THOUGHTS--WISE AND OTHERWISE

Corned beef—just plain old-fashioned corned beef—doesn't your mouth sometimes water for it? Grandmother used to have corned beef made in her own house, and mother carried on the tradition, feeling that the kind you bought was quite inferior. We were even told that it was the practice of butchers to put beef in corn only when it was too old to be good to eat fresh.
Now apparently butchers have grown more conscientious. Anyway, we are quite sure that ours uses only first-rate beef for corning, and his corned beef tastes every bit as good as the sort we used to corn at home. And a great deal of fuss is saved into the bargain.
A small piece of corned beef is a poor investment, because it dries out in the cooking, and we always get it at a time when there are to be a good many mouths to fill. It is good to have in the house the day the laundress or cleaning woman is here. Slices of cold corned beef and boiled potatoes make the basis of a good dinner for them. Be sure and cook it long enough; let it get quite tender and then let it cool "in its own liquor," as they used to say.
Corned beef hash is so good we have it for dinner the second day—because we are among those who never have meat on the table. The same is true of ham and R. Rannie, of Jacksonville.

Coolidge Lauds Work Of Board In Probing U.S. Aviation Situation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—President Coolidge's appreciation of the work of the aircraft board, which recently submitted its report, was acknowledged today in a statement issued at the White House.
The president declared the work of the board as having constituted a "searching and impartial investigation" of its subject. "Their contribution to the solution of the problem is the greatest value," the statement said.
"National defense is a matter in which we all are interested, quite properly. There is no doubt that the science of aviation now in its infancy is going to play an important part in safeguarding our country from any foreign attack and that anything which will develop its usefulness should be welcomed by us all."
"The report of the aircraft board gives to the public a clearer understanding of all the problems involved than any statement heretofore issued."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—President Coolidge, today, received the report of the special board, he appointed, to investigate the aircraft situation.
It was personally presented by Dwight W. Marrow of New York, head of the board. Its text immediately was given to newspapermen by the White House, but under a pledge that it would not be published until tomorrow morning.
Mr. Marrow remained with the president for some time, but, on leaving, said he had no statement.
The report was signed by members of the board a taspical meeting early today.

LATEST FASHION HINTS FOR MILADY

By MARY MARSHALL. Copyright McClure Syndicate

Flowers of Metal, Feathers, Felt and Leather Are Worth.
The vogue for inexpensive artificial flowers seems to have been waned so far as women of fashion are concerned. They have become discriminating. They feel toward the cheap posy now as they do toward collars and jabots of imitation lace. To be sure, there is still a ready demand for button-hole flowers, of the cheapest sort—but this is the demand of quantity rather than quality.
So choose a really expensive flower for the lapel of your coat or the shoulder of your frock or the end of your fur stole—or wear none at all.
In a leather season such as the present, it is no wonder that there are flowers made of it; but the remarkable thing is that the flowers so made really resemble the originals which they ape. Chrysanthe-mums are made of gilded leather. One of these is shown in the sketch. Feather flowers we have had for several seasons—a carnation of this sort is shown in the center of the sketch. There are also feather chrysanthe-mums. In fact, a flower does not seem to bloom but cannot be imitated in feathers. Even the green leaves and the half-opened buds are represented in plumage.
Fur flowers are perhaps the latest and most remarkable development of the flower maker's ingenuity. The sketch shows a carnation made of rose-colored peltry. A new trick for the evening frock is to wear two roses, either on the right shoulder or just where the right shoulder strap joins the bodice. These roses should be of contrasting colors. A black French velvet evening frock has one wine-color rose and one of pink.
Felt flowers are another interesting development of the season. These, of course, are restricted to day-time wear. Then there are metal flowers—leather and feathers and silk given a metal finish and flowers; that are actually made of metal. A new envelope purse of lizard skin is carried with two gilt metal roses projecting on one side.
Fur dyed a soft rose color fashions the topmost flower, which has rhinestone center and leaves. It is worn at the waist of a smart evening frock. The flower chosen on the figure is made of cock feathers. Gold kid is cleverly manipulated to make the chrysanthemum shown beneath.

Mrs. Holly Is Hostess To Book Lover's Club On Friday Afternoon

Mrs. Robert J. Holly was the gracious hostess Friday afternoon when she entertained the members of the Book Lovers Club most delightfully at her home on Park Avenue. Baskets and bowls of lovely narcissus and ferns were artistically used in the spacious living and music rooms.
The afternoon passed quickly in the exchange and discussion of books, also of current events.
Late in the afternoon the hostess served creamed chicken in timbals, hot rolls, stuffed olives, pickled pears, apple snow, fruit cake and coffee.
Those enjoying the cordial hospitality of Mrs. Holly were: Miss Annie Hawkins, Mrs. Stella Arrington Mrs. Henry McLaulin, Mrs. Harry Ward, Mrs. J. C. Bennett, Mrs. J. E. Pace, Mrs. Roy Symes, Mrs. L. P. Hagen and Miss Sallie Puleston of Monticello.

Members Of Herald Staff Entertained At Fine Chicken Dinner

The Lake Mary Development Co. with Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Sibley and Fred Sibley as hosts, entertained the members of the Sanford Herald staff at a most sumptuous old-fashioned chicken dinner Friday evening at the new Crystal Lake dining room.
A most ideal place for entertaining is the new dining room, with its quaint Spanish lines, massive in appearance, yet revealing marked comfort and beauty. At one end of the long room, is the huge fireplace, and last evening was banked solid with roses, chrysanthe-mums and ferns.
Around the walls were wall brackets and pockets, in which these lovely blossoms were artistically arranged. Centering the two long dining tables were low mounds of pink roses and feathery sprays of asparagus ferns. The softly shaded lights cast a rich mellow glow over the already pretty setting.
At 7 o'clock a chicken dinner with all its accessories was served. Marking the places of the guests were floral place cards.
Among those enjoying the cordial hospitality of these delightful hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Berg, Mrs. O. T. Alford, Miss Lena Belle Powell, Mrs. C. R. Friabro, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Dabney, Miss

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Would a monument add to or detract from the beauty and impressiveness of the spot where the unknown soldier rests. The War Department wants a monument and will ask Congress for $50,000 to erect one. This request will meet opposition—just how much is uncertain until the question actually comes up—on the ground that the unadorned slab which marks his grave is the most appropriate memorial to the unknown. Nobody disputes his title to the highest honors the country can pay. The difference of opinion relates only to the manner of paying them.

Congressional investigations are noted for the infrequency with which they achieve any worthwhile results. It remained, however, for Vice Chairman E. C. Plummer of the United States Shipping Board to describe the futility of such inquiries, along at least one line, with the maximum of crispness and compactness of style.

"For 56 years," said Plummer, addressing the Atlantic Deep-sea Waterways Association at Miami recently, "Congress has been investigating the problem of an American merchant marine. The printed matter that has resulted from these efforts would fill a good-sized room. Yet not a single important fact has been established that did not appear in the modest volume presented by the Lynch commission of 1869."

Plummer boils the essential part even of the Lynch report down to a 100 word paragraph urging a ship subsidy.

FLORIDA REAL ESTATE BOARD LAWS AMENDED

Incorporation Of Organization On Non-Profit Basis Expected To Result In Many Benefits For Operators

Local Boards Are Urged To Follow Suit

Officials Of Association Are Confident That The Ethics Of Board Will Be Elevated

ORLANDO, Dec. 5.—(A)—The Florida Association of Real Estate Boards was recently incorporated as a non-profit organization under the Florida laws of 1925, chapter 10,095 (No. 73). This action was taken upon the decision of the board of governors which met in Lakeland.

The state office located here is now urging the local boards throughout the state to take a similar action. It is using this method as a means of furthering its code of ethics and of aiding in the enforcement of the new state real estate brokers license law.

In taking this action, the association officials say, realizing the fact that no single individual likes to make a complaint of a violation against another, and in this manner the embarrassment of such a step can be avoided. A bulletin on the subject, sent to all local member realty boards from the office of Paul O. Meredith, executive secretary, points out the advantages of becoming incorporated as a non-profit organization.

