Election takes over board room

The Seminole County school board will meet in the television production room of the media services building on Tuesday afternoon.

The board room where the meetings usually take place will be used as a polling place, so the board must move.

The media services building is a two story metal building just to the north of the main school district building, 1211 S. Mellorville Ave., Sanford. The television production room is on the second floor of that building.

The board will meet at 3:30 p.m.

Deputy injured in chase

LAKE MARY — Seminole County Deputy Andre Golden was injured this morning as the result of a chase near Lake Mary. According to sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough, Golden was responding to a burglary call at Sun Lake Apartments at approximately 1:30 this morning, when he saw a Ford Escort with four teenagers speed past him. Golden gave chase, during which time one of the teens reportedly fired a shot at him.

The suspect's vehicle and Golden's patrol car reportedly ran off the road on Lake Emma Road. Deputy Golden was reportedly injured, and was treated and released from Florida Hospital, Altamonte Springs.

Two of the four teenagers were eventually apprehended by other deputies. A boy and a girl, both age 14, had not officially been charged as of this morning.

The Ford Escort had been listed as stolen in Orange County.

Deputies said they found a Tech-9 machine pistol inside the vehicle.

Rape suspect

FERN PARK — Richard Drinkard, 25, was scheduled to make a court appearance this afternoon. He is charged with one count of sexual battery and one count of burglary to an occupied dwelling.

According to sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough, Drinkard reportedly took a master key to all of the apartments at Saint Johns Village Apartments on Oxford Road in Fern Park on Sunday morning. McDonough said he apparently took the keys from his mother who manages the complex.

According to McDonough, Drinkard entered the apartment of a 58 year old woman, went into her bedroom, restrained her, then raped her. The victim was treated and released from Florida Hospital in Altamonte Springs.

McDonough says Drinkard told his mother what he had done, and the woman took him to Florida Hospital for a psychological evaluation. It was at that point that deputies placed him under arrest.

Drinkard is being held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on $25,000 bond.

Voters have wide option on Tuesday

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Voters will have a host of options to decide upon this Tuesday.

Besides choosing a governor, residents will decide on casino gambling, fish net bans and several local races.

In the highly visible governor's race, Florida's elder statesman and incumbent Democrat Gov.

Lawton Chiles is facing a feisty challenge from the GOP's Jeb Bush, son of former president George Bush. Although Bush asks voters to accept his conservative changes for the state based on his own record, Daddy George stomped for him several times.

For Congress, incumbent U.S. Sen. Connie Mack, a Republican, is challenged by Democrat Hugh Rodham, brother to first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton. Mrs. Clinton has made appearances on Rodham's behalf.

In the U.S. House of Representatives, District 7 incumbent John Mica, a Winter Park businessman, faces a Democratic challenge from Longwood's Edward Goddard, an investment accountant. Mica is seeking re-election based on his record of bringing home federal dollars for constituents, including money for the Seminole County Expressway.

Goddard says government programs need

The real spirit of Christmas

At the Kmart in Sanford, employees are already getting in the giving spirit for the holidays. Store manager Fran Schembri and Lt. Greg Franks of the Salvation Army kicked off the season with a tree filled with angels representing the Christmas wishes of many of the area's needy. The tree will be at the store for the next month. Those wishing to purchase and donate the gifts for the children are being encouraged to do so.

Longwood opts for minimum road medians

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Rangeline Road is popping up again on the Monday night agenda of the Longwood City Commission exactly two weeks after a plan was approved for improvements on the mile-long road which connects E.E. Williamson/Longwood Hills Road and State Road 434.

Commissioner Paul Lovstrand will ask the commission to reconsider 12-foot medians rather than the 15-foot medians which were approved with the plans okayed by the commission Oct. 24. The commission approved the larger medians after being told by engineers they were required to meet minimum state standards.

"I've read the books," Lovstrand said Friday. "The smaller medians are permitted." He deferred further comment on the matter, saying he had another telephone call.

Mayor Steve Miller said he may request city administrator Shelton Smith to contact the state department of transportation about the minimum requirements. If the small medians are permitted, Miller said the commission might reconsider its vote.

Public meetings on Rangeline Road drew standing room crowds to the city commission chambers on three occasions. Most residents opposed any widening of the road and supported any moves to reduce the speed and the number of vehicles using the road. Plans for Rangeline Road, in both the city's comprehensive plan and Seminole County projections call for widening of the road.

The county set aside $800,000 collected from the one-cent gasoline tax for improvements on Rangeline Road. The city commissioners approved drainage, sidewalks and some turning lanes with medians. The money can only be used on Rangeline Road, Dog Track Road is the only other Longwood street slated to receive money from the gas tax fund.

In other business, the commissioners will consider amending the five year capital improvement program allowing for the development of commercial sewers in industrial areas and along State Road 434.

The commissioners will also sit at the Equalization Board at 6:30 p.m. review special assessments for the paving of Bulline and Georgia avenues. Abutting property owners will be assessed 40 percent of the road costs with the city picking up the remaining 60 percent.

The regular commission meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in city hall.

First readings approved Lake Mary mulls new ordinances

By NICK PFEIPAUF

LAKE MARY — Proposed changes to the city's comprehensive plan zipped past the recent Lake Mary city commission. Each of the matters were approved by a unanimous vote with hardly any discussion.

"Local governments are allowed two large scale plan amendments to the Department of Community Affairs (DCA) each year," explained planner Susan Demes. "These are a compilation of major changes, while small scale amendments will be accepted throughout the calendar year as they typically require less preliminary research, analysis and coordination."

In order to establish exactly how and when future large scale plan amendments will be handled, the city has now established a timetable for amendments into March of 1996.

Among items approved Thursday night were those pertaining to Olympia Homes' low/medium density residential and restricted commercial/office property, changes in land designations for property at the intersections of Weldon Boulevard and Main Road, Weldon and U.S. Highway 17-92, establishment of a compatibility table, comprehensive plan police amendments, and renaming certain future land use designations.

Under new business, the commission unanimously approved on first reading, ordinances which will

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Student dies in accidental shooting

GAINESVILLE — A University of Florida student died after he was accidentally shot by a friend whose gun discharged as he was opening his front door, police said.

Casey Matthew Kendall, 20, was rushed to Shands Hospital where he underwent surgery. He died Sunday afternoon.

"There is an ongoing investigation, but it appears to be accidental," said Alachua County Sheriff Lt. Emery Gaiety.

Bradford Giles Bracey, 23, apparently was concerned for his safety when he answered a knock at the door of his apartment at 4 a.m. Saturday. He armed himself with a .38 revolver and went to the door.

As Bracey opened the door, it struck his hand. The gun accidentally discharged, hitting Kendall in the neck, Gaiety said.

Kendall, who was from Orlando, was listed as living at Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Bracey is a senior at the University of Florida.

Although Gaiety stressed that officials believed the incident was an accident, he said it will be up to the State Attorney's Office to review the information and make a final decision.

Unruly celebration

GAINESVILLE — A homecoming celebration got violent when a crowd of unruly and intoxicated people at the University of Florida pelted police with rocks and bottles and tipped cars.

About 2,000 people crowded in front of a house, where a party had spilled onto the street, Gainesville Police Sgt. Joe Stein said Saturday. Police were responding to a noise complaint.

Eleven people were arrested and most were charged with open-container violations, disorderly conduct, possession of marijuana, resisting arrest without violence or assault on an officer. Seven of those arrested were UF students.

Cpl. Brad Joll needed 15 stitches after being hit on the head with a thrown object.

The riot began when the police, who were responding to a noise complaint, was touched off when police stopped a band from playing, witnesses said.

Animal activists complain

COCOA — Animal rights activists have filed complaints of cruelty, abuse and exploitation against the owner of a high diving mule act featured at the Brevard County Fair.

The activists are vowing to shut the attraction down.

Ingrid, Smokey and other members of Tim Rivers' High Diving Mules act took the 20-foot plunge Friday.

Minutes later, Voices for Animals member Cindy Clifton filed the complaints with Brevard sheriff's deputies. Animal Control authorities watched the animals trot up the steep ramp and make their awkward leaps, but no action was taken to stop the show, Voices local president Bonnie Miller said.

Opponents say the diving is an unnatural and terrifying experience for the mules, the Shetland pony and the dog in the sideshow act.

Brevard Circuit Judge Kerry Evander granted a temporary injunction last week preventing enforcement of an emergency ordinance passed by the County Commission in an attempt to pre-empt the fair performance.

Hurricane Florence no threat to land

CORAL GABLES — Hurricane Florence is alive but the threat of it reaching land is almost dead.

At 4 a.m. EST today, the hurricane's center was at 34 degrees north latitude and 55.5 west longitude, or about 545 miles east of Bermuda, according to a National Weather Service advisory.

