SANFORD — Seminole County Extension Home Economist Barbara Hughes Gregg reports that the Quaker Oats Company and Stokley-Van Camp, Inc., are voluntarily recalling certain products.

The Van Camp's and Wolf Brand canned products are believed to have a small percentage of products insufficiently processed, which could lead to the growth of harmful food spoilage bacteria. See Page 5A.

Teen pedestrian injured

SANFORD — An automobile accident involving a 13-year-old female pedestrian occurred at about 8:45 this morning at the intersection of U.S. Highway 17-92 and Bush Boulevard in Sanford.

The victim, whose injuries were not reported to be life threatening, was transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital by Atlantic Ambulance Company.

Atlantic officials could not release her name, but reported that she was in stable condition.

Orlando station settles in case

ORLANDO — An Orlando television station agreed to pay the parents of a young kidnap-murder victim $250,000 for broadcasting pictures of the 6-year-old's skull found in the Oviedo area.

The settlement of the lawsuit filed by Bob and Donna Armstrong against WESH came on the eve of the trial scheduled to start today.

Lawyers for both sides would not disclose the amount of the settlement, but Armstrong told the Orlando Sentinel it was about $250,000.

"I always will feel that what they did was wrong, and I feel, in a sense, they owned up to it and said they were wrong," Armstrong said. "I'm glad it's over with."

Regina Mae Armstrong was kidnapped outside a baby sitter's east Orlando apartment on June 6, 1985, sparking the most intensive manhunt in the city's history.

In September 1987, a construction worker in Oviedo found a skull and Regina's dress. Oviedo police did not link the evidence with the girl's disappearance until July 1988. Shortly after that, WESH aired a picture of the skull.

No one has been charged with the girl's kidnapping or death.

Correction

In a story published Monday in the Herald, Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett erroneously was quoted as saying possession of a lesser amount of cocaine is a misdemeanor in Florida while possessing a greater amount is a felony. All cocaine possession is a felony. Possession of small amounts of marijuana is a misdemeanor.

Mayor: 'We'll fight'

Sanford officials praise residents, pledge support for anti-crime plan

By LACY DOMEN
Herald People Editor

SANFORD — Mayor Bettye Smith and Sanford City Commissioners vowed last night to renew support for Police Chief Steve Harriett and residents who have banded together to fight crime in the city, especially in and around downtown.

Smith praised citizens' efforts. "It will take education, involvement and our law enforcement. We're not going to take it anymore. (Fighting) it is everything I encourage you," she said during the city commission meeting. "I think you're all on the right track," the mayor told the audience, many of whom will become part of a citizens' task force soon.

Georgetown residents, Neighborhood Watch members from Old Sanford and members from a newly formed group, Concerned Organized Men in Action (COMA) spoke to commissioners about their concerns for the neighborhoods.

"Thank you for trying to clean up our areas. It's a harsh problem," Bernard Mitchell told Harriett and the commissioners.

"I rode with the police one whole night. We had six gun orficals and I was scared for my life. These cops are worked hard," said Liz Williams, chairman for Neighborhood Watch in the downtown area.

Harriett and Commissioner Lon Howell outlined the plan. See Sanford, Page 5A

City Commission candidates square off for political battle

By NICK PFEIFAU

LAKE MARY — It was two hours of political barfing last night. The four candidates for Lake Mary City Commission met in a give-and-take debate.

Approximately 75 citizens packed the old City Hall building for the event, sponsored by the Lake Mary Optimist Club, with assistance of the Civic Improvement Association and other groups. Optimist President Rick Howe moderated the meeting.

Seat 4 incumbent Tom Mahoney and his challenger A.R. "Doc" Gore, and Seat 2 incumbent George Duriva and his opponent, John McMenamy were given questions written by members of the audience. Each was allowed four minutes for opening remarks, then were given one minute each for response to questions.

Howe said this morning, "While this was the third year we have had a political debate, it was, by far the best." He observed, "The audience was quiet, extremely interested, and gave some excellent questions."

Although supporters as well as the wives of the individual candidates were on hand, no one applauded or commented in any way in response to the candidates' comments. At the end of the event, a large round of applause closed the program as citizens appeared to be showing their appreciation for the debate presentation.

Although a few questions were earmarked for a specific candidate, the majority were asked of all four. See Debate, Page 5A

Reward offered in rash of church fires

From staff and wire reports

GAINESVILLE — Federal agents are offering a $200,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and prosecution of whoever has been setting fire to churches statewide over the past year.

The fires include one in Sanford this past February.

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms of the U.S. Treasury Department announced the reward Monday as it investigates four Gainesville church fires, a $1 million blaze in an Ocala church and a church fire in Lake City.

More than 40 federal agents plus state and local investigators are gathering clues to the workweek rash of fires which began Oct. 18 in Lake City at First Presbyterian Church. A fire in Ocala on Thursday caused an estimated $1 million to the First Baptist church.

One of the Gainesville fires last week left members of the First Church of Christ Scientists without a sanctuary.

Church members crowded into an office for services Sunday. A member, Marcia Sutton said she felt comfort knowing the church would rebuild and its congregation would remain together.

That's just the nature of this congregation. The church isn't just a building. It's the people and the message that comes across," she said.

The string of blazes brings to 23 the total suspicious church fires in Florida since summer 1990.

Fund-raising for Dream Auction kicks off

By VICKI DeSORMIER

LAKE MARY — About 40 supporters gathered this morning at the Timucuan Country Club to help the Seminole Community College Foundation kick off its annual fund-raising efforts with a breakfast that was a prelude to the 1992 Dream Auction.

The Dream Auction, which will be held Feb. 21, 1992 at the Sheraton Hotel in Maryland is the college foundation's biggest money-maker of the year. Last year, they raised more than $100,000 for the foundation's needs.

Rep. Art Gendle has served as the auctioneer at the 125-an Auction each year since its inception in 1987. He has since again agreed to take on the task.

Local businesses and prominent individuals donated gifts and services who are bid on by those in the morning. More than 300 items are expected to be sold in the 1992 event.

Among those who contributed items for 1992 are: another source, SAN. Tom McKeown, a member of the Florida House of Representatives, and a member of the Florida House of Representatives. See Auction, Page 5A

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Chiles: Loosen health care money

By GARY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The federal government must loosen the reins on Medicaid money to allow states to improve access to health care, Gov. Lawton Chiles told the Silver-Haired Legislature.

"What we're saying is, give us the flexibility to use the funds that are available now," Chiles said. "We'll go as far as we can."

Chiles told the 13th annual gathering of civic-minded older Floridians on Monday that he and other Democratic governors would urge congressional leaders today to remove strings from federal health dollars now preventing states from designing their own health access plans.

