To Complete Negligence Judgment

House OKs Half-Million For Youth

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The House approved today payment of nearly half-a-million dollars to a Tavares youth paralyzed from an accident at a state-run summer camp.

House members voted 93-18 for a bill (HB 153), awarding $499,770 to Robert Loudamy and his mother, Carol Hofack, to complete a negligence judgment recommended by a Leon County Circuit Court jury.

Loudamy and his mother already have gotten $100,000 from the state.

Loudamy was paralyzed from the neck down when he dove from a swinging rope into the Withlacoochee River and his head struck the bottom. He was 14 at the time of the accident, which occurred in August 1977, at a state Division of Forestry camp in Withlacoochee State Forest.

The bill goes to the Senate. House members voted 58-49 against a bill (HB 1195), ordering Charlotte County to pay $45,000 to Wanda Mulligan, who was injured in a traffic accident in Port Charlotte in 1970 that resulted from a broken stoplight.

Charlotte County's legislators argued that $45,000 was too much money and Ms. Mulligan was entitled to no more than $15,000.

The House also: —Approved 63-20 a bill (HB 510), ordering Pompano Beach to pay $10,000 on top of $30,000 already given Scott Trauth, injured when his car struck an unmarked mound of dirt in a public street in 1978;

—Approved 63-16 a bill (HB 205) paying Daniel Knowles of Lee County $30,000 on top of $50,000 already received because of injuries suffered when a Department of Transportation truck pulled out in front of his motorcycle in 1977.

—Approved 75-26 a bill (HB 37) paying $300,000 to Donald Williams of Polk County, permanently disabled when a DOT truck rear-ended his stalled car in 1977. Williams already has gotten $50,000 from the state.

—Approved 81-25 legislation (HB 146) ordering Palm Beach County to pay $125,000 to James Andrews, a pedestrian who was seriously injured by an out-of-control pickup truck owned by the county. Andrews already has been paid $50,000.

—Approved 80-25 legislation (HB 511) ordering the Pinellas County School Board to pay $75,000 to James Mabry, who was seriously injured when his pickup truck was struck by a school bus in 1974. Mabry already has gotten $10,000 from the school board.

Altamonte Man Drowned In Attempt To Rescue Boy

An Altamonte Springs man was one of three men who drowned Sunday evening in the Atlantic Ocean at Daytona Beach Shores while trying to rescue a small boy foundering in the surf.

The child, whose identity is unknown, according to Daytona Shores Police Chief Jerry Caldwell, was pulled to safety by passing surfers.

Horace Mason, 35, of 315 Williams St., Altamonte Springs, was pronounced dead on arrival at Halifax Hospital about 6:30 p.m. Attempts by life-guards at the beach to revive Williams were unsuccessful.

The other two men who drowned while attempting to rescue the child were from Daytona Beach and Apopka.

The boy got into trouble in the surf about 6 p.m., 30 minutes after lifeguards of the Division of Beach Safety went off duty, according to police.

Police were notified that the men disappeared into the surf and the bodies of the three were recovered. — DONNA ESTES

The Thirst Goes On

Fires Smolder; Graham Visits

From Local And Wire Service Reports

Brushfires were continuing to burn in Seminole County this morning as weather forecasters announced there would be no break in the drought threatening Florida with more fires, sinkholes and possibly requiring a 50 percent water cutback for 4.5 million residents.

The most serious fire in Seminole County was a smoldering 700-acre, 2-week-old blaze in Geneva.

A brush fire that broke out along Lake Howell and State Road 436 Friday afternoon took both county and Casselberry firefighters to get it under control.

Although the blaze was not difficult to contain, the drought-like climate condition, firefighters say, made the fire "persistent."

Casselberry officials were called to several other Seminole County sites over the weekend where brush fires were feared, but the clouds of "smoke" burned out to be thickly rising dust from lack of rain, they said.

Statewide, the fire season is the worst ever. "I can't give you exact figures through May, but I know we've had over 10,000 fires and 400,000 plus (acres burned) to date this year," said Division of Forestry management specialist Jim Whitton of Tallahassee.

In Altamonte Springs, Seminole County officials were monitoring six cracks at the Spanish Trace Apartments. The cracks — some big enough to fit a broomstick in — developed Saturday.

Officials feared it was another sinkhole, but by late Sunday, the structure had remained stable.

County Engineer Bill Bush said the apartment complex "probably just picked this particular time to settle." "Because of the intense drought situation, all of the soil's moisture is gone. The complex was probably built unintentionally on poorly compacted soil. And the settling of the soil would have caused the cracks that formed on Saturday."

"If the cracks had otherwise been the result of underground sinkhole movement, it was extremely minor and obviously over very quickly," he said.

The sinkhole that sank 25 feet along 26 feet of ground in the Oakhurst vicinity just outside Altamonte Springs last week was filled in after officials determined activity was finished.

The Oakhurst hole followed the mammoth sinkhole in Winter Park which from its May 8th onset has swallowed parts of businesses, seven vehicles and a Winter Park residence. Although widening has subsided, officials at the Winter Park site are still monitoring the hole for shifting expansion or any further sinking activity.

To assess damages from the drought, Gov. Bob Graham flew Sunday to three of the eight sinkholes, including the largest in Winter Park, where he promised state aid for repairs and to relocate the community swimming pool that tumbled into the hole last week.

Meanwhile, the South Florida Water Management District warned that if strict enforcement of the current 25 percent reduction in water use in nine counties did not improve matters significantly by late in the week, the cutback would be boosted to 50 percent. Some 4.5 million people, half of the state's 9 million residents, have been affected by the water cutbacks.

Miami weather forecaster Gil Clark said a low pressure system over the western United States could provide north Florida with some showers tonight or Tuesday, "but south Florida is less likely to get it. There's only a slight possibility Wednesday."

In the Big Cypress, crews assisted by four helicopters battled four fires that were merging into one big blaze, park dispatches Neil Johnson said. "You're not going to like what I have to say," said Donald L. Gilman, head of the Long Range Prediction Group of the National Weather Service in Silver Spring, Md., on Sunday.

The forecast for mid-May to mid-June is listed as less-than-normal precipitation for the whole of Florida and the southern part of neighboring states."

Fred Crosby, head of the Tampa Bay weather office, said there was no way of knowing when the summer rainy season will end the long, and unusually arid, dry season.

"I've seen it go until the third week of July before it rained," he said.

By Sunday, drought-fed wildfires burning in the Big Cypress Preserve in southwestern Florida had scorched 100,000 acres, and eight sinkholes had opened in central Florida land hollowed out by low levels of underground water.

In addition to the governor's visit Sunday, the Winter Park sinkhole attracted curious tourists from as far away as Switzerland and Brazil who pressed against a chain-link fence to get a look at the hole into which a home, seven vehicles and parts of several businesses have fallen.

Study Panel To Be Named By County

The Seminole County Commission will be asked at its 9:30 a.m. meeting Tuesday for authorization for a special committee to select an architectural firm for the proposed new $1.5 million public health department offices and facility to be built next year in Sanford.

The commission is expected to approve appointment of a five member staff committee to select the architectural firm. The committee is to be composed of Russ Miller, director of environmental health services; Dave Hotary, director of administrative services; John Percy, director of public services and development; Don Flippen, county building official and Dr. Jorge Deju, director of health and human services.

In the current year's fiscal budget, is included $30,000 for architectural renderings for the proposed new health facility. Hotary has estimated that total fees for full architectural services for construction of the facility next year will cost $120,000-to-$150,000.

The first phase of the contract for $30,000 will include conceptual plans and architectural renderings. A site for the health facility has not as yet been chosen. — DONNA ESTES

Teen-Ager Dies

Car Hits 5 Longwood Girls

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

It started out as a slumber party, but ended up as a nightmare with one teenage girl dead and four more hurt after they were struck by a car early Sunday morning while walking along Wekiva Springs Road near Longwood.

A 17-year-old Longwood boy, whose name was withheld because of his age, was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Laurie Anne Hebel, 13, of 101 Shadow Lake Drive. The youth reportedly was drunk at the time.

The dead girl's sister, 10-year-old Mary Anne Hebel, was reported in critical condition this morning at Florida Hospital-Altamonte with pelvic, clavicle, and arm injuries.

Another sister, Susan Hebel, 15, along with two other girls — Jerri Fockler, 14, of 330 Heather Ave., and Judy Smerlich, 13, of 315 Heather Ave. — were treated for minor injuries and released.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol, the five girls were walking along the edge of Wekiva Springs Road about 1:30 a.m. when a 1974 Plymouth plowed into them from the rear.

Mrs. Ralph Fockler, Jerri's mother, said the girls had left the slumber party at Laurie Hebel's house when Laurie wanted something from a nearby convenience store. "They didn't even remember what it was she wanted," Mrs. Fockler said. "They didn't make it to the store."

Mrs. Fockler said the accident should never have happened. "They weren't supposed to be out that time of night," she said. "They were supposed to be in at dark. But they had gone out late before. It's just one of those things."

Of course, "it could have been a lot worse," she added. "Jerri is at school today. Her legs were just bruised up bad. Two of the other girls weren't hurt bad either. They were lucky little girls."

Sunday's fatality brings to 13 the number of traffic related deaths reported in Seminole County this year.

