Homes Saved From Blaze

As flames from a brush fire splayed around them, firefighters hosed down a home and surrounding grounds for three hours Tuesday afternoon before a number of residences were out of danger.

Sanford and Seminole County firefighters responded to the fire that broke out just before noon off Old Lake Mary Road and behind and to the west of Evergreen Cemetery off 25th Street, said Sanford Fire Chief Tom Hickson.

Eighteen firefighters and six fire trucks were at the scene for three hours before the blaze was contained. Periodic checks were made afterwards to make sure the fire didn't restart, Hickson said.

About eight homes were in danger while the blaze engulfed roughly 75 acres of brush.

Where?

"It's ours," admitted Florida Department of Transportation spokesman Mike Beha today. The sign, west of Sanford on State Road 46 just before the Interstate-4 interchange points to Daytona Beach but spells it "Daytnoa." Beha said the sign was made in Lake City, checked at DOT maintenance offices in Oviedo and put up by a DOT work crew. It was seen by at least three groups, "probably more," Beha said. Why didn't they notice the spelling? "Good question," he said. The DOT hopes to have a replacement today or early Thursday.

Times Says Arms Sales Profits Financed Iranian Kidnappers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A middleman in U.S. arms sales to Iran paid millions of dollars in arms sales profits to Iranians who helped finance terrorists responsible for kidnapping Americans, The New York Times reported today.

Related story, 5A

The middleman, Manucher Ghorbanifar, deposited $2 million to $3 million that Iran paid for U.S. arms in 1986 in the Swiss bank account of the Global Islamic Movement, the Times said, citing unidentified U.S. officials and associates of Ghorbanifar who were interviewed in the United States and Western Europe.

Associates of Ghorbanifar called the payments "ransom," while one U.S. official characterized the money as "payments for services rendered."

U.S. officials said that with Ghorbanifar's payments, not only was President Reagan supplying arms to Iran, but money was being paid as part of the U.S. effort to free Americans held hostage in Lebanon, according to the Times.

The Global Islamic Movement, an Iranian organization, helped organize and finance terrorist groups in Lebanon, including Hezbollah or Party of God, the Shiite group believed to have been behind many kidnappings.

Ghorbanifar, according to his associates, made other payments to Iranian leaders, including as much as $6 million to Hajjatoleslam Akbar Hashemi Rafsanjani, speaker of the Iranian parliament, and his family.

The payments suggest that profits from the arms sales to Iran might have paid for some of the expenses incurred by the kidnappers holding the hostages.

Petsos Jailed For Burglary

By Gene Lindberg
And
Deane Jordan

A Lake Mary city commissioner remained free on personal recognizance today charged with burglarizing a business he used to own.

A March 27 court date has been set for Lake Mary City Commissioner Arthur "Buzz" Petsos who was arrested Tuesday by Lake Mary Police in connection with a Monday night burglary at the Pic-A-Dell restaurant in Driftwood Village Shopping Center on Lake Mary Boulevard.

Petsos, a first-term commissioner elected in September 1985, was arrested at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday and taken to the county jail at 7 p.m. He was released on his own recognizance from the jail without bond at 7:25 p.m. by County Judge Frederick Hitt.

Petsos told police he had received a bad check last week from the restaurant owner Leo Cloos and was concerned whether the statements Cloos was making to him about the revenue he was taking in were correct or not. "I stupidly de-cidied to go over in the evening when it was closed and try my key," he told the officer. Petsos said he found that the key worked and entered the premises.

"I went to the cash register and proceeded to check the register to see the tape for receipts," he said, but added that there were no receipts in the cash register.

Petsos could not be reached for comment today.

According to a Lake Mary police report, an officer was called to the Pic-A-Dell around 9:18 p.m. Monday to check on a possible burglary to the restaurant. Cloos, who had locked up the restaurant earlier that evening, said he returned later to deliver some supplies and saw someone inside the building. The man Cloos said he saw inside was dressed in white shorts and a maroon and white short-sleeved shirt and was standing by the cash register. In the glow of beer signs, the men exchanged glances before the intruder left through a back door, Cloos told police. Cloos told the officer who arrived to investigate that the burglar looked like Petsos, who had owned the restaurant until around February 1986. Petsos later told police he sold the business to a woman in early 1986 and held a promissory note for about $25,000, but that the woman sold the business to Cloos in October 1986 and Cloos apparently assumed all indebtedness, including the promissory note.

A Lake Mary police sergeant, also called to the scene, then crossed a courtyard and on a pay phone and telephoned for a burglary investigator. While the sergeant was making the call, Petsos walked to his car and drove off, according to the sergeant. The sergeant was contacted by another officer still at the burglary scene and told that Petsos stopped at the restaurant and asked police, who were parked there, "What is going on?" The sergeant then told the officer not to let Petsos enter the restaurant.

Petsos told the investigator that he had not been in the restaurant. He said he did not do anything wrong and that he had parked behind the restaurant because other spaces had been taken. The officers noted the parking spaces were empty on their arrival, save for Cloos' vehicle.

Inside the restaurant, a loaf of bread, a sack containing plastic trash bags and coffee packets and filters were out of place, located near the cash register, according to the report.

Multiple Deaths Strike Lake Mary Family

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

A Lake Mary family is grieving over the loss of two teenage children and two others in a traffic accident Saturday.

Albert W. Helms II, 696 Mourning Dove Circle, principal of Apopka High School, and his wife, Kathy, are still trying to understand what happened in the one-car high-speed crash involving Helms' former wife, Gail Gevers, 37, of St. Cloud, and their two children, all of whom died hours after the 7:30 p.m. accident three miles south of St. Cloud on Old Canoe Creek Road.

Dead are Mrs. Gevers, 2122 Wren Drive, St. Cloud; Michael Matthew Helms, 14, and Patricia Leigh Helms, 15, who lived with their mother in St. Cloud and spent time with their father in Lake Mary; and a friend of Michael's, 14-year-old Jesse Witter of 497 Drulliner Road, St. Cloud.

According to the Florida Highway Patrol report, Mrs. Gevers was driving a 1985 Chevrolet Camaro northbound on Old Canoe Creek Road when she lost control of the car, which left the left shoulder of the road, overturned several times and struck a tree. Mrs. Helms said the family was going to a movie gallery to pick up movies, but she couldn't understand why the car was traveling the winding country road at 100 mph or more, as troopers estimated.

"It's a wonder anyone survived the crash at all," Mrs. Helms said. Michael lived until Monday.

The Orange County Coroner's report from Dr. Shashi Gore said Mrs. Gevers died of multiple chest and head trauma. She and her daughter were reportedly strapped in their seatbelts. The coroner said Michael died of head trauma, Patricia, who was called "Leigh," died of head trauma, and Jesse died of transection (laceration) of the heart. They were all taken to Orlando Regional Medical Center by the Kissimmee FHP because of the seriousness of their trauma, the coroner said. He has ordered Mrs. Gevers' body be tested for evidence of drug use, he said.

Mrs. Helms said the children spent a lot of time with their father, her and their little 5-year-old half-sister Erin Renee.

"They came up here a lot. This summer Leigh was going to come here for basketball camp. She was real good in sports and she knew that was probably what was going to get her through school. She played basketball and softball. Michael was coming here for the summer, too. He was going to practice to run for track. He was really good in academics and wanted to be a marine biologist. He was working toward an academic scholarship," Mrs. Helms said.

Oil Town Remembers A Lost Generation

NEW LONDON, Texas (UPI) — A half century ago today, a time when the redheads bloom in Texas, thunder rolled from the belly of a brick schoolhouse and snatched away a generation of children.

"It's something that scars your mind — the screams, the cries — like some horrible disease you just can't shake," says Molly Ward, then a 4th grader who watched from a bus window as New London's school shook with a deafening blow and settled into a heap of brick and dust and broken bodies.

At precisely 3:18 p.m., March 18, 1937, time stopped for the town of New London, population 1,200, then at the center of the world's greatest oil boom. A natural gas explosion in the basement of the school set off a blast heard as far away as the roughneck tent-camps of Kugore and Tyler, 35 miles to the north.

The death toll was never fixed. A building demolition at the center of the town reports 294 victims, but survivors say they can count more, nearly 300.

What is known is that it was America's worst civilian disaster. It remained so until a firestorm swept the docks of Texas City 10 years later.

Yet this small-town disaster had a special terror: It was selective death, the best and cruelest plague of Moses. More than 270 of its victims were children. It exterminated a generation.

"I have thought many times how my life was

It was the biggest civilian tragedy I covered in my life. Wars, of course, are another thing. But nothing else equaled it.

—Walter Cronkite

made different," says Bill Thompson, a retired factory worker living across from the rebuilt school. "I thought about little things, like when I made the varsity (football team) when I shouldn't have."

"You see, my competition was all dead." Despite the distance in time, memory remains keen.

For Ward, images flash alive at the sound of spring thunder. And Thompson carries ghosts and guilt into his sleep each night. It seems he swagged deals with a fifth-grade classmate so he could flirt with Billie Sue Hall. Somebody died where he should have been, and he has never forgiven himself. "I've got pain even today."

Jack Strickland, who nearly died, got religion and became a preacher. Ralph Carr got out of the oil business, never forgetting how his daughter stared back at him in her dead repose. Helen Billick still thinks about it as a dream.

"I remember being thrown up into the air like a toy, looking around me and seeing the parts of buildings floating in the air with me. I'm up above the school. I think to myself, I can see people walking around, screaming. I keep turning and spinning. Then darkness."

Witnesses never forgot.

"It still stands out in my memory, exceedingly vivid," Walter Cronkite, then a 20-year-old reporter for United Press in Dallas, later told a reporter. "It was the biggest civilian tragedy I covered in my life. Wars, of course, are another thing. But nothing else equaled it."

"We got down there to the most ghastly scenes I ever saw. Those oil field workers whose children were buried there were sobbing as they tore away at the rubble with their bloodied hands, uncovering body after body."

White House correspondent Sarah McClendon was a $10-a-week reporter at the Tyler Courier-Times and one of the first newsmen on the scene.

"I'll never forget seeing the bones of a little girl," she says, "picked as clean as a whistle, clean as if they had been boiled. She was probably never identified. The blast literally tore the flesh from her bones."

World leaders wired their condolences. One came from Adolf Hitler: "I want to assure your excellency of the German people's sincere sympathy," he cabled Franklin Roosevelt.

Vogt Endorses Martinez' Sales Tax Exemption Plan

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Senate President John Vogt says his endorsement of Gov. Bob Martinez' sales tax exemption concept may have assured its passage, despite strong opposition from many influential business lobbyists.

Martinez' sales tax exemption package calls for raising about $860 million in new revenue by eliminating the sales tax exemptions on many services. The legislation would for the first time tax services such as advertising, real estate transactions and legal services.

The proposal already has the backing of the House leadership. On Tuesday, Vogt said he had decided to back legislation that would be very similar to Martinez' proposal.

Vogt said the new tax money is badly needed to pay for shortages in roads, schools, jails and other elements of Florida's infrastructure. He said the infrastructure had not kept up with Florida's rapid growth.

"Our current sales tax base cannot keep pace with Florida's needs," Vogt said. "By and large there is no justifiable logic to explain why you would tax goods or materials, but not services or labor."

Alternate Sewer Financing Plan Sought

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

In Longwood's on-going sewage saga, the city commissioners told City Administrator Ron Waller and his staff at a workshop Monday to come up with another plan for financing the sewer hook-up with Seminole County by Friday.

A special commission meeting may be called next week after Waller has a chance to discuss the new plan with Sun Bank officials. The mayor is required to give 24 hours notice when calling a special meeting.

To make the figures work, Waller said the city will have to require all development in the east side of the city to hook into the sewer system.

"If you start granting exceptions they will come unraveled," Waller said.

He has also been asked to include in the new plan the sale of the Skylark sewage treatment plant property by the City Parks and Recreation Department for $100,000 for future use as a park with the money to be transferred from the general fund to sewer funds. The land has to remain unused for one year after the treatment plant is removed to meet Department of Environmental Regulations requirements. There is also the possibility of selling the site of the Columbus Harbour plant after it has been shut down for a year.

One of the points of contention between Waller and the commission is the need for increasing sewer user rates by 50 percent as recommended by the accounting firm of Kane and Shuck in a financial feasibility study done at the city's request.

The commission doesn't want a sewer rate increase now even though they concede one may be necessary in the future.

In his report Monday, Waller showed a $362,805 shortfall in 1988 without a rate increase and a $189,501 shortfall with a 50 percent increase. He proposed making up the difference by increasing the sewer tap-in fee for new connections. Sewer customers currently pay $24 a month for residential service. These figures do not include such things as electricity, line extension, insurance and operating costs.

Commissioner Harvey Smerilson came up with his own set of figures showing a balance of $23,000. Smerilson said the cost of going with the county sewer system, which the county has contracted to do pending approval by Sun Bank, totals $3,599,500 and that 315,000 gallons per day capacity still available from the county could be sold to developers for a total of $3,622,500.

"How could we sell 315,000 gallons of capacity when we only have 275,000 to sell?" asked Waller. "We are pumping between 260,000 and 270,000 now and we have sold 50,000 gallons capacity to Hospital Corporation of America which isn't connected yet and one day we are going to have to pay the county for the capacity we have sold the hospital."

Smerilson said developers are waiting in line to hook-up to the city's sewer lines and there will be no problem selling the remaining capacity.

Smerilson said the $500,000 which St. Laurent Properties has said they may pay up front is to purchase capacity rather than build a package treatment plant in the company's commerce park. However, Finance Director Barry Weeks said under an agreement proposed by St. Laurent the city might end up paying $700,000 to extend sewer lines and put in a pumping station.

