Police apprehend child abductor

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — A week after kidnapping her infant daughter from a legal guardian's home, Angela Patton is back behind bars.

Altamonte Springs police, acting on a tip, located and arrested the 27-year-old mother Wednesday afternoon at the Travelodge Motel on Douglas Avenue. Patton was being sought on a warrant for parental abduction and burglary issued Oct. 20 by the Seminole County Sheriff's office.

Patton was being held in the Seminole County jail on a Grand Theft charge earlier this year. While in custody in January and going through labor that led to the birth of her abducted daughter, Deja Patton, she attempted to escape from Central Florida Regional Hospital but was quickly recaptured. Patton was later released but failed to show for court hearings on the Grand Theft and Escape charges. Last Wednesday she appeared at the home of her daughter's legal guardian and took the eight-month-old child.

Deputy attempts to rescue home owner

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — A Wekiva area homeowner and a Seminole County deputy were injured Wednesday morning as the result of a house fire at 122 Ludlow Drive.

Home owner Richard V. Cox, 50, was airlifted by helicopter to Orlando Regional Medical Center for treatment following his escape from the burning home shortly after 7:30 a.m. Cox was apparently in the garage of the home when it caught fire.

Deputy Rick Kolentus was on patrol in the area when he heard the dispatch call. Upon his arrival, Kolentus was informed by a neighbor that Cox was still inside the structure. Kolentus smashed a window to gain access in an attempt to search for Cox who had already escaped outside. While smashing glass Kolentus cut his hand and received stitches at Florida Hospital in Altamonte Springs.

Firefighters had to take a cautious approach to extinguishing the blaze. Several guns and ammunition were stored in the garage and a number of rounds detonated from the heat. No one was injured by the exploding ammunition. Deputies took possession of the charred weapons at the request of the Seminole County Fire department.

The State Fire Marshal's office is continuing its investigation into the cause of the fire.

Orlando Regional Medical Center spokesman Joe Brown said Cox was admitted to the hospital's burn unit for evaluation.

"He is listed in stable condition with first- and second-degree burns to the facial and neck areas," said Brown. "The kind of injuries that are associated with flash-type burns."

Board fails to take action

Battle continues over Commissioner Steve Miller's shed

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Longwood's Board of Adjustment was forced to table a decision on a request for variance by City Commissioner Steve Miller Wednesday night.

A vote of 2-1 to deny the variance request came in the absence of one board member and the withdrawal of board chairman Jim Daly from the vote. Daly is one of two Longwood residents who filed a complaint against Miller for violating city code by placing a shed on his property in a location that requires a setback variance. Without three votes the motion goes nowhere. The board will take the issue up again at a 6 p.m. meeting scheduled for Nov. 29.

Board members heard a lengthy presentation by developer Mike Hattaway on behalf of Miller who was absent from the meeting.

Hattaway characterized the variance situation as "An item that has gotten out of hand and needs to move forward."

Hattaway claimed the city's Development Review Board got involved in side issues related to its 4-2 vote recommending denial of the variance request weeks ago.

Hattaway presented board members several pictures depicting Miller's property and argued that Miller's request was

School board asks state to cut strings tied to incentives

State says money must be used for facilities, not staff positions

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board is appealing restrictions placed on spending the $1.9 million in state funds for the 14 schools with "A's" in the state's accountability report.

The Florida Department of Education only allows school-districts to spend the funding on facilities. None of the funding can be spent on hiring new staff.

Because several schools receiving "A's" were planning to spend part of the funding on hiring new staff, the Board will appeal the restriction to the Attorney General's Office.

"We thought that the funding would be left entirely up to the schools," said School Board Chairman Larry Furlong.

"Apparently, that is not the case."

Governor Jeb Bush's A+ Plan calls for schools to receive letter grades based on factors such as suspension rates, attendance, high school graduation rates and student scores on the Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test (FCAT), which measures reading, writing and math skills.

Seminole County's 14 top performing schools reaped $1.9 million in awards from the state's A+ Plan. School-district officials are grateful for the windfall, but still say changes are needed in the grading system.

"I believe in rewarding schools for doing a good job," said Seminole County School Board Chairman Larry Furlong. "I'm just not sure that averaging a bunch of test scores and creating competition among schools that don't start off at the same plane is the best way to do it."