Jewish Leaders Seized In Iran; Charged With Helping Jews Flee

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israeli Foreign Ministry officials said today that several Iranian Jewish leaders, including prominent Rabbi Baruch Cohen-Friedel, have been arrested and jailed in Tehran on a charge of trying to smuggle Jews out of the country.

Sources in Tehran, contacted by telephone, confirmed the report. The sources said the mother of a young Jew who could not afford the rabbi's fees informed the Iranian authorities, which led to the arrest of the rabbi and more than 10 other Jews.

The officials said the ministry independently confirmed reports from relatives that Iranian authorities during the past 12 days arrested the rabbi, his wife and several other leading members of the Iranian Jewish community. About 35,000 Jews reportedly still live in Iran.

The rabbi's wife was released from detention for a few days last week but, according to relatives, was taken back to jail.

The Foreign Ministry had no information on a date of trial. "It is true that they have been detained," a Foreign Ministry official said. "To the best of our knowledge they are in jail and the accusation is smuggling Jews out of Iran."

Last week, Iran's official PARS news agency reported a group of people were arrested in Tehran for forging official documents, passports and foreign currency but gave no further details.

"We are monitoring the situation closely," the Foreign Ministry official said, and are viewing it with a great deal of concern. We have been in touch with relatives of those arrested in Europe and Israel."

In December, Iranian authorities executed a former Tehran newspaper editor, Simon Farzami, 70, on charges of spying for the United States. He was the seventh Jew executed by the Khomeini regime.

High Court To Rule On Sunken Treasure Ownership

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court today agreed to step into a dispute over who owns more than $250 million in treasure recovered from a Spanish vessel sunk off the coast of Florida in the 17th century.

The justices will review a ruling that the wreckage was outside Florida coastal waters and the treasure from the ship Atocha belongs to a Treasure Salvors, a private company which recovered it.

The Spanish vessel, which has been the subject of extensive publicity, sank during a hurricane off the Florida Keys. It was carrying a "treasure worthy of Midas: 150 gold bullion pieces, 900 silver ingots, over 250,000 silver coins, 800 copper planks, 350 chests of indigo and 25 tons of tobacco," according to court records.

Commanded by the Marquis of Caderita, the Atocha and other ships set sail from Havana for Cadiz, Spain, with treasure for King Phillip IV. As the ships entered the Florida Straits in search of favorable Gulf Stream currents, a hurricane drove them to the lower Florida Keys where eight ships, including the Atocha, sank.

Despite serious efforts to retrieve the treasure, the attempts were abandoned after a hurricane broke up the Atocha's hull.

More than three centuries later, Treasure Salvors searched for more than a year before finally pinpointing the wreck between the Dry Tortugas and Sand Key.

In April 1971, the company contracted with Florida to conduct underwater salvage operations to recover the Atocha's remains. Both sides then believed the ship was resting on land owned by Florida.

The contract was renewed for four years with Florida receiving 25 percent of the items found.

But in 1975, the U.S. Supreme Court rejected Florida's claim to the submerged lands, including the part of the continental shelf on which the Atocha rests.

Treasure Salvors then filed a suit in federal district court in Florida for title of the Atocha.

The federal government intervened in the suit and claimed title to the ship, but a trial judge ruled in favor of Treasure Salvors.

When the courts ordered Florida to turn over all artifacts from the Atocha to the salvage company, the state filed suit to block the order. A trial judge held Florida's claim of ownership had no merit and told the state to return the artifacts to the court.

Florida appealed on grounds the 11th Amendment barred it from being sued by another party, but that claim was rejected by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The court upheld the trial judge's conclusion that the state did not own the artifacts.

The state took the case to the Supreme Court, arguing the "question of bringing a state into federal court to test its title to property far transcends the artifacts which are involved in this case, and goes to the fundamental constitutional protection afforded the states."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Pope Turns 61 Today, Fever Causes Some Concern

ROME (UPI) — Pope John Paul II turned 61 today, confined to his intensive care hospital room and running a fever that caused his doctors "concern" a day after the pontiff roused the world in a dramatic recorded prayer forgiving his assailant.

"The clinical condition, taken as a whole, is stationary and the favorable evolution of the post-operative period continues," the latest medical bulletin said today.

It said the pope's temperature continued around 100.5 for the fourth straight day.

"I pray for that brother of ours who shot me and whom I have sincerely pardoned," the pope said Sunday of Mehmet Ali Agca, the 23-year-old Turkish ultra-rightwing terrorist accused of shooting him Wednesday before 10,000 stunned onlookers in the square.

Then, with his voice tired from his 5-day-old fight for life, John Paul extended his prayer to the two American women wounded by the same two bullets that tore through his abdomen and his right arm — Ann Odre, 34, of Buffalo, N.Y., and Rose Hall, 21, of Shirley, Mass. The two women, hearing the message on a transistor radio in a hospital 4 miles away, wept.

"I'm thankful," said Mrs. Hall from her hospital room in Santo Spirito Hospital. "I'm thankful that even though he's going through a lot, he's thinking of other people too."

In St. Peter's Square, 15,000 faithful applauded the amplified message, which was broadcast around the world, and many of those gathered in the square crossed themselves and prayed silently.

Fight On For Press Freedom

TALLOIRES, France (UPI) — Western news media leaders told UNESCO to end its attempts to regulate the flow of global news and vowed an unending fight to uphold world press freedom.

"We believe the time has come within UNESCO and other international governmental bodies to abandon attempts to regulate news content and to formulate rules for the press," news executives of some 20 countries said Sunday in a strongly worded resolution at the end of a three-day conference at the lakeside resort city of Talloires.

During the meeting UNESCO Director General Amadou Mahtar M'Bow rejected the view of some news media members that his organization sought to curtail their activities.

M'Bow proposed Saturday the establishment of the so-called New World Information Order, an effort by Soviet bloc and "Third World" countries to place authority for the world's media in the hands of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Wyszynski Feeling Better

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Ailing Polish primate Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski is feeling better and sent a personal message today to Pope John Paul, a church spokesman said.

"To hear your blessing for the world is a great hope for mankind, our motherland and the nation, which has been praying for your health," the message said. "I forward to you my greetings and I entrust your life to Holy Mary of Jasna Gora," it said.

The cardinal referred to the pontiff's tape-recorded blessing Sunday which was broadcast on Polish radio and television.

U.S. Nuclear Ships In Japanese Waters

TOKYO (UPI) — A former U.S. ambassador claimed today that Japan allows American warships armed with nuclear weapons to transit its sea lanes and tie up at its ports under a secret agreement, dealing a new blow to U.S.-Japanese relations.

"I think it's about time for the nation and the government of Japan to frankly recognize the fact" that U.S. ships armed with nuclear weapons have put into ports in Japan and traveled through its waters, Edwin Reischauer, said in an interview with the Mainichi newspaper at his suburban Boston home.

Reischauer, a respected historian of Japan and U.S. envoy to Tokyo from 1961-66, said the Japanese government verbally agreed to port calls in 1960. Spokesmen for the current government and officials of former governments denied any such verbal permission was ever given.

He said the United States had not unloaded or stored nuclear weapons on land in Japan and moved its atomic arsenal from Okinawa before giving the Pacific island back to Japan in 1972.

Reischauer noted Japan's three non-nuclear principles, but said the United States interpreted the one barring "introduction" of such weapons to apply to permanent stationing, not carrying nuclear weapons aboard ships passing through.

Japan's policy bars introduction, possession or manufacture of nuclear weapons. Whatever the reality, the issue of nuclear weapons always stirs up a furor in the nation that suffered the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Japanese leaders said they believed even warships with nuclear weapons would need permission from Japan before entering its waters and they said such permission had never been sought. They indicated it would be denied if sought.

Japan's opposition parties, which have charged for years that nuclear weapons are stored at U.S. bases on Okinawa and elsewhere in Japan, immediately demanded an investigation of the dispute.

UP... UP... AND AWAY!

Midway Elementary students and their principal Leroy Hampton speckled the sky with floating white bubbles recently when hundreds of balloons were launched for their big Reading Is Fundamental Day. The Lyman High School Keyettes, a student service organization, "adopted" the Midway K-5 youngsters as RIF big brothers and sisters, seeking to create a greater interest in reading and learning among the children. RIFers launched some 450 balloons bearing a message signed by each child reading: "If you can read this note, please return it to Midway Elementary School." The child who gets the message returned from the greatest distance gets a prize. Highlighting the grand launch was the spectacular flight of Principal Hampton (shown in the far left photo at the right corner of the passenger basket) who daringly took to the air in a balloon while Midway students watched.

Syria Threatens Israel With Force; Sadat Hints Egypt To Stay Neutral

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Syrian President Hafez Assad vowed to halt by force any Israeli attempt to intervene in Lebanon despite efforts by both Washington and Saudi Arabia to avert a new Mideast war.

Assad said in an address over state-run radio in Damascus that his country's recent deployment of Soviet-made SAM-6 missiles in Lebanon "is simply to increase Syria's defense capabilities."

"Syria will strongly resist any attempt by Israel to intervene in Lebanon's internal affairs or to escalate its aggression against the country," said the Syrian President late Sunday.

As Assad spoke, U.S. presidential envoy Philip Habib held talks with Saudi Arabian leaders in Riyadh in efforts to defuse the Lebanese crisis, and a special Saudi Arabian envoy delivered a message from King Khalid to Assad.

