded and amplified sound transmitted over the telephone network.

"Bell Labs acoustic and transmission engineers recognized that improving transmission of sound over the telephone required them to develop precise measurement capabilities," Hunt said.

In the course of developing these capabilities, the Bell Labs engineers recorded everything from test tones to vocal, organ and orchestral music, he said.

"These early recordings of Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra are part of that early work, and they are being made available to help preserve the historical evidence of the accomplishments of this great conductor," Hunt said.

He said concern for improving the quality of sound transmission has continued unabated at Bell Labs for more than 50 years. Today Labs engineers and researchers are using magnetic tape instead of phonograph records for most communications testing, measurement, research and development.

Hunt said, "powerful computers and digital techniques are also helping to increase the fund of knowledge about sound."

Altamonte Residents Favor Rezoning

Altamonte Springs residents speaking at a public hearing on the rezoning of nine land parcels in the Maitland Avenue area where they live were in general agreement with the proposals to change the properties from commercial to single family residential zoning, said City Manager Jeff Etchberger.

The homeowners living near Maitland Avenue expressed concern that commercial property was creeping into the residential areas.

The administrative rezoning was recommended to correct the splitting of the properties with two different zoning classifications. Etchberger said the cause of the split zoning was the failure of planners several years ago to pay close attention to property lines when drawing up zoning boundaries.

A second public hearing on the proposed rezoning will be held next Tuesday at the city commission's meeting at 7 p.m. in the commission chambers.

Five of the parcels located in residential areas along Highland, Magnolia and Lake Drives are to be rezoned from professional office or commercial zoning to single family zoning.

Three other parcels are located between State Road 436 and Lake Drive near Maitland Avenue. One parcel on S.R. 436 is to be rezoned from commercial to professional office. A second on Oriole Drive is to be rezoned from multi-family to professional office; and a third, south of Capistrano Apartments is to be rezoned from single family to residential, townhouse zoning. — CINDY MOODY

Enquirer Jury Gives Carol $1.6 Million Damages

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A teary-eyed Carol Burnett, thanking the jury, said her $1.6 million libel victory over the National Enquirer will encourage other celebrities considering legal battles against the supermarket tabloid.

The Enquirer intends to appeal. Iain Calder, president and editor of the tabloid, said the verdict would not change editorial policy.

"Our job is to provide our readers with interesting, informative and accurate articles," Calder said, "and that is what we will continue to do."

In the first libel case against the Enquirer ever to go to trial, a jury Thursday ruled the tabloid must pay $300,000 in compensatory damages and $1.3 million in punitive damages to Miss Burnett for a 65-word gossip item — which amounts to $24,615.38 per word.

The March 13, 1973 item implied she was drunk in a Washington restaurant, saying she argued loudly with Henry Kissinger and spilled wine on a diner.

"If they had given me $1 plus carfare, I would have been happy, because it's the principle of the thing," the entertainer said. Asked what that principle was, Miss Burnett said, "Truth, truth is the principle."

Miss Burnett said she would donate her damages to a charity she will name later.

Enquirer attorney William Masterson said the "excessive" judgment was motivated by passion, not reason, on the jury's part. He will move for a new trial and appeal the judgment if that motion is not granted.

"The verdict was an affront to the First Amendment, and it cannot stand," Masterson said.

Asked how her victory would affect other celebrities, Miss Burnett replied: "I think it's going to give them courage."

The Enquirer's appeal was expected to center on the judge's ruling the publication is a magazine rather than a newspaper, and consequently not entitled to special protection under California law. About 5 million people read the Enquirer each week.

The jury deliberated 13 hours over a three-day period following eight days of testimony.

With tears in her eyes, Miss Burnett shook hands with the panelists, six women and five men, and thanked them profusely as they filed out of the jury box.

"After we weighed each word," said juror Eloise Williamson, "80 percent of them proved to be false. And even when he found out it was false, he (the Enquirer editor) went ahead and printed it. That was what swayed it. Not that she was Carol Burnett. We thought of her as one of us."

Oil Stockpile: A Vital Need

Among the welcome changes in Washington since the first of the year is a renewed commitment by the U.S. government to put some oil away for a rainy day.

The plan to build up a Strategic Petroleum Reserve dates back to the Ford administration, but on-again, off-again treatment of the program during the Carter years has left us with only one-fourth as much crude oil in reserve as the timetable called for by 1980.

As of now, there are approximately 115 million barrels in the government reserve — the equivalent of about 20 days of imports. The reserve should contain five or six times as much to provide the intended protection against a serious interruption in foreign supplies.

What's The Rush?

It is not necessary for the Central Intelligence Agency or the Federal Bureau of Investigation to violate the constitutional rights of Americans, either in this country or abroad, in order to deal with the threat of international terrorism.

President Reagan is likely to revise Presidential Executive Order 12096, which was signed in January 1978 by former President Carter. Congress has failed to write a legislative charter for this country's intelligence community.

Close Labor Loopholes

WASHINGTON — The end justifies the means when the means include threats to life and property, intimidation, coercion, sabotage and other forms of violence.

That extraordinary philosophy has been embraced by the U.S. Supreme Court in a ruling that, in effect, exempts labor unions from prosecution under a federal statute that is supposed to prohibit any form of extortion in interstate commerce.

The 1946 law, known as the Hobbs Act, established a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine and 20 years imprisonment for anyone who "in any way or degree obstructs, delays or affects commerce... by robbery or extortion, or attempts to conspire to do so, or commits or threatens physical violence to any person or property..."

Although the intent of the law appears to be unmistakable, the Supreme Court carved a huge loophole in the statute when it handed down a 1973 decision in a case involving violence during a strike against a utility company.

JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Air Force is in line for a $14 billion budget increase in 1982. But a far smaller amount would do if the Air Force brass would only clean out the fraud and corruption that eat up billions of the taxpayers' dollars each year.

The fact that this is Child Passenger Safety Week in Florida didn't help little Latasha Kelly, 4, of Orange Park or Kendra Brown, 3, and Valerie Green, 4, of Punny Farms.

GOVERNOR

Governor Bob Graham, in proclaiming this Child Passenger Safety Week, points out that injuries suffered by children in auto accidents are a major cause of epilepsy, paraplegia, disfigurement and other permanent mental and physical disabilities.

In Florida in 1979, 35 children were killed and 4,484 injured in car crashes, an average of 6 killed or injured per 100 motor vehicles. In Seminole County in 1979, sixty-three children were injured. 5.6 per 100 motor vehicles.

Stockman In Demand

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David Stockman, David Stockman — It's the highest rated show on Capitol Hill these days, as the young budget director travels through the halls of Congress spreading the gospel of the Reagan administration.

Some say the show may be suffering from overexposure, but others clamor for more personal appearances by the former two-term congressman from Michigan.

BILLIONS

WASHINGTON — The Air Force is in line for a $14 billion budget increase in 1982. But a far smaller amount would do if the Air Force brass would only clean out the fraud and corruption that eat up billions of the taxpayers' dollars each year.

What is being done in Florida? Unfortunately this state spends more money printing tourist guides than in all its efforts to promote child passenger safety, according to Mikal Bowen, president of the association of women highway safety leaders.

Mee, Beal Home Runs Crash SCC To 16-4 Win

Senior Five Star Conference star Jimmy Mee and Tony Beal crashed runs Thursday to life Seminole County College to a 16-4 rout of St. Johns River.

Mee, a catcher and designated hitter from Deland, hit his second tripper in the middle of a five-run third inning after Blanton reached on an error and Viquez River walked.

Senior pitcher Jack Pantelias saw his team level off at 15-15 for the year. There was no thinking involved in an inning later when Anopka's Jeff O'Dell opened the inning with a left off O'Dell center for a round tripper.

Fidyrch Endangered Tiger

By United Press International The Bird is an endangered species. Trying once more to find his way back to the majors after 3 1/2 years of wing trouble, Mark Fidyrch had another setback Thursday night in Lakeland, Fla. He was attacked by the Philadelphia Phillies for 10 hits and five runs in the first four innings.

Fidyrch, the Detroit Tigers' righthander who had a spectacular rookie year, has now given up 30 hits and 16 earned runs in 14 innings of pitching this spring — and his chances of making Detroit's starting rotation seem slim.

A split squad of Tigers, however, came back from the 5-1 hole in which Fidyrch left them, to take a 6-5 victory over the Phillies on Rick Leach's RBI single in the ninth. Philadelphia ace Steve Carlton was reached for four runs in the five innings he worked.

Meadows Sacks Lady Seminoles

Lake Howell's Mary Ann Meadows sacrificed fly in the seventh inning chased home the winning run Thursday as the Silver Hawks upset Seminole 3-2 in girls Five Star Conference softball action at Lake Howell.

Seminole fell to 5-3 in the Five Star and 7-4 overall. They return to action Saturday April 4 by hosting a double-header with Deland and Seabreeze at Ft. Mellon Park.

Erin Duffy had reached third base to open the inning when a ground ball went through shortstop Johnnie Bennett's legs then got past left center fielder Brenda Cotton.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 18, 1981
This coming year, you are likely to be far more ambitious than you have been in the past. This could be because of enterprises that you originate or conditions over which you have little control.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Your behavior will be closely scrutinized today by your peers and associates, so be sure to put your best foot forward. Bad impressions will be hard to erase. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Even though you may feel your ideas or ways of doing things are superior, it's best you keep your thoughts to yourself today. Criticism creates problems.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Be extremely careful in business and investment situations today. Don't buy anything or obligate yourself if you feel there is more you should know.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
Relationships, both family and career, could cause you frustrations today if they are not handled diplomatically. Try to be cooperative.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
You may need help today to lessen some of your responsibilities. But if you are too demanding,

Shake A Leg And Help Your Health

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have heard that exercise is good for your heart. Some of my girlfriends have tried to encourage me to jog with them but that really isn't my cup of tea. I'd rather do something more interesting. I'm thinking of taking up aerobic dancing. Will this be good exercise for my heart? Just what does exercise do for your heart? I can see where jogging or dancing would be good for your legs when you work your leg muscles but what about the heart muscle?

DEAR DR. LAMB—For about three years, I've had episodes every few months, where I can't see the whole thing or person that I'm looking at. Although I know that it is all there, I can't see it all together. If I look at a picture of two people, only one will be clear at a time. When I read, some of the letters will be missing.

In the past few months I've also had some headaches on the right front area of my head and some confusion, a feeling of not quite being in control of myself. This all lasts about an hour. I'm 60 and female. Other than being farsighted, as you would expect at my age, I have not had any other problems.

DEAR READER—You will need an examination to find out what is causing your problem. People don't always realize that you can have trouble in your eye, in the nerve from the eye to the brain or in nerve pathways through your brain to reach your cortex. That point is where you actually recognize what you see.

Double vision, partial loss of vision or distorted vision may be an eye problem, or it can be any number of disorders that affect the nerve pathways, including neurological diseases, disease in the arteries that supply the brain or even a brain tumor. You may be having migraine headaches, but these usually start well before the menopause and disappear at that time.

