Man arrested for bank robbery

Sheriff's deputies arrested Timothy Mark Masters, 39, of Apopka on Thursday. He has been charged in connection with a bank robbery at Sun Bank in Longwood on August 31. According to sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough, a robber walked up to a teller window, demanded money, and after receiving some, went to the next teller window and again asked for the money.

No specific amount was identified as having been taken.

McDonough said deputies identified Masters after citizens phoned the sheriff's department after seeing Masters' photo in the media.

Masters has been charged with one count of bank robbery.

Guardsmen practice quelling disorder

By ROGER HARNACK
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — With M-16s in hand, national guardsmen seized downtown Sanford Saturday, blockading Sanford City Hall, closing several downtown streets, and patrolling the business district.

No, there were no bomb threats, nor subversive rallies at City Hall and there weren't any protests, except for soldiers pretending to protest the guard's occupation of downtown.

What looked like war games was really a National Guard exercise, conducted by the Sanford National Guard Unit.

Guardsmen applied the guard's principles on quelling civil disorder, during the exercise.

Sanford-based Company B, 2nd Battalion, 124th Infantry Regiment took over the downtown area for more than three hours to practice containing civil disorder.

According to officer in charge, Tony Ross, the training exercise is just one of the ways the national guard soldiers stay prepared for unexpected events.

"There are three primary tasks we are practicing," Ross said. "The first is securing a critical or vital installation."

In this case, soldiers defended Sanford City Hall from "protesters."

Some protesters (national guardsmen pretending to be the bad guys) were armed with handguns or other weapons, while others verbally abused the guardsmen.

Guardsmen were quick to apply basic principles of engaging rioters including staying in formation, singling out the most dangerous protesters, and arresting them with "the least amount of force necessary."

Waging war on kid crime

Kids' safety is school priority

SANFORD — There is a war being waged at schools across Seminole County and across the country.

The battles are being fought for the majority of students who abide by the rules and stay out of trouble.

The enemy is crime being perpetrated by juvenile offenders.

To Wolfgang Halbig, safety is the number one priority.

Halbig, the school district's director of security, said administrators at schools around the district and law enforcement officials stationed at the schools are leading the offensive.

According to Halbig, only a "very small percentage of students are involved in a majority of the offenses that

Officials say kids today also face an increase of victimization by other kids. They cite eroding ethics taught by parents and say it will take about two generations to turn the trend around.

No simple answers, but some theories on curbing delinquency

Altamonte Springs teen Moshia Antwan Coleman, 15, remains in the Seminole County Juvenile Detention Center today, arrested by sheriff's deputies Saturday for one count of attempted murder and one count of shooting into an occupied conveyance. Deputies arrested Coleman for allegedly shooting a 20-year-old man once in the face. Sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough said Coleman is a suspect in another shooting, in which a young woman was shot in the throat. Both victims are recovering from their wounds.

Editor's Note: The Justice Department report released Friday details the growing problem of crimes committed by and against youth in America. Sanford Herald reporters asked school officials, law enforcement and kids themselves about the young and the ruthless in Seminole County. We found that the majority of kids here are good kids, but a war is being waged against those who cause the problems, problems which our sources see as getting worse.

SANFORD — There may be no simple answer to the escalating juvenile crime rate but the circuit court judge presiding in delinquency cases, the state attorney prosecuting the cases and three local police chiefs agree it will take two or more generations and increased parent involvement to turn the situation around.

Seminole County juvenile crime cases are increasing just as they are nationally. Assistant state attorney Laura Bosco noted a 34 percent increase in delinquency cases from 1993 to 1994. However, most of the Seminole County cases involve property rather violent or weapons related cases.

"I've been a prosecutor in Volusia and Brevard counties," Bosco said. "Although I don't have any statistics in front of me to back this up, my gut feeling is there are more violent crimes committed by juveniles in those counties than here in Seminole."

She added that may be a function of the higher

AAA and auto insurer back safety campaign

By NICK PFENPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

HEATHROW — AAA in Heathrow, has joined forces with Progressive, Florida's third-largest auto insurer, in a promotional campaign for back-to-school safety.

According to latest report, over 82,000 posters, bumper stickers and rulers bearing the "School's Open-Drive Carefully" slogan have been distributed in 21 Florida counties.

Among reasons given for this concentrated effort, were the increasingly high number of deaths and injuries reported. AAA and Progressive have compiled the following statistics from the AAA Pedestrian Protection Program, 1994 Edition of Accident Facts by the National Safety Council, and Traffic Safety Facts for 1993.

The following figures were revealed. Jose Benitez with Progressive said they are nationwide figures, but serve as an adequate representation of percentages in Florida as well.

In 1993, 14 percent of children between ages 5 and 14, who were involved in pedestrian crashes, were en route to or from school.

In 1993, approximately 41,000 child pedestrians and bicyclists under the age of 15 were injured or killed by motor vehicles.

For children ages 5 to 14, unintentional injuries are the leading causes of death, accounting for almost half the total deaths of these youngsters in 1991. Overall, motor vehicle crashes were the leading causes of unintentional-injury deaths for this age group.

Of the pupils killed in school bus accidents during the 1992-93 school year, more than 83 percent were pedestrians either approaching or leaving a loading zone.

Sanford cops warn cashiers about quick change scam

By NICK PFENPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — It's an old magician's trick. Hand someone a large denomination bill, and with a slight of hand, the person shows that you only gave them a one-dollar bill. Sanford police are calling it a "quick change scam."

Two separate incidents were reported at businesses in south Sanford Thursday evening. At a store in the 2700 block of S. Orlando Drive, police said a man went to the cashier to pay for $1.48 in items, giving the clerk a $50 bill. When the clerk gave $48.52 in change, the customer reportedly told the clerk he was only given one dollar. Police said this was accomplished several times, the man reportedly leaving the store with a total of $150.

A half hour later, at a restaurant just two blocks south on Orlando Drive, a similar report was made.

Police said a man purchased $2 in food, and paid the clerk with $50. After complaining that he had not received the proper change, the clerk reportedly gave the man additional money, with the resulting loss of $50 in the cash register receipts.

Police are cautioning all businesses and cashiers to be aware of this scam problem, and whenever in doubt about giving change, especially for a $50 bill, to contact law enforcement officials.

Remembering grandparents

The first Sunday following Labor Day, (today is that day), has been declared, by presidential proclamation as "National Grandparents Day." Some people believed it was started by a well known greeting card company in order to generate additional sales when the official action was taken by Congress in 1978 to formalize this day. Marian McQuade, of Oak Hill, W.Va. was credited with being the founder of the observance.

Grandparents Day is different from most other observances. This is not just a "send-a-card" or "give a gift" day. It's more of a give-and-take event.

According to the proclamation declaring this National Grandparents Day, it is not to only honor grandparents, but "...give grandparents an opportunity to show love for their children's children, and to help children become aware of the strength, information and guidance older people can offer." (if given the opportunity to do so).

Probably one of the saddest situations involving grandparents is when they don't converse with their grandchildren. How the seniors yearn to learn about every move and every activity in which the youngsters are involved. It's often surprising to find, no matter how minor a grandchild's activities may appear to be to others, grandparents often get extreme enjoyment over hearing about them.

On the other hand, after grandparents are no longer with us, how many of the younger generation have said they wish they had spent more time with their grandparents, learning about the family history, or discussing plans for the future and seeking the years of experience they may have to offer.

In cases where communications have dropped, we suggest using this weekend to re-establish the grandchild-grandparent unification.

If the two generations are no longer close in miles, this is the right time to pick up that phone and become involved in some conversations.

For those who no longer have grandparents, let's make it a time for recollections and remembrances.

It shouldn't matter who started this observance, a business, a private individual, or Congress. The point is that we honor children and parents. Why not spend at least one day honoring grandparents (and grandparents honoring grandchildren as well).

Disgusted

I am completely disgusted with the so called poetry, prose and junk I read on the front page of the Herald (Sunday, Sept. 3)

The poem "Boogers" was in very bad taste and trashy and should never been chosen and acknowledged in good taste. The child is not at fault. Boys that age do have such thoughts, but the teacher and paper are wrong.

