Longwood Opts For 13% Property Tax Hike

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer
A proposed property tax rate of $2.90 per $1,000 assessed property value and a budget of $3,949,439 for the 1985-86 fiscal year have been given preliminary approval by the Longwood City Commission. The proposed tax rate is a 38 cents-per-$1,000 increase over the city's 1984-85 rate of $2.52, or 13 percent.

The vote Monday night on the proposed tax rate was unanimous, while Commissioner

Perry Faulkner cast the only no vote on the city budget. He later explained that he didn't think the increase was necessary, because of what he considered unwise expenditures being made now.

Faulkner said, "I just can't justify spending $931 for a desk. That is a foolish expenditure when we are asking for an increase in taxes." It was explained to Faulkner that in listing the expenditures, the computer does not go into detail and only printed "desk" when in fact the invoice itemized other office furniture as well.

He also complained about the $376 telephone bill part of which was for a line to Sanford when it isn't long distance. City Administrator Greg Manning said the line was to connect the police department communications with the sheriff's office in Sanford.

"I don't think it's fair, you're starting to criticize before coming to me about it," Manning told Faulkner.

Only a few of members of the audience spoke for or against the proposed tax rate, which Weeks said would amount to only about a $13 increase in taxes for a $30,000 house.

One of those objecting was Longwood resident Jimmy Ross, who said, "The present millage is excessive and can't be allowed to stand. It is wrong to tax for any other purpose but a public purpose according to constitutional law." Ross said money was spent from the city treasury to buy lunch for the secretaries and to block boat entry to Fairy Lake on private property.

Manning said the money to take the secretaries to lunch came from the community relations account and was to boost employee morale.

A second public hearing and final action on the tax rate, the city budget and the $57,245 Federal Revenue Sharing budget are scheduled for a 7:30 p.m. meeting on Sept. 23 at the city hall at 175 W. Warren Ave.

The tax rate is 25.58 percent over the roll-back rate (the tax rate necessary to raise the same amount of revenue as the 1984-85 tax rate of $2.52 per $1,000 assessed valuation after figuring in the increase in assessments of taxable real estate). It is expected to raise $800,239 from real and personal property taxes.

Hazardous Waste Firm Gives In To Opposition

By Janie Gnat
Herald Staff Writer
A packed house applauded a unanimous decision by the Seminole County commission to accept the withdrawal of a firm's request to operate a temporary hazardous waste transfer station on Silver Lake Road south of Sanford.

Commissioners met Tuesday night to hear arguments on the issue, but instead Pat Vindett, vice president and manager of Hazardous Waste Consultants, Inc., told commissioners the company was withdrawing the request because of overwhelming opposition by area residents — even though she felt their fears about contamination were unfounded.

Initially Commissioners Bob Sturm and Barbara Christensen said it might be better if the commission voted to deny the request, but accepting the withdrawal. But Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff explained that the company would not be able to request approval of the Silver Lake Road site for another year whatever way the matter was handled.

Ms. Vindett said media coverage was responsible for the citizens' concerns about contamination of groundwater and that "if it were not for Hazardous Waste Consultants your concerns could very well become realities." She cited several instances in which her company had been instrumental in assisting fire departments in disposing of illegally stored or combustible hazardous wastes.

Roberta Andrews, 103 Andrews Road, directly south of the Silver Lake Road site, said she has been fighting the proposal since June and that she will continue to fight until the firm finds a "safe location."

Hazardous Waste Consultants has two more sites it is considering for the transfer station. One site is on west State Road 46 near Interstate 4 and the other on State Road 419 north of Winter Springs. Only one of those is zoned industrial, which is the zoning necessary for a hazardous waste facility. A hearing before the Board of Adjustment on those applications is set for Sept. 16.

"I knew she might withdraw the request, but I was going to be here anyway," Ms. Andrews told friends at the hearing. She said she had spoken with Ms. Vindett who told her there was a lot of well-prepared opposition to the request.

The company was operating its transfer station on west S.R. 46 but it lacks the proper zoning and permits to do so. It was ordered by the county's Code Enforcement Board to cease operations by Sept. 30 or face fines of up to $200 per day. Prior to that the company operated at 2300 Belle Ave. in Casselberry without first getting a permit to store hazardous wastes. The company also operated out of the Port of Sanford for about two years before public opposition and port authority members forced the company to move.

Donation Of Shopping Center Developer

$25,000 To Help Lawmen Patrol Boulevard

Lake Mary police and the Seminole County sheriff's department will share a $25,000 donation from a shopping center developer to help combat traffic woes expected to increase on Lake Mary Boulevard near Lake Emma Road due to the center.

Although the city of Lake Mary had originally requested funds exclusively for their police department, commissioners voted 5-0 to split the funds between both law enforcement agencies because they want the sheriff's department to take more responsibility for patrolling Lake Mary Boulevard, a county road.

Lake Mary City Manager Kathy Rice told county commissioners Tuesday night that Lake Mary has no written or verbal agreement with the sheriff's department to handle traffic or accidents on Lake Mary Boulevard. Ken Hooper, county administrator, said the sheriff's department told him that situations are handled on a case-by-case basis with the closest department (Lake Mary's or the sheriff's) responding to a call and the "Lake Mary city police primarily respond first."

Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said he wanted a written agreement between the Lake Mary police and the sheriff's department, "but the sheriff's responsibilities will definitely increase."

Mrs. Rice said there are currently 1,777 cars on Lake Mary Boulevard at Lake Emma Road during peak afternoon hours and that after completion of the shopping center that

To help alleviate the problem that would be caused by the shopping center city officials requested $24,777 for a new squad car, equipment for the car, computer equipment to hook up with the county's traffic computers, and training for a traffic officer. Commissioners awarded the $25,000 with the stipulation that funds and the responsibility be split 50-50 with the sheriff's department.

The developer will also have to make a "voluntary" commitment of $18,000 to the county for extra fire equipment. Public safety officials told commissioners for optimum efficiency in fighting a fire at the shopping center they would need an aerial ladder to extend over the height of the building, which is 22 to 24 feet. The developers had offered $17,599 for the fire equipment, but the figure was rounded to $18,000 by Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff.

Oviedo OKs 33% Tax Hike

The Oviedo City Council tentatively approved their 1985-86 budget Monday night and unanimously agreed to raise property taxes with what city council chairman Jane Dees termed, "very little opposition."

If finally approved, the tax rate will increase 83 cents per $1,000 property value from the current $2.55 per $1,000 to $3.38. The tax hike, together with increased revenues from other sources, means the city's will have $765,694 more to spend in 1985-86 than the previous year with a total budget of $1,828,222. The city's 1984-85 budget was $1,062,528.

Mrs. Dees said the total monies taken in from property taxes city-wide will increase from $148,000 in 1984-85 to $242,750. She said the tax revenue accounts for one-fourth of the total city budget. Other sources, she said, are the water department, impact fees ($250,000 this year) and other state sources.

Mrs. Dees said the tax increase was needed to fund, "important city spending projects, such as the fire department. Our citizens voted for a full-time paid fire department five or six years ago and raising the tax rate is the only way we can have that."

For the first time in years, she said, property tax increases that are above rates set by state guidelines, can be put into law without voter approval. She said it was the council's decision to raise taxes, "one mill ($1 per $1,000 assessed property value) above state "rollback" guidelines for Oviedo and the current rollback rate rate, according to state guidelines. is

Schools' Paddling Seen As Abuse

By Jim Searis
Herald Staff Writer
Delegates to a conference on eliminating child abuse voted Tuesday to urge abolition of paddling in Florida schools.

Of the 600 state agency officials and their staff, children's rights activists and others who attended the Aug. 14 session of the Interprogram Task Force in Jacksonville, 307 signed a resolution comparing paddling schoolchildren to child abuse, said John Paschal, who wrote the document.

Four Seminole County school officials, polled Tuesday, are divided over their reactions to corporal punishment, but said they believe it is rarely child abuse and stressed the importance of discipline in the schools.

"I didn't think it was effective at our school," said Wayne Epps, principal of Seminole High School in Sanford, "and I did away with it (paddling) three years ago." Epps had no comment on paddling at other schools.

But Dan Pelham, principal of Sanford Middle School, said he believes paddling, if done "properly," still has a place in school.

"One thing I would say in support of paddling, it keeps children in the classroom and out of further problems," he said.

Pelham said the majority of kids in a classroom are there to learn and it is the teacher's responsibility to maintain discipline in the class.

"My question to those wanting to outlaw corporal punishment in schools is this," said Pelham, "What are you going to replace it with?"

But Paschal said, "I'm all in favor of discipline in the schools and I support school people and I understand the problems they have with students these days. I just don't think that there's any need for it (paddling) in the school system. Parental control is the parents' job."

A special quasi-legislative committee appointed last December to study child abuse also equated paddling with abuse, and the Legislature this year outlawed paddling in state youth homes and day care centers.

The House balked, however, at a bill that would have given local school boards the option of outlawing of the school paddle. Principals have wide discretion on whether to paddle their young charges.

The Legislature created the task force in 1982 to focus the attention of staff from the state

U.S. Government Has A Cash-Flow Problem

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration will ask Congress to increase the federal debt ceiling to an unprecedented $2 trillion so the government can pay its bills after Oct. 15.

Acting Assistant Treasury Secretary John Niehenke told a Senate panel Tuesday that the government's borrowing authority must be increased from the current $1.8 trillion in order to meet "all of its essential obligations when they fall due — Social Security checks, payroll checks, unemployment checks, defense contract and principal and interest on its securities."

The Long, Winding Road To Comet Giacobini-Zinner

By James F. Kukowski
Goddard Space Flight Center

When NASA's International Cometary Explorer (ICE) intercepts the dust-filled tail of Comet Giacobini-Zinner early today, the 7-year-old spacecraft will also be completing one of the most complicated and spectacular journeys in space history.

As the 1,054-pound spacecraft plunges into the murky, meandering comet tail, it will be the world's first spacecraft encounter with a comet. When it moves into the comet's bow shock, approximately 45 minutes before the predicted rendezvous with the tail at 7 a.m. EDT, the spacecraft will be traveling approximately 45,000 miles an hour. It will have traveled for more than 7 years, covered more than 1 billion miles and will have participated in three separate and distinct scientific missions when only one had been planned.

When it was launched from Cape Canaveral Aug. 12, 1978, the ICE was known as the International Sun-Earth Explorer (ISEE-3). The 16-sided spacecraft became the first spacecraft to orbit at the Sun-Earth libration point (that position in space where a satellite is "suspended" in equilibrium between the sun and the Earth-moon system) and the first to traverse the Earth's distant geomagnetic tail. ISEE-3 also was the first spacecraft to make multiple swingbys of the moon and the first to use a lunar gravity-assist maneuver for targeting-escape trajectory. It has also made more gravity-assist maneuvers (five) than any other spacecraft.

On June 10, 1982, the spacecraft was diverted by controllers at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md., to perform a second mission — a study of the Earth's geomagnetic tail. Unlike the tail of a comet, the geomagnetic tail is invisible. It is created by the solar wind impinging against the Earth's magnetosphere and consists of charged protons and electrons from the Sun. The resulting tail stretches out behind the Earth for millions of miles in a turbulent wake.

The object of exploring the geomagnetic tail is to obtain information

...the spacecraft will have traveled for more than 7 years and covered more than 1 billion miles...

for a more complete picture of the physics of energy flow from the sun into sectors of the Earth's magnetosphere — a region of magnetic fields and electrified particles surrounding the Earth for thousands of miles above our atmosphere.

ISEE-3's name was formally changed to International Cometary Explorer on Dec. 22, 1983, after making its fifth lunar flyby and being catapulted toward the comet by the moon's gravitational force.