WIN AT BRIDGE

is to return his partner's suit. It is mighty good general practice, but there is no need to overdo it. Once in a while you will do better to strike on your own.

Take today's hand as an example. You sit East and your partner opens the deuce of spades. You take your ace and South follows with the three. If you lead back a spade, declarer will attack diamonds. He will lose a finesse of his jack to your queen, but will proceed to romp off with nine tricks.

There is no need for this to happen to you. You can proceed on your own and lead a low heart. All your partner needs for you to establish your heart suit is to hold three to the king or the queen. You lead your heart. West produces the king and leads a small heart back. You must take your ace right away. Don't make a mistake and duck. If you do, South might cash his black suit winners and throw you in with your ace to make your lead away from your queen of diamonds.

You are sure to get in with that card. Just make sure you can't be made to lead from it.

Motorcycle Methods: 4-H To Offer Instruction

By CINDY MOOY
Herald Staff Writer

Vroom, Vroom. Vroom. Have you ever seen a small terror of a child tearing down a sidewalk or driveway on his tricycle screaming that sound? Or a kid on a bicycle with playing cards clothes-pinned to the spokes for similar effect? Or perhaps you have heard a parent's agony and fear expressed when a teenager pleads for a motorized bike.

If you have, you have seen the varied effects of youth's fascination with the motorcycle, that two-wheeled vehicle that brings economical transportation and thrills to some people and terror and annoyance to others.

To suit both those who want to ride motorcycles and those who fear them, the Seminole County 4-H will sponsor in April a course on the correct and safe way to handle the machines.

Open to anyone age 15 or above, the 20-hour course will be intensive and begin with the basics, said Fred Roberts, 4-H program assistant. For people who have never or seldom ridden a motorcycle, the Motorcycle Rider Course will include everything from "where's the starter?" to how to turn and shift body weight.

"They'll start at 'A' and go to 'Z,'" Roberts said.

Roberts said he has even had a call from a 49-year-old woman who bought a motorcycle and wants to learn how to ride it.

The course, to be conducted over two weekends, will include 8 hours of classroom instruction and 12 hours of practical experience on a motorcycle. At the end of the course, participants take a written exam and a driving test.

After the sessions, students can receive a course completion card that can be used for a 10 percent discount on motorcycle insurance.

Rick Owens of Orlando will teach the course, which will be offered twice during the month. Owens taught motorcycle riding in the U.S. Air Force for 12 years and the U.S. Navy for four years and is currently a chief instructor of the Motorcycle Safety Foundation.

Planning to start a motorcycle riders' school, Owens will be teaching a course for instructors in addition to the basic course during the first session.

The first class is tentatively scheduled for April 4-5 and April 11-12 from 12 to 5 p.m. each day. The second is tentatively scheduled for April 18-19 and April 25-26, also from noon to 5 p.m. All the classes will be held at the Seminole County Agricultural Center on U.S. 17-92 at the county's Five Points complex.

Charge for the course is $30. A driver's license is required.

Roberts said the 4-H pilot program will be continued "if it works out and enough people are interested, it will grow in 4-H." Earlier this year, 4-H sponsored and put out a motorcycle safety book.

The cycles used in the course will be 100 and 125 cc. size. Honda or Orlando is providing six Honda cycles and R. C. Hill Motorcycle Center is providing three Kawasaki and three Suzuki cycles for the course.

Interested persons can register for the course by calling the agriculture center at 323-2500, ext. 183.

Pat Boone Will Host Easter Seal Telethon

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Pat Boone, whose clean-cut image even the Easter Bunny might envy is, appropriately, the host of this weekend's 10th annual Easter Seal Telethon on 127 channels across the country.

Boone's white buck shoes, wholesome songs, institutional milk commercials, frankfurter blurbs and personal religious fervor make him the optimum choice for Easter Seals.

Boone is this year's national chairman of the association which raises funds to help disabled children and adults at 1,124 rehabilitation facilities around the country.

In previous years the telethon has had many different masters of ceremonies, among them Suzanne Somers, Peter Falk, Jack Klugman and Michael Landon.

The foundation hopes to make Boone its permanent host, much as Jerry Lewis is associated with the annual telethon for Muscular Dystrophy.

The Easter Seals telethon runs from 11 p.m. EST Saturday, March 28, to 8 p.m. EST Sunday, March 29. Boone will be on stage for all but a few hours, introducing stars, reading donation totals and asking viewers to give money.

In its first nine years the telethon has harvested $52 million. Boone would like to set a record this year.

Among the stars Boone has lined up to pitch in are Dennis Weaver, Priscilla Presley, Lanie Kazan, Shaun Cassidy, LaVar Burton, Cathy Lee Crosby, Burt Convy, Steve Allen, Florence Henderson, Bruce Jenner and magician Mark Wilson.

Boone is not exactly new to telethons. Some 20 years ago he hosted a 20-hour local telethon in his native Jacksonville, Fla., for either the United Fund or the Heart Fund, he doesn't remember which.

"I hadn't expected it to be so difficult," the singer said. "When it was over I was so tired I felt like a zombie."

"I hosted a telethon for the West Texas Rehabilitation center last year and one for cerebral palsy in 1978. But this is my first national telethon and it requires a lot more work."

"It's like walking a tightrope or going over Niagara Falls in a barrel. You keep revising plans and timing right on the air to prevent people from waiting, filling in for no-shows, making allowances for people running long."

"There's no problem keeping your energy level high because the pace is so frantic. But your nerves begin to go in the last few hours when physical exhaustion sets in."

