It's Back To Basics For Seminole County Youngsters

By JEAN PATTESON
Herald Staff Writer

The pendulum swings: In recent years, Seminole County mathematics students have been strong in concepts, but weak in computation. Now it seems, they will go back to drilling the basics of addition and subtraction, multiplication and division.

This information, which the Seminole County School Board regards as heartening, was a by-product of an instructional presentation made at Wednesday night's school board meeting by teachers at Tuskawilla Middle School.

The presentation was designed to show how the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills (CTBS) is utilized at Tuskawilla as a tool to provide students with a carefully planned, meaningful educational program.

Test results achieved by the local students over the past two school years were illustrated graphically in comparison to national reference groups.

This comparison is interesting, but is not the main purpose of the testing, the school board was advised.

Rather, the CTBS is used for diagnostic purposes. First, it is used to evaluate the strengths and weaknesses of the entire student body in order to determine what areas need special attention.

Also, through the guidance department, individual students are advised as to the meaning of the test results and how improvements can be made.

The Tuskawilla staff and principal, Owen R. McCarron, feel the CTBS is the single most effective tool available to use for these purposes.

Tuskawilla students are tested in September, and retested in April.

Analysis of the results identifies areas of concern and evaluates progress from the previous year. Teachers then work out specific plans to remedy the problem areas.

One of these specific plans was to concentrate on the basic skills of computation, rather than on more advance concepts.

"In other words," commented school board member Allan Keeth, "you mean drill."

"We mean drill," responded the Tuskawilla teachers.

"Historically," interjected School Supt. William P. Layer, Seminole County has been high in concept, but low in computation."

The CTBS is being used in the school to evaluate strengths and diagnose weaknesses. The prescription to overcome computational weaknesses, is drill.

County Loses $162,000 Grant To So. Carolina

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

Bypassing Florida and Seminole County, the U.S. Department of Labor has awarded a $162,000 grant to South Carolina, Bob Ellis said today.

Ellis, acting administrative assistant to the county commission, said he was disappointed Seminole lost the entire award, which would have been used to teach English to persons whose mother tongue is any language other than English.

Since the Disney boom, more and more Spanish-speaking persons have moved to Seminole County.

The program was to be administered by Seminole Community College and the grant was applied for through the county's Comprehensive Education and Training Act (CETA) program.

"It seems to me they (labor officials) could have spread the money around a little," Commission Chairman Michael Hattaway said.

Ellis said he was unaware of any specific reason why all the money was awarded to South Carolina.

The grant was applied for months ago by Jim Bedsole, CETA director. At that time, SCC officials apparently at a county commission meeting with Bedsole. Everyone was enthused about the grant.

One of the most difficult problems a non-English speaking person faces is the difficulty in getting a job because of communication problems.

And, Bedsole says the first step toward securing a paying job is to learn the language. Then other federally funded programs take over and try and teach skills that will enable a person to compete in the economic marketplace.

Both Ellis and Hattaway said grant money other than the $162,000 went, also, to South Carolina.

Others Focus On Florida Bayh Drops Out Of Race

By The Associated Press

Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh suspended his active campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination today, while four other Democrats began their drive toward Florida's March 9 primary election.

Bayh told a New York news conference he had made his decision because after his seventh place finish in Tuesday's Massachusetts primary election, "our campaign treasury is depleted."

But he said he would "continue to speak out on the issues that concern the American people."

He did not throw his support to another candidate. He said he was urging his backers to take "an active role" in the Democratic campaign.

Bayh had met for more than five hours Wednesday with campaign aides in Washington, then flew to New York for another meeting with supporters there. He planned to return to Washington after the news conference to spend the day in his office.

Ronald Reagan, President Ford's challenger for the Republican nomination, was headed for Florida today to step up his own campaign.

Florida's primary is the first major test in the South for Alabama Sen. George Wallace and ex-Governor Jimmy Carter. Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, winner of the Massachusetts election, and Gov.

Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania are running there, too.

The ballot lists a dozen Democrats, but only four have actively campaigned in the state where Wallace won overwhelmingly four years ago with 41.6 per cent of the vote.

The GOP race is considered crucial, particularly for Reagan. Both Ford and the former California governor all but ignored Massachusetts last week to concentrate on Florida.

Ford edged Reagan in the first-in-the-nation New Hampshire primary, then overwhelmed the challenger in Massachusetts and Vermont. Reagan was not on the ballot in Vermont.

In Washington, Ford campaign aides said the President has no plans to visit Florida before Tuesday's election. He made two trips to the state in February, and has predicted victory in the primary.

