Officials consider new budget plan

By Christopher Patton Staff Writer

SANFORD — After Gov. Jeb Bush released Tuesday his new $48.7 billion state budget plan, local government and school officials began assessing the potential impacts.

Although they will have to wait for final approval from the legislature in mid-March, the governor's proposal gives them a sneak preview to the possible levels of funding.

"It's a continuation type of budget, we anticipated that it would be," said John Smith, assistant director of legislative affairs for the Florida League of Cities.

The bare bones state budget plan reflects only a 1 percent

Bush's 'bare bones' state financial plan means more cuts for schools increase over this year's budget. The majority of the new state dollars will only help reestablish the lost funds the state legislature had to cut in December because of slumping tax revenues.

"There's no real surprises so far," Smith said. "We did not expect any new monies or programs because of the economy's shape."

Seminole County Manager Kevin Grace also said there appears to be few surprises. One item he said that sparked his interest was the proposed raise in the $300 property-tax exemption for disabled veterans. Bush's proposal would raise the exemption to $5,000 and push the extra costs off to the cities and counties.

The Seminole County School Board could be the lone county entity severely impacted by the new budget plan. The Board could begin cutting as early as Tuesday's meeting, said John Pavelchak, executive director of finance and budget for the county's schools.

Although Bush proposes to raise education funding by about 3 percent for the additional

Proposal could mean no large grants for local governments

By Dan Ping Editor

SANFORD — Cities and counties hoping to lure state money for local projects might find better odds buying tickets in Saturday night's $77 million lottery instead of relying on the state legislature.

With a stagnant economy and the tourism industry still reeling from the Sept. 11 attacks, legislators aren't expected to appropriate large grants for local governments, like the $3.5 million grant Sanford received last year for its Riverwalk project. In fact, Gov. Jeb Bush's proposed budget calls for a modest 1 percent increase over last year's budget.

"Slim and none," said Larry Dale, president of Orlando Sanford International Airport, when asked about large budget outlays for local entities. "Anybody out there hoping to get a pot full of money will be

Cowart receives first-degree murder indictment from grand jury

A Seminole County grand jury indicted Thursday Charles E. Cowart Jr., 52, of Longwood on a charge of premeditated first-degree murder.

Cowart is charged in the Dec. 18 strangulation of his wife, Cathy Ann Cowart, 36. He is being held in the Seminole County Jail, said Assistant State Attorney Jim Carter.

The jury heard from two witnesses: an investigator with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office and an associate medical examiner. A first-degree murder conviction could translate into life in prison or a death sentence.

Judge grants continuation of Florida Power case

By Christopher Patton Staff Writer

SANFORD — Eighteenth Judicial Circuit Judge Gene Stephenson granted a continuation of the Longwood v. Florida Power case that was expected to begin Thursday.

The trial is to determine if the city has the right to purchase the Florida Power's distribution system in the city. The judge will also rule if a city ordinance stating that any electrical company using the city right-of-ways must fork over 6 percent of their revenues as franchise fees is legal.

"I think, and I may be in error on this, but all Florida Power is trying to do is stall," said City Commissioner Butch Bundy said. "It gives them more time so they can build sympathy or public support."

Longwood commissioners in July agreed to move forward with legal proceedings against Florida Power, after the electricity provider and city couldn't agree on a new franchise contract. Angry city officials said the power company refused to honor a right to buy clause in the old contract or place the clause in a new agreement.

Bundy said although the right to buy clause was important, he had many more concerns with signing a new franchise agreement. The "reliability factor" of

International dancers send ballet shoes to students

By Michelle Jeria Managing Editor

Midway Elementary School fourth- and fifth-grade students in Barbara Riggins' ballet class received some "pointers" Thursday from a group of world-class dancers — 25 to be exact.

Five principal ballerinas from Germany's Hamburg Ballet sent the students point shoes to encourage an international appreciation of their art. Each dancer, including Niurka Moredo, Joelle Boulogne, Silvia Azzoni, Heather Jurgensen and Anna Polikarpova, sent the class five pairs of shoes signed by themselves, along with the message, "Remember to love what you are doing, and give it everything you've got."

"The students were so excited," Riggins said. "They knew they received something from Germany, but I didn't tell them what it was until today."

Thursday's surprise gift is just one way Riggins has directly or indirectly

Reptile outlet OK'ed in Sanford

By Dan Ping Editor

SANFORD — The Planning and Zoning Commission approved a conditional use for a reptile wholesaler that will bring as many as 10,000 reptiles and spiders to downtown Sanford.

Joe Krefetz, owner of JP Pets, applied for the conditional use after code enforcement officers responded in November to complaints about animal feces being washed down the alley.

Krefetz denied the accusation and officers never cited him. City officials determined, however, the business was in violation of zoning regulations. JP Pets raises and stores thousands of reptiles to sell to other dealers. The business is located at 210 and 212 Sanford Avenue and is zoned SC-3 Special Commercial Zoning District, which does not allow wholesale and storage operations.

The city also discovered Krefetz did not have an occupational license for the business. Krefetz claims it was an oversight because he was in the process of moving his business from 2920 S. Orlando Drive to the Sanford Avenue location.

"I did not apply for the license until September, and it had to go

Seminole deputies searching for suspects in near fatal shooting

By Christopher Patton Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County deputies are seeking suspects involved in a Wednesday night shooting of a store clerk.

At 1920 Southwest Rd., just outside of the Sanford city limits, deputies responded to a robbery at 7:45 p.m., and found Southwest Food Market clerk Kim Di Dong, 24, of Sanford shot in the head. Dong, whose immediate family resides in Korea, was airlifted to the Orlando Regional Medical Center by helicopter, where he is listed in critical condition.

According to Steve Olson, sheriff's office spokesman, investigators have been unable to interview Dong because of his condition. Police believe there is only one other eyewitness to the near fatal shooting.

According to the police report, the witness told deputies he was in the rear of the store when he heard a male voice state "every one get down." Dropping to the floor, the Sanford man said he caught a glimpse of one of the subject's. The eyewitness stated in the police report the subject had a light colored cloth wrapped around his face, covering from the bridge of his nose down.

The witness also said he heard the racking sound of a shotgun and the blast that happened shortly afterward. What the eyewitness said next has police believing there are two or more subjects involved in the crime. The eyewitness told deputies he heard a male voice state "check him, check him," in reference to himself.

"What makes us think there is two because the witness heard one man yell to another," Olson said.

One of the subjects then started to grab the witness's clothing around his neck, but then another subject stated "Let's go here comes county!" Deputies didn't arrive until minutes later, but other concerned customers did approach the store.

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Mom distraught by emotional tie to son's teen-age friend

DEAR ABBY: I have had an unusually close bond with my son's best friend, "Chad." We talk several times a week and enjoy each other's company. Chad is 17. I am 45. He has always made me feel special.

Dear Abby

Recently I chaperoned a school dance, and he was there. While checking the back hallway, I saw him kissing a girl. I was stunned by my reaction. I broke down in front of them. I sobbed like a teenager whose boyfriend was cheating on her. Other students and adults also witnessed my unfortunate display of emotions. Now I am afraid to talk with Chad -- and he's made no effort to call me.

Abby, I honestly don't know how to explain myself. I am afraid this will affect Chad's friendship with my son, as well. I do not want to lose my relationship with this wonderful young man, whom I dearly love. What do I do now?

EMOTIONAL MOM IN PASADENA, CALIF.

DEAR EMOTIONAL MOM: I think you have done enough. It's time to put some distance between you and this lad. You didn't mention whether or not you have a husband. If you are single, it's time to concentrate your energies on someone closer to your own age.

DEAR ABBY: The "Are You an Alcoholic?" test you printed listing 12 questions was good as far as it went -- but it didn't go far enough. I'm sure that anyone who was raised by, or married to, or has a friend who is an alcoholic cringed when they read it.

Where were these questions: When you take one or two drinks, can you stop and walk away? Have you ever embarrassed yourself or someone else when drinking? Do you drink every day? How many times in the last month have you awakened with a hangover? Do you spend money you don't have on alcohol? Has this affected your sleeping habits? (Do you pass out, get a drink in the middle of the night, or wet the bed when you sleep because of alcohol?)

There are many "working" alcoholics and many who don't work -- mostly women -- because they are financially able not to. I know, because between parents, a husband and a good friend, I have experienced it all.

Please rethink your test and add these questions.

BEEN THERE IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR BEEN THERE: I'll do that. And thank you for the valuable input.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to add a thought to David Broome's words of encouragement to "Scared About the New Job." He said, "Never be afraid to try something new. Remember, amateurs built the ark. Professionals built the Titanic."

While I appreciate his sentiment and completely agree with his contrasting the success of the ark to that of the Titanic, I must point out that the success of the ark was not due to its contractor, but to its architect.

GARY SHIRLEY, OCEAN SPRINGS, MISS.