Boone begged off when Easter Seal officials first approached him. He was already spread thin. Boone probably devotes more time to charities and good works than any other star in Hollywood.

He is deeply involved with the Save The Refugees Fund, which he helped found with Ronald Reagan a year and a half ago. He works with Bibles For The World, a foundation which aims to put a Bible in the hand of every telephone subscriber in the world.

Another of his favorites is World Literature Crusade, which distributes Christian reading material. Boone also does TV commercials for "Compassion," a foster parents-type plan for children in many countries.

"There are a lot more," Boone said. "And I thought the Easter Seals conflict with the charities I was already working with. But after talking to the staff, I just decided to go ahead and make the time."

"I guess I really agreed because I always find it difficult to say no. Unless something is impossible, I say yes. It's not to escape guilt feelings either. In a way, giving my time for charity is responsible for my becoming a professional singer."

"Back in Tennessee I used to sing for service clubs and religious and church groups for free all the time. The exposure and the experience eventually led me to become a paid singer."

"The other reason I give my time to charity is that I believe we are here on earth only once and I'd like to make as much of a dent as possible."

"Heck, when I was a kid in high school I even volunteered to be head of the cleanup committee. Now what kid would volunteer for a thankless job like that? But everybody pitched in and we cleaned up the school."

"I like to see things happening and make my life matter at as many levels as possible, including raising a good, healthy family."

Pat, accused of being the world's ultimate square, grinned good-naturedly.

"I don't deny being square," he said. "There's nothing wrong in that."

"In fact, I define a square in my new song, 'Are There Any More Squares Out There?' I've performed it twice on the 'John Davidson Show' and with live audiences in concert and people go crazy."

"When I come to the catch phrase, 'Are There Any More Squares Out There?' the people yell back in unison, 'Yeah!'"

"Those same squares are the people who send money to telethons which I think brings out the best in people."

It's Oscar Time Again

DeNiro And Moore Favorites To Win

On Monday night, approximately 80 million viewers will turn their channels to ABC and watch the 53rd annual Academy Awards. They will fidget through three hours of self-serving tributes and endless thank-you speeches until the final 15 minutes of suspense, when the big awards for film achievement are announced.

Johnny Carson will once again serve as emcee for the annual presentation by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Many insiders would probably agree that there are several surprise nominees in the running this year; that makes the races somewhat more suspenseful than other recent Oscar contests, in which the nominations and winners were reasonably obvious.

The celebrity guests and presenters will have to provide this year's annual dose of fantasy, because it certainly won't be found in the five films nominated for Best Picture.

The films in contention are: "Coal Miner's Daughter," the biography of country music star Loretta Lynn that traces her career from her start as a naive teenager to her current superstar status; "The Elephant Man," the touching drama of a horribly disfigured man who courageously strives for respect in a prejudiced society; "Ordinary People," the story of a well-to-do family coming apart because of a young man's belief that his parents blame him for the accidental death of his older brother; "Raging Bull," which traces the personal and professional lives of colorful championship boxer Jake LaMotta; and "Tess," the Thomas Hardy tale of a sensual and beautiful young woman whose unfortunate early experiences haunt her in later years. Of these movies, "The Elephant Man" and "Ordinary People" are tied for receiving the most nominations overall, with eight each.

As is usually the case with Academy Award contests, numerous artists involved in the aforementioned films have also been nominated for their individual achievements. In the Best Actor category, Robert DeNiro is up for his portrayal of LaMotta in "Raging Bull" and noted British actor John Hurt is in the running as the title character of "The Elephant Man." (Hurt was nominated for a supporting Oscar two years ago for "Midnight Express.") Other possible winners include: Robert Duvall as the strict, military-weaned father in "The Great Santini"; Jack Lemmon as the always joking, high-powered press agent of "Tribute"; and Peter O'Toole as the fanatical movie director in "The Stunt Man." It's interesting to note that two of these films — "The Great Santini" and "The Stunt Man" — were almost passed over for theatrical release, since Hollywood studios initially felt they had little commercial value.

Leading actresses competing for top honors are: Ellen Burstyn as the woman who returns-to-life-after-death in "Resurrection"; Goldie Hawn as the spoiled, eventually culture-shocked "Private Benjamin"; Mary Tyler Moore as the emotionally cool, perfection-conscious mother of "Ordinary People"; Gena Rowlands as the pistol-packing, tough-talking mob opponent "Gloria"; and Sissy Spacek as Loretta Lynn in "Coal Miner's Daughter." Ranging the gamut from light comedy to the heaviest type of drama, this year's Best Actress nominees represent the widest range within that category in a number of years.

The supporting performer contests also highlight a wide range of performance styles. Up for Best Supporting Actor are: Judd Hirsch and Timothy Hutton, both in "Ordinary People"; Michael O'Keefe in "The Great Santini"; Joe Pesci in "Raging Bull" and Jason Robards as Howard Hughes in "Melvin And Howard." This year's Best Supporting Actress choices are: Eileen Brennan in "Private Benjamin"; Eva Le Gallienne in "Resurrection"; screen newcomer Cathy Moriarty in "Raging Bull"; Diana Scarwid as the waitress of "Inside Moves"; and Mary Steenburgen in "Melvin And Howard."

The envelope, please: Sissy Spacek, Mary Tyler Moore, Ellen Burstyn and Gena Rowlands (shown clockwise) are four of the Best Actress nominees on "The 53rd Annual Academy Awards Presentation," airing

Monday on ABC. The yearly ritual saluting outstanding film achievement will be hosted by Johnny Carson and features the usual glamorous roster of awards presenters.

