It's No 'War Games,' But Seminole Kids Learning Computers

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

A pilot program in computer training for elementary school students being conducted at several Seminole County schools this summer may soon be available nationwide.

Dick Hirt, of the Washington D.C. office of CACI Inc., the research company conducting the training, said the program "so far has been a total success."

He said the final results of the program won't be known for several weeks after the course ends July 28 "but from what I've seen of it so far I'll push for it to be used in other places around the country."

Susan Altenburg, a Seminole County teacher who is supervising 10 computer students at Lake Brantley High School, said she is impressed with the curriculum and equipment used in the camps.

"It's amazing that within a few days the children can be familiar with computers," she said.

Ms. Altenburg, who taught in Broward County before moving to Seminole earlier this year, said the students are learning at a phenomenal pace. They can write basic programs for the computers within the first two days of classes.

Students become acquainted with basic computer language and learn how to use the computer to design graphics and as a problem-solving tool, according to Bonnie Jo Buck, an adjunct professor at Rollins College who is affiliated with CACI.

About 60 students in Seminole, Osceola and Orange counties were involved in the first two-week computer camp. With Volusia and Sumter counties added to the list for the second two-week program, attendance increased to 100.

Mrs. Buck said about 40 Seminole County students ages 8 to 15 will have developed some familiarity with computers by the end of the camp.

The students in the camp show no fear of the computer. For them, Mrs. Buck suggested, the computer is just the next step beyond video games.

The students are enthusiastic about the program. Matt Livesay, who will enter the ninth grade at Lake Brantley this fall, said he likes working on the computer. He had some initial problems adjusting from the Atari home computer his family owns to the Timex computers used in the camp but said the computers are "fun and easy."

For Brantley Robert, another ninth grader, the computer camp is preparation for a computer math course he'll be taking in school this year.

"I wanted to be familiar with computers before I started the class," he said.

His sister Julia Robert is also taking the class. "We're getting a computer for Christmas," she said.

The pilot program is also being used to test the computer camp's curriculum, prepared by Villanova University and camp teachers who were trained at Rollins College.

Elementary, middle school and high school students are using the same textbook for the course. Each student works at his own pace, with the teacher available for individualized instruction.

After years of toil, storing crops, seed, all manner of farm equipment and maybe even a few animals, this old barn off State Road 46 west of Sanford finally gave in. Sagging in an

Port, Utility Riff Stalls Mall; PSC Asked To Mediate

By Diane Petryk
and Micheal Beha

A dispute between the Seminole County Port Authority and Lake Monroe Utilities over placement of water meters is holding up construction of a new building at the port's industrial park near Sanford. Authority members have voted to ask the state Public Service Commission to settle the impasse, while utility owner Dr. J.W. Hickman says "what the port is trying to do is illegal and they know it."

"The port authority is trying to use public opinion and the kindness of the PSC to force the utility to accept improperly installed meters," Hickman said Friday.

At issue is where the meters will be located. The port authority wants them adjacent to the new building, a fourth industrial Mini-Mall. The utility wants the meters along a roadway, off the port property some 520 feet away.

Dennis Dolgner, port authority executive director, said the utility's demand is "unreasonable."

Hickman, however, said that "utilities normally and routinely require meters to be readily accessible outside property lines along the public and road right-of-way."

Dolgner pointed out that to comply with the utility's wish would cost the port an additional $6,000 to $7,000.

"That's immaterial," Hickman said.

As an analogy, he said "the city never asks if something is going to cost more dollars when they make a new rule. The port authority," he added, "is trying to force their will on us. It's not fair. No one else does it."

Dolgner told port authority board members at their monthly meeting this week that Seminole County officials will not approve the site plan for the proposed 20,000-square-foot building until the authority gets a letter from the utility indicating that water and sewer service is available.

Naturally, that letter has not been forthcoming. Consequently, the port board has voted to seek a waiver of the letter requirement from the commission so construction may begin.

Dolgner said Lake Monroe Utilities has refused to allow the authority to place meters for its individual buildings on the existing main line which provides water service to the port. The utility wants all the meters placed at the side of the road which passes by the port complex, according to Dolgner.

In a letter to the PSC, Hickman said the meters should be placed beside the road because of potential problems with security and access at the port.

Dolgner said the port and the utility reached an agreement on March 17, 1982 to allow the port to replace the one

Few Seeking Office In Lake Mary, Oviedo

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

A second incumbent Lake Mary city commissioner has announced he will not be running for re-election in the Sept. 6 municipal election. But one of the original city commission members has qualified to run again.

City Commissioner Ray Fox, completing his second two-year term on the Lake Mary governing body, says that he won't be seeking re-election. Fox, a retired Navy commander, says he wants more time to spend with his family.

But Harry Terry, who was a charter member of the city commission when the city was founded in 1973, and who was subsequently elected to three consecutive terms, has qualified to seek Fox's seat.

Terry served on the commission from 1973 until January of 1980. He was defeated in a bid for the mayor's office in 1979.

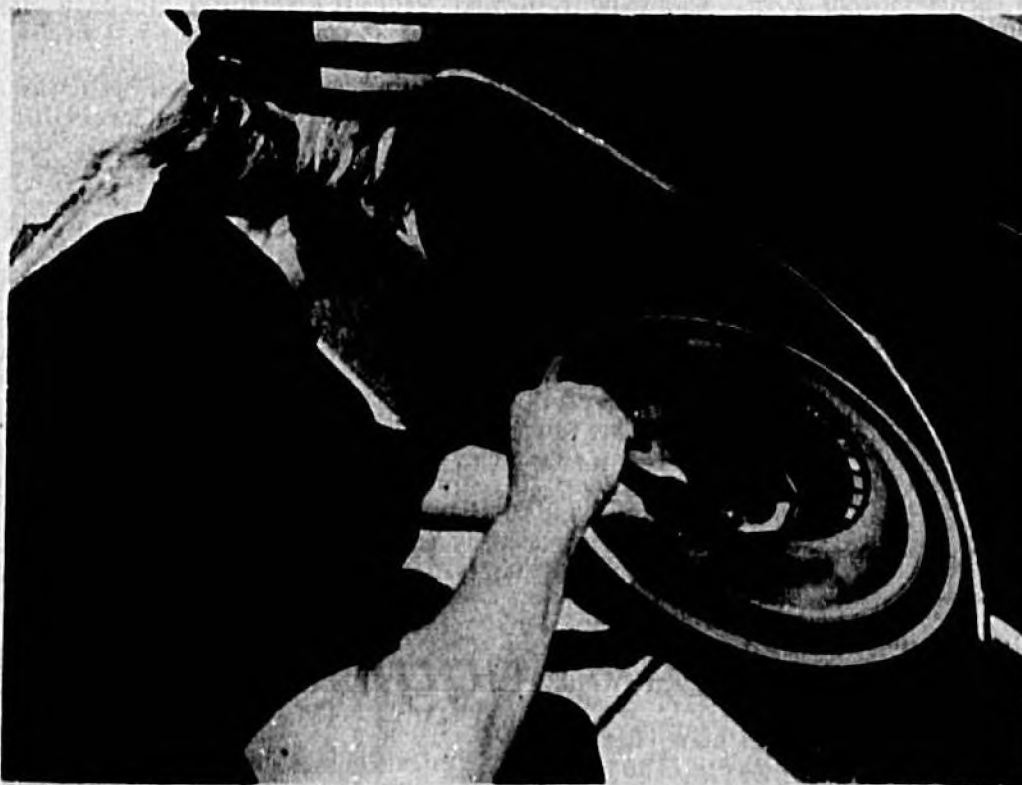

Earlier, incumbent City Commissioner Charlie Lytle announced he will not be seeking re-election because he is moving out of the city. Lytle was elected last December to the remaining year in the term of Commissioner Gene McDonald who resigned to accept a job out of state.

Meanwhile, Colin Kelly, an unsuccessful city commission candidate last year, has qualified to seek election to Lytle's seat.

And Burt Perinchief who is completing his seventh year on the city commission qualified Friday for re-election.

Perinchief was first elected in 1974 and served six years prior to retiring from public office. Last year, he ran successfully for the one year remaining in the term of Victor Olvera who had resigned. Perinchief is a music instructor at Seminole Community College.

A hubcap thief at work... a good one can steal an expensive set of wheel covers and make his getaway in less than a minute

Cops Go To Great Lengths To Catch Hubcap Thieves

By Charles Cobb
Herald Staff Writer

It was almost like something out of "The A-Team."

Altamonte Springs police officers staked out on the roof of the Altamonte Mall relentlessly scanned the sprawling parking lot with binoculars — trying to catch the culprits in the act.

When a cop spotted a crook doing his dirty work, he radioed to plain clothes mall security agents sitting in unmarked cars in the parking lot and the agents swooped down on the bad guys, catching them red-handed.

The purpose of all these oft-repeated, somewhat melodramatic scenarios? To stop a rash of hubcap thefts at the Altamonte Mall by catching the thieves in the act.

According to Lt. Steve Garver of the Altamonte Springs Police Department, the tactic worked. Hubcap thefts in the mall parking lot have dropped off drastically.

"We were having a serious problem with hubcap thefts at the mall before we started the stakeouts a few months ago," said Garver.

"Individuals and groups of up to three persons were really ripping off the cars, mostly luxury cars, big Cadillacs and Buicks with expensive spoke wheels that cost $75 to $100 and more each," he said.

"They would steal the hubcaps mostly during the day when they could spot a regular police car a long distance off, but some were stolen at night, too," said Garner.

"Then, with the stakeouts, we arrested a bunch of people and we've had almost no hubcap thefts at the mall since then. But these things come in rashes, especially at the mall, and we expect the problem to arise again in the future."

Another problem area in Altamonte Springs has been motel parking lots. "They were stealing hubcaps at motels at night. Then our midnight (police) shift caught four or five people a couple of months ago and there has been no problem since," said Garner.

"You make some arrests and it falls off fast. But it always comes back eventually. Apparently these (thiefs) have a source or fence where they sell the hubcaps," he said.

But the problem is not restricted just to Altamonte Springs. Hubcap thieves strike all over Seminole County. And if caught, they could face up to five years in prison and a fine of up to $5,000, according to the state attorney's office in Sanford.

And any person who knowingly buys this stolen property is committing a second degree felony, punishable by a

IN BRIEF

Ex-EPA Official Lavelle Not Guilty Of Contempt

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fired EPA official Rita Lavelle says her acquittal of contempt of Congress charges restores her faith in the system, but a House official says her lawyer won the case by playing on the sympathy of the jury.

A jury of eight women and four men found Miss Lavelle innocent Friday of a single count of failing to honor a subpoena to testify before a House subcommittee investigating her handling of the $1.6 billion toxic waste cleanup fund.

When asked whether she planned to testify before Congress now, Miss Lavelle said she did not know.

An aide to the congressional subcommittee that subpoenaed Miss Lavelle would not rule out the possibility she would be subpoenaed again if she fails to appear voluntarily.

The one-count indictment stemmed from Miss Lavelle's failure to appear March 21 before a House subcommittee investigating political manipulation and mismanagement of the EPA's $1.6 billion Superfund toxic waste cleanup program.

Drug, Sex Charges Probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Ethics Committee has turned over to the Justice Department allegations of drug or sexual misconduct by Senate employees that were made during an investigation of similar charges in the House.

"When the items (in the House investigation) came up, statements were made by pages that referred to some Senate staff members," committee Chairman Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, told United Press International Friday.

"The allegations referred primarily to drug concepts, which we sent to the Department of Justice," Stevens said.

Referring to the House investigation into sexual misconduct, Stevens said, "There was one (allegation) that involved a Senate staff member, which we looked into. We also sent that to the Justice Department."

The House this week censured Reps. Daniel Crane, R-Ill., and Gerry Studds, D-Mass., for having sex with teenage congressional pages. The two confessed after the House ethics committee, and its special counsel Joseph Califano, accused them of sexual misconduct.

The House committee and Califano — while closing the investigation into sexual misconduct — are still looking into drug charges involving House members.

House Panel Wants Files

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee is waiting for the Justice Department to tell it how much evidence of theft or leaks of Carter White House material during the 1980 campaign it is willing to share with Congress.

James Hamilton, the subcommittee's special counsel, met with a top department official Friday to ask for access to all evidence gathered so far.

But Hamilton told reporters outside the Justice Department, "There are questions that remain as to exactly what access to materials and information that the FBI gathers the subcommittee will receive."

It marked the second time in two days the panel headed by Rep. Donald Albosta, D-Mich., appeared at odds with the administration over access to information it feels it needs for its inquiry into how Carter materials were obtained by Ronald Reagan's campaign.

Meanwhile, two public interest attorneys called for appointment of a special prosecutor to take over the Justice Department investigation, asserting Attorney General William French Smith is too close a friend of Reagan's to ensure an impartial, unbiased inquiry.

Senate To Vote On MX

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate will be able to complete work on its $200 billion defense authorization bill Tuesday as a result of an agreement by opponents of the MX missile to end their filibuster.

The agreement announced Friday by Senate Republican leader Howard Baker provides for votes on as many as four anti-MX amendments Tuesday.

The agreement ended a filibuster by Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., who wants to eliminate the 10-warhead nuclear missile.

The issue will come up again when the Senate and House take up the appropriations bills that actually provide the money sought by the Pentagon.

Hart said he was encouraged by a shift of votes in the House that narrowed the margin of votes for the MX. The House approved production money Wednesday on a 220-207 vote.

Sanford Man Jailed In Rape Of Girl, 15

A 19-year-old Sanford man was being held in the Seminole County Jail today without bond on a charge of sexual battery against a 15-year-old Sanford girl.

Edmon Jones, 1788 Bell St., was arrested at 11 a.m. Friday at the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

Deputies said that on July 16, Jones and a companion allegedly drove the girl to Oregon Avenue, near Sanford, where they raped her several times. Deputies are still searching for Jones' companion.

SANFORD MAN ARRESTED

Anthony Williams, 48, of 710 Cypress St., Sanford, was arrested at 2:50 p.m. Friday on a charge of retail theft.

Sanford police said Williams allegedly tried to take a $2.99 bottle of Sangria wine from Fairway Market without paying.

He is being held at the jail under $100 bond.

MISSING MAN SOUGHT

The Seminole County Sheriff's Department is looking for a Chuluota man who has been missing since July 5. Ted Chuasta, 39, of 20 E. 2nd St., was last seen July 5 at a market in Chuluota where he told friends he was waiting for a cab to take him to West Palm Beach.

The report, filed by his mother, Joan Richardson, 64, of 71 E. 3rd St., Chuluota, said Chuasta has a history of mental illness and takes medication regularly. She said his medication was found under his bed after he was discovered missing.

Mrs. Chuasta said her son is 6-foot-2 and has a difficult time speaking because of prolonged use of medication.

BOAT TRAILER TAKEN

When Leonard Hill of Oviedo went fishing last Thursday at 4 p.m. he left his boat trailer at the public boat ramp on State Road 46 near the St. John's River bridge. When he returned at 9:33 a.m. Friday, his trailer was gone.

Hill told deputies the trailer was valued at $400.

MARIJUANA PLANTS FOUND

Authorities arrested a Casselberry man and woman when they found five-foot-high marijuana plants growing in their back yard.

Agents first went to a residence at 132 Waverly Drive, Thursday afternoon where they observed two five-foot marijuana plants growing behind a utility shed in the back yard and another marijuana plant growing near a rear fence, reports said.

They also found a marijuana holder with a partially smoked marijuana cigarette in a vehicle at the residence, reports said.

The undercover agents of the Seminole County Drug Task Force then obtained a search warrant, returned to the house and arrested its two occupants.

Arrested were Susan Lynn Schlappa, a 22-year-old bookkeeper, and Robert Michael Ballerino, 23, a

'On Sober Reflection'

Kissinger Reverses Opposition To Pentagon Papers Release

NEW YORK (UPI) — Henry Kissinger says he was upset when newspapers published the Pentagon Papers in 1971 but now feels they were justified in releasing the documents.

In the August edition of American Heritage Kissinger said that "on sober reflection" he would "go along with" publication of the report, which was leaked to the press by former Defense Department official Daniel Ellsberg.

"At the time I was outraged," Kissinger said of the publication in 1971 of the top-secret Pentagon Papers which detailed the history of America's involvement in Vietnam. The U.S. government at the time tried unsuccessfully in the courts to suppress publication.

Kissinger, who was national security adviser to former President Nixon when the papers were leaked, had said publishing the papers "seemed to me to threaten vital and delicate negotiations in which we were engaged."

"I do not think the media should censor themselves with respect to information that has come their way, provided they did not commit the act of theft or get somebody else to steal a document," Kissinger said.

"But if somebody takes a

document and gives it to them, however ill I think of the thief, it is not the media's responsibility to police themselves in that regard," he said.

Kissinger also said, "I have contempt for individuals in government who turn over to the press classified documents in their trust. But I don't have contempt for those in the press who receive" them.

He also upheld the news media's right to ferret out and report information on diplomatic negotiations — even while they are still going on.

"I do not believe that it is the press's job to discipline itself about what information it receives, or to reject information it can obtain, on the ground that it might harm a negotiation. The media are in no position to make such a judgment," he said.

But the former secretary of state said in the magazine that secrecy is crucial to successful diplomatic negotiations, especially in the early stages.

"If ideas become public before one has even thought them through in one's own government, if fallback positions are made public, the whole negotiating process is undermined," he said.

Diplomacy, he said, "must seek a common position that can stand the test of time. This means that both sides must consider it in their interest."

"The amateur believes that a clever diplomat tells everybody a different story. But in diplomacy you meet the same person over and over again, and in the long term his confidence in you is more important than any minor advantage you can achieve by trickery."

Kissinger said "the results of negotiations should be public. The process by which these results are achieved generally should have a private phase and then it may have a public phase."

Reagan Administration 'Anti-Elderly'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., has denounced the Reagan administration as "the most anti-elderly" in U.S. history and offered his own alternative to save the financially troubled medical care system that treats America's senior citizens.

Kennedy, speaking to about 900 delegates to a meeting of the National Council of Senior Citizens, also called for an overhaul of the Medicare system, which faces a trillion dollar deficit by the end of the century.

He accused the administration of planning to "exploit the crisis of Medicare in order to excuse billions of dollars in benefit cuts."

"And our reply to them is as strong today as it was a year ago on Social Security: Ronald Reagan and David Stockman and Bob Dole — keep your budget cutting hands off our Medicare," Kennedy said.

Kennedy outlined his own four-part Medicare rescue plan, which calls for:

- A system of prospective payments for all hospital costs.
- Establishment of "reasonable incentives" for the out-patient treatment of certain Medicare clients.
- Reform of the system used to reimburse physicians for hospital services.

— Making permanent the current temporary borrowing arrangement between Medicare and Social Security "so that each fund can assist the other in a future shortfall."

Kennedy blamed Medicare's financial problems on inflation, which he said is "corrupting" the U.S. health care system.

"We often hear the president speak about his record as an inflation fighter, but he obviously is not aware that health costs are still rising at double-digit levels," he said.

"I think I can guess the reason. When do you think was the last time Ronald Reagan even looked at his own doctor's bills?"

Kennedy also repeated his call for a national health care plan and said Democratic candidates should address that issue in the 1984 campaign.

Kennedy told his audience, "Ronald Reagan's problem isn't his age."

