Japanese Toss Furnishings Out Of Manila Hotel

MANILA, Feb. 23 (AP)—(Delayed)—The Japanese hurled furniture, rugs and filing cases from the top floors of the Manila Hotel along the bay front and the 37th Division's 155-mm. Long Tom immediately plastered the hotel's wings with high explosives. Enemy troops were clearly visible on the hotel balconies as they tossed armloads of furnishings into the street. When the shells began to fall they dived inside. The hotel is one of the last intact structures in South Manila, where the destruction is appalling over at least ten square miles. It contained the entire headquarters of the Japanese command, was clearing out the hotel preparatory to burning it.

From the north bank of the Pasig River machine gunners of the 37th swept enemy snailbacked series in a thick wall around the old Spanish city of Intramuros. The Japanese had covered the ports with corrugated iron sheets, over which they draped branches for camouflage.

In brief silences between the roar of bursting shells and the clatter of machine gun bullets, clapping against the stout wall the church bells inside Intramuros could be heard tolling in hours.

You could hear the twitter of birds inside the old city, and the occasional cry of a civilian of whom it is estimated some 7,000 are prisoners of the fanatic enemy garrison.

Rather than risk innocent lives General Douglas MacArthur has banned all dive bombing and strafing of targets within the enemy pocket now compressed to an area about three miles north and south and from a mile in a mile and a half eastward, from the waterfront.

American artillery and mortar fire, which are able to hit the enemy with extraordinary precision, continued unabated, as four soldiers of the 37th Division and the 1st Cavalry Division fought fiercely to hold the Japanese from pillboxes in the City Hall, the Legislative Building, the Post

Representative Attacks Loafing On Capital Jobs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Loafing, "coffee hours", overlong lunch periods and general laxness are causing a 40 per cent loss of man power among government workers, Representative Earl Wilson, Republican, of Indiana asserted this week.

He wants to know why the government can't do something about it. For instance, why don't these workers be made to do what they do on the farm—get up at a decent hour and do a day's work?

"It's a deplorable situation," said the man who once proposed a 10 P. M. curfew for government civil servants if they could get to work on time and with their make-up on. "It's costing the taxpayers millions of dollars and it's a disgrace for a 'Reform Order'."

Representative Wilson's wrath was newly aroused by a Navy Department order to its employees to "reform" by a "Reform Order" which means that they should be on duty during the lunch period and stop running errands on Navy time.

"The Navy itself was 'deplorable' in getting out of the office," Representative Wilson said. "The same is true pervades every government department," he added. "He said that thousands of government employees arrive at

U. S. GIVES GOOD HOUSEWIVES BONUS OF RED POINTS

Patriotic American housewives every day are getting extra red points for doing a job that they alone can do for this country.

For those who wish to get this red-point bonus, here's what to do: Save every drop of your used kitchen fats. Turn them in to your butcher promptly. For every pound, he'll give you 2 red points bonus. . . That's how urgently it's used fats are needed to make medicines, gunpowder, synthetic rubber, soap and a hundred other essentials on the battlefield and home front. Keep saving until the last drop of fat!

The 1940 U. S. census shows that among almost 76 million persons—25 years old or over, 11 1/2 million had eight years or less of schooling, 2 1/4 million had four years or less of high school, and seven and a half million had attended at least one year.

Peacetime production of the French coal fields of Pas de Calais and Nord averaged over 2,400,000 tons a month.

The 1st Cavalry driving north toward Intramuros after having taken Harrison Field and the Royal Memorial Baseball Stadium, cleared extensive mine fields along the southern end of the city, and smashed the superstructure of the ship and set it afire.

The Japanese planted every conceivable type of mine around Dewey Boulevard, Harrison Field and the stadium, which they had created concrete pillboxes with four-foot thick roofs of steel beams covered by sand and top soil with turf.

Pillboxes were placed so as to maintain interlocking fire along the waterfront. They were linked by zig-zag trenches. At street intersections were barriers of sea mines planted in the asphalt. The enemy had also packed large bouys with dynamite and buried them. Rows of aerial bombs were also used, as well as incandescent patterns of foot-high cone-shaped mines.