No Church Organ In Crosby Past; 'Time After Time' Co-Stars Married

DEAR DICK: I am writing for the centennial committee of our church, St. Patrick's, because we are planning our celebration for 1982. We have heard from a former parishioner that a Kate Harrigan played the organ in our church and later became the mother of Bing Crosby, the noted singer. Needless to say, it would be great if we could verify this information and publicize it during the centennial celebration. MRS. DONALD CROWLEY, Goddard, Ontario.

Sorry, but the story is only partly true. Bing Crosby's mother's maiden name was Kate Harrigan, but she comes from the Seattle area. The family does not think she was ever in Ontario, let alone was a church organist there.

DEAR DICK: The great jazz violinist, Joe Venuti, had a partner at one time. Who was he? And what instrument did he play? Both are dead now — the partner died before Joe. GEORGE FARRAR, Columbus, Ohio.

I can find only a note that says that Venuti recorded often with a guitarist named Eddie Lang. I don't know if that qualifies as a partner, but perhaps it does.

DEAR DICK: To settle an argument, is Joan Leslie living and, if so, where? How old is she? F.F.P., Williamsport, Pa.

Yes, Joan is still with us, and a very charming 55. Her last appearance was in a TV movie, "The Keegan," in '76. She lives in Los Angeles, is married and has twin daughters.

DEAR DICK: I was in a movie called "Here Comes

Ask Dick Kleiner

By DICK KLEINER

Bronson," with Michael Parks. Was it ever shown anywhere? I was only 3 years old at the time. C.J. Overton, Nev.

I think you must mean "Then Came Bronson," which was shown on TV in '69. It was a pilot for a TV series that made it for a brief while.

DEAR DICK: A chicken dinner will be bought by the one who loses. Is the star, Bowser, who sings with Sha Na Na, the same as the actor on "Laverne and Shirley?" CHICKEN EATER, Mountain Grove, Mo.

No, I don't know exactly which actor on "Laverne and Shirley" you are referring to, but it doesn't matter because Jon Bauman (Bowser) isn't one of them.

DEAR DICK: My daughter and I have a disagreement about the late actor Sal Mineo. How old was he when he died? I say he was in his early 30s. My daughter says he was in his 40s. Also, I'd like to know about another actor, the professor on "Nanny and the Professor." When did he die and how old was he? M.C.R.N., Burbank, Ill.

Sal Mineo was 37 — so you were both a little wrong. Richard Long of "Nanny" died in 1974, when he was 47.

DEAR DICK: Both my husband and I enjoy Carol Burnett's show. But we are getting tired of reruns. Is there any chance that we will see some new material in the near future? JEAN CARL, Monteseano, Wash.

No, not much of a chance. Carol has stopped doing that show and has no plans to do any new ones. A special now and again, of course, but that's all.

DEAR DICK: We saw a remake of "Topper" on TV, and it set us to reminiscing about the original cast in the first "Topper" film. We remembered Carole Lombard, Cary Grant and Billie Burke, but cannot recall the name of the original Cosmo Topper. He was excellent. Could you supply his name? MRS. A.D. LEE, Auburn, Calif.

Yes, that was the delightful Roland Young.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me if I could ever meet John Schneider, the one on "The Dukes Of Hazard?" KATHY, New Buffalo, Mich.

The chances are pretty slim. He's in California, you're in Michigan. Even if you came to California, you probably wouldn't meet him. Pick a boy closer to home.

DEAR DICK: Is Diane Keaton related to the old-time comedian, Buster Keaton? And where can you buy the book about the lives of Tony Martin and Cyd Charisse? Is it in paperback? PAT JOHNSON, Saginaw, Mich.

The Keatons are unrelated. The Martin-Charisse book, "The Two of U," which incidentally, I wrote, is not in paperback. It may be out of print, but perhaps your book store can order it from the publisher, Mason-Charter.

DEAR DICK: I saw Malcolm McDowell in "Time After Time" and thought he was absolutely wonderful. Could you please tell me if he's married and what else he's done. R.D. CARR, Ardmore, Okla.

McDowell is a very distinguished English actor — he was in "A Clockwork Orange," for one thing, and "O Lucky Man," for another. He and Mary Steenburgen, his co-star in "Time After Time," are now married and the parents of a baby girl.

DEAR DICK: I am writing to ask you about NBC's new show, "The Gangster Chronicles." I would like to know about the book it is based on, particularly the stories of Lucky Luciano; my husband is his grandson. When we were married, in 1974, he gave me a book about Lucky Luciano, but I loaned it to someone and never got it back. Could you tell me where I could get a copy of the book? NELDA JUNE LUCIANO, Joplin, Mo.

The people at the show tell me their stories are based on many books. They mentioned one — "The Last Testament of Lucky Luciano" — that was purported to be Lucky's own story. But Ralph Salerno, the show's technical advisor, believes the authenticity of that book is doubtful. Incidentally, you may want to read a novelization of "The Gangster Chronicles," by Michael Laaker and Richard Alan Simmons, just published by Jove Publications. Your library would probably have several books about Luciano and other gangsters.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell us the name of the theme song played on "Prisoner Cell Block H"? Is it available as a recording? Who is the artist? ANNA VAN POOL, Juneau, Alaska.

It is called "On the Inside," and is sung by an Australian singer named Lynne Hamilton. It is not available here through ordinary channels. But the series' distributor, Reg Grundy Productions, say that if you will send a check or money order for $3 (three dollars) to them, they will send you a copy. Their address is 9911 West Pico Blvd., Penthouse 1, Los Angeles, CA 90035.