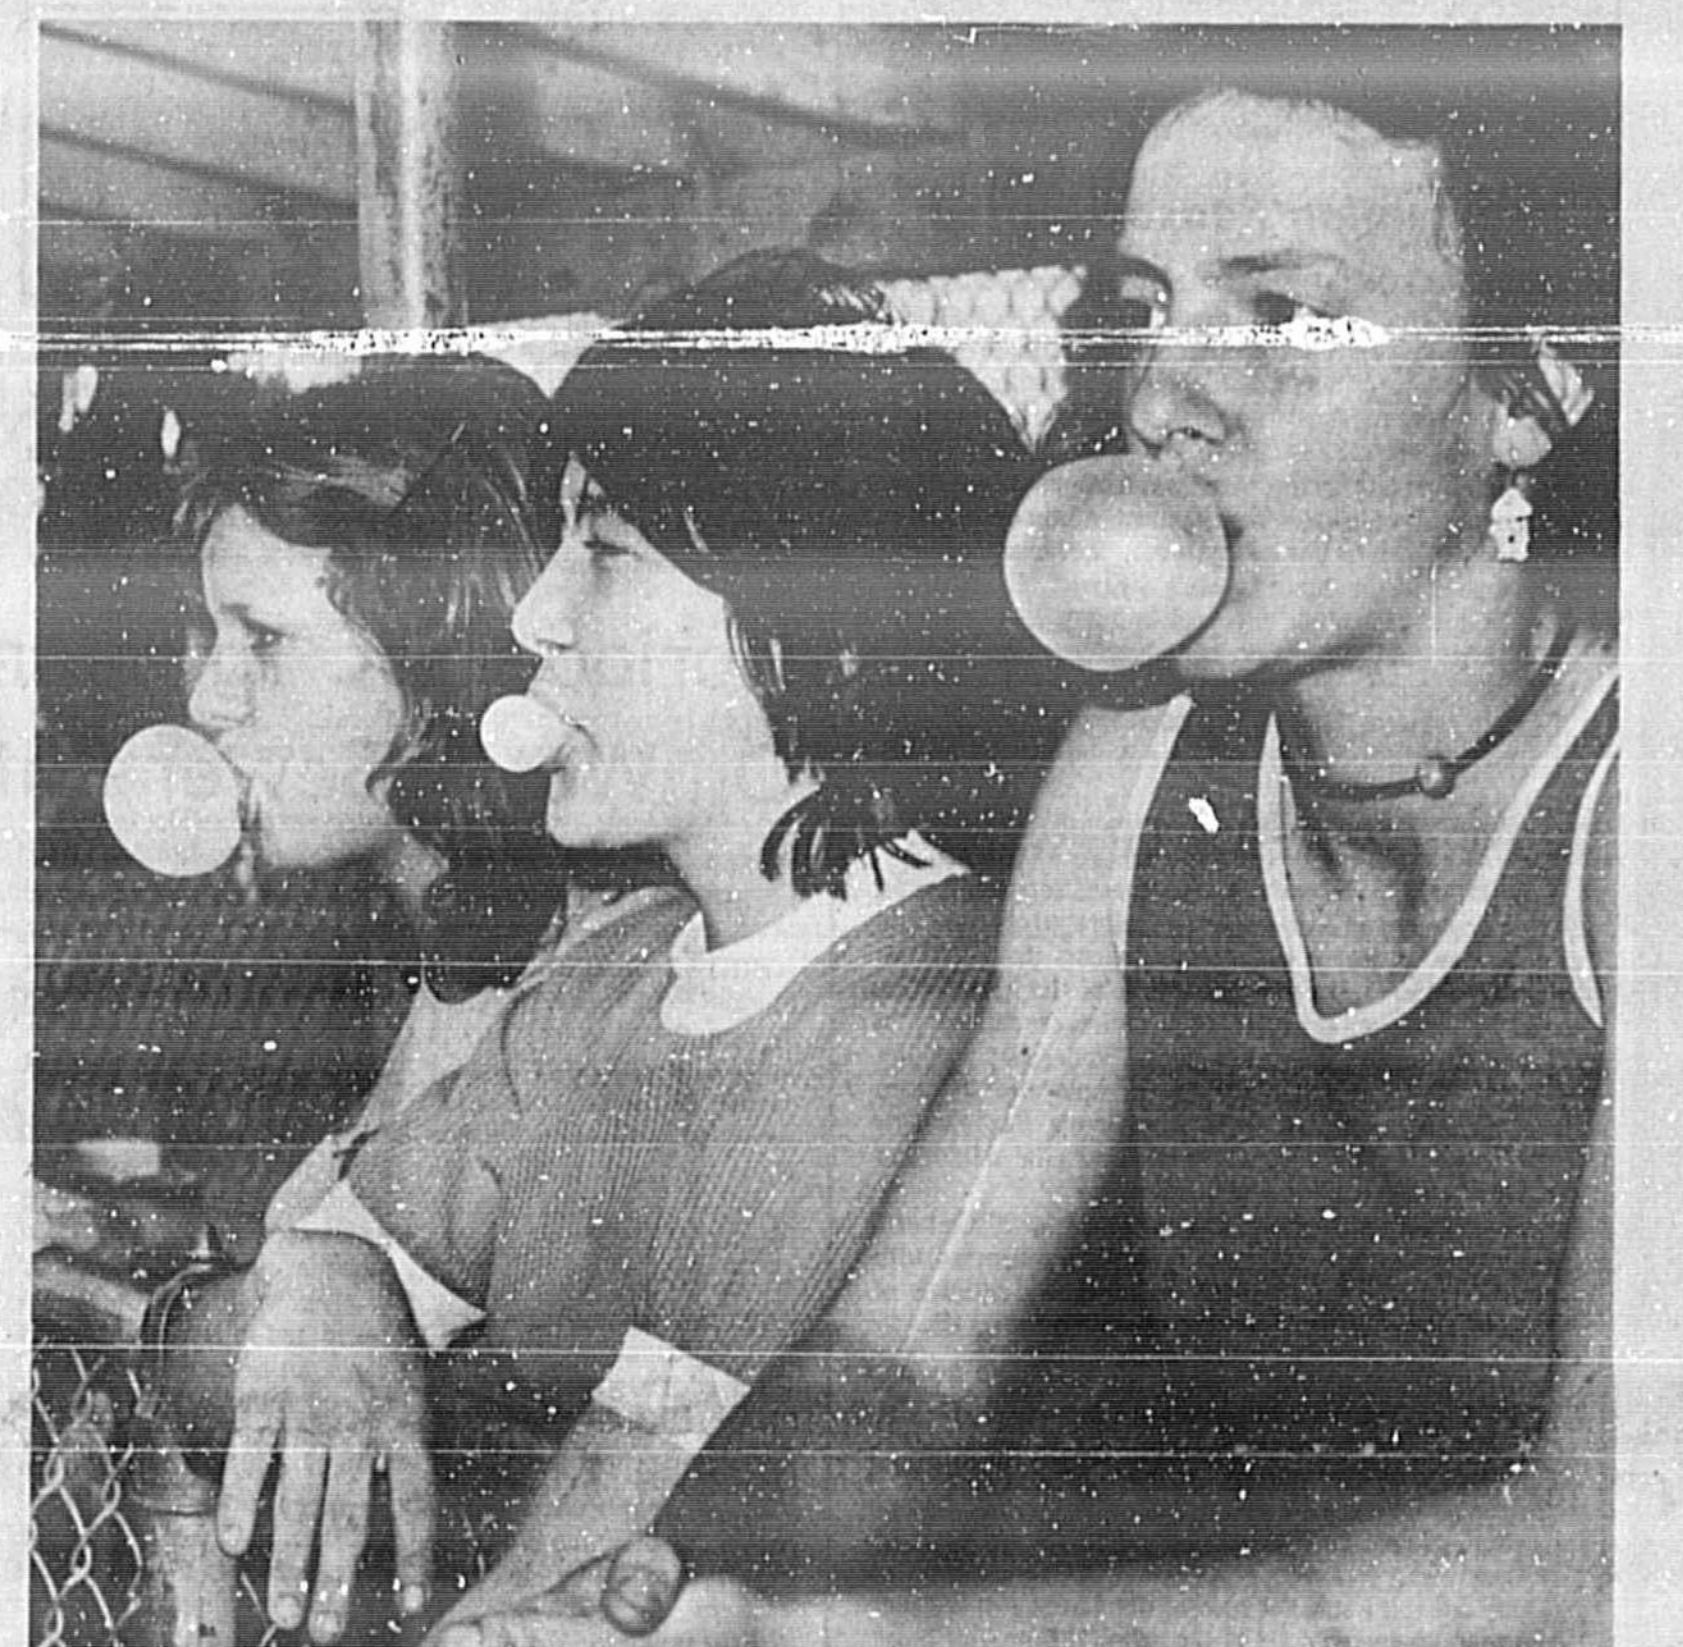

Among Democrats, Jackson has rejected the notion that the Wallace-Carter race is the focal point for Florida's primary. At several campaign stops in the state Wednesday, he declared, "It's a lose-lose issue race."

Jackson wouldn't say who would get the biggest share of Florida's 81 Democratic national convention delegates, but he told reporters in Tampa, "I am the only candidate to beat George Wallace. Gov. Carter has met him three times and was defeated three times."

Jackson apparently referred to the Massachusetts election and party caucuses in Mississippi and South Carolina.

Carter, who visited five Florida cities Wednesday, conceded he underestimated Jackson in Massachusetts. Carter ran fourth there.

Tentative Approval Granted

Courtesy Busing Policy Ok'd

A new courtesy busing policy was given tentative approval Wednesday night by the Seminole County School Board, which authorized its advertisement.

The policy, presented by Carmen W. Hall, spokesman for the County Wide Advisory Committee's busing committee, requires that the school superintendent establish a safety committee to determine hazardous conditions for transporting students within two miles of the school, or within one-and-a-half miles between the home and nearest bus stop.

The safety committee will be composed of appropriate county and municipal authorities, school staff and advisory members.

This committee will review data collected during an on-site inspection of proposed courtesy busing zones. It will make a recommendation to the superintendent to either provide or refuse courtesy busing.

Each area will be reviewed annually to establish whether continued courtesy busing is required. The school board will determine which routes be reviewed on-site — some routes, such as those along busy highways SR-436 and U.S. 17-92, absolutely require continued busing without an on-site review being conducted.