"When incorporated in this manner local boards can take any necessary step for disciplinary action in their corporate capacity, thus avoiding personalities and individual liability. They can also report violations of the state license law and make complaints in this corporate capacity. This would mean a still better enforcement of the law through increased co-operation of our local boards."

According to Secretary Meredith the recent amendment to the state licensing act means a great step forward in the campaign of the realtors of Florida to rid the state of questionable real estate operations.

Walter W. Rose, of Orlando, who is president of the association and chairman of the Florida Real Estate Commission, was instrumental in securing the passage of the amendment at the extraordinary session of the general assembly last month.

Two other realtors, members of the association, are Thomas L. Hammond of Tampa, and William E. Rennie, of Jacksonville.

They Match

A pleasing combination is here introduced. The banding of red and white checked wool used to outline the cape sleeves of the tan wool coat is repeated on the wool hat. Such an outfit is particularly appropriate for the college girl or for general sport wear.

KU KLUX KLAN MENTIONED IN ALICE'S TRIAL

Rhineland's Father-In-Law Creates Disturbance When Called "Taxicab Driver" In Summation Of Famous Case

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Dec. 5. (A)—George Jones, mutatto father of Alice Beatrice Jones, from whom Leonard Kip Rhineland is seeking an annulment of their marriage, today created a disturbance in the court room when Isaac N. Mills, counsel for Rhineland, called Jones "a taxicab driver," during his summation before the jury, and related how the Jones family had ignored a warning that the Ku Klux might next act against them.

Mills said that Leon R. Jacobs, attorney, employed by Rhineland's father, had warned Alice that unless she and her wealthy young husband separated, the Klan might take action against her family. This warning was given, Mills said, after a window in the Jones home had been broken by a stone thrown by an unknown person.

Mills defended the action of Jacobs, when defense counsel, Leo Parsons David was bitterly attacked in his summation of the defense, saying that Jacobs had "merely lost his head." Mills also cited his criticism, made yesterday, against Philip Rhineland, Leonard's father, for neglecting the son, which the lawyer stated was largely responsible for the mistake made by the young man. The case is expected to reach the jury some time tomorrow.

Air-Board Reports To The President

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(A)—President Coolidge, today, received the report of the special board, he appointed, to investigate the aircraft situation.

It was personally presented by Dwight W. Marrow of New York, head of the board. Its text immediately was given to newspaper men by the White House, but under a pledge that it would not be published until tomorrow morning.

Mr. Marrow remained with the president for some time, but, on leaving, said he had no statement. The report was signed by members of the board a taspical meeting early today.

Indiana Congressman Speaks At Republican Party Reorganization

WEST PALM BEACH, Dec. 5. (A)—Reorganization of the Republican party in Florida was undertaken here today at a conference of Republican leaders of the state, which also was attended by Representative Wood of Indiana, chairman of the national regional committee. In his address to the gathering, Mr. Wood said that the Harding-Coolidge administration "has swept chaos away and transformed the United States from a land of doubt, confusion and hard times into a land of confidence, stability and prosperity." The people of the United States, Mr. Wood said, are the most prosperous of any people upon the earth.

Two Schooners Sink During Gulf Storm

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 5.—(A)—Unofficial reports have reached Tampa customs officials of the sinking of the British schooner Campania and the Tampa-owned schooner, Horace M. Bickford, off Dry Tortugas several days ago during the gulf storm.

According to these advices the Campania was found sinking by the Bickford and her crew taken aboard. Later the Bickford went down, according to information received here, but not before both crews were taken off by a vessel bound for New Orleans, the name of which was not received here.

GERMANS LAUD CHAMBERLAIN

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—(A)—German papers are applauding Austen Chamberlain for helping the spirit of Locarno to victory. The praise is prompted by a statement of Chamberlain to the House of Commons that wartime British propaganda regarded corpses of soldiers killed in action being rendered for fat was false.

Boy Kills Friend With Hat After Listening To Many Tales Of Conquest Which Aroused His Jealousy

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(A)—A woman in the backroom of the killing of 19 year old George Nye, Jr., by his old chum, Gordon Pirie, has been found, but district attorney McGeehan, wants more information about the habits of her social circle before he will reveal her name.

Pirie said in a second confession, made last night, that Nye had made conquests over every girl whose name was mentioned. Annoyed by Nye's disparagement of a certain girl, he invited him to spend the night with him and killed him as he slept.

He denied, however, that either Violet Smith or Pirie's 16 year old sister, Margaret, was mentioned. Violet Smith, 17, who had been "going with" Gordon Pirie, but denies she was his sweetheart, helped Mr. McGeehan to get the second confession from Pirie, after a first statement in which he declared he "obeyed a sudden irresistible and inexplicable impulse to kill his friend."

Urged by the district attorney, she advised Pirie to tell the truth. A sense of chivalry, perhaps tinged with jealousy, was the motive that Pirie said, led him to batter his friend's head with a hatchet, and then to hide the body under his sister's bed, where it was found Sunday.

Step-Children Are Older Than Parents

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(A)—There are many 16-year-old English girls married to widowers who have children of their own who sometimes are no younger than their little step-mother. There are boys of 17 wedded to widows with children scarcely less juvenile than their step-father.

This was brought out in a survey made in connection with putting into effect a new act requiring the consent of parents to the marriage of minors. It also was shown there are more than 95,000 husbands and wives in England and Wales under 21. Of these, 38,000 were boys and girls in their teens.

These minors, it was stated, marry at the rate of "one out of every 10 girls between the ages of 15 and 20, and one out of every 40 boys of the same age group."

Last year eighteen cities with population of 100,000 or more had death rates due to typhoid fever of less than 2.0 per 100,000.

LUMBER KINGS WILL MEET AT JACKSONVILLE

Sanford Included In List Of Florida Cities To Be Seen On Inspection Tour

Business Meeting To Be Held Dec. 7

Visiting Delegates To Be Entertained At Many Florida Points

JACKSONVILLE, Dec. 5.—(P)—Lumbermen, representing more than a billion dollars of invested capital, will spend five days seeing Florida at first hand, following a two day session of the board of directors of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association in Jacksonville, Dec. 7 and 8.

The regional association will also hold a meeting in Jacksonville on Dec. 7. This will be for the purpose of organizing a sales-managers exchange, and the hearing of an address on statistics and distribution by Edward Hines of Chicago, one of the leading lumber men of the country.

Sanford, Orlando, Miami, West Palm Beach, Sebring, Lake Wales, Bartow, Lakeland, Tampa and St. Petersburg are included in the itinerary of the lumber men after they leave Jacksonville on their five day river and overland tour.

Special dinners will be given in honor of the manufacturers in Jacksonville, Orlando, West Palm Beach, Miami and Sebring.

The regional divisions of the Florida Lumber and Millwork Association will give dinners at Orlando and West Palm Beach, and members of the same organization are in charge of the program at Miami.

The chief topics of discussion to which the national directors will devote their attention in Jacksonville will be, the practicability of a concerted national campaign of educating the public in the wisest uses of wood; studies of the properties of wood substitutes; statistics on demand and supply of lumber; a lumber exhibit in the National Exposition which opens next year; federal taxes and other legislation.

Frank G. Wisner, of Laurel, Miss., president of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association will head the tour. E. A. Frost, Shreveport, La., vice-president; John H. Kirby, Houston, Tex., treasurer; and Mr. Wilson Campbell, of Washington, D. C., secretary, manager, will make the trip also. J. Baker Arnold, of Groveland, Fla., one of the leading lumber men of the state will make the tour along with lumber men from practically every lumber state in the Union.

Divergent Views On Dry Enforcement Is Cause Of Board Split

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(P)—Disapproval by some members of the united committee for prohibition enforcement of its attack on the administration's enforcement policy has caused a split in the committee ranks. The National Board of Temperance, prohibition and public morals, last night resigned from the committee.

Mr. Wilson also declared that the use of the name of his board in connection with the committee was unauthorized. His action was followed by the withdrawal from the committee meeting of Oliver W. Stewart of Indianapolis, head of the flying squadron foundation, and vice-chairman of the united committee.

Edwin C. Dinwiddie of the International League of Good Templars, also left the meeting, declaring he did not wish to stand behind such an attack on the administration.