"What's wrong with Reagan isn't that he's over 70, but that all of those reactionary Republican ideas he has at least 70 years out of date," he said. "Let's say it bluntly and plainly: This is the most anti-elderly, anti-Social Security anti-Medicare administration in all of American history."

Port Rejects Fertilizer Bagging Plant

A plan to locate a fertilizer bagging plant and distribution center at the Port of Sanford has been rejected by the Seminole County Port Authority.

Authority members rejected the lease with Imperial Products Inc. because they felt the dust and odor the plant would produce would have an impact on other operations at the port.

The company is looking for a permanent facility. It currently moves its bagging operations to wherever its customers are located.

Authority member Wendell Agee also said the terms in a proposed lease agreement with the company are too generous. He said the 10-year base lease with options for 89 more years is too favorable to the company.

In the agreement, Imperial Products proposed constructing a building at the port's complex west of Sanford. But Agee said the lease should include a clause which gives the building back to the port authority at the end of 25 years.

The Port Authority's executive director Dennis Dolgner protested the board's refusal to approve the lease.

He said the authority has given him a free hand in negotiating leases with companies. Now, he said, the authority is changing the rules.

"I'm happy to work within guidelines. But I'm not happy if you're going to change the guidelines," Dolgner said.

He said the lease agreement is comparable with other long-term leases at the port. Several firms have options for up to 99 years, he said.

Authority member Wallace Schoettelkotte said the port's financial condition has changed since those other 99-year leases were approved. Five years ago the authority was looking for clients so it would be able to stay in business. Today, the authority has a number of businesses waiting for space.

"We don't have to give it away anymore," he said.

The authority members voted to have Dolgner return to the negotiating table with Imperial Products officials to try to work out a lease more acceptable to the authority.

The board voted to extend the lease of Riverside Brick. The firm pays $224 a month for $19,500 square feet at the port. The lease allows the company to cancel the agreement with 60 days notice.

Dolgner said the company is seeking larger facilities in Orlando and would probably move before the lease expires.

Dolgner also read the resignation letter of Clyde Rice. Rice was named to the board last year but has had difficulty attending meetings because of business commitments which have kept him out of town.

DUI ARRESTS

The following people have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol:

- Jackson McBride, 24, Apt. 49 Rollingwood Apartments, Casselberry, was arrested at 12:43 a.m. Saturday at the intersection of U.S. Highway 17-92 and Bush Boulevard near Sanford. Police said McBride was having difficulty staying in a single lane.
- Clayton Lalonde, 55, of 636 Desoto Drive, Casselberry, was arrested at 2:25 a.m. Saturday along State Road 436 in Casselberry when police spotted him driving erratically.
- Bobby Branch, 39, of Winter Park, was arrested at 1:45 a.m. Saturday on State Road 15 in Casselberry.

Lake Mary Sifts City Manager Applications

Lake Mary city commissioners during the next two weeks will be individually reviewing the applications of 41 persons seeking the job of city manager.

But it will probably be Oct. 1 before a new manager is named.

In the meantime, Connie Major will continue in the dual role of city clerk and acting city manager. And she has said she is not interested in the permanent position.

Each commissioner is to submit his list of favored candidates to his colleagues at the Aug. 4 city commission meeting and at that time the board will decide what their next move is.

Commissioner Burt Perincheff suggested the board members with a combined list in hand might wish to narrow the selection further and call the top three in for personal interviews. He said it would be presumptuous for the city to expect an applicant to travel to a narrowing interview from out of state and then come back for a final interview.

Commissioner Ray Fox said, however, the commissioners might wish to talk with selected applicants via conference telephone call before final interviews, adding his opinion that it would be "totally ridiculous to look at a piece of paper" and narrow 41 applicants to three or four. He said it would be just as efficient to number the applications, throw them in the air and pick three or four applications at random from the floor.

Lake Mary's first city manager, Phil Kulbes resigned effective June 30, after nearly five years in the city's employ, first as a building official and five months later as city manager. His salary was $21,982.75 annually.

The city advertised in area newspapers, seeking applicants for the post, as well as in the Florida League of Cities magazine and at universities and colleges.

A month ago the commission set a salary range of $18,000 to $22,000 for the office and two weeks ago the board approved a job description.

Two weeks ago the commission approved a job description, qualifications and responsibilities of a manager.

The approved job description says the manager is responsible to the mayor and commission for the administrative functions of the city and for the implementation and enforcement of the policies, regulations and ordinance enacted by the commission.

Qualifications for the office call for at least three years of progressively responsible supervisory experience, but no specific college degree is required.

The description says the applicant should have a background in public administration, general business practices, engineering and/or construction or related fields. It also notes that an equivalent combination of training and responsibilities would be acceptable. — Donna Estes

NATIONAL REPORT: Forecasters saw no relief today from an oppressive heat wave focusing its most withering effects on the St. Louis area where temperatures have reached or exceeded 100 for almost two weeks. At least 59 deaths have been blamed on the steamy weather pattern. The most recently reported fatalities were those of a 3-year-old boy who died Friday night in a van carrying St. Louis-area pre-schoolers from a field trip. The temperature has run beyond 100 in St. Louis for four consecutive days, and 103 degrees was today's prediction. It was the worst heat wave since 1980. It has been blamed for 10 deaths in Georgia, eight in Illinois, six in Indiana, five in North Carolina, three in Missouri outside of the St. Louis area, and one each in Minnesota, Maryland, New York, Arkansas and Kentucky. IN BRIEF

Anti-Castro Terrorist Faces Bombing Charges

MIAMI (UPI) — A man identified by federal agents as the mastermind of a campaign of terror by the militant anti-Castro group Omega 7 faces charges he organized the attempted bombing of a car carrying a Cuban ambassador in New York.

Eduardo Arocena, 40, known to law enforcement authorities as the mysterious "Omar" who issued cryptic communiques for Omega 7, was arrested Friday in Miami.

FBI agents said the arrest was based on a tip from a confidential informant who claimed to have helped build the bomb that was attached to the car of Cuban ambassador Raul Roa Kouri in 1980. The bomb fell off without exploding and Kouri was unhurt.

"All that I did, I did for the liberty of my country," Arocena said as he was hustled out of a southwest Miami home in handcuffs.

Federal agents had been searching for Arocena since he and four other men were charged with conspiracy and interstate transport of weapons by a New York grand jury on Oct. 1, 1982. The other suspects have been in custody since October.

School Racism Probed

MIAMI (UPI) — A teachers union complaint that the Dade County School Board is racist will be probed by investigators from the Atlanta office of the U.S. Office of Civil Rights, union officials said.

Pat Tornillo, executive director of the United Teachers of Dade, said union case records reveal that half the Dade County teachers disciplined in the past six months were black.

"We felt that more black teachers were being suspended and reprimanded than white teachers. That's why we filed a complaint," Tornillo said. "Our case records indicate that a disproportionate number of black teachers received harsh disciplines."

Dade Schools Superintendent Leonard Britton denied that the school board's actions were racially motivated.

Firm May Lose Equipment

ORLANDO — Orange County authorities say they will put a lien on equipment belonging to a hazardous waste processing company if it fails to pay a $250-a-day fine.

That fine was levied on City Industries when the company was found guilty of failing to remove or safely store about 100,000 gallons of toxic chemicals.

The code enforcement board's fine is retroactive to June 16th. Officials say if it's not paid within a year, they will take action which could include the equipment lien.

6-Year-Old Sharers

Brian Phipps, above left, and Vickie Murphy, both 6, carry canned goods to the Christian Sharing Center in Sanford Friday. About 150 cans of food and a cash offering were donated to the center by the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford, Vacation Bible School. Students from the school helped make the deliveries.

Crackdown On Illegal Aliens

MIAMI (UPI) — Immigration authorities say they aren't nabbing enough illegal aliens in raids of vegetable fields and packing houses, so they'll concentrate on large south Florida businesses known to hire illegal entrants.

And the next time immigration officers raid a place of employment to remove illegal aliens, the empty jobs will be offered to unemployed American citizens, U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service officials said.

The announcement Friday followed a roundup two days earlier of 50 unauthorized employees at a Miami T-shirt factory. INS officials are seeking to deport 23 of those workers.

Joseph Greene, an INS criminal investigator, told a news conference INS agents will forward news of job openings created by immigration raids to the Florida State Employment Service.

"Our focus is no longer just to remove but rather to create conditions so that these people will be replaced by people who are unemployed here in Florida," said Joseph Greene, an INS criminal investigator.

He said the new thrust of focusing on select businesses will involve mostly the service, garment and construction industries.

"We have American citizens standing in line ready to work every day. Our job is to make sure every American citizen or person who is entitled to work in the United States is provided that opportunity," said Will McTier, a spokesman for the Florida State Employment Service.

Factories Get Boost As 'Big Ticket' Orders Surge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's factories were recharged in June with a 5.5 percent increase in orders for the most expensive items, from automobiles to defense equipment, to reach a record $89.5 billion worth of business in new durables.

The Commerce Department report Friday, showing that factories would be busy in the months ahead, capped a week of good news for the economy.

Earlier Friday the Labor Department said the economic recovery has not rekindled inflation, reporting a tiny 0.2 percent increase in the Consumer Price

Index for June.

So far in 1983 the inflation rate is running at only 2.9 percent, when figured yearly. That's a full percentage point under last year's rate.

Thursday the government said the recovery is stronger than almost anyone thought, generating an 8.7 percent growth in the April-June gross national product, a nine-quarter high.

Cheered by all the good statistics and by Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker's repeated reassurances to Congress that interest rates need only climb a little bit, the stock markets exploded in a new rally.

By Friday's close the New York Stock Exchange's Dow Industrial average was up nearly 39 points for the week, 454 points above where the record bull market began last August.

Friday alone saw the Dow tack on nearly two points to close at 1,231.17, the highest level since it hit 1,241.69 on June 24.

The factories report was tinged with some qualifications. Most of the month's increase was tied to defense business, which goes up and down independent of the business cycle.

Without defense orders, the overall increase would have been 1.2 percent to a level not quite above the last peak in orders, May 1981's $88.3 billion.

And machinery orders registered their first decline since February.

February produced the only monthly decline in "big ticket" orders since last October.

New orders are the primary fuel for the industrial economy's recovery in coming months. Durable goods orders have a particularly heavy impact because they usually require the most manpower to produce and the most new credit to purchase.

Attacking The Enemy Within

The only good thing about the recent revelations of waste in defense spending is that some of the most serious disclosures are coming from the Pentagon itself or from senior officials of the Reagan administration.

That is one more reason to believe that the administration is indeed serious about curbing the waste and outright fraud that cheat the taxpayer and shortchange the nation's security.

Thus, for example, it was Deputy Secretary of Defense Paul Thayer who bluntly told a gathering of defense contractors in June that procurement costs could be cut by up to 30 percent if weapons and equipment were made right the first time.

And it was Rear Adm. Frank C. Collins Jr. who said three weeks later that Thayer's estimate was "conservative."

Collins put the waste factor for shoddy workmanship and defective products at as much as 50 percent for some weapons and equipment items.

He should know. The admiral is executive director for quality assurance at the Defense Logistics Agency.

An administration dedicated to covering up waste rather than exposing and eliminating it would not tolerate a uniformed officer publicly painting an even gloomier picture than his civilian superior.

Finding ways to compel defense contractors to improve quality control is one of Thayer's announced priorities.

Another should be a ruthless crackdown on suppliers selling spare parts to the Pentagon at outrageously inflated prices.

When the Pentagon agrees to pay $1 each for rivets actually worth less than a quarter, someone should be called to account.

When the Navy pays $100 each for spare parts available in Defense Department warehouses for less than a nickel apiece, it should be obvious that the procurement system is in desperate need of reform.

The General Accounting Office, Congress's fiscal watchdog, has churned out any number of studies identifying ways the Pentagon could buy more for less if only someone paid proper attention to obvious economies. Those reports ought to be piled on Thayer's desk and marked "top priority."

J. Peter Grace, chairman of President Reagan's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control, predicted in June that his team of investigators will eventually recommend $25 billion in potential Pentagon savings without any cuts for major weapons systems.

What all this indicates is that Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's cost-control sleuths would have their hands full if they worked 12 hours a day, seven days a week for the remainder of President Reagan's tenure in office.

The $30 billion in savings they can already claim during the next five years should be just the beginning of the administration's efforts to make every defense dollar count.

There is more than just economy at stake here. A myopic Congress has already cut back Mr. Reagan's five-year defense buildup to little more than that proposed by former President Jimmy Carter before he left office. And no one ever accused Carter of being a Pentagon toady.

Every defense dollar wasted is one dollar less for the ships, planes, and missiles America needs desperately to keep from falling further behind a relentless Soviet military buildup.

And every instance of waste in the defense budget gives a shortsighted Congress another excuse to cut muscle right along with the fat.

Stopping that ominous trend will be far easier if the Reagan administration can convince even its most skeptical critics on Capitol Hill that everything possible is being done to eliminate Pentagon waste.

"You're in luck! I think I'm on a roll. I just sank a 40 foot putt."

By Doris Dietrich

In the good ole' summertime, there's not too much going on — except maybe trying to keep cool: Chiggers, sunburn, watermelons and baseball are all signs of summer.

I have always enjoyed a good sandlot ball game. It's lots more fun when you know all the players on both teams and just plain root for everybody.

Little League games have interested mothers and grandmothers for a long time. I'm told that these women can cause a lot of — er — confusion on the sidelines, and particularly if they think their little Johnny is not "out" when the umpire makes the devastating decision.

I don't know about this aspect of Little League, but a friend says that the competition between moms and grandmothers over "Juniors" can be "beastly and hair-pulling."

However, I have witnessed on many occasions the shenanigans of the so-called stage mothers who have entered their little girls in beauty pageants or audition calls. Some of these dedicated, discipline-drilling mothers can be downright ruthless and unscrupulous when it comes to pushing their daughters out front. And I have seen blows passed backstage to accompany brutal verbal abuse between mothers and daughters and other mothers and daughters.

Mrs. Howard Brigham, 2015 Cedar Ave., Sanford, has been into Little League baseball for a long time. She says her three sons and a married grandson all played Little League ball and she is against pressuring the Little Leaguer.

This week, Mrs. Brigham contributed a poem written by Bob Fox, a former pitcher in the minor leagues and also a Little League coach. The poem appeared in her hometown newspaper, The Advanced Reporter, West Unity, Ohio, and is as follows:

JUST A LITTLE BOY

He stands at the plate

with heart pounding fast.

The bases are loaded; the die has been cast.

Mom and Dad cannot help him, he stands alone. A hit at this moment would send the team home.

The ball meets the plate; he swings and he misses. There is a groan from the crowd, with some boos and some hisses.

A thoughtless voice cries: strike out the bum.

Tears fill his eyes: the game's no longer fun. So open your heart and give him a break.

For it's moments like this, a man you can make.

Keep this in mind when you hear someone forget. He's just a little boy and not a man yet.

Merit Pay Position Not Valid

According to the National Education Association, the highly political union of public school teachers, one of the worst disasters that could strike the public school system is merit pay.

However, that position simply won't wash.

Every college in the land pays faculty according to their skills and credentials.

The same system prevails in private schools, which offer truly superior elementary and high school education.

If merit pay works for colleges and prep schools, why won't it work in public schools? The answer, one may be sure, is that merit pay would work very well.

Indeed merit pay is the rule in almost every area of the workplace, except where government has a dead hand on operations.

Merit pay isn't the system in force in the Post Office, which may be one good reason why increasing numbers of Americans use United Parcel Service, Federal Express or similar private organizations to send high priority letters and packages that they want to arrive on time.

We would have incredibly bad performance in private business if merit pay weren't in effect.

Suppose all doctors received the same income? Americans would receive the poor medical care that is characteristic of the nationalized Health Service in Great Britain.

To operate a business without merit pay is to abandon incentives.

Without financial incentives, people won't strive to get ahead.

They won't make an extra effort to produce or add new qualifications.

Public schools are no different than any other institution in this respect.

The NEA is like any other union in opposing merit pay. Its interest lies in keeping everyone at the same level and dependent on the union for new financial benefits.

This is the way industrial unions operate and it is a major factor in the decline of productivity and quality in American industry.

If there is no financial advantage in superior workmanship, one man won't work harder or more carefully than another.

Happily, President Reagan is stressing the importance of merit pay.

On the state level, Gov. Lamar Alexander of Tennessee is insisting that the system is essential to the upgrading of schools in this state and to better job opportunities for young people.

Everyone knows that public education in the United States is grossly inadequate.

It won't be improved simply by throwing money at the schools.

The need is to reward skilled and dedicated public school years in accordance with their merit.

There couldn't be a more logical and necessary system to implement.

Growers Flout Foreign Labor Laws

WASHINGTON — Congress has been howling loudly about high unemployment, but is now conniving quietly to deny American workers even more jobs.

In cahoots with the agriculture industry, Congress is working to bring in more cheap foreign labor to take jobs that Americans might be willing to accept if they were given the breaks alien workers get.

The Simpson-Mazzoli immigration bill would allow more than 300,000 foreign workers into the country each year — a huge increase over the 20,000 to 40,000 currently admitted on temporary work visas.

The bill, which passed the Senate in May, would accomplish this by easing the requirements employers must meet in the payment and treatment of so-called "guest workers." Yet there is growing evidence that existing requirements are regularly flouted by the

What Makes Sally Ride?

Some thirst for fame. Others have it thrust upon them.

Astronaut Sally Ride — first U.S. woman in space — is among the latter group.

We are told that in the official NASA news releases before the liftoff of space shuttle "Challenger," she received only the slightest mention. That was how it was supposed to be.

Then at pre-launch press conferences, reporters and TV cameramen began zeroing in on her. "It's no big deal," she kept insisting, adding: "I didn't come into the space program to be the first woman in space. I came in to get a chance to fly as soon as I could."

After her landmark joy ride — during which she was the cool, capable, competent mission specialist she had been trained to be — the accolades, fanfare and tributes became even more enthusiastic. With the modesty we had come to expect by then, she said, "I think the publicity should be directed toward the space program... and not so much on me personally."

She even publicly shunned a bouquet of roses presented to her by a NASA official at her homecoming in Houston.

That may have appeared rude to some, and it's too bad she didn't think of dividing the roses among the crew. But it's important to remember that she thought of herself as one of a team and didn't want to be singled out as a celebrity.

I think her flight into history was foreshadowed by her life experiences and the times. Consider:

— She learned teamwork as a kid playing football in the streets with the neighborhood boys.

— She got turned on to science in high school due to the influence of two women science teachers who became role models.

— The women's movement had become so pervasive by the late '70s that not even such a male bastion as the U.S. space program could be immune from its impact.

First, her football. For some years now, social commentators have said that boys have been programmed for cooperation through team sports and that girls have been programmed to compete against each other for attention by the opposite sex. In addition, it was thought that tackling bodies and pitching fast balls were not for the "weaker" sex.

Luckily, the youngster from Encino, Calif., whose father is a college professor and mother a prison volunteer, avoided that stereotyping. Not only did Sally Ride play with the guys, she was so good, according to her sister, that when the captains chose up sides, Sally was the first one picked.

That's how she learned to be a team player, a quality NASA would put a premium on 20 years later.

The next twist of fate came when she was a junior at an all-girls' high school. A woman from UCLA taught a physiology course and another taught chemistry, physics, trigonometry and calculus. "Those two were the science department and they were great," Sally said.

