

AMONG THE THEATRES

Chit-Chat of the Play Houses in Sanford

Must a Woman Cling to Faithless Husband?

Problem of many wives figures in New Triangle drama, "The Children in the House."

At Lyric Wednesday.

Except only war, there is no subject more prominently before the people of the United States today, more discussed in homes, newspapers, clubs; any subject which is receiving more earnest thought and consideration from those who have the most vital interests of the nation at heart, than that of domestic relationships—marriage and divorce. The problems involved naturally find their way to the motion picture screen. In the newest Triangle play, "The Children in the House," there is presented a particularly interesting domestic situation, used as a basis for a powerful and dramatic story.

Cora Vincent has married the wrong man. She had a chance to marry the right one, but allowed herself to be influenced by her parents to accept the man who had money rather than the one who had character. Two children are born. Their father is dissolute and in the net of a siren. The other man has not married. In her grief and desperation, the young wife appeals to him for sympathy and his reply is to ask her to elope with him.

Would she have been justified in doing so? Would she have done so?

Neither question is answered in the picture story, for at the critical moment her two little ones, frightened by a thunder storm run in upon the couple. The scale is turned. Cora bids her sweetheart good-night, and goes with her babies to her lonely room.

Then fate has something to say. His own misdeeds cause the guilty husband to be removed much farther than any mere divorce decree could take him, and the right man gets the right woman after all.

Norma Talmadge is starred as the wife, and others in a well chosen cast are Eugene Pallette as the husband, Wm. Hinckley as the other man, and Jewel Carmen as the siren. The famous "Triangle Kiddies" have a great deal to do, there being five children in all in the story, who go through some thrilling adventures, including capture and attempted incarceration by a gang of robbers.

The play also includes some remarkably picturesque outdoor scenes taken in a forest, illustrating a fairy story, told by one of the characters and having much to do with the development of events.

Ralph Herz Makes Screen Debut in "The Purple Lady"

Ralph Herz, the well known comedian, who will be remembered for his excellent work in "The Soul Kiss," "A Pair of Sixes," and recently in "Ruggles of Red Gap," will make his debut on the screen in "The Purple Lady," a five part Metro-Rolle wonderplay which will be shown here at the Star tonight.

Irene Howley, another stage favorite is featured with Mr. Herz in this production. Some of the most novel and picturesque scenes ever shown upon the screen are seen in this feature. They were photographed in a famous Broadway restaurant, which is known in the story as "The Purple Lightning Tango Parlor." Other interesting scenes were staged at Coney Island, during a big holiday celebration there. Mr. Herz and Miss Howley are supported by a strong cast.

Former Sanford Girl to Appear at the Star Friday

If you are one of those who automatically connect the name of Pauline Frederick with the great roles of "Zaza," "Bella Donna," and the other "vampires" which she has interpreted on the screen, then there is a great surprise in store for you.

when the Famous Players adaptation of Clyde Fitch's great drama, "The Woman in the Case," will be the Paramount attraction at the Star Friday. For in this celebrated play the great emotional actress appears not as the Woman, but as the devoted wife who risks her name and her personal safety in the struggle which she wages against the infuriated woman who is attempting to have Julian Rolfe condemned on the charge of murder in revenge for his having robbed her of a victim, his best friend.

It is a glowing tribute to the genius of this great actress that she makes Margaret one of the most appealing and lovable women that have ever appeared on the screen. But she is not of the helpless variety which weeps copiously over her misfortunes. When Margaret learns that her husband has fallen into Claire's trap, she steels her nerves for the ordeal and determines to fight fire with fire. As a result, this girl of gentle birth mingles with Claire as one of her own kind and wins her confidence until, after many heart breaking failures she suddenly succeeds in forcing a confession out of Claire and saves her husband.

New Triangle Siren Has Startling Wardrobe

Some of the most decided novelties in feminine adornment ever portrayed in pictures are promised as features of "The Children in the House," a Triangle Fine Arts drama which will be shown at the Lyric Theatre beginning Wednesday.

Jewel Carmen, a young actress who was last seen in an ingenious role in the DeWolf Hopper play, "Sunshine Dad," blossoms forth in "The Children in the House" as a full bodied siren of the screen. In the part of Jane Courtenay, a cabaret dancer, she lures a foolish husband, played by Eugene Pallette, to his destruction. As aids to his ruin she bedecks her self in vampirish attire remarkable for its extreme uniqueness.

There are evening gowns distinguished both by originality of design and attractiveness of material, jewelry of strange shapes and patterns and a headdress of jet and pearls which twine and curl about the siren's head like serpents.

Norma Talmadge is seen as the wife whose husband is lured to destruction by Miss Carmen, and other prominent and busy members of the cast are the "Triangle Kiddies" who go through the most amazing adventures they have encountered since they fought a bandit army in "The Katy Do It."

STATE FEDERATION PARK

WOMEN'S CLUBS OF FLORIDA WILL HAVE BEAUTIFUL PALM GARDENS

The Florida Federation of Women's Clubs has undertaken the greatest conservation work of any organization of women in the United States. The last legislature gave the Federation 960 acres of land, 18 miles south of Miami, to be known hereafter as Royal Palm State Park. This contains the largest growth of Royal Palms in the United States, many estimated to be 100 feet in height, together with more than 60 varieties of trees, rare orchids, ferns, vines and beautiful trees. It is a wonderful tropical jungle, said by scientists to be the most unique of its kind, known in the United States. It is the only state park owned by a Federation of Women, and will be Florida what the big trees are to California. It is necessary that you, as a citizen of Florida realize what great assets the beauty spots of the state would be, if properly conserved; if, with the increasing flood of travel over turning southward—with a million tourists last year, and more each succeeding season; if, we make the "Lure of the South" irresistible, by "multiplying Florida's attractions."