The Syrian president blamed Israel for the escalation of tension in Lebanon to "justify an attack on Lebanon aimed at liquidating the Palestinian resistance."

He described the deployment of Soviet-made SAM-6 missiles in the Bekaa Valley of eastern Lebanon as "Syrian defensive screen."

The Israeli Cabinet agreed Sunday to give Habib as much time as necessary to end the crisis over the Syrian SAM-6 anti-aircraft missiles in Lebanon.

"We want a peaceful solution," Prime Minister Menachem Begin said after the Cabinet meeting.

Habib, whose shuttle mission began May 7, was scheduled to go to Damascus today for his third round of talks with Syrian leaders and then fly to Israel.

Israel has threatened to knock out the missiles with force if they are not removed, raising the possibility of a Syrian-Israeli war. The Syrians say the missiles are necessary for protection from Israeli warplanes.

In Alexandria, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat signaled for the first time that he would remain neutral if Syria and Israel went to war. He called the Camp David peace treaty between Israel and Egypt a "firm reality."

As Habib conferred with Saudi officials, Riyadh issued a statement denouncing "Israeli provocations" and giving full support to the Syrian troops and SAM missiles in Lebanon. The installation of the missiles in the Bekaa valley began in April after Israeli planes attacked Syrian helicopters near the town of Zahle.

Habib went to Saudi Arabia Saturday after apparently reaching a dead-end in his meetings with Syrians and the Israelis, analysts said. On Sunday the Saudis sent the deputy commander of the National Guard, Sheikh Abdel Aziz Tuwejary, to Damascus with a special message for President Hafez Assad.

The contents of the message were not revealed.

Arab analysts suggested the Saudi envoy might offer the Syrians financial aid in exchange for restraint in the missile crisis.

Earlier this year the Saudis reportedly cut off the funds they were providing, along with other oil-rich Arab regimes, for the 30,000-man Syrian peacekeeping force based in Lebanon.

Israeli Deputy Defense Minister Mordechai Zippori said after the Cabinet meeting that "as long as there is a spark of hope to solve the crisis by diplomatic means, Israel will pursue that spark ... and it still exists."

In Beirut, heavy fighting broke out Sunday between Christian militiamen and Syrian troops and continued into the night. Police sources said 20 people were killed and 50 wounded.

The U.S. Embassy Saturday ordered the evacuation of its diplomats' dependents from Lebanon and advised some 2,000 other Americans to leave the country.

Postman Switches To Pedal Power

Two of the Sanford Post Office's 15 mail carriers have been taken out of motorized vehicles on their routes and are now delivering mail by foot or by bicycle as part of the Postal Service's nationwide effort to save money and conserve fuel.

Sanford Postmaster J.H. Covington said the savings in money is very small—about $1.50 to $2 per day per route—but the energy conservation amounts to about five to six gallons of gasoline per week per route.

Nationwide, he said, the savings and conservation of fuel will add up, however, when the 14,000 mail carriers whose switch in mode of transportation is considered in total.

A third carrier in the Sanford system is to be put on a bicycle as well as soon as a bike is available, Covington said.

John Salsbury of 481 Vihlen Road, who is the first mail-carrier on a Sanford route to switch to bicycle, has been with the Sanford department for the past 12 years. He was transferred here from Orlando.

He started out at Sanford riding a bicycle and then switched to a jeep. He has been riding a bike again on his route for the past three weeks.

"It's good exercise," Salsbury said of delivering mail by bicycle.

Covington said, "We are continuing to look for routes to be demotorized. When the department went to motorized vehicles gasoline cost about 30 cents per gallon and it made good sense. Now with gasoline so expensive, it is more advantageous the other way. There are another one or two routes we are looking at."

The postmaster said there is very little difference between bicycle use and automobile use in the cost factor because the vehicles the department been using are already gasoline economical.

Covington said, one of the shortcomings of the switch are that bicycling carriers cannot carry all of the mail at one time including parcels, the way carriers with motorized transportation could. Now someone else must carry parcels for the bike-riding carrier.

"There is added cost for someone else to carry parcels and we have had to put in relay boxes. It also may take longer to complete a route now," he said.

The total savings for the two routes now—one with one carrier on bicycle and the other on foot in the downtown area of the city—will be about $1,000 per year.

"We used bicycles for quite a number of years in Sanford. We were one of the last post offices in the area to give up bicycles and most of men liked the bicycles better than the trucks," Covington said.

"I anticipate no problem with the use of bicycles," he said, noting literally thousands of mail routes throughout the county are targeted for the switch from motorized vehicles to bicycles. — DONNA ESTES

Prime Rate Hits 20%

NEW YORK (UPI) — Morgan Guaranty, the nation's fifth largest bank, boosted its prime lending rate Monday to 20 percent from 19 1/2 percent.

The move brought the corporate loan rate to its highest level since Jan. 5 when rates temporarily declined before heading back up last month.

Two Of Eight Prison Escapees Captured

ATMORE, Ala. (UPI) — Eight inmates, including four convicted murderers, sabotaged a prison power plant and escaped from Alabama's maximum security facility under cover of darkness, officials said today.

Two of the men, however, including one murderer serving a life term, were apprehended about 5:25 a.m. near Interstate 65 about two miles from the prison by guards with bloodhounds.

Officials originally believed as many as eleven inmates had escaped during the 15-minute power failure at Holman Correctional Center, but prison spokesman Ron Tate said today eight prisoners cut their way out with some sort of tool.

Tate said the inmates somehow cut a master switch in the prison's power generation facility, throwing the normally well-lighted compound into darkness.

The spokesman said an investigation was under way to determine how the inmates got access to the switch. Guards were soon able to restore power through an auxiliary power plant, but not until the inmates had escaped.

Terrorists Plant Bombs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Puerto Rican terrorists claiming responsibility for planting three pipe bombs at busy Kennedy International Airport, killing one worker, have threatened to continue their bombing campaign, police say.

Security was increased today in the Pan American World Airways terminal, where the fatal bombing occurred Saturday, but airline officials admitted it was almost impossible to prevent the planting of bombs because of heavy passenger traffic.

Two other pipe bombs were safely removed from the Pan Am terminal during the weekend, including a 7-inch one retrieved Sunday from a women's bathroom.

Man Plunges To Death

SHERIDAN, Ore. (UPI) — A 51-year-old man making his first parachute jump plunged to his death in a wheat field while his wife watched.

John Robert Brown, of Ridgefield, Wash., had four hours of sky diving instruction before he jumped at 2,800 feet with two other students, said Ted Mayfield, owner of the Pacific Parachute Center.

Mayfield said Brown's main chute failed to open in Saturday's jump and he fumbled with the cord before he managed to open the auxiliary chute, but it was too late.

Drug Ring Broken

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Police, capping six weeks of round-the-clock surveillance, arrested four people and seized $1 million worth of cocaine to break up a multi-state drug ring, officials say.

Sgt. Allan Schmidt, spokesman for the Arizona Department of Public Safety, said Sunday investigators believe they bagged the leaders of a drug ring that had been operating in Florida and Wisconsin and was about to spread to Arizona and California.

Arrested for investigation for possession of narcotics and transportation of narcotics were: Jerry D. Kenton, 32, Ventura, Calif.; Abby A. Nasenbeny, 29, Joliet, Ill.; James M. Radliff, 21, Racine, Wis.; and Mark A. Jensen, 22, Sturdivant, Wis.

Immigration Holding

6 Haitians For Smuggling

MIAMI (UPI) — Immigration officials were holding six Haitians on smuggling charges and detained 74 others at a refugee camp today after they were arrested upon arrival Sunday.

Border Patrol officer Gary Hatmaker said they arrived aboard The Maritza, a 65-foot wooden boat equipped with secret compartments to hide the refugees.

He said it was the third ship to dock at Habrew Maritime International docks with smuggled Haitians in a week. Crewmen of the other two ships were indicted by a U.S. Grand Jury Thursday.

Hatmaker said crewmen forced the refugees into the secret compartments every time they passed land or other boats on their way from Port-de-Paix, Haiti, to Miami. He said they left Haiti Monday.

5 Dead In Shootings

MIAMI (UPI) — Five people, including a 14-year-old girl, were killed in Miami-area shootings during the weekend, police said today.

Authorities said they do not know whether the girl, Jewel Austin, was shot to death on a Liberty City street on purpose or was hit by a stray bullet. Miss Austin was talking to a man in a car when shooting broke out, stood up to look around and was shot.

Killed in unrelated incidents were Robert Lewis Boston, 29, found in an open field; Virgil Nesbitt, 25, shot in the back from across a street as he walked to a bar; and Keith Thomas, 22, shot outdoors after an argument with another man.

A 41-year-old Latin man, still unidentified, was slain at his apartment door, police said. Police believe the shooting was a result of an argument.

Engineer Knew Of Cracks

COCOA BEACH, (UPI) — A structural engineer studied cracked and bowed floors at the Harbour Cay condominium project several weeks before it collapsed March 27, killing 11 workers and injuring 23 others.

The Cocoa Today newspaper, in a copyright story Sunday, said Hal Meeler, the engineer hired by Univel Inc. to inspect the project, knew about the stress cracks but never suggested construction be halted.