Smerilson wanted to know why water revenues weren't included in funds available to pay off the bank. Weeks said the budget doesn't project a surplus and at this point both sewer and water revenues are under what was projected in the budget. He said it is a "break even situation."

Furthermore, water revenues are pledged to pay off the $500,000 portion of the loan used to satisfy a loan from Freedom Bank for water system improvements.

Smerilson also said upfront money paid by developers for sewer capacity could be invested and interest earned before using it to purchase capacity from the county.

It was pointed out by the staff that this might be counterproductive because the amount the city would receive in interest would be less than what the increase in cost per gallon charged by the county over the same period.

Pamela L. James, assistant vice president for corporate banking for Sun Bank, NA, Orlando, reminded city officials it was not a question of whether the bank would give the city money as $3 million in bonds was issued by the city with $2.5 million designated for building the city's own 600,000 gallons per day capacity sewage treatment plant. "The bonds were purchased by Sun Bank and the money has been in the hands of the city for many months," she said. "All the documents were signed and agreed to and our only concern is being repaid 100 percent on schedule. You can't simply say let's change it. If you don't meet the payments it's a default."

She said the city decided to negotiate an agreement with the county after the bonds were issued and then came to the bank. She said the bonding company and the bank had agreed to the new plan providing there was enough revenues to pay back the money owed.

"Sun Bank is not concerned with how you get the sewer capacity, we would like the city to get on line as soon as possible," Ms. James said. "If you come to Sun Bank with any set of figures, we can approve them if they meet the debt service obligations, we will be delighted."

Jacquelyn Hoefler, certified public accountant with Kane & Shuck, said her firm will not be able to assist the city staff with coming up with a new funding plan if it has to be in by Friday. She said the firm has no other alternate expertise from which to get numbers. We have exhausted our sources of expertise in preparing our original report. "My alternate source would hurt, not help your point of view," she told Smerilson, who had said he did not blame Kane & Shuck as they could only come up with recommendations based on the figures given them by the city staff and a report by Dyer, Riddle, Mills and Precourt, consulting engineers.

Severe Storms Roar Eastward

United Press International — A slow-moving storm over the nation's midsection that spawned deadly tornadoes, destroyed buildings and in some areas created near-blizzard conditions, roared eastward over the South today with violent 60 mph winds.

Thunderstorms pushing over Louisiana and Mississippi today toppled power lines and trees in counties south of Lyman, Miss., and lightning sometimes set the trees on fire, as high winds wrecked trailers at Fernwood, Miss.

The storm lashed the Rockies, Plains and lower Mississippi Valley Tuesday, spinning off a tornado in Texas that killed one woman and injured three members of her family. Twisters also hit two towns in Mississippi, injuring three people slightly and destroying several buildings.

After dumping up to 30 inches of snow in Utah, the storm brought near-blizzards Tuesday to parts of Kansas, New Mexico and Texas, closing Interstate 70 west of Goodland, Kan., to Limon, Colo., through today. A stretch of U.S. 64-87 in far northeastern New Mexico closed briefly Tuesday.

"We have dozens of trucks lined up outside. No one will leave here before morning if the snow keeps coming down and the wind keeps blowing," said Homer Smith, a gasoline attendant at the Husky Car-Truck Stop on I-70 in Goodland.

"The last report was that there was 2 to 4 inches on the roadway but the worst is the blowing and drifting snow," said a police dispatcher in Salina, Kan.

The storm triggered showers and thunderstorms from the lower Mississippi Valley to Alabama and the Florida panhandle today and prompted forecasters to post a tornado

Oliver North's Private Army

Boys dream of private armies. They collect toy soldiers, airplanes and ships.

And they play-act war, until their mother makes them put the toys away and come to supper.

But Oliver North had a boy's dream come true.

An army of his own. With airplanes, ships, weapons and mercenary soldiers.

All paid for with money raised secretly from the White House basement.

He had the president of the United States helping him solicit support. And North had what boys could only dream of — power.

He could plot to threaten the president of Costa Rica with cutting off all U.S. aid — though North knew that was a lie.

But sometimes North's magical power failed — as when the attempt to buy the hostages' freedom with arms and cake turned into Iranian blackmail.

It was, perhaps, all a game.

The game of outwitting Congress.

The game of toppling a foreign government.

The names North chose for his front companies indicate his strange playfulness: Toyco, Democracy, Inc.

Except the game was real.

The weapons were used to kill people, including children. The airstrip was used to load transport planes to Costa Rica, in violation of international law. The Swiss bank accounts were used to hide the web of deceit, as the Mafia hides its drug connections.

The implications of North's play army are not funny.

The Constitution puts civilians in control of the military for a crucial reason: Private armies can be used to take over governments.

That's how it's done in Beirut, where warlords reduced Lebanon's government to bloody chaos.

Did Ollie emulate the militias holding Americans hostage by creating his own paramilitary empire?

In El Salvador, the military used death squads to kill and maim opponents of the regime.

Did Ollie want to head up his own esquadron de la muerte in Central America?

Oliver North's private army failed to free all the hostages or overthrow the Sandinistas.

Yet private armies have a way of aggrandizing power.

Power corrupts men, even ramrod-straight lieutenant colonels with boyishly American good looks.

The Sandinistas couldn't directly damage America, but North brought the politics of banana republics into the White House.

No Moslem militia could directly threaten our government, but Oliver North's army has seriously damaged President Reagan — and the presidency.

It's not enough to take away North's toys, or to send him to bed with a spanking.

Soldiers should never again be permitted to serve in policy-making roles in the White House, unless they resign their commissions.

Private armies must be banned from America.

Uncle Sam Defiles National Parks, Forests

When private corporations destroy land or pollute water, the outcry deafens the ears.

Yet no matter how the federal government mistreats the environment, its bureaucrats always get another chance.

Let's hope there are limits to this indulgence. If not, the glories of the greater Yellowstone region — including the park, seven national forests and a few private parcels — could be at risk.

A recent report by the Wilderness Society documents the danger. This group may not seem like the most evenhanded source, but many of its conclusions are backed by independent observers, by fiscal conservatives tired of supporting wasteful public policies and even by the research arm of the Library of Congress.

Logging is perhaps the greatest threat to the national forests surrounding Yellowstone. It is also the least defensible activity. The timber harvest not only degrades the environment, it actually loses money — an average of 55 cents for each dollar spent on production. Taxpayers, naturally, make up the difference.

Logging doesn't make sense at higher elevations, where yields are low and building roads is expensive. But the Forest Service retreats behind its "multiple-use" mandate for public lands, or solemnly suggests that the way to save a forest is to raze it.

At stake is a habitat that shields the grizzly bear, elk, wolverine, bighorn sheep and other magnificent animals. Fortunately, according to a recent study in Nature magazine, only 4 percent of Yellowstone Park's original mammalian species are extinct. But that record could quickly erode. More than one-fourth of all species in Yosemite, Rocky Mountain, Mount Rainier and Bryce Canyon parks are gone, and most can never be reintroduced.

The Forest Service isn't solely to blame. It controls the area around Yellowstone, but not the park itself. That privilege goes to the Park Service, an agency whose white-knight image also needs a second look.

The first steps toward such a reappraisal were taken by Alston Chase in his stinging 1986 book, "Playing God in Yellowstone." A rancher and writer from Livingston, Mont., Chase spent years bird-dogging Park Service policies.

There is no doubt, for example, that the Park Service accidentally hastened the decline of the grizzly — and then attempted to disguise the tragedy.

"When I began research in Yellowstone in 1981," Chase recalled in a speech last fall in Big Sky, Mont., "the Park Service, in its published literature, was claiming a grizzly population of 350 and a black bear population of 650. The actual number of grizzlies estimated by its own biologists, however, was at that time under 200, and the number of black bears ... was closer to 50."

Americans enjoy an understandable love affair with their natural heritage. When searching for its enemies, the average citizen habitually turns his gaze toward private enterprise. It's time people considered the possibility that they've let a fox loose in the henhouse, that the official protector of these public lands — the federal government — has become perhaps the greatest threat to their continued well-being.

Baker's No Miracle Worker

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When former Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., was named the new White House chief of staff, politicians in the capital effusively praised President Reagan's selection.

"A fantastic appointment," gushed Vice President Bush. "The right man in the right job at the right time," added Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan. "You can hear a sigh of relief throughout Washington," announced Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan.

Even the Democrats were extravagant. "A stroke of genius," proclaimed Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn. "An inspired choice," added Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

Baker almost certainly will serve the president better than his autocratic predecessor, Donald Regan. But the lavish acclaim for the switch masks the fundamental problems both Regan and Baker must overcome if they are to succeed in their joint endeavor during the next 22 months.

First, the reaction following the Regan-for-Baker exchange perpetuates the unfortunate practice of ascribing virtually all of the president's faults and errors to his staff.

Thus, much of the ecstasy over Baker's appointment was, in fact, thinly disguised joy over Regan's departure at a time when the conventional wisdom here held that Regan had been ill-served by his chief of staff.

Regan was a convenient scapegoat at a time when Reagan was searching for someone to fault for his unprecedented troubles, but most of the blame for the Iran-contra scandal belongs with the man in charge — the president.

Throughout his tenure in the White House, Regan has sought to exempt himself from one of the cardinal and immutable rules of management: Authority can be delegated but responsibility cannot.

The events of recent months have produced a belated public discussion of Regan's "management style" — a polite way of describing an approach to governance that ranges from disengagement to obliviousness.

The addition of Baker to the White House staff cannot compensate for the president's lack of interest or involvement in the job to which he was elected. Only Regan can change what one analyst aptly characterizes as "ineptitude bordering on incompetence."

Banks Endangered

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One of the oldest jokes in financial circles is that if you owe your banker a little money, he owns you — but if you owe him a lot, then you own him. This has never been more true than with regard to the Latin American "debt crisis."

Currently, Latin American and Caribbean countries have a foreign debt in excess of $400 billion. A significant percentage of this debt, perhaps 25 to 35 percent, is owed to U.S. commercial banks.

The amount involved is so huge that, should the lenders ever admit their prospects of being repaid are almost non-existent (in other words, that they have to write off the loans), some of the nation's largest banks would be rendered insolvent.

The result might be nothing less than the toppling of the entire U.S. banking system. The fact of the matter is that most of these loans will probably never be repaid. So the banks involved have been busily perpetuating a fiction. Over the last two decades, as these loans have come due, they have been "restructured" — renewed for another five or 10 years.

So they can technically say the loans remain "current," banks have gotten agreements from debtor nations stating that they will make annual interest payments on past loans. But since these nations do not have cash even to make the interest payments, banks have given them new loans so they can pay the interest.

Now even this fiction seems to be wearing thin.

Last year Latin American and Caribbean countries paid out some $32 billion in interest payments alone. This amounted to almost twice the combined trade surpluses of the nations involved. As Sally Shelton-Colby, a bank consultant and expert on Third World debt, recently pointed out to a Senate committee studying the problem, "To the man in the street (in these countries) thaoyment and high prices."

Now the debtor nations are saying in effect, "Enough."

Brazil has the biggest debt in Latin America. It owes some $108 billion in foreign debt, including $70 billion to private banks. Over the last 17 years it has paid out some $153 billion in interest alone on that debt. It was able to do so because it had the most active economy in the region.

But the Brazilian economy has soured in good measure because all its surpluses have gone to pay interest on its foreign debt and not to finance internal growth. Now the Brazilian government has announced that over the next few years it will "suspend" even the interest payments on two-thirds of its foreign debt.

Ecuador has long been considered the most reliable of the Latin American debtor nations. But in early February, citing what it called "cash-flow problems," Ecuador refused to make a required interest payment to its bank lenders.

Then there is what U.S. bankers call "the Mexican problem." After Brazil, Mexico has the region's second greatest foreign debt — some $75 billion, of which about $32 billion is owed to U.S. commercial banks.

Mexico has continued to pay the interest on that debt and says it will continue to do so at least this year — if its U.S. bankers agree to lend it an additional $7.7 billion.

Celebrity Status Via Scandal

By Jan Ziegler
UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It has become a familiar phenomenon — pretty but unknown female caught up in national scandal is noticed by national media, receives modeling, nude photo and movie solicitations.

That's what happened to Fawn Hall, Lt. Col. Oliver North's personal secretary, as it did to a number of other women including Rita Jenrette, former wife of former Rep. John Jenrette of South Carolina, convicted in the Abscam scandal.

A former model on the local scene described by her friends as a "straight arrow," Hall toiled in obscurity and now finds the same organizations that may have been uninterested in her services before willing to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars for the privilege of publishing or promoting pictures of her.

Psychologists attuned to media trends find nothing surprising about it at all and point out several ingredients that lead to such instant celebrity.

"First of all, beauty is an important factor," said Dr. Stuart Fischhoff, a psychology professor at California State University at Los Angeles and a screen writer. "It determines whether you get convicted of crimes, whether you get sentenced. It sells papers."

"The minute somebody is physically attractive it then becomes a sexualized news story."

Research has also shown what may seem obvious: attractiveness attracts. For instance, one study showed attractive women in cars stopped because of flat tires on the West Side Highway in New York received many more offers of help than would a homely woman or one who otherwise does not fit the current definition of attractiveness, Fischhoff said.

Witness Rosemary Woods, mature and a bit stout, who melted into the background while everyone concentrated on the 23 minutes missing from Nixon's tapes.

"It could play to men's fantasies about attractive women," David Sears said of the Fawn Phenomenon. "There's a market for appealing to men's fantasies, just as there are markets for other things."

Fischhoff said men tend to be in positions of power and decision-making jobs, so women are more likely to be targets. If women were in power, he said, men could find themselves in Hall's position more often.

