

Armed Man Takes Over Warehouse

A shotgun-armed middle aged man threatening to kill himself if he couldn't have his stored furniture released entered Adams Transfer and Storage, Holly Avenue, Sanford, at about 10:45 a.m. today. Some storage company employees fled and others were ushered out by Sanford police after they arrived at the scene.

Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett said the gunman was alone in the building at about 11 a.m. Police, who had surrounded the building and cordoned off a four block area, were trying to establish telephone contact with the man identified only as "John."

The man was not answering the phone and police were talking to him through a bullhorn, but he was not responding.

The man, described as in his mid to upper 60s, reportedly moved here and his family from upstate New York State to Sanford in August and owes the storage company $10,000 in furniture storage fees. His furniture, according to a warehouse employee, is to be auctioned off Saturday.

He was in and out of the office the past few days trying to get his furniture out of storage but was unable to pay the storage bill, an Adams employee said.

This morning the man came to the office with a shotgun and demanded his furniture, the employee said. However, he allowed company employees to leave the building. The employee said the man did not threaten to hurt employees, but threatened to commit suicide if the furniture was not released.

Police said the man refused to talk to police by phone and asked that a note stating the company would not auction off his furniture Saturday be signed and delivered to his attorney in DeLand.

Guilty Verdict Can Bring Death Sentence

Murder Trial Jury Deliberates

By Richard Whitaker
Herald Staff Writer

The case of the Winter Park man accused of killing his co-worker last May is expected to go before a 12-member jury in Seminole County today with the possibility of the death penalty being invoked if the defendant is convicted.

Attorneys for both the state and defense rested their cases and made closing arguments in the first degree murder trial of Sammy Lee Brown Wednesday afternoon.

Brown allegedly shot Willie Lou Banks to death with a .357 caliber revolver on May 15, during an argument over a small bag of marijuana.

During his testimony Wednesday, Brown admitted to shooting Banks three times, but said he did it in self-defense because the man was trying to attack him.

While the state contends the motive for the killing was Brown's anger at Banks for taking a "nickel bag" of marijuana from him, Brown claims the fight was due to a debt he owed Banks over gas money.

Assistant State's Attorney Stephen Igou argued in his closing remarks that witnesses testified allegedly Brown made statements claiming he was going to kill Banks if he didn't "get his stuff back."

Banks was hit by three slugs from the gun. Seminole County Coroner Dr. G.V. Garay testified Banks was killed by a bullet wound to the head. He said the other shots hit Banks in the side and across the thighs.

Igou told the jury Brown's co-workers had no reason to lie about the facts in the case. "I didn't exactly unleash the faculty of Harvard on you," Igou told the jury in discussing the merits of the witnesses, adding, "They're plain and hard working people, who'd probably rather be at work

Sharing Center To Close Doors

Action Effective New Year's Day

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer
Part 1 of 2 part series

The Sanford Christian Sharing Center will temporarily suspend operations for an indefinite period as of Jan. 1, 1988 but it's not for lack of business. With colder weather and the arrival of the migrants the news couldn't have come at a worse time.

During the past two weeks, the center has provided help for as many as 60 people a week and could have helped many more if the resources had been available.

The Rev. Richard Danielak, president of the sharing center board and co-pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Sanford, said members of the board were polled by phone and agreed on the action. He said he was able to contact 15 of the 18 or 19 supporting churches represented on the board.

Meanwhile, the need for donations of food, money and men's, infants' and children's clothing is greater than ever, according to sharing center director Jean Helch. She said because of shortage of funds it has been necessary to cut back on such things as paying for prescriptions, formula for newborns and gas money for men to get to their jobsites.

Danielak said board members contacted all agreed it is in the best interests of the center to suspend operations temporarily, but they wanted to wait until the first of the year because the need is so great and this is the time of year people want to help the needy.

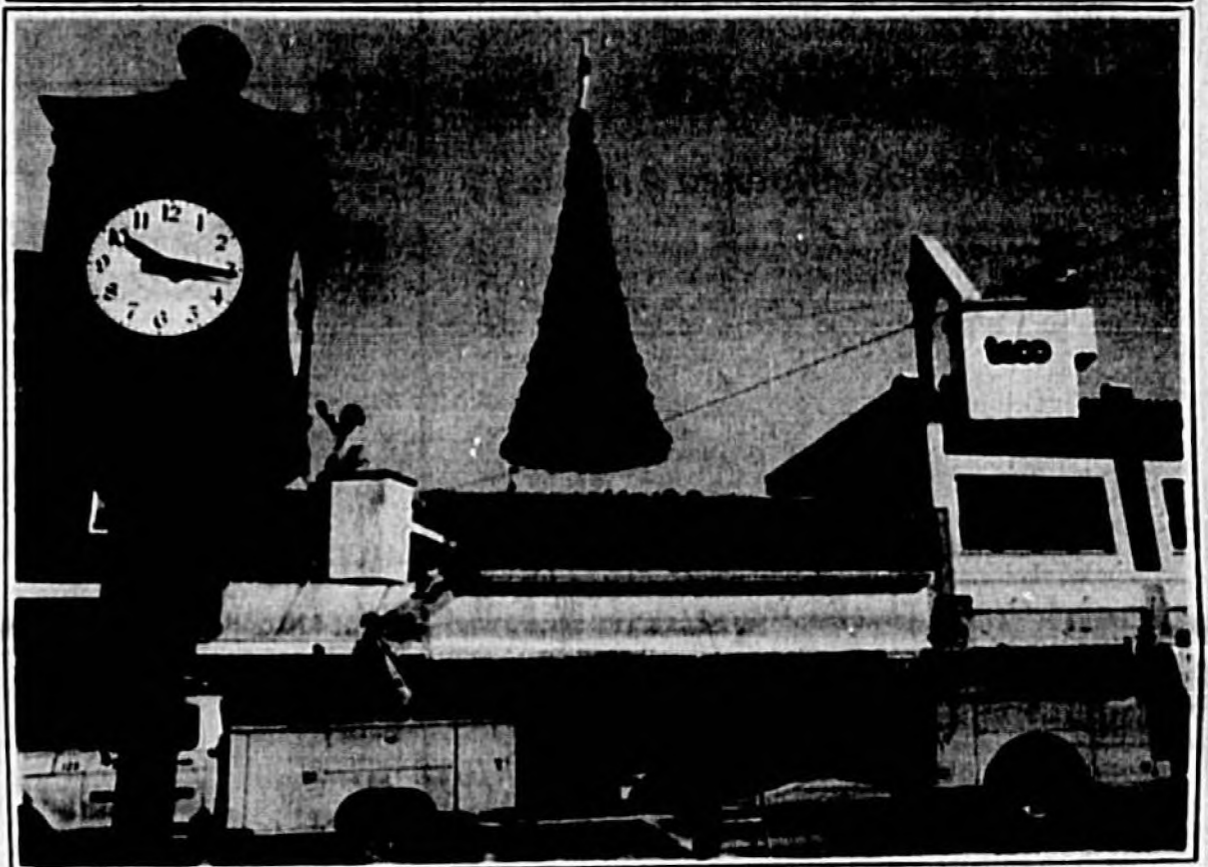

"We want to take inventory," he explained, "rather than do things piece meal we are suspending operation so that we can look at the whole situation. We will reorganize in a different location, but still under the Sanford Christian Sharing Center name."

Danielak said, "It is not a question of mismanagement, but just as any business does from time to time, we are taking inventory and regrouping our services."

He said, "Jean Helch, a retired social worker who worked as the director of the center for

More Than 200 Sign Tuskawilla Petition

Students, Parents Protest School Resource Officer's Transfer

By Brian Hedberg
Herald Staff Writer

More than 200 students and parents from the Tuskawilla Middle School have signed a petition protesting the transfer of school resource officer Jan Kloth to South Seminole Middle School.

Gene Brewer, principal of the school, transferred Kloth, a deputy with the Seminole County Sheriff's Department because of "problems" between them, problems which Brewer refused to specify.

Several parents have called Kloth a major asset to the school and said she has been a great help to the school's students.

The petition with the 200-plus names protesting the move was given to Kloth's supervisor, Lt. Jerry Riggins, after her transfer three weeks ago.

"We had internal problems that we worked on for a while," Brewer said. "We couldn't resolve them to the satisfaction of either party." Brewer would not say the source of conflict which resulted in Kloth's transfer.

"He felt that he could no longer work with her effectively," Riggins said of Brewer. "It was probably a personality conflict or something like that. But as far as he's concerned, and the sheriff's department is concerned, she was doing a good job. She would go to the ends of the earth to resolve a matter."

Duties of an SRO include patrolling school grounds; counseling; chaperoning school functions and field trips; watching over students after school; and presenting educational programs on peer pressure, domestic violence, alcohol, drugs, safety, law enforcement, and other topics.

"I've gotten no less than 25 calls from very concerned parents," Riggins said, adding that he's received about eight letters of support for Kloth. "I had to tell them, 'It's a matter between Mr. Brewer and Jan.' The sheriff (John Polk) was surprised to see the overwhelming support for Jan. So was I."

Elaine Singleton of Matland said she telephoned Brewer. "He told me it was an internal matter and that he had handled it, but he gave me no reason."

"My child was very, very upset and crushed about it," Singleton said of Kloth's transfer. "I think she felt closer to her than to anyone else at the school."

"We're all very much upset," said Barbara Combes of Winter Park. "The hardest thing about this is that Jan was not there for Brewer; she was there for the kids, and they all liked, respected and miss her."

Kloth was not able to comment on her transfer since all comments from employees of the sheriff's department must be cleared through Riggins or the public information officer.

"It's a problem like any other personnel problem you have," Brewer said. "I think there are some people who, for personal reasons, are blowing this thing out of proportion. When you make a hard decision, you sometimes upset people."

Singleton felt that a link between students and authorities has been severed. "It takes a long time to develop a rapport with children where they are willing to go to a deputy. In particular, and tell her trouble that's going on," she said. "I think it's a shame that as long as the kids were getting along fine, she had to be moved."

Kloth had been a school resource officer at Tuskawilla for 3 years. Brewer has been principal at Tuskawilla Middle since June 1986.

The SRO works full-time at his/her assigned school. Every high school in the county has an SRO. Every middle school except Greenwood Lakes and now, Tuskawilla has one.

Sanford P&Z Slated To Hear Drug Halfway House Plans

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

The Grove House, a drug rehabilitation center headquartered in Winter Springs, wants to establish a halfway house in Sanford. Initial steps will be taken at the Planning and Zoning Commission meeting today at 7 p.m., in the City Commission chambers on first floor of the city building.

A public hearing will be held on that matter to consider a request for a conditional use in the special commercial (SC-3) zone. The proposed facility, according to Bettie Sonnenberg, zoning and arbor inspector, would be located at 206 Elm Ave. and would serve as living quarters for those persons who have already completed intensive drug rehabilitation, but want to continue living in a more stabilized environment before they go out on their own.

The conditional use request is for minimal residential use as described in Chapter 10E3 of the Florida Statute--Adult Congregate Living Facility.

Owners of the property are William and Geraldine Mayhood, and they will be represented before the commission by Morris Kelly.

Two other public hearings will be held and three site plans will be considered at the meeting.

A hearing will also be held to consider a request to rezone property at 705 S. Airport Blvd. from agricultural (AD) to medium industrial (MI-2) for the purpose of industrial manufacturing offices. George Martin is the owner, and he will be represented by Bob Selgler.

The other public hearing will be to consider a request to rezone property at 1118 Park Ave. from single family residential (SR-1) to restricted commercial (RC-1) for the purpose of selling or leasing professional offices. The owner and representative is Joseph W. Casso.

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Sister Orders Brother's Arrest On Burglary Charge

When Aarithia Gainer, of 1204 W. 11th St., Sanford, returned from vacation Tuesday and found that her brother had allegedly stolen a television, a video recorder and a bicycle from her home, she asked Sanford police, who were already investigating the case, to arrest him.

Michael Anthony Kennedy, 30, of the same address, who on Nov. 28 had reported to Sanford police that his sister's home had been burglarized, and who eventually allegedly admitted he had taken some items from the home, was arrested at the police station at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Police had questioned Kennedy a couple of times about the case, but were waiting to arrest him. Police had hoped Kennedy, as he promised, might lead them to another suspect involved in the incident.

But when Gainer arrived home and learned about the incident she asked that Kennedy be arrested.

Kennedy has been charged with burglary, grand theft and filing a false report with police. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Man Arrested For Bottle Assault

A 56-year-old Sanford man who allegedly hit Dorothy Dolotts in the face with a bottle at their home at about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, has been arrested by Sanford police on a charge of aggravated battery.

Dolotts was treated for facial cuts. Jafus Lee Hooks, of 1913 W. 15th St., was arrested at home, where the incident occurred. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Two Arrested On Pot Charge

City County Investigative Bureau agents with a warrant searched a home at #11 Elm Ave., Sanford, at about 8:40 p.m. Tuesday and arrested two persons after more than 20 grams of marijuana were found in the residence.