Sanford schools are trying to change their image-and this just helped in taking a step backward. Shame.

I wish our school taxes were better spent on good teachers and better and more time on the basics-especially reading English literature, math and science.

Pleased

Just thought you'd like to know how much we enjoyed your paper Sunday (Sept. 3). It had much local news and good stories. My son, who's 7, enjoyed the poem "Boogers" enough to memorize it to share with his friends. He said he always thought poetry was for girls, but now has asked to go to the library to see what poetry might be to his liking.

I applaud the school and teachers who make learning fun and painless by letting students express themselves.

Facing the problem of racism

What is the depth of anti African American attitudes in the United States? The recent revelations in the O.J. Simpson trial about Mark Fuhrman's attitude toward African Americans, coupled with indictments of several Philadelphia policemen who shared similar sentiments, contributes to one's feeling that this attitude is pervasive from coast to coast. That there is a segment of our population that is motivated by a deep-seated hate for African-Americans seems evident.

Attitudes are mental and neural states of readiness organized through experience which exerts a direct, dynamic influence upon the individual's responses to all objects and situations with which it is related.

The fact that these types of attitudes exist contribute significantly to the disquieting distrust some African Americans may feel for the wider society. The disproportionate representation of black males in prison makes one wonder what role anti African American attitudes played in their incarceration.

My continuing concern with attitudes as precursors of behavior had me study the attitudes of over one thousand fourth grade African-American students in Philadelphia. The underlying assumption of my study was that positive attitudes toward teachers would translate to positive attitudes towards school. Humanistic pupil control behavior encouraged self discipline while custodial pupil control behavior utilized punitive sanctions as a means of control. It was thought that children would

prefer humanistic teachers to custodial teachers, however, this was not the case. The salient factor emerging from the study was "fear." These fourth grade students were so concerned with their physical safety that they did not care what kind of behavior their teachers exhibited in the classroom. We all know that fear is debilitating to the learning process.

My study was completed over 20 years ago when the society seemed more stable than it is today. If children were fearful then, what must they feel at this time when family stability has diminished?

Back to the American problem of African Americans being singled out as the group to hate. We need to squarely face our problem. Children are not born hating each other. Research reveals that hate is taught and it will exist as long as there are parents who teach hate. Children turn to their parents for guidance and if the message that is taught demeans an entire group of people and the children accept their parents' definition, then the cycle of hate is perpetuated.

The dichotomy of our beloved country is that we have always professed to be a Christian nation while historically treating persons of African descent in a most unchristian manner. Yet there have been periods in our land when it seemed that the dream espoused by Dr. Martin Luther King would become a reality and we would judge a person by the content of his/her character.

Christians throughout this nation need to pray that the streams of hate that may flow from coast to coast will be turned to currents of peace and brotherhood and parents of any group will not teach children to disdain people who are different. We can teach respect for all human beings. That does not mean that we have to associate with everyone, our friends are our personal choice.

One of the most encouraging events that occurred recently was the beautiful expression of Christian love evidenced by Rev. Jim Henry of Orlando when he had his convention apologize en masse for the treatment afforded African Americans in our land.

African Americans are like all other Americans. The majority are hard working, law abiding, Christians or Muslims. They love their country and desire to live productive lives and pray that God will use them as instruments for the fulfilling of his will on earth.

What will happen to the forest?

In the movie "Wizard of Oz," Bert Lahr, as the Cowardly Lion, sang a song entitled, "If I Were King of the Forest." If such were the case, Lahr indicated he would make some drastic changes and everyone would be better off because of them.

The number of people announcing they plan on, intend to, or are considering running for President of the United States brings Lahr's song to mind. Many of them are suggesting changes in the way our government is operated. Very few, however, have indicated how they would finance some of these changes which could prove to be costly. They also have a tendency to ignore the fact that the president doesn't bring about great accomplishments without support from his cabinet and members of Congress.

The way I hear them, most persons suggesting they would be interested in occupying that chair in the Oval Office are seeking attention and personal gain. Whether presidential-candidate publicity will result in reelection to their present position, or consideration for some job above what they have now, remains to be seen. I do believe, however, that these are their underlying intentions, rather than becoming president. Although some may dream of becoming the top person.

Of course financial gain could also be the motive. As an example, let's say that very few people ever invite Representative "X" to be guest speaker at important functions. For invitations he does accept, he receives very little money.

If however, an organization can brag they have a guest speaker who is "a presidential (or former) candidate," this person might draw a bigger audience and thus obtain a higher speaker's fee.

Then too, they can start setting up campaign funds and legally obtain donations.

This not only holds true for the presidency, but for other federal and state offices.

It won't do me to mention names, but a prominent attorney once told me, "I'm running for I figure if I'm elected and even serve only one term, the stature I will be able to obtain for my law firm will be well worth it. After all, being a doesn't bring in the same amount of money I'm making as an attorney, but the future benefits more than outweigh a few years at a lower salary."

Staff Writer

A considerable amount of time is ahead of us before we have to make a presidential decision at the polls. In the meantime, I believe what will be important is not so much as what a candidate says he or she wants to accomplish, but an explanation regarding how it might be done, including the financing.

With over 40 years experience in the journalistic world, I have formed many personal opinions regarding elections, ... all of them, at every level. It bothers me when a campaigner for a particular candidate, or the candidate himself/herself urges my support but cannot give specifics on why I should do so.

Don't just tell me what you think you can do or would like to do, but tell me how you would go about doing it and where money (and there's always money involved), will come from. And don't just tell me, tell the people who you would like to have vote for you.

I'm no longer satisfied with merely, "if I were king of the forest." I want to know what will happen to the forest and the people who live in it.

Women and success

How can a woman who has a high school diploma, when all around her there are those who don't and still do well?

At every turn we see some young woman, most recently Longwood's Donna Peele, who dropped out of high school and then succeeded in a career of her choosing.

In most cases, the young ladies who have succeeded without the benefit of an education have been models or actresses, making the most of their good looks.

We oooh and we ahhhh and let them get away with abandoning their education because they have perfect pouty lips and they look good in a slinky dress.

Actress and former model Renee Russo in a recent interview about her new movie "Outbreak" with Dustin Hoffman, dismissed education. Hoffman had sent her about 100 books on germ warfare to help her understand her movie character. She giggled at the interviewer and said, "A hundred books! I don't even read! I dropped out of high school." Ironically, in the movie, she plays a scientist.

We should be standing up to applaud those young women who work tirelessly to earn their degrees and become professionals: doctors, teachers, scientists and the like.

We all know actresses and models like Donna Peele and Renee Russo, but what about people like Dr. Angela Scheuerle?

She's my best friend and that's why I mention her among the tens and thousands of women who are well-educated, strong and succeeding in their chosen profession.

Angela is a pediatrician and a research geneticist working at the University of Texas. The work she does is making a difference in the lives of children, both the ones she meets and treats and others she may never meet, but who she is able to help through her research.

There are many, many others. The teacher at the school your child attends who spent at least four years in college learning her craft. Aren't you glad she stayed in school?

The pharmacist who dispenses the medications you take: it's a good thing she didn't drop out of high school.

And, what about the financial planner who is helping you feather your nest for retirement? Aren't you glad she stayed in school?

Yet when successful women are being named, these stars are so rarely mentioned.

They aren't making millions and they aren't marrying the glamorous movie stars so they are, somehow, less worthy of our collective praise.

I hope that these women who have dropped out of school and still become "successes" will one day go back to school to earn their diplomas. They may have the admiration of many and more money than they might have earned had they stayed in school, but they lack the knowledge and the discipline that staying in school would have given them.

Success is more than public accolades and money. It is also the personal satisfaction of knowing you have accomplished something.

I hope that my daughter finds her heroes among my friends who have finished school and then gone on to success, rather than those who have found "success" without the benefits of having finished school.