Jordan's King Is Finally Happily Married

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — American diplomacy has clearly failed to bring peace to the Middle East through the judicious supply of arms to friendly governments. But one American "export" has at least brought inner peace to an important Arab ruler, King Hussein of Jordan.

Queen Noor, the former Lisa Halaby, is the American-born fourth wife of the 51-year-old Jordanian monarch. A smile lighting his face, Hussein gave this succinct view of his 9-year-old marriage during a recent interview with Dale Van Atta in Amman: "I am happy. In harmony."

Hussein's marital contentment was a long time coming. When he was 19, he was married briefly to a distant cousin, Egyptian Sherifa Dina Abdel Hamid, seven years his senior. After their divorce, she married a Palestinian commando and follower of Yasser Arafat, the Palestine Liberation Organization leader and frequent enemy of Hussein.

Hussein's second wife was a British officer's daughter, Toni Gardner, whom he renamed Muna al Hussein (Hussein's Desire). They also divorced, but have remained friends.

Wife No. 3 was Alia Toukan, a sometime stewardess and the U.S.-educated daughter of a prominent Jordanian family. Hussein has described Alia as his first true love, and she was the first to bear the title of queen. She died in a 1977 helicopter crash, and the king was inconsolable.

After her death, Hussein paid little attention to affairs of state. In fact, his depression was so extreme that there was talk of his father, who had been forced to give up the throne because of insanity.

It was Lisa Halaby who brought him out of his depression. A blond, blue-eyed, Princeton-educated woman of 27, she was working as a designer for the Royal Jordanian Airlines, Alia (named for Hussein's oldest daughter). She is the daughter of Najeeb Halaby, former head of the Federal Aviation Administration and chairman of Pan American World Airways.

Hussein and his future queen met when her advice was solicited for an unfinished guest palace, and they found they had such common enthusiasms as flying, fast cars, sailing and skiing. Hussein proposed after 10 weeks, and they were married in June 1978. The ceremony was Islamic, and she was given a new name, Queen Noor al Hussein (Light of Hussein).

The queen has described her transformation from American to Arabian as a response to a "mystical" pull by her father's Syrian ancestry over the Scandinavian heritage of her mother's side. She converted to Islam and began studying classical Arabic. The king calls her current command of the language "very good."

Attempting to describe his wife's transformation, Hussein said, "She hasn't changed in terms of all the qualities she always possessed." But he said she is "different in all that she's trying to do to serve" her adopted country.

Hussein spoke of his idyllic, almost ordinary family life. "We love to spend as much time as we can with the children, watch them grow and develop," he said. They are doing "very, very well, thank you," and he is proud of them all — "very much so." He has three children by Queen Noor and seven from his earlier marriages (the oldest son is two years older than the queen).

"We enjoy the sea, and go to Aqaba whenever possible," Hussein said. And they play tennis, which his wife taught him. "We get a lot of videos (cassettes)," he said, and they "sometimes watch movies." The king said he also reads a lot, from serious books to light fiction — "something to distract me."

The royal couple also shares another interest: ham radio. The queen's designation is "Juliet Yankee One" — a fitting name for the transplanted American who has brought fulfillment to her royal Romeo, regardless of the occasional strains in their two countries' relationship.

NATION IN BRIEF

Senate Contra Aid Cut-Off Resolution Reveals Divisions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate resolution to cut off $40 million in aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels was bound for nowhere today under the pressure of a 48-hour deadline, a disagreement with the House and a presidential upper hand.

Senate leaders arranged for a vote this afternoon on the measure, and its supporters predicted a narrow defeat. Even an immediate victory would end up with the same final result because President Reagan had the ultimate backstop — a solid veto — to open the gates for the $40 million starting Friday.

But with Reagan preparing to seek another $105 million for the Contras later this year in legislation that will not involve his veto, supporters of today's resolution saw it as a warmup for the real showdown expected this summer.

Deaver Appeals To High Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The legal fate of former White House aide Michael Deaver hung today between the Supreme Court and an independent prosecutor cleared by a lower court to seek his indictment on perjury charges.

Deaver took his constitutional challenge of the independent counsel to Chief Justice William Rehnquist after a federal appeals court turned the challenge aside Tuesday and lifted a temporary delay it had imposed on the prosecutor.

There was no word early today on when Rehnquist might act or when prosecutor Whitney North Seymour Jr., delayed twice since he said last month he was ready to seek Deaver's indictment, would approach a federal grand jury. The jury had been scheduled to begin its proceedings this morning.

Close Speed Limit Vote Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a close vote pending in Congress today, those who have yearned for years to drive legally above the 55 mph speed limit were fighting hard against those warning that such freedom would cost lives.

The House was scheduled to vote late today on whether to let states increase the current 55 mph speed limit to 65 mph on rural interstate highways that run through areas of less than 50,000 population. On the eve of the vote, both sides in the heated debate said the outcome was too close to call.

Immunity Decisions Expected Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional investigators are on the verge of immunity arrangements for two major figures in the Iran-Contra scandal even as they threaten another principal for refusing to provide access to bank records.

Members of the House and Senate select committees investigating the affair were expected to agree today on a timetable worked out by their lawyers and the independent prosecutor in the case for addressing limited immunity from prosecution for Rear Adm. John Poindexter and Lt. Col. Oliver North.

The committees were expected to vote immunity outright today for more minor witnesses with information about the covert sales of U.S. arms to Iran and the scheme to divert profits to Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

At the same time, the Senate panel planned to discuss holding another major figure — retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord — in civil contempt for refusing to give investigators access to Swiss bank accounts he controls, sources said.

The committees are aiming to begin public hearings in early May, and the agreement expected to be weighed today "basically satisfies" a request from independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh that immunity be delayed for 90 days for Poindexter and North, said a spokesman for the House committee.

Walsh wants the delay so he has more time to build evidence for possible criminal prosecution of the two men and others involved in the affair.

Limited immunity prohibits testimony from being used against a witness in a criminal prosecution. An immunity grant requires a two-thirds vote of both committees, and Walsh can legally delay action for as long as 30 days.

The agreement, House committee spokesman Robert Havel said Tuesday, would provide for limited immunity to be offered Poindexter before Walsh's 90-day period is up, with any public testimony delayed until the period has expired.

The agreement also set forth a timetable for granting such immunity to North, Havel said, but no action would be taken on him until after the 90-day period.

"Poindexter's on a faster track," Havel said, explaining that an early grant for North was never in dispute between the panels even though the House has generally warned against moving as fast as some senators would like.

Poindexter, the Navy officer who was President Reagan's national security adviser until he resigned when the Iran-Contra connection was exposed Nov. 25, is believed to know best what Reagan was told about the operations. Reagan has denied any knowledge of the possibly criminal Contra diversion scheme.

Hastings Maintains Confidence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings, formerly of Altamonte Springs, maintains he will not be removed from office despite a recommendation by the Judicial Conference of the United States that Congress begin impeachment proceedings against him.

Hastings' lawyer, Terence Anderson, told a news conference on the Supreme Court steps Tuesday that Florida's first black federal judge is confident a congressional hearing will exonerate him just as a bribery trial did in 1983.

Anderson said his client told him now that the matter is "out of the hands of these chief judges. ... I am confident I'll not be impeached."

The 27-member conference, composed of federal judges from around the country, voted by acclamation Tuesday to send the House a statement that "consideration of impeachment may be warranted" against Hastings on allegations stemming from a judicial complaint that he obstructed justice and lied under oath in 1983.

But Anderson said the charges presented to the conference were rejected by a jury in the bribery trial in Miami four years ago, thus violating the Constitution's protection against being tried twice on the same charges. He called the case against his client "warmed-over circumstantial evidence."

The House, which acts as a prosecutor in impeachment proceedings, now must decide if articles of impeachment should be filed against Hastings. If so, the Senate would conduct an impeachment trial as specified in the Constitution.

House Judiciary Committee Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., said Tuesday his panel "will carefully investigate and review the matter."

The last federal jurist to face impeachment was U.S. District Judge Harry Claiborne of Nevada, who was removed from the bench in October after refusing to quit or give up his $78,700 salary despite his conviction for tax evasion.

It was the fifth time in U.S. history a federal officer has been impeached and removed from office.

Hastings has continued to hear cases and collect his $89,500 salary, but Jim Macklin, deputy director of the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, said Tuesday's recommendation to Congress would allow the 11th Judicial Circuit to consider whether to stop assigning cases to him until the matter is resolved.

Hastings was acquitted in February 1983 on charges of conspiring with lawyer William Borders of Washington to solicit a $150,000 bribe to reduce sentences of two racketeers.

Bus Driver To Defend Championship

By Genie Lindberg
Herald Staff Writer

Florida's reigning champion school bus driver has won the right to defend her crown after skillfully maneuvering her way to victory in Seminole County's Road-e-o Saturday.

Bonnie Selph, a county driver for eight years, accumulated the top score of 463 points out of a possible 485, transportation director Richard Wells said, and won $100 and a plaque for her skillful maneuvering.

Mrs. Selph, 27, was selected as Florida's top school bus driver in last year's competition and will lead this year's five-member county team in the state competition in Lakeland on April 24 and 25. Her daily route includes Seminole High and Pinecrest Elementary schools.

County drivers demonstrated their driving skills in a series of challenging events such as backing into a 10-foot-wide stall, executing railroad crossing procedures and coming to a stop within two inches of a line drawn on the ground among other events, Wells said.

"Drivers practiced their skills on their own time, so this was a way to improve their skills and to have some fun at the same time, Wells stated."

Seminole County's drivers have been very successful in state competition and were the only county to score more than 2,000 points at the state Road-e-o and to place in the top three places in the state for the past three years, Wells said.

This year's team for the state competition includes: Kathy Rittlinger; Terry Carver, second-place winner three years ago; Clarence Thompson, a competitor last year; Stella Calloway; Margaret Lubman, state champion three years ago; and Selina Labrie, this year's county alternate.

If Mrs. Selph brings home another state victory, she will compete with about 200 other drivers in the nationals later this year in Denver.

City Adds New ZIP Code

Rapid growth of the area has necessitated assigning a new ZIP code to Sanford. Charlie Jacobsen, manager of retail sales for the Postal Service's sectional office in Orlando, said Monday.

Jacobsen said new maps due from the printer in two weeks will show the area located south of 25th Street with a ZIP code number 32773 and will apply to both sides of Highway 17-92. More than 6,000 residences and businesses will be assigned the new number effective July 1.

Patrons in the affected area will be notified by mail in June and a second notice will go out July 1. Residents and businesses will have a year in which to change the ZIP in their address.

The 32773 ZIP Code will still apply for patrons with mail boxes at the post office and the 32771 ZIP will still be used in the other street delivery areas north of 25th Street.

"The system can only tolerate so many people under a single ZIP Code," Jacobsen said. "There are certain printers that determine the need for a new number, but as a rule of thumb when an area grows to 30 or more letter carrier routes we have to look at it. By the time it is approved and implemented it takes two or three years."

The boundaries for Sanford delivery extend from the St. Johns River on the north to Lake Mary on the south, the Wekiva River on the west to Lake Jessup on the east — an area that includes approximately 18,248 residents.

VFW Aids Fire Victims

A new home, furnishings and clothing are being sought by the Sanford VFW for an elderly couple who lost their home in a fire earlier this month.

The VFW has set up a trust fund for donations and will hold a fundraiser later this month for Joe and Dillie Diebold.

The couple lost their 606 Oak Ave. home in an accidental fire, March 1, Diebold, 83, almost lost his life as well, but was pulled from the home by firemen who had been called to the scene by an alert neighbor. Mrs. Diebold, 69, was not at home when the fire broke out.

Diebold continues to recover from smoke inhalation he suffered during the incident, his daughter said. The couple is staying at their daughter's home in Sanford.

The Sanford VFW set up a trust fund after learning of the couple's plight and limited financial resources. Donations to assist them can be sent to The Diebold Fund, care of the Sanford VFW, PO Box 1081, Sanford, 32771.

The VFW also plans a breakfast fundraiser at its Log Cabin at 300 Lakefront Drive, March 21. Financial contributions, clothing and furnishings will be accepted from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The breakfast is geared for children and will feature costumed characters.

Requested donation for the breakfast is $1.50 for children and $2 for adults, but additional financial contributions are welcome, planners said. They are also offering a pick-up service for contributed furnishings. Arrangements for the pick-up can be made by calling 322-7608.

Democracy In Homes Seen

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most parents believe families are run more democratically nowadays and their children are having better childhoods than they did, a Parents Magazine survey said.

Of 258 parents asked to compare their own childhoods with those of their children, 62 percent said their children's lives are more satisfactory, 8 percent said they are less satisfactory and 28 percent said they are about the same, according to the survey that appeared in the magazine Tuesday.

IN BRIEF

Saudi Diplomat Released By Kidnappers; Carter in Cairo

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A Saudi Arabian diplomat was released today after 66 days in captivity and a Syrian military officer and the head of Lebanon's largest Moslem militia said they hoped it marked the beginning of the release of all foreign hostages.

Bakr Damanhour, a Saudi diplomat handling student affairs, wept openly as he detailed his kidnapping to reporters at a news conference organized by Shiite Amal militia leader Nabih Berri at his Moslem west Beirut residence. Damanhour did not identify his abductors.

Meanwhile, former President Jimmy Carter told reporters in Cairo he will discuss the fate of foreign hostages, including the eight Americans among the 23 foreigners still held, during a visit later to Syria, considered to be a major powerbroker in Lebanon.

Damanhour's surprise release came hours after a pro-Iranian extremist group said "secret promises" by France and new appeals for mercy persuaded it to grant a one-week reprieve to a French hostage under a death threat.

Powerful Earthquake Hits Japan

TOKYO (UPI) — A powerful lunchtime earthquake shook southern Japan today, killing at least one person in a landslide, damaging dozens of buildings and disrupting transportation, authorities said.