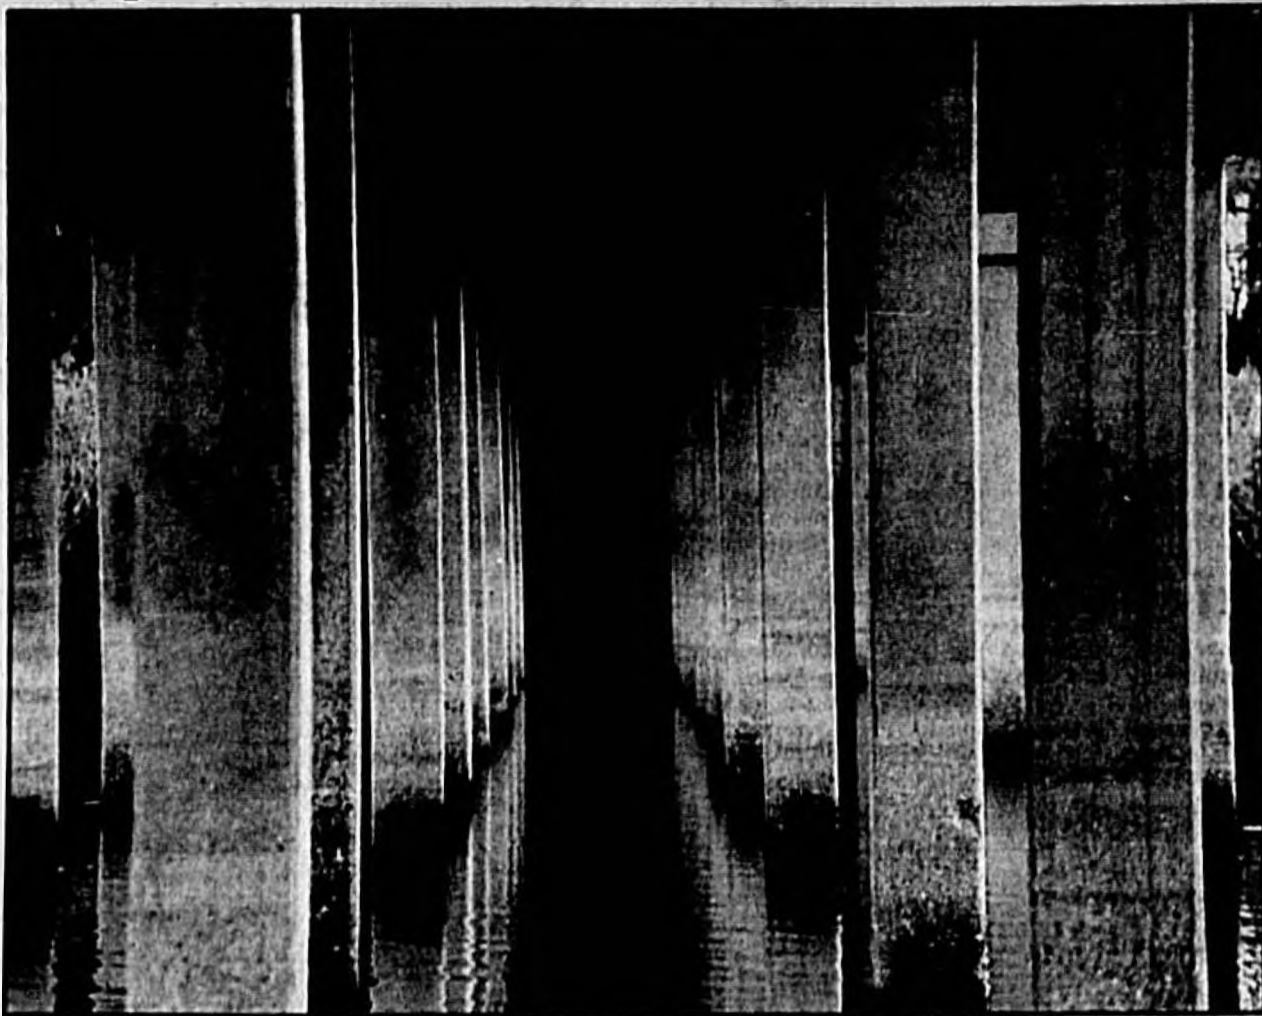

DEAR GARY: I'm pleased to "float" your theory.

Marijuana Possession

Seminole Deputy Robert Futch arrested Sean Moore, 31, of Longwood Thursday for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. While doing traffic control for an accident, near Charles and Lake Brantley Road, Moore reportedly tried to go around marked patrol vehicles to get around the accident. When deputies stopped Moore, they allegedly observed, in plain view, a smoking marijuana bowl in the console. A small bag of marijuana was recovered from his front pants pocket and a second bag underneath the driver's seat. A small glass bowl was located in the center console. Deputies found one marijuana roach on the floorboard of the vehicle and another in the ashtray.

Seminole Deputy John Hawkins arrested Vivian Goldstein, 38, of Lake Mary Tuesday for possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia. The deputy stopped Goldstein for a traffic infraction, but when he made contact with her he noticed in plain view a bag of marijuana in her opened purse.

Agents of the sheriff's office City/County Investigative Bureau (CCIB) executed a search warrant at 1500 Jay Street Tuesday and recovered cannabis in different areas of the home, a partially smoked marijuana cigar and assorted drug paraphernalia. Agents arrested residents Amanda Travers, 18, and Eric McIntosh, 20, on charges of marijuana possession and drug paraphernalia.

Agents of the CCIB executed a search warrant at 551 Pasadena Ave. in Longwood Tuesday and recovered several baggies containing marijuana, partially smoked cannabis cigarettes, a large amount of small baggies with suspected cannabis residue and several pieces of drug paraphernalia including a three-foot water bong. Agents arrested residents Christina Jung, 18, Harold Irwin, 39, and Deborah Mullins, 36, on the charges of marijuana possession and drug paraphernalia. Non-resident Carlos Flores, 24, of Longwood was also arrested on the same charges.

CCIB visits the Circus
Agents of the CCIB conducted an undercover operation Thursday targeting persons violating state statues and the county's adult entertainment ordinances at Circus Circus on U.S. Highway 17/92 in Fern Park.

Agents arrested Marie Ouellette, 21, of Apopka for exposing an anatomical area during a private dance and asking an undercover agent to buy a liquor drink for her.

Mary Scholz, 23, of Orlando was arrested for intentionally touching an agent's groin area with her buttocks during a private dance. That practice is outlawed by a county ordinance on straddle dancing.

Jessica Springston, 19, of Eustis was arrested for intentionally touching an agent's groin area with her buttocks, exposing her anatomical area during a private dance, for rubbing an agent's thigh, for rubbing the anatomical area and breast of another co-worker, and asking an agent to buy her a drink.

Candace Lebrasseur, 25, of Court West was arrested for allowing another co-worker to rub her left breast and anatomical area and asking an undercover agent to buy her a drink.

Carolyn Montalvo, 24, of Winter Park was arrested for intentionally touching two agents groin areas with her hand, for rubbing two agents' inner thigh areas and asking an undercover agent three separate times for him to buy her a drink.

Contributing to the delinquency of a minor

Seminole Deputy David Kohn arrested Scott Dowling, 27, and Chadwick Anderson, 22, both of Sanford, Thursday for contributing to the delinquency of a minor and giving alcoholic beverages to minors. After serving them alcoholic beverages, the two suspects reportedly had sexual intercourse with a co-worker's two daughters in their mid to early teens.

Suspended License
Winter Springs Officer J. Rice arrested Kevin Riddley, 40, of Longwood Wednesday for driving on a suspended license. Officers stopped Riddley for driving a night without the headlights of his vehicle activated.

Sanford Officer Douglas Schlim arrested Melvin Bell, 53, of Sanford Monday for driving with a suspended license and counterfeiting a license plate validation sticker.

DUI

Sanford Officer Bill Erwin arrested Robert Cowan, 41, of Sanford Wednesday for driving under the influence and reckless driving. Breathalyzer tests at the jail revealed a blood alcohol content of about .272.

Possession of a Controlled Substance

Winter Springs Officer Dula arrested Megan Jackson, 18, of Winter Springs Tuesday for possession of a controlled substance and drug paraphernalia, resisting an officer and tampering with physical evidence. Responding to a domestic disturbance, officers were investigating the scene when they asked Jackson a question and she answered in a muffled voice. She apparently was hiding a plastic bag of about 15 to 20 pills of Xanax in her mouth.

Sex Assault

Seminole Investigator Kreig Raffety arrested Neil Raghooananan, 25, of Longwood Tuesday for having unlawful sexual intercourse with a minor. The victim reported to police that she met the suspect over the Internet. After talking to him several times, he arrived at her residence and entered through her bedroom window.

Shoplifting

Sanford Officer Terry Mullins arrested Jason Hendricks, 27, of Sanford Monday for shoplifting. According to the police report, Hendricks tried to steal a camcorder battery valued at $56 from the Orlando Drive Wal-Mart. He reportedly tried to conceal the battery by placing it down his pants.

Sanford Officer Terry Mullins arrested Keitha Ware, 32, of Sanford Monday for shoplifting. She reportedly tried to steal $37 worth of items from the Orlando Drive Wal-Mart.

DALE E. BLUNDELL
Dale E. Blundell, 73, of Falmouth Avenue, Deltona, died Monday, Jan. 14, 2002, in his residence.

Born in Superior, Wis., he moved to Central Florida from Miami in 1978. He was a retired master electrician, who was self-employed for 45 years. He loved golf, the Miami Dolphins, water sports and woodcrafting. He was of the Lutheran faith.

Pat's back Buchanan and the death of Western Civilization

Welcome home, Pat, even if you don't think much of the old place anymore.

Patrick Buchanan lives in the spotlight, and he or it had moved away after his embarrassing run for president in the 2000 election. But now he's about to go on stage again, this time with a book well timed to be both a best seller and the center of an angry argument on television and other places where hyped controversy is king. "The Death of the West" is the name of the book, and the first advertisements by St. Martin's Press give you the general idea, saying:

Richard Reeves

..... "Can our America survive? ... Our Borders Opened. Our Country Invaded. Our Culture Destroyed. Our Heroes Defiled. Our Values Assaulted. Our God Dethroned."

Buchanan has been collecting his thoughts on the foreigners among us for more than 40 years, and now he seems to have distilled them down to this: Get rid of the foreigners and start having children, America. Christian children. Or else, get out, or prepare to be a slave to the races bred in Mongolia or someplace else in the Middle Ages.

I have tracked Buchanan's passion — he is as consistent and honest as he is wrong — since his days in the White House of Richard Nixon. Back then he kept the president apprised of the latest news on genetic determination, passing along the thoughts of Richard Herrnstein, a sociologist who argued in the late 1960s that the poverty of American blacks was a simple and inevitable result of God-given lower IQs than whites.

"Basically," Buchanan wrote then in private memos to Nixon, "it demonstrates that heredity, rather than environment, determines intelligence. ... The importance of this article (in the Atlantic Monthly of September 1971) is difficult to overstate. ... Every study we have shows blacks 15 IQ points below whites on average. ... If there is no refutation, then it seems to me that a lot of what we are doing in terms of integration of blacks and whites — but, even more so, poor and well-to-do — is less likely to result in accommodation than it is in perpetual friction."

(Nixon did not reject those ideas or Buchanan's analysis, but he thought his young assistant went too far. In 1982, the former president told me that he did indeed believe blacks were inferior to whites — and whites inferior to Asians — but that he believed American blacks had to be moved up economically regardless of qualification if that was required to maintain national harmony and reduce the risks of racial violence.)

Now, Buchanan is taking on the world — and taking on the 30 million foreign-born people in the United States, along with perhaps 9 million illegal immigrants, saying they will destroy homegrown Christian culture. He is particularly agitated that there are now more Muslims than Roman Catholics in the world, and they are having more children than Europeans and old-stock Americans. His language is colorful: "Historians may one day call 'the pill' the suicide tablet of the West. ... Those celebrating diversity now will spend their golden years in a Third World America."

Buchanan, I know, is a true believer that these people will destroy Western civilization, just as some of my Anglo-Saxon Protestant forebears believed that large Irish-Catholic families with children named Patrick would be the death of America. Now it is his turn to fear foreigners and their ideas, as he said in an interview with Washington Post Online: "The Christian faith, which I believe is the immune system of the West, is rapidly dying in Europe and the United States, and it's an almost absolute correlation that when faith dies, people die ..."

Leaving aside the fact that his rhetoric is close to a mirror image of that of a certain Saudi Arabian we are hunting down right now, Buchanan backs up his ideas with United Nations statistics indicating that Westerners are not producing the 2.1 children per couple needed to maintain constant population — the current Western child production is estimated at 1.4 per couple — while the darker folks of Asia and Africa are producing as many as six to eight children per couple.

It all sounds a little dire to me — intermarriage and assimilation are pretty strong social forces, too — but if Pat is right this time, I guess we'll all just have to jump in bed and do or die for Christ and flag.

The two black America's' grow increasingly apart

Here in the early morning of the 21st century, it does not seem farfetched to imagine a black president of the United States, a black president of Harvard University, a black owner of the Los Angeles Dodgers, the team that, as the Brooklyn Dodgers, hired the first black player in Major League Baseball.