Learning to care for mom and baby

Classes in pregnancy, labor and parenting at CFRH-Sanford

By VICKI BUCHHEIMER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Having a healthy baby starts long before the little one is born.

Experts say that pre-natal care is perhaps the most important health care of an individual's life.

An understanding of both the needs of pregnancy and the details of labor and childbirth are essential for the mother and her birthing partner as well.

At Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford there are a series of classes that are designed to prepare both mother and child for pregnancy, labor and childbirth.

In addition, they have classes on the option of cesarean section, as well as breastfeeding, baby care and parenting.

The classes are free and open to women who are pregnant or anticipating a pregnancy.

The classes meet Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. in the hospital's classroom.

The first class will be on Sept. 21 and will run for nine consecutive Thursdays, ending on Nov.

16. The series will begin with two early pregnancy classes which focus on the first five months of pregnancy.

A special class for pregnant teenagers will follow those.

The fourth class in the series will focus on breastfeeding.

The next three classes focus on labor and delivery. They cover the stages of labor and common variations in labor, along with information on pain relief measures and anesthesia.

The following class will offer information about cesarean sections and VBACs (Vaginal Birth After Cesarean Section) follows.

Rounding out the series is a class that offers a brief overview of baby care and parenting.

Participants may take the entire series of classes or may take only the classes that are of special interest to them.

Registration is requested, however.

Those interested in the classes should call the Central Florida Regional Hospital Baby Place at 321-4800, ext. 5766 for more information or to register for the class.

Doctors warn against tanning in the salon

By IRA BREYFUS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Tanning salons have skin doctors doing a slow burn.

Although salon supporters disagree, dermatologists say exposure to ultraviolet light even in a salon raises the risk of skin cancer.

Tanners may be tempted to seek an artificial glow as summer sunbathing days fade, but the physicians contend that would-be tanners are better off getting pale.

A link between salon use and skin cancer has not been proved, but the evidence is strong enough to be believable, said Dr. Rex A. Ammonette, president of the American Academy of Dermatology. "I am comfortable in stating it because I see so many patients where I know that was the source," said the Memphis, Tenn., physician.

Ammonette was coauthor of a recent review article in the Journal of the American Academy of Dermatology. He and colleague James M. Spencer of Miami found no health value in tanning salons.

Tans, in a salon or in the sun, are evidence of harm to the skin, Ammonette said. "It indicates the DNA in cells is already damaged," he said. Short-term damage can include redness, dryness and itching; long-term damage, besides cancer, can include premature aging of the skin, such as wrinkling, he said.

Tanning in a salon doesn't avoid this, Ammonette said. Although the time spent under ultraviolet light is typically shorter in a salon, the intensity of the light is greater, he said.

Salons tout their facilities as using safer components of ultraviolet, but there is no safe ultraviolet, Ammonette said.

Ultraviolet A, the dominant form in salons, is less likely to cause a burn, but can burn the normally pale-skinned, Ammonette said. It can penetrate below the outer layer of skin, which ultraviolet B cannot, and thus can make the skin underneath red and itchy, he said.

Also, UVA can cause adverse reactions in some drugs that may be carried in small blood vessels below the skin, Ammonette said.

Ultraviolet B, the harsher of the UV frequencies, is also present in salon light, because it causes the most tanning, Ammonette said. "I see reports now of 23 percent," he said. However, some UV bulbs showed UVB as low as 3 percent, his article stated.

Although the dosage is more readily controlled in a tanning salon, the ultraviolet light components can change based on such things as whether a new bulb has been installed, Ammonette said. The UVB component of salon light falls more quickly than UVA, his article said.

A "base tan" at a tanning salon won't lower the risk of a burn later outside, Ammonette said. Most salon UV light is in the A frequencies, not the tanning UVB, he said. So a salon may promise a person a tan that amounts to the equivalent of a level 2 or 4 SPF tanning lotion, but sunbathers still need sunscreen, he said.

Exposure to intense sunlight also raises the risk of cataracts, Ammonette said. Protective goggles can avert this, but only about one-quarter of tanning salon clients use them, he said. What's more, it's possible for UV light to give an unprotected cornea the ocular equivalent of a sunburn, he said. The cornea typically recovers, but long-term exposure may cause it to thicken, the article said.

Data on the potential for salon-tan damage is still being collected, partly because it takes 10-20 years for exposure to develop into cancer cases. Ammonette said. So tanners may eventually work themselves into research statistics as part of a huge uncontrolled experiment, he said.

A tanning industry official disputes the dermatologists' claims and accuses them of hiding another agenda for their anti-salon crusade.

"They point to a lot of research that's very sketchy and very preliminary, and the researchers themselves will tell you it's preliminary, and the researchers themselves say they don't know what it means," said Joseph A. Levy, executive director of Tanning Trends magazine, an industry publication in Jackson, Mich.

"The medical lobbyists have taken the license to draw conclusions that the researchers don't draw themselves," Levy said.

Calton progress

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — During the last week in August, Calton Homes of Altamonte Springs sold eight homes worth $1.2 million, according to Don Knutson, company president. Calton has seven active communities in Seminole and Orange counties.

Gateway progress

SANFORD — Central Florida's largest commercial real estate service company will reportedly increase its property management portfolio by as much as 20 percent before the end of December, said Frank W. Herring, Jr., partner for Falsone Orlando. The increase will be the result of pending completion of two major retail centers in November and December. They include the Chrysler warehouse complex and the J.T. Holding Co. warehouse, both in the Orlando area.

Recently, Falsone announced it will open the 240,000 square-foot Gateway Center in Sanford in November, and a 200,000 square foot International Drive East Center in Orlando.

Nodaree appointed

WINTER PARK — Governor Lawton Chiles has appointed Lella Jammal Nodaree, P.E., to the Board of Professional Engineers, for a term ending Oct. 31, 1996. She is the first female geotechnical engineer to serve on this board.

Nodaree is a Winter Park resident, and president and founder of L.J. Nodaree & Associates, Inc., with offices in Orlando, Tampa and West Palm Beach.

Wilkins named

HEATHROW — Stirling International Realty, Inc. of Heathrow has named Barbara Wilkins as sales associate. The appointment was announced by Roger Soderstrom, co-owner of Stirling. Wilkins was previously associated with Florida Prudential.

Tupperware lay-offs

KISSIMMEE — Tupperware is laying off 45 of 340 employees at its domestic headquarters.

The action does not affect 119 workers in its international division, also based in this Orlando suburb.

The positions were among 80 eliminated nationwide last week to bring U.S. costs in line with more profitable foreign units, said spokeswoman Lawrie Platt Hall. The U.S. division has 1,400 workers.

Tupperware has made similar cutbacks in its Asia-Pacific, Latin America and Europe operations in the past two years.

The company, a division of Premark International of Deerfield, Ill., has been focusing on direct sales of its plastic household products and contracting with outside providers for routine administrative tasks.

Tupperware reported 1994 sales of $1.3 billion, more than 80 percent from international sales.

College restructuring business offerings

By NOEL PFEIFER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole Community College has restructured its Business and Industry Support Center, Small Business Development Center, Economic Development Grants, and Continued and Professional Education areas. They are now contained in one department called Economic and Professional Development. Dr. Patricia Rowell is director.

The new department will provide all of the former services of the organizations with what is expected to be greater coordination and efficiency.

The change is due to the departure of Glen Morgan, who is now Dean of Community and Economic Development at Arapahoe Community College in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Rowell has a Ph.D. in Higher Education Administration from the University of Florida and over eight years experience administering and teaching in the area of contract and professional training at community colleges.

She has consulting experience with several companies include Walt Disney World, General Electric, and Price Waterhouse.

The Economic and Professional Development department provides a number of services to the business community in the Seminole County area. They include the following:

- Contract training for customized programs provided for business.

- Counseling and courses to support small business development.

- Professional development courses in the areas of management and computers.

- Continuing education courses for insurance, real estate, title insurance, construction, legal and health professionals.

- Pre-licensing courses for real estate, insurance and title insurance.

- Assessment and consulting services for manufacturers through a Manufacturing Technology Center Grant.