The quake measured 6.9 on the Richter scale and hit hardest on Kyushu, the southernmost main island of Japan. The Meteorological Agency said the earthquake was the strongest tremor to hit the area since 1983, when a quake measuring 7.1 was recorded.

The National Police Agency said damage was concentrated in Miyazaki prefecture, 530 miles southwest of Tokyo, where officials reported four landslides, cracked roads and at least 35 damaged buildings, some with their walls caved in.

Budget Spurs British Economy

LONDON (UPI) — British banks cut interest rates today following Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's budget that reduced both taxes and government borrowing and strengthened the bookmakers' odds of her gaining an early election victory.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Nigel Lawson Tuesday unveiled what he described as "a budget built on success, for success" — an economic master plan to reduce taxes by 2 percent and trim planned public sector borrowing by 3 billion pounds ($4.8 billion).

Economists said the interest rate cuts were possible because the Thatcher government slashed its public borrowing requirement.

Lawson said a cut in interest rates coupled with an easing of Value Added Tax regulations would help small businesses to prosper, a consistent theme of government policy.

Philippine Bombing Kills 4

BAGUIO, Philippines (UPI) — A bomb exploded at the Philippine Military Academy today, killing four people and wounding at least 43, authorities said.

No one claimed responsibility for the bombing but a military officer who asked that his name be withheld said the device was timed to explode Sunday during a visit by President Corazon Aquino but detonated prematurely.

An academy spokesman, Col. Antonio Alviar, said the blast occurred during rehearsal for Sunday's graduation ceremonies — which Aquino, Defense Secretary Rafael Ilto and armed forces chief Fidel Ramos are to attend.

Deaths Said Caused By Feud

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Seven black teenagers found dead in shallow graves near Durban were members of an anti-government youth movement and apparently involved in a feud over a school boycott, police said today.

Police said the victims, ages 15 to 17, were members of the Kwamashu Youth League, a group affiliated with the United Democratic Front, the nation's largest legal opposition movement.

Spreading JOY

Mars Sample Return Mission Considered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency is considering a series of potential missions with an emphasis on Mars exploration as part of a proposed plan to rejuvenate America's space program, officials said Tuesday.

Although the various projects are still under study and no decisions have been made, an automated Mars sample return mission and a detailed examination of Earth from space are emerging as centerpiece of the space planning effort for the late 1990s.

Under consideration as targets for the early 2000s are a return of people to the moon, establishment of a manned lunar base and manned expeditions to Mars, according to Alan Ladwig, an assistant to astronaut Sally Ride who is directing a study of advanced missions for NASA Administrator James Fletcher.

"This is part of a leadership initiative to establish preeminence in space," Ladwig said.

NASA already has spent $1 million studying a possible Mars sample return mission. The directors of the Johnson Space Center in Houston and the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., planned to brief scientists on the plans at the annual Lunar and Planetary Science Conference underway this week in Houston.

The sample return mission would land a robot vehicle on the Martian surface to roam about and deliver soil and rock samples to a rocket that would fly from the planet's surface to a satellite in orbit around Mars. The samples would then be flown back to a space station in Earth orbit for initial study and eventual transfer to laboratories on Earth.

Spokesman David Garrett said that under the plan being developed by NASA, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which has directed most of the nation's planetary missions, would be responsible for overall management of the Mars sample return mission as well as work on a Mars satellite and the Mars rover.

The Johnson Space Center in Houston, which developed the Apollo manned moon landing systems, would be responsible for the Mars landing, the spacecraft that would take off from Mars and science equipment for the rover.

If the project is approved by NASA's managers, the plan would be to seek funds in 1993 to begin work. The mission would be launched in 1998 and Mars samples would be returned to Earth in 2001.

The United States leads in Mars exploration with its highly successful Viking robot landings on the red planet in 1976, but the Soviet Union is proceeding with an ambitious program to explore Mars and a Mars moon in the next several years.

The only approved NASA Mars mission is a modest satellite called Mars Observer set for launch in 1992 to study the planet's atmosphere and surface composition from orbit.

Soviet officials have expressed an interest in cooperating with

NASA in an unmanned Mars sample return mission, but NASA planning has not progressed to the point where international cooperation has been considered, officials said.

Labeling The Interesting Tennis Types

There are many interesting tennis types among us.

We have all been put in "boxes" or categories. Some of us are called "baseliners," or "backboards," some are called "big hitters" or "power players."

We are called A players or B players or (shudder!) C players. We are labeled and stereotyped and if we are told often enough what others think we are, we become that.

We are given ratings or numbers by the USTA. We might be a 2.5 or a 3.0 or a 5.5. This is supposed to put us exactly in the place in tennis that we belong, in our box, so to speak.

Does it work? It does not. I have seen C players who can beat B players, etc., etc. I have seen players who are 5.0s lose to 3.5s. It really depends on where you are, who is testing or who has put that label on you.

I don't like putting players (people) into divisions or categories because of their abilities. I like to put them into areas because of the way they act or react on the court. It's more meaningful and a lot more fun to observe the attitudes and actions of tennis players, rather than physical abilities.

It gets boring to just watch the strokes and shot making ability of tennis players. It's never boring to watch and listen to tennis players react and adjust to various situations on the court and to observe how they deal with anxiety, success, failure, joy, rage, anger, indecision, frustration, glee, despair, compassion, and all the emotions that go with playing this game of tennis.

I have put these players into my own boxes, my own categories. I've had 500 tennis students a year for many, many years so I have had a chance to observe all kinds of attitudes, plus I've played for 25 years and have used most of the following myself from time to time.

● The Chatterbox: This player cannot play without talking. They chatter after every point and even sometimes during a point. Everyone around them knows exactly what's going on in their lives and exactly what kind of day they have had. It's a giant distraction for everyone within a few miles.

● The Landowner: This player might be playing on one court and maybe there are several other matches going on on other courts. The landowner does not care what's going on around him, though, because he feels put off and angry if any balls roll on his "land," or if any sound penetrates his "air" or if anyone makes a move that will distract from "his game." The landowner is hard to deal with because he does not want anyone else playing around him. He wants absolutely no distractions. The landowner needs his own private court.

● The Mentor: This player will give you help with your game, anytime, anywhere. They will offer instruction, tips, suggestions anytime — even during a tough match. More often than not, the mentor is just an average player and the advice they give not even correct advice. It is particularly distracting if it happens after or while you are trying to concentrate. Leave the instruction to the pros or at least wait until a practice session.

● The Play-By-Play Announcer: This one is a little like the chatterbox but the announcer is more specific. This player will give a running commentary on each point. Most of the time they wait until the point is over to go back over the point but sometimes they will tell you about it right during the rally.

● Maple Syrup (Let's take the focus off my error): This is a sneaky one. On the surface it looks like this player is just trying to be nice. Here is the scene: You serve to your opponent, it is a short serve, to the forehand and not very hard. They hit the return into the net

San Diego Fans Rally For Raines

Padres' Faithful Becomes Livid After Team Ends Negotiations

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Suzanne Moore is mad as hell and she is not going to take it any more.

At least that is what Ms. Moore said Tuesday night from her home in San Diego.

Moore, an avid San Diego Padres fan, is livid. She said she is not alone in her discontent. She cannot understand why Padres' president Ballard Smith will not sign free-agent outfielder Tim Raines.

"We want Tim Raines and we deserve Tim Raines," Moore, who owns a Quesadilla Connection restaurant in San Diego, said. "I've stood in line 24 hours for tickets. I've eaten soggy hot dogs. We deserve a winner in San Diego and Tim Raines can help us be a winner."

Moore said she means business. "There are a lot of fans who feel as I do and we're going to do something about it," she said. "We pay Ballard Smith's salary. He better listen to us."

Moore has gotten together with San Diego radio station KRMB-AM, which broadcasts the Padres' games. They plan to have a rally today from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. PCT to show their support for Raines.

"Hopefully this rally will convince Smith that we need Tim Raines and he will sign him," Moore said. "If that does not work, then we have other things in mind."

The Padres are one of three teams to which Raines and agent Tom Reich are discussing contract. Smith drew the fans' ire when he severed negotiations with Raines and Reich Monday. Smith never gave a reason, although Raines $1.3 million price tag plus incentives to $1.5 million may have been the problem.

Cliff Albert, sports director at KRMB, said the telephone lines at his station have been on fire ever since. "I have never seen a reaction like this from Padres' fans," Albert said Tuesday night. "The callers to our talk show on Monday night were irate. They would not talk about anything else. They know Tim Raines wants to play here and they want him badly."

Raines, who spoke with Moore Tuesday night, said he is overwhelmed by the attention. "She (Moore) made me promise not to sign with another team until at least Thursday," Raines laughed. "I said okay. First, she said 24 hours, then 48 hours. She kept going up with the time, so I figured I'd better say yea."

Baseball

Raines, like the San Diego fans, cannot understand Smith's reluctance. "From what I understand, the fans want me, the players want me, the general manager wants me and the manager wants me," Raines said Tuesday night. "The only person that does not want me is Ballard Smith. And, he's calling all the shots."

Moore said this is not just the voices of a few rebels. "We have a lot of people behind us," she said. "Ballard Smith expects us to pay $8.50 a ticket but not improve his team any. He said he wants to go with the farm system."

"That might take four or five years. What are we supposed to do in the meantime. The fans just might go on strike. Then, what will Ballard Smith do."

"Somewhere along the line we will embarrass him enough that he will have to sign Tim Raines. We're tired of being stepped on."

Ballard Smith was unavailable for comment.

In 1986, Raines won the National League batting title with a .334 average and stole 70 bases. Raines has a career .305 average over seven seasons and is regarded as one of the best leadoff hitters in the majors.

Published reports indicated the Padres offered Raines about $1.3 million a year, less than the $1.8 million he had been seeking.

Raines has said he would play for Los Angeles or Atlanta, but neither team has shown much interest.

"The only difference between San Diego and the Astros is that the Astros are more of a contender now," Raines said. "I think Houston is going to be a contender with or without me. But they would be a better club with me."

Astros Resume Contract Talks

KISSIMMEE (UPI) — Free agent outfielder Tim Raines, unable to reach an agreement to play for the San Diego Padres, says he is talking with the Houston Astros, but the Astros Tuesday would not discuss the matter.

"I have nothing to say," said General Manager Dick Wagner. "They just five or six days ago, and I'll stick with it."

The Padres ended contract talks with Raines Monday and the former Montreal Expos outfielder said the Astros have continued to express an interest in him.

"We're still negotiating with the Astros," Raines said. "I think they had a meeting (Monday) and I think they'll talk again in a couple of days. But as far as how far things have gone, I have no idea."

Raines said the Astros first contacted him about 10 days ago.

"I met with (Astros owner John) Mr. McMullen, but nothing really came out of it," Raines said. "They just threw a figure out to see if I'd bite, but I didn't."

Raines, who rejected Montreal's final offer of $4.8 million over three years, confirmed the Astros offered about $1 million in a two-year deal that included incentive clauses.

"I don't feel optimistic in what has transpired over the last few days with the Astros, but you never know," Raines said.

"It's hard to be one of the best people in your field and not be rewarded for it," said Raines, who batted .334 and stole 70 bases. "It's like going to a car lot and trying to get a Mercedes for the price of a Toyota. It's kind of hard for me to hear teams say, 'We want you to play, but we want you to play for a discount.'"

"I'm sure a lot of teams would want me to play for them, but there's something crooked going on. I can't pinpoint it. But for a player of my caliber, you have to wonder if a team really wants to win, or if they want to stay where they are."

Should the Astros acquire Raines, it would create a problem in the outfield where Houston has two veterans in Jose Cruz and Terry Puhl. Each have hefty contracts and one would almost certainly have to be traded. Kevin Bass is Houston's center fielder.

Duke-Indiana Pits Teacher Vs. Pupil

United Press International

Bob Knight learns this week how well he taught Mike Krzyzewski when Indiana faces Duke in an NCAA Tournament Midwest Regional game.

Krzyzewski was a graduate assistant at Indiana under Knight in 1975, then became head coach at Army, where Knight had coached. Krzyzewski later was hired at Duke on the recommendation of Knight.

If Krzyzewski is to beat his mentor in the first meeting ever between Indiana and Duke, the Blue Devils will have to stop Indiana guard Steve Alford.

Alford, who scores a team-high 22 points a game, hit seven times from 3-point range and finished with 31 points in a second-round victory over Auburn.

"Indiana has taken about 200 3-point shots, and Alford has taken about 85 percent of them," said Krzyzewski. "That has to be one of the things that we'll take away or limit."

Duke forward Billy King has drawn the assignment of covering Alford in Friday's game in Cincinnati.

Basketball

"They do a magnificent job of taking full advantage of Alford's abilities," Krzyzewski said. "The other Indiana players screen so well, and then it's up to Steve to read the screens and be ready to shoot coming off them."

"King is our best defender for chasing the ball and fighting through screens," Krzyzewski said.

In other regional action: Providence faces Alabama and Georgetown takes on Kansas in the Southeast Thursday at Louisville, Ky.; Notre Dame meets North Carolina and Florida goes against Syracuse Thursday in the East at East Rutherford, N.J.; Oklahoma faces Iowa and Nevada-Las Vegas goes against Wyoming Friday in the West at Seattle and DePaul plays Louisiana in Friday's other Midwest game.

ing Tar Heels.

North Carolina guard Kenny Smith will be available this time for the Tar Heels after missing the last game with a knee injury. "The addition of Kenny Smith will obviously have an effect on how we play them compared to the first game," Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps said.

Phelps said his team will have to slow down the tempo against North Carolina, which has scored more than 100 points in each of its two NCAA games this season.