The stature and influence of people such as Colin Powell and Richard Parsons, CEO of AOL Time Warner, argue that even greater days are not far off. Even more telling is the fact that the success of those and other black Americans seems so unremarkable.

Unremarkable, that is, to the well-heeled and well-connected members of America's black middle class, now accustomed to the idea of ever greater strides in education, income and achievement.

To black children in the ghetto, however, Powell and Parsons might as well be from another planet. They could be white or Asian or Martian, for that matter, given their cultural distance from the black children stranded on the other side of the class divide.

It has become increasingly difficult to discuss black America — mostly because there is no such place, racially or culturally. The good news is that African-Americans are no longer forced by legal segregation to communicate only with each other. The bad news is that African-Americans no longer communicate with each other. There are two black Americas, one prosperous and mainstream, one trapped in the futility and self-destruction of ghetto culture.

Neither is immune to the harshness or hatred of racism. Neither a Ph.D. nor a Prada purse is a shield against the hostile assumptions held by many of their white countrymen. But education goes a very long way in America, enabling the black middle class to make strides despite the continuing, though diminishing, influence of race.

Take a look at income statistics released with the 2000 U.S. census. Though the median income for black households — $30,439 — still lags well behind that of white households — $44,226 — the gap narrowed considerably during the Clinton years of widespread prosperity. It was during that period that many women previously stuck on welfare found work; it was also during that period that the percentage of blacks living below the poverty level dropped to its lowest historical level, about 28 percent.

But the more complex and interesting story is the gap between blacks at the bottom and those at the top. There are an estimated 450,000 black households with incomes at the unimaginable rock bottom of $2,500 a year; but there are also an estimated 450,000 black households with incomes between $40,000 and $43,000 annually. It is hard to imagine that those two groups have much in common.

Or consider this divergence: While there are an estimated 744,000 black households with annual incomes between $5,000 and $7,500 a year, another 815,000 black households have annual incomes of $100,000 a year or more. It is unlikely that the two groups experience America's racial divide in quite the same way.

Here is a snapshot of the same phenomenon in more personal terms: My 3-year-old niece counts, sings the alphabet, and recites her home telephone number and address, which isn't surprising since both of her parents hold advanced degrees. By contrast, I know a 9-year-old Atlanta girl, born in the city's worst ghetto, who does not know her home telephone number. No matter how much the 9-year-old is tutored or taken to museums, she will never inhabit the same universe as my niece. The gap in household educational levels and cultural exposure is too great.

When Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated in 1968, he had just embarked on what might have been his greatest crusade: a war on poverty. Since his death, the divide between the haves and have-nots has only hardened, with poor black children adopting a self-destructive culture that disdains scholarship, and with affluent black adults frustrated by failed attempts to reform inner-city schools. Building bridges out of the ghetto remains the challenge for those who would follow King's path.

George W. Bush: One year down, three (or seven) to go

During his first year as president, George W. Bush has brought honor and decency back to the White House by treating his office as public property to be tenderly guarded and respected, not as his personal spoil of political war. That he is not Bill Clinton would have been enough to carry Bush through most of his first year in office. The public needed a rest from Clinton's tabloid behavior and serial lying. But the war on terrorism has revealed a depth in this president that's surprised opponents and delighted supporters.

Like Ronald Reagan, Bush has been comfortable enough in his own skin to surround himself with intelligent and experienced people. When they look good, they make Bush look good. Also, like Reagan, Bush has focused on one theme at a time. The war on terrorism has energized the public and Bush is using their attention to lead on other issues.

Many in the media are surprised that Bush has done in office (or tried to do) what he pledged he would during the campaign. While some compromises have been necessary due to the makeup of Congress (and others, like school choice, were jettisoned before they had a chance to be properly debated), Bush has mostly moved his agenda forward. Now if he'd only go after the easy targets of government waste, fraud and abuse.

Democrats have been trying to find something - anything - with which to whittle away at Bush's sustained popularity (83 percent in the latest USA Today/Gallup/CNN Poll). They realize that many who voted against Bush, especially the Democrats' core constituency of blacks, women and Hispanics, are taking another look and like what they see. According to a Los Angeles Times Poll in November, Hispanic support for Bush had jumped to 89 percent, a 30-point gain from July.

That figure not only reflects Hispanic support for Bush's handling of the war but his proposals to jump-start the economy. A Gallup Poll taken found that within one month of the terrorist attack, President Bush's approval among African-Americans had soared to 70 percent, its highest ever. Various surveys have shown that women, for the first time in many years, support a war in the same percentages as men. Without a majority of these key constituencies, Democrats can't win elections.

An important component of Bush's performance as president is his strong religious faith, something he shares with average voters than media types and academic elites, who often disdain such things. Those who don't share his faith, or its depth, seem to appreciate that Bush consistently tries to reflect in his life what is in his heart and spirit.

All of this goodness will amount to little politically unless the president stops trying to win over Democrats and starts rolling over them.

In an "open letter" to Bush, Paul Weyrich, who heads the conservative Free Congress Foundation and has one of the better political minds in Washington, warns the president that today's Democrats are a different breed from those of a generation ago. It will do no good to praise them publicly, says Weyrich, when privately they're doing everything they can to "stab you in the back."

Unless Bush begins to draw sharp distinctions between the parties to attract the all-important swing voters, Weyrich warns, Democrats could win back the House and pad their one-vote Senate lead. If they do, he predicts, "they will use their subpoena power to make your life miserable. They will see that you accomplish nothing. Then they will turn around and accuse you of being a do-nothing president."

The first year of the Bush presidency has been a triumph. He must use the months leading up to the November election to convince voters he needs a GOP majority in both houses of Congress. Unless he gets it, the last two years of this term will find Bush working to fight off Democrats, not advancing his agenda, and there might not be a second term.

First Baptist Church celebrates 118th anniversary on Jan. 27

By Grace Marie Stinecpher
Herald Correspondent

The First Baptist Church of Sanford, a Southern Baptist Church, will celebrate its 118th anniversary on Sunday, Jan. 27. All former members and friends are invited to attend.

The highlight of the celebration will be a reunion concert by the 1976 Youth Choir that afternoon. Charles "Blimp" Davis, minister of music at the time (1973-77) will direct the choir. The Rev. Davis is currently an associate director of the Church Music Department for the Florida Baptist Convention.

On Friday and Saturday, the choir will be practicing and also enjoying fellowship together. They will gather at Don Beverly's home Saturday evening for an evening of food and fun.

Their practice will result in the presentation of the musical "Life" at 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon. This group presented this musical 26 years ago. The majority of the group also participated in the Southern Baptist Convention Youth Choir Fest at Ridgecrest in June 1976.

At the 10:30 a.m. worship service, former staff members and other former members and guests will be recognized. The Youth Choir will sing as will the church's present Celebration Choir. A history of the church will be presented, old favorite hymns will be sung, and there will be a sermon by pastor Rick Blythe.

Following the service, there will be dinner on the grounds in Fellowship Hall of the Memorial Education Building.

The Heritage Room which contains many historical items, will be open throughout the day. Some of the items on display are the first minute book, articles of incorporation, the communion service, trophies, programs and pictures.

Church History

A Regular Baptist Church was founded on Feb. 3, 1884 with 18 charter members. The first meeting place was in the Sanford Town Hall, which was located north of Commercial Street on Palmetto Avenue. J.W. Butts, pastor of the Orlando Baptist Church, assisted in the organization and was called to be the first pastor on a part-time basis.

Services were later moved to a school building on Palmetto Avenue at 6th Street. The one lot at Park Avenue and 6th Street was donated by the Florida Land and Colonization Company of London, and a wooden church building was built there and occupied by 1885.

The church was admitted into the Wekiva Baptist Association on Sept. 28, 1884, at which time it was also affiliated with the Florida Baptist Convention. In 1914, the church became a charter member of the present Seminole Association. On June, 20, 1917, the church was incorporated as First Baptist Church of Sanford.

The former brick sanctuary was completed in 1920 and the Memorial Educational Building in 1950.

Surrounding houses were gradually acquired during the 1950s and 1960s and were used as space for a growing Sunday School. These were torn down for the new education building, which was completed in 1966. In 1972, it was named the Fred B. Chance Memorial Education Building following the untimely death of this beloved pastor. The Youth Activities Building was built in 1983.

First Baptist has sponsored five missions which became churches in the years indicated: Southside (now Central) in 1938; Elder Springs (now Victory, an independent Baptist) in 1957; Pinecrest in 1957; Oaklawn (now Westview) in 1965; and Lake Mary (now Celebration) in 1983.

Sixteen ministers have been ordained by the church and 18 persons have been licensed. There have been many others go into full-time Christian service through the years. One of the church's many strengths has always been its generosity to both Southern Baptist Missions and local mission efforts.

After many years of purchasing property for parking, planning and prayer, ground was broken on Feb. 6, 1994 for the new sanctuary. The first service in this long-dreamed-of sanctuary was Aug. 27, 1995. The church body had chosen many years ago to remain in historic downtown Sanford because it was felt that this was its place of ministry.

First Baptist has had 28 pastors, pictures of which are in permanent display in the chapel. The present pastor, Rick Blythe, began his ministry April 15, 2001, after serving as interim pastor for a year.

 students learn and appreciate the fine arts.
 "When I retired from the Southern Ballet Theatre, I went to the Seminole County School System and asked them if they could use me," Riggins said.

She was a perfect fit for Midway, which is the magnet school for students interested in all aspects of the visual and performing arts. During her tenure at the school, Riggins has given the students a chance to meet and communicate with professional dancers from throughout the world, including her son, Lloyd Riggins, who came up with the idea of sending the point shoes to the students.

In August, Lloyd and his wife, Niurka Moredo — both dancers for the Hamburg Ballet — visited Riggins' ballet class. According to Riggins, it was a great experience for both the students and her son and daughter-in-law.

"The students were amazed with the dancing," she said. "And, Lloyd and his wife left with a better understanding of what I do."

When Lloyd returned to Germany, he asked several of his fellow principal dancers to send five pairs of their point shoes to the Midway students. He wanted the young prodigies to have a souvenir from the international world of ballet, Riggins said.

When the students opened their packages on Thursday, several tried on the shoes, while others held them in their hands as if they were precious jewels.

"I love them so much," said fifth-grader Joanna Golde, who received her point shoes from Italian dancer Silvia Azzoni. "This is one of the best gifts I've ever received."

Minutes after she opened the package, Golde, an aspiring dancer, had decided what she was going to do with the shoes. "Even though I am not going to wear them, I am going to put them on a shelf so I can always see them."

Florida Power

 Florida Power is a topic commissioners talked about frequently, said Bundy.

"It seems like every times it storms the power goes out about an hour or so," Bundy said.

A nearby neighbor of Bundy's, Leighsah Jones at 1406 Wren Court, knows all about service troubles with Florida Power. At the last commission meeting, Jones spoke to commissioners about the slow response of Florida Power.

On New Year's Day Jones said she started noticing her home's lights flickering on and off. Apparently a service line was burning down the cul-de-sac, and had already claimed power at two homes farther up the line.