A park endowment of 960 acres was given by Mrs. Henry M. Flagler, making 1920 acres, including park. The plan is to keep the endowment, if possible, for the development of botanical gardens. Thirteen miles of Ingraham Highway will be completed from Homestead to the park by about September 1st. Four miles of path have been cut through the park. The park is a game preserve and a bird sanctuary, quantities of birds being fed now by the warden.

Dr. David Fairchild, Agricultural Explorer in charge, Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., writes the following: "It should not be difficult for anyone familiar with the changes which have transformed the wonderful hammocks about Miami into residence sites for the wealthy, to imagine the popular approval which the next generation will bestow upon the foresighted women of Florida who have saved Paradise Key for the eager-eyed botanist and nature lovers of America. It should be a national monument. July 10, 1916."

AS THE WARDEN IS LIVING IN A TENT AND WE HAVE NO PLACE TO RECEIVE VISITORS, our chief concern at present is the erection of a lodge, which should be finished for the Federation meeting in Miami, Nov. 21 to 24th. The last Federation board meeting in Tallahassee authorized the building of a lodge to be finished for the inspection of the Federation, at which time the formal opening will take place. Plans are being made by the local committee to take the entire convention to the park, for this occasion. By winter we intend to be prepared to serve refreshments to auto parties and have a few rooms to rent to scientists, conducting research work.

The Dade county commissioners appropriated $1000.00 for park purposes. A short time ago a campaign was inaugurated to raise a "Mile of Dimes," $6336.00 and more than $1000.00 has been realized for the park fund. If the million residents of Florida would each contribute a dime, $100,000.00 could easily be raised for the work and that would solve the problem of maintenance and development for some years. We should have for immediate use, for building purposes, by most conservative estimate, not less than $5000.00, but $10,000.00 would permit more substantial and permanent improvements.

We are taking this means of presenting the park for your consideration and are making a direct personal appeal to each friend of Florida. Those donating more than a dime will be helping to make up in part, for those it will be impossible to reach. Please send your donation to Mrs. John Gifford, Park Chairman, F. F. W. C., Coconut Grove, Florida, and remain this chain letter to a friend and they are to do the same. If you have received a letter before, or do not care for any reason, to make a donation, kindly remit to a friend, so that the chain will not be broken. We chain will not be broken. We are asking those who read the published letter to respond without waiting to receive one.

All questions will be answered promptly. Remember, that those who live in Florida, put forth one-tenth the effort to enhance Florida's attractions, as do the Californians for their state, Florida with her wonderful climatic conditions, resources and beautiful natural growth would soon become a veritable Garden of Eden.

"Florida Beautiful" should be the slogan. A strong pull—a long pull—a pull all together! success.

Attention is invited to what eminent scientists say concerning the Park.

Dr. Charles T. Simpson of Little River, Florida, in an article appearing in the April number of the Trop. Magazine said "I have been over all the warmer part of Florida including the lower keys... through out the length and breadth of Cuba, the Republic of Haiti, the entire island of Jamaica and quite a little of Spanish Honduras. I have sailed through the lovely Bahaman Archipelago and landed on several of its islands, I have visited the Bermudas and cruised again and again through the entire Mediterranean and down the west coast of Africa, but my eyes have never rested on any spot on earth as beautiful as Paradise Key. It is absolutely unique; it is a picture of unsurpassed beauty set in a wonderful frame; the dome of the blue atmosphere forming the upper part of it; the wide expanse of the Everglades its lower part. The whole effect is glorious beyond the power of description; the dark broad leaved vegetation which forms irregular outlined mass of forest is crowned here and there by noble royal palms, singly or in groups which cut the sky line with charming effect. The whole hammock, seen from any point seems as though it was the work of some great master landscape gardener, and so it is; it was designed and executed by NATURE. As I gaze with awe and rapt admiration on this work of the Great Master I feel that it is perfect, as beautiful as it is unique and my heart swells with pride and patriotism because of the fact that Florida possesses such a grand tropical forest—that it belongs to Dade county."

Dr. David Fairchild, Agricultural Explorer in charge, Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., writes the following: "It should not be difficult for anyone familiar with the changes which have transformed the wonderful hammocks about Miami into residence sites for the wealthy, to imagine the popular approval which the next generation will bestow upon the foresighted women of Florida who have saved Paradise Key for the eager-eyed botanist and nature lovers of America. ine the popular approval which the next generation will bestow upon the foresighted women of Florida who have saved Paradise Key for the eager-eyed botanist and nature lovers of America. It should be a national monument. July 10, 1916."

Hon. W. A. McRae, Commissioner of Agriculture of State, Tallahassee, Florida, in a recent article on "Why Not the State Beautiful?" said: "The Federation of Women's Clubs is doing a notable work, setting an example for men folks, in promoting the science of forestry and beauty. Among its achievements is the creation of Royal Palm State Park, an estate of some 2,000 acres in Dade county, containing perhaps the finest collection of royal palms, some of them 100 feet high—to be found in this county, besides 50 or more varieties—in all a veritable wonderland."

BROOM CORN IS RAISED IN STATE OF FLA.

CITY OF SANFORD HAS FACTORY FOR THEIR MANUFACTURE

Some of our Sanford growers should experiment with the growing of broom corn. This crop is bringing much higher prices than ever before and used in conjunction with the palmetto makes the best brooms possible.

This new industry should be fostered by Sanford people and encouragement given to the men who have already demonstrated the possibilities of the broom making trade in Florida.

The following from the Gainesville Sun is timely:

There is no question but that there are wonderful possibilities in Florida along lines which have been as yet but little exploited. Take the matter of broom corn. There seems to be no good reason in the world why all this portion of Florida should not produce it to perfection.

Here is what the Lake City Citizen-Reporter has to say about a successful broom corn grower at Starke.

"Mr. Rigdon is a large producer of broom corn and operates a broom factory near Starke, where he has been established for three years sweeping up things.

"Mr. Rigdon counts his broom corn as his money crop and plants and harvests it in two different plantings the first in April and gathering the second crop in June to mature in September. The capacity of his factory is 25 dozen brooms each day. He raises his forage crop and haves on his 160 acre farm so that the high cost of living doesn't matter to him, and in addition to the revenue from his corn enterprise he has strawberries for the early spring market, two crops of broom corn between April and September and a cotton for late fall."