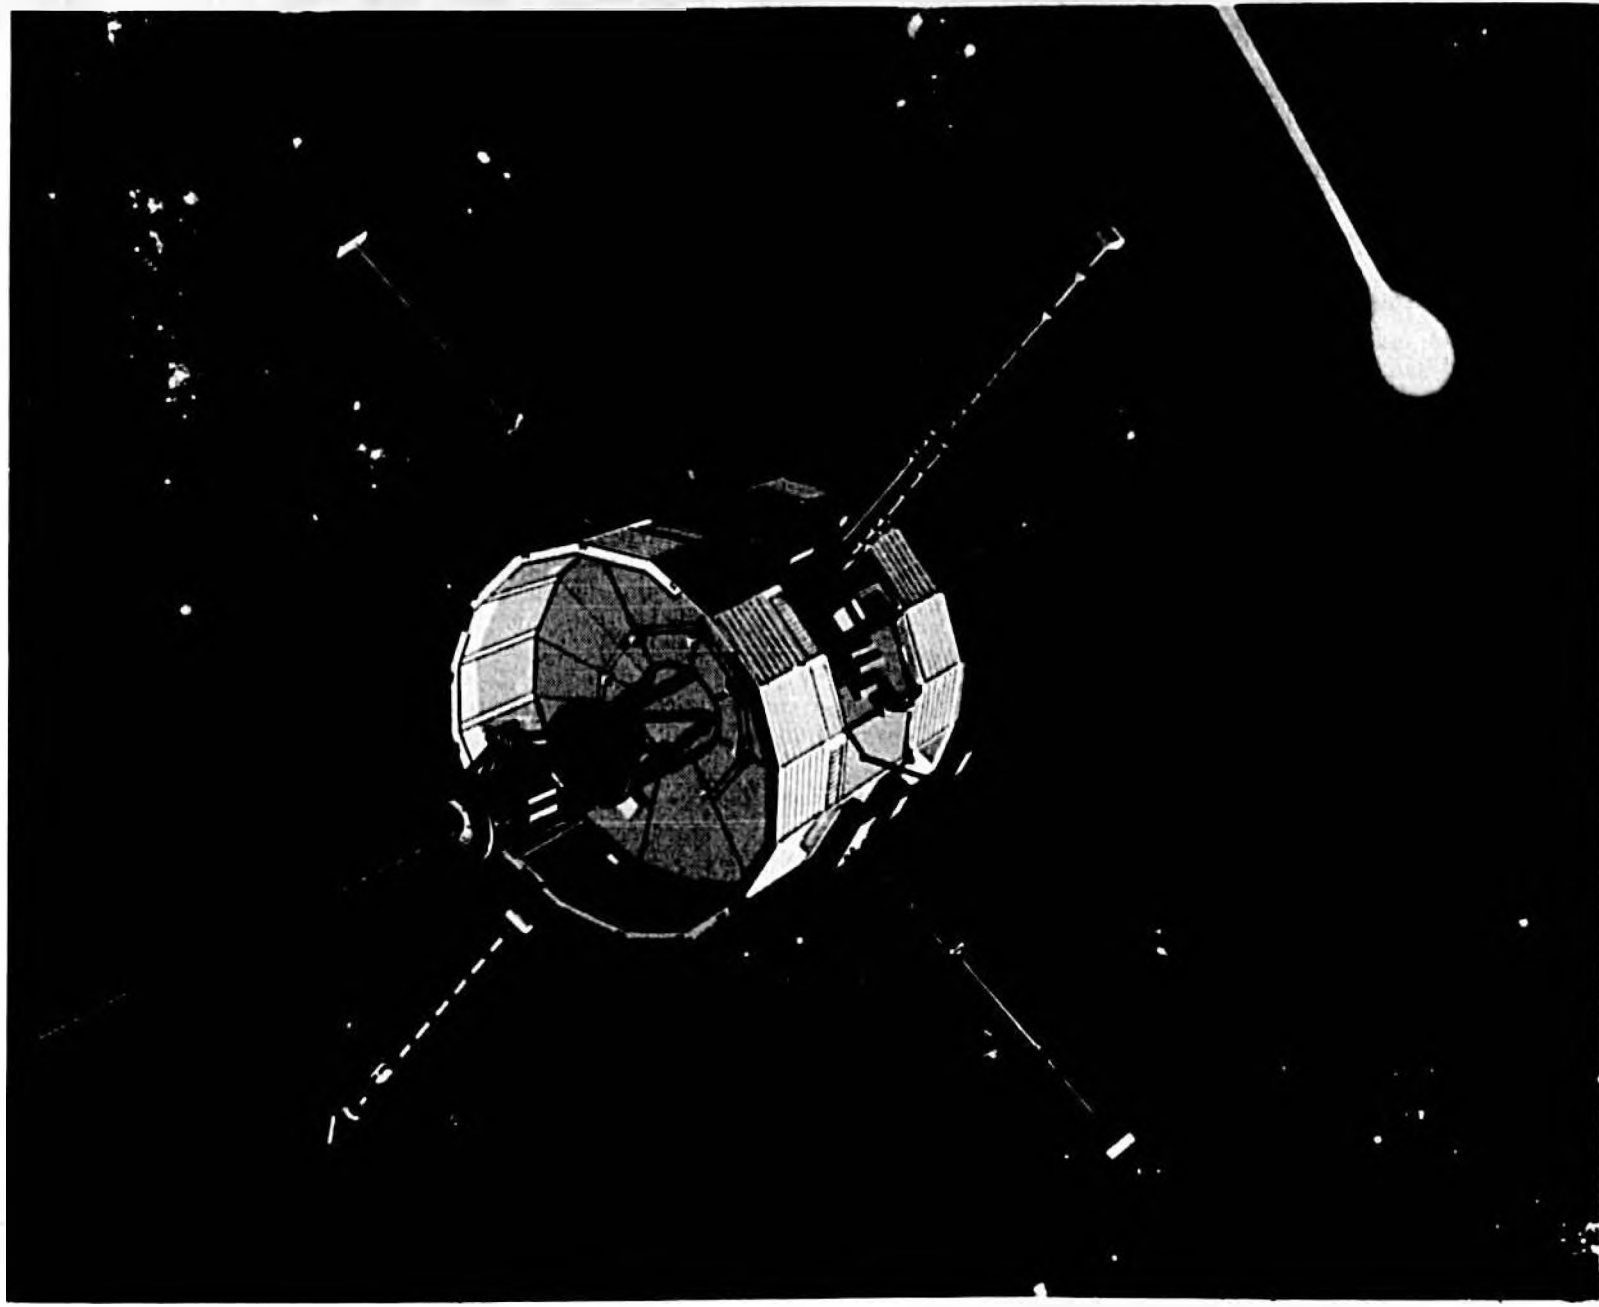

The unprecedented — and risky — rendezvous with the comet will take place 6 months before spacecraft from the European Space Agency, Japan and the Soviet Union intercept Halley's Comet, the world's most famous "interplanetary traveler."

ISEE-3/ICE was primarily designed to fly in a "halo" orbit at the libration point, collecting scientific data on the solar wind until its anticipated demise in 1981 or 3 years after launch. At the libration point, which is 930,000 miles from Earth, it measured the supersonic solar wind as it flowed toward Earth.

After the spacecraft had completed most of the objectives of its first mission, it remained in good operational condition and had approximately 75 percent (150 pounds) of its total propellant reserves (200 pounds).

Engineers at Goddard, under the leadership of Dr. Robert W. Farquhar, developed a plan that would divert ISEE-3 from its libration point orbit through a series of orbital gymnastics. This plan would take it past the moon five times and literally "slingshot" it out toward Comet Giacobini-Zinner. The cost: less than $3 million.

The "bargain-basement" price — a fraction of the cost of a new cometary

An artist's conception of the ICE space probe's spacecraft will pass through the comet's tail at a distance of 10,000 kilometers from the nucleus.

exploration spacecraft — was attractive. However, not everyone was eager to give the spacecraft a new mission because it was not designed for cometary investigations. The spacecraft had no cameras or dust detectors. Six experiments, however, were deemed well-suited for measurements of a comet's plasma properties, a chief objective of cometary explorations.

In addition, the trajectory developed by Farquhar and his colleagues also brought the spacecraft within range of an upstream intercept of Comet Halley in March 1986.

The Goddard engineers had determined that orbital energy required to escape from the Earth-moon system and reach the comet would have to come almost entirely from a lunar gravity-assist maneuver. To achieve the proper timing for the escape maneuver meant that five lunar swingbys would be necessary.

The first lunar flyby occurred on March 30, 1983; the second on April 23; the third on Sept. 27; and the fourth on Oct. 21. On the first four swings by the moon, the spacecraft followed a wild, boomerang-like course between distant points of the Earth-moon system, having been driven into deep space by the moon's gravitational field and back again. The first four swingbys were at altitudes of 12,000 miles. The fifth and final one, however, was a scant 75 miles above the crater-riddled lunar surface. During this 19-month second mission phase, the spacecraft traveled approximately 15 million miles. Since leaving the moon for its final time in December 1983, for its third mission phase, it will have traveled another 1 billion miles when it reaches the comet.

Following the fifth lunar pass, the spacecraft was catapulted into solar orbit and headed for Comet Giacobini-Zinner. The comet "visits" the inner solar system every six-and-a-half years (Halley comes every 76 years).

After its encounter with Giacobini-Zinner, ICE will pass between the sun and Halley's Comet on two occasions. The first — on Oct. 31, 1985 — will be rather distant, but the second — on March 28, 1986 — will be within 19.5 million miles of the comet.

The 1986 "upstream" pass of Halley is considered important because ICE will provide data on the solar-wind state upstream from Halley and Earth-based telescopes will then observe the effect of the solar wind on Halley's tail.

The spacecraft will return to the vicinity of Earth in July 2012. Farquhar has been looking at that with some expectation. He thinks a lunar gravity-assist maneuver would place the spacecraft into an Earth orbit. And from that orbit, he suggests, it might be retrievable by the Space Station complex and an orbital transfer vehicle and be brought back to Earth for examination and eventual display.

The ICE program is managed by Goddard for NASA's Office of Space Science and Applications, NASA Headquarters, Washington, D.C.

Mission Could Disable Probe

GREENBELT, Md. (UPI) — An American spacecraft hurtling 46,000 mph toward a hazardous encounter with the comet Giacobini-Zinner early today may not survive the rendezvous because of comet dust, said flight director Robert Farquhar. The half-ton spacecraft, which until three years ago was in a "halo orbit" between the sun and Earth, was aimed at the comet's tail because Farquhar persuaded National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials to send it on the exploratory mission.

"We are definitely putting the spacecraft in harm's way," Farquhar said.

ICE's course took it through Giacobini-Zinner's tail about 5,600 miles from the comet's icy nucleus.

Farquhar's concern was not shared by project scientist Tycho von Rosenvinge.

"I'm very optimistic the dust is not going to be a severe hazard," he said.

GTE Officials Indicted In Arms Fraud

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal grand jury has indicted three GTE Corp. officials for conspiring to obtain and use secret Pentagon documents to get government contracts, the Justice Department announced.

Attorney General Edwin Meese said the Justice Department also charged the defense arm of the company, GTE Government Systems Corp., in a separate action with an additional count of conspiracy.

The Pentagon said Tuesday the Waltham, Mass., company, which manufactures electronic warfare equipment, will plead guilty to the charge that it used the classified internal documents "to defraud the United States."

The indictment, returned in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Va., charged three men, a consultant and two company officials, with illegally obtaining sensitive Pentagon budget documents that "reflect the potential procurements of the department ... (and) contain proprietary and classified information."

Those officials used the inside information to help the company obtain government contracts, the indictment said. The indictment charges the officials with "conspiring to convert the documents for its own use and to defraud the United States" by subverting the defense procurement process.

The indictment also charged the three with unauthorized possession of a classified document, using a section of the law normally reserved for espionage cases.

The separate count of conspiracy charged against the company said GTE officials took extraordinary steps to conceal their activity, the Justice Department said.

Named as defendants in the five-count indictment were:

—Robert Carter, 55, of Mountain View, Calif., a former GTE employee who was marketing manager of the Electronic Warfare Organization of GTE's Western Division.

—Walter Edgington, 60, of Annandale, Va., a GTE vice president for marketing with offices in Rosslyn, Va.

—Bernie Zettl, 62, of McLean, Va., a consultant doing business as Zettl Associates, with offices in Virginia.

The indictment said Zettl entered into consulting contracts with GTE, in which he "would, among other things, convey to GTE without authority documents of the Department of Defense containing" classified information relating to electronic warfare procurements.

Zettl supplied GTE with the documents by turning them over either directly to Carter or Edgington for "transshipment to other GTE employees," the indictment said.

The indictment also quoted a 1979 internal GTE document on paying Zettl that said, "Also, we do not want to list on paper the work that he is doing."

From 1979 through 1983, Zettl was paid more than $119,000 for his services, the indictment said.

A Defense Department statement said its investigators discovered the criminal activity and "fully supported the prosecution of the case."

If convicted, GTE Government Systems Corp. faces a maximum fine of $10,000. The individuals indicted face fines and sentences up to $30,000 and 25 years in prison.

Last Fugitive German POW In U.S. Surrenders ... Finally

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — World War II finally comes to an end today for Georg Gaertner, who claims to be the last fugitive German prisoner of war in America.

Gaertner surrendered to immigration and Naturalization Service officials today — 40 years after he escaped from a prisoner of war camp in New Mexico. INS officials did not say if Gaertner would be jailed as an illegal alien.

Gaertner, whose account of his 40 years as a fugitive, "Hitler's Last Soldier in America," was published recently, was a sergeant in Hitler's Afrika Korps when he was captured in an Allied rout in North Africa.

Sent to the United States and incarcerated with other POWs at Camp Deming, N.M., Gaertner said he escaped rather than be repatriated because he had learned his former German home had been taken over by the Russians.

Gaertner said he was 24 when he jumped a train that passed near the camp every other day, winding up in California, where he became a migrant laborer, developed his English and wound up as a ski instructor and tennis pro using the name Dennis Whites.

He wrote that as a tennis pro, he organized pro-celebrity tournaments for charity, rubbing elbows with such stars as Elizabeth Taylor and Robert Stack.

Gaertner said the last fugitive POW other than himself was captured in 1964.

U.S. Senator Paula Hawkins (R-Fla.) will be the keynote speaker at ceremonies marking the turning over of park land by K. Hovnanian Companies to the city of Sanford on Saturday, Sept. 21.

U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum (R-Altamonte Springs) is also scheduled to speak at the ceremonies which will begin at 11 a.m. inside the community clubhouse at The Pine Ridge Club community on Old Lake Mary Road. Elected and appointed officials from all over the state, including commissioners from Seminole and Orange counties are expected to attend.

"We decided to find land suitable for recreation purposes, buy it, and then give it back to the city of Sanford as a civic gesture," said Kevork S. Hovnanian, president and founder of the 26-year-old company. Thus began a long search which ended when the company ac-

Son Charged With Setting Up Dad's Home For Burglars

Orlando man who reportedly tipped two burglary suspects to when his father would be away from his Seminole County home and allegedly asked for 10 percent of their haul when they robbed his father's home has been charged with conspiracy, armed burglary and grand theft.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported that on Aug. 24, the home of Wilson Arthur Knott Sr., on Seminary Circle in Maitland, was burglarized and jewelry and firearms stolen.