The hurricane was stationary for much of the weekend but began a northeasterly movement late Sunday at about 9 mph — away from land, said Scott Carroll, meteorologist with the Weather Service, said today.

It will likely reach the British Isles in about three days but will be nothing more than a strong low-pressure system, he said.

"There's absolutely no threat there, the weather's fine in Bermuda," forecaster Richard Pasch with the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables said Sunday. "It's not expected to turn towards land."

Florence formed Friday night when its maximum sustained winds strengthened to 75 mph, just over the 74 mph threshold at which a named tropical storm becomes a hurricane.

It became the first November hurricane since Nov. 18, 1866, when Hurricane Frances formed in the Atlantic.

The first hurricane of this Atlantic hurricane season, Hurricane Chris, formed in the mid-Atlantic on Aug. 16. But Chris fizzled without reaching land. The Atlantic hurricane season ends Nov. 30.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Chiles captures endorsements Bush gets first support from major paper

By The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Republican gubernatorial candidate Jeb Bush captured his first endorsement from a major daily newspaper while Gov. Lawton Chiles added three more to his list.

The Florida Times-Union in Jacksonville endorsed former President George Bush's son Sunday.

"Florida can trust Bush to be a fiscal conservative every year, restating the political elite who have no ceiling to their agenda for redistributing wealth and expanding government," The Times-Union said. "We fully expect Bush to adequately fund the important work that government does and prune the frills and follies."

The Democratic incumbent got the nod Sunday from Florida Today in Melbourne, the Daily Commercial in Leesburg and the Naples Daily News. Most of the state's newspapers making endorsements have already picked Chiles.

Florida Today said Chiles and Lt. Gov. Buddy MacKay need another four years to "maintain the momentum" of the reforms they have initiated since first elected in 1990.

"The alternative is a stagnation and a return to the benign neglect that characterized state government during the term of Chiles' predecessor, Bob Martinez," the newspaper said.

The Commercial said Bush has become a strong contender for the state's top elected post only because of his name.

"We mean no disrespect to George and Barbara Bush. After all, what parents wouldn't help their child out?" the newspaper said. "Still, can anyone honestly say that Jeb Bush would be his party's nominee if his daddy hadn't been president?"

The Naples Daily News said the state was "on the right track" under the Chiles administration.

Chiles has used excerpts from his endorsements in his last blitz of television advertising. They say Florida still has serious problems, but highlight the governor's 35-year political experience, his choice of a running mate and his attempts to tackle the problems with realistic solutions.

The Bush campaign, which has already won endorsements from the Charlotte Sun Herald and The Observer of New Smyrna Beach, dismissed the Chiles endorsements as reflecting the "liberal leanings" of newspaper editorial boards.

But The Lake City Reporter has picked neither.

Fed up with the nasty tenor of the campaign, the paper endorsed Forrest Gump, the fictional simpleton of novel and film who always seemed to triumph over hardships because of his good heart.

Cubans frustrated at bureaucratic delays flee Guantanamo camp

By NICOLE WINFIELD
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI — An attempt by 85 Cuban refugees to flee the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay is just another sign of growing anger over bureaucratic delays for those who want to return home, a base official says.

Forty-six of the 85 escapees who made it outside the camp were caught and returned, said Army Maj. Rick Thomas, a camp spokesman.

"The process has been real slow," he said. "What they want to hear is when they can return to Cuba, but that's something we can't tell them."

The Cubans escaped Sunday by crushing two fences, jumping off a 40-foot cliff and swimming a mile to Cuban territory.

Also Sunday, a refugee tried to commit suicide by slashing his arm, Thomas said. The man was treated at the base hospital and was under observation.

The escapes came one day after 22 Cubans were flown back to Havana. Their repatriations followed an appeals court decision that overturned a U.S. District Court order banning voluntary returns.

The 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta ruled Friday refugees can be returned to their homeland and have the right to speak to lawyers. The court said its decision was necessary because Cubans are risking their lives to escape.

Cuban-American lawyers had filed a lawsuit to stop repatriations, saying the refugees should first speak to lawyers.

Attorney Bob Martinez said a group of lawyers would leave today for a three-day visit to Guantanamo to interview detainees who want to return to Cuba.

The Clinton administration has maintained that refugees intercepted at sea have no rights under the U.S. Constitution and immigration laws, including a constitutional right to access to lawyers.

Last week, 105 refugees tried to escape Guantanamo by jumping in the sea or over fences. Some were rescued; 43 remain unaccounted for. So far, 84 Cubans have been repatriated, Thomas said.

The 85 who fled Sunday were from a tent city housing about 800 Cubans who say they want to return home.

Elderly: not enough on issues

By PAT LEISNER
Associated Press Writer

TAMPA — As Election Day approaches, Florida's citizens with the best voting record — the elderly — have found little in the governor's race for them and plenty in negative TV ads to turn them off.

Otto Overreich, 83, listened to incumbent Democratic Gov. Lawton Chiles and Republican challenger Jeb Bush, but hasn't decided which to support.

"I haven't heard anything about what they propose to do for the elderly," Overreich said at University Village Retirement Center, a progressive care center with 510 residents, age 60 and over.

"Senior citizens do not get a lot of attention. We're just kind of cast off as nothing," added Barbara Muller, 74. The retired teacher also lives at the politically active community where Republicans' tightly outnumbered voters have a better voting record higher than any other age bracket, but the candidates forget that," said Bob Mahoney, a 73-year-old military retiree.

University Village, for instance, has its own precinct — number 560 — and during the primary runoff, when Hillsborough County had a mere 28.78 percent turnout, No. 560 had a 63 percent turnout.

Seniors, divided between Chiles and Bush, found little division in their ranks over television commercials as the governor's race grew bitter in the waning weeks.

As the ads became increasingly negative, many older voters became increasingly offended.

"The campaign is getting dirtier. It focuses on damning the other guy," said Mahoney, who spent 24 years in the Air Force. "I'm so disgusted at the moment I might skip those two."

Generally, senior citizens at the retirement village cited crime as a major issue that concerned them personally.

Missing children

Police urged to assume foul play in cases

By MICHAEL J. SNIPPEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — With a Florida couple and a South Carolina woman charged with murdering children they had reported missing, the Justice Department says police should assume foul play in every missing child case and have the parents submit to polygraph tests early.

"It is recommended that law enforcement agencies respond to every report of a missing child as if the child is in immediate danger," says a new department-funded police manual released Sunday.

Otherwise, officers often assume a child is lost or has run away and "miss the opportunity to immediately identify critical information such as a witness who observed the child talking to someone."

The manual advises police to consider from the start all the possible scenarios, including family abduction, non-family abduction, and the possibility that the children ran away, were abandoned, lost or injured.

"The single most important message is to be as thorough as you can," said Ron Laney, who supervised the project for the department's Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention. "The manual is designed to prevent assumptions and to avoid leaving something out."

The 220-page manual, "Missing and Abducted Children: A Law Enforcement Guide to Case Investigation and Program Management," took 18 months to prepare. The Justice Department, which commissioned the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children to develop the manual, is mailing copies to 17,000 law enforcement agencies this week.

The FBI used advance copies in both the Florida and South Carolina cases over the last two weeks, Laney said.

"The South Carolina case was a model response. They did everything they should be doing," Laney said. "The FBI agents assisting local authorities were following the guide very closely." Laney did not know details of its use in the Florida case.

In Union, S.C., Susan V. Smith reported her sons, Michael, 3, and Alex, 14 months, abducted by a carjacker Oct. 25. On Nov. 3, she was charged with their murder after the car with two bodies was recovered from a nearby lake.

She was given polygraph tests on Oct. 27 and Nov. 1. Published reports said she failed both.

While noting that police disagree about the validity of polygraph tests, the manual recommends using the tests early in the investigation because at that point, suspects or parents may not sense an "accusatory purpose." Early polygraph tests also allow investigators to quickly address derogatory information about the family.

Such information needs to be investigated without letting it take over the case "just because there is nothing else to do," the manual says.

The manual says there is no way to predict a parent's reaction to a child's abduction and warns police against assuming that seemingly "inappropriate" behavior indicates parental involvement.

In the Florida case, Pauline Zile told authorities her daughter, Christina, 7, was abducted from a Fort Lauderdale flea market restroom Oct. 22. Her husband, Walter, the child's stepfather, was charged with Christina's murder Oct. 27. Pauline was charged Nov. 4.

Police had found blood on the floors and walls of their apartment and in the trunk of their car before Walter Zile led them to the child's remains buried north of West Palm Beach.

That apartment search followed a key guideline in the manual.

"When a child is reported missing, always search the home; even if the child is missing from another location," the manual says. Such searches may turn up clues to the disappearance or even a child who has returned or been concealed by parents.