The appeal is the latest in a series of changes that the School Board wants to see made in the A+ Plan.

The Board is seeking to eliminate out-of-school suspensions as a factor in calculating grades

This golden ager isn't giving up yet

The Golden Age Games will never be the same again. Kids are competing this year. Tots, Toddlers.

Teenyboppers.
Here's what has happened. Ever since the Games began, entrants had to be 55 years old. Golden Agers. Some were 80, 90 or 100. But 55 was the youngest.

Now, all a guy or gal needs to be is 50 — those with birthdays before Dec. 31 can compete at age 49.

That's the word from Lisa Jones, chairman of the 25 Annual Golden Age Games.

"This," she said, "will make it more challenging for the older kids."

Well, folks, I'm one of the older kids being challenged, a four-year veteran of Golden Age Games.

And, a four-year loser. I haven't even come close to a medal. Even Shaq makes more free throws than I do. Last year, some guy pinged me silly at table tennis.

My best showing was at

"Name That Tune." Unfortunately, there are no medals for this event. They gave me a towel one year, a chocolate bar the next. That was it — a towel and a chocolate bar. Lisa Jones probably thought I'd throw in the towel. Well, she's wrong.

I'm back even though I won't win anything. The Golden Age Games aren't about winning or losing. It's a chance to act your age. To accept the agony of 'da feist.

To go on when your arms are too weary. To go through hell for a heavenly treat.

After a pep talk with Leonard Stone from Sanford Bay, I'm determined to compete in the Golden Age Games until I'm old enough to win.

"The secret," Mr. Stone said, "is to reach your 90s. Then you find out that hardly anyone is left to beat you."

Mr. Stone, you see, is 92. We warmed up on the basketball court last year. Before I got tired. I plan to move into serious medal contention 20 to 30 years from now. My targets are the Golden Age Games of 2020 and 2030. Lord willing, I'll be 80 in 2020 and 90 in 2030. That will give me plenty of time to work on all my games — and a few new ones not yet invented. (Super Snore, Total Bore).

Meanwhile, it's terrific to see so many splendid seniors competing in the Golden Age Games. For some, these are the games they could not play when they were young. Games they missed because of the Great Depression or service during World War II.

The television commentator, Tom Brokaw, refers to these men and women as being part of The Greatest Generation. Those of us who were born while World War II was being waged are gaining on The Greatest Generation.

And, so it is we welcome a new wave of kiddies to the Golden Age Games. Here's some advice. Bring the BenGay, brush up on your tunes, and be kind to us oldies.

The Way We Were

Remembering the town of Mellonville

Here again is information from "The Story of Sanford" by Mary Lettler Strong.

"General Henry Sanford, one time United States Minister to Belgium, purchased from General J. E. Finnegan part of an old Spanish Grant known as the Levi Grant on the shores of Lake Monroe. (This was in 1870.)

"He began to erect a town just west of the town of Mellonville with the help of J. A. McDonald and Major Mathew Marks.

"A wharf was built at the foot of Palmetto Avenue and a large store building was erected near the dock. This building became a general merchandise store managed by H. L. DeForest from Connecticut. Traders came from miles around to trade, camping overnight nearby.

"Mr. DeForest later built a store of his own halfway up the block towards First Street. He also accumulated a great deal of property in the town and also orange grove interests in the vicinity of Bel Air.

"A tract of land extending eastward from Sanford Avenue to the western boundary of the town of Mellonville, and from Fifth Street to the lake, was the property of Samuel Chapman and Judge J. Wofford Tucker. It was bought May 14, 1870 from General J. E. Finnegan and his wife and became known as the Chapman-Tucker addition.

"General Sanford and Judge Tucker were friends, but didn't always see eye to eye in business matters. This was proven by the job in the street where East Second Street joined Union Avenue at Sanford Avenue (now a continuation of Second Street).

"The town was incorporated in 1877 (September 29) and according to W. J. Hill, boasted only eight registered voters in its first election. The boundaries were then extended, temporarily, to include New Upsala whose inhabitants understood little English. Mr. Hill, who was the inspector, did all the voting.