Michael Robert Rice, 22, and Sandra Marie Miller, 23, of the above address, have been charged with possession of over 20 grams of marijuana and possession with intent to distribute marijuana. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond and she has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Dec. 21.

Driving Under Influence Arrests

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Kurt R. Hagenbucher, 21, of Orlando, was arrested at 10:07 p.m. Tuesday after his car was in an accident on Interstate 4 at State Road 46, west of Sanford. He was also charged with careless driving and speeding too fast for conditions.

—Philip Alan Hopick, 22, of 2000 Lake Mary Blvd., #134-E, Lake Mary, at 2:49 a.m. Wednesday after he was found slumped in his car with the engine running at 3853 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford. He was also charged with having unsafe vehicle equipment — bad rear tires.

—Austin Irvin, 57, of Daytona Beach, at 3:10 p.m. Tuesday after his car was in an accident on State Road 434 near Longwood.

Burglaries, Thefts Reported

A $475 television and a $280 video recorder were stolen Tuesday from the home of Laura L. Scarsdale, 26, of 119 Mobile Drive, Altamonte Springs, a sheriff's report said.

● Two gold bracelets, one valued at $2,700 and the other at $120, were stolen between Nov. 8 and 15, from the home of Ronnee Olson, 43, of 704 Fox Valley Drive, Longwood, according to a report she filed with sheriff's deputies Tuesday.

● Diane M. Broysiewicz, 31, of 173 Alhambra Drive, Altamonte Springs, could only give sheriff's deputies the first name of a man from Miami whom she alleged stole her 1978 Chevrolet valued at $2,000 Tuesday after he was a guest at her home for two weeks.

● About $1,000 worth of jewelry was reported to sheriff's deputies as stolen Nov. 29 from the home of Olivia Pilcher, of 2700 Ridgewood Ave., Sanford.

Police Investigating Two Thefts At Same Apartment

A Sanford man's apartment has been burglarized twice within two days, according to Sanford City Police.

Neil Browne, 31 of 401 W. Seminole Blvd. (Sailpointe Apts. #239) told police that Tuesday between 12:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. someone entered his apartment and took the speakers and turntable from his stereo equipment and that in his kitchen they also removed a bracket which had supported an under-the-counter microwave oven. They didn't take the microwave. He was at work during those hours and had loaned the key to his apartment to a friend.

Police can not say the two incidents are related, but reports show that Monday while he was napping, Browne left his door unlocked, expecting the same friend to come by to whom he later loaned his keys Tuesday, Monday while he was napping, someone entered his apartment and took an AM/FM radio receiver, an engagement ring, and a minolta camera, total value estimated at $800.

Police are continuing their investigation.

● In another burglary now under investigation, a 19" color TV set, a VCR and a telephone, were taken from the 1401 W. 7th St. residence of Ophelia Evelyn Clayton. The total value of the items is $850. The incident happened between 12:10 p.m. and 10:10 p.m. Tuesday.

According to the report, the suspect apparently entered and exited the house through a bedroom window.

Attempt To Organize County Employees

Union Election Petition Withdrawn

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

A hearing scheduled for Wednesday in Tallahassee to determine whether enough Seminole County employees had signed a request in order to schedule a union election, was cancelled by the organizer of the unionization effort.

Elmer Sevor, business agent for the International Union of Operating Engineers, withdrew a petition for a union election which was filed with the state Public Employee Relations Commission. The commission had scheduled a hearing to determine if the required 30 percent of eligible employees had signed petition cards.

Sevor, who has claimed he has enough signatures to hold an election, said he wants more time to gather support for the union and to hold off setting an election date until he thinks an election is "winnable."

However, David Kornreich, the county's labor attorney, and County Administrator Ken Hooper, see the petition withdrawal as a victory for them.

Kornreich said the withdrawal is a clear indication that the union does not have the required number of signatures to hold an election. "There are about 230 eligible employees in the departments they were attempting to organize, which would require about 70 signed cards and they only had about 40," he said.

Kornreich said the signatures were concentrated in the roads department, where about 50 percent of the employees signed cards. He said the majority of the "real and imagined grievances, and there are both," were concentrated in the roads department.

He said there were only two or three cards from employees in the environmental and parks department.

He said just over 50 signed cards were presented to the commission, but several were rejected because the signers are no longer county employees.

The county challenged another 10 or 12 cards, Kornreich said, because there were doubts about whether they were signed and dated personally, as required by law. He said some of the signatures and dates were written on the cards in different color ink.

The union is attempting to organize employees of the roads, refuse disposal, utilities, and fleet maintenance departments.

Some employees in those departments have claimed lower level employees have not been treated fairly in appeals of disciplinary actions, and that managers have used favoritism in handing out promotions and raises.

Hooper has formed a committee to review employee benefits and said employees will have an opportunity to meet with management in small groups to discuss complaints and improvements in working conditions.

The signatures are good for a year from the date they are signed, Kornreich said. Since some were signed four or five months ago, the union has about another seven months to gather the number of signatures required, and then must file another petition with the PERC for a hearing. Kornreich said he does not expect another petition to be filed.

Six Defendants Make First Appearance

The following persons made their first appearance before a Seminole County Judge at the Seminole County jail after being recently arrested in this county. They include:

—Brenda Jean Exantus, 28, 1713 Southwest Road, Sanford, was arrested on Nov. 30, and charged with criminal conspiracy, and sale of a controlled substance. A trial for Exantus has been set for Dec. 9, at 9 a.m. Exantus' bond was set at $500.

—James Henry Wearen, 38,

2007 W. 13th St., Sanford, was arrested on Nov. 30, and charged with battery, and possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell. Arraignment hearings have been set for Wearen on Dec. 7 and 9, both at 9 a.m. Wearen's bond totals $2,300.

—Randy Bruce Enslin, 22, 214 Lake Ellen Drive, Casselberry, was arrested on Nov. 27, and charged with two counts of burglary. Arraignment hearings have been set for Enslin on Dec.

7 and 21, both at 9 a.m. Enslin's bond amounts to $6,000.

—Harry Lee Harvey, 24, 1008 W. 12th St., Sanford, was arrested on Nov. 6, and charged with possession of a controlled substance. A motion was made to set an advance preliminary hearing in Harvey's case. Harvey's bond was set at $1,000.

—Steven Eugene Argo, 34, was arrested on Nov. 19, and charged with battery and petty theft. A public defender is being assigned to his case before his plea. Argo's bond was set at $500.

—Vanester Frison Jr., 19, 47 Lake Monroe Terrace, Sanford, was arrested on Nov. 30, and charged with attempted murder, use of a firearm in a felony, grand theft auto, and criminal mischief. An arraignment hearing for Frison has been set for Dec. 21, at 9 a.m. Frison is being held held without bond.

Cool Of The Night Makes Days Bright

By Fred H. Cooper
Herald Staff Writer

Yep, that was cold breath coming from your mouth this morning. Looks like smoke, doesn't it. But it's not warm air, it's cold. You can say, "Baby, it's cold outside." Actually, it isn't real bad. Cool down to the mid-40s early today but kept warming up and will hit close to 70 degrees before the day is over.

More tonight. Going to go down into the 40s again, then bounce back to about 70 tomorrow. Ditto Saturday and Sunday. Probably into the 70s this week-end. There's always a chance for rain, but the odds are against it until Monday, probably.

Maybe the cool air has deterred the vast hordes of volunteers and volunteers for the cross Lake Monroe swim. Have gotten just one so far. However, with the one, planning can begin for the festivities on shore to accompany the body launching for the approximately 5 miles of water to be traversed. Drop a note to the Herald if you want to join the fun - either on shore or off shore dog-paddling. Remember, the reputation of Sanford is at stake, and you have the opportunity to become a legend in your own time.

By the way, note these cool nights bring clear skies. You can look up and see all kinds of things up there - stars, moons, airplane lights, ufo's...UFO's. Yes, that's what's happening. Folks over on the West Coast at Gold Breeze claim to have pictures. And the weekly newspaper there is printing the pictures.

Duane Cook, editor and publisher, said six residents called the paper after seeing the story and described similar sightings. Their accounts were published Nov. 25.

One man said he saw the morning of Nov. 11 trailed by two jets. Another resident said she saw the object that evening.

"I find it interesting because it is a fairly clear photograph and there were several independent witnesses that claimed to see the same thing," said Don M. Ware of Fort Walton Beach, a retired Air Force pilot who is a member of an organization that investigates UFO sightings.

Folks up in Washington have been giving some thought to the plight of Lake Okeechobee. At least in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The House approved plans Wednesday to develop a management model, at a cost of nearly $7.5 million, for the control of pollutants in Lake Okeechobee and its surrounding ecosystem.

"This is one more step toward developing a management system for the lake and its ecosystem," said co-sponsor Rep. Tom Lewis, R-North Palm Beach. "The ultimate goal is to protect the quality of life in South Florida."

The bill, which includes up to $7.5 million for the Okeechobee project authorizes the Environmental Protection Agency to develop a national ground water program and, working with the Army Corps of Engineers, to develop a management model system involving surface and ground water quality and the management and control of aquatic plants.

Snow squalls over the Great Lakes spread inland across the Northeast today, while the second major storm in three days pounded the Northwest with a combination of high winds, rain and snow in the mountains.

The high temperature reading in Sanford Wednesday was 64 degrees and the overnight low was 42 as reported by the University of Florida Agricultural and Education, Celery Avenue. There was no recorded rainfall. Fair skies with cooler temperatures today.

Area Readings

Today sunny with the high 67 to 70. Wind northwest around 10 mph. Tonight fair and cold. Low in the low to mid 40s. Wind west around 10 mph. Friday partly sunny breezy and cool. High in the upper 60s to lower 70s. Wind becoming northwest 15 to 20 mph and gusty.

Extended Forecast

The extended forecast, Thursday through Sunday, Florida except northwest - Generally fair and cool through the weekend then partly cloudy and a little warmer Monday. Youth Committee Goal: More Sanford Neighborhood Centers

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

The establishment of neighborhood community centers will be a project the Sanford Youth Advisory Committee will be encouraging more actively, committee members decided Tuesday evening, in discussions of how to update the committee's master plan.

Jim Jernigan, Sanford Parks and Recreation director, noted that in the master plan devised after the committee was formed in 1985, the youth advisors at that time recommended to the city that strategic locations throughout Sanford be selected for youth activity centers.

While two youth centers already exist, the Westside Recreation Center and the Youth Wing at the Sanford Civic Center, other areas of the city provide no facilities for youth.

"Until we reach out and provide a good program in our own communities, kids will continue to go to Five Points," said committee member Bob Lundquist. (Five Points is an area outside of Sanford, in the Lake Mary area, where U.S. Highway 17-92 intersects with four county roads.)

YAC members further developed the concept of neighborhood community centers during their discussion Tuesday concerning the possibility of the city having several competitive sports teams headquartered in the centers, Jernigan said. "Today parents don't have time to take off work and go take their kids someplace at 3 o'clock. But with all these neighborhood centers, a kid can get there himself."

Jernigan also pointed out that the committee's master plan recommended that the city enter into an agreement with the Seminole County School Board to open a gymnasium for after school use. That goal has been met, he said.

The Crooms School now makes its gym available after school hours. In addition, two other schools, Pinecreek and Hamilton, allow various after school activities for youths needing a place to go between the time school is out and the time parents get home from work, Jernigan said.

The recreation director also explained that the Youth Advisor committee wants to get senior citizens involved in city recreation programs, perhaps by integrating senior and youth activities. One way would be to let senior citizens act as volunteer supervisors in some of the youth activities.

Nancy Terwilliger, committee member and a student at Seminole High School, reminded other committee members that activities must be available at any neighborhood youth center, and Valencia Wells, another member and student at Seminole High School, suggested an additional building at some central point, similar to a YMCA, with an olympic size swimming pool.

Jernigan advised the committee that the city's proposed comprehensive plan for growth and development contains an outline for a massive sports facility.

In other business at Tuesday's meeting, Tom Whigham was voted onto the committee to replace Christina Martin, who had to resign due to job conflicts.

Also Jernigan showed slides of the recent dedication of Woodmere Park, and the Golden Age Games, held in Sanford in November.

It's Still A Bad Idea

Like the proverbial bad penny, the crackpot scheme to require all polls to close simultaneously on presidential election days has reappeared in Congress. A bill to that effect, approved by the House of Representatives, now goes to the Senate that killed a similar measure in 1986. We hope the senators have the wisdom to do so again this year.

The House proposal would require all polls in the continental United States to close at 9 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, beginning with the 1988 presidential election.

Daylight-saving time would be extended by two weeks in the Pacific time zone only, which means polls there would close at 7 p.m.

The bill's proponents would have us believe that this reform would prevent a repeat of the 1980 election when early network reports of the Reagan landslide supposedly prompted legions of disappointed Democratic voters in the Western states to stay home.

That reasoning is simply not supported by the facts. There is no hard evidence to suggest that significant numbers of Westerners failed to vote because they knew that Jimmy Carter was doomed.

To the contrary, the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate, which complained the loudest in 1980, now concedes that its data shows the drop-off was considerably less than it imagined.