Two other suspects have reportedly been linked to the case and one claims the man arrested had a part in the burglary, a sheriff's report said.

Wilson Arthur Knott Jr., 23, was arrested at his Orlando home at 11:15 a.m. Monday and was being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

ASKED FOR HELP, GOT CASH

An 18-year-old Sanford man who reportedly knocked on the door of a Sanford home at about midnight Aug. 28 and told the occupant of the trailer home he need help, ended up robbing that man with the help of another man, a police report said.

The man arrested reportedly told William Crowell of 317 W. First St., "Bill, I need some help." When Crowell opened his door the two men outside jerked it further open and rushed in knocking Crowell down, the report said.

The man charged reportedly held Crowell down while the second suspect ran inside and to the back of the home and took cash.

The suspect charged was questioned at the Sanford police station at about 9:20 a.m. Monday and Raymond O'Neil Curry of 57 William Clark Court has been charged with burglary and robbery in the case. He was being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

YOUTHS THREATENED

Two Sanford men who allegedly threatened two Sanford 15-year-olds while holding a shotgun and a handgun to their heads and necks have been charged with aggravated assault.

The pair allegedly threatened Willy Thomas and Kevin Crumly at about 10 p.m. Sept. 3, on a sidewalk at Higgins Terrace in Sanford, a police report said.

No reason for the alleged assaults were given in the police report. The victims reportedly identified suspects in a police photo lineup on Thursday, the report said.

Judell Andre Williams, 18, of 2211 W. 13th St., was arrested at 11:05 a.m. Monday at the Sanford police station, as was Charlie Knight Jr., 20, of 144 W. Country Club Road, Sanford. They were being held in lieu of $5,000 bond each.

CHARGED IN BURGLARY

A 24-year-old Altamonte Springs man who allegedly dropped two burglars off at Cumberland Farms on State Road 436, Forest City, for a July 14 burglary has been charged in the case.

The man was reportedly implicated in the case by witnesses. Cigarettes worth $500 were stolen along with $100 cash in that burglary, a sheriff's report said.

Herbert S. Cronin of 140 Ronnie Drive was arrested at 5:45 p.m. Monday in the parking lot of the Interstate Mall, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs.

He has been charged with burglary and grand theft and was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana after the suspect allegedly slashed with a knife a man he was reportedly fighting with on Monday.

The fight occurred at 2706 S. Orlando Drive, at about 9:50 p.m. The suspect allegedly cut Gregory Charles Richardson on the arm and was allegedly attacking him with a shovel handle when police confronted and subdued him, a police report said.

No reason for the fight was given in the police report. Richardson was treated for a cut at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, the report said.

Police reported finding a knife in the grass at the scene and a small bag of marijuana in the suspect's pants pocket.

Richard Lee Little, 37, has been charged in the case and was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

CHECK FORGED

A 52-year-old Sanford man who reportedly cashed a forged state of Florida check at the Poplar Grocery, 305 Poplar Ave., Sanford, was charged with grand theft after payment was stopped on the check.

The $201 check was cashed on April 15, and after Azmi Idels owner of the grocery, was notified by the state of the forgery, the theft was reported to police and a suspect linked to the crime through a photo lineup, a police report said.

Eddie Lee Pryor of 29 Higgins Terrace was arrested at about 2 p.m. Monday. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

FRAUD TO BUY SUPPLIES

One of two suspects who allegedly claimed to work for a drywall company and "bought" supplies from Adobe Building Center, 335 Charolott St., Longwood, on the account of Rick's Drywall has been charged with grand theft.

The men reportedly bought $444 worth of joint compound and tape on July 2. Kent Russell of Adobe Building Center reportedly identified the man arrested in a photo lineup, a sheriff's report said.

Rodney Paul Wisdom, 31, of 310 Melody Lane, Casselberry, was arrested at 6:13 p.m. Monday on Magnolia St.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Billy Nelson Beam, 22, of 261 Short St., Lake Mary, was arrested at 2:20 a.m. Tuesday, after his car that ran a stop sign reportedly drove onto the sidewalk along Country Club Road at Third Street in Lake Mary. He was also charged with driving on the sidewalk.

—Bobbie Jean Delau, 26, of 741 Faith St., Maitland, at 12:20 p.m. Monday on Interstate 4 near Lake Mary after her car clocked at 30 mph was seen weaving on the roadway.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

A kitchen range and related supplies worth about $1,000 were stolen from a home being built at 4620 Tiffany Woods Circle, Oviedo, by Richmond American, 1037 E. Semoran Blvd., Casselberry, between Saturday and Monday, a sheriff's report said.

An $800 lawnmower and a $253 air compressor were stolen from the garage of Linwood G. Simpson, 2911 Brantley Hills Court, Longwood, between July 11 and Aug. 12, a sheriff's report filed Monday said.

Gregory W. Bailey, 36, of 89 Spring St., Altamonte Springs, reported to deputies a shotgun was stolen from his home between Aug. 26 and Monday.

Charles Bayles, 43, of 638 Lemon Wood Court, Altamonte Springs, gave deputies the name of a suspect who may have used a key to steal his 1977 Lincoln when it was parked at Captain Hooks, State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, on Monday.

The 1979 AMC Spirit of James E. Jordan, 26, of 318 China Berry Lane, Oviedo, was stolen between Aug. 12 and Monday. A sheriff's report said the vehicle is valued at $2,700.

Jacqueline Durbin, 27, of 587 Northwestern St., Altamonte Springs, told deputies a $400 pool sweeper was stolen from her yard Sunday or Monday.

Court: Man Must Support Child Born To Married Woman

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — An appeal court ruled Tuesday that a man who fathered a child by a woman who was married — but not to him — may be forced to pay child support.

In a Duval County case, the 1st District Court of Appeal said the fact that Florida's child support law referred specifically to "unmarried" mothers at the time the child was born in 1970 did not matter.

A three-judge panel of the Tallahassee court said an earlier court ruled the law's "unmarried" language unconstitutional in 1976 — and said that ruling could be applied retroactively.

Appeal Judge E.R. Mills, Jr., wrote that the law "is intended solely to protect the rights of illegitimate children and to ensure that all children are supported by their natural fathers, thus relieving the public of the obligation to provide support for them."

Mills continued: "We find it unlikely that the Legislature intended to create a right in defendants to avoid their obligations by fathering illegitimate children of married women."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Unknown Gunmen Kidnap President Duarte's Daughter

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Gunmen kidnapped President Jose Napoleon Duarte's daughter, shooting out the tires of her jeep, killing two of her three bodyguards and dragging her out of the vehicle by her hair.

Officials said a "heavily armed group of men" kidnapped Ines Guadalupe Duarte de Navas, 35, Tuesday as she drove to the Nueva San Salvador University where she is a student. Authorities did not say how many gunmen were involved.

No group claimed responsibility for the kidnapping. Military and security officials refused to speculate on who was responsible.

Duarte, 59, was reported Tuesday night to be "depressed and deeply saddened" by the kidnapping.

Security forces launched an intense search for Duarte's daughter. Helicopters flew over San Salvador and troops patrolled in groups of two or three. Security forces checked all vehicles entering or leaving the city.

The president canceled all engagements outside the country, including a scheduled trip to the United States next week to address the United Nations.

Leftist guerrillas have been fighting the government for six years. At the same time, right-wing death squads have been blamed for the deaths of many civilians.

Rioting Seems To Be Easing

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — Hundreds of police clashed with gangs of rioting youths early today, but authorities said the worst urban violence in Britain in four years appeared to be dying down.

Police said today that at least 16 people — including 10 police officers and 3 firefighters — were injured and 92 were arrested in the latest round of rioting in the predominantly black Handsworth section of Birmingham.

Two people have died since the looting, burning and fighting erupted Monday in Birmingham, Britain's second-largest city. Two other people were missing.

On Monday, nearly 40 people were injured and more than 50 shops and homes — mostly owned by Asians — were burned in rioting that began after a gang attacked a white policeman attempting to issue a ticket to a black motorist.

Although Handsworth has one of the highest black unemployment rates in the country — about 40 percent — police and local officials said the rioting caught them by surprise. Relations between police and the community had been considered excellent.

Asian shopkeepers who took the brunt of the violence blamed it on black envy of their business success. East Midlands Chief Constable Geoffrey Dear said it was "naked hooliganism, turning into outright violence and theft."

More Of The Same

Americans who have not forgotten this country's missing in action in Vietnam, and the MIA families who cannot forget them, can only have been tantalized by the recent news from Hanoi. Vietnamese officials all but admitted that they were holding the remains of many MIAs and that these could be released and returned to the United States with little further delay.

But then came the condition, Hanoi's quid pro quo for allowing the families of the missing in action a measure of peace at last. The United States would have to drop its "hostile" policy towards Vietnam and terminate the embargo against U.S. trade with Vietnam. There was also mention of U.S. payments to cover the supposed expenses of Vietnam's supposed searches for more remains of MIAs. And, finally, the Vietnamese talked of "borrowing" the sophisticated equipment that could theoretically help in locating, for example, crash sites.

The excuse offered by the Vietnamese authorities for this undisguised extortion is so patently transparent that it qualifies as deliberate insult. The Vietnamese people, Hanoi says, can only be persuaded to cooperate in locating the remains of U.S. servicemen if the United States adopts policies friendly to Vietnam. In fact, of course, Vietnam is a totalitarian, communist state in which people do exactly what they are told or suffer the draconian consequences.

Cruelly, there appears little or nothing new in Hanoi's position a dozen years after its representatives signed a peace agreement pledging them to return all prisoners of war, all remains, and to provide all information they possessed on the missing in action.

It is still the same crude extortion: If America wants the hundreds of sets of remains the Vietnamese are almost certainly holding, it will have to pay for them. And payment must come in the form of economic and political concessions to a communist dictatorship that brutalizes its own people, makes common cause with the Soviet Union, and wages wars of aggression and conquest against its neighbors in Southeast Asia.

The flight to Brazil by Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., merits an investigation by Congress, but it probably won't get one.

After all, Alexander frittered away only $56,000 in taxpayers' money, and that's small spuds when it comes to congressional spending.

Alexander had requested that the Air Force provide an airliner to carry him to Brazil on Aug. 14, to check into alcohol-fuel production. He assured the Air Force that four other congressmen would be traveling with him on the fact-finding trip.

When flight time arrived, however, Alexander, his daughter and seven other guests were the only non-military passengers. The other four members of Congress said later that they never had any intention of going along.

So Alexander's party, plus an Air Force doctor and four escorts, made the flight in the military version of a DC-9, which can carry up to 42 passengers. The Air Force says the cost was $56,364.

Not only was it an expensive trip, it was a fool's journey. Petroleum prices are dropping, and synthetic fuels just can't compete in today's market. It costs $1 to produce a gallon of alcohol fuel and it takes 1.7 gallons of it to drive a car as far as a gallon of gasoline.

Rep. Alexander should be made to account for the junket. If a general had ordered the same trip for himself, Congress would be falling all over itself to launch an investigation.

Behind The NCI's 'War On Cancer'

WASHINGTON — Nearly 14 years and $12 billion after President Richard Nixon declared "war on cancer," the generals of U.S. cancer research are pointing to "light at the end of the tunnel." But how much progress has really been made?

A recent publication from the $1.2 billion National Cancer Institute proclaims: "The News Is Getting Better All the Time." NCI Director Dr. Vincent DeVita told Congress this spring, "Never before has the pace of progress been so rapid," noting that more than half of patients with serious cancers are now curable.

"Not too many years ago, we didn't have much good news," says Dr. Frank Rauscher Jr., the American Cancer Society's senior vice president for research. "Now we're right smack dab in the golden age of cancer research," claims the former NCI director.

After a decade of dashed hopes and unproven theories, federally financed cancer researchers can indeed boast about more recent news of promising experimental therapies, basic scientific advances in understanding the cancer process, and improved survival prospects for certain types of cancer.

Last month, Johns Hopkins Oncology Center

researchers announced "the first effective treatment" for inoperable liver cancer. A team led by radiation oncologist Dr. Stanley Order combined high-tech tumor analysis with an experimental technique that attaches radioactive isotopes to antitumor antibodies extracted from four different species of animals.

The antibodies hunt out liver cancer cells like "guided missiles" so the radiation "warhead" can destroy the cancer without toxic effects on other body tissue. Initial clinical results have shown some extraordinary tumor shrinkages in cases of this lethal and quick-striking form of cancer.

Although the treatment requires further fine-tuning, it has also been effective against certain forms of Hodgkins disease and may someday prove applicable to other forms of cancer. "I know what's coming up, and it's going to be wilder than this," says Order.

Cancer researchers at Houston's M.D. Anderson Hospital have recently developed a new system to grow a patient's own cancer cells in test tubes and then analyze their reactions to different drugs. This approach can speed up therapeutic experimentation with anti-cancer agents on an individualized basis, without increasing the risk of unnecessary side effects.

Last week, the New England Journal of Medicine reported the findings of a new test that examines the genetic material of abnormal cells to help diagnose a variety of lymph cancers like leukemia. It could also aid further development of now-evolving antibody techniques to hunt out and kill malignant cells while leaving normal ones untouched.

NCI-directed research strongly suggests that these artificially created antibodies can be tailor-made to help diagnose, and someday treat, certain types of cancers. Also holding great promise for future cancer prevention and treatment is the newly rising research area of biological response modifiers — natural substances like interferon, interleukin-2 and tumor necrosis factor, all of which modulate or augment the immune system's defenses against cancer cells.

All of these developments and others have contributed in some part to NCI's claims of improved survival rates for cancer (49 percent of all patients) and its stated objective of a 50 percent reduction in current cancer mortality rates by the turn of the century.