Losing power turned out to be least of Jones' problems. While attempting to reconnect the electricity, a power surge was sent through her home. The damage included two televisions, two cordless phones, a cable box, a portable stereo and an expensive home alarm and fire protection system.

"That's not even the problem," Jones said about the power surge. "I'm in construction myself, and I understand you're going to have those 'Oh — moments.'"

The problem occurred when Jones, using her cell phone, called Florida Power's customer service and a representative said someone would call back in a week to discuss the problem. The madness escalated as she also discovered during the digging to restore the power, workers had cut the telephone and cable lines.

"It was a comedy of errors," she said. "Neither one (phone or cable) would come out to fix the problem until Florida Power was done because of their reputation."

As of Friday, Jones said Florida Power has still not repaired the damaged televisions, cordless phones or alarm system. Her cable and Internet line was just reconnected Wednesday and she was without a phone line for four days, she said. On top of that, her yard is in disarray from all the digging.

"I want to ensure my position on this is quite clear," Jones stated in a letter to the city commission. "After experiencing their version of customer service in handling what has become a major problem for me, I am definitely in support of opening the field to competition."

Budget

 72,000 expected to attend state schools, Pavelchak said that additional money only offsets the legislature's cut from the budget during last year's special session.

With the "flat funding" proposed budget, Pavelchak said the board will need to cut funding in other areas to accommodate the

2,055 new students expected in the county. He said board members at their Tuesday meeting could be "looking to make some cuts at the district level."

The possible preliminary cuts could effect the schools, but not directly, as administration personnel will be the focus. It's still early in the budget process and, beyond preliminary observations, schools still need to find how the proposed level of funding will effect each school program.

More school cuts may not occur until later because it's hard to predict what the legislature will do once in session, said Pavelchak.

 sorely disappointed."

Dale said the airport was scaling back its legislative priorities. Officials had identified four areas — a new parking garage, a state loan extension, environmental remediation, and construction of a maintenance hanger and reservation center for Pan Am — to pursue in the upcoming session. That list has been cut in half, Dale said, with the loan extension and the new construction as the top priorities.

"We think we've got a pretty good chance on both," Dale said.

The airport is asking for $7.6 million in construction money for the Pan Am maintenance hanger and reservation center through the Transportation Outreach Program (TOP). Dale thinks because the project would bring in 150 new jobs to Sanford, legislators may be inclined to fund it.

Dale said the airport is also asking the legislature to push back the due date on a $1.5 million loan the state gave the airport in 1992. The no-interest loan is due August 2002, but Dale would like to push the deadline back to 2008 when the airport's other loans from the state are due.

"It's not going to cost the state any money to extend it," Dale said.

While the state may agree to extend the due date, Sanford Mayor Brady Lessard predicts there will not be a lot of money available for cities to borrow.

"All the cities may see changes in the state's revolving loan program," Lessard said. "Historically, the state has provided loans on extremely favorable terms to cities and counties for local projects. I don't think the state is going to be making as many loans as they have in the past."

Like the airport, the city is scaling back its expectations for state funding, Lessard said.

"The only thing we're going to concentrate on is the land the Department of Agriculture has," Lessard said.

The city wants to obtain land behind the state farmer's market to build a new police and fire headquarters. Preliminary discussions with the state are optimistic, Lessard said, primarily because the city is not asking for "new" money.

"It would be nice if they would deed us the property," Lessard said. "That's not an expenditure in terms of dollars."

The city is "pursuing a couple of angles" for a community center near the Historic Sanford Memorial Stadium, Lessard said, "but we haven't focused on anything specific."

"You've got to remember, Sanford has been fortunate the last couple of years in the amount of money the state has provided for local initiatives," Lessard said. "Combine that with this economy, and you realize that we have to scale back on some things."

Shooting

 Vincent Butler of Sanford said he was playing a Playstation game with some friends at a nearby Strickland Avenue residence when another acquaintance entered the home slating the store clerk had been shot.

"We thought he was lying," Butler said. "We went up there to see what was going. The man was shot, lying there on the floor."

Butler said there was "quite a few" people that accompanied him to the store and one of them called 911.

"He was a nice guy," Butler said about the store clerk. "It was really uncalled for — it was senseless."

before the Planning and Zoning board," Krefetz said. "There was a long, on-going discussion with Russ Gibson before the application could be accepted."

Gibson, the city's land development coordinator, said Krefetz never applied for an occupational license until code enforcement officers contact Krefetz about complaints.

"The city wasn't aware of the Sanford Avenue operations until we received complaints," Gibson said.

He also noted that the only city occupational license JP Pets has ever obtained was from March 16, 2001 until Sept. 30, 2001 for the 2920 S. Orlando Drive location. Krefetz said he has been in business for 11 years, first at the Midway Commerce Center and since July 2000 at the South Orlando Drive location.

"You make it sound like I was trying to defraud somebody," Krefetz told the Herald. "That wasn't the case. I didn't know I had to have a city occupational license."

A search of Seminole County records indicates Krefetz obtained an occupational license in 1996 and renewed it every year until Sept. 30, 2001. He does not currently have a Seminole County occupational license.

During Thursday's meeting, Joe Hartwig, a business owner on 2nd Street, spoke against allowing the conditional use because it is an inappropriate location.

"The building is not suited for that type of business," Hartwig said. "Those creatures have escaped, and they're turning up all over the place. A mailman found a boa constrictor, and others have found snakes and lizards where they shouldn't be."

Hartwig presented board members with pictures showing the water draining down the alley adjacent to his building. Other pictures showed snakes in the alley and one wrapped around a fan in an office next to JP Pets.

"I'm don't have anything against reptiles if they are properly maintained," said Tom Jones, who owns an art gallery at 311 2nd Street next to Hartwig's business.

"The problem is, that building is not a secure place for animals. People are finding snakes and lizards where they shouldn't be."

Krefetz said there have been no escapes from his business. He also said the water runoff occurs when he sprays the reptiles as part of a daily sunning exercise. The reptiles are brought outside to sun but remain in cages.

"Some of them need sunlight," Krefetz told board members. Although artificial light could be used, "there are so many of them it would be difficult."

Krefetz said Friday, "there could be as many as 10,000" animals in his business.

"Not 10,000 different species, but that many total," Krefetz said, noting the company's inventory could include snakes, lizards, frogs, geckos and other reptiles, as well as tarantulas and scorpions. He told board members that at times, snakes could make up 25 percent of his inventory.

As part of the approval for the conditional use, P&Z members stipulated that:

- An opaque fence of wall must be installed to enclose the outdoor storage area where the animals sun.

- All cleaning and maintenance must be done inside the business.
- No animal waste can be disposed of outside or washed into the alley.
- An industrial grade sink and/or cleaning system must be installed in the building and approved by the city.
- All doors and windows must be tightly secured and closed at all times.
- Pickups and delivers will be done at the rear of the building.

The conditional use remains in place for one year, at which time the matter will be brought before P&Z to determine if an extension is appropriate.

The approval passed 6-1, with P&Z Chairman Michael Skat the lone dissenter.

"Given the proximity to downtown, I can't support it," Skat said.

District 1 City Commissioner Art Woodruff attended the meeting and expressed concern about the conditional use. He also said he was frustrated that business continue ignore city regulations about proper permitting and licenses.

"It seems like all we do is tell them to come back and do what they should have done in the first place," Woodruff said. "They get away with breaking the law."

"The problem is until we develop a reputation as a city that's not going to tolerate this, it will continue to happen."

Hartwig said he will continue to observe JP Pets's operation and has not decided if he will appeal the P&Z's decision to the City Commission.

"My advice would be as people in the community find these snakes, they should catch them, put them in a bottle, bring them to City Hall and put them on the City Manager's desk," Hartwig said. "Maybe then the city will take some type of appropriate action."

Bush extends SBA loan deadline to assist with Sept. 11 fallout

From Staff Reports

If your small business has suffered substantial economic injury as a result of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks; you may be eligible for financial assistance from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA). Governor Jeb Bush on Tuesday reminded Florida's small business owners that the deadline to apply for federal loans from the SBA has been extended from Jan. 21 to April 22. The economic injury loan program was activated specifically to assist small businesses severely impacted by the terrorist attacks. "This extension of the deadline to apply for economic injury loans is good news, as the program has been very successful in Florida," Bush said. "To date, the SBA has approved 332 loans totaling $24.3 million in Florida. Until small businesses recover from the events of 9-11, these loans will help an owner keep his or her company operational. This loan program truly makes a difference." In November, the SBA declared a state of emergency allowing businesses directly impacted by the Sept. 11 attacks to be eligible to apply for economic injury loans. The Sept. 11 Economic Injury Disaster Loan program provides funds to eligible small businesses to meet ordinary and necessary operating expenses that they could have normally met, but are currently unable to meet as a direct result of the attacks. These low interest loans are intended only to provide the amount of working capital needed by a small business to survive until operations return to normal. Last month, Bush joined SBA Administrator Hector Barreto in Miami to present the first round of loan checks to the owners of nine small businesses impacted by the attacks. The SBA provides loan assistance only to those businesses they determine are unable to obtain credit elsewhere. The SBA can provide up to $1.5 million in disaster assistance to a business. The loan amount is based on actual economic injury and financial needs. The interest rate on loans cannot exceed 4 percent per year, and the term of these loans cannot exceed 30 years. The term will be determined by the business' ability to repay the loan. Small businesses have until April 22 to apply for the SBA loans. Application information can be found at the US Small Business Administration web site, www.sba.gov, or by calling 800-359-2227.

In other company news, BarrierMed has appointed Nancy Portello as chief financial officer.

Ragucci said Portello is a CPA and a graduate of the University of Cincinnati with more than 20 years of financial management experience.

INCON Lighting acquires California-based company

INCON Lighting, Inc., a major manufacturer of high-tech and energy-efficient commercial lighting systems based in Sanford, Fla. has acquired CLI Fixtures, Inc. in Northridge, Calif., north of Los

Angela

The price was not disclosed.

Mark Hudson, president of INCON, said CLI posted sales of more than $4.8 million in 2001.

Hudson said INCON will continue to operate CLI's manufacturing facility in Northridge and retain 23 employees there.

Last year INCON acquired a Miami-based import company and reported annual sales of more than $7 million. In 2002, Hudson said INCON projects sales will total more than $12.2 million. Earlier, INCON reported it plans to acquire a Chinese manufacturing company based in Zhuhai with annual sales of more than $12 million and some 600 workers. Hudson said he hopes to close on that acquisition during the third quarter of this year.

Alaqua Lake closes on 79 homesites in 2001

Alaqua Lakes, Taylor Woodrow's premier golf community on Markham Woods Rd. in Seminole County reported closings of luxury home sites worth more than $48 million in 2001.

Charles Ayers, project manager at Alaqua Lakes, said 79 luxury home sites closed during the year.

Taylor Woodrow is currently developing the seventh phase at Alaqua Lakes and Ayers said he hopes to release a portion of the new home sites during the second quarter, including seven that front on the Alaqua Lakes golf course and several waterfront home sites. Ayers said the new home sites will be priced from

$150,000 to more than $200,000

Currently, only 60 home sites are available for sale at Alaqua Lakes and Ayers said 12 luxury spec homes are under construction or recently completed, with prices ranging from the $600s to more than $1 million.