City records showed Meeler conducted most of the inspections at Harbour Cay, but didn't mention the cracks in his reports. The paper said construction workers also knew about the cracks but never advised city building officials.

County Commissioner Charged With Murder

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Orange County Commission Chairman Ed Mason has been charged with first-degree murder in the shooting death of his wife Diane whose body was found Sunday night in a stairwell of an Orlando condominium complex.

Mason is expected to face a court appearance later today to formally be apprised of the charges.

The 36-year-old politician apparently shot his wife three hours after talking with a sheriff's department psychologist who said Mason was "all right" after an earlier incident Sunday when he pointed a gun at himself.

Mason and his wife had been having marital troubles and reportedly argued before the 9:15 p.m. shooting at Wimbledon Park condominiums where Mrs. Mason's body was found.

"When officers arrived she was lying on a stairwell outside Apartment 22 with multiple gunshot wounds," said Orlando Police Lt. Tom Wylie. "I understand they were in the process of getting a divorce."

Mason was arrested at Orlando Regional Medical Center where he was taken in stable condition after ramming his pickup truck into a concrete pole near a toll plaza on the Bee Line Expressway.

Deputies Sunday afternoon were called to Mrs. Mason's home after her husband discharged a gun. Sheriff Lawson Lamar said when officers arrived Mrs. Mason declined to press charges and Mason pointed the gun at himself.

Deputies summoned Capt. Larry Shultz, a friend of the commissioner's, to counsel him and Shultz in turn took Mason to the department's headquarters and called in psychologist John Cassidy who examined Mason about 6 p.m.

"He was all right. John thought he was all right," said Lamar who also talked with Mason by telephone and was to have breakfast with him today. "Nobody thought he was a danger to anyone but himself."

Lamar said Mason left the sheriff's department and stopped by the home of Deputy Bruce Lincoln, a personal friend, and borrowed a gun. The sheriff said he did not know if Lincoln was aware of the earlier disturbance.

Police officers found a gun at the scene of the shooting but did not yet know the make or caliber.

County Administrator James Harris said Commissioner Arthur Allen will take over Mason's duties as chairman, and that Gov. Bob Graham will probably suspend Mason pending the outcome of his trial.

"We're assuming the governor will at least suspend Ed until the final outcome in this matter," a stunned Harris said.

Mason, who ran a lawn spraying service prior to winning a commission seat in 1978, was unanimously elected chairman last November. Known as a scrappy politician and a straight talker, Mason once challenged the leader of the Outlaw's motorcycle gang to a fistfight.

Political friends, however, said his home life deteriorated once he took office. His wife hated the political fund raisers and obligatory parties. She filed for a divorce last year.

One Million Blacks Now Entered In U.S. Colleges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of black college students shot up from 322,000 in 1970 to about 1 million in 1980, reports the Census Bureau.

In the same report released Sunday, the Census Bureau said overall school enrollment decreased during the past decade with the drop more pronounced in elementary schools.

But enrollment in nursery schools went against the overall trend, an indication that more women are working or going to school and leaving their children in day care centers. At 2 million in 1980, the number was almost double the enrollment of 1.1 million 10 years earlier.

A preliminary census report on the social and economic characteristics of students said about 1 million blacks between the ages of 14 to 34 were enrolled in college last October.

The survey said the slide in overall school enrollment of all races reflects a decrease in births that began in the 1960s.

There were 37.3 million people aged 3 to 34 years in school in October, down 3.6 million from 1975 and down 3 million from 1970, the study said.

The bulk of the increase in the number of blacks in college came between 1970 and 1978, a Census Bureau analyst said, but no reason was given.

But He's Not Actively Seeking Compromise

Reagan Would Consider Tax Alternative

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan says he's willing to consider an alternative to his proposed three-year, 30 percent tax cut.

But "he believes in his program and he's not actively seeking a compromise," Reagan told Senate Finance Committee Chairman Robert Dole, R-Kan., in a telephone call Sunday, according to White House chief of staff James Baker.

Appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation," Dole said he would meet over lunch today with Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Barber Conable of New York, the ranking Republican on the committee, and Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, the ranking Democrat on the Finance Committee, to go over the tax cut issue in search of common ground.

While en route back to Washington Sunday after the president's commencement speech at Notre Dame, Baker made it a point to tell reporters Reagan watched Dole on television and called him

Humane Society Lands 10-Acre Building Site

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

A 10-acre site at the intersection of U.S. 17-92 and General Hitchison Parkway has been found for the planned new Seminole County Humane Society shelter.

County Commissioner Barbara Christensen said today her parents—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Sullivan of Winter Springs—have offered to grant a 99-year lease for $1 per year for the back half of property they own at the intersection. The portion for which the Sullivans are willing to give a long term lease is the back half of a 23-acre parcel. The shelter site fronts on the General Hitchison Parkway with a 100-foot access to U.S. 17-92, Mrs. Christensen said.

"The only reason my parents didn't deed the property outright is because it is included in the land which the state has designated it will purchase in Spring Hammock for conservation purposes," she said.

She said an application has been filed with the county's board of adjustment seeking a variance to permit operation of the Humane Society shelter in the agricultural zone. Mrs. Christensen said formal signing of documents will take place at a later time, adding she is sure if the state purchases the land the Humane Society facility will be permitted to remain.

Meanwhile, Eunice Shomo of the Humane Society's board of directors, said today it is expected the society will realize between $900 and $1,000 from a benefit fashion show, luncheon and auction held at the Cavalier Motel in Sanford Saturday. She said 160 persons attended the luncheon. Part of these proceeds will go into the building fund and part will be used to pay day-to-day operating costs at the current shelter located at the Sanford Airport.

The society is using the old Sanford city dog pound at the airport for its shelter now.

Mrs. Shomo said it is estimated construction of a new shelter will cost about $200,000.

Two Threaten To Resign Over Baby Formula Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two senior officials of the Agency for International Development say they intend to resign as a "matter of conscience" over the U.S. decision to oppose international guidelines for marketing baby formula.

"We have told the agency that unless the administration changes its position on the vote we're going to submit our resignations," Eugene Babb, a 10-year veteran of AID, said in an interview today.

Dr. Stephen Joseph, AID's top health official, Sunday night disputed a Washington Post report that he and Babb, the agency's top agriculture and rural development official, were pressured to quit.

"I don't think it's fair to characterize that I was pressured to resign," Joseph said. "We are speaking out as a matter of conscience."

The two men, who both have played roles in development of policy on the baby formula issue, called a news conference today to outline their position. They are among the first senior government officials to break with the Reagan administration over a policy question.

At the heart of the controversy is a proposed set of guidelines that will be considered Thursday by the World Health Assembly in Geneva, Switzerland.

The guidelines seek to curtail the marketing of infant formula, which some groups say discourages breast feeding and poses a risk in underdeveloped countries, where it may be mixed with contaminated water.

The United States is expected to be the only government to vote against the code among the 137 nations participating in the Geneva meeting. The code is opposed by three large formula manufacturers and the Grocery Manufacturers of America.

Babb and Joseph informed AID Administrator M. Peter McPherson in a meeting Friday of their intention to break with the administration and quit their posts over the issue.

"He said he would accept our resignation," Babb said today. "When was the last time a government official spoke out against an administration and got promoted?"

"If the United States persists and casts a negative vote in Geneva this week," Joseph said, "we intend to resign."

Reagan

Time For 'Warm Bath' Nostalgic Memories

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For President Reagan, commencement at the University of Notre Dame was more a time for a "warm bath of nostalgic memories" than for a major expression of economic or foreign policy.

Under the tightest security of his presidency, Reagan was cheered when he told the 12,500 graduates and their families in South Bend, Ind., he would not talk about the great issues of the day.

"If I don't watch myself, this could turn out to be less a commencement than a warm bath in nostalgic memories," he said.

Reagan told how as a child he was influenced by Knute Rockne, the legendary coach of Notre Dame's "Fighting Irish," and how privileged he felt years later to play opposite Pat O'Brien in the movie about Rockne's gridiron career.

The film, the president noted, "says something about America."

Carter

Jimmy Attacks Reagan Human Rights Policy

NEW YORK (UPI) — In his first major speech since leaving office, former President Jimmy Carter accused President Reagan with making "accommodation with evils" in his human rights policy and said the defense of liberty was "a strong weapon" in the ideological battle with the Soviets.

The tanned and relaxed-looking Carter admitted Sunday that his own human rights policy occasionally was "disappointing."

Carter never mentioned his successor by name in his speech, but alluded to the Reagan administration's self-proclaimed "hard-headed realism" on human rights issues.

He attacked Reagan's human rights policy as "making accommodation with evils practiced in other countries which might be our allies, recognizing the limits of United States influence."

Controversial Doctor Koop

In its 100-year history, the American Public Health Association has never taken a position on a presidential appointment.

But when the Reagan administration proposed Dr. C. Everett Koop for surgeon general, the public health professionals couldn't hold their tongues.

The man whom the administration wants to direct the nation's Public Health Service — including the Center for Disease Control, the Food and Drug Administration and the Institute for Alcohol and Drug Abuse, among others — has no training or experience in epidemiology, demographics, preventive medicine or any other public health specialty.

In fact, according to the Pennsylvania commissioner of health, in all Koop's years as a pediatric surgeon in Philadelphia, he has never even expressed an interest in public health issues.