PARIS LETTER

PARIS, Dec. 5.—(P)—A flat rate of $10.00 a year for a visa permitting American residents in France to cross the French frontier will be collected henceforth by the French authorities. Heretofore an annual visa could be obtained from prefectural headquarters on the payment of three and a half francs (45 cents).

The maintenance of the $10 visa fee by the United States government is responsible for this decision of the French government, which has ruled that the rate for foreigners obtaining passport facilities in France should depend on the charges which their respective countries assess against French citizens for permission to cross their frontiers.

Biase Paris which has the reputation of having looked upon more than any other city in the world, has ruled that women athletes must wear more clothes. It has been the custom in Paris and other cities of France for women and girls athletes to hold parades in the streets in their athletic costumes. Runners in running trunks, javelin and weight-throwers with arms bare to the shoulders, broad jumpers in spiked shoes with only socks barely covering the ankles were features of these processions.

The French feminine federation of gymnastics and physical education has placed a ban against similar displays in the future. It recently issued this edict: "The wearing of loose running trunks and lights, while necessary for women athletes competing in stadiums, appears to be unbecomingly while parading on the streets, and henceforth members of this federation must wear short skirts on such occasions as their clubs are called upon to parade through the streets."

Recent reports that George Clemenceau was critically ill and which, upon investigation, disclosed the "tiger" just as vigorous and powerful as ever, brought attention to the great statesman's daily mode of living.

In bed at 8 o'clock, M. Clemenceau rises between midnight and 1 o'clock in the morning. He goes to work immediately and stays at it until about 6:30, when his servant brings the great morning bowl of chocolate which constitutes the "tiger's" first meal of the day.

From 8 until 8:30 under the direction of a physical culture professor who has been assisting him for years, M. Clemenceau executes his daily exercises. He then dresses, shaves and goes to work until luncheon, which is his best meal of the day. Roast meats, well done, and an abundance of vegetable form the menu. M. Clemenceau drinks water.

After lunch, he goes to work again. At 4 o'clock he goes out for his automobile tour, always sitting in the front seat next to the chauffeur. His promenade is generally through the Bois de Boulogne or to Versailles. Then home, where a little thin soup and some fruit make up the dinner. Clemenceau sleeps only four to five hours out of each 24 and works at least 18.

Christmas comes early on the Rue de Rivoli and first selection of holiday gifts have appeared there. Giggly phonographs playing squeaky but recognizable tunes at prices as low as 45 francs (less than $2) are among the children's novelties, together with new luxurious types of toy automobiles costing a great deal too much for parents' peace of mind. Dolls this season have taken on a strong nationalist character, dressed in Czech, Swiss, Rumanian, Italian and Hungarian national costumes. Even Mah Jongg comes to life again in the general Christmas animation, and all the shops are stocked with sets manufactured in France.

Americans living in France are watching the new financial projects of the French government with considerable apprehension because many of them feel that they can no longer continue to pay taxes in both the United States and France. There has been a long-standing agreement that the French fiscal authorities should estimate an American's income for taxation purposes at seven times the amount of rent he pays, or, if he owns the house in which he lives, at seven times the estimated rental value of the property.

But rents have soared and so have taxes. One American who paid 110,000 francs income tax three years ago on the rent-income basis has to pay 280,000 francs this year with the prospect of his tax being 450,000 next year. An American physician long resident in France, with a declared income of 75,000 francs was assessed 3,000 francs income tax in 1924, and 12,000 francs this year.

Handkerchiefs that resemble landscape paintings are among the Christmas novelties being offered in the shops around the Place Vendome. The lovely cotton kerchief has blossomed out this year, and window displays of the linen shops bear a resemblance to rooms in the Louvre museum. Subjects ranging from woodland scenes of the life of Robin Hood to portraits of Madame Recamier or of Queens of the Folies Bergere have been adapted to handkerchief artistry.

"Alice's" in the Rue de Rivoli leaves the shopper uncertain whether he is gazing into a picture dealer's window or a linen goods shop. The pictorial craze has spread also to purses and leather goods, as well as to scarfs, sweaters and even underwear, and considerable quantities of these articles, decorated with pictures, are being sold.

BERLIN LETTER

BERLIN, Dec. 5.—(P)—Seven hundred years old and having a population of 4,000,000, Berlin is just about to acquire its first skyscraper.

While the authorities are debating over plans for lining Unter den Linden with tall office buildings, which it is feared will destroy the beauty of the historic facades now fronting on that famous avenue, the Society of Book Lovers has laid the cornerstone for its new 12-story building in the fashionable west end district of Charlottenburg. Twelve stories constitutes a skyscraper in Berlin.

Bankers hesitated to advance funds for the skyscraper venture, but several thousand members of the society raised the money by the sale of stock. The building will contain a theater seating 1,200 persons, music and art studios and offices.

Apartment houses of more than five stories are prohibited by law because they are regarded as unhealthy. Only recently the city lifted the ban against office buildings of more than five stories.

Baroness Catherine von Oheimb, in whose salon more than one cabinet has been formed and overthrown, has come out in favor of short skirts, in a controversy which is reaching militant proportions in Germany.

The baroness, accused recently of "petticoat" politics, replied that such a charge was without foundation as she discarded petticoats long ago. Now she sees no reason why women should hide even unshapely legs in long skirts.

"Let the lords of creation remember," the baroness says, "that they too are by no means all endowed with comely legs. Yet we women have to look at them—or would anybody dare suggest that men who fall short of being Adonises should encase their pedal extremities in long skirts? These defects of both sexes can be remedied by massage."

"But even so, not all women have beautiful faces; yet one sees them. Why not wear short skirts which are more practical than long long skirts in any age of toil, irrespective of how nature patterned the ankles?"

When President von Hindenburg starts on his next tour of the country, Mozart music is likely to greet him wherever he goes.

The veil of mystery concerning his musical preference which has given concern to every citizen's committee charged with looking after his entertainment, was lifted by President von Hindenburg himself at Frankfurt recently. At his personal suggestion, "The Marriage of Figaro" was given at the opera. He said afterwards that Mozart was his favorite composer. His friends were surprised. Even a week before his election Captain von Kuoselgen, the president's Hanover secretary, said "the field marshal is bored by music."

Virtually destitute, except for a radio set which she refused to sell, Frau Augusta Knauas, 80-year-old widow, committed suicide by inhaling illuminating gas while listening to the broadcasting of the opera "Aida." She was found dead in a chair before the receiving set, the ear phones clamped over her head.

In a farewell note, she said that she had sold most of the furniture of what used to be a well-appointed home in order to buy food. She said she could not bear the thought of selling the radio and had decided to turn on the gas jets while listening to her favorite opera.

While educators are debating the advantages of higher learning for women in clubs and on the platform, Dr. Charlotte Dietrichmann, and Dr. Alice Solomon have founded a woman's academy for graduate work in the social sciences and pedagogy.

Patterned after graduate schools of women's colleges in the United States, the academy is said to be the first of its kind in Europe. In addition to regular advanced work for women who have A. B. degrees, morning classes will be conducted for mothers. These courses will not be confined to household subjects, but will include art and social science. The theory that housewives have civic responsibilities which demand knowledge on subjects outside the home sphere.

Lions, tigers and other carnivora are thriving on a diet of horsemeats in the Berlin zoos. With the king beasts consuming about 15 pounds of horseflesh daily, two and sometimes three aged horses are butchered each day to satisfy the beasts.

The animals are not fed on Mondays, the assumption being that in addition to regular meals on Saturday and Sundays the crowds visiting the zoo throw so much food into the cages that a fast day is essential.

Birds of prey consume such large quantities of rats, mice and sparrows that zoo officials induce boys to take up the capture of these animals by paying 10 pennings (about 2 1-2 cents) for each mouse or sparrow brought in alive.

LONDON LETTER

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(P)—With the approach of Christmas and its attendant shopping season, and with society activities in both Paris and London, there has been a large increase in the number of London women who fly to Paris one day and return by the same route the next.

In England, and also on the continent, an American woman, Mrs. Hart O. Berry, who made a short flight with Wilbur Wright in 1909 and achieved fame as the first woman to ride in an airplane is still regarded the pioneer aerial traveler although women who use the airways are numerous, making up more than 50 per cent. of the passengers on the main European air routes.