From then on, the future space shuttle specialist just couldn't get enough science. By 1977 she had earned a doctorate from Stanford with a thesis on X-ray astrophysics.

Her timing was perfect. NASA was looking for new kinds of astronauts — not just crack pilots, but scientific brains. Ms. Ride leaped at the chance — and so did 8,000 others. After months of rigorous tests and interviews, she and five other women along with 29 men were chosen.

Significantly, all 35 were selected for their special qualities and skills. Whether they were female or male had nothing to do with it.

Feminist leaders were elated about that, of course, because NASA's attitude was the very essence of what the women's movement stands for.

Of the 29 men in the Class of '78, astronaut Ride has said: "They were willing to see us prove ourselves and gave us time to do that."

She made the most of the opportunity just as she did playing football and mastering astrophysics.

Those were the things that made Sally Ride — and fly.

Keep Interest Rate Down

(The Julian Bond column normally appearing in this space has been delayed. It will be published in the Herald as soon as it is available.)

Despite the latest Washington sex scandal and the melodrama over the purloined Carter papers, the most important topic in the nation's capital is, or should be, the plans Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker has for the nation's economy. With his confirmation for a second term assured, Mr. Volcker will be firmly in control at the Fed. Inasmuch as the actions of the Federal Reserve exercise fundamental control over interest rates and the money supply, the direction of the economy will be determined by what Mr. Volcker and the Fed Board believes it needs.

It is widely thought that with the economy expanding at a rate of more than 6 percent in real terms, the Fed will act to cool it off by slowing the growth of the money supply. The basic money supply indicator, M1, has been growing 14 percent annually so far this year, way above the ballpark range of 4-8 percent the Fed has aimed at. Thus far, healthy economic growth has been the result. The nation's gross national product grew 2.6 percent in the first quarter, which seems modest, but is better than the Reagan administration's original projection of 1.5 percent GNP growth for 1983. However, interest rates did not rise significantly, and in fact inched downward earlier in the year. The terrible recession of 1980-82 flattened business activity, leaving plenty of room in the credit markets for now.

Now, with the recovery two quarters old, there are signs that it is moving too fast, though plenty of businessmen, especially in the manufacturing sector, would disagree. Personal income rose 1.2 percent in May, the largest monthly rise since July 1981. Interest rates are now stable, which means they have stopped falling.

A decision at the Fed to slow money growth will have little immediate effect. Even if rates rise, businesses will continue borrowing to replenish inventories, especially if they believe rates will only go higher. Money supply changes have a "lag" effect on the economy. Today's recovery is the result of fast money growth last summer.

Mr. Volcker's challenge is to keep our economic recovery on an even keel; to rebuild confidence without setting off inflation again. Looming federal deficits make the job harder, since private borrowers are, or will soon be, pressing at their bankers' doors.

Some economists are warning the Fed not to limit money growth, since they claim it no longer knows what M1 is due to the spread of a variety of new financial instruments, such as NOW accounts. The pressure is made worse by the changed structure of the U.S. economy, which has been conditioned to build on debt rather than equity, and requires constant infusions of capital only to survive, never mind invest and grow. High interest rates thus are not just unfortunate, they are economic poison: the legacy of the Age of Inflation, which cursed our economy for a decade. Mr. Volcker's task is to avoid a return to it. A six-month recovery is small reason to celebrate.

Reckless Motorists On Old Orlando Road Slaughtering Dogs, Frightening People

To Whom This May Concern or Readers Of Your Paper

A little stretch of the Old Orlando Road where the road is banked high for a great deal of speed, and the motorists who take advantage of this road — have caused the death of, or injury (to one), four dogs in about three weeks time.

My dog had been with me for twelve years. Her name was "Princess." She would take me by the hand to go for a morning walk to a neighbors where she would roam his yard till I went back home.

#1 dog hit was my dog, "Princess." The car chased her completely off the road. Witness was a Police Officer chasing a speeding car.

#2 dog was across the road, new in the neighborhood. A little red dog. They hit him hard, but did not stop.

#3 dog, a little white one that caused this letter to you.

#4 dog was hungry. He would not let you get near to him. But apparently did not cross the street fast enough so the city truck picked him up — d.o.a. (dead on arrival).

The reason for this letter — people are not dogs. A little old lady crossing the street has lived here many years. She won't go across the street. The drivers are very reckless, careless. Do not even slow up. Most of all — very thoughtless.

Sincerely
Henry W. Merry

Vote Yes For Tax

This is an open letter to the Seminole County Commission. The handwriting is on the wall. For years I've watched you county commissioners dilly dally around and try to solve our road problems by talking them to death. Seminole County has for years been up to its keister with all kinds of problems — and our roads are priority one.

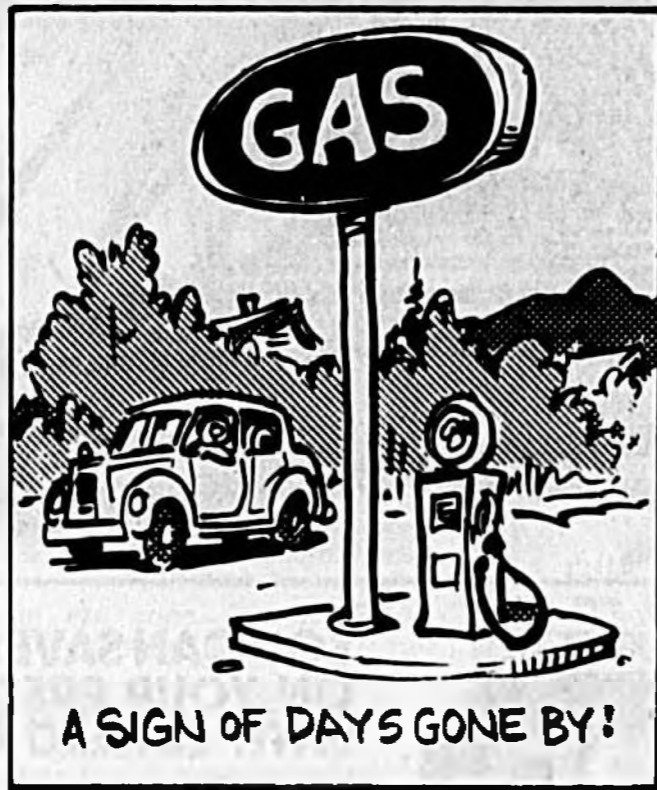

My advice to our "good ole boy," county commissioners is do your homework, stop trying to make an extra buck, and at least try to do something even if it is wrong.

Vote Y-E-S for a four-cent gas tax. It will be a lot less out of my pocket in the long run.

I am now using triple that waiting, waiting with my engine running.

If you don't go for a four-cent tax increase, we will have more traffic from people driving here to "Fill-er-up."

More Than 100 Killed In Iran's Attempt To Wipe Out Entire Baha'i Community

On November 22, 1980, two farmers, husband and wife, were dragged from their home, bound, soaked with gasoline, and set on fire by masked men — their neighbors. The husband died immediately; his wife died several days later.

On July 29, 1981, nine men including doctors, engineers, and community leaders, were illegally arrested and executed by firing squad.

In January, 1982, twenty-one men and women were arrested and secretly executed without trials and without notifying their families. Their bodies were found days later.

On June 16 and 18, 1983, six men and ten women, including three teen-age girls, were hanged.

From June 28 until July 1, 1983,

130 people — men, women and children — were held captive in a walled-in open field without food or water. On July 1, they were released, but later that same night they were attacked in their homes by villagers and forced to hide in a nearby forest.

Why were these people tortured and killed? Because they are members of the Baha'i Faith.

In Iran, where these events took place, it is a crime just to be a Baha'i. Although the Iranian government recognizes other religious minorities — Jews, Christians, and Zoroastrians — they are determined to wipe out the entire Baha'i community in Iran, as stated by an Iranian judge on February 22, 1983. All of these people were given the opportunity before their deaths to recant their faith, and all refused.

These are not isolated incidents. Over 150 Baha'is have been killed in Iran in the past four years. More than 20 have been kidnapped and their whereabouts are still unknown. Baha'i holy places and cemeteries have been destroyed. Baha'is have been denied jobs and trade licenses. Their bank accounts and personal property have been confiscated. Baha'i children are forbidden to attend school. The 16 that were hanged on June 16 and 18 were all convicted of the crime of teaching Baha'i children.

Religious persecution is not a thing of the past. It did not end with the ancient Romans or Nazi Germany. It exists now in today's modern world along with computers, the space shuttle, and the most enlightened time in man's history. It exists despite protests from Amnesty International, the United Nations, the British Parliament, and the U.S. Congress. In late May, President Reagan appealed for clemency for the Baha'is in Iran. Yet the killing continues.

Please support the efforts of the Baha'is in this country to end this persecution. The Baha'is are peaceful, loving, and obedient to their government, yet efforts to destroy them increase almost daily. They do not deserve this grave injustice.

Sincerely,
Sherry Czerniejewski

Animal Control Law Needs Teeth

I read in another newspaper that the Seminole Commissioners had been asked to write an animal control law that would be easier to enforce.

If the law is as it was explained to me today, it needs changing. I am nearly blind and I am just recovering from a knee injury. I am 83 and do most of my housework and yardwork.

I do not own a dog because of the added work and expense. If I don't want to clean up after my own dog, plain decent common sense would explain why I want other people to keep their pets out of my yard.

Yet for almost six years (it will be Nov. 1) I have had to clean up after a neighbor's dog or dogs and cats.

I read that one of the commissioners said pet owners might object to stronger laws. Is the property I pay taxes on mine or the pet owners?

Whoever wrote a law saying as long as the animal is in his own yard, he can not be picked up, doesn't care about those of us who voted for strong control in the referendum, several years ago; or they are ignorant concerning dogs.

If a yard is unfenced and the dog is free, he will go to the bathroom in the neighbors yard.

What kind of protection do long-suffering neighbors have? Absolutely none. But we voted for it.

As two have said, American justice stinks!

Thoughts On Finding Happiness Shared

Dear Editor,
I read the following in the book Someone Cares, the collected poems of Helen Steiner Rice. It is a poem entitled "Help Yourself to Happiness" and I would like to share it with your readers:

"Everybody, everywhere seeks happiness, it's true.
But finding it and keeping it seems difficult to do.

Difficult because we think that happiness is found
Only in the places where wealth and fame abound.

And so we go on searching in palaces of pleasure,
Seeking recognition and monetary treasure.

Unaware that happiness is just a state of mind.

Within the reach of everyone who takes time to be kind.

For in making others happy we will be happy, too.

For the happiness you give away returns to shine on you."

Agreement On 'Goat Lady'

I agree with Helen Slessinger of Lake Mary who wrote the Editorial re: the "Goat Lady."

What kind of neighbors would report a woman who keeps odorless piggy goats as pets? They were not allowed free reign.

I do not believe she is strange because she came from a foreign country. Unless we are American Indians, we all came from some foreign country. Aren't there more important issues these people could take a stand on? Do they spay and neuter their pets? Show their animals love and humane treatment? Let those accusers answer these questions truthfully, open their hearts to this woman and show her that we Americans do have a heart of gold.

Only Castro Can Stop Hijackings

By Jane Taylor

MIAMI (UPI) — Fidel Castro is the only person who can stop skyjackings to Cuba. He's done it before, and he could do it again, federal aviation officials believe.

When the Cuban president sent two men back to the United States to stand trial for the Sept. 17, 1980 hijacking of a Delta 727 widebody jet, the hijackings ended immediately.

The hijacking was the 12th that year. There wasn't another for more than a year.

Since May 1, eight American airliners have been forced to Havana by passengers wielding bombs, knives, flare guns, aerosol cans, cigarette lighters, bottles of gasoline or mere pieces of paper. A ninth attempt failed Thursday when two passengers overpowered a knife-waving Cuban exile.

"One successful hijacking seems to beget another. I think we have what is called a copycat syndrome," said Bill Vincent, security chief for the Federal Aviation Administration.

So far this year, no air passengers or crewmembers have been hurt, but authorities are fearful.

There is a risk whenever you have some nut running around with gasoline or a bomb," Vincent said.

The FAA has revived the sky marshal program, revamped its hijacker lookout profiles and hauled in sophisticated baggage X-ray machines.

The air pirates have not been deterred.

The FAA is cranking out public service commercials to spread the word that hijackers who land in Havana will be locked away in cold, dark cells for a long time.

Deterrent

Cuba handed the U.S. State Department on June 15 a list of all the hijackers who had landed in Havana since 1980 and the lengthy sentences they were ordered to serve. U.S. aviation officials hailed it as the deterrent they had been waiting for.

"The biggest deterrent I can think of is to imagine 50 years hard labor on the Isle of Pines that the Cuban authorities say they will be faced with. That's a long, long jail sentence," said Delta spokesman Jim Ewing.

But the day after it was announced Cuba was putting hijackers in jail for 20 years or more, a passenger described as "an all-American guy" threatened to blow up an Air Florida jet unless the pilot headed for Havana.

Two more successful hijackings and Thursday's attempt followed in quick succession.

Members of Miami's Cuban-American community don't believe Castro is actually throwing air pirates into prison or that he even opposes hijackings.

In an editorial last week, Tomas Garcia Fuste, news director of all-Spanish Miami radio station WQBA declared: "The hijackings ordered by Fidel Castro continue."

Even the State Department admits it can't confirm that Castro is telling the truth.

"We'd like to make sure they're actually serving those sentences. We have no proof, but that doesn't mean they're not," said Norman Antocol, a spokesman for the State Department's Office to Combat Terrorism.

Under the Hague anti-hijacking convention of 1971, Cuba agreed to return hijacked airplanes, passengers and crews, and to either extradite hijackers to the country of origin for prosecution or prosecute hijackers themselves.

"It's not that the Cubans have not been doing this, it's just that they haven't given us any information," Antocol said.

Costly

Meanwhile, the airlines continue to lose $20,000 to $25,000 every time one of their planes is diverted to Havana.

"That includes extra crew time, extra fuel, substituting aircraft where necessary, filling in for missing aircraft, putting up passengers who miss connections, and landing fees at the Havanna airport," said Eastern spokesman Tom Myers.

"We also get billed for anything that the Cubans feed our passengers."

Many passengers appeared to be taking the hijackings in stride. Two aboard Thursday's Northwest Tampa-to-Miami flight didn't.

The two passengers attacked the knife-waving air pirate, tore off his shirt wrestled him to the floor, and bound him with a seatbelt and the cord of an oxygen mask.

Although FAA officials said the situation could have endangered other passengers, they hope the incident would deter future hijackers.

The suspect faces a minimum of 20 years in prison if convicted, FBI agent Jim Freeman said.

"I hope this will discourage any would-be hijackers in that they'll know they can get themselves beat up and brought back," said FAA spokesman Jack Barker.

But in the end "the strongest signal Cuba could give to show it has had enough of hijackings is to send them back for prosecution," he said.

Reagan Takes Aim At Central America

By Helen Thomas
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan is making several moves on the Central American front when polls show a wariness of his policies. The drive is to break the back of the Sandinista government in Nicaragua, which he says is being armed by Cuba and the Soviet Union.

Responding to congressional demands, Reagan established a bipartisan commission to look into long-range U.S. policies toward the region. But the views of most of the panel members are considered hard line.

He named former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to head it and Kissinger, who once participated in the destabilization of Chile, leading to the downfall of leftist President Salvador Allende, is already on record with his view.

And Reagan's own representative on the commission is U.N. Ambassador Jeane

Kirkpatrick, one of the most vocal foes of leftist-led rebellions south of the border.

"If we cannot manage Central America, it will be impossible to convince threatened nations in the Persian Gulf and other places that we know how to manage the global equilibrium," Kissinger said in an interview in Public Opinion magazine some time ago.

He also said he would oppose going to war with Nicaragua but would do whatever was needed through covert aid to guerrillas or through a strong presence on the Honduras-Nicaragua border.

Reports indicate those moves already have been made — and more with the United States planning to hold a major U.S.-Honduran military exercise near the Honduras-Nicaragua border next month.

The administration's first goal was to halt the so-called Nicaraguan arms supply line to the insurgents in El Salvador. But now the picture has changed and it appears that Reagan is not willing to settle for less than the downfall of the Sandinista government.

To that end he has initiated economic sanctions and is now building up the military pressure.

Meanwhile, the president is seeking to convince a reluctant Congress that the United States is more interested in economic and political change in Central America than it is in a military solution.

But clearly time is running out and if the United States wants to make the Monroe Doctrine work, keeping the other superpower out of the Western Hemisphere, it must add more of an economic and social wallop to its military assistance. And some members of Congress say that should be in the form of a new massive Marshall Plan for Central America.

Lake Mary Okays Zoning For 860 New Residences

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Zoning has been approved and planning in earnest can now begin on the 860 villas and single family homes to be built by Residential Communities of America on a 223 acre parcel at Rantoul Lane and State Road 46A (Paola Road) in Lake Mary.

Some 410 single apartment units are to be constructed on 86.69 acres of the tract while 450 single family homes are to be built on 136.28 acres.

A plat plan and a site plan for the proposed development dubbed "The Hills at Lake Mary" must be approved by the city commission and the city's planning and zoning commission before construction can begin.

Meanwhile, the city commission also approved zoning to permit construction of an office building on a 1.3 acre parcel at the southeast corner of Fifth Street and Lake Mary Boulevard; approved office commercial zoning for four lots on Rinehart Road; approved commercial zoning for a parcel on the south side of Lake Mary Boulevard, west of the Lake Mary Veterinary Clinic; and adopted a resolution to vacate unopened portions of Sixth Street and several alleyways as requested by city resident Don Smith.

Since Smith owns property on both sides of the areas vacated, that property will become his.

At the same time, the commission unanimously turned down a request from Heidrich Properties, represented by Herb Ross, for a change in zoning from agriculture to single family residential district for a 52 acre parcel off Longwood-Lake Mary Road and across from Lake Mary High School.

Ross said plans are to build 65 homes on the property, estimating costs of the lots in the proposed development at $30,000 each and adding that the homes there would sell in the $120,000 price range. Once the development is completed, he said it would add $8 million in value to the city's property tax roll.

Ross said each of the homes would have its own well and septic system.

He called the proposed subdivision a buffer area between the high school, which he referred to as a commercial use, and other single family homes. He also said a motion at the meeting of the planning and zoning commission to approve the development failed by a 3-2 vote, which he interpreted to mean that the advisory board had no recommendation for the city commission on the proposal.

Commissioner Burt Perin chief questioned Ross's use of the term "buffer zone" to describe the proposed development, saying the additional traffic on Longwood-Lake Mary Road generated by the subdivision would negate any positive roll it might play as a buffer.

Perin chief said he is also concerned about the detrimental effect drainage from the development might have on Soldier's Creek, a major water recharge area in the county bordering the property.

Perin chief said he wasn't at all confused about what the planning and zoning commission was telling the city commission by its vote.

Commissioner Charles Lytle, referring to the property as environmentally sensitive, noted he walked the entire tract and much of the soil there is hard pan which does not allow moisture to percolate through.

Commissioner Russ Megonegal objected to Ross's referring to the high school as commercial property. He added that from his own observation the water table can't be more than two feet below the surface of the property proposed for development.

The candidate qualifying period closes at noon July 28, according to Connie Major, city clerk and acting city manager.

Unless more candidates step forward, and none has indicated an interest so far, Terry, Keogh and Perin chief will be elected unopposed.