What can be grown in the iron line in Bradford county can certainly be duplicated in Alachua. When it is considered that the price of broom corn is now $240 per ton one can see a good reason for making a strenuous tryout of the proposition at least. Two crops a season would run into money pretty fast.

BALL PLAYERS HURT

Orlando Auto Driver Ruins Several Men

Being defeated in baseball at Sanford yesterday was but a small bit of regret compared with the anxiety felt last evening by friends of the unfortunate victims of a disastrous automobile smashup on the return trip when Pitcher Robert Moore suffered bruises on the head and a wrenched knee, third baseman Mack Self sustained a mangled right hand, and other players came close to death as the Buick car in which they were riding smashed into a telephone pole, tore down an embankment and plunged into Lake Ivanhoe at 6:30 o'clock.

For a time it was feared that several fingers of Self's right hand would have to be amputated, but Drs. McEwan and Edwards and Dr. Hal Beardall may be able to save all the broken fingers without resorting to the knife. Self, the star third sacker for the Orlando team will be out of the game for the remainder of the season, and pitcher Moore, because of his bruises may have to sit on the bench for some time.

Self was in the back seat of the Buick car, which was driven by Lonnie T. Harroll, of the Gordon Transfer Company. Coming into Orlando at breakneck speed Harroll rounded the curve on the east side of the lake and Self clutched the seat. They skidded, the car dashed into a telephone pole and Self's hand was smashed by the contact. All bones in the fingers and hand were broken and Self, who by trade is a carpenter will be out of employment for some time. However, he was philosophic at the hospital last evening.

As a result of the speeding the Buick car was wrecked. After it hit the telephone pole the right wheels caught under the road grade and with a bent axle and steering gear continued to run for fifty feet or more and then plunged down the embankment into the lake.

Second sacker Spitznagle was thrown through the wind shield which was splintered and had to swim out of the lake. Bob Schuyler, star center fielder was thrown into the swamp as well as pitcher Bob Moore, Cliff Fatum and Harroll, the driver. Fortunately all occupants of the car escaped death and serious injury except Self.

It was the opinion of fans last night that speeding from Sanford would prove unpopular in the future as a result of this accident. It has been the habit to speed to and from the old ball park at the Seminole capital to Orlando. Various drivers have met with narrow escapes and from now on there will be some judgment exercised in driving.

It is said that Harroll, the driver of the ill fated car was racing with another car and that Spitznagle begged him to drive slower, insisting that he would get out and walk into town. However, the result was as described. Orlando Sentinel.

R. R. MGRS. AND MEN ARE STILL APART

BELIEVED THAT THE MANAGERS HAVE DECLINED EIGHT HOURS

Washington, Aug. 18. President Wilson yesterday issued the threat of the presidential veto of the bill of the railroad men to come to Washington immediately to confer with him on the threatened railroad strike. Pending their arrival, he does not plan to see the committee of managers here with whom he has been meeting.

Frank Harrison of the Southern and W. J. Healey of the Seaboard railroad men, among the railroad presidents in the city.

Judge Chambers of the federal board of mediation and conciliation held a brief conference with the brotherhood heads this morning. Further than to say he had one question on which he wanted a definite answer and that he got it, the conference would not discuss the nature of his visit. Mr. Chambers went to the White House immediately upon leaving the brotherhood officials.

"I should not like to say that the situation still is hopeful," A. B. Garretson, spokesman for the employees said after Mr. Chambers had left. "Hopeful is hardly the word that I should use. I would say though that I deem a settlement still possible."

The President sent the following telegram to the leading railroad presidents:

"Discussion of the matter involved in the threatened railroad strike has reached a point which makes it highly desirable that I should personally confer with you at the earliest possible moment and with the presidents of any other railways affected who may be immediately accessible. Hope you can make it convenient to come to Washington at once."

The President's action in asking for conferences with the railroad presidents themselves is interpreted as meaning that the managers committee had refused finally to concede the eight-hour day as the President's plan proposed, and the question now is to be taken up with the heads of the railroads themselves.

The situation as it stood today was this: The railroads flatly refused to concede the eight-hour day, but we are

ELKS AND EAGLES PLAY SOME BALL

ONE OF THE MOST ENJOYABLE GAMES OF THE SEASON AT HOLDEN PARK

MADE QUITE A NEAT SUM OF MONEY FOR THE BASE BALL ASSOCIATION

The Elks and Eagles staged what you might call a very good game of ball last Wednesday at Holden Park. The Elks had as their battery Puleston, Betts, Pennington and Roy Chittenden, while the Eagles put their dependence in only two pitchers Smith, Bennett and Moore. Smith and Betts both looked good in the box and why they were banked by the managers is a mystery. Smith of the Eagles had the B. P. O. E. boys going all the time, when he left the box in the eighth inning he had fourteen strike outs to his credit. In the third inning the Elks secured three runs without a hit made and that's why we think Smith was the best hit of the day, though not taking any credit away from Archie Betts, the Elks pitcher. Would like to say that this boy had something on the horsehide himself. Archie hung up ten strike outs to his credit and he was only in the box six innings. That's going pretty good also. But what happened to Dr. Puleston, the old boy was going very well, the Eagles only secured one hit from his deliveries, but Dr. not having any Sloan's Liniment on hand failed to set the pace. This boy Bennett on short for the Elks was very much in the game. He's Sam's racket special secured three hits off the pitchers that worked for the Elks. The other notable letters of the afternoon were John Brady, who secured two healthy blows, his wallop going for regular three batters but John was a little short of the wind to carry him around the bases. Moore secured two hits also and with a little more experience would run Chapman clean out of town, for he is some catcher. Roy Chittenden was the only pitcher that managed to steal with regularity, all of Moore. The famous "LIT" trick is no less than five faces. Any one missing his chickens can lay the blame at his door. This young Skeleton Paul Keady also let it be known that he had something to say about who was to win this game. Paul hit one to the home that's a fine pretty nearly knocking the plan out of the fence. He managed to reach first base in due time, though not without argument, but after he had been safe or not. Spencer and Stevens did the umpiring and the only thing that saved them from being creamed the next day was because they failed to cheat a little more than they did. Spencer was very good on balls and strikes only missing about two in the whole afternoon, while Stevens called them just exactly like he saw them, not one time during the afternoon did he change his decision.

