

PIONEER STEP TO SOLVE COAL GRIEF IS TAKEN

Head Of Rockefeller Concern Advocates Suspension Of Inefficient Workings

Urges No Cut In Wages Of Miners

Announcement Given Ready Response By Several Operators

NEW YORK, May 25.—(INS)—What coal men describe as a "pioneer step" in solving conditions of overproduction, price cutting and other evils of the bituminous industry, has been taken by the Consolidation Coal Company, of which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., owns 71 per cent of the preferred stock, 27 of the common.

The newly elected president of the company, George J. Anderson, recently sent an announcement of policy to other coal producers and it was announced today, a wide response has been received from the industry, many other operators indicating their intention to follow it.

Wages should not be cut, but prices either, and some of the less efficient mines should be closed, in Anderson's opinion. His communication to the industry said in part: "The Consolidation Coal Company believes that the present plight of the bituminous coal industry will not be remedied by forcing unwanted coal upon an unwilling market. It sees no relief, either to the industry or to any producing company by cutting prices below a level that permits a mine to remain in production with its natural overhead unabsorbed in its average realization."

"The Consolidation Coal Company believes that no present useful purpose nor any contribution to future stability is to be gained by further cutting wages below a sound economic level. Whatever may be the temporary relation of labor costs to selling prices, it holds that the primary object of both mine labor and mine management must be the most regular work time possible under a proper wage base."

Holding, as it does, these beliefs, the company is attempting to bring both its marketing and operating policies into line with what it conceives to be a constructive economic basis. To that end it is desiring for an indefinite period some of the less efficient mines and consequently must discontinue with a considerable number of valid and loyal employees."

It is understood that ten mines are being shut down, four in the Somerset coal fields of Pennsylvania and six in the Fairmont Field, West Virginia. The consolidation Coal Company operates in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland.

Anderson's statement was addressed "to our fellow coal producers who believe with us that efficient men should be eliminated from production."

The report also said the body of E. A. Kessinger, kidnaped teller of the Lamar bank, had been found near Dighton City, Kans. ROBERT PITTMAN TO BE EXECUTED WEEK OF JUNE 11

Sheriff Hand Receives Death Warrant From Governor Martin Directing Him To Superintend Railroad Electrification

Robert Carlton Pittman, negro slayer of L. P. Hilton, Sanford barber shop proprietor, will die in the electric chair at Raiford during the week of June 11. It has been decreed by Governor John W. Martin.

The death warrant, accompanied by instructions to deliver the negro to J. S. Hitch, superintendent of the state prison, not later than five days before the week of the execution, was received today by Sheriff C. M. Hand. The warrant was attached to a transcript of the supreme court decision upholding the conviction of Pittman in the district court of Seminole County.

The warrant has a heavy black border with two stripes of narrow black ribbon extending the length of the paper. The warrant is a form document bearing the governor's signature and also that of H. Clay Crawford, secretary of the state. The law provides that it shall be read to the prisoner and his state duty Sheriff Hand plans to perform within the next few days.

Hearing the death warrant will be no new experience to Pittman, his execution having been set on one other occasion. The negro had been notified of his approaching execution and had been carried to Raiford where he was to be executed when a court writ led to the Supreme Court appeal and the negro was brought back to Sanford.

The warrant directs the sheriff to affixate at the execution and in case of illness one of his deputies is required to perform the duty. The negro will go to his death 18 months after the crime was committed. Hilton's body was found in the rear of his barber shop on a December morning in 1926. Several days later Pittman, who had been employed at the shop as a porter, was arrested and confessed the crime.

He told authorities how he had struck Hilton on the head with a wooden club and described the death struggle in which the barber was struck several more blows. The negro buried many evidences of the crime, buried some of blood-stained clothes and other tell-tale effects. A friend in whom he confided the murder secret was the man who gave the authorities their first clue as to Pittman's guilt.

Pittman was subsequently tried and convicted and sentenced to die. Governor Martin was scheduled to warrant and execution three days before his scheduled execution, his attorney began the supreme court fight, which resulted recently in the ruling of that tribunal affirming the man's conviction.