The Lake Mary commission at its special meeting Thursday night is scheduled to decide whether to include on the city election ballot a binding referendum or a straw vote on whether property owners in the municipality should pay $1.50 per $1,000 assessed value in a special property tax for road improvement purposes.

If the commission decides that the referendum will be binding, they must adopt an ordinance on the matter and the tax would take effect in the 1984-85 fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, 1984.

The Sept. 6 election will come too late for the tax to be levied during the 1983-84 fiscal year.

Lake Mary currently has 1,582 registered voters qualified to cast ballots in the September election. The deadline for registering to vote is Aug. 5.

Persons wishing to register may do so at the city halls in Lake Mary, Oviedo, Casselberry, Winter Springs, Altamonte Springs or Longwood or at the supervisor of elections courthouse office or her Interstate Mall office.

Meanwhile, in the city of Oviedo which also has an election on Sept. 6, six candidates have qualified to seek the mayor's office and two council seats.

Incumbent council members Janice Fensch and Pamela Pellarin are not seeking re-election.

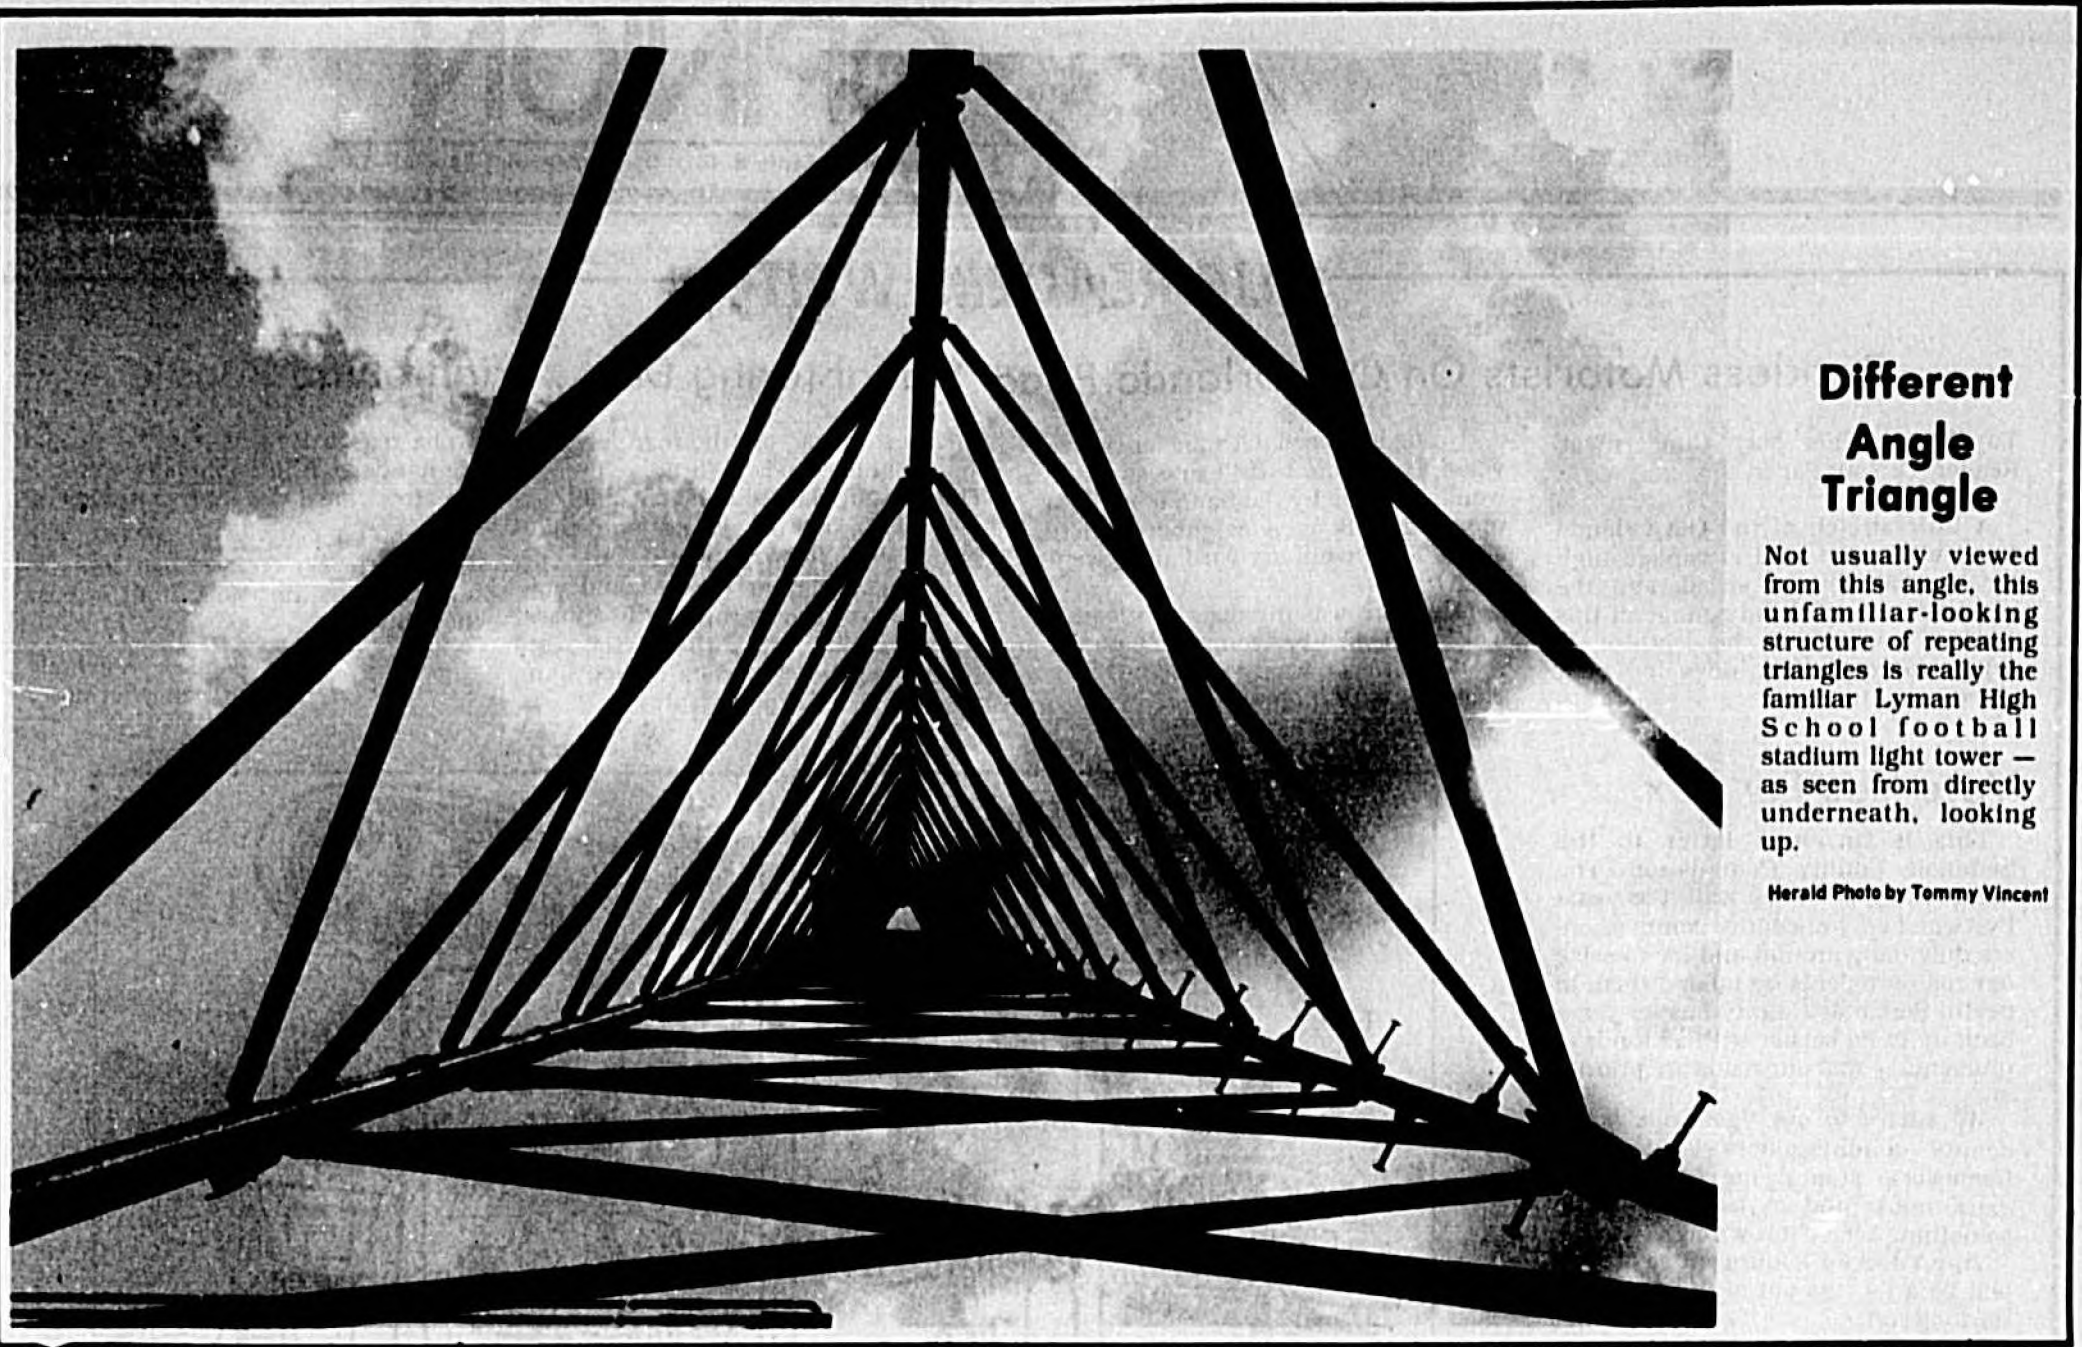

Robert "Bob" Whittier completing his first two-year term as mayor is being challenged by former councilman Steven West.

Qualifying for the two council seats are: E.P. Bruce and David B. Rhodes, for the group 1 seat held by Mrs. Pellarin; and James Brody and W.A. Ward Jr. for the group 2 seat held by Mrs. Fensch.

The city has 1,348 registered voters qualified to cast ballots in the city election.

Voter registration books in Oviedo will close on Aug. 5.

Seminole Official Out of DeLand Job Race

Seminole County's central services director has withdrawn his name from consideration for DeLand city manager.

David Hotary, a DeLand resident, has confirmed he is no longer a candidate for the position.

Hotary was one of three DeLand residents who were scheduled to have 45-minute interviews with city commissioners Wednesday night. But he elected not to go to the interview, city officials said.

Hotary had no comment on his decision.

The city manager of North Miami Beach was offered the job last week but elected to stay in his present position. Melbourne's assistant city manager also withdrew from consideration this week.

DeLand city commissioners are seeking a replacement for Phil Penland who was named city manager of Altamonte Springs.

Hotary has worked for Seminole County for the past seven years.

Chemotherapy Linked To Tooth Decay

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Sunday, July 24, 1983-7A

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Cancer patients undergoing chemotherapy have increased risk of tooth decay and other dental problems, say researchers at the state University at Buffalo.

Dr. Mira Edgerton, assistant clinical professor of removable prosthodontics at the university, said the study was believed to be the first linking cavities to chemotherapy.

The researchers recommended chemotherapy patients visit their dentists before and after treatment to cut down the dental effects of the cancer-killing drugs.

"Spicy foods, alcohol and alcohol-based mouth rinses and foods high in acid should be avoided to prevent irritating the already inflamed membranes of the mouth," Edgerton said.

The research team studied 83 cancer patients at Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo who had undergone chemotherapy for at least six months.

Edgerton said 70 percent of the patients had seven or fewer "white spot" lesions indicating oral decay. The study found 11 percent had more than seven lesions and 19 percent had more than seven which were not necessarily new lesions.

Additionally, the study showed 19 percent of the patients reported dryness of the mouth, and 10 percent showed an inflammation of the mucous membrane associated with cancer patients who undergo radiation therapy.

Edgerton said eight percent of the patients reported cold sores on the lips or mouth.

Edgerton, noting many chemotherapy patients suck on hard candy to relieve extreme dryness of the mouth, urged patients to use sugar-free candy or mints because sugar increases the chances of developing cavities.

The research team said chemotherapy patients should also pay special attention to daily brushing and flossing of teeth.

Swiss Account For Working Stiffs

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A California entrepreneur went on vacation to Zurich and came back with the idea of selling numbered Swiss bank accounts — previously the province of the super rich — to anyone with a mere $25.

What Mark Knass offers is a 4 franc ($2) account — he keeps $23 to open the account with E. Gurtzwiller & Cie. Banquiers of Basel.

"It's an account you can use for all the things Swiss banks do," said Knass, 26, an importer who has made a bundle in flashy cars and video games. "If it was not real it wouldn't sell. The novelty is in ownership."

Aside from its panache, the chief advantage of a numbered Swiss bank account is that its contents are generally unavailable to the U.S. Internal Revenue Service, although recently that provision has been relaxed so the government can seek people who are hiding money illegally.

The account Knass offers, much like a checking account, does not generate interest although other Swiss bank accounts do.

The simple, bucolic days of dairy farming are gone. Today, high technology has invaded the business and computers rule the barn.

Dairy Farm Enters Computer Age

SCOTSDALE, Pa. (UPI) — Things aren't quite the same these days down on the farm, where the Holsteins have gone high-tech and the term "cow chips" has a new computer-age meaning.

On Larry and Susan Ansell's dairy farm 30 miles southwest of Pittsburgh, and on other spreads around the country, a computer system keeps tabs on how much feed cows eat, with an eye toward improving milk production.

"It feeds the grain to the cows efficiently. We still have to give the cows hay and silage," said Mrs. Ansell, 29. "It hasn't saved any time. But it makes us better managers."

The Ansell, who own a 100-acre farm and an 80-cow milking herd, installed their $17,000 "Herd Master Management System" two months ago after Ansell saw a similar set-up at a farm show.

Each cow wears a collar containing a transponder with a computer chip. When an animal leans its head into a grain bin, the computer, programmed to know how much each cow should eat, picks up its transponder number and regulates its grain feed.

The cows can eat all day, but never more than the programmed amount.

Mrs. Ansell said the system is better than the old one, in which the farmer fed his cows by pulling a lever to release the feed grain.

"Now they have a chance to eat the grain they wouldn't have before," she said. "If the cow's had her limit, it cuts her off."

In his small office on the second floor of the barn, a small terminal gives Ansell a continuous update on how each cow is eating.

Besides regulating feed, the system gives the Ansell an "alarm list," showing cows whose appetites have diminished. That data could be important.

"They could be sick. They could just plain be uncomfortable because of the heat. They could be in labor or they could be in heat," said Mrs. Ansell. "If they've been on the list for several days at a clip, you want to check to see what's wrong."

The Ansell also soon hope to have a "cow calendar" — a computer program that will remind them of special care needed by certain animals.

Ansell, 38, said it is far too early to determine the success of the computerized cattle system, but some effects are clear.

"I have noticed since we put in the system that my cows that are (beginning their lactation period) ... are milking quite a bit better than ever before," said Ansell, whose family farm dates back to 1920.

Richard S. Adams, professor of dairy extension at Pennsylvania State University, said farm use of various types of computer-based feed regulating systems has grown in recent years.

"My guess would be that something like two-thirds to 80 percent of dairymen will be using one type of system in the next four to five years," he said.

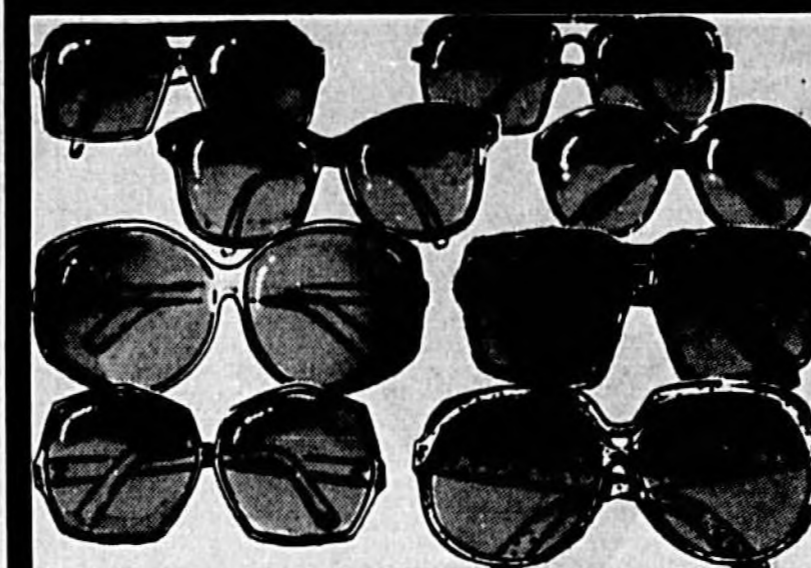

There are, of course, some aspects of farm life that the computer age hasn't changed for the Ansell — the hours are still long and the work still hard.

But the couple, who said they are being closely watched by neighbors to see "whether we bomb or make it," figure you can't stop progress.

"It's changed so much in the last 10 years. It's not even comparable to the way things were when his father had the farm," Mrs. Ansell said.

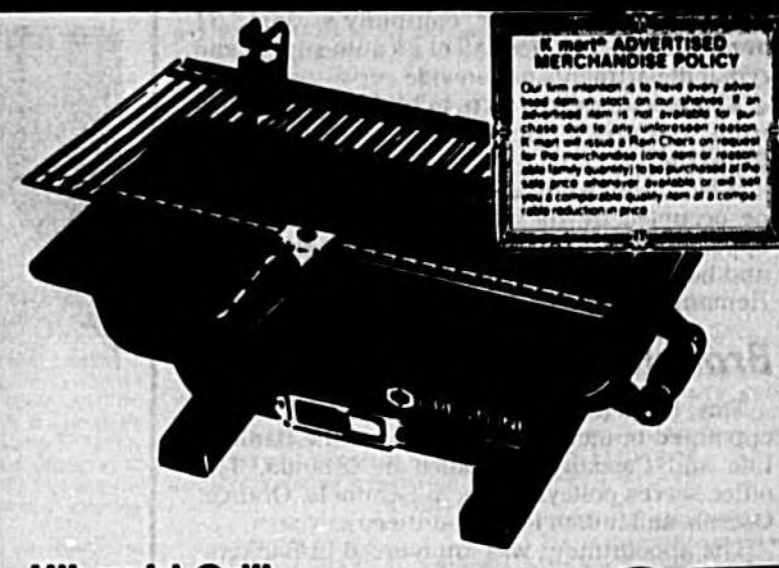

"If his grandfather came back and saw this farm, he'd roll over in his grave. Computers are to us what tractors were to his father's age."

BUSINESS IN BRIEF

Penney To Remodel Sanford Plaza Store

Remodeling work on the area formerly occupied by the Automotive Center at the J.C. Penney Co. Sanford Plaza store is scheduled to begin August 1, according to Store Manager Edward R. Hemann.

He said that approval has been received and funding allocated for the project.