The outstanding features of the game was when three men were occupied on third base at one time. A BONE WAS PULLED by the Elks that time. The most pleasing batter of the afternoon was Osborn Herndon, he never has yet waited for the pitcher to throw him a ball on different occasions a step ladder would have been all right for him to use. Below is the way the B. P. O. E. administered defeat.

Compelled to Have Traffic Police

Several nights ago it was necessary for the authorities to handle the crowds of pedestrians and automobiles at the junction of one of Sanford's popular streets. When it becomes necessary to have traffic cops it is a sure sign that crowds are moving to and fro and when an unusually large mass assembles there is certainly some good reason for them being there. On this night, after the crowd had been mastered curiosity naturally arose as to why so many people were assembled at one place and upon ascertaining the reason it was discovered that the crowd was coming from the Star Theatre where Pauline Frederick was appearing. She will be there again tonight in "The Woman in the Case."

A fund of $250,000 is to be raised in Tampa for the purpose of inducing the location of new industries.

Gasoline Reduced

ALLIES MAKE NEW MOVES ALONG LINES

BALKANS WILL BE THE SCENE OF MORE FIGHTING

London, Aug. 18.—Heavy fighting on the Balkan front is reported in an official Bulgarian statement received here today from Sofia. The allied forces delivered strong infantry attacks, but the statement says, were repulsed.

The fighting occurred in the region of Lake Doiran, northwest of Aaloniki, near the Greco-Serbian border. Several encounters have taken place in this vicinity of late, but the official Bulgarian statement indicates that larger forces are now being employed against the Bulgarians.

"On the evening of August 14," the statement says, "the enemy's artillery opened a violent bombardment of our advanced positions south and west of Lake Doiran. Under cover of this fire the enemy's infantry attacked, but was repulsed.

The bombardment continued and on the morning of the 15th the infantry again attacked with considerable force but was repulsed and compelled to fall back in considerable disorder."

The French war office announced last night that engagements were occurring frequently along the whole front. The capture by the allies of the railroad station at Doiran and of four villages at other points on the front was reported.

London, Aug. 18. The British have made another advance on the Somme front. Official announcement was made today that the line has been pushed forward west and southwest of Guillemont.

Paris, Aug. 18. A violent artillery duel is in progress north of Maurepas, in the Somme region, says the war office statement today. There were no infantry attacks during the night.

Paris, Aug. 18. Operations on three different parts of the Somme front yesterday resulted in the removal of some of the barriers of the powerful German defensive system. A resumption of the methodical drive of the French troops after the disappearance of these obstacles is expected to bring more gains in the second of Guillemont and Maurepas.

The French attack yesterday, the French attained an ascendancy over their adversary during the fighting around the Guillemont-Maurepas road. The Germans still have a hold in the northwest part of Maurepas but the French by reason of their success in that vicinity have a dominating position and besides are menacing the German communications.

South of the Somme the German trench system around Belloy-en-Santerre was a real fortified work which had resisted numerous previous bombardments. Its capture permits further progress in that section.

Methodist Sabbath School

The deep interest manifested in our school under existing circumstances (being greatly handicapped on account of the upset condition of the church being plastered, the scaffolding interfering with the work of the school, many class rooms being cut off) is remarkable. By mutual effort and working in harmony our school has exceeded in attendance that of any previous summer; at class assembly last Sunday the record showed 199 there, several came in late but were not counted. Our school roll shows many of our members away on vacation. The men's and women's classes are doing exceptionally good work, not only inside the school but the material welfare of each member is, during the week on the heart of every other member of the class, making them really brother and sisterhood classes.

Strangers or visitors and each member of the class by the other members are always welcomed each Sabbath morning with a strong heartfelt handshake to make each feel right at home.

ORLANDO DEFEATED SANFORD IN FIRST GAME OF A DOUBLE-HEADER SCORE 7 TO 4—DECATUR IN RARE FORM

THE SECOND GAME SEVEN TO FOUR

IN FAVOR OF "SANFORD SLUGGERS"

W. M. Glenn, Editor of the Orlando Sentinel refuses to let the people know when Sanford wins a ball game. In his last issue of his paper, he tells the people all about an automobile accident, and puts the story of the game in a part of the paper that is never read

First Game
Orlando defeated Sanford in the first game of a double header yesterday by a score of 7 to 4. Decatur though touched up for nine hits managed to keep them well scattered. The Orlando boys played well behind Decatur during the game and it was mostly through their work that Decatur came out victorious. He managed to score only four of the Sanford sluggers. Why we call them sluggers is because in the last three games played the boys have scored 11 hits, 11 of them being doubles and four going for three base slugs, and from now on they will be known as the Sanford sluggers. Jim Moore and Paul Cobb secured two runs apiece off of the pitcher of the ORLANDO while Dillinger and Spitznagle secured two blows on their own. Wilson started off for Sanford and blew up in the fourth inning. Dillinger hit for two bases and scored two runners. He was taken out and relieved by Wallace.

The Orlando boys secured seven hits during this game and each time they secured a hit it counted for a run. In the fifth inning Wallace Cobb and Bell held a steady position on regards to the pitcher and finally came to the game and that the best thing to do was to let "Pop" finish and send in Robinson in the second game. Good judgment was used by letting "Pop" finish the game, for Palmer not being on hand the boys were in need of a pitcher.