"Mr. James E. Ingraham became General Sanford's bookkeeper and agent with power of attorney to sign all legal documents. Mr. T. E. Pearson became the first mayor and Mr. George Turner the first city marshal.

"After the Lyman Bank Building was erected (on the corner of First Street and Park Avenue) the Rev. Lyman Phelps became postmaster with Frank Forster as his assistant. Mr. Fuller and his son, Eugene, carried the mail, first from the boat and later from the train for several years. This was one of only two post offices in Central Florida; two years later it became the distribution point for 46 post offices in the interior.

"A few houses were built, among which was the row of homes on Second Street between Sanford and Palmetto Avenues. As long as they stood there they were known as the DeForest cottages.

"They were first occupied by Charlie Schoonmaker, a river captain, and his wife, Esquire Moore, his wife and daughter, the DeCottes sisters who later became Mrs. J. E. Ingraham and Mrs. F. P. Forster. Another early house was the old Correa house, for many years the home of Captain E. W. Dunn and family, later the residence of W. M. Haynes (possibly 314 Magnolia Avenue).

"The great exodus from the town of Mellonville began after fire destroyed all of the business part of the town (circa 1880). Those who had been burned out rebuilt in Sanford and their family members also moved to Sanford. Workmen came from many sections of the state to take part in this building boom.

"Mr. John Kelley was the first merchant to get his new store finished and with Mr. C. H. Lettler began business at the corner of Sanford and Union Avenues.

"The next year Mr. Lettler bought and remodeled a building at the east end of First Street and opened a store of his own. Other occupants of his building were Hudnal and Votorline Shoes, T. M. McRae Drugs, Max Myerson's Mens Wear. Over the Myerson Store was where the first Methodist Sunday school was organized. (I'm not sure whether this building was the one on Sanford or First Street.)

"A Negro by the name of Bobo had a barber shop nearby. Some years later, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Marshall built a laundry on this site. To the south on the Avenue (Sanford Avenue) Dr. Frank Caldwell and Dr. Wyley built a pretty little cottage which they used as an office.

"Across Union Avenue to the south, a Mr. Chase (no relation to the Sidney Chase family) built the San-Leon Hotel which had for its kitchen the former Dr. Tucker home where the first public school was taught. Judge George Nolan was the first owner.

"One of his sons rode his horse into the hotel on one occasion while he was drunk. All of this family were musical and played several instruments. The Wizard Oil Company would come to town each year and put on a free show to advertise their medicine. This was supposed to cure anything that ailed you from snake bite to tooth ache.

"Businesses were built on each side of Sanford Avenue as far south as Fourth Street. On the west side, Bailey McCauley erected almost a block of buildings reaching across to Park Avenue. These included a livery stable, blacksmith shop, swimming pool and laundry.

"The back of the laundry blew up one day and caused the destruction of most of the buildings. Ernie Webb, the proprietor, was the only one hurt.

"On the east side of Sanford Avenue Mr. A. Morey erected a grocery store and a little green cottage which was first occupied by Paul Parramore and family.

"In 1886, Martin and Lettler (W. E.) opened a grocery store on the southeast corner of Sanford and Third Street, but after a couple of years, Mr. Martin bought the San Leon property and moved his business to this new location. Mrs. Martin ran the hotel and Aunt Mag Brown, a wonderful servant and cook, presided over the kitchen.

"Just to the north of the fireman's hall on the Avenue, a small frame market was built, later a brick building was erected there with different concerns renting stalls for their various operations.

"The Methodist Church stood at Seventh Street and Sanford Avenue with the public school to its rear on Palmetto Avenue. (This school is what has been called the Little Red Schoolhouse.)

"Mr. Ernest, for whom Ernest Chapel had been named, had a shop and residence at the head of Hughey Avenue and beyond was the Episcopal Church rectory. From there south was open country, with a country home here and there. Mr. Russell had a home and a sawmill about three miles south of town. It was at the edge of Russell Bay; later a road turned east from there to the Golden Lake neighborhood. The Lord Family lived farther south.

"Along First Street, going west, was first Mr. R. A. Stafford's Hardware Store; at its rear, "Squire Moore" sewed mattresses filled with Spanish moss. The moss was raked from the trees, buried in the sand until the vegetable matter decayed leaving a fine hairlike substance. This was a profitable business for the Negroes at that time.