The October 1993 kidnaping and murder of 12-year-old Polly Klaas from her home 40 miles north of San Francisco, led to a revision in the manual as it was being written, Laney said.

Just 90 minutes after her abduction, sheriff's deputies questioned Richard Allen Davis, whose car was stuck in a ditch. Davis said he was sightseeing, and they left. He was later charged with the killing.

Laney said the deputies were unaware of Klaas' kidnaping because the crime was reported on a radio frequency other than the one they were listening to.

As a result, the fifth item on the manual's checklist of things for police to do quickly is: "Broadcast known details on all police communication channels" to all area law enforcement agencies and send reports immediately to the FBI's National Crime Information Center.

Each year, 3,200 to 4,000 children are abducted by non-family members and 495,000 child run away are abandoned, abducted by family members or otherwise lost, injured or missing, the department said.

"Cases of missing and exploited children must be handled more effectively," said Shay Bilchik, administrator of the juvenile justice office. The manual should help, he said.

World conference proposes to halt animal smuggling

By Associated Press

FORT LAUDERDALE — A landmark international treaty signed 21 years ago has done little to stop the illegal trading of endangered animals and that bothers Simon Lyster.

Lyster will be part of a worldwide conference scheduled to open here today. The conference aims to curtail the estimated $2.5 billion illegal animal trade.

The more than 2,000 participants to the 12-day conference will also debate the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species treaty, signed in Washington in 1973.

"The eyes of the world are going to be on your city for the next few weeks," said Lyster, who heads the World Wildlife Federation's delegation.

Protected plants and animals are second only to drugs among illegal items smuggled into the United States.

Seventy-four species of plants and animals disappear each day on average each day, scientists believe. Vanishing species have a big impact on human beings, scientists say.

Take Jean-Michel Cousteau, son of famed sea explorer Jacques Cousteau.

The world is like an airplane and the disappearance of each species is like the loosening of a rivet, the younger Cousteau says. No one knows when the last rivet will fall off and bring the entire plane down.

The international treaty is aimed at stopping people like Marcelo Perez.

On Sept. 7, Perez told U.S. Customs agents at Miami International Airport that he sold sex toys on monthly trips to Peru. But agents were suspicious; after an inspection, they found four pygmy marmosets on his person.

The endangered squirrel-like monkeys are six inches long and weigh just three ounces each. They're also worth about $2,000 each. Perez was sentenced to six months' house arrest and two years' probation.

Perez's case, authorities say, highlights the importance of having the CITES meeting in South Florida. Now that Miami has become a hub of Latin American commerce, it also has become an animal-smuggling hotspot.

In one suitcase alone authorities found 78 tarantula turtles, five Argentine boa constrictors, 107 chaco tortoises, 102 red-footed tortoises, 20 red Tegu lizards and seven rainbow boa constrictors.

3 boaters missing

By Associated Press

FORT MYERS — Three Canadians visiting a friend got lost at sea during a weekend diving excursion after their boat sank in choppy waters, authorities said.

Omar Shearer, David Madott and Kent Munro have been missing since Friday night. Authorities have been searching for them since Sunday, when their friend was rescued.

The U.S. Coast was using a helicopter and boats to search for the trio early today, said Petty Ofc. Todd Murphy of the Coast Guard's St. Petersburg office. He said he had no other information on the trio.

Jeff Wandich, the only one of the four rescued, was spotted on a light tower in the Gulf of Mexico early Sunday after being in the water for nearly 36 hours. Wandich, 27, was treated and released from a local hospital.

"Realistically, I think they are floating around somewhere out here," Wandich said Sunday of his friends, all in their 20s. "Just floating and holding tight and waiting for someone to rescue them... They are pretty smart guys and they were cool, under control."

Wandich, also a Canadian living in Fort Myers, and his friends went out on the boat Friday. Their boat sprung a leak about 55 miles southwest of Marco Island and sank soon thereafter.

The men jumped overboard and began swimming toward a light tower 6 miles away, Wandich said.

Your vote does count: Just do it!

Look at it this way. After tomorrow, our streets and roadways will no longer be littered with campaign posters. Our favorite TV shows won't be inundated with political candidates telling us why we should NOT vote for their opponent. (not why we SHOULD vote for them as has been the all-too-frequent case).

We will know whether or not Central Florida can expect casino gambling, or whether net fishing will be allowed. There are also other local as well as state-wide referendum issues that will be decided.

After tomorrow, we will have some new leadership, and in some cases, a continuation of present leadership. Tomorrow, in effect, can, and probably will be a day that will decide much of our future.

A relatively good turnout is expected at the polls. That is not to say however, that even a majority of eligible people will bother to vote. There are some who use any excuse to refrain from casting their ballots.

Regardless of what the polls may tell you, and regardless of the direction you believe the political world is heading, let it be not just known, but echoed throughout the area ... NOTHING IS A DONE DEAL!

A person may say, "Well, my vote won't count anyway." This is probably true. If only one person said that. The trouble is, tens of thousands of people have a tendency to say that. In such a case, tens of thousands of votes DO count.

We have all heard the excuses for not voting. "My boss wouldn't give me time off work." "I didn't have time." "my cat was sick." Let's turn this around. Let's consider similar excuses in FAVOR of voting. "I may not have a boss because my job was lost." "If I didn't vote, I may have more free time than I want." or perhaps, rather than the cat, we would say, "our city (or state) is sick."

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. tomorrow. Time, therefore, cannot be an excuse. Many areas have groups offering to help take people to the polls. If they are needed, by all means, take advantage of the offer. (Caution, some offers may be from candidates or their supporters, and you would end up with a ride to the polls which includes a lecture, and being told how you should vote).

If the person or the issue you support ends up losing, at least you gave it a try. You voted and did what you believed to be the best for everyone concerned.

For persons who chose not to vote, even though they could have, make the rest of us a promise that you will change in the future. We need everyone, and everyone's votes to keep this nation together.

Government: we get what we deserve

Everyone is running around telling pollsters, politicians, journalists and each other how disgusted they are with politics and government. "None of it works," we say. "They're all bums," goes the refrain.

It's an overdrawn indictment, but to the extent that it is true, much of the blame can be traced to a reality that lurks just behind that familiar refrain. "I vote for the man, not the party." In turning away from party identification, we, the people, have all but guaranteed a system that misses on all eight cylinders.

Our attitude toward party loyalty helps explain why contemporary politics and governance lack cohesion. With party discipline all but nonexistent and party platforms little more than rhetorical fig leaves, there is a vacuum where there should be a programmatic core. With campaigns individually tailored to meet the specific demands of particular constituencies, or to get around them with a minimum of friction, it is hard for the winners to shift gears and start acting like members of a principled collective when they arrive in Washington.

For the most part, we elect a Congress of freelancers, 535 individual entrepreneurs whose first loyalty is to themselves. Fashioning responsible, responsible government out of such clay would tax the Lord Himself.

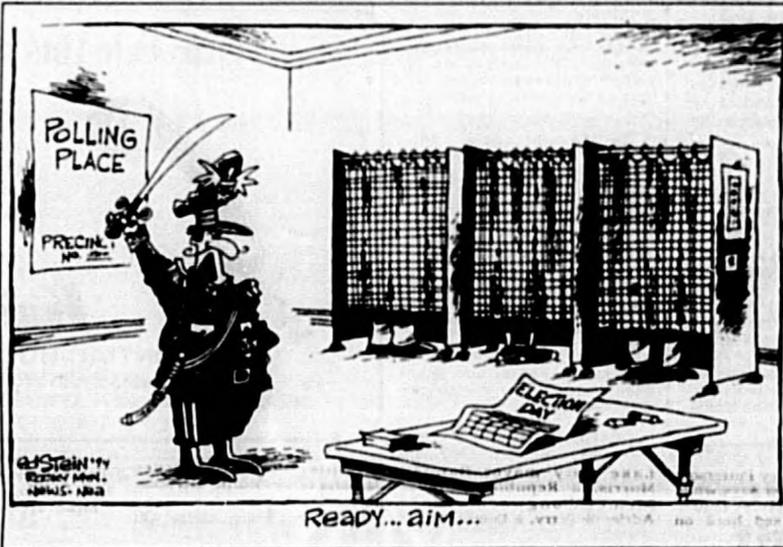

We, the people, have all but guaranteed a system that misses on all eight cylinders.

Actually, it is a mistake to assert that they do not represent purposes and principles larger than themselves. They are in fact responsive to quite specific interests, some of them bigger than big. If nothing else, they represent the contributors and organizations whose financial support they solicit for their grossly expensive campaigns. They represent the best advice that money can buy from political handlers and pollsters. They accurately reflect the media specialists who teach them how to fake sincerity for the camera.