And Professor William Adams of George Washington University has concluded that very few Oregon voters stayed home from the polls in 1984 because of network reports of an even larger Reagan landslide.

In fact, his research found that the persons most likely to listen for early projections are the ones most likely to vote anyway.

On the other hand, it stands to reason that closing the polls an hour earlier would decrease voter turnout in the Western states.

In fact, most studies show that large numbers of poor, blue-collar workers, and minorities wait until later in the day to cast their ballots.

An early poll closing would, therefore, not only discourage these voters but could also create some inadvertent discrimination.

Also worth noting is that the bill would not affect Hawaii's and Alaska's polls, which would remain open after the uniform closing time.

Are we to infer from this disparity that voters in these two states are somehow less prone to influence by network projections than are voters in California and Oregon?

Actually, the networks agreed in 1985 not to broadcast information from their exit-polling until the polls closed in the state where the interviews were conducted.

This self-imposed restraint should dispel many of the unfounded fears that Tom Brokaw, Peter Jennings and Dan Rather are distorting the electoral process.

Network restraints certainly make more sense than having Congress disrupt local voting patterns by telling the states when to close their polls.

Clearly, the simultaneous poll-closing bill is a bad idea that deserves to be rejected once more by the Senate.

Congress Should Make Covert Acts Illegal

One of the most hopeful developments in Washington recently is the formation of a group of former officials of the CIA, and others with experience in the spy business, who want to end covert operations by the United States.

Few steps could better strengthen America's position in the world than termination of the dirty, self-defeating tactics overseas that come under the label of covert activities.

No one can read the generally excellent report of the congressional committees investigating the sordid Iran-contra mess without realizing that secretive operations abroad that violate American values and laws do not serve our security interests.

Instead, they confuse our allies and anger the American people.

Congress, having given us a good analysis of the "secrecy, deception and disdain for the law" involved in our dealings with Iran and Nicaragua, should look carefully at whether such shabby tactics can ever serve our interests.

The new group of former intelligence agents is headed by John Stockwell, who ran the CIA's operations in Angola in 1975.

Speaking for the organization, which is called the Association for Responsible Dissent, Stockwell says, "Seven presidents since World War II have seen their administrations destroyed utterly or deeply embarrassed and the country discredited by covert action."

Another former intelligence official, Philip C. Roetlinger, observed: "We are going to try to expose covert action. We're going to try to get it legally banned because we can find no reason, no justification for covert action on the part of the U.S. government in the name of the American people."

Looking at the illegal arms deals, the secret bank accounts and the private military operations carried on by Oliver North, John Poindexter, Richard Secord and others, David MacMichael, former CIA analyst for Central America said: "These guys ought to be punished and these actions ought to be stopped, and we think somebody ought to do it. I can tell you who ought to do it. It is indeed the Congress. If they want to stop it, it can be stopped."

MacMichael is right to call on Congress to do what former President Harry Truman came to believe necessary: to limit the CIA and other intelligence or security agencies strictly to the gathering of intelligence.

Setting up mercenary armies, mining international harbors, assassinating foreign officials, using arms dealers to violate our laws and our announced foreign policy — all of this and scores of other such activities of the past four decades should now be terminated by Congress.

The congressional committees investigating the Iran-contra network, which was set up secretly by the Reagan administration, did a better job in their final report than they did in interrogating the witnesses.

Oliver North, for example, was allowed to turn his time on the stand into an emotional, propaganda exercise for his own glorification.

The final report nails North, his associates and the president for their roles in violating constitutional government.

What is lacking in the report that Congress can now correct is a solid, constructive move to make illegal any future covert operations.

Closet Skeletons Big News

By Arnold Sawalsh
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — We are approaching the season for the selection of the people who made the biggest news of the year. For 1987, this corner nominates The Skeleton In The Closet as the runaway newsmaker of the year.

Before setting down the argument for this candidate, attribution is called for: This idea originated with several colleagues, including Mike Tully, Dan Chiszar and Tom Ferraro.

The foregoing may be designated as the Biden Disclaimer, and it also serves as a good start on introducing the Skeleton, who came out of the closet in many forms in 1987.

For Sen. Joe Biden of Delaware, it emerged in the guise of his own law school record and someone else's words. The senator was off to a passable start as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination when someone noticed echoes in some of the more elegant phrases in a couple of his speeches.

Echoes, they were — at the unattributed very words of British Labor Party leader Neil Kinnock and of Robert Kennedy. As it turned out, this was not a new Skeleton for the senator — he had the same problem years before with a law school paper.

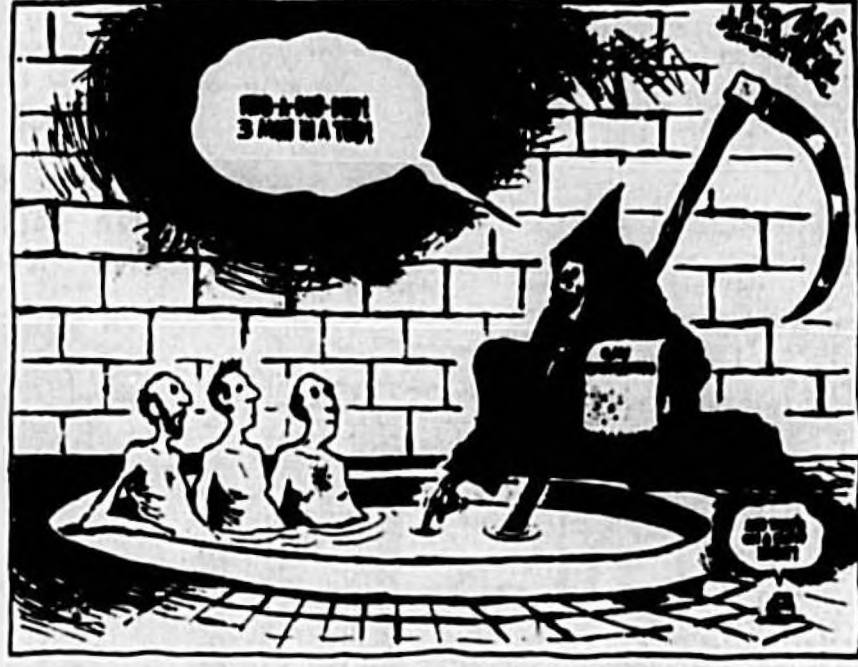

For former Sen. Gary Hart, the Skeleton stalked a townhouse on Capitol Hill and a cabin cruiser anchored off Bimini. The odd feature of this episode was that Hart, the consensus leader for the Democratic nomination, invited reporters to poke around in his closet to disprove oft-repeated rumors of playboyism. They did and what they found sent him back to Denver.

An even bigger Skeleton came out of the closet of television evangelist Jim Bakker. This one dragged with it an aggrieved church secretary, and behind her came an air-conditioned doghouse, several luxury cars and houses and a debt of a size to rival The Mount on which The Sermon was delivered.

Bakker wept, but not nearly as copiously as his fellow TV preachers, whose revenues followed Bakker's career down the tubes.

One such who gave up his electronic pulpit in 1987 was Pat Robertson, who took aim on what Theodore Roosevelt called "the bully pulpit" of the presidency.

The Skeleton came off the "wild oats" shelf of his closet, where it developed he embarked on the road to fatherhood without first passing through the gate of marriage.

JEFFREY HART

Simon Isn't Truman

Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois has been rising in the Democratic opinion polls, so quickly as to make him one of the top three, along with Massachusetts Governor Michael Dukakis and Rep. Richard Gephardt — set aside the special case of Jesse Jackson, who holds steady at his likely ceiling figures consisting of the black vote.

Senator Simon is waging a counter-image campaign, which is really an image campaign. He is telling all who will listen that he is not blow-dried and is not appealing to the Yuppies and the Baby Boomers. He is not good looking, far from it, and he is going to stick with his horn-rim glasses and his unfashionable bow tie. He is not a candidate with New Ideas. "I'm not a neo anything," he says. In fact, deliberately, he is the candidate of Old Ideas. He is running as Harry Truman. The whole thing is sort of refreshing, and the polls show it.

But wait a minute, Harry Truman?

Senator Simon's foreign policy ideas are pure George McGovern. Like all the Democratic candidates, except Sen. Albert Gore, Sen. Simon opposed the invasion of Grenada and he opposes aid to the Nicaraguan resistance. He's against "Star Wars" and he denounces the "arms race." It's unclear what weapons systems he favors, if any.

His attitudes reflect a worldview that Bo Peep would consider hopelessly naive. "If Gorbachev had been an exchange student at Eureka College," Senator Simon pronounced in the Iowa debate, "and Ronald Reagan had studied at the University of Moscow, I believe we'd be living in a different world." Yes, as the Duke of Wellington once remarked, if you believe that you'll believe anything.

And this fellow is trying to pass himself off as Harry Truman. President Harry Truman dropped the atomic bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki. He brought Winston Churchill to Fulton, Missouri to give his epochal "Iron Curtain" speech. When the British faltered in resisting a communist takeover in Greece, President Truman filled the gap. And not only that, he announced the "Truman Doctrine," according to which communist expansion by force would be resisted everywhere. Truman launched the Marshall Plan in Europe and backed it up with the formation of NATO. When the North Korean communists, at Stalin's instigation, invaded South Korea, Truman sent American forces in under Douglas MacArthur.

In fact, you could argue that Harry Truman was the toughest, most interventionist of all our presidents.

So Sen. Paul Simon's attempt to identify himself with Truman is exercise in pure illusion. Truman would laugh at the likes of Simon over one of his double bourbons. Simon is just another McGovern Democrat in an unusual costume. He may well appeal to the moralistic isolationist faction in Iowa, and he could emerge at least temporarily as the Democratic front-runner. But he is the kind of candidate any Republican would love to run against. Truman? Forget it.

With the partial exception of Gore, who is no hawk, what the Democrats are presenting to the voters this year is pure McGovernism. They do not seem to have got the message that this loses 49 of the 50 states. Whoever the Republican nominee turns out to be, his slogan should be "All Fifty."

Carthage Ruins On Tour

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The ancient city of Carthage is only dimly remembered by most as the rich African home of Hannibal before it was sacked, looted and burned to the ground by Romans who sowed salt into the fields for good measure.

Carthage was later rebuilt as a colony by the Romans, only to be sacked and destroyed a second time 800 years later by Islamic forces.

A decade ago, the remains of doomed Carthage were subject to a third assault.

Houses, stores and a network of roads were springing up on the far-ranging archaeology site near the capital city of Tunis on the Tunisian coast. Fearing the site would be lost under modern development, the North African nation invited archaeologists from around the world to help them conduct a massive dig.

The result of the unprecedented program, which brought in experts from the Middle East, Europe, the United States and Canada, has been a new perspective on the historic city.

"There was no big surprise, no rewriting of history," said Jeffrey Schwartz, a professor of archaeology at the University of Pittsburgh, who participated in the project.

"We do have a better picture of daily life than has existed before, probably more so than from other sites because of the nature of the project, the sheer manpower and the willingness to share data," Schwartz said.

Many of the new finds, along with Carthaginian treasures long held by the Tunisian government, have been collected into a major exhibit that is touring the United States this year.

Almost all of the artifacts date from when the city was a Roman colony, well after its initial destruction by Romans in 146 B.C.

Archaeologists have found few remains dating from prior to the Roman destruction. But Schwartz said the intricate series of harbors built by the seafaring Phoenicians with mounds of earth and rocks in the 4th century B.C. were identified with the aid of computer programs that can project topographical features based on existing ruins.

Recently, workers at the American Museum of Natural History were busy unpacking massive crates of intricate mosaic floors that portray daily life in ancient Carthage.

JACK ANDERSON

Lesser-Known Could Win Primary

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — A nonpartisan voting research group will issue a pre-election warning that a "non-traditional candidate," with an "activist organization," could win most of the presidential primaries and force himself on the party convention.

This conclusion is based on a computerized study by the Voters Caucus, a task force of University of Utah professors with backgrounds in computer science, political science and voter surveys. "Low voter turnout presents real possibilities to the lesser-known, lesser-liked and lesser-followed candidates," the study declares.

Rev. Pat Robertson and Rev. Jesse Jackson, for example, could run away with the presidential primaries because of their "organizational capacity and the high motivation of their supporters," the study suggests. Robertson could win the Republican nomination and current Democratic front runner Jackson could grab his party's nomination by sweeping the primaries. Yet neither has a national following greater than 15 percent of the electorate.

Here is the startling arithmetic that the professors compiled for the Voters Caucus: Only 19 percent of the nation's eligible voters turned out for the last presidential primaries. This tiny percentage was split between the two major parties. In the New York primary, for example, only 10.4 percent bothered to vote. Walter Mondale won the state's Democratic primary with just 4.7 percent of the eligible vote.

It took less than 6.8 percent of the vote to win the average primary in 1984. Because of this low turnout, Jesse Jackson was able to mobilize enough dedicated followers to make a respectable showing and establish himself as a power to be reckoned with. He stunned party leaders by actually winning the Louisiana primary. He scored this surprising triumph, according to the Voters Caucus, with a scant 4.3 percent of the eligible voters.