"A man named Sward was an early shoemaker. His store was in the rear of the Original opera house; it was later taken over by another showmaker named Arnot."

Seminole school officials want changes in Bush's A+ Plan

By Bill Korns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board is lobbying for changes in the administration Governor Jeb Bush's A+ Plan.

The Board is seeking to eliminate out-of-school suspensions as a factor in calculating grades under the A+ Plan.

"That part of the factor is really the most egregious part of the plan," said Seminole County School Board Chairman Larry Furlong.

School district principals have said that it is contradictory to encourage schools to take a hard-nosed stance on student discipline, then to use out-of-school suspension rates to lower a school's grade.

In addition, Furlong is concerned that vouchers are given to private schools who do not face the same requirements as public schools. The Board is asking that all of Florida's students in public, charter and private schools that accept vouchers, and home schools take the Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test (FCAT), which is critical in determining a school's grade.

The grading system is part of the same education reform package that created a plan for parents in schools receiving an "F" twice in four years to receive vouchers for private schools.

Other changes that the Board wants to see in the administration of the FCAT include testing later in the year, with the results available within 30 days.

In addition, the Board wants students to be enrolled at a school for 45 days before administration of the FCAT before the grade is counted against a school.

Changes to the state's A+ Education Plan will include improved tracking of student progress, said Florida Department of Education Commissioner Tom Gallagher.

Governor Jeb Bush's 1-year-old A+ Plan provides for schools to receive letter grades based on a standardized test measuring math, reading, and writing achievement, as well as on school attendance, discipline, and high school graduation rates.

However, the rules of the A+ Plan are likely to change, because the law was put into effect without changing old state rules that provided for schools to be ranked on a scale of one to five. The state legislature in December will consider changes to the existing rules concerning school performance standards.

Gallagher said that student scores on the standardized Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test will be among the measurements used to track student progress in elementary, middle and high school. Schools and teachers will then be held responsible for student progress.

Starting in 2002, five percent of teachers' salaries will be based upon student performance, Gallagher said.

One change that the School Board will not seek in the legislature is in the length of the school day. Despite concerns that some students are waiting for school buses before dawn, the Board on Tuesday opted to not seek to move the school day to a later time.

The Board had considered providing additional taxing authority and funding to purchase buses and pay for additional bus drivers needed to start high school classes later in the morning. The matter was not approved.

"Anecdotally, whenever I've been to a class the first thing in the morning, a lot of kids are dosing," Furlong said. "And, it's not because they are all bad students. Too many kids are working too many hours."

Officials estimated that starting the school day at a later time would cost the school district about $25 million.

"I believe we probably have a lot on our legislative plan," said Board member Sandra Robinson. "I don't feel that now is the time to do this, much as I am concerned about kids walking in the dark."

under the A+ Plan. Schools can be graded down by the state based on the number of out-of-school suspensions issued.

"Given the fact that providing a safe and secure environment is our number one priority, holding a school responsible in a negative way for taking appropriate measures is inappropriate," said Ron Pinnell, director of secondary education for the Seminole County school district.

In addition, the Board is asking that all of Florida's students in schools that accept vouchers, as well as home school students take the Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test (FCAT), which is critical factor in determining a school's grade.

"I really think that if you are going to give opportunity scholarships or vouchers, any school that takes the money should also be graded," said Board member Jeanne Morris.

The Board also wants the FCAT to be given later in the year, with the results available within 30 days.

In addition, the Board wants students to be enrolled at a school for 45 days before administration of the FCAT before the grade is counted against a school.

Administrators said mobility of students within schools is not sufficiently accounted for in the system.

"We could have a student show up on our door step one day before the test and be held accountable for him," Morris said.

The state awarded $27.6 million in awards to 323 schools. The recognition program, which began in 1998, is designed to reward schools that demonstrate sustained high or significantly improved student performance. Schools received up to $100 per student.

Seminole County's 14 schools with "A's" on the accountability report will receive $1.91 million in awards. Only three school districts will receive more in awards: Dade County with $2.13 million, and Palm Beach and Broward counties with $1.95 million each.