A True Success Story

In this year of momentous anniversaries for the post-World War II world, one of special significance should not be overlooked.

It is not one of the dramatic 40ths, such as V-E and V-J days and the dropping of the atomic bombs.

Rather, it was 30 years ago that Austria emerged from a decade of Four-Power occupation as a reunited, independent nation. The mechanism was a treaty between Austria and the four victorious wartime powers, the formal signing of which was observed at a gathering of foreign ministers in Vienna back in May.

But the country's rebirth did not become accomplished fact until several months later, when on Sept. 19, 1955, the last Soviet troops withdrew from Austrian territory.

It is to this day the only such instance of voluntary Soviet surrender of conquered territory. (Soviet forces were pulled out of northern Iran under U.S. pressure in 1946, but under very different circumstances.)

Why the Soviets chose suddenly to pack up and leave is still not completely clear. It certainly had some connection with the then-recent death of Josef Stalin. It is possible, according to one school of thought, that the new leadership, preoccupied with getting its own affairs in order, was hoping to buy a respite in tensions with the West.

According to another view, an independent Austria was being offered as the Soviet quid for which it was hoped the Western quid would be a halt on the rearmament of West Germany within NATO.

Whichever, it can be said with absolute certainty that it would never have come to pass had the Kremlin had the slightest inkling of what was to come in neighboring Hungary just one year later.

And whatever their reasons, the Soviets deserve some thanks for a not-so-small favor. Austria is one of the postwar world's unqualified success stories, but it had to come from very far behind to become such.

Austria, geographically the size of Maine with a population about that of New Jersey, initially had its freedom but not much else. While it pumps some oil from fields near the Hungarian border and mines a mountain of iron ore at Eisenerz, its major resource is Alpine scenery.

Influential Lobbyists Help S. Africa

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — As the Senate debates economic sanctions against South Africa this week, a few high-powered lobbyists will be doing all they can to soften any action against what has become a symbol of apartheid: the Krugerrand. The coin is minted by the white-minority government from gold mined by politically powerless black miners.

The lobbyists, hired by both the South African government and the nation's gold mining industry, include a former campaign manager for Ronald Reagan, George Bush's former press secretary, a former Senate sergeant-at-arms and a number of former members of Congress.

Former Rep. Garry Brown, R-Mich., who is coordinating the lobbying effort to prevent a ban on trading in Krugerrands, concedes

WILLIAM RUSHER

Truth And Poverty

I ran into my liberal acquaintance Hubert Humbug in a neighborhood tavern the other day. He was knocking them back pretty fast, and looked as if he'd lost his last friend. I inquired, diplomatically, what the trouble was.

"Did you see the Census Bureau report?" he demanded.

"Which report?"

"The one on the poverty rate," he replied. "The number of people living below the poverty line dropped from 35.5 million in 1983 to 33.7 million in 1984."

"Well, but that's good, isn't it?"

"For the poor, maybe. But not for the Democratic Party or the cause of liberalism! My gosh, with inflation at only 3 percent a year, and interest rates still going down, and unemployment back down to where it was when Jimmy Carter left office, what's left to complain about economically?"

"Maybe the deficits?" I suggested.

"People are a little worried by the deficits," he conceded, "but they don't affect most people directly — anyway, not yet. Besides, people just don't take seriously the idea that liberal Democrats would do anything effective to reduce the deficit."

"Well," I said reassuringly, "there are still lots of poor people, and they're all on your side."

"Don't be too sure," he retorted gloomily. "Have you seen the June/July issue of Public Opinion magazine?"

"No. What does it say?"

"Nothing good. According to a Los Angeles Times poll the magazine reports on, 59 percent of the American people think welfare benefits make poor people dependent and encourage them to stay poor."

"Yeah, but what do the poor people themselves think?"

"Forty-three percent of them agree," he groaned.

"Well," I argued, "57 percent of them disagree..."

"Wrong," he corrected me. "Only 31 percent of them disagree. The rest either don't know or think welfare benefits have no effect on motivation. And that's not all!"

"What else?"

"Fifty-four percent of Americans think jobs are available for anyone willing to work."

"And you mean to tell me the poor..."

"Thirty-one percent of them agree."

I was stunned into silence. Finally Hubert went on.

"Apparently, living in poverty can give a person a very different attitude toward welfare. When the poll asked whether poor young women deliberately have babies so they can collect welfare payments, 49 percent of the public as a whole said 'often,' 47 percent said 'seldom,' and 4 percent didn't know. But among women below the poverty line, believe it or not, 70 percent said 'often,' only 20 percent said 'seldom,' and 10 percent didn't know."

that it all may be an exercise in futility, as violence continues in South Africa. It's the Pretoria government's choice of response — reform or repression — that counts, he indicated.

"What we in Washington do is of little consequence," he told our associate Tony Capaccio, "but what the government does in South Africa is what's important."

This recognition of reality hasn't stopped the lobbyists from doing their best, nor has it discouraged the South Africans from laying out substantial sums to promote its interests on Capitol Hill.

For example, the South African government has paid former Reagan campaign manager John Sears $1.3 million in quarterly installments since April 1983. Among the issues Sears has been working on this year is the proposed ban on Krugerrand sales. He provided fact sheets to at least 63 members of Congress, arguing that a ban would throw thousands of black miners out of work.

From January 1984 through March 1985, the Pretoria government paid the law firm headed by ex-Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., $406,034. The firm has kept track of the progress of at least 18 congressional actions, including the proposal to ban the Krugerrand.

The South African gold industry's lobbying funds in this country are dispensed by its New York marketing arm, International Gold Corp. Ltd. A spokesman for the firm confirmed it had an operating budget of $11.3 million for the first five months of 1985.

Among International Gold's expenditures this year is $165,000 in retainer fees paid to the Washington law firm of Kirkpatrick & Lockhart. Since 1983, the firm has been paid a total of $247,857 by International Gold, to lobby against the Krugerrand ban.

TB Still Health Problem

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tuberculosis, the leading cause of death in the United States at the turn of the century, is again on the rise after decades of decline.

The increase is slight, 13,724 cases reported so far this year compared to 13,674 for the same period last year, but health officials say it points out the continuing need to isolate and cure those with the disease before it is spread to others.

"The pool of people who were infected with TB years and years ago is growing older and being replaced by a younger, healthy pool," said Dr. Alan B. Bloch of the division of tuberculosis control at the federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. "It's very important to keep that younger pool healthy and free of the disease."

Some health professionals believe the 0.4 percent increase in tuberculosis cases is the due to the increasing number of AIDS patients who have contracted the disease as their immune systems deteriorate, although there are as yet no studies to confirm that.

Tuberculosis is caused by airborne bacteria, coughed up by an infected person and inhaled by the healthy. The bacteria settle in the lungs, where the immune system attacks them with vigor, forming lung abscesses. From there the bacteria can seep into the blood stream and attack the tissues of other organs.

The initial infection of tuberculosis may be so slight that a healthy person will suffer no symptoms or even be aware he is infected with the disease, said Bloch. Yet the bacteria remain in the body, dormant, until years later when the immune system is weakened by old age or disease. Then it will flourish again with possibly more serious symptoms, he said.

It is a disease of the poor, the weak and the immigrants, as it has always been.

"TB is prevalent with those people who are suffering the loss of a home, a job, poor nutrition, alcoholism," said Stephen Schultz, New York City's deputy commissioner of preventable diseases. "They live in crowded conditions, their food is scarce or of poor quality. Their immunity systems are very, very low."

Lockhart in July hired Peter Teeley, Bush's former press secretary. An unspecified part of Teeley's $5,000 monthly retainer is for advice he is to provide to International Gold, which also hired lobbyist Howard Liebengood, the former Senate sergeant-at-arms, for $10,000 a month.

Teeley, pointing out that his client was the law firm, not the South African gold industry, declined to say what kind of advice he is providing to International Gold. Liebengood called the proposed Krugerrand ban "unfortunate and unfair," and said, "We're doing what we can for those people" — meaning, apparently, his client.

Shortly after the firm hired Liebengood, but before it was getting any advice from Teeley, International Gold on June 21 donated $20,000 to the Conservative Caucus Foundation, a leading New Right group.

Foster's Glare Ignites Mets By Redbirds, 7-6

United Press International
One good brawl deserves another.

Last Saturday, Mariano Duncan of the Los Angeles Dodgers got into a scuffle with pitcher Ed Lynch of the New York Mets, causing Lynch to become unraveled, and the Dodgers went on to win the game, 7-6.

The Mets must have learned something from that game because they put the same tactic to good use Tuesday night en route to a 5-4 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

George Foster, hit by a pitch from Danny Cox to load the bases in the first inning, riled his teammates up when he stared down Cox, causing both benches and bullpens to empty onto the field.

N.L. Baseball

When order was restored, Howard Johnson tagged a 2-1 pitch for a grand slam that launched the Mets to victory.

Foster, who came to the plate after Darryl Strawberry was walked intentionally after Cox went to a 2-0 count on him, said he would have rather hit than be hit in that situation.

"You want to get a chance to hit in that situation," said Foster. "They walked Strawberry to get to me."

"I wanted to get the team fired up with a hit or a home run. I was not striving to start anything."

Rose Puts Reagan On Hold

Pete Goes 0-For-4, Tries Again Tonight Against Show

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Poor Eric Show.

When he last observed him, the San Diego right-hander was trying to get an out in the 1984 post-season. Without much success.

His fastball posed a bigger hazard than sunburn to bleachers.

That was injury. Now here comes insult, and it looks an awful lot like Pete Rose.

"I might have been trying too hard," Cincinnati's player-manager said Tuesday night, explaining his hitless night. "I was overanxious but not nervous."

Rose went 0-for-4 to leave him even with Ty Cobb at 4.191 career hits and make Show a potential victim for 4.192 tonight.

N.L. Baseball

"I was seeing the ball good," Rose continued after San Diego's 3-2 victory over the Reds. "But I only hit the ball good one time."

With 51,045 fans cheering for him and President Reagan waiting to telephone congratulations, Rose popped out to short twice and fled out to left twice.

Three of the outs came against right-hander LaMarr Hoyt, a former Cy Young Award winner pitching for the first time after three weeks of shoulder problems.

Hoyt appeared the ideal dispenser of hit No. 4.192. A control pitcher, he would never walk Rose. He would give him something to hit.

"I felt I was in a no-lose situation," Hoyt said. "If I gave up the hit, it would be part of history. If I got him out, it would be part of winning the game."

Backed by a 2-0 lead, Hoyt faced Rose in the first inning and led him to pop out to shortstop Garry Templeton.

In the fourth, Rose swung at the first pitch and fled out to left. In the sixth, he popped out to Templeton.

Thus Hoyt removed the blindfold and last cigarette, and passed them to 21-year-old rookie reliever Lance McCullers.

In the eighth inning, with the Padres leading 3-2, McCullers met Pete Rose. Max Venable stood on second with the poten-

Lyman Sweeps DeLand

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

The heat and the Greyhounds were too much for DeLand's Bulldogs Tuesday afternoon.

In a dual cross country meet run in sizzling temperatures at Lyman High, the Lyman girls team came away with a team score of 16 compared to 50 for DeLand while the Lyman boys squad also came away with a score of 16 while the Bulldogs had no team score.

"It was the hottest meet I've ever been to," Lyman girls coach Joe Laughlin said. "The heat got to everybody. It was awful. But the girls did perform well."

The Lady Greyhounds had the top four finishers Tuesday led by junior Julie Greenberg who ran away from the rest of the pack with a time of 12:47. "For her first time running this year she looked really good," Laughlin said of Greenberg.

Sophomore Tracy Fisher took second place at 14:06 followed by freshman Chris Bruen at 14:47 and sophomore Gretchen O'Grady at 15:12. DeLand's Kim Richards kept Lyman from a perfect team score as she took fifth place with a time of 15:20. Lyman's Lynn Gomezperalta, a sophomore, was sixth at 15:29.

Also running for the Lady Greyhounds were sophomores Tara Braheny (seventh at 15:30), Audrey Holliday (ninth at 16:38) and junior Brittany Crist (13th at 18:43).

"Overall, we pretty much hit our goals as far as performance against the other team," Laughlin said. "We had two girls who didn't run who could end up being in the top five."

In the boys meet, Lyman had the top four finishers and five of the top six while DeLand had no team score because one of its runners dropped out due to the heat.

Leading the way for the Greyhounds was Mike Mohler who edged out teammate Nick Radkewich for first place. Mohler finished in 17:33 while Radkewich came in at 17:34. Robin Rogers took third place at 17:42 and Kevin Quinn was fourth at 18:12. David Mobley rounded out the top five as he finished sixth with a time of 20:01.

Also running for Lyman were Craig Webber (eighth at 20:43), Rick Junnier (ninth at 21:12), Tom Sells (11th at 22:19), Keith Levitt (12th at 23:15), Robert Bojan (13th at 23:28), Tom Hanson (14th at 23:38), Scott Levitt (16th at 25:13), David Freedman (17th at 25:24) and Greg Sims (18th at 26:17).

Blake Wins QB Position

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Jeff Blake, a sophomore with a rifle arm, has won the starting quarterback position for Seminole High in its home opener Friday night against the Titusville Astronaut War Eagles.

Seminole coach Dave Mosure made his decision late Monday and chose Blake over senior Daryl Taylor. Neither has any varsity experience since Blake played freshman ball last year and Taylor was the QB for the junior varsity.

"Blake has mastered the offense better at this point," Seminole coach Dave Mosure said. "His arm is a little better than Taylor's and he knows the various sets, motions and adjustments."