Chiles did not release any specific proposals for improving access to health care in Florida, but he said more options would be open.

"There are some things we could do in the Legislature, and some things we could do administratively," Chiles said.

An example: It took Florida four years to get the federal bureaucracy to waive Medicaid requirements for a pilot program assigning a volunteer physician to every Aid to Families with Dependent Children recipient in Hillsborough and Pinellas counties.

The program is intended to provide preventative medicine to the poor, reducing their potential need for expensive care later.

Chiles planned to meet today in Washington with a group of Democratic governors to discuss a strategy for gaining control of Medicaid programs that are breaking state budgets across the country. He then will discuss the issue with Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, House Speaker Tom Foley and House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt.

Agency hopes to convince commuters

Florida officials want you to share a ride to work, and they're spending $4.8 million in the next three years to sell the idea of carpooling and public transportation.

While it's a difficult selling job, state highway officials say car pools and public transportation are the only hopes for alleviating traffic congestion.

To that end, the state Department of Transportation has awarded a $600,000-a-year contract to transportation consultant ATE/Ryder Systems to operate the Gold Coast Commuter Assistance Program in Broward, Dade and Palm Beach counties.

The state is also spending $300,000 per year to start Tampa Bay Area Commuter Services in Tampa. Similar programs are planned for Jacksonville and Orlando.

"We can't go on paying over South Florida," said Bill Mustard, DOT commuter program manager in Tallahassee.

Citrus leads decline in farm land values

GAINESVILLE — A sharp decline in the worth of citrus land has pushed the market value of Florida's farm land down for the first time since a survey began tracking values in 1986.

The survey, which divides Florida into Northwest, Northeast, Central and Southern regions based upon agricultural production, asked respondents to estimate the market value of various types of land as of May 1991 and six months earlier. It did not supply price averages.

The survey was conducted by John E. Reynolds, a Food and Resource Economics professor for the University of Florida's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences.

"The most noticeable change is the decline in citrus land values from November 1990 to May 1991," Reynolds said in a news release Monday. "Orange grove values declined 9 percent in the South and 8 percent in the Central area, and grapefruit grove values decreased 7 percent in the South and 1 percent in the Central region."

In the past year, orange grove values have declined 16 percent and grapefruit groves 8 percent to 11 percent statewide.

Head of cost containment board resigns

TAMPA — The director of the state Health Care Cost Containment Board said he would resign to head up a new organization designed to pool health insurance purchasing for public employees.

James Bracher said Monday he would step down in December from his eight-year post at the agency charged with regulating hospital budgets.

Bracher said he would become director of the Florida Health Care Purchasing Cooperative, a non-profit, private organization created during the past session of the state Legislature.

The group intends to contract with private health insurers to cover employees of state and local governments.

"It just sounded like an interesting, exciting thing to do. It could have a major impact on how governments purchase health care," Bracher said.

Bracher's decision to leave the agency has nothing to do with the cost containment board's approval last week of controversial recommendations that would limit referrals to doctor-owned clinics, he said.

Gathering encourages dumping 'rascals'

TAMPA — Texas billionaire H. Ross Perot and former presidential candidate John B. Anderson will be among those at an "anti-incumbent" rally designed to let people vent their anger against Congress.

The rally planned for Saturday is backed by the Tampa-based, anti-incumbent organization THRO, which stands for "Throw the Hypocritical Rascals Out."

The rally is part of a two-day symposium on better government, sponsored by THRO and a newly formed national coalition of political reform groups.

Jack Gargan, the retired Tampa financial planner who launched THRO, said the organizations involved in the symposium have different views on how government should be changed. But one view they all have in common is that government is not working.

Willettes acquitted in battery case

FORT LAUDERDALE — Jurors found prostitution suspect Kathy Willetts and her husband, Jeffrey, innocent of attacking his former in-laws during an argument.

Mrs. Willetts sobbed with relief as the Broward County court clerk read the innocent verdict Monday. The Willettses were each charged with two counts of battery for hitting David and Mary Ann Chaddon, the parents of Jeffrey Willetts' first wife, during an argument in the Willettses' driveway last December.

"One down and 35 to go," said Ellis Rubin, the Willettses' attorney. The couple still face a total of 35 criminal charges in an unrelated prostitution case. Their trial is set for Dec. 4.

Court hears budget cuts arguments

By JACQUE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Supreme Court heard arguments over which of the other two branches of state government should balance Florida's budget in the wake of lagging tax collections.

One side said the governor and Cabinet should be allowed to make the cuts. The other held that only lawmakers could make the policy decisions as to where to reduce funding.

"What it comes down to is what is the authority the Legislature can delegate," Justice Ben Overton said during Monday's oral arguments.

At stake is a $579 million cut that Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet approved last week, pending court confirmation of their power to take midyear steps to balance the state's $29 billion budget just four months into the 1990-91 fiscal year.

An audience of about 170 people, nearly a third of them standing, packed the courtroom for the oral arguments Monday, which took nearly two hours. Dozens of others watched the proceedings on a monitor outside the courtroom.

The court has taken the case on an expedited schedule but has not said when it will rule. A decision within the week was possible, according to Clerk Sid White.

The governor and Cabinet have taken similar action several times in just the past year, but this is the first time they've been accused of violating the separation of powers between Florida's different branches of government.

Chiles on Monday said he was hopeful the court would agree that he and the Cabinet had the right to make the cut. If not, he said, "I think the Legislature would be in session 24 hours a day."

Identities of Lotto winners still a mystery

By JACQUE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The identity of the Lotto players who hold the six tickets to a $90 million jackpot remained a mystery to day. But the names of two people arrested on charges of altering a Lotto ticket were well known to lottery officials.

Eather U. Kim, 23, of Mentor, Ohio, and Bradley Gerrard

Smith, 31, of Vero Beach, were both in Leon County Jail today on third-degree felony charges of altering a lottery ticket, a jail spokeswoman said. The two were being held on a $1,000 bond each.

Frank Carter, head of security at Lottery Department, said the couple presented an altered ticket with the six winning numbers to last week's jackpot Monday morning.

Felony warrant arrest

Regina Bailey, 42, of 1810 Southwest Rd. in Sanford, was arrested Friday. She was charged in connection with a warrant on charges of felony theft. She is currently in the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. She will continue to be held without bond.

Disorderly conduct, trespassing charged

Clyde D. Jones, 22, of 2746 Ridgwood Ave., Apt. 61 in Sanford, was arrested on Saturday. He was charged with disorderly conduct and trespassing after a warning.