The top two schools receiving awards in Seminole County are Oviedo High School with $274,020, and Lake Mary High School with $258,732. Only Winter Park High School in Orange County, with $316,364, is receiving a larger award. According to state law, individual schools will choose how to spend the awards.

The grading system is part of the same education reform package that created a plan for parents in schools receiving an "F" twice in four years to receive vouchers for private schools.

The rules governing the grading system may change because the A+ Plan was put into effect without altering state rules that provided for schools to be ranked on a scale of one to five. The state legislature in December will consider making changes to school performance standards.

WIN AT BRIDGE

My kingdom for an entry

By Phillip Alder

In "Timon of Athens," Shakespeare suggested, "Men shut their doors against a setting sun." That's strange behavior; why not enjoy the multicolored sky generated by a setting sun?

Like doors in houses, entries are vital to a bridge player and must be handled carefully. Yet sometimes an entry shortage will give an opponent the chance to produce a clever coup.

Against four spades, West started with his three top clubs, East discarding the heart two and South ruffing. Declarer drew trumps with honors from hand, unblocked the ace-king of hearts, entered dummy with a trump, and played a diamond to his nine. It led to West's king, but West was unplayed. A heart or club lead would have conceded a ruff-and-discard. Yet when West returned a diamond, it was into declarer's ace-jack tenace.

How many chances did the defenders miss to defeat the contract?

The answer is two. First, if West hadn't led out his third top club, instead switching to either a trump or a heart, the endplay wouldn't have worked. Short one dummy entry, South cannot both ruff the club jack and lead a diamond to his nine. When in with the diamond king, West can exit safely with the club queen.

Second, if East is enjoying one of his more lucid moments, knowing by this that South has exactly three diamonds, he will play the queen when the suit is led from the dummy. This coup kills the contract. If declarer ducks, East leads another diamond. If declarer wins, he must lead away from the jack-nine of diamonds. Either way, South loses two diamond tricks for one down.

ASK DR. GOTT

Why does pressure vary arm to arm?

DEAR DR. GOTT: The blood pressure in my right arm is 50 to 100 points higher than that in my left. Why?

DEAR READER: Because the arterial circulation is a free-flowing hydraulic system, the pressure within it does not ordinarily vary from arm to arm, arm to leg, or leg to leg. Small differences in blood pressure readings are usually due to normal fluctuating blood pressure or to technical differences in how the pressure is recorded. For instance, a person with a thin arm will appear to have a lower blood pressure than a thick-armed individual, because the larger arm requires a pressure cuff that is wider in order to record an accurate figure.

In your case, however, the difference between the arms is significant and suggests a condition called subclavian stenosis. Occasionally, such patients will exhibit a higher right arm pressure because of narrowing of the subclavian artery (or the aorta) that feeds the left arm. Such a narrowing causes an elevated pressure in the right arm but not in the left. It is a dangerous condition and can lead to stroke unless the constriction is surgically corrected. Most doctors are alert to this possibility; this is the reason we take blood-pressure recordings in each arm if the pressure on the right side is elevated.

Subclavian stenosis (or aortic narrowing) is unusual. I have seen but two cases in my 30 years of practice. However, once it is discovered, it can be treated and permanently cured. The diagnosis is made by special tests, including magnetic resonance angiography.

I suggest that you discuss your discrepant readings with your doctor. If he or she verifies your figures, you will need further testing.

To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my new and completely updated Health Report "Hypertension." Other readers who would like a copy should send $3 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My sister lives in South America and was recently diagnosed with an unusual skin disease called pemphigus vulgaris. What is this condition?

DR. GOTT

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR READER: This affliction, which is also present in northern climates, is unusual, serious and sometimes known as Brazilian wildfire. The cause is unknown. The disease is marked by the sudden appearance of skin blisters that may involve large areas of the body, eventually burst and peel (like burns), leaving the patient unprotected and susceptible to secondary infection.

Penicillin is associated with causing this affliction, however, it does not cause normal skin. Therefore, it is considered to be one of several autoimmune diseases, in which people become allergic to their own normal tissues.

County intends to strictly enforce no-wake zones

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Recent weather systems that have dumped increased rainfall on Central Florida, combined with the lingering effects of Hurricane Irene, have prompted the Seminole County Commission to take pre-emptive action to protect property and boaters along the St. Johns River.