- Workplace literacy skills customized training through a National Workplace Literacy Grant.

- Specific, in-depth training for all new employees of Software Support, Inc., through a Quick Response Training grant funded by Enterprise Florida.

- Customized new employee training sponsored by the Seminole County Jobs Growth Incentives Program.

For additional information on these courses or any of the Economics and Professional Development department, phone 328-2123.

Herald Staff Writer

ORANGE CITY — Servers at the newly-opened Applebee's Neighborhood Grill and Bar, 2589 Enterprise Road, recently donated their tips to four local charities, enabling each to receive $100. The charities include the Orange City Parks and Recreation Department for a new baseball field, the Deltona High School for the Athletic Booster's Club, DeLand High School for the Bulldog Boosters, and the United Methodist Children's Home.

Stan Klaus, director of operations for Applebee's franchise, says the "neighbor-to-neighbor" donations are in the Applebee's spirit. "In the past, our other Florida Applebee's have given to the Children's Home in the Palm Bay area," he said. "This time, our Orange City managers decided to divide the proceeds among four youth-oriented groups. We look forward to more community involvement in the future."

With the opening of the new Applebee's in Orange City, the company now has 804 restaurants in 44 states and four international locations.

Fumble-itis attack

Seven turnovers doom Tribe in district loss

By RYAN ANDERSON
 Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — There are certain universal laws in football which, when broken, make it almost impossible to win a football game. One such law is that a team that fumbles the ball excessively, will not win.

The Seminole Fighting Seminoles failed to be the exception to the rule Friday night, as the team committed six turnovers, including two on punt returns, in a 14-10 loss to the Osceola Kowboys from Kissimmee in a Class 5A District 6 football contest at Thomas E. Whigham Stadium.

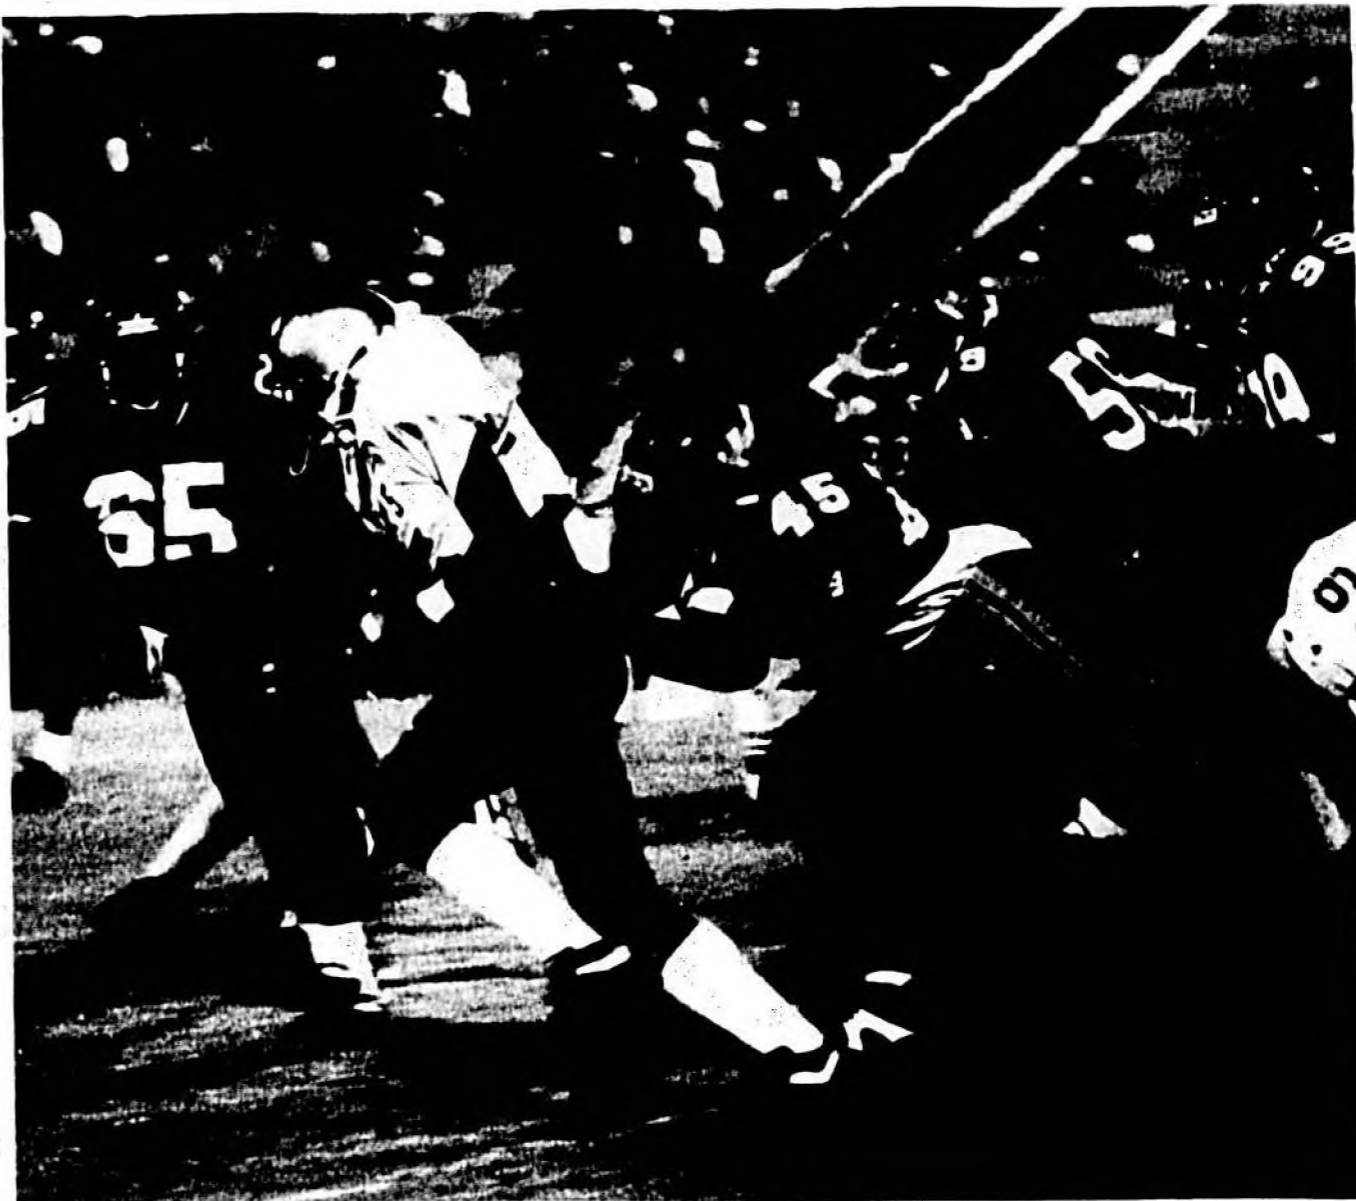

"Tonight was definitely a learning experience for us, we are still real young, and it showed tonight," Seminole coach Ernie McPherson said. "We just put the ball on the ground way too much. Too many fumbles. You can not expect to beat a team the caliber of Kissimmee with the fumbles we had. Every time we tried to generate something, fumble."

The Seminoles fumbled on their first possession in the first quarter leading to a Kowboy touchdown four plays later. The extra point put the Tribe down 7-0 with 5:14 left in the quarter.

"Kissimmee really came ready to play, and they stuck to their game plan. We weren't able to hold on to the ball and they were able to capitalize on that and beat us," McPherson said. "We need to go back to drawing board and study the basic fundamentals of holding onto the ball and blocking this week in practice before we play next week."

Late in the second quarter the Seminoles cut the Kowboys' lead to ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Lake Brantley used an 80-yard, 13-play drive to defeat Class 4A No. 5 Jacksonville Bolles 10-3 in a defensive struggle Friday night at Tom Storey Field.

After the game, Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon and Bolles' Corky Rogers both said the game was playoff-calibre competition. The two teams combined for just 386 yards and traded 10 punts.