Jones was taken into a custody at a large party that 'had to be shut down' by the Sanford Police Department. Ten minutes earlier, police said, he had been warned not to be outside causing a disturbance.

When he refused to comply, he was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $600 bond.

Arrest resisted

Rodney Allen Waters, 23, of 408 Tangelo in Sanford was arrested on Sunday.

He was charged with resisting arrest without violence and disorderly intoxication.

When police arrived at a disturbance at 2483 French Ave. in Sanford, Waters fled the scene.

Sanford Police tracked him down about a half a mile away. There was a strong odor of alcohol about him, police reported.

They took him into custody and transported him to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility where he was held on $600 bond.

Women charged with additional burglary

Eliisa Montgomery, 18, was arrested at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on Sunday.

Already in the facility for burglarizing her mother's home on Friday, she was charged with an additional burglary for removing $25 from her sister's purse while in her mother's home another time.

An addition $5,000 bond was added.

Arrest made for disorderly intoxication

A 'John Doe' who gave arresting officers no age, but who lives at 558 Pasadena Ave. in Longwood, was arrested on Sunday and charged with disorderly intoxication.

Longwood Police responded to 553 Pasadena Ave. where the subject was drunk and refusing to leave. They took him home and told him not to return.

However, when they drove back by his residence shortly thereafter he was standing in the roadway waving his arms.

Police said he refused to give basic information. He was transported to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held without bond.

Sheriff will meet with NAACP reps

By VICKI DECONNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sheriff Don Ealinger will meet with representatives of the Seminole County branch of the NAACP (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People) on Wednesday evening at 6:30 p.m., Ealinger's office reported. Last week the executive committee of the NAACP sent a letter to Ealinger demanding that he publicly apologize to the Midway community for his handling of this summer's alleged gang rape of a white woman by four black men in that community.

Ealinger maintains that he has apologized to the community as well as to the individuals involved, but that he will meet with those who believe he could have been more sensitive to the community at the time arrests were made in the alleged rape.

Ealinger said at the time he first received the letter that he was willing to meet with all segments of the community in an effort to improve communications between the sheriff's department and citizens.

Last week, Ealinger reported that he had been unable to contact any member of the NAACP executive committee to discuss the letter that they had sent. He said a member of the committee contacted him at week's end to arrange the meeting.

Ealinger said the community had misinterpreted his actions in the matter of the Midway arrests.

Turner Clayton, president of the Seminole branch of the NAACP, was not available for comment.

Sexuality curriculum on display at library

By VICKI DECONNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The curriculum for the high school and elementary sexuality classes will be on public display at all five branches of the Seminole County Public Library through the end of the week.

The course materials, which have been the subject of some controversy in the last few months with parents and Christian groups, will be accompanied by an evaluation form that parents may fill out with their reactions and comments.

Groups of concerned parents faced off with the district's curriculum writing teams over the high school materials because they believed the course materials did not express an abstinence-based policy. Rather, materials concerning contraception and alternative lifestyles were mentioned in the curriculum.

The writing team reworked the course materials to emphasize the abstinence-based policy, but make reference to the more controversial items with the directions that the students discuss the matters more thoroughly with their parents.

Roger Beathard, co-ordinator of Health Education for the school district, brought the materials and comment cards to branches in Sanford, Lake Mary, Oviedo, Longwood and the main branch in Casselberry.

It will be available for public view until Friday.

The district hopes to have the curriculum in place by the second half of this school year. The school board must still vote to accept or reject the rewritten curriculum before it can be taught in the classrooms.

The state Department of Education will require all schools to include sexuality education at all levels in their curriculum beginning in the fall of 1992.

Alachua may tap superintendent

By VICKI DECONNER
Herald Staff Writer

The Alachua County School Board will choose a new superintendent next Tuesday.

There's a one in four chance that their choice will be Robert Hughes who is presently the superintendent of Seminole County schools.

Hughes applied for the position in Alachua County four months ago before the Seminole County school district had decided whether Hughes would be one of the finalists in this district's search.

Hughes, who has been elected four times to the position in Seminole County, can not be elected again as the position is now an appointed one.

Voters approved a referendum last November to make the position a permanent one. However, the referendum does not expire until 1992.

Dr. U.S. Longstreth, chairman of the Alachua County School Board, said the last of the four finalists in that contest would be interviewed for a final time today.

He refused to speculate if any of the candidates had won any advantage over the others with the school board members.

"We're just finishing up the interviews and we'll see next Tuesday night what we decide," he said.

Longstreth added that Hughes' strong recommendations from Seminole County colleagues had made him a strong finalist.

Hughes, who is on a hunting trip out of state this week, was not available for comment.

Sanford paves the way for affordable housing

By LAGY DOMEN
Herald People Editor

SANFORD — Sanford City Commissioners last night unanimously backed a city ordinance on first reading that would establish an affordable housing program allowing qualified applicants to make time payments on impact fees.

"We'll be one of the first jurisdictions in the state," City Manager Bill Simmons said.

Simmons explained that the city is attempting to "facilitate affordable housing construction by allowing for time payments of impact fee charges otherwise payable in one lump."

The program would be tailored for people who meet certain qualifications, Simmons said.

"Basically we would be looking at applicants with an income that averages 80 percent of the median income for Orlando. That's a broad range, probably an income from the high 20s to high 40s depending on the number of people in the household," Simmons explained.

Simmons said a portion of the funds for the program may come from the city's general funds. City Commissioner A.A. McCleanah suggested allocating a portion out of the Community Development Block Grant money each year, a practice the federal Housing and Urban Development, HUD, has sanctioned.

McCleanah said he favored targeting new construction in the program instead of rehabilitating older buildings.

"I'd a lot rather see it go into a program for new housing instead of rental rehab for landlords," McCleanah said.

Given Sanford's demographics, Simmons felt the city would be ideal for the program. "It's appropriate for Sanford to be a leader in this program," he said.

A new army?

France and Germany plan to form a joint army corps that could be the nucleus of a future European defense force. In principle it's a good idea: A prosperous Europe no longer threatened by Soviet aggression is quite capable of taking care of its own security.

The question is whether this is the right time for such a departure in a European Community beset by internal differences over how to achieve economic and political unity and by external concern about the impact of upheavals in Eastern Europe.

The Franco-German force described by French President Francois Mitterrand and German Chancellor Helmut Kohl revives the idea of a European Defense Community first proposed in the 1950s but rejected by France. To keep the idea alive, the Western European Union was formed with France, Germany and Britain as the core. But the WEU, which now includes nine of the 12 European Community members, has played only a marginal consultative role on defense matters.