Alaqua Lakes is being developed by Taylor Woodrow Communities, part of the Taylor Woodrow group of North American companies that has been building lifestyle communities and luxury homes for nearly half a century. Headquartered in Sarasota, Florida, the North American operations currently have more than 50 active projects throughout Florida, California, Texas and Ontario, Canada and recorded revenues in excess of $833 million in 2000. The company is a wholly owned subsidiary of the London-based real estate group Taylor Woodrow plc, which was founded in 1921.

Miller Sellen Conner & Walsh creates environmental team

Miller Sellen Conner & Walsh (MSCW), one of Florida's most respected community planning, design and engineering firms, has created an environmental consulting team to serve the needs of its clients.

Darla Miller, formerly with Breedlove Dennis and Associates, leads the specialized team, which provides comprehensive environmental site review for projects of all sizes. The team gives private and public clients a foundation for community planning, design and engineering services to protect their bottom line and the state's valuable natural resources.

"Because of our firm's full-service approach, we now have engineers, planners and environmental project managers looking at a project at the same time. This provides a seamless review process for our clients," Miller said.

Miller, who holds a bachelor's degree in forestry from Mississippi State University, brings more than 15 years of award-winning environmental experience to the firm. Her extensive background includes project management, environmental permitting, wetlands permitting and mitigation, environmental constraints reviews, wetlands delineations and wildlife censuses, wetland monitoring and grandfathering assistance.

"We review sites with regard to wetlands and threatened and endangered species - whether plant or animal," Miller said. "If any are found, we evaluate their impact on the development and work with the appropriate agencies on mitigation and permitting."

Operation Paycheck helps locals get back on their feet

From Staff Reports

Operation Paycheck, a state-funded initiative designed to retrain displaced workers after the Sept. 11 tragedies, is more than just an initiative to new Seminole Community College student Kristine Raney — it's a blessing. "I feel lucky to be in this program," Raney said. "This is a great opportunity for me to go back to school and earn a certificate in a growing industry." Raney, one of 10 individuals locally to apply for Operation Paycheck, is enrolled in SCC's Microsoft Certified Systems Engineer (MCSE) program. Originally from Indiana, she moved to Florida more than eight years ago. After earning a journalism degree with an advertising/public relations emphasis from Franklin College in 1992, Raney faced economic conditions similar to today's.

When the opportunity arose to segue way into the retail industry, Raney shifted her focus, and remained in retail for 16 years.

"I loved the human interaction," she stated.

Most recently a store supervisor, Raney was laid-off soon after the Sept. 11 attacks as a direct result of the national tragedies.

"I contacted placement agencies and submitted resumes to online career network and recruiting services after I was laid off," she said. "I thought I would go into administrative assisting, but because I had no prior experience, I didn't qualify for many of the open positions." Raney learned about Operation Paycheck from one of her first unemployment pay stubs. Instructed to visit a One-Stop Center, she did just that, and soon found herself applying for the state program that pays for her SCC tuition and books.

Though Raney has had little previous computer instruction, she is excited about the opportunities and salary her certification will afford. When she completes her MCSE Certification, she will be trained to serve as a systems engineer, technical support engineer, systems analyst, network analyst or a technical consultant and can expect to make about $30,000 as starting salary.

Raney also had the opportunity to meet President George Bush when he visited the Orlando Operation Paycheck One-Stop Center last December. She and seven other students engaged in a round-table discussion.

"I sat across from President Bush," she said. "We introduced ourselves, explained how we learned about Operation Paycheck, shared what we planned to study and how long it would take us, and commented on where we saw ourselves at the end of the programs. He was very encouraging, saying he was 'behind us,' and what a great opportunity Operation Paycheck was.

"It's a little scary — not knowing what I'm getting myself into. It's like 'Am I ready for this?' But after attending last week's first classes, I know. Yes, this will be the right track for me."

Lake Mary eyes city property for fire substation

By Michelle Jeria
Managing Editor

LAKE MARY — Location plans are moving forward for the city's proposed new fire station and substation.

City Commission and Lake Mary Fire Chief Craig Haun discussed two possible locations for the proposed substation, including City Hall and the intersection of Fifth Street and Lake Mary Boulevard, during a Thursday work session. No action was taken, however, in order for city staff to gather more information concerning the City Hall site.

During last year's strategic session, city commissioners discussed the possibility of building the substation on City Hall property. At the time, however, there were concerns the proposed facility would not benefit the city's plan for a downtown development.

Nevertheless, several commissioners on Thursday said they want the city to continue to consider the site, especially if there is a possibility of purchasing property surrounding City Hall for the future expansion of the government building.

"I'm not ready to give up on the idea of building the substation at City Hall," Lake Mary Mayor Thom Greene said.

In agreement, Commissioner Gary Brender said it may be easier and less expensive for the city to purchase property surrounding City Hall.

"We only have a finite amount of money," Brender said. "It may be far easier to acquire additional property around us."

For several years, City Commission has been discussing the need for a new fire station and substation in Lake Mary. Plans include demolishing the department's current facility on Rinehart Road and constructing a new building on the site. A substation is also planned for the downtown area.

City Manager John Litton has said a referendum will be needed to ask voters to approve a bond issue in the amount of $5.2 million for the new facilities. As of yet, no date has been set for the referendum.

As for the Fifth Street location, Haun said the site would give the substation easy access to Lake Mary Boulevard and other main arteries within the city. There is some concern, however, a Fifth Street substation would disrupt life in the residential area.

"I don't think a substation in a residential area is appropriate," Greene said.

How Much Will the New Tax Law Save You?

(ARA) - By now the federal tax refund you received this summer is probably long gone. Ideally, it was used for something fun like a DVD player or weekend getaway, but in reality it was probably spent on something as practical as an orthodontic bill. However, the new tax law that produced your rebate may still hold some savings for your pocketbook.

The Economic Growth and Tax Relief Reconciliation Act of 2001, passed last June, reduces federal income tax brackets, increases child tax credits, eases the "marriage penalty" and bolsters education and retirement savings. Some of the tax breaks will benefit you this year. Others will be phased in over the next 10 years, so laws and limits may change. Here are details of the tax law's major changes.

The new tax law reduces tax rates by creating a new, 10 percent tax bracket for the first $6,000 of taxable income for single individuals, $10,000 for heads of households and $12,000 for married couples filing jointly (the single and married thresholds increase in 2008 and thereafter). The 15 percent bracket remains the same, but the four other brackets will drop gradually until they reach 25 percent, 28 percent, 33 percent and 35 percent in 2006.

The deductible limit on student loan interest was raised this year from $2,000 to $2,500. The deduction begins to phase out for single filers with adjusted gross incomes more than $40,000 and joint filers with incomes above $60,000.

The new tax law makes saving for college a little easier as well. Starting in 2002, the annual limit on contributions to a Coverdell education savings account (formerly education IRA) rises from $500 to $2,000. The contribution phase-out range for joint filers will also be increased, making it easier for more parents to contribute.

The new tax law encourages saving for retirement in several ways. Beginning in 2002, both traditional and Roth IRA maximum annual contribution limits will be increased to $3,000. People age 50 and over also have the opportunity to catch up on missed retirement savings. Those individuals may be able to put an extra $500 a year into their IRAs for 2002 through 2005, and an additional $1,000 a year starting in 2006.

Contribution limits for company retirement plans will also gradually increase over the next five years. The annual limit for 401(k) plans, for example, will rise from $10,500 to $11,000 in 2002, eventually reaching $15,000 in 2006. There will also be catch-up provisions for employees age 50 and above.

Be sure to consult your tax advisor to see how some of the new tax laws will affect you.

Lake Mary girls basketball team stays unbeaten

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

LAKE MARY - Not that it wasn't becoming pretty apparent, but there is little doubt now as to who is the top girls basketball team in the county this year.

With victories over both Winter Springs and Oviedo this week, coming on the heels of a sweep in the Sarasota Girls Basketball Showcase this past weekend, the Lake Mary girls stretched their unbeaten streak to 22 games and solidly established themselves as the team to beat in the Seminole Athletic Conference.

5 ranked Riverview last weekend.

The Rams, ranked No. 1 in the FSWA Class 6A State Poll, got 15 points and seven rebounds from sophomore Meghan Chamberlain to defeat host, and No. 3 Class 6A ranked, Sarasota, 54-36, in the eShowcase! and also took down No. Coach Carl Brownis charges then completed a five-game road trip on Tuesday, surviving a slow-tempo, defensive battle with a young Lions squad, 33-32. Raiders open to rave reviews

Tennell sparks men to triumph

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

SANFORD - When things started to look bleak for the Seminole Community College men's basketball team on Wednesday, head coach Stan Cromartie turned to his inspirational leader.

Sophomore point guard Antwain Tennell has gone from being a starter to actually being dismissed from the Raiders this season, but nothing has swerved this jet-quick shooter from backing his mates, whether on the bench or in the game.

In the team's Mid-Florida Conference opener against Santa Fe Community College from Gainesville at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center, Tennell entered the game with SCC down 15-8 and turned the game around as the hosts rebounded to win, 76-67.

Tennell scored five straight points to key a run that saw the Raiders take a 36-35 halftime lead.