"Our defense played well, and their offense is hard to stop because they have two great running backs," Almon said. "Bolles had the best defensive scheme that we have seen in five years."

Lake Brantley opened the second half with a 70-yard, 7-play drive that resulted in the first score of the game. John Berardi's 23-yard field goal put the Patriots ahead 3-0 with 7:18 left in the third quarter. Bolles later tied the score 3-3 on a 24-yard field goal by Fontaine LeMaistre with 8:49 remaining.

The Patriots, aided by two pass interference calls against Bolles, then drove 80 yards for the winning touchdown through steady rain. Fullback Brian Gonzalez capped the drive with a 2-yard touchdown run that gave Lake Brantley a 10-3 lead at the 2:25 mark.

"They are well coached, and coach Almon deserves a lot of credit," Rogers said. "They have a fine football team. They do a good job and they execute when they have to."

Gonzales, the game's leading rusher, finished the game with 107 yards on 21 carries. Dell McGee gained 49 yards on seven carries for the Patriots, while Dee Brown gained 37 yards on eight carries.

The Bulldogs committed the game's only turnover on its opening drive after driving 80 yards in 16 plays. Lake Brantley's Eddie Lee recovered the ball at the Patriot 8-yard line. Patriot defenders Dominick Shaw and Dee Brown broke up a pass that would have been intercepted if the duo had not collided.

LONGWOOD — Lake Howell remained unbeaten behind the running of Lucious Cooper, who had 12 carries for 88 yards and three touchdowns.

The Silver Hawks (2-0) beat Lyman 10-21, 28-13, with a solid running attack that gained 199 yards on the ground.

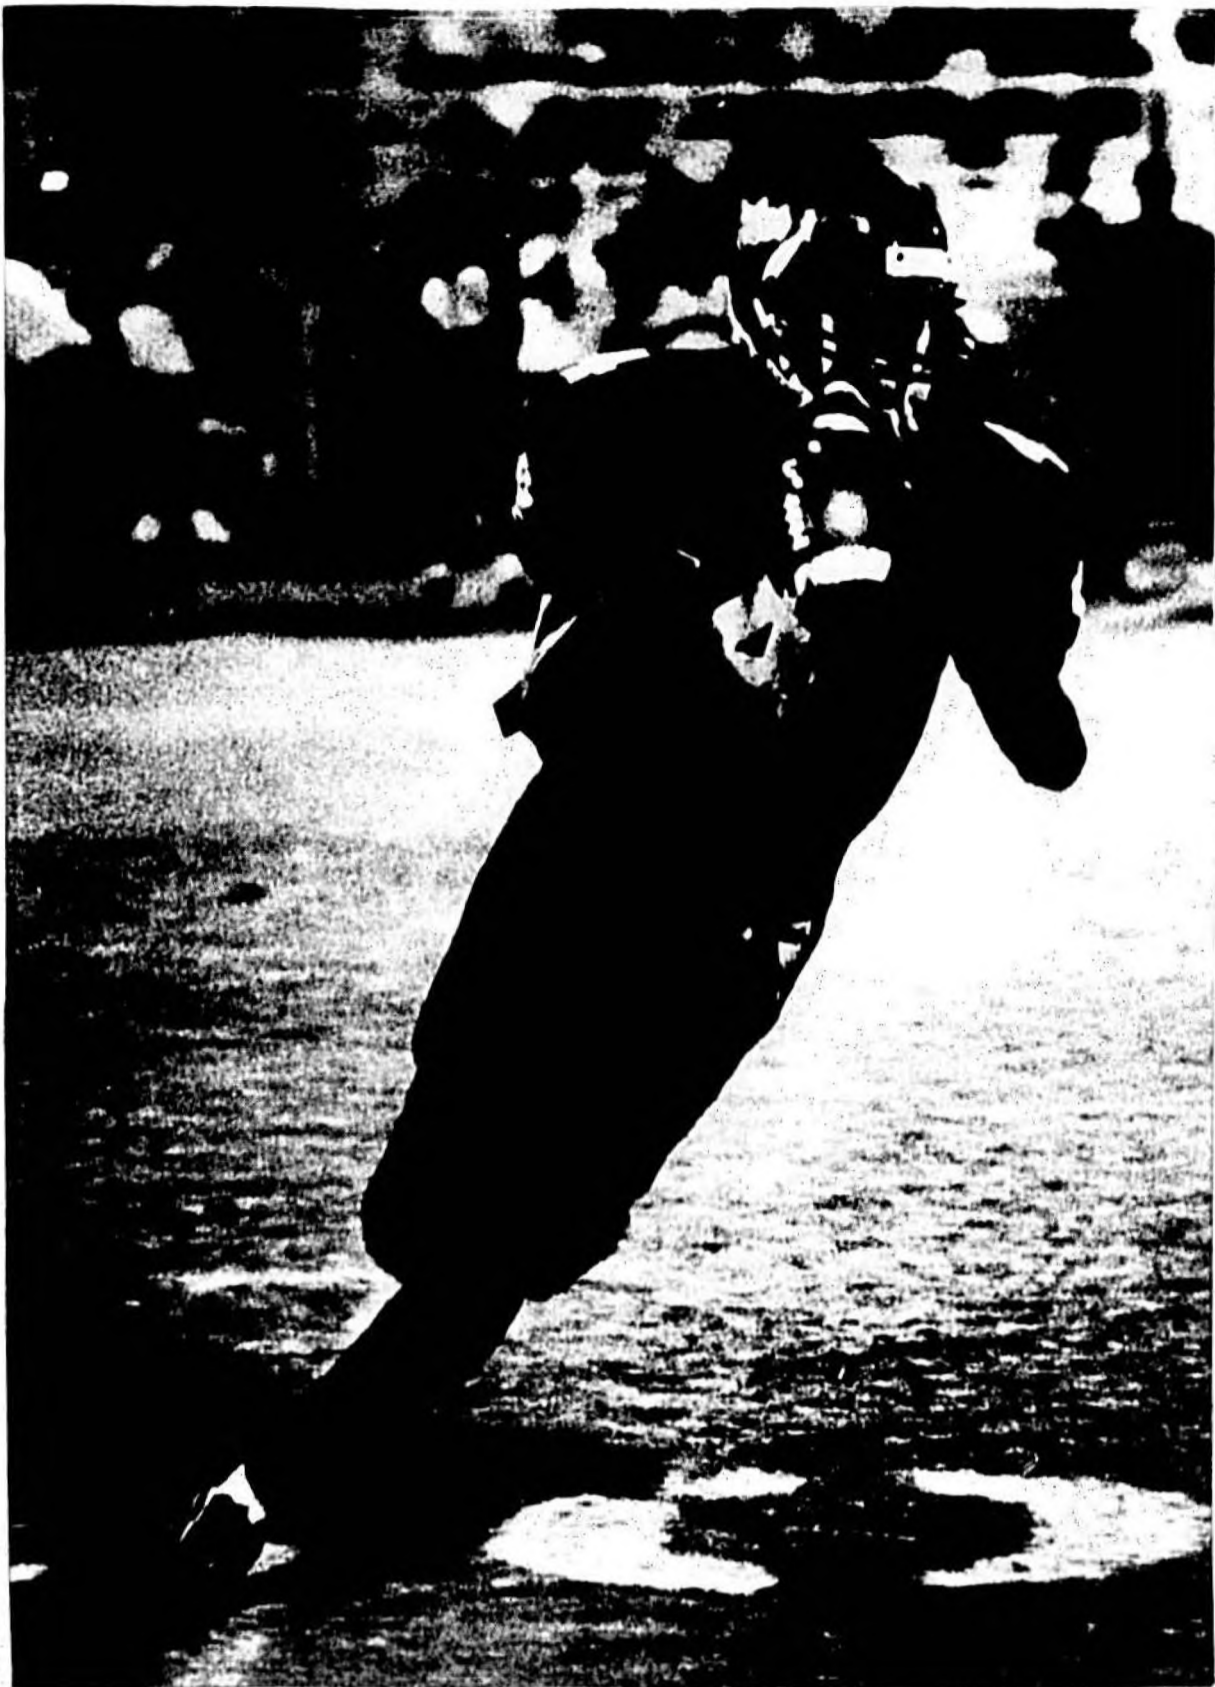

Cooper had a tremendous night and our opponents will key on him, but we have two more guys who can be effective, too," Lake Howell head coach Mike Biscaglia said.