Commissioners passed an emergency ordinance Tuesday, regulating motorized watercraft to use idle speeds and a no-wake policy along the St. Johns in Seminole County from the mouth of Lake Jesup to Lake Harney. The no-wake rule is indefinite and will likely be lifted when current water levels recede to normal levels. Violators of the no-wake policy face fines of up to $500 and possible arrests.

"It will take at least a couple of weeks for the current water levels to recede," said Captain

William Armstrong of the Seminole County Sheriff's office Tactical Operation Division. "The above normal water tables are as much as 20-feet higher than normal depending on the area and there are some places along the shore line where as much as 30 to 40 to 50 feet of normally dry shore is now submerged."

Armstrong said the emergency ordinance, which will be enforced by the Sheriff's Marine Enforcement Unit, is designed to protect both property owners and boaters.

"There are some areas where water is currently just a few feet from property owners front doors," he said. "Any kind of wake cause by boats or watercraft could easily have those water levels lapping at the front doors of those properties."

Armstrong said boaters and watercraft operators who stray from normal travel channels could likewise risk injury or death and severe boat damage.

"In some areas where the water table has significantly increased, there are submerged fences, private docks, and piers," said Armstrong. "A boater straying into those areas could cause serious injury or death to boat passengers. That's the situation we are trying to avoid."

"We'll be stepping up patrols and responding to complaints. There are currently several hundred acres of coastline normally dry that are now submerged."

Armstrong said the unique south-to-north flow of the St. Johns makes it particularly susceptible to weather conditions and rising water tables.

"There are a great number of tributaries south of Seminole County that flow into the north-bound St. Johns River," he explained.

"Southern Florida got a lot more rainfall from Hurricanes Floyd and Irene than we received here, but we are now feeling its effects."

Armstrong said additional significant rainfall in Central Florida in the next few weeks would lengthen the period the no-wake policy remains in effect.

Wednesday, shortly after noon, a resident of Altamonte Springs approached officers with information about a female who matched Patton's description. Arrest records indicate when Altamonte Springs police arrived at the Travelodge, Patton, the child, and a male were inside room 303.

Patton was carrying her daughter in what police described as a "football" position, and when spotted by police attempted to escape through a year patio door. As police closed in on foot, she ran back into the hotel room, dropped the child on the floor, and attempted to escape again through the front door but was tackled.

Following a health check the child will be returned to the home of the legal guardian.

Patton is expected to make an initial court appearance this afternoon and faces additional charges of parental abduction and burglary. Altamonte Springs police will file additional charges of Resisting Arrest Without Violence, and Child Abuse for dropping young Deja on the floor while police gave chase.

The male found in her room was identified as Armand M. Francis, 27. Francis was also arrested on an outstanding Seminole County warrant unrelated to the child abduction case.

Board

compatible with the character of the neighborhood, was consistent with the policies and objectives of the city's comprehensive land use plan, and that the applicant's request for the variance was the most desirable remedy for the situation.

He pointed to the adjustment board's rulings in the past, stating the board had approved 15 straight variance requests and suggested board members not cave in to "People who live on the other side of the city with an ax to grind with the applicant."

A number of residents spoke against Miller's request for the variance, including city commissioner Rusty Miles.

"There's a little bit more here than the way Mr. Hattaway presented his 'clients' case," said Miles.

"All residents are affected when violations occur and are allowed to occur in the city," Miles said. "Violations affect the property value of everyone."

Miles told the board that Miller was aware of the code violation before placing the shed on his property.

"To be aware and then to willfully violate a city code is not something a city commissioner should be doing," Miles said.

Resident Jimmy Futz also spoke against the variance request.

"Why should Mr. Miller be treated differently?" she asked.

"If this variance is granted it will be a slap in the face to every law abiding citizen in Longwood. We have codes for a reason. He should have to move the illegal structure because he's in violation. He can remove it and then come back before the board."

"Multiple wrongs do not make a right," said Daly, one of the complainants against Miller's shed.

From there the meeting deteriorated into a debate about what constitutes a shed versus a garage, and the argumentative definitions of what is an "attached" structure versus an "unattached" structure.