Sources close to Jackson say he never expected to win the nomination in 1984. His strategy, they say, was to use the primaries to establish himself as the preeminent black leader. But he is now a serious presidential contender, with an excellent chance of winning many of the 1988 Democratic primaries.

It would follow that he should then receive the Democratic presidential nomination. But the unspoken truth is that his nomination might alienate enough white voters to lose the general election for the Democrats. On the other hand, if they should deny Jackson the nomination, they could antagonize enough black voters to lose the election.

The Robertson candidacy presents the Republicans with a similar dilemma. His national following is estimated at no more than 10 percent of the population and 14 percent of the voters. Yet he has demonstrated a capacity to generate intense loyalty and activate his followers. Explains the study: "Ten percent of the population may not seem like a major following in a general election. However, when you consider that only 19 percent of the American electorate voted in the 1984 primaries and that it only took an average 6.8 percent to win a primary," a dedicated minority could capture the primaries.

The latest Gallup Poll shows Vice President George Bush as the favorite of 47 percent of Republican voters, with Sen. Bob Dole placing second with 22 percent. Robertson could claim only 7 percent. But his 7 percent are fired with the evangelical spirit and are likely to show up en masse at the polls. If it takes only 6.8 percent to win a primary, Robertson could defeat his more popular rivals.

IN BRIEF

President Reagan Stressing Human Rights For Summit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Human rights issues are providing yet another avenue for President Reagan in his drive to assure conservatives of his continued caution as he approaches a third summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

In light of Reagan's recent arms control optimism and his relatively kind words for Gorbachev, the White House is moving to re-emphasize the adversarial relationship of the superpowers in the final days before next week's talks.

The president was expected to stress human rights, one of four major items on his summit agenda. In a speech today to groups fighting for persecuted ethnic minorities in the Soviet Union and for reunification of divided families.

The administration's position on human rights is that while the Soviets have made progress under Gorbachev's "glasnost" campaign, they have done far too little to comply with previous international accords on the matter.

Senate, Justice At Odds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Department insists the Senate should not be given lists of the questions asked when Judge Anthony Kennedy was interviewed before his nomination to the Supreme Court last month.

According to Assistant Attorney General John Bolton, all questions asked of Kennedy by White House and Justice Department officials related to "background data and personal issues" and not to any case or matter that might come before him if confirmed by the Senate for the current high court vacancy.

Administration officials are known to have grilled Kennedy extensively about his background and personal habits in an effort to avoid the embarrassment of another nomination loss for President Reagan. The president's last choice for the court, Judge Douglas Ginsburg, withdrew his name Nov. 7 after admitting past marijuana use that he had not disclosed during background checks.

Prosecution Winding Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Prosecutors, winding down their case today in ex-White House aide Michael Deaver's perjury trial, played audio tapes of grand jury testimony in which Deaver portrayed himself as a trusted confidant of President Reagan.

"You're talking about almost a 20-year relationship and no one else had that," Deaver said on the tape played in court Wednesday. "So I really felt that one of the things that was important for him (Reagan) was to have somebody who he knew was going to look him straight in the eye and tell him what the truth was."

IN BRIEF

Iraqi Warplanes Hit Iranian Oil Fields, 'Naval Target'

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iraqi warplanes attacked Iranian oil fields and a "large naval target" in the Persian Gulf in apparent retaliation for Iranian air strikes along the central battlefield, reports from the two sides said.

At the United Nations, Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar met Wednesday with a high-level Iranian delegation to open long-delayed talks on ending the 7-year-old war between Iran and Iraq.

The U.N. chief, who has been trying to arrange a cease-fire since a July 20 Security Council call for a truce, met for 90 minutes with the Iranian deputy foreign minister, Mohammad Javad Larijani, but neither side would comment on the talks. Perez de Cuellar scheduled similar meetings next week with Iraq.

The official Iraqi News Agency quoted a military spokesman as saying in Baghdad that Iraqi fighters dealt a "destructive blow" to a naval target Wednesday. In Iraqi military parlance that usually means an oil tanker in Iranian service. The agency said the attack occurred at 5 p.m. off Iranian shores.

Bhopal Anniversary Strike Called

BHOPAL, India (UPI) — A call for a general strike and memorial services marked the third anniversary today of the world's worst industrial accident — the Bhopal gas leak that killed nearly 3,000 people and injured 200,000.

Opposition parties and private relief groups said they called the general strike primarily to oppose inadequate relief measures and a proposed out-of-court settlement between Union Carbide Corp. and the Indian government.

Today was declared a holiday and memorial services were scheduled at churches, mosques and temples to mark Dec. 3, 1984, when 40 tons of toxic methyl isocyanate spewed from Union Carbide Corp.'s pesticide plant in Bhopal, smothering wide areas of the Madhya Pradesh state capital.

Political parties, including the right-wing Hindu Bharatiya Janata Party and the Communist Party of India, and various private relief organizations called a general strike to mark the anniversary.

Vietnamese Expatriates Trial Ends

HO CHI MINH CITY, Vietnam (UPI) — Prosecutors today demanded sentences ranging from loss of citizenship rights to life imprisonment for 18 Vietnamese expatriates accused of trying to infiltrate and overthrow the communist government of Vietnam.

Policeman's Quick Finger Stops Assailant's Shot

Sanford policeman Arthur Barnes put his finger behind the trigger of a handgun to stop a 57-year-old Sanford man's alleged attempt to shoot his stepson.

Police were on the scene to try to calm a dispute between James Washington Warren, 57, and James Henry Wearne, 38. The incident occurred at Warren's home at 2001 W. 13th St., Sanford, at about 5 p.m. Monday.

Police reported that Wearne, of the same address, allegedly hit

Warren in the face. When Warren allegedly pulled a .22-caliber handgun, aimed it at his stepson and tried to pull the trigger, Barnes put his finger behind the trigger, so the gun wouldn't fire. Barnes wrestled the gun away from Warren, a police report said.

Warren has been charged with aggravated assault and was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond. Wearne, has been charged with battery and was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

Radio Calls To Servicemen

Message Of 'Ham' Operators Is Hope

By Brian Hedberg
Herald Staff Writer

Though a military serviceman might be stationed somewhere in the Atlantic or Persian Gulf during Christmas, he is not cut off from his loved ones through the volunteer efforts of "ham" radio operators.

The U.S. Army, Navy/Marines, and Air Force each has its own Military Affiliated Radio System (MARS), made up of amateur radio operators who, among other things, transmit seasonal and romantic messages from servicemen to spouses or families, said Navy/Marine MARS member Bill Alexander.

"Traffic (the number of messages) increases substantially at this time of year in the form of 'Wish you were here' and 'Merry Christmas' messages," Alexander said.

He was referring to MARS-grams, free messages of 25 words or less transmitted by radio-teletype to its destination. A message bound for Sanford might originate in Okinawa, Japan. It would be relayed to Hawaii, then to Camp Pendleton in California, then to a regional control station, then to an area representative, then to an area "net" control station, then to a local station representative, who calls the Mrs. or Mom and Pop to give them the message.

During the Christmas rush, a MARS-gram could take 10 days to get through.

Another service of MARS is "phone patching." Volunteer radio operators on ships at sea call to the United States on designated frequencies and give MARS radio operators the phone numbers that enlisted men want to call. The MARS operator makes a collect call to the number and hooks up the telephone and radio through a phone patch.

"That is a big morale booster," Alexander said. During Vietnam, he said, many in the military consistently used phone patches to talk to families and loved ones.

The MARS operator monitors all phone patches for security purposes, so that servicemen can not divulge classified information, such as a ship's position. Also, the operator must push the button on his radio microphone up and down to allow the two parties to converse.

From Jan. 1 to the end of October, Florida has averaged 450 MARS messages, about 75 percent being MARS-grams, Alexander said.

He said that in 1981, he made 3,200 phone patches. On a monthly basis, he volunteers 30-35 hours for MARS transmissions and 50-65 hours for other MARS duties.

MARS originated to train radio operators in case of an emergency, such as war, flood or hurricane. MARS-grams and phone patches keep up the training for MARS operators, Alexander said.

Four Face Sanctions

The following persons have recently had an administrative complaint filed against them by the Florida Department of Professional Regulation of the Construction Industry Licensing Board.

—George Vincent, a certified roofing contractor in Longwood. Vincent allegedly proceeded with a $1,700 re-roofing job in Winter Park without obtaining the proper and required local permits and inspections. Vincent has been previously disciplined by the board.