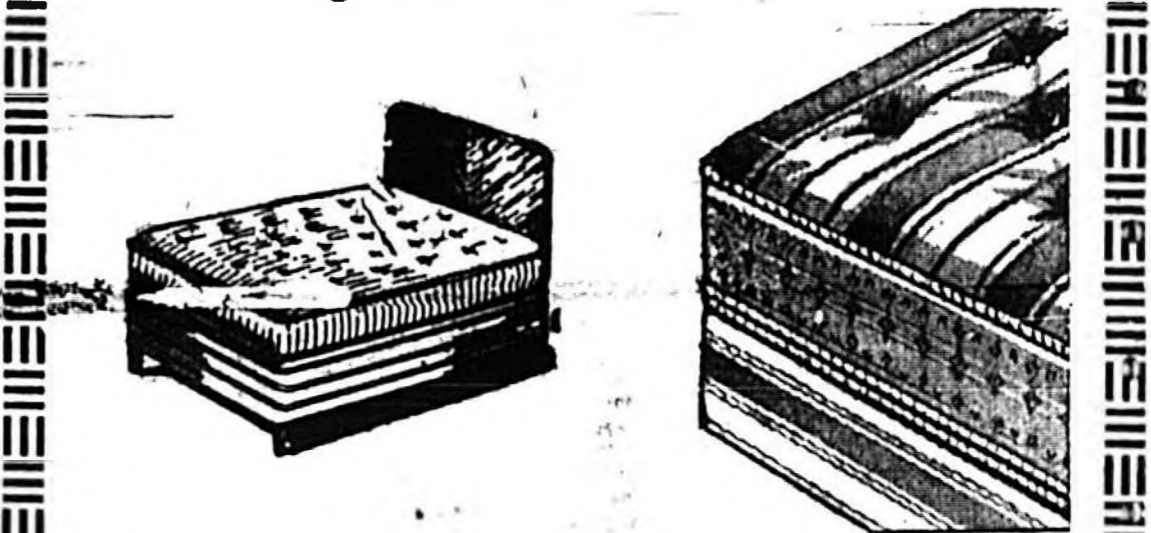

The Pittsburgh Pirates have finished in the first division of the National League 26 times in the past 46 years.

The Hialeah race course is the only horse track in the country maintained as a public park the year-around.

Russians Liquidate 100,000 Germans Continuing Push West of Breslau

ment was believed to have reached the battlefield as some 5,500 tactical planes heaped destruction on German transport lines in the third straight day of attacks aimed at isolating the Germans west of the Rhine.

The enemy flayed continuously from the air, was able to offer no more than moderate resistance as both the First and Ninth Armies sent spearheads across the Cologne Plain from Duern and Julich.

The enemy's First Armored attempt to hold the drive was smashed by the Ninth Army's column at Stettin, five miles west of Julich on the highway to Cologne. The Americans, who had captured Stettin in the early morning, fought a blinding midday battle at Stettin and swept on past the city into a wood 15 miles from Cologne.

The First Army also sent a spearhead within the same distance of Cologne, Germany's fourth city, when Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's division of the 104th Timber Wolves drove the last Germans out of Merzenich and advanced across the Cologne Plain.

Front dispatches said there was a buoyant spirit in the American drive, aided by the smashing success of the first three days and by improving weather. The weather was described as bright, with a spring wind that was drying the ground and giving the Americans good solid footing.

An uninterrupted flow of supplies across the River Rhine was guaranteed when the Ninth Army gained control of a series of hills the show and sale market at Valdosta, and their recommendations will be incorporated in our plans for the Bartow show and sale place.

Shortage Of Labor May Ruin Crops

"The seriousness of the feed situation coupled with disinflation with ceiling prices is reflected in the announcement by the Bureau of Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture at Orlando last week showing a decrease of 13 per cent in poultry, 8 per cent in turkeys, and 9 per cent in hogs in Florida since last year. High feed prices and inability to obtain adequate feeds have made it almost impossible for small producers to show a profit at present ceiling prices for their products. Willows said.

Conditions in specific markets he described as follows:

"Tomatoes took a big drop in price the first of last week at Florida City, but climbed back to $3.75 by the latter part of the week. Poorer grades sold as low as $1.50. Beans brought from $1.50 to $3.00, with pole beans bringing the ceiling of $1.50. Squash prices were also are not working full time and Saturdays, you kindly give me the true facts and tell me about what you need so we may help after them here," he stated.