France and Germany already have a combined, mainly symbolic, 4,200-man brigade. An army corps of 50,000 men, augmented by units from other European countries, might be much more the beginning of a European army answerable only to the WEU and, by extension, to the EC, rather than to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

NATO members Britain, Italy, the Netherlands and the United States oppose such a force because its mission would overlap with that of NATO.

Why the Kohl-Mitterrand proposal, and why now? In part, it's an effort to regain the momentum toward European unity weakened by the divided and uncertain response to the Persian Gulf crisis and by the EC's failure so far to mediate an end to the Yugoslav civil war.

These factors, plus continued squabbling over the desired pace and extent of European monetary union, call into question the EC's ability to forge effective common policies.

Mitterrand and Kohl believe that, as East and West race to shrink their European arsenals, this is an ideal time for Europe to assert greater independence from U.S. policy. Yet the instability in Eastern Europe and the social and economic strain that it's already causing in the West, the need for close cooperation among Moscow, Washington and Western Europe on security matters and the EC's internal problems, all argue against eroding the foundations of NATO.

Paris and Bonn have added a provocative ingredient to the mix of issues involving future European security and the role North America will play in it. It's worth talking about, starting with the NATO summit meeting in November in Rome.

But Europe has so many crucial issues on its plate that a wholly new European defense force should be left until it's time for dessert.

"LOOK! THE ECONOMY IS WEARING NO RECOVERY!"

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

No Middle East peace is in sight

I hate to be the skunk at the garden party, but I must warn my readers not to get any exaggerated expectations about the prospects for genuine peace in the Middle East.

Oh, Secretary Baker may cobble together some arrangement that he chooses to call a peace settlement, and the antagonists in the region may even (most of them) agree to sign it. But within a matter of months or years at most, they will be back at each other's throats. In the words of Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. (who was talking about something else, but the rule is a general one), "Between two groups of people who want to make inconsistent kinds of worlds, I see no remedy but force."

But why a peace conference at this particular time? The swift and overwhelming victory of U.S. forces in the Gulf War, and the more or less simultaneous collapse of the Soviet Union, drastically altered the balance of forces in the Middle East. After 40 years of Cold War, in which the United States underwrote the continued survival of Israel and the Soviet Union backed Israel's Arab foes, the United States has suddenly become the world's only surviving superpower. Not unreasonably, President Bush wondered if this wasn't the time to bang a few heads in the region and compel a settlement of the longstanding Arab-Israeli dispute. So Secretary of State Baker set out on his interminable series of trips.

But in the long run they will not — cannot — avail. The Israelis have established a Jewish state in what used to be called Palestine because they are convinced that God gave the land to them over 3,000 years ago. The Arab Palestinians, who have lived there for many centuries and have generally constituted a majority of the population, are equally convinced that the Israelis simply drove them out of their homes by force in the late 1940s, and are determined to reclaim "their" land. Their fellow Arabs in the surrounding countries strongly sympathize with that view.

Baker's basic strategy is to "trade land for peace": i.e., persuade Israel to give up most (not all) of the territory it seized in the 1967 war — the Gaza Strip, the West Bank and East Jerusalem — in return for solemn pledges by its Arab neighbors to recognize and accept, in perpetuity, the existence of the State of Israel. The security of Israel would then be guaranteed by the United States, and probably by other major nations (Russia, France, Germany, Britain, etc.) as well as the United Nations.

The trouble is that no Israeli government can conceivably gamble the nation's security on the pledges of a bunch of Arab politicians. They will all be dead or out of office in a few years, quite possibly to be replaced by others who will reject the peace settlement as wholly invalid because (they will say) it was imposed on the Arabs by force — just as the Chinese today have successfully rejected the treaty that in 1841 ceded Hong Kong to Britain forever.

Israel would then find itself in a wholly impossible military position, with a "waistline" squeezed to a 12-mile strip between the West Bank and the Mediterranean. Ah, but what about the guarantees of Israel's security by the United States and all those other major powers? Very comforting, no doubt; but what sensible person ever bet the farm on the promise of a major power? President Diem, maybe?

They will be back at each other's throats.

Middle-class relief no cure-all

GREENVILLE, Miss. — The bidding war is about to be joined in earnest between Democrats and Republicans — a war for the political allegiance of the middle class. The Democrats, through the agency of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, fired the first shot, offering a massive tax cut for middle-income Americans. The White House has already made it clear there will be more than one counter-offer. Considering where the economic goodies have flowed over the past 10 years or so, which has been largely to the top 10 percent of the population, the conflict is overdue and should be beneficial to most of the people.

But it should not be confused with an effective strategy for dealing with the endemic economic and social problems of places like the Mississippi Delta, in which Greenville is the largest town. The middle class is not large enough here for there to be sufficient diffusion of the benefits of a tax cut. Poverty is a matter of daily life for the vast majority of the Delta's black population, which is itself a majority of the 18-county area's population. Poverty also lurks just over the economic horizon for much of the white population as well. Trickle-down economics, even when the trickle starts in the middle, isn't going to be enough.

Why bother with such an admonition? Primarily because there is a tendency these days within the Democratic Party to stress the need to rebuild a majority by stressing middle-class needs. Standing as part of a comprehensive approach, it is a worthwhile and honorable goal — and politically wise. But it can become a new altar before which the party bows as one, and on it could be sacrificed the needs of that large mass of American citizens who have yet to experience middle-class status. As a goal, it is a statement of the obvious. As the goal, it should be left to the Republican Party.

There is another drawback to such an approach, at least for the party that has historically prided itself on its commitment to the dispossessed and downtrodden. It writes off not merely people, but regions such as the Mississippi Delta and non-coastal Maine, places where history has left a legacy of structural poverty. It, in effect, says that there is a suburban America that is worth saving, revitalizing and encouraging, and another America — of central cities, dying rural communities and obsolete industrial towns — which does not merit attention or concern.

Perhaps in cold political calculus that makes good sense. It does not make sense for a nation that claims to be guided by notions of equality of opportunity. It does not make sense if you believe that human lives are of equal value. It makes no sense at all if you expect the United States to retain its core values and sense of self.

A visit here is a reminder of the nation's unfinished business. The old civil rights battles have been fought and largely resolved. Black politicians serve the Delta from the country seat to the U.S. House of Representatives.

Legal segregation is long dead and real integration is no farther removed from reality here than in most of the rest of America. But this is an economy in long-term depression, inhabited by people, many of whom are still victimized by lack of education and skills on the one hand and lack of jobs on the other.

Twenty-four years ago, U.S. Senators Robert Kennedy, George Murphy and Joseph Clark made a memorable trip to Mississippi. They held hearings in Jackson on poverty and malnutrition that produced evidence even the most professional white Southerners had a hard time denying.