If an area shows marked improvement in safety during the year, it will be examined by procedures to determine if courtesy busing should be discontinued.

If the area should disqualify for courtesy busing, the service will be discontinued after proper notification of school and parents.

Any changes in courtesy busing must receive school board approval. The board will also act as an "appeal board" in situations where a conflict arises.

Requests for courtesy busing, however, should be submitted to the schools superintendent.

The board directed Schools Supt. William P. Layer to get out an administrative order that only school principals be authorized to suspend students from school. Layer was also instructed to examine an apparent breakdown in communications between school authorities and parents relating to discipline problems in school.

This action was prompted by the request of a parent, Cmdr. Melbourne King, that two suspensions against his son at Lake Branley High School be revoked.

Harden Sentenced: 5 Years In Prison

Ben Harden Jr. of Sanford was sentenced to five years in prison plus 10 years probation today for the Nov. 12 shotgun slaying of his ex-wife, 47-year-old Laura Mae Harden.

Harden, 46, had been convicted of second-degree murder in the case by a circuit court jury Jan. 9 but the court granted a motion by defense attorney Newman Brock for a new trial. The re-trial had been scheduled for this week, but then Brock withdrew the motion.

The new trial had been granted on the grounds that Circuit Judge A.J. Hoseman Jr. erred by not going to the slaying scene, the couple's 1808 Mulberry Ave., Sanford, residence with the jury.

Today Judge Hoseman meted the split sentence for Harden after Brock withdrew the motion for a new trial.

The sentence was in accord with negotiations between Brock and Assistant State Atty. Claude Van Hook. Judge Hoseman was party to the negotiations and told Harden what his sentence would be at the start of the proceeding today.

At his trial Harden testified that his ex-wife tried to shoot him with a shotgun inside their house and he took the weapon from her.

The dead woman's relatives testified they saw Harden chase her from the house and blast her with the shotgun.

Harden testified he shot in self-defense when he thought his ex-wife was reaching for a pistol in her clothing. Authorities said no pistol was found at the slaying scene.

NATION IN BRIEF

Congressional Probers Say Gas Shortage Exaggerated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators claim the U.S. gas industry may be oversteering the nation's gas shortage by as much as 102.7 trillion cubic feet.

That represents enough gas to cover this year's projected shortages by "at least one hundred times over," Michael Lemov, chief counsel of the House oversight and investigations subcommittee, said Wednesday.

Lemov appeared at a Senate Interior Committee hearing to support legislation that would establish an independent federal agency to collect and evaluate energy data.

Lemov, speaking on behalf of the House panel's chairman, Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., said the subcommittee compared figures submitted by the American Gas Association on reserves of 153 offshore gas fields with an unpublished survey of the same fields recently conducted by the U.S. Geological Survey.

Resignation Reasons Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The scientist who recently quit as the government's solar energy chief says he resigned because of "a number of reasons," including the fact that he was not given the authority to carry out his duties.

John M. Tera, former assistant administrator of the Energy Research and Development Administration in charge of solar, geothermal and advanced energy systems, said the White House's Office of Management and Budget "is getting involved in much greater detail than it should" in solar energy planning.

He also said the administration failed to seek sufficient funds in its fiscal 1977 budget request to stimulate interest in solar energy.

Lockheed Shakeup

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lockheed Aircraft Corp., jarred by a payroll scandal involving foreign officials, has undergone a major corporate shakeup that puts international operations under control of the home office and includes retirement of three senior executives.

Among the retirements announced Wednesday was that of John W. Clutter, 64, a Lockheed employee for 37 years who headed the giant aerospace firm's Far Eastern operations while Japanese agents were paid millions of dollars to promote aircraft sales.

A Lockheed spokesman refused to say if Clutter's retirement — and the two others — were connected with disclosures that the troubled firm had paid officials of foreign governments to ensure sales of its aircraft.

Urban Unemployment High

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's major metropolitan areas are still experiencing recession-level unemployment rates despite an improving national job picture.

For the third straight month, the Labor Department reported Wednesday, 131 of the nation's 150 major labor areas were classified as having substantial unemployment of 6 percent or more. Manchester, N.H., was dropped from the list while Kenosha, Wis., was added in the December accounting.

The unemployment rate ranged from a low of 4.2 percent in Richmond, Va., and Harrisburg, Pa., to 15.1 percent in Muskegon, Mich.

Bad Weather Plagues Nation

By The Associated Press

A large part of the nation was experiencing bad weather this morning. Inclement stretched from Arizona, through the south and central Rockies, across the Midwest and into the Northeast.

A strong winter storm centered over New Mexico dumped more than 10 inches of snow in the area, with south and central portions of the Rockies also receiving heavy snow. Parts of Arizona expected accumulations of up to 15 inches.

Wholesale Prices May Climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — Administration officials say they would not be surprised if wholesale prices started climbing again after remaining flat since October.

"They've been essentially flat or unchanged for the past three months and we could expect some increase in the report," said James L. Pate, a White House economist. "They're not going to remain flat forever."

Vegetable Summary

CABBAGE — Shipments for the week ending Feb. 21st were 513 carlots, or 28th week of the year. Volume shipped from Texas last week declined to 390 carlots. Supplies in Central and North Florida are heavy. Trading activity is only fair at $2.00-2.25 mostly $2.00 per crate F.O.B.

CARROTS — Volume shipped last week was 44 carlots up 1 load from the week ending Feb. 21st. Trading activity is moderate at $3.00 per 48-1 lb film bags F.O.B.

OTHER VEGETABLES — Supplies of other vegetables from Central and North Florida continue light. Supplies of radishes from the muck land around Zellwood are increasing and first offerings of the spring crop of leafy items (Endive-Escarole, Mixed types of Lettuce) are expected in about 2 weeks.

Held On $10,500 Bond

Indicted Man Returned

by BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

A 38-year-old former central Florida resident, indicted by a federal grand jury probing illegal gambling activities, was held in county jail today in lieu of $10,500 bond after being returned from Los Angeles.

Jack Leroy Crenshaw, 38, was indicted on two counts of bookmaking and a charge of maintaining a gambling house in connection with an alleged sports betting operation at an Altamonte Springs apartment.

Crenshaw was also charged in a separate warrant with resisting an officer without violence.

Man Sought
Sheriff's detectives today were searching for a black man who held an insurance routeman at gunpoint Wednesday night in the Midway community east of Sanford and robbed him of $400.

Glenn Verville, 46, of Altamonte Springs, told deputies that he was sitting in his car at 8:45 p.m. when a man approached the vehicle, stuck a pistol in a window and demanded money.

Deputy C.M. Hamilton reported the armed man fled on foot.

Florida's PSC To Hear Request On Water, Sewer Rate Hike

by JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

WINTER SPRINGS — The Florida Public Service Commission (PSC) has set March 19 as the date for a public hearing regarding rate increases requested by the North Orlando Water and Sewer Corp., which was announced at this week's meeting of the Winter Springs City Council.

The hearing will be held at the Ambassador Diplomat Room of Howard Johnson's at 603 Lee Road, Winter Park at 9:30 a.m.

Mayor Troy Piland said the city will still offer the use of the city hall for the hearing at no cost for the convenience of North Orlando Water and Sewer Corp., customers in the city.

The council had previously notified the PSC that the city, by ordinance, sets utility fees in the city and should have jurisdiction in this case, but PSC continued with plans to hear the request.