"Someone is either ignorant or misrepresenting true conditions in Seminole County," Mr. Collins replied in Representative Hendricks' office. "It is perfectly true local laborers are not working full time and virtually none on Saturday, but don't know what we can do about it. Have tried every legal and moral persuasion, through negro leaders, churches, etc. without success. Only about half of negroes show up on Monday. Same condition Friday."

"Nearly all refused to work Saturday," he added. "To present negroes' side of case, they say so many of their relatives in the armed service, they must have time to do home work, and when they do work, they are working 11 to 15 hours a day, some even longer. It is not uncommon for a worker to start at 8:30 o'clock and work until 11:00 at night in the packing houses. However, it is general knowledge that absenteeism, Mondays and Fridays is due to too much pleasure, and is not a reasonable excuse such as Saturday. Please understand most workers left are women."

"Regarding imported labor, there are only 97 workers in the Sanford camp. There are probably around 2,500 negroes used on farms, packing houses in Seminole County. One hundred additional will not avert losses. Need 30, or more but unless we get 100, losses are going to be terrific. I know of one shipper who already plowed up 15 acres of iceberg lettuce due to lack of help. I know of other crops which should have been harvested this week, which will not get harvested and the result will be loss in yield, quality and price, if not abandonment. The weather is hot and there is more cabbage, scarole, celery, iceberg lettuce and citrus than can possibly be harvested with present labor supply."

Representative Hendricks wired back Saturday that he had the Extension Service under direction of the WFA working on the labor problem, and that he had insisted that it send additional laborers to Sanford at once.

ways are eligible for membership in the Association, he added.

Sanford, he pointed out, was a logical location for such a colony by reason of railway men having so many lodges here.

Mayor Edward Higgins, as secretary of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, offered full cooperation of the City and County in furthering plans for such a railroad colony.

Sites are available, he said at minimum cost. Milton H. Baker, assistant organizer of the association addressed the group on purpose of the organization.

A motion was passed to reorganize an association unit formed here with Mr. Stark in 1941.

Chicago College Offers Unique Placement Tests

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHICAGO—The College of the University of Chicago—which accommodates qualified youths who haven't finished high school—now gives unique placement tests to determine the student's academic level and how long he will have to work for a bachelor's degree.

The examinations—they require 14 hours over a three-day period—answer a generic query: "What do you know?" They disclose the scholar's grasp of American history, sciences, reading and writing skills; cultural attainments; reasoning and measure his vocabulary.

Questions cover a tremendous range here are a few samples:

1. Did this statement appear in the Declaration of Independence, the U. S. Constitution, the Bill of Rights or other constitutional amendments, or in none of the foregoing? — "All persons who have reached the age of 21 have the right to vote for elected officials of the federal government."

2. Draw or sketch: "A child gives off more heat in proportion to its weight than does an adult."

3. True or false? — "If all these persons to whom we attribute every invention of the last 100 years had died at birth, we should now probably be living in about the state of technological development of 100 years ago."

4. None of the foregoing? 2. "True"; 3. "False."

A student with two years of high school and considerable diversified reading could demonstrate that he should study with sophomores instead of freshmen. Another, well posted on physical science, could skip the first year in that subject, while a third might have to take all the first year work.

Customers And Grocers Unite In OPA Campaign

cause they realize that run-away food prices would result in chaotic business conditions, even worse perhaps, than those existing here following the last war.

The anti-inflation campaign will be built around increased use on the part of customers of the ceiling price lists on dry groceries, meats and fresh fruits and vegetables.

The chairman of the War Price and Rationing Board in plugging full support of the Board to the project in this area cited figures showing that the peak of inflation of the last World War came long after fighting ceased.

"The immediate problem is to encourage democratic use of the democratic form of price control administered by OPA. That simply means that all consumers who use groceries should check all prices with OPA price lists posted in all stores. Three different types of lists are published: one for dry groceries, one for fresh fruits and vegetables and one for meats. These lists are posted in accordance with OPA regulations so that the retailer really is accessible to customer in the grocery store. In addition, lists are often published in local newspapers."