For the Reagan administration, what apparently commended Koop for the surgeon general post was not any appropriate expertise — he clearly was, as the executive director of the Public Health Association testified, "almost uniquely unqualified" for the job — but Koop's stand on the wholly irrelevant question of abortions.

In that area, Koop's interest, experience — and position — are extreme. He has toured the country, lecturing that abortion leads to euthanasia. He has written that amniocentesis, the procedure used to detect Down's syndrome and other congenital disorders in fetuses is a search-and-destroy mission. He has accused Planned Parenthood of destroying "adolescent innocence" and accused pro-abortion Christians of immorality and depravity.

With opinions like these, Koop hardly seems the kind of dispassionate authority the American public would find credible when, as surgeon general, he would be the nation's chief spokesman on health controversies.

Nor does he sound like the kind of man who would relinquish this crusade to concentrate on public health issues for which he would be responsible. And that is in addition to the fact that the man simply doesn't know much about smoking or food additives or swine flu vaccines or any other matter of concern to the Public Health Service he would direct.

He would be the first surgeon general ever to have no public health background — the first, in fact, who wasn't distinguished in the field.

It is likely that Koop's appointment will be held up for some time because of a technicality: Koop needs Congress to waive the age requirement for the surgeon general's position. But it should not have come to that.

In its attempt to appoint an extremist whose major credentials are political, the Reagan administration has shown contempt for the Public Health Service, insulted the public health profession and short-changed the public.

Delegates from all over the country and throughout Europe will make this year's 85th annual convention of the National PTA one of the biggest and best ever. And it's all taking place right here in Central Florida at Orlando's Sheraton Twin Towers.

Scheduled to start on Saturday, May 24 and lasting through the 27th, PTA representatives have taken for their theme in 1981, "The PTA Moves Forward...Designs For The Future", a focus which highlights the crucial concerns of parents and educators in coming years.

Virginia V. Sparling, the organization's national president, said conventioners will examine not only the future of education, but politics and economics will be studied for probable future impact they will make on public education.

Dr. Christopher J. Dede, a professor at the University of Houston at Clear Lake will speak to delegates on technological advancements that will allow the responsibility of education assumed more and more in the home. In his keynote address, Dede is expected to trace the theme, "Schools and Families in the '80s."

In addition, 30 workshops are slated for the confab, covering a wide range of timely subjects, including: what's right with public education, the new Far Right, violence and vandalism, school finance, discipline, needs of children with single parents, critical TV viewing, instructional teleconferencing and computer-based learning systems.

A special convention feature will display an electronic technology exhibit designed to give participants a "hands-on" experience with exciting new innovations affecting education, family life, and community living.

Mrs. Virginia King, newly elected president of the Seminole County PTA, and several other delegates, will be on hand at the convention to explore the innovations that could be considered and incorporated into the county school system in the near future.

Official greetings to PTAers will be given by Dr. Ralph D. Turlington, Florida Commissioner of Education; Dr. William G. Stevenson, President of the American Association of School Administrators; Dr. James L. Schott, Superintendent, Orange County Public Schools; and Katie Keene, president of the Florida PTA.

End Run Around High Court?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Congress and the federal judiciary appear to be on a collision course that does not bode well for either branch of government.

Dozens of bills have been introduced in the House and Senate this year to strip the federal courts of jurisdiction over controversial subjects such as abortion, school prayer and busing — all issues on which previous Supreme Court decisions have created deep and often bitter divisions.

Lacking the votes to overturn such rulings through conventional procedures, frustrated lawmakers now are attempting an end run around the high court by seizing upon a seldom-utilized provision of the Constitution that gives Congress the right to restrict the tribunal's appellate jurisdiction.

The pending bills, introduced by legislators unhappy with court rulings on busing, prayer and abortions, would bar the federal courts — including the Supreme Court — from reviewing all state laws affecting those topics.

Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, chairman of the Senate subcommittee with jurisdiction in the field and a leading advocate of the court circumvention strategy, argues that "the federal judiciary has been courting constitutional disaster by reading its own predilections into the nation's fundamental document."

There is, of course, an eye-of-the-beholder problem with Hatch's argument. He may consider the Supreme Court guilty of "overreaching" in its rulings, but others applauded those decisions as wise and reasonable interpretations of the Constitution. Who is to say which side is right?

Legal scholars disagree as to whether Congress does in fact have the right to strip the court of its power to review the constitutionality of state laws on any subject. But even if the legislature has such a right, that doesn't mean it ought to exercise it.

This is not the first time, after all, that substantial segments of the population have been deeply upset by Supreme Court rulings. In the 1920s, liberals were frustrated when the high court struck down laws aimed at curbing some of the most rapacious practices of big business.

In the 1930s, when the "nine old men" wiped out much of his early New Deal legislation, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was so furious that he tried to push through Congress his infamous court-packing scheme.

The South was in turmoil for years after the court's 1954 school desegregation decision, while liberal criminal-law rulings of the 1960s provoked noisy "impeach Earl Warren" crusades.

Despite the passions aroused, the court's right to decide those issues never was successfully challenged. But when it has found itself too far out of line with the public and political consensus of the day, the high court has retreated from unpopular positions.

Sometimes such turnabouts have been abrupt. Even as Congress debated the Roosevelt court-packing scheme, two justices suddenly reversed themselves and began finding merit in New Deal legislation.

Aid To Egypt: Down Bureaucratic Tube

WASHINGTON — The American taxpayers have been sending Egypt billions of dollars in foreign aid to pay for the Israeli-Egyptian peace process. Peace in the Sinai may be well worth the price, but the taxpayers have been misled about the cost.

Much of the money has had about the same effect as pouring pitchers of water on the desert sand. The funds have been misspent with an extravagance that should be called to public attention.

In 1973, then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger promised U.S. aid in return for the Sinai Accords. I reported at the time that the cost would amount to $15 billion over the next five years. The story evoked horrified denials.

Well, I was wrong. The actual total of U.S. military and economic assistance to Egypt and Israel during the five-year period was a staggering $30.6 billion.

Then, in 1978, Jimmy Carter negotiated the Camp David agreement. He assured Americans it would cost them no more than about $1 billion a year in additional aid for the next five years. I reported that the Egyptians and Israelis were actually expecting an additional $19 billion over the five-year period.

Since the Camp David agreement, the American taxpayers have been subsidizing

BUSINESS WORLD

Record-Level Interest

NEW YORK (UPI) — The real interest rate on the Treasury's 28-week bills auctioned this week — the return after inflation — comes in around a hefty 10 percent, surely one of the best in modern times.

The 10 percent "real" interest is based on the 17.00 percent actual return investors will get on 28-week Treasury bills which sold at a discount of 18.81 percent, less an inflation rate of 7.3 percent in March, as measured by the consumer price index.

This week's six-month bill return was the highest since March 24, 1980, when the discount was 15.70 percent and the actual return 17.25 percent. But consumer price inflation in March, 1980 was 17.3 percent, meaning investments were not returning a "real" rate at all.

William C. Melton, economist at Irving Trust, said the bonanza for investors results from a relatively strong economy despite an extended period of high rates.

"Some sectors — autos and housing for example — are very weak, but the economy overall has not died," Melton said. As a result money growth is speeding up, forcing the Federal Reserve's recent aggressive tightening moves to keep interest rates high.

David M. Jones, economist for Aubrey G. Lanston & Co., said another factor in the high rates is that lenders and the big investors who place the "competitive" bids that determine the rate on government securities "are building a higher risk factor into rates. Under the Fed's new policy of focusing on the money supply investors, and lenders, are deeply afraid of wide swings in rates."

Borrowers, of course, are paying similar hefty "real" interest charges — the 19.5 percent prime minus the inflation rate.

"This high cost of money is virtually choking the small business borrower."

Jones and Melton both feel the Fed is reacting much faster to short-term swings in the money supply — that illusive $430 billion in cash, checking and NOW accounts that the public has available for immediate spending.

The Fed's caution stems in part from its experience last summer when a sharp contraction in the money supply led it to ease its pressure on interest rates too fast. The Fed was, and still is, being blamed for the resulting renewal of inflationary pressures.

"Yes, indeed, the Fed is reacting to criticism it received over its easing last spring and summer," Melton said. "It has become especially sensitive to recent criticism by the monetarists in the administration."

Administration officials have publicly and repeatedly criticized the Fed for what they call its failure on the money supply front, especially Treasury Secretary Donald Regan and Beryl Sprinkel, undersecretary for monetary affairs and a "monetarist," one who believes the Fed should contract money and let interest rates go where they will.

As to whether the "real" interest rates on Treasury bills and the six-month $10,000 bank certificates that are pegged to them will go beyond 10 percent, it depends on the "highly unpredictable demand of the public for money," Jones said.

"There are two things certain in this life," Melton said, "and the money supply is not one of them."

An End To Social Insecurity

In the beginning, the intention was relatively modest.

The idea was to provide some insurance for the elderly working population against unanticipated financial need. "Working" was defined in the most basic sense of the word, meaning jobholders in industry and commerce, no high-salaried professionals.

And even so coverage was far from comprehensive. Initially no more than 60 percent of the work force participated and benefits were limited, supplementing an individual's own savings and whatever might be forthcoming from other sources. Participants financed the program through deductions from their paychecks. But they were not thereby investing in an annuity, paying in money that they would be entitled to withdraw later.