Sen. Kennedy then took a guided tour of the Delta, visiting scenes of despair and examples of hope. He and his fellow senators carried a message of their own, which was that poverty's causes and poverty's effects did not have to be inevitable in the Delta or anywhere else. Times were worse then, on balance, than they are today, but there was a sense of possibilities and change.

Today, there is no Bobby Kennedy making well-publicized trips through the Delta and going back to Washington to demand more action from a government that is already doing more than it has ever done before. Senators as notable as Bill Bradley of New Jersey have in fact come here to observe, to talk and to ponder, but there was little they could or would promise, because the national government is not very mindful of the Delta's needs today.

Indeed, the ideologically correct position for the past decade has been a brutally direct one: government is not the solution; government is the problem. This is a region in which virtually every significant achievement, from insect and flood control to highway development, has been the product of cooperation between federal, state and local authorities.

And so the Delta is in some despair today, facing bad times and with little prospect of early relief. In this it is as one with the other areas of urban and rural deprivation. Instead of a Bobby Kennedy bringing a message of hope, there are Republicans and Democrats promising tax relief for those who have actually been making enough money to be listed in the middle class. No one in the Delta, of our country would begrudge such relief for others. They simply hope that it will not be too much longer before their problems are again also considered worthy of a place on the national agenda.

Trickle-down economics isn't going to be enough.

Reform-minded Chinese waiting

NANJING, China — This is a good place to find out who is in and who is out in China. Every evidence short of outright demonstrations suggests that the Chinese communist leadership is doomed.

Here is the mausoleum of Sun Yat-sen, who overthrew the last emperor in 1911 and established a new republic with its capital in Nanjing. His legacy is not here, but in Taiwan where his followers fled to establish their capitalist, multi-party government.

The communist leadership maintains Sun Yat-sen's tomb to draw foreign tourists and their money. But increasingly the tomb has become a shrine for locals to come and imagine what might have been, or what still could be.

Unafraid of being monitored among the large crowds here, the English-speaking Americans approach the tomb with reverence about Sun Yat-sen. At the same time they hurl epithets at the current communist regime in faraway Beijing.

Some, who travel long distances, become openly emotional when they ascend the 392 steps to the tomb. The Chinese characters above the first gate mean "Universal Love." On the main gate with its three arches is inscribed, "The World Belongs to Everyone." In the tomb are some decidedly non-communist quotations from Sun Yat-sen, all dominated by the blue and white colors of his Nationalist Party.

Another evidence of this mourning over lost opportunities is the extraordinary reverence for the late Prime Minister Zhou Enlai, who once lived in Nanjing. The respect for Zhou is almost universal in China where he is sometimes unofficially referred to as the most respected Chinese leader of this century.

Why? Because he was simple and humble and stood up to his boss, Chairman Mao Zedong. Mao, once ubiquitous, is now scorned. It is nearly impossible to find a Mao button. And his "Red Book" of quotations is available only from rare book dealers. Millions of copies have been destroyed in the last decade.

Zhou is loved because he is the only leader of China since World War II who does not have blood on his hands. He is credited with saving hundreds, maybe thousands of people from Mao's purges. After his death, a demonstration that began in Nanjing in 1976 resulted in Deng Xiaoping coming to power.

Hardliners in Beijing were castigating the late Zhou's moderate politics, so his followers in Nanjing spray painted pro-Zhou slogans on every train bound for Beijing. A week later, a huge demonstration in Tiananmen Square against the "Gang of Four," which was running China for Mao, resulted in the installation of Deng as the new power in China.

He was hailed over the next decade as a reformer, but Deng eventually caved in to hardliners within his government. Thirteen years after the Tiananmen Square demonstration that gave him power, Deng brutally put down another one by democracy advocates in the same square.

The Chinese despise Deng, but they save their greatest vitriol for the current Prime Minister Li Peng. Li was the adopted son of Zhou, but people in Nanjing don't even like to speak of that relationship now, so ashamed are they of Li. They feel he has desecrated Zhou's grave and turned his back on the man who took him in.

Li's name and face have become synonymous with the current repressive atmosphere in China. One example is a very subtle, very Chinese photo montage pasted together by some students.

They hurl epithets at the current communist regime in faraway Beijing.

Van Camp's, Wolf products recalled

SANFORD — Seminole County Extension Home Economist Barbara Hughes-Gregg reports that the Quaker Oats Company and Stokely-Van Camp, Inc., are voluntarily recalling certain products.

"While this is actually a nationwide recall," she said, "I think it's very important to get the word out to all the people in Seminole County, and avoid any problems with it."

The Van Camp's and Wolf Brand canned products manufactured in Dallas, Texas are believed to have a small percentage of products insufficiently processed, which could lead to the growth of harmful food spoilage bacteria.

Jan R. Relford, vice president of quality assurance with the Grocery Specialties Division said, "No complaints or illness have been reported. However, we are taking this precautionary action in order to be absolutely certain that all products are safe for consumers and meet our quality standards."

Only 15 and 16-ounce can sizes are included in the voluntary recall, and only those with a product code beginning with the letters "D" or "O" are affected. The two line product code is stamped on the top or bottom of each can.

Consumers who have such Van Camp's or Wolf Brand canned products, with the "D" or "O" code, are asked to return them to the store where they were purchased for a full refund.

Both the Food and Drug Administration and the U.S. Department of Agriculture have been notified of the situation and the action being taken. The various retail stores and suppliers have also been notified to be certain the products have been removed from store shelves.

Consumers needing additional information about the product recalls are asked to phone 1-800-225-1212.

The questions asked covered a wide variety of subjects. Many centered on the city's decision to become involved in a $2.7 million bond that would help finance a number of projects including power line burial on Lake Mary Boulevard, currently undergoing major widening and beautification. Others dealt with the recent fight to get a citizen initiated government spending referendum placed on the ballot.

Question: What is your position on the burial of the power lines along Lake Mary Boulevard?

Jere: "I thought it was fine, back when it could be done with a minimal cost. But when the cost became so outrageous, I would have backed off. This is a burial we just can't afford."

Mahoney: "I was in favor of it. Burying the lines during the beautification of Lake Mary Boulevard development, would help improve the boulevard. The improvements will bring more businesses into that area and it's an investment that will pay us dividends for years."

McNamany: "While I am not happy with the amount of money it is going to cost, we'll get a chance to do it once, in favor of it."

Duryea: "I am against it. We need to get our priorities straight. Paving and drainage are put aside for this. Are we really doing what the citizens want? I believe there are certainly more important issues than power line burial."