National surveys have shown over-calling prices charged in a comparatively small number of grocery stores but that women who are overcharged are reticent about reporting grocery prices to their local Board, even when complaining to the over-charging grocer. Sponsors of the current campaign, the retail grocers of the nation, ask women to feel free to question any apparent overcharge to the grocer or to OPA as a protection, not only to themselves, but to the entire grocery chain, by making an honest effort to keep grocery prices in line.

"The fight against postwar inflation—which must be attacked by not OPA's responsibility alone, nor the grocer but by a community responsibility," Mr. Randall said.

where they seized Biechofswalde. This broke out the Choinice, a southern section of the Berlin-Stettin-Danzig Railway, and a late German broadcast said Nazi Reserves were being rushed into this sector 110 miles northeast of Berlin, the main Baltic port of Stettin.

In East Prussia other Soviet forces captured six more localities inside the restricted enemy pocket southwest of Koenigsberg, and repulsed large German counter-attacks on Samland peninsula west of the half-destroyed East Prussian capital. Nazi forces in the latter area were trying to keep open a corridor between Koenigsberg and Pillau, an escape port 25 miles to the west. Moscow said 36 German tanks were destroyed in East Prussia Saturday. A total of 139 tanks were knocked out on all fronts.

Enemy broadcasts said Russian bridgeheads across the Havel River southeast of Berlin had been crushed and also declared that Marshall Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukrainian Army bridged up the west bank of the Havel River east of Brallava and Vienna had been wiped out with the capture of positions near Remond, 27 miles northwest of Budapest. A total of 4,600 Russians were killed, Berlin said. Moscow did not mention these sectors.

Several more blocks of buildings fell to Russian shock troops in Breslau, besieged lower Silesian capital, the only other sector mentioned in the brief Russian war bulletin.

Vaudeville Looks Like It Is Back In Show Business

AT NEW YORK

Vaudeville's corpse is kicking up again—in dozens of New York cafes and nightspots where entertaining waiters dish out song and dance along with more solid fare.

The entertaining waiter, a modern version of the old singing waiter, does more than just sing. Years ago, he was a vaudeville performer, maybe a headliner. Today, he's playing an instrument, dancing, spinning yarns, and slugging for your hipster.

But like vaudeville itself, singing waiting isn't what it used to be.

"Years ago," says white-haired Eddie Delaney, former vaudeville singer, waiter, and now business manager of New York's "Entertaining Waiters' Association," "things were different. It was a better business. A singing waiter didn't have to bother with food. You put a rubber sandwich on the table, and three months later it was still there. People ordered a beer, or a highball—none of these fancy-sounding modern drinks."

Employment of singing waiters has gone up since the Entertaining Waiters' Association was formed in 1936, Eddie says, to help former vaudeville acts find jobs. It started out with 200 members, and today has about 1,000 on the rolls, although all but 80 are in the armed forces.

"The 'boys'," Eddie calls them, who are left are mostly in their 60's, and can net about $60 a week. They get a minimum of $25 for a six-day week, and make the big money in tips. Dollars was the weekly minimum when the association was formed in 1936, and that was ten more than singing waiters were paid previously.

Jap Prisoners Are Weak And Frightened Men

(This exclusive story on the mental outlook of Japanese prisoners of war was obtained from interviews through an interpreter by an Associated Press correspondent stationed in Tokyo who was interned by the Japanese and spent 19 months in civilian concentration camps in Manila and Shanghai.)

By RUSSELL BRINES
(F) Newsfeatures
LIVEK. A few weeks ago they were among the tag ends of broken Japanese army units, fleeing toward the west coast of Leyte—the friction of Nippon's military destiny exploded in their faces by an array of American power greater than ever they had dreamed.

Today they are prisoners of war in this trim, well-run camp. They have regained health and strength on the standard U. S. Army rations and lost the dread that their American captors would torture and kill them. They have settled into the dreary routine of waiting for the future.

There are 300 soldiers in this camp—no officers and none of the specially trained youth fanatics. These are the weak, hopeless or frightened little men who dropped by the wayside, short as the Japanese soldier's creed—to die for the emperor.

Recent Conscripts
The majority of these prisoners were recent conscripts, starting military training in 1943, although they were somewhat older than the usual new draftees. Their training was skinny and their battle experience limited. For the most part they were army drudges who hacked through jungles or dragged guns to mountain peaks in the anti-like labor by which the Japanese commanders consolidated their positions.