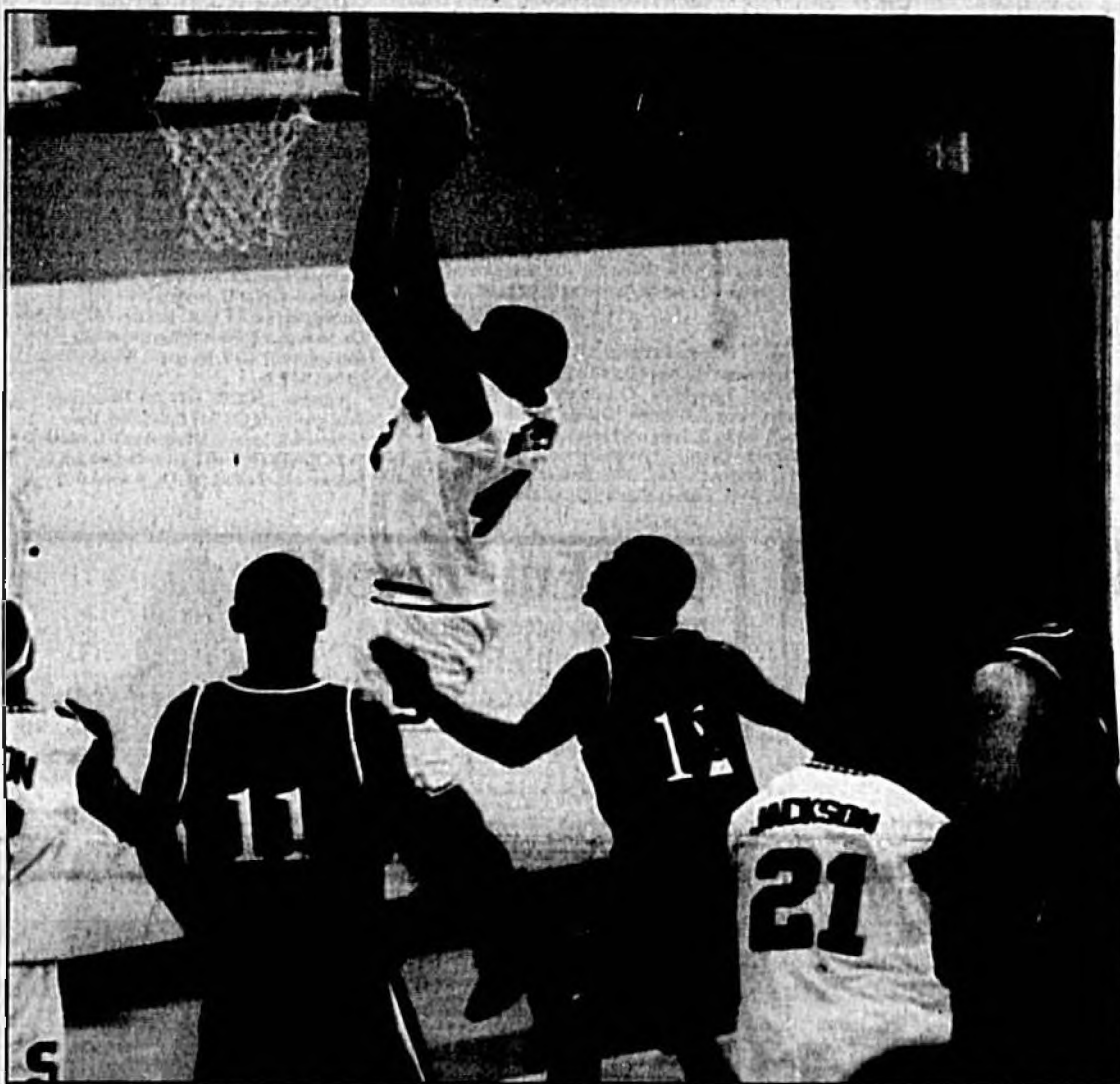

With the momentum now riding with the home team, SCC rode the ballhandling of former DeLand star Chris Jackson and freshman center Kitus Witherspoon to roll to a 10-point lead, 59-49, with 8:45 left in the game and eventually led by as many as 17.

But the Saints suddenly made a run against the bench and got to within six points in the final two minutes, and the fans started to think that maybe another game would get away from SCC, which has seen leads slip away late and turn into heart-breaking losses of less than five points.

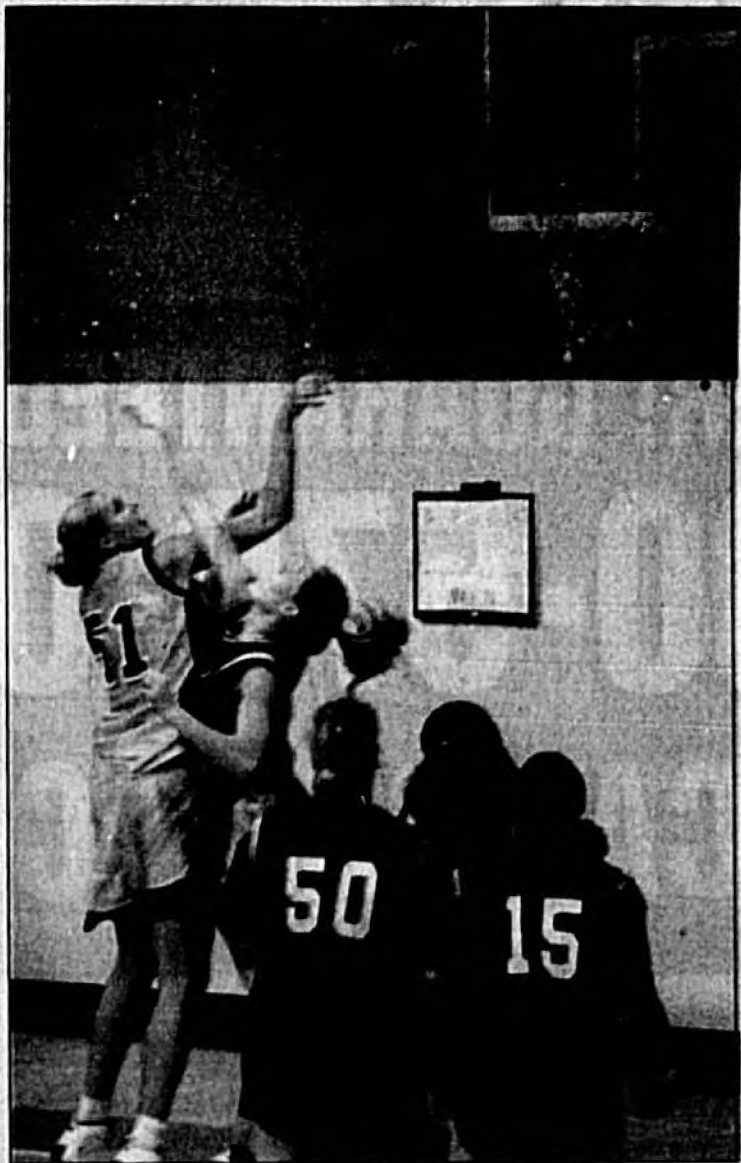

But the Raiders were not going to let this one get away. Witherspoon, a 6-foot-8 freshman from Boone High School in Orlando, scored 18 points and pulled down 12 rebounds.

Chris Jackson and the team's leading scorer on the season, Jason Currington from Leesburg, both tallied 15 points, with Tennell also finishing in double figures with 11 points.

Women rally for 108-66 victory

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

SANFORD - You would never know it from the final score, but the Seminole Community College women's basketball team was actually in trouble in this game.

Playing their Mid-Florida Conference opener at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center Wednesday night, the Raiders came out tentative and seemed to be playing scared against a Santa Fe Community College squad that they were expected to dominate.

Turning the ball over on unforced errors and standing around on offense forced SCC head coach Ken Patrick to use two time outs in the first seven minutes and to go to his bench as he searched for the answer to get his charges going.

But the harder the Raiders tried, the worse things got as they fell behind by 10 points, 17-7, with 12:27 left in the first half on a three-pointer by Laquana Ayers.

That's when Patrick turned to sophomore Yo Johnson. The obvious emotional leader of the Raiders immediately sparked the team as she and fellow sophomore Chamesia Bailey combined to score 11 of the next 14 points in the game and the hosts finally went ahead, 20-18, with 8:50 left before intermission on a three-pointer by Johnson.

Johnson, who put off season-ending ankle surgery to help her team, scored seven points during the surge and SCC never cooled off, outscoring the Saints 101-59 over the final 27:33 of the game to stroll to a 108-66 triumph.

After taking the lead, the Raiders continued to take command, building a 10-point lead, 32-22, with 4:10 left before half-time, and appeared ready to turn the game into a rout.

But SFCC held tough, scoring 10 straight points late in the period to cut the lead to six, 40-34, before the hosts scored the final four points to lead, 44-34, See Women, Page 3B

Freshman center Kitus Witherspoon (No. 42, above) and Yelena Leuchanka (No. 51, left) led their respective teams to victories over Santa Fe Community College from Gainesville in the Mid-Florida Conference openers for both schools at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center. The 6-foot-8 Witherspoon, from Boone High School in Orlando, scored a team-high 18 points and pulled down a game-high 12 rebounds as the men bounced the Saints, 76-67. Leuchanka, 6-foot-5 from Belarus, recorded a triple-double, scoring 26 points, pulling down 20 rebounds and blocking 12 shots as the women rallied from a 10-point deficit seven minutes into the game to score a season-high 108 points in a 108-66 triumph over Santa Fe. Both Raiders squads will have their hands full tonight (Saturday) as they travel to Daytona to battle the always tough teams from Daytona Beach Community College at the Lemerand Center. The women begin at 6 p.m. and the men are set to tipoff at 8 p.m.

Machine-like Lions topple Tribe

By Dean Smith
Sports Editor

SANFORD - Watching State-Ranked Oviedo play on Tuesday was like watching a skilled surgeon or well-oiled machine at work.

The Lions (14-2 and ranked No. 3 in this week's FSWA Class 6A State Poll) always seemed to make the right pass, to the right person, at the right time, got the ball to their best player at crucial times, and slowed the attack down when it was necessary as they got past host Seminole, 70-53, at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium. Oviedo used its precision offense to take an early lead over Arrow Force X (10-8), jumping out to a 19-11 advantage after one period.

But Seminole never let the Lions out of sight until the final minutes of the game, staying within 6-to-10 points behind the play of its senior duo of Robby DuPre and Marcus Robinson.

Two more shutouts for Patriots in boys soccer get an opportune bounce that would lead to a score at the buzzer.

Most of the time it was defending Class 6A Player of the Year Shawn Witherspoon that ended up with the ball for the Lions.

The 6-foot-6 senior forward finished with 19 points (giving him over 2,000 for his career), seven rebounds, seven assists, two steals and four blocked shots.

The difference in the game was probably the start of the second half as Oviedo, leading by just eight points, hit three consecutive three-point shots, two by Brad Rich and one by Grant Herren, to keep Seminole at bay.

The extraordinary thing about the trio of étreys is the fact that those were the only long shots the Lions hit in the second half. The visitors would miss their final 10 attempts from behind the arc.

Rich equaled Witherspoon for team-high honors with 19 points for Oviedo and also had three steals, while Herren chipped in with 13 points and five rebounds. Point guard Jake Pickett also had a nice game with eight points, three rebounds, five assists and two steals.

For Arrow Force X it was DuPre who again carried most of the load. The Campbell College signee was 6-for-12 from the floor, 3-of-6 on three-pointers, and 6-of-8 from the free throw line for a game-high 21 points. He also had seven rebounds.

Robinson was also in double figures with 15 points and dominated the backboards with 13 rebounds, but after hitting two of his first three attempts from the floor, the 6-foot-6 center was only 4-for-15 the rest of the game.

Anthony Turner (seven points, five rebounds), Adam Garcia (six points, two rebounds) and Dan Taylor (four points, five rebounds, three assists) also played well for Seminole.

Both teams were to have played non-conference foes this weekend, with Oviedo heading to Springfield, Missouri for the Tournament of Champions and Seminole hosting West Orange at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium starting at 7:30 p.m. tonight (Saturday).

In other boys' games this week:

Freshman sensation Darryl Merthie scored 10 points, but it was far from enough as E.J. Gordon scored 26 points, pulled down 21 rebounds, handed out five assists and took away five steals to lead host DeLand (13-3) to a 63-35 thrashing of Lake Mary at the New Dog House on Tuesday.

The Rams (5-12) only trailed 8-4 with 31-seconds left in the first quarter, but the Bulldogs would score six points before the end of the period to lead 14-7 and built the advantage to 35-12 by halftime.

