

President To Seek Funds To Aid Home Building In Nation

System Of Home Loan Discount Banks Has As Its Aim Bolstering Of U.S. Business

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(A.P.)—President Hoover announced last night he would ask Congress to establish a system of home loan discount banks to relieve banking institutions dealing in these securities and speed home-building.

By this move he expected a new attack to be made on unemployment which he considers is one in "a considerable part of stagnation in residential construction."

An initial appropriation of $150,000,000 for the new banking system was suggested by Mr. Hoover. With this fund he is confident that more than $1,800,000,000 for home building could be financed.

The capital would be raised by subscriptions from the institutions to participate. If this did not produce sufficient funds, the president would appropriate the remainder to be repaid later.

He emphasized "there is no element of inflation in the plan but simply a better organization of credit for these purposes."

The home loan system would be in both city and farm properties and would be established on the lines of the federal land bank. (Continued on Page Four)

STEPS TAKEN TO PREVENT FLOOD OF TANGERINES

Inspection Of Fruit Will Be Continued After Regular Date

WINTER HAVEN, Nov. 14.—There will be no disastrous flooding of Florida's tangerine market this year if the growers, shippers, and state government officials can prevent it.

The unusual tardiness in reaching proper maturity, which has led to an inflated price, together with the fact that legally the inspection on this variety of fruit runs at midnight Nov. 15, is the combination of factors in which danger of a broken market lies.

The Florida Citrus Growers Clearing House Association, recognizing the possibility of a disastrous tangerine market opening, initiated at a meeting of its shippers members held here Thursday night, a movement to create a "gentlemen's agreement" wherein all marketing agencies in the state would cooperate with Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo in keeping out of the market tangerines below the level to be attained. The clearing house shippers, in deciding to make the effort a universal one, called on Commissioner Mayo to lead the service of his department's inspectors throughout the rest of this month.

Commissioner Mayo, in Winter Haven yesterday, declared that he would be glad to continue the tangerine inspection.

"To be perfectly frank," Mr. Mayo said, "I am pleased and relieved with this action on the part of the state's marketing agencies. Our department has recognized that tangerines have been unusually late this season in reaching maturity even though the standard this year is lower than it was last season. We have viewed with some alarm the inherent danger in ending legal inspection on tangerines on Nov. 15, for we have realized as the industry, that the only way to prevent a flood of tangerines is by inspection." DINO GRANDI WILL CONSIDER MANY ISSUES

Relief For Economic Burdens Of World Will Be Object Of Approaching Parley

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(A.P.)—A leading cluster of international minds stands with the continuing troubles of Germany at its center, will command the earnest attention of President Hoover and Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy, when they meet in Washington next week.

Grandi is approaching America with a view to securing relief from the burdens and the economic ills that followed the great war.

Mr. Hoover is expected to go as far as he can consistently toward further alleviation of those burdens, pledging any American cooperation toward a reconstructed world relationship.

To what degree these mutual desires can be translated into concrete action remains problematical. The feeling in Washington is that the conference will be more like a friendly exchange of views than a formal treaty. It is expected that the meeting will be a "gentlemen's agreement" wherein all marketing agencies in the state would cooperate with Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo in keeping out of the market tangerines below the level to be attained. The clearing house shippers, in deciding to make the effort a universal one, called on Commissioner Mayo to lead the service of his department's inspectors throughout the rest of this month.

Itinerant Salesmen

Sanford business men and housekeepers should watch their step these days when dealing with strangers. During the past two or three weeks a day has gone by that at least one, sometimes two or three, agents or promoters of some kind or other have not dropped into our office with some pet scheme to put over. Sometimes it is just a book selling stunt, but dressed up a little more cleverly than in former years. Sometimes it is a proposition to put on a circulation contest, a special edition, or some other kind of newspaper campaign. Or it may be just a feature selling trick—they GIVE you the features, and you spend the rest of your life paying for a book you don't want but have to buy on the installment plan.

We suppose our business is no different in this respect from that of every other person in Sanford. We imagine they have all noticed an unusually large influx of out-of-town promoters. Most of their schemes have some catch in them, not readily discernible at first glimpse but apt to come out later in such strong colors as to be most disagreeable. They are usually sold on the basis of giving something for nothing, or very nearly that. The business man pays nothing, gets a large amount of additional business, and the poor promoter, well, he is just working for the love of it and lives off the income from an estate left him by an old maid aunt.