In another question of jurisdiction, Sheriff John Polk informed the city he would be happy to give the city jurisdiction over the portion of SR 419 adjacent to the city, but not within its limits. However, County Attorney Tom Freeman advised the only way this could be done would be by special legislative act.

The question was raised by Police Chief John Gorenkuk, who said his department averaged at least one call a month on accidents outside the city limits. Small sections of SR 419 are within the city.

It was determined, in order to give the county complete jurisdiction, it would have to be de-annexed and for the city to assume jurisdiction other sections would need to be annexed and in some cases, this could not be done legally.

Council instructed Gorenkuk to continue to respond to emergencies, but to remain on the scene until the arrival of a sheriff's deputy. Piland told the police chief to keep a time log "to see if we should bill the Sheriff's Department for time expended and if it gets too much out of line we might have to bill the sheriff and come up with some contractual agreement."

Piland instructed Gorenkuk to contact the county's animal control officer regarding poor dog catching service given by the county within the city.

"The next step," Piland said, "would be to discuss with the county commission the fact that they are not holding up their end of the contract."

Gorenkuk said, "They claim they patrol periodically and pick up dogs, but my men, to date, say they have not seen the first one (dog catcher)."

It's Back To Basics

only did the graphs show a marked increase in computational achievement, they also indicated a strengthening of students' grasp of more abstract concepts.

This increased emphasis on drill is being used not only in mathematics, but in other areas as well, such as reviewing the basic rules in language.

According to Asst. Supt. Dan Daggs, the same general procedure is used in all the county's middle schools after the results of CTBS testing have been analyzed.

Bayh Drops Out

"We concentrated on Iowa, New Hampshire and Florida among the early states," he told about 1,500 persons at a Green Cove Springs fish fry. "I won in Iowa and New Hampshire, and I will have no excuses for Florida."

In Miami—a city with a huge Cuban refugee population—Wallace told a political club gathering that Fidel Castro's government "will never be recognized by us as long as I'm president of the United States."

Shannon went the day in Miami on business, then headed for Tampa, where he told two civic clubs, "I won't say I'm delighted in getting 36 percent of the vote. I'm delighted. But I think picking up a couple of delegates for a six-week campaign is not too bad."

Shapp won one delegate in Massachusetts.

Robert Strauss, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said in Washington he now feels the party's presidential candidate may be picked through negotiation at the national convention. He said he doubts Bayh will throw his support to Arizona Rep. Morris Udall.

Udall finished second to Jackson in Massachusetts and characterized himself as the leading candidate of the party's "progressive" wing.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Officials Tallying Results Of University Unions Vote

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — With competing unions claiming that victory is at hand, about 5,000 ballots are being counted in the state university collective bargaining election.

Pat Hill, Public Employee Relations Commission elections supervisor, says he expects to complete the count today but challenges could delay the final tally until Friday.

Faculty members and other employees of the nine state universities voted Tuesday and Wednesday on whether they would be represented by a union in collective bargaining with the Board of Regents.

Two unions, the United Faculty of Florida and the American Association of University Professors-Florida, were on the ballot with a third option—a union representation.

Group Praises Carter

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Former Florida Gov. Jimmy Carter drew praise from Florida's environmentalists, says a Washington-based conservation group.

Joe Browder, director of the League of Conservation Voters, said Carter "was little to distinguish him from other presidential primary candidates on environmental issues, says a Washington-based conservation group."

Browder said he timed release of the league's environmental ratings for maximum impact on the Florida primary. He said he personally supported Carter but that the league was taking no official position.

Askew Losses Predicted

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Senator Dempsey Barron says Gov. Reubin Askew's defeat over the confirmation of J. Keller may be the forerunner of similar losses.

Askew's appointment of Keller as head of the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services last year was rejected by the Senate after a bitter fight.

Barron, D-Panama City, pledged Wednesday that each Askew appointment would receive even more scrutiny this year. He made the pledge as the Senate Judiciary-Criminal Committee wrapped up its first round of confirmation hearings.

Legislators To Be Barred

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A Cabinet hearing on whether six General Services Department officials should be fired will proceed Monday without legislators who recommended the dismissals, Gov. Reubin Askew says.

Askew made the statement Wednesday to Rep. Earl Dixon after the House appropriations subcommittee chairman said legislators would not appear as prosecutors at an adversary hearing.

"At no point in time have we ever entertained the thought of being a party to adversary hearings at the Cabinet level," said a letter to Askew signed by the five subcommittee members who voted for the dismissal.

Pay Raises Idea Dropped

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Budget Director Joe Cresse has talked a House subcommittee out of annual cost-of-living pay raises for state employees.

Subcommittee chairman Herb Morgan, D-Tallahassee, said Wednesday the panel dropped the idea after Cresse said such raises would "create an economic situation in your spending program that the revenue's not going to be available to meet."

Cresse pointed out that the cost of living increased 20 percent in the past two years while the real income of Floridians—the ultimate source of most state taxes—dropped by five per cent.

HRS Budget Scrutinized

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A House subcommittee chairman who chased a Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services official away from budget hearings is now turning his attention to the agency's administrative costs.

Rep. Earl Dixon, D-Jacksonville, said Wednesday that he would tell agency officials today to slice by half their budget request for 1,182 administrative service positions.

He said there was no reason why the huge social-service agency had to have 350 accountants, as sought in the budget request.

Growth Referendum Asked

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida Keys residents should be given a chance to vote on development controls which would sharply restrict the numbers of their new neighbors, the head of a citizens group says.

William Keiser, president of the Greater Key West Citizens Committee, said Wednesday he would ask the Cabinet Tuesday to call a referendum on growth before adopting development regulations for the Keys.

"I'm seeing nothing in here asking the people how many people they want to live there and how many they are willing to pay for," said Keiser.

EPA Mine Report Criticized

Judge Carter To Rule Today

Hearst Evidence May Be Thrown Out

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst's reputation of two of her underground companions may divert her attorney's efforts to have damaging evidence against her thrown out.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter said Wednesday he would decide "first thing in the morning" whether to throw out evidence seized at the last hideout of Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris.

Carter said that in making his decision he would give serious consideration to the prosecution's argument that Miss Hearst "lacks standing" to dispute the evidence because in her testimony she discovered the Harris.

Miss Hearst's trial for bank robbery hit a day-long snag when defense attorney F. Lee Bailey, prompted by P. Lee 1974 San Francisco bank holdup in which she is charged. Miss Hearst's lawyers have tried to show she took part in the robbery and stayed with the group out of fear for her life from SIA members, including the Harris.

A judge in Los Angeles ruled Monday that the evidence was not admissible in the Harris case, which involves state charges stemming from activities there in May 1974. The same judge ruled Wednesday that evidence seized in an FBI search of Miss Hearst's hideout could be used.

In Miss Hearst's case, the government denied Bailey's contention that the FBI knew for at least 30 hours the identities of the Harris and had sufficient time to obtain a search warrant.

Two FBI agents who participated in tracking down the remnants of the terrorist band that kidnaped Miss Hearst on Feb. 4, 1974, testified during a two-hour hearing Wednesday that they were not certain of the Harris' identities until moments before the Sept. 18 arrest.

Miss Hearst was captured shortly thereafter at another house several miles away. Jurors were not present during the evidentiary hearing, remaining sequestered at their hotel.

Leo Brenneisen, an FBI agent who assisted in the capture of the Harris, said he was not absolutely certain it was the fugitives until he approached them as they returned from jogging.

