—By Edgar A. Guest.

The can no more afford to pay increased taxes on gasoline than on real estate.

A far simpler solution to the problem, and one which is seems entirely to have escaped the attention of the Governor, might be found in the curtailment of expenses. Had Governor Carlton hahed the Bouse with his campaign speeches of 1925 in which he frequently pointed out the frightful extravagances of the State Road Department and other wasteful expenditures in state government, he might have got somewhere. Had he urged that the state debt be relieved by the application to it of two cents of the three cents of the gas tax fund now going to the road department, instead of by piling on an additional two cents to an already exorbitant gas tax, it might not now be necessary to hold another extra session meets, what then?

Let us hope that before the sixth of July more of our leaders may see the light of day.

Spanish Moss

Tourists in Florida have for years looked with admiration on the sessing anything now.

Tourists in Florida have for years looked with admiration on the beautiful gray Spanish mosa clinging to countless oaks throughout the state; natives themselves have always felt that it is a peculiar pair of Florida and have loved it. But few of them, whether native or visitor, have ever learned much about this kind of moss, or realized that it has a really practical value. The Ocala Banner says per or two ago.

"In the last few years—since the boom put people to devising new ways of making money, that is—the industry in this section of the state, where the quantity and quality of the moss is as good as it comes, has developed remarking the moratorium, and gives a sport of the plan.

"Where and when most began to grow in Florida ho one really knows. It's called "Spanlard came. But the arrival of the Spanlards is thought to have given it its name. Wherever it came from, most is now plentiful.

"It grows around the world in semi-tropical climates, in a strip of about 1000 miles. It is found all over Florida, and up through southern Georgia and South Carolins. It grows luxuriantly and abundantly.

"It is a mamber of the pineapple family, and lives on air and water, it is not. as some suppose, a parasite."

"But the remarkable thing—a fact distressing to those who like to keep their trees from it, and escouraging to those commercially interested—is that it grows appoint the ton.

"To moss, then, Florids should give serious contion and seek to find new uses for it, and work to it use in known ways."