In a rebuttal to comments against the variance request, Hattaway pointed to the fact many surrounding homes near Miller's have septic systems in front yards instead of back yards, allowing greater access and use of rear property. Hattaway said in reality Miles was asking for a rear setback variance with no abutting property, but space where an abandoned railroad right of way once existed.

Arnold Palmer named Grand Marshal

Special to the Herald

HOMESTEAD - Arnold Palmer, one of the top athletes of the 20th century, has been named Grand Marshal of the inaugural Pennsol 400 presented by Kmart November 14th, the debut of NASCAR Winston Cup Series racing at Homestead-Miami Speedway.

The golfing legend will give the command to start the engines for the 400-mile race, which is the only new event on the 1999 NASCAR Winston Cup schedule.

"I am honored to be the Grand Marshal for the first NASCAR Winston Cup race in Miami," said Palmer. "NASCAR has enjoyed tremendous growth over the past decade, and the addition of the vibrant South Florida market is another great step for the sport."

The Pennsol 400 weekend (Nov. 11-14) also includes the HotWheels.com 300 at Miami on Saturday, the season finale for the NASCAR Busch Series. Tickets are still available for both events by calling (305) 230-RACE.

Palmer has won 92 championships over a spectacular career, including seven major titles. He won the Masters Tournament four times (1959, 1960, 1961 and 1962) and was named the Associated Press "Athlete of the Decade" for the 1960s.

"Arnold Palmer has enjoyed popularity and success that few athletes ever attain, and we are honored to have him as our Grand Marshal for the inaugural Pennsol 400," said Curtis Gray, President of Homestead-Miami Speedway. "His achievements have gone beyond the golfing world, yet he has retained a down-to-earth common touch that has endeared him to generations of Americans."

The Pennsol 400 presented by Kmart weekend opens with NASCAR Winston Cup Series practice on Thursday, November 11. Friday's schedule features qualifying with the 1999 NASCAR Busch Series finale, the HotWheels.com 300 at Miami, set for Saturday. The Pennsol 400 presented by Kmart takes the green flag at 12:30 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 14.

Lake Mary, Lake Brantley square off with 6A-District 2 football title on the line

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - They have been rivals since the day the school doors opened.

But never have the Lake Mary and Lake Brantley football teams met with so much on the line.

Friday night at 7:30 p.m. on Tom Story Field in Altamonte Springs the Rams and Patriots will meet with the Class 6A-District 2 championship likely on the line.

Both team's seasons have striking parallels. Both teams are unbeaten in district play, both teams have hard-fought last-second victories over Oviedo, both teams are coming off impressive beatings of Apopka, and the only losses suffered by both teams were early season set-backs to non-district foe Seminole.

On paper, Lake Brantley (4-0 in district, 6-1 overall and riding a four-game winning streak) would appear to have the edge coming into the game.

The Patriots of head coach George Clayton are the defending district champions, they were idle last week after crushing Apopka 32-6 two weeks ago, and it will also be Lake Brantley's Homecoming game, guaranteeing a huge crowd, not that there should have been any doubt anyway.

But Lake Mary (5-0 in 6A-2, 7-1 overall and on a seven-game winning streak) has been getting better and better each week.

The Rams of head coach Greg Shannon have already reached two of the three goals that the team set down before the season.

Finish with a winning record (the first in a number of years), and make the playoffs.

With its 43-22 victory over Apopka (it wasn't that close) last week, Lake Mary clinched at least a runner-up finish in the district race and a place in the state playoffs.

A win over Lake Brantley would secure the third goal, winning the district championship.

The Rams' fourth goal would obviously be to win the state championship, but they plan on letting the playoffs take care of themselves.