Mosure said he can go into Friday's game with confidence and he expects Blake to do the same. "He doesn't have to be looking over his shoulder," Mosure said. "He won't be jerked out if he makes one mistake. He can go in and relax and play the position."

While Mosure said that the naming of Blake should solidify the offense, he had some bad news about two of his defensive performers. Dexter Franklin, a standout in the Tribe secondary, was stricken with the flu and Jerry Little, a hard-hitting linebacker, has the strep throat.

Elsewhere in the county, here's how the QBs are shaping up:

●Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson said junior Shane Letterio will be his starting quarterback. Letterio moved into the job early in the fall practice season and improved his stock with a strong showing in last week's jamboree.

The Rams open at Apopka.

●Lyman coach Bill Scott has decided to go with junior Darren Boyesen over junior John Burton. Scott noted that Boyesen, who started seven games last year, has an edge in experience which gave him the nod. Burton transferred from Lake Mary High this fall. The Greyhounds open at Boone.

●Oviedo coach Jack Blanton has been going with junior John Morrow all along. Morrow, a 6-1 183-pounder, was rushed into varsity action last fall when Kevin Thompson went down with a knee injury. Blanton said this year Morrow is better adjusted and has been playing well. The Lions open at Lake Brantley.

●Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia has decided to start Mark Wainwright over David Dees. Bisceglia said Wainwright, a junior, has more experience than Dees, which gave him the job. The Silver Hawks open at Edgewater.

●Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon said Dave Delfiaco would be his QB. Delfiaco has impressive credentials. He was the All-County first-team quarterback last year. The Patriot backup is Andy Dunn. Brantley hosts Oviedo Friday in the first Seminole Athletic Conference game.

Bucs Sign Young — Dickerson Spurns Offer

TAMPA (UPI) — Steve Young, the left-handed quarterback from Brigham Young, ended a two-year relationship with the USFL Tuesday and signed six one-year contracts with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers of the rival NFL.

Young's release from the Los Angeles Express and the USFL was a result of a negotiated buyout of his contract, which still had two years to go.

His agent, Leigh Steinberg, would not disclose the details of the buyout nor the financial arrangements in the Buccaneers' contracts.

It had been rumored the buyout would be the neighborhood of $1.5 million to $2 million, but sources Tuesday said it was closer to $1 million.

Tampa Bay coach Leeman Bennett said despite the signing of the millionaire quarterback, he still will back up Steve DeBerg, at least for a few weeks.

The Buccaneers also have another backup quarterback in Alan Risher, and Bennett has two weeks in which to decide whether to keep all three and cut another player, or cut back to two quarterbacks.

The NFL has given Tampa Bay a two-week exemption before Young has to be placed on the roster and Bennett said he will not be in uniform Sunday against the Minnesota Vikings.

"We think he's got a tremendous future here," Bennett said. "We expect him to come in and learn the system and be a backup to Steve DeBerg. We're convinced he can play in the NFL. I feel very good about signing him and I think he has a great future in this league."

"I'm not walking into Tampa expecting anything other than what I earn," Young said. "I don't want a situation where people think you should play just because you show up. That's baloney."

"You have to earn your position. I've got to prove it, but I have to have a chance to prove it," Young said.

He said based on his experience at Los Angeles, where he joined the team in mid-season, he expects it to take more than four weeks to be in a position to challenge DeBerg for the starting spot.

The way for Young to sign with the Buccaneers opened when USFL officials officially released him Tuesday.

"We felt it in the best interest of both the USFL and Steve Young that he should be released from his contract," USFL commissioner Harry Usher said in a statement released through the Buccaneers. "Because of the (Los Angeles) Express' disappointing year he has asked to be released. We have agreed to negotiate a buyout. He's an exciting player who was a credit to our league and we wish him well in his pro football future."

"It's a very complete contract," Steinberg said of Tampa Bay's offer.

THE POINT OF NO RETURN?
ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Eric Dickerson could be reaching the point of no return.

Calling the situation "tragic for us and tragic for Eric," Los Angeles Rams coach John Robinson Tuesday expressed doubt that the record-setting running back will end his holdout sometime soon.

"I don't mean to say that it is in any way any kind of thing where anyone is closing any doors, but I don't think anyone could be in more of a need than the Rams," Robinson said. "There is a point in all these things where people have to either be there or not."

"The advice that's he's been given is tragic for us and tragic for Eric."

The bruising runner totaled 2,105 yards last season, breaking O.J. Simpson's single-season record of 2,003. Today is the 45th day of a holdout aimed at a contract extension that would place him among the best paid in the NFL.

Rusty Marino Tries To Quicken Return

MIAMI (UPI) — Even though Dan Marino tossed a lot of passes to friends and college receivers during his 37-day walkout from the Dolphins, it's just not the same as throwing in daily training camp workouts.

That was evident in Marino's rusty performance in Houston's 26-23 win over Miami Sunday.

To spur Marino back into the record-setting form he showed last season, Coach Don Shula had the quarterback practice in shoulder pads Tuesday while the rest of the team wore shorts and helmets.

"I had him put the pads on because he's thrown a lot without them and not very much with" them, Shula said.

Shula said Marino also was doing a better job of stepping into his passes. He complained after the Houston game that one big problem Marino had was not stepping before he threw.

Football

Against the Oilers, Marino completed 13 of 24 passes for 159 yards, no touchdowns and two interceptions.

The wide receiver who was on the receiving end of 18 of Marino's 48 touchdown passes last season, Mark Clayton, sprained an ankle running sprints after practice and will miss a couple days of practice. He is expected to be ready for Sunday's home opener against Indianapolis.

Shula also said that rookie nose tackle

George Little, who missed the Houston game with sprained ligaments in his knee, jogged Tuesday and may practice in pads later this week.

In addition, it appears defensive backs Robert Sowell and Mike Smith are recovering from injuries that caused them to miss the Houston game and that Ronnie Lee's knee is OK. "Physically, I think we're in pretty good shape," he said.

"We just have to go to work, have a good week of practice and do it on Sunday," he said.

In other news, Shula said he is looking for second-year free safety Bud Brown to become a leader in the secondary, especially with last year's defensive captain Glenn Blackwood still holding out.

Stargell, Madlock Deny Berra's Charges

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Willie Stargell and Bill Madlock, former captains of the Pittsburgh Pirates, gave teammates amphetamines to "alleviate pain" and "feel stronger," former Pirate shortstop Dale Berra testified.

Stargell, now the Pirates' first-base coach, and Madlock, traded Aug. 31 to the Los Angeles Dodgers, both denied the statements Berra made Tuesday at the federal court trial of Curtis Strong.

Strong, a 38-year-old Philadelphia caterer, is charged with 16 counts of selling cocaine to major league players in Pittsburgh.

Madlock, in Atlanta Tuesday night for a game with the Braves, said: "I never sold nor gave any 'greenies' to Dale Berra."

San Francisco Giants outfielder Jeff Leonard also testified Tuesday against Strong, saying he made two cocaine buys from him in 1982 — one in Pittsburgh and one in Atlanta. Leonard returned to court today for continued cross-examination by defense attorney Adam Renfro.

Berra, like Leonard an admitted former cocaine user who testified under immunity from prosecution, said he learned Stargell and Madlock were dispensing amphetamines — known as "speed," "uppers" or "greenies" — during the Pirates' 1979 championship season but did not get any of the pills from them until the 1980s.

Baseball

Prosecuting U.S. Attorney J. Alan Johnson indicated later in the day his office is investigating the alleged amphetamine distribution.

Berra, who Monday named former Pirate teammates Dave Parker, Lee Lacy, John Milner and Rod Scurry as former cocaine users, introduced the names of Stargell and Madlock during Renfro's cross-examination.

"Did you ever use amphetamines?" Renfro asked.

"Yes," Berra said. "Some in Portland (the Pirates' former Class AAA team in Oregon) and some in Pittsburgh."

"From whom did you get them in Pittsburgh?"

"From Bill Madlock."

"Who else, if anyone, did you get them from?"

"From Willie Stargell."

"Willie Stargell gave you amphetamines?"

"Yes, when he was playing for the Pirates."

Renfro later asked Berra if amphetamine use was widespread in baseball.

"Yes, it is," Berra said, "but I think it was much more prevalent a few years ago than it is now."

Asked why ballplayers take them, Berra responded:

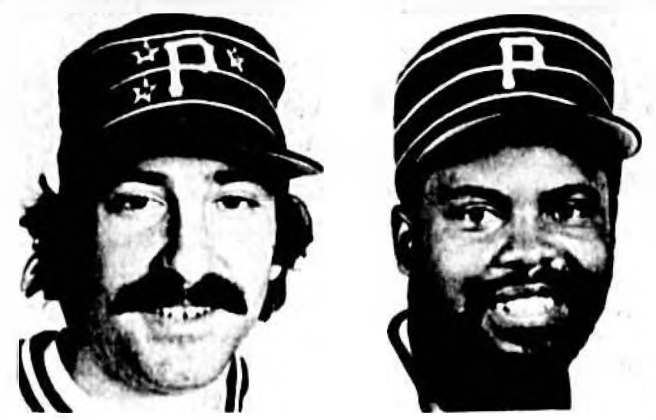

"They make you more alert. They make you feel stronger. Like if you have sore legs, they make your legs stronger. If you have a hamstring pull, or a sore back or something like that, it alleviates the pain because it makes your body feel stronger."

Asked about Berra's testimony, Stargell said: "Totally untrue. I am as shocked as anybody."

Berra was the fourth ballplayer to testify against Strong, one of seven alleged cocaine dealers indicted earlier this summer by a grand jury that spent several months interviewing major leaguers about cocaine use. Earlier witnesses included Lonnie Smith of the Kansas City Royals, Keith Hernandez of the New York Mets and Enos Cabell of the Los Angeles Dodgers. All are admitted former cocaine users who also testified under immunity before the grand jury.

Several other players, including Parker and Lacy, were under subpoena to testify against Strong.

Leonard, who underwent rehabilitation for drug and alcohol abuse after the 1982 season, testified he used cocaine with retired pitcher J.R. Richard when they both played for Houston and with Cabell and Al Holland when they were with the Giants.

Leonard admitted he gave Cabell money for cocaine.

"I paid for it only when I was on the Giants with Enos," Leonard said. "I gave him money."

"You bought drugs from Enos Cabell then, isn't that right?" Renfro demanded.

"Yes," Leonard said.

that lying run.

"I started thinking about it when I went out there," said McCullers. "I knew I'd face him. A base hit would score a run and give him the record."

Rose sent a looping liner to left that Carmelo Martinez caught without much trouble.

"He hit it kind of high," said Martinez. "It went into the lights momentarily but I picked it right up. I knew I had a chance. It was high enough for me."

"He will get it. The kind of hitter he is, he will get it."

Like Hoyt, McCullers therefore sidestepped the company of Tracy Stallard, Al Downing, and Tom Zachary.

Stallard gave up a historic 61st home run to Roger Maris in 1961 to break Babe Ruth's record; Downing surrendered Hank Aaron's record-breaking 715th career homer in 1974, and Zachary gave up Ruth's 60th homer in 1927.

However, the possibility remains for Show to join them as sidestep to history. In last year's playoffs, he allowed a leadoff homer to Chicago's Bob Dernier, and things never improved.

Show wound up the playoffs with an 0-1 record and a 13.50 ERA. In the World Series, he went 0-1 with a 10.13.

This year Show is 9-9 with a 3.24 ERA, and has thrown 22 gopher balls—the same pitch that plagued him last October.

Show will be facing a Rose who is 0-for-6 since equalling Cobb's record on Sunday in Chicago. Rose's worst streak this year is 0-for-13. That is one record he will avoid trying to break.

"I'm gonna be more patient," Rose said. "I'm gonna concentrate on swinging at strikes."

Rose's performance drew comment from Reds owner Marge Schott. Last week, when Rose was creeping toward the record, she hoped he would break it in Cincinnati.

With eight games remaining on the homestand, she's still worried.

"Do you think we're going on the road with this or what?" she wanted to know. Rose was even more blunt.

"How many people here have another pair of clean underwear?" he asked the group following him.

No one in the room raised a hand.

Yankees Outslug Brewers — Playing Field Irks Martin

United Press International

Basking in the glow of the longest winning streak in the major leagues, Yankee manager Billy Martin can still find something to complain about.

New York extended its skein to 11 games Tuesday night by outslugging the Milwaukee Brewers 13-10 last night to stay within 1 1/2 games of the American League East-leading Toronto Blue Jays who nipped the Detroit Tigers 2-1.

Martin, however, could only gripe about the groundskeeping.

"The field is unplayable," Martin said. "It shouldn't be played on. I'm going to protest the game tomorrow before it starts. I probably should have done it last night."

Martin said the field was not covered by a tarp during Sunday's rain storm.

IN BRIEF

Judy Christian Becomes First Woman President Of Altamonte

Judy Christian has been affiliated with the Altamonte Spring Little League in a number of capacities the past four years. He has been treasurer, secretary and last year vice-president.

Monday night, however, Mrs. Christian reached the pinnacle. She was elected the first woman president of the Altamonte Little League. Christian succeeds Jim Hovis, who has been president the past two years.

"I've been just about everything around here," Mrs. Christian said. "I've always taken the attitude that I'll do anything to help the league."

Mrs. Christian was nominated and won without opposition. Frank Harmer was elected vice-president.

She said being the first woman won't be a problem. "Everyone is always concerned about a woman president," Mrs. Christian said. "But I've had a lot of experience in organizations. I think everything will go just fine."