What they are not is what is routinely demanded of politicians in every other democracy in the industrialized world. They are not bound by party discipline to party platforms and party legislative proposals. They are not people who incorporate tradition and history into their voting behavior. Instead, free to invent or reinvent themselves in every campaign and on every issue, they happily do so, aided and abetted by a mass media whose operating premise is that yesterday is a thousand years old and tomorrow doesn't exist. And that is the way we apparently want it. In fact, we all but demand that the politicians repeatedly say ridiculous things about their "outsider" status and their independence from "party bosses." We love it when a candidate tells us he's "not a politician," even if he's shaking every hand in the room or making promises a mile a minute.

Happily for the long-term future of the democratic experiment in America, the Republicans have been showing for some time that they understand where the rot begins and what should be done to cure it. Their much derided "Contract With America," which hundreds of Republican congressional candidates unveiled at the Capitol this October, was the latest step in a process that began with the weekend retreats in the 1970s. It sets out a series of proposals that the signatories have agreed to try to implement if elected.

Limit net fishing

When I hosted The American Sportman television show, many of our segments were produced in Florida because the fishing was so wonderful. The estuaries, bays and inlets were alive with trout, snook, snapper, jacks, ladyfish and so many other species that shooting a show in Florida was a real pleasure.

Now I live and fish in Florida the year around, but with a few exceptions, like redfish and snook, the fish aren't here like they were. A big reason for that is the unrestrained netting that is taking place in our coastal waters. Redfish and snook are protected from the nets and they are thriving. Trout aren't and the fish are almost gone.

The netting that has devastated our fish populations has to be stopped before we lose not only our fish, but also the seabirds and other wildlife that depend on them for their food.

That's why I stand firmly behind the Save Our Seaside constitutional amendment that will appear on the ballot on Nov. 8. I urge everyone to vote yes for Amendment 3 for the good of coming generations.

No casinos

"Seed-Time-Harvest": a person, a city, a county, a state, or a nation, always reaps what is sown, but more than what is sown.

The people of New Jersey, Atlantic City specifically, a few years ago sowed "seed unto the wind." They approved casinos. Today they reap a whirlwind. Casinos have a policy of isolation, keep the patrons and their money, inside the casino. A very large number of local business owners were forced to close, leaving no substantial commerce, and, an even more deteriorating city! Organized crime, robbery, rape, murder, pimps, prostitution, vagrancy, dramatically increased! (Your writer has spent quite a lot of time in the Atlantic City area.)

The devastated people of Atlantic City now lament, "we did not know!" Ignorance does not change results. I encourage every voter to be wise, and vote "No" on the casino amendment.

'Good ole days'

Looking out across the water near Fort Myers recently, a stray and lonely mullet jumped and brought to mind a memory from my youth — acres of mullet so thick that in one throw of my 8-foot cast net I would catch more than I could lift. Those days of my youth are gone and so are the mullet.

I never dreamed that nets would someday wipe out Florida's most abundant species, all for the sake of a few net fishermen who capture mullet when they are full of eggs and ship unborn generations off to the Orient.

Scientists now tell us that Tampa Bay water quality has improved and sea grasses are coming back, but where are the mullet? If pollution was to blame for their decline, don't you think mullet would now be plentiful? They're not, and further declines are inevitable if voters don't put an end to the gold rush that takes place each year when mullet fill with roe. Since mullet are the main diet of pelicans, osprey, bottlenose dolphins and many other marine creatures, the demand for Oriental caviar may soon lead to a complete collapse of Florida's marine life.

Amendment 3 to Limit Marine Net Fishing has my vote on Nov. 8. It's the only hope we have to bring back "the good ole days."

Ray E. Markham
St. Petersburg

Amendment 3

Vote yes on Amendment 3. If you're a saltwater fisherman, then you've probably heard about the movement to ban gill nets in Florida waters. If you're not a fisherman, then we need your help.

On Nov. 8, voters will be asked to vote Yes or No on Amendment 3. This amendment would ban gill nets in state waters. There are miles and miles of these nets in the water every day catching millions of pounds of fish a year. Other victims of the nets are green sea turtles and the bottlenose dolphins. These animals are usually removed from the nets and left to drift on the currents either dead or dying. Other fish such as redfish and snook suffer the same fate only because they are protected species. Anything that becomes entangled in these nets will be killed.

Help the state of Florida and the future generations of the state rebound from a very depleted saltwater fish stock.

Vote yes on Amendment 3.
Jimmy Johnson
Altoona, Fla.

The many lives of King Hussein

WASHINGTON — Israel's historic peace treaty with Jordan is even more of a miracle to the small circle who know how many times Jordan's King Hussein has narrowly escaped death.

King Hussein has been the monarch of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan since 1952, an extraordinarily long time considering the Middle East's bloody history. He has survived more than a dozen assassination attempts over the years. Guards have saved him, cats have saved him and he has saved himself with good sense and just plain luck.

Once, he believes, he did die. But King Hussein told us in an interview that he came back to life to insure peace in the region.

Our associate Dale Van Atta has learned of the near-misses from sources in the royal circle, and confirmed some of the stories during one unusually candid interview with Hussein Hussein.

who loves riding his Harley-Davidson motorcycle, has always lived on the edge.

In 1951, he was standing next to his beloved grandfather, Abdullah at a mosque in Jerusalem when an assassin opened fire at close range. Abdullah died from a bullet to the head. The 15-year old Hussein was also hit by a bullet which, according to the legend the King has not discouraged, bounced off a medal on the uniform that Abdullah insisted his grandson wear that day.

In 1957, Hussein drove alone to an army base to put down a Jordanian officers' rebellion and dared them to shoot. Some did. "I could feel the heat of the bullets" whizzing past, Hussein later told us.

The next year, in 1958, relations between Syria and Jordan had grown tense. Hussein, an avid pilot, was piloting a small, twin-engine aircraft under the assumption he had permission to fly over Syria. But the Syrians reneged, and the King was ordered to land in Damascus.

"I told them we couldn't do that," Hussein told us. "Then I decided to dive to a lower altitude to avoid the radar. We flew very, very low toward the border as fast as we could go." That was just 240 mph in the small plane, and two Syrian jets were coming straight for him.

"At that point I thought this was it," Hussein recalled. "My first idea was to ram one of them, then it would be over." But he waved his way out of Syria safely.

Two of our favorites — which the King has confirmed to us — involved cats and nasal drops. One day he had a sinus problem but hesitated to use the drops because there were intelligence reports saying someone in the palace had been recruited by an Arab opponent to kill him.

So Hussein luckily examined the bottle. "It looked a little odd, so I poured it down the sink and it started to froth and bubble," he recalled. Acid that had been placed in the bottle was so strong it ate away the chrome trim on his basin drain.

King Hussein also had a lot of cats on the palace grounds. "And one day I saw that the cat population was getting a little smaller," he recalled. "I wondered about it, and it turned out that someone had been trying some poisons, unfortunately, on the cats."

An assistant cook had been recruited — by the Syrians — to kill the King by poison. Since the chef didn't know how much to use, he had experimented on the palace cats. Seven were found dead on a single day, six the next. The King asked palace guards to look into it, so they autopsied a cat, found the poison and foiled the plot.

Guards have saved him, cats have saved him and he has saved himself with good sense and just plain luck.

High turnout expected, campaigns wind down

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Elections supervisor Sandra Gourd predicts a 64 percent turnout of Seminole County's 140,257 voters tomorrow.

Gourd says she bases the figure on the high number of absentee ballots she's sent out—more than 6,600. The requests for mail-in ballots surged about two weeks ago when a Republican mailer urged partisans to vote by mail if they didn't intend to go to the polls. By the way, there's 76,890 registered Republicans and 81,000 registered Democrats eligible to vote tomorrow.

SANFORD — The race for Seminole County commissioner took a turn for the weird last week when Winfield Adams District 4 opponent Larry Furlong revealed Adams used a passage from the movie Dave in campaign literature. If you saw the movie, you may recall "Dave Kovic," the character played by Kevin Kline, gives a moving speech to Congress at the end of the movie taking responsibility for crimes committed by his ruthless chief of staff before announcing his own resignation.

In his speech, Kovic says "I ought to care more about you than I care about me. I ought to care more about what's right than I do about what's popular." In response to a questionnaire from the Black Hammock residents association, Adams wrote recently "Elected officials ought to care more about you than what they care about themselves. They ought to care more about what is right than what is popular or profitable."

Adams said he liked the sentiment from the movie so he decided to adapt it. Opponent Larry Furlong, said the use of the passage without attribution raises questions about Adams' credibility.

SANFORD — In some last-minute endorsements, incumbent District 4 commissioner

Larry Furlong were state District 14 Sen. Buddy Dyer among Central Florida lawmakers endorsed by the nature club because of their pro-environmental voting records. Both are Democrats.