SEARS SPEAKS IN DEFENSE OF HOUSE RECORD

Representative From This District In Congress Asserts Record One Of Accomplishments And Not Of Promises

Criticism And Abuse Laid To Newspapers

Hints Opponent Spends Much Money And Accuses Supporters Of "Slinging Mud"

Declarating "I am proud of my record in congress" and reiterating again and again that it is a "record of accomplishments and not promises," W. J. Sears, representative from the Fourth Congressional District and a candidate to succeed himself, spoke last night to a small audience in the City Hall.

Mr. Sears was introduced in a brief talk by City Commissioner Frank L. Miller, a friend for 20 years who described the congressman as one "whom you can depend upon to do what he says he'll do." Preceding Mr. Miller was A. S. Wells, candidate for reelection to the state railroad commission, who spoke for ten minutes.

Declaring that some of the newspapers had said that "Joe Sears makes promises to get votes," the congressman said, "I have come back to report to you people to show you that isn't true." The speaker voiced vigorous protest against what he described as "criticism and abuse" of him and his record and referring to his opponent asserted:

"For two months now the 'Spirit of Florida' has been traveling up and down the district. My opponent has been visiting the woman's clubs enjoying their hospitality and tea. She makes a fine speech but there is nothing to it."

His near defeat at the hands of Mr. Owen two years ago, Mr. Sears said, "has taught me a lesson." He said while his opponent campaigned extensively "I was in Washington and did not realize what was going on. So this time my friends I have come back to report on what I have done."

During his 13 years in the lower house, Mr. Sears said he had secured appropriations of $18,000,000 for the fourth district "with out one cent of cost to you people." He said he was instrumental in securing anford a postoffice building and asserted that through his efforts this district will get $1,500,000 by the provisions of a new postoffice appropriation measure.

The congressman told his hearers that he drafted the first bill introduced in congress for the rehabilitation of disabled soldiers, and said as a result of his bill, which called for an appropriation of $10,000,000, there has been appropriated subsequently for this purpose the sum of approximately $450,000,000.

Through his efforts, according to Sears, the present rivers and harbors bill carries an allotment of $60,000,000 "straight out to the St. Johns river from Palatka to Lake Harney and to increase its average depth to six feet and width to 80 feet."

And yet they say I have done nothing," the speaker said. In the next breath the speaker admitted that "many times I have failed to do what I wanted to but those who achieve things must suffer failure at times."

The speaker said he had fought for a reduction of income taxes on smaller corporations and blamed Secretary of Treasury Mellon for blocking its passage. He asserted that he had resorted to no "mud-slinging" but declaring that some of his opponents "ever zealous" friends had spread some gross mis-truths. Mr. Sears said that in a certain city a group of railroad men had been told that several years "Sears and Daugherty" (referring to the then attorney-general) had hatched up something against the laboring man.

He answered by proclaiming himself "always the friend of labor" and quoting from a labor periodical which he said he urged "Sears' return to congress."

The congressman placed a great deal of emphasis on the claim that he caused the Shipping Board to stop the expenditure of $900,000 on an advertising campaign exploiting European cruises on its ships with the cry of "There is nothing else to see in America."

In connection with this effort, the congressman said he had colored the expression of "See America First," using this slogan to stir (Continued on page 6)

THICK ICE CRUST HAMPERS RETURN OF BIG DIRIGIBLE

Strong Head Winds And Heavy Fog A Retard Progress Of Italia On Way Toward King's Bay After Pole Trip

ROME, May 25.—(INS)—Shrouded in a crust of ice and hampered by strong head winds from the south and a murky fog, the dirigible Italia pushed forward steadily towards its base at King's Bay today and was expected to reach there at noon, advised from the Spitzbergen outpost.

General Umberto Nobile, commander of the airship which made history yesterday by establishing the North Pole for nearly two hours, indicated by wireless that although he was waging a battle against the elements on his return flight, all was well.

Because of the heavy head wind the Italia's speed is believed to have been reduced to less than forty miles an hour. To gain better visibility and keep the ice formation on the dirigible down to a minimum, General Nobile was flying under low lying fog banks at a height of between 200 and 400 feet, he stated by wireless.

All Italy rejoiced today over Nobile's feat in reaching the North Pole for the second time. His messages to the Pope and Premier Mussolini telling that he had reached the Pole, were hailed everywhere.

While the Pontiff radiated his blessings to the famous aviator yesterday, the country celebrated doubly in honor of Nobile's achievement on the 12th anniversary of Italy's entrance into the World War.