Some hoped to be captured to escape swagging, brutal officers; others were too tired and ill to care. Most were incapable of fighting back when captured. Yoshi, as we shall call him, was 26 and a Tokyo music teacher. A college graduate, he saw through the propaganda stories of endless Japanese victories and limitless power even before he was drafted in late 1943. At training camp his fellow soldiers were provincial, uneducated peasants who teased and tormented him because of his education.

His non-commissioned officers were brutal in their attempts to make the sensitive music teacher a swaggering, murderous soldier. Without provocation, Yoshi said, officers struck him in the face with a heavy shoe and had him severely beaten for failure to drill smartly enough. More serious infractions sent the culprit to the torture-plunged goddammer.

Troops in training were told and retold stories by their officers of heroic Samurai, Japan's ancient two-armed warriors, along with false reports of current triumphs.

"The young men of 18 and 19 soon began to fancy themselves in heroic roles and became arrogant and overbearing," said Yoshi. "They developed into the fanatics who volunteer for suicide missions—convinced their destiny was to die for the emperor on the battlefield."

The result is an army hardened for death in which the hesitant are driven to undertake any hopeless mission through fear or mistreatment and loss of prestige.

When Yoshi was sent to the Philippines he said he still believed Japan had tremendous forces there, capable of repelling any invasion. He landed at Ormoc with reinforcements Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita was losing in for his last-ditch defense. The shock of reality, said Yoshi, was terrific.

Instead of Japanese invincibility, he saw the emperor's troops fleeing disorganized against greatly superior American forces. Instead of brave, death-defying Nipponese heroes, he saw officers and men fleeing to the hills during a heavy bombardment.

Not all the prisoners were so disillusioned. H. T. a young woman farmer, was evidently a fanatic. He was captured while wounded too severely to move, but the viciousness with which he answered the interpreter showed he was still a fanatic.

Shimizu, a 27-year-old newspaperman, was self-hypnotized. Before conscription, he had published the government's false propaganda without a qualm because "in wartime the people should be given no chance for division."

He was sure Japan still would win the war. Asked what would happen if the Allies invaded Japan, Shimizu said the women and children would join the fight and defeat the invaders.

"They are reacting now with hatred," he said. "I am sure they will understand the pitiful futility of his statement."

Acceptance of Shimizu and his doctrine of emperor devotion is the easiest way to live in the Japanese army, said Tochia, 27, former Buddhist priest and university graduate. To speak against Shimizu and his perversion of the military is to court death, he said. He reported that even the Buddhists, who believe in gentleness, are silent.

None of the prisoners was sure of being able to return to Japan—particularly if Japan won the war. Suzuki, the newspaperman, expressed the thought of many: "I want to see my wife and four children again. As a Japanese, I would be quarantined with a purplish hue."

VITAL STATISTICS: For the ladies—the suit is a two-piece white jersey with a gathered bra top. For the men—She's Barbara Bates, a new-comer to films who will soon make her screen debut, possessor of one of the better figures about the film capital (Internationals).

But even with those inequities, the total of prisoners is in finalism compared to the Japanese forces expended on Leyte. The fact that only about 2,000 Japanese soldiers have been captured in the Pacific conflict, in defiance of the effectiveness of the traditional compelling Japanese to seek battlefield death.

Within the camp with few exceptions, the prisoners still conform to the stern militaristic tradition. They follow the run ritual laid down in training and they implicitly obey the orders of higher ranking prisoners. And almost universally they cling to the belief in Japan's eventual victory and the myth of her "benevolent empire."

That's what the Treasury Procurement Division is seeking to do in one of the most drastic directives issued around here recently. Procurement already has started disposing of millions of dollars worth of surplus war materials. As the war nears its end and turns into peace, these sales will climb into billions.

Mistakes Made In First War Can Be Easily Avoided

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON—If there is any benefit at all in fighting two major wars virtually in one generation it is that many mistakes of the first can be avoided in the second.

That's what the Treasury Procurement Division is seeking to do in one of the most drastic directives issued around here recently. Procurement already has started disposing of millions of dollars worth of surplus war materials. As the war nears its end and turns into peace, these sales will climb into billions.

After the First World War (you may not remember, but many government officials do) the scandals in disposing of surplus property were sensational. To avoid anything like that this time, John Pahl, assistant to Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, has issued a sweeping order to take any outside influence whatever off procurement division officials.