Mrs. Christian, a past PTSA president, said she has a "great group of board members" which will make the job much easier. "That's important," she said. "The president has to rely on the board members for their support."

Hana Has Fun — Lendl Loses Monkey

Well, the U.S. Open is history. For a change this year things did not go along as predicted. To me that was a refreshing change on the women's side the No. 1 seed Chris Evert Lloyd lost in the semifinals to Hana Mandlikova and Martina lost in the finals to Mandlikova.

Hana's comment on her great tournament was, "It was fun." I guess it was fun and it was also almost impossible for her to beat the two greatest women players to ever play the game on two consecutive days is awesome. It was a great win for Mandlikova and points out just how good she can be on a given day.

Ivan Lendl finally got the U.S. Open monkey off his back. Lendl had lost in three previous finals and had won only one of seven grand-slam finals that he had appeared in. Lendl actually had a rather easy time in this one — he was never in trouble in any of his matches and won the finals over McEnroe in a rare straight-setter.

Lendl also got a bit of luck in the semi-finals when Jimmy Connors pulled up lame and was not able to compete very hard. So two Czechs came away with the U.S. Open crowns. Both played great tennis and deserved to win and both were great sports in doing so.

All during the two weeks of the U.S. Open students and friends asked a lot of questions about some of the things that they saw on television or read in the papers.

Larry Castle

I thought that some of you might have wondered about some of the same things so I will pass along some of these questions.

●What did I think of the TV coverage?

Well, of course CBS let the USA network handle most of the matches until the semifinals. I loved it — we got to see a lot of players that we do not usually see and I happen to like Barry McKay and Mary Carillo as the color commentators or "Experts."

Bob Carpenter took over as the lead man and often showed his inexperience in tennis announcing but McKay and Carillo are so good it did not matter. Of course, CBS had the semifinals and the finals and Pat Summerall, Tony Trabert, and John Newcombe handled most of the commentary while Brent Musburger sort of anchored it all and was his usual smooth self.

Newcombe and Trabert are two of the most knowledgeable and respected men in tennis — CBS put on a class show and in my opinion it could not have been covered better.

●Why have McEnroe and Connors started stringing their rackets so loosely?

Both originally went to the loose stringing because of arm problems. McEnroe had a shoulder problem and Connors had elbow problems. The looser strings absorb more of the shock when you hit the ball thus causing less wear and tear on an injured joint. McEnroe strings his rackets as low as 48 pounds, and Connors about 55. Both like it better and are staying with it even though their injuries have cleared up.

●Why don't the tennis officials just default McEnroe when he acts up?

Believe me they want to and would, but are given orders not to. Why? Because of millions of dollars in TV ads and ticket sales are paid by people wanting to see McEnroe. They try to control him the best they can but their hands are really tied.

●From the girls in my class: All the Swedes are so good looking — are they available?

Yes. All are single except Nystrom. Joakim is married and also a new father. Willander, Edkeag, Jarryd Sundstrom, Hogstead, Simminson and Pernfors are all single.

Cobb's Hometown Memorial Languishes Dark And Empty

Baseball

ROYSTON, Ga. (UPI) — The Ty Cobb Memorial, once a tribute to the man some call the greatest player baseball has known, stands dark and empty in the middle of his hometown.

Funding problems and a general lack of interest shut its doors more than a decade ago, long before anyone would have figured a shadow named Pete Rose would sneak up from behind and eclipse Cobb's career hit record.

It is a gloomy encore to the life of Cobb, a hard-nosed — some would say mean-spirited — competitor who was at once the most admired and most disliked player of his era.

"The state closed it to save money. It really wasn't fair," said Suzy Cunningham Bond, whose father lived next door to Cobb and made by hand the young player's first bats in the workshop of his furniture store.

"Somebody from out of state stopped by a while back and asked why we didn't at least sell Ty Cobb post cards," Bond said. "I didn't know, so I asked the chamber of commerce. It seems like we could at least sell post cards."

No post cards yet. But a local Coca-Cola bottler is selling commemorative bottles decorated with a picture of Cobb — the Georgia Peach — and a list of his records.

The "Welcome to Royston" signs that cover all four entrances to the town of 2,500 some 90 miles northeast of Atlanta near the South Carolina border include the words, "Home of Baseball's Immortal Ty Cobb."

A plaque in the city hall — which is housed in the same building where the Cobb Memorial once welcomed visitors — proclaims Cobb as "the greatest ball player who ever lived."

A few press clippings about Cobb sit on a city hall table for visitors. But most of the Cobb memorabilia is at the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y.

Official city vehicles soon will bear emblems imprinted with a likeness of Cobb.

Cobb Memorial Hospital stands in his honor. In an often overlooked gesture of generosity, Cobb gave $100,000 in 1950 to build the area's first hospital.

The most impressive reminder that Cobb called Royston home stands high above town. A giant silver water tower — standing on property that belonged to the Cobb family — bears the silhouette of a left-handed swinging batter and the words, "Home of Ty Cobb."

But Rose's assault on Cobb's career hit mark, once thought untouchable, is not the topic of conversation in Royston. The excitement of it all bypassed the town, the same way traffic has done since Interstate 85 opened several years ago.

However, Bond admits she feels all the hullabaloo is ludicrous.

"It's not a fair race," she said. "Everything's different in baseball today. I say let Pete make his record and let Ty keep his."

The majority of residents could not care less.

Says Colette Johnson, Cobb's cousin, "Royston is not really interested."

Ty Cobb watches the flight on another line drive.

Schott Waits As Cash Registers Sing

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Don't go away yet. Pete Rose is all set to try again.

He'll do that tonight against right-hander Eric Show in the third game of the Reds-Padres series at Riverfront Stadium and it's guaranteed to be another packed house the same way it was Tuesday night.

The 51,045 who showed up were all set to celebrate. Instead, they went away frustrated after Rose went hitless in four trips. Worse yet, the Padres won the ballgame, 3-2.

Even if some of Rose's admirers are showing signs of anxiousness and impatience for him to break Ty Cobb's record by getting his 4,192nd hit, Reds' owner Marge Schott is not.

The longer it takes her 44-year-old player-manager to get the record, the more people the Reds will draw and the more money she'll make. If she had her way, Rose would wait until Sept. 29. That's when the Reds finish up at home with the Astros.

In one breath, Rose says he's in no special hurry, either, as long as the Reds win, and in the next one he says he wouldn't mind getting the whole thing over as soon as he possibly can.

"I hate to disappoint you people. I hate to disappoint the fans and I hate to lose the game," he said to the assembled media following Tuesday night's game.

New Venture To Boost Triple's Crown Appeal

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — A new venture to make the Triple Crown races one long-running sports extravaganza has been launched by officials in three states.

Articles of incorporation were filed Monday with the secretary of state's office in Kentucky for Triple Crown Productions, listing as directors Churchill Downs President Thomas Meeker, Gerald McKeon of the New York Racing Association and Charles J. Lang of the Maryland Jockey Club.

McKeon said earlier that negotiations were under way involving representatives of each jewel of the Triple Crown — the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

While the move, which could allow the new corporation to acquire the Triple Crown trademark, could also lead to bigger purses, officials have said its primary purpose is better marketing.

This year the $2 million Garden State series in New Jersey lured Kentucky Derby winner Spend A Buck away from the Preakness and Belmont.

Milton Richman
UPI

post-game interview room someone told Rose that Morgan said he looked a little nervous at the plate.

"I think 'overanxious' is a better word than nervous," Rose offered. "I was trying to be patient. That's why I was taking pitches. I'm gonna be more patient tomorrow and concentrate on swinging at strikes."

Some of the fans sitting in the right-field seats became a little overexcited in the eighth when Rose's arching drive looked as if it might be in the gap for a hit. They let loose a storm of confetti on the field only to watch the ball hook and Martinez catch up to it.

That reminded Rose of the time in Philadelphia when he was one hit shy of breaking Stan Musial's National League record for base hits. He hit the ball and it started out looking as if it would be a base hit for the record.

To commemorate the record, the Phillies had made arrangements for a tremendous fireworks display. By mistake the fireworks were set off even though the ball Rose hit wound up being caught for an out.

"What I think happened," Rose recalled, "was that someone said 'Oh, no!' And the guy handling the fireworks thought he had said 'Go.'"

Johnson: 'Canes Received A Lesson

CORAL GABLES (UPI) — Inconsistency and mistakes plagued Miami against Florida, but Hurricanes Coach Jimmy Johnson says playing the Gators gave his young team a chance to grow up quickly.

At his weekly news conference Tuesday, Johnson said he saw enough positive things in Saturday's 35-23 loss that he is confident he still has the makings of a fine football team.

"I really think we're going to have an outstanding team," he said. "Young players tend to be inconsistent. Playing a team like Florida makes them grow up quickly. If we had opened up the season against a powder-puff football team, we probably could have won by two or three touchdowns and many of those problems would not have been corrected."

Four Miami turnovers, two interceptions and two fumbles, were probably the key to Florida's victory, Johnson said.

"I think the overall difference in the ball game is that they did not make as many mistakes. They did not turn the ball over, and we did," he said. "We're a young football team and we cannot afford the mistakes that we made against an outstanding football team and expect to win."

The loss gave the Hurricanes four consecutive defeats, three of those from last season.

Before the game, junior quarterback Vinny Testaverde was getting a lot of attention, not only because he was replacing Bernie Kosar, but also because he predicted a 24-0 Miami win. Johnson said he liked what he saw at quarterback.

"My thoughts were pretty well on base in that Vinny Testaverde performed very well," Johnson said. "He's going to be an outstanding quarterback for us over the next two years. I also think the offense as a whole is going to be outstanding, not only this year but next year as well."

Defensively, Miami also was inconsistent, though Johnson said the Hurricanes showed the potential to be a strong defensive unit.

"Defensively, we showed signs of having an outstanding defensive team. There were six possessions Florida had that they did not get a first down," he said. "We did have problems at times in the secondary, but those problems can be corrected."

Most of the problems in the secondary can be traced to the three first-time starters (Bennie Blades, Selwyn Brown, and Don Ellis), Johnson said. Because of their inexperience, the defensive backs were afraid of getting beat deep and did not cover as tightly as necessary on the shorter patterns, he said.

Johnson also said that a new defensive line will enter the game on each new series against Rice Saturday in Houston. "The main reason for this is we feel that we have good depth at this position and with the wide open attack we're expecting (from Rice) ... We need to keep fresh linemen in there."

In other news, redshirt freshman fullback Tracy Walters injured a knee Monday and will undergo arthroscopic surgery Wednesday.

Other players hurting are halfback Melvin Bratton (shoulder; ankle), defensive lineman Jerome Brown (thigh), and wide receiver Mike Irvin (toe).

WBA: Hagler Must Fight Kinchen Next

Boxing

WEST PATERSON, N.J. — The World Boxing Association announced Tuesday that James Kinchen remains the leading available contender for the WBA middleweight crown held by Marvin Hagler.

Under WBA rules, Hagler will be stripped of the title unless he meets Kinchen for the title.

Promoter Bob Arum of Top Rank Inc. has been attempting to have John Mugabi recognized as the leading available contender. Arum has signed Hagler to fight Mugabi and an attempt has been made to have the WBA remove Kinchen from his position.

"I am extremely pleased that the World Championship Committee of the WBA continues to recognize my right to fight for the title against Hagler," Kinchen said from his home in San Diego.

"I am only sorry that Hagler has not had the courage to take the proper course of action and force his promoter, Bob Arum, to adhere to the rules of the WBA and make a title defense against a qualified challenger. Not an easy opponent from a lower weight class like Mugabi."

Boxing

In a related matter, a federal district court judge in north New Jersey, Chief Judge Clarkson Fisher, signed an order directing the WBA, Hagler and Arum to appear in court Sept. 18. They are to show cause why Fisher should not enter an order forbidding the WBA from sanctioning the Hagler-Mugabi bout a title fight and from recognizing anyone other than Kinchen as the leading available contender.

WBC: PARKEY TOPS ARMS

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Rickey Parkey captured the vacant WBC Continental-Americas cruiserweight championship Tuesday night with a unanimous decision over Michael Arms of Eugene, Ore.

Parkey, a Morristown, Tenn., native who now lives in Atlantic City, nearly floored Arms in the first round with an overhand right. Claiming a sore right hand, Parkey settled into a steady jabbing attack against the slower Arms.

Cook Of The Week

Her Culinary Creations Call For A Special Ingredient—Love

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

"I was making biscuits and preparing dinner when I was 12 years old," says Lyde Lavender of Sanford, our Cook of the Week. "Both my parents worked, and I had to have dinner on the table when they came home," she says.

With all that experience it's no wonder that some wonderful meals came out of Lyde's kitchen over the years. Nowadays, many of her delicious recipes are shared with others at church functions or on visits to shut-ins.

Lyde is an active lady who keeps healthy and trim by walking 24 blocks every morning. All her other traveling takes place between Cocoa and Kissimmee where some of her family are living. Lyde feels blessed to have her 86-year-old mother, Ethel Hipp, to visit in Cocoa and makes frequent trips there.

Next to the oldest of three boys and three girls, Lyde was born in Clinton, S.C. Raised in town, Lyde says, "I had certain responsibilities while growing up and had to help with the younger children." Lyde's family moved to Cocoa when she was 6 years old. "There were only five of us then, and another sister was born after we moved to Florida," says Lyde. Religious training started very early for Lyde and while attending the First Baptist Church in Cocoa she recalls, "When I was about 14 or 15 years old, I came in third place in a Bible drill, naming all the books of the Bible."