Educator Declares Resignation Due To Literary Desires

LONDON, May 25.—(INS)—Dr. Abraham Flexner, whose resignation from the directorate of the general education board caused a sensation in American educational circles, said today that the only reason for his retirement was to obtain more time for literary work.

In a recent lecture in England, Dr. Flexner made statements regarding London University which were regarded in some quarters as derogatory. This lecture was delivered at a meeting of Rhodes Scholars and others interested in education. Following the address there was a storm of protest.

"There was only one reason for my resignation," said Dr. Flexner. "I desired more time for writing and I resigned for that reason."

Chinese Wage Keen Battle Along Wide Front Says Report

LONDON, May 25.—(INS)—The opposing Northern and Southern Chinese forces are again waging terrific battles along a wide front, dispatches from Hong Kong received by the Exchange Telegraph Company reported today.

With Peking as their objective, the Southern armies are making determined efforts to capture Tingchow, Hokenfu and Tsangchow, which are considered key centers. The Northerners, however, are putting up stubborn resistance and they are yielding to their foes.

Fearing that the concerted drive of the Southerners may result in the fall of Peking and a consequent disorderly retreat of Northern troops from endangering Japanese lives and property in Manchuria by looting. The force dispatched to Chinchow Fu includes an infantry regiment and an artillery brigade.

BILL'S FAILURE TO IMPAIR U.S. NAVY PRESTIGE

State Department Officials Are Agitated Over Neglect Of Congress To Enact Measures For Increasing Fleet

Believe Diplomatic Power Threatened

World Would Constrain Inactivity Of Legislature Body As Repudiation Of Kellogg Plan

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(INS)—State Department officials are concerned by the failure of congress to enact the $270,000,000 naval building bill, now caught in the end of the session legislative maelstrom in the senate.

The diplomatic influence of the United States in the next naval limitations conference, certain to be held in 1931 if not before will be vastly impaired by the failure of the bill. Despite the fact that the defeat would be purely technical, revolving as it does about the parliamentary tangle in the Senate rather than upon the merits of the bill itself, the inactivity of Congress would be construed throughout the world as congressional repudiation of the Coolidge-Kellogg policy of naval parity.

Secretary Kellogg is anxious to see the measure passed. It embodies what the American delegation persistently demanded at the abortive Geneva conference last summer. The bill, which would provide for 16 cruisers and one aircraft carrier, has been passed by the House and favorably reported out by the Senate Naval Committee.

There are supporting votes to spare in the Senate, but the measure cannot be presented for a vote because of the parliamentary deadlock over Boulder Dam. Should that project be disposed of, the naval bill could be enacted in one day. But backers of the Boulder Dam Bill have served notice to displace their bill until accepted a vote. Boulder Dam has been filibustered and lobbied to death so often the Senate, according to its supporters.

Members of the Senate Naval Committee who have conferred with Kellogg have been appressed of the vital importance of the legislation from the diplomatic viewpoint. They are bending very effort to bring it to a vote. But the Boulder Dam billers want to see it fly in the Colorado River bed. The only course they want to hear from the legislative symphony is the raucous squall of the concrete mixer, and the purring melody of the hydro electric turbine. If their selections rob the concrete yard steel rivets, they are willing to give the State Department a vala check. But business is business out where the West beats this year.

Victim Of Accident Reported In Critical Condition Today

WALTER STEWART, garage operator who was injured last night in an automobile accident on the Orlando highway, was still in a critical condition this afternoon, according to reports from the Fairbank Lighthouse Hospital. The cause is reported to be a fracture of a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Attending physicians now said to have little hope for Stewart's recovery. Ivey Stenstrom, 15, stepson of Stewart, was also injured. Two of the youth's fingers were amputated. He also sustained painful but not serious injuries to his limbs and body. He was reported to be resting easier today.

According to information obtained by the office of Sheriff Hand, Stewart was driving a wrecker and towing another machine. He had stopped his car and is believed to have been repairing the towing chain when the accident occurred. A man of Lamo, who gave Oviedo as his home, is said to have been driving toward Sanford, the same direction in which the Stewart machine was headed.

Lane is quoted as saying that there was no rear light on the parked automobile and that he did not see the Stewart car. His machine crashed into the rear of the parked automobile. Stewart and Stenstrom are believed to have been pinned between the two automobiles, but the exact manner in which they sustained injuries has not been determined.