THE orders are that no employes may accept any gratuity of any kind, either directly or indirectly. And Mr. Pahl defines gratuities as gifts; jobs for relatives or friends; tips on races; sports events or the stock market; accommodations at clubs or hotels; or any kind of free transportation.

All procurement business has to be conducted on the premises except in special instances where supervisors approve.

The employes are asked not to go to dinners, luncheons or any other social functions where the persons with whom they are dealing are their hosts.

In addition, all employes of the division whose salaries are $2,000 or more have to file a report of their personal or financial relationships with any firm which is now or even might be interested in the purchase of surplus war materials.

Violations of the order will mean severe disciplinary action or outright dismissal.

If the order stands and he's winked at, the public need have little fear of recurrence of the post-war scandals of 15 years ago.

IT PROBABLY won't appear on the surface, but one of the behind-the-scenes battles on the war-on-jail bill will be over which agency will administer it. The bill, introduced by House Military Affairs Committee Chairman May, provides that Selective Service shall administer the act. This would raise issues the disappearance of the War Manpower Commission.

HEMLOCK HERITAGE

(From the Poetry Chap-Book) In this land facing toward the northern sphere.

The roots of hemlocks lace beneath the feet.

And all the changing seasons of the year

Know hemlock pungence, resinous and sweet.

Their boughs drop down to mute the summer light

With dusky shadows dreaming and aloof.

And gravely lovely, on a winter night

Will curve like wings above a snowy roof.

A northern man is nurtured to be one

With hemlock at his heart and in his eyes.

Within him strength and soft dark beauty run

Like that in hemlocks limned on smokeless skies.

No man may lose the birthmark of this place.

The look that hemlocks etch upon a face.

When wounded in an exposed position and unable to retire with his buddies, Leo calmly turned himself into an observation post for their benefit.

The team work was perfect. The squad, sighting just above Leo's head, and changing aim from moment to moment as he directed, soon wiped out the enemy.

War Nerves

Six single rules will save those whose nerves are worn thin by the high tension of wartime life.

1. Go to bed each night regularly at an early hour.

2. If possible, try to take a short nap either in the mid-morning or afternoon.

3. Don't depend too much on a cup of coffee, or tea, a cigarette or a cocktail as your mental pick-up.

Insurances Group Asks Extension of Social Security

NEW YORK CITY, Feb. 26. — (AP)—Extension of social security to many millions of workers, now excluded, such as government employees, staffs of non-profit organizations, agricultural and domestic workers, the self-employed and railroad personnel, was recommended this week in a joint committee report issued by the American Life Convention, the Life Insurance Association of America and the National Association of Life Underwriters.

The present minimum benefits of $10 a month might well be raised to, say, $20 a month and $30 for an aged couple, subject to an increase in the present limit of $85 a month.

The industry advocates also "close study as to how best to safeguard the interests under old-age and survivor insurance of men and women in the armed forces and of persons who continue to work after the age of sixty-five."

Included in the recommendation is "extension of old-age and survivor insurance to provide benefits for total and permanent disability after the age of fifty-five, thereby making allowance for the fact that some workers become prematurely old in the sense that they can work no longer."

The fifty-seven-page booklet contains an analysis of unemployment insurance, the principles and safeguards of social security, medical and hospital care and such details as the diagnosis and treatment of serious diseases through health centers, which are subjects closely examined by the life insurance business in the normal course of affairs.

The joint committee representing the American Life Convention and the Life Insurance Association of America is headed by M. Albert Linton, president of Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co., and the chairman of the National Association of Life Underwriters.

characterizing as unsound "proposals that social security taxes should be increased to combat inflation or to help finance the war." The way to protect the system, they say, is to determine social-security taxation policy by the needs of social security alone. A specific recommendation is that a committee of qualified persons should be appointed by Congress to review the financial question, particularly because "a reserve fund of $6,000,000,000 has already accumulated and is rapidly increasing owing to the current heavy excess of income over outgo."

Further, the committee observes, "with up-to-date estimates of benefit payments, a revised tax schedule should be developed which would make it unnecessary for Congress to go through what now appears an annual process of deciding what next year's tax rate is to be."