DEAR DICK: What was the name of the actor who played the part of Jack Wilson (the man who had the big fight with Clint Eastwood) in "Any Which Way You Can"? He also played in "Condominium." He is so good looking! B. WARREN, Arcata, Calif.

That's William Smith. He's been around for a while and has done some marvelous things.

DEAR DICK: I am curious as to what performers use — mouthwash, Sen Sen, etc. — to keep from offending each other when they are in close contact: singing, kissing, etc. KATHY, Williamsport, Pa.

Actors, remember, are people, even as you and I. So they use the same things we use. Some chew gum. Some carefully rinse their mouths with mouthwash. And there are those who are thoughtless and do nothing. Any actor will tell you stories about having to work with somebody like that.

DEAR DICK: When I was a very young girl, my aunt took me to the movies and I saw "Rhubarb," a cat, yellow in color, almost like Morris. That was roughly in the late '40s or early '50s. I don't remember the name of the movie. Can you verify that there was a "Rhubarb the cat"? PHYLLIS A. WILLIAMS, Mendon, Mich.

Consider it verified. The movie was called "Rhubarb" and it came out in '51, starring Ray Milland and Jan Sterling. It was a comedy about a baseball team owned by a cat, based on a famous story by H. Allen Smith.

DEAR DICK: A few years ago, at least 10, there was a western on TV starring Andrew Duggan, Andrew Prine and James Stacy. Could you tell me the name of this show? K. MOODY, Jersey Shore, Pa.

I think you must mean "Lancer," which starred Duggan, Stacy and Wayne Maunder, although Prine wasn't in it. That's the closest I can come to your description.

The Newbery award went to Katherine Paterson's "Jacob Have I Loved" (Crowell, grades 7-9), a haunting portrait of a young girl who has lived, since birth, in the shadow of her talented twin sister.

Louise reels under the taunts of her senile grandmother who uses biblical quotes to peg the young girl as an Esau, the despised elder twin from the book of Genesis. Even after she flees to the Chesapeake Bay, where her father is a fisherman, her friendship with a local boy is intruded upon by the pampered twin.

This year there were also two Newbery Honor books (runners-up). In Jane Langton's superb "The Fledgling" (Harper, grades 5-7), quiet little Georgie yearns to fly. She gets her chance after an encounter with a large Canadian goose. On moonlit nights when it taps on her bedroom window, she skims across the trees with her Goose Prince. Then two townspeople interfere. One of them ostensibly wins as he brings the goose down with a blast from his gun. But Georgie still has the Goose Prince's present—a rubber ball that is magically transformed before her eyes into an image of the earth—and his final words, "Take good care of it."

In Madeleine L'Engle's "A Ring of Endless Light" (Farrar, grades 8-10), Vicky

Austin, 15, and her family go to Seven Bay Island to be with their dying grandfather. It proves to be a difficult summer. Vicky faces not only her beloved grandfather's increasing deterioration but also the drowning of a good friend and the death of a baby dolphin at the nearby Marine Biology Station.

Though generally witty, the tales are uneven, especially in their appeal to young children, and require adult interpretation. Children of all ages, however, will appreciate the artist's fine, full-color illustrations which, in many instances, work as complete and humorous stories in themselves.

There were three is a sum of disparate colors and patterns that unexpectedly blend; a visual jigsaw that somehow emerges as a well-shaped story.

Donald Crews' "Truck" (Greenwillow, ages 2-5) begins with the large rear doors of a semitrailer shutting on a load of tricycles ready for shipment. The red diesel truck moves out into busy city streets, jockeys for position at the tunnel, pauses at an all-night truck stop for food and fuel, shifts down for rain-soaked highways, lumbers around multi-level intersections, creeps across fog-clouded bridges and finally backs onto the delivery dock at its destination.

Crews uses stark bright colors and closeup road signs that effectively simulate onsite observation. Placement of the truck, roads and other details gives a sense of motion as the vehicle moves on and off the pages and across the country.

Joseph Low's "Mice Twice" (Atheneum, ages 4-7) tells the tale of a battle of wits between prey and predator.

presented to an illustrator for outstanding art work in a picturebook. Arnold Lobel, creator of the popular Frog and Toad books, won the award this year for his "Fables" (Harper, grades 2-4). Short, original fables, complete with moral, poke fun at human foibles through the antics of 20 memorable animal characters.

For example, a crocodile prefers straight rows of wallpaper flowers to the imperfect garden variety: "Without a doubt, there is such a thing as too much order."

Caldecott Honor books this year. Molly Bang's "The Grey Lady and the Strawberry Snatcher" (Scholastic, ages 5-8) is a wordless picture book that depends on eerie art and high drama.

A gray-clad lady leaves a shop with a basket of strawberries. Once on the street she's stalked by the strawberry snatcher, a lean, blue-skinned figure in neon colors. He can't quite catch her on a chase that winds deep into the forest and has the gray lady blending with her surroundings. Bang's art

Weitz Is Macho Man On 'Hill Street Blues'

NEW YORK — "Hill Street Blues" has been hailed by the critics as a gutsy, well-written and intelligent series about policemen. Cops like it, too, but NBC's "Hill Street Blues" has been fighting for survival. Ratings have improved since its late January premiere but its chief rival on Saturday nights is still ABC's blockbuster hit "Fantasy Island."

Bruce Weitz plays the show's scruffy undercover detective who chews cigars and occasionally likes to nibble on the ankles of his suspects. Nonetheless, his penchant for biting has been reduced since the opening episodes, because some critics felt it was too peculiar a trait for a policeman.

Like the other actors on "Hill Street Blues," Weitz struggles under the cloud of insecurity. "We know the show is good," he says, "yet we're fighting for our life. It takes a tremendous toll on us psychologically."