Second Game
IRON MAN started in the second game but fell in the fourth in the hands of HERKINS. The Sanford Sluggers, leading him for five hits, took care of them from start to finish. At the end of the game he was also knocked out of the box in the third inning by the Sanford Sluggers. Barra was touched up for three hits which meant two runs. Barra was not on hand for the last three innings. The game lasted seven innings and lasted to this thirteen hits were scored, eight of them going for two base hits. Forgot to mention early in the story that John Robinson was pitching for Sanford while the boys were knocking everything they had out of the box, and POOR JOHN had to be content with poor support. Now LISTEN every run Orlando scored was on errors, not one earned off his delivery. Sanford only made six errors in seven innings and that is the way the boys have been playing behind him all the season. Not only hitting any one in particular but hitting the pitcher, and that is the way they did as he won the game and won it on clean hitting there's no doubt about it.

ALMANAC
The Sanford boys have scored 11 hits in the last three games and each time they secured a hit it counted for a run. In the fifth inning Wallace Cobb and Bell held a steady position on regards to the pitcher and finally came to the game and that the best thing to do was to let "Pop" finish and send in Robinson in the second game. ORLANDO EDITOR USES HIS PAPER TO "ROAST" THE WRITER-FOR THE WAY HE WRITES UP THE GAMES-REPLY

W. M. Glenn, editor of the Orlando Sentinel sees fit to use his paper to "roast" the writer of the Herald. Now in justice to myself I feel that I have stood this slander from this worthless editor as long as I am going to. In the first place Glenn he addresses me as "Red" and I'll do the same thing and address him as Glenn. He uses his paper and when Sanford wins a game he fails to give mention of it. Here last Tuesday when Sanford scored seventeen hits and won the game he used his front page to tell the people about the automobile accident and saw fit to mention the ball game on one of his pages which is never read. Now I'll tell you what I think of the editor of the Orlando Sentinel. He is a man who is not fit to run some of our newspapers. He is a man who is not fit to run some of our newspapers. He is a man who is not fit to run some of our newspapers.

terday. Only a boy then I was lying awake listening to the storm which had increased from gusts of wind at sundown to the fury of a hurricane at two a. m., when my father knocked at my door and told me to call the boys, my younger brothers, for "Mother wanted us to see the storm as we might never see another like it," and I never have. It brings a smile to think that mother was afraid it would pass without our knowing or observing it. The storm continued three days without cessation and certainly in all these years I have never seen anything to approach the violence of the wind, accompanied with torrents of rain. It is not my purpose to try to describe it, were that possible.

It began about sunset of the 16th with scudding clouds from the northeast, increasing to storm violence about midnight. The incessant rain soon covered the ground, the wind blowing a gale all the time, at intervals increased to the violence of a hurricane. In the course of twenty-four hours the roots of the pine trees began to work loose in the ground, which had become a loll lolly and one by one the great pines, the size of which are seldom seen now, as they gradually lost their hold were slowly laid prone upon the ground, almost like some sick giant being laid to rest by tender hands. I'm trying to convey the idea that they were not blown down by a sudden violent wind, but their hold on the ground was gradually loosened and these great trees laid low. The worst and longest of the storm was from the northeast or rather a little north of east and then it slowly went round to the south and then on till it cleared in the northwest the afternoon of the third day. Hence, the trees were blown down from every direction, though most of them fell from the east. It may convey an idea of what I mean about loosening the trees in the ground to say that on our lot near the road we had a turkey oak grove of perhaps 500 trees of from 5 to 12 in diameter and most of them were blown down but every one of them was still in the hollowing of the roots.

The French government... The command of Lieutenant General de Selliers de Moranville, to Dunkirk. Hence in the face of insuperable difficulties, of which not the least was the lack of shipping they were conveyed to Normandy where the whole work of preparing them for the front had to be undertaken from the beginning. The most had to be hastily clothed, armed and equipped far from their own invaded country.

Hospital Centers Created Similarly at Rouen and this time with the assistance of the British Red Cross a hospital center was created including a large portable hospital situated above the town in a portion very healthy position, a section for medical officers, a section for nurses, a section for convalescents. Another hospital center, equally well equipped, was founded in the district of Rennes. Attached to these hospital organizations are convalescent homes.

Recruiting offices have been started in all French towns where assemblies of Belgian refugees are to be found, as also military establishments at all places through which the troops pass.

Most important of all, a school, known as the "Centre d'Instruction des Sous-lieutenants, auxiliaires, instructeurs," has been opened, at which a great number of picked noncommissioned officers and soldiers are taught a steady supply of well-trained officers.

BELGIUM NOW HAS SPLENDID ARMY

TRIBUTE TO ZEAL OF KING

Belgian Army More Numerous and Better Equipped Than It Was at Outbreak of the War—Difficulties Surmounted.

Paris.—It is hard indeed to recognize in the well-equipped and trained Belgian army of today the disheveled, war-weary troops who, at the end of a painful retreat and lacking almost every military necessity but courage, turned desperately to bay and helped to make history at the battle of the Yser.

The reorganization accomplished since October, 1914, is a remarkable testimony to the energy inspired by the example of King Albert and the zeal with which, often in very difficult circumstances, his officers have fulfilled their task.

The result of their efforts is that M. de Broqueville was able to declare recently that the Belgian army is more numerous and better equipped today than it was at the outbreak of war.

Start at the Beginning. When in October, 1914, Antwerp was evacuated, the Belgian recruits who had joined and, being still without arms or equipment, had been employed in digging trenches round the city, were sent back to the neighborhood of Furnes.

Driven thence by the approach of the Germans, they retired, under the command of Lieutenant General de Selliers de Moranville, to Dunkirk. Hence in the face of insuperable difficulties, of which not the least was the lack of shipping they were conveyed to Normandy where the whole work of preparing them for the front had to be undertaken from the beginning. The most had to be hastily clothed, armed and equipped far from their own invaded country.

SURGEON REVIVES 'DEAD' MAN

Messages Stabbed Heart, Then Stitches Up Wound—Patient Asks for Drink.