"They want you to take the quick shot and let them get the rebound and head down the floor," Phelps said.

In a related development, Texas Christian Coach Jim Killingsworth retired Tuesday, three days after Notre Dame eliminated his team from the NCAAs.

Asplen's Return Highlights Brantley Win

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

In a meet in which Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots dominated, but really didn't go all out, the return Susan Asplen to the high jump was the highlight in a triangular meet with Orlando Boone and Orlando Edgewater Tuesday at Lake Brantley High.

The Lady Patriots ran up 96 points while Boone and Edgewater each tallied 30.

Asplen, a junior, was a regional qualifier in the high jump but missed the early part of this season with a back injury. Asplen came back Tuesday and won the high jump as she cleared 4-10.

"I was really pleased to see her (Asplen) do 4-10 in her first meet back," Lake Brantley coach Mary Littlebrant said. "We really need her for points in the field events."

Jennifer Burrows also had a good meet for the Lady Patriots Tuesday as she took first place in the 110 high and 330 low hurdles and ran a leg on the winning 440 relay team. Burrows won the 110 highs in 18.4 and the 330 lows in 52.9. Joining Burrows on the 440 relay, which finished in 55.6, were JoDee Lake, Jennifer McMasters and Chelsea Trotter.

Track & Field

Burrows was the only double winner in individual events for Brantley while other first places included Karen Kopp in the long jump (15-8 3/4), Dee Decker in the 440 (64.9), Lisa Frizzel in the 800 (2:39) and Mindy Olinger in the two mile (13:43).

Brantley closed the meet with a first place time of 4:38 in the mile relay. That team included Frizzel, Decker, McMasters and Bernie Connell.

Edgewater had a double winner in Terry Scarborough who took the shot put (36-7 1/2) and discus (101-5) while Boone's lone first place winner was Jill Wilkins in the mile (5:45).

"It was a pretty low-key meet for us," Littlebrant said. "I mixed the girls up and let them have fun."

In the boys meet, Lake Brantley again dominated, totaling 117 points to 50 for Boone and 20 for Edgewater.

Senior Bucky Chambers continued to excel in the weights as he won the shot put (52-7 1/2) and the discus (140-6). Barri Shirley took the high jump (6-4). Brett Pearce won the 120 hurdles (15.7). Travis Barfield came away with victories in the long jump (20-7 1/2) and triple jump (41-4 1/2). Nigel "Hands" Hinds won the 220 (24.4) and Tim Iler captured the 330 hurdles (44.2).

Lions Pound Mount Dora

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Oviedo's Lions pounded out 12 hits and legged out 12 stolen bases en route to a 15-9 victory over Mount Dora's Hurricanes Tuesday night at Mount Dora.

The Lions, 8-2 overall and winners of three consecutive, return to Seminole Athletic Conference action Friday against league-leading Lake Mary.

Oviedo built a 13-1 lead after the top of the fifth inning Tuesday but Mount Dora rallied for seven runs in the bottom of the fifth to avoid the slaughter rule.

"To be successful we have to shut off the big inning," Oviedo coach Howard Mable said. "That's the difference between the end of last year and where we are now. We have to learn to develop poise to shut off the big inning. We'll be exceptionally tough if we can do that."

Oviedo picked up two runs in the top of the first when Mark Merchant led off with a single and stole second, Tony Belflower singled Merchant to third and stole second and both scored on a single up the middle by Jon Cox.

The Lions tacked on three runs in the second when, with one out, Jeret Kinnaird walked. Merchant was issued a two-out intentional walk and Belflower made the "Canes pay as he drilled a double to plate Kinnaird and Merchant. Glenn Reichle then singled in Belflower.

Oviedo added another run in the third when Alan Greene doubled and later stole third and scored on a passed ball. The Lions then pulled away with seven runs in the top of the fifth. Greene had an RBI triple in the inning while winning pitcher Jody Spelman and Belflower had a two-run singles. Randy Ferguson had a two-run single in the seventh to close out Oviedo's scoring.

"We're starting to open up our game a bit," Mable said. "The kids are consistently hitting the ball well and we're averaging quite a few stolen bases a game."

Spelman, who got the win and ran his record to 3-1, was in complete control over the first four innings as he struck out 10 but he ran into trouble in the fifth and Cox came on in relief. Cox pitched the last two frames for Oviedo and yielded one run.

Stars Come Out At Heathrow

Charlie Owens, right, gets a hug from caddy Melvin Walker after winning the Del E. Webb Seniors Tour in Arizona. Owens, from Tampa, was inducted to the Florida Sports Hall of Fame Monday at the Heathrow Swim and Racquet Club.

LAKE MARY — The moon was full and beaming. The light glistened off the water of the Heathrow Swim and Racquet Club pool. The moon was alone, however, there were no supporting stars.

Monday night, though, it did not matter. There were enough stars surrounding the pool at Jeno Palaucci's community near Lake Mary. The Florida Sports Hall of Fame was in town for its 15th annual induction ceremony and it could not have picked a better setting.

The formal, yet relaxed atmosphere, put all at ease, even the inductees who suffered those familiar pregame butterflies before they were summoned to the dais to accept their plaque before 300 fans, media types and Hall members.

The inductees ranged from 27-year-old baseball free agent Tim Lincecum to 72-year-old golfer Pete Cooper. Inbetween were 59-year-old former Florida Southern baseball coach Hal Smeltzly, 57-year-old PGA Seniors Tour Charlie Owens (represented by daughter Wanda) and 52-year-old Stuart Martin County basketball coach Don Wallen.

All great men in the midst, twilight or retiring stages of their careers.

As each man took their turn at the his goal. "My daddy also said, 'If someone wants something bad enough, they can achieve it no matter what they have to endure.'" Owens endured enough last year to win $204,000.

Wallen, winner of three state basketball titles and a state-leading 721 victories, was the first prep coach inducted. "I hope this opens the door for others," he said. "Vince Schaefer (Miami Senior) won six state titles, Jack Wilson (Clearwater) and Fred Pennington (Orlando Evans) both deserve to be honored."

Cooper, feeling none of his 72 years, was the funniest. He was quite to make note of Wallen's verbosity. "I never thought that last guy would get done," Cooper said as the last speaker. "I don't know why that rascal (Tampa Tribune sports editor) Tom McEwen put me on the list. But I'm sure happy I came."

Sentiments of all.

Vinny Testaverde, Miami's Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback, was saluted as Amateur Player of the Year. Boston Red Sox third sacker Wade Boggs was the Pro Player of the Year.

Neither was able to attend due to previous commitment.

Righetti Escapes Jam As Yankees Outlast Twins

United Press International
ORLANDO — Dave Righetti escaped a ninth-inning jam with a pair of strikeouts, preserving the New York Yankees' 8-6 triumph over the Minnesota Twins.

Minnesota scored four runs in the ninth off Righetti, but the Yankees' ace left-handed reliever struck out Ron Washington and Tim Lardner to end the Grapefruit League game.

Larry Blackwell came within inches of tying the score for the Twins in the ninth, but his shot to left field with the bases loaded hit the top of the fence and bounced back into play for a two-run double.

Yankee starter Dennis Rasmussen gained the victory, going four innings, allowing one run and six hits.

CHANDLER, Ariz. — Glenn Braggs hit a three-run home run and Teddy Higuera allowed one run over 3 1/3 innings Tuesday to help the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Seattle Mariners 7-4 in a Cactus League game.

Higuera, making his second start since ending a 12-day contract holdout, pitched three scoreless innings before yielding a run in the fourth when John Moses walked and Rich Renteria doubled. Higuera was pulled after walking Ken Phelps later in the inning, throwing a total of 52 pitches in the game. The left-hander gave up two hits, walked three and struck out three.

Robin Yount collected a double and two singles, and Rob Deer cracked a solo homer for the Brewers. Ken Phelps homered for Seattle, the fifth straight game in which he has homered.

MESA, Ariz. — Shawn Dunston cracked a three-run home run in the fifth inning to carry the Chicago Cubs to a 4-3 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Padres starter Ed Whitson cruised through the Cubs' order for four innings, striking out eight. But in the fifth, Keith Moreland walked and Jody Davis singled. Dunston then homered to left field. Manny Trillo drove in the fourth Cubs run, with an eighth-inning double off Craig Lefferts.

SARASOTA — Mookie Wilson tripled twice and scored a pair of runs, and Darryl Strawberry hit a two-run homer to power the New York Mets to a 6-3 triumph over the Chicago White Sox.

Wilson contributed three hits to make a winner of starter Rick Aguilera, who worked five innings and allowed four hits and one run. Ivan Calderon hit his second home run of the spring for the White Sox, who have lost seven of their last eight games. White Sox starter Richard Dotson was the loser, giving up four runs in five innings.

Baseball

MIAMI — Rookie third baseman Craig Worthington delivered a run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning, giving the Baltimore Orioles a 7-6 victory over the Montreal Expos.

With one out in the ninth, Rick Burleson hit a home run off losing pitcher Rob DeYoung to tie the score 6-6. Jackie Gutierrez walked and went to second on a two-out walk to Mike Hart. Worthington singled to left to score Gutierrez.

Bob Sebra pitched the first five innings of the Expos, allowing three hits and no runs. Mike Flanagan went the first six for Baltimore, allowing nine hits and two runs.

FORT MYERS — Buddy Biancalana contributed two hits and two RBI to lead the Kansas City Royals to an 8-2 triumph over the Texas Rangers.

Biancalana leads the Royals with eight RBI, equaling his total for last season.

Danny Tartabull slammed a three-run homer for the Royals off loser Ed Correa. Left-hander Danny Jackson pitched five scoreless innings, the longest outing by a Royals starter this spring, to earn the victory.

TUCSON, Ariz. — Jose Uribe lined a three-run triple and the San Francisco converted a pair of errors by third baseman Eddie Williams into five unearned runs en route to a 6-1 Cactus League victory over the Cleveland Indians.

Randy Kutcher added two RBI as San Francisco beat Cleveland for the fourth time in as many games this spring.

ST. PETERSBURG — The Houston Astros pounded former teammate Bill Dawley for nine runs in three innings to post a 10-0 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Bob Knepper and three relievers held the Cardinals to three hits as St. Louis lost for only the second time in 11 exhibition games.

Non-roster first baseman Glenn Carpenter amassed two doubles, two singles and two RBI for the Astros. Terry Puhl had three hits and drove in two runs.

In a morning B game, John Tudor pitched five scoreless innings, allowing three hits, as the Cardinals beat Dwight Gooden and the New York Mets, 4-0.

Connors Drops Stubborn Evernden

ORLANDO (UPI) — Top seed Jimmy Connors withstood a stubborn first-set performance by New Zealand's Kelly Evernden Tuesday night to earn a 7-6 (7-5) 6-2 victory in the opening round of the $315,000 Paine Webber Classic.

After fighting off three break points in the third game of the first set, Connors, of Sanibel Harbor, broke Evernden's serve in the eighth game and served for the set at 5-3. But Evernden broke back immediately and then staved off two set points on his own serve in the next game.

"He was playing well and he was keeping a lot of balls in play," Connors said. "He was going for shots when he was way out of position and making them and, at that point, if I hadn't been playing well, I would have been in trouble."

Connors jumped to a 6-3 lead in the tie-breaker, but the scrambling Evernden saved two more set points before a running forehand sailed long, giving Connors the set.

Evernden then dropped his serve in the opening game of the second set, and the five-time U.S. Open champion surged to a 5-1 lead.

In a late match, third-seeded Tim Mayotte earned a 6-4, 7-6 (7-4) triumph over 20-year-old Jay Berger of Plantation, in a match that lasted over two hours.

Mayotte, of Bradenton, ranked 12th in the world, captured the first set when he broke Burger in the 10th game. The second set stayed on serve until the tie-breaker, which Mayotte held on to win after taking a 5-0 lead.

In earlier matches, Matt Anger, 22, of Pleasanton, Calif., beat Jimmy Brown, Largo, 6-3, 6-4.

Anger, ranked 69th in the world, used one service break in each set to defeat Brown. Anger had entered the professional ranks as a strict baseliner, but has been working to develop a serve-and-volley game.

"I'm trying to make things happen more," he said. "I grew up as a baseliner, but it's not the only game I can play now."

In other matches at the Grand Cypress Resort, Derrick Rostagno defeated Glenn Layendecker 6-3, 6-4; and South Africa's Christo van Rensburg beat Sammy Giammalva 6-3, 6-4.

Rostagno, 21, who lifted his world ranking 380 places in 15 months, struggled early against Layendecker. Down 3-1 in the first set, Rostagno won five straight games and the set.

DUTCH OPEN: EDBERG DOWNS BIRNER
ROTTERDAM, Holland (UPI) — Top seed Stefan Edberg of Sweden Tuesday downed Czechoslovakia's Stanislav Birner 6-1, 6-3 to advance to the second round of the $315,000 Dutch Open.

In other first-round action, Israel's Amos Mansdorf beat Holland's Menno Oosting 6-3, 6-3 and American Chip Hooper of Sunnyvale, Calif., defeated Karel Novacek of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-4.

and the yellow to you ... "Great serve, super shot," or "What great spin." — They will go this over and over again. Every time they make an error they start with the "great shots." Look, if your opponent hits you a really good ball and wins the point it's nice to tell them, "good shot," but not on poor or average shots and not to cover up for your own mistakes.

• The Giggle Bear: Do I need to explain this one? Every shot, every play, anything causes this player to giggle. Of course, it's usually because of poor play and nerves, but it is still very distracting. Sometimes, if no one else laughs or giggles around this person, they will shut it off.