The 5-foot-7-inch actor weighs a wiry 150 pounds. He weighed 190 pounds during his Miami high school days, when he was a varsity football and baseball player for four years.

A teacher talked Weitz into

Bruce Weitz stars in "Hill Street Blues" doing a play, "Twelve Angry Men," in his final year of high school. "I began to lose interest in sports after that," Weitz began trimming his weight. After college, he interned at prestigious regional theaters and tolled in the hinterlands for eight years. He worked off-Broadway in New York and headed for Hollywood three years ago.

When asked about the circumstances which led to "Hill Street Blues," Weitz says with a smile, "I went to college with the show's executive producer, Steven Bochco." NBC has ordered 16 episodes for this season, and there are reports that all of them will be repeated during the summer, giving the show more of a chance to build an audience.

Condo Collapse: 9 Dead, 20 More Still Missing

COCOA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Huge cranes and hundreds of rescue workers dug furiously through the rubble of a collapsed condominium Saturday trying to uncover bodies still buried in the twisted mass of concrete and steel.

By midday, nine bodies had been recovered but Civil Defense Director James Atkins said "there are six more for sure and we may have as many as 20 more people in there. It looks bad."

The victims were among a crew of 80 construction workers laboring on the uncompleted Harbour Cay condos Friday when the five-story structure collapsed without warning.

It earlier was reported that 10 bodies had been recovered but Atkins, who is also coordinator of public safety for Brevard County, said when workers dug down to a spot that had been tagged as containing a body, they found nothing.

Atkins said the speculation that as many as 20 more bodies may be in the rubble was based on reports from families of workmen who have reported them missing.

By late Friday night officials had given up hope that anyone in the rubble was still alive.

Witnesses said the building fell with a "whoosh" and piled up like a "layer cake."

Cause of the mishap has not been determined but Bill Straub, a city of Cocoa Beach building inspector, said a load of concrete dumped on the top floor by a crane may have triggered the collapse.

About 250 rescuers in all were involved in the project, and scores of other people — many with binoculars — gathered outside the cordoned off area to watch.

Fire Chief Robert Walker said phone calls have been flooding in from throughout the country from persons with relatives working on construction projects in the Cocoa Beach area. Walker said there were 20 or 25 people authorities had been unable to run down, but said he had no idea whether any of them were at the construction site.

The cries of one trapped worker could be heard seven hours after the Cay collapse, but the cries died late Friday night and Walker said there was little hope the man, or anyone else caught in the rubble, was still alive.

Labor Secretary Raymond J. Donovan dispatched Thorne G. Aucther, assistant secretary for occupational safety and health, from Washington for a personal inspection.

The cause of the collapse was not immediately known, Fire Chief Walker said.

Mike Mervis, a spokesman for Univel, the contractor and developer of the condominium, could offer no explanation for the collapse.

"There are a thousand things that could have happened," he said. "We're not going to know for months."

Atkins said early this morning seven bodies had been recovered from the debris and put into a white refrigerated truck serving as a temporary morgue.

Officials said three other bodies had been located but could not immediately be recovered. White sheets marked the spots where they lay.

At least 14 workers were injured, officials said.

Jim Atkins, Brevard County Civil Defense Director, said it was impossible to determine how many may still be buried under the wreckage because some workers, uninjured in the collapse, may have walked off.

George Touhy Receives Chamber's Topper Award

George Touhy, Seminole County business, civic and religious leader for the past 37 years, was singled out for special honors by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Friday night.

Touhy, director emeritus of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Seminole County, actively involved in the Presbyterian Church and in numerous charitable and civic activities, was presented with the highly coveted and prestigious "John S. Krider Topper" award for distinguished community service.

He is the 11th person over the years to be presented with the award.

Touhy and his wife, Louise, were presented with the plaque by John Y. Mercer, a past chamber president and last year's recipient of the award.

The presentation capped the chamber's annual awards banquet, attended by 150 business, professional and civic leaders, at the Sanford Civic Center.

The "John S. Krider Topper" award is the highest honor which the chamber can bestow on "distinguished civic leaders, who have done the most for their community over the years."

It is named in honor of John S. Krider, past manager of the chamber and a civic and business leader himself. Krider was given the award several years ago.

Mercer, in presenting the award, said Touhy is "completely dedicated to any task he accepts. He never refuses any reasonable request to assist anyone whether for the city of Sanford, the church, Rotary or any other organization to which he belongs."

Rev. Dr. Virgil Bryant, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of which Touhy is a member, said, "He gives 120 percent of himself to anything he does."

Touhy said his constant supporter in all his activities has been his wife, Louise, and credited her with his being honored.

The Touhys moved to Sanford in 1944, after he completed a stint in the U.S. Army during World War II. The same year, Touhy became a director of the First Federal Savings and Loan of Seminole. In 1951, Touhy became executive vice president and chief managing officer at the banking institution, continuing in that position until his retirement in 1971 when he again became a director. He retired in 1977, and is now "director emeritus."

Among those activities in which Touhy has been and is involved and the posts he has held or holds are:

- Interim general presbyter of the St. Johns Presbyterian Church, chairman of the First Presbyterian Church, chairman of the Presbytery Committee, moderator of the St. Johns Presbytery, committee member of the Synod and General Assembly and chair member.
- Organizing president and director of the United Fund of Seminole County.
- Salvation Army Advisory Board.
- Two term past president of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and one term past president of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.
- Past president and past director of the Florida Children's Home Society and past Central Florida chapter president.
- Trustee and on the executive board of the Thornwell School and director of Bram Towers.
- Past president of the Mental Health Association and past president of the Seminole County TB and Health Association.
- Committeeman of Troop 545, Boy Scouts, and recipient of the Scouts Silver Beaver award.
- Sanford Rotary Club where he has 35 years perfect attendance, is chairman of the Rotary Information Committee, has been a delegate to three Rotary International Conventions and served on numerous district committees. He is also a "Paul Harris" fellow of the Rotary.
- Past member of the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council and its executive committee.
- Recipient of the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees "Good Government" award.
- Director and secretary of the Sanford-Seminole Development Corp.