Oviedo maintained its unbeaten lead in the district on Wednesday, roughing up Lake Mary, 62-57, as Witherspoon scored 22 points and Pickett had seven assists. Merthie again led the Rams with 20 points.

Winter Springs continued to play well as sophomore Ryan Exter poured in 25 points to lead the Bears to a 41-33 victory over Lake Brantley on Wednesday.

Kyle Hill added 10 rebounds and Chad Fowler six assists for Winter Springs, while Bo Gooch tallied 13 points for the Patriots.

Lake Howell also picked up a big win on Wednesday as Isaac Codrey tossed in 26 points to lead the Silver Hawks past Titusville, 59-40.

On Thursday, Lake Brantley traveled to Spec Martin Stadium in DeLand and whitewashed the Bulldogs, 2-0, with Zusi and Gordon Stasak scoring the goals.

The Patriots (18-2-4) got an assist from Aldredo Charry, while Singer was perfect again, stopping four shots.

In other boys soccer games this week:

Ryan Zarbaugh scored two goals and J.P. Raad had a pair of assists to back a five save effort by Michael Sasso as Oviedo

Lake Mary got back into the win column as Eric Gorden, Fernando Tovar and Jerry Girard had the goals as the Rams shut out Winter Springs, 3-0.

Tovar also added an assist to his goal, while Javier Bermudez and Kenny Myers assisted on the other scores. Rusty Robinett recorded the shut out in goal, stopping three Bears shots.

In girls soccer games from this week:

Brittany (BJ) Gracey, the daughter of longtime Sanford softball star Tommy Gracey, had two goals and two assists leading Pine Ridge to a 5-1 victory over Lyman on Monday. Lindsey Phillips scored the goal for the Greyhounds.

Lindsey Affolter and Lisa Weber scored two goals each as Winter Springs hammered Trinity Prep, 6-0, on Monday. Christina Crooks had a pair of assists for the Bears, while Courtney Silvera recorded the shutout without having to face a Saints shot.

Silvera made up for it on Wednesday, however, stopping 10 shots to get another shut out, this one in a 3-0 victory over Lake Brantley.

Weber had a goal and an assist for Winter Springs, with Crooks and Affolter scoring one goal each for the Bears.

Jennah Carter scored the game's only goal in the early going as Oviedo held off Lake Mary, 1-0, on Wednesday.

Birds

"It's like an adoption," Ronda said. "We carefully scrutinize a person who wants to buy a bird."

"We have to make sure the bird is not just going to be an ornament in a beautiful cage," Ken added. "They need to be out and loved. They become part of the family — like a dog or a cat."

There's a reason for their protective attitude. Many of the birds came to KRC from various breeders when they were only a few days old.

Scooter, a macaw, came to the Longwood store when he was only 4 days old.

"He was the size of a large Palmetto bug," Ronda said. "We call him Scooter because he would scoot down the counter to get his food."

As with most babies, the Calhouns have to wean the birds until they are ready for solid food. That means at least three feedings a day when they are very young.

Once they are weaned, the birds can go to a new family — after the Calhouns determine if the bird and possible owner are the right fit.

Prices for the birds vary, from hundreds of dollars to more than $1,000.

"The price is determined by supply and demand, and of course, the rarity of the bird," Ronda said.

After spending years surrounded by birds, both Ken and Ronda said they have no plans of doing anything else.

"I do this because I love it," Ken said. "Ronda's a good bird lady, and I've turned out to be a good bird man."

For more information, call KRC at 407-331-5466 or visit the web at www.krcexoticbirds.com the Rescue Outreach Mission. In 1986, her dream became a reality. She feeds, clothes and shelters the homeless. For 35 years, she has worked in the ministry, and she currently serves as pastor of the Rescue Church of God.

A laborer in the field of social work, day-care and emergency services, it serves as a shelter in Seminole County, helping many citizens and transients. Mother Weaver has been recognized for her many accomplishments toward mankind.

Herbert Cherry, a Sanford native, always has been known for his hard work and determination, and he has become an outstanding entrepreneur.

He opened his own barber shop and built the Cherry Plaza in 1960. Cherry had many occupations, including professional barber, school bus driver, real estate broker and general building contractor.

A community minded citizen, Cherry has been a leader in Sanford, serving as first PTA president of Crooms Academy, where he graduated and his four children attended. He has served on many city advisory boards and currently serves on the Goldsboro Front Porch Council. Often called Buddy-Roe by many former students who rode his school bus, Cherry serves as chairman of the Deacon Board of St. John Metropolitan Baptist Church.

We salute these two distinguished service awardees, their service, dedication and untiring service to the community, where they are both still active.

"A Celebration of the Human Spirit," was presented by the African-American Cultural Forum, including Ronald Dundas, president; Jeffrey Zamor, vice president; Aneisha Black, secretary; Anushka St. Lovis, treasurer; Fabio Giraldo, chaplain/public relations director; and Henry Warner, sergeant at arms.

Dr. Stephen C. Wright and Professor Annye L. Refoe were coordinators of AACF and the Organization of Black Faculty and Staff-CROP program.

"Women of Virtue," United Christian Women of Sanford District will host their first mini-women's conference Friday, Jan. 25, and Saturday, Jan. 26, in Moore's Temple Miracle House of Healing, located at 1802 Bell Ave. in west Sanford. Pastor is Thomas Williams.

Saturday's special guest is Sister Ki 'Shauna Guy of Cocoa. Musical renditions will be presented by Evangelist Ramona Laureano of Deltona, Praise Dancers and other artists. The community is invited to the worship experience.

Women of Virtue is a group of Christian women.

St. John Metropolitan Baptist Church, located at 920 Cypress Ave., invites the community to witness a performance by renowned artist and harpist Rosalind Beck, who appears with the Orlando Philharmonic Orchestra, 11 a.m. Sunday, Jan.

worry about when you're gone.

The cost of cemetery and funeral arrangements are going up, just like everything else. Prearrangement allows the cost to be frozen at today's prices.

Prearrangement also gives you a chance to comparison shop, something that your family won't be able to do if you die suddenly. By looking ahead, you can check out the different funeral homes and cemeteries, because costs and services vary widely.

Baldwin Fairchild offers traditional services, personalized services, cremation with a traditional or personalized service and veteran services. They will also set you up with a counselor so that you can decide, ahead of time, what you want and how much you want to spend. You can contact Hector Perez at 407-322-4263.

No matter whom you choose for your prearrangement plans, know your rights. Florida has a Board of Funeral and Cemetery Services.

Longwood couple's business is for the 'exotic' birds

By Michelle Jerla
Managing Editor

The inside of Ken and Ronda Calhoun's business sounds like a South American rain forest. There is never a minute of silence, and when it's loud — it can be very loud.

The noise, however, doesn't bother the Calhouns. After working with exotic birds for more than two decades, Ken and Ronda think the squawking from more than 50 of their feathered friends is actually relaxing.

"It's part of working with the birds," Ken said. "I like it. It sounds like you are in a jungle. People pay a lot of money for a tape that sounds like this."

The Calhouns own KRC Exotic Birds in Longwood, a business specializing in the care and sale of colorful birds native to various warm-climate countries. One step into their store, and a visitor will see everything from an African Grey Congo to a Harlequin Macaw.

The Calhoun's beginning in the exotic bird business began with Ronda's grandfather and his parrots.

"It started because of my love for my grandfather's parrots years ago," Ronda said. "I had about five, and when Ken fell in love with me, he fell in love with my parrots."

That was in 1988. A few years later, the couple began selling exotic birds at the Sanford flea market.

The Calhouns eventually became tired of transporting two van loads of birds between their home and the flea market each day. They decided to open a full-time store; and two years ago, KRC (Ken and Ronda Calhoun) Exotic Birds opened at 192 Highway 17-92.

Along with birds, the store offers a variety of supplies, including food, cages and bird toys. They also offer advice — accumulated through 30 years of experience between the couple — to current and future bird owners.

Not everyone will leave KRC Exotic Birds with a new pet. The Calhouns are very careful when it comes to selecting who will take home a new member of the family.

Application deadline for Miss Seminole County Scholarship Pageant Feb. 1

Miss Seminole County Scholarship Pageant organizers are encouraging young women from the area to submit applications for the third annual event scheduled for next month.

"The pageant offers some very exciting opportunities for the young women," Pageant Executive Director Beverly Baird Boothe said. "It is a stepping stone to the Miss America Pageant, and numerous scholarship opportunities are offered in their various areas of talent."

The 80-page application contains the rules and regulations for the pageant — ranging from the type of clothes contestants can wear to what makes a good platform of interest. The deadline to submit applications is Feb. 1.

Contestants must be between the ages of 17 and 24 and must be enrolled in college or have had college training, Boothe said. Additionally, those interested in participating in the pageant must live within a 75-mile radius of Sanford.

Although the pageant is held in Sanford, Boothe emphasizes it is a community affair. The winner will represent Seminole County throughout the year at various events and during June's Miss Florida pageant.

The third annual event will be held Saturday, Feb. 23, in the Helen Stairs Theatre. The program opens with morning interviews and culminates with the evening's pageant.

Participants will have the opportunity to meet one another during rehearsals and the lunch and dinner provided during the day of the event.

Competitions include interview, swimsuit and evening wear, and contestants are judged on their poise, style and platform. The panel of judges are trained in the rules and regulations of the Miss America Scholarship Pageant.

For an application, participants must send a self-addressed stamped envelope — that will hold an 80-page document — to Beverly Baird Boothe, 3358 Whitner Way, Sanford, FL, 32773. For information about the pageant or sponsorship, call Boothe at 407-321-3576.

Jubilee honors Weaver, Cherry

Heritage Jubilee, a celebration of black achievement, was another triumphant evening honoring Sanford native Herbert Cherry and Mother Blanche B. Weaver.

Marva Hawkins

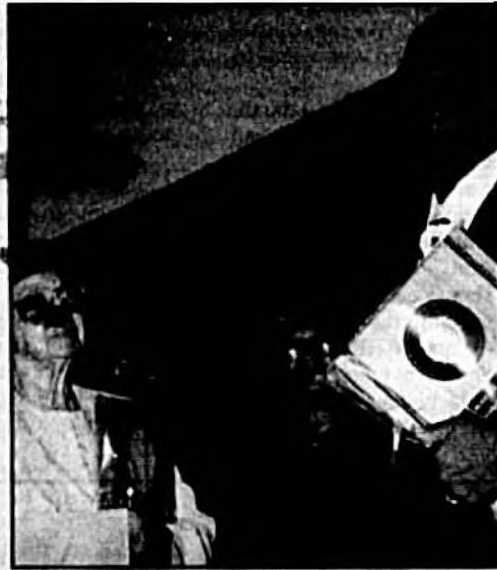

On Friday evening, Jan. 11, the Seminole Community College African-American Cultural Forum presented the honor program, featuring the Bethune-Cookman Concert Chorale, with Rebecca W. Steele as chorale conductor.