Another thing we have noticed this year, the promoters are of a little higher type than is usually the case. For this reason they are particularly dangerous. Too many times in former years we have found flocking to this profession, just a cheap bunch of crooks lacking the nerve necessary for the more spectacular fields of their profession. These are easily recognizable and not half as likely to find someone gullible enough to accept their propositions. This year we find a very smooth class of persons taking to these promotion schemes.

We suppose it is the depression. Very likely some very high class salesmen, formerly managers of reputable sales corporations, but let out of work on account of hard times, have been forced by circumstances to turn to questionable sales promotion campaigns which they themselves would ordinarily scorn upon. We can sympathize with such people, of course, but we cannot accept their propositions. Only a fool would allow himself to be sucked in on a money losing proposition simply because he felt sorry for the man who sold it to him.

Beware of itinerant salesmen these days. They are more dangerous than ever.

Pay, And Grin

The Sanford Lions Club has set a splendid example which other civic organizations, as well as our citizens as a whole, could well follow. In a special endeavor to assist school teachers in obtaining their December and January salaries on time, the members of the Lions Club have decided to purchase their 1932 automobile licenses in the early part of December.

In former years the license tags have gone on sale on December 15, but were seldom purchased by any appreciable number before the first of January. Then extensions of time were granted first by one official in authority, then another, until it was often the middle of March before the tag buying period was officially ended.

Formerly also the license tag money went to the road department. This year it goes to the schools. It aggregates some six million dollars and is a fund upon which the schools are absolutely dependent in order to maintain regular and systematic operation and provide necessary salaries for school teachers. If the license tags are not purchased this year before January 1, some of the teachers will have to go without pay. If they are not purchased until an even later date, some of the schools will have to close.

We recognize that this license tax is an exceptional burden, increased as it is some thirty percent over last year, and applied in addition to the extra gasoline tax. We opposed this extra burden on automobile owners when the matter was presented in the recent legislature and urge our readers to protest against it by telegram and letter. But the evil is done now and there is nothing to do but make the best of it.

None of us wants the schools to suffer. They will unless we pay our auto tag licenses promptly.

THERE ARE IN FEDERAL RESERVE vaults down-town two billions in gold. Precautions for the safety of the enormous hoard are stupendous. Vaults are 85 feet below the street and 55 below sea level. Around the mighty cache is a narrow corridor protected by eight-foot-thick walls of solid steel. The sole entrance is a 20-foot door which may be opened only by two men working separate combinations. No living person knows both. Employees have a food supply that would last two months in case of a siege and a delicate alarm contraption brings 500 soldiers, with machine guns from Governor's Island in 20 minutes. Master minds of the safe-cracking world have for years worked and dreamed of some way to loot this prize, but to no avail. Recently they are reputed to have given up. To get at the gold would necessitate destruction of the entire lower island.—O. O. McIntyre.

SANFORD, TWENTY YEARS AGO

The auto owners do not seem to be materially interested in the matter, and the committee cannot see its way clear to making an example of one of the members.

The tourist and businessmen are coming to Florida at the rate of several thousand per week. Believing that the time is not far distant when women may be elected aldermen and a woman elected the first in the mayoralty, Chicago suffragettes are interesting themselves in a school for the instruction of municipal employees which will be opened tonight.

A NEW PARTY

Miami Herald: Far be it from a Democratic newspaper to take an interest in the affairs of the Republican party in Florida. For about 25 years that party has had a precarious sort of existence, so far as state and local politics are concerned. It has existed for the purpose of apportioning among its small membership the federal offices handed out by a complacent national administration.

During the course of years it had had many vicissitudes including a perennial factionalism that has divided it into two or three sections, at times. It now seems tentatively divided on the question of to whom shall control the party, incidentally the patronage under a Republican national administration. It takes merely a perfunctory interest in state politics, making nominations solely for the purpose of keeping up a semblance of party activity.

Only in a great while, owing to peculiar conditions, it has succeeded in electing a solitary member of the Legislature, and here and there it has made the grade by electing some inferior county official.

But, on the whole, with the exception of the notable year of 1928, the Republican party has made no impression upon the state. It was not responsible for the election of significant electors in that year. Only influences were at work and it is claimed, temporarily, very temporarily, that Florida had gone over to the Republican party.

DANGEROUS TAMPA TIMES

The Times is among the Florida newspapers which have expected a great deal of the Democratic conference to be held in Marianna on Nov. 27-28. It is beginning to doubt if those expectations were authorized. This is because it seems that the conference is about to be swayed from what was originally announced as its purpose.