Because the arrest occurred on the sidewalk, a search warrant normally would have been required to enter the apartment. The agents, however, said they broke a window, searched the flat but did not touch anything until they obtained a warrant the following day.

Another FBI agent, Lawrence Lawler, confirmed that the Harris house had been under surveillance for more than 24 hours before their arrests and told of standing "within 18 inches" of Harris a day earlier.

Lawler said he had spotted a man matching Harris' description enter a "landrum" on Sept. 17. He followed the man, clad in cutoff jeans, into the facility and noticed a scar on one knee.

"That was one of my purposes in going into the landrum," he said, "to notice any characteristics that would help us identify that individual."

Graduate Group Says Roads Are Deteriorating

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Because of inadequate funding, the number of miles of poor highways in Florida has more than doubled since 1972, a road construction group charges.

Some 38.9 per cent of Florida's 38,129 miles of roads and streets are rated poor by federal engineering standards compared to 17.9 per cent in 1972, the Florida Transportation Builders Association said in a study Wednesday.

It said the main problem was that highways were being allowed to deteriorate because not enough resurfacing was being done.

The study said that Florida could save $4.9 billion by resurfacing 38,170 miles of badly worn roads before they deteriorate further and have to be rebuilt at a cost of $6.3 billion.

"It's a waste of public funds to let Florida's roads deteriorate to the point where they must be rebuilt when that isn't necessary," said Edward Chadbourne Jr. of Pensacola, chairman of the association.

Chadbourne said the problem was that the State Department of Transportation and city and county highway departments were not keeping pace with the necessary funds to keep pace with resurfacing needs.

Jay Newman, a spokesman for the state DOT, agreed. "There is no question we should be spending more money on resurfacing," he said. "It's going to take many years to get all roads up to a reasonable condition. The longer we wait the worse it is going to be."

Newman said one of the problems was that the price of asphalt, an oil-based product, had soared and that the same amount of dollars could do only half the resurfacing it could a few years ago.

The study recommended that $77.8 million needs to be spent each year for resurfacing in Florida compared to the $80.2 million being spent by all levels of government.

The study said that Florida motorists could save 10.8 million gallons of gasoline a year driving on resurfaced roads because the smooth pavement would make driving easier and reduce the number of accidents.

The five-year resurfacing program the group called for would create 12,419 jobs.

The action will prevent any major decline in consumer prices for milk and milk products, USDA economists said.

But said the increase is necessary to help offset farmers' rising production costs and to insure an adequate flow of milk. He added the supports would be reviewed quarterly and adjusted if necessary to maintain the supply.

The price support involves an indirect subsidy to farmers. When milk prices fall below the support level, the government buys surplus butter, cheese and dried milk to boost the prices paid to the support level.

Allowing for 11.6 gallons of milk in each 100 pounds, the increase is equal to about 3.8 cents per gallon or nearly 1 cent per quart for milk used in making dairy products.

Brazil-U.S. Pact Is Significant

Signing of an agreement for a new "special relationship" between the United States of America and Brazil has made the most news on Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's visit to Latin America. It is significant both for the recognition it accords Brazil as the most powerful nation in South America and for the impact it may have on other Latin nations.

Mr. Kissinger began his trip with a speech in Venezuela calling for more "realism" in relations between Latin America and the United States. Establishing a new framework for our relations with Brazil, somewhat like that between the United States and Japan, is based on the reality of Brazil's emergence as the predominant economic power in Latin America. It also reminds Latin Americans that the United States cannot realistically pursue a "Latin American policy" that treats all nations identically, even if that is what some of them would like to see.

Brazil is an example of a "developing" Third World nation whose development is following a clear direction. Brazil is rich in natural resources, but its government has resisted the idea — prevalent among many Third World nations — that exporters of raw materials should form cartels to control prices of their commodities. Brazil has recognized that its continued economic development depends on good trade relations with the more advanced industrial nations and on the technology that those nations can provide in return.

The favorable bilateral trade agreements expected to flow from the new pact are likely to arouse the jealousy of our other Latin trading partners. They are still complaining about the provision in our 1974 Trade Act which would deny special tariff considerations to Venezuela and Ecuador which they belong to the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, a resource cartel. Mr. Kissinger, who had urged Congress not to write that provision into the law, no doubt has offered some hope that it might be changed since neither Venezuela nor Ecuador went along with the Arab oil embargo.

Nevertheless, the Brazilian pact should give Venezuela and Ecuador a new reason to consider whether, on balance, their long-range interests are best served by belonging to OPEC. By extension the same question must loom in the minds of those Latin American leaders, particularly President Luis Echeverria of Mexico, who are beating the drum for the OPEC-style of confrontation between developing countries and the advanced nations whose trade and technology they need. Mr. Kissinger has given tangible form to the new "realism" in our relations with Latin America sooner than his audience may have expected.

Spoiling Africa

Rife with corruption, intrigue and rebellion, the new nations of Africa are hardly in a position to resist the Soviet overtures established on their continent. During 1975, governments were overthrown in Chad and Nigeria. The leader of the Malagasy Republic was assassinated. Unsuccessful coups were attempted in Sudan and Benin.

If the Russians have their way with Africa, those Africans who now welcome them will learn one day to their sorrow that they have subjugated themselves to a new and virulent form of colonialism they profess to oppose.

New Facility Serves Texas Gulf Coast

Houston Public Library Is Booming

HOUSTON (AP) — As libraries across the country face severe budget and service cuts and even closing of branch units, Houston Public Library is booming.

Just last October, the system welcomed its fourth branch in two years, bringing the city-wide total to 74, with another scheduled this spring.

And early this year Houston Public Library opened its imposing new downtown facility. A $10.5-million superstructure, the system's new nerve center was financed through public library bond monies and general revenue sharing funds. And, despite the scale and scope of the new building, the new library will continue to operate within its $5.4-million budget — one of the country's lowest per capita for city libraries.

Spanning eight floors and 334,000 square feet, the new building is enabling HPL to enlarge its collection from 425,000 to 2 million books, half of which will be housed in open stacks.

And, say the architects, S. I. Morris Associates of Houston, there's enough room to grow for the next 20 years.

Inside and out, the bold, contemporary structure combines granite and glass to stress the substance of "library" — permanent, open access to information and learning. Octagonal-shaped, the new structure is centrally planned around the expanded 16-man circulating library and other nonprint materials, including cassette tapes and listening equipment in each public department, plus video cassette players to foster self-learning.

"We tried to design a building that is easy for patrons to use," says library director David Henington. "For easy access, the departments will be limited to Humanities; Fine Arts and Recreation; Social Sciences; Business and Technology; Bibliographic and Information Center; Government Documents; Children's Department; and Film Library."

Within 6 to 10 months, a computerized circulation system should be in operation at the new library, Henington says. Based on a system for super-market pricing, the program will speed checkout of library items and locate any book in the system.

Besides regular programs, exhibits and seminars at the central agency, a year-long schedule of festivities is planned by the Friends of Houston Public Library to inaugurate the facility.

Outside, one side of the octagon forms a portico facing the Library Plaza (formerly by a short street). And under it all is a 74,000-square-foot parking garage with space for 180 cars. Elevators and escalators transport patrons from garage to library levels.

The new central library is designed to serve the entire Gulf Coast region as a major resource and information center. Its innovative programs include special services for minority and small businesses, an expanded 16-man circulating library and other nonprint materials, including cassette tapes and listening equipment in each public department, plus video cassette players to foster self-learning.