• The Excuse Maker: This is probably one of the most popular categories. We all do it. We often prepare ourselves way beforehand to lose. We can't face the fact that the guy is better than us so we make excuses. Now sometimes we really have a legitimate excuse for playing poorly, like just recovering from major surgery, but most of the time we don't. Here are some of my favorites. "It's too windy, it's too calm, it's too hot, it's too cold. My strings are too loose, my strings are too tight. I did not have enough to eat, I ate too much. This guy just pushes the ball, this guy hits too hard. It's the dog's birthday." The list goes on and on and every one of us could add many more to the list.

• The Off-Dayer: This is one simple ... every time this person loses they say that they are having an "off day."

• The Genuine Article: These are the tennis purists — they will not play the game with anyone who does not have good form, proper attitude and hit the ball to them exactly the way they want it. This is a dying breed ... thank goodness.

• Miss Count, Yours Don't: This player wants you to compliment them on their good shots but your good shots are always luck.

Distraught Evert (Lloyd?) Tops Maleeva

Tennis

DALLAS (UPI) — Top seed Chris Evert Lloyd advanced to the second round of the $250,000 Virginia Slim of Dallas despite officiating she determined below average.

Evert Lloyd, the No. 3 player in the world, rallied to defeat teenager Katerina Maleeva 2-6, 6-3, 6-1. The umpires scheduled to work Tuesday did not show up because of a salary dispute and replacements had to be called from outside the Dallas area.

"I don't think the line calls were that great in this match," Evert Lloyd said. "On the average, they'll miss two or three and that's OK, but when they miss six or seven, that can change the outcome of a match."

Evert Lloyd, 32, took a 4-3 complained about the umpires. "I think they made too many mistakes," she said.

At a news conference following her victory, Evert Lloyd said she was angered by a report in a local newspaper that she had filed for divorce from her husband of eight years, John Lloyd.

"I was surprised when I read that in the paper this morning," Evert Lloyd said. "It was really upsetting to me. Yes, we are separated. Yes, we are discussing divorce but, as of right now, we have not filed for divorce. I don't like reading that stuff. It's National Enquirer stuff."

IN BRIEF

Kerr Imitates Exposito Style As Flyers Subdue Rangers, 4-1

United Press International
Tim Kerr, a 225-pound stalwart with the on-ice style of Phil Esposito, joined an exclusive club Tuesday night against Esposito's team.

Kerr scored twice to reach the 50-goal mark for the fourth straight season, propelling the Flyers to a 4-1 victory over the New York Rangers.

The 6-foot-3 right winger became the seventh player in NHL history to notch 50 goals four straight years. Kerr, who has 271 career goals, joined Wayne Gretzky (1979-87), Mike Bossy (1977-86), Guy Lafleur (1974-80), Marcel Dionne (1978-83), Michel Goulet (1982-86) and Esposito (1970-74). Dionne currently plays for the Rangers, who are coached by Esposito.

Kerr's prowess is establishing a position in the slot, where he uses his large frame to maintain the spot for good scoring opportunities. Esposito performed much the same way in his playing days and, like Kerr, was considered a slow skater.

"He reminds me of myself playing the slot," said Esposito, whose 717 career goals ranks second in NHL history. "Nobody's going to stop Timmy when he gets into the slot. He plays that position like I used to. As big as he is, there's nobody going to move him out of there."

Elsewhere, Los Angeles tied Washington 5-4, Detroit shaded Boston 3-1, Chicago tied Minnesota 3-3, Edmonton clubbed New Jersey 7-4, Calgary crushed Buffalo 4-2 and Vancouver tripped Quebec 4-2.

Washburn Captures NAIA Title

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Washburn challenged the heart of the Virginia State lineup and raced away with 50th NAIA tournament championship.

Tom Meier scored 22 points and Bobby Sumler added 18 points and 12 assists Tuesday night to lift the Ichabods to a 79-77 victory over the Yellow Jackets in the NAIA finals. The victory was the 22nd in a row for Washburn, which ended the year at 35-4.

Coach Bob Chipman stuck to the fast-break strategy that carried Washburn (Kan.) to the tournament finals. His goal was to run Ron Moore and Larry Bryson out of the game.

"The game plan was pretty much what we did every game," Chipman said. "We were really looking to break, but we wanted to take it to them. We wanted to make their big guys run and tire them out."

Meier, the tournament's most valuable player, sank two baskets and Sumler added another to key an 8-2 run that gave Washburn a 69-62 lead with 5:51 to go.

Florida Community Blanks SCC

John Gidcomb shackled Seminole Community College on five hits Tuesday as Florida Community College-Jacksonville posted a 3-0 Mid-Florida Conference baseball victory at Jacksonville.

SCC dropped to 10-15 overall and 5-5 in the MFC. FCC-J improved to 8-3. Coach Jack Pantelias' Raiders host Central Florida Thursday at 3 p.m.

Jimmy Merrick singled and doubled for the Raiders. Jeff Rood, who was relieved by Tony Ferrebee in the eighth, suffered the loss. Rood and Ferrebee were touched for eight hits.

Howell Wrestlers Take Firsts

Three Lake Howell wrestlers and a future Silver Hawks competed in the Gainesville Wrestling Tournament this past weekend and came away with several first-place finishes.

Kevin Garrett, a 132-pounder, won the Greco Roman and Free Style for his weight class while Chris Cina, a district champion this past season, took the 148 Free Style title. Jose Collazo nabbed a runner-up finish at 178 pounds.

Aaron Brady, 6-year-old son of assistant coach John Brady, took first place in the Free Style competition at 50 pounds.

Louasz, Jones No-Hit Sentry

Gabe Louasz and Scott Jones combined for a no-hitter as Freedom Bank bombed Sentry Fence, 14-3, in Seminole Pony Baseball Mustang Division play last week.

Matt Thompson and Chris Kapelka each had a single and triple to lead the Freedom Bank offensive attack.

In another victory for Freedom Bank, Kapelka drove in five runs to break open a close game in a 12-5 win over Metal Manufacturing.

First baseman Justin McCully made several outstanding defensive plays to keep Metal from coming back.

Stock Prices Rising

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher today in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 36.36 Tuesday to a record close, was ahead 7.95 to 2292.75 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 541-234 among the 1,196 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 12,500,000 shares.

Stock prices rose Tuesday as oil and technology issues led the market higher and futures-related sell programs, expected to hold back an advance, failed to materialize.

To save money for winter heat the school had tapped into a line of raw natural gas coming up from the oilfields. The gas, which was odorless, had poured into a crawl space beneath the school complex, awaiting only a spark.

An official inquiry pinned the disaster on a sparking electrical sander; teacher Lemmie Butler had gone down to add a few finishing touches to a shop project in a basement-level class.

Two months after the disaster, the state passed a law making it illegal to pump natural gas without including a pungent odorant so that it could always be detected.

How did the gas come to seep into the underpinnings of the school? Nobody knows. Perhaps a valve was left open. Perhaps there was a pipeline fracture. There were hints of sabotage. But nothing was proven.

The mystery resurfaced 24 years after the blowup. An Oklahoma City ex-convict and mental patient told police he caused the explosion. William Estel Benson had been a student at the time and said he unscrewed gas pipes beneath the school, hoping to run up the school's gas bill. He was angry, he said. The principal of the school had chewed him out for smoking.

He had details, including specifications on the pipe not released to the public. Benson had helped his stepfather install the school's plumbing system. "My stepfather owned a pipeyard, and I worked with him," said Benson, a convicted burglar. "I knew plenty about oil and gas pipes. But I didn't really intend to kill anybody."

Benson's sister died in the explosion, and Benson said he spent many of his post-school years in mental institutions trying to deal with the grief.

His confession sparked a firestorm. But on the same day authorities talked about prosecuting Benson, his lawyers issued a denial. "I just wanted to play the big shot," Benson said later. The case for sabotage was officially closed.

To grasp the enormity of the tragedy is to understand how good life was in those parts. Texas was experiencing an oil boom unprecedented in the world's history. The lid on the East Texas oil fields had been blown sky high by a 70-year-old wildcatter named "Dad" Joiner; the field developer, Arkansas saloon owner H.L. Hunt, was already well on his way to his first billion dollars.

New London was flush with wealth and expectations. Located in the heart of the piney woods country of Texas, the town was smack dab over the deepest of the underground reserves; drilling camps ringed the area. Its rural school district was the richest in the world.

The main school building, an imposing stretch of dun-colored brick and pinkish tile, three wings connected by a central corridor, encompassed 25 classrooms, an auditorium and offices. It housed 600 students from grades 5 through 11.

Carr, a roughneck at the time, was in the Tidewater offices across from the school entrance when he heard the big sound. The noise was not sharp like a dynamite explosion, but something closer to the "whump" of a giant vault door closing.

He spun around to see the schoolhouse rise in the air. "I thought my eyes were playing tricks on me. It seemed to float up in one piece, then crash down."

Although the children's deaths were tragic, she said at least they had "found their niche" in life and knew what they wanted to become. "That's really important for us to know," she added.

The Helms were also heartened to know the children didn't suffer long. Leigh died Sunday afternoon and Michael died Monday.

"We were very thankful they didn't suffer and went quickly — because had they lived they would have been severely disabled," Mrs. Helms said.

...Petsos

Police asked Cloos if he and Petsos were having any type of conflict and Cloos said that he had made a payment to Petsos with a check that was returned due to "insufficient funds," but that when Cloos found out about the check, he made full payment to Petsos.

Petsos said Cloos owed him money and had no insurance on the business. He also reportedly said Cloos bounced two checks. At that point, according to the report, Cloos made full payment to Petsos. Cloos said that Petsos never gave him a key to the back door of the restaurant and that Petsos had no right in the building and he wanted to prosecute.

Police Chief Charles Lauderdale said he personally told Petsos not to leave town and the area was searched for clues, including fingerprints. Lauderdale said his office had the task of sorting out whether the incident was a criminal or civil matter. He said they were going to charge Petsos with trespass until he came into the station and made a "full statement."

He was then charged with burglary also.

Petsos was working as a supervisor with a construction firm he began working for last week and could not be reached for comment. Petsos, contrary to reports, is not an owner of Lake Mary Travel Agency, according to his mother, but is an officer of the corporation.

...Fire

Cause of the blaze is undetermined and will not be investigated, Hickson said.

"With something like this it's virtually impossible to tell unless someone saw what started it," he said. "It could have been from any one of a number of causes."

"The homes were saved by the county and Sanford departments pulling together," concurred Seminole County Assistant Fire Chief Bill Kinley.

Cook Of The Week

90-Year-Old Woman Still Enjoys Hostess Role And Serving Her Famous Chop Suey

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

To spend an hour with our Cook of the Week is a truly delightful experience. Lillian Taylor, whose sparkling blue eyes and brisk movements belie the fact that she has passed her 90th birthday, is a shining example of all the things good health, a cheerful attitude, wonderful friends and a loving family can bring to life.

Still very active, Mrs. Taylor is a "pioneer" resident of Bram Towers, a community of senior citizens all happily residing under one roof in downtown Sanford. She still enjoys cooking, baking and often serves her famous Chop Suey to guests. The dish has been a traditional Christmas Eve treat in her family since she was a child and she carries on the tradition to this day, and also serves it throughout the year to special guests and "by request."

Born in Bowling Green, Ky., Mrs. Taylor was the oldest of four children. When she was 19, her family moved to Jackson, Mich., therefore, she refers to herself as a "Michigander" and doesn't hesitate to give away the year of her birth — 1896. "I'm proud of it," she chuckles. Her father was a fine musician who had his own orchestra and a band, and also taught students in the small college town of Bowling Green in the field of brass instruments. "In those days, when we were growing up," recalls Mrs. Taylor, "there weren't any picture shows or anything. Since my father was a musician, we had a piano and all the kids in the neighborhood would gather and we'd sing and play cards. And my mother would make candy for us. We had a happy time." Square dancing and candy pulling were remembers, "and my mother could make awfully good divinity," she adds.

Lillian Taylor's sense of humor is as sharp as a tack as she strolls down memory lane to recall her mother's cooking and her own experiences in the kitchen. "She was a wonderful cook," says Mrs. Taylor, "but she never let my sister and I in the kitchen when she was cooking — but we'd go in and clean up! When she cooked, there was never a measuring cup or a spoon. She'd use a regular cup and a teaspoon."

I always said that when I got married, I had three strikes against me. My husband's mother died when he was only four years old, and his grandmother raised him, and of course, he always talked about what a good cook his grandmother was, and then he had eaten my mother's cooking and knew what a great cook she was — and I had never cooked a thing, so I had three strikes against me!" With a twinkle in her eye, Mrs. Taylor continues. "And I told my husband that I had never cooked, and he said, 'Well, I'll do the cooking for the first year,' and I held him to it, yes I did."

Needless to say, our cook and her husband, Frank James Taylor II, did very well together in their kitchen that first year, and her family has thrived on her efforts ever since. "I'm not a gourmet cook," she admits. "Just plain cooking, plain foods. We had a good butcher. We'd drive 50 miles to get to him. He'd fix me the most beautiful standing rib roast you ever saw, and I sure could cook that!"

It was a beautiful marriage that lasted 64 years until she was widowed three years ago. When she met Frank Taylor in Michigan many years ago, she was a bookkeeper at a commercial laundry where folks also dropped off their "family" bundles. "I met him when he came to pick up his package of laundry," she says. After dating for a couple of years, during which time Frank Taylor joined the Army and served until the end of World War I, the Taylors were married on July 17, 1918. "The only child we had, a son, was born on July 17, 1920 — two years to the day later," she marvels.

It's no secret that Mrs. Taylor's family is close to her heart and her collection of family portraits is displayed with great pride. Her son, Frank J. "Jim" III, and his wife, Winifred "Winnie" helped her celebrate her 90th birthday with a beautiful dinner for about 16 guests at the Holiday House. They are the former owners of Taylor's Natural Foods, now located at Zayre plaza, and make their home in New Smyrna Beach where they own a natural foods store.