Muncie, Ind.—What is said to be a rare surgical operation was performed here by Dr. G. B. Anderson on Walter Joyce, twenty-five, who was stabbed in a fight.

Joyce had been pronounced dead by physicians. Doctor Anderson made an incision and massaged Joyce's heart a few times. There was soon a noticeable pulsation. Several stitches were taken to close a wound in the heart. Soon after Joyce revived and asked for a drink of water. His condition is satisfactory.

The leading character of "The Good Bad-Man," the new Triangle-Fine Arts release featuring Douglas Fairbanks, is an eccentric outlaw who calls himself "Passin' Thru." Believing himself to be of illegitimate parentage he devotes his life to helping other children who have been born that way.

For instance, he holds up the grocer in his store and robs him of enough footstuffs to supply a little 'lad of that kind who lives alone on the outskirts of town. Again, he shoots up a saloon to get the contents of the till for an outcast girl. Beyond that his depredations take queer form. He lately has held up the Pacific Express on its way across the desert for the sole purpose of robbing the conductor of his ticket punch, and with this punch he moves through the thrilling story, punching the scars or coat-tails of all the bad men he meets.

"Passin' Thru" knew his mother; but she died when he was very young, leaving him some cryptic letters and a miniature of herself as a girl just budding into womanhood. But she was quite unhappy and had had a hard struggle to get along, so he has inferred that his father must have been a scoundrel. But he soon is to learn some things to the contrary.

However, he first has a little adventure in love a region he has never explored before. And he finds it very pleasant indeed. He has ridden in to the holdings of "The Lost Treasure Mine," the shack at present occupied by a band of outlaws as desperate as himself known only by nicknames, and to the last man "wanted." He puts up at the home of the "Weazel," a crippled old reprobate who has a remarkably sweet and modest daughter named Amy. With Amy, "Passin' Thru" promptly falls in love.

Pioneer Resident Leaves $12,000 to Sacramento to Reduce the Tax Rate.

Sacramento, Cal.—According to the terms of the will of the late Phillip Miller, who died recently, the city of Sacramento will secure more than $12,000 to decrease the taxes. The estate is valued at $22,000. The will says: "The residue of the estate shall be paid into the general fund of the city of Sacramento, and shall not be made use of for any specific purpose, but shall be simply so used that it will to some extent decrease the taxes which the people would otherwise be compelled to pay."

There are several other beneficiaries under the will. Miller, who was unmarried, was a pioneer resident of the city.

"And I'm going to see that every one of them gets a square deal if my influence counts for anything," he said.

Mr. Jordan learned that young men who go to see their "best girls" in Lake county and take the last car back to Cleveland at night must wait three-quarters of an hour for a city car at the East Cleveland "Y" after midnight before they can continue their journey.

"I shall take the matter up with John Stanley of the Cleveland Railroad company and arrange with him to have a city car wait for the last interurban car," Mr. Jordan said.

SURRENDERS TO HUNGER; NOT FOE

Prussian Guard Maintains Its Reputation for Bravery.

OVIERS A RUBBISH HEAP

British Capture of Town Result of Bitterest Fight in Battle of Somme—Dogged and Desperate Defense.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

With the British Army in the Field.—In all the recent fighting the struggle for Oviuers stands out separately as a siege in which both attack and defense were of the most dogged and desperate kind.

The surrender of the remnants of its garrison ends an episode which will not be forgotten in history. These men were of the Third Prussian Guards, and the tribute paid to their bravery by our commander in chief is echoed by the officers and men who fought against them. It is a tribute to our own troops also, who, by no less courage, broke down the stubborn resistance and captured the garrison.

Many different battalions had a share in the fighting. All had suffered and then gave way to new men who knew not the nature of this business, but set grimly to work to carry on the slow process of digging out the enemy from his last strongholds. It was almost literally the work of digging out. The town of Oviuers does not exist. It was annihilated by bomb-barrages and made a rubbish heap of bricks and dust.

But after that, when our men were separated from the enemy by only a yard or two or by only a barricade or two, the artillery on both sides ceased the fire upon Oviuers, lest the gunners should kill their own men.

They barraged intensely round about. Our shells fell necessarily to the north and east, so that the beleaguered garrison should not get supplies or reinforcement, we made a wall of death about them. But though now no shells burst over the ground where many dead lay strewn, there was artillery of a lighter kind, not less deadly. It was the artillery of machine guns and bombs. The Prussian guards made full use of the value of cellars and ruined houses. They made a series of small keeps, which were defended almost entirely by machine gun fire.

Between the attacks of our bombing parties they went below ground into dark vaults, where it was safe enough from trench mortar and hand grenades, leaving a sentry or two on the lookout for any infantry assault. As soon as we advanced the machine guns set to work and played their hose of bullets across the ground which our men had to cover.

Guard Finally Gives Up.
One by one, by getting around about them, by working zigzag ways through cellars and ruins, by sudden rushes of bombing parties led by young officers of daring spirit, we knocked out these machine gun emplacements and the gunners who served them, until yesterday there was only a last remnant of the garrison left in Oviuers.

These men of the Third Prussian Guard long had been in a hopeless position. They were starving because all supplies were cut off by our never-ending barrage; they had no water supply, so suffered all the tortures of great thirst. They were living in a charnal house strewn with the dead bodies of their comrades and with wounded men delirious from lack of drink.

Human nature could make no longer resistance, and at last the officers raised the signal of surrender and came over with nearly 140 men, who held their hands up.

The fighting had been savage. At close grips, in broken earthworks and deep cellars, there had been no sentiment and British soldiers and Germans had flung themselves upon each other with bombs and any kind of weapons, but now, when all was ended, the last of the German garrison was received with the honors of war and none of our soldiers deny them the respect due to great courage.

Hen Hatches Woodpecker.

Federalburg, Ind.—It is unusual for a hen to hatch out a woodpecker. In an instance is reported by Ira Cordrey, a farmer living near here. The hen had been missing for some time. When found she was mothering eleven baby chicks and one tiny woodpecker, which appeared perfectly happy to let the hen scratch worms for it, and the hen is paying just as much attention to the little woodpecker as it is to her brood of chicks. The woodpecker's appearance is explained on the supposition that a woodpecker laid the egg in

This Overland is the world's most powerful low-priced car.