Question: If you found the citizen beliefs different from your personal beliefs, would you approach a measure according to your personal beliefs or based on citizens decisions?

Mahoney: "It would be rare to find my beliefs differing from the majority. While most of the policy decisions are based on my beliefs, I attempt to vote on budget matters to help citizens live within their means."

McNamany: "On issues that come before the commission, we need all views from all citizens. I would send out flyers and questionnaires to get their opinion. I would vote for the citizens, but not be swayed by minority groups or political activist groups."

Duryea: "If I thought a matter was not the right thing, I would voice my opinion. But I would go with the majority of people."

Jere: "Most of the people who come before the Commission are those who want something. Others who are happy with the way things are stay home and don't say anything. I would make my decisions based on my best judgment."

Question: Do you support paving and drainage?

Mahoney: "Yes, I am. I voted to do it before and I will do it again. This should not be a forced program. We should first ask a neighborhood group or subdivision area. If 51 percent say yes, they should be allowed to have it."

McNamany: "I'm in favor of paving and drainage. I think locations should be judged on a case-by-case basis. Several people actually don't want it. But I would generally support the measure where it is requested."

Duryea: "We hired an engineering firm to come up with a program. The city put it into the total bond issue. While I think it's absolutely necessary, I couldn't vote for it because it was part of the total package that included the Lake Mary Boulevard power line burial."

Jere: "I'm all for paving and drainage. We have got to get a good program in effect. I don't know the amount of dollars the city might spend on it, it might be many thousands, but I believe we should go as far as we can, and do some now, and some when needed, but keep it all at an affordable cost."

Question: What will your goals be for the city?

Jere: "I want to see this city become one we can afford to live in. I also believe it's time for a restraint on taxes."

Mahoney: "I would also like to make it the very best place in which to live. We have excellent police and fire services, and outstanding parks and recreation, I would work to keep it all affordable."

McNamany: "I would like to pursue more citizen participation. We could pool the study groups and get various viewpoints that will help us. I also would help protect our natural resources, our lakes."

Question: What would you do to bring harmony and trust back into the commission meetings?

McNamany: "I am deeply concerned over the discontent expressed by many citizens during the meetings. I wish people would be more open. The commissioners are only hearing from a small group. I think more people should be heard."

Duryea: "The discontent that has appeared during the meetings was kind of introduced by the commission. The commissioners take the offensive rather than be responsive to the people."

Jere: "When people get discontented, we need to look at who was responsible. Was the commission doing something wrong, or were they not listening to the people?"

Mahoney: "Public participation during the meetings is not bad. As more people express their opinions, more is known about a given matter. I certainly wouldn't do anything to eliminate it."

Additional questions covered such matters as the city's traffic problems on access roads to Seminole Community College. Improvement of business development, improvements to the downtown area, and providing a charter change to allow for run-off elections when needed, for City Commission races.

The city-wide election for the two commission seats is Nov. 5.

lined an expanded watch program soon to go into effect in which citizens who have received "a mini police academy course" from Sanford police will patrol neighborhoods together, reporting illegal activities to police, Harriett said.

"I want to stress that this is not a vigilante effort. It is non-confrontational. We are replacing the negative element with a positive one," Harriett said.

"Georgetown and the historic

Chief Harriett would like to see one black and one white member ride together.

Leaders discuss strategy for summit

MADRID, Spain — President Bush and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev are charting strategy today for a historic Middle East peace conference, determined to bring harmony to a region torn by five full-scale wars.

It was their first meeting since a failed coup against Gorbachev in August led to the collapse of communism in the Soviet Union and the splintering of his country. It also was their first encounter since Bush and the Soviet president announced plans for sweeping arms cuts.

The talks — their seventh as leaders of the two superpowers — come on the eve of Wednesday's peace conference in the Spanish capital's 18th century Royal Palace. Bush arrived in Madrid this morning, about a half hour ahead of schedule on an overnight flight. Gorbachev arrived Monday night.

Economy showing some growth

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy appears to be growing again after being gripped by recession since mid-1990, but how long that will last is a question mark.

The government today was releasing its first look at the overall economy, as measured by the gross national product, for the July-September quarter.

In advance of the report, many economists were predicting that the GNP grew by between 2.5 percent and 3 percent in the third quarter.

That would mark the first positive GNP growth following three consecutive declines and would be the strongest increase in more than two years.

Plain or chocolate, the choice is yours

WASHINGTON — Two frosty, cold glasses of milk: one plain, one chocolate. Which would you choose?

OK. Would you give up the chocolate milk for a gooey candy bar? For an apple?

The dairy industry figures the choice is between the milk and the candy bar. At least that'll be how they pitch a new national advertising campaign aimed at persuading children and teen-agers to drink more chocolate milk.

But dentists and consumer advocates worry about the cavities: chocolate milk contains sugar as well as cocoa.

Christmas is coming

NEW YORK — Halloween is still some hours away and Thanksgiving is almost a month after that, but from Boston to Bismarck, from Wal-Mart's to fancy shopping malls, the Christmas season is upon us.

"It's outrageous," 24-year-old Vanessa Wilkins said as she glanced over $15 Christmas tree ornaments at Sak's Fifth Avenue. "They keep trying to sell stuff quicker and quicker."

Holiday decorations, greeting cards and other seasonal items are popping up in stores around the country as retailers nervous about their holiday profits try to get customers in the mood to buy gifts.

Edwards deals for the votes

BATON ROUGE, La. — Dogged by a past tinged with scandal, former Gov. Edwin Edwards is openly dealing for the votes that went to defeated reform Gov. Buddy Roemer in the primary.

He's counting on compromise, as well as Republican opponent David Duke's even more controversial past as a Nazi sympathizer and Ku Klux Klan leader, to help him win.

Merthie named to SCC staff

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD — With only one week remaining before the start of the 1991-92 junior college basketball season former Seminole High and Seminole Community College basketball player Bernard Merthie has returned to SCC as an assistant coach for the Raiders, head coach Bill Payne has announced.

Merthie, who earned a degree in business while finishing his playing days at Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, has been employed by DAVGAR Restaurants of Central Florida as a manager for the past four years but yearned to be more involved with the game he loved.

"I wanted to stay around the game," said Merthie from his Sanford home. "I hurt my knee and was not able to play as much as I used to, but I still enjoyed the game, so I needed another outlet. Coach Payne had an opening I could step right into and it was at a level that I wanted to coach at."

While at SCC Payne called Merthie the most improved player he ever had. He still feels that way.