House Passes Bill Of Muscle Shoals After Bitter Fight

CHARLES SCHWAB PREDICTS BETTER TIMES THIS YEAR

Tells Members Of American Iron And Steel Institute At Convention That Prospects Are Good For Big Business

NEW YORK, May 25.—(INS)—Charles M. Schwab, the "spokesman" of the steel industry—having succeeded the late Elbert H. Gary as president of the American Iron and Steel Institute—told members of his organization at its convention today that there was "every justification" for expecting that business in 1928 would exceed that of last year in volume.

"I do not think that this country intends to demand the service we are rendering for the small return which the steel industry is currently receiving," Schwab said. "I do not mean to imply that the steel industry expects large returns. The industry generally has been adapting itself very well to narrower margins than heretofore but we have a right to expect and it is in public interest that we earn enough to provide for expansion, modernization and development of our plants which the country's ever-growing needs constantly require."

Schwab asserted that the steel industry was cutting on its investment only a little more than interest on savings bank deposits. One of the causes of this situation, he explained, was waste due to cross hauling—that is, the selling of products by mills located in one territory in territories where other mills are located.

He announced his intention of recommending to the directors to institute the appointment of a committee of experts to study the problem and to recommend a constructive plan to eliminate this waste under government supervision.

James A. Campbell, president of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, also addressed the institute. He said that he expected the steel business would be rather quiet during the summer and until the November election.

"I am by no means pessimistic," Campbell declared. "In fact I expect that the volume of business will be better than usual in a presidential year but I do not expect any really active demand until November."

Martin Makes Final Talk On East Coast

DAYTONA BEACH, May 25.—Gov. John W. Martin arrived here today for his final speech on the east coast south of Jacksonville, after two rousing meetings in Ft. Lauderdale last night and in Key West the night before. Introduced to the Ft. Lauderdale audience that packed the big school auditorium as the best friend Broward County ever had, the Governor delivered an address that was applauded from start to finish. An ovation greeted him at the beginning and continued at frequent intervals until the end when hundreds came up to shake hands with him and promise their support. Two thousand five hundred people heard him in Key West the night before and indications there are that he will carry Monroe County six to one. The executive will make his second speech in Jacksonville Saturday night before going into West Florida for the last week of the campaign.

English Paper Prints Report That Peggy Joyce Is Engaged To Count

LONDON, May 25.—(INS)—The Evening Standard printed a report this afternoon that the much married Peggy Hopkins Joyce is engaged to marry Count Frederic De Janze, former husband of Alice Silverthorne, of Chicago. The newspaper published details saying the couple had met in a Paris bookshop. Miss Joyce was said to have picked up a book written by De Janze describing life in Kenya Colony. Afterward they were introduced. The date of the marriage has not yet been set, the newspaper added, but probably will take place in Paris.

Miss Joyce is now in the United States. During her recent visit to Paris her frequent appearances in restaurants and cabarets with Count De Janze led to a rumor that they were engaged. Miss Joyce denied it with considerable vehemence. She did admit, however, that she was engaged to "an American" and that she expected to make her future home in Paris.

Countess De Janze was in the limelight in March, 1927, when she shot Raymond De Trafford, member of a rich English family, and then tried to kill herself. She was said to be infatuated with the young Englishman and shot him in a jealous rage because he was leaving Paris to return to his family in England.

A Career Of Inertia

Joe Sears has not paid many visits to Sanford during recent years. When he first began running for Congress over a decade ago, he used to come here frequently and talk about the beautiful St. Johns River and what an asset it was to this country, and how he personally would dig it out so that giant ocean liners could ascend its twisted bends and help to dot its banks with metropolitan cities.
But that story, as the years went by, became ragged and cloth eaten, and the well meaning but worn out Joe couldn't think of anything to say when rivers, canals, or dredges were mentioned in his presence, and as such subjects always had a way of popping up whenever he happened in it about Sanford, he wisely decided it best to avoid any unnecessary embarrassment by omitting this city from his itinerary.