Senior running back Ellis De Jesus contributed with 78 yards on 13 carries.

Silver Hawk quarterback Rick LaBlunder also added to the attack with four completions for 111 yards and two touchdowns. The first touchdown pass came minutes before the half when LaBlunder found Bryce Mc Lay for 34 yards that gave the Silver Hawks a 13-7 half-time lead.

Lyman's two-point star Freddie Young didn't play in the first half, but came on strong in the second half rushing for 71 yards on 19 carries. His performance was four when Joe Battista split the uprights on a 23-yard field goal with 1:21 left in the half. After the intermission, the Seminoles came back strong scoring on the second play from scrimmage in the second half when Terrell Jackson connected with Erick Smith who scampered 75 yards to the endzone. Battista's point after gave the Seminoles a 10-7 lead with 10:47 left in the third quarter. As quickly as the Seminole lead had come, it was gone. Following a 60-yard kick off return by Bree Cobb which gave the Kowboys possession at the Seminole 20-yard line, Cory Glee thundered in for the score. The point after gave Osceola (2-0) a 14-10 lead, and finished the scoring for both teams. The Seminoles threatened in the second half penetrating kowboy territory on four possessions, but, two fumbles, a punt and an interception were all that the team could muster. "We came back strong there at the beginning of the second half but we fumbled the ball a couple of more times and they held on to beat us," McPherson said. Next week, the Seminoles (1-1) will travel to Winter Park to take on Seminole Athletic Conference rival Lake Howell. Game time is set for 7:30 Friday night.

The Greyhounds defense did their part intercepting two Lelanders passes in the second quarter, only to watch the offense give it right back on fumbles. After Charley Banks intercepted a pass that was returned to the Silver Hawk 20 yard line, Alvin Cummings gave it right back on a fumble, killing a perfect opportunity for Lyman to take the lead. Coach Baker did a fantastic job of preparing his defense, they really kept us off balance," said Bisceglia. After second-half adjustments, the Silver Hawks took Gordon Cooper, who had two interceptions for 62 yards, helped solidify the lead with a 43-yard touchdown catch that gave the Silver Hawks a 22-14 edge. The final play was set up when Lyman's blocking defense failed to sack Lelanders, who on that play, that turned into a touchdown.

If you're a college student who makes superb grades, supports yourself through school, and is active at your college and in your community, then you have a chance at winning a share of more than $30,000 in scholarships and prizes in the ninth annual Florida College Student of the Year Award.

The deadline for application is Feb. 1, 1996.

Hundreds of students from universities, private colleges, community colleges and other schools throughout Florida will vie for the title in the prestigious scholarship contest sponsored by Florida Leader magazine and other companies that support excellence in Florida higher education.

The award recognizes students who are working hard to get through school and who remain active in the community both on and off campus.

Twenty-three students will share the $30,000 in scholarship money. Three other students will be honored specifically for their outstanding volunteer and community service through the Excellence in Service Award co-sponsored by the Florida Office for Campus Volunteers.

"In addition to scholarships and prizes, the statewide recognition that comes with being the Florida College Student of the Year challenges other students to approach their college careers with the same passion demonstrated by our past winners, including Jessica Killin of the University of Tampa," W.H. "Butch" Oxendine Jr., publisher of Florida Leader magazine.

For application information, please send a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to Florida College Student of the Year Award, c/o Florida Leader magazine, P.O. Box 14081, Gainesville FL 32604-2081.

Top SMS writers share their work

The students at Sanford Middle School have been working hard to create some spectacular poems.

The teachers selected their writers of the week from among their students.

The writer of the week is Deanna Mompher who wrote a tranquil and sorrowful poem about a fallen star.

Lying somewhere in space
You fell out of the sky without a trace.
I will never find another star
Who seemed so close, but yet so far.
So twinkle, twinkle little star
No one knows where you are.

Broken Star

Twinkle, twinkle little star,
No one knows where you are.
You twinkled so bright
In the hazy black sky
But now you've fallen
And I don't know why.
You made me hope
For wishes come true
You brought me good luck
When I asked you to.
But now you're broken.

Square Fishing

Honor your partner
Honor your corner
Go on, cast out
Don't be shy
Bait your hook
And catch your corner's line
Make rats' nests
In your partner's hair
Then you know that
You're a pair
Repeat the sequence
Twice again

Then hook yourself
In the chin
Catch some weeds
Then a fish
Fry it up in a tin dish
Make your partner
Piggishly eat
Then sneak yourself
A sweet treat
Honor your partner.
Honor your corner.

Love Is...

Love is what
I don't understand.
What do you have to do to Satisfy your man?
When you don't satisfy them
They break your heart.
You cry.
They don't care.
So I ask the question
Again.
What is love?

Good-bye

Good-bye, good-bye.
I say good-bye to another friend I knew.
I did not know him as well as his good friends.
But I knew him well enough to know he didn't deserve to die.
He was funny and smart.
He could have been anything he wanted to be.
He could have been a doctor, astronaut or even a scientist.
But I guess God only knows.
I hope he didn't die
Without saying good-bye.
I know I did not get to.
So I'll say it now.
Good-bye
We'll miss seeing you.
But you're forever
in our hearts.

Fruits of their labor

Corine Wilson of the Central Florida chapter of the International Black Women's Congress, presented a fruit basket to Seminole High School principal Gretchen Schapker. The gift was a token of appreciation to the faculty and staff for all they do to help the students of SHS grow into productive citizens.

To create the mouse-eating effect that was the hallmark of the villainous alien leader Diana on the TV mini-series "V," actress Jane Badler was fitted with a false throat with a built-in set of air sacs that inflated and deflated to create the impression of rodent-swallowing.

Badler reportedly complained about the calorie content of the special effect — the sequences required her to down chocolate mice!

Answers:
1.) Which subsequent horror movie star played pro-human alien Willie?
2.) On which long-running TV series did "V" star Marc Singer play Matt Cantrell?
3.) What was the name of the half-human, half-alien child who eventually proved to be the key to the Visitors' destruction?

Our Seminole County students are doing great things across the district and across the country. They have worked hard to achieve their best. And they are always doing more. We like to honor those students who have achieved so much. Good work, kids!

Tea honors bride; 'Mermaid' wins first in contest

Bride-elect Monica Stokes was the excited guest of honor at a bridal shower and tea luncheon on Saturday, Sept. 2, at the Rose Cottage Tea Room on Park Avenue. Hostess for the event was the honoree's aunt, Myra Michels.

The delightful Victorian decor of the quaint tea room matched the bride's Victorian wedding formal.

Monica, daughter of Linda and Lamar Stokes of Geneva, will become the bride of Charles August Fischer II of West Palm Beach on Sept. 23 at the First Baptist Church of Oviedo. The bridegroom is the son of Sharon and Charles A. Fischer Sr. of West Palm Beach.

Monica greeted the guests wearing a beige outfit complemented with a pink silk cabbage rose corsage fashioned by the hostess who also presented her niece with a country quilt and matching pillow

The bridegroom's parents presented the bride-elect with a gift of china in her registered pattern.

The guests enjoyed a variety of games and shared the joy of the gift opening with Monica. The menu included a variety of dainty finger sandwiches, pastries and a choice of teas.

Joining the bride and hostess were: Linda Stokes, the bride's mother; Katie Stokes, the bride's sister and maid of honor; Oveda Engle, the bride's grandmother; Sharon Fischer, the bridegroom's mother and Ava Ambo, the bridegroom's grandmother.