So much for myopia. Now for reality. The job is monotonous, low-paying, and dangerous. Working conditions are atrocious: the office is cramped, there's no indoor plumbing, and you can go for hours without seeing or hearing another human being.

Sounds about as inviting as a stretch in Sing Sing, right?

To some folks, maybe. But not to the crew of Ben Knox, Jack Jones, and Mike Slater at the Florida Division of Forestry fire lookout tower on Seminole County Road 427 near Longwood.

They like it fine, thank you. But then, that may be because in addition to looking for fires, they also fight them. And, of course, they carry Smokey's "Only you can prevent forest fires" message to area schools and civic groups. As Knox likes to say, "The one (fire) you prevent is the one you don't have to put out."

Unfortunately, the forestry trio have been doing a lot of "putting out" this fire season. In the first two months of 1981, there were more than four times as many fires affecting more than 15 times as many acres as in the same period last year.

With all due apologies to General Sherman, "Fire is hell," Knox says. "Sometimes it's a blessing to go up in the tower and rest."

It's a small world up there, 135 steps and 125 feet above the ground, but it offers the hardest firefighter a blissful solitude interrupted only by the whistling of cool breezes and the occasional rattle of chatter of fellow lookouts.

"It's a very pleasant job," says Knox, a four-year veteran who gave up his department store sales spot after 10 years for a chance at the hermit's life. "There's the peace and quiet, the outdoors, plus the feeling that you've done something worthwhile, made some contribution."

Those fringe benefits help offset the low pay — $9,256 a year to start. Senior tower keepers, like the 29-year-old Knox, also get government housing ("three bedrooms and a garden") for $50 a month.

Although hours vary depending on fire and weather conditions, the spartan 6-by-6-foot Longwood tower is usually manned four or five hours a day, frequently longer in the dry season when the crew's 150,000-plus acres of responsibility becomes as volatile as a powder keg.

At other times, particularly the rainy season, "we're working on the equipment, giving fire prevention talks, doing control burning (to kill off dry underbrush or to make way for tree growth), or, of course, fighting fires," Knox says. "We're on call 24 hours a day."

It takes a lot of experience to be able to distinguish between a dangerous blaze and a barbecue by the size and color of the smoke column from eight miles off, Knox said, but the duties of a lookout seem simple. For hours they stare across the treetops; at the sight of smoke, they plot its coordinates, take a cross reading with another tower, via radio to establish the exact location, then radio warnings to the central forestry dispatcher in Orlando. Depending on the city or county fire departments to supply the water pumps, the forestry men head into the blaze with a bulldozer, cutting trenches or firebreaks two or three rows deep in the fire's path. They may also start a backfire that will burn from the fireline toward the flames.

But business is not always so brisk. Up in the tower, lookouts can spend days or even weeks without sighting a puff of smoke, so the greatest challenge is to stay alert and keep staring. "They divert your attention from the horizon," Knox explains.

Strumming his guitar, doing pushups, or chatting with the wasps that nest outside his tower window during spring and summer helps Knox fight off the lonesome fire tower blues.

While the tedium may be the worst part of the job, the three-minute, winding trek up to his lofty perch runs a close second.

"You don't want to be climbing up and down all day so you don't go up hungry, and you make sure you have your jar (as the portable toilet is euphemistically known)," he said.

But atop the tower, standing tall against the cloud-streaked sky, life can also be aesthetic. On a clear day, one can see almost forever... 35 miles, anyway. Below, the cars look like toys, and the blacktop snakes off into the distance over gently rolling plains to meet the horizon. Eyes wander over a blanket of green and brown, the treetops stretching on seemingly forever until they end in a shadowy haze where land joins the sky.

"The sunrise and sunset are really beautiful from up here," Knox said. "You should see it. It really is something."

Ben Knox, senior lookout at the Florida Division of Forestry's Longwood fire tower, takes a reading on a possible fire.

Stabbing During Quarrel Is Fatal To Sanford Man

A 41-year-old rural Sanford man bled to death after being stabbed by a companion during a domestic quarrel shortly after 1 a.m. Saturday.

James Houston died at Seminole Memorial Hospital during an unsuccessful effort to save his life.

Being held in Seminole County jail Saturday without bond on a first degree murder charge is Ruby Edwards, also 41.

Seminole Sheriff's investigators said the stabbing occurred during a domestic quarrel in the bedroom of the couple's home at Hughey and Sipes Avenue.

Ms. Edwards, according to the investigators, stabbed Houston in the chest area with a pocket knife, severing an artery.

She and her son, according to deputies, took Houston by car to Seminole Memorial Hospital where apparent efforts to save his life were futile and he bled to death.

County Medical Examiner G.V. Garay, who conducted an autopsy Saturday morning, said Houston died of a laceration to the chest which severed a branch of the main artery.

He said when Houston arrived at the hospital he had no pulse.

Sheriff's deputies, responding to a call from the hospital, arrested Ms. Edwards there at about 2:45 a.m. They accompanied her back to the scene of the crime before she was taken to jail — DONNA ESTES