The Automotive Center closed here March 26 as the result of the company's Jan. 31 announcement to close all of its auto supply and repair departments nationwide.

Those centers that were in buildings detached from the main store were taken over by Firestone.

When remodeling is completed the space will be occupied by the sporting goods and sports apparel department and will enable the men's and boys' and women's departments to expand, Hemann said.

Branch Manager Named

Tim Kippenberger of Fern Park has been appointed branch sales manager of the Bankers Life and Casualty Co. office in Orlando. The office serves policyholders in Seminole, Orange, Osceola and Indian River counties.

The appointment was announced in Bankers' home office in Chicago by Vice President and Agency Secretary Edward Dalley. He said Kippenberger's appointment is effective immediately.

The Seminole County resident has been part of Bankers' field management team for five years. Previously, he was branch sales manager in Fayetteville, N.C. Before that, he was assistant branch sales manager in Charleston, S.C. He joined Bankers in 1977 as an agent in Savannah, Ga.

New Marine Business

Kemp Howland of Longwood, formerly director of marketing for Sailboat Works Inc. of DeBary, has announced he will open a full service marine retail outlet in Sanford.

The dealership, Kemp Howland's Boatworks, will be at 4274 S. Orlando Dr. Boat lines will include Victoria, San Juan, Bermuda 8 Meter and a new 17-footer to be introduced late this summer.

In addition, the store will carry a complete line of sailboat hardware, sailing gear and clothing, board-sailers and a line of high performance surf boards. Future plans include outboard and marine engine sales and service, glass repair service and charter brokerage.

"Our goal is to provide the central Florida sailor with a one-stop location to satisfy all of his or her boating needs," said Howland. "With a quarter of a million dollars worth of trailerable boats in stock, we should be able to take care of just about everyone."

Vice President Appointed

United Home Services of Florida, Inc., of Sanford, has announced the appointment of Fredric F. Gruber as Executive Vice President and Chief Operating Officer.

Mr. Gruber was formerly Vice President, Treasurer and Chief Financial Officer of Associated Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Inc., a large public-owned soft drink company based in Daytona Beach, Florida, until it was purchased by The Coca-Cola Company last year in a $418 million transaction.

United Home Services is franchisee in the state of Florida for The Rich Plan, America's oldest food service company.

Doing business as "The Rich Plan of Florida" since 1946, the company provides a full line of custom-ordered quality frozen foods and home appliances.

Company headquarters and a food processing plant are located in Sanford, with regional sales offices in Jacksonville, Miami, Orlando and Tampa.

Magnetic Media Seminar

The Internal Revenue Service has announced that a free magnetic media seminar will be held in Orlando July 26, 1983, at the Federal Building, 80 North Hughey Avenue, beginning at 10:00 a.m. in Room 419.

The IRS would like to introduce businesses to magnetic tape reporting of Forms W-2, 1009 and 1087. Companies currently filling magnetic tape find this method of fulfilling their reporting obligations to be less expensive and more efficient than preparing and sending paper documents. In addition, magnetic tape is easier to handle, transport and store.

Persons who wish details on making the switch from paper to magnetic tape reporting or information on attending the seminar may contact the Taxpayer Education Office at (904) 791-2514.

Small Business Workshops

A series of four workshops for those in or considering going into small business will be held in Sanford. Sessions will be held each Tuesday evening September 6, 13, 20, and 27, from 7 to 10 p.m., with registration starting at 6:30 p.m. at the Florida Power & Light "Sunshine Room," 301 N. Myrtle Avenue, Sanford.

Topics will include tax planning for small business, marketing/advertising techniques, managing for profitability and fundamentals of accounting and finance. An alternate topic: computers for the small business.

The workshops are sponsored by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and the Central Florida Small Business Development Center. For further information call the Sanford Chamber of Commerce office at 322-2212.

A 24-hour hotline with all the latest information on the film industry in Florida on a tape recording has been installed by the Florida Department of Commerce Motion Picture and Television Bureau, Lt. Governor Wayne Mixson announced.

Mixson, who also serves as Secretary of Commerce, said the hotline is a cooperative project between the Department of Commerce and the Florida Motion Picture and Television Association (FMPTA), which donated the telephone answering equipment.

The hotline number is (904) 487-1660. The line is toll-free.

"The installation of this system is an outstanding example of how the public and private sectors can work together to promote Florida's motion picture and television industry," Mixson said. "The hotline will help us to get the word out that Florida is one of the leading film production centers in the nation."

Information on the tape recording includes a listing of all current new and anticipated film projects, shooting locations and other production data, and the names and addresses, phone numbers of contact persons. The material will be updated on Mondays and Wednesdays at 5 p.m.

Mixson said production activity in Florida was particularly heavy during the first six months of 1983. He said 14 major film projects with combined budgets of $34.2 million and 357 TV commercials, were shot between January 1 and June 30 of this year.

In 1982, 32 major film projects with combined budgets of $78.2 million and 706 commercials, with combined budgets totaling $63.8 million were made in Florida. The $142 million spent on film production last year was a record.

Some of the major film projects in the first half of 1983 were "Where The Boys Are Now," "Scarface," "Harry and Son," "Go For It," "Easy Money," "The St. Augustine Story," "Goodbye Miami," "A Flash of Green," "Jean Shepherd's America," and a Disney science series.

Preservation Presentation

Under the fixed gaze of Sanford's founding father, Henry S. Sanford, at the General Sanford Memorial Museum and Library, Cardinal Industries Community Relations Director Julian Stenstrom presents a check for $500 to museum curator Mildred Caskey. The check is a contribution to the recently formed General Henry S. Sanford Library-Museum Historical Preservation Society. Contributions to the society will be placed in a fund for future expansion of the museum facilities, Mrs. Caskey said.

Foreign-Owned Manufacturing Provides 29,000 Florida Jobs

TALLAHASSEE — Foreign-owned manufacturing operations in Florida employ nearly 29,000 persons and provide more than $500 million in salaries to Florida citizens, Lt. Governor Wayne Mixson has said.

Mixson, who also serves as Secretary of Commerce, noted that based on U.S. Department of Commerce input/output multipliers for the various industries represented, the foreign firms have generated more than $1 billion in total wages for the State of Florida.

A list of Florida subsidiaries of foreign manufacturers recently compiled by the Florida Department of Commerce's Bureau of International Trade and Investment, shows 19 foreign companies have 203 Florida facilities employing $28.948 persons in 34 of the state's 67 counties.

"Florida is recognized internationally as well as nationally for its excellent business climate," Mixson said. "Twenty-three of the 75 largest foreign corporations with manufacturing facilities in the United States have plants in Florida."

European companies dominate foreign investment in manufacturing operating in Florida. There are 111 European companies with 145 Florida operations employing 22,448. Countries with the highest number of Florida operations were the United Kingdom (46), Germany (42), and Canada (36).

The Florida operations listed in the compilation are majority-owned by foreign firms except Key Pharmaceuticals, Inc. of Miami, 10 percent owned by Mitsubishi, and W.R. Grace with operations in Tampa, Bartow, Boca Raton, Ft. Pierce, Jacksonville and Pompano Beach, about 43 percent owned by Friedrich Flick KG.

The compilation was done with the cooperation of several World Trade Councils and organizations, industrial development groups, and Chambers of Commerce.

Non-manufacturing employers were not included on the list — including foreign foreign-owned office buildings, industrial land holdings, residential development, private housing, banks, cruise lines, sales offices, retail operations or restaurants.

'Top Execs Live Longer'

Top business executives have longer and healthier lives, according to a management psychologist at the University of Western Ontario.

"Job satisfaction is the best predictor of longevity," Dr. John Howard told the Health Insurance Association of America, and noted that persons in management positions experience less stress and more satisfaction as they progress through the corporate ranks. Indeed, they live an average of five years longer than their subordinates, he said.

Why do top executives experience less stress? Dr. Howard believes a key factor is having the "power" to delegate responsibility. "Power is a very therapeutic thing when it comes to dealing with stress in your life," he says.

In addition, he notes, those who are promoted to positions of authority may be better able to cope with stress.

Dr. Howard believes that small companies often induce the most stress. "At a smaller company, there's less slack and more accountability — everyone knows who's responsible for certain tasks."

Stress-related factors include relocations, travel and the amount of time on the job. Stress is highest in the first year, Dr. Howard says, due to the education and adjustment period taking place.

Warning Signs

Symptoms of stress include insomnia, fatigue, irritability, ulcers, heart palpitations and allergies.

How can one reduce stress? Dr. Howard offers these suggestions:

- Make the most of "social support" — family, friends, employers.
- Take time to relax and know that idle time is not wasted time. "Some of the best thinking and creativity takes place when a person is idle," Dr. Howard says.
- Exercise and get the proper nutrition.
- Be aware of stressful situations and know when you are under stress — don't let yourself be overdisciplined.

American Ingenuity For Japan

Americans have exported their national sport — baseball — to Japan. And they have also exported the American hamburger to the island nation. But few would believe electronic components are travelling west-to-east these days. They are. Eight of the nine major Japanese manufacturers of remote copying or facsimile machines buy their electronic modem components from an American company.

What's a modem? It's an electronic device that allows computers to "talk" to each other over telephone lines — a means of sending digital information from where it is to where the computer operator wants it to be.

Klan Marches To Oppose Black Boycott Set Off By Double Police Slaying

By Leon Daniel
UPI National Reporter
EUFULA, Ala. (UPI) — For the first time in more than a century, white-robed Klansmen are marching past anti-bellum houses in this beautiful, prospering town on the banks of the Chattahoochee.

To understand why, it is necessary to go back to the Saturday night before last Easter when a black man named Hamp Russaw was driving south on Highway 431 past the Ole Suthun Barbecue House.

Wayne Cutchens, a white police officer, suspected Russaw, 33, had had a snoutful because his car was weaving. The Eufaula policeman pursued and stopped Russaw, then radioed for another officer to drive the suspect to the station for an intoxication test.

When Russaw fled at a high rate of speed, Cutchens radioed for help and again pursued him, finally stopping his car in the next county. Cutchens removed the ignition keys from Russaw's car.

Meantime, according to the police report, Russaw's brother Anthony, 19, and a black female arrived at the scene and jumped Cutchens, whose gun was taken by the older brother.

Police say shots were fired at Capt. Ted Dotson when the white officer arrived at the scene after being summoned by radio. Dotson fired back, killing the Russaw brothers.

A grand jury has cleared the two white officers of any wrongdoing in the deaths of the two blacks.

Outraged blacks demanding a federal investigation have boycotted local stores, enraging the Ku Klux Klan, which is marching in support of "the white people."

Many of the 12,000 or so residents of the town are worried that racial confrontation will damage the image of Eufaula, which has been highly successful in landing new industry and expanding payrolls during a time of national recession.

Development
The Chattahoochee was backed up 20 years ago behind a huge dam to form Lake Eufaula. "The Big Bass Capital of the World."

The impoundment of the river made famous by poet Sidney Lanier was the stimulus for a new era of industrial and tourist development in a onetime Indian settlement that came to be known for the beautiful homes built by planters and merchants before the Civil War.

Eufaula, 90 miles southeast of Montgomery, the state capital, is the seat of Barbour County, which gave Alabama six governors. They include the current one, George Corley Wallace, and his late wife, Lurleen Burns Wallace. She was elected when the state constitution barred Wallace — who in the 1960s came to symbolize resistance to racial integration — from succeeding himself.

On a recent Saturday the temperature climbed relentlessly toward the century mark as Klansmen pulled into the lot beside the Eufaula City Hall, parking their cars and pickup trucks and donning their white robes.

Only a block away, on the porch of the parsonage of the First African Baptist Church, the Rev. R.B. Cottonreader said the Klan protests actually had helped the boycott to succeed by focusing attention on it.

Cottonreader, a staff member of the Atlanta-based Southern Christian Leadership Conference founded by the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., said the boycott was justified.

"You don't shoot a man for a traffic violation. If the victims had been white, the policemen would have been dealt with. All we're asking for is justice. It's the Klan that has pushed for confrontation."

Controversy Splits An Ante-Bellum Town, Threatening Its Relative Prosperity

Cottonreader said the boycott will succeed because "the black community knows two black people were killed in cold blood."

Golden Frinks, another boycott leader and a veteran of civil rights actions throughout the United States, charged that state investigators were interested only in "whitewashing" the Eufaula officers.

Frinks said local merchants at first underestimated the boycott, which he said has been "very effective."

"They found out the black community is organized," said Frinks, who added that blacks comprise about 35 percent of the town's population.

"We hold mass meetings and tell our people to stay out of the stores owned by the whites. We tell them to wear old clothes with new dignity."

Meantime, just around the corner, Klansmen were donning their robes and unloading rebel flags and signs that urged, "Join the Klan, save the land."

Ed Stephens, a construction worker who drove to Eufaula from Jonesboro, Ga., said he was the Georgia Grand Dragon of the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

"We're worldwide," Stephens said. "We're the biggest Klan in the world."

Some Klan watchers dispute Stephens' claim, contending the Louisiana-based Invisible Knights headed by Imperial Wizard Bill Wilkinson are no big deal.

Randall Williams, director of Klanwatch, an arm of the Southern Poverty Law Center based in Montgomery, said the Klan in Alabama is a hodgepodge of splinter groups and rival factions.

Estimates put Klan membership at about 9,000 nationwide, with about 1,000-2,000 in Alabama.

Membership may be declining, Williams recently told the Montgomery Advertiser, "but the attitude of the people who are still in is as militant as ever."

"We're not violent," Stephens said. "We're just out to inform the public about what's going on. We're against forced busing and affirmative action. I hope to start a campaign against homosexuals. The Democratic Party supports the queers. We're behind the administration because President Reagan is cleaning up some of the garbage in Washington. We're in Eufaula to support the white people."

Joe Buchanan, a truck driver from Jonesboro, Ga., said he is a "kleagle," which he said is a Klan organizer.

"We don't wear masks," Buchanan said. "We don't hide. We're not out for violence. A lot of our members are church-going people. We just want the right to stand up and say what we believe in."

Before stepping off at the head of a column of about two dozen robed Klansmen and an equal number of supporters, including some women and children, Grand Dragon Stephens said, "We've been well treated by this town — the police and the merchants too. Some people have told us they wish we had come in earlier."

Patricia McBride stood with a group of black children, including one of her own, as the Klansmen marched past.

Bitter

"Our kids call them the clowns," Mrs. McBride scoffed. "I brought them to town because they said they wanted to see the clowns. This is 1983. We're not afraid of the Klan."

Mrs. McBride is bitter, however, because she believes most whites in town openly or secretly support the Klan.

Robert Beasley, assistant manager at Skinner's Furniture Store, watched the Klansmen march by and said, "I think it's a fine organization. We need more people like them."

Beasley acknowledged the boycott had hurt business "a little" but said the grand jury was right to clear the policemen.

"If you can't back your law enforcement officers you're in trouble," Beasley said.

Back at City Hall after the march, the grand dragon told a small crowd — including a black policeman in uniform who appeared bemused — "We're behind the police 100 percent."

Stephens attacked Coca Cola and Kentucky Fried Chicken, companies he said had given in to demands of black civil rights leaders such as Jesse Jackson.

"If white people don't wake up, Jesse Jackson could be the next president," said Stephens, whose parting shot was the assertion that "the poorest whites are superior to the richest and most advanced blacks by 10 to 15 I.Q. points."

Meantime, Cottonreader and Frinks were leading a dozen or so youths in picketing at a shopping mall at the edge of town.

One of their signs demanded, "Stop the killing."

There are, of course, blacks in Eufaula who do not support the boycott and whites who oppose the Klan. Generally, they are the ones who, after expressing their opinions, add "but don't quote me."

Snappy Inmate Freed On Own Recognizance

HONDO, Texas (UPI) — He was low-down and a big mouth, but authorities at the Medina County jail in south Texas let him go anyway.

Wally Gator, a 5 1/2-foot long alligator booked on a charge of criminal trespass of a habitation, was released Friday after spending a day in the jail detoxification cell.

"They just took him out and let him go where they could keep an eye on him and make sure he makes it," said a sheriff's department spokesman. A Hondo family found the reptile late Thursday and things got out of hand after the alligator began whipping his tail to protest a stick being placed in his mouth.

Authorities said no other inmates were in the drunk tank with the alligator during his brief imprisonment.

"I guarantee you, if they had been, they'd have sobered up in a hurry," one deputy said.

Determine Time Of Tide For Best Shrimping Results

The shrimp have started a strong run again in the Oak Hill area. Sport shrimpers have been dipping about three gallons a night for the past three days, according to a report from the Lopez Fish Camp at Oak Hill.

This mid-summer shrimp run is not unusual although the season does reach a peak about the full moon in March or April. Oldtimers will tell you that a few years back, the shrimp run was a monthly affair all year long, but the past several years the runs have been very unpredictable after May.

These warm summer nights when the moon is near full provides an ideal combination for a good outing on the water — so long as a good breeze keeps the mosquitoes away.

Many people get confused about just when the tide changes at their favorite spot on the inland waterway, and most newspapers only print tide changes for selected areas on the ocean. At any point on the inland waterway, tide changes will occur later than on the ocean since time is required for the water to travel inland from the ocean.

At Oak Hill, for example, the tides are almost exactly opposite the tides shown for the ocean at Daytona Beach. That is, when the tide is low at Daytona Beach, it is high tide at Oak Hill, and vice versa. That is because the tides change about every six hours, and about that length of time is required for the water to run from the inlet all the long way to Oak Hill. This time becomes correspondingly longer or shorter as you move further away or closer to the ocean.

Although these time differences are sometimes printed in the paper for certain locations, you don't really need a chart. Simply observe, or ask the fish camp operator for the tide difference for a particular area. Thereafter, simply add this figure to the published tide data.

It is easy enough to know when high tide or low tide occurs on the ocean without reference to tide tables. Simply observe the moon. Since tides are primarily caused by the gravitational pull of the moon, high tides on the ocean occur shortly after moonrise or moon set because it is at these two times that the moon exerts the maximum gravitational force parallel to the surface of the water. When the moon is directly overhead, or over the opposite side of the earth from you, the gravitational pull is straight up, or down, and there is no tendency for the water to be pulled horizontally. This is low tide on the ocean. Since the tides at Oak Hill are nearly opposite the tides at Daytona Beach, you can expect the inland water level to be maximum when the moon is directly overhead. Florida Brown (or Red) Shrimp migrate on the outgoing night tide in the inland waterways, so when the moon is directly overhead — start dipping!

Of course all this hot dope is true only for a no-wind condition. Local winds will drastically change the water level at the beach, which also results in a corresponding change throughout the waterways. A strong east wind, for example, can pile up the water at the mouth of the waterway and cause unusually long-running tides. However, after a little experience at a particular location, you should be able to judge the tides very accurately by knowing the position of the moon.

The salt water fishing on the inland waterways has been outstanding all this year. I spoke to one family of four that caught 36 nice big speckled trout Thursday morning. The trout are all over the flats and in the edges of the deeper water, so that it is easy to drift for them, or anchor at a favorite spot on the channel.

The best live bait to use right now is pig fish, but the die-hard sport may want to use artificial bait. I love to drift the flats, casting ahead of the boat with a top water lure that will futz up the water — such as the Dalton Special. It is really a treat to see a speckled trout hit a surface lure. It seems like they jump up and down on the plug and stomp it with all four feet!