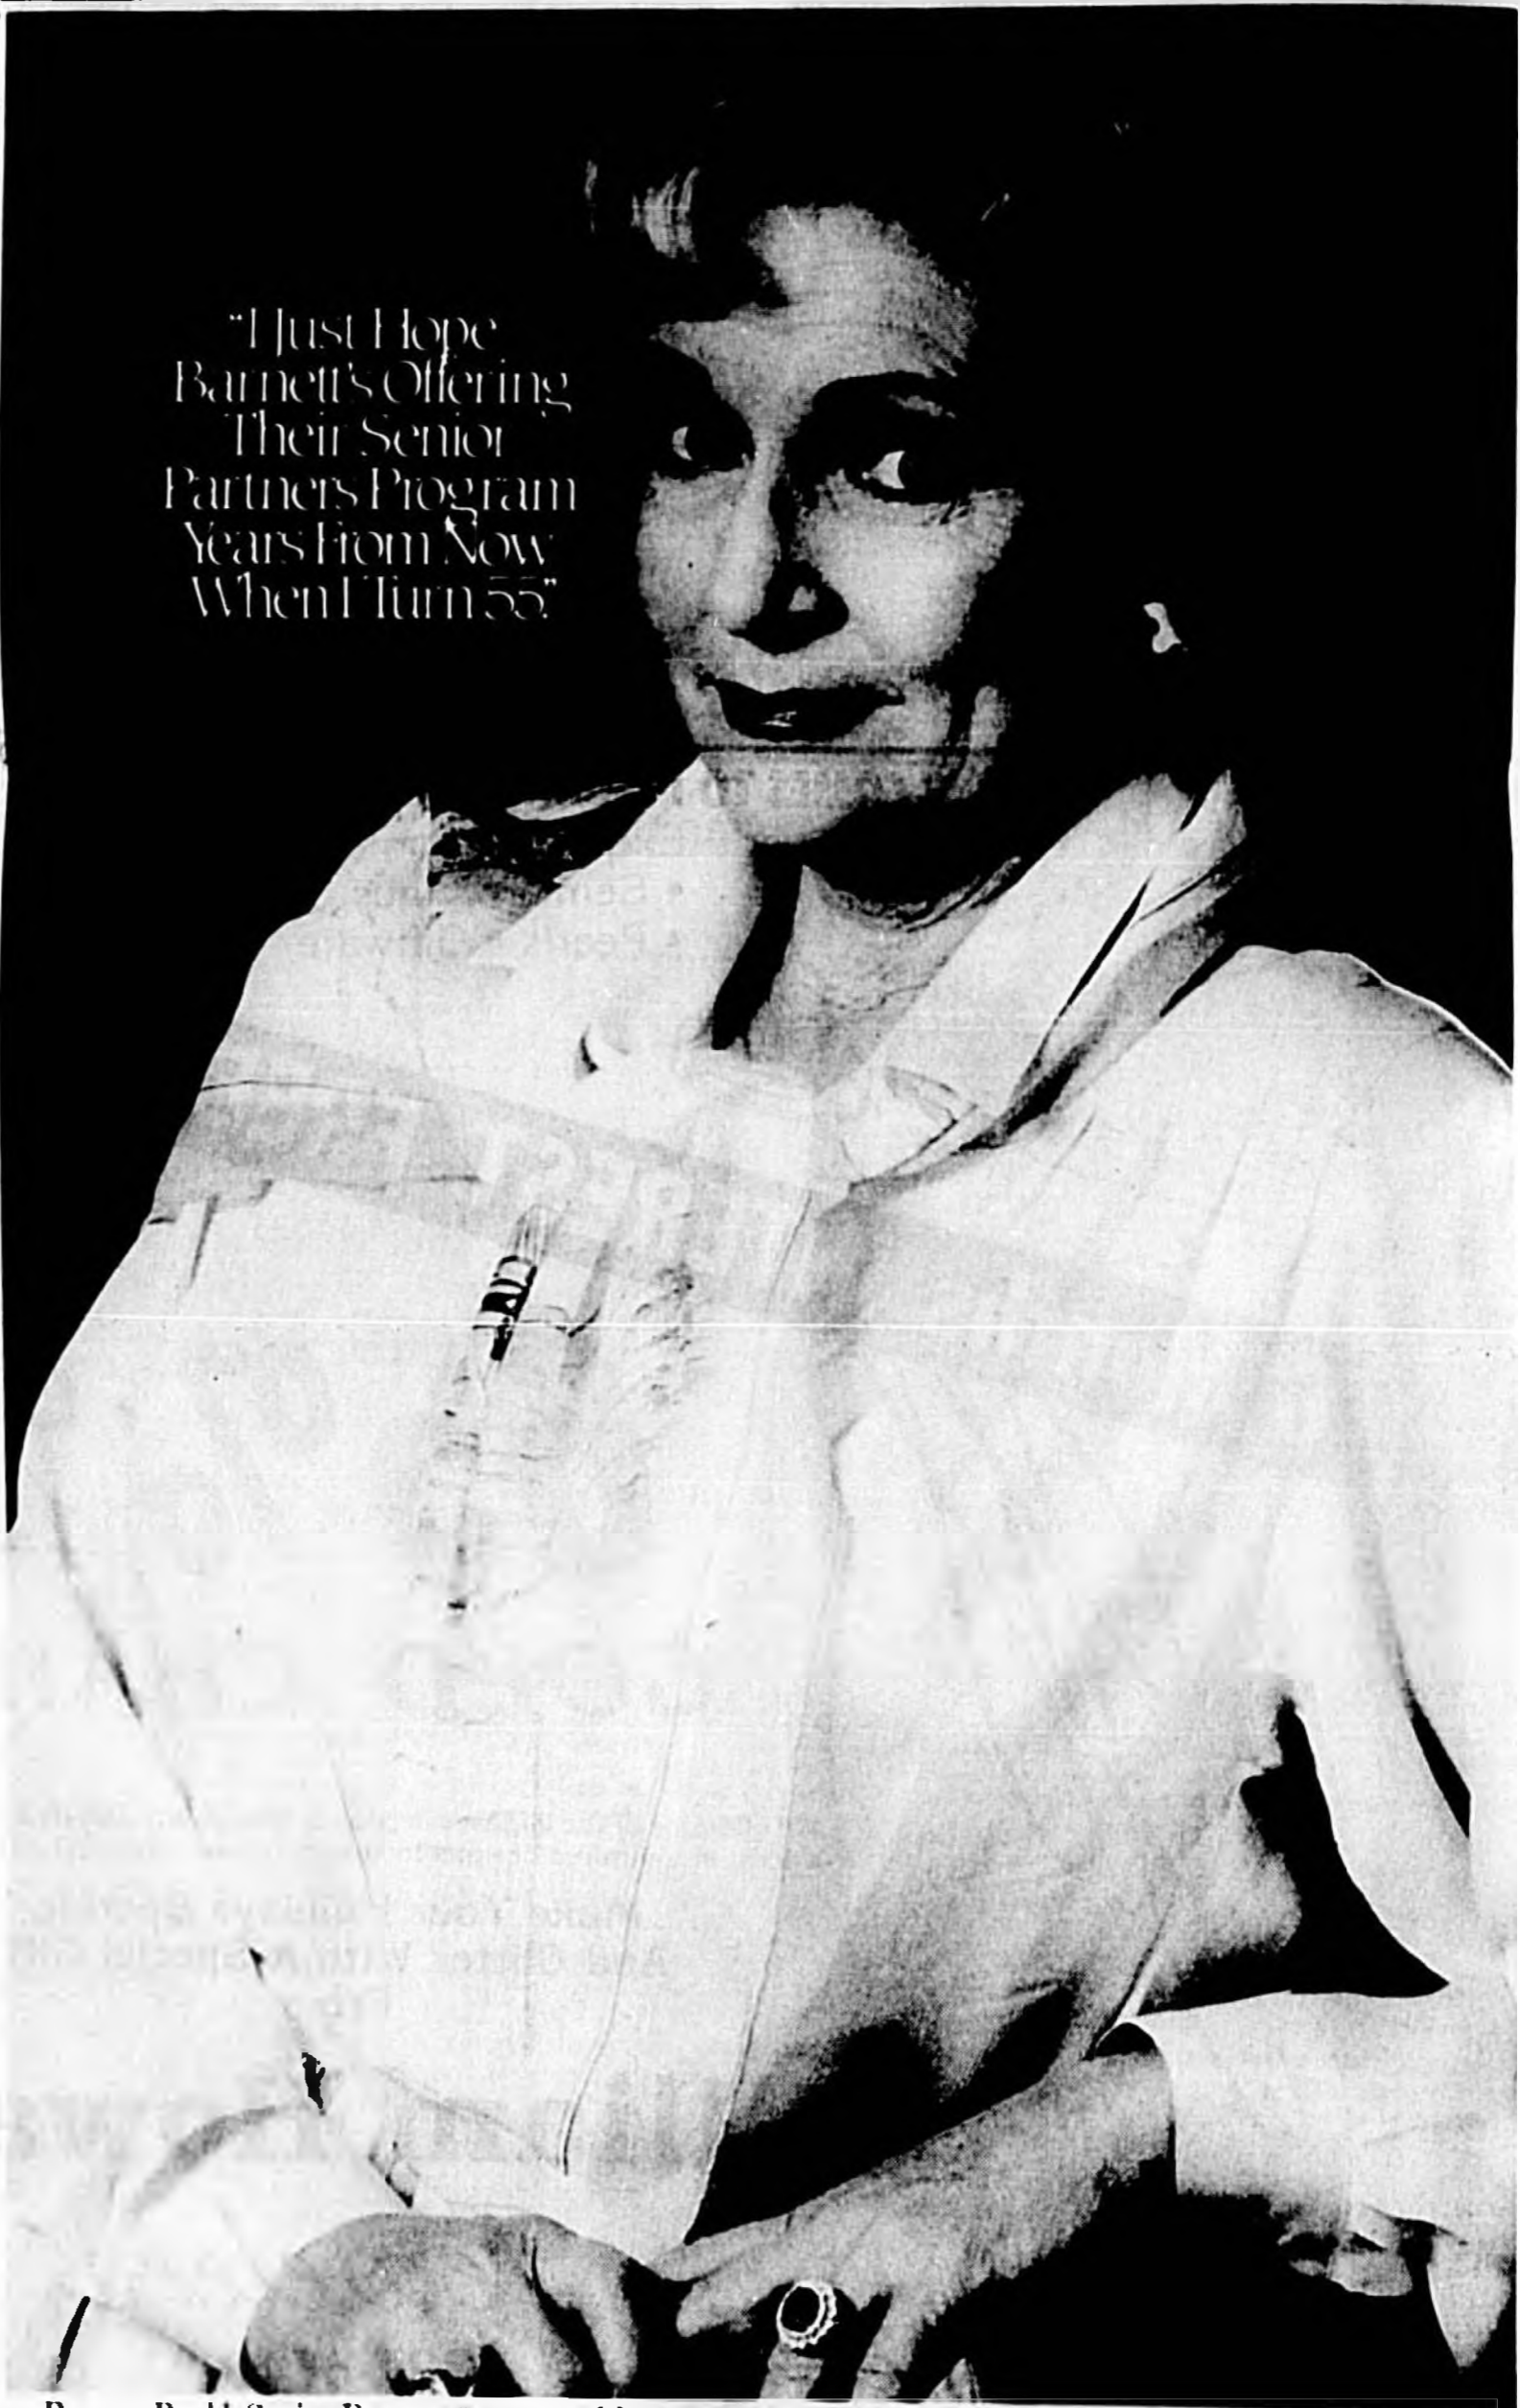

—Jim Muniz, a registered roofing contractor in Longwood. Muniz allegedly proceeded with two jobs in the city of Sanford, which involved building additions to homes. Both jobs were valued at $2,875. The complaint against Muniz claims that he did not obtain the proper and required local permits and inspections on both jobs. The complaint also cites Muniz for working outside the area of his license and failing to subcontract for work he's not licensed to do.

—James E. Mullins, a registered roofing contractor in Casselberry. Mullins allegedly proceeded with a $2,650 re-roofing job in Winter Park without obtaining the proper and required local permits and inspections.

—Mitchell Weiss, a certified general contractor in Lake Mary. Weiss allegedly displayed financial mismanagement, misconduct or diversion in building a home in Longwood. The price of the job is valued at $187,000.

—Robert R. Prevatt, a certified registered contractor in Seminole County. Prevatt allegedly proceeded with remodeling a customer's home in Clearwater for $1,120 without obtaining the proper and required permits and inspections.

Shrimpsboat Crewman Survivor Credited With Mutiny Verdicts

ORLANDO (UPI) — A prosecutor says he was able to prove two shrimp boat crewmen were guilty of murder and mutiny only because a first mate managed to survive two blows to the head and 12 hours in shark-infested waters.

A federal court jury Wednesday convicted Billy Gossett Jr. and William Rector of murdering Capt. Philip Roush, taking control of the shrimper Leslie Rae and the attempted murder of first mate Willie Charpentier.

When the two were indicted in August, Justice Department officials said it was the first case of civilian mutiny since World War II.

The jury, after hearing five days of often-conflicting testimony, took less than four hours to decide the case.

Beach Program Going Broke

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida's "Save Our Coast" beach-buying program is running out of money.

"Save Our Coast," established in 1981 and one of the hallmarks of Gov. Bob Graham's administration, is winding down and probably should be folded into another land-buying initiative, the Conservation and Outdoor Lands program, or CARL, Department of Natural Resources officials said Wednesday.

The news at a Cabinet workshop bothered Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter. The Legislature should either find a new source of money for the coastal program or the Cabinet should see that beachfront property gets a high priority under CARL, where it would be competing with inland and freshwater-connected tracts, Gunter said.

However, Secretary of State Jim Smith was unconcerned. Coastal property has become almost too expensive for the state, Smith said, and it's time the Cabinet turned its attention to property around freshwater lakes.

Piper Grounds Malibu Airplane

VERO BEACH (UPI) — Investigations of the engine used in a Piper airplane have failed to uncover a reason for sudden power loss that in the past month caused four emergency landings, and one death.

Piper Aircraft Inc. has voluntarily grounded the 3-year-old airplane and offered to pay the travel expenses, at first-class rates, for any of the 380 aircraft owners inconvenienced by the problems.

The grounding, recommended earlier this week, will end in 30 days, but could be extended if the cause of the problem remains unsolved.

School Board Reaffirms AIDS Policy

By Brian Hedberg
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County School Board members re-affirmed an already stated policy that schools can deny admission to AIDS-infected students in some cases, depending on the results of evaluations and testing. The policy will be voted on at the Dec. 9 board meeting.

"The board feels that if it's a school board policy, it's as strong a statement as they can make," said Karen Coleman, Seminole schools spokeswoman. "They feel it carries extra weight with employees."

The policies, in the board's Health Service Manual, technically were "law" already because the board had previously approved them, Coleman said.

But board member Ann Neiswender suggested at the workshop that, because of the serious nature of and public concern over AIDS, it would be good for the board to have an official policy. Other board members agreed.

The proposed policies, amended only slightly at the workshop, could keep infected students and district employees out of schools after a series of evaluation and testing.

As of Nov. 5, Seminole County has had 31 reported cases of AIDS since reporting became required in 1984. In that number, there is no children or school employees.

The proposal concerning infected students states that a committee will review each case where a student is known to have acquired immune deficiency syndrome or AIDS-related complex (ARC), a less severe but serious form of infection which causes AIDS. Evaluating the student would be his physician, principal, the assistant superintendent for instructional services, a representative of the county health department and the coordinator of health services.

Students diagnosed as having AIDS or ARC would remain in class until the committee has made a recommendation and Superintendent Robert Hughes has decided whether to keep the student in class.

An infected student would not be able to remain in the classroom if he has open lesions, is incontinent, has a history of biting or is a health threat to others as determined by county health director Jorge Deju. The county's Homebound Program then would provide instruction to such a student until the superintendent had made a decision.

The student's condition would be known only by members of the evaluating committee and the child's teachers.

A proposed policy for infected school employees was drafted by a committee of administrators and union representatives. Under the policy, employees would have to meet with the district's personnel director.

As the employee gives consent, the personnel director would discuss the situation with the employee's doctor. The personnel director may request another doctor's evaluation of the employee at school district expense.

Should a school employee refuse to be tested, he would be fired. Should the employee's condition be seen to endanger co-workers or students, he could be given work that isolates him from others, be placed on annual vacation leave or medical leave, or be suspended with pay until the next board meeting.

The superintendent could request periodic medical testing of the employee.

School nurses would be able to recognize AIDS symptoms through current AIDS training and would report such symptoms to a student's doctor, said Marion Dailey, the district's assistant superintendent for instructional services.

The seventh-graders will be taught about "responsible sex, a faithful monogamous relationship as in marriage."

Schools Broken Into

Two area schools, Seminole County High School and Sanford Middle School, have been broken into, according to police reports Tuesday.

The high school, at 2701 Georgia Ave., was broken into sometime between 7 p.m. Saturday and 5:30 a.m. Monday. According to the report an unidentified person or persons broke the wooden slide window of the secretary's office and took the master key from the desk and used the key to enter other desk drawers.

Coach Kenneth Bauman reported four $20 bills were missing from his desk. The bills are the only items missing from the school, police believe.

Police could not determine where the person may have entered the building. The maintenance supervisor said the alarm system was operational when he came to work Monday morning.