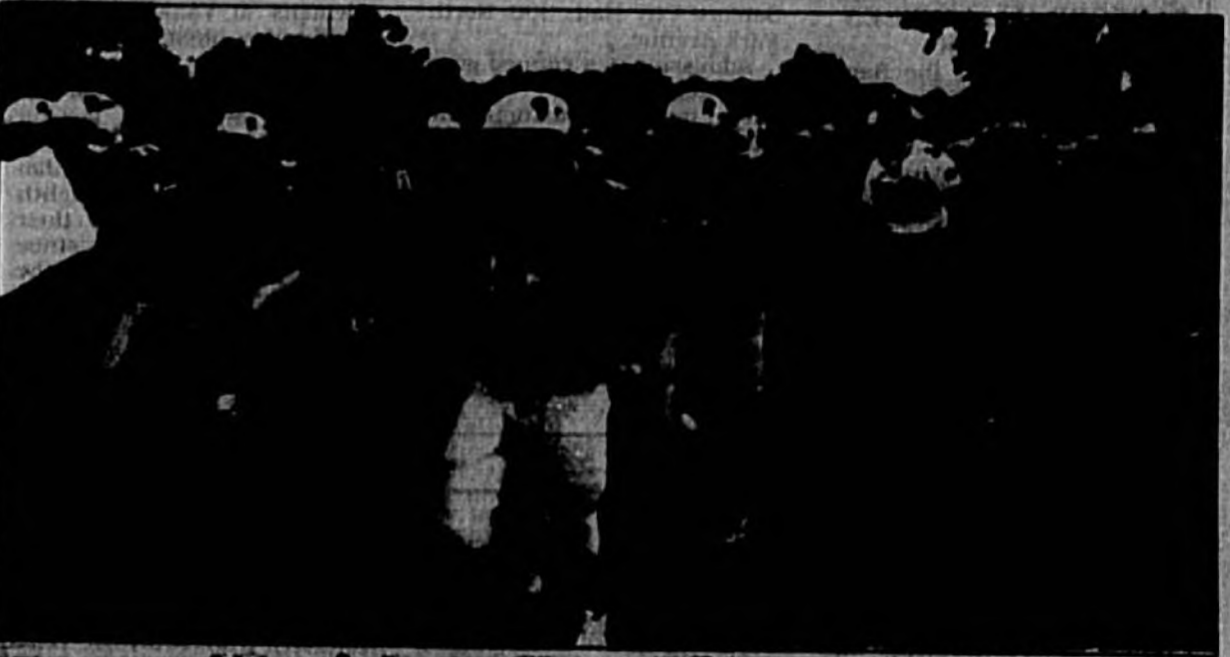

Getting back to that 'likely district championship' mentioned earlier, a Lake Mary win would clinch the title for the Rams, but a Lake Brantley win would not guarantee the Patriots a championship or a spot in the state playoffs as they still have a district game left with once-beaten (by Lake Mary) DeLand (which is at Apopka this week) next week in DeLand.

While the Lake Brantley-Lake Mary matchup is obviously the biggest game on this week's schedule, it is hardly the only important contest.

The other game with the most on the line is the Winter Springs-Lyman face-off at the Carlton Henley Sports Complex in Longwood at 7:30 p.m.

Most fans probably don't know it, but the Bears (3-4 overall, 2-3 in Class 6A-District 4) and Greyhounds (3-3 overall, 5-3 in 6A-2) are still alive in the district race.

Both teams will have to win their final game to reach the playoffs, but it is a matter of when they will be back on the field.

The Lake Mary Rams (top) and Lake Mary Patriots (bottom) will face in Lake Brantley's Tom Story Field on the line Friday at 7:30 p.m.

SEMINOLE, WINTER SPRINGS TO HOST DISTRICT VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT

The Winter Springs Bears, ranked No. 2 in the Class 6A FHSAA State Poll, will be looking for their first Class 6A district championship tonight when they host the 6A-District 2 Tournament at Winter Springs High School starting at 4:30 p.m.

Tribe, Bears favored in today's state qualifiers

BANFORD - The Oviedo girls find the first shot Wednesday evening as the 1999 Girls Volleyball District Tournament season got off to a competitive start. The Lions battled Lake Brantley in a three-game marathon at Winter Springs

High School, with Oviedo coming out on top, 15-10, 19-18 and 15-3. The remainder of the Class 6A-District 2 Tournament will be played this evening at Winter Springs with Lake Mary taking on DeLand at 4:30 p.m. and the host Bears facing the Lions at 6 p.m. in the semifinals. The winner's of those two matches will return for the Championship at approximately 7:30 p.m. Meanwhile, the Class 6A-District 4 Tournament will be played at Seminole High School's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium with Lake Howell and Lyman squaring off at 6 p.m. for the right to face the top-seeded Fighting Seminoles at 7:30 p.m. for the district championship.