Praise for her daughter-in-law comes easy to Mrs. Taylor as she comments. "He's got the sweetest wife you'd ever want to meet. Oh, she's a doll." In addition, Mrs. Taylor speaks fondly of her only grandson, Frank J. IV, a speech teacher in the Bloomfield Hills section of Royal Oak, Mich. "He's a fine boy!" says Grammy, "and is so good to me." Mrs. Taylor enjoys visiting with her grandson several times a year and is looking forward to his next visit at Easter time.

When her husband retired in 1958 from the Consumer's Power Co. in Michigan, the Taylors began making yearly trips to Florida to escape the cold weather and made Lakeland their winter headquarters for about 10 years. "We never spent another winter in Michigan," she says. Sometime in 1971 they made the transition to Sanford, becoming one of the first tenants to occupy Bram Towers. Extol-

Microwave Magic

Canned Fish On Shelf Can Save The Day

Keeping a variety of canned fish and seafood on the pantry shelf can be a lifesaver when unexpected company comes for dinner or for something a little different when menu planning. Tuna, salmon, shrimp and crabmeat can be purchased in cans and shrimp and crabmeat can be also purchased frozen. The extended shelf-life allows for buying when the price is down and using at a later date.

For the smaller family salmon croquettes made from a small can of salmon (3 1/2 ounces) is practical. It can be used at one meal.

SALMON CROQUETTES WITH LEMON SAUCE (Serves 2)

1/2 cup hot water
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
3/4 cup instant mashed potatoes
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped celery
1 can (3 1/2 ounces) red salmon, cleaned and drained
1 tablespoon fresh parsley, chopped
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 egg, separated
1/4 teaspoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

1/4 teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/4 cup sour cream
Place water and butter in 2 cup measure. Microwave on 100% power 1-2 minutes or until boiling. Stir in instant potatoes with a fork. Set aside. Place onion and celery in small bowl; cover. Microwave on 100% power 30-60 seconds or until tender. Mix in potatoes, salmon, parsley, salt, mustard, pepper, egg white, lemon juice, and Worcestershire sauce. Divide into four equal parts, shaping into patties.

In shallow dish mix crumbs and paprika. Coat salmon patties and place on roasting rack. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on 100% power 3-4 minutes or until heated and firm to touch. In small bowl beat egg yolk with fork. Blend in lemon juice and sugar, then sour cream. Reduce power to 50%. Microwave 2-3 minutes or until thickened, stirring every 30 seconds. Pour over patties to serve.

One large can (15 1/2 ounces) of salmon can be made into salmon loaves to serve four nicely. Fresh asparagus is available now and can be used instead of the frozen with this recipe.

INDIVIDUAL SALMON LOAVES

1 can (15 1/2 ounces) salmon, drained
1 egg
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
1 package (10 ounces) cut asparagus or spears
Sauce:
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 egg
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon tarragon leaves
1/4 teaspoon prepared mustard
Combine salmon and egg in mixing bowl; mix with fork. Stir in bread, milk, onion, lemon, salt and pepper; mix well. Spoon evenly into 4 or 5 five-ounce glass custard cups. Press firmly into cups. Place cups on glass plate or try for ease in transferring to oven. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on 100% power 5 1/2-6 minutes or until stand covered while preparing asparagus and sauce. Microwave on 100% power asparagus in package 5-8 minutes or until tender. Set aside.

Beat together mayonnaise and egg with fork in 1-cup glass measure. Mix in lemon juice, tarragon and mustard. Microwave on 50% power uncovered, 1 1/4-1 1/2 minutes or until slightly thickened, stirring twice. Unmold salmon onto serving plate. Arrange asparagus in center of or around salmon. Spoon sauce over salmon and asparagus. Microwave on 100% power uncovered, 1-2 minutes or until heated through, 4-5 servings.

We almost always have at least one can of tuna on the shelf for emergencies. This sandwich filling is good on the French bread, but hot dog buns can be used as well. My children enjoyed this sandwich when they were teenagers. Pickles and ing the benefits of her apartment community. Mrs. Taylor emphasizes the extremely fine security provided for the tenants, along with many programs and activities that are scheduled, but, most of all, the great personnel and her nice neighbors. With her friend, Grace Delp, Mrs. Taylor sometimes attends the monthly "potluck" dinners at the Towers. "We're the only two Michiganders in the building," she laughs.

Mrs. Taylor has many miles of travel in her book of memories and, she says, "My husband and I have slept in every state in the Union, except the northern New England states." In recent years her son and daughter-in-law have taken her to visit Maine, so now that can be added to the list of states. And just two years ago, our spunky cook went on a trip to Hawaii, "and," she laughs, "there were 62 in that bunch — I was 12 years older than any of them — and they had a time keeping up with me! We visited three islands and the tour was well conducted and well planned. We had a wonderful time."

Mrs. Taylor attends the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford and is a member of the circle which meets for Bible study. She is also a member of the 49ers Club at her church and enjoys being active in the meetings. As a past Worthy Matron of Order of the Order of Eastern Star, she is a life member with 60 years' membership. She also helps organize the Breakfast Club, a group of about 12 residents of the Towers, which meets every Saturday morning at 8:30 a.m. to enjoy each other's company over a cozy breakfast. Weekly movies and card games, and board games such as Tripley and Pokemo are always available to the residents at Bram Towers and are a great opportunity for neighbors to gather and had a good time.

"I never was a knitter or a crocheter," says Mrs. Taylor, "but I sew, and I used to do a lot of dressmaking for my family. I used to make all my own clothing." Nowadays, Mrs. Taylor enjoys life and the people around her, and occasional entertaining in her immaculate apartment. A surprise ingredient in this lovely lady's makeup is her enthusiasm for sports! "I love all sports," she exclaims, "basketball, football, golf, and I love the Daytona 500 auto races. That's the only thing I read the newspaper for — the sports section!"

Mrs. Taylor keeps up with the latest happenings around the world and never misses the 11 o'clock news. "Then I like to catch Ted Koppel Nightline after that," she says. Her built-in alarm clock has her up at 7 a.m. to start a bright new day. "I've made a lot of friends here," she says, "and with all the activities here, I'm on the go a lot. And some wonderful friends, the Greenes, take me out shopping and out to eat. Just about once a week, somebody takes me out to eat." In turn, Mrs. Taylor loves to have guests in for a nice dinner, and that she does very often.

Mrs. Taylor tries to cook healthful foods for herself and hardly ever uses canned foods. "I use all fresh vegetables," she says, "and I like a good toosed salad. I eat chicken and fish, and every now and then I like a good steak. You can tell I don't go hungry," she chuckles, "and I treat myself well."

Following is a collection of Lillian Taylor's favorite recipes:

POUND CAKE
1 package yellow cake mix (or any flavor)
4 eggs
1 cup water
½ cup salad oil
1 package instant pudding (flavor to correspond with cake mix)
Blend all ingredients together. Beat at medium speed for 2 minutes. Pour into a 10-inch tube pan, greased and floured. Bake at 350° for 45-55 minutes, or until top springs back when touched. Cool right side up for 25 minutes. Remove from pan and finish cooling.

LILLIAN'S FANTASTIC FUDGE
1 jar marshmallow creme, 7 or 8 ounce size
½ cup sugar
¾ cup evaporated milk
1 stick of butter
Mix above ingredients well and cook over high heat until it comes to a full, rolling boil. Reduce heat and continue boiling for 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in one 12 ounce package of Nestle's chocolate chips, stirring until smooth. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 cup nut meats, either pecans or walnuts. Pour into glass baking dish and let set. When cool, cut into bite size squares. Makes about 30 pieces.

JAM CAKE
¾ cup solid shortening
3 eggs
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup sugar
1 cup jam (cherry, or your favorite)
1 teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons cinnamon
2 cups flour
1 cup chopped pecans
Combine shortening, sugar and eggs. Add jam and mix well. Stir in sifted dry ingredients, alternately with milk. Pour into greased and lightly floured tube pan. Bake at 350° for 30-40 minutes. Spread with your favorite cream cheese frosting.

CREAM CHEESE ICING
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, room temperature
¼ cup butter or margarine, room temperature
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon vanilla
2 cups confectioner's sugar
Beat cream cheese, lemon juice and vanilla in large mixing bowl until smooth and fluffy. Beat in sugar gradually. Beat until icing is proper consistency for spreading.

CHOP SUEY
Remove all fat from a 2 to 3 pound sirloin steak. Cut steak into small cubes. Place fat in large skillet to render. Add steak cubes and sear lightly. In another pan, chop 3 good-sized onions and cook until tender in a small amount of water. In a third pan, cut about 4 stalks of celery into chunks and cook in a little water until crisp-tender. Drain liquid from celery and onions when done. Combine steak, celery and onions in a large 2 quart saucepan. Add one 28 ounce can Chun King Chow Mein vegetables, well drained. Add one can bamboo shoots, sliced thin, and one package snow peas, fresh or frozen. Add 3 small cans mushrooms, sliced and drained. Bean sprouts are included in the Chun King Chow Mein vegetable can, but more may be added to taste. When all ingredients are combined in a large pot, add 2 tablespoons soy sauce and mix well. Thicken with a little flour and water mixture. Serve over cooked rice and pass the soy sauce. Serves 6 to 8.

DATE PINWHEEL COOKIES
Filling:
1 cup water
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter
2 cups pitted dates, chopped
¼ cup nuts, chopped
Dough:
5 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon baking soda
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup shortening
2 cups brown sugar

Combine water, sugar, butter, dates and nuts. Cook until thick, stirring constantly to prevent scorching. Remove from heat. Allow this filling to cool and then chill. Sift together flour, salt, cinnamon and soda. Combine eggs and vanilla. Cream together shortening and brown sugar. Stir in eggs and vanilla mixture. Add mixture of dry ingredients and blend well. Divide this cookie dough into four parts. Chill for 2-3 hours.

After dough has been chilled, roll out one part of it on a well-floured board to about a ¼ inch thickness, spread one-fourth of chilled filling evenly on dough. Then roll up to resemble jelly roll. Proceed thusly for remaining dough and filling. Place these rolls in the refrigerator overnight. Next day, slice each roll into slices of about ½ inch thickness. Place slices on greased baking sheet and bake at 375° for about 15 minutes. Remove cookies with wide spatula. Makes about 4 dozen.

The Boss Volunteers Music For Vietnam Vet's Movie

Bruce Springsteen has volunteered three of his songs for the soundtrack of "Born on the 4th of July," a documentary based on the life story of disabled Vietnam vet and anti-war activist Ron Kovic.

"Born in the USA" itself will be among the selections.

The Boss is usually unwilling to offer his compositions to the movies, although he did supply a replacement tune for "Born in the USA" to Michael J. Fox's film "Light of Day." (BU) New age synthesist Wendy Carlos is trying to re-establish her reputation as an avant-garde instrumentalist with the release of "Beauty in the Beast," her comeback album.

Fans remember those works as having been created by Walter Carlos. But Wendy, a transsexual, resolutely refuses to acknowledge her previous (perfectly legitimate) public existence as Walter.

"Beauty in the Beast," an ethnologically diverse "world beat" sort of work, gains much of its flavor from Carlos' frequent travels during the past 15 quiescent years. Seems she is an eclipse addict, and has traveled the world following the (disappearing) sun.

"I stopped off in Bali on the way to Java to track an eclipse," she recalls, "and got caught up in the music."

(BU) Wang Chung is still smarting from the BBC ban on its video for "Everybody Have Fun Tonight" — the split-second editing could cause epileptic fits in viewers, according to a British doctor.

Food for Thought

by Bill Painter

Colorful accompaniment for any dinner is a mixed saute of cubed zucchini, chopped red pepper and chopped onion, with a minced garlic clove, if you like it. Needs only salt and pepper — and hungry diners.

Adapting your favorite recipes to the microwave? Foods stay moist cooked this way, so you can probably cut down on fats and liquids.

Do you know what makes the holes in Swiss cheese? It's burping bacterial! Well, actually, the gases from bacterial fermentation.

Raisins, chopped apples or apple juice, or mashed bananas will sweeten cereal as well as sugar, and much more healthily. For the sweetest taste, use very ripe fruit.

Something special in your muffins — half fill muffin cups with batter, add a surprise like jelly or marzipan, then spoon on batter until cup is 3/4 full. Bake as usual.

Vietnam Vet's Breakdown Is Soothed By Stranger's Touch

But I've asked lots of phones And none cared to dance! — R.C. Shebelski

DEAR ABBY: These days when most people are understandably suspicious of strangers, I must relate a recent experience. On Friday, Feb. 6, I went to the Countryside Theater in Clearwater, Fla., to see a matinee showing of the film "Platoon." Because I am a combat veteran of Vietnam, for me that film was so realistic that I found myself searching the screen for the enemy and checking behind me only to discover a theater audience.

Dear Abby

agency yesterday for some information and was put on hold. That was all right with me, but while I was on hold I was forced to listen to some lively dance music placed at high volume. I sat there holding the receiver to my ear because I had nobody to dance with, but I thought this was very inappropriate to say the least.

DEAR NO MUSIC: I'm sure you're not. This little ditty appeared recently in "The Wall Street Journal: A simple request If I might be so bold: Play me no music When you put me on hold. I may seem ungrateful In making this stance.

DEAR ABBY: Please say something to those ill-mannered people who have the disgusting habit of coughing without covering their mouths. The other night my husband and I attended a play for which we paid $37 a ticket, but we could not enjoy the play because this woman behind us caughed on our necks repeatedly. We got results (temporarily) after we turned around and glared at her. I recently quit a volunteer job that I really enjoyed — delivering Meals on Wheels. Why? Because the driver never covered his mouth when he coughed. My son complains that a girl who sits next to him at work does the same thing.