SANFORD — It's not quite a chicken in every pot and they're dipping into your pockets, but Seminole County Democrats have a deal for you: hundreds of discounts at area merchants for $50. The Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee are selling coupons books to raise funds for the organization. To order one, call 327-7612.

SANFORD — Are you still confused on whether to vote for Jeb Bush or Lawton Chiles for governor? Fear not, the Sunshine Network has last-minute relief. Tomorrow afternoon, yes Election Day, the cable television network will broadcast interviews with both. Chiles will be up at 5 p.m. and Bush will follow at 5:30 p.m. That leaves you an hour to get to the polls.

ready and available to respond to regional calls as well as to calls within the county. The truck is designed to respond to emergencies such as fuel leaks, chemical spills, chlorine leaks and acid leaks.

This new truck is referred to as SHOT (Special Hazard Operation Team) and will be in full service as of Nov. 9. It will be operated by nine specially-trained technicians in the field of hazardous waste disposal.

The distinctive colors on the truck set it aside from any other emergency vehicle. International blaze is bright orange and white with a black stripe that runs down the side of the truck from front to back.

"The black stripe down the sides of the truck will turn bright silver at night," firefighter Andy Coutu said. "I've never seen anything like it."

Lt. Steve Jones added, "It's getting the truck been in the making for over a year and a half, however, it's been a true labor of love."

Firefighter Ed Pando summed it up, "We're all real proud to be a part of this team."

commissioner Steve Miller, 44, for a seat on the Longwood City Commission. Miller has served at the city's mayor since July. The non-partisan commission members now serve three year terms and are paid $4,200 annually. The two candidates are from District 3. Bill Winston was opposed for the district 5 commission seat being vacated by outgoing commissioner Paul Lovestrand.

Carrico, president of Hidden Oaks Homeowners Association, is a senior customer service agent for Delta Airlines. Miller is an auto sales manager.

Improving the city's image and drawing businesses to the city by installing commercial sewer lines are areas both candidates advocate.

Lake Mary had the mayor's post and two commission seats up for consideration this election time, but all three, Mayor Lowry Rockett, and commissioners Gary Brender and David Meador did not receive opposition and are automatically re-elected. Their swearing in ceremonies have already been planned for 6:30 p.m. on Nov. 17th, just prior to the next commission meeting.

Lake Mary residents however, will have three local issues, charter amendments, on tomorrow's ballot. Two of them pertain to elections in the future.

The first is to establish a different date for the beginning of terms of commissioners. It is considered as a paperwork change, in that it calls for swearing in at the commencement of the next regular or special called City Commission rather than specifying a particular time based on the calendar.

The second item is to determine the length of terms for the mayor and commissioners. If approved, it will extend the length from two to three years beginning with the 1995 election. Previous discussion by the commissioners on this matter has been split. Some say the longer terms would eliminate a city election every third year and reduce the cost of having those elections. Others however, believe the citizens should have the opportunity to either re-elect or oust a commissioner every two years, as is presently the case.

The third item is to amend the charter to only require the city to adopt an ordinance for the purchase of real property in excess of $5,000. It does not pertain to other large expenditures, which in most cases would still require a public referendum for approval.

a month. Students, teachers, administrators and parents have been working diligently to make sure the week is a great success for all at the school and those who are returning home to visit their alma mater.

Today, students (and a few daring faculty and staff members) will be donning their coolest shades, hats and sneakers as the first act of Seminole solidarity. The "no hat" rule at the school has been suspended in favor of fun and school spirit.

On Tuesday, there will be a Super Jam at each lunch at which students will show off their musical and performance talents. For the rest of the day, students and school employees will cheer for their favorite colleges by wearing the colors of those schools. Gators, Seminoles and Bulldogs will be running rampant around campus.

Wednesday will bring out the finest in clothing as the school is transformed into a fashion showplace. Only the best will do as the students prepare for a fashion show and contest during the school's lunches.

Thursday, the events will build to a fever pitch when, following a day of dressing alike for Twin Day, the school will head into town to bring the Homecoming Parade to the streets of the historic shopping district along first street from the New Tribes Mission to the Magnolia Mall, beginning at 5 p.m. regulate the sale of motor vehicles, trailers, boats and equipment, and the regulating of rummage sales.

During a presentation on the proposals, Community Development Director John Deamud explained how the matters were, mostly paperwork clarifications, designed to more clearly identify the rules and restrictions for such sales within the city.

Deamud also presented a change to the city's permit fee schedule, which changed some of the costs for permits, and clarified areas where permits are, and are not required to be taken, out.

The permit fee schedule was also adopted on first reading, with a unanimous vote.

trimming and suggests reforms to welfare and medical care based on the individual's ability to care for themselves.

In District 3, Democratic incumbent Corrine Brown also asks to be re-elected to her post, secure funding for her district, comprised primarily of blacks. Brown's GOP opponent, Marc Little, has run his campaign based on conservative beliefs and attacking Brown.

Other amendments would "Ban the Nets" for coastal commercial fishermen, limit legislative revenue hikes and allow multiple subjects on future constitutional amendments affecting state revenue. Another amendment would move the start of the legislature's annual session from February to March — four years after voters amended the constitution to move the session from April to February.

Closer to home, Florida Senator Buddy Dyer, an Orlando Democrat, is facing a Republican challenge from Nancy Patterson, also of Orlando. Dyer says while he wasn't a visible representative, he worked hard on statewide issues to increase criminal sentences, reform welfare and health care and other issues.

Patterson says criminal justice needs to be toughened and favors increased spending for more prisons, chemical castration of rapists and limited appeals in capital cases.

For House of Representatives, the key county race is in District 33, which pits GOP incumbent Marvin Couch with Democratic opponent Louise Ray. Couch, who waged an aggressive battle against then incumbent Frank Stone two years ago, faces a similar challenge from Ray this year. Ray attacked Couch's financial problems, questioning his ability to represent the district.

Couch has largely run on his record of anti-juvenile crime measures and efforts to protect Seminole County's environment.

On the county level, two former mayors are seeking the District 2 county commission seat held by Chiles appointee Carlton Henley, who lost his Democratic re-election bid in the October run-off election. Former Lake Mary mayor Randall Morris is a Republican, (see former Longwood mayor Adrienne Perry, a Democrat, for the seat).

Perry waged a last-minute attack on Morris, questioning his financial arrangement with his estranged wife. Morris has run on his record which includes successful campaigns to beautify Lake Mary Boulevard, reduce Orlando calling rates and to have a County Road 46-A interchange at Interstate 4.

In District 4, incumbent Democrat Larry Furlong faces a challenge from Republican Winfield Adams. Adams attacked Furlong's voting record while espousing essentially similar fiscally conservative views. The pair differ on stormwater funding and the value of tourist development promotions.

For the District 5 seat on the school board, incumbent Jeanne Morris is facing a challenge by Ted Barker, veteran school administrator. The two split on the subject of year-round classes, with Morris supporting and Barker strongly opposing.

In the judicial arena, two Longwood residents, Gene Stephenson and Carmine Bravo are seeking the Seminole County Group 12 seat. In Brevard County, Warren W.C. Burk of Satellite Beach and Bruce Jacobus of Melbourne are seeking the Group 20 bench.

Seminole County voters will also have several County Home Rule Charter amendment issues to consider. One would return school board elections to the party primary system, favored by the Republican and Democratic Parties, but opposed by others. Another proposal would require an economic impact statement be prepared before any ordinance or resolution is considered by commissioners.

Commissioners would be able to waive the requirement with a majority-plus-one "super majority" vote.

Voters will also be asked to decide whether the Charter's noninterference clause requiring separation between commissions and county employees should be clarified to clearly allow information inquiries. Another proposal would shift the county attorney from under the county manager to serving commissioners directly.

Sanford welcomes athletes to 20th Golden Age Games

By NICK PFEIFAU
 Herald Staff Writer

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1994

SANFORD — The 20th annual Golden Age Games officially got under way Sunday with ceremonies at the Sanford Civic Center. The week-long competition and fun events will continue through Saturday at various locations.

During its 20 years, the Sanford games have had a colorful history. Many prominent figures have served as honorary chairmen including former U.S. Olympic champion and actor in Tarzan movies Buster Crabbe, Air Force Lt. Col. Micki King Hogue a 1972 Olympic gold medal winner for diving, Adolph Kiefer of Northfield, Ill., one of the great swimmers in Olympics history, and many others.

This year, the focal point of the honorary chairmanship takes on a local aspect. Vic Arnett, credited with being one in the original group that started the Sanford games, will be honorary chairman. It was hoped other originating persons could also be located.