Besides the flats, and certain areas along the channel, the Haulover Canal has been producing some big speckled trout. Drum are being caught in the deeper water up and down the channel. Ask the fish camp operator when you launch your boat, or rent one, where the best fishing is located. Most are very cooperative about putting you on the hot spots.

Fresh water fishing in the local area has continued fair to good. Most bass are being caught very early in the morning or very late in the afternoon. This scorching weather seems to keep all the fish down during the middle of the day. Most bass are being caught on artificial worms, although a few are still going for top water baits such as the Rapalla or Devil Horse. According to Dell Abernethy, of the Osteen Bridge Fish Camp, the old river bed between Lake Monroe and the Osteen Bridge, and the Brickyard Slough area are producing fair numbers of good bass. School bass fishing is still spotty, and is mostly an early morning thing when you do find them.

Speckled perch fishing has been slow, but some are being caught in the deeper holes in the river and in Lake Monroe. Fishing deep is also producing nice catfish on the river. Shellcrackers are being caught at many places along the river, with the river banks near the Osteen Bridge being a favorite spot.

Good Fishing! And bring home all the cans and bottles and paper and plastic that you left with. The river looks nicer without floating debris.

Nationals Have Shot At Crown

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Sanford Nationals manager Sylvester "Slick" Franklin, Jr. said he had one thing in mind going into the Florida Little League State Tournament starting this Monday in West Palm Beach, and that one thing is, "To bring the state championship back to Sanford."

Well, don't be surprised if "Slick" and the Nationals to come home with the state title. The Nationals are a talented team that has four players with previous state tournament experience and that will be an added advantage for Sanford.

The Nationals also have one of the best pitching staffs around with three capable starters in Willie "Sugar Tex" McCloud, Mike Merthle and Tim Graham. Jeff Blake is one of the finer 12-year-old catchers in the state. Most teams usually bank on two good starters, but with the possibility of playing three games in two days, it's good to have a third starter.

The Nationals also came up with a good draw in the tournament this year. Last year, in Tallahassee, Sanford faced Key West in the opening round. Key West pulled out a 2-0 win over the Nationals and went on to win the state title.

On Monday, at 11 a.m., the Nationals go up against St. Petersburg Fossil Park in the opening round of the state tournament. The toughest team in Sanford's bracket is perhaps the host team, Okhecelec (West Palm Beach). Sanford would not have to play Key West until the finals, unless the two teams meet in the loser's bracket.

So, things look pretty good for the Sanford Nationals and they have the talent to go all the way to the state championship.

The Eustis Little League complex has three fields, one for the Major League, one for the Junior and Senior Leagues and one for the Big League. And, since those fields were designed specifically for those leagues, don't you think they should play on the right field?

In the last two weeks, some of the goings on in Eustis have been quite bizarre. In the District 14, Division II Senior League tournament, host Eustis played its first two games on the Senior League field which has considerably shorter fences than the Big League field. Eustis lost its second game on the Senior League field to Altamonte when Mike Pinckes clubbed a seventh-inning home run to clinch the win. On the next night, Oviedo's Terry Gammons ripped a homer to center field as Oviedo advanced to the loser's bracket final against Eustis.

The Eustis-Oviedo game, however, was moved to the Big League field and Eustis won the game after Oviedo hit numerous shots that would have been homers on the Senior League field, but were only long outs on the bigger field. Again, in the first game of the tournament finals between Eustis and Altamonte, last Monday, the game was played on the Big League field. Eustis won, 1-0, after Altamonte hit a few ropes that would have been out of the Senior League field.

But, after two straight games of having it "their way" somebody finally stepped in and put a stop to it. That somebody was Don Crawford, District 14 administrator. "The first I heard of it was the other day (Tuesday)," said Crawford Thursday. "A guy called me and told me what was going on."

Crawford said his assistant, Bill Monn, authorized the use of the larger field. Even after Crawford told him the smaller field should be used. "He went over my suggestion for the smaller field," said Crawford. "What are you going to do? As soon as I found out what was happening, I corrected the matter."

Monn said he was upset that somebody would think he would do anything to favor Eustis. It's no secret, though, that Eustis must be tired of Altamonte and District MVP Jeff Blake, Sanford catcher, powers a homer against Ormond Beach.

Oviedo teams coming into the tournament and beating out Eustis' brains every year, according to one official who preferred to remain anonymous.

Monn said "It would be safer for the Seniors to play on the larger field." The smaller field has recently been re-sodded for next month's Little League Junior Regional Tournament. "Duda and Son piled some sod on the field the other day, and it hadn't been top-dusted yet," said Monn on Thursday. "That's why we switched fields on Friday and Saturday."

What about Monday, when two games were scheduled and Monn put the Big League (16-18 year olds) on the Senior League field while the Senior League (14-15) played on the Big League field?

"Well...." said Monn. Crawford, meanwhile, who does a good job of running these Little League Tournaments every year, made sure it stayed corrected Tuesday. "I was watching the Junior League at DeLand and I called the Eustis field at 8 p.m. to make sure they were using the smaller field," said Crawford.

In Tuesday night's game, Altamonte's Kevin Bass ripped a homer in the sixth inning to lead Altamonte to a 4-1 win. Bass' shot was a line drive to straight away center. On the Big League field, it is 420 feet to straight away center and Bass' homer wouldn't have gone that far. So, Eustis had the tables turned on it, so to speak.

The Eustis team has lost four of its last five on the Senior League field, counting the All-Star and Top Team tournaments.

So, it was both the agony and irony of defeat for Eustis.

Turning to Major League baseball, let's take a look back to my preseason predictions for the division winners and how they are doing now. I'm not going to jump the gun and hand out some "I told you so's," to the people who said I was crazy for the picks I made, not yet anyway.

In the National League West, my preseason choice — the Atlanta Braves. The Braves are in first place in the Western division with a 3½ game lead over Sports Editor Sam Cook's Los Angeles Dodgers, after Thursday's games.

In the National League East, what a surprise. This is where most critics said I had my head screwed on wrong. I have the number of a decent analyst for you critics. My preseason choice, and you can look it up — the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Bucs hold a slim half game lead over the Philadelphia Phillies and a one game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals and Cook's Montreal Expos.

In the American League West, my preseason choice — the Chicago White Sox. The Sox are tied (after Thursday's games) with the Texas Rangers for the AL West lead while Cook's California Angels are one game back.

The American League East is the only division where my preseason choice is not either in first place or tied for first place. My choice and Cook's — the New York Yankees. The Yankees are 1½ games behind the Toronto Blue Jays and Baltimore Orioles. But, the Bronx Bombers haven't even gotten hot yet, and when they do, they are going to blow the cover off the AL East.

Defense Leaks, Hardee's Loses

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

TAMPA — Seminole Hardee's manager Ed Suggs' would have bet the ranch on his team's defense. He considered it one of the strengths of his 9-and-10-year-old team as it entered the Seminole Pony Baseball Mustang World Series here Friday.

Two hours later, however, Suggs' was shaking his head in disbelief. Three costly errors paved the way for Town & Country to knock off Hardee's, 4-2, in the opening round Friday at Town & Country. Hialeah hammered North Tampa, 19-1, in the other game.

On Saturday, Hardee's played North Tampa at 10 a.m. while Hialeah took on Town & Country at 1 p.m. The first game winner and the second game loser play Sunday at 1 p.m., with the winner needing two wins over the winner's bracket team for the title.

"I never would have believed it," said Suggs after the game. "Our infield is usually real strong. We also had two or three mental errors which cost us runs."

Hardee's jumped to a quick 2-0 lead in the top of the first. Catcher Jeff Livernois reached on an error by the second baseman, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch after Lane Barrow grounded out.

Sanford's Ricky Eckstein then dropped a perfect squeeze bunt in front of the mound to score Livernois for a 1-0 lead. Robbie Koehn then followed with a single, moved to second on a passed ball, stole third and scored when the catcher's throw went into left field.

Those two runs, however, would be the extent of the Hardee's offense. Hardee's threatened in the third when Livernois socked a double over the center fielder's head, but was stranded at third. Pat Newell reached when the catcher dropped a third strike in the fourth, stole second and third, but was also stranded.

Kent Anderson singled off starter and loser Eckstein to open the game and husky Jason Raeckers ripped a triple to left center to score him. Eckstein knocked down the next two hitters on 1-3 putouts, but on the second one, Raeckers broke for the plate and scored when the first baseman threw wildly over Livernois' head for a 2-2 deadlock.

Town & Country pushed across the winning runs in the third on back-to-back singles by Anderson and Raeckers and two Hardee's mistakes. Following the singles, Eckstein picked a runner off first, but no one covered second and he beat the tag. On another occasion, Eckstein had a runner picked off second, but again, no one covered and the throw went into center field, allowing the final run to score.

Raeckers, who went the first three innings for T & C, was the winner. He received an excellent relief job from Brad Radke, who struck out all 10 hitters he faced (one reached on a dropped third strike). Chuck Lamb shut down T & C for the final two innings for Hardee's.

Coach Larry Cole said ace Jamie Moeny would start Saturday's game.

Chiefs Waive Knight

Sanford's Arthur "Gee" Knight, an academic All-America linebacker at Morris Brown College, was placed on waivers Friday by the Kansas City Chiefs.

Knight, who was attempting to make the Chiefs a defensive back after signing a two-year free agent contract, was a defensive standout at Seminole High School.

Penick Runs 2nd In Games' 5,000 Meters; Cook's Corner Tops Rams For 12th Win

WINTER PARK — Sanford's Billy Penick finished second in the 5,000 meter run as the Sunshine State Games Friday at Showalter Field.

Penick, a Seminole High School distance specialist, ran the 5,000 meters in 17:33 to finish second behind Tampa's Wilson Rose, who ran the course in 16:25.5. Pensacola's Scott Whitman was third in 18:33 at Showalter Field.

Gov. Bob Graham had officially opened the Games for competition at Orlando's Tinker Field with an Olympic Torch presentation brought forth by Winter Park's crack miler Brian Jaeger and Orlando Oak Ridge sprinter Janet Levy. Prior to a short address by Graham, balloons and fireworks signaled the opening of the Games. Just 300 spectators were on hand for the traditional parade of athletes.

Events continued Saturday and Sunday at various locations in the Orlando area. Some of Sunday's highlights will be the Synchronized Swimming (9 a.m.) at the Hilton Inn, Florida Center, Gymnastics (1 p.m.) at Valencia Community College, and Boxing at Winter Park High School. Roller Skating and Speed Skating are Monday and Tuesday at 7 a.m.

Prep sports action picks up Wednesday and Thursday when the semifinals of the girls softball competition (10 a.m. and 2 p.m.) will be held at Lake Fairview Field. The finals (10 a.m. and 2 p.m.) will be Thursday at Varner Stadium. AAU/USA Junior Olympic boys basketball starts Thursday at Valencia Community College and high school all-star boys soccer will take place Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Tangerine Bowl.

Sanford's Craig Walker performed well in two games for Team Florida at the National AAU 13 and Under Basketball Championships at Ruston, La., but his team lost two games.

Walker, a 6-3 Lakeview Middle School center, scored 10 points, blocked six shots and pulled down 11 rebounds as Team Florida lost at the buzzer to Nevada, 73-71.

Nevada finished second in the tournament.

Against champion Arkansas, Walker tossed in 11 points as the Floridians dropped a 71-61 decision.

Elsewhere in basketball, coach Chris Marlette's Cook's Corner Seminole juggernaut picked up its 12th straight victory by disposing of the Lake Mary Rams, 70-58.

Cook's Corner trailed the Rams most of the game, then outscored Lake Mary, 22-11, in the third quarter to erase a nine-point halftime deficit. Willie Mitchell (18), Bruce Franklin (16), James Rose (14) and William Wynn (13) were all in double-figures for Cook's. Fred Miller had 14 and Donald Grayson had 10 for the Rams.

In the junior varsity game, depending on whom you speak to, Lake Mary won, 73-71, or lost, 74-73. Cook's Corner's scoreboard had the second score, while the Rams' scoreboard had the former.

Alan Reed led the Rams with 24 points. Freshman Jerry Parker got 21 for the Cook's JV while Mike Wright and Alvin Jones had 15 each and Daryl Williams had 13.

Astros Survive Raines' Homer, Drop Expos

United Press International

The Houston Astros still like grit better than quit. "Once again tonight, we showed the mark of a good team," Houston Manager Bob Lillis said Friday night after pinch-hitter Tony Scott and Omar Moreno each stroked two-run singles in a five-run ninth inning, sparking the Astros to an 11-8 comeback victory over the Montreal Expos.

"We've fought back all year and the guys have never given up," added Lillis, a candidate for National League Manager of the Year after rallying the Astros from a 0-9 start to third place in the West, eight games behind first-place Atlanta.

With Montreal leading 8-6 on a six-run eighth, Phil Garner and Jose Cruz led off the ninth with singles off reliever Woodie Fryman, 0-2, and Bill Doran angled home Garner. After Denny Walling singled to load the bases, Jeff Reardon replaced Fryman. Scott, batting for reliever Dave Smith, singled home Cruz and Doran.

"When I was sent up there to face Reardon, I knew full well that he's the best reliever they've got," said Scott, who lost his starting job to Moreno. "And that's just the way I wanted it. I'd rather face their best because then I know it is going to be a battle up there. I just wanted to stay out of a double play and make contact."

Scott moved to second on the throw home and scored along with Walling on Moreno's single to center, giving further evidence that Houston may yet be a factor in the race.

"This team is for real," said Scott. "If we can keep on winning I think it is very possible that we can catch the (Atlanta) Braves in first place."

Smith, who pitched one-third of an inning, improved to 3-1. Bill Dawley pitched the ninth for his eighth save.

The Expos wiped out a 6-2 deficit with their big eighth. Andre Dawson walked, stole second and scored on Al Oliver's single. Frank DiPino relieved Joe Niekro and gave up singles to Gary Carter and Tim Wallach. After pinch hitter Mike Vail struck out, Jim Wohlford, batting for Doug Flynn, doubled in two runs to tie the score 6-6. Little signed home Wohlford then scored on a Tim Raines double for an 8-6 lead.

The Astros scored one run in the second on an RBI single by Cruz and added three more in the third on a two-run double by Terry Puhl and an error by shortstop Chris Speler.

The Expos scored in the fourth on an RBI single by Wallach and in the fifth on Raines' sixth home run of the season. The Astros then added two runs in the seventh on a pinch-hit, two-run single by Walling.

A.L./N.L. Baseball

Cubs 7, Padres 3

At Chicago, Larry Bowa touched off a five-run sixth by singling in Keith Moreland and lifting the Cubs to only their fifth victory in 17 games. Gary Lucas, 4-6, gave up all five runs during the Chicago sixth. Craig Lefferts pitched the final 3-2-3 innings to even his record at 3-3.

Braves 6, Phillies 1

At Atlanta, Craig McMurry and Steve Bedrosian combined on a four-hitter and Chris Chambliss highlighted a 14-hit attack with his 14th home run to power the Braves. McMurry, 11-5, surrendered four hits, including a seventh-inning solo homer to Von Hayes, to pick up the victory.

Mets 3, Reds 2

At Cincinnati, Keith Hernandez and Darryl Strawberry reached reliever Ben Hayes, 1-2, for solo home runs in the ninth inning to rally the Mets. With New York trailing 2-1, Hernandez led off with his eighth homer of the year. One out later Strawberry hit his 12th, making a winner of Jesse Orosco, 5-5.

Giants 5, Pirates 3

At Pittsburgh, Jack Clark went 5-for-5 and pinch hitter Joel Youngblood singled home two runs in a three-run eighth inning for the Giants. The victory went to Jim Barr, 2-1, who pitched the seventh, while Greg Minton finished and earned his 10th save. Rod Scurry, 2-6, took the loss.

Dodgers 9, Cardinals 4

At St. Louis, Steve Yeager capped a five-run seventh inning with his second two-run homer of the game to power the Dodgers. The winner was Bob Welch, 8-9, who went 8 1-3 innings. Tom Niedenfuer got the last two outs. Bob Forsch, 6-8, took the loss.

Blue Jays 10, Rangers 5

Dave Collins doesn't practice optimistic optometry — the veteran outfielder says watching the scoreboard is bad for a player's eyesight and worse for a team's morale.

"July is not the time to be looking at the scoreboard (and) worrying how the other teams are doing," said the veteran outfielder, whose one-out double highlighted a five-run 11th inning that carried the Toronto Blue Jays to a 10-5 triumph Friday night over the host Texas Rangers.

"We're having fun right now and that's the important thing," added Collins, who had four hits in helping

Toronto end a three-game losing streak. "This isn't the time to get uptight."

Indians 9, Twins 5

At Cleveland, Toby Harrah snapped a 5-5 tie with a two-run double and scored on a throwing error in the eighth inning to spark the Indians past the reeling Twins. The triumph was only the seventh in the last 24 games for Cleveland, while the loss extended Minnesota's losing streak to eight.

White Sox 2, Brewers 1

At Milwaukee, Harold Baines and Greg Luzinski each drove in a run apiece and three Chicago pitchers combined on a nine-hitter to lead the White Sox. Floyd Bannister, 6-9, allowed no runs and five hits before leaving with a sore shoulder after the fifth. Milwaukee starter Chuck Porter, 2-5, took the loss.

Yankees 7-2, Royals 6-3

At New York, Steve Kemp scored from first base on a wind-blown single by Don Baylor with two out in the ninth of the opener. Rich Gossage, 7-3, was the winner despite allowing an RBI single by Amos Otis that tied the score in the top of the ninth.

In the nightcap, Willie Wilson singled in Frank White with one out in the 12th inning to help the Royals snap New York's seven-game winning streak and earn the double-header split. Dan Quisenberry, 5-1, got the win; Steve Renko earned his first save. George Frazier, 3-2, was the loser.

A's 4, Orioles 3

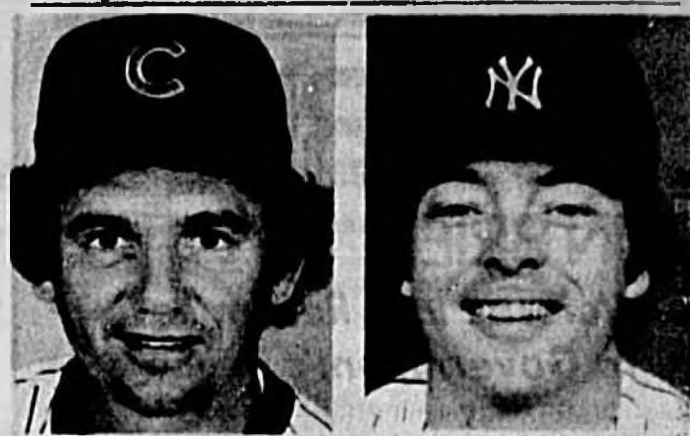

At Oakland, Calif., Tom Burgmeier pitched four innings of scoreless relief and Dwayne Murphy and Garry Hancock hit solo homers to lead the A's to their third straight triumph. Burgmeier took over for starter Rick Lanford in the sixth and earned his record at 5-5. Baltimore starter Allan Ramirez felled the Twins.

Red Sox 5, Mariners 4

At Seattle, Boston's Wade Boggs capped a three-RBI night with a bases-loaded single in the ninth to hand the Mariners their sixth straight loss. Mike Brown, 6-5, pitched 8 1-3 innings for the victory, with John Henry Johnson getting the last two outs and his first save. Ed Vandenberg, 2-4, took the loss.