The idea was not to establish a national pension system. The program was structured not as a cumulative trust fund but as a simple transfer mechanism. Money paid in by the participating portion of the active work force was immediately paid out to the eligible portion of the retired population.

That, briefly, was Social Security as conceived and instituted in the depression '30s. That is not Social Security in the inflationary '80s and to a considerable extent because the program has changed so much in the last half century it is in trouble. Again.

So now we have President Reagan and Congress revving up for the third restructure operation in approximately as many years. What makes this time around different is that for the first time retrenchment is being seriously addressed as essential to keeping the system solvent.

The administration proposals — principally to set back annual cost-of-living increases from July to October at a savings of billions a year, discourage early retirement, revise the formula for computing future benefits and tighten eligibility requirements for some — are in part a hurry-up effort designed to head off independent congressional action. Both houses are looking at more drastic pruning because the Social Security system is in such clearly bad shape, in real danger of running out of funds.

In a sense it is a victim of its own success. From the very beginning the system functioned not merely as intended but better. So much better that not only did participation multiply, benefits proliferated. With an expanding economy and a growing population, the nation could afford it, particularly in the boom '60s when a number of expensive additions were made to the original benefits package.

The good times came to an end in the sagging '70s, however. Partly it is demographics — a declining birthrate, meaning fewer newcomers to the work force, and more Americans living longer, meaning more retirees to be supported. In the 1990s, the payroll taxes of 11 workers supported one beneficiary. The ration is now about 3-to-1, and some projections see it hitting 3-to-1 or less within another half a century.

foreign exchange. In fact, about 75 percent of the money allocated for long-range development projects like roads, sewers, communications and industry — some $1.5 billion — is still waiting to be spent.

Hardly any construction projects have been completed. Not one agricultural program has advanced beyond the pilot stage. Meanwhile, Egypt's economy continues to deteriorate while its population continues to grow at more than a million a year, aggravating the problem severely. Egypt still has to import more than one-third of its food while potentially rich farmland along the Nile lies fallow for lack of development.

Much of the problem is bureaucratic — and the fault lies on both sides. Defending AID's operation, the agency's Egypt-Israel desk officer, Gerald Camens, acknowledged that there were start-up problems because "we were dealing with a county we didn't know that much about."

Another problem at the Washington end seems to be an internecine battle over "turf" between the State Department and AID. As one congressional observer told my reporter John Dillon, "AID and the (U.S.) embassy don't always see eye to eye."

The diplomats want to see more tangible results of the aid program. For example, embassy officials were reportedly upset when AID funds were used to replace engines and equipment in old tugboats working the Nile, instead of replacing the boats themselves — which would have provided visible evidence of U.S. assistance.

But by far the hairiest bureaucratic problem, Grant reports from Cairo, is in the Egyptian government, which is riddled with incompetence, duplication and corruption.

Egypt's bloated bureaucracy has been described by AID officials with experience in developing nations as the worst in the world.

One reason for this is that government guarantees college graduates jobs in the bureaucracy — as a politically expedient means of solving unemployment in a potentially dangerous segment of Egyptian society. But the government can't afford to pay its civil servants adequately — even high-level officials make less than $100 a month.

The inevitable result is that competent officials leave as soon as they can find private jobs, and bureaucrats who stay spend much of their time and effort protecting their pathetic empires. The overstaffing and jealousy lead to endless delays in getting anything accomplished, and encourage the graft that is practically guaranteed by the low salaries paid to civil servants.

A Moderate Or A Coward?

Salvadoran Archbishop Elects Caution

SAN SALVADOR (NEA) — For a man who's been celebrating the glory of God most of his life, Archbishop Arturo Rivera y Damas seems ill at ease during mass. While others carry out the details of the ceremony in San Salvador's imposing cathedral, he sits frozen on a chair facing the congregation.

He glances often from side to side. He looks warily at the aisle door. The anxiety is quite natural, actually. For Archbishop Damas makes a fine target on the altar. The cathedral is filled with 800 people, many of whom roam in and out of the place, and despite the wholesome piety of the moment there is also great risk: anyone in attendance could kill the padre.

It's happened here before to an archbishop. Rivera Damas' predecessor, Oscar Arnulfo Romero, was murdered in church a year ago. Romero was champion of the nation's impoverished, and was suspected of fomenting revolution; he was shot dead by a gunman who took aim through an open window.

And that's not all of it. Since the present political turmoil began late last decade, 10 priests, a seminary student, three nuns and a Roman Catholic lay worker have been murdered in El Salvador. Some have been strangled. The nuns were molested. Observers say no one in the church is safe anymore.

Particularly the archbishop. As leader of more than four million Roman Catholics, most of them devout, the Apostolic Administrator is potentially the most influential man in the nation. Governments come and go, but the church is eternal, and its archbishop commands both secular and spiritual authority.

Rivera Damas did. When he preached on Sunday the homily was transmitted to the nation by radio, and there were supplementary broadcasts by public address systems. He was so popular that the faithful sometimes would not let him leave after mass; thousands came to the cathedral just to touch him.

Archbishop Damas has told aides that Romero may have been too popular, in fact, and that others in the church suffered for it. He is known to believe that Romero gave the Roman Catholic leadership a leftist image, which angered conservative groups and led the right wing's continuing vendetta.

Hence for his own part, Damas has lowered the profile of his office. Gone are the days when El Salvador's archbishop would rail against government repression and abuse of the campesinos (the peasants). Instead, Archbishop Damas says he is following a "moderate course between the extremes."

Which is not to say he's completely neutral. When the government recently arrested one of its own executives, a moderate to liberal army colonel, Damas protested the act as "irresponsible." But that's about the extent of his personal rhetoric; he claims the church should stay out of politics, and the problem is that it's inconsistent in choosing sides. Some priests who served under Archbishop Romero say that Damas is not so much a moderate, as a coward, and that he does not have the necessary courage to speak out for the nation.

A few of the priests believe that Damas is actually in league with the government against the people. They say he has tried to cover up the establishment-sponsored murder of at least one priest, and that he may be conspiring with other bishops to facilitate government brutality in El Salvador.

The later charge relates to an incident that occurred last year east of the capital. Critics charge that a bishop named Pedro Arnoldo Aparicio y Quintanilla gave permission to government troops to clear guerrillas from his diocese. Four dozen young men were killed, and 50 more were captured.

The critics doubt that Archbishop Damas condoned the slaughter. But they insist that he at least gave tacit approval: "He remembers what happened to Romero, and he is a frightened gentleman. He knows that the government could have him killed at any time, therefore he acts cautiously."

Right or wrong, many Roman Catholics on all levels agree the archbishop is too cautious. Some priests have left the country in disgust, and some church members have dropped out of mass. Those who attend the archbishop's Sunday services seem uninspired, and a few moan in weary objection during his remarks.

Recently, after mass, Damas seemed almost to be soliciting some kind of approval. He stood near the door of the cathedral, as people filed out, and he tried to grab hands in affection. Only a few people responded; and old man, a woman with a donation, and a couple who talked of their plans.

Aides say the archbishop is sometimes hurt by this lack of support, but he has no plans to shift from the middle of the road. That would be unfair to one side or the other, they explain. It would also be dangerous. "The father can be loved or he can be alive," sighs a priest. "He can't be both."

Shooting Death Probe Continues

Palm Beach County sheriff's detectives continued their investigation today into the shooting death of a Lake Mary man.

The victim, Robert Wayne Barton, 34, of 11 B Grand Bend Ave., was found shot to death last Thursday in his room at the Days Inn at South Bay, a village in the west end of Palm Beach County.

Barton, a trucker, had registered alone at the motel, according to motel records. He was seen through a window lying on the bed and "appeared to be in some kind of trouble," a motel employee said today. "When we went to check on him, the door was open and we found him dead with a gunshot wound," the motel clerk said.

No further details were available.

Students Rush To Get Loans Before Fed Cuts

UCF — The rush is on in Central Florida to apply for education loans before budgetary cutbacks filter down from Washington.

While financial aid officers generally are more optimistic now than several months ago, many feel the bite on student loan policies will start taking effect early next year.

Of major concern to students and parents are proposed changes in eligibility for the Guaranteed Student Loan, which under current law enables undergraduates to borrow up to $3,000 a year, regardless of family income. Indications are the Reagan Administration will ask for an income ceiling to restrict such loans.

According to Don Baldwin, financial aid director at the University of Central Florida, who administered $13.8 million in loans, grants, scholarships and work-study funds this year, there is a strong possibility that the annual family income limit will be set at $25,000. The immediate result would be "a ton of paperwork necessary to document each application for a Guaranteed Student Loan according to financial need," he said.

This year, he added, 60 percent of UCF students received some sort of financial assistance through his office.

The impact of the Guaranteed Student Loan program at UCF is apparent in the $6.5 million in such loans made this year. Students or parents applying for the program are charged 8 percent interest on their loans, with payment beginning after graduation in most cases.

A prime reason for projected cutbacks using new maximum income regulations is current law that requires the federal government to pay all the interest on such loans until pay-back begins. With no ceiling on income, there is no way to project how many loans and how much money will be involved in a single year, Baldwin explained.