Arnett, along with several other area business leaders, conceived the games back in 1973. They were members of the Commercial Committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

With support obtained from several local sponsors, the first games, with 14 events, were held in 1974. An estimated 300 persons, almost all from the Sanford area, participated.

of Sanford became official chairman, and helped arrange the events for 17 years before his retirement.

It was the following year, 1975, when Buster Crabbe became honorary chairman. He was a noted swimming champion in 1932. He subsequently attended the Sanford games during the third and fourth years, bringing national attention to Sanford and helping promote the events on a wider scale.

Originally, the games were called "Senior Olympics," but because of a conflict with the U.S. and national Olympic Committee, the name was changed to Golden Age Games.

Most of the events being held this year remain unchanged over the past years. A total of 35 sporting events and festival events are being held this year. Participants must be 55 or older, but past years have shown people participating who were nearing the century mark.

Although similar events are now being held in various parts of the nation, Sanford is considered as having one of the oldest and longest running histories in the competition.

On alternating years, winners in various select categories become automatically eligible to participate in higher level competition. This year's winners will be able to compete in the Florida Senior Games. From that point, winners at the state level would earn a chance to be entered in the Senior Sports Classic in San Antonio, Texas, to be held in May of 1995.

Co-chairwomen Chris Usry and Lisa Jones have predicted possibly 1,300 individuals will be in Sanford this year attending the games from their homes across North America.

In 1992, there were 1,450 registered athletes, participating in an average of three events each. Last year, 1,270 persons attended, averaging slightly over two events each.

Many of the long-time participants live in the Sanford/Lake Mary Area, and look forward to the games as the highlight of the year.

One stalwart, Harriett Boyd of Lake Mary, hardly ever misses attending a Lake Mary City Commission meeting.

During the regular meeting this past week, however, she left early. "I'm heading for the gym to do my daily workout," she said. "I've been doing this for a long time, and I want to be prepared for all of the events I'll be in at the games."

During her many years of participation, Boyd has collected dozens of first, second and third place medals.

The first event was held at noon Sunday. The traditional sailing event took place at Lake Baldwin, in Orlando.

Other events began this morning at 7:30 a.m., following the daily breakfast for participants, offered at the Sanford Civic Center, and hosted by the Over 50 Club. Most of the activities take place in the Sanford area, although some events will be held in Winter Springs, Lake Sylvan, Westmore Center, and Longwood. Complete listings of events, times and locations will be included in this week's editions of the Sanford Herald.

While participation is only for seniors, everyone is invited to watch the action, which at times has proven to be every bit as exciting as major league sports and worldwide Olympics action.

For additional information, phone the Golden Age Games headquarters at 330-5690.

Difficult memories on display at new museum

By JAMES A. CARLSON
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE — After 64 years, James Cameron remembers every detail of the night an enraged mob dragged him from his jail cell, beat him and slipped a noose around his neck. Two other black men died that night at the hands of the mob. Cameron was saved at the last minute.

Now he's documented his story and that of other lynchings for what he's called America's Black Holocaust Museum, a collection opening Wednesday in a dilapidated former boxing club in downtown Milwaukee.

Ropes from a Ku Klux Klan robe, a ceremonial KKK rifle that spits fire from its barrel instead of bullets, letters describing lynchings, and stark black and white photographs of black men twisting from ropes are among the artifacts. One picture shows the lynching he survived.

The soft-spoken Cameron, now 80, with grey hair and a trim mustache, calls it his "Chamber of Horrors."

"We might have to have a nurse on duty here," Cameron said. "I'm going to do just like the Jewish Holocaust museum. I'm going to let it all hang out, just like it happened."

One black history professor applauded Cameron, who wrote a book describing his lynching titled "A Time of Terror," and gives speeches aimed at countering present-day KKK activities, for preserving this bitter history.

"The idea is to never forget," said William L. Van Deburg, a professor at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. "I know that each generation of students has to be reintroduced to the more negative aspects of black history that don't get portrayed in the popular media."

Historians agree that about 3,500 blacks were lynched in the United States from the 1880s to the 1960s. Cameron said his research indicates a much higher number.

"The first two years of the reconstruction, 1865-67, over 50,000 of us were lynched in this country," he said. "Fifteen thousand got away with our lives and an estimated 35,000 met death. People don't know the history. They don't teach it in school."

His own attack took place on a summer's night in 1930 in Marion, Ind., after Cameron, then 16, and his two friends decided to rob someone.

Cameron said he took a gun, walked up to a parked car and ordered the white couple out. But he recognized the man as a customer at his shoeshine stand. He handed the gun to his friend and ran.

Shots rang out behind him. All three teenagers were arrested. The next day, news that the man had died — and false rumors that the woman had been raped — inflamed the town's residents. At nightfall the mob broke through the jail door.

His two friends were beaten and hanged.

"I was able to look down from the second story and see all the mayhem being committed on my two buddies," Cameron recalls.

He too was taken outside and beaten. A noose was placed around his neck before someone yelled out that he hadn't been involved in the shooting. The mob let him go and returned him to the jail.

Cameron served four years in prison as an accessory, to manslaughter. Almost a "lifetime" later, the retired boiler engineer and self-taught historian was pardoned. In February 1993, by Indiana Gov. Evan Bayh, who noted his accomplishments and that he had been a victim of mob violence.

Gas prices creeping up

LOS ANGELES — The retail price of gasoline rose by 15¢ cents a gallon over the past two weeks, reversing the trend of dropping prices that started in late August.

Locally, prices remained fairly constant. Seminole County consumers saw little change in the price of gas over the last two weeks, and have risen little since mid-summer.

The average pump price of gas on Friday was 122¢ cents a gallon, up 1.53 cents from Oct. 21, said oil industry analyst Trilby Lundberg, whose newsletter conducts a survey of 10,000 gas stations nationwide.

The primary reason for the increase was the federally mandated sale of more costly oxygenated gasoline, Lundberg said. Prices can be expected to rise again once the requirements are implemented on Jan. 1, she added.

At self-service pumps, prices per gallon were: regular unleaded 115.28 cents; mid-grade unleaded 125.93 cents; premium unleaded 134.07 cents; regular leaded 119.60 cents.

Full service prices were: regular unleaded 148.18 cents; mid-grade unleaded 156.71 cents; premium unleaded 164.04 cents; regular leaded 145.08 cents.

Close encounter with train leaves scratches on girl

LAKESIDE, Ore. — A 15-year-old girl trapped on a trestle with a train coming suffered only cuts and scratches when she fell down between the rails and let the train pass above her.

"I don't know how she managed to stay under the darn thing, but she did," said Coos County sheriff's deputy John Newcomer.

Diona Donald and two other girls had taken a shortcut over the trestle Saturday when the Southern Pacific train appeared.

One of the girls was able to run off the end of the trestle. The other leaped 20 feet onto sand in the gulch below.

Diona couldn't make it, and fell between the rails, pressing herself against the trestles as the northbound engine and two cars passed overhead. She suffered no serious injuries, Newcomer said.

Randy Morris - Qualified & Effective for Seminole County Commission • District 2

- ✓ A Respected Conservative Leader
- ✓ A Champion of Law Enforcement
- ✓ Supports Limited Government/Low Taxes
- ✓ A Record of Innovation & Integrity

They Examined the Record:

Sheriff Don Eslinger

As a Mayor, Randy Morris was steady in his support of those men and women in uniform who put their lives on the line to protect the community.

I look forward to working with our next County Commissioner Randy Morris to make our streets, schools and neighborhoods safer for all."

State Representative Bob Starks

"The most important qualities a public official can have are honesty, good character, a willingness to listen and a genuine desire to serve.

Randy Morris has those qualities. Randy Morris will be an outstanding County Commissioner."

The Orlando Sentinel - Endorsement

One candidate in the race for District 2 county commissioner wears effectiveness like tailored clothing: Republican Randy Morris.

... Mr. Morris faces Adrienne Perry, the victor in the Democratic runoff. ... Their records in office tell the stories. He was effective; she essentially was not.

Mr. Morris is both thinker and salesman, and brims with initiative and diligence.

...Seminole needs commissioners with vision and proven abilities.

Mr. Morris' record proves he has those qualities...

The complexities of a large urban county require the experience of those who have been tested and found to be effective. The Sentinel endorses Randy Morris for the District 2 County Commission seat.

The Sanford Herald - Endorsement

...but one (candidate) edges to the front in terms of accomplishments and the ability to bring together a consensus, Randy Morris. The mark of a political leader is the ability to accomplish change, change hopefully, which represents improvement. Here, the two former mayors follow markedly different paths. The Sanford Herald believes these paths demonstrate Morris will be the more effective of the two.