'Car Of Tomorrow' Described

BRUSSELS (AP) — It will never be necessary to adjust the carburetor on the car of tomorrow. A European expert predicts that a small electronic device and a foolproof magnetic contact breaker will take everything into account for the life of the engine.

Advances in semiconductors and integrated circuits mean that the total integration of carburetion and ignition is around the corner," according to Joseph Gerard Wurm, a Common Market expert on automobiles.

He said that sensors would feed the electronic device with all the information it needed on the water temperature, atmospheric pressure, the speed of the engine and other factors to make sure that as much of the fuel as possible was burned with the smallest emission of pollutants.

Wurm described "The Car of Tomorrow" in an article for "Industry and Society," published by the European Commission, the Common Market executive. He told the Associated Press that one American firm — Chrysler — has made a lot of progress in using transistors in its ignition system. But he saw centralized electronics for ignition and carburetion as still five or six years off.

His predictions were made with European cars largely in mind, but he said American models would follow the same trend.

U.S. Presidents To be Featured

NEW YORK (AP) — It's hard to believe, but there's film footage of the pandemonium that followed the fatal shooting of President William McKinley at the Pan-American exposition in Buffalo, N.Y., in 1901.

Not only that, there's some equally rare footage of his successor — Theodore Roosevelt — attending McKinley's funeral in Ohio, according to Mert Koplin and Charles Grinker. And they should know.

Since 1960, they've run a small company here which specializes in making programs that use both obscure and familiar film footage of major and minor events and newsmakers of the 20th century.

And they'll be using the McKinley and Roosevelt footage in one of their four TV specials about 20th century U.S. presidents, first ladies, vice-presidents and assorted minority party candidates for the presidency.

Their one-hour programs, bankrolled by Scripps-Howard Broadcasting Co. and Newsweek Stations, Inc., are being syndicated for showing by TV stations around the nation in April, May, June and July.

For Koplin and Grinker, collectors of the Corporation for Entertainment and Learning, Inc., unearthing rare or unusual historical film is a labor of love, as well as profit.

As Koplin puts it, "We're doing for a living what we enjoy as a hobby."

For competitive reasons, they aren't too specific about where their more unusual footage comes from.

But they will point to companies owning old newsreel films, the National Archives, the Library of Congress, various state and county museums and historical societies as good sources of the rare or unusual.

And occasionally they get a tip about a garage somewhere that holds, say, 18 cans of President Calvin Coolidge going about his business.

Citing newsreel footage of the late, flamboyant Gov. Huey Long of Louisiana as an example, Grinker says the idea is not to use the same five pieces that have been used in every documentary about him for the past 20 years.

"Take the time to print up all the outtakes that exist on Huey Long and I guarantee you'll come up with a sensational three or four minutes of film that hasn't been seen over and over again," he said.

But that sort of thing, he said, requires the patience to go through every available foot of film, a process that "takes sheer will and an extremely conscientious individual."

Kick Up Your Heels For Bluegrass Music

Exploring

A day that everyone in the family will enjoy is on tap down in Kissimmee this weekend, during the third annual Boggy Creek Bluegrass Jamboree.

It's held at Boggy Creek Campground, about six miles west of Florida's Turnpike Exit 65 on SR 530. It's back in the sticks a way, but there are lots of slip.

Showtimes are Friday at 8 p.m. and Saturday at 2 and 8 p.m. Sunday there will be a gospel sing at 10 a.m. and a bluegrass show at 2 p.m.

The campground's facilities — including swimming in clear Boggy Creek — are open to everyone attending the bluegrass shows, so pack a picnic lunch (and bring plenty of ice because the camp store inevitably runs out), bring along bathing suits and plan to spend the day. Lawn chairs are nice, too.

If you have a camper, a hook-up is included in the admission price and even if you don't there are showers, a playground, fishing and boating available when you're not listening to bluegrass. Admissions is $5 per person each day or $12 for a three-day ticket. Children under 12 are admitted free.

The featured groups are bluegrass and old-time string musicians from all around Florida and Georgia, including the American Bluegrass Express, a group of youngsters from the Green Cove Springs area who present a lively show of bluegrass tinged with pop and rock.

More traditional groups on the program include the Orange Blossom Bluegrass, Mike Johnson and the Sounds of Bluegrass, The Bluegrass Paraders and Leatherwood. Arts and crafts exhibits are also planned.

Serves Southwest Volusia Outreach Center Sets Open House

Residents of Deltona, DeBary, Osteen, Enterprise and the south half of Orange City are invited to an open house March 10 from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Little Red Schoolhouse in the Deltona Community Center, where the "Three Bs" want to introduce people to the Outreach Center.

The full name is the Southwest Volusia Outreach Center, a satellite office of the Human Resources Center in Daytona Beach. But that title reveals nothing of the value the area has received from what started as a Women's Club project two years ago.

The "Three Bs" are Mrs. Barbara Burkhammer, director; Ms. Barbara Kinnee, director; Ms. Barbara Stuhrenberg, office manager. They are the first ones to greet people with problems who come to the center, and their welcome is as warm as Florida sunshine. In addition, on counseling services, an on-Fridays Mickey Johnson employs his skills as a staff social worker.

"No one will ever know how much good it's doing for the community because its work is of a confidential nature," says Mrs. Nancy Hudson, secretary of the Mental Health Board of District 9, Volusia County, who was instrumental in its development from the start.

How do people with problems find their way here? "Some just come in by themselves," says Mrs. Kinnee. "Others may be referred by physicians, or ministers, or other agencies." All receive a sympathetic welcome.

How many come? Take some statistics from last year. In January 1975 there were 10 clients. By September there were 105. Counselors are booked for days ahead.

Who comes? Some are senior citizens trying to adjust to a new way of life. Some are couples, or couples with children, who need family counseling. Some are individuals seeking help with their problems.

In addition to the professional staff, there are more than 100 community volunteers who do things like providing transportation to center functions only, office work, home visitation, and helping with group activities. All are screened and sworn in on affidavits of confidentiality before they will be used.

Both Barbars have a youthful appearance. Do they have any trouble establishing rapport with older people? Mrs. Kinnee laughs. "Sometimes it takes a little while, but we tell them our qualifications."

She is a registered nurse, working on her master's degree in psychology, and a relatively recent mother. Ms. Burkhammer has a degree as a mental health technician.

The development of the center as a Women's Club project has been put into booklet form and submitted in national competition for a $10,000 top grant offered by Sears every other year. The first prize or any lesser one, would be donated to the center.

If any single person were to be given credit for the initiation of the center it would have to be Mrs. Catherine Fuller. In 1974 she was chairman of the Education Committee of the Women's Club and heard about lectures on mental health being given in Daytona Beach.

Aware of the lack of any services in the immediate area, she arranged for Dr. John Muldon to speak at the Women's Club. This aroused enough interest to bring about formation of a committee.

Following through in her next job as chairman of the Community Improvement Program, Mrs. Fuller and the committee managed a specialized gerontology grant.

They call themselves the "Three Bs" — Mrs. Beverly Stuhrenberg, office manager; Mrs. Barbara Burkhammer, counselor; and Mrs. Barbara Kinnee, director — at the Southwest Volusia Outreach Center in the Little Red Schoolhouse in Deltona. The facility will be holding its first open house March 10 from 5 to 7 p.m. Service is provided for more than 20,000 residents of the DeBary, Deltona, Osteen, Enterprise and south half of Orange City area. At Community United Methodist Handicapped Talk Set

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

Dr. Harold H. Wilke will speak Friday from 5 to 7 p.m. in a community meeting co-sponsored by Seminole Community College and OUTLOOK Central Florida, Inc., at Community United Methodist Church, U.S. 17-92, Casselberry, on the topic "The Role of the Community in Mainstreaming and Normalization of the Handicapped."