"He's still probably the most improved player I ever coached," said Payne. "He couldn't even make the junior varsity at Seminole High. He finally made the varsity his senior year but played very little. Then he walks on at SCC and does a great job and earns a scholarship to Eckerd. His dedication was the key.

"It's great to see a person return home after getting his degree and try to give something back to the community. He's such a great person and comes from a good family. He'll do a good job here, and will do a great job if he wants to pursue coaching as a career."

The Raiders went 42-23 while Merthie averaged 10 points, five rebounds and six assists per game playing guard and forward in his two seasons, after which he transferred to Eckerd and continued his basketball maturation.

He was named Honorable Mention All-Sunshine State Conference both years after averaging 15 points and seven rebounds for coach Jim Harley's Tritons. He earned a reputation as a hard worker and a leader on the floor while at Eckerd.

Merthie is married to the former Tonya Washington and the couple have two young sons.

The Raiders will open its season next Tuesday against Pasco-Hernando at SCC starting at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Sanford's Bernard Merthie, today (above) and during his playing days at Seminole Community College (No. 32, right), has been named as an assistant basketball coach at SCC for the 1991-92 season.

Merthie will make his coaching debut when the Raiders open the season next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. against Pasco-Hernando Community College at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center.

SANFORD HERALD PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Rams catalyst gets Player of the Week nod

By DEAN SMITH
Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY — Senior fullback Titus Francis rushed for 123-yards on 13-carries and scored on 20-yard run late in the game to ice the victory as the Lake Mary Rams came from behind to defeat the Spruce Creek Hawks 29-16 at Don T. Reynolds Stadium last Friday.

For his efforts, Francis has been named the Sanford Herald Player of the Week.

"When he has a good night, we seem to have a good night," said Rams head coach Doug Peters. "He's a real catalyst for the offense as he goes we go." While the 5-foot, 10-inch, 200-pounder put his powerful running style to good use late in Friday's game to help kill the clock, he will take on an even more vital roll for Lake Mary in the week's to come, according to Peters.

"We're looking for him to fill the offensive void left by Al Holt (who is out for the season with a severe knee injury)," said Peters. "In the two weeks Al's been out he has done the job. But he always does a good job, gives that extra effort."

Peters also praised his offensive line, running back Anush Collins and quarterback Jason Rasmussen for having good games.

"I think Titus would give his offensive line credit for his good night," said Peters. "When you have two runners gain over 100-yards (Collins ran for 113-yards) and pass for another 150-yards your offensive line is doing a great job."

Titus Francis

Editor's note: Lake Mary's Titus Francis is this week's Sanford Herald Player of the Week after rushing for 123-yards on 13-carries and a touchdown.

Other players considered were:
● Seminole's Derek Gilchrist, who rushed for 90-yards on 11 carries and caught two passes for 29-yards against Lake Howell.

● Lake Mary's Anush Collins, who rushed for 113-yards on 26-carries and scored two touchdowns in the Rams' victory.

● Lake Howell's Ken Times, who intercepted a pass for a touchdown, blocked a punt and made a host of tackles.

● Lake Brantley's Rob Scymore, who rushed for 53-yards on seven carries and scored two touchdowns.

● Oviedo's Ervin Alexander, who rushed for 190-yards on 22 carries and one touchdown.

Blake's play earns East Carolina national recognition

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

GREENVILLE, N.C. — Sanford's Jeff Blake has gotten the recognition he's been looking for — not for himself, but for East Carolina.

Blake, son of Seminole High football coach Emory Blake, injected his name into his team in the final three minutes, driving the No. 17 Pirates to a 24-23 victory over Pittsburgh by scoring on a 2-yard run and running for the 2-point conversion with 46 seconds left.

He did it in front of a record home crowd of about 36,000 as well as four bowl scouts, but he asked inquiring reporters to spread their accolades around.

When asked if he thought the victory would raise his personal stock, Blake replied "No, but I hope it puts our team on the national map. Whatever comes after that, it's good for the team and me."

The Pirates (6-1) have been searching for respect for a long time. However, until this season, their performances have not helped them. Following an opening-day loss to Illinois, East Carolina has now run off six straight victories.

"I feel so good for the people who have worked so hard," coach Bill Lewis said. "I've been around a lot of teams. You don't know how hard this team works, and how they try to do what we ask them to do. And when people do that you want them to be successful!"

Also, having entered the game against the Panthers ranked 23rd, moving up to No. 17 further celebrated East Carolina's first-time appearance in a regular-season poll. Their confidence is soaring with each conquest.

"We have a slogan we wear on our chest. I believe. We see it every day at practice and we see it everywhere we go," Blake said. "Our team has it in our heart that we can't be beaten. It's not a cockiness, it's just a positive attitude about ourselves."

That character kicked in with 3:22 left and East Carolina trailing 23-16 after Scott Kaplan kicked a 35-yard field goal for the Panthers.

Blake threw to Hunter Gallimore on a third-and-17 for a 22-yard gain. On a third-and-4 pass play that lost a yard, Pittsburgh was called for a face mask foul, resulting in a 15-yard penalty.

Blake then connected with Dion Johnson on a 30-yard pass play to the Pittsburgh 15. Gallimore caught a 14-yard pass at the 1. After tailback Cedric Van Buren was thrown back to the 2, Blake ran left on the option play, kept the football and stretched his left arm into the end zone for the score.

The Pirates went for the 2-point conversion, just like they had practiced, and just as offensive coordinator Steve Logan had said they would need earlier in the week.

"We just practiced it and practiced it all week," Blake said. "When the time came, everybody was prepared to run that play in that situation, and nobody was nervous."

Blake ran it in and the Pirates were on top. They weren't assured of victory until Alex Van Pelt's pass with seven seconds left found Chad Askew for 19 yards to the 11. However, Pittsburgh was out of timeouts and the clock ran out.

NECESSARY ROUGHNESS

Smoker traded cigarettes for snuff

DEAR ABBY: When I was in high school, I used to smoke a pack of cigarettes a day. After I graduated, I went to work in a nuclear plant where smoking wasn't permitted, so as a safe alternative, I started dipping snuff.

Well, it wasn't as safe as I thought it was, because I became addicted. Dipping snuff is the first thing I do in the morning and the last thing I do before I go to bed.

I've noticed that my gums are receding and my teeth are spreading apart. I now have a permanent dent in my mouth between the cheek and gums where the snuff sets.

When I see my friends who are beginning to dip, I show them what's happening to me, but it doesn't seem to impress them. Even though I am now so addicted I'm doing two cans a day, I try to get them to quit. I guess some people will have to learn the hard way, like I did.

I hope this letter stops at least one person from dipping. It's just as bad a habit as smoking. Maybe worse.