In Lake Mary, Morris mustered both commission and community support for streamlining business approvals to attract new jobs to the area. He held the drive for landscaping and strict development plans along Lake Mary Boulevard designed to increase property values... Morris successfully led campaigns to reduce calling rates to Orlando and he gathered together reluctant property owners to donate their prime Interstate 4 property to build an interchange at 46A, an all but dead project.

IN BRIEF

AROUND THE STATE

Marino rallies Miami again

MIAMI — The game seemed out of reach, but Dan Marino has an awfully long reach. Marino bounced back from a costly fourth-quarter interception to rally the Miami Dolphins for 10 points in the final four minutes Sunday, lifting them past the Indianapolis Colts 22-21.

Pete Stoyanovich kicked a 34-yard field goal with four seconds left as AFC East leader Miami improved to 7-2. The Colts fell to 4-6.

Cornerback Ray Buchanan appeared to seal a victory for the Colts when he intercepted a Marino pass and returned it 28 yards for a touchdown for a 21-12 lead with 7:32 left.

As Buchanan raced untouched down the sideline, Marino stood motionless with his hands on his hips. Then he went back to work, orchestrating the 28th fourth-quarter comeback victory of his career.

Walsh, Bears best Buccaneers

TAMPA — Steve Walsh remained unbeaten as a starter, throwing for 205 yards and two touchdowns as Chicago snapped a two-game losing streak with a 20-6 win over Tampa Bay.

Walsh, starting for the first time with a healthy Erik Kramer on the sideline, mixed the run with the pass to keep the Buccaneers off balance and improve to 4-0 in games he's taken the first snap this season.

Rookie Trent Diller made his second pro start for Tampa Bay (2-7) but had less success against Chicago (5-4) than Craig Erickson did during a 21-9 season-opening loss to the Bears.

The Bears sacked the first-round pick twice and forced him to hurry several throws during a 13-for-25 performance. Diller finished with 159 yards passing and scrambled for 15 yards to set up one of Tampa Bay's two field goals.

AROUND THE NATION

Suns go to 15-0 over Heat

PHOENIX — Kevin Johnson, who had 29 points, snapped Phoenix out of a cold spell with a 20-foot jumper late in the game, and the Suns continued their mastery of the Miami Heat with a 119-107 victory Sunday night.

Phoenix, the only NBA team the Heat have never beaten, improved to 15-0 in the series.

Rookie Wesley Person hit 7 of 11 shots and finished with 21 points. Dan Majerle had 20 points and a career-high 15 rebounds.

Glen Rice scored 23 points for Miami. Steve Smith had 22, and Billy Owens scored 18.

Foreman a champ again

LAS VEGAS — George Foreman regained the heavyweight title he lost to Muhammad Ali in 1974, stopping Michael Moorer with a two-punch combination at 2:03 of the 10th round.

Foreman, 45, who captured the IBF and WBA championships, is the oldest champion in any weight class. The previous oldest heavyweight champion was Jersey Joe Walcott, who was 37 when he stopped Ezzard Charles in 1951.

After nine rounds, Foreman trailed on all the judges cards. Then, with shocking suddenness in the 10th, the new champ hit Moorer with a left hook and floored him with a right hand.

Foreman improved to 73-4 with his 68th knockout and is 28-2 with 26 knockouts since beginning his comeback in 1987. Moorer, making his first defense since beating Evander Holyfield in April, dropped to 35-1.

Nebraska sole No. 1

NEW YORK — Nebraska, already No. 1 in The Associated Press poll, replaced Penn State as the top team in the USA Today-CNN poll.

After Nebraska (8-0) beat Kansas 45-17 and Penn State (10-0) looked sluggish in a 35-29 victory over Indiana on Saturday, the Cornhuskers gained ground in both polls.

Auburn (9-0) remained third in the AP poll. Florida (7-1) is fourth, followed by Miami (7-1), Alabama (9-0), Colorado (8-1), FSU (7-1), Texas A&M (8-0-1) and Colorado State (8-1).

Blake, Bengals strike

Sanford resident leads Cincinnati to first win

By JIM COUR
AP Sports Writer

SEATTLE — It may have taken September, October and part of November, but the Cincinnati Bengals finally won a game.

After eight consecutive losses and approaching last season's mark of futility, the Bengals beat the Seattle Seahawks 20-17 in overtime Sunday.

Sanford's Jeff Blake passed for 387 yards and Doug Pelfrey won it with his sixth field, a 26-yarder with 6:46 left in the extra period.

Such was the heady scent of victory that the Bengals began to think intoxicating thoughts. "Who knows after you win one?" Pelfrey said. "We could end up with eight wins."

Coach Dave Shula wasn't thinking eight straight wins. One straight win will do fine for now.

"It's great to get No. 1," he said. "I'm really happy for everybody. We hung in there tough."

The victory broke a 15-game road losing streak for the Bengals and marked their second strong game. Last week they lost 23-20 lower to the champion Dallas Cowboys in a game in which they led 14-0 at the half.

Against Seattle, the Bengals (1-8) set up their winning field goal on a 76-yard Blake-to-Darnay Scott pass. Pelfrey set a team record by also making kicks of 36, 44, 36, 47 and 28 yards.

Blake's teammates credited him with bringing the Bengals their initial win.

"He sparked a wave of enthusiasm for us," Keith Rucker said. "He gave this team a different view of what's going to happen every Sunday."

Cincinnati didn't win until its 11th game last season. The Bengals also had a safety in handing the Seahawks (3-6) their fifth loss in a row.

A crowd of 46,630 saw the first NFL game of the season in the Kingdome, which was closed since July 19 after ceiling tiles fell before a baseball game between the Mariners and Baltimore. The Kingdome underwent $32.5 million in roof and ceiling repairs, a job that may run $9 million over the budget.

The Seahawks played their first three home regular-season games and two home exhibition games at University of Washington's Husky Stadium.

The Rotary Club took different routes to a sweep of a doubleheader in the Sanford Recreation Girls' Fall Slowpitch Softball League at Lakeside Field Saturday.

Rotary was masterful in whitewashing New Vision 21-0 on only one hit, but then had to withstand a four-run top of the sixth inning in outscoring Sanford Optimist Club 14-12.

The Optimists also had a chance to sweep a doubleheader but "they" had "their" day with a three-hit 5-0 shutout of Sanford First Baptist.

LAKE MARY — Lyman High School's quest for a second consecutive girls' cross country state championship advanced another step Saturday, when the Greyhounds finished third at the 6A-Region III meet run at Lake Mary High School.

The top four teams and first five individuals at the regional meet advance to the state championship meet, which will be run this Saturday, Nov. 12, on the north campus of Florida Community College-Jacksonville.

Lyman's boys, who were second to Edgewater (70-74), also qualified for the state meet.

Other state meet qualifiers were the Lake Howell girls, Lake Brantley boys, and Lake Mary senior Angie Olson, who finished second behind Ramona Saridakis (11:28) of Lake Worth-John I. Leonard.

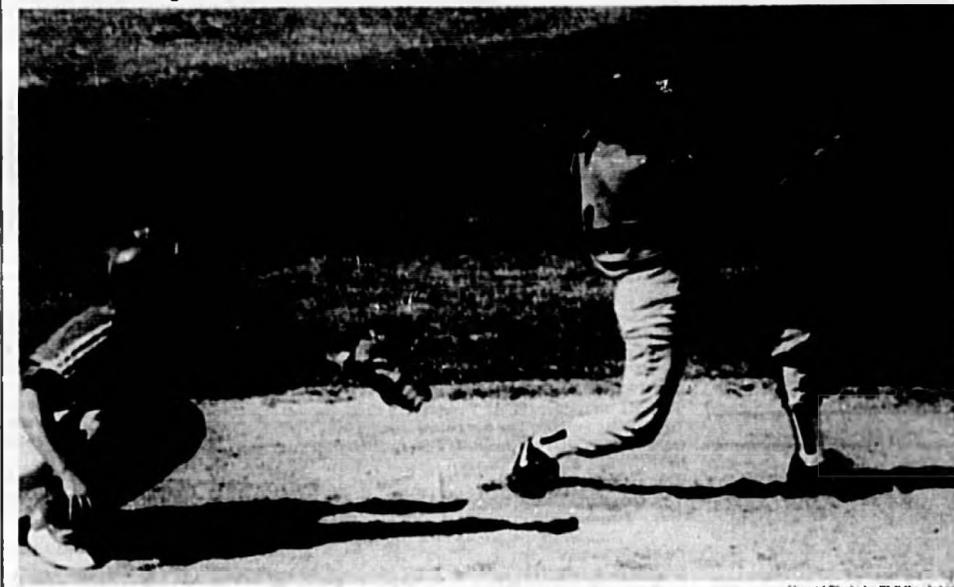

Leading the Greyhound girls (95), who came in behind Boca Raton-Spanish River (58) and Winter Park (83), were Kelly Hudson (third, 12 minutes, 24 seconds), GeAna Rivera (eighth, 12:47), Michelle Burger (12th, 13:00), Janel Jensen (35th, 13:41), and Shannon McDaniel (37th, 13:44).