It has a 31 1/2 horsepower en bloc motor that is a perfect marvel for speed, power and endurance.

By increasing the bore of the motor from 3 1/8 to 3 3/8, we are able to offer a power plant which at 1950 R. P. M. develops full 31 1/2 horsepower.

Tests under every condition in all parts of the country demonstrate that it easily develops better than fifty miles per hour on the road.

Speed of course varies under different conditions, but in practically every instance it has been getting fifty miles an hour and with ease.

We have scores of telegrams showing that twenty to twenty-five miles per gallon of gasoline is not unusual.

The performance of this car is almost beyond belief.

Take any other low priced car on the market. Pit it against this new Overland. Compare them for sheer speed, for abundance of power, for riding comfort and economy, and you'll find this car will back anything else clean off the boards.

That's a strong statement, but a fact nevertheless.

Try it yourself and see. Here are more important facts.

It has four-inch tires which are more than generous for a car of this size.

Not only has it a large and roomy body, but it has an attractive, up-to-date streamline body.

It has the latest and most improved system of ignition.

It has the cantilever springs—the easiest riding springs in the world.

What's more, it's complete. Not a thing to buy. You get the finest Auto-Lite electric starting and lighting system, magnetic speedometer, one-man top, demountable rims and practically every accessory found on the highest priced cars.

It only goes to prove how big production can cut cost and save you money.

Chit-Chat of the Play Houses in Sanford

Grip of ashheesh in "Beggars of Cawnpore"

New Triangle Play shows H. B. Warner as victim of a Deadly Indian drug.

"The Beggars of Cawnpore," new Triangle play starring H. B. Warner which will be seen at the Lyric theater, beginning Friday, opens in a crumbling, stinking mud hut on the Indian desert about the year 1857.

Dr. Robert Lowndes of the British Army Medical Corps is striving with all his might and main to save Warner, the engineer and the only other white man for miles around. Warner, who has been engaged in running a government telegraph line across the desert is dying of fever. And despite everything his friend can do, he expires. The news of the death of the white sahib spreads like fire among the native workers; and, certain it is the dread cholera, they flee, leaving Lowndes alone with the dead and the Brahmin sergeant, Mulhar Rao. Lowndes dispatches the sergeant to Delhi and waits for his official release.

While that release is coming, Lowndes is fighting a fight against the blazing hell that would overcome ten ordinary men, and at last he seeks relief of the morphine in his cabinet. And when the months bring him to Delhi to Betty Archer, the girl he loves, the drug has claimed him as its victim. He confesses to Betty the bondage he suffers, and she exacts a promise from him that he will never touch it again. But he has a rival, Captain Douglas, who suspects the state of affairs, and tempts Lowndes to indulge his craving. In this he is discovered by Betty's father, who orders him out of the place, never to see his daughter again. And Lowndes, shamed, goes.

Six months after his disappearance from Delhi, Lowndes is living in a disreputable hut in Cawnpore, an associate of beggars and thieves, and himself the most disreputable of all. The only thing that keeps him alive is hashheesh, the Hindoo bang, a good cheap substitute for the expensive morphine. To obtain hashheesh he would beg or steal.

In the meantime Douglas marries Betty. But a bigger event is impending. The first rumblings of the Sepoy mutiny are heard. Unaware of her danger, and knowing only that she has been superseded in Douglas' affections by a dancing girl, the broken hearted Betty comes to Cawnpore to visit an aunt. And there Lowndes sees her and learns of her marriage.

And now the spark that is to set the whole of India in an uproar falls. At Cawnpore the few English soldiers with their precious charge of women and children, take refuge behind a pitiful line of defenses; but despite their heroism are compelled to surrender. And in the brave English band there is one coward, Douglas. In the garb of a servant, he tries to escape, but an English bullet brings him to his death.

Lowndes, learning of the mutiny in a vague way tries to throw off his habit. It is a terrible struggle. Then the white man within him awakens, and he goes to the rescue of Betty. What follows constitutes a sequence of scenes rarely thrilling and a decided histrionic triumph for Warner.

Mary Pickford in "Behind the Scenes"

Mary Pickford gives a pathetic charm and winsome grace to the dainty little actress who is the heroine of "Behind the Scenes," the charming drama of theatrical life by Margaret Mason, authoress of the famous farce, "Baby Mine," and the current comedy success, "Twin Beds." As Dolly Lane, Mary Pickford stirs the pulse and grips the heart, and gives one of the best screen performances of her career. Dolly Lane is a poor and pretty little girl who is forced to sell her bearing and to become a stage actress, and to give up her dreams of a poet and stage ambition, which are the dominant factors in her life. One night in the final scene of the play, she and her companions throw confetti into the audience, nearly blinding a young man who sits in one of the front rows of the orchestra. Dolly's sincere concern over the accident amply atones for it, and the young man, Steve Hunter, induces his friend, a wealthy young chap, to take him behind the scenes after the performance. There he and Dolly meet, and their romance began. Though not a devotee of the theatre himself, Steve is not long in falling in love with little Dolly, and one night after the lights of the theatre are dimmed they are made man and wife.

One day Steve receives word that an old uncle in the west is dying and that he is to come to him immediately. Steve goes, and Dolly now gives all her heart and energy to her work, succeeding so well that when an accident happens one day at rehearsal to the leading woman, Dolly is given that exalted position and told to be ready that night. She hurries home her heart full with the success so near at hand, to find Steve has returned from the west, the heir to his dead uncle's great wheat farm. She hears Steve's news, hardly conscious of what it means, and then tells him of his own good fortune; but instead of congratulating her, Steve tells her she will have to abandon her position on the stage and go west with him. After a terrific struggle between ambition and love, Dolly yields, surrenders her career and leaves all behind her to go west. But she soon wearies of the quiet farm and Steve's seeming neglect of her for his work, and one day, revolting against it all she returns to the city. The remaining part of the picture can best be understood by seeing it at the Star Saturday.