Many actresses and singers use the air routes between Paris and London to fill engagements, among them Miss Gladys Cooper, Miss Margaret Bannerman, Madame Frieda Hempel and Miss Phyllis Monkman. Among the women who have been using the airplane service to do Christmas shopping in Paris are Princess Bibesco, Lady Leverhulm, Lady Bonham-Carter, Lady Sholto Douglas and Lady Muriel Paget.

There is a famine in London of hair for making wigs, switches and other false pieces, as a result of the vogue of bobbed and shingled hair. When the fashion of cut locks began, women's hair for a time almost glutted the market, but now that about 90 per cent. of the women in London prefer the new style the supply of hair does not begin to meet the demand. Therefore, even six to 10 inches of perfectly good hair in bringing unprosperated prices.

His r-dressers are looking about for new fields where bobbing is not in vogue with a view to making contracts with women for long strands of hair.

Winter bird visitors have been flying over the British Isles in close recently, replacing the birds of summer, which have flown long since to southern Europe or even to Africa.

Starlings, thrushes, red wings and field fares are the most numerous among the birds that seek a winter home in England and Scotland. During mild winters they live on insects and so are of great service to farmers and fruit growers. When the winter is severe as this one has started out to be, they feed on the berries from England's numerous hedges.

Farmers are complaining of a falling off recently of the number of lap wings in England, since this bird, is one of their greatest aids in the battle against insect life. Most of the lap wings go to southwestern Europe during the winter and there is reported they are being killed in great numbers by hunters.

London straphangers, at least those that ride in the buses, have had their hours increased. Heretofore straphanging has been confined to the early rush hours up to 8:30 in the morning and between 4:30 and 6:00 o'clock in the evening. A home department ruling makes straphanging in the buses permissible for all the morning and evening rush hours and for Saturday nights which is London's favorite night for going to the theater.

Under the former ruling no one might enter a bus in which there were no seats vacant except during the legal straphanging hours. This caused bitter complaints from women who used the buses for daytime travel and from theater goers.

The new ruling is said to be temporary, to hold only until enough additional buses are available to carry all the crowds, but this relief does not seem likely to come soon, for the bus companies have little money for additional equipment. Already so many of these conveyances are in use that traffic in Piccadilly Circus and other central points is badly congested.

English widows seem to be losing their cunning. Marriage registration records show that comparatively fewer widows are remarrying now than at any time in the last half century. The unmarried candidate for matrimony appears to be having most of the success.

Analysis of the matrimonial outlook says this change is due to improvement in the wisdom and judgment of the unmarried girl. She has become more practical, they say, and has stolen much of the widow's advantage with the marriageable male. Since modern conditions have brought her greater freedom she has been able to learn how to be a comrade to a man, to study him at close range, to analyze him psychologically and to discover that he wants something more in a wife than a clothes dummy.

Creating a proper proportion of Waterfront Property for a potential city of a million on the sheltered waters of Biscayne Bay

AND that is just what we are doing in the building of VENETIAN ISLES. Not only this, but we are improving our other waterfront properties by virtue of the fact that the creation of these islands is bringing about a proper and satisfactory depth of water throughout the length and breadth of upper Biscayne Bay, which heretofore has been too shallow for general boating purposes.

No great city, such as Miami is destined to be, is complete without its proper proportion of various types of properties—business, apartment, hotel, residential and waterfront—and it is indeed fortunate that VENETIAN ISLES are bringing about a completion of Nature's destined plan, so to speak.

If the history of profits and increase in values from the time Miami was founded until today, of all waterfront property, is any reasonable criterion to go by, then we submit that VENETIAN ISLES properties, as Miami grows from her present population to her destined population of a million people, will enjoy constantly increased values.

BASEBALL RULES BEING DISCUSSED BY S. I. C. COACHES

Intercollegiate Ball And Its Relationship To Professionalism Principal Topic At The Athens Meeting

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 5.—(P)—Intercollegiate baseball and its relation to professionalism was the principal item of the Southern Conference here today. The moguls of college athletics had two proposed amendments to the by-laws under consideration. These promised to occupy a large part of the deliberations of the day.

One of these proposed measures which would bar any athlete from intercollegiate baseball, who had received money or had signed a contract with a professional baseball team.

Dr. S. V. Sanford, of the University of Georgia, insisted that certain contests of freshmen away from the college campus was required an undue absence from their studies and urged adoption of the amendment. Mr. Ferguson suggested that Sanford arrange his freshmen schedule to suit the requirements of the University of Georgia and that coach Miles arrange his schedule to suit the needs of V. P. I. and let the matter drop.

Big Green Team Gets Four Men on All-Eastern Team Selected by Ten Coaches

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—@—Dartmouth, as the east's outstanding eleven during the 1925 season, carries off the bulk of honors in all-eastern teams, compiled by the Associated Press from opinions of 10 prominent coaches along the Atlantic seaboard.

In this consensus, Dartmouth places four stars on the first team twice as many as any rival college, while Andy (Swede) Oberlander, backfield ace of the Big Green forces, has the distinction of being the only unanimous choice of the coaches.

The make-up of the first and second eleven follows:

First team: Ends—Hanson and Tully, Dartmouth. Tackles—Chase, Pittsburgh and Parker, Dartmouth.

Florida Football Season Brilliant In Achievements

UNIVERSITY OF FLORIDA, Gainesville, Dec. 5.—(P)—Florida came out of the darkness after two conference defeats and finished the football season with two brilliant victories, both of them seemingly almost impossible as "dopes" pointed to a loss in both instances.

Thanksgiving Day, Coach Sebring's band of "Fighting Gators" met the Washington and Lee eleven at Jacksonville. The Gators, with five consecutive conference wins had the second score made against them in the first 5 minutes of play when Captain Jones booted the oval from the 25-yard line for a field goal, a feat that no team except Maryland had been able to do this year.

The first half ended with the score 7 to 3 against the Orange and Blue. The Gators, however, had made more first downs. Returning to the second period with determined intent, the Gators charged scored a pair of touchdowns, the last coming in the final 4 minutes of play for the most sensational victory of the south this season.

When Henry Clay presented himself for the oath for the first time on Nov. 19, 1806, at the age of 29 years, 7 months and 7 days, some Senator inquired as to his age.

"I here my colleague will propound that question to my constituents," Clay replied, and there the matter dropped.

When he takes the oath of office at the opening of the session on December 7, he will be aged 30 years, 10 months and one day, having been born on February 6, 1805. The Constitution provides that no person under 30 years of age may qualify as a United States Senator.

Robert Lafollette Will Be The Fifth Youngest Man Ever To Sit In Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(P)—Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, who at the next session will take the place in the Senate so long held by his father, will be the fifth youngest man ever to sit in that body and the first under 31 years of age to hold a seat there in more than a century.

When he takes the oath of office at the opening of the session on December 7, he will be aged 30 years, 10 months and one day, having been born on February 6, 1805. The Constitution provides that no person under 30 years of age may qualify as a United States Senator.

Search of the musty records at the Capitol discloses, however, that despite this constitutional inhibition all of the Senator's younger than Mr. LaFollette took ten oaths before they had reached the age of 30 and that their presence as members was not seriously questioned.

When Henry Clay presented himself for the oath for the first time on Nov. 19, 1806, at the age of 29 years, 7 months and 7 days, some Senator inquired as to his age.

"I here my colleague will propound that question to my constituents," Clay replied, and there the matter dropped.

DAVIS SHORES TO BE PLANTED WITH TROPICAL SHRUBS

Elaborate Beautification Plans For St. Augustine Development Completed By Landscape Gardener

ST. AUGUSTINE, Dec. 4.—The initial step in the beautification program for Davis Shores, which will cost more than a half-million dollars, was taken here by the D. P. Davis Properties, when R. R. Milam, general manager, announced that 20 acres of Fish's Island had been set aside for a nursery in which will be cultivated palms, flowering shrubs, and tropical plants, which later will be transplanted on the $50,000,000 development of D. P. Davis on Anastasia Island, directly across the Matanzas River from the main business section of St. Augustine.

Mr. Milam also announced that a large nursery stock had been purchased from Oliver B. Hart, owner of the Fort Mosca Gardens nursery. This stock consists of date and Washington palms, hibiscus, pink and white oleanders and shrubs. Australian pines and other ornamental trees will also be added to the nursery stock, as fast as the dredge and builders have completed their work on the development they will be planted.