The Middle School, 1700 S. French St., was broken into between 11:30 p.m. Monday and 2:34 p.m. Tuesday. Police have been able to obtain possible fingerprints from plexiglass where the suspects entered the building.

Police said the bars and plexiglass were pried from the window to the school's aid station. Assistant Principal Roger L. Gardner told police that he could find nothing missing.

It was reported that two males were seen running from the area.

10 years without pay), has to be commended for her dedication and hard work, but she can't do it by herself.

Volunteers from participating churches help run the center, which depends on donations of food, clothing, money and other items from churches, individuals, businesses and organizations in order to help the needy.

In August, at the time when Sanford Christian Sharing Center was facing the crisis of finding a new location, Danielak called together local pastors and church workers to discuss how local churches and agencies can best meet needs of the poor, the homeless and hungry.

A core committee was named consisting of Chairman Allen McDaniel, pastor of Sanford House of Praise; the Rev. Fred Mann, rector at Holy Cross Episcopal Church; the Rev. Darwin Shea, pastor of Upsala Presbyterian Church; Ernie Cook, minister of education at First Baptist Church; the Rev. Edmund Czarnecki, pastor of All Souls Catholic Church; and Andy Irwin, youth minister at First United Methodist Church.

The committee was asked to come up with a comprehensive plan for the sharing center to meet the local needs without overlapping with Manna Haven and the Salvation Army. Lt. Sam Flanigan of The Salvation Army told the group in August that progress has already been made by local ministries toward better understanding and cooperation as a result of meetings with the sharing center, Manna Haven and Rescue Outreach Center. Danielak and the sharing center executive committee plan to meet on Dec. 8 with the core committee to hear its recommendations. In addition to Danielak, others on the executive committee include Mann, vice president; the Rev. Ed Webber of Congregational Christian Church, treasurer; Colleen Provencher, secretary; and William MacLaughlin, building fund chairman.

Holch said the migrants have come up from Immokalee without food, blankets or warm clothing and there is no work here for them yet. "We had 21 come in looking for help in 2½ hours," she said.

She said the center gave out all of the food baskets at Thanksgiving it possibly could and hopes to help needy families at Christmas as well. There were 82 families and single men who received baskets at Thanksgiving. "Several churches were very good about helping with the food," she said.

"A lot of people don't understand this type of poverty," Holch said, "they think because there are so many government agencies, these people shouldn't need our help. When they apply to these agencies for help they have to wait for months before they are accepted and in the meantime they have to eat."

In fact many agencies send the people that need immediate help or fall through the cracks in the system to the sharing center. Some of the agencies that will be hurting when the sharing center closes even temporarily.

Seminole County Schools social workers depend on the center for clothing for school children. "Some parents pull their kids out of school because they don't have clothes to wear and little girls who have no underpants to wear to school can't go out on the playground," Holch said.

The Probation and Parole Office comes to the center for clothes for boys and girls in the half way house to wear to court or to school. "Sometimes both their parents are on drugs," she said.

The Central Florida Community Health Clinic refers indigent patients to the center to get their prescriptions filled. Even if they are eligible to have the state pay for the medicine the individual pharmacist has to submit the application to Tallahassee and wait until he receives approval back to fill the prescription, but those days can be a matter of life or death.

"We would like to continue to at least buy medicine for children and severely handicapped persons, but don't always have the funds," Holch explained.

State Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services — The center provides layettes and formula for babies born to indigent mothers for the first few weeks until the HRS begins Aid to Families with Dependent Children payments. They also send persons who have not yet qualified for food stamps or aren't eligible for welfare because they don't have a permanent address or don't have proof of birth.

Crooms Teenage Parent Program depends on the sharing center for help with formula, disposable diapers, and baby food for infants whose mothers are enrolled in the program.

The Sanford Sharing Center owns a building site on 25th Street and has a separate building fund account.

Two Rapes Reported In County

In separate cases, a 13-year-old girl and a 19-year-old woman reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies Tuesday that they had been raped.

The girl said she was raped Nov. 25, but didn't report that allegation until after her mother read a letter on Tuesday the girl had written to a friend about the incident.

The Altamonte Springs girl said she and a girlfriend left the Semoran Skating Rink, Casselberry, with two boys known to them as Rudy and Timmy. They left the rink at about 9 p.m. Nov. 25 and the boys took them in a vehicle to a remote house or cabana in southeast Seminole County.

There the victim's girlfriend walked away with Rudy, leaving her with Timmy, whom she alleges raped her.

After the incident the girls were taken home and the victim did not report the allegations until her mother read the letter. The letter detailed the rape, a sheriff's report said.

The second rape, which occurred at about 10 a.m. Tuesday at Lake Jesup Park, Sanford Avenue, Sanford, was reported to sheriff's deputies, by a 19-year-old Deltona woman.

The woman said that a man she met at the Joy gasoline station offered her a ride to a school. When they arrived at the school the friend she was to meet wasn't there, so she agreed to go to Lake Jesup with the driver.

There they got out of the car at the park and the man forced her to the ground and raped her, a sheriff's report said. The man fled and the woman walked to a Lil' Champ store on S. Sanford Avenue and called Sanford police, who alerted Seminole County sheriff's deputies of the incident.

Sheriff's deputies have a description of suspects in both cases and the investigations continue.

PTL Faces Financial Deadline

FORT MILL, S.C. (UPI) — PTL officials announced another crisis Wednesday, claiming the television ministry will go off the air forever if they do not receive $239,000 by Friday to keep its "angel" satellite operative.

The daily "PTL Show" focused on two themes — the existence of angels sent by God to help good people and the ministry's shutoff notice on the satellite transponder service that beams PTL broadcasts to millions of homes.

"We are right now facing the loss of the PTL network," PTL official Phillip Cameron told viewers in a telethon Tuesday night. His plea was repeated Wednesday on the daily program.

"Unless you respond, this time next week we could be off the air," Cameron said. "We need $239,000 and we need it now."

Cameron urged viewers to run up a contribution tab on MasterCard or Visa so the scandal-plagued PTL receives the money immediately.

"Unless we have a miracle of God in the next few days, that will be taken from us forever," Cameron said. "Use your charge card — when you use your charge card you can help us pay this bill right now. If you give us your charge card tonight, we'll have this money tomorrow."

As Cameron spoke, a caller used her MasterCard to charge a $1,000 donation to PTL, which has suffered overwhelming debt ever since founder Jim Bakker resigned in a sex scandal, turning the ministry over to the Rev. Jerry Falwell and his aides, who filed for Chapter 11 protection for PTL under U.S. bankruptcy laws.

Falwell has since resigned in a flap with the bankruptcy court, and the ministry's chief caretaker is now David Clark, formerly of the Christian Broadcasting Network.

Wednesday's broadcast featured Betty Malz, author of the book "Angels Watching Over Me." She said God sends angels to watch over good people who are doing his work, but she warned he does not send angels to slackers.

"If you are sitting on a couch in your sweaty T-shirt and drinking beer, God is not going to send an angel," Malz said. "God doesn't waste cannonballs on snow birds. If you're out there just doo-dadding around, he's not going to help you."

Malz offered as proof of angels two fuzzy pictures that she claimed showed the heavenly beings, and PTL regular Uncle Henry Harrison told viewers the PTL satellite is the ministry's angel.

Determined Seminoles Knock Off Tigers, 59-57

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer

WINTER PARK — With all the preseason hoopla surrounding the Orlando Jones team, you would think the Tigers would be next to invincible.

Here is a team that was second in the state a year ago, returning almost all of its top players and having one of the alleged top three seniors in the state in 6-8 Corey Walker.

But the preseason buildup didn't mean diddly once Seminole High and Jones hit the hardwood Wednesday night.

The Fighting Seminoles crumbled the Jones dynasty before it got a chance to even get off the ground as seniors Andre Whitney and Craig Walker paved the way in Seminole's 59-57 victory over No. 1 ranked (Class 3A) Jones in the opening round of the Winter Park Rotary Tip-Off Classic before 801 fans at Winter Park High School.

"This was our first big challenge of the season and we came through it impressively," Seminole coach Greg Robinson said. "We got down at first, but the kids never let up and they showed a lot of character coming back."

Seminole, 20 for the season, will go up against Daytona Beach Seabreeze in the tournament semifinals Friday night at 7:15. Seabreeze advanced with a 61-44 victory over Orlando Edgewater in Wednesday's first game.

Jones, 1-1, goes to the consolation bracket where it will face Edgewater tonight at 5:30. Jones coach Willie Jones is not happy about playing for the consolation title.

"I was not happy with the way we played tonight," Jones said. "We lacked intensity and at times just stood around and did nothing. Seminole showed a lot more character than we did and that was one of the biggest factors."

Whitney, a 5-10 guard, turned in perhaps the best all-around performance of his career as he poured in a game-high 25 points (including 3 of 5 from three-point range), ripped down eight rebounds (all on the offensive boards) dished out 12 assists and came up with four steals.

"Andre (Whitney) got two fouls early so I had to pull him," Robinson said. "But when I put him back in, he came through with a tremendous effort for us. He really hit some big shots for us down the stretch."

Walker, a 6-8 center, was a dominant force on the inside for the Tribe as he pumped in 16 points, ripped down nine rebounds and blocked four shots. Walker also did a defensive number on Jones' Corey Walker who was held to just seven points and seven rebounds.

"Craig Walker did a super job for Seminole underneath tonight," coach Jones said. "And Corey (Walker) was not the equalizer that we were expecting."

Jones rode the hot hand of Craig Hicks to a 16-10 lead in the first period as Seminole struggled with eight turnovers. The Tigers ran the lead to 24-15 with 3:01 left in the half as Tony Shipp launched a three-pointer and Walker hit one of two free throws.

Jones had a 10-point lead with less than two minutes remaining in the half when Sammie Edwards stuck in a jumper and Whitney canned his first three pointer of the night to chop the lead to 28-23. Shipp answered with a three-pointer for Jones but Reggie Bellamy's layup brought Seminole back within six, 31-25. The Tigers had a chance at the last shot and an eight-point lead, but Walker rejected a shot by Anthony Reynolds with one second remaining. The Tigers built up a seven-

Whitney, Walker Spark Tip-Off Tourney Victory

It didn't take long for Seminole guard Andre "Smooth" Whitney and center Craig Walker to show that they weren't about to let a chance at knocking off the state's top-ranked team slip away.

Whitney, an experience point guard, scored a game-high 25 points while Walker added 16 in Seminole's 59-57 upset of No. 1 (3A) Orlando Jones in opening round action of the 12th Annual Rotary Tip-Off Classic before 800 fans at Winter Park High School Wednesday night.

The victory advanced Seminole into the winners' bracket on Friday night. Seminole will meet Daytona Beach Mainland, a 61-44 winner over Orlando Edgewater on Wednesday night.

Whitney, who admits that he likes to put in pressure situations, calmly stepped to the charity strip with the game tied at 57 with only nine seconds left and sunk a pair of free throws to win the game. "I'd like to be at the free throw line in the state championship with not time on the clock," Whitney said. "I knew that I would make them and I wasn't nervous at all. I think that we have a very good shot at being ranked number one now, but that isn't the most important thing to us."

Walker, a 6-foot-7 center, had the duty of defending one of the state's most highly regarded players: Jones' Corey Walker. Walker vs. Walker turned out in favor of Seminole's Walker as he held Jones' Walker to just seven points. Ironically, both Walker's will be teammates next season as they have both committed to Auburn.

"I was very happy with the way we played. I knew that Corey was tough, and I think that I did a decent job against him," Walker, who had four blocked shots, said. "We might be number one, and that would be very nice."

Whitney had an excellent all-around game as he came up just short of recording a triple double. In addition to his 23 points, he dished out 12 assists while snagging eight rebounds. "We beat Spruce Creek by one point on Tuesday, and that was the worst game that I have ever played in my career," Whitney said. "I promised the team that I would never play that bad again. I wanted to prove something out there tonight. I have got to be a leader on this team."

Whitney used the newly initiated three-point shot to his advantage on three separate occasions. "I love those three-pointers, and I have been working on them on my own," Whitney said. "I'll put it up if I have the chance."

"Andre is our definite leader," Seminole coach Greg Robinson, who is in his first year at Seminole, said. "We want to get the ball in his hands as often as possible. He is our money man."

The turning point in the game came midway through the third quarter. Walker rejected a shot at one end, and came finished a pretty offensive play with a slam dunk on the other end. The dunk brought the near capacity crowd to its feet.

"That dunk really got us fired up," Walker said. "That was the emotional turning point." Walker added a slam late in the fourth quarter.

Robinson said that the play of Walker of Whitney didn't really surprise him. "I hope that it is a preview of things to come," Robinson said. "We were down at times, but we hung in there. We showed some character tonight, and that is a good sign."

Satellite Relies On Tough Defense

By Scott Bander
Herald Sports Writer

Taking over a football program is never easy. Usually a coach encounters trouble during his first few years at the helm. But that is certainly not the case with the two coaches in tonight's Section 2 playoff game between Seminole and Satellite.

Seminole coach Roger Beathard has posted an impressive 8-3 record in his first season in charge. Satellite coach Mike Knowles, who went 4-6 in his first season, has also notched eight wins and three losses this season.