Quilters needed! The Canadian Maple Leaf quilt, being made by some of the Lake Mary seniors, is going a little slower than the seniors would like, due to a lack of volunteers. If you can sew or quilt, stop by and help out every Wednesday morning from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Frank Evans Center. If you can't sew or quilt, stop by anyway and they'll teach you how.

It's not Christmas yet, but it is time to start learning to make those Christmas crafts. The Lake Mary seniors are once again offering craft classes, starting Tuesday morning, Sept. 12 from 9:30 to 11:30 at the Frank Evans Center. The craft for this week will be Christmas Angels. Anyone is invited to attend the craft session. Bring crochet cotton, wide lace, ribbon and a satin rose. If you have any questions, call Paulee Stevens at 324-3060.

Line dancing is back! After taking the summer off, the line dancers are back in force for fall. Line dancing meets every Tuesday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Forest and every Friday at the Frank Evans Center.

The Lake Mary seniors are currently collecting stamps for Habitat for Humanity. If you have any you can donate, please drop them by the Frank Evans Center. The seniors are also collecting used glasses for the Lions Club.

Willie J. Gibson Jr. (Doc), his wife, Lillie, and members of the VIP Hair Club.

A "Very Important Person" affair was held to surprise Willie James Gibson Jr. a/k/a Dr. Parkermeter. "Doc" is the man with the magic hands says all of the members of his fan club.

Doc celebrated his big "50" on Thursday, Aug. 31. The affair was held at the VIP Hair Club, 2514 Park Ave., where over 25 guests enjoyed the celebration.

Accolades for Doc began at 5:30 p.m. when he arrived at his new shop to take pictures of the building. The affair was coordinated by one of his clients whom he has served for 25 years while in Rochester, N.Y. and now in Sanford.

As the door of the VIP Hair Club was opened by his lovely wife, "Lady" Lillie Gibson, members of the club began to sing "Happy Birthday" to Doc.

The client appreciation birthday production indeed saw Doc become speechless as the musical theme: "You Bring Out the Best in Me" was played for the honoree.

SANFORD

MARVA HAWKINS

Toastmistress for the "Over the Hill" VIP birthday celebration was "Lady" Phyllis Frage who also offered the prayer of love on behalf of the honoree.

A musical tribute from the club "I Don't Feel No Ways Tired" was created by "Lady" Sherilyn J. Brinson, music by "Sir" James Cleveland.

Another tribute from members of the club - "Count on Me" with music by "Sir" Lucky Peterson. Truly you can count on Doc. He has been known to be in his shop on Christmas morning; at any hour when needed he will come to keep you beautiful say members of the club.

The autographs of those "Jeffersons" and "Jacksons" were all over Doc's shirt as he was honored for being the great guy that he is.

An evening of praise, thanks, love, appreciation for a great guy - Willie James Gibson Jr. a/k/a Dr. Parkermeter - a phenomenon.

Special thanks to all of his clients. Music by Mean Gene, food provided by all of his clientele, "Lady" Lillie Gibson and the hostess, Sherilyn Brinson, a V.I.P. production.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Royal IV

Angela Davis bride of T.E. Royal IV

SANFORD — Angela Lee Davis and Thomas E. Royal IV are announcing their marriage today. They were married April 8, 1995, at 1 p.m., at First Presbyterian Church, Sanford. The Rev. Bruce Scott performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Davis of Sanford. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Royal III of Lake Mary.

Given in marriage by her parents, and escorted by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal, white, floor-length gown. The gown was worn off the shoulders with a fitted bodice. Lace trim, tiny seed pearls and sequins embellished the neckline and dropped waist. She wore a matching heart bracelet and earrings, a gift from the groom, and a diamond and pearl heart-shaped necklace. Her triple, mid-length illusion veil was held by a pearl headpiece gathered in a heart shape at the back. The headpiece was made by the bride's sister. She carried a cascading bouquet of bridal white and pink roses with baby's breath.

The bride's sisters, Connie Milligan and Debbie Baughman, served as matrons of honor. They wore tea-length gowns of pink satin with pink lace over satin bodices. They wore pink flower headpieces and carried bouquets of daisies, pink carnations and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Jacqueline Davis, sister of the bride, and Angela Moore, cousin of the groom. Their gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendants.

Jason A. Royal, the groom's brother, served as best man.

Ushers were Brian Hoops, Keith Jones, uncle of the groom, and Jason Lewis.

Paige Baughman, the bride's niece, and Sarah Jones, the groom's cousin, served as flower girls.

Ringbearers were Jeremy Milligan, the bride's nephew, and Alex Jones, the groom's cousin.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church's Fellowship Hall. Assistants at the reception were Chris Wade and Desirée Bahlor. Music was provided by Greg Rebla.

After a wedding trip to Savannah, Ga. and Franklin, N.C., the newlyweds are making their home in Lake Mary.

The bride is employed by ComputerMax Warehouse and the groom is employed by AAA.

Bonna wins first place in contest

There's no doubt about it. Bonna Fitzgerald is rarely ever still. The vivacious beautician has a deep passion for unbridled creativity. An accomplished designer and seamstress who even upholsters furniture, Bonna will tackle just about any artistic endeavor.

Several weeks ago, Bonna decided to enter the State Hair Stylist Competition Fantasy Fair and Makeup on Aug. 28, at the Orange County Convention Center. With the competition only three weeks away, she didn't have any time to waste, but this competition was right up her alley.

She said, "Fantasy is my favorite thing to do. The sky's the limit in fantasy. You can go far out and push it as far as you can to get the judge's attention. You can be more creative."

With the help of her mom, Ginny Stadig, Bonna put on her thinking cap and got to work. She selected Casey Stead of DeBary for her model. Their creation was to depict a way-out mermaid. Bonna made a mask of Casey's face and added a new nose, deep-set eyes, many layers of colorful cosmetics and a white wig which was interwoven with white cellophane. Glittering white cellophane gills and wings were attached to the front and back of the dazzling royal blue mermaid's dress complete with swishing tail fins.

"It was a real total look," Bonna said.

For her untiring efforts, Bonna took the first place award in the competition and was excited that Candi Eckstrom, the award-winning owner of Hairbenders, in Altamonte springs, was one of the judges who gave her such a high rating.

Winning awards is not new to Bonna. During the past few years, she has won over 30 awards in hair design and styling. About five years ago, she won the President's Cup Award in design and styling, which is the most prestigious award in the state.

The champ is employed as a hairdresser and cosmetologist at Merle Norman Fascinations in Sanford.

Congratulations, Bonna.

Joey Gregg, 15, has been selected to attend the 1995 National 4-H Engineering, Science and Leadership Event at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., where he will compete in the National Bicycle Competition, among other events

Joey to attend national 4-H fete

Joey Gregg is really excited these days. The 15-year-old Sanford 4-H Club member has been selected to attend the National 4-H Engineering Science and Leadership Event at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 23-27.

Joey, son of Barbara and Richard Gregg of Sanford, will be a part of the six-member team which will represent Florida in the Engineering Bowl. He will compete individually in the National Bicycle Competition which includes a written test, safety check and riding test.

While at Purdue, Joey will have the opportunity to tour engineering and robotics facilities on campus as well as visit the Indianapolis 500.

Joey, a student at Lyman High School, is an 8-year 4-H member. He was selected to attend this event by placing in this year's Mechanical Science and Technology demonstration category at the State 4-H Congress.

Choir and the Sanford Community Workshop Choir.

Speaker of the evening was introduced by Thelma W. Mike, Pastor Leonard Jenkins-Wilson brought the consecration message that filled the hearts and souls of all present. The spirit was in their midst as the word of God was delivered to the saints attending.

The continuation of the fourth anniversary celebration was held Saturday evening at the First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church. The praise team of Reddick Memorial Church led the stirring, devotional service.

President and founder Mary DeBose presented the mistress of ceremonies, Sister Delores Mays of Orlando. The spirit was at its highest as the welcome was given by Sister Rosiland Tillman after which the voice of Sanford Community Workshop Choir marched in and rendered a mini concert under the direction of Vernon "Papa" Jones, minister of music. The spirit of oneness in Christ was felt as the choir ministered to the audience. The spirit of the Lord was truly felt by all.