The UCF official also anticipates a marked reduction in federal funding for Pell Grants (formerly known as Basic Educational Opportunity Grants) which do not have to be repaid. Grants are awarded on demonstrated financial need, and the amount is based on a student's or family's resources. This year, $3 million in Pell Grants were awarded at UCF.

The picture at UCF is a reflection of the national scene. The feeling among financial aid officers is that students who apply for and receive Guaranteed Student Loans before October will get the same terms and conditions that now exist.

As for the future, added Baldwin, it's wall and see. "We definitely will feel the impact of the Washington climate soon." The long-range effect on UCF? It can only be conjecture at this point, he observed.

Salvadoran Archbishop Arturo Damas seems ill at ease during mass. After a rash of killings of religious leaders, some say no one in the church in San Salvador is safe anymore.

Danny Zinn surveys final hole in Club Championship.

Zinn As In Win Birdies 18th For Mayfair Title

By SCOTT SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

Where were the television cameras Sunday at the Mayfair Country Club? It was Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer (in a way) battling for the title.

In this case it was Bobby Lundquist, defending "Championship Flight" title holder, against 20-year-old Danny Zinn. The two were competing for the top spot in the Mayfair Men's Association Annual Club Championship.

It wasn't Augusta but the action couldn't have been better. Both the golfers were dead even as they teed off for the par four, 18th hole. There was not going to be a playoff, this was the deciding hole.

Each was on the green at two. It appeared Lundquist got the best of the two as his ball landed just 10 feet from the hole while Zinn, a standout Valencia Community College golfer, was a distant 20 feet away.

With the odds against Zinn, he sunk the 20-foot putt. "There was a little break, I just stroked it the best I could," said the shy youngster afterward.

Lundquist now had the pressure on him. He had to duplicate Zinn's birdie to keep the game alive. "It was a very bad putt, I left it short," explained a disappointed Lundquist.

"Danny played awful good and deserved to win," added Lundquist, who guided his Seminole High baseball team to a district title two weeks ago.

The two golfers battled back and forth for the lead in the three-day Championship. After the first day, Lundquist fired a par 77 putting him two up on Zinn. Zinn, however, came back on day two to take a two-stroke lead.

Lundquist fought his way back setting the stage for an exciting final round. "Bobby played well today. I felt pretty fortunate to win today," concluded Zinn.

SEMINOLE BOOSTER LEFTOVERS:

Low gross honors in the April 25 Seminole Boosters Club Annual Golf Classic which attracted over 100 people went to Marty Herman and Tommy Fonseca in the Championship Flight with 71's. Ira Abramson and Don Smith had 67's for low net and Ron Howell fired a 68.

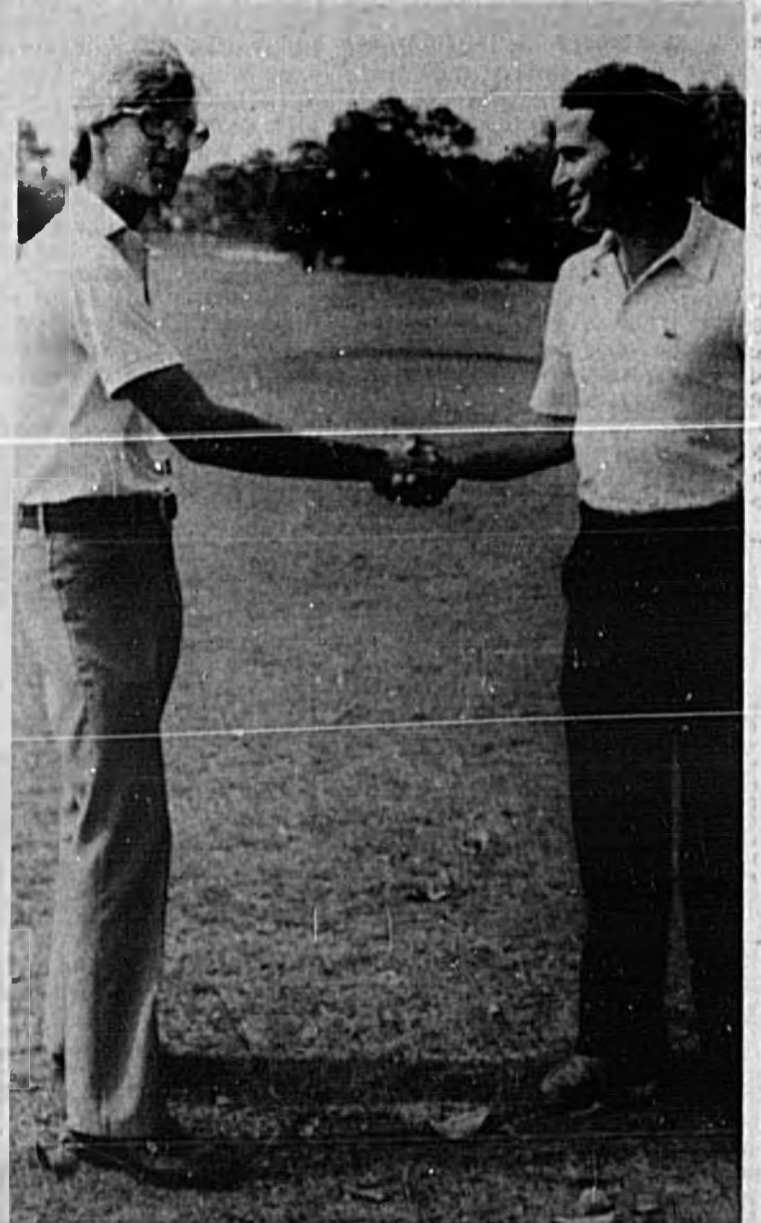

In the First Flight, Lake Brantley Assistant Principal Tony Mandeville carded a 63 for low net honors. Frank Gore with 68, Robbie Robertson with 70 and Joe Kurnai and Darryl Miller with 71's completed the top five.

Hank Heckenbach and Ada O'Neill each shot 68's to take the low net for the Second Flight. Fred Ganas, Guy Garrett and John Pierce were all grouped at 69.

In the Third Flight, Tom Lyons won easily with a 61. J. Taylor (70) and Larry Johnson (70), John Morris (71), George Willis (72) were next in line.

Tom McDonald led the Fourth Flight with a 74. Jack Horner was next with an 82.

In the Calloway Division, John Lehr fired a 68, Tom Dixon had 72, Dick Rost a 74 and Roger Hobbs a 74 also.

Pleasant Colony Looks Toward Belmont Stakes

BALTIMORE (UPI) — They're tripping over themselves trying to avoid running into Pleasant Colony and the Fat Man now.

Trainers of most of the horses that came up short trying to beat John Campo's colt in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness were making arrangements Sunday at Pimlico for their next races. And few of those plans included the Belmont Stakes June 6, where Pleasant Colony will try to become the 12th horse to win the Triple Crown.

Larry Barrera planned to ship A Run and Flying Nashua, 10th and 12th respectively in Saturday's Preakness, to Belmont Park. But he said A Run would then go on to California, while Flying Nashua would stay in New York but not run in the 1 1/2 mile classic.

Woodchopper, second in the Derby but a disappointing 11th at Pimlico, is also out, as are Escambia Bay, Bare Knuckles and Double Sonic.

Runner-up Bold Ego, who held off Pleasant Colony until the last sixteenth of a mile, and surprise third-placer Pariato will probably come back for another shot at the Buckland Farms colt, as will Partez, who finished fifth. Still, that could make for a small field for the final leg of racing's most coveted prize.

"It don't make no difference," said Campo, the chubby New Yorker who became a prophet with honor for predicting victories in Pleasant Colony's last three races. "He'll win the Belmont. He's a great horse."

Pleasant Colony followed the script he used in the Derby in winning the 104th Preakness and adding $200,000 to his bankroll. Jockey Jorge Velasquez allowed Bold Ego to set the pace, then moved Pleasant Colony to the outside to challenge at the head of the stretch.

He whipped the horse only in mid-stretch as Pleasant Colony overtook Bold Ego in a driving finish to win by one length.

Bold Ego's performance vindicated trainer Jack Van Berg, who said all week his horse was better than his 10th place finish in the Derby.

"We ran nose and nose with him down the stretch. It was where the money comes in that we ran out of whistle grease," he said.

Even though Van Berg plans to ship to New York, he isn't sure he has enough horse to catch Pleasant Colony.

"I don't think he's (Bold Ego) a mile-and-a-half horse, but if he has a chance to get a piece, we're going," he said. "I think the horse deserves the chance."

"But Campo's horse has fired three times in a row, and every one's been true. The only way to beat him is for him to tail off. I thought we shook him off at the eighth pole, but he just overpowered us."

Officials at Belmont Park released a list of 10 New York-based horses that might run in the Belmont.

5 Points Roundup

Rogers Sparkles For State Bank; Fat Boy's, Pizza Den Feast Continues

Move over Fernando Valenzuela, Susan Rogers wants some of the spotlight. Rogers, an ace pitcher for Jim Lewis' Bronco softball team at Five Points, has turned in some pretty impressive numbers herself.

In State Bank of Forest City's last five games — all victories — Rogers has given up just six runs. Two of the wins — 8-0 over Rinker Materials and 6-0 over Winter Springs Community Church — have been sparkling shutout performances.