Landscape and beautification will keep pace with all other phases of making Davis Shores the ideal recreational and home center of America, just as has been accomplished as Davis Islands in Tampa Bay, Mr. Milam declared. The larger plan is under the direction of Frank Button, internationally famous landscape architect and city planner. Details and the care of all trees and plants are under the supervision of David D. Dowell, former gardener at the White House.

Fish's Island probably is the only place where a nursery could be established immediately on Anastasia Island, according to Frank Parker Stockbridge, famous author, who, while here recuperating from overwork in writing his new book, "Florida In The Making," is closely following every step in connection with the development of Davis Shores.

"However, the farm there, which must be more than three times the size of the present site," he said, "is better than anywhere else on Anastasia Island. You can see the old terraces made by the Spaniards for their rice fields, probably as early as 1600.

"Fish's Island affords an interesting study for those of us who are interested in things of the past. You can see where an old Spanish house stood. A lane flanked by 300-year-old cedar leads to the site of the house."

"There is also an avenue of pines leading from the house to a big grove. The trees are large and very old and the Spanish moss hangs from them so the whole setting is picturesque. I intend to recommend to Mr. Davis that he build his country club on the site of the old house. I think the farm will offer the best place to develop good fairways for the course without great expense."

"There remains also the excavation for the old boat landing, and an old Spanish drain, built of coquina rock."

"There is also an old Spanish well which has served for centuries. I know that is Spanish because it is square. The Mediterranean people build square

ROOF TO CELLAR WINTER TO HEAT IN SEVEN HOURS

Motorcar Runs From Highest To Lowest Point In United States In Few Hours And Nothing Broke But Record

From the "roof" of the United States to the lowest point in its "basement" in 7 hours, 28 minutes. A mountain timberline and a raging snow storm at the start with the dust and blinding heat of America's most desolate valley at the end of the ride—these were features of the record run recently completed by a Studebaker Big Six Duplex Phaeton from the barren slopes of Mt. Whitney, highest point in the Union, to Death Valley, its lowest spot.

Charles Brown, veteran Shoshone driver, and "Dad" Fairbanks, sole conquerer of the arid valley which lies 284 feet below the level of the Pacific Ocean, are responsible for the swift journey, practically over no roads at all, made by E. J. Fortman of Los Angeles. Motion pictures, made on the journey to Mt. Whitney stops at Lone in theaters throughout the country.

Customarily, the motor car journey to Mt. Whitney stops at Lone Pine. The rest is made on foot. But the automobile Fortman drove kept on to the timberline, stopped finally amid a blinding blizzard with its front bumper against a great boulder.

The journey from "roof to basement of America" began next day and carried the car through the most picturesque scenery in California, ending in the desolate bit of forsaken ground made famous by "Scotty of Death Valley." The trip required 7 hours and 28 minutes. Then hours was the best time previously made.

There are fourteen counties in Arizona. Twelve of them supply their sheriff's with automobiles. In every county of the 12 a Studebaker car is used.

When the information came to South Bend, Studebaker commissioned Maj. Grover F. Sexton to go to Arizona and learn first hand the service which Studebaker cars were rendering in the maintenance of law and order.

The stories he gathered, portraying the adventures, the daring, the humor and philosophy of the soft-spoken, hard driving men with nimble guns, are published in a book just off the press called "The Arizona Sheriff."

REPLIES TO ATTACKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Ella McWay's denunciation of stag line society dances has provoked a reply from William T. Adee, a young bachelor. He insists the stag line is due to debs and sub-debs who demand that there be three or four times as many men as girls at a dance. Also the post-debutantes have an insatiable capacity for jazz.

wells; those of northern Europe, round wells. The well on Fish's Island is lined with square coquina blocks. There is also an old private cemetery on the island.

"The history of Fish's Island is also unique in the fact that the land has been in the possession of one family for almost two centuries, up until the time it was bought by Mr. Davis. The original grant was made to Jesse Fish in 1763. A direct descendant sold it to Mr. Davis when he required the 1500 acres for his development, Davis Shores."

SEPARATE UNIT OF MILITIA IS NOW PROPOSED

Divorce Of Bureau From The General Staff With Assistant Secretary In Charge, Is Recommendation Rickards

Negress Of National Guard Slowed, He Says

Present Method Of Conducting Examinations Called A "Real Injustice" By Chief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Divorce of the Militia Bureau of the War Department from General Staff control through appointment of an assistant secretary to handle all national guard affairs under appropriations separate from those for the regular army, is recommended by Maj. Gen. George C. Rickards, head of the Pennsylvania National Guard, in his annual report made public today as chief of the bureau.

Progress of the National Guard has been hindered as a whole, Gen. Rickards declared, by "the tendency of the War Department general staff to take over certain administrative functions of the chief of the Militia Bureau."

"It should be apparent to the General Staff," the report continued, "that the Militia Bureau has a competent staff of regular army officers who are familiar with the National Guards of all the states, and know their problems through more intimate contact with them than it is possible for any other War Department agency to have."

"I am convinced," the General declared, "that sound business principles and best interests of national defense will be served when the Chief, Militia Bureau, shall have his duties fully defined by regulations, if not by law, and be permitted to exercise them. My experience leads me to the conclusion that if (the National Guard) feeling which now appears to be prevalent in the regular army to the effect that money is used for the maintenance of the National Guard are being taken from funds necessary for the support of the regular army."

"It is my firm conviction, based on long experience and close study, that had the Chief, Militia Bureau, as I believe was contemplated by the Congress, and to have handled the appropriations in his own way instead of being bound by the actions of the Secretary in his own way instead of being bound by the actions of the Secretary of War, which actions were based on recommendations of the War Department, a strength of 100,000 could have been reached and maintained throughout the years 1925 and 1926."

When 19 Freight Cars Were Piled Up

A long string of freight cars on the Pennsylvania railroad got loose on the famous "horse shoe curve" near Altoona, Pa., and raced down a steep two-mile grade into the city. There the cars "side-swiped" another string and were wrecked, blocking all traffic on the main line and killing two trainmen. The brakeman saved his life by running back along the tops of the cars. There are nineteen cars piled up in the heap shown above.

been reached and maintained throughout the years 1925 and 1926.

"Due to the restrictions placed upon it by higher authority, the Militia Bureau was forced to stop Federal recognition of new units, restrict recruitment, and reduce the number of armory drills, thus leaving a considerable unused balance of funds which was appropriated by the Congress for these specific purposes."

Gen. Rickards complained that present War Department policy of conducting examinations for general officers in the Guard only annually was "a real injustice" because it kept vacancies open for months and was not in harmony with the prompt promotion for regular officers. He also deplored other "injustices" to the guard development, and added:

"I do not wish to be understood as condemning the whole War Department policy as it relates to the National Guard, for I trust I am too liberal-minded to do that. As a result of my experience during one year as a member of the War Department General Staff, four years as Chief, Militia Bureau, and 43 years of continuous active National Guard service, I feel qualified to speak on this subject."

"There is much to praise and comparatively little to condemn. Jealousy, animosity and personal advancement must have no place in the great undertaking, which has won such hearty approval. I still urge strongly as ever the amendment of the law so as to provide that there shall be issued to federally-recognized National Guard officers commissions effective upon call or draft into the service of the United States without reference to appointment or commission in the Officers Reserve Corps."

"I respectfully recommend the advisability of abolishing the title of Chief, Militia Bureau, and instead to amend the law so as to make this officer an assistant secretary of war, with his duties specifically defined by law."

Gen. Rickards served as Chief of the Bureau for all but two days of the fiscal year covered by the report and signed the body of the document, which included his recommendation, at the request of his successor, the present chief, Maj. Gen. Conrad C. Hammond of the Oregon National Guard.

Gen. Hammond made no reference to his predecessor's conclusions in the brief word he added to the report, although he commented on "this wonderful work" done by Gen. Rickards as militia chief. The new chief's recommendations were confined to requests for modification of the non-recognition policy of the department as to new guard units, particularly in the case of air units for the four guard divisions still lacking in this respect, the Thirty-Second (Michigan and Wisconsin), the Thirty-Third (Illinois), the Twenty-Seventh (Ohio) and the Forty-Fourth (New York, New Jersey and Delaware.)