Lyric Friday "The Beggars of Cawnpore"

H. B. Warner, who several years won high honors on the speaking stage as the star in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," recently achieved another distinction during the production of "The Beggars of Cawnpore," Triangle feature, in which he is starred. It was that if being numbered among the most daring of the line players.

Warner at first was not seriously regarded as an athlete, when he arrived at Inceville. Therefore, when he was handed a script in which the part he was to play called for a long swim, some of the men who make a business of risking their lives in dangerous stunts, advised that one of their number would be picked for the task of doubling the star. But Warner decided that no one need "double" him, and told Producer Ince he would play the part.

On the day that the scene was made the air was raw and the Playa del Rey lagoon, which had been selected for the location was still flooded with the cold waters of one of California's record floods. A raft was constructed and Lola May, who plays the chief supporting role stepped on board. At a word from Charles Swickard, the director, Warner, fully clothed plunged into the water. Pushing the raft ahead of him, he swam for the opposite shore, a distance of 200 yards. He made the distance in safety and there again proved his nerve had not left him, when he plunged repeatedly into the water for a number of close-ups. He was in the water or standing on shore in his wet clothes for more than half a day. Afterward he declared that he had enjoyed the ordeal and was ready to undertake any other aquatic stunt that might be written for him.

Lyric Friday.

Adorable Marguerite Clark at the Star Monday

Famous Players star her in "Little Lady Eileen." "Come in, dear, and meet your future husband." If you were a little girl suddenly taken out of school and your father thus summoned you into his library, wouldn't your knees fairly crack with fright and wouldn't you feel like turning and running as fast as you could? And if the man to whom you were introduced as your future husband leered at you in a terrifying way wouldn't you wish that some good fairy would show you the way to escape from this man?

That is the situation which confronts "Little Lady Eileen" in the Famous Players production in which irresistible Marguerite Clark is being starred on the Paramount Program at the Star Theatre this week. But Eileen, who is a slip of an Irish lassie, believes implicitly in fairies and though she is terrified at George Churchill and hates him instinctively, she hopes in the bottom of her heart that the fairies will come to her rescue before it is too late. When she was in school she continually harassed the principal by reading fairy tales instead of studying her lessons and her highly imaginative mind received as facts the delightful stories which she read.

Do you believe in fairies? When Maude Adams asked that question at the end of her marvelous performance in "Peter Pan," every man, woman and child in the theatre invariably joined in the chorus of affirmatives. Now Marguerite Clark, herself the incarnation of the elf spirit is being starred by the Famous Players Film Company in its delightful fairy tale, "Little Lady Eileen." And if at the end of the performance little Miss Clark were to step out of the screen upon the stage and ask the audiences of the Star Theatre whether they too believe in fairies, there is little room for doubt that they would unanimously shout "Yes!"

"The Beggars of Cawnpore"

H. B. Warner, matinee idol—as a dirty, ragged opium soddan wreck, dreaming his wretched life away in the slums of the East Indian city of Cawnpore! It's a triumph of make-up and of acting such as has seldom been displayed by any actor on the screen. The handsome youthful features of the famous creator of "Alias Jimmy Valentine" are disguised by a straggling beard, his eyes are lifeless, he is no longer a man, but a decrepit, hopeless, lifeless thing—until the moment when a face out of the past awakens him, a great need calls his manhood into being, and he does what a man should do. Remarkable settings and costumes of India add to the attractiveness of "The Beggars of Cawnpore," one of Triangle's most notable releases. Lyric, Tonight

Pauline Frederick Star of "Woman in the Case"

Famous Players make magnificent adaptation of Clyde Fitch's celebrated dramatic success.

In this era when great stars are for the most part concentrating their efforts on the portrayal of one particular type of character, both on the screen and on the stage, it takes the courage of her convictions for a phenomenally successful "samurai" actress like Pauline Frederick to choose to interpret the role of the faithful, self-sacrificing wife. That, however, is what this celebrated Famous Players star has done in the adaptation of Clyde Fitch's tremendous dramatic success, "The Woman in the Case."

Despite the fact that all theatrical tradition has centered about the role of Claire Foster and that Blanche Walsh scored a great performance in that character, Miss Frederick decided that she would prefer to play the opposite and less conspicuous part of the faithful wife.

It is a convincing proof of the artistic genius of Miss Frederick that she has made Margaret Hughes, the loving wife, as convincing as she made "Bella Donna," Zaza, "Diana Roma" in "The Eternal City" and the other great characterizations which she has made in her career. Her reputation as the leading emotional actress of the screen.

There are many interesting and charming points about this adaptation which is the Paramount attraction at the Star Friday. The diagram plays an important part in the development of the plot and the opening scenes which are staged in Paris have a distinctly international flavor. There is the gay life of Paris before the great war and the scenes of hurry and bustle which followed the opening hostilities are faithfully portrayed.

The tragedy of the story takes place in America, where Claire Foster the woman of the world, conceives the villainous plan of accusing Julian Rolfe of murder when he robs her of one of her victims. The great struggle between Margaret and Claire, the one to save her husband and the other to condemn him is one of the most gripping incidents imaginable.

Material Was There.

Katie was starting out to spend the afternoon with her cousin, Nellie. Though the two little girls were fond of one another a few hours' play would frequently end in a vigorous dispute. "Now, Katie," said her mother, as she said good-by to her little daughter, "remember it takes two to make a quarrel." "Well," said Katie "there's me and her."

The Way It Goes.

"A man lives three lives—youth, manhood and age," philosophically stated Professor Pato. "Youth is the rising sun of life, when he thinks of what a heck of a feller he is going to be; manhood is the sun at full meridian, when he is satisfied that he is indeed a heck of a feller; age is the setting sun, when he sags around and brags about what a heck of a feller he used to be."—Judge.