Guest artists for the occasion were Minister Bobby Mott, Spirit of Love Ensemble, Orlando; and First Shiloh Mass Choir of Sanford.

The highlight of the evening anniversary was the "Little Miss" or "Little Mister" pageant winners of the Workshop Choir. First place went to Angel O. Nathan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Nathan; first runner-up, Alexandria Rouse, sponsor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rouse; Jeffrey James, sponsor, Ann Newell; Armisha Charles, sponsor, Marsha Green; Marrella DeBose, sponsor, Mr. and Mrs.

Angel Nathan, 8 months old, was crowned Little Miss Sanford Community Workshop Choir.

Gracing the audience with a religious interpretative dance was "Little Miss" Lakemyonte Smith who danced to "the Shepherd Song." Little Lakemyonte is a kindergartener at Goldboro Elementary School. She is the daughter of Debra and Raymond Smith Jr.

Thanks to the voices of the Sanford Community Workshop Choir who will appear Saturday, Sept. 16, 7 p.m., in the gospel musical play, "Mama, I'm Sorry" at the Tupperware Theater in Kissimmee. Tickets are available at Ticketmaster.

Scholarship breakfast set

St. Paul Baptist Church's

Christian Education Committee will host its annual Castle Brewer Scholarship Fund Breakfast, Saturday, 9 a.m., Sept. 16 at Crooms Academy dining room. This Christian fellowship breakfast is an annual event to pay tribute to and help with scholarships for those students who are eligible.

Musical presentations are going to be rendered by the world renowned gospel singer and musician, recording artist Vernon "Papa" Jones, minister of music for the Sanford Community Workshop Choir.

The message of inspiration will be delivered by Dr. W. Frank Williams, the dynamic pastor of Mt. Zion Baptist Church.

A donation of $7 is asked. Tickets are available by contacting Mrs. Altermese Bentley at 322-7875 and members of St. Paul's Christian Education Committee. The Rev. Amos C. Jones is pastor.

Jazz fete coming

On Sunday, Sept. 17, from 2 to 5 p.m., Sleuth's, 7508 Republic Drive, Orlando will host a Central Florida Jazz Society set with bassist Ben Tucker of Savannah. The artist played bass while at Tennessee State University. He became a world class musician with a far reaching reputation. He is labeled as one of the top ten bass players in the world. He has performed with greats like Herbie Mann, Billy Taylor and Buddy Rich. He is the author of over 300 compositions. Among his greatest hits - "Sunny."

Tucker has received the prestigious Clio Award (comparable to the film industry's Oscar) for a Hartford Insurance Company commercial. He produced "Multiplication Rock," a musical learning tool which received wide acclaim in education circles and national TV broadcasting. He is the 15th black radio station owner of the top AM station in Savannah.

Tucker was appointed to the Advisory Committee on the Arts for the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts by former President Carter. He recently performed for the Olympic 1996 Committee, the Newport Jazz Festival, Spoleto and now Sleuth's, Sunday, Sept. 17, 2 to 5 p.m. Come hear "Comin' Home Baby."

Holiday visitors

The Labor Day weekend saw former Sanfordite Joyce Nathan Artis and her husband, Sherman, and lovely daughters, Brittany and Melodie. They enjoyed visiting with mother, Mrs. T.W. Mike, sisters, and other family members. The weekend included a cookout and visits to Central Florida attractions. The Artis are making their home in Tennessee. Joyce is a program manager of operations at Watts Bar Nuclear Plant, Spring City, Tenn. Sherman is employed at John Servier Fossil Plant, Rogeraville, Tenn.

Book fair set

Don't miss the Book Fair coming to Midway Elementary School during the week of Sept. 11 between the hours of 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. daily. The newest books by popular authors and illustrators for young readers will be available for purchase. This event assists in the purchase of materials for teachers and students at Midway. The Book Fair will also be open from 4 to 7 p.m. on Sept. 12. For more information, call Midway Elementary at 322-1791.

disabilities. When solutions are found to some issues they move on to other areas always trying to improve the quality of life and face major challenges, according to PVA president, Richard Grant.

Although the resolution to expand the veterans' membership to include non-veterans was tabled last year, this year, the research involved was disseminated to the membership which included facts such as "... by the year 2025, there will not be enough veterans alive to support and continue the organization." Questions were raised about the assets of the organization and the need for those assets to provide for persons with spinal cord injuries or diseases, which culminated in the birth of the "Paralyzed Society of America" which will parallel the present PVA while providing the membership needed to further the causes of the organization and actually replace the organization by the year 2025.

Within the multifaceted organization are the Advocacy Department which keeps tabs on the Legislature which may effect PVA. The Development Department, which has recently been active in the "Sponsor Recognition" program; the Scholarship Foundation; the Research and Education Department which has recently chastised the Federal Food and Drug Association for its failure to approve the spasticity drug, Tizanidine, a drug that has been used successfully in more than 40 European countries and elsewhere for the past 10 years. The PVA is also involved and heavily committed to encouraging each individual to flex their competitive spirit and participate in as many wheelchair sports as possible, culminating in the participation in the National Veterans Wheelchair Games.

According to Abberton, the convention week at the Worthington Hotel was "... really something to see: picture 150 people in wheelchairs going to and from their rooms, in and out of the elevators, to and from the restaurants and restrooms, with little or no difficulty thanks to the special preparations made by the staff at the hotel especially for this type of consumer at this convention." The manager of the hotel attended last year's conference in Boston strictly to learn of the needs of the PVA customer and actively recruited the PVA's convention business. Although the hotel was already in compliance with the disabilities act, the additional needs included raising beds and dinner tables, adding hand-held showers, removing interior doors, stationing staff in the elevators, moving the upstairs lounge and better training its employees. In addition to the everyday needs, the convention meeting room was arranged with microphones at each table whereby each individual who wanted to add to the discussion at hand needed only raise their hand and was automatically put

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 10, 1995

You might become involved in a unique endeavor with two individuals as clever as yourself in the year ahead. Your partners will supply the means and you'll furnish the ideas.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It could prove best today to let events run their course. If things move in the right direction, don't fool around with the helm. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1884, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10150. Make sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Friendliness and warmth will be the words that describe you best today. Instinctively, you'll say and do the right things at the right time to impress others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Trends and conditions pertaining to your material well-being are exceptionally promising today. Substantial gains might be derived through luck or chance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Keep the control of enterprises or endeavors you originate in your capable hands today. Avoid delegating unless you have no other choice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You might establish an unusual objective for yourself today. Your methods for achieving it will prove quite clever, but they will remain a mystery to others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Something you've been hoping for has an excellent chance of becoming a reality today if you take positive, practical measures to make it happen.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If your motivation is powerful enough today, you should be capable of outstanding achievement. The harder you try, the luckier you'll get.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Anyone who becomes involved with you today in a new endeavor will be very fortunate. Your chances for success are

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

On the ninth day of the ninth month, guess the value of the critical card in today's deal! South's rebid of two no-trump was invitational, showing about 11 high-card points and at least one stopper in the unbid suit. With a slightly stronger hand, South would have jumped to three-no-trump.

Having such a weak hand, West couldn't see any future in leading a club. Hoping to find his partner at home, West selected the spade five for his opening salvo.

After taking East's eight with his king, South played a diamond to dummy's jack. East won with the queen but was awkwardly placed. A spade return or heart switch would cost a trick. And a diamond back would only postpone the evil moment. Declarer would play three rounds of the suit, again putting East on lead to face the same predicament. The former English international Andrew Tompaon, who was East, decided he had to switch to clubs now. But look what would happen if he led the "normal" club four. Declarer would play low from hand, generating three club tricks in the process. West would win with the jack and play a second spade, but declarer would win with dummy's ace and establish the diamonds. His nine tricks would be two spades, one heart, three diamonds and three clubs.

Recognizing the power of dummy's nine, East switched to the club queen. Suddenly declarer's communications were in a mess. Whatever South tried, the defenders had a counter, defeating the contract by one trick.