In connection with the need of the guard for increased appropriations, Gen. Hammond pointed out that many articles issued to the state troops formerly by the War Department from surplus war stocks, now must be charged against guard appropriations and that the "most gratifying" increase in appropriations for the guard merited an increase in appropriations for pay purposes.

STARTLING NEW EVIDENCE SHOWN IN BIG WILL CASE

Discomfiture Of Defendant In McArthur Hearing And A Hint At Sensational Disclosures Come Today

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 5.—(AP)—The startling disclosure that a nephew of George E. Rufferty, was a roomer at the Rafferty home here for at least two weeks prior to the death of Archibald McArthur, on June 13 last, and that this man left Jacksonville to go to California about a month ago today, was dropped like a bomb into the hearing of the contest of McArthur's will before County Judge John W. Duffose, Luther McArthur of McArthur, Calif., nephew, is leading in the fight by fourteen other relatives who seek to have the probate of the will revoked.

In the will Rafferty, of no kin to McArthur, was bequeathed the major portion of the estate estimated at $50,000 to $250,000 in value, while the relatives were left but $5 each. Rafferty too is administrator of the will's provisions. Charles MacArthur, associated with Herman Ulmer in the plaintiff's action brought the announcement from Rafferty while questioning him about a man named "Varrell." After further questioning, Rafferty, with some evident hesitancy, admitted that Varrell and James Stofer was one and the same man and that he was his nephew, and had roomed at his home at the time of McArthur's death, and had been there for about two weeks "while his wife was in Kentucky."

Spider Ropes, Hog Ties, Kills And Drags Away Mouse

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A vouchsafed story of a long battle between an ordinary kitchen spider and a half grown mouse, in which the spider won by tediously wrapping its strands around the mouse's tail, and eventually lifting it free of the floor into its web, has been added to the long list of nature's paradoxical tales, by the American nature association.

The story, made public today by the association, was based on a report made to it by Martin J. Arvin of Indiana, who said he first found the mouse caught in the spider's web behind a leg of his kitchen range. When he first saw it in the morning, the mouse was suspended with several strands around its tail, and was desperately scratching the floor with its fore feet. After futile attempt to draw the mouse from the floor by throwing a web larva around its neck, the spider took a position at the base of the mouse's tail, where the skin was tender, and "evidently" sunk its mandibles into the victim, which was noticed to flinch several times.

Returning home in the evening Arvin said he found the mouse, then dead, lifted into the web a full inch above the floor. Things remained undisturbed until the following morning, when the mouse had been raised one and three quarters inches.

Furs Are Dyed All Colors Now; Idea Is to Match It With Cloth

By VVVVVAH DONNER. FURS are now dyed all the colors of the rainbow. On suits, the fur is dyed to match the color of the cloth, rather than in contrast to it. Thus, a wine-colored suit would have wine-colored fur trimmings. A green suit would have green fur to match, etc.

In the evening wraps, however, they are running to such brilliant shades as scarlet and purple and yellow and orange.

The first wrap above shows a silver cloth, gathered model, trimmed in three bands of fur, dyed in three shades of orange, running from a deep burnt orange to a corn yellow-orange. This is particularly lovely coloring with silver cloth. The model at the bottom of the sketch shows a tailored brocaded coat of silver and green, trimmed in a flat fur collar of a bright jade green. A large silver flower adorns the lapel.

The evening wrap at the left shows that the hand-painted shawl is still the beautiful garment for decorative woman. Especially when fringed in heavy silk, and banded in heavy satin. The shawl above is in shades of deep greys and black, and damask. It is banded in black satin, and edged in black fringe, and looks very gorgeous on the beautiful Dolores Costello, who wears it picturesquely in the James Cruze production of "Manuelita" for Paramount. The shawl was painted and designed at the Paramount studio by Hayward Green.

Florida Is Designated As Separate Division Of The Regional Advisory Board

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 4. (AP)—Initial steps will be taken to effect an advisory board that will act as a medium of contact in the matter of car supply and service between the railroads and the shippers and allied branches when the organization committee appointed by R. Hudson Burr, chairman of the state railroad commission, convenes here on Saturday morning.

The name of the board when perfected will be the Florida Division, Southeastern Regional Advisory Board of the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association.

The regional board movement as a part of the American Railway Association has been organized throughout the United States, according to Commissioner Burr, chairman of the organization committee of the Florida division, and is one of the most important public interest in relation to the railroads that has ever been attempted.

Because of the unusual railroad demands in the state of Florida and the growing business in the state, Florida has been made a separate and distinct division by itself. This is the first state in the Union to be assigned as separate division and placed under a separate board.

When established the advisory board will endeavor to make a complete system of co-operation between all shippers, receivers, financial interests and business of each district and the railroads through the opening of certain channels of contact which properly express the obligations of all principals concerned.

"The establishment of the public organization is predicted upon the policy of the American Railway Association," says chairman. "This organization is composed of all the railroads of the United States and it is an expression of their obligation to function as a continental transportation machine."

"The car service division of the American Railway Association is responsible for the service and car supply performance in each district of the country. The original board represents a semi-official part of that organization. The movement has been endorsed by President Coolidge, the interstate commerce commission, the departments of commerce and agriculture and the state railroad commissions, the federal reserve board and all national trade and farm and industrial organizations of importance."

Leading traffic business, and public organization men and bankers of the state have been asked to serve on the organization committee. These include J.

Increased Interest In Local Farm Property Reported By Realty Firms

According to statements made by local realty dealers, an increasing interest is being shown in Sanford real estate by outsiders. Numerous inquiries are received daily from those who are beginning to hear of, and become interested in Sanford, it is said, and these inquiries are based upon a real desire to find a worth while locality, and are for the most part, from men of real worth, who are not seeking speculative investments as much as they are looking for sound business investments and homes for themselves, it is reported.

Charles D. Durkee of New York City, said to have recently sold his business, which was one of the largest in the country manufacturing and distributing marine hardware, has been quoted as saying, that he is more impressed with Sanford's possibilities for large and wholesome growth, than with any other locality in the state. He is said to consider Sanford's prospects of becoming a large inland port, especially bright.

Among other inquiries reported by local real estate men, were several from New York hotel and theater interests. The nature of these inquiries, in many cases, is such that the eventual investment here, of considerable New York Capital is very promising, it is said.

That the country at large is beginning to realize that Sanford is the celery center of the world, is said to be shown by the fact that

Brown goods, branded, have been revised in some cases to a parity with other lines and there has been considerable all lot trading done at confidential figures. Wash fabrics are still being bought in a conservative way, many of the converters having found trade especially slow. There has been wide sampling of fabrics but reports of sales have been small and few lines are shaping up as leaders.

Last month 10,000,000 pounds were sold for future delivery, cotton duck is moderately well sold with prices very close. Cotton blankets and part wool blankets made in cotton mills are selling for new goods but in many instances they have not been openly priced for the trade. Colored cottons are quiet.

Tennyson's Prophecy 83 Years Ago

For I dipped into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be;

Saw the heavens fill with commerce, argosies of magic sails,
Pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down with costly bales;

Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there rained a ghastly dew
From the nations' airy navies, grappling in the central blue;

Far along the world-wide whisper of the south-wind rushing warm,
With the standards of the peoples plunging through the thunderstorm;

Till the war drum throbbed no longer and the battle flags were furled,
In the parliament of man, the Federation of the World.

There the common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe,
And the kindly earth shall slumber, lapped in universal law.

DuBois. Lathrop McArthur of McArthur, Calif., nephew, is leading in the fight by fourteen other relatives who seek to have the probate of the will revoked.

In the will Rafferty, of no kin to McArthur, was bequeathed the major portion of the estate estimated at $50,000 to $250,000 in value, while the relatives were left but $5 each. Rafferty too is administrator of the will's provisions. Charles Muehison, associated with Herman Ulmer in the plaintiff's action brought the announcement from Rafferty while questioning him about a man named "Varrell." After further questioning, Rafferty, with some evident confusion, admitted that Varrell and James Stoffer was one and the same man and that he was his nephew, and had roomed at his home at the time of McArthur's death, and had been there for about two weeks "while his wife was in Kentucky."