"We have been a pretty good football team all season," said Knowles, whose team advanced last Friday when it beat Middleburg, 24-14, for the Region 3 title. "We had never even won a district title in 20 years. This will be the first home playoff game in the history of the school. To say that we are excited would be an understatement."

Kickoff is slated for 8 at Satellite High. Seminole advanced into the round by beating Land O Lakes, 16-7, last week in the Region 4 championship.

Knowles said that he is very impressed with Seminole. "They have got quality athletes all over the place," Knowles said. "They have some many different looks on offense that we have had to run five or six different sets against our defense. They have really got me worried."

"It is going to be a heck of a task to try to stop them from crossing the goal line," Knowles added. "I have got a lot of respect

DIRECTIONS: To get to Satellite High, take Interstate 95 to the Patrick Air Force Base exit (Wickham Road). Take Wickham Road west to the Pinetta Causeway (Highway 49) which runs into A1A South. Once on A1A, go down three lights to Jackson St. and go right and the football field will be a few blocks down.

BUS RIDE: If you don't want to drive to Satellite, Seminole High is taking a pair of buses to the game Friday night. The buses will leave between 3:30 and 4 p.m. from Seminole High and their will be one bus for students and one for adults. For reservations on one of the buses, contact the Seminole High Athletic Department.

for them, and they deserve it."

Knowles said that he runs a 4-3 defense. "The key to our defense is the play of our middle linebacker (Frank Booher)," Knowles said. "I have been pleased with our defensive performance all season. I just hope that we can keep it up."

In addition to Booher, Knowles said that his key defensive personnel includes defensive tackle Dan Benhabbit and defensive end Charley Wiley. "Those guys are going to have to play well in order for us to win," Knowles said. "Our strength is our defense."

Knowles said that the strongest part of his team is the secondary. Interestingly, Seminole's primary offense strength is its passing game.

"It should be very interesting," Seminole offensive coordinator Emory Blake said. "I think that we can throw on them, and if we can't, we'll run." Knowles said. "Middleburg is a passing team and we held their quarterback to five completions out of 22 attempts."

Seminole quarterback Jeff Blake, who led the county in passing this season, said that if the 'Noles are on, they can't be stopped. "I have heard that they have got some good defensive backs," Blake, a rifle armed senior said. "But if we are on, I don't think that pro defensive backs could stop us."

Cornerback Mike Russel and free safety Jerry Lober are the two defensive backs that Knowles is counting on. "They are both Division I college prospects," Knowles said. "We are confident in them."

Two of Satellite's losses came to a pair of the state's toughest teams, Satellite lost to Merritt Island and Cocoa. "They are a very good football team Emory Blake said. "They wouldn't be here if they weren't."

"But we are the type of offense that can adjust to the situation. Like I said all year, we will take what they give us."

The Satellite offense runs a variety of different formations. Satellite runs versions of the I-formation, and runs the veer at times. Knowles has sent players in motions often, and has run double tight ends at times.

"They do a lot of different things," Beathard said. "They can give us problems if we don't play well."

"We have been waiting for this for a long time," Knowles said. "We are hoping for a big crowd, and a great game."

Raines Goes To Bat For Suggs

Montreal Expos superstar Tim Raines will join with Flea World this Saturday for a fund-raiser to benefit the Chuck Suggs Fund. Suggs is the Lake Mary teen-ager who is in London awaiting a heart and lung transplant.

Raines, a Sanford native and graduate of Seminole High School, will appear on center stage at Flea World on U.S. Highway 17-92 near Sanford from 1 to 4 p.m., signing autographs and posing for photos.

Through the sponsorship of Page's One-Hour Photo in the Zayre Plaza in Sanford, fans will be able to pose with Raines for a photo. When they receive the 5 x 7 color photograph it will be personally autographed to them by Raines. Although Raines makes many appearances in Central Florida, this is one of the few times he appears in full uniform.

The highlight of the day will be an auction organized by Flea World owner Syd Levy. Both Raines and Sal Butera, a catcher for the World Champion Minnesota Twins, have donated items such as bats for the auction. Levy is furnishing special "Tim Raines Goes to Bat for Chuck Suggs" tee shirts and caps that are being produced in very limited quantities for the auction.

But the big auction item will be a dinner for two with Tim and Virginia Raines at Freddie's Steak and Seafood House in Fern Park. The restaurant will host the Raineses and the high bidder and his or her guest for an evening of fine food. For the high bidder, it will provide a rare opportunity to talk baseball with one of the game's top players.

The Chuck Suggs cause is special to Raines because he once played youth baseball at Five Points where Suggs also played and now his son Tim "Little Rock" Jr. now plays there.

Stagner Has Fond Fishing Memories

What does the word "fisherman" mean to you? Most people probably envision a man racing down the river in a high-powered bass boat. Others think of a group of men going far offshore in a big boat. Some would think of a boy dangling his toes in the water while fishing for bream with a cane pole.

Kathryn Stagner of Sanford gives new meaning to the word fisherman. Although she is 89 years old, and her physical condition prevents her from fishing today, some of her fondest memories are those spent while fishing. Her eyes twinkle and her voice becomes zesty as she recalls those happy hours that she spent on the water.

As a young woman, Kathryn was introduced to fishing by her husband, Jim. Kathryn recalls that "my husband was more expert at fishing, but I was more enthusiastic. I soon learned the skill of fishing well enough to go by myself, and often did. I also learned that to go fishing was not just a lazy person's excuse to get out of doing something unpleasant. It fulfills an urge to gamble. It provides comedy for those who have a sense of humor. There was also the thrill of the preparation to go—the anticipation of coming home with a nice catch or perhaps a lunker."

Kathryn also relates many exciting experiences that occurred while fishing. She remembers "the mingled odors of fish frying and coffee brewing over hot embers. The sounds of the night birds calling and the bellow of a bull alligator added to the excitement. Kathryn recalls the "exasperation of some animal getting into the food supply and causing you to go back to town for more provisions or quit camping before you intended to."

She remembers being chased by a bull when taking a short cut through a pasture to her favorite fishing hole. Kathryn also had to flip away water moccasins that attempted to get into the boat with her.

Kathryn not only enjoys fishing, she also displays a love of life and the great outdoors. Some of her fondest memories are not necessarily of loading the boat with fish, but of the joys and excitement she spent while fishing. Maybe we could all learn something from this wise woman. At times, I think we all get caught up in the race to catch the most and the biggest fish. We all need to slow down and "smell the roses" like Kathryn. There is much excitement to be shared and many fond memories to be made while on the water.

As Kathryn so skillfully states, "I like to fish because there are interesting and exciting bonuses that add to the peaceful, relaxing joy of waiting for a fish to take the bait at the end of your line."

Fishing is a universal sport that appeals to many people from all walks of life and all ages. There is no "stereotype" of a fisherman.

Rick Rawlins from Highland Park said that speck fishing in Lake Woodruff is good and steady. Many boats are averaging from 20-30 of these tasty fish. Bass fishing is Sanford's Kathryn Stagner, 89, still has fond memories of the many happy hours she spent on the water.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Union chief Gene Upshaw, saying "we're still in existence," claims he has the support of NFL players as he embarks on an expected two-year court struggle with league owners.

NFL Players Association officials Wednesday announced the first major step in the legal battle since their antitrust suit against the owners of the NFL's 28 teams was filed Oct. 15 — seeking a court order declaring 527 players free agents able to sign with any team.

The list, about one-third of all NFL players, includes John Elway of Denver, Steve Largent of Seattle, Andre Tippett and Tony Eason of New England.

The Portland Trail Blazers caught the Los Angeles Lakers undermanned Wednesday night and administered a whipping that helped ease the embarrassment of a 56-month drought in the Forum.

'We're not going to get all excited about beating them one time. They're still an outstanding team and they were playing without (James) Worthy, but we will enjoy this one.'

Clyde Drexler added 28 points as the Trail Blazers won for the first time in their last 20 games at the Forum, dating to April 1983.

'This was an ugly effort,' Lakers Coach Pat Riley said. 'We're fooling ourselves. We had the easiest schedule in the league, with nine of our first 13 games at home. We've been caught by the fact that we were 10-2.'

Kiki Vandeweghe returned to the Trail Blazers lineup after missing six games with back spasms, and scored 16 points in 33 minutes off the bench.

In other games, Boston smashed New Jersey 130-99, Cleveland clipped Seattle 104-102, Detroit dumped Milwaukee 115-105, Indiana edged Washington 108-102, San Antonio stopped Houston 97-83, Denver drubbed Sacramento 147-120, Chicago beat Utah 105-101 and the LA Clippers downed Philadelphia 88-85.

At Richfield, Ohio, Mark Price and Phil Hubbard each scored 22 points and Brad Daugherty added a pair of free throws while Grant collected eight assists.

Freshman Lifts Pittsburgh

United Press International
When guard Curtis Aiken finished his career at Pittsburgh, Coach Paul Evans needed a shooter to take the pressure off the inside game of Charles Smith and Jerome Lane.

Freshman Sean Miller showed evidence Wednesday night he may be that shooter.

Miller scored 20 points, connecting on all six of his 3-point attempts, to help the No. 4 Panthers to an 88-70 victory over St. Francis (Pa.).

With the Red Flash defense sagging on Smith and Lane, the Panthers, 2-0, could only manage a 36-34 halftime advantage.

Smith finished with 19 points, 13 in the second half, and Lane scored 14 points and grabbed 14 rebounds.

Stocks Open Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices opened narrowly mixed today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 6.63 Wednesday, was up 1.99 to 1850.98 shortly after the market opened.

Declines, however, led advances 469-460 among the 1,377 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 31,477,000 shares.

This morning, the Deutsche Bundesbank, West

Germany's central bank, lowered its discount rate to 2.5 percent, from 3 percent.

The Bundesbank council announced the move after meeting for about four hours amid speculation in the financial markets on whether the discount would be cut and by how much. The cut takes effect Friday.

The stock market failed to sustain a late afternoon advance Wednesday and closed with a mixed performance in relatively quiet trading that testified to the market's apparent lack of conviction.

Rate Cuts Rally Dollar

The dollar opened lower but quickly turned higher on major world money markets today following cuts by major central banks. Gold was lower.

In early New York trading, the dollar was sharply higher against key foreign currencies in active trading.

Tim Scala, Treasury manager of Manufacturers & Traders Trust Co., said cuts in interest rates by key central banks including the West German Bundesbank, Austrian National Bank and the Dutch National Bank pushed the dollar higher.

Scala said currency traders were pleased with the Bundesbank's announcement that it had lowered the official discount rate by 0.5 percent to 2.5 percent.

The Bundesbank council announced the move after meeting for around four hours amid rampant speculation in the financial markets on whether the discount would be cut and by how much. The cut takes effect Friday.

The one-half point discount cut would tend to brake the relentless rise of the Deutschmark against the dollar by making the yield on mark-denominated investments relatively less attractive.

The Austrian National Bank announced it would also cut its discount rate and its Lombard rate 0.5 percent to 3 and 4.5 percent as part of a coordinated move with the Bundesbank, effective Friday.

Before the cuts were announced the dollar was lower.

And several major banks in London announced cuts in the U.K. base lending rates to 8.5 percent from 9 percent.

Scala said currency traders were pleased with the Bundesbank's announcement that it had lowered the official discount rate by 0.5 percent to 2.5 percent.

Igou told the jury they didn't have to decide if Brown killed Banks, he had already admitted that. "You (the jury) have to decide if the murder was premeditated, and I think it clearly is," he said.

Brown took as long as three days to plan and execute his murder of Banks, according to Igou. "If you look inside the head of Sammy Brown, I think you'll find it's a very dark place in their."

Igou told the jury. If the jury decided the murder was premeditated by Brown, they could recommend he be given the death penalty for the crime.

Marvin Davis, Brown's attorney told the jury this is not a case of a murder over a bag of marijuana, but a $7 misunderstanding over the gas money debt. "Folks have gotten into this kind of trouble over less money than this," he said.

Davis told the jury the state had not showed them a clearly woven tapestry of the crime, as Igou said it had, but rather a "crazy quilt" without all the pieces being where they should.

The case is before retired Broward County Judge Humes T. Lasher. Lasher is here helping with Seminole County's caseload.

to become well-known by the students so they can go to her about problems they might have," Brewer said.

The School Resource Officer Program, about eight years old, attempts to prevent crime by teaching on a "pre-delinquent" basis, Riggins said, showing youths that crime isn't cool and that law enforcers are "not out to get them."

Combes gives Kloth credit for working out a situation in which her daughter Karl, 15, was being threatened last year. "My daughter was making herself sick because she didn't want to go to school due to the threats. Jan was totally responsible for working that out.

"She's grown 100 percent in confidence this past year," Combes said of her daughter. "I attribute 75 percent of that to Deputy Jan."

Riggins said Brewer wrote a letter to Polk, citing examples of conflict between Brewer and Kloth and saying Kloth was not working out as Tuskawilla's SRO. Polk "has the last word on who stays and who goes" according to the SRO contract and decided it was best that Kloth be transferred to South Seminole Middle School, Riggins said.