But as he admitted last night, he came mighty near getting whipped two years ago by a woman, so he tried awfully hard to think up another story which he could tell to the people of this section in a last minute dying struggle to garner votes. This is his argument, the essence of his appeal to the people: "In all the years which I have served you in the lower house of Congress there is not one thing to which anyone can point with criticism."
And as he made that statement, we tried hard to think of one thing he had done that we could criticize. We thought long and hard, and after we came home we thought some more. We got out our files of Congressional records and newspaper clippings and we went over them. We searched through letters, pamphlets, and documents of all kinds. And then we thought some more, and to save our lives we could not find one thing he had ever done to criticize. We could not find one thing he had ever done at all.

Fourteen years as the representative of this district in the United States Congress, and he has never done one thing, some sage philosopher must have been thinking of Joe when he said, "Some men never make mistakes because they never do anything." We don't think there is a citizen in the fourth district who will take issue with him on the main thought of his speech. And we believe that if he were sent back to Congress and remained there for the rest of his life, he still would never do anything.

He has a record of non-achievement which is without a peer. He stands in a class utterly without a competitor for doing nothing. If that great party, the "Do Nothing" party, of which we read in history, were extant today, he would be the grand exalted ruler, the supreme cyclops, the high monkey-monk of the whole business. His record for inertia compares favorably with the most stagnant pool which ever dried up.

But we believe the time has come when he will have to move, to move out and let someone take his place who can fill it.

Vivi-Section

Speaking before the semi-annual meeting of the International Conference for the investigation of vivi-section, Charles Edward Russell, famed radical author, denounced the practice of cutting innocent animals or filling them with filthy diseases as is customary in experiments of medical science. In conclusion the 1928 Pulitzer Prize-winner said: "Vivi-section has never revealed anything of the slightest value to medical science."
To many of us who remember the thrill of our first rabbits or who have experienced the warm affection of a faithful dog, these words in defense of dumb animals will at first glance, find a warm reception. We shudder at the thought of the torturing fear or the excruciating pain which man's pets are often subjected to in the solemn recesses of an experimental clinic. We view with remembrance tales of cruelty committed by seemingly heartless doctors, tireless in their search for remedies.

But in justification to a highly beneficial profession and in repudiation of Mr. Russell's statement about the value of vivi-section, which has been responsible for many discoveries of inestimable importance to mankind, we must admit that the experiments in question must go on. It is reasonable that man's most loyal companions must suffer in order that the human of the people may live better and longer.

He points out that as things now stand, New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Michigan, none of which has given a popular majority to a Democratic nominee for president since Grover Cleveland's last election in 1892, will have more votes in the convention at Houston than the wholly Democratic states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North and South Carolina, Texas and Virginia, all of which have supported Democratic candidates for president without fail since 1876.

To remedy this sort of thing, Mr. Houston would bring about such reconstitution of Democratic policy as to deny voting representation in the national convention to:
Congressional districts which fail either to elect a Democratic congressman or to cast at least 15,000 votes for a Democratic candidate for congress, in either of two preceding congressional elections; and to Alaska, District of Columbia, Hawaii, Philippines, Porto Rico, Canal Zone, and the Virgin Islands, which although

It built up the anti-prohibition sentiment which gave Remus the sympathy of his community. It built up a justification of the murder by the theory that Mr. Remus through the advances of a prohibition law enforcement officer. The press gave Remus a trial by mob and so produced his escape from the consequences of his act. This is the substance of Mr. Taft's reasoning. For the sake of the argument, let the press confess itself black. Let Taft say it is. Then let us discuss the color of the pot. The pot, in this case, would be the profession represented by Mr. Taft, the American Bar.

A layman may not attempt, without rebuff, to pierce the intricacies of the law, but he may, some of their outcroppings. Remus escaped conviction on the plea that he was insane purely for murder purposes. Of course he did not utter like that—he was sane, in our laws, which any thinking man will agree, cannot be done. The legislature and not the governor has the power to make or repeal laws.
Catts is simply up to his old tricks of trying to fool the public, at the same time preying upon the ignorance of those whom he thinks will support him.

