

Nation's Oldest City Is Popular Among Tourists

Construction Of Old Fort Marion Begun By Spanish In 1672

St. Augustine, the nation's oldest city, site of many interesting historical monuments, and a "must" on the itinerary of every soldier and sailor on furlough in the state, is located on the Atlantic coast about 85 miles from Sanford. With good roads all the way, a party can easily drive to St. Augustine, see the city and return to Sanford in the same day.

While in St. Augustine, most visitors first go to Fort Mose, National Monument, or Castillo de San Marcos.

The building of the fort was started in 1672 by the Spanish to protect St. Augustine, the first permanent white settlement in this country. Castillo de San Marcos, as the Spanish called the fort, became a focal point of Spanish colonial culture. Spain's last impregnable outpost on the shores of the North Atlantic. Fort Marion is a symmetrically shaped, four-sided structure constructed in the fashion developed by Vauban, the great French military engineer, surrounded by a moat 40 feet wide, its only entrance is across a drawbridge.

The great walls are from nine to 16 feet thick, constructed of coquina blocks, a native marine shell-rock. The coquina blocks are cemented together by an oyster lime mortar.

Fine Workmanship
Beautifully arched casemates and interesting cornices testify to the workmanship and imagination of the Spanish builders.

The fort contains guardrooms, magazines, living quarters for the garrison, store rooms, and a chapel. Nearly all the rooms open on a court, about 100 feet square. Fort Marion has had an exciting history. In 1668, English freshwaters sacked and plundered St. Augustine. As a result of the growing British menace, the present stone fort, Castillo de San Marcos (Fort Marion) was built at the north entrance to St. Augustine harbor. The first keelson of fire of the new stone fort came in 1702 when South Carolinians under Governor James Moore unsuccessfully attacked it. Another South Carolina attack in 1722 was likewise repulsed.

When Gen. James Oglethorpe founded Georgia in 1733, rivalry between the Spanish and English became even more acute. Troubles arose on land and sea—runaway slaves, hostile Indians, pirates, and a desperate war with Fort Miantanzas in 1737 and strengthened Fort Marion. In 1740, Oglethorpe attacked an advantage in this way over the less used standard crate which has to be nailed shut.

Pine and hardwood are used for crate materials, and due to the fact that hardwood trees often grow in swampy sections where trucks would bog down, a number of oxcarts are used to haul the logs out, and these, Mr. Shinholser stated, have proved very satisfactory. Other equipment is also used in the swamps, including ground skidders, mules and caterpillar tractors. The mill is operated electrically, and about 75 are employed, of which at present 40 are women, who do the lighter jobs and work in accordance with government regulations, Mr. Shinholser said.

Lumber is sawed during the summer and cut into veneer slabs, tips and side tops, which provides, therefore, year around work for employees. Demand for crates at present is heavier than can be supplied, he added. He also stated he would welcome a visit by service men to the mill.

Oranges, grapefruit and tangerines are often shipped in wrappers, and in addition a cardboard rim is placed around the top of fruit boxes, which when the box top is clamped down, prevents the fruit from being scratched or splintered. The Crown Paper Company, with the largest plant of its kind in the east to print wrappers is located here. They also control patents on the Nokut fruit guard. Paper used in the big plant come from the State of Washington in huge rolls and is made of virgin spruce. Formerly shipped through the Panama Canal to Jacksonville, and then to Sanford via the St. Johns River, due to the war and shipping hazards it is now brought across the continent by rail. George D. Bishop is president and treasurer of the company.

Industry requires power, which in this respect is amply supplied here with electricity from the interconnected system of plants of the Florida Power and Light Company. Situated on the St. Johns River about three miles from Sanford is one of these large plants which is on a 150 acre tract of land in Volusia County. Most of the 40 employees of the plant make their home in Sanford.

As high as an eight story building, and surmounted by a big black smokestack, the plant is an imposing sight. A huge oil tank with a capacity of 55,000 barrels is located adjacent to the plant as well as a smaller tank. The turbine which turns the generator to produce the 10,000 kilowatt capacity of the plant is a mammoth machine. The turbine wheel weighs 40 tons and turns 1800 times a minute during the year except for one week repair period taken annually to check up on and repair the machinery.