Sadie Hawkins Day Is "Big Success"

By Dorothy Morrison
Sadie Hawkins Day last Friday at Seminole High School got off to a flying start when "Lil Abner" and "Daisy Mae" (Sylvia Meisch and Herman Bruinley) were hit by that rather pompous character with the irreproachable honor, "Marilyn Sam" (W. J. Hill of the S.H.S. Faculty).

Following a coronation ceremony the happy pair crowned with wreaths of carrots, reigned while M.C. Lemuel Q. Powell alias Nell Powell from Skunk Holler introduced the local talent. Dorothy Hickson with her partner and Pat Richard sang "You Are My Sunshine" and The Banana Lays orchestra played several numbers. Al Brock, home on leave, told of his adventures in civilization (any place but Dogpatch).

The Dogpatchers arrayed in their Sunday-go-to-meetin' best unadorned in front of the faculty. Prizes for the best costumes were given to Rosemary Cullum and Billy Shuman in first place, and Mary Ann Wheeler (Mammy Yokum) and Pete Bukur (Luncheon Policat) in second place. Betty Humphrey Moonbeam McSwine and Paul Peraldi won honorable mention.

In the tradition of many years ago when all other methods failed to get a man for "pore-til" Sadie Hawkins, the girls chased the boys dragging their catches on to the gym to tie the knot!

The celebration continued with a dance and various other activities which included limbo, basketball throw, beanbag throw and a cake walk.

The festivities were sponsored by the Student Council which hopes to keep Sadie Hawkins Day an annual event.

MORE AND BETTER GARDENS
By Mrs. E. K. Brown
State Home Demonstration Agent
The armed forces need more food than we have ever seen them before. So do our allies and the civilians in allied countries. So do people in Florida. For all these reasons, then, let us grow better home gardens in 1945 as a very definite contribution to the war effort.

Florida victory gardens are more important this year than ever before. Families in our state are to be well fed in real and true victory gardens.

Some of the reasons why you should grow a victory garden are: (1) It is a sure and certain way to get a crop of food for your family. (2) It is a sure and certain way to get a crop of food for your family. (3) It is a sure and certain way to get a crop of food for your family.

Budget your red points carefully

Some hard work is necessary, but the home front soldier is patriotic to shoulder a hoe as a gun.

Fresh garden vegetables are a health insurance because they supply important nutritional value to the "warrior" and his neighbors. Usually, neighbors profit also from good gardens in their community. Well tended gardens beautify the home grounds. Young people enjoy having a hand in creating on the premises or vacant lots for their gardens, if they have guidance and know their garden work is a real war service. In 1944, 2,766 Florida 4-H girls grew home gardens, and this year 5,149 of them are pledged to home gardens.

When the garden is at its best, canning and other means of food preservation should be continued. Do not wait until the "rag-end" of the garden to start canning. Do a little canning each day while vegetables are at their prime. Store all surplus foods in some satisfactory way for the future so you will have nutritious meals each month of the year.

The President of the United States has called upon Americans to help grow, to serve, and share food. We Floridians must answer this call by growing more gardens everywhere. In South Florida canning is underway even as more seeds go into the soil. In other parts of the state the planting of gardens is just being urged. Let's "play safe" and begin today to keep the victory gardens growing and build for health at home as we strive for victory across the seas.

The 1940 federal census listed nearly 3,000,000 adults who had never attended any school and 2,000,000 children, aged 15 and under, who were not attending any school.

Tokyo Center Is Wrecked By Bomber Raid

Japs Are Reminded Of Losing Battles In Philippines And Iwo; Marines Inch Ahead

(By Associated Press)
A devastated square mile in downtown Tokyo, wrecked by Superfortresses, today reminded the Japanese of their losing battles on Iwo and the Philippines. Photographs showed 240 square blocks of the industrial and business area in ruins.

A big Japanese banzai attack was repulsed in the foothills east of Manila where the Americans appeared to be running into a major battle. The Marines were barely able to inch forward on Iwo. Two divisions are making small gains; another was held in its tracks.

(By Associated Press)
MANILA, Wednesday, Feb. 28—Twenty-fourth Division troops have completed the destruction of the Japanese garrison on Little Verde Island, invaded Sunday. Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today. The island, between Luzon and Mindoro, is astride the shortest supply route from the United States to Manila.