DEAR HAD IT: Why not do both? Hand the offender a tissue and request that he/she use it while coughing. It's not what you do; it's the way you do it.

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen my pet gripe mentioned in your column, so this may be a first: I telephoned a travel

Mary Kay Consultant Wins Car

Virginia York of Deltona has been awarded the use of an Oldsmobile Firenza by Mary Kay Cosmetics Inc. as the result of her accomplishments as an independent beauty consultant. Ms. York is among more than 1500 Mary Kay businesswomen who are members of the company's new VIP (very important performer) Club, according to Sibyl White, a Mary Kay spokeswoman. Ms. York will have the use of the Firenza as long as she meets production requirements, Ms. White says.

The new VIP program was unveiled in February 1984 by the Dallas-based cosmetics company and marks the first time Mary Kay has offered the use of a car as an incentive to independent beauty consultants. Mary Kay pink Buick Regals and Cadillacs have traditionally been awarded only to sales directors.

Further Surgery May Repair Damaged Area

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had an operation four years ago for a fistula in my bowel. The fistula was allowed to burst before the operation, and since the surgery I have not had complete bowel control. My whole life has been affected. How can this be corrected?

DEAR READER — A fistula is an abnormal passage between two internal organs in the body or between an organ and the body's surface. Bowel fistulas are caused by infection and can produce draining abscesses, which injure normal tissue. You seem to have developed difficulty controlling the anal sphincter, a ring of muscle that permits bowel continence. This weakness could have been caused by the fistula itself or by the operation to open the infected area. Further surgery, by a qualified intestinal surgeon, could repair the damage and increase your bowel control. If this option is not appropriate, you may be helped by contacting HIP (Help for Incontinent People), P.O. Box 544, Union, SC 29379.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What's the difference between plasma and blood? How often can one donate blood?

DEAR READER — Whole blood contains blood corpuscles, white blood cells, tiny platelets (blood cells that assist in the clotting process) and liquid. The liquid contains proteins, fats and chemicals that are dissolved in water. Whole blood, after being obtained from a donor, usually is separated into two components: cells and the clear anticoagulated fluid portion called plasma. These two components can be further separated, so that specific types of cells and proteins can be isolated and given to a recipient in the form of a transfusion.

Plasma, the cell-less liquid, is a rich source of many coagulation factors. It can be frozen, then thawed and given to a patient who lacks these clotting factors. A person can give blood to a blood bank for his or her own use (autologous transfusion, an extremely safe method of banking one's own blood before elective surgery); in this case, he can donate weekly until several "units" or bags of blood have

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Maybe you call it by another name, but you surely know the forcing defense. The defenders play a suit that forces declarer to ruff. As they work tricks, they continue to play that suit, shortening declarer's trump length. Eventually one of them winds up with more trumps than declarer, and the defenders win more tricks than otherwise. But a declarer can often counter this defense with some strategy of his own.

When South made an invitational jump to three spades, North had a close decision. Although he had only seven high-card points, he did have the queen in his partner's suit, and an ace sometimes is worth even more than four points. So he bid four spades, not knowing that three no-trump would be easy.

Declarer took his ace of hearts and picked up trumps. Unfortunately one defender held four spades. On the first diamond lead, West won and continued hearts, ruffed by declarer. Another diamond, another heart, and declarer was out of trumps. He played a third diamond, hoping against hope that the defender with the last high diamond would hold no more hearts. No such luck. West had held enough hearts so that he was able to take the setting trick.

The winning tactic is for declarer to play diamonds before drawing trumps. He can ruff two hearts, as before, but when he plays the third diamond, won by West, it will no longer help the defenders to play still another heart. Declarer will simply ruff with the spade queen, which is still in dummy, and then pick up the outstanding trumps. That will be 10 tricks, and well played.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY MARCH 19, 1987

In the year ahead your enterprising qualities will be activated and enhanced, and your awareness of opportunities will be heightened. However, you must not scatter your efforts too thinly.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You can do whatever you set your mind to today, provided you don't leave important factors up to chance. Reason will work, a rabbit's foot won't. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Try not to put material things above friendship today. If you do, you might lose what you hope to gain, and also end up minus a friend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Important associations will require tactful handling today; even those with people with whom you usually get along well. Uncertainty is in the air.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Usually Geminis are pretty good at juggling two situations simultaneously. Today, however, if you try this trick you might fall in both instances.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is not a good day to take financial risks in unfamiliar areas. Be cautious, even if an adventurous friend encourages you to do otherwise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Family commitments should take priority over your other obligations today. Don't disappoint loved ones who are counting on you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's been said that life is the thing that happens while we're busy making plans. Should your schedule be disrupted today, don't lose your cool and make matters worse.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't get involved in activities with friends today that they can afford but you can't. You won't enjoy yourself if you have to worry about costs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today you may have to deal with someone rather unpleasant. Don't let this individual's nasty behavior cause you to react in a similar manner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unless you are earnest, it's best not to promise to do something for another. Impulsive commitments could severely inconvenience you when you're compelled to deliver.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Business and pleasure may not be a compatible mix today. Do one or the other, but don't attempt to do both at the same time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're not apt to get the support from others for which you are hoping today unless there are definite advantages in it for them. Don't be selfish.

Serve stir-fry on crisp lettuce leaves

Potpourri

Make A Surprise Meal Out Of Easy Stir-Fry

A surprising but pleasant combination is a stir-fried meat-vegetable mix served on top of chilled lettuce. If you like, serve the stir-fry in large iceberg lettuce leaves, fold leaves around mixture and eat the bundle using fingers.

STIR-FRIED PORK OR BEEF ON LETTUCE

1 1/4 pounds pork tenderloin
1/4 cup dry sherry or apple juice
1/4 cup water
3 tablespoons soy sauce
3 tablespoons oil, divided
1/2 pound mushrooms, sliced
1 package (8 ounces) frozen pea pods or Chinese vegetables
4 teaspoons cornstarch
4 cups shredded lettuce
Cut pork tenderloin into 1/4-inch thick slices. Combine sherry, water and soy sauce in medium bowl; add tenderloin, marinating 30 minutes.

Heat 2 tablespoons oil in wok or large frying pan. Add mushrooms and pea pods and cook quickly for 3 to 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove vegetables and reserve. Drain marinade from pork; reserve. Add remaining oil to pan. Quickly brown pork 3 to 4 minutes or until done, stirring constantly.

Stir cornstarch into reserved marinade until smooth. Add vegetables and marinade and cook, stirring occasionally, until thickened. Serve pork stir-fry over lettuce. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

BROCCOLI-STUFFED WHITEFISH

1 package (10 ounces) or 3 cups frozen chopped broccoli, thawed and drained
1 cup cooked rice
1/2 cup grated Cheddar cheese
1/4 cup chopped water chestnuts
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dill weed
4 whitefish filets (about 16 ounces)
Paprika
Combine broccoli, rice, cheese, water chestnuts, salt and dill. Place 1/4 cup stuffing on each filet; roll up and set aside.

Spoon remaining stuffing into bottom of 9-inch round microwave-safe baking dish; top with rolled fish filets seam-side down. Garnish with paprika. Cover with waxed paper; microwave at High for 6 to 8 minutes or until fish flakes when tested with a fork. Turn dish 1/4 turn halfway through cooking time. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

CHILLED CURRIED PEA SOUP

1/4 cup frozen chopped onion
1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons curry powder
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 package (10 ounces) or 2 1/2 cups frozen peas
1/4 cup frozen sliced carrots
1 can (14 1/2 ounces) beef broth
1/4 cup dry white wine or apple juice
1 cup half-and-half
Watercress sprigs for garnish (optional)
Sauté onion and curry powder in butter. Add peas, carrots and beef broth. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Puree in blender or food processor until smooth. Chill. Just before serving add wine and half-and-half. Strain if desired. (May be served hot.) Garnish with watercress. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 to 5 servings.

ONION BREAD PUDDING

1 stick butter
1 Tbsp corn oil
8 cups thinly sliced onions
1/4 cup dry vermouth
1 large clove garlic, split
6 ounces stale crusty French bread, cut into 1-inch chunks
2 cups grated Gruyere cheese
3 eggs
2 cups half-and-half
Salt and freshly ground black pepper
Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. In a heavy pot, melt 4 tablespoons of butter with the corn oil. Toss in the onions, cover and steam over low heat for 15 minutes.

Uncover the pot, raise the heat to medium and cook onions occasionally, until the onions are deeply browned and caramelized. Pour in the vermouth and boil until the liquid cooks away, scraping the bottom of the pot with a wooden spoon all the while.

Choose a shallow round 1 1/2-quart gratin dish. Rub it thoroughly with the cut sides of the garlic clove. Discard the garlic. Toss the bread and onions together, then spread them in the gratin dish. Melt the remaining butter and pour it over the bread. Sprinkle on the grated cheese.

Beat the eggs lightly and beat in the half-and-half. Season to taste with salt and black pepper. Pour the mixture evenly over the bread and cheese. Press the bread into the liquid with a spatula.

Let stand for at least an hour. (The gratin may be covered and refrigerated overnight, as long as it is brought to room temperature before cooking.) Bake for 30 to 40 minutes, until set, puffed and golden brown. Serve at once. Serves 6.

1/4 cup diced cooked green beans
1/4 cup sweet gherkins, cut in julienne strips
1 cup skim milk
Heat oil over low heat; add onion and cook until tender. Blend in flour. Gradually add broth and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Stir in remaining ingredients. Cook, stirring frequently, until heated. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings; 140 calories per serving.

2 tablespoons sweet pickle liquid
Dash oregano
In electric blender, blend half of the ingredients until almost smooth. Pour into bowl. Repeat with remaining ingredients. Chill thoroughly. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings; 50 calories per serving.

Here's To Your Health

Eating A Banana A Day May Keep Strokes Away

According to the United Fruit Company, New York City, a new research study hails bananas as an important preventative measure in reducing the risk of death from stroke. Even one extra serving of fresh fruit such as a banana can cut the danger by 40%, because of the bonus of potassium in a pleasant easy-to-eat form.

Dr. Elizabeth Barrett-Connor and her colleagues at the Department of Family Medicine, University of California at La Jolla, reported in the Jan. 29, New England Journal of Medicine, that their 12-year study of 859 men and women in Southern California had revealed this astonishing phenomenon. Strokes are the third leading cause of death in the United States and one of the most feared reasons for disability among American middle-aged and elderly people.

The problem of strokes has long been associated with hypertension. It's commonly treated with diuretic medication which depletes the body's store of potassium. So even now, many doctors recommend a banana a day to their patients. This latest research indicates that the protective effect of potassium in natural form is much greater than the relationship of the mineral and blood pressure alone.

In actual fact, the study showed there is little correlation between decreased risk of stroke and many of the factors traditionally associated with this danger. Dr. Barrett-Connor's group adjusted all their data to consider intake of total calories, of fat both saturated and polyunsaturated, calcium, magnesium and potassium, as cited as important in previous works. Potassium was the ONLY nutrient which consistently and significantly related to the subsequent reduction of deaths due to strokes. Researchers also found the preventative value of potassium was independent of other cardiovascular risk factors including age, sex, blood cholesterol levels, obesity, blood glucose levels, even the incidence of smoking.

How much potassium was needed to yield this exciting protective response?

Surprisingly, they found that the addition of a single serving of a potassium rich fruit per day was enough to make the difference. And bananas are one of the few widely available fresh fruits with a natural balance of potassium to sodium in a food of reasonably moderate calorie content.

What is this wonderful nutrient and how does it work in your body?

Certain mineral salts in foods are called electrolytes. These have the ability to both dissolve in water and to separate into their electrically charged particles. Thus they can carry on essential electrical charge to control many nerve and muscle reactions including regulating the heart beat.

One of these electrolytes is sodium chloride, which we all know Americans consume in far too great amounts. What's even more important is that sodium must be balanced by enough potassium to maintain these vital controls. A Chiquita banana, for example contains 440 milligrams of potassium to one mg. of sodium, nature's way of balancing electrolytes in a proper ratio.

Another job these electrolytes perform is maintaining the proper flow of fluids throughout the cells. Each of our body's trillions of cells is constantly bathed in fluid with two way traffic through the cells' membranes. Blood, oxygen and nutrients are delivered and waste products removed by the electrolytes. If too little fluid is left in a cell it will dehydrate; if too much is sent, too fast, the cell walls could burst. The balance of the electrolyte fluids is critical to performance.

Since Americans eat far too much sodium in table salt and processed foods and or bodies can only store a small amount of potassium, we must consume potassium rich foods such as bananas every day for good

Recent medical research claims a banana a day helps to eliminate risk of death from stroke. Eat a banana or enjoy bananas in health. Now we have an even more vital reason, in light of the new evidence about prevention of death due to strokes.

The recommended daily dietary range for potassium is very broad, from 1800 to 5600 mg. In the past it was thought that the lower amount was adequate and would be supplied by the conventional well-rounded diet. Considering the new research it is certainly prudent for all Americans, regardless of age or circumstances to consume extra potassium in the fresh food they eat daily.

Potassium supplements in pill form are not recommended unless one is under a doctor's direct care. In any case they taste terrible and are very hard on digestion. Astronauts discovered this early in space flights when they tried potassium substitutes and became ill in orbit!

The best and the easiest way to enjoy this healthful protection is to add an extra banana every day along with a normal diet. In addition to its rich source of potassium, you'll be getting vitamins A, C, B1, B2, B6 and fiber as well as moderate calories. And they taste great.

When ready to serve, sprinkle with chopped parsley.