As a coincidence had it, Kloth is now working under South Seminole Principal Curtis Hughes, who was principal at Tuskawilla when Kloth first became an SRO, Riggins said.

"Knowing Jan, he was very glad to get her back since they worked together at Tuskawilla," Riggins said.

"We've been waiting four years for this," said Vivian Bowden, assistant principal at South Seminole, about the school's first SRO. "We're thrilled to death to have her."

"Karl was recovering from surgery when she found out (about Kloth's dismissal), and she was devastated," Combes said of her daughter. "You'd have thought that someone died."

"She's plenty strict, but the kids still like her," Singleton said of Kloth. "She seems genuinely concerned about them."

—Woman's Club Holiday Fashions—

Over 450 patrons were on hand when the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. presented the Annual Holiday Fashion Show and Tasting Luncheon at the Sanford Civic Center. The glitzy event was a show-stopper and heralded the beginning of a bustling holiday season for the Sanford Community.

Previously, the Education Department of the club has presented a fashion show in the spring with proceeds going toward a scholarship fund. Annually the club presents a scholarship to a deserving young woman over 25 who is returning to school to better herself. This year, the Holiday Tasting Luncheon and fashion show were combined. The scholarship winner will be announced when she is selected in the spring.

Hazel Cash was the luncheon chairman and Dolores Lash and Mary Anne Cleveland were the fashion show chairmen. The abundance of door prizes was arranged by Lorraine Fiorelli. Jean Clontz was the mistress of ceremonies.

Sanford businesses participating included: Lois' Place, RoJay, Fabias, Forever Fashion, Children's Shop and Kader Jewelers. The furs were from La Belle's Furs, Orlando.

Accompanying photos show some of the models setting the pace for the holidays.

Blood Donors Needed During The Holidays

The holidays are a time of special celebration and busy activities. Area emergency rooms will be busy too, and many emergency patients will be needing blood, according to a Central Florida Blood Bank spokesman. The blood bank is asking individuals to take a few minutes during the holidays to share their good health with others by giving blood. Blood donors will receive a coupon for 50 percent off the regular admission price to Sea World if they donate through Dec. 27.

"The community blood supply traditionally decreases during this time of the year because many regular donors are on vacation or busy with holiday activities," said Stephanie Fuller, communications manager at Central Florida Blood Bank. "However, accidents and emergencies often increase during this same time, making it even more difficult to maintain an adequate blood supply."

"Come roll up your sleeve during the holiday season and give a lifesaving gift to a patient who needs you," said Fuller. Donors must be at least 17 years old and weigh at least 103 pounds. There is no upper age limit. Central Florida Blood Bank, Seminole County Branch, is located at 1302 E. Second St., in Sanford and is open Monday and Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Tuesday and Thursday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. For more information, call 322-0822.

105 6th Grade Classes Compete In 3rd Public Speaking Program

All nine Seminole County middle schools are participating in the third annual 4-H Tropicana Public Speaking Program. One-hundred-five 6th grade classes have been developing skills on speech writing and presentations. The program is structured in such a way that it is part of the normal classroom activity with the excitement of a contest.

The project puts emphasis on the benefits for every student to participate. Each student receives a Certificate of Participation. There is competition at the classroom, school, and county level. The program helps to develop an enthusiasm for additional communication skills and for speaking in front of groups.

This year over 2,100 students participated in this additional activity. This can be attributed to the fact that English teachers were willing to go above and beyond their regular curriculum to give students additional learning opportunities. This special 4-H project is sponsored by Seminole County 4-H and Tropicana Products, Inc.

The county-wide contest where the first place winners in each middle school gives their speech, will be on Monday, Dec. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Seminole County School Board meeting room. The public is invited. This year, judges will be Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith, professional storyteller Jennifer Bausman, and Seminole Sentinel Editor Don Boyette.

Your Husband Needs Expert Help, Quickly

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband is 53, 5 feet 7, weighs 165 and was told four months ago that he had blood pressure of 140/100, cholesterol in the 750s and triglycerides over 1000. He's taking Inderal and Questran. His blood pressure is down but his triglycerides are over 1300. He's gotten very short-tempered and feels tired all the time. He won't quit his two-pack-a-day smoking habit. What's the next step?

DEAR READER — Your husband has two conditions that are statistically related to heart disease: high blood pressure (hypertension) and excess blood cholesterol (hypercholesterolemia). Fortunately, with modern drugs and a scrupulous low-fat diet, these conditions can be treated.

The blood pressure usually can be brought down by medicine, such as Inderal, a beta-blocker. The blood-fat problem may be harder to control. Questran (cholestyramine resin) is a substance that binds cholesterol in the intestine and prevents its absorption into the body. Questran does not appreciably affect triglycerides, the other major form of blood fat.

Your husband should be under the supervision of metabolic specialists, such as can be found in most teaching centers and multi-specialty clinics. Questran may not be the most effective medicine for him; other, newer drugs might be more appropriate. Further, he should stop smoking, eat a low-fat diet, avoid alcohol and be checked for diabetes, a common cause of elevated blood fats. His short temper and fatigue may be consequences of his medicine.

In my opinion, your husband is sitting on a time bomb. He must get expert medical help and do whatever he can to alter his lifestyle so that his blood pressure and blood fats can be brought under control.

DEAR DR. GOTT — After dermabrasion, can skin be grafted to the affected area to help improve appearance?

DEAR READER — Dermabrasion is the sanding off of the outer layers of skin. After a properly performed procedure, new skin from the deeper layers grows out to replace the old that was removed. Ordinarily, skin grafting is not required. However, such grafting could be performed if necessary.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

North did not have to jump to four spades. Bidding three would have been enough. That way South would not get so carried away that the partnership winds up in five spades, a contract that any bridge player should abhor. Still, there declarer was in an 11-trick contract under his own power, and he had to figure out the best play to bring it home.

East won the ace of diamonds and continued the suit. The cards played indicated that West was now out of diamonds. Although the location of the spade ace was uncertain, declarer had to guard against the likelihood that East held the spade ace and West the spade jack. In that event, how could declarer prevent West from ruffing a third round of diamonds with the spade jack? Declarer cashed his heart ace, traveled to dummy with a high club and played K-Q of hearts, throwing his diamonds away. Now I played a spade from dummy. East grabbed the ace immediately and played the expected diamond. What now?

Since East had shown six diamonds with his jump bid and had followed to three rounds of hearts, it was very unlikely that he began with A-J-x of spades. Declarer's best chance is to ruff with the king or queen of spades and play the other one. If West started with J-5-2 of spades, there is no hope for the hand anyway.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Noel YOUR BIRTHDAY DECEMBER 4, 1987

In the year ahead, you will begin to reap benefits from two projects that appeared to be only mildly promising. In fact, they may turn out to be your biggest gainers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone who has known you for a long time is thinking about taking you into his or her confidence regarding a matter that could prove financially rewarding. Major changes are ahead for Sagittarians in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone you'd least expect is saying lots of nice things about you to others. You'll be quite flattered when you learn this person's identity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It looks like you may derive some type of material benefits today from a rather peculiar development. It will be cloaked in secrecy.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Select companions today whose thinking and interests closely parallel yours. People with whom you don't share common interests may make you uncomfortable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will have some important insights today. They will be extremely helpful to one close to you who is unable to find his or her own answers.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Yours will be the steadiest hands on the helm today in an important personal relationship. Keep this in mind if critical decisions are required.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today shouldn't be devoted to all fun and games. There's a delicate matter that needs prompt attention and sober reflection. Don't neglect it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There will be a favorable shift in conditions today. This will result in the strengthening of a bond that is vital to you at the present time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You won't enjoy resting on your laurels around the house today, so try to be productive. Improve or mend something that needs fixing.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be in a communicative mood today, but not for idle chatter. Involve yourself with people from whom you may be able to learn something of value.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're presently in a favorable cycle where your determination is equal to any challenge with which you may be faced. It's a good time to advance self-interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A good old-fashioned talk today with a close friend could reveal some information about which you've been curious, but unable to acquire from other sources.

Turnabout Is Not Fair Play In World Of Men's Fashion

DEAR ABBY: Why, oh why, the double standard? Over the years women and girls have dressed in every conceivable piece of men's attire. They wear our trousers. They wear our suits. They wear our shirts. They wear our T-shirts. They wear our blue jeans, and now they are wearing our boxer shorts—outside, no less—and everyone thinks it's cute and harmless.

Dear Abby

Just let a boy (or man) put on a pair of panties and all the women go bonkers! They rush the poor guy off to the nearest psychiatrist for "counseling." Can you imagine the horror and furor that would ensue if a boy walked down the street with a pair of frilly panties over his jockey shorts? Half the women in town would be down to the police station trying to get him locked up! The other half would be locking their daughters in the linen closet.

Abby, maybe you can explain it. I sure can't.

PERPLEXED IN LARGO, FLA.

DEAR PERPLEXED: Conditioning, my friend. Nearly 50 years ago, Marlene Dietrich stunned the world when she appeared in public in a tuxedo and a mannish hat. Everyone thought she looked gorgeous! (She did, she'd have looked gorgeous in anything—or nothing.)

But a man in a frilly negligee? No way. It's not fair. But who said life was fair?

DEAR ABBY: I am a long-time single father of two boys (11 and 13). It's their school's policy that on campus they may not kiss a girl or hold her hand. They do not understand. How do I best explain this to them other than "It's school policy?"

They're both responsible, considerate and loving, and, as their father, I love them a responsible, considerate and loving answer.

So, Abby, I'm asking for some 1987 advice for these super sons. They are both well-informed about puberty, sexually transmitted diseases, AIDS, pregnancy and responsibility, but they would still like to at least hold their girls' hand. Respectfully,

SACRAMENTO SINGLE DAD

DEAR DAD: Having given your young sons a thorough grounding in every aspect of sex education, these well-informed young men surely know that touching and kissing are the preliminaries to more serious expressions of affection. Now, explain that although "wanting" to kiss a girl and hold her hand is natural, school policy forbids it, and, therefore, they must respect the rules. Period.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is always late. She gives lame excuses, and seems to feel that this makes up for having kept a number of people waiting—sometimes as long as an hour!

How do we get across to her that she is very inconsiderate, if not downright rude?

TIRED OF EXCUSES

DEAR TIRED: If you want to give her the message that she's inconsiderate and rude, tell her. If you want to cure her, the next time she's late—don't wait for her. The habit of being chronically late is reinforced when forgiving friends put up with it.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 13-year-old son who is in the eighth grade. Yesterday he talked in study hall, so as a punishment, he had to stand at the chalkboard with a small piece of chalk between his nose and the chalkboard for a half-hour for three days in a row.

The person who imposed this punishment on him was not a regular teacher; she just watches the kids during study hall period.

What I want to know is this: Would that be considered some kind of child abuse? If so, how can I stop this from happening again? I am very upset about this and need to know.

VIOLET

DEAR VIOLET: It doesn't matter what you call it; humiliating a student in the manner you described is inappropriate punishment for any kind of misconduct. Report her to the school principal.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been laid off for nearly a year and we are having a really rough time of it. Is there a tactful way to stop exchanging Christmas gifts? We can't afford to end any gifts this year, and we don't want anyone to send us anything. So how can we get the word out?

SHORT IN FORT WORTH

DEAR SHORT: I've made this suggestion in previous years: Come early December, write a note to those on your Christmas gift list saying: "We are thankful for folks with whom we can be honest. We're not in a position to send Christmas gifts this year (nor do we expect any), but please accept our love and sincere good wishes for a happy, healthy, blessed holiday."

They're Tops In Agri-Business

Sanford Kiwanis Club recently made four presentations to persons who have excelled in the agri-business in Sanford and Seminole County. The awards were made by Sam Brashear, chairman of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Agri-Business Committee.

Lee Moore, born in Palmetto, received the Service to Agriculture Award in the Field of Business. Moore has served the community more than 20 years through Sunniland Corp., Sanford, and as Sanford Mayor. Two of his company departments, Building Materials and Chemicals, evolved from the company's early desire to fulfill their own needs in the farming business.

The Agricultural Production Award went to John Lommerse who began Dutch Mills Nursery, a wholesale operation, on Upsala Road, Sanford, in 1961. Today, his nursery includes 23 greenhouses where Lommerse, his wife and four children work daily.

Dr. John F. Darby received the Service to Agriculture Award in the Field of Research. During his 20 years as director of the University of Florida's Agricultural Research and Education Center in Sanford, Darby directed several educational research programs including the use of water hyacinths for controlling water pollution and the development of "petroleum mulch" to prevent diseases in cucumbers.

William R. Llewellyn, vegetable specialist with the Agriculture Extension Service, was the recipient of the Service to Agriculture — Education and Government Award. He began his service to Seminole County in 1953 as a lab technician and later served four and one-half years in Southeast Asia under an International Development Grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. From 1973-1980 Llewellyn worked in Broward County before assuming his present job with Seminole, Orange, Ocala and Volusia Counties.