Widowed for many years now, Lyde first met Curtis Lavender at a skating rink in Cocoa. "We dated for about six months before we got married," says Lyde. "Then we moved to Hollywood and that's where our son, Randall, was born a year later." Lyde also has a daughter, Judy, and if ever a mother had reason to be proud of her children, Lyde certainly has. "I have such a beautiful family," says Lyde, "and I'm so proud of them all. After a 22 year career in the Air Force, my son, Randall, came out a meteorologist and is now a sales representative for an auto dealership in Texas and enjoys playing golf in his spare time." Some of Randall's five children have made Lyde a great-grandmother of three and her face glows when she speaks of them.

Lyde's daughter, Judy Gilbreath of Kissimmee, is a supervisor for an electronics manufacturer and has one son. "I just wish her daddy had been around to see her graduate from high school. He would have been so proud of both our children," says Lyde.

Lyde's life has been filled with family and church work and some traveling. "I made about five trips to the Canal Zone when my son was stationed there and I love to visit my daughter and her family in Kissimmee and my mother, sisters and brothers in Cocoa." Lyde enjoys showing photos of Judy's handsome son and the rest of her fine family, "but," she says, "I told them I wanted some new pictures for

Auditions Set For 2 Actors

Gin Game auditions will be Sept. 23 at 7:00 p.m. at the Central Florida Civic Theatre. Only two actors are needed: one older man and one older lady, who appear to be senior citizens to the audience. He is grouchy, stubborn, outspoken, and terribly lonely. She is charming, patient, good-humored, and terribly lonely. Together they play gin at a nursing home until the truth comes out.

Gin Games is the first two character play ever produced by the Civic Theatre in the Edyth Bush Theatre. It is a heartwarming story with a sad and near tragic ending.

For audition appointments, please call the Civic Theatre Box Office, 898-7365, weekdays 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Even Novice Bakers Can Prepare Hearty, Healthy, Easy Breads

In a lot less time than you think, you can bake wholesome, hearty breads that combine important nutrients with great taste.

These nourishing breads contain energy-packed wheat germ for texture, flavor, B vitamins and minerals, with the added bonus of convenience with RapidRise Yeast which makes bread-making extra fast by reducing dough rising time by half.

Even novice bakers will find these delicious recipes easy to make. You'll also enjoy other benefits experienced by long-time bakers: personal satisfaction and the appreciation of family and friends.

MONKEY BREAD

Makes 1 loaf
 3½ cups all-purpose flour
 ½ cup wheat germ
 3 tablespoons firmly packed light brown sugar
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 package RapidRise Yeast
 ¾ cup milk
 ¾ cup margarine
 ¼ cup water
 1 tablespoon wheat germ

Set aside 1 cup flour. In large bowl, mix remaining flour, ½ cup wheat germ, brown sugar, salt and yeast. In saucepan, over low heat, heat milk, ½ cup margarine and water until hot to touch (125° to 130°F.); stir into dry mixture. Mix in only enough reserved flour to make soft dough. On lightly floured surface, knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Cover; let rest 10 minutes.

Roll dough to 16x10-inch rectangle. Cut into 2-inch square pieces. Melt remaining ¼ cup margarine; dip pieces in margarine and arrange in layers in greased 10-inch fluted tube pan sprinkled with 1 tablespoon wheat germ. Cover; let rise in warm draft-free place until doubled in size, about 1 hour.

Bake at 400°F for 30 minutes or until done. Remove from pan; cool on wire rack.

CRUNCHY SUNFLOWER HONEY BREAD

Makes 1 loaf
 2 cups all-purpose flour
 ½ cup stone ground whole wheat flour
 ½ cup wheat germ
 ¼ cup unsalted sunflower nuts
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 package RapidRise Yeast
 1 cup milk
 ½ cup water
 3 tablespoons honey
 2 tablespoons margarine
 1 tablespoon wheat germ

Set aside 1 cup flour. In large bowl mix remaining flours, ½ cup wheat germ, sunflower nuts, salt and RapidRise yeast.

In small saucepan, over low heat, heat milk, water, 2 tablespoons honey and margarine until hot to touch (125° to 130°F.); stir into dry mixture. Mix in reserved flour to make a stiff batter. Stir vigorously 30 strokes. Batter will be very stiff and sticky. Cover; let rest 10 minutes.

Stir batter vigorously 30 strokes. Turn into greased 8½x4½x2½-inch loaf pan. Cover; let rise in warm draft-free place until doubled in size, about 30 minutes.

Bake at 375°F. for 35-40 minutes or until done. Remove from pan; brush with remaining honey; sprinkle with 1 tablespoon wheat germ. Cool on wire rack.

BRAIDED CARROT BREAD

Makes 1 loaf
 3 cups all-purpose flour
 1 cup shredded carrots, (about 3 medium)
 ½ cup wheat germ
 1 teaspoon sugar
 1 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon summer savory
 1 package RapidRise Yeast
 ½ cup milk
 ¼ cup water
 2 tablespoons margarine, softened
 1 egg white
 1 tablespoon cold water
 Poppy seed

Set aside 1 cup flour. In large bowl, mix remaining flour, carrots, wheat germ, sugar, salt, savory and RapidRise Yeast. In small saucepan, over low heat, heat milk, water and margarine until hot to touch (125° to 130°F.); stir into flour mixture. Mix in only enough reserved flour to make soft dough. On lightly floured surface, knead until smooth and elastic, about 5 minutes. Cover; let rest 10 minutes.

Divide dough into 3 equal pieces; roll each into a 15-inch rope. Braid ropes together; pinch ends to seal. Place on greased baking sheet. Cover; let rise in warm draft-free place until doubled in size, about 15 to 30 minutes.

Beat egg white and cold water; brush on loaf. Sprinkle with poppy seed. Bake at 375°F. for 30-35 minutes or until done. Remove from baking sheet; cool on wire rack.

Braided Carrot Bread is as nutritious as it is eye-appealing. The easy recipe calls for wheat germ and is generously sprinkled with poppy seed.

Microwave Magic

Swiss Steak Table-Ready In Minutes

With a good recipe and your microwave oven you can prepare just about any food that you prepared conventionally. It is even possible to make some of your favorite meat dishes such as Swiss steak or beef stew in very small portions. You might use the recipes in this column as a guide for amounts, power settings and cooking times.

All recipes for these meat dishes require less than a pound of beef for the two serving portions — either round or sirloin, making the recipe a budgetwise one. Try these, then, experiment with one of your family favorites.

SWISS STEAK
(2 servings)
½ pound boneless beef round, cut into two pieces

Midge Mycoff
Home Economist
Seminole
Community College

1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 can (8 oz.) stewed tomatoes
¼ cup chopped onion
1 tablespoon French dressing
¼ teaspoon rosemary leaves
2 green pepper rings

Pound meat to ¼ inch thickness and dredge with flour, salt and pepper. Place meat in a 2 quart casserole. Mix tomatoes, onions, dressing and rosemary; pour over meat. Place green pepper on top. Cover. Microwave on 50% power 25 minutes. Turn meat over. Spoon sauce over meat and continue to microwave on 50% power. This will take anywhere from 15-25 minutes, depending on the tenderness of the meat and the wattage of the oven. Let stand 10 minutes.

You probably thought stew was good only if it was cooked in large quantities and for long periods of time. Maybe this recipe will change your mind.

BEEF STEW
¾ pound boneless beef round, cut into ½ inch cubes
3 tablespoons cornstarch

½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups water (hot)
1 med. carrot, thinly sliced
1 rib celery, thinly sliced
1 med. potato, cut into cubes
1 small onion, cut into 8ths.
½ cup frozen green beans
1 tablespoon parsley
½ teaspoon bouquet sauce
In a 3 qt. casserole toss meat with cornstarch, salt and pepper until coated. Stir in remaining ingredients, cover and microwave on 100% power 5 minutes. Stir, reduce power to 50%. Microwave 30-40 minutes, or until meat and vegetables are tender, stirring 3-4 times during the cooking. Remove cover during the last 5 minute of cooking time. Let stand covered, 10 minutes before serving.

This recipe is a real meat stretcher. You might even have enough left over to have a lunch or perhaps could freeze the left-over for another meal.

PEPPER STEAK
1 tablespoon packed brown sugar
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
3 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ pound boneless sirloin steak, cut into ¼ inch strips
2 green onions, sliced diagonally

1 med. carrot, cut into matchstick pieces
1 med. green pepper, cut into strips
½ red pepper, cut into strips
1½ teaspoons cornstarch
In small bowl mix brown sugar, garlic powder, water, soy sauce and lemon juice. Stir in meat until coated, cover. Marinate at room temperature 30 minutes.

Combine green onions, carrots, green pepper, red pepper in 2 quart casserole. Drain marinade from meat, add to vegetables. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 4 minutes. Add meat.

Microwave, uncovered, on 100% 4-5 minutes, or until desired doneness. Stir several times. Drain liquid into 2 cup measure. Gradually stir in cornstarch until smooth. Microwave on 100% power 1-2 minutes or until thickened, stirring after the first minute. Pour over beef and vegetables. Serve over rice if desired.

If you live alone this Stroganoff recipe would be a great company dinner. A green salad and your favorite dessert would complete the meal.

BEEF STROGANOFF
½ pound boneless sirloin, cut into ½ inch cubes
¼ cup chopped onion
1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon
1 cup hot water
1¼ tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon basil
¼ paprika
¼ pepper
¼ cup plain yogurt or sour cream
1 can sliced mushrooms, drained.

Place meat and onion in 1½ qt. casserole, cover. Microwave on 50% power for 8-10 minutes or until meat is tender. Stir several times. Remove meat and onion. Dissolve bouillon in water, stir into casserole with cornstarch, basil, paprika and pepper. Increase power to 100%. Microwave 3-4 or until thickened, stirring 3 times. Add meat, onion, yogurt, and mushrooms. Cover. Reduce power to 50%. Microwave 5-7 minutes or until heated. Let stand, covered, 5 minutes. Serve over noodles.

Requests for various microwave recipes come to me through the mail from time to time. If you have such a request or a question concerning microwave cooking write to me at: Seminole Community College, Sanford, Florida 32771. I'll try to answer all requests in this column.

STUFFED FRANKS
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
2 cups herb-seasoned stuffing mix
¼ cup catsup
1 tablespoon sweet pickle relish

1 pound large frankfurters (8)
3 slices American cheese, cut in strips
Combine onion and butter in 1½-quart bowl. Place in microwave oven.

Cook onion at high for 2 minutes. Stir in stuffing mix, catsup, relish, and ¼ cup water; set aside. Split frankfurters lengthwise almost to opposite side. Place in 12x7½x2-inch baking dish. Cover loosely; place in microwave oven.

Cook split franks at high for 3 minutes. Mound stuffing atop franks. Return to microwave oven.

Cook franks at high for 3 minutes, till hot. Top with cheese strips.

Cook at medium for 2 minutes till cheese melts. Serves 8.

Unannounced Visits Threat To Friendship

DEAR ABBY: Please say something to those people who make unannounced visits to see their friends. Several times a week, I change or cancel my own plans because those visits last anywhere from one to four hours.

My plans may have been to take a nap because I had not slept well the night before, or perhaps to enjoy a long soak in a hot tub. Such things may seem unimportant to some folks, but they are cherished luxuries that I resent giving up.

Whatever happened to the old practice of calling first? I would certainly never drop in on a friend and assume I would be welcome.

Please print this, Abby. A friendship is being threatened.

TIRED OF COMPANY

DEAR TIRED: I'll print it, but I doubt it will help you. Why? Because "those people" who visit you unannounced are welcomed with open arms while you hide your resentment.

Try this next time you have your day planned and company surprises you. Surprise them with: "I'm sorry you didn't call to let me know you were coming. I have plans for the day and it's too late to change them now. Please telephone ahead next time because I'd like to spend some time with you."

Inhospitable? No, just lesson No. 1 in the art of enlightened selfishness. Be good to yourself. It's later than you think.

DEAR ABBY: I made a big mistake of going to bed with a man on our first date. We dated for a year and a half, but he never really respected me because I was so "easy" (his words). The fact that I had a master's degree, was attractive and made good money made no difference whatsoever — he treated me like trash.

Fortunately, he wasn't the kind of person I would have wanted a permanent relationship with anyway, so I wrote it off as a good learning experience.

Women should use men the way men have been using women for years — for their own fun and pleasure. They should go to bed only with men they know they could never be interested in, and when they meet a man who really counts, they should hold back the sex in the beginning and play hard to get. That way, they'll have all the fun and experience without getting emotionally involved while they're waiting for the right man to come along.

MASTER OF THE GAME

Dear Abby

DEAR MASTER: Using men for "fun and experience" is no more moral than men using women. The game you propose is fraught with danger. Jumping into bed for fun and experience can be hazardous to your health and disastrous for the reputation. Grow up and slow up, sister.

DEAR ABBY: Immediately after the death of my father, my sister parked "Sara," her 30-year-old, unmarried, unemployed, lazy daughter, in my mother's home to keep her company and cheer her up. After four months Sara, who is supposed to be on a special weight-loss diet, has done nothing but sit around, watch television and gain weight. She's even rejected offers of employment.

Mom feels trapped in her own home. It is obvious that Sara is doing nothing for her morale. In fact, I know my mother wishes that Sara would go home already, but she doesn't want to offend Sara's mother.

What should I do?

NO RIGHT ANSWERS

DEAR NO RIGHT: Wrong! There is a right answer. If you "know" that your mom feels trapped and wishes Sara would go home already, encourage her to tell Sara that she appreciated her visit, but the crisis is over and she can go home now.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning "Kicking Myself," who wants to know how to answer people who ask questions like, "Is that dress new?" and, "How much did you pay for it?"