The sight of his supposedly faithless wife rendered him insane. He killed her. That act restored his sanity. Under the law this required his release from liability both for murder and insanity. In short, the law permits a quibble under which, in effect, one may go insane purely for purposes of murder and then escape both the penalty for murder and the penalty for insanity.
This statement of the matter would probably be held by a court to be technically inaccurate, but to common sense it fits the theory and outcome of the case. If that is true then the hair splitting of the pot lawyers must share with the nobleness and nobility of the kettle press the responsibility for this breakdown of justice. A juror in the recent Sinclair trial remarked, after the trial was over and he had access to the commonly known facts in the case, an excess prevented by the rules of evidence applied to the trial, remarked that the decision made the jury look like a set of simpletons. It did indeed. Was that the fault of the press or of the rules of evidence maintained by courts and bar?
Come, gentlemen, let us reform each other. Perhaps if the Charles P. Taft of the bar will reach away the reins of the press can more judiciously render the bar white as snow. American justice will be something to brag instead of blush about.
George Smith, a student at University of Florida, arrived here today for the summer vacation.

Mrs. Bailey's Guests Enjoy Bridge Party

Most enjoyable in every way was the lovely bridge party given Wednesday evening by Mrs. G. W. Bailey at her home on Myrtle Avenue.

Numerous baskets filled with vivid hued zinnias, roses and other spring flowers were used with artistic effect in decorating the rooms for this affair.

After a very appetizing appetizer main-dinner for the evening, the scores for the games were kept on tables done in bridal designs, and when the games had been concluded, the top score prize, a pink quilted handkerchief, was awarded Mrs. Earle E. Jones, for having held the lucky card in cutting. Miss Charlotte Smith won a daintily embroidered tea apron.

The chandeliers were hidden with gay colored balloons, and when the prizes had been awarded, the scores released and to each luncheon was fastened a small card on which was written, "There is News in the Air." There was found to be another small card announcing the engagement of Miss Emily Bailey and Mr. Joseph L. Bull, the marriage to take place, June 25 at Norfolk, Va., and also announcing the marriage of Miss Edith Stallings of Atlanta, Ga., and Mr. George W. Cowan, the marriage having taken place Apr. 10 at Atlanta.

Refreshments consisting of iced frozen in the forms of Easter Bites, individual angel food cakes frosted in yellow and punch were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. T. A. Tatterson, Miss Louise Quinton and Miss Ethelida Tatterson.

The guests for the evening were: Mrs. Sara Warren Easterly, Miss Frances Tutton, Mrs. William A. Fitts III, Miss Neenie Williams, Miss Lillian Beka, Misson, Miss Charlotte Smith, Miss Marie Fitzaway, Mrs. Percy Lee Bell, Miss Mina Howard, Mrs. Earle E. Jones, Mrs. Ralph Stevens, Mrs. Lee Peck, Miss Pattie Lyles, Miss Freda Gable of Savannah, Ga., Miss Gertrude Marshall, Miss Louise Quinton, Miss Ethelida Tatterson.

Mrs. Bailey's Guests Enjoy Bridge Party

Most enjoyable in every way was the lovely bridge party given Wednesday evening by Mrs. G. W. Bailey at her home on Myrtle Avenue.

Numerous baskets filled with vivid hued zinnias, roses and other spring flowers were used with artistic effect in decorating the rooms for this affair.

After a very appetizing appetizer main-dinner for the evening, the scores for the games were kept on tables done in bridal designs, and when the games had been concluded, the top score prize, a pink quilted handkerchief, was awarded Mrs. Earle E. Jones, for having held the lucky card in cutting. Miss Charlotte Smith won a daintily embroidered tea apron.

The chandeliers were hidden with gay colored balloons, and when the prizes had been awarded, the scores released and to each luncheon was fastened a small card on which was written, "There is News in the Air." There was found to be another small card announcing the engagement of Miss Emily Bailey and Mr. Joseph L. Bull, the marriage to take place, June 25 at Norfolk, Va., and also announcing the marriage of Miss Edith Stallings of Atlanta, Ga., and Mr. George W. Cowan, the marriage having taken place Apr. 10 at Atlanta.

Refreshments consisting of iced frozen in the forms of Easter Bites, individual angel food cakes frosted in yellow and punch were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. T. A. Tatterson, Miss Louise Quinton and Miss Ethelida Tatterson.

The guests for the evening were: Mrs. Sara Warren Easterly, Miss Frances Tutton, Mrs. William A. Fitts III, Miss Neenie Williams, Miss Lillian Beka, Misson, Miss Charlotte Smith, Miss Marie Fitzaway, Mrs. Percy Lee Bell, Miss Mina Howard, Mrs. Earle E. Jones, Mrs. Ralph Stevens, Mrs. Lee Peck, Miss Pattie Lyles, Miss Freda Gable of Savannah, Ga., Miss Gertrude Marshall, Miss Louise Quinton, Miss Ethelida Tatterson.