State Bank of Forest City won the second round and posted a 16-3 overall record. Tonight they play first half winner H. D. Realty in a two-of-three playoff series with one game scheduled for 6:45.

In the victory over Community Church, Rogers helped herself with the bat too. She slammed a double and triple food for one run batted in. Michelle Schwartz had a three-bagger and Terro Blayney a double and RBI.

In Rogers' other shutout, Kim Averill slugged a double and triple driving in three runs. Lisa Gregory drove in a run with a single, while Andrea Miller, Jill Lewis and Schwartz each had key hits.

In what Lewis hopes will be a foreshadowing of tonight's matchup, State Bank bombed H D Realty 16-1. Laura Davis' three hits and two RBI led the way as did Bev Stough's two runs batted in. Rogers and Averill had two hits each. Gregory went 3-for-3. Nine first-inning runs turned the game 11-0 to a rout early.

Stough and Averill were again the hitting heroines against Central Florida's Circuits in a 6-2 victory. Averill plated three runs with two doubles and Stough scored two times and had three singles.

In another victory — this time 13-3 — over Rinker, Blayney crashed three hits good for four runs batted in. Andrea Fenning, Lis Stone and Lewis had two singles each while Rogers and Gregory each plated two runs.

Badcock's Furniture's Denise Stevens and Lisa Bergstesser turned on the power as the Furniture girls won three games. Bergstesser smacked a three-run shot, her first of the year, to help Badcock finish 13-5 with an 18-3 blasting of Winter Springs.

Andrea Martinez stroked four hits including a double to drive in two runs and Karen Boehmer added a triple among three shots for two RBI.

Stevens crashed a two-run homer in the sixth inning to turn the game around and give Badcock a 7-3 victory over Longwood. Bergstesser added two doubles and Dawn Riley picked up her seventh mound decision while striking out two.

In the 13-8 whipping of Casselberry I, Stevens homered and doubled for three runs batted in. Bergstesser plated three runs with two doubles and a single, while Boehmer slugged four hits driving in three. Riley spaced 11 hits for the victory.

Taste Bonus!

---

Research generates consistent proof that low tar
MERIT matches taste of higher tar brands.

Five years ago, low tar MERIT sparked a whole new era in smoking by delivering taste way out of proportion to tar.

Until MERIT, no low tar cigarette had been able to prove it could match the taste of higher tar brands.

Millions Endorse MERIT Taste

Switching studies confirm it. 90% of smokers switching to MERIT are coming directly from higher tar cigarettes.

Fact: Since its introduction, MERIT has gained more smokers than any other low tar brand!

MERIT: Taste Success

MERIT continues to win higher tar smokers with its unique combination of taste, ease of switch, and long-term satisfaction.

A combination that appeals to millions of smokers who have switched to—and stayed with—the first proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking.

The momentum builds: MERIT is changing the future of smoking.

Wiring Mouth Not Answer To Eating

DEAR ABBY: You are my last hope. I am an obese woman who has tried every kind of diet imaginable, but nothing works for me. I saw a woman on Tom Snyder's show a while back who had her mouth wired shut so she couldn't eat solid foods; she could only drink liquids. I can't find a dentist who does this. I even called the American Dental Association, but they said they didn't know who to call either. I am desperate. Please hurry. I weigh 320 and can hardly breathe.

Dear Abby

NO WILL POWER IN THE BRONX

DEAR NG WILLPOWER: I rarely give unasked for advice, but wiring your mouth shut is not the answer. Please locate the Overeaters Anonymous chapter nearest you and go to a meeting. I've attended some of this organization's meetings and found the people there to be an unbelievable loving, supportive group. You need friends who have been through your kind of hell. Please go.

DEAR ABBY: I work for an advertising company, selling ads on the phone. I live in Iowa and make phone calls all over the country. Last November I called a man in Texas who had the most wonderful voice I had ever heard! He bought some advertising from me, so I called him back for business reasons. He must have like my voice too, because we started talking and found we had a lot in common. He asked for my home phone so he could call me in the evenings. We've been talking every night, and now I feel as though I've known him all my life.

Abby, is it possible to fall in love over the phone? I think about this man night and day. We exchanged pictures, and now he wants to come to Iowa to meet me. I'm so afraid if we meet in person this wonderful dream will come to an end. Do you think I'm foolish? Should I let him come? Has anyone else ever fallen in love with a voice on the phone? Please help me.

IN LOVE AT FIRST SOUND

DEAR IN LOVE: I'm sure you aren't the only person who has fallen in love with a voice. If you're both over 21 and free, meet him, and let reality take over from fantasy.

DEAR ABBY: I just hung up from a long-distance call that I must share with you. When I answered my phone,

Sun And Medicine A Sensitive Duo

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it true that while taking certain medicines one should not sit in the sun? If so, why? What, if any, harm could have been done if one has acquired a dark tan slowly? Is there any cause for alarm if one has been taking medicine for eight months without advice from a doctor about this?

DEAR READER — Yes, and it is also true of using various skin preparations and soaps. These preparations increase the sensitivity of the skin to sunshine. In other words, it is easier to get a bad sunburn and damage your skin. Anyone taking medicines that increase the sensitivity of the sun must be particularly careful about being out in the sun too long and should take extra precautions to avoid sunburn.

Antibiotics such as tetracyclines may increase your sensitivity. So will sulfa medications, some diuretics and even salicylates as found in common aspirin. Barbiturates and tranquilizers also increase sensitivity to the sun's radiation. These are sometimes used in some cases of elevated blood pressure as well as for nervous tension. If a person is taking small doses of antibiotics such as tetracyclines for acne and then wants to get some sunshine, he will be more sensitive than other people and may end up having a bad sunburn as well as acne.

The same is true of acne preparations used to peel the skin. I have listed these and provided additional information on protecting the skin from sunburn in The Health Letter number 7-10, Your Skin: Sun, Aging, Spots and Cancer, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Certain after shave lotions such as Hal Karate and Jade East may increase your sensitivity. So will bactericidal soaps that contain TBS (tribromosalicylanilide). Check the ingredients on your soap.

If you have been getting plenty of sun and not having a problem, your tan is already protecting you somewhat. But anyone who is on such medicines should use sunscreens and limit his exposure.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I think I read in your column that lumpy breasts were caused from too much caffeine in coffee, colas, too much chocolate. I can't find it and I really need that information as I am quite concerned about this problem.

DEAR READER — That study was the work of Dr. Josh P. Minton, professor of surgery and oncology at Ohio State. He discovered that many women who had lumpy breasts would have regression or actual disappearance of breast lumps if they would stop ALL caffeine, which is found in coffee, tea, colas and chocolate.

Since then he has also reported that nicotine from cigarette smoking also appears to be a factor in lumpy breasts. His studies show that after eight weeks of no caffeine at all and no cigarettes that two-thirds of women with lumpy breasts are lump free. He thinks that if women would follow such a program perhaps 90 percent of the lump problems would no longer exist. Try it. Consider the cost of coffee, tea, chocolate and cigarettes, it is the cheapest medical treatment around.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OBL

For Tuesday, May 19, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY

May 19, 1981
Your financial prospects are quite encouraging for the coming year, but there is also a possibility you may spend as much as you earn. Try to salt a little away for your future needs.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Normally you're pretty good at finding the best buys, but today your shopping instincts may not be up to par. You could pay more for things than they are truly worth. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Charm and wit count for something, but today in your one-to-one relationships substance will be more important. Try combining the two.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Persons whom assistance you may need today could be reluctant to help you if you play upon their sympathies. Keep emotions out of the picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're a bit more susceptible to flattery today than usual. One who is aware of this may try to use it to advantage. Avoid ego trips.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If there is something important you want completed today, you'd be wise to rely only on yourself. Promises made by others may not count for much.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Unfortunately, if you have to make a choice today between doing what must be done or doing that which is more pleasurable, you may choose the latter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The tendency to spend beyond your means is something with which you might have to cope today. Don't buy items, hoping to have the funds later.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Members of the opposite sex could find you even more appealing than usual today, but be careful you don't respond in a manner so as to hurt another's feelings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're the type that others can rely upon because, when you say you'll do something, you'll do it. However, this may not be the case today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Be on your best behavior socially today. Don't overindulge or act in ways which could cause others to think less of you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You have the ability to achieve difficult goals today, but there's a chance you could put forth only nominal efforts and fail to do so.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's important to give praise to the deserving today, but be very careful if you try to use flattery to achieve your ends. Sincerity is a must.

responses as rather weak and non-forcing. The redouble is then used to show most good hands. How long has this been expert practice? Oswald: "I started using it in late summer of 1935. Today's hand shows why I did it then I was West, Mrs. Jacoby East and the bidding proceeded as shown. I opened a trump and after drawing trumps declarer had no trouble playing me for both ace and queen of clubs and making an overtrick." Alan: "It doesn't look like a tragedy. He was always sure of game." Oswald: "It was the final of the life masters' mixed. At the other table, East bid two diamonds over the double. The late Mrs. Emory Clement got to four hearts. A diamond was opened and she could only make her contract. We lost the board instead of tying it. Our opponents won the event by one half a point. If we had tied the board we would have won by half a point." Alan: "Your opponents way back in 1935 were already playing the modern style and as you said, you started to use it immediately afterwards." Oswald: "Right, but one tournament too late."