Tigers 13, Angels 11

At Anaheim, Calif., Lance Parrish belted a two-run homer and Alan Trammell ripped two doubles to pace the Tigers' 16-hit attack. Mill Wilcox evened his record at 8-8 despite allowing eight runs and eight hits in six-plus innings. Aurelio Lopez notched his 14th save. Byron McLaughlin, 1-3, took the loss.

Sutton Takes 6-Shot Lead At Kingsmill

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Hal Sutton fired Friday and the field in the $350,000 Kingsmill Classic fell back.

Sutton built a six-shot lead, the largest 36-hole margin of the year on the PGA Tour, with a 6-under-par 65 for a 10-under 132 total.

The tournament is sponsored by Anheuser-Busch Inc.

Barely in sight of Sutton are Scott Simpson 74-138, Mark O'Meara, 69-138, and Jodie Mudd, 67-138. Simpson tied the course record Thursday with a 7-under 64 but started Friday with four straight bogeys and never recovered.

Another shot back are Ray Floyd, 71-139, Pat McGowan, 72-139, Mike Sullivan, 67-139, and Tom Welkopf, 73-139.

Sutton, the tour's top money winner with $277,384, opened with three birdies and then ran off eight straight pars. After a 3-under 33 on the front, he got to 4-under with a 12-footer at No. 12 and added an eagle three at the 506-yard 15th after sticking a 3-iron within five feet of the cup.

Sutton, who has won $514,818 in 19 months on the tour, promised not to be aggressive even while trying to protect his lead over the final 36 holes Saturday and Sunday.

"I certainly won't play conservatively, but I won't play stupid, either," he promised. "If I get to No. 3 (514-yards, par five), for instance, and I don't have a pinch shot to get home in two, I'll lay up."

"I'll shoot at the flags as often as I can and I'll try to make every putt. I'll work on getting more under (par). I've never been more than one shot ahead as a pro. There are a lot of good players behind me who will come out firing at the pins, too."

D.A. Weir started on the back nine Friday and threatened Sutton for a time with a 5-under 30. But he faltered with a 3-over 39 on the front nine for 69-140 and is bunched with Andy North, Phil Hancock, Bruce Lietzke and Gary McCord.

House Pup's Speed Turns Race Into 'Piece Of Cake'

By S.W. Happy Ison

Speed, Speed, Speed whether it be humans, cars, airplanes, rockets or greyhounds, people love it. Owners and trainers love it, too. Why, because it lets them let off steam about their own kennel.

This is one of the reasons Garry Duell, Super Seminole's racing secretary, instituted the Trainer's Choice Stake race. The race was run over the 3/16th course and you had better have zoom or be left in a cloud of dust. Age or sex made no difference, you just had to have speed. After two races, the field was narrowed down to the fastest eight greyhounds.

The oldest was Wyldie Angela, a July 1980 Brindle bitch, who had a record of five wins and four seconds in 15 starts betting favorite was the oldest greyhound in the race, Wyldie Angela, with Antonio's Conti second choice. The Grade B, Perfective, was the highest price at 26-1.

Perfective beat the lid and was on top by two strides followed by Antonio's Conti, House Pup and Carouser. Hi Salls drew the eight box, but needed the rail and was blocked going to the rail. Titus Arin needed the rail and got it by drawing the one hole.

Jeff Hopkins, the trainer for Jordan Mathias, couldn't believe that Titus would miss his break and come out last. After he did get out of the box he showed his speed as he made up huge pieces of ground. Encore Andy ended any hopes Arin had by falling in the first turn and Titus Arin became a hurdler and jumped and a winner in Grade A. The youngest was Titus Arin, July 1981 Black dog, and Hi Salls, a July 1981 Red Brindle, who had won her last four races. Her record was five wins and four shows in 13 starts. Others in the race were Thorny Lea's Carouser who weighed in at 71 pounds, the heaviest in the race, House Pup, the second oldest dog in the race and trifevia factor in eight of 14 starts, Robert Mendheim's Perfective, Encore Andy belonging to the Seashell kennel and Antonio's Conti trained by Carlos Acosta for Dick Andrews.

In the race there were five Grade A's, one Grade B and two Grade D's. The over the sprawling Andy. In a race that is won in a little over 18 seconds you can't recover. Being on the outside, House Pup and Carouser just kept up there running and finished one, two. The victory margin was only a neck, but seven lengths better than Wyldie Angela who got up for third. The quentia was a six-seven and paid $46.20 and the 6-7-3 trifecta paid $264.80.

The trainer's choice speed merchant at Super Seminole this year is House Pup from the Midnight Blue Kennel trained by Robert Dawson.

Garry Duell presented the trophy to Robert Dawson as House Pup looked on with an expression that said, "It was a piece of cake."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Walesa Plans Response To Government's Policy

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Solidarity founder Lech Walesa says he plans to meet with the banned union's leading strategists on how best to answer the Communist regime's post-martial law policy.

"This state of affairs requires a struggle, and there will be one," Walesa said in a telephone interview Friday night from his home in Gdansk. "Today there is no martial law, but the injustice remains. Nothing has changed."

Criticizing the government's program of selectively granting amnesty to political prisoners, Walesa said he was "tormented" by the desire to find a way to extend its benefits to all.

Walesa said the decree falls to help thousands of Poles punished for martial-law offenses without being imprisoned — people dismissed from their jobs and students expelled from universities. Dozens of high-ranking prisoners, he said, will be turned down by the amnesty program.

Environmentalists Safe

ABOARD THE RAINBOW WARRIOR (UPI) — The Soviet Union today returned seven environmentalists — six Americans and a Canadian — to U.S. custody after they were detained for nearly a week for going too close to the Siberian shore to film whaling operations, Greenpeace officials said.

Patrick Moore of Greenpeace in Vancouver, British Columbia, said that a flotilla of five Soviet ships met the trawler Rainbow Warrior about 20 miles north of St. Lawrence Island in the Bering Sea, just inside U.S. territorial waters.

Six of the anti-whaling protesters were arrested on the shoreline at the Siberian village and a seventh was captured when he tried to flee the Rainbow Warrior in a motorized rubber raft with some film.

The film, which later was recovered by a Rainbow Warrior crew member from the unmanned raft, contained offshore shots of the whaling station, the arrest and Soviet vessels and helicopters pursuing the Greenpeace crafts.

Beirut Fighting Flares

United Press International

A 12-hour bombardment of heavy artillery fire and factional skirmishes in Beirut killed at least 15 people and injured 37 others in the worst fighting since Israeli troops invaded Lebanon last summer.

Among the wounded were three U.S. Marines stationed at Beirut International Airport.

In Washington, veteran Middle East mediator Philip Habib was replaced with President Reagan's deputy national security adviser in a bid to revive the stalled negotiations on troop withdrawals from Lebanon.

Reagan announced the appointment of Robert McFarlane Friday as Lebanese President Amin Gemayel wound up talks on what Reagan described as a "difficult agenda" in Lebanon.

The shelling in Beirut stopped completely late Friday but fighting between Druze Moslem and Christian militiamen continued early today in the Shouf and Aley districts in the mountains east of the capital.

...Hubcap Thefts On The Decline...For Now

prison term of up to 15 years and a fine of up to $10,000.

Even in the rural areas, hubcap theft is a chronic problem, according to Seminole sheriff's department spokesman John Spolski. During the last four months, 40 hubcaps have been reported stolen in the unincorporated portion of the county that the department patrols.

The most expensive theft Spolski can remember in this area were three fancy hubcaps valued at $164 each stolen from a vintage Mustang.

Most hubcap thefts occur in the more densely populated south end of the county "usually at private residences and in apartment complexes and they are usually taken at night," Spolski said.

In apartment parking lots, "many cars are parked close together and that gives thieves a chance to operate stealthily," he said.

Herb Shea, assistant chief of the Sanford Police Department, said hubcap theft is not a major problem in Sanford.

"We have only isolated cases. I'd be surprised if we have 12 cases a year," said Shea.

He said the problem was more acute in the late 1970s, adding that the reduction in hubcap thefts "could be because our Crime Watch program is working. People are cooperating and calling the police when they see something suspicious.

"Also, our officers are patrolling the streets more frequently. We're always making adjustments and shifting them to whatever areas crime pops up in," Shea said.

The few hubcaps that are stolen in Sanford are usually removed from cars parked at bars, the hospital, Seminole High School and Seminole Community College, he said.

When a person's hubcaps are taken, the victim sometimes does not discover the theft until several days later, delaying the report to the police and making it more difficult to solve the case, Shea said.

To protect your hubcaps against theft, law enforcement agencies recommend that you buy locking devices, especially if you have wire spoke hubcaps.

You can also engrave your driver's license number on the hubcaps, so that if they are stolen and recovered they can be quickly returned to you.

But the best prevention is calling the police when you see suspicious people wandering through parking lots with no apparent reason to be there — other than to rip someone off, Shea said.

...Dispute Holds Up Construction Of Mini-Mall meter now serving the entire complex with individual meters on the main line to serve each building.

When a plan for installing the new meters was given to utility officials it was rejected, Dolgner said. At that time, the utility said the individual meters would have to be located at the roadside, he said.

Complying with the utility's directive could be costly but fighting it could be more expensive, Dolgner said.

By putting the meters at the roadside about 1,100 feet of new waterlines would have to be laid inside the port complex to serve the various buildings, according to John Crabtree, of Clifton Construction Co. of Cocoa, the firm which will construct the new building. Because laying the additional lines would require tearing up the port's access road, the project would cost about $6,600, he said.

Crabtree called the utility's position "ridiculous" and said he'd never seen a similar situation anywhere in Florida.

"The port did everything wrong" from the time the second Mini-Mall was constructed in 1976, Hickman responded.

At the time the first Mini-Mall was built the meters were properly installed, he said. Then when the second building was ready "the port extended a line from the rear of the first building and tapped into the line illegally."

Hickman said they repeated the procedure with the third building — all in spite of written and phoned objections from Lake Monroe Utilities.

"The port is attempting to get us to bend to their will while they know their connections are improper and a contract violation," Hickman said.

Dolgner said the additional meters will be costly to the port's customers because new rates approved by the PSC are based on the size of meters used. He said giving in to the utility's demand, which also includes using meters one inch in diameter as opposed to the ¾-inch meters now in use, would raise monthly water bills of Mini-Mall tenants by about $20.

But appealing Lake Monroe Utility's position to the PSC could be even more costly by delaying construction of the 20,000-square-foot Mini-Mall, Dolgner said. One tenant has been ready to lease 8,000 square feet in the building since the decision to build was revealed four months ago. Already faced with three to four months of construction time, further delay could prompt the prospective tenant to choose another location, he said.

"A loss of a tenant is immeasurable," Crabtree said. "People are renting out space all over Seminole County as soon as they can put it up."

In addition to authorizing Dolgner to file a formal complaint with the PSC and ask for the letter waiver from the county commission, the port board named a negotiating team to try to reach an agreement with the utility.

Women in Saudi Arabia do not have equal social status with men. They are not allowed to drive cars or enter public buildings such as post offices. Sandy Dunn will be subject to these regulations and will also have to follow the dress code of Saudi women. Interaction between unmarried members of opposite sexes is strictly forbidden. Histologist Pursues Career And Talents In Saudi Arabia

By Katherine Burkett
Special To The Herald

Sandra L. (Sandy) Dunn is a thoroughly modern woman. She holds the position of histology technician supervisor at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford.

Sandy is single, and just got her youngest child "out of the nest," she says. With her newly-found freedom, one might guess that her next step would be to take a long vacation and treat herself to a holiday on the Riviera.

But not Sandy. What she has chosen is to move to Saudi Arabia, a country where strict Moslem laws will restrict her to modest clothing and a unisex social life.

Sandy will be working for two years at the King Fahd Hospital in Riyadh, helping to open up the histology lab in the facility. The hospital belongs to the Hospital Corporation of America which also owns Central Florida Regional. Sandy will live with other American staff members in Medical City, but the government's restrictions will still affect every facet of her life.

Women in Saudi Arabia do not have equal social status with men. They are not allowed to drive cars or enter public buildings such as post offices.

Sandy will be subject to these regulations and will also have to follow the dress code of Saudi women, except that she will be allowed to skip the veil. She had no dresses that fit their regulations, so she had to make some - long sleeved, high necked and long skirted.

Interaction between unmarried members of opposite sexes is strictly forbidden. Even as an American, she will be expected to socialize only with women, and will be supervised most of the time. Drug and alcohol use carries a strict penalty.

Tourists are not allowed to visit Saudi Arabia, no one can enter the country without a work permit. Sandy said that in her quest for a work permit she has signed several different notarized documents stating that she understands the regulations she must follow.

Sandy is ready to don her long dresses and move to her all-female quarters as soon as she gets her work permit. "I moved out of my apartment already. I gave away my dishes and appliances - got rid of 20 years of housekeeping. That in itself was an experience. If I don't go to Saudi, I'll be living in the back of an U-Haul-it trailer," she said.

One of the reasons Sandy wants to go to Saudi Arabia is that she's interested in meeting the people and learning their customs. Beyond that, Sandy wants time away from the bustling American lifestyle to develop her talents in cartooning and writing. "In central Florida, you can't go anywhere where you won't be interrupted, even for a weekend," she said.

She plans to write four children's stories in the two years she is there. The government has agreed to let her write, as long as she doesn't write about their culture. She had already compiled a book of poems, and has completed many cartoons, most of which have passed out of her hands and into an appreciative audience.

Developing her artistic and literary talents is something Sandy's always wanted to do, but never had the chance. "This is the first time in my life that I've been able to pursue my interest in art and writing - I spent so many years raising kids," she said.

Her most recent literary achievement is a 72-verse illustrated poem which she wrote for the doctors who performed surgery on her. The well-handled manuscript is now making the rounds at Central Florida Regional Hospital.

Sandy has a natural flair for the arts. She creates clever dolls in the likenesses of individuals. Her most recent dolls are "cloned" in the images of Dr. Thomas Lergen and Dr. Frank Clontz which she presented to the two surgeons.

Sandy's colorful fabric-painted designs have shown up on formal evening gowns and expensive costumes. She uses acrylics to paint her original designs on clothing.

She equates her position at the hospital with that of the character

It was a big night - a great night - when the 1933 class of Seminole High School, Sanford, gathered for the 50th class reunion on July 15, at Mayfair Country Club.

According to Andrew Hanson, it was a memorable evening. Some of the classmates had not seen each other since graduation.

The class motto that year was "Ad Astra (to the stars)" and the class colors of gold and gray were featured in the decor of the greeting area and dining room.

Bronnie Duggar Weigman of Tallahassee, presided at the guest registry. Each class member received a gold and white name tag imprinted with his/her picture as it appeared in the 1933 yearbook, Salmagundi.

Surrounding tables held nuts, mints, other tidbits and cocktail napkins imprinted in gold, and a collection of memorabilia.

The business meeting was co-chaired by Pauline Crawford Lake and W.T. Theodore Wade, class president.

Traveling the greatest distance to attend the reunion were Charles Gelger and his wife, from Brocton, Mass.

Classmate married the longest is the former Dorothy Lovell, now of Tampa, who has been married to Lawrence Reel for 50 years.

Pauline Crawford Lake is the classmate with the most children - six - and Dot Lovell Reel has the most grandchildren, 10.

Class sponsor Mrs. Margaret Wright has changed the least, according to a poll. The other class sponsor was the late Mrs. MayBelle Maxwell.

Mrs. W.R. Fort, "a longtime teacher loved by all," according to Hanson, was a guest of honor.

The floral arrangements were presented by classmate Catherine Forrester Russell. She and her husband, Jack, are building a retirement home at Indian Mound Village, Sanford.

Dot Hanson and Raymond Lundquist warm up to the music of Glen Miller. Jitterbugging was the dance craze of the era.

Class secretary Lois Britt Crabtree and class president W.T. Theodore Wade glance through the 1933 yearbook, Salmagundi. The unique 'Sally' is a cherished treasure to the classmates.

A steak dinner with all the trimmings was served from tables covered with gold cloths. Centerpieces of orange blossoms and gray napkins completed the table appointments.

Following dinner classmates danced to the music of yesteryear featuring bigtime band leaders, Tommy Dorsey, Glenn Miller, Guy Lombardo, Jan Garber and Artie Shaw.

Other local classmates and spouses attending were:

ter Sam in the television show Quincy. Technically, she performs the surgical and autopsy tissue processing. Although she helps to save peoples' lives by checking tissue for disease and sometimes helps to determine the cause of a mysterious death, she said that they seldom see quite the amount of action that Quincy does.

"We work closely with the county medical examiners. When we first started, we wanted to do all that chasing stuff - we thought it would be fun. But we're employed primarily by the hospital, and they would frown on that," Sandy said.

Sandy describes a normal day. "For the first four hours, we do routine tissue work and make tissue slides. We get reports out to the surgeons so that they can schedule surgery. We set aside a certain time in the afternoon to do special slides that take exact timing - those for fungus, parasites and tuberculosis. We spend at least an hour doing cytology work - body fluids and pap smears.

"Occasionally, we go to another hospital to fill in or spend some time with new equipment - that's particularly interesting. There are also the not-so-glamorous parts of the job - there are dishes to be washed, stains to be changed and knives to be sharpened," Sandy said.

Sandy was reared in DeBary and attended Seminole High School, Sanford. She trained for hospital in histology at Orlando Regional Hospital in 1967-68. She has three children - Sharon Wade, 22; Bryant, 21, and Jeff, 19. Sandy was also foster mother to Jason Turner, son of the former lead singer of the Platters, Sonny Turner, a nightclub entertainer.

She had been friends with Turner for a while, and when Jason's mother died, Sandy volunteered to take Jason in with her, since he was too young to travel with his father. Sandy said the situation was unique.

"Jason once told me that we were the opposite of Different Strokes on television. In that show, two little black kids from Harlem come to live with a rich white man. Here we took a kid used to living in a mansion - he'd lived next to Ella Fitzgerald in Beverly Hills, and brought him into a white middle-class neighborhood," Sandy said.

Above all, she is excited about finishing her children's book about Jason while in Saudi Arabia.

Art Show Profits To Benefit CIA

The Art Show held at Driftwood Plaza last Saturday was the best one ever, according to Ann Petos, whose son, Buzz, was the coordinator of the show. Fifty artists and master craftsmen were on hand to show off their beautiful workmanship which included oil and watercolors, photography, shell crafts, pottery, woodworks, glass works and others.

Gigi Smith, an artist in her own right, was selected as the official judge for the show. Gigi had her work out for her. After careful deliberation, the winners were chosen as follows: Art - Terri Freund, first place for her pencil sketches; Gary Henderson, second place for his color photos; Ellen Yates, third place for her watercolors.

Honorable mention ribbons went to Faye Silver and Ed Quintana.

Crafts winners were: Carol Kohnke, first place for her pottery; Tim Wrobel, second place for his woodworking; Edna Halen, third place for her soft-craft dolls.

Honorable mention ribbons went to Grace Quataert and Denise Rintelmann.

Cash prizes awarded to the winners were: $50, first place; $25, second place; and $15, third place.

Gigi Smith, who has not only put on her own art shows, but has won various first place awards, said that these were some of the most beautiful entries she has ever seen.