Dr. Wilke was speaker last March at a seminar on religion and the handicapped sponsored by OUTLOOK, and it was through him that the Purkis Family of the Thalidomide Society of England were guests of OUTLOOK.

All interested persons — professional, handicapped, and non-handicapped — are invited to attend Friday night's program.

There will be an informal supper at 3 p.m. and those attending the free program may bring a box lunch or phone OUTLOOK at 831-4396 to reserve a chicken box lunch.

Dr. Wilke is director of the inter-denominational "Healing Community" project based in white rians, n. y. designed to help religious and other community groups receive the "aimed" of society back into the mainstream of life. Born without arms, Dr. Wilke is an internationally renowned consultant in his field and is perhaps best known for his work with families of thalidomide children in Europe and as consultant to the World Council of Churches, the National Health Council and the World Commission on Social Aspects of Rehabilitation.

Mrs. Wilke who serves on the staff of the New York Gestalt Center for Psychotherapy and Training, and Dr. Wilke were

Mr. and Mrs. Hoffon Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Hoffon, 105 W. Woodland Dr., Sanford celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday at an open house at the Florida Power Corp. clubhouse. The couple's son and daughter, Harry Hoffon of Sanford and Mrs. Mary Louise Brandt of Middletown, Pa.

Charles and Grace Hoffon were married Feb. 27, 1926, by Rev. H. F. Hoover. Their daughter, Mrs. Mary Louise Brandt, and son, Harry Hoffon, were born in Sanford. Harry's wife is Mrs. Mary Louise Brandt of Middletown, Pa.

The couple both graduated from schools in Pennsylvania. In the 21st year of their marriage, they moved south to Miami, and in May 1970 retired to Sanford. Mr. Hoffon had been an employee of the city of Miami; his wife worked for F.W. Woolworth Co.

They have two children, eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Family attending the celebration included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hoffon Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hoffon, Charles Hoffon II, Charles Hoffon III, James Hoffon and Miss Jamie Hoffon, all of Sanford.

Out of town family included Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brandt and Miss Terry Brandt of Middletown, Pa.; Dr. and Mrs. B. Faust of Disburg, Pa.; and Harry Hogson Jr., who flew in to surprise his grandparents from KwaJalein, Marshall Islands.

He Was Street-Smart, Not Well-Read

DEAR ABBY: This is for Joe's lady friend who is concerned about Joe's poor grammar.

Dear Abby

I think she is both immature and a snob. I am a retired school teacher whose late husband's education ended with the third grade. He, too, used poor grammar.

I never considered it a fault because he had attributes that far outweighed his lack of education. In fact, his knowledge of many subjects was far superior to mine. MABEL IN GAINESVILLE, FLA.

DEAR MABEL: I'm not putting down men who achieved success with "book learning" but even more credit is due those "street-smart" winners who made it without.

DEAR ABBY: That woman who complained because they are now letting women work side by side with men in the coal mines is absolutely right!

It has been proved that one of the biggest reasons for the increase in the divorce rate is letting men and women work together. It all started when women went to work in war plants during World War II. Why would it be any different in the coal mines?

As long as women can work where they can throw themselves at men, the ones who want to can start a lot of trouble.

BEEN THERE
DEAR BEEN: So what's the alternative? Are you suggesting segregating the sexes where both men and women are employed? That would set equal opportunity back 100 years!

You can't stop a woman from throwing herself at a man at work — or anywhere else — if she's the type who'd do so. DEAR ABBY: I am a 43-year-old woman with a wonderful husband and family. However, a problem that has been with me ever since I can remember.

I don't believe the parents who raised me are my real parents. I know I am not adopted! I have a birth certificate from Queen of Angels Hospital in L.A., and everything is in order, but what drives me nuts is: How can I be sure that I am the person on that birth certificate?

I was born when an earthquake hit L.A., and my mother didn't see me for three days during that time, so I think it's possible that some of the babies in the hospital nursery were mixed up.

I was born when an earthquake hit L.A., and my mother didn't see me for three days during that time, so I think it's possible that some of the babies in the hospital nursery were mixed up.

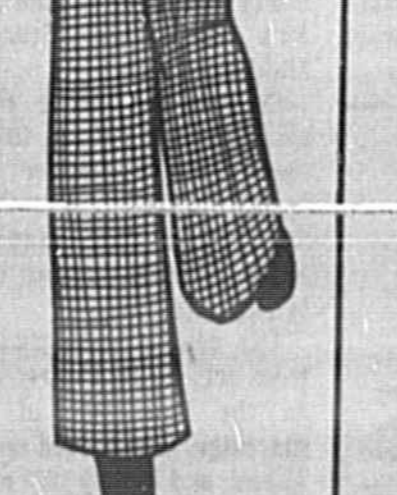

How can I make sure that I am really the child of my parents? I don't care if you print this. DEAN IN CATHEDRAL CITY, DEAR DEAN: An infant's footprint is usually registered at the time of birth, so you could make a comparison. But think it over: What will you (or your parents) gain from discovering an error? You both have a stake in this, you know.

Chicken Cooking Contest Offers $20,000 In Prizes

Twenty-eight years ago and over 1,500 prize-winning recipes ago, one of the nation's oldest contests, the National Chicken Cooking Contest, began as a regional competition among good cooks on the Delmarva Peninsula.

In its early years, the National Chicken Cooking Contest was sponsored by local poultry industry men. Now, with the additional co-sponsorship by the makers of Ac-cent flavor enhancer and the makers of Mazola corn oil, the Contest has become better known nationwide.

Every year, the Contest brings together creative cooks — one from each state and one from the District of Columbia — to compete at the national cook-off for $20,000 in prizes.

This may be your year to join this list of good cooks. Simply create a recipe which: is interesting, nutritious or convenient use of ingredients; looking appetizing; is simple enough to appeal to most people; and has a flavor combination that will be appealing. And submit it before April 1 of this year. Recipes must contain broiler-fryer chicken (whole, part or parts), at least 1 teaspoon Ac-cent flavor enhancer and 1/4 cup Mazola corn oil.

Parties Ring Citrus Open

To sports enthusiasts, the Florida Citrus Open Golf Tournament probably means the country's leading golfers in competition for big money prizes. But behind every man, there is usually a woman — and a social angle. Many parties are being planned this week honoring the qualifying golfers in the Citrus Open.

Developer Danny Miller of Longwood started the ball rolling when he entertained at a cocktail party Sunday night at Cypress Woods Clubhouse in Orlando. Some 200 guests were invited, including golfers practicing for qualifying and their ladies.

Interrupting the "tee" talk was the appearance of Florida Citrus Queen Candace (Candi) Upthegrove from Frostproof. In an aquascape and landscape setting at the luxurious clubhouse, the charming, blue-eyed blonde said she expects to attend many festivities of the Citrus Open.

Crowned on Jan. 31 Candi has made several appearances promoting our citrus state including a trip to Washington, D.C., where she presented Auto-Train President Eugene Garfield, with a basket of citrus, after serving orange juice to Auto-Train passengers.

Candi will be leaving for Japan in about two weeks to travel. Two years ago, the Kings conducted an around-the-world tour, and have several more to their credit. Call them for further information.

With Easter just around the corner, many a woman will step out in a new chapeau for the occasion. Why not create your own Bicentennial bonnet, which just might win you a prize?