Dr. King To Discuss Convention Delegates

Believing that few citizens have taken the time to inform themselves as to the character and attitude of candidates for delegate to the Democratic Convention at Houston, Dr. F. D. King, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will devote a few minutes during the Sunday morning service, according to an announcement today.

"I shall not attempt to influence any person as to how he should vote on this matter," said Dr. King. "I have written to practically all of the candidates to ascertain how they stand on serious issues that confront us and I have access to letters received from others that I have not written. I shall merely read letters and let the congregation know the attitude of these candidates so they can make their own decision."

A cordial invitation to the public is extended by Dr. King to attend the Sunday morning service.

The fight against the Muscle Shoals Bill really masked the filibuster against the Boulder Dam of the Colorado at a point between California and Arizona. Its proponents declared it would provide flood relief protection for the whole Imperial Valley of thousands of acres of arid lands in a half dozen states and provide electric power for California and Arizona.

The fight against the Boulder Dam Bill was directed by Senator Ashurst (D) of Ariz., on the ground it would confiscate Arizona's rights to water from the Colorado River. The Utah Senators held a similar view on behalf of their state. The Bill would provide for the building of a huge dam in the Boulder Canyon of the Colorado at a point between California and Arizona.

SEARS SPEAKS IN DEFENSE OF HOUSE RECORD

(Continued from page one) his colleagues in the house to the absurdity of using federal money to place foreign resorts in competition with those of this country.

Referring to his opponent's claim that if elected she will visit every country in the district each year to ascertain its needs, Mr. Sears described it as "physical impossibility" because of the extent of the area, which he said was the largest congressional district in the United States.

Highway beautification in Florida, he said, had been started due to his own efforts and told his audience he had visited all parts of Florida in the interest of this movement.

He said he was using his own funds to make the race and asserted that he had never accepted a campaign contribution. At the same time he hinted that large sums of money are being used by his opponent in influencing the press and with a dramatic touch gave expression to a statement of "God save the day when editorial columns are offered for sale."

Mr. Sears closed his address with another dramatic effusion in favor of outlawing war. He said he had always been opposed to war, but he hoped there never would be another conflict and he called upon the women particularly to join him in movement against future carnage.

POLA NEGRI IN THE PARAMOUNT PICTURE, "THREE SINNERS"

Let Betty Make It

"I want to help," comes a shy little voice from the doorway and you look around to see little Betty, all curls and shining eyes, glancing around your immaculate kitchen.

Any assistance which Betty gives must be carefully graded to her size. One woman made a practice of baking her cakes in gem pans and letting Betty fill the pans. Then while the cakes were baking Betty was allowed to mix the frosting.

But whether her help is real to you, it is real to her, and she is gaining through the best of character training — doing.

Sibley Answers Hopkins' Charge

Mr. W. J. Hopkins Jr.: If your statement in The Sanford Herald of May 23 is correct with regard to your findings in the tax records, which you say you have searched, then it is your duty as a citizen to start an investigation of these records, as I have never paid even $1.00 poll tax, being age exempt at the time I registered, according to the law of this state.

I have one property tax bill for 1927 which was received November 29, 1927 and another received January 11, 1928. It might be a good idea for you to be careful in making statements, as apparently being a staunch supporter of Candidate Evans, to make incorrect statements might hurt rather than help the Candidate.

Owner Of Poisonous Gas To Destroy Lot

HAMBURG, Germany, May 25. (INS)—Dr. Hugo Stolzenberg, owner of the chemical plant where a tank of phosgene (poison) gas exploded, killing 11 persons and sending 250 to the hospital, announced today he is destroying other stores of similar gas which he had on hand for industrial purposes.

German newspapers are making a mystery of the explosion. One paper said that only three chemical firms were permitted to manufacture phosgene gas and Dr. Stolzenberg's concern was not among them. Dr. Stolzenberg explained this by saying his phosgene gas had been left over from war time.

It is your constitutional right to demand of anything you take into your home, that it shall be what it was represented to be and that it shall give you full value for the money it cost you.

Unless you have confidence in both the makers and sellers of any thing that is offered for your home, do not buy it.