Across Lake Monroe opposite Sanford is a large power plant operated by the Florida Power Corporation which serves communities throughout the ridge section of Florida. Running at full capacity at the present time is the Ox Fibre Company which produces over 5,000 brushes daily from the fibre of the common Florida palmetto tree. This plant, also located in Volusia County about a half mile off State Road 8, and beyond the Florida Power and Light Plant, employs many people who live in Sanford. The payroll is more than $150,000 annually.

crop two packing houses have been erected in the Oviedo area. One of these is Nelson and Co., of which E. F. Wheeler is president and T. L. Lingo is secretary and treasurer. Nelson and Co., which also operates a hardware and farm implement stores ships and packs both citrus and celery. Each year, approximately 600 carloads of both these crops are shipped from Oviedo by Nelson and Co.

The Wheeler Fertilizer Co. a subsidiary, mixes crop fertilizer and has a capacity of over 400 tons per week. J. P. Cox is manager of the fertilizer factory. An ice manufacturing plant and a pre-cooling station are operated at Lake Charm by the Lake Charm Fruit Co. W. A. Ward of Winter Park is president and manager of this company. Other growers and shippers include Max Len Lohmeyer at Oviedo and A. Duda and Sons at nearby Slavia. Mr. Duda also operates a pre-cooling plant which handles some 600 acres of produce yearly.

Prospects for the coming agricultural season look good according to Mr. Wheeler and Frank Talbot, who is affiliated with Nelson and Co.

Telephone Calls We Can Do Without!

"You know, Martha, we have been talking back and forth on the telephone for years. It is one of the most enjoyable breaks in the day for me. Right now, though, I called to ask you to help me help our best friend Uncle Sam!

"They tell me that he makes millions of vital war calls every day and his calls come on top of the telephone like you and me make our calls."

"I have depended on me until now, but now I am being called on to help Uncle Sam."

that would make any difference to the war effort. Here's how it was explained to me: Every call we make must go through the same busy switchboards that handle war calls. So you see if we, and everyone else, talk less we will help to keep busy telephone equipment free for prompt handling of the vital business of war. I don't mean for us to stop calling altogether, but now that we are called on to help Uncle Sam, let's talk so long when we do call."

With such convincing arguments, this phone company is helping to win our Nation the war that is being fought.

Like Blazes

There was a fine, human story in one of the papers the other day, a simple thing but one that sticks in the mind. She came from an army air man to his sister at home.

Well, you let a story like that soak in, and your mind turns back to the simple words, "like blazes." It's a common expression, most people would call it mere slang.

The power of great words, backed by strong desire, can work miracles. And these are times when great words are needed, as the basis of great deeds.

Realism in Planning

Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr says that the approach to the problem of the post war world must be on a realistic basis rather than one of dreaming idealism, and the realism based on historic fact.

Dr. Niebuhr made a comparison between the Peace of Westphalia, which closed the Thirty Years' War in 1648, and the peace to come. That peace settled the conflict between Catholics and Protestants, giving full legal rights to Catholics, Calvinists and Lutherans.

New Race Of Coast Guards Are 'Iron Men, Wood Ships'

BOSTON, Jan. 25. (AP) - Uncle Sam's Coast Guard is building a new race of "iron men and wood ships" in the Corsair fleet of converted yachts that day and night are patrolling the Atlantic seaboard.

Unlike the men in other branches of that service and in the U. S. Navy who are taught mechanical trades in order to operate their ships, the sailors of the Corsair fleet are studying old-fashioned seamanship - learning to "hand, reef and steer" as in the days of long ago.

The wooden ship crews have a lot of pride in their service, and in their ability to stay out on their patrol, regardless of weather, storm or cold.

In winter, in the North Atlantic, it takes quite a bit more than pride to stand the gaff of rough days and nights on the wintry ocean fighting howling gales to work their ice covered sails and cold-diffused ropes.