Fourteenth Corps troops clearing the Japanese from the Manila watershed east of the liberated capital captured Mt. Matuba, east of the town of San Miguel. They also secured the south and west slopes of nearby Mt. Pacawuan.

South of there, the First Cavalry Division pressed its attack on Antipolo, just north of Laguna Bay. In the face of heavy mortar, artillery and machine gun fire, this operation reflected reports of gathering enemy power in the sector.

Mopping up of Japanese remnants continued in the hills flanking the central Luson plain and on blasted Corregidor fortress, at the mouth of Manila Bay.

Borneo was pounded with 100 tons of bombs concentrated on airbases, airfields and other targets. Many hits on the target areas were reported, and smoke covered the area.

Formosa took a 60-ton bombing. Fires were started in barracks areas. Three coastal ships were damaged in the nearby Pescadore Islands. Two American planes were lost.

Heavy damage resulted from a destructive bombing of Camranh Bay on the French Indo-China coast. Fighters scoring the attacking Liberators shot down two enemy interceptors and wiped out three on the ground.

The Melbourne radio reported, meanwhile that Australia troops now hold a 150-mile area south of the Ganga River on the west coast of Bougainville in the Solomons. "Complete occupation of Bougainville's west coast is in sight."

Known Japanese casualties on Bougainville since the Americans left were reported at 1,200.

Police Ordered To Launch Campaign Against Loafers

Commission Told Of Farm Crop Losses Due To Vagrancy

With losses of hundreds of thousands of dollars in local vegetable and fruit growers due to lack of enough labor to harvest rapidly maturing crops, the City Commission after listening to an appeal by local growers Monday evening gave orders to Chief of Police Roy G. Williams that the city ordinance governing vagrancy and idleness be enforced to its fullest extent.

The group of growers and shippers appeared before the Commission and urged that they take action against local labor who do not work at least five days a week. It was stated that from 40 to 50 percent of the workers fail to report for work on Mondays and Fridays, according to Mayor Edward Higgins.

County Agent C. R. Dawson headed the group which included W. A. Laffer and M. L. Cullum of Orange and Citrus counties, the latter also representing the Seminole County Farm Bureau as its president, J. E. Watson and H. D. Hester of American Fruit Growers, M. H. Smith of the Florida Fruit Growers, J. B. Thrash, Julius Dingfelder, Frank Bartholomew (manager of the W.F.A. Labor Camp), Victor Green and other growers.

The group pointed out that they have a large amount of produce ready for market and that the lack of labor is causing a large quantity of citrus fruit to be harvested in the next 30 days. Also, that unless sufficient labor could be secured or present available labor induced to work five days a week, a large amount of valuable food products would be lost to the nation.

"Up to the present time, a large quantity of vegetables have been lost on account of the idleness of the growers to get sufficient labor for harvesting."

An appeal was made to the City Commission to enforce the vagrancy law to the fullest extent with the idea that laborers should be compelled to work at least five days a week.

Bailey's Son Serves In Pacific Theater

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 28 (Special)—Com. Clayton K. Bailey, USN, of Fayetteville, Ark., is serving as skipper of one of the oldest Navy squadrons attached to the U.S. Fleet Service of the Pacific Fleet.

The squadron is well known to thousands of sailors and airmen in the Fleet for its variety of services ranging from anti-aircraft patrol to carrying the mail.

Lieut. Com. Bailey's wife, Rose and their son live at 615 1/2 St. Street, Fayetteville. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. George W. Bailey of 21 West Eighteenth Street, Sanford, Florida.

One of the most important functions of the utility unit is to provide anti-aircraft practice for ship gunners. The pilots tow sleeve targets, weaving in and out among the massed men of war while gun crews blast away at the tow. An early squadron effort in this exercise was the USS SOUTH DAKOTA, the mighty "Battleship X," whose gunners showed the value of their shooting lessons when they knocked down an entire first wave of 20 dive bombers and permitted only one of 64 planes in the next two waves to get through during one battle.

Since Dec. 7, 1941, the squadron has made over 2,000 patrol and search flights, downing vast numbers of the Pacific in search of enemy submarines and downed American pilots. Four actual rescues were made, and other airmen have been saved by life rafts dropped to them or crash boats directed to their locations by the utility fliers. In a typical month, the squadron flew 572 flights.