Furs Are Dyed All Colors Now; Idea Is to Match It With Cloth

By VIVIAN DONNER
FURS are now dyed all the colors of the rainbow. On suits, the fur is dyed to match the color of the cloth, rather than in contrast to it. Thus, a wide colored suit would have wine-colored fur trimming. A green suit would have green fur to match, etc.
In the evening wraps, however, they are running to such brilliant shades as scarlet and purple and yellow and orange.
The first wrap above shows a silver cloth, gathered model, trimmed in three bands of fur, dyed in three shades of orange, running from a deep burnt orange to a corn yellow-orange. This is particularly lovely coloring with silver cloth.

Spider Ropes, Hog Ties, Kills And Drags Away Mouse

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A vouchsafed story of a long battle between an ordinary kitchen spider and a half grown mouse, in which the spider won by tightly wrapping its strands around the mouse's tail, and eventually lifting it free of the floor into its web, has been added to the long list of nature's paradoxical tales, by the American nature association.

The story, made public today by the association, was based on a report made to it by Martin J. Arvin of Indiana, who said he first found the mouse caught in the spider's web behind a leg of his kitchen range. When he first saw it in the morning, the mouse was suspended with several strands around its tail, and was desperately scraping the floor with its fore feet. After futile attempts to draw the mouse from the floor by throwing a web larva around its neck, the spider took a position at the base of the mouse's tail, where the skin was tender, and "evidently sunk its mandibles into the victim, which was noticed to flinch several times."
Returning home in the evening Arvin said he found the mouse, then dead, lifted into the web a full inch above the floor. Things remained undisturbed until the following morning, when the mouse had been raised one and three quarters inches.

Florida Is Designated As Separate Division Of The Regional Advisory Board

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 4. (AP)—Initial steps will be taken to effect an advisory board that will act as a medium of contact in the matter of car supply and service between the railroads and the shippers and allied branches when the organization committee appointed by R. Hudson Burr, chairman of the state railroad commission, convenes here on Saturday morning.

The name of the board when perfected will be the Florida Division, Southeastern Regional Advisory Board of the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association.

The regional board movement as a part of the American Railway Association has been organized throughout the United States, according to Commissioner Burr, chairman of the organization committee of the Florida division, and is one of the most important undertakings with regards of the public interest in relation to the railroads that has ever been attempted.

Because of the unusual railroad demands in the state of Florida and the growing business in the state, Florida has been made a separate and distinct division by itself. This is the first state in the Union to be assigned as separate division and placed under a separate board.

When established the advisory board will endeavor to make a complete system of co-operation between all shippers, receivers, financial interests and businesses of each district and the railroads through the opening of certain channels of contact which properly express the obligations of all principals concerned.

"The establishment of the public organization is predicted upon the policy of the American Railway Association," says chairman. "This organization is composed of all the railroads of the United States and it is an expression of their obligation to function as a continental transportation machine."

"The car service division of the American Railway Association is responsible for the service and car supply performance in each district of the country. The original board represents a semi-official part of that organization. The movement has been endorsed by President Coolidge, the interstate commerce commission, the departments of commerce and agriculture and the state railroad commissions, the federal reserve board and all national trade and industrial organizations of importance."

Leading traffic business, and public organization men and bankers of the state have been asked to serve on the organization committee. These include J.

It was said that the traffic and transportation committee is responsible for securing the permits and locating the cars in which most of the hotel's kitchen equipment was shipped, enabling the owners to save possible delay of several weeks in the opening of the hotel.

Some idea of the problems the city has to face was gathered by those present when Mayor Lake stated that during the past two months the city had sold more gas than during the previous 12 months.

Copies of advertising depicting the advantages of the City, to be published throughout the State, were passed among the members. These advertisements are to be added to the campaign which has been under way for some time past. Secretary R. W. Penman stated that hundreds of inquiries, from all sections of the country, are being received by the Chamber of Commerce, as a result of this campaign.

Increased Interest In Local Farm Property Reported By Realty Firms

According to statements made by local realty dealers, an increasing interest is being shown in Sanford real estate by outsiders. Numerous inquiries are received daily from those who are beginning to hear of, and become interested in Sanford, it is said, and these inquiries are based upon a real desire to find a worth while locality, and are for the most part, from men of real worth, who are not seeking speculative investments as much as they are looking for sound business investments and homes for themselves, it is reported.

Charles D. Durkee of New York City, said to have recently sold his business, which was one of the largest in the country manufacturing and distributing marine hardware, has been quoted as saying, that he is more impressed with Sanford's possibilities for large and wholesome growth, than with any other locality in the state. He is said to consider Sanford's prospects of becoming a large inland port, especially bright.

Among other inquiries reported by local real estate men, were several from New York hotel and theater interests. The nature of these inquiries, in many cases is such that the eventual investment here, of considerable New York Capital is very promising, it is said.

That the country at large is beginning to realize that Sanford is the celery center of the world, is said to be shown by the fact that

Five Tons of Steel Take a Ride

An ordinary still at Arkansas City, Kas., blew up the other day and buried three men to death. The force of the explosion was so great that this five-ton chunk of steel on top of the still was thrown a quarter of a mile through the air, bouncing fifty feet after it struck the ground.

Tennyson's Prophecy 83 Years Ago

For I dipped into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonder that would be;

Saw the heavens fill with commerce, argosies of magic sails,
Pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down with costly bales;

Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there rained a ghastly dew
From the nations' airy navies grappling in the central blue;

Far along the world-wide whisper of the south-wind rushing warm,
With the standards of the peoples plunging through the thunderstorm;

Till the war drum throbbed no longer and the battle flags were furled,
In the parliament of man, the Federation of the World.

There the common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe,
And the kindly earth shall slumber, lapped in universal law.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Briak bidding for the motor shares imparted a firm tone to steel prices at today's opening although the market was forced to contend with scattered profit taking. Again Location Counts

Once again Sanford's strategical location makes itself of great value. Its transportation facilities, its railroad tonnage, its storing equipment all have had much to do with the continuation of the building program.

According to figures recently given, construction in November made a two hundred per cent increase over the same month of last year. Sixteen hundred thousand dollars worth of construction work has been carried on in Sanford so far this year as compared with less than six hundred thousand dollars worth of building activity in 1924.

It is interesting to compare the record Sanford has made with that of other Florida cities, known for their progressiveness and rapid growth. In October Miami did ten million dollars worth of building, but this amount was cut in half in November. St. Petersburg showed a decrease in November of five hundred thousand dollars. Tampa a like amount. Orlando's construction decreased two hundred and thirty thousand dollars, and Fort Lauderdale two hundred and sixty five thousand dollars. Sarasota cut its building by nine hundred thousand dollars. But still Sanford showed a great gain in the same month.

The reason given for the general slump throughout the state is the inbound freight embargo. Millions of dollars' worth of building materials, consigned to Florida points have been held up by the traffic jam, and this largely accounts for the decrease of approximately ten million dollars in construction work in thirty days' time.

Fortunately for Sanford, its record-breaking building program continued throughout last month. Many new homes were started in addition to work on several apartment houses. In every section of the city there are evidences of rapid growth while the expansion of the business district continues.

So far Sanford has not suffered to any great extent from the freight congestion, which has caused a general tie-up in rail facilities. Sanford with its fine water transportation and by virtue of the co-operation that it has given the railroad in unloading shipments, has not been seriously affected and has continued its march of progress while other Florida cities have found it necessary to stop construction on a large scale.

Location again makes Sanford. Few places are able to boast of the good fortune that has been found here. Sanford has been one of a very few places where it has been unnecessary to curtail construction activities.

Beware The Forger

Not very long ago a salesman in a real estate office forged a check for one thousand dollars, and got away with it. He stole one of the blank checks of his employer and cleverly copied the necessary signature which made it possible for him to easily secure the money he wanted. Then he left town and as far as we know he has not been heard from since. His employer is out the thousand dollars.

Florida stands near the top of the list in the number of forged checks that are passed. Swindlers make it a point to pick prosperous sections in which to do their work and this largely accounts for the great numbers of crooked deals that are pulled in our state. Confidence men, wire tappers and forgers usually work hand in hand and frequently are found operating close to home.