For most of the vessels in the Corsair fleet were built for Summer pleasure cruising. They had heating systems installed, with radiators in strategic places heated from a small hot-water boiler, and small deck-homes give the men at the wheel some protection from the weather.

But the lookouts, manning their posts on deck or in the rigging, have no such protection. They wear heavy fleeced coats and gloves, and weather helmets of heavy waterproof cloth. They even have face-masks and helmets which cover their heads and faces completely. Small holes in the nose-piece let them breathe.

The figure most often referred to at the moment is 16 percent. Less than that might result in a greater readjustment payment due at the end of the year. More, in some instances, could possibly result in the Treasury's having to pay out small sums to compensate for overpayments.

Strategy Planned Calling For Defeat Of Italy, Germany, First, With Invasion Of European Continent, Then Japan

Churchill, Roosevelt, Giraud, De Gaulle And Where They Met

President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, with their staffs and aides, flew to Casablanca, Morocco (map above) Jan. 25, where they formed plans to refuse any peace negotiations of the Axis until the enemy meets final defeat. Pictured also are General Charles De Gaulle and Henri Giraud, who held a two-day conference to settle major political issues, following intervention by the two United Nations leaders. Josef Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek, although unable to attend the conference, were kept closely informed of all developments.

Axis Offers Nervous Jibes Since Meeting

Britain Hopeful As U.S. Seams Skies For Signs Of Military Lighting

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—Supreme strategy of victory calling for the defeat of Italy and Germany first and Japan second and providing for a general European offensive as soon as possible after the conclusion of the African campaign was believed in authoritative quarters today to have been agreed upon by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

Generally exhilarated, Washington already has scanned the skies for the first flashes of military lightning generated by the North African conference.

In London, members of Parliament today expressed confidence that developments would appear unexpectedly soon from the Casablanca conference. New hope surged through Britain, while nervous jibes came from the Axis.

Actual application of Allied strategy was believed left to combined chiefs of staff of British and American forces.

One of the first fruits of the historic conferences at Casablanca, Morocco, was the bringing out of a successful parable meeting between Gen. Charles De Gaulle of the Fighting French and Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud, High Commissioner of French Africa.

The French leaders announced in a joint statement that they were in full agreement that the goal of liberating their homeland will be reached by a union in war of all Frenchmen fighting side by side with their allies.

Mr. Roosevelt flew the Atlantic by clipper and proceeded from a North African port to a defense meeting at Casablanca in a four-engine bomber for his meeting with Churchill and with virtually every top personage in both the British and American military commands.

In Russia for the bulk of Hitler's siege armies before Stalin grid, originally estimated at 220,000 troops, hours of "defense" the Soviet Union. A victory bulletin from Soviet headquarters declared only 12,000 survivors, caught in two pockets.

The Russian men communique hinted encircling tactics also were being pursued on the Voronezh front, where new places were reported captured as well as in the North Caucasus.

Allied offensives squeezed the Axis from both sides, on the Tunisian front. Communiqués reported United States forces were cracking through German defenses in Sousse valley and the British were fighting their way tentatively toward the Tunisian border against Rommel's battered rear guard.

Allied planes were credited with inflicting new havoc on Japan's invasion armies in Burma and the South Sea, even as Prime Minister Curtin of Australia appealed for greater strength in the southwest Pacific. Lieut. Gen. Robert Eichelberger, commander of Americans in the Papuan campaign, declared the Allied triumph on new Guilga was a "slap in the face for the Japs" and his first pushing around of the war.

American reconnaissance planes flying over Wake Island were attacked but returned safely to their base.

OPA Rules Out Attendance At Civic Meetings

Driving Home Cook, If Customary, Is Considered Personal Necessity

Driving to attend Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions, Junior League, Masons, Elk, Chamber of Commerce, P. T. A. Boy Scouts, American Legion, Civitans and Eastern Star meetings constitutes a violation of the pleasure driving ban, Harold C. Johnson, regional representative, today advised A. E. Peterson, executive secretary of the rationing board.