'You can't' is meaningless for Blake, Norton

"Can't" is a state of mind... if you don't mind, it doesn't matter.

With everything they do, Jeff Blake and Mickey Norton prove that, accomplishing feats that, if they listened to those who know better, they wouldn't bother to attempt.

Shows you what "they" know... last Thursday, Blake and Norton were voted into the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame. The duo will be formally inducted during the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet in January.

For those of you who don't know, Blake is too small to play major college football, much less in the NFL, while Norton's mobility is "limited" by his wheelchair.

On Sunday, Blake threw for nearly 400 yards in the Cincinnati Bengals' 20-17 win over the Seattle Seahawks, one week after nearly engineering an upset of the defending Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys.

This winter, Norton will once again coach the Luther High School girls' basketball team, manage a pair of adult slowpitch softball teams, and will get to as many of the Oviedo High School basketball games as his busy schedule permits.

For Blake and Norton, the concept of "You can't" isn't laughable, it just doesn't exist.

After missing his junior year season in high school because of a broken leg (suffered while riding a motorcycle given to him by his godfather, Tim Raines), Blake came back his senior year to lead the Seminoles to the state semifinals and be named to the second-team Class 4A all-state quarterback.

Told he was too small to play quarterback by scouts from major colleges, Blake went to East Carolina University instead. In his senior year (1991-92), Blake quarterbacked the Pirates to an 11-1 record (including a victory over North Carolina State in the Peach Bowl) and a No. 9 ranking in the final AP Top 25.

Told he was too small to play quarterback in the NFL, Blake lasted until the sixth round, when he was selected by the New York Jets. After two years of sitting behind Boomer Esiason and Browning Nagle, Blake was waived by the Jets and claimed by the Bengals this past August.

Injuries to starter David Klingler and backup Don Hollas left the Bengals no other choice than to start Blake against the Cowboys two weeks ago.

Norton's accomplishments aren't so much in what he does, but how much he does.

He's coached baseball, basketball, football, and softball. He's been a league administrator in baseball and basketball. He's helped found youth basketball and baseball leagues.

"If there's a league, he's there helping out," one member of the Hall of Fame selection committee said. "And if there's not a league, he's on the phone trying to get one started or trying to find someplace for the kids to play."

And it doesn't end with the kids. Norton puts together men's and women's softball teams that play every season, alternating between the leagues at Winter Springs, Oviedo, and Red Bug Lake Park.

On top of that, Norton is a frequent spectator at Oviedo High School athletic events.

So much for "limited" mobility.

For two guys who have been told they can't do things, Blake and Norton have done quite a bit, proving that limitations don't have to limit you.

ICE

Daytona Beach's Jackie Robinson Stadium at 6 p.m. Saturday and visiting Apopka for a 1 p.m. contest Sunday.

"We're a little down right now, but we'll pick it back up," said Sanford manager Mike Ferrell. "It's a long season. The big thing right now is that we need to get healthy. We're pretty banged up right now."

For example, the Ice had to play without Stephanie Reed, the No. 3 hitter in the lineup and the team's top starting pitcher, for much of the weekend because of nagging injuries.

Four errors added to the Ice's problems on Saturday as Apopka scored six unearned runs. Even so, Sanford still led 6-5 after six innings and managed to have the tying and winning runs on second and third base with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning before falling.

Vicky Humphrey led the Ice attack on Saturday with two singles, two runs, and two RBI. Alice Salas added two singles, two runs, and an RBI. Melissa Garcia had two singles and a run.

Susan Stahley singled, scored a run, and had an RBI. Lani Cabral and Chrissy Weaver both singled and scored a run. Diane Brummett, Adria Hernandez, and Ovidio High School softball coach Anna Hollis each hit a single. Reed had an RBI before leaving the game.

The Ice took a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the first inning of Sunday's game. Tied 2-2 with two out and nobody on in the ninth inning, the Sand Sharks rallied for three runs and a 5-2 come-from-behind win.

Humphrey again paced Sanford, collecting two singles, a run, and an RBI. Stahley also hit two singles. Garcia singled and scored a run. Cabral and Weaver each had a single. Hernandez drove in a run.

Is hysterectomy causing problems

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have an ongoing problem that doesn't seem to have an easy answer. Every month for about a week, I have blood in my urine. My white blood count isn't up enough to constitute an infection. Since I'm generally healthy and have no severe kidney pain, I'm unwilling to have intrusive tests done. I underwent hysterectomy for endometriosis 10 years ago. Could that be the problem?

DEAR READER: Blood in the urine is always abnormal. Most often it reflects a kidney stone, a urinary infection, or a growth in the urinary tract, none of which may affect the white blood cell count.

In my opinion, you need a urine culture. If this is normal, you should progress to kidney/bladder X-rays and a urological consultation (for cystoscopy, a technique to examine the bladder with a tube).

While I understand your reluctance to have extensive testing, I believe that such testing is necessary. Endometriosis (growth of uterine tissue outside the womb) does not usually cause bleeding into the urine, however, if present, endometriosis could be diagnosed during cystoscopy.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Bladder and Urinary Tract Infections." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope at P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Over the last few months I have noticed pimples on my body. They get large and form lesions. While serving in Korea, I contracted hemorrhagic fever and was quite ill. Is this a result of that and, if so, what can I do about it?

DEAR READER: Korean hemorrhagic fever is a serious viral infection, causing bruises in the skin, kidney damage and - unless treated with the antiviral drug ribavirin - coma and death.

Because your Korean service occurred so long ago, I do not believe that your pimples are due to hemorrhagic fever.

Seek out a dermatologist to find the cause of your problem. DEAR DR. GOTT: A year ago I fell on my tailbone, injuring it. Any pressure to this day brings a great deal of pain. Cortisone shots, manipulation and physical therapy have been unsuccessful. My doctor now suggests removal of the coccyx. Do you agree with him?

DEAR READER: Injuries to the coccyx, a vestigial bone at the base of the spine, may result in a chronic pain syndrome that resists non-surgical treatment. If you are at your wit's end and have tried injections, analgesics and other traditional therapy, surgery might be your best option. It is, by and large, curative and is not dangerous, because the coccyx lies well below the spinal cord. Follow your doctor's guidance.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Mark Twain, in one of his characteristic moods, said, "Probable nor'east to sou'west winds, varying to the southard and westard and eastard and joints between; high and low barometer, sweeping round from place to place; probable areas of rain, snow, hail, and drought, succeeded or preceded by earthquakes with thunder and lightning."

Which two of these words apply in today's deal? How should South weather the storm brewing in four hearts against a spade lead?

When the dummy appeared, South saw that he could afford two trump losers, but not three. And after winning trick one in hand with the spade king and cashing the heart ace, he could continue with a low heart or with the heart jack (or 10).

Both would work if the suit was dividing 3-3. But if the opposing hearts were 4-2, declarer realized he had to find either East or West with honor-doubleton. So, at trick three, declarer continued with a low heart. And when West had to win with the king, South smiled inwardly to himself.

South won West's spade continuation in the dummy, cashed the diamond ace, ruffed a diamond in hand and drove out East's heart queen. Declarer ruffed the next spade, drew East's last trump and forced out the club ace. He had one trump left with which to ruff the fourth round of spades -- all he needed.

When you can play high or low, consider both carefully.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Nov. 8, 1994

Persons you meet while traveling in the coming year might help in commercial endeavors. Once you establish a contact, keep it current.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Good fortune is yours today if you evaluate situations objectively. Fantasies dilute your luck. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, NY 10163.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Follow your hunches today, especially in material affairs. The suggestions of friends aren't apt to measure up to your insights.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Business and pleasure won't mix well today. Do one or the other, but don't attempt both. One might succeed at the other's expense.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) The tactics you use today, either good or bad, will be talked about by others. Fortunately, your chart indicates your nobler traits will be more visible.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Spending time with friends should prove enjoyable today. However, don't let one person determine activities for the group.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In business dealings today, conditions aren't optimum, but they are quite good. The secret is to do the very best you can.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you have to negotiate an important matter today, you'll do better pleading your own case than by letting a surrogate speak for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might have to give up some of what you want in order to cut a deal today. If you won't compromise, things could come to a standstill.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Overlooking minor character flaws in your companions today will help them overlook yours. This can only strengthen your relationships.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This can be a very productive day for you if you use standard procedures. Even small modifications could be counterproductive today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) The impression you'll make on new people today will probably be favorable and lasting. Remember to avoid exaggerating how much you own.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An opportunity for financial gain is likely today. You might not get all that is offered, however, because of hidden costs.