Advertising is the best educator we have in these modern times, so far as our personal needs go. It saves people worries and money.

The evolution that has taken place in the baking industry in recent years makes it possible now for the public to get what it pays for — Quality and Service.

How many boys and girls say to their mothers, when they return from school—'Please, may I have a piece of bread and butter with a bit of jelly spread on for my measure?'

It is our undeniable right, as producers of unquestioned quality, to see that the people hereabouts get it when they want it and we are within our rights to make every fair, legitimate effort, at all times, to increase our sales in this section.

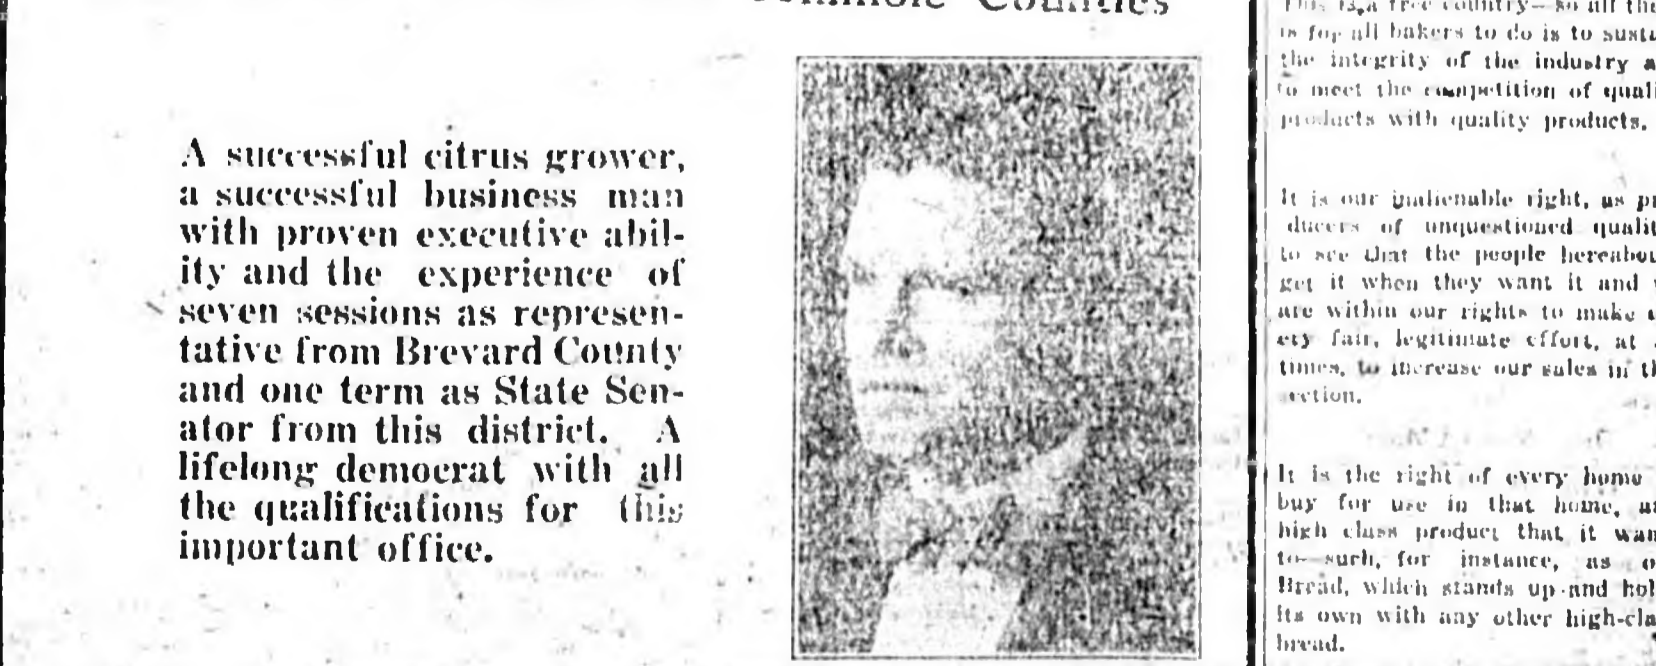

It is the right of every home to buy for use in that home, any high class product that it wants to—such, for instance, as our bread, which stands up and holds its own with any other high-class bread.