According to Buzz Petos, the purpose of the show was to help raise money for the CIA Community

Karen Warner

Center. A total of $238.52 was netted from the show and will be presented to the Community Improvement Association.

The "Fun in the Sun" summer playground program, sponsored by the city of Lake Mary is in its last week. The program, according to director Jolane Meinke, has been a great success. The 46 children attending the program for the last five weeks have not only learned a great deal, but have had a lot of fun, Jolane says.

Some highlights included putting on mini-skits. Each week the children would pick a theme, then proceed to make their own costumes, set up scenery and do their own makeup. One of the weeks was dedicated to Florida's Endangered Manatees. The children got so involved that they wrote stories on the manatees, which were given to Renee Priest, director of the "Save the Manatees of Central Florida" program.

After reviewing and judging the stories, prizes and awards were given for the best stories. The stories selected will be published in the Audubon Society's magazine.

The first place winner of the story contest was Kent Warman who wrote a beautiful story on "The Future of Manatees." Renee presented Kent with a large stuffed manatee.

Other contests included coloring posters, with winners receiving T-shirts and key chains. Beautifully decorated birds, complete with feathers, were part of the study on endangered birds.

This past week, the children have been making invitations to mail out to city officials, inviting them to the festivities to be held the last day of school. The guests will be taking part in a game of "Egg Toss," and will be served refreshments.

Jolane, director of the program for the last four years, is looking forward to next year.

Speaking of the Community Improvement Association (CIA), the regular monthly meeting will be held on July 25. According to Dick Fess, president, the agenda will include a "recap" of the July Fourth celebration with discussion on how to make even more improvements for next time.

Other discussions will ponder future fundraising ventures, such as the selling of the newly voted city tree, the Crape Myrtle.

Mike Schaper, silk screen specialist will discuss the new logo for CIA T-shirts and designer Chuck Elliott will give an update on the plans for the "soon to be" community center.

Finally the CIA officers and members will comment on the voting privileges of both active and non-members. The meeting will be held at city hall, starting promptly at 7:30 p.m.

Happy Birthday wishes go to John Rumbley, Fannie Proctor, Elizabeth Gaines, Errol Greene, Frances Pratt and Harvey Kansol.

Happy Anniversary to Barbara and Gene Russell and Pat and Mary Beth Donaldson.

Stranger At Store Good Sign For Grieving Widow

DEAR ABBY: My husband died suddenly three years ago. I grieved endlessly for him, and have done only the necessary marketing, usually taking my dog with me. Only recently I realized I was very lonely.

Last week as I came out of the market into the parking lot, a stranger walking his dog on a leash struck up a conversation with me about my dog, who'd been barking in my car. I was quite taken by this man's looks and manner, but I was so insecure and surprised that I left abruptly.

However, I've been back every evening at 6 p.m. (the time I saw him) and I've left a card on the bulletin board at the market. I have even driven up and down the nearby streets hoping to see him.

Abby, why am I doing this? I feel demented. Please put this letter in your column. He may read it and come back to the parking lot.

L. IN WEST L.A.

DEAR L.: You are not demented. You are a very lonely woman who realizes that you've grieved enough and it's time to get on with your life. It's a healthy sign.

Start calling old friends and begin to socialize a bit. You may never again see the man with whom you were so taken; he was probably just a friendly stranger already "taken" anyway, so forget him. Good luck, lady. Think positive, and good things will happen.

DEAR ABBY: Please advise and take a poll among your readers concerning an acceptable curfew time for an 18-year-old college girl who lives at home.

She (my daughter) and I have some strong differences of opinion on the subject. I feel that 2 a.m. is reasonable. She feels it is ridiculous - that her friends do not have to abide by such an early time, if they have any curfew at all.

In this city (Spokane),

Dear Abby

where rape is not all that uncommon. I don't sleep until all my children are home.

I would like to know your feelings, and also how others handle this.

SICK OF THE CURFEW ARGUMENT DEAR SICK: Your decision concerning curfew time should not be based on how others handle it. It should be based on how dependable, mature and responsible your daughter is. It is also my view that children living at home should make every effort to relieve their parents of stress and worry.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is physically handicapped and needs help in the bathroom. When we go out, which is often, I assist her in the ladies' room.

Should I take her to the men's or ladies' restroom? We won't cut back on our outings regardless of what people say or think.

MINNESOTAN DEAR MINNESOTAN: I

posed that question to "June," at the Westside Community for Independent Living in Los Angeles. Her reply: "No problem. The man should ask a woman to please go into the ladies' room first and tell whoever is occupying it (if indeed someone is) that a woman who needs assistance from her husband will be coming in. Most people are very understanding and cooperative."

OUR FIRST PAIR OF SHOES

A great king, so the legend goes, once stepped on a thorn in his garden. In a furious rage he ordered his prime minister to cover his entire kingdom with leather. "Your Majesty," replied the wise prime minister, "let me cover your feet with leather, and wherever you go you will be protected." And so the first pair of shoes was made!

He'll need to develop that spiritual fiber which will do for his character what the first pair of shoes did for the king's feet. A man can't carpet the whole world—but he can acquire the faith and courage which will enable him to climb life's most rugged trails.

Sanford Pastor: Homosexuality Incompatible With Ministry

By Tom Giordano
Herald Managing Editor

There is no room in the ordained ministry for homosexuals.

One, because there would always be a lack of trust — a sort of credibility gap — by a majority of the congregation; two, because such a lifestyle is incompatible with the ministry and a homosexual minister's authority over his/her congregation would be compromised and possibly have a negative influence on church members.

Thus did the Rev. George A. Bule III, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, 419 Park Ave., Sanford, sum up his feelings on the issue. And Bule is not alone, especially in Florida. Between 1,500 and 2,000 delegates to the Florida conference of Methodist churches assembled a few months ago on the campus of Florida Southern College in Lakeland and unanimously voted to prohibit the ordination and appointment of homosexuals to the ministry as proposed by the division of ordained ministry. Bule said there was little debate or discussion on the matter.

But the issue isn't dead. As a matter of fact, it is expected to be a hot item at the denomination's bicentennial celebration next May in Baltimore, Md. That's when, church leaders fear, the issue will throw a damper on the meeting celebrating the church's 200-year existence in the United States.

In addition to supporting a total ban on ordaining homosexuals into the ministry, the Florida conference, according to Bule, also voted unanimously to have "language added to the Book of Discipline calling for fidelity in marriage and chastity in singleness." That, and similar petitions from several conferences around the nation, is an attempt to clarify the matter since the denomination's Judicial Council, which acts as the church's supreme court, ruled nothing in the Book of Discipline currently specifically prohibits the appointment of a homosexual pastor.

In the United States there are some 9.5 million members in the United Methodist Church, the second largest Protestant denomination in the nation. And while the homosexual question has been an issue since 1972, it's coming to a head because of the appointment of avowed homosexual pastors to jobs in New York and Colorado. Bule's church in Sanford boasts some 1,000 members. Seminole County's eight United Methodist churches (four in Sanford) have a combined membership of about 4,300 and are part of the Orlando district consisting of 48 churches with a combined membership in excess of 30,000. There are 14 such districts in Florida with a total membership in the state of 335,000, according to Robert T. Bledsoe, superintendent of the Orlando district.

Bule refers to the United Methodist Church as an "ethnic" church in which women, Hispanics, blacks, Koreans and other minorities serve in the ministry as well as in other church functions. "We are very ethnic, one of the largest ethnic churches in the nation."

Although Bule agrees there is no room in the ministry for homosexuals because, as he said, their lifestyle is incompatible with church philosophy, he does see a need for homosexuals in the congregation to make themselves known to their pastors. "We still need to minister to them (homosexuals) as persons of sacred worth. It would be my obligation as a minister to help them in any way I can, either in helping them change their lifestyle, or assisting them in finding proper psychological counseling."

Pastor Bule says he's convinced homosexuals are "what they are because they made a lifestyle choice based on some traumatic or emotional experience in youth, but that they can be helped in adulthood, both spiritually and emotionally." "I see my role as ministering to their spiritual needs and giving them emotional support and guidance or just offering any support they might need. I think it's important that they have help in evaluating their particular lifestyle and hopefully seeing the need for psychological counseling."

Bule says it would be incorrect to believe a homosexual can serve in the ministry and divorce himself from his personal lifestyle. "That would be an ideal theory, but people in the congregation would always wonder if he, or she, was imposing his lifestyle on others in the congregation with his influence. I believe it simply is too hard to separate yourself from your work as a minister and have a contradictory lifestyle. Homosexuality simply is not accepted. One may say, 'I'll keep the two separate,' but it would become an issue of trust...I believe there would always be an underlying fear and suspicion by the congregation, and that would make the minister ineffective."

And while Bule admits none of his formal training was geared to dealing with homosexuals per se, he noted: "It's certainly my personal belief that heterosexuality is normal, and that marriage between a man and woman is natural."

It apparently isn't easy for a homosexual or anyone with emotional problems to get into the United Methodist Church ministry, according to Bule. He said those wanting to enter the ministry undergo a series of psychological tests conducted by certified psychologists, then are interviewed by the Board of Ordained Ministry. "Everything humanly possible is done to establish that those entering the ministry are emotionally stable and up to the task, or they're admission is delayed."

Although Bule is new to Sanford — he's been here only about five weeks — he's no newcomer to the ministry. He came from the city of Seminole where he was pastor for the last six years at a United Methodist Church, Bule, 38, was born in Lake City, Fla., and is highly-credentialed, holding a bachelor's degree in history from Southern Methodist College, Lakeland, and a master's degree from Emory University in Atlanta, Ga. Bule lives at 1818 Paloma Ave. in Sanford with his wife, Carolyn, and their two children, Ben, 9, and Maribeth, 7. Bule says he is comfortable as a minister, having grown up in the Methodist Church as a boy. "As I went through college, I felt God was guiding me into the ministry. I felt as though I was at the right place at the right time when I was in the seminary and had chosen the correct life...one in the service of God."

Conflict

Homosexuality May Dominate Methodist Agenda...

By David E. Anderson
UPI Religion Writer

For grassroots members of the United Methodist church, ordination of homosexuals to the ministry is emerging as an important and volatile issue for the denomination's bicentennial celebration next year.

At least 59 of the 9.5 million-member church's 73 annual conferences, or regional bodies meeting this spring and summer, have adopted resolutions on the issue for consideration at the church's General Conference — the denomination's top legislative body — when it meets next May in Baltimore.

It is an issue that could mar what church leaders hope to be an upbeat meeting celebrating the 200th anniversary of the Methodist movement in the United States. Homosexuality has been an issue in the denomination — the nation's second largest Protestant denomination — since 1972.

But in recent years it has received greater attention, largely because of the appointment of avowed homosexual pastors to jobs in New York and Colorado.

In addition, the denomination's Judicial Council, which acts as the church's supreme court, has ruled that nothing in the Book of Discipline specifically prohibits the appointment of a homosexual pastor.

That ruling has spurred many of the conference resolutions.

Thirty-one of the conferences, for example, are sending petitions to the General Conference asking the denomination to bar homosexuals from the ordained ministry.

Another 10 are recommending language be added to the Book of Discipline that would require all ministers to practice "fidelity in marriage and celibacy in singleness."

And 18 other conferences passed a wide variety of resolutions ranging from calls for study of the issue to compassion and, in some instances, affirmation of the church's current position that homosexuals are persons of "sacred worth" but which condemns homosexuality as being "incompatible with Christian teaching."

At the same time, a number of conferences defeated resolutions proposing the ban on ordination of homosexuals and some even rejected versions of the "fidelity-celibacy" resolution.

Methodists in the Nebraska and Northern Illinois conferences are asking the church to amend the Book of Discipline to encourage ministry to all persons regardless of sexual orientation and ask the church to change its statement of Social Principles to say that "judgment rests with God alone and we seek God's help in dealing with this complex issue."

The California-Nevada conference is asking the convention to delete "negative" language about homosexuals from the Social Principles and to repeal a church law prohibiting the financing of homosexual-oriented causes.

In the Rocky Mountain conference, where a homosexual minister was appointed in recent years, delegates supported the "fidelity-celibacy" proposal, but also asked the General Conference to drop negative wording about homosexuals from the Social Principles.

In addition, the conference said the Principles should recognize that "every person, regardless of sexual orientation, has the right and obligation to answer the call of God into the ordained ministry ... remembering ... standards of moral and ethical behavior."

And one proposal, which delegates may like because it postpones the issue, is a call for a comprehensive study on the nature of homosexual identity and creation of an educational program on the issue — an act which would delay resolving the issue until 1988.

Waiting

Think About God Next Time...

It's hard to wait. One afternoon last week, I found myself waiting in the doctor's office. To pass the time, I read through several of his magazines while waiting. Eventually my name was called and I happily went to the examination room, only to have to wait a little longer.

Hours of life are wasted by having to wait. Waiting in line; waiting for the red light to change; waiting for the break that never seems to come; waiting for the body to heal; waiting for the car to be repaired; and the list goes on and on. Most of us hate to wait. It makes us anxious, irritable, restless, frustrated, and hard to live with.

But some things are worth waiting for. Like waiting for your sixteenth birthday; waiting for your first date; waiting for graduation day; waiting for the day of your wedding; waiting for the baby to be born; waiting for the fish to bite; and waiting for our prayers to be answered.

The Old Testament speaks of waiting. In the Book of Isaiah it says,

"But they who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength, they shall mount up with wings like eagles, they shall run and not be weary, they shall walk and not faint."

(Isaiah 40:32)

This kind of waiting is worthwhile. In our waiting for the Lord, there comes renewal, strength, and power. In our periods of waiting, God is with us just as He is in our times of going and doing.

With this in mind, we can use our waiting for good. We can wait with a purpose. Even while waiting in line, or at the doctor's office, or at the traffic light, we can use those moments to meditate, to talk to God, to appreciate life, to broaden our horizons, to pray for others.

God can do much for us when our lives are geared to Him in times of waiting. No matter what the circumstance, He can turn it into a time of renewal of strength. This week I plan to put a purpose in my waiting, how about you?

How Do You View Heaven?

Rose Kennedy said in a magazine interview recently that she is looking forward to a reunion in heaven with her late sons and daughter — John, Robert, Joseph and Kathleen — and her husband, Joseph.

Many share Rose Kennedy's hope that they will be reunited in heaven with their loved ones. Will the family circle "be unbroken" in the great by and by?

Nowhere in the Bible does it say that old earthly relationships will be restored in heaven. Paul speaks of our time in heaven as "being always with the Lord." But there is nothing from Paul — or any other Bible writer — about severed family or fraternal ties being rejoined.

Yet many of us like to think it will be so. Some of our best-loved hymns and prayers reassure us on this point. John Henry Newman's hymn, "Lead, kindly light," speaks of the coming morn when we will see "those angel faces smile which we have loved long since and lost awhile."

A prayer in the service for the dead in the Lutheran liturgy has these words, "Comfort the survivors with the hope of a blessed reunion in heaven."

Another well-known hymn, in referring to heaven, speaks of "knitting severed friendships up, where partings are no more."

While the Bible is not so explicit, Jesus on one occasion did hint that human relationships will be renewed in the Kingdom of God. While eating the Last Supper with his disciples he said, "I will not drink henceforth of the fruit of the vine until I drink it now with you in my Father's kingdom."

Unless that was just a metaphor, this passage indicates that heaven will not be devoid of all earthly pleasures — something that troubles a great many people. They have heard that what awaits them in heaven is an eternity of hymn-singing, a prospect they find dreary and boring. These are not the people who are afraid there will be no afterlife. These are the people who are afraid there will be!

Some writers, however, picture heaven as a lively place, intensely interesting and full of vigorous and varied activity.

Sherwood Eddy, an orthodox churchman who spent 13 years near the end of his life investigating psychic evidence for survival after death, relates in his autobiography a conversation he had with his father who had "passed over."

"When I asked him about his work over there, he said, 'I always was an organizer and I am organizing over here, working for others. Mother is as dynamic and aggressive as ever.'"

Rev. Arthur Ford, a well-known medium who is said to have put Bishop James Pike in touch with his departed son, told of talking with scientists in "the next world" who were continuing to do research in their new environment.

"Remember," wrote Emmett Fox, one of the most popular of the metaphysical writers, "that death makes positively no change in you. You are the same person you were before it happened. You will go to the sort of place, and be among the sort of people, for whom you have prepared yourself by your habitual thinking and your mode of conduct while living on this earth."

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JULY 24, 1983

No matter what you undertake in the year ahead, you'll find ways to effectively expand or enlarge it. This makes for accomplishments of a more major nature.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll have a slight edge over your opposition today in competitive situations. Leo predictions for the year ahead are now ready. Romance, career, luck, earnings, travel and much more are discussed. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others see you as an efficient person today and they may use this as an excuse to foist their responsibilities off on you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you are involved today in social sports, such as tennis or golf, don't let it be said that you're only fun to play with when you are winning.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This should be a very pleasant day for you and your family. However, there's a chance that either you or your mate might introduce disruptive elements.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Enjoyable outlets can be found for your restless urges today, but if you attempt to do too much it may frustrate you instead of relaxing you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be generous to others today just because you hope to gain more in return. If this is your play you're like to be disappointed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be very careful today not to side with one friend against another in a disagreement. Try to be a mediator, not a participant.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Beware of tendencies to have a defeatist attitude today. This would cause you to slack off or let down just when victory is within your grasp.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try not to champion issues today which go against the will of the majority. You could even alienate pals who are always in your corner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others will be looking to you for guidance today, but you must be very careful how you use your authority. Don't abuse your power.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's your prerogative to express your opinions today, as long as you don't try to force them on others. Back off if listeners are unresponsive.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be very cautious in joint ventures today, especially in situations which might require an investment. Get all the facts first.

YOUR BIRTHDAY JULY 25, 1983

This coming year there's a possibility you may conduct two important enterprises simultaneously. You'll do well in each, even though they won't be related.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Any important decision you have to make today should be carefully weighed. Try to view it from every conceivable angle. Order now: The NEW Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Leo Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If something advantageous careerwise happens for you today it's not likely to emanate from those in authority, but rather from your coworkers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Over the next few days your popularity and influence socially will be considerably enhanced because friends will be important to you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Instead of seeking your fun out on the town, it may prove more enjoyable to have a few friends over for an impromptu happening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is a good day to take care of correspondence, do necessary paperwork or put your personal accounts in order. You'll do well at mental tasks.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Beginning today there could be a shift in circumstances which will prove to be materially advantageous. Be doubly alert in all money matters.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Use your initiative today, instead of waiting on others to get new ventures off the ground. These need your personal push.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Situations over which you seem to have little or no control are apt to be the ones that turn out best today. Don't rock the boat.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A friend may talk to you today about a new idea which he feels has possibilities. Don't dismiss it lightly. It could have value.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you are truly persistent where your objectives are concerned, substantial progress can be made today. Stay on track.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Instead of merely talking about your bright ideas today, get busy and execute them. Action, not words, will bring them into being.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Conditions which you wish changed, not only for your benefit but because you think changes will prove advantageous to others, are ready for alteration now.

West had nothing to lose by shifting to a spade, but played another heart.

South was in his hand. He cashed the last club and discarded the queen of spades from dummy. Then he simply led a diamond. East won that diamond and another one and was now in an end play. He had to lead a spade to dummy's ace-jack, and declarer came to nine tricks with three hearts, three clubs, two spades and one diamond.

West's stubbornness had deprived his side of any spade tricks.