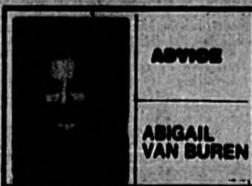

ONE HOPELESS GUY
DEAR HOPELESS: It's commendable that you are trying to save others, but how about starting with yourself?

Call the American Cancer Society (the toll-free number is (800) 227-2345) and ask what kind of program is available for people who are hooked on dipping snuff — then join it.

If you can kick the habit, you will make an excellent spokesperson for the former "big dippers." Nobody can inspire others who are hooked on a habit and want to quit like the person who's been there.

DEAR ABBY: A year ago last spring I became engaged to a girl I thought was the most beautiful blonde in Illinois.

I am an officer in the reserves, and when my unit was put on alert last summer, I wanted to get married right away instead of waiting until June as we had planned. My fiancée said, "No, let's not hurry things." I gave her an engagement ring that set me back $2,500.

ADVISE

We wrote to each other, and I called her every Sunday. She kept telling me she couldn't wait to be married and always told me that she loved me.

Suddenly, after Christmas, I got a letter from her saying that she had been seeing an old boyfriend — she was pregnant and had to get married!

When I got back home, I saw her and asked her to give the ring back. She stalled at first, then told me she had sold it because her husband is a freelance photographer and he doesn't work much.

My parents said, "Be a gentleman and consider the ring your wedding present to her."

Abby, they really do need the money, but now I feel as if I've been slapped in the face twice by her. What do you think?

SLAPPED AGAIN IN CHICAGO

DEAR SLAPPED: She should have returned the ring as soon as she knew she was not going to marry you. You were extremely generous to consider the engagement ring her wedding present. After the snow job she gave you, a lesser man would have demanded the ice.

Sexual contact does spread trichomonas

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please describe the nature of trichomonas vaginitis, where it resides and the conditions for growth. It is my understanding it can be contracted by means other than sexual. What are the other possible means of contact?

P.O. Box 91389, Cleveland, OH 44101-3389. Be sure to mention the title.

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR READER: Trichomonas is a tiny parasite that lives in the male and female reproductive tracts. It is estimated to infect about 20 percent of women sometime during their reproductive years, in whom it causes a copious, foul-smelling discharge that profoundly irritates the external genitalia.

Men, who may be unknowing carriers of trichomonas, rarely have symptoms, although severe infection may cause a painful secretion. All men with trichomoniasis can spread the parasite to their sexual partners.

The infection is almost always spread by sexual contact, although—in theory—any object contaminated by trichomonas could cause infection if introduced into the vagina.

Like most infections, trichomonas survives well in an environment that is warm, dark and moist.

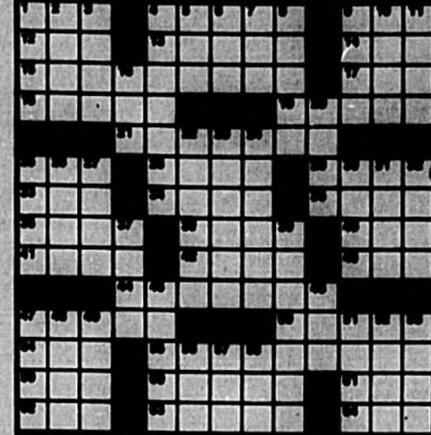

Trichomonas is diagnosed by microscopic examination of a drop of fluid from the male or female genital tract. The parasites are often seen on a Pap smear, too.

Flagyl (metronidazole) pills for one week are the treatment of choice for both partners, who must undergo simultaneous therapy to prevent re-infection.

To give you further information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Vaginal Infections and Disorders." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to:

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

In the NEC World Junior Championship in Ann Arbor, Mich., last August, one semifinal was between the two U.S. teams. After five of the 64 deals, USA-2 led 44-0 and never looked back.

Today's hand was the second of these five. Since South for USA-2, John Diamond, was a passed hand, the decision of his partner, Brian Platnick, to raise to game was optimistic. West would have defeated the hand with any non-heart lead, but he made the unfortunate choice of the heart ace. Declarer won trick two with the heart king and cashed the spade ace, dropping West's jack. Diamond entered dummy with a club to the king, finessed the spade 10 (the percentage play) and cashed the spade king.

Now the best continuation is a club to the ace. When the queen appears, declarer plays a club to the jack and a spade to dummy's eight; then he leads the club six, discarding a diamond and endplaying East. (Also, if East began with queen-third of clubs, he can be endplayed.) But declarer led a diamond to the eight and queen. Back came a low club. Realizing that East would continue diamonds with the club queen, declarer played low from hand. Later he finessed the diamond nine successfully: plus 620.

In the other room Jeff Ferro, as West for USA-2, opened four hearts, which was passed out. The defenders cashed the club king, spade king and club ace before exiting with a spade. Declarer ruffed, finessed the diamond queen and ran the heart jack. Next he ruffed a club, cashed the heart ace, led a diamond to the ace and discarded his diamond jack on dummy's club 10 for a lucky plus 420.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osof
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 30, 1991

You might become involved in a new endeavor in the year ahead that could be extremely successful — if you are aligned with the right parties. Victory will depend on your choices.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you want others to cooperate with aims or programs that are important to you, keep your temper in check today. Get too aggressive and the support you require will be withdrawn. Scorpio, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Scorpio's Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Establish an agenda today and adhere to it, or else your efforts might be scattered so thin nothing worthwhile will be achieved. Success requires a method to your madness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be watchful today so that you're not drawn into a friend's complicated affairs and find yourself on the spot regarding something that is not of your own doing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If what you decide has a direct effect on another who is not present today, think carefully before making any major decisions. Don't cause the absentee to suffer from your poor judgment.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you're working on a critical assignment at this time which you're responsible for, don't make any changes without first consulting your superiors.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It might be necessary for you to subdue your extravagant inclinations today and tomorrow — if you're desirous of keeping your budget intact. Impulsive spending could do you in.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Domestic matters that require immediate attention should not be swept under the rug at this time. Delays could further compound situations which are already quite testy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Forego trying to overpower others with your ideas and opinions today. If they are not initially receptive, pouring on the pressure won't produce desirable results.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Trade on your past experiences today: Don't do something you cherish to a friend who is historically careless with possessions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might alter your course once too often today for your own good in order to placate the demands of associates. To be effective, you must have continuity of purpose.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you prejudice developments emotionally rather than factually today, you could be the source of your own undoing. Be sure the information or premise from which you proceed is logical and accurate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Strive to be prudent at this time and avoid involvements in activities that are financially out of reach. Failing to live within your means invites complications.