Word has come out of Marianna that it will be asked to give the State Democratic executive committee authority to select the delegates from this state to the national Democratic convention. Commenting upon this the "State Star" said:

"Florida Democrats have always picked their own delegates to the national convention in the primary. Unless the Star makes its bones they will insist that they be allowed to continue this method of naming the men, or women, who will vote for the party's standard bearer. Democrats, generally, are not any too well pleased with the manner the state committee has been conducting party business, and in the light of the very general dissatisfaction with the committee's refusal to take any steps toward calling a state convention, it is doubtful that the rank and file of the voters have any too much confidence in the committee's ability to pick 'outstanding leaders' as delegates-at-large in the next national convention."

A HEALTH TO JUSTICE BRANDEIS

In light of the respect with which the country now regards Mr. Justice Brandeis, who has just celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday, it is interesting to recall the misconceptions caused by his appointment to the Supreme Court fifteen years ago. He has recently published "The Brandeis Case" by William G. Brewster, which is a very interesting story of the "Brandeis Case" as it was handled by the Supreme Court.

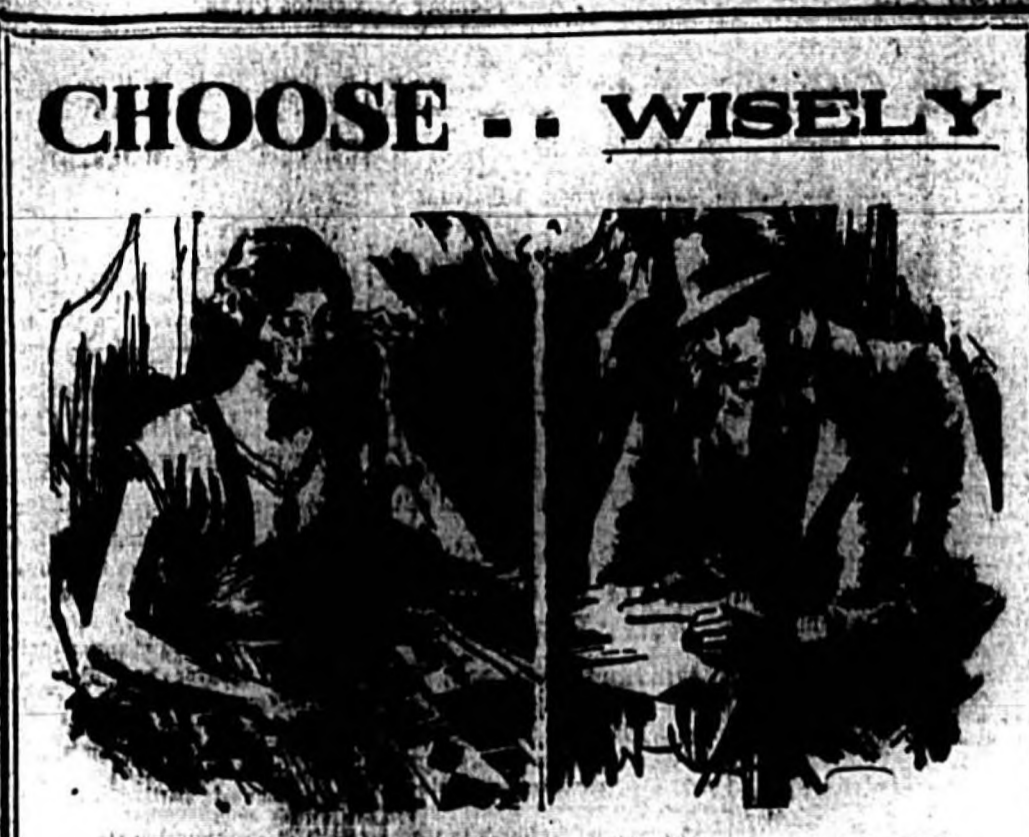

We know that we are entering a nation-wide sentiment in expressing the hope that Mr. Justice Brandeis will long be spared in to honor his country and his country.

Justice Brandeis has not long been considered one of the outstanding figures on the Supreme bench and not the last to be known to have been an original member of the court.

CHINESE GIVEN ULTIMATUM TO VACUATE CITY

Final publication of the document is carried, as well as the ultimatum he is said to have given to the Chinese authorities, is expected.