April 7 at 10 a.m., the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce will host a "Hats off Bicentennial Brunch" for both men and woman. The name of the game is to create a Bicentennial hat. Prizes will be awarded for the most original and best hats.

Let your imagination run wild. The rules are simple. Start with an old hat or hat frame, but the trim and design must be your original creation. Admission to the brunch is wearing your Bicentennial hat.

Houseguests of Kay and Adrian Hall at their Mayfair home are Rev. and Mrs. Charles Pascal of Romney, W. Va.

Mrs. Ruth Ann Padden will leave Sanford Friday with her daughter, Trudy, to join her husband, Sgt. William G. Padden, in Frankfurt, Germany.

Spuds Make Pleasing Menus

In the year 1581, a German culinary buff named Max Rumpolt brought out a cookbook which included instructions on how to boil diced potatoes, roast them in bacon fat and simmer the result in milk. It is believed to be the first printed recipe for the versatile spud.

We have come a long way since Hier Rumpolt wrote his book. Today the potato appears on American dinner tables more often than any other vegetable, and the ways they can be prepared are virtually unlimited.

Potatoes are used for appetizers, soups, salads, entrees and even desserts.

Boil potatoes with garlic clove. In small skillet, saute mushrooms in 1 tablespoon butter and set aside. When potatoes are done drain and peel. Discard garlic. In large bowl with potato masher or electric mixer, mash potatoes. Add milk, remaining butter and egg yolk, beating till well blended. Gently fold in mushrooms and parsley. Serves 8.

Too Much Blood Is The Problem

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB—I have a condition which is called polycythemia vera. Also I am told I have an enlarged spleen. could you please tell me what causes an enlarged spleen. Is there anything that can be done for it?

I have been to several specialists for this blood condition and wind up taking blood thinner and having blood taken. I suffer so much with my left leg and it is pretty discouraging not to find any help that makes me feel better. I am a working woman, 62 years old and the doctor has more than I can afford. I would appreciate any help or advice you can give me. DEAR READER—Polycythemia vera is a condition of overproduction, particularly of red blood cells. The bone marrow where the blood cells are produced is also overactive. There is also an increase in thrombocytes, the little tiny cells that are related to blood clotting mechanisms. No one knows what causes this condition. It is not the same response we see at high altitude or with lung conditions where there is not enough oxygen and the number of red cells increases. It's true the spleen enlarges. It is a specialized giant lymph node and is involved whenever there is an excess production of blood cells or an increased destruction of them. With the increase in red blood cells there is an increase in the total amount of blood. This seems to be associated with the headache and full sensation in the head that many patients with this problem have a ruddy complexion and high blood pressure, particularly of the systolic (upper) reading, oc-

2 Plead Guilty In Case

By BOB LYDND Herald Staff Writer

Two Sanford men originally arrested on charges that they robbed a Daytona Beach man of $100,000 in cash and wallet pleaded guilty in circuit court to petty larceny. Joseph Andrew Sykes, 24, of 1838 Collidge Ave., and Jerome McIntyre, 24, of 12th St., were arrested on robbery charges Jan. 1 by sheriff's deputies in the Daytona Beach area. Jaime S. Enriquez reported they had robbed him after giving him a ride. The charges were downgraded to grand larceny by State Atty. Abbott Herring's office and Sykes and McIntyre went to trial before Circuit Judge A.J. Hosemann Jr. At the end of the state's case Thursday Judge Hosemann ordered a directed verdict of acquittal on the grand larceny charges and the case was to go to the jury on the lesser and included offense of petty larceny. Sykes and McIntyre then entered their pleas and the court withheld adjudication of guilt and allowed them to remain free on bond during a presentence investigation (PSI). In other cases docketed for trial this week before Judge Hosemann: —John Joseph Dougherty, 55, of Sanford, pleaded guilty to two counts of resisting arrest without violence and was sentenced to a year in jail. The sentence was suspended on the conditions that Dougherty not drink alcoholic beverages or frequent places where they are sold and that he pay for a plate glass door at Flagship Bank in downtown Sanford. —Richard Carelli, Associated Press Writer, pleaded guilty to grand larceny while driving away from a man of "evident decency, honor and patriotism," but blasted him and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger for allowing the nation to lose ground militarily to the Soviet Union. —"In my view, the policy of détente as pursued by the administration, one is not," he said. "One candidate has faith in the Washington establishment to solve our problems. One candidate believes those who are part of the problems are not the best equipped to solve them." —"I say the same thing in Boston and Florida," Jackson said during campaign stops in Central Florida and Miami. Carter, touring the center of the state where Alabama Gov. George Wallace is considered

Challenger Raps Diplomatic, Military Decline

By RICHARD CARELLI Associated Press Writer Ronald Reagan, while denying any retreat from his eleven-year-old campaign against saying nasty things about fellow Republicans, has charged President Ford with presiding over the diplomatic and military decline of the United States. Taking his GOP challenge to Florida, where he meets the President in the nation's next primary March 9, Reagan unleashed his strongest attack to date against the Ford administration. "It is not easy for me to say the things I must say to you today. But I have decided that matters of national security and defense are beyond politics, and the American people are entitled to my assessment of them," Reagan said. The former California governor called Ford a man of "evident decency, honor and patriotism," but blasted him and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger for allowing the nation to lose ground militarily to the Soviet Union. "In my view, the policy of détente as pursued by the administration, one is not," he said. "One candidate has faith in the Washington establishment to solve our problems. One candidate believes those who are part of the problems are not the best equipped to solve them." Carter, touring the center of the state where Alabama Gov. George Wallace is considered

Commissioners Split On Primary Choices

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer

With Florida's presidential preference primary a scant four days away, GOP candidate Ronald Reagan has gotten tough with President Ford and local Democratic pollsters are predicting a win for either George Wallace, Jimmy Carter or Henry Jackson. The two Republicans on the Seminole County Commission are split, with John Kimbrough supporting Reagan and Richard Williams supporting Ford. "I'm going with the Prez; The Prez is my choice," Kimbrough said today. He added, however, that he would not be "disappointed if either one of them won." Kimbrough said today of the two candidates, he is supporting the more philosophically conservative of the two—Reagan. Calling Reagan the "better candidate," Kimbrough said Reagan is a "little more to the right than Ford in his philosophical views. He is one of the few who has the courage to change things." Williams said he liked Ford's veto of spending bills, but the said he favors Reagan's call to return government to the local level. Much pending over the diplomatic and military decline of the United States. The former California governor called Ford a "man of evident decency, honor and patriotism," but blasted Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger for allowing the nation to lose ground militarily to the Soviet Union. Ford's press spokesman in Washington denied the charges. Reagan's new "get tough" policy stems, in part, from the fact that polls show him trailing the President in Florida, a state both GOP candidates hoped to win. The middle of the roaders find Carter acceptable," Vihlen said. "It appears at this time I'll be voting for Carter," Vihlen added. "I'm going with the Prez; The Prez is my choice," Kimbrough said today. He added, however, that he would not be "disappointed if either one of them won." Kimbrough said today of the two candidates, he is supporting the more philosophically conservative of the two—Reagan. Calling Reagan the "better candidate," Kimbrough said Reagan is a "little more to the right than Ford in his philosophical views. He is one of the few who has the courage to change things." Williams said he liked Ford's veto of spending bills, but the said he favors Reagan's call to return government to the local level. Much pending over the diplomatic and military decline of the United States. The former California governor called Ford