"The Spirit of Our Heritage is Reflected In the Arts" was indeed the truth as the multi-talented concert-chorale presented a program of distinction, "From Bach to Gospel." The presentation showcased the young artist, male and female ensemble and the artist-in-residence. The audience enjoyed the well-known renditions of "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring" by J.S. Bach, Mozart's "Alleluia," "Let Freedom Ring," (a patriotic celebration), excerpts from the opera "L'altra notte in fondo al mare" from "Me Fistofele ... A. Boietto," "I Feel Pretty" from "Westside Story," and Irving Berlin's "God Bless America."

From the "Sound of Soul" was the beautiful rendition of "Free," with the Liturgical Dancers and the Women's Ensemble.

Talking the audience to the very depths of our heritage was the spirituals and gospel we know so well.

The artists gave us "Great is Thou Faithfulness," arranged by Ernest Williams, a young artist from BCC. And, to further our enjoyment for the evening, we were graced with the selections "Joshua Fit the Battle of Jericho," "This Little Light of Mine," "Total Praise" and "We Fall Down." Finishing an evening of honor to two great leaders of our Sanford community, the choir sang "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and asked the Lord to "Order My Steps."

Mother Blanche Weaver and Herbert Cherry were recently honored during Heritage Jubilee 2002, a celebration of black achievement.

Heritage Jubilee 2002 will go down in the history books of SCC and Sanford. It was an effort conceived in 1982 by the "Afro-American Society" to commemorate the birth and achievements of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., long before it became fashionable to do so. Heritage Jubilee is an annual reunion, where the community pays tribute to Dr. King's ideals.

The prestigious Distinguished Service Awards are presented to black leaders with emphasis on the contributions made by those selected.

This year's spirited celebration was bestowed upon Mother Blanche B. Weaver and Herbert Cherry.

Historical Society starts new year

The Lake Mary Historical Society started the new year off by welcoming their new officers. Outgoing president Janet Jernigan handed off her title to new president Peggy Wolfe.

Mary Rowell

At the January meeting, the Society made a change in their future meetings. The Society voted to have board meetings once a month, but general meetings for the entire membership would be quarterly. There will be a program at the quarterly meetings. All members are still welcome at any meeting. The next board meeting will be Thursday, February 14. The next general meeting will be April 11.

The Historical Society will have a booth at Olde Lake Mary Days, scheduled for Saturday March 2. Anyone interested in joining can stop by the booth and sign up. The membership is $10 for individuals, $15 for families and $5 for students.

One of the things people hate to think about is funeral planning. But the truth is, if you don't think about it and plan for it, it makes it much harder on those you leave behind.

One of the bad things that happens when you don't plan ahead can be greater cost. Your loved ones are suffering and they don't make decisions based on cost or practicality. They make decisions out of pain. When you plan ahead, that's one less thing your family has to

All Souls to host Mission

All Souls Catholic Church in Sanford will host a Mission from Sunday, Feb. 3, through Thursday, Feb. 7.

Each evening's service will start at 7 p.m. and last approximately an hour and a half. On Sunday, a "pot luck" supper will be held at 2 p.m. before the Mission talk at 4 p.m. A light refreshment will be served after the Mission talks on Monday through Thursday.

The theme of this year's Mission is "Let Us Build A House of Love" and it will be led by Father Peter

Schavitz

Dowd

Schavitz and Father Jack Dowd, redemptorist missionaries from Chicago, Ill. Both priests have been on the Mission Team for several years and have wide varied apostolic experience.

According to church officials, it is not unusual for the grace of God to touch many lonely, angry, discouraged hearts with a special forgiving love during many. The Redemptorist Parish Mission is being discovered a means of parish renewal. An entire parish is offered the opportunity to reflect on one's life in a positive way and to celebrate the life of the community in God. Both Father Peter and Father Jack are return speakers to All Souls.

The community is invited to participate in the Mission. The church is located at 800 S. Oak Ave., in Sanford. Pastor is Richard W. Trout Jr.

For further information about the Mission, call the church office at 407-322-1504.

Liriope: The Monkey Grass

Liriope, a plant belonging to the lily family, is one of the most popular ground covers in Florida. It is also called lilyturf or monkey grass.

Native of Eastern Asia, this grass-like plant is used in shady areas where other plants will not grow well.

Al Ferrer

After establishment, the plants become very drought tolerant and need to be watered only if long periods of drought occur. It may develop tipburn in severely hot, dry conditions. Fertilize once during the spring.

Propagation is done by division of plant clumps and sometimes by seeds. Ground covers can be mowed every few years during late winter to remove ragged old foliage just before the new growth appears.

One popular cultivar with variegated foliage is damaged by frost, but most varieties are tolerant to frost damage.

Use

Liriope is an excellent plant when used as a ground cover in shady locations. It is used to replace grass where shade is too heavy for grass growth and used as a border plant next to walkways or plant beds. It is also used at the base of shrubs that develop a high canopy with few leaves near the ground. It will not tolerate foot traffic.

Varieties

The Evergreen Giant is maybe one of the most widely planted variety. It grows 18 to 24 inches tall with white flowers. This variety is considered most susceptible to the crown rot disease.

Other varieties are, Big Blue, Lilac Beauty, Majestic, Silver Midget, Silvery Sunproof, and Variegata.

Pests and Diseases

Scales and tip burn are considered to be the main problems of this plant in the landscape, but recently, crown rot is becoming a serious disease problem in the central Florida area, especially in the Evergreen Giant variety.

The symptoms of this disease are first noticed on older leaves where a pale to yellow color develops from the base of the leaves and extends upward toward the tip. When immature leaves, not fully expanded, close to the growing point become diseased, they become tan or light brown and have a water soaked appearance. Eventually, the entire leaves become bright yellow, then brown and die.

Death may occur within two to four weeks from infection. As with many diseases of this type, cultural practices are very important to reduce disease incidence. Disease development increases with increases in peat moss content of the soil around the roots of the plants.

Observations in the field and laboratory have shown that when dead or diseased plants are removed from a landscape and a new plants is re-planted in the same location, it will eventually become diseased.

Treatment of affected areas with fungicides before replacing the plant is unlikely to be completely effective, but such treatments might reduce the number of new plants that will become infected.

Al Ferrer is Seminole County Urban Horticulturist. Inquiries may be directed to him at the Cooperative Extension service, 250 W. County Home Road, Sanford, FL 32773 or phone 665-5558. All Seminole County Cooperative Extension services are open to all regardless of race, color, sex, handicap or national origin.

The Plant

Liriope is a perennial, herbaceous, mat-forming plant that grows to about 1 foot tall. Leaves are simple, linear and arching over the sides, measuring 8 to 24 inches long and 0.5 to 0.75 wide. Leaves mostly green but variegated plants are easily found.

The plant forms tubers and spread by rhizomes. Flowers are purple, small, measuring about 0.25 inches across, borne in short spikes held on stalks several inches taller than the leaves.

Fruit is black, small, berry-like, about 0.5 inch wide, appearing in fall and winter.

Culture

Planting should be done in early summer to give the plants enough time to become established before the cold season.

Plants prefer partial to deep shade, but some cultivars can tolerate full sun. Variegated cultivars will revert to the green form in dense shade. It is tolerant to many soil types and pH ranges but requires good drainage. For covering or edging, plant them 8 to 10 feet apart. Keep the soil moist during the first month after transplanting.

Hartsocks surprised on silver anniversary

Two local businesswomen, Lori Hartsock and Sandy Swain, spent Saturday afternoon, Jan. 12, doing what numerous working people do. They moved furniture in Sandy's beauty salon, did other chores and hit the mall shopping for something they couldn't do without. Later, they met up with Lori's better half, Steve Hartsock, for a bite to eat.

Doris Dietrich

Since Sandy was not feeling up to par, she took Lori home early. What on earth was all the commotion going on at the Hartsock home? You could have knocked Lori over with a feather. During her three-hour absence, the home had been transferred into a lively party arena complete with glittering decorations and party people. Katie Hartsock and a friend, Ashley Fagaly, plus others had worked like little beavers on the secret project.

Surprise! Surprise! The event was the 25th anniversary celebration for Lori and Steve.

Nobody knows how daughter Katie pulled it off without letting the cat out of the bag. She sent out invitations, and all of her parents' friends volunteered to help out. Many guests showed up with party foods while others helped in various capacities.

The halls were decked with streamers, balloons and banners and carried out a silver and purple motif. The couple's framed wedding photographs were on display along with other photos and memorabilia. Hearts and white lights added an aura of mystic to the festive occasion. Along with punch and finger foods, all enjoyed the large sheet cake embossed with purple flowers and silver leaves.

About 45 guests showed up including Lori's two nieces and a nephew from Tampa, her sister from North Carolina and her father from Spring Hill.

Adding to the festivity was a telephone call from son Mike who is in the Air Force and stationed in Oklahoma City. Incidentally, Mike was in on the secret plot and helped sister Katie via long distance.

Lori and Steve were married Jan. 14, 1977 in Tampa and moved to Sanford in 1982. He is a certified public accountant with Hartsock, Marun and Raley and she is administrative assistant at the First United Methodist Church.

Italian Night

The community calendar has a lot of interesting listings for February other than the time-honored St. Valentine's Day.

Perhaps one of the most popular events is "Italian Night" sponsored annually by the Sanford Woman's Club. This event actually started back in the 1970s as a Spaghetti Dinner, but didn't reach annual status until several years later when it was renamed "Italian Night."

Patrons have come to expect quality food in an authentic Italian atmosphere. And this year is no different. A charming sidewalk café motif will be carried out in the door. Red-checked table cloths will cover the tables with accents of flags from around the world and bright fresh flowers. There will also be Italian art and beautiful plants which will be for sale. Cheery servers, wearing red-checked aprons, will be on hand to meet patrons' every whim.

The menu will feature garden salad, spaghetti with succulent sauce, garlic bread, dessert and beverages.

This fund-raiser is an effort of the entire club. The committee consists of Helen Polgar, first vice president, and Mindy Tooley, second vice president as co-chair with Yvonne Portals, Cathy Bossert, Vivian Buck and DeLores Lash. Sharing the K.P. detail are Dr. Robert J. Smith, Paul Polgar and Mark Davis. The spaghetti sauce will be prepared by Buck's Restaurant.

"Italian Night" will be held in the quaint Woman's Clubhouse, 309 S. Oak Ave, on Feb. 22, from 5 to 8 p.m. Tickets, available from any club member, are $6 adults and $4 children. Carry-out service is also available.

Sick List

Jean Marcel has been under the weather for quite some time. She moved to Georgia to be near her son and unfortunately she had a bad fall and returned to the Sanford area. For those who would like to visit Jean, she is currently a resident of Mariner Health of Tuskawilla, 1024 Willa Springs Drive, Winter Springs.

Jean's daughter, Tara Scott, asked that all mail be addressed to her home: 2250 Fairglenn Way, Winter Park, 32792, so that she can personally deliver it to Jean.

Bridge Social

Zelda Siskind and Carolyn Cornelius were hostesses for the January gathering of the Bridge Social of the Sanford Woman's Club. The hostesses served a light buffet before the games began.

High score was won by Thelma Smith with Marion Smith winning second high. Other players included: Carol Dennison, Shirley Mills, Wilma Heaton and Rose Edith Jacobson.