TIENTSIN, China, Nov. 14.—(A.P.)—An expeditionary force of 20,000 Chinese troops from Shantung was reported in White Russian planes yesterday to have landed on Japanese troops in the Nani River sector and driven them back beyond the bridgehead. The force, composed of Chinese, Japanese and Burians from the vicinity of Blagoveshensk on the Manchurian border, was said to have swept from the north into a highway near Taitshar and attacked the Japanese with machine gun fire, demoralizing them and forcing them to retreat. Several Japanese airplanes were said to have been captured.

At the same time, Henry Pu-ting, China's former premier, is reported by Chinese sources to be on his way to Manchuria with the former emperor. It was reported he would be installed by the Japanese as the ruler of the dependent government which they set up several days ago after ousting Governor Chang Hsueh-ling.

A Japanese official termed the report "premature," but intimated that plans were under foot to elect the youth to a Manchurian throne sooner or later.

The story persisted, however, that he and his party had been ousted out of the Japanese column, in which he has lived since last Thursday night, and landed aboard a steamer for Dairen. He was escorted to the waterfront by Japanese soldiers, it was said, and embarked on a launch from which he later was transferred.

Mr. Pu-ting's uncle, Prince Kung, recently went to Dairen and was quoted as saying he would not leave until he had been appointed premier of Manchuria in a restoration of the dynasty. He refused to recognize the abdication of the emperor when it was effected about ten years ago.

The reports of the communist incursion partially were confirmed by the Daily News, a Japanese paper in Dairen. The paper said General Maoh Chan-Shan had visited Blagoveshensk some time ago and returned with a large force of men from the local soviet and a guard of 500 communist officers and men.

In return for this aid, the paper said, the Chinese authorities agreed to acknowledge a soviet policy in the Chinese Eastern railway zone, deport all White Russians in that area and recognize communist organizations in Harbin.

Martial law was somewhat relaxed here and thousands of persons streamed into the protected concessions from the Southern suburbs, the scene of sanguinary clashes in the last few days. But the Japanese continued to strengthen their barricades and the Chinese described the situation as still "delicate."

Native officials charged that thousands of cases of "military provisions" had been brought in from Dairen but the customs refused to pass them and they remained aboard ship.

MRS. CARAWAY IS NEW SENATOR FROM ARKANSAS

Possessed a wide knowledge of the workings of national politics and government, although she always kept herself in the background. She was the close adviser to Senator Caraway on all important questions. Her friends say she possesses the same sharpness of tongue and caustic wit of her husband. Though taking more interest in her home and family than in politics, she is said to possess a political sagacity equalled by few women not actually in public life. On her visits to her home in Johnson, she was in great demand as a "poker," before women's clubs on political questions.

In 1926 when her husband first ran for the Senate, Mrs. Caraway was an active worker in his headquarters.

She had three sons, Lieutenants Paul and Forrest, 28 and 32, respectively who are West Point graduates, and Robert, 19, a student in Washington. Born at Sulphur Springs, Tenn., on Feb. 1, 1878, she attended Dickinson College, Dickinson, S. C., where she first met Senator Caraway. They were married in Johnson and had made their home in Johnson since.

Her husband's Democratic central committee will meet Dec. 1 at Johnson. It is expected to announce the nomination for the next election.

BABY'S BOAT'S AN AIRSHIP

Baby's boat's a silver moon—if it was. Now it's an airplane, at least for Joyce Hartung, of Detroit. Joyce is nine months old. Her daddy is Howard Hartung, air school instructor at Detroit. His wife and Joyce's mother is also a pilot. They're a real flying family. Little Joyce likes her biplane rides better than most children like to go chu chu riding, and already she has 15 hours in the air to her credit. And her father and mother say that about the only time Joyce cries is when they lift her out of the airplane. And her parents were married in an airplane.

AID IS URGED FOR GERMANY IN DEBT CRISIS

forces at work in Germany obtain their popular support to a large extent by inflationist propaganda, which, again, is effective only when the public of the debtor country loses hope in the future revival of its credits.

Mr. Palyi said Germany's resolve to maintain the gold standard was firm. While admitting that success of this policy depended on balance of trade and "on the amount of pressure put on the Reichsbank by those who think it safer to convert their holdings of marks into foreign currencies."

Mr. Palyi thought that the favorable trade balance was liable to continue for some time, provided tariff barriers and obstacles to German exports by inflationary methods do not go substantially further.

"It is not unreasonable to assume," he declared, "that Germany may be able to retain 100,000,000 to 200,000,000 marks each month as an export surplus to be used for interest payments on external debts, including the Dawes and Young plan loans, and for the gradual extinction of her short-term indebtedness."