Holders of B and C rations have never been allowed to "pleasure" ride on their rations, Mr. Peterson pointed out, consequently the A ration rules are the same which have always applied to B and C allotments.

Driving a cook home who lives many miles from her work, if this has been customary, is considered a personal necessity and an employer may continue to use gasoline for this purpose, Mr. Peterson said.

Under the personal necessity classification would be driving for the purpose of essential shopping such as marketing and buying for medical supplies, driving for the purpose of attending to other or essential personal necessity driving includes attending religious services, visits of funerals, attending meetings directly related to the occupation or profession of the owner or person using the vehicle, such as farm mobilization meetings, ministers' meetings and doctors' meetings where they will hear a lecture by a specialist.

Clarifying driving by Naval or military personnel on leave or furlough, the instructions stated that rations may be used to visit relatives and make social calls, provided the driver has evidence that he is on furlough. This does not mean that the service man may go to theaters or night clubs. If the soldier does not own the car but is with friends who own the car, the pleasure ban would apply to the owner, unless the owner is a chauffeur for the soldier or unless the soldier is driving the car.

Occupational driving is not prohibited and this includes driving in connection with a business or parental work by a person who contributes to the war effort or to the public welfare, pursuit of a regular and recognized course of study, or driving to a work house or paying a social call is a violation, but if the driver's home is on the way to or from an errand that is permissible under the regulations, the driver may attend the movie.

Progress Made In Starting USO Project

Father William Nachtrab, Moderator of the USO today told Kiwanians at their luncheon at the Hotel Mayfair that he had been informed by Mayor Edward Higgins that approval of the specifications for the Federal Recreation Building to be erected in Fort Mellon Park, should be now received approval of the War Production Board in Washington. He added that Mayor Higgins had been assured of this fact in a recent telephone conversation with Jacksonville architects Smith and Gillespie, who drew plans for the building.

"If there is no further red tape or delay, construction work will soon start on the project, following award of construction contracts, and in my opinion it should be finished in about 10 weeks," said Father Nachtrab.

Reports of the different Kiwanis committees were received by Dr. L. T. Doss, the following chairman of committees reported: Agriculture, Howard Long attendance, Ned Smith; boys and girls activities, J. W. Hall; business standards, E. C. Harper; education, Sanford Doudney; Music, Dr. R. W. Rucker; Progress, Dr. L. T. Doss; publicity, L. H. Smith; churches, Judge H. W. Ware; reading report of T. W. Lawton; social events, Father Nachtrab; boy scouts, Ralph Smith. Proposal to form a "war work committee" was made by John Naylor of the Key Club.

John Naylor of the Key Club told the club that due to wartime restrictions, only 80 members of the State Key Club would attend the convention to be held here in March. Last year, he stated, 400 boys attended the Key convention in Tampa. He also made a request that members arranged to house some of the boys during their stay. He was introduced by Prof. G. E. McKay, and both rode to the meeting on bicycles.

Four Boys Await Robbery Trial By Juvenile Court

Four boys between the ages of 11 and 15 years are in the County Jail awaiting trial in the Juvenile Court after they had allegedly stolen goods upon a person by Deputy Sheriff Jack Hickson, following confession of one of them to participation in a series of entries and robberies of places of business and schools during the past several months. Police Chief Roy G. Williams, cooperated with Deputy Hickson in the arrests. Names of the minors are withheld by Sheriff Charles Hand.

Deputy Hickson stated that on Sunday evening, the Hill Lumber and Supply Company had been entered, via the second story and some small change stolen from the office. An entry, according to company employees, was made into the office by means of a very small window in the office enclosure 15 inches in the office enclosure. This, Mr. Hickson said, led to the suspicion that the entry had been made by boys.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27. (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today approved the nomination of Edward J. Flynn as Minister to Australia by a vote of 13 to 10.

Yesterday Flynn resigned as New York Democratic national committeeman a step apparently aimed at winning increased democratic support in the forthcoming senate vote on his confirmation to the diplomatic post.

The resignation was announced by Frank C. Walker, who succeeded Flynn as chairman of the national committee, as the senate foreign relations committee prepared to vote tomorrow.