It might be advisable for Sanford people to exercise every possible precaution in order to protect themselves during this winter from the forger and the clever check manipulator. The banks are ever vigilant for safeguard the interests of their depositors; however, the following suggestions, if observed might avoid an unpleasant experience.

Look up your blank checks and cancelled vouchers. Use some method of check-protection recommended by your banker. Start writing the amount of the check as close as possible to the left hand margin, drawing heavy black lines through the unfilled space-leave only a minimum of space between figures.

Destroy all checks that you spoil in writing. Never issue checks to uninvolved or strangers or make them payable to "cash" or to "bearer". Don't sign blank checks.

A little precaution, and the exercise of care, which soon becomes routine may save you a great deal of trouble as well as hard-earned money.

Co-operating With The Merchants

December is a busy month in the lives of the merchants. In their desire to supply the demand of their customers and to render satisfactory service to all, the matter of collecting back accounts is lost sight of.

The Herald believes a suggestion to the people who owe money, that they pay their bills, will result in greater co-operation being shown between merchants and customers. It would be conferring a favor on the business houses, as well as bettering one's own credit standing, if those carrying accounts would see that they are settled before starting the Christmas buying.

At tremendous expense, the stores of the city have put in extra heavy stocks in order to meet the requirements of all their friends. To carry great varieties of merchandise requires much financing and the paying of many thousands of dollars, and often, due to slowness of collections, merchants experience difficulty in making the necessary financial arrangements.

There are a good many persons in Sanford whose trade is valuable to the merchants and who have unlimited and unquestioned credit. But sometimes these same people take an unfair advantage of this by allowing their accounts to run month after month due to negligence on their part and as a result, the merchant suffers. This customer whose credit rating will not permit more than thirty days' credit, is the better and more desirable customer.

It would be a fine thing if those people in Sanford who are prosperous, and that means everyone, will make it a point to square their accounts promptly this month and by so doing co-operate with their friends, the store-keepers.

Sit down now and write a check so that your account will be a more pleasing sight to the merchant.

Compounding Felony Books Too Dear 2 Jobs for Ford A Rabbit Shoos By ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1925)

THERE ARE laws against compounding a felony. If a man steals your money, and if you pay him to bring it back, promising to say nothing about it, you are guilty of a crime.

Financial institutions, however, and concerns that issue insurance against loss by theft, forgery, etc., as well as a regular business of compounding felonies.

IN NEW YORK recently, a young criminal named Pire stole $250 from a bank. The bank allowed him to go free, on his promise to pay in installments. That was compounding a felony, as well as committing a crime.

During his freedom this young man killed another boy named Nye.

JUST AS a public service the mother who ought to sue the bank that compounded the murderer's felony. If the bank hadn't committed the crime of compounding that felony the murderer would have been in jail and his victim would not have been killed.

Winston Churchill says books cost too much. "Too much is putting it mildly. A reader pays $2 for a book that can be manufactured for 20 cents, and for a really good book, such as 'The Golden Bough,' now published in two volumes, he pays $10 or more for what can be produced for $1.

WHEN HE gets around to it Henry Ford ought to start a book publishing business, an show publishers how to make money without charging ten times what a book costs.

When would Ford be with his automobiles if he had charged $3,000 for a runabout?

IF YOU have an inventive mind, Mr. New, the postmaster general, would like you to invent a flying machine for carrying mail that will not get all moist, turning to ice, landing when the machine in the cold upper air.

MR. MAYO, Henry Ford's chief engineer, should settle that problem. The best way now, all the exhaust of the Henry Ford all-metal monoplane might be used to keep outer layers of metal free of ice.

IT WAS Among Cummings on the New York boat in Charles A. Dana's time, who said, "if a man bites a dog that is news."

In Alsace a rabbit has just shot a man, and that also is news. A De Mouchy, a farmer, had his gun on the ground to take a rabbit from the trap. Another rabbit, dashing from the bushes, stepped on the trigger and De Mouchy crawled home with a bullet hole shot in his back. He that would interest the rabbits of the world. But they can't read.

THANKS TO Locarno, western Europe thinks peace has come, and the question of what will western Europe do with the people? The first thing should be to cut the cost of keeping for war—since war is not expected?

FRANCE COULD take half a million men of the public payroll and put them to work at useful production, instead of marching around in clothes paid for by the people, eating food paid for by the people.

POLAND ALSO could get rid of a few hundred thousand soldiers fed by the workers. But Poland has Russia to worry about and Russia is no partner to the Locarno treaty.

THE FRENCH worry little about anything except aircraft attack. In spite of the fact that they have a fighting air fleet, three times bigger than any other in the world, they still think and write about an attack on Paris through the air.

The French are intelligent. And when they consider aircraft matters, by the way, they get somebody that understands flying and war, not a "big butter and egg man" to direct the proceedings.

ENGLAND PUTS up the bank rate, making money expensive, in order to stop the flow of gold to foreign countries. Imitating British finance as we do British tailors, will our Federal reserve advance rates here also for no particular reason?

There is certainly plenty of gold in this country, and excepting money lenders, no one will be helped by making money dear for American business men.

DAN DOBBS SAYS:

Everything has its use. If there were no burglars no thief would get lost under the bed.

Nothing discourages a father more than having a son who does the things he did when he was young.

They dug up a mustard tusk near Minto, N. C. Wonder what kind of tooth paste the animal used.

THE TEXAS INCIDENT

TAMPA TIMES

Self-government would be worth while because it is so interesting, if for no other reason, and one of its most diverting developments in a long time is the fascinating Texas incident.

All engaging possibilities of that incident were supposed to have been exhausted when James E. Ferguson was impeached, removed from the office of governor of Texas and subjected to heavy citizenship disabilities and, worse, having in the meantime come to the women of America, his wedded wife, Miriam, was elected to the same office six years later in 1924. After that came a minor debt adjustment and a small part of the obligation owed collectively by women of the country to the men for sharing suffering with them was repaid when the influence of Mrs. Ferguson, not only eligible to office but in actual possession of one, concealed the legal ineligibilities imposed on Mr. Ferguson.

It must not be expected, however, that with immersion in the many details of governing a state as big as Texas, all else that follows in the executive chambers in Austin must necessarily be in the nature of an anti-climax. The climax of climaxes is, in fact, now planned in a movement to impeach "Ma" Ferguson as well as Mrs. Ferguson, possibly starting an endless chain of elections, impeachments, disability removals an elections against and more impeachments.

Nor is Governor Ma by herself in believing that these things should be told the legislature. Mrs. Edith E. Williams, of Dallas, is an avowed candidate for the governorship of Texas, to succeed the present governor. She is willing enough to herself take Mrs. Ferguson's job away from her, in an orderly way through the good old American process of balloting. But she is by no means sympathetic with others taking it away by process of impeachment. She has sent Ma a message of greeting in which she said: "Don't let them bluff you. Moody hasn't fooled the public." There was scarcely any need of advising the governor of Texas not to stand for a bluff. She has abundantly evidenced that she is not of that sort. As to Moody's having fooled the public the truth probably is that he has fooled that portion of it which wants to be fooled by him and he is called to fool the portion which doesn't. It is plain enough that Mrs. Williams is of the latter class.

And so the fight goes on. The only thing that appears really certain in respect to the situation is that Texas didn't choose a governor when she elected Miriam A. Ferguson her governor.

Like most other Florida cities, Tampa has lost much of its chief charm, many of the beautiful trees along the city streets, cut down in order to widen the highways. In some cases, but not all, it was a necessary evil. The only way to make up for the great loss is to plant more trees.

Next month, January, with general accord has been set apart as the month in which a great tree-planting effort will be made. Many counties have set their goal at 25,000 trees, to be planted for highway and parkway ornamentation. The goal can be reached if every community has beautification committees leading the movement.

Joyce Kilmer's famous poem might be paraphrased to say: "My fool can widen street paving, but only God can make a tree. But it also takes human assistance to set out new trees where they are wanted.

Karl Lehmann, Orlando, is chairman of the beautification committee for the State Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Jack Pryor, Haines City, is chairman of the committee of the State Federation of Women's Clubs; Ora E. Chapin, Fort Myers, is executive vice-president of the Tamiami Trail Association.