I had a nosy person ask me once, "How much is your car payment?" I answered with, "Why? Are you offering to make the next payment?"

That shut him up fast.

Christmas."

Looking back, Lyde recalls that her husband was also an excellent cook. "I hate to admit it, but he did a lot of the cooking back then because he got home from work before I did. He made the best fried oysters. He'd have my son's friends in and have fried oysters, French fries and hush puppies. We did a lot of entertaining for the kids because we liked them to stay home. We would take everything out of the living room and let them have parties and dance. Some school teachers even came. This house was just for our kids, and their friends were always welcome in our home. I think this helped them grow up to be fine adults. They were raised in the church and both have pins for 10 years of perfect attendance at church."

Lyde's own experience in the business world happened right here in town where she worked at Sanford Manufacturing for 16 years on the site presently occupied by Kokomo Tool and Die Co. "I didn't start to work until the children were in school," says Lyde, "but I worked there for 16 years and my desk was right at the front window. They made mens' and boys' pajamas, but lightning hit the plant and burned up all 125 machines, and so it closed down. After staying home a year, I went to work for Butte Knits for eight years and then they closed down!"

The last three or four years has not left our "Cook" idle though, and about three years ago Lyde won a gold medal in the Golden Age Games for high score in canasta. "That's what us gals do when we get together," says Lyde. "We love to play cards, so if we have any extra time, we get together and play canasta. I'm retired now, so I can enjoy playing cards, eating out with the girls, visiting my family, and going to church. I love my church."

Sharing her time with others is a very rewarding experience for Lyde. She is an active member of the First Baptist Church of Sanford and, as such, she is always available to visit the sick and shut-in. Lyde makes frequent trips to the hospital to comfort a sick patient and spread a cheerful world.

"I love my Sunday school class," Lyde says. "We have the friendliest class you've ever been to in your life," she laughs. "Everybody loves everybody." Lyde has been a group leader in her class for three years and enjoys the fellowship shared with others. She was also a group leader in the "Glowing Embers," a senior citizens church group. "I take a covered dish to that meeting," says Lyde. "Usually a banana pudding, and I'm telling you," she laughs, "it's gone before it even gets to the table. It's one of the preacher's favorites, and it's so easy, anybody can make it." Lyde also enjoys attending meetings of the Women's Missionary Union and hopes to become an active member.

"Life has been good to me."

says Lyde. "I had 26 wonderful years of marriage before my husband died, and I have a wonderful family. I've learned to make the most of every day."

Whether she is cooking a favorite meal for her family or a covered dish delight for a church function, Lyde puts a special ingredient into each one — love! Following is a list of much-requested recipes:

CONGO BARS

1 1/2 sticks margarine
1 box brown sugar
3 eggs
1 pkg. chocolate chips (12 oz.)
1 pkg. chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 1/4 cups plain flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

Melt margarine, then add brown sugar and eggs and mix well. Add chocolate chips, nuts and vanilla, mixing well again. Add dry ingredients blending together well. Batter will be thick. Pour into greased 9x13 inch pan and bake at 350° until done, about 25 to 30 minutes. When cool, cut into 2 inch squares.

CARROT CAKE

4 eggs
2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups vegetable oil
3 cups sifted self-rising flour
2 cups grated carrots
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup chopped pecans
Glaze (below)

Beat eggs well, then add sugar and oil. Beat well again. Add sifted flour gradually, alternating with grated carrots, mixing thoroughly. Add vanilla and cinnamon, blend well. Fold in chopped pecans. Bake in a well greased and floured tube pan at 350° for about 1 hour. Remove from pan while still hot.

Glaze:
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
Heat sugar, butter and buttermilk in a saucepan over medium heat until hot. Add vanilla and soda. Stir to mix and heat until hot, but do not boil. Pour the glaze over cake while mixture and cake are still hot. Keep basting cake until as much as possible is absorbed. This is what helps add flavor to the cake. It is also better if the cake is kept for a day or so before eating.

FRESH COCONUT CAKE

1 pkg. Duncan Hines Butter Cake mix
1 9 oz. pkg. frozen flaked coconut
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 cups (16 oz.) sour cream
Mix coconut, sour cream and sugar together. Cover and refrigerate for 24 hours. Bake cake according to package directions in 9 layer pans. Cool and place in refrigerator to get very cold. When ready to prepare cake, split layers in half. Frost tops and stack in four layers, then frost sides. Refrigerate in a tight container for 3 days. (This aging process is the secret of the cake).

BANANA PUDDING

1 large box instant banana pudding mix
3 cups milk
1 box vanilla wafers
5-6 bananas
Sugar
Prepare pudding mix with 3 cups milk. Layer the bottom of a 9x13 inch baking dish with vanilla wafers, then add a layer of sliced bananas sprinkled lightly with sugar. Top with pudding mixture. Refrigerate. Serves 8-10.

CHEESY SQUASH BAKE

7 medium size yellow squash
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
1 8 oz. carton sour cream
2 tablespoons flour
1 3/4 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
8 slices bacon, cooked, drained and crumbled
1/2 cup fine, dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon margarine, melted

Wash squash, trim off ends. Place in boiling salted water and cook 15-20 minutes or until tender. Drain and cool slightly. Thinly slice squash and sprinkle with salt. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Stir in sour cream and flour. Beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold into yolk mixture. Layer half the squash, egg mixture and cheese in a 9x13 inch baking dish. Sprinkle with all the bacon. Layer remaining ingredients. Combine bread crumbs and margarine and sprinkle over top. Bake at 350° for 20-25 minutes. Serves 8-10.

Thin Is In And Stout Is Out

Becoming thin, if you're not already, is anything but simple. And staying thin, especially if you like good food and if you often eat on the run, isn't simple either.

Like it or not, most people either count calories or add up the inches.

That doesn't mean you have to settle for boring, tasteless, unappealing food. It doesn't mean you have to give up red meat (full of protein and vitamin B) or even dessert (moderation is the key). It's important to eat a balanced diet with a variety of foods you enjoy, foods you can sink your teeth into.

It's not impossible. If you play your calories right, dieting can be downright delicious!

The following menu, put together with the help of a ConAgra staff dietician, is a perfect example of a meal that is quick, easy and great to eat.

It starts with a frozen calorie-controlled dinner, but it doesn't stop there. It lets you have such "forbidden" foods as steak and potatoes, wine and chocolate. And all for fewer than 600 calories!

If you have a microwave oven, you can prepare the entire meal, set the table and pour the wine in less than 20 minutes. Even if prepared in the conventional oven, dinner will be ready in less than 45 minutes.

Dieters who plan ahead might like to try the fruit sorbet, or a salad dressing that tastes even better when it has time to chill.

Tip No. 1 — Don't read or watch television while you eat. Concentrate on eating and eat slow. To help slow yourself down, put your fork down between bites and don't pick it up again until you have chewed and swallowed what is in your mouth.

Tip No. 2 — Exercising, like dieting, is toughest in the beginning. If you stick with it for three weeks, you're likely to stay with it for good.

Tip No. 3 — Be wary when making a salad at home or ordering one at a restaurant. It can be a calorie catastrophe if it includes high-calorie meats, eggs, cheese, croutons and a rich, creamy dressing. Opt for a thin dressing rather than a creamy one; less will seem like more. And order the dressing on the side.

Tip No. 4 — Don't tempt yourself by keeping high-calorie foods in the house. Instead, stock the refrigerator with fresh fruits and vegetables. Keep a supply of low-calorie dinners in the freezer so you can have a nutritious, low-calorie meal even when time is limited.

Tip No. 5 — Prepare and serve only the amount of food needed. Then sit down and enjoy your meal. Never eat standing up.

Uterus Removal Won't Affect Woman's Orgasm

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 31 years old with severe cervical dysplasia. I've had two cone biopsies and am now seven months pregnant. My Pap is still Class III. A hysterectomy is most likely the next step. I once read that removal of the uterus lessens the intensity of orgasm. Is this true?

never come back. I don't believe that. Surely someone could help. Any suggestions?

DEAR READER — We are reassured by gynecologists that hysterectomy does not affect orgasm or a woman's ability to enjoy sexual gratification. Of course, there are individual variations in this observation. Some women note increased intensity of orgasm, some women less. This is probably due to the influence of emotional factors. Certain females will enjoy sex more because the risk of pregnancy has been eliminated. Other women may have difficulty with orgasm, but they often give histories of less fulfillment prior to surgery.

DEAR READER — The virus that causes colds can sometimes affect the nerves that control smell. Occasionally, the sense of smell doesn't return because of a chronic sinus infection. If one specialist cannot advise you, try another. I am not familiar with any new treatment for this

Although it has been said before, it's worth repeating: Femininity and the concept of a whole woman have little or nothing to do with the uterus. The uterus is a muscular container that plays an insignificant role in a woman's sexuality. It obviously is vital to reproduction, but its absence has no known effect on a woman's sense of well-being, her enjoyment of sex or the complex neuromuscular event known as orgasm.

Square Eyeballs For Kids?

Researcher: TV Does Tykes More Good Than Harm

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Is TV bad for tots? Dr. Gordon L. Berry, author, psychologist and graduate professor at UCLA, says no — that kids are in no danger of developing square eyeballs and vacant craniums. He believes the tube does tykes more good than harm.

Researcher Berry acknowledges that his view is not entirely detached. He has studied children's TV for years as a consultant for CBS and Filmation, a prime purveyor of animated cartoon shows for the sand pile set.

But he believes that TV has peaks and valleys for youngsters old enough to understand what they are seeing on the screen. As for time restrictions, Berry says eight hours of viewing a day is ridiculous, but he refuses to recommend a sane maximum.

"It depends on the child, family circumstances and quality of shows the youngster is watching," he said. "Some shows are totally unsuited for children and some are stimulating, informative and entertaining."

"Some shows are marvelous for promoting social programs and some are only for entertainment. Kids need and deserve time to relax and be entertained without any messages at all — just as adults have that need."

Of the tube offerings for kids, Berry says the greatest shortcoming is lack of diversity. The majority of kiddie shows are comedy and much of that is the cartoon variety.

Berry is not averse to cartoons. After all, he does work with Filmation, and CBS certainly has its share of animation.

He objects to the term "Saturday morning cartoon ghetto" with its glut of creatures large and small raising havoc with animated violence, silly situations and piercing sound effects.

"There should be more diversity, especially with live action shows," Berry said. "But some things can be done dramatically and humorously more effectively in cartoons than with live performers in real settings."

"I highly recommend CBS's 'Story Break Specials' and Jim Henson's 'Muppet Babies,' which really stimulate the imagination. I also recommend 'Pryor's Place' and I like 'The Smurfs' on NBC because the show provides a vehicle for kids to rally around pro-social messages."

What, pray, are pro-social messages?

"A pro-social show is uniquely designed to entertain and advance important social messages like stay in school, obey your parents, eat healthy foods, don't accept rides with strangers."

"These messages can be effective. Youngsters identify to a high degree with what they absorb. How much it changes their behavior has never been gauged. But they plant seeds of comprehension in a positive fashion.

"ABC does a good job with its 'After School Specials' and maybe one of the best is 'He-Man and The Masters of the Universe,' which is the number one syndicated show in the country. It's action-adventure with pro-social notions."

"Another good one is 'Fat Albert and the Cosby Kids.' Its pro-social messages include warnings against smoking, drinking and using drugs. Older kids get the message and it's never too early to plant those ideas in little ones."

Berry believes TV has cut down on the time young people spend reading, but here, too, he sees a silver lining.

"Some shows are based on novels or history and it is suggested on the air that more can be learned on the subject by reading the book," Berry said. "I think that is a very positive message."

"TV can show negative values and lifestyle in modern society but it can also teach positive values. TV should be regulated in the home by parents who should put entertainment in perspective for their children."

Carroll O'Connor plays a New York City Chief of Detectives, Lois Nettleton, right, plays a fashionable art gallery owner who is in love with him, and Marcia Cross plays

Miss Nettleton's daughter in "Brass," a new drama to premier tonight at 9 on CBS, channel 6.

O'Connor Pilot Tarnished 'Brass'

By Joan Hanauer
UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Carroll O'Connor plays a New York City chief of detectives in the CBS movie "Brass," to air tonight at 9, and it sounds like sterling casting. It isn't.

The show, another pilot that didn't make series, casts O'Connor as Frank Nolan, a widowed top cop who gets involved in the department's most interesting cases. Beneath his brass shield beats a heart of gold.

This time there are two sets of crimes — a kidnapping and associated murders in a case that involves embezzlement and blackmail, and the shooting of unrelated senior citizens in the area of Grand Central Station by a creep who just doesn't like old people.

Nolan's work leaves him little time for romance with art gallery owner Lois Nettleton, an actress it would be nice to see on television more often. His sister, an unorthodox nun played by Anita Gillette, also adds some spice to the script.

The show was shot in New York and it has a nice gritty quality often lacking in cop shows shot on Hollywood sound stages or around the disguised palm trees of Los Angeles.

O'Connor, wearing a moustache for the role, seems to be trying too hard to get away from Archie Bunker. A little bit of Archie's New York diction would be natural for a cop who began his career walking a beat — but Nolan's speech is bland. Archie was flamboyant, but O'Connor plays Nolan low-keyed — too low-key to give the show dramatic intensity.

It will be hard for Carroll O'Connor to lose his Archie Bunker alter ego, but disappearing into the woodwork isn't the way to do it.
